Former Assistant Attorney General Warned Judge Price

ILLEGAL ITEM SCALED DOWN BY APPLICANT

Grady Chandler Outlines His Talk With Jurist and of Latter's Refusal to Change Account.

MULTIPLE MILES

Supreme Court Ruling Cited But Price Claims Work Done Prior to Decision of Higher Jurisdiction.

AUSTIN, Oct. 8 (AP)—H. Grady Chandler, professor of law in the University of Texas, formerly an assistant attorney general, testified before the Texas senate today in the impeachment trial of District Judge J. B. Price of Bastrop, that he had warned the respondent some of the items he approved in a claim of the late Sheriff John T. Carlisle of Lee county were illegal.

Chandler said he made a trip with general officers to Bastrop in an effort to straighten out a claim approximating $18,000 for mileage and witness fees made by Sheriff Carlisle and approved by Judge Price. Later, some months after Chandler's visit, the claim, covering October 1925, and April, 1926, terms of Lee county district court, was scaled down to $7,912.10, and a deficiency warrant issued for that amount. The deficiency warrant, however, has never been paid.

Showing Error. "I pointed out the items we considered illegal to Judge Price," Chandler testified. "I had with me and called Judge Price's attention to an opinion of the supreme court in which it was held that a sheriff was entitled to fees only for each mile actually traveled regardless of the number of witnesses subpoenaed in one community in one visit. The claim had been made for the number of miles traveled for each subpoena although only one trip had been made to subpoena in some instances many witnesses.

"The court of civil appeals previously had held that a sheriff was entitled to mileage in each subpoena served although he made only one trip in serving a number of processes. I called at Judge Price's attention to the supreme court decision reversing the civil appeals court on that point, but he said his approval of the Carlisle account had been given on strength of the civil appeals case holding prior to its reversal by the supreme court and refused to make any change.

"Multiple Mileage." T. M. Markham, assistant state auditor, testified the Carlisle claim had included "multiple mileage" for a trip to Tarkenton in 17 cases, that although only one trip was made to serve the processes a charge was made for mileage in each case. The senate was considering six articles of impeachment against Judge Price alleging "gross negligence" in approving excessive claims of sheriffs in his district for mileage and witness fees. The house of representatives sent 12 articles, the senate for trial but half of them were eliminated when the respondent's general demurrers to six were sustained.

A modern robber may be pretty shrewd, but a modern bridge player perhaps has had more practice.

The story comes by A. P. from Chicago that three robbers visited a bridge party and ordered 13 women to "put your heads on the tables, and no fair peeping."

One robber stood guard over the women while his companions made a futile search in other rooms for jewelry. During their absence the women furtively slipped off their jeweled rings and concealed them in the folds of their dresses.

Then the women were ordered to raise their hands, but to continue to keep their faces pressed against the tables. Up went 13 pairs of hands, unadorned except for wedding rings. Fineshed, they walked out, with only about $70 stolen from handbags.

"I'm sure I can," Stuart said. "I'll call a cab for you and pick up the telephone."

Dr. Willoughby eyed the girl narrowly. "You say you're a friend of hers?" he repeated.

"Oh, yes. I'm the closest friend she has in the world. I guess, you see, she's been worried lately. That's what made me so anxious."

"And you don't know what's the matter with her?"

"Why—no—"

"After you get her home," the doctor said slowly, "call in my regular physician. He can tell you."

"But—you don't mean?"

"There's been a divorce, Norma didn't know a thing about it until last night. You see—he's in Paris. Oh, this is dreadful!"

"Paris?" the doctor said with a show of interest.

"Yes," Chris hurried on brokenly. "Oh, I might as well tell you! She's been working here as Miss Travers but she's really married. Mark Travers is her husband—I mean he was. You know, F. M. Travers' son. The family didn't approve of the marriage. Mark went abroad two months ago and she hasn't even heard from him since. Last night she got a letter telling her to get a divorce. Oh, what can she do?"

"She can go home and rest for a few days and take care of herself. That's the sensible course. Unfortunately of course, very! I'll tell you what you do, Miss—er—"

"Saunders," Chris replied. "Yes, Miss Saunders. My office is on the fifth floor. Bring Mrs. Travers in to see me in a few days. Say on Monday. I'll give her the examination. Does she have anything beside her salary here?"

Chris shook her head. "No," she said. "It's not much but we'll manage some way."

Dr. Willoughby shrugged. "Don't worry. I'll take care of that. Sorry for the girl. Call my secretary about an appointment, will you?"

