Texas House Passes $30,215,400 Tax Bill 137 To 8 BRITAIN 'READY TO MAN ENTIRE U. S. FLEET'

Oil Industry Would Pay Half Of Fund

O'Daniel's Plan Turned Down By Legislators

(By The Associated Press)
AUSTIN, March 11.—An omnibus tax bill, estimated to yield approximately $30,215,400 annually, moved toward the senate today after the house approved it, 137 to 8, in a climactic session in recent legislative history.

The final vote came after midnight in a quiet calm following more than 14 1/4 hours of continuous and at times tumultuous debate during which the laboring lawmakers ate sandwiches for lunch and dinner.

Aimed at satisfying demands for increased social security and other spending, the bill originally designed to add $14,500,000 to the state's income, was linked to its eventual today by degrees of arduous argument.

Prior to the last vote, the weary legislators refused by heavy votes to substitute for the proposal Governor W. Lee O'Daniel's 16 per cent transactions tax and his $20,000,000 omnibus levy offered at the start of the general convolve in January.

Several attempts to alter revenue allocations by amending the bill to conform with methods suggested in the governor's proposal to appropriate $28,820,000 from the deficit-ridden general revenue fund for all social security purposes also failed.

Proposed taxes and their estimated yields were:
Oil—Currently 2 3/4 cents a barrel, raised to 4 1/2 cents, boosting income possibly $10,240,000.

Gas—Present production tax 3 per cent of value, changed to 1 3/4 cent per 1,000 cubic feet with additional yield of $2,094,881.

Sulphur—Now taxed $1.03 a ton, increased to $1.35 a ton with a boost of $642,500 in revenue.

Gas gathering—A new tax of 1/4 cent per 1,000 cubic feet expected to bring in $3,000,000 a year.

Automobile finance companies—New tax of 1 per cent on the value of notes handled with an anticipated yield of $5,000,000.

Telephone companies—Taxes boosted to 1 1/2 per cent of gross receipts to 2 1/4 per cent depending on size of city; increased income possibly $72,000.

Public utilities—Same type of tax.

Boys Scarce For Banquet Here Tonight

J. L. Lester, vocational teacher, and Ralph Thomas, county agricultural agent, were having a hard time today finding enough boys to be guests of merchants and business men who have signified a desire to have boys as their guests at the banquet membership meeting of the Pampa Chambers of Commerce tonight at 7 o'clock in the First Methodist church basement.

Only those boys who have signified an interest in the livestock feeding program have been invited and the group of boys available played out before all business men were supplied with a guest.

A large number of chamber of commerce members who desired to take a guest will therefore be without one.

"Tomorrow's Cattleman" will be the subject of a talk by Milton Morris, head of the vocational agriculture department at the West Texas State college, the principal speaker.

The prize winning calf of Bob Sherrod of McLean has been cut up into choice steaks and the Clara Hill class officials report plenty of hot biscuits, gravy, and all the trimmings will be on the table to go with the steaks.

J. B. Waldrop, of McLean, who showed the grand champion calf at the show, and his teacher Clyde Magee, vocational teacher of McLean, will head a delegation of boys and business men of McLean who are interested in the show.

F. M. Culbertson, president of the Pampa Board of City Development and Chamber of Commerce, will open the meeting then turn it over to Tom Cox, chairman of the Agriculture and Livestock committee who handled the recent show and arrangements for the banquet.

Other members of the committee include: Irvin Cole, Ralph Thomas, Clyde Carruth, Otis Pumphrey, Mel B. Davis, J. L. Lester, and Roger McConnell.

Scout Drive To Begin Tomorrow Morning

A financial drive to be completed in one day is the aim of the district finance committee of the Adobe Walls Boy Scout council. The drive, to be made by 128 members of the Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis and Jaycee clubs, will begin with a breakfast at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow morning in the Schneider hotel and end at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon with a "shirt tail cutting" ceremony, in the 100 block on West Kingsmill avenue.

The closing event will be witnessed by the public who will see one of four men lose his shirt tail. The drive has been organized in the form of a roundup. John Ketter, district finance chairman, appointed four ranch foremen—Clyde Carruth of the Kiwanis club, Sherman White of the Lions club, Frank Monroe of the Jaycees, and Glen Mordy of the Rotary club—and they in turn named boss wranglers and cowpunchers to conduct the drive.

The four men got into an argument as to which had the best bunch of punchers and they agreed that the foreman whose punchers collected the most money by 5 p. m. Wednesday would have the pleasure of snipping the shirt tail from the foreman whose punchers collected the smallest amount, in a public cutting.

Monroe chairman of the Bar Nothing ranch, Mordy of the Double Cross ranch, White of the Rocking Chair ranch, and Carruth of the Lazy K ranch.

President Dick Hughes of the Adobe Walls council today issued an appeal to Pampans to welcome the possible to have their checks ready when the collectors call. He also appealed to Pampans to place their contributions on a sustaining basis.

The school board plans to erect a brick building north of the new high school for the teaching of all shop work. The machine shop equipment would be installed in the building for use by the school during the day and by out-of-school youths after hours, according to the plan.

The defense board is at present assisting in the operation of a welding school attended by nearly 150 men and youths. The welding school is sponsored by the Pampa school district.

FDR To Ask Congress For 7 Billions Cash

Favors' Bill In Spotlight Over State

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—Congress completed action today on the historic British aid bill, just after President Roosevelt set $7,000,000,000 as its starting appropriation.

This round figure, which would be the largest peacetime appropriation ever requested in America's history, was announced by congressional authorities who met with the president in anticipation of his signing the aid legislation late today or tonight.

The roll call vote which sent it to the White House was announced as 317 to 71, on house acceptance of senate amendments.

Mr. Roosevelt is expected to request the $7,000,000,000 formally in a special message to congress tomorrow.

Members of the congressional delegation at the White House said the money would permit purchase of "all articles authorized in the British aid bill." They were not specific.

"Second, it will abolish to a certain extent, third degree methods used by officers in obtaining confessions. In other words, if this bill should pass, the blood will have to be wiped off of these confessions before they are admissible as evidence."

Under the present statute anyone in Texas is privileged to take a confession, and my bill places this solely in the hands of the county and district attorneys and their duly appointed assistants.

Section 1. That article 727 of the code of criminal procedure of Texas, he is in the custody of an officer, unless made in the voluntary statement of accused, taken before an examining court in accordance with law, or be made in writing and signed by him before the county or district attorney, or any duly appointed qualified and acting assistant of either the county or district attorney; which written statement shall show that he has been warned by the person to whom the same is made:

Axis Assails U. S., Hints At Jap Trouble

Planes To Arrive For Battle, Says Air Minister

(By The Associated Press)
A high London naval source declared today that Britain wanted all the ships she could get from America and that enough trained British personnel was ready to man the whole United States fleet if it were turned over to Britain for the developing "battle of the Atlantic."

On the diplomatic front, Axis propaganda guns assailed the United States—hinting at trouble in the Pacific—as Japan's foreign minister, Yosuke Matsuoka prepared to leave the Far East for important talks with Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini.

The British comment on preparedness to take over the United States navy was made after questions by American correspondents in London.

Fascist sources in Rome hinted at an impending Japanese move under the triple alliance in reaction to the United States' British aid bill.

The Italian newspaper La Tribuna declared bluntly that Matsuoka's trip was "the immediate answer to Washington's threatening move."

"Yesterday America spoke," the newspaper said, "evidently referring to senate passage of the British aid bill Saturday. 'Soon Japan will say its word. It is for this that Matsuoka is coming to Berlin and Rome.'"

Other reaction in Axis capitals included: Berlin: Infused Nazis said Matsuoka's visit was one of a series of counter attacks to the United States aid-to-Britain bill. It was regarded as significant that Matsuoka would be accompanied by military experts.

Rome: Italians said Matsuoka would discuss Japan's role under the three-power pact in the event of trouble with the United States over the British aid bill.

Stefani, the official Italian news agency, declared "the approach of spring, with its expected offensives, gives Matsuoka's visit exceptional importance."

Only yesterday, Fascist Editor Virginia Gamba (then known as Premier Mussolini's spokesman, threatened "many disagreeable surprises to England and the United States in the Pacific."

