Dutch Turn Down Japanese Demands

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, June 6 (AP)—The Dutch delivered a generally unfavorable reply today to Japanese demands for a large share of the Indies exports of such materials as rubber, oil and tin, but the chief of the Japanese delegation indicated he was not prepared to break off negotiations summarily, as he had intimated beforehand he would do.

After receiving the 10-page Dutch memorandum in a 90-minute conference, Kenkichi Yoshizawa, chief of the Japanese delegation, said it was "disappointing" and he did not think Tokyo would find it satisfactory.

Although he had said previously that the negotiations were teetering on a "precipice," with implications of danger to friendly relations unless the Dutch substantially bowed to Japan's wishes, he said today he would have to study the Dutch reply more closely.

Yoshizawa explained this apparent change of position by saying: "The Dutch answer leaves room for clarification and interpretation, but no further negotiating."

He said it was not impossible that Tokyo would recall him promptly, but meanwhile he intended to seek further clarifying comment from the Chief Dutch Negotiator, H. J. Van Mook.

The first reaction, Yoshizawa said, was this: "We can agree on some points, but it is my impression that agreement will be very difficult on others."

Although the Dutch reply was not made public, reliable sources said it carefully steered a middle course, offering to maintain normal trade relations without furnishing Japan much of any important commodities.

He called attention to a formal letter from Daniel J. Tobin, head of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen, and Helpers, which "wholeheartedly and sincerely" pledged the union's support to the president and the nation.

He said it was typical of 400 or 500 received from unionists since he had called for them to cooperate in defense production without stoppages.

When told there were two strikes by groups of Tobin's union, he said he was told by Tobin steps had been taken to end them.

From Pittsburgh came an announcement by Federal Conciliator John A. Moffitt that a settlement was near in the six-day strike of 2,300 truck drivers.

The board has no power to back up its recommendations, though President Roosevelt has declared labor and industry must respect its findings.

FDR Studying New Steps To End Strikes

(By The Associated Press) President Roosevelt said today he had new steps under consideration to reduce labor stoppages in defense industries but was not prepared to do anything while the defense mediation board worked on settling west coast aircraft and lumber disputes.

In reply to a question by a reporter at his press conference, the president said there was no statement "today" on whether he planned to do something about the strike at North American Aviation corporation's airplane plant or the strike of International Woodworkers union members in Washington.

Asked whether he intended to emphasize "today," he replied that reporters heard what he said.

Then, on another question whether he was considering anything to make labor aware of "new responsibilities," he said he believed that could be answered in the affirmative.

He called attention to a formal letter from Daniel J. Tobin, head of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen, and Helpers, which "wholeheartedly and sincerely" pledged the union's support to the president and the nation.

He said it was typical of 400 or 500 received from unionists since he had called for them to cooperate in defense production without stoppages.

When told there were two strikes by groups of Tobin's union, he said he was told by Tobin steps had been taken to end them.

From Pittsburgh came an announcement by Federal Conciliator John A. Moffitt that a settlement was near in the six-day strike of 2,300 truck drivers.

The board has no power to back up its recommendations, though President Roosevelt has declared labor and industry must respect its findings.

The mediation board meanwhile took these major steps yesterday: Delivered to the southern soft coal industry a recommended new contract embodying the uniform $7 daily wage and 10-day paid vacation demands of the CIO United Mine workers, and called for acceptance or rejection by 6 p. m.

Handed back to 12,000 striking CIO woodsmen for reconsideration the board's twice-rejected formula for peace in more than 50 Douglas fir operations in the Pacific northwest.

"So, it is very important," Dr. Wilder said, "that every boy who plans to enter the derby be present at tomorrow morning's meeting at the Rex theater."

"Wherever possible," Dr. Wilder said, "parents are urged to sponsor their own sons. But if there are cases where this is impossible, we are going to sponsor for every boy who wishes to enter the race."

DOUGHBOYS TO PLAY HERE TWO DAYS DURING FIESTA

These famous radio stars will be here in person for a return engagement to the Top O' Texas Fiesta, Friday and Saturday, June 13 and 14. They are the Light Crust Doughboys, with Parker Willson, master of ceremonies, is shown greeting their newest member, Dolores Jo, 12, songstress, who was readily adopted as sweetheart of the troop. Other musicians joining in the reception are, left to right: Zeke, J. B. Bashful, Abner Cecil, Ted and Junior, heard on the Texas Quality Network, Mondays through Fridays at 12:30 p. m., the Doughboys have gained widespread recognition as one of the outstanding bands of their kind in the nation. At the Top O' Texas Fiesta they will present a complete variety of their unique and inimitable style of music.

FDR Signs Bill To Take Over Vessels

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—President Roosevelt signed today legislation permitting the government to take over and operate the approximately 80 foreign ships now idle in American waters.

He immediately thereafter ordered the maritime commission to carry out terms of the act.

Thumbing through the order at a press conference, the president said it authorized the commission to:

- Purchase, requisition, charter, or to take over all foreign ships lying in the waters of the United States, including those of the Philippines and Canal Zone.
- Operate any of them in the service of the United States directly, or through an agent.
- Charter or lease any of them for foreign or coastwise service, but not for any belligerent government without presidential approval.

Document the vessel under the laws of the United States or of a neutral nation of the western hemisphere.

Make just compensation to the owners.

Mr. Roosevelt said he did not know how many ships would be seized or which would be taken first. He said also he did not know whether any French vessels would be included.

The measure, sponsored by the administration, provides that the government can acquire ships by requisition or purchase or may charter them for the duration of the emergency. "Fair compensation" would be made to the owners, but funds paid would be held in the treasury for possible application against foreign debts to this country.

Damage To Wheat Slight Thus Far

Aside from wind damage that took place early in a few scattered areas, prospects are for a bumper wheat crop in the Panhandle.

Miss Betty Ann Culberson was elected queen of the New Mexico float club Wednesday night. Final plans for the float were also made.

All members who have not paid their dues are urged to see Blanche McMillen, chairman, at the Pampa office supply company, as funds in the club treasury do not quite meet the quota to offset the float and other expenses.

Anyone having articles of interest to contribute to the New Mexico window should turn them in to the chairman by Monday.

Miss Virginia Dial of Portersville, Miss., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Chester Christopher, 420 N. Purviance, was elected queen of the Mississippi float last night at a meeting. She is 19 years old, a "brunet" and has a southern accent.

Miss Marie Hoover will be queen on the Pennsylvania float. She will wear a beautiful robe. Committee to secure the queen's costume is composed of Mrs. W. H. Hoover, Mrs. Luella Howell, and Mrs. Frank Bowers.