Chris said that she would. She went back to the private office where Norma had been lying on an improvised couch. Chris found her sitting up, pale but otherwise looking normal.

"The doctor says you're to take the day off," Chris announced. "I'm going to take you home and Mr. Stuart's already called a cab for us."

"But I can't!" Norma began, only to hear her protests routed. "You can certainly go as your boss tells you! These are Mr. Stuart's orders. Shall I get your wraps and bring them in here?"

Travers but she's really married. Mark Travers is her husband—I mean he was. You know, F. M. Travers' son. The family didn't approve of the marriage. Mark went abroad two months ago and she hasn't even heard from him since.

Last night she got a letter telling her to get a divorce. Oh, what can she do?"

"The doctor says you're to take the day off," Chris announced. "I'm going to take you home and Mr. Stuart's already called a cab for us."

"But I can't!" Norma began, only to hear her protests routed. "You can certainly go as your boss tells you! These are Mr. Stuart's orders. Shall I get your wraps and bring them in here?"

Stuart put his hand in the door to say that the taxi was waiting. Chris hurried to the advertising office to explain her absence and came back wearing hat and coat.

The two girls descended to the ground floor and went out on the street. The cab was drawn up a little to the left. As they stepped in, Chris gave the driver the number of Norma's rooming house.

It was a silent ride. Norma leaned back against Chris' arm and most of the way her eyes were closed. The older girl was struggling with her own thoughts. Baling a terrific new problem. Who she did speak it was only to say something reassuring to Norma.

The cool air was refreshing. There was the faintest tinge of color in Norma's cheeks as she stepped down to the walk before the rooming house. Chris paid the driver and dismissed him.

"I'm coming in with you," she told the other girl. "They don't expect me back at the office for a while."

Mrs. Bixby, the landlady, met them in the hallway. "Why, Miss Travers!" she exclaimed. "What are you doing here at this time?"

"Miss Travers isn't feeling well," Chris told her. "She's going to spend the day at home. Do you think you could send up a hot cup of tea? I'm sure it would be good for her."

"Why, for ever more!" It was Mrs. Bixby's favorite exclamation. "For ever more! Of course I'll fix the tea. I'll bring it right up myself." Mrs. Bixby swished out of view.

"Anyhow it got rid of her," Chris said, smiling faintly. "You don't have to drink the tea, you know."

Norma did not answer. They went up the stairs and into the tiny rear bedroom. Everything was exactly as Norma had left it the night before.

Chris bustled about, raising a window, drawing down the covers of the bed, making Norma get out of her clothes and into a kimono. The younger girl was submissive. The tempestuous display of emotion the night before seemed to have exhausted itself. She slipped beneath the covers and let Chris draw them up around her.

When Mrs. Bixby arrived with the steaming cup of tea Norma managed to smile gratefully. The landlady would have lingered but Chris efficiently shooved her out.

"Now then," the older girl said, "you think you can get some sleep, honey? You didn't have much last night, you know."

The muscles about Norma's lips tightened. "Chris," she said in a voice barely above a whisper, "did the doctor tell you?"

"No use to try to evade those blue eyes. The older girl hesitated. She reached forward, took Norma's hand in hers.

"It's going to be all right, dear!" she said. "Everything's going to be all right."

Norma turned convulsively, burying her face in the pillow. Her shoulders shook with her sobs. "Don't you see," she managed to say at last, "don't you see why I've got to have Mark now? I've just got to have him! Oh, Chris! I don't want to live without him!"

"But you don't know yet—" "I do! Oh, I do! It was in that newspaper. I—I read it just before everything went black before my eyes! It's true, Chris. It's true about the divorce."

Chris leaned forward. "Does Mark know," she asked cautiously, "about the baby?"

"The yellow head shook negatively, emphatically. "I've—only known myself since Christmas. I—oh, I tell you I don't want to live! I—"

Presently she was quiet again and Chris was able to say what she had been trying to get out earlier. "Brad said I could talk to Jim Daniels about the case. He's Brad's lawyer. There may be something you can do yet, Norma. If there is, he'll know. You mustn't give up until I've talked to him."

"But, Chris!" The voice from the covers was fainter now, more tremulous. "Don't you see—it means—it means Mark doesn't love me any more! He couldn't do a thing like this if he loved me!"