"The Japanese foreign minister was scheduled to leave Tokyo tomorrow night, traveling via Moscow."

In the Balkan crisis, Yugoslavia's recent prince Paul summoned tomorrow to decide whether Yugoslavia would join the Axis—under a reported demand by Adolf Hitler that she sign as a full-fledged member.

Belgrade sources said yesterday Hitler had refused to accept a mere non-aggression pact with Yugoslavia, and most diplomatic observers in the Balkan capital today predicted the crown council would have no alternative but to yield to Germany.

In the war at sea, the London admiralty acknowledged the heaviest toll of shipping since last October.

"Live WORMS in my Child?... Never!"

Better make sure, Mother!

Yes, right now, bowel worms (roundworms) may be troubling your child without you even knowing it! This nasty ailment may be "caught" easily, everywhere. And you may not recognize the signs. For example, a child's stomach, nose-itching, pallor, fidgeting, itching seat, bad breath.

Don't take chances with roundworms! Get Jayne's Vermifuge right away! Jayne's is America's leading purgative worm medicine; scientifically tested and used by millions for over a century. It expels ribbon worms, without hurting the child. If no worms are there, it is just a mild laxative. So play safe! Insist on Jayne's Vermifuge!

Uncle Sam Demands Leather

For the boys and girls in the Army, Navy, Marine and Nurse Corps, Uncle Sam specifies leather counters, insoles and heel bases in the shoes he buys.

DO THE SAME For Your Boys and Girls

Action-bound young Americans "burn up" shoes. They "bang" down on counters, "punish" insoles, and "pound" heel bases. Despite all this, shoes must hold their shape to correctly fit and support growing feet.

Your boy or girl needs leather for protection and lasting fit. Get it in Poll-Parrot shoes... sturdy, economical, smartly styled and long wearing.

Demand leather as Uncle Sam does. It's easy. Just insist on shoes bearing this trade-mark.

Orders for the impending concentration were dispatched to all zone commanders.

Officers from several units of the army have been in the United States studying the latest lessons of modern warfare. It was understood they would utilize this information in the forthcoming maneuvers.

BUFFS, TEXAS WESLEYAN WIN FIRST ROUND GAMES

Tarkio Five, 1940 Champs, Eliminated

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
 KANSAS CITY, March 11 (AP)—The National Intercollegiate basketball tournament lost a champion but gained a scoring record and a new favorite in the opening half of the first round.

Tarkio, Mo., college, whose black-shirted Warriors paced to the 1940 crown, was eliminated last night by St. Mary's college of Winona, Minn., 38 to 28, after Missouri school's drum and bugle corps played "Taps" during the halftime rest period.

Price Brookfield, West Texas State forward, carried his towering marks to the scoring mark in the Buffalo's 77 to 39 triumph over an average sized University of Dubuque, Ia., club. Brookfield dunked in 30 points.

The old tournament mark was 73, set by Glenville, W. Va., State at the expense of the 1939 Peru, Neb. Teachers. The Texas giants are the No. 1 choice to replace Tarkio.

But should they falter another team from the Lone Star state, Texas Wesleyan of Fort Worth, would become the favorite. The Rams, unbeaten in 22 games before coming here, won 71 to 62 over Evansville, Ind., college, a quintet that was expected to go far on the exploits of Wilford (Gus) Doerner, the one-man team.

Doerner did pump in 27 points but it wasn't enough.

The Fort Worth team displayed two aces in Capt. Hazen Ward, deft forward, and Cullen Walsh, a red-headed Irish guard and center. Each got 11 points.

Although they now represent a small school from a big city, both competed for even smaller high schools. Ward hails from Ames, Texas, which has a population of 18. Walsh is from Jonesboro whose business district is made up of six combination filling-station-grocery store buildings.

Today's 12-hour schedule completes the first round and makes possible the appearance of such top-flight quintets as the University of Baltimore, San Diego, Calif. State, finalist on both its previous visits; Pittsburg, Kas. Teachers, and the Stephen F. Austin Teachers, another of the Texas entries.

Vannoy, Oiler Pitcher, Sold To Borger Gassers

Milbert Vannoy, chunky right-handed pitcher who won 20 games and lost 7 with the Pampa Oilers last season, has been sold to the Borger Gassers for a cash consideration, Harold Miller and Hal Lucas, owners of the Oilers, announced today.

The owners also announced that "Monty" Montgomery, young right-hander, had returned his contract signed to be the first player from last season to sign on the dotted line. Montgomery came to the Oilers last of the season from El Paso and won one game and lost two. He is only 18 years old, but is a promising youngster.

Bilbeck and Hallbourg, ace Oilers pitchers along with Vannoy, were sold to San Diego in the Pacific Coast league where they are now battling for a starting job.

Vannoy started slowly last year but gathered momentum as the season progressed. He asked for his release early in the season, believing that his arm was gone, but Manager Grover Seitz asked him to carry on and he came through with a long string of victories. His earned run average was 4.54.

Word was received last week that Frank Grabik, a winner in 1939, but a holdout last season, will be in the fold this year. The owners also hope to sign John McPartland, tall left-hander, who is considered one of the best prospects in the league.

"Peavine" Trantham, other hold-over pitcher, has announced that he will retire from the game.

Yanks May Develop Slick Infield With Joe Gordon At First Base

Johnny Sturm is the Yankees' only out-and-out candidate for first base, but what about Joe Gordon?

By HARRY GRAYSON
 NEA Service Sports Editor

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 5 (AP)—Babe Dahlgren's sale to the Boston Bees suddenly gives John Peter Joseph Sturm a position of importance in the Yankees' camp.

Johnny Sturm is at the moment the only out-and-out candidate for the first basing job.

But those closest to the situation doubt that Sturm, 25-year-old son of a German emigrant, will be at Lou Gehrig's old station when the first shot is fired, or for any length of time thereafter.

Sturm has the physical advantage a left-hander enjoys at the post and fields well enough, but does not hit the long ball demanded of a Yankee first sacker. Ellsworth Dahlgren hit the long ball, but didn't hit it often enough.

Like Jerry Priddy, who played alongside him in Kansas City, Sturm is a good-looking dirty blond standing 5 feet 11 and weighing 170 pounds.

GORDON TYPE THAT CAN PLAY ANYWHERE

The reason those who know Joe McCarthy best believe he has Joe Gordon in the back of his head as a first baseman is that the Eugene boy is the acrobatic type that can play anywhere.

Gordon has all the requirements of a first baseman except the fielding edge that goes to a left-hander there, and being a right-hander certainly didn't handicap Dahlgren in the field. You can start with, or go back behind the late Frank Chance, in listing right-handed throwing first basemen who did all right.

No one has the slightest doubt about Joe Gordon's ability to play first base. Daily Phil Rizzuto and Gerry Priddy give Joe McCarthy more assurance that they'll maintain their Kansas City pace around second. Red Rolfe is expected to demonstrate that physical disability was all that retarded him in 1940.

If things work out this way, the Yankee infield of 1941 will make professional sleight-of-hand performers look like novice pickpockets with thimbles on their fingers.

Havana Baseball Fans Say It With Cash And Bet On Anything

By SID FEDER
 HAVANA, March 11 (AP)—This is just a friendly tip to Baseball Commo Leandis.

You'd better tie a chain strap on that fedora if you're planning to drop over and see the Brooklyn Dodgers train. Because when you get one look at the ways the boys and girls hereabout have thought up to bet on the pure sport of baseball, that famous skypiece is liable to pop right off your head.

They'll bet the family jewels— or Una Peseta, anyway—on anything. They'll start with such simple things as the next pitch or whether the next batter will take two and hit to left, or whether Ducky Medwick will come up with a brown or white bat, or no bat at all.

All during the game, bookmakers run up and down the aisles quoting prices, not only on who's going to win, but also on the color of Larry MacPhail's sports jacket creations.

The "pools" are something special. Before the game the odds-layers are around selling slips, each of which has the name of a diamond position, pitcher excepted, printed on it. These sell for a dime apiece. The fellow who buys the slip on the player scoring the first run picks up the marbles at odds of 7 to 1.