Sidelights On States Clubs And Fiesta

All folks who came from "Alabama with a banjo on my knee" will meet at 8 o'clock tonight to form an organization, decide on a float and elect a queen.

The Alabama hope to complete all their business at one meeting and as a result every native of that state is asked to be at tonight's meeting.

The meeting will be open to everyone born in Alabama, not just those who registered.

The West Virginia Society of the Panhandle will meet at 8 o'clock tonight in the county court room to name their queen and plan their float in the parade of all states and nations.

More than 50 West Virginians are registered for the Top O' Texas Fiesta. E. S. Red Moore is temporary chairman of the organization, and Mrs. S. C. Hewitt, secretary.

Indians are to elect a queen at their meeting to be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the county court room.

Louisiana Society of the Panhandle will meet at 8 o'clock tonight in the city commissioners room at the city hall. All candidates for queen are asked to be present when the meeting is held.

Wind Levels Big Trees At Gainesville

(By The Associated Press) A windstorm ripped through Gainesville at 9 a. m., today, leveling huge trees and one building, while elsewhere in the state torrential rains brought flood threats to Vernon and Wichita Falls.

Blowing from the west, the storm wrecked power lines and damaged small structures in the north Texas town. The feed shed at a gin was brought to the ground, and limbs were torn from hundreds of trees.

No loss of life or injury was reported.

The Dallas weather bureau reported the heaviest rainfall was in western Oklahoma and Texas.

Downpours continued in the vicinity of Haskell and Quanah. Haskell had recorded 1.42 inches, Quanah 3.41, Childress 3.75 and raining, Snyder 1.53, Spur 1.19, Plainview 1.05, Memphis 1.70, Crosbyton 1.32, Big Spring 1.22, Lubbock 2.9, Amarillo 4.5 and Alpine 8.4.

Several Oklahoma points had rainfall in excess of three inches. A new flood threatened Wichita Falls, where 200 families already appealed for Red Cross aid.

Torrential rains throughout the area held the prospect for additional water in the Wichita river, which had receded to its banks after overflowing earlier in the week.

The big rise on the Peace at Vernon meant that the Red, which feeds, would go to flood stage at Burkburnett before night.

Landlocked overflow waters in Wichita Falls still kept many homes isolated.

Approximately an inch and a half of rain fell there this morning, giving the city more than 18 inches of moisture since Jan. 1.

Heavy rains fell in central and parts of southern Oklahoma to do additional violence to the wheat crop, which is ripe for the harvest.

Heaviest rain was 3.59 inches at Lindsay. Chickasha's downtown streets were flooded by 3.23 inches. The Canadian river rose at Oklahoma City at the rate of a foot an hour after 2.75 inches and police said it probably would leave its banks before long.

Frederick was left without train service after a 2.38-inch rain that damaged wheat. The Frisco's north-bound train was stranded at Vernon, Texas, unable to cross the flood-damaged Red river bridge. A washout blocked Katy trains south of Frederick.

Texans To Sell Ribbons, Float Queen Elected

Texans will start their sale of Texas club ribbons tomorrow, when the Texas queen, Miss Dorothy Campbell, will sell the first 100 ribbons, marking the start of the Texans' plans for participation in the Top O' Texas Fiesta next week.

The ribbons are in red, white, and blue, and bear the words, "I Am a Texan."

Miss Campbell was elected queen, W. E. James temporary chairman, and Mrs. H. H. Heiskell was elected secretary-treasurer at the Texans' organization meeting held last night in the county court room.

The Texans plan to make their state club a permanent organization, and not just for the Fiesta alone.

A float committee was named, consisting of Mrs. Bob Triplehorn, Mrs. Charles Lamka, Mrs. J. P. Matthews, Jane Kerbow, and Avis Heiskell.

Mrs. Heiskell was named to be in charge of arrangements for a Texas window display.

Negro Electrocutted At Huntsville Today

HUNTSVILLE, June 6 (AP)—Tommy Harris, 20-year-old negro, was electrocuted at the state prison early today for the rape and murder of Mrs. Edna Earl Allen, 18-year-old expectant mother of Grandville.

Harris was strapped into the chair at 12:02 a. m. and was pronounced dead eight minutes later.

A jury found Harris guilty and fixed the penalty at death last April after testimony that he broke into Mrs. Allen's home, raped her, and then strangled her with a sashweight last August 8. She died the following day. Her premature baby was born dead.

Hull Bluntly Warns French Against Nazis

Germany, British Reported Ready To Move Into Syria

(By The Associated Press) Adolf Hitler and his Axis partner, Japan, met twin rebuffs today when President Roosevelt spiked outcropping rumors of peace as German propaganda brought the Dutch in the Far East rejected a major part of Japanese demands for war materials from the Indies.

Mr. Roosevelt declared that Ambassador John G. Winant, newly returned from England, had brought "not even a tenth cousin of a peace offer."

The chief executive said he had on his desk an order issued by the official German propaganda agency in Berlin, addressed to Nazis in the United States, which had brought Winant was bringing a story that Britain was all in and was talking peace.

Dutch-Japanese negotiations, officially described by the Japanese as teetering on a "precipice," reached an impasse when the Dutch returned a reply which the chief of the Japanese delegation said was "disappointing."

It was understood that the Dutch said politely but firmly that Japan's annual quota of imports from the Netherlands East Indies had not been enlarged, and that none would go to Germany. Rubber, oil and tin are the Indies' chief war products.

On the fighting front, British Middle East headquarters reported that RAF bombers attacked Italian planes yesterday at Aleppo, airdrome in Syria—the first official British disclosure that Fascist aircraft were in the French Middle East colony. One plane was destroyed, it was said.

Mr. Roosevelt asserted furthermore that it was an amazing coincidence that stories of the types recommended by Germany had appeared in a certain type of newspaper in the United States.

Told by a reporter that there was an impression being spread that Britain has said she could not last more than a few months without increased American help, the chief executive declared that this never had been said unless it was by Berlin. It did not come, he added, from a responsible source.

Asked about published reports that the Japanese ambassador, Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, had been discussing the possibility of a non-aggression pact with Secretary Hull, the president said he knew nothing about it.

Italian bombers were reported today to have attacked Britain's great port of Gibraltar, guarding the western entrance of the Mediterranean sea, while the Germans forecast aerial blows at the Suez canal in the east.