"It's his lying, underhanded father who's to blame!" Chris almost snorted the words. "Oh, I don't say I admire Mark for what's happened, but it's his father who's responsible!" Norma said between sobs, "I don't want to live—if Mark doesn't love me—"

A little later her mood changed to self-condemnation. She berated herself for a dozen reasons. "I ought to have told Mark," she moaned over and over. "I ought to have told him about everything even if it killed me! It was wrong to run away from his father's house. If I'd stayed this wouldn't have happened! It's all my fault!"

Chris had all she could do to silence this new outburst. She made promises she knew were impossible, stalling for time. At length her efforts were successful. Norma lay perfectly still, seemed to relax.

"If you'll only shut your eyes now and try to sleep!" Chris urged. "I'll try," Norma said obediently. She closed her eyes. The older girl watched from her post at the side of the bed and noted that Norma's breathing was regular and deep. Minutes passed and then Norma opened her eyes again.

"I'm all right now," she said. "You ought to go back to the office, Chris."

"You're sure there's nothing more you want?"

"Nothing."

"I couldn't eat anything. Honestly, not now."

"Well—a little later then. If you're sure everything's all right I'll go now but I'll be back this evening. Just as soon as I can get here from work."

Norma's eyes were closed and she did not answer. Chris put on her wraps, watched the other girl anxiously for several moments. Finally turned without speaking and left the room. She stopped for a consultation with Mrs. Bixby before she boarded a street car bound downtown.

Norma heard the outer door close. The house was unusually quiet. She lay still, listening for what must have been 20 minutes. Then as silently as possible she arose and slipped into her clothing. She put on her coat and hat and opened the hall door stealthily.

No one appeared to stop her when she reached the ground floor. Five minutes later Norma was at the street intersection. A cab driver swerved in answer to her signal and drew up at the curb.

Norma stepped into the cab and gave an address. Her face, as she sank back against the leather seat, was like parchment. A moment later she leaned forward and tapped the glass partition separating her from the driver.

"Hurry, will you?" Norma begged. (To Be Continued)

ATHLETICS BELIEVE EARNSHAW WILL SAVE SERIES TITLE

CHAMPS ARE SAD AND SOBER BUT NOT OUT

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
EN ROUTE to St. Louis With Athletics, Oct. 8 (AP)—The world champion Athletics sped westward today for the concluding world series drama, looking and acting like anything but a club possibly on the verge of being shorn of its title.

They must win the sixth game tomorrow at St. Louis to prolong the fight but they are already talking about the fun they will have with the Cardinals in the seventh and deciding contest. To a man they consider the sixth game and another deadlock to be for the simple reason they do not see how George Earnshaw can lose.

Let George Do It
Connie Mack smiles and says "yes, I have a lot of confidence in George." The players think Earnshaw certainly will pitch Friday and if he wins they regard it likely the famous right-hander will start the seventh game, with Lefty Grove in reserve both days.

"The way I look at it," said Mickey Cochrane today, "Earnshaw has shown he can over-power the Cards—that is, all but this Martin. He has shown he can do the iron man stunt. He told me yesterday he felt like pitching. He pitched successive games in both the 1929 and 1930 series with only a day in between."

You hear plenty about a young gent named Martin in the gabfests of the world champions. "When Martin came to bat about the third time yesterday," remarked Cochrane, "I said to him: 'Say, kid, don't you ever pop out?' He came right back: 'I'm just in there swinging and getting the breaks.'"

It is a new experience for the A's—this business of being raided, harassed, and generally made to appear a trifle foolish by a rookie—but it has gone far enough now so that they can laugh about the sheer audacity and brilliance of the Cardinal outfielder. There may be a bit of worry behind the laughs but the A's have the gallantry to take their hats off to a youngster able to come through as Martin has done with every resource of a great team and famous manager put against him.

"I don't know how to stop him," admitted Cochrane. "He has hit everything we have tried against him, high or low, fireballs or slowballs."

Markets

GRAINS STRONGER

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (AP)—Grain prices tended upward early today, helped by stock market gains and by Liverpool reports of better milling demand for wheat. Black Sea wheat shipments showed a decrease both as compared with a week and a year ago. Opening 1-8 to 1-12 cent up, wheat later kept near the initial limits. Corn started at a shade decline to 1-8 to 1-4 advance and afterward gained all around.

COTTON OPENS EASY

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 8 (AP)—Cotton had an easy opening today although Liverpool was rather better than due. The bureau liquidation and hedge-selling were responsible for the early decline. First trades showed losses of 7 to 10 points and the market eased further after the start, December dropping to 5.85 an January to 5.70, down 11 to 12 points from yesterday's close.