They still tell about one occasion when the New York Giants trained here back in 1937. Pancho Snyder was coaching on third, and the Giant shortstop had just reached second safely in the first inning. The next batter bounced a short single to left. It looked like the runner might have scored from second, but Snyder held him at third. The following batter rolled into a double play, retiring the side without the run.

The fans, especially those holding pool tickets on the shortstop, got up steam with some simple booing. Then they started to come charging down out of the stands. This was a new wrinkle for Snyder, but he realized they weren't coming to congratulate him so he lit right out of there.

The ashes of burnt paper money can be identified and redeemed.

SOLD TO BORGER

Milbert Vannoy, above, will wear a Borger Gasser uniform this season. Vannoy, who won 20 and lost 7 games with the Oilers last season, has been sold to the Gassers for a cash consideration, Oilers owners revealed today. He has been working for Phillips in Borger during the winter months.

Joe McCarthy Raves About Two Rookies

By GAYLE TALBOT
 ST. PETERSBURG, March 11 (AP)—Joe McCarthy is not a man who enthuses easily about a new ball player, because he has handled Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig and Joe DiMaggio and has been surfeited with baseball success as manager of the New York Yankees.

So it was little short of amazing to sit on the bench with him and hear him rave about the two youngsters out on the field—Shortstop Phil Rizzuto and Second Baseman Gerald Priddy. Either Joe is softening up or these two really are something special. As practically everybody knows, they came up from Kansas City together this spring.

McCarthy, changing his mind pretty fast, said "I've seen something pretty good in them," he said with something akin to parental pride. "Look at that Rizzuto. How can he miss being popular. He's little but he's strong as a bull—great arms and hands. Just sit here and watch him and Priddy handle that ball."

"The beauty of it is that if I did not have either of them, I'd have the same club I had last year, and we finished third with the poorest hitting in the American league most of the year and with no pitching to speak of from either Monte Pearson or Lefty Gomez."

"We'll be stronger if even one of these new pitchers come through, and I never saw a greater bunch of prospects. There's a half dozen of them who great records in a double A company at Kansas City and New York. They've all got fast balls and know how to pitch."

"Who is that playing first base—Zeke Bonura?" interrupted a heckler. He got a wintry stare from McCarthy.

"That," said Joe, "is Joe Gordon, and he's plenty of first basemen, too. Maybe he's got a few little things to learn about playing first, but it won't take him long—not that boy. All he's got to learn is how to handle his feet, and that's a easy for him. He used to be an acrobat."

"There are a lot of silly ideas about players not being able to shift from one position to another, anyway. Gordon was great on second and he'll be as good on first. I told everybody last spring that Hank Greenberg would be a great outfielder when they shifted him from first, and I won't be surprised if Harry Danning makes the Giants a good outfielder."

Heckling Sanctioned At Oklahoma Tennis Tourney

By AU TIN BELMEAR
 OKLAHOMA CITY, March 11 (AP)—In Oklahoma—where anything can happen, and usually does—the national indoor tennis tournament is being given back to the fans.

Officials of the Oklahoma City Tennis club, who lured the tourney here from New York City when the army took its armories away from the athletes, surprised the opening night crowd by announcing bluntly: "If you feel like heckling the players—go to it."

The 2,000 fans on hand, accustomed to showing nothing more than mild applause in the way of sideline demonstration, never fully recovered from the shock.

Unable to accept this new-found freedom without so much questioning its ethics, the majority of the galleryites failed to get into the swing of things and there were few verbal offerings from the stands.

When Don McNeill, the hometown idol, took the court and coolly disposed of young Jack Griggs, Ada, Okla., collegian, 6-1, 6-3, there was a handclapping for both players but not a sign of cheer or jeer.

Other local lads, however, didn't fare so well. Some of those who obviously were outclassed blushed deeply as a few young fans in the top-row seats took advantage of the situation to offer suggestions in voices that could be heard in the next block.

McNeill, the national outdoor champ who is seeded No. 2 behind defending champion Bobby Riggs, and Ed "Lefty" Brown, Texas municipal titleholder from Waco, who holds the No. 7 spot, were the only seeded players to perform on opening day.

Brown, a sophomore at Baylor university, scored a straight-set victory over Gene Morris of Edmond, Okla., 6-2, 6-4.

Riggs, the Chicago better with the funny gait, arrived yesterday, more concerned about the fact that he drove non-stop from Pensacola, Fla., in 20 hours than about his straight-set victory over Frank Kovacs of Oakland, Calif.

Kovacs, seeded No. 3 here, was scheduled to play his first-round match today, as were Riggs and the other seeded stars—Wayne Sabin of Portland, Ore., No. 4; Jack Cramer of Los Angeles, No. 5; Bill Talbert, Cincinnati, No. 6; and Frank Guernsey, Houston, Texas, No. 8.

The only thing that resembled an upset in the first day's play was turned in by 17-year-old Randall Clark of Tulsa, Okla., Central High school, who stopped Myron Greene, Rochester, N. Y., 7-5, 6-3.

Some of them are proud of their ability. Civey Kinsey, a Trenton (N. J.) boy, knocked his man cold in the second round. "Lucky," yelled a heckler as Kinsey stepped down out of the ring. "Lucky, hell," the boy called back "that was skill."

Some of them are disappointed when they win too easily. Eddie Saunders, 147-pounder on the team of the host New York Daily News, belted out a kid from Virginia in 1:31 of the first round. Eddie was disgusted when he returned to his corner.

"Is that all there is to the bout?" he asked his seconds.

Coach Oscar Hinger will take a full boxing team to Canadian tomorrow night for a dual match with the Canadian Wildcats. Pairings have not been made so the number of bouts has not been determined.

Sixteen boys will make the trip to Canadian, but Coach Hinger doesn't know how many boys Canadian can match. The fights will be at 8 o'clock.

Harvester mittmen who will make the trip will be Billy Stevens, Billy Gamblin, Teague, Johnny Campbell, Billy Gise, Everett Sparks, Lester Stephenson, Clyde Small, Lefty Isbell, Jack Lane, Roy Ray, Lefty Pendleton, Jack Cornett, Herbert Maynard, Roland Phillips, and John Chesser.

Golden Glovers Lean More Toward Modified Murder

By BILL BONI
 NEW YORK, March 11. (AP)—Boxing has been called the mainly art of self-defense. Golden glovers lean more towards the many art of modified murder, and that's what makes their shows such fun.

Some day some of these lads competing at Madison Square Garden tonight and tomorrow for the right to battle the midwest's best may develop into professional champions. Joe Louis and Mello Bettina, former light-heavyweight champ, are ex-golden gloves examples who come to mind.

One kid from Huntington, W. Va., talked himself into a frenzy before the start of each round last night. During the round he made ferocious faces and also landed some terrific punches. Yet when it was all over he grinned as broadly as the next one and ran over to shake hands with the boy he'd licked.

Some of them are proud of their ability. Civey Kinsey, a Trenton (N. J.) boy, knocked his man cold in the second round. "Lucky," yelled a heckler as Kinsey stepped down out of the ring. "Lucky, hell," the boy called back "that was skill."

THE RECORD... Facts That Concern You No. 24 of a Series

A few weeds grow in every garden

Among the thousands of decent law-abiding beer retail establishments in America there may be a few disreputable "joints."

While it is the brewers' responsibility to brew good beer and the retailers' responsibility to sell beer under wholesome conditions, nevertheless the brewing industry is concerned about these undesirable places and wants them cleaned up.

We want them cleaned up because they endanger your right to enjoy good beer . . . and our right to make it.

We want them cleaned up because they endanger the 31,165 jobs and $22,076,182 payroll created by beer in Texas since re-legalization. Beer contributed $2,273,968.64 last year in taxes in this state.

These benefits are worth preserving. You can help us, if you will, by (1) patronizing only the reputable, legal places that sell beer and by (2) reporting any law violations to the duly constituted law enforcement authorities.

First Selective Trainees To Arrive At Camp Wolters

By DAVE CHEAVENS
MINERAL WELLS, March 11 (AP)—Eleven-million dollar Camp Wolters, largest of the army's four infantry replacement centers, knuckled down to the real business of national defense today with arrival of its first class of selective service trainees.