Linked with Wednesday night's heavy assault on the Mediterranean naval base at Alexandria these reports indicated that an Axis campaign to bottle up the British Mediterranean fleet may already be in motion.

London radio said casualties at Alexandria numbered 150 killed and 200 wounded.

Meanwhile, France's high military chiefs, in a cabinet session at Vichy, were reported discussing U. S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull's blunt warning that French cooperation with Germany was "utterly inimical to the just rights of other countries."

Which Vice-Admiral Jean Darlan presiding, the meeting was attended by Generalissimo Maxime Weyand, commander-in-chief of France's North African armies; Governor General Pierre Boisson of French West Africa, and Resident General Admiral Jean Bastien-Lapierre. The question of empire defense as part of Adolf Hitler's new European order was also said to have been discussed.

Giving point to these deliberations, In-Chief Henri Dentz, commanding general of French forces in Syria and Lebanon, issued a dramatic order to his troops:

"The command is clear. Defend our possessions and defend them with our own forces."

"There is nothing in this contrary to the honor and interests of France. You have heard me. You have understood me. I say no more. Now to your posts!"

Amid indications that British troops might move into Syria at any moment, NBC's correspondent in Ankara, Turkey, said German soldiers were reported to have occupied the city.

Jury Brands As False Rumors Concerning Deceased Physician

Members of the 31st district court grand jury finished their work for the first week, brought in six indictments, and adjourned yesterday until July 7.

The grand jury also issued the following statement, definitely "nailing" as worthless alleged rumors concerning a Gray county physician, deceased.

Dated June 5, the statement reads: "We, the grand jury, composed of J. R. Posey as foreman and 11 others, duly impeached as such for the June term, A. D. 1941, for the district court of Gray county, has made a complete investigation of certain rumors brought to our attention and in concerning a certain reputable Gray county physician, now deceased.

Willkie To Speak In Chicago Tonight

CHICAGO, June 6 (AP)—Today was "unity day" in Chicago. So proclaimed by Mayor Edward J. Kelly to express the Metropolitan area's unity in the national emergency, the day was marked by patriotic programs in public schools and a tour of the area's defense production industries by army and civic officials.

The observance will be climaxed tonight with a meeting in the Chicago stadium, Wendell L. Willkie, the 1940 G. O. P. standard bearer, will deliver the principal address. The speech will be broadcast at 9 p. m. (G. S. T.) by the Red network of the National Broadcasting company and by the Columbia Broadcasting system.

Three Dances, Dinner, Barbecue, Arranged For Old-Timers Group

Old Timers will have their part in the Top O' Texas Fiesta June 12, 13 and 14 and it will be a big part. There will be dances, fireworks, parade, rodeo, firework display and other entertainment for the men and women who helped build the Panhandle, according to Dick Hughes, chairman of the old timer committee of the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The 88er's men and women who came to the Panhandle in 1889 or prior to that date, will receive a gold ribbon which will entitle them to attend all events of the celebration free.

Old timers who came to the Panhandle between 1889 and 1900 will receive a white ribbon which will admit them to the dances and barbecue free.

Old timers who came between 1900 and 1910 will receive a blue ribbon. The 89er's will be guests at a dinner in the red school building on the high school campus at noon, June 14. At the same time the 1889-1900 group will be guests at a barbecue in city park.

The old timers will open their celebration with a dance in the high school gymnasium at 7:30 o'clock the night of June 12.

Registration will be at 9 o'clock the morning of June 13 and 14. The program for the old timers released today, follows:

June 12: Fireworks at Recreation park, 8:30 p. m.

Old Timers dance in high school gymnasium, 7:30 p. m. (Music by Sons of the West.)

I Saw . . .

Every flier in a local drug store (The Harvest Drug) wearing the official Fiesta costume—a pair of overalls with the phrase, "Top O' Texas Fiesta" sewed on the front. The overalls were white. Wearing the overalls were J. W. C. Tooley, manager; Bob Farish; Lillian Rippe; Mose Erick; Cassius Hughes; Leonard Worthington; Elsie Henville. Mr. Tooley challenged all business establishments in town to follow suit and restore 100 per cent with the official costume.

Food Standard For Texas Given By H. D. Agent

In a bulletin received by Mrs. Julia E. Kelley, Gray county home demonstration agent, prepared by the Texas Nutrition committee and issued by the Extension Service of A. and M. college at College Station, the food standard in Texas was given.

Information contained in the bulletin stated that supplying the right food helps keep people busy; providing the right food for all helps make people happy; eating the right food helps make people strong; and strong people, busy people, happy people are the first line of national strength.

A good diet daily requires the following:

- 1 pt. to 1 qt. milk
- 1 egg
- 1 serving meat, poultry, fish or cheese
- 1 serving Irish or sweet potatoes
- 1 serving green or yellow vegetables
- 1 other serving vegetable (not yellow or green)
- 1 serving citrus, tomatoes, raw cabbage, strawberries, or melons
- 1 other serving fruit (not citrus)
- 1 serving whole grain products
- Other cereals and bread as desired
- Butter, or margarine with vitamins added
- Some sweets
- 6 to 8 glasses of water

Children under 16 need 3/4 to 1 quart of milk. Dried beans, peas, or nuts may be substituted for eggs or meat; dried peas or beans may be the other serving of vegetable.

For one week the following should be obtained:

- 3 1/2 to 7 qts. milk
- 7 eggs
- 2 to 3 lbs. meat, poultry, fish or cheese
- 1/2 lb. cooking fat
- 4 lbs. Irish or sweet potatoes
- 4 lbs. green or yellow vegetables
- 4 other lbs. vegetables
- 2 to 4 lbs. citrus, tomatoes, raw cabbage, strawberries, or melons
- 4 other lbs. fruits
- 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 lbs. whole grain products
- 1 1/2 to 3 lbs. other cereals and bread
- 1/2 lb. butter, or margarine with vitamins added
- 1 1/2 lbs. sweets
- 1 1/2 to 2 lbs. dried peas, beans, nuts

For use in shopping, multiply the amount for one person by the number in the family. Quantities given are for fresh products.