The government estimate was due at 10 a. m. and the general expectation was for a total in the neighborhood of 16,000,000 bales.

Cotton Production Total Is Greater

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Cotton production this year, as indicated by conditions Oct. 1, was estimated by the department of agriculture today at 16,284,000 bales, compared with 15,685,000 bales indicated a month ago and 13,932,000 bales ginned last year.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Cotton ginned prior to Oct. 1 was reported by the census bureau today to have totaled 5,408,307 bales, compared with 6,303,895 bales to that date last year and 5,903,265 two years ago.

The condition of the crop Oct. 1 was 69.3 per cent of a normal, compared with 68.0 per cent a month ago, 53.5 per cent on Oct. 1 last year, and 53.3 per cent, the 10-year Oct. 1 average.

The indicated yield of lint is placed at 190.5 pounds per acre, compared with 147.7 pounds last year and 154.4 pounds, the 10-year average.

The acreage for picking this year is placed at 40,889,000 acres, the abandonment after July 1 having been 1.5 per cent of the planted acreage.

STRIKE-BREAKERS BUSY
GALVESTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—A strike-breaking crew of approximately 800 non-union longshoremen was busy at work here today loading and unloading deep sea vessels.

The crew was augmented last night by the arrival of 100 additional strike-breakers.

Sun Beau Facing His Final Effort

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (AP)—Sun Beau, the money winning champion thoroughbred of all time, faced the final race of his long career today in the $25,000 added Hawthorne gold cup, and sought to say adieu with a third victory in the rich event.
For one of the few times since he became the country's greatest handicap performer, the son of Sun Briar Beautiful Lady, was not the overnight favorite. The handicappers figured A. C. Bostwick's Mate, the technical three-year-old champion of the season, as a better bet over the mile and a quarter journey. Mate was quoted at 9 to 5, while the figure on Sun Beau was 8 to 5.

Sun Beau won the cup in 1929 and 1930, setting the record of 2:01 3/5 in his first victory.

Cotton Program Is Worked Out

WACO, Oct. 8 (AP)—Resolutions designed to aid in returning the cotton industry to a normal condition were adopted at a state-wide meeting here yesterday, called by J. E. McDonald, state agricultural commissioner.

Major resolutions were:
To provide setting up of financial machinery in all cotton market centers through the chambers of commerce whereby the farmers would be enabled to hold their 1931 crops.
Enactment of a federal law prohibiting futures trading in farm products unless the seller actually at the time owned the article.
Appointment of a committee of 18, one from each congressional district, to organize the farmers of Texas and to meet at Waco, Oct. 22.

Transfusion Fails To Save Youth

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 8 (AP)—Parental sacrifice had failed today to save the life of Gilbert Farr, 16-year-old school boy, who was accidentally shot by his chum, Charles McGehee, yesterday while the boys were preparing to go on an outing.
The wounded boy's father, a bus driver, was stopped on his route by a telephone call and raced 80 miles back to the city. He submitted to a blood transfusion, and the boy's mother was preparing to submit to a transfusion when death came.

JAPANESE PLANES BOMB CHINESE TOWN, CHINCHOW

PEIPING, China, Oct. 8 (AP)—J. O. Thomson, British manager of Peiping-Mukden railroad, reported today that 12 Japanese airplanes had dropped 36 bombs on the town of Chinchow, 150 miles south of Mukden, inflicting an undetermined number of casualties.
He said the bombs were directed chiefly at the university buildings which temporarily house the headquarters of the Manchurian provincial government. One bomb was said to have hit a railroad service car and killed two Chinese servants while another struck a locomotive shed. Telegraphic communication with the town was interrupted.

MARTIN OWNS SPECIAL TRAIN OF RED BIRDS

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
ABOARD the Cardinals Special Train En Route to St. Louis, Oct. 8 (AP)—The one man show that is the world series of 1931 moved westward today and into the land of the St. Louis Cardinals, practically the personal property of John Leonard "Pepper" Martin.

Never in all world series history has a single individual so taken into his own eager irresponsible self a drama of the magnitude of this world series struggle of the Philadelphia Athletics and the Red Birds from the banks of the Mississippi. Five games have flowed under the baseball bridges since the world champion Athletics, overwhelming favorites to win their third straight crown and set a new record for series conquests, tangled for the first time with the National league champions just a week ago in St. Louis.