Before noon, officers predicted, the initial detachment of 181 selectees from the reception center at Fort Sill, Okla., will shoulder their rifles and go to drilling.

They will detrain at 7 a. m. (CST). A second group, 800 white trainees from Illinois, are tentatively scheduled to reach Camp Wolters later in the day.

Approximately 8,000 in all will be received here before March 20, ultimately 64,000 men a year will be processed. As rapidly as they complete the basic 13-week course, they will be re-assigned to infantry units, as needed throughout the country.

Utilizing a guinea pig crew selected from the skeleton forces that have been on hand here for several weeks, under command of Col. Fay W. Brabson, a dry run or dress rehearsal of the reception schedule has already been held. Officers said not a minute would be lost in getting down to work.

First arrival today will follow a routine meticulously worked out in advance to minimize lost time. They will shoulder their barracks bags and hike from the railroad siding that spurs to the camp to their billets. They will be shuffled alphabetically into companies and their records checked and supplemented.

If all goes well, the trainees will get their first taste of army order drill before lunch. Subsequent weekly programs are also worked out in minute detail.

Originally a $6,000,000 project built around the nucleus of a small Texas National Guard cavalry camp, work started on this replacement center early in November. There are still approximately 12,000 laborers at work.

Persons who are not notaries at the present time, who desire to be appointed, should write to the state office and give their correct name and address before May 1, 1941. Applications for appointments received after that date will not be acted on by the state office until after June 1, 1941, for the reason that employees will be busy from May 1 on preparing the list of appointees.

OIL INDUSTRY

from 8/10 of 1 per cent to 1 1/2 per cent; yield probably $100,000.

Gas—A new tax on processing liquefied gas 1/40 cent per gallon; revenue $350,000.
Liquor tax by 50 cents per prescription—new, expected to bring in $4,000,000.
Liquor—Increased current levy of 96 cents per gallon to $1.44; yield, an anticipated $2,000,000.

Gasoline motor fuel tax—Amended to bring in butane and other liquefied gases and plug holes in current statutes; income possibly $1,000,000.
Stock share sales—New levy of 5 cents a share; estimated revenue $500,000.

Among proposals authors sought included but which were ruled out or killed were a 10 per cent tax on sale of liquor by the drink, 5 per cent on hotel and tourist court rooms over $1.50 a night, cigarette tax of 1 cent a package, carbon black 1 cent a pound, theaters and amusement places 1 1/2 cents on $1 admission, transactions of $1,000 or more 1 per cent and others.

Debate was marked by repetition of the assertion "we came here to get the old age pensions and other social security problems solved" and before it was over Rep. James Taylor of Kerens, chairman of the subcommittee, which drafted the original bill, announced he would not vote for it. Rep. Howard Hartzog of Port Lavaca, chairman of the taxation committee, said he was voting for a tax bill the first time in years, and Rep. G. C. Morris of Greenville, active sponsor of the proposal, by impassioned pleas, succeeded in efforts to block alterations in allocations.

The house voted to recess today but the senate, which cannot act on new taxes until it receives a bill from the house, worked.

Leaders of moves to substitute the governor's $26,820,000 deficit-appropriation plan was Rep. Reese Turner of Cameron who pleaded that the bill apparently "took care of everybody except the old folks."

A series of amendments which were approved departed from the accepted custom of trying tax collection suits in Travis county to save governmental travel expense. The alterations made it possible to try such liquidation in the county where the alleged offense occurred.

In another case he found it possible to remove the entire first part of the colon in which two types of cancer had developed, stitch the ends of the intestines together and preserve the patient's life for more than five years.

On the same program, Dr. G. J. Thompson of the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn., declared that it is possible to remove large masses of cancerous tissue from the prostate gland and put a man back to work within a few weeks.

Both surgeons emphasized that these operations could not be considered as "cures" but that they had prolonged the useful lives of many persons because the disease was diagnosed early and treated promptly. Many more lives could be saved, they said, if abnormal conditions were recognized as a possible forewarning of cancer.

Dr. Sanders declared that "cancer of the stomach is a very common form of the disease and any condition of chronic indigestion, nausea, and vomiting should be investigated immediately as an indication of cancer of the stomach."
Dr. Thompson added that any person past the most-likely cancer age of 35 years should be on the lookout for signs of it and have a thorough physical examination as often as he has his automobile overhauled.

AXIS ASSAULTS

with the loss of 29 British, Allied and neutral vessels totaling 148,098 tons in the week ended March 2.

"The spring blitz which Hitler promised has begun," a British spokesman said, but he declared that British counter-measures were improving.

The admiral said that German and Italian claims for the week totaled 432,500 tons—nearly triple the British figure. Weekly losses, excluding the withdrawal from Dunkerque, have averaged 63,342 since the war began.

RAF and Nazi raiders carried out tempestuous overnight attacks, with the British reporting they set large fires in the German Rhineland city of Cologne and bombed the docks at Boulogne, Cherbourg and Brest along the Nazi-held "invasion coast."

The Germans pounded the big Portsmouth naval base in a six-hour assault, in which a London communication noted that "buildings were damaged, fires started at several points and a number of people were killed."

London had four bombless alarms.

The first direct Berlin comment on the United States senate's passage of the aid-to-Britain measure came in a foreign press conference, in two observations by authorized quarters.

The first was to the effect that Justice Felix Frankfurter, a Viennaborn Jew, helped President Roosevelt draft the bill.

The second was that "Bullitt (William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to France) himself is primarily to blame if it were true that a greater danger threatens the United States than ever before in its history."

"If his policies had not prevailed there would be not even a suspicion of such danger," it was said.

LONDON, March 11 (AP)—Air Minister Sir Archibald Sinclair assured the British today that American airplanes "will get here in time" for the battle of the Atlantic.

The air minister told the house of commons that the RAF was "now on the threshold of its period of greatest expansion" and declared that "unless Adolf Hitler had more effective secret weapons than any he has yet managed to produce" British planes going into the battle would be better than Nazi craft.

In the past 10 months, he announced, the British airforce has destroyed 4,230 German and 1,100 Italian airplanes and lost "fewer than 1,800 aircraft of our own."

"Leaving out of account reserves, we have destroyed half of the Italian first line," Sir Archibald said.

"We have certainly destroyed more than half the first line with which Germany entered the war."

Jury Commission Selecting Jurors
Monday was "meeting day" at the court house, with county court, district court, grand jury, county commissioners, and a district jury commission meeting all at the same time.

In county court, there was the routine sounding of the docket for the March term. Today, the jury commission, consisting of W. A. Bratton, F. M. Culbertson, and M. W. Jones, was sworn in and started its work of selecting the 40 petit jurors, 20 for each term, who are to serve during the March and May terms of county court.

The third week of each month is set aside for trial of jury cases.

Special Judge John V. Osborne presided in 31st district court as the January term entered its final week, and the jury commission began selection of the grand and petit jurors of the nine-week June term, which will begin here June 2. Next session of district court will be for two weeks, starting Monday, at Miami. Then will follow the two-week term at Lipscomb and the seven-week period at Wheeler. The grand jury brought in one indictment, and recessed until tomorrow, at which time they are to submit their report. A return has not been filed on the indictment made yesterday.

Chartering Of Corporations Recommended By O'Mahoney

WASHINGTON, March 11. (AP)—Chartering of national corporations by the federal government, as one move in a four-fold effort "to re-establish and encourage free private enterprise" was recommended to the monopoly committee today by its chairman, Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.).

O'Mahoney was ill today when the time came for the committee's final session. The committee secretary placed in the record a report in which O'Mahoney reviewed its two years and nine months of inquiry into economic mills and declared democracy was endangered by failure of the people to understand and correct "the causes of economic instability." He concluded his 6,000-word statement by proposing:

1. National charters for national corporations, in order that these agencies may have a definite and a free place in our economy and local business may be differentiated and protected from national business.
2. The effective and thorough enforcement of the anti-trust laws to maintain competition and to prevent all combinations and agreements that destroy business.
3. The encouragement of new business and small enterprise by revision of the tax laws for the purpose of encouraging new employment and new industry.
4. A national conference called by congress of the various organizations representative of business, labor, agriculture and consumers to concentrate public thought and action on the (economic) objectives on which there is general agreement.