The quantities listed below for one year are as brought into the farm kitchen:

- 46 to 91 gallons milk
- 30 doz. eggs
- 175 lbs. meat (and fat for cooking)
- 300 lbs. potatoes (Irish or sweet)
- 200 lbs. green or yellow vegetables
- 100 to 200 lbs. citrus, tomatoes, raw cabbage, strawberries or melons
- 200 other lbs. fruits
- 170 lbs. grain products
- 20 lbs. butter, or margarine with vitamins added
- 70 lbs. sweets
- 15 lbs. dried peas, beans, nuts

Mind Your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Is it good manners to discuss the cost of food during a meal?
2. If a wife serves for dinner a dish her husband had at lunch, should he say, "I had that for lunch?"
3. Is it good manners to hold food on your fork while you stop eating to make a remark?
4. What should a guest at a buffet meal do with his glass if he is holding his plate in his left hand?
5. If a hostess at a buffet supper has no maid, is it all right for her to ask a guest she knows well to help her remove plates at the end of the meal?

Answers:
1. No.
2. No.
3. No. Eat what you have on your fork and then make the remark.
4. If there is no table nearby that he can set it on, he should put it on the floor.
5. Best "What Would You Do" solution: (b).

Many Texas Young People Suffer From Malnutrition

(By The Associated Press)

What the United States army is finding out about the health of enlisted men, the National Youth Administration is discovering today about its own young people.

NYA has examined the 25,000 white, negro, and Latin-American boys and girls on its Texas rolls and has found that many of these young people between the ages of 16 and 24, all from low-income families, suffer from malnutrition.

The majority of them have never in their lives had a thorough medical and physical examination. Many remedial work such as having their tonsils out, or bad teeth fixed, or glasses fitted. None has the money to spend for such treatment.

So unmistakable do the signs point out to the need of a carefully worked out health program for this segment of Texas population that the NYA has taken steps for just such a plan.

Late last year the Texas NYA received $100,000 from the national agency to operate a statewide health program. Leaders promptly conferred with the state department of health, with officers of the Texas State Medical association, and with the Texas Dental society.

"We have this money," they said, "how should it be spent?"

Dr. G. F. Thornhill of Austin, a private practicing physician, was named state health consultant.

The state health department agreed to sponsor a state-wide NYA health project.

Medical and dental societies worked out an agreement with the NYA whereby doctors and dentists named in rotation by local societies, paid on a per diem basis by the NYA, are giving its youth three types of service: first, a complete examination; second, minor remedial work that needs to be done; third, follow-up treatment as needed.

If a medical examination shows a boy to be subject to heart attacks he will not be assigned to work on a scaffold or anywhere injury to himself or another worker might result. A boy with hernia will not be given heavy labor duty. A color-blind girl will not be assigned to the weaving unit of a project. These are examples of how the NYA, making use of the information from the medical examination of its youngsters, will try to assign them more intelligently to suitable work. More than this, the residence centers will continue to study well-balanced diets and serve them, and on local projects plans are being carried out to serve one hot meal a day. Oftentimes this is the only adequate meal the youngsters will get.

The personnel division has work cut out for it, too. Some of the youth will have to be educated to see the necessity of such an examination, to win their approval and cooperation instead of bringing down their hostility.

NYA regulations require that no person suffering from an ailment that might cause harm to fellow workers may be employed. There are no tuberculars, but many young people who may later break down are given medical service.

Young people suffering from physical disabilities are not barred from NYA employment. There is a boy at Inks Dam with only one arm. In the weaving unit at La Villita, San Antonio, is a blind boy.

Young people with a twisted foot or a sightless eye can be seen on projects in various parts of the state. The rule, says State Administrator J. C. Kellm, is that nobody be employed whose condition would endanger the health of others, and that the person must be able to actually earn the money which is paid him.

Attitudes of the young people who are first employed by NYA form interesting study for the personnel staff and project leaders. There is a nonbalance among city youth that seems absent from those enrolling from small towns and farms. Dallas gives conspicuous examples.

"When boys and girls come to see us about an NYA job," says one of the personnel directors, "about 70 per cent of them don't know what they want to do. While we're talking to them, getting personal information and suggesting work that may interest them, we often discover that the family is economically very insecure; the father is a WPA worker; the grandparents either draw or are hoping to get old age pensions; the family gets surplus commodities from the government.

NYA's job is to be clear why the youngsters don't care much about a lot of things. Girls, in particular, are very likely to open up and give the face of discouragement and want."

NYA's treatment for young people like this, is patience and interest. If a youngster doesn't "get on" at the first visit, he is invited back to talk with the personnel counselor. Gradually he begins to show a spark.

NYA's job is to give the youngsters a chance. If they do not take it, after all the known stimuli are applied, its responsibility has been discharged, and it goes on with the boys and girls who need only a lift to be on their own way.

Baracat Talks To Rotary Club

Democracy came into being because the brilliant men of Europe had ideas so revolutionary to their times and countries that they migrated to America, where they could effect their ideas.

This was a part of the patriotic speech of A. K. Baracat of Amarillo, member of the San Jacinto Kiwanis club, delivered at the Rotary club's luncheon here at noon yesterday.

Mr. Baracat was born in Jerusalem, came to America when 16 years old, is a naturalized American, speaks six languages, and was in the A.E.F. in World War I.

Steve Matthews was in charge of the program, which was on the "I Am an American" theme, postponed from a previous schedule.

Attendance at the luncheon was 45. Visiting Rotarians were the Rev. James Todd of Panhandle, F. R. Barnes and E. Kancher, both of Amarillo, Bob Russell, another Amarilloan, was a guest.

Molded Dishes For Warm Days Pleases Appetites, New Recipe For America's No. 1 Dessert--Ice Cream

By JOHNNIE DAVIS

Molded cold dishes please the hot weather appetite. They can be made to combine essential nutrients at low cost, yet present a "party" appearance and brighten up the appetite.

And they have this hot weather advantage: They can be made during the earlier and cooler hours of the day, placed in the refrigerator and served at meal-time without further ado.

MOLDED MACARONI LOAF (Serves 6)

One envelope plain unflavored gelatin, 1/4 cup cold water, 3/4 cup hot water, 1/2 cup grated American cheese, 1 tablespoon salt, 1/2 cup spoon parsley, finely chopped, 1/2 cups cooked macaroni, cut in small pieces, or whole macaroni, 1/4 cup Russian dressing or mayonnaise, 1/4 cup chopped celery.

Soften gelatin in cold water and dissolve in hot water. Add cheese and let stand until cheese is melted, stirring constantly. Add lemon juice, onion juice, salt and parsley. Cool, and when mixture begins to thicken, fold in macaroni, celery and Russian dressing. Pour into loaf pan which has been rinsed out in cold water or rubbed with mineral oil first, and chill. When firm, unmold onto platter and garnish with lettuce or chickory. Serve with extra dressing.