Today, as the series sped westward, the Cardinals lead three to two in games and restlessly waiting to administer the coup de grace is the same "Pepper" Martin, just about the cause of it all.
There has been pitching by the big moose of the Athletics, George Earnshaw, that for studied, painstaking brilliance has never been surpassed in these annual inter-league struggles. The great warrior of the game, snarling, bitter, uncompromising Burleigh Grimes, hurled another two-hit masterpiece. And Wild Bill Halloway, a superb little left hander, round of face and frail of body, twice has conquered the champions of the world, once without a run, allowing only three hits, and again yesterday, 5 to 1.

These are prodigious world series feats and more amazing they came in succession. Yet the wonder of them fades and all the glory that would be theirs alone if it were not for this same Pepper Martin pales in the brilliance of the wild wahoo from Oklahoma.

Singlehanded he has won two of the three games that now belong to the Cardinals.

All told Pepper has driven in five runs, scored five himself, hit for a total of 19 bases and a grand average of .667 for the world series so far.

Voitures to Have Dance October 17

The local voiture of the 40 and 8 and the Amarillo voiture will be sponsors of a ball to be held here the night of Oct. 17. The Gray Mare orchestra of Amarillo will furnish the music. As members of the locale voiture say, the ball will be to celebrate the defeat of the Amarillo Sandies at the hands of the Pampa Harvesters.

MORROW'S BURIAL SIMPLE

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Oct. 8 (AP)—Hidden by tall cedars and the earth, all that was mortal of Dwight Whitney Morrow rested in Brookside cemetery today within sight of the beautiful home from which he had stepped forward to gain riches, fame and position.
The late United States senators' funeral was as solemn, dignified and unostentatious as his life and character. A former president of the United States, Calvin Coolidge, a vice-president, Charles Curtis, scores of United States senators and representatives, as well as diplomatic leaders, attended the rites.

Longhorn Guard Out With Injury

AUSTIN, Oct. 8 (AP)—Hopes of the University of Texas for a victory over Rice institute Saturday were dimmed materially with the announcement of trainers that Maurice Baumgarten, star guard and captain of the Southwest conference champions, would be unable to play because of a knee injury.

The loss will prevent Coach Clyde Littlefield from starting his strongest combination. Tommie Birdwell of San Antonio probably will be substituted unless Hill Hodge, who received a shoulder hurt in scrimmage several days ago, is in shape to play.

Indian Is Not Yet "Dying Race"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The American Indian, said by scientists to be doomed to "die out," proved unexpectedly prolific in the past decade, deferring his racial extinction.

The 1930 census showed the Indian increasing by 87,960, a 36 per cent gain. With a 16 per cent gain in the population at large, that jump in a race pronounced dying was pronounced impossible.

The experts attributed it to an inadequate 1920 census and to closer check on mixed bloods.

Dr. L. F. Schmeckler, expert borrowed from a research institute to supervise the Indian census, got to digging around in county schedules and discovered a bumper crop of little Indians which he pronounced "real gain."

Bert Mueller, Steller Halfback, Will Add Much Strength to Rice Owls

By The Associated Press
The best news to greet Rice institute football players came yesterday when Bert Mueller, brilliant halfback, reported for practice. He will play against the University of Texas at Austin Saturday in Rice's initial 1931 southwest conference game.

Mueller did not play last week against Oklahoma because of an injured leg. Rice drilled on vicious tacking and blocking yesterday. The full squad of 60 players will make the trip to Austin.

State Fair Will Open On Saturday

DALLAS, Oct. 7 (AP)—The state fair of Texas will open for its forty-fifth annual showing here Saturday. Carloads of fine cattle, hogs and sheep are arriving daily for the livestock exhibit. One of the busiest spots on the grounds is the fine arts building, where articles of handiwork, embroidery, fine sewing, rare materials and other prize work will be shown.

In the automobile and manufacturer's building all was in readiness for the display of mechanical exhibits.

Prize farm products, many of which already have taken awards at community fairs, were being worked into unique displays in the agricultural building.

One of the new features of the home demonstration exhibits will be a balanced farm pantry, arranged with home products on one side and on the other, items that must be purchased. The pantry will show it is possible to live well on $60 worth of store food a year by raising products at home.

At the stadium, new dressing quarters for the football teams which will compete in daily games were in readiness. A series of outstanding college and high school games was scheduled.