The committee, created in 1938 at the suggestion of President Roosevelt, and composed of senators, representatives and officials of federal agencies, soon will report to congress its own set of recommendations and it was expected that they would follow the lines laid down by O'Mahoney.

The chairman said the basic trouble with the nation's economic system was that "business organizations have grown to such proportions that neither the people, as individuals, nor through their local governments, are able to cope with it."

He added that "even the governments of the states themselves are in truth and in fact submerged by modern business organization."

"It appears," he declared, "that the great bulk of the wealth and income of the country is owned by corporations, that the overwhelming percentage of this is owned by comparatively few corporations, that the stock ownership of these corporations is not substantially distributed among the people of the country and, finally, that the dividends paid by these corporations go to a very small proportion of the population."

The result of this growth of corporations, he said, has been "an increasing trend toward a further concentration of investment in gov-

Boy Scouts Are Necessary

To flourish in Pampa, the Boy Scout movement must be given financial support from local residents. That means that you and you and you must give enough money to enable the forming of troops to be carried on. Of course, the aim of the Boy Scout movement is to safely guide the youth through the adolescent period in such a way that he will be helped mentally, physically and morally.

That is a noble art, and should be supported if it succeeds, and it has succeeded here in many cases. No such plan for the training of youth is 100 per cent perfect, but Boy Scouting seems to be the best yet evolved to perpetuate the ideal way of living for Americans.

Boy Scouting in Pampa is concerned with enrolling boys in troops, furnishing unpaid Scoutmasters for them, providing summer camps for the boys, providing boards of review for them to pass tests and courts of honor for the awarding of badges. An office must be maintained where boys may go.

Of course not all the boys who need to be are in Scout troops, and sometimes you may feel that more boys who don't need it are in the troops than those who do, but there are not any boys who don't need Scouting. All need it, both poor and rich. It has come to be that a town without scouting is a town without churches. The Boy Scouts are necessary.

We seem to be unable to get along without them, so when the wranglers come around for your donation, do your duty and subscribe your quota, and you'll feel better all year for having contributed to the Boy Scout drive.

We Are All On Trial

It is not too much to say that today every human institution as we have known it is on trial for its life.

We're not being panicky or radical when we say that, for it is only an extension of remarks made before the eastern regional conference of the American Bankers' Association by ABA President P. D. Houston. Said he:

"We live in a dynamic world in which no institution has a right to public support or can continue in business for long unless it renders a constructive service designed to meet the changing conditions of a dynamic society. That is the basic challenge of the social and economic order."

The naked fact that such a statement can be made by a leading banker to bankers is startling evidence, in itself, of how dynamic the world has become.

Such challenges are made today in nearly every group which bears social responsibility. Educators are raking over the school system fore and aft to determine whether it is adjusted to present-day conditions.

New plans for medical and dental care, and for public health are being canvassed by physicians themselves. The law steps down from its grave pedestal at every gathering of lawyers and judges, and looks itself in the eye.

It is no different with newspapers, radio, book publishers, builders, merchandisers, insurance men, and—yes—labor leaders. The more progressive of all these and many other groups are looking hard at themselves and their institutions.

All of us, and the human institutions of which we are a part, are on trial today.

That does not mean that all will be found guilty of failure "to render constructive service designed to meet the changing conditions of a dynamic society."

Far from it. We believe firmly that most of our institutions are sound and, with intelligent modification, will survive. The best hope of survival lies in this mood of critical self-examination, this willingness to move voluntarily and intelligently with the times. It is this self-starting adjustment from within that makes violent and revolutionary change from without both unnecessary and undesirable.

Behind The News

By JACK STINNETT

The Pampa News Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON, March 11—If I'd like to make a recommendation to the historians of a couple of thousand years from now. When they are looking for "Americana," let them dip up a few copies of the Congressional Record and tap the richest well of our times.

There's nothing in the world quite like the Congressional Record. It's printed by the Government Printing Office, and if you subscribe to it ($1.50 a month) in Washington, you'll get it every morning. Today it may be 400 pages; tomorrow only 50; maybe day after, it won't be published at all. (That's when Congress doesn't meet.)

The Government Printing Office (GPO), as it is called in Washington) is probably the greatest publishing house in the world, but that's another story. Right now we are talking about the Congressional Record. MINUTES OF THE MEETINGS

Its main body contains a verbatim report of everything that happens in the Senate and House of Representatives. The word "verbatim" should be used with some reservation, because any congressman has the privilege of asking his house that what he has just said be stricken from the Record. When such a request is made, it almost always is granted, for congressmen are among the first to recognize that, in the heat of debate, to err is common.

Not only that, but even if a Congressional Record is printed, members may ask for corrections to be made in their dissertations and this also is almost always granted unanimously, because what man hasn't reread his statements and found in them things he wished

Common Ground

By R. O. HOILES

This column contends there can be no satisfactory progress until we measure the shares of each man by the common yardstick of the God-given equal right to create and enjoy anything anyone else has a right to create and enjoy.

BY WHAT STANDARD IS RIGHT MEASURED?

We seem to be more and more confused as to what standard, what norm, what anchorage people should use in measuring or determining right from wrong.

In measuring distance, we cannot measure it unless we agree on some unchangeable unit or norm of measurement.

In measuring weight, we have to have some agreed-upon norm or unit of measuring weight so that we can briefly and concisely communicate our ideas of different weights to each other.

In measuring value, we have to have some unit of value, some amount or labor saved or required in order to satisfy human wants, in order to measure the different values of things.

Just so, in measuring right or good, people must have some norm, some standard by which to compare every act to determine whether it be right and good.

Probably the word God is used more often as a standard of right or good than any other standard or norm.

But unless different people come to understand what God is, what His attributes are, what His commandments are, what His laws and rules are, then there can be no meeting of minds and no wise cooperation. Then God is not an accurate communicable norm, standard or guide, of a right course of action.

Christians have used the life of Jesus as a norm or standard of measuring right. But there has been so many different interpretations of what Jesus regarded as right that there has been more or less confusion when using Jesus as a norm or standard of right.

If Jesus or God are to be used as a norm or standard of measuring right, then it becomes necessary that they be reduced to a universal meaning so that when the term is used, different people have more nearly the same concept of what is meant.

Reducing God's Will to a Norm

This, it seems, can only be done by reducing the wills of Jesus and God to principles, rules, orders or a numerical formula.

The experiences of the ages, is impeccable evidence that when a standard of goodness, or God, or Jesus, is reduced to the law of equal freedom that is that each and every human being has a personality which must be respected by every other person and by his government, then we have the norm or standard by which to measure goodness or right.

When the people in the United States more nearly followed this norm and insisted on their government using this norm or standard of measurement to determine a right course of action, then we made more progress than any other people in all the world.

And by progress, I mean each and every individual received a bigger reward for a given amount of sacrifice. This made it possible for more people to be supported with an ever-increasing standard of living.

The trouble with our present attempt to measure right or goodness is that people insist on judging others by their own arbitrary standard of right and good and will not set down an eternal, impersonal, universal, principle of good or right by which they measure or judge an act to be good and right.

This, of course, only leads to confusion, to actions without principle and eventually to chaos and wars.

We must come to agree on some norm, some standard by which human actions (and there is nothing right or wrong but what pertains to human actions, human choice), may be determined.

LEND-LEASE BOOSTERS

We have yet to find any man who advocates the passage of the Lend-Lease bill who will set forth any impersonal rule of conduct.

Invariably, those people who advocate the passage of the Lend-Lease bill do it from an emotional and personal standpoint. They do not seem to understand eternal, immutable, universal principles. They do not try to put themselves in harmony with these principles. In the final analysis, it will be found that they want to run the lives of other people. They would have it so every act must be referred back to them in order to determine whether it was right or wrong.

Unless we can get people back to some eternal, universal principles, as set forth in the Constitution, attempting to establish equal freedom for all, we will go from one war to another. There is only one solution and that is agreeing on some common ground, some universal principle.

He had said differently—or not at all?

Still the Congressional Record is corrected very few times and the plea for withdrawal of statements don't drop up once in ten or twenty thousand words.