HAM LOAF WITH MASHED SWEET POTATO FROSTING (Serves 6 to 8)

HAM LOAF: 1 lb. ground fresh pork (lean), 1 lb. ground smoked ham, 1 egg, slightly beaten, 1/2 cup milk, 1/2 cup bread or cracker crumbs.

FOTATO FROSTING: 6-8 boiled sweet potatoes, 2 tablespoons butter, milk salt and pepper to taste, 6-8 marshmallows.

Combine the meat loaf ingredients, blend well and pack lightly into a loaf pan. Make at 350 degrees F. or a moderate oven, for 1 1/2 hours. Remove from baking pan and place on serving dish.

Remove skins from boiled sweet potatoes and mash. Add butter, seasonings and enough milk to make mixture light and fluffy. Spread this mixture over the meat loaf as you would frost a cake. Arrange marshmallows on top; return to moderate oven (350 degrees F.) or place under broiler. Heat until marshmallows are slightly browned. Serve at once.

MEAT LOAF FOR HOT WEATHER

Although meat loaves have no special season and are good at any time of the year, they can be of special help in solving summer menu problems, as many homemakers have discovered. For instance, they are fine to have on hand for sandwiches which fillings at this season, when sandwiches are in great demand for picnics, quick lunches or between-meal snacks. A meat loaf, which is so good when piping hot from the oven, loses none of that goodness when it becomes cold.

It is easy to slice a firm, fine-textured meat loaf into neat and even portions to go between slices of white or whole wheat bread. A crisp leaf of lettuce or a thin slice of cheese can be placed over it, or it can be spread with mustard.

Or, if you are picnic-bound, you can wrap up the meat loaf just as it comes from the oven, and carry it with you in the pan in which it was baked. Hot foods are relished at

Mushroom Ham Loaf

1 pound ground smoked ham butt
1 pound ground veal
4 tablespoons catsup
3 tablespoons minced green pepper
1 tablespoon cold onion
2 eggs
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup tomato catsup.

Mix all ingredients, except the catsup. Pack into well-greased loaf pan. Cover the top with the tomato catsup. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for one hour.

ONE-DISH MEALS HELPFUL

A combination of vegetables, left-over meat, and a smooth, creamy, white sauce topped with buttered crumbs and baked in individual casserole, is a one-dish-meal you will want to serve often. So many savory casserole dishes can be made from left-over vegetables and meat when combined with a piquant white sauce made by adding a small amount of prepared mustard. Worcestershire sauce or horseradish.

Corn, lima beans and ham are delicious baked with a white sauce to which a small amount of prepared mustard has been added. The whole dish takes on new appetite-appeal when the fine flavors of the foods are accentuated with unusual seasonings.

One-Dish Meals

2 cups diced carrots (6 medium carrots)
1 1/2 cups diced celery
6 medium potatoes, pared and sliced
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour

This molded macaroni loaf is a balanced meal in itself.

out-door meals just as much as at home. With bread and butter sandwiches, potato chips, radishes, pickles, an assortment of little cakes, bananas, or apples, or other fruits, you will have as well balanced and nutritious a meal as any you could serve at home.

Flavor is important in a meat loaf, and wide variety is possible in the kinds of meat used and in other ingredients added. Here are two unusually well flavored loaves, suggested by Inez S. Willson, home economist.

Fluffy Tomato Rarebit (Serves 8)

One can tomato soup, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 lb. sharp cheddar, 1 1/2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce, 2 eggs, separated.

Pour tomato soup into top part of double-boiler. Add grated sharp cheddar, mustard, Worcestershire sauce, and egg yolks, which dry mustard and Worcestershire sauce have been added. Fold the beaten egg whites into the hot mixture. Serve on toast.

Cheese Souffle (Serves 6)

Eight square soda crackers, 1 1/2 cups milk, 3 egg yolks, beaten, 3/4 lb. grated American cheese, dash of tabasco sauce, 3 egg whites, beaten stiff but not dry.

Put crackers and milk in pan 3 inches deep and let stand 3 to 4 hours. Drain crackers thoroughly. Mix egg yolks, cheese and tabasco well with crackers and let stand until ready to heat and serve. Fold in egg whites and bake for about 30 minutes in oven that has been preheated to 325 degrees F. Turn up temperature and brown for 2 minutes.

Cheese Pudding (Serves 8)

Eight slices of white bread, 2 cups grated Parmesan-type cheese, 4 eggs, 1/2 cup butter, slightly creamed, 3 cups milk, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard.

Spread bread with butter and cut into 1/2 inch slices. Alternate layers of cheese and bread in baking dish so that the cheese is on top. Combine milk, eggs (slightly beaten) and seasonings. Pour mixture over cheese and bread. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees F.) about 40 minutes or until mixture does not adhere to knife.

Upsy-Daisy Salad

1 pkg. lemon-flavored gelatin
1 cup hot water
2 cups (1 No. 2 can) Florida grapefruit sections
1/2 cup grated raw carrot
Few grains salt
Lettuce or other greens
Mayonnaise

Pour hot water on gelatin; stir until dissolved. Drain grapefruit; measure juice; add enough water to make one cup. Add to gelatin mixture. Chill thoroughly. Add grated carrot and salt; mix well. Dice grapefruit sections; add. Pour into 8 individual molds. Chill until firm; unmold on lettuce.

AMERICA'S NO. 1 DESSERT FOR ALL

America's number one dessert is ice cream—whether served plain, with a sauce combined with cake, or in cones; it is the dessert choice of people of all ages. It can't be included in your menus too often for it is one of the most delicious, as well as most nutritious, desserts there is to serve.

The delicate flavor and characteristic smoothness of manufactured

Bumper Wheat Crop Valued At $13,000,000

COLLEGE STATION, June 6 (AP)—B. F. Vance, administrative officer of the AAA in Texas, said today that a bumper wheat crop estimated at 45 million bushels combined with marketing quotas approved last Saturday will bring $9,000,000 Texas farmers approximately 13 million more dollars this year than last.

Last year's crop was only 29 million bushels.

Vance estimated the increased 1941 income using 1940 prices and an average loan value of 92 cents per bushel. Without the loans' price supporting value, Texas wheat prices would be considerably lower, he explained.

The basic loan value of number two hard winter wheat stored at Galveston has been approved at $1.17 per bushel, he said. "However, this price will vary in different counties since the average freight rates available to various counties differ because of distance from terminals."

Last year's basic loan date without marketing quotas averaged 85 cents in Texas with prices varying in different counties.

Vance called attention to the two types of approved storage and three kinds of loans to be made on wheat this year.