TRAIN WRECK PREVENTED

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 8 (AP)—The special train of the St. Louis baseball team was saved from delay and possible accident last night by a signal towerman who switched it off the main line after an automobile had plunged onto the tracks near here, killing two men and critically injuring a third.

Financier Kills Self When Jury Finds Him Guilty

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8 (AP)—A moment after a jury had returned a verdict convicting him of 16 counts of grand theft and violation of the state corporate securities act, Harry S. McCormack drew a pistol and shot himself to death in court last night.

The 63-year-old Glendale, Calif., financier was convicted of having handled the affairs of two large finance and real estate companies so as to have caused a loss of $345,000 to approximately 200 investors.

As the jury's verdict was read, McCormack arose from his seat at the end of the counsel table, threw back his head, drew the weapon from a coat pocket and fired a shot through his heart. He dropped, dying, at the end of the table.

There was no disorder. Judge Elliott Craig asked jurors and spectators to remain seated. Court attendants quickly removed McCormack to the judge's chamber. He was dead when police surgeons arrived.

Two envelopes were left on the counsel table by McCormack. One was addressed to the judge and the other to a newspaper. The former was empty, but the note in the latter envelope declared the writer guiltless of any attempt to defraud investors.

TRIAL OPENS MONDAY

DALLAS, Oct. 8 (AP)—Trial of persons charged with conspiracy to conduct a lottery through the mails, by operation of a marriage insurance company, will open here before Judge James C. Wilson of Fort Worth, Monday.

St. Paul Saints Still in Tournery

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 8 (AP)—The St. Paul Saints, champions of the American association, may have to yield the "Little World series" title to Rochester but it won't be without a struggle.

Beaten four times in a row and apparently on the run, the Saints came back yesterday to trounce the International league champions, 9 to 3 and send the series into the seventh game.

Despite their easy triumph, however, the Saints still were in a precarious position. Rochester, leading four games to two, needed only one of the three remaining contests to clinch the title.

Government Cost Will Be Studied

STAMFORD, Oct. 8 (AP)—Committees to conduct cost-of-government studies are being appointed this week in 65 cities and towns of West Texas. It was announced today from the headquarters office of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, initiating the movement for reduction in public expenditures which are declared to have reached "alarming proportions."

The campaign was launched by chamber officials under leadership of Houston Hart, president, in a series of nine district conferences held during the latter part of September and first week in October in the chamber's membership territory.

Local committees, studying expenditures and tax structures in their municipal and county governments, will work in close touch with the West Texas chamber's tax-expenditures committee headed by C. N. Bassett, banker of El Paso. Results of the study will be laid before the state board of control and legislature, it was announced.

THE CALL OF ADVENTURE

The gold prospector is hitting the trail again. In such famous oldtime fields as those of South Dakota, California, Montana and the Yukon men are getting busy once more, panning the sand of lonely streams and repeating, in a miniature, the scenes of the great gold rush days.
This, it seems, is not due to any new discoveries, but simply to the depression. Gold will buy more than it would a few years ago. The prospector who gets an ounce of fine dust can buy more supplies, equipment and luxuries with it than he could formerly.
None of these prospectors is getting rich. But a great many are making a comfortable living, and abandoned gold fields are looking lively. Indeed, in certain parts of Canada, so many unemployed men from the cities are trying to turn prospector that the mounted police are beginning to shoot them back, fearing that winter will bring too many hardships to ill-equipped and inexperienced gold-hunters.
Now there isn't any especial reason why we stay-at-homes should be glad to hear about this revival of prospecting. We have never hunted for gold, and we never shall—nor would we know how to do it if we tried. But simply to know that men are wandering along empty mountain canyons, far away, looking for the magic metal, is somehow good for us.
We have to take our adventures by proxy, these days. No new gold strike, not even the most fabulous, could tear us away from the daily routine. Our horizons will always be just about what they are now. But we have dreams; we have imagination; and the prospectors who tramp the western and northern wildernesses are taking us with them, without knowing it. As long as they can go—as long as there is still gold to be found, and lonely country to provide adventure—we do not feel our imprisonment.
That is why stories about gold-seekers, explorers and the like will always have a sure appeal. Our own hopes died when we went into our teens and realized sadly that we would never become pirates or soldiers of fortune or bearded prospectors; but so long as other men can become those things we don't mind quite so much.
We don't get far from home, and we don't have high adventures. But somewhere, far away, the golden door is still open, if only a little. We can tell ourselves that we could if we would. That is enough.—NEA.