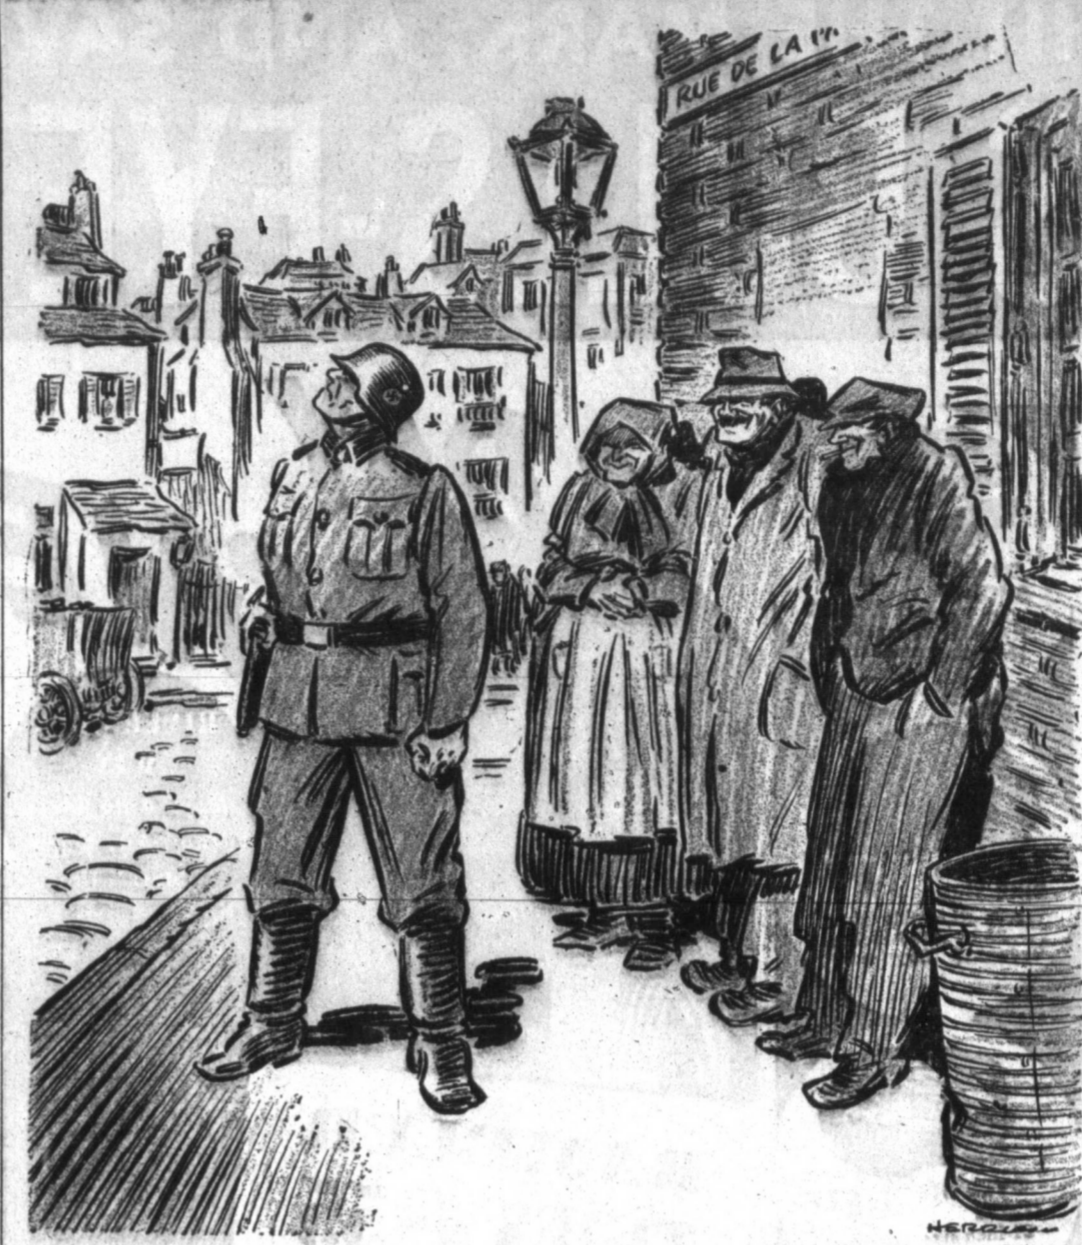

THE 'APPENDIX'

In spite of all the laws that are passed, all the debates over what is good or bad for our way of life, I don't think tomorrow's historians will be nearly as concerned about the word-for-word reports of what was said on the floors of the House and Senate as they will be in the "Appendix."

This section of the record comes last. In it, any member of Congress may "extend his remarks," merely by requesting the consent of the House in which he is a member. I've never heard of a member's being refused his privilege of "extending his remarks." And it is in these extensions that the real Americana is to be found. As a matter of fact, there generally is more from OUTSIDE Washington in these Appendix records than from inside.

Sen. Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri had printed these editorials from the St. Louis Star-Times and the St. Louis Post Dispatch about recent airplane accidents. Rep. Karl Stefan, of Nebraska, held forth at some length on the merits of the "shelterbelt" project—the wholesale tree-planting, funds for which were not included in next year's proposed Agriculture Budget. Sen. Robert R. Reynolds, of North Carolina, put in a letter from a woman in Boston, who dilated on the theme, "Must American boys be shipped into the maelstrom of war in the Far East to protect England's opium trade?" Rep. Leland Ford stuck in an editorial from one of his state papers, the Orange (Calif.) Daily News, about the importance of rural America in national defense. Rep. Usher L. Burdick, North Dakota, put in nearly five columns about what he would do if he were President. Rep. Thomas D'Alessandro, Jr., of Maryland, told the boys how Baltimore had solved its traffic problems. Rep. Compton I. White, of Idaho, inserted the more than 250-line poem of Horace C. Carlisle, "unofficial poet laureate of Congress," which set Washington's Farewell Address to verse.

BRITISH PLANE

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, March 11—When an actress is going to play a doctor's role, it's routine for her studio to announce that Miss Gritter will visit a local hospital and witness a major operation.

Thus instructed, she'll be able to perform an emergency appendectomy in the tiny cabin of a pitching tuna schooner, giving a great dramatic performance the while. Or sometimes the star is cast as a woman attorney or a beautiful defendant, in which case she supposedly spends a day at a real murder trial, learning how to plead a case or have hysterics for the jury.

Barbara Stanwyck really did visit the old ladies of a local Eastern Star home before she started her 100-year scenes in "Pioneer Woman." She went, not to copy the "old-ladies" mannerisms, but to prove that a centenarian isn't as old as she's cracked up to be.

"I had an argument with a couple of people," Miss Stanwyck said. They insisted I spoke any lines too quickly, because old ladies quaver. I said they didn't, especially the kind of women who crossed the country in covered wagons, fought Indians and raised huge families. They might look like their own grandmothers when they were 30, but there wasn't anything slow about their minds.

"So Bill Wellman, the director, and I went out to this home. And I want to tell you, they're pretty good. They don't really talk faster than I do—they think fast. Sure, I proved my point. And I'm not going to shake and totter, either; this Pioneer Woman is a vigorous old girl."

ALL WANT TO SEE ROBERT TAYLOR

Robert Taylor would not make the resident of the home feel they were playing guinea pig, the star and director just said they were visiting.

Wellman, who flattered and raved them as if they were debts, made a gretty hit; but they were disappointed that Bob Taylor hadn't come along, too. Made Miss Stanwyck (who is Mrs. Taylor) promise that he'd drop in sometime after noon.

"I'd like to put my lamps on him just once," sighed a 75-year-old wistfully. Lacking Taylor himself, they asked his wife all sorts of questions about him, the picture she was making, and especially about current movie colony romances. Was Lana Turner going to marry Tony Martin, and who was Mickey Rooney's newest flame?

"You never saw such fans," Miss Stanwyck said. "Even though they seldom get to see a movie, except those 16-millimeter educational shorts." She hopes to persuade the studios to chip in for a second-hand projector, then lend the home a couple of films each week—with lots of romance and adventure in 'em.