Farmers may store wheat either in approved storage structures within farm storage areas or approved public warehouses. Loans involve "regular," "excess," or federal crop insurance loans.

"Regular" loans indicate the producer's within his wheat acreage allotment and may obtain a loan on all wheat produced.

"Excess" loans are available only to non-cooperators on the amount of wheat subject to penalty. The loan value would be 60 per cent of the loan rate applicable to cooperators.

Producers receiving certificates of indemnity from federal crop insurance are eligible to obtain loans at a value approved for his county on the number of bushels covered by FCI certificates.

ice cream places it first on the list of popular desserts. There is no dessert problem that can't be solved with ice cream which can be served in countless new and interesting ways. What could be better than vanilla ice cream topped with a fresh rhubarb and strawberry sauce. It is as pretty as a picture and oh so delicious.

The simple and easily prepared dessert is only as far away as your telephone—for the ice cream can be quickly and easily ordered from the nearest ice cream store. And the sauce—well—you can vary it to suit the contents of your refrigerator or cupboard. You may want to use other fresh or canned fruit or make a chocolate or butterscotch sauce. With a sauce, or without one, ice cream will still be "tops" in dessert favorites.

Rhubarb Strawberry Sundae

2 cups diced rhubarb (3/4 lb.)
1 tablespoon water
1 cup sugar
1 pint strawberries, washed and hulled
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Cook rhubarb with the water in a covered saucepan until rhubarb is tender, 3 to 5 minutes. Add sugar and sliced strawberries, and simmer 3 minutes longer, until berries are soft. Remove from heat and chill thoroughly. Serve a generous amount over the ice cream and the rest in a sauce dish. Yield: 6 servings (3 cups sauce).

BUTTER COOKY FOR SNACKS

Crisp and crunchy coconut butter cookies and a glass of refreshing milk make a perfect combination for between-meal snacks. Growups as well as children will enjoy such a pick-up to tide them over until meal time. The delicious goodness of butter makes the cookies "tops" in flavor.

These cookies are just the kind that will come in handy for many occasions for they are made up in advance and stored in the refrigerator until ready to bake. A roll of dough in the refrigerator at all times will solve any dessert problem. They may be served with fresh fruit, ice cream or a variety of other simple dessert combinations.

Cocoanut Butter Cookies

2 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 egg
1/2 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup dry sifted cocoanut

Sift flour, measure; sift twice with the soda and salt. Cream butter until soft and smooth, and gradually blend in granulated and brown sugar, creaming until smooth. Add egg and beat until fluffy. Gradually stir in the flour mixture, alternating with the milk and vanilla. Stir in cocoanut. Turn dough into a small loaf pan lined with buttered wax paper or pack in cookie molds; cover with waxed paper and chill for 2 or 3 hours. When ready to bake, slice thin with a very sharp knife. Transfer cookies to buttered baking sheet and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for about 10 minutes, or until golden brown. Cool on cake racks. Yield: 5 to 6 dozen.

Air College Discussed By Legislators

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 6—Establishment of another state senior college—the Texas School of Aeronautics and Engineering—whereby Texas would train its own fliers for the nation's armed forces was pondered by members of the legislature today.

The question of finally adjourning or recessing the overclouded session was unsettled when both houses quit for the week-end yesterday but a possibility of early agreement was seen in an announcement that conference departmental and educational appropriation bills would be reported by Wednesday.

Sent to Governor W. Lee O'Daniel for approval or rejection was a bill allocating $250,000 to a state cotton research program which would seek new uses for the agricultural product.

A senate committee completely substituted a house bill re-arranging state representatives' districts by population. The group voted out a proposal simply abolishing the districts two years hence, thus hoping to force the 1943 legislature to accomplish the first re-districting in more than 20 years.

The proposed aeronautical school establishment has not been formally considered or approved in either house but Rep. W. O. Reed of Dallas, chairman of the house appropriations committee, warned it was nearing inclusion in the higher education appropriation bill.

"I want to tell the house," Reed said, "that if the majority wants to create this school at a cost of $500,000, I shall vote for it in the conference committee."

Mentioning a petition favoring the proposal had been signed by 76 house members, Reed explained the school would be built near Sherman, would include military science in its curriculum, and that the governor would be empowered to name a nine-member board of directors.

Several members signed the petition while others scratched off their names after Reed concluded his remarks.

Two billion pounds of coffee were imported by the United States in 1938. The commodity led all others with a valuation of $139,542,000 until 1939, when rubber assumed first place with imports valued at $178,000,000.

Pease River On Overnight Rise

(By The Associated Press)

Beating rains that amounted to 2.23 inches in the Vernon area sent the Pease river on a record 13-foot overnight rise and prompted fears of the worst flood in the history of the area.

The water continued its upward surge, washing out a bridge on the Frisco railroad, and otherwise disrupting railroad and highway traffic.

Meanwhile, rail and road communications were interrupted in the Texas-New Mexico border area, as the result of renewed excessive rains.

Fort Worth and Denver railway service was halted by flooded tracks and a weakened bridge west of Vernon. Highway 287 northwest of the city was blocked by several feet of water. Highway 70 southwest was under a foot of water and the prospect was it would be clear soon.

Beaver Creek, flash-flooding, threatened to block Highway 70-287 east to Wichita Falls from Vernon, and the beating rain and hail severely damaged unharvested grain. Lightning set fire to a house at the northwest Texas city.

Heavy rains fell at Midland last night, flooding parts of the city, but no serious damage was done.

The World After The War

The United States, in the midst of "an unlimited national emergency," is still far enough from "a shooting war" to look ahead to the world as it will be after the shooting is over.

Granted, the first order of business is to see that the world shall not be a mere playground for Nazi "master men," who would then be in a position to remold it in arbitrary accordance with a Nazi herald's desire. That is the first order of business, and one on which practically every American is agreed. It is primary, it is basic, but it is negative.

The positive side remains. We do NOT want a Nazi world. All are agreed on that. But what kind of a world do we want? There the worm of controversy creeps into the apple.

The British, fighting a desperate rear-guard action from Dunkerque to Crete, have had little time to juggle with brave new worlds. They have been most coy in committing themselves to any specific blueprint of future world order, and that is understandable. Your own blueprints are worthless if the other fellow forcibly seizes the contract.

First off, you must see that you get the job, or at least that the world has a free opportunity to award the job to you. Otherwise the best blueprints are wasted. So the British, putting first things first, have been trying to see to that.

Nevertheless, one way to get the job is to have a blueprint or at least a rough sketch available.

Enough free customers, or potentially free customers, remain, so that the British have at least had to hint at their blueprint. Foreign Secretary Eden has backed up the general lines of President Roosevelt's Four Freedoms: freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom from fear, freedom from want. And an India governed "by India, for India, and in India." The last comes late, but it is better late than never. British performance in India gives at least a hope that it is an honest pledge; Nazi or Russian domination give no such hope.

Blueprints overlap; panaceas clash. British victory, however, certainly gives more hope of a free world than any Nazi "new order" run by and for the benefit of a "master race." It is only in a world that is reasonably free that the United States can hope to move forward to a progressive destiny. We cannot know exact goals today, but we can sense directions. And in today's world, the direction is everything.

Common Ground

This column contends there can be no satisfactory progress until we measure the shares of each man by the common yardstick of the God-given equal right to create and enjoy anything anyone else has a right to create and enjoy.

It is rather strange that American people should be determined that the people of Europe should not have the right to freely exchange their services with all the people in Europe.

It will be remembered the United States fought a war to keep the states from separating and becoming weak and helpless and establishing tariff walls between states.

It is now rather strange that we should be wanting to go to war in Europe to prevent people, as Bokke Carter says, from having the right to have a united Europe. On what is taking place in Europe, Bokke Carter has the following to say:

"Here is a short, but true, story of what is happening. I have reported stories like this in the column before. But their import was missed. 'The Belgian factory of an American-owned telephone company was approached by the Germans after the occupation of Belgium with a request to resume operations.'

"The Germans said, in effect, as follows: 'We do not want you to make implements of war. We do not desire any war machinery from you at all. We want you to go back to making telephones, as you did before. The Belgians, who will work in this factory, will get steady employment, good food and be paid well. The same benefits and compensations that prevail in German factories will be established here.'

"In less than two months the Belgians in this particular factory had become supporters of the principles of National Socialism.

"Telephones are being made there. And as there are no trade barriers, tariff restrictions, import duties and customs to restrain their distribution, they are going everywhere in Europe.

"The point of the story is that it illustrates what is happening in Europe—that people are not losing their identities as Belgians, Frenchmen, Czechs, Poles, Dutch and so forth—but are being made primarily into Europeans.

"In America we may say our home state is Maine or Massachusetts or Florida or California or Illinois—but we consider ourselves, first and foremost, as Americans. That is what is happening in Europe.

"Most of the leaders of so-called thought in the United States appear totally to have overlooked, disregarded or perhaps forgotten that the main emphasis in Hitler's 'Mein Kampf' is the economic reconstruction of Europe.

"With American newspapers printing spectacular military actions in sandstorms, about gliders, parachutes and sinkings on the high seas, the economic solidification in Europe is being almost entirely missed by the average American.

"Many of our leaders, buttressed by politicians whose stake is more personally political than any broader or more fundamental consideration, declare that the United States must go to war.

"But if people of Europe find that goods and services may be exchanged among them, with greater freedom and at lower prices, not choked by political restrictions and artificial trade barriers—which even Mr. Hull has said make for poverty and for wars—Americans may find themselves going to war against a continent of people. And that is a fantastic thought.

"It is, nevertheless, such developments as these which are not explained by the leaders to our people. And failing to do so, they lead us down the path to the self-destruction that is likely to be our temporary lot because of our blindness."

For a few scenes in "International Lady," Producer Edward Small rented the seaplane set for a day and an evening. The night show would show Miss Massey and her shadows boarding the ship in Portugal, and the day was devoted to the arrival in New York with a goal of great fist-cracking dialog.

Reporters and photographers swarmed around the gangplank, and every time one of the players muffed a line all the passengers had to go back and huddle in the plane until Director Tim Whelan signaled the start of the picture. This went on for hours, with everybody getting jittery and even the cool Mr. Rathbone saying "One of the biggest worlds in the country..."

Even in the confusion, Brent managed to ad lib a plug for his girl friend, Ann Sheridan; and if'll stay in the picture, too. Rathbone was grumbling: "One of the biggest countries in the world, and you haven't any room; you're always in a hurry, but you haven't any time. What have you got, anyway?"

And Brent replied proudly: "Comph! It brought a laugh the first time in the picture, too. But they let him say it after that. 'International Lady' is a cops-and-robbers picture set to martial tempo, and the first non-musical in which Miss Massey has appeared.

Incidentally, there are a few international complications in Miss Massey's own life. A Hungarian, admitted to this country three and a half years ago on a working permit obtained by Metro, she still doesn't have a quota number and can't apply for citizenship.

As the result of her long term of solitary confinement at Metro, which groomed her to stardom in "Bala-lalka," and then let her go, this cur-pet picture is only the third leading role for Miss Massey. The second, "New Wine," in which she appeared with her new husband, Alan Curtis, is about to be released. It's a musical.

Miss Massey hopes there'll be a lot of singing pictures now, though her own preference is for something to make her cry. Nothing in years has made her so happy as "Penny Serenade," which she said was "mostly about little children dying." She got so tear-drenched that she caught cold on the way home.

HOLLYWOOD, June 6—Movie-land's most beautiful spy, Iona Massey, made a bewildering invasion of America today, stepping from an Atlantic clipper in Burbank, Calif., several hours before departing for Lisbon. But not even such clever dodging could shake the dogged Mr. George Brent of the F.B.I. and Mr. Basil Rathbone of Scotland Yard, who have had her under surveillance for a week. They came off the plane with her.

People You Know

By Archer Fullingim

A self-styled "hillbilly Okie" from Pampa has crashed Harper's Bazaar, the ritziest slick-paper magazine in America. He is Woody Guthrie, and his picture appears on the same page with those of Carl Sandburg, noted American poet, John Jacob Niles and Frank Luther. In fact, the inference of the whole article "I Hear America Singing," is that Woody who used to live deep on South Russell street is one of the four greatest singers of folk songs in the nation. Here's what the article says about Woody: "This pretty well brings us up to the present, and most contemporaneous of all the Dust Bowl Ballad albums (Victor Nos. D-27 and P-28) sung by Woody Guthrie. Here again is the authentic folk voice, able to express its most vital interests and protests directly, but utilizing a living musical tradition. Guthrie has traveled and raveled Highway 66, made famous by the 'Grapes of Wrath,' with his fellow Okies, and here is his story of them. There is no attempt at epic sweep or miserable grandeur, but the whole of an American tragedy is in these simple ballads of vig-lantes, drought and migration. As he has said of them himself, 'These here songs ain't mine... and I hope when they are played on your loud speakers... that you say, well, you made 'em up yourself, cause I'm just an old awkward Oklahoma boy, used to shine the governor's shoes and shine his spit-toons, and ain't no good to do it again...'