AT 84, STILL

FIBS ON HER AGE

With an experience of no new experience for Miss Stanwyck, who reached 60 in both "Forbidden" and "So Big."

In "Pioneer Woman," she'll age from 16 to 100, wearing six different hairdresses and makeups. At 16, she wears a long white flannel nightgown with baby blue ribbon, and her hair, supplemented with a foot of false mane, hangs down her back. Her most glamorous stage is at 36 when she's proprietor of a ritzy gambling house.

Only trick she learned at the old ladies' home which she can't use in the picture is fibbing on her age. "The matron introduced me to her age when she started a movie career recently. She made a hit as Jimmy Stewart's Grandmam in "Come Live With Me" but she herself wasn't at all satisfied with her performance, and said, 'The old girls got a lot to learn about acting.'"

E. N. (Dick) Dennard, former assistant principal of Pampa high school, and now superintendent of Marshall public schools, writes that the "Marshall Athletic Council, composed of two school board members, the senior high school principal, and myself, selected a man to recommend to the board for the head coaching job."

"I thoroughly enjoyed the four years I spent in Pampa," he wrote. "I shall always be grateful to the people of Pampa, and especially to the boys and girls for the happiness that I enjoyed while there." By the way, Dick's mention of the Athletic Council at Marshall reminds one to ask, what became of Pampa's Athletic Club? Does it ever meet? Did it ever meet? Is it still in existence?

TEX'S TOPICS

By—Tex DeWeese

A GIRL writing a question to a Hollywood movie columnist, who writes for The Pampa News, asked him to inquire of Barbara Stanwyck, the actress, why Miss Stanwyck persuaded her husband, Robert Taylor, to wear a mustache. Well, the movie columnist asked Barbara the question, but was unsuccessful in getting an answer. "Please!" exclaimed Miss Stanwyck, "is nothing sacred?" And that has made us very curious to know if it's for the same reason we wear this little dinky business on the upper lip. . . . Sot to voice: . . . There is not much being said or written about "test tube" babies, but there are many such infants being born these days.

The Boy Wonder has been presented with a shovel, a rake, and a hoe, and is busy these days digging an air-raid shelter in the back yard. . . . If he keeps on digging, there will be room enough in it for everybody on the street. . . . When he's not digging, he is flying a kite which is so big his grandpop is afraid it will take the R. W. up with it one of these days. . . . And when he is not digging or flying a kite, he is listening to the radio, memorizing songs. . . . His current pop tune of the day is "Hi, Si, Whales Cookin'?" . . . And when he's not digging an air-raid shelter, flying a kite, or memorizing songs, he is doing a cowboy take-off with gun and lariat, roping tumble-weeds for steers. . . . If you think you don't have to be good—try tossing a tumble-weed sometime. . . . And when he's not doing any of these things, he is reading a magazine over the week-end where a feminine writer reports that all the nice men are married. "We women see to that," she adds. . . . She also reports that nobody should print any opinions by bachelors on marriage, because their opinions are worthless. . . . When you see a bachelor over 40, she says, he's bound to be a good fellow. . . . If he amounted to anything, some smart girl would have married him long ago, whether he liked it or not, she figures.

Speaking of women doing the buying, we suspect it's because most men would rather wash-out a shirt than do the shopping. . . . It's that way with us. . . . On top of that, we are a push-over for most silver-tongued salesmen, and that's particularly true when it comes to buying our own clothes. . . . We always thought we could sell us something you wouldn't wear to a dog fight, but his argument sounds so convincing that we buy it and then go home and discover that it looks like something the cat dragged in. . . . Then we get mad, take it out, and say what we had in mind in the first place.

A FELLOW once told us that the man who loves to shop, would make somebody a good wife if he could when a good salesman. . . . We always had a lot of inuendo in that crack, so just skipped it. . . . A fellow just called on the telephone and asked us to make another speech. . . . Had sort of imagined that after that one last week before the Shell employees, that we would be both dead and buried along that line. . . . Asked this man if he heard us last week, and he said he hadn't. . . . So that may explain it. . . . Well, he'll learn by experience. . . . If this thing goes through, it will be the Phillips Petroleum company employees who take the beating this time. . . . Some people are bears for punishment.

Rheumatism "Cures" Superstition once prescribed the following as "cures" for rheumatism: Wear a lead ring; wear a silver ring; wear a brass ring; wear a left thumb; wear a brass belt; wear red flannel; wear nutmeg around the neck; sleep with a dog; or carry a potato.

There's nothing pretty about Europe today. So there can be nothing pretty about the literature that revolves around Hitler's Dark Continent. It is simply realistic—grim, tragic, stricken by blood and horror. "To Sing With the Angels," by Maurice Hindus (Doubleday, Dorco, $2.75), is a book like that. Hindus tells the story of Czechoslovakia after Munich. He writes of a country he knew, and of a people he admired and respected. He tells what the Nazi proctorate meant to the small, peaceful village of Liptowitz.

Annicka Mracheck is the daughter of the village mayor. She is an energetic, ambitious girl, thoroughly in love with her girlish sweetheart, Jozka Liebergut, until the day Jozka returns from a German health resort and informs her he has "seen the light" and become a Nazi disciple.

When the Germans occupy Czechoslovakia, Jozka becomes commander of the village and sets about eradicating, as far as possible, all remnants of the glorious past. Annicka's love for him has not burned out completely. There is a moment when she believes the tender boy she knew has not been lost, and in that moment she decides to marry Jozka.

The marriage is a blow to all the villagers, who had been fond of the mayor's daughter. And as time wears on, Annicka understands what folly it was to try to divorce her husband from the brutal tenets of Nazism.

The story of Liptowitz is the story of Nazi conquest everywhere boiled down to its simplest components. It is an unhappy picture of placid villagers, who have harmed no one, suddenly forced to lick the boots of Der Fuehrer. Most tragic of all, perhaps, is their utter helplessness—the realization that rebellion or resistance offers no salvation, has absolutely no meaning.

The book is depressing, of course. But it's an important key in understanding the everyday people who have been caught in the Hitler net.

The War Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

As Washington, anticipating the passage of the lease-lead bill, has prepared to rush naval craft to Britain to help deal with the Nazi U-boat campaign, the Fascist end of "open intervention" in the war and warned him darily that in the wrath to come all supplies for England will be sunk.

The spokesman was our old friend Virginia Gayda, authoritative Fascist writer who ranks among the chief trumpeters and criers of the Axis. He did such a workmanlike job that one could almost hear the grim phrase "Spurlos Versenkt" (sunk without trace) come ringing down from the desperate days of the World War.

As though to give substance to his words, the British admiralty today reported that British Allied and neutral shipping losses leaped to 29 vessels (148,000 tons) for the week ending March 2. This is by no means a record, but it's not bad, although London states that counter-measures are improving, an authoritative source, in commenting that Britain's position is "one of anxiety tempered with confidence."

The spring blitz which Hitler promised has begun.

Signor Gayda talked rather expansively of the rights and duties of a neutral under the Hague conventions, but he did make one point well worth our attention: "It is not enough that arms, munitions and other war means leave the United States. They must reach their destination."

That's precisely the crux of the whole grave problem growing out of the submarine campaign. We might manufacture enough instruments to conquer the world, but if they couldn't be delivered in England they would avail for no more than a row of small beads.

Hitler strikes shrewdly when he hits at Britain's sea communications. Imperial defensive and offensive operations depend on keeping the ocean lanes open. Otherwise there could be no mutual assistance between the dominions and the mother country. Indeed, the very life of the keystone of the empire—the British Isles—hangs on those communications.

Britain is almost wholly dependent on sea-borne traffic for both food and industrial materials. During even normal times she imports 50,000 tons of foodstuffs and 110,000 tons of merchandise daily.

She would literally starve, to say nothing of economic paralysis, if the Nazis cut the sea lanes for a few months.

Britain's imperial lifelines run through the Atlantic, the Mediterranean, the Indian ocean and the Pacific. Of these the Atlantic is the most important, because a large percentage of her food and raw materials come from North America. It is to this vital Atlantic route that the Axis is devoting its main attention, especially in view of our all-out aid.

In this connection Gayda threatened us vaguely with possible "disagreeable surprises" from the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo Axis in the Pacific. The Italian press today also indicates that the forthcoming visit of Japanese Foreign Minister Matsuyama to Rome and Berlin will have to do with Japan's role in event of trouble with the United States over aid to the Anglo-Allies.

CHAPTER I

BEATRICE HUNTINGTON DAVENPORT was 20 years old. She had a shining, dark brown mink coat. She had a shining, black limousine. She had a chauffeur to drive it from one night club to another, from New York to Newport and down to the pier when she went off on a cruise.

Behind her, the door to Mr. Weeming's office remained a little ajar. She heard a young man's voice. . . "She's the world's most useless object." She was suddenly angry. She wanted to slap that hateful, smug face.

She had a big white house on Indian Creek, in Miami Beach, Florida. She had a 10-room apartment here in New York, on Park Avenue, where three maids did nothing but wait on Beatrice. She had four room-size closets full of evening dresses, sports clothes, lounging pajamas, costume ensembles. There were racks full of shoes and shelves of hats.

Beatrice Huntington Davenport had stocks and bonds and real estate. And she had an immense, sprawling store that extended in a solid square from Fifth Avenue to Sixth. It was eight stories high, crammed to the doors with exactly the same sort of things Beatrice had at home.

She had a tight-lipped man whose pictures appeared sometimes in the columns of morning newspapers (but she had never bothered to meet him herself) whom the trust company had appointed as guardian of the property of the department store. Only this morning she'd seen his narrowed eyes looking out at her from the paper. "The Man Behind Huntington's" read the caption. Beatrice smiled.

The man behind Huntington's had always been—and was now, in his jealously laid down policies and far-sighted provisions—her grandfather, Michael Kingan Huntington.

Grandpa had founded Huntington's. He started by peddling needles and shoelaces from a pack on his back. Then came a little store on Grand Street. Cutting prices and indulging in practices which made his competitors choke. Grandfather had seen the little store on Grand Street grow into an emporium on Fourteenth—and at last into this imposing Huntington's which was a New York landmark.

Lastly, Beatrice Huntington Davenport had Mr. Curtis Weeming, who was small and bald and 73 years old. Mr. Weeming was given to rubbing his hands and bleating piteously. Mr. Weeming—theoretically—managed Beatrice.

RIGHT now, in his office on the 46th floor of a skyscraper on Rockefeller Plaza, Mr. Curtis Weeming was wringing—not rubbing—his dry little hands. Mr. Curtis Weeming was pleading, "But Miss Davenport, this is incredible! Miss Davenport, I must protest! Miss Davenport, I simply cannot allow Mr. Weeming!" said Beatrice Huntington Davenport. She sat in a brown leather chair, with her slim silken knees crossed. The mink coat was carelessly thrown back. A cunningly contrived topknot of mink perched on her golden curls, and her red lips smiled. "You tell those armor-clad knights behind those chromium grilles in that trust company to pay that check—and pay it now! Clarence must have those polo ponies. This delay is silly."

Clarence, you see, was her fiancé. The rest of his name was Fernando di Grandezzi. Clarence was dark, and tall, and fascinating. Two months ago, Beatrice had first laid eyes on Clarence. He was so different from the men she'd always known! He had manners, for one thing. He kissed her hand. He bowed from the waist. Nor did Clarence resemble those other men she knew—the ones who were poor but proud and worked very hard at blueprints so they might eventually build bridges; or grubbed along in some dingy office, so that some day they'd be a third vice president. No, Clarence said, with engaging frivolity, "A million dollars, these is not saved out of a pittance, eh? What I could earn, it would be pathetic. Me, I prefer visiting. My hostesses have invariably been so lovely! How was it, I did not see you in Hawaii!"

The Frothinghams had just returned from Hawaii, where Clarence had been their house guest. Beatrice knew that Clarence was supposed to be the property of Mimi Frothingham. So she said, "I wasn't there, but I'm here now." And his black eyes looked down into hers while they danced. Mimi Frothingham frowned, from the side lines. And two hours later, Mimi Frothingham was searching for Clarence in a fury. But Beatrice and Clarence were in a silver airliner, flying to Havana. To see a horse race. To play roulette. To become engaged to be married.

LEARNING of her engagement, Mr. Curtis Weeming had done everything but weep. He went all the way to Florida when she returned from Havana, to falter, "This isn't wise, Miss Davenport." He was a man who always grimly did his duty. "Your grandfather always married me to a girl like that, what sort of man he expected you to marry! He warned me to be firm on that point! He wanted you to marry a business man. A man who could conserve, even increase, the Huntington estate." "But, it's the Davenport estate now. Besides, he should have put that in his will." "Your grandfather always said positively you had enough of his blood to be practical!" wailed Mr. Weeming. "Oh, Miss Davenport, when I remember how he used to say, 'She's got my chin! She's no weakling, that girl. No pretty-boy's going to flim-flam her—she won't go marrying any counts or dukes and niggers in divorces!" His voice broke. Michael Huntington had not only been his best friend, but his idol, as well. "You must realize, Beatrice, that you need a husband who will be able to take over the reins of management after—er—" He looked at her beseechingly. After he was gone—

But Beatrice said, "Pooh! You'll be here, lecturing on thrift to my grandchildren, you old fake!" Mr. Weeming thought of Clarence, whose grandchildren these would be, too, and shuddered.

Now, in the office high above Rockefeller Plaza, he was shuddering again. Beatrice was blazing away about that check. He said, "This is a tremendous expenditure. Totally unnecessary. Unjustified." "Nuts!" said Beatrice again. "Now, look here. Clarence called me from Westbury, upset because those ponies were not in their stalls. Will you please see that my check is honored at once!"

SHE went out through the private, unmarked door to the corridor. For a moment, adjusting her coat, she stood in the hall thinking, "Weeming certainly must be put in his place every once in a while or he positively tramples one!"

Behind her, the door had not clicked, but stood a little ajar. Suddenly she heard a voice coming from Mr. Weeming's office. The voice of someone who must have been in the little room beyond, waiting for her to go.

"Why do you take that from her?" the voice asked in exasperation. It was a deep, masculine voice. Pleasant, rich, young. "That girl's the world's most useless object."

"You know what I think?" The pleasant timber of the voice hardened, and even as Beatrice stood there, stunned and rigid, his next words exploded against her eardrums. "I think a girl like that should be quietly and competently chloroformed. More in sadness than in anger. But chloroformed." (To Be Continued)

America Guarding Against Arms Jam

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—Enactment of the lend-lease bill, defense officials said today, will signal the start of a nationwide drive to spread out work on armament contracts so that new orders for both British and American forces may be awarded without danger of production jams.

Explaining the necessity for the drive, these officials said that approximately 90 per cent of the $10,000,000,000 in defense contracts awarded between last June and December went to 600 large concerns.

About 13,000 prime contractors received awards, but of these more than 12,000 shared $1,000,000,000 worth of orders while the remaining few hundred divided about $9,000,000,000 worth.

Concentration of orders was reported to be a matter of utmost concern to the office of production management, and it was said that efforts to "farm out" defense work to sub-contractors might become OPM's most important activity in the next few months.

The campaign to break up big defense contracts is to be carried into every section of the country in an attempt to get small machine shops, foundries, and mills into armament production.

OPM officials estimated that there are about 200,000 concerns in the United States able to handle defense orders, although roughly half of them can undertake only small assignments. They also estimated that about half the country's machine tools were idle or working less than eight hours a day.

Court Refuses To Review Decision

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—The supreme court refused today to review a decision holding unconstitutional legislation which authorized a state to collect unemployment compensation assessments from small companies under the same ownership or control, if their combined employment totaled eight or more persons.

More than 30 states were said to have filed for review.

The Indiana Unemployment Compensation board to have passed such legislation in an effort to prevent evasion of the assessment by splitting companies up into small units.

The Indiana board sought a review of a decision by the state supreme court holding that legislation passed by Indiana was an unreasonable discrimination prohibited by the federal constitution.

The supreme court said today that the review was denied "for the want of a final judgment."

Oklahoma was among the states which sought the review.

Earth's Crust Bulges

So yielding is the earth's crust that even the moon's attraction causes it to bulge in the tidal waves, as do the waters of the sea.