Woody used to paint and draw cartoon when he lived here. Then he went to New York and his music caught on. He got a job advertising a tobacco over the radio, and then he got lots of offers to make records. Then other contracts showed up. Yes, he's doing right well in New York, thank you. Woody had a hard time of it while he was here. Couldn't get on the radio or anything in this part of the country. He got to frequent the library a lot and I've seen him in there several times when his feet were almost out on the ground... Well, it certainly is a far cry from a one-room shack in South Pampa to page 71 in Harper's Bazaar with Carl Sandburg! Woody left his family in this part of the country when he first went to New York to try and crash the big time, but as soon as he got going he sent for his beautiful wife and their children. Woody is now in Hollywood with a motion picture studio, and is singing over the radio and in the movies.

Woody is now in Hollywood with a motion picture studio, and is singing over the radio and in the movies.

Woody used to paint and draw cartoon when he lived here. Then he went to New York and his music caught on. He got a job advertising a tobacco over the radio, and then he got lots of offers to make records. Then other contracts showed up. Yes, he's doing right well in New York, thank you. Woody had a hard time of it while he was here. Couldn't get on the radio or anything in this part of the country. He got to frequent the library a lot and I've seen him in there several times when his feet were almost out on the ground... Well, it certainly is a far cry from a one-room shack in South Pampa to page 71 in Harper's Bazaar with Carl Sandburg! Woody left his family in this part of the country when he first went to New York to try and crash the big time, but as soon as he got going he sent for his beautiful wife and their children. THE LOOKING GLASS

CAREER By Stella Hallit

Even the best natured man gets tired. Harry got sick of hearing Mona tell people, "Of course I had to give up my music when I married." Once when she had been running all an afternoon about the good times she had with Steve Brannigan's orchestra, Harry said, "Mona, I never asked you to give up your music when you married me. I expected to provide for you should have kept on in the band."

"You mean you don't mind if I leave your job?" asked Mona unbelievably.

"No, you go right ahead. They'll be down in Atlantic City this summer and I can get along here somehow."

Mona was excited about the prospect but there were some little old frustrations. No matter how tightly she laced, her middle was sloppy. She had gained a lot of weight cooking for Harry. That didn't matter around home but when you go out looking for a job, well...

She didn't know any of the girls in Steve's office any more. Funny what a change two years make in the band business. Steve didn't send up any fire rockets when she came back. Fiddle players were two bits a dozen. Mona couldn't sing and she was losing her looks.

"Can't sign you, but I'll tell you what I'll do. Fill's sick and I'll put you in 'til she gets well. Couple of weeks maybe."

Mona was indignant that Harry didn't bid her to go off. Any man with guts would surely forbid it. Harry probably had a sweetie somewhere. He acted relieved when she told him she had a sub job for a couple of weeks. Generosity is all right in its place but when a man lets a wife walk right out of the home to play in a band in a cheap joint in Atlantic City it means he's got a sweetie. (Mona worried all the way to Atlantic City. Harry certainly had been cool to her for some months.) Some cutie, but if ever I lay eyes on her, 'thought Mona savagely.)

Mona had forgotten how much hard work there was to being in the band. She had forgotten rehearsals, the awful dressing rooms, the bosing around they got. She had even forgotten that you had to keep smiling. Harry was very sweet about writing. And even that made her sick. No man ought to be sweet to a wife that walked out of the home. It was unnatural and therefore Harry was up to something.

By the end of two weeks Mona was sick of the band, sick of the hotel, sick of the boardwalk and the people. She wouldn't have gone on for double the money. Nobody offered to double it or even continue what she was getting. Everybody was glad to see Fill again.

Mona started cleaning house with a vengeance when she got home. All she could say for her return to her career was that it proved what stuff Harry was made of. He was side-stepping all right. Putting flowers on her dresser, imagine. She had no idea yet who the hussy was, but if she ever laid eyes on her...

This emergency we now are in is so great and so grave that we as a nation are required to make the greatest united effort we can possibly make. We have not yet made that effort.

SHORT LONE MASTER OF TOUGH NATIONAL OPEN COURSE

Aces Slagger To Feet For Second Try

By WILLIAM T. RIVES
FORT WORTH, June 6 (AP)—Battered in the opening round, pursuers of the National Open Golf championship staggered through the ropes today for another tussle with Colonial club's par.

All alone stood quiet little Denny Shute, sole man to master the course. Shute, two-time winner of the P.G.A. championship, carved a 36-33-69 to beat par 35-35-70 in yesterday's first round.

The greatest opening day crowd in the tournament's history, approximately 8,000 persons, jammed the fairways behind their favorite threesomes.

Only two players equalled par—Vic Ghezzi and Lanky E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, with identical scores of 35 on each nine.

Bunched behind the leaders with 71's were Gene Kunes of Philadelphia, former Canadian Open champion; Harold (Jug) McSpaden; Lawson Little, defending champion; Dick Metz; and Jack Ryan of Louisville, Ky.

Sharing 72's were Henry Ransom, local pride; Clayton Heafner; Amateur Harry Todd of Dallas; Bunny Torpey of Dodson, Mo.; Ted Krull of New Hartford, N. Y.; Ted Kaiser of Louisville, Ky.; and Johnny Morris of Tuscaloosa, Ala.

The rest of the field sagged. Byron Nelson, Paul Runyan, Horton Smith, Craig Wood, Lloyd Mangrum, and Chick Harbert were among the 73 shooters.

Ben Hogan, Gene Sarazen, and Ed Dudley checked in with 74; John Bulla, Tony Penna, and Jimmy Demaret, 75; Sam Snead, Johnny Goodman, and Billy Burke, 76; and Henry Picard, 77.

Ralph Guldahl, who sprinted in as a hot favorite in the final days before the tourney started, had a sad 79.

Today's round was to eliminate all but the low 60 scorers and tie. Tomorrow comes the climactic 36-hole final.

Because of yesterday's soaring scores, the consensus among pros was that 286 would win.

Most melancholy finisher was handsome Henry Ransom. Out of a zizzling 31, which tied the open record for nine holes, Ransom came back in 41. That inspired Gene Sarazen to observe:

"The championship will be won on the second nine, one of the finest nine holes I've ever played. It's a great test of golf. The boys who get off to a good start will burn up the front line, but coming in it's a far different matter."

Stay In Texas, FDR Tells Rep. Johnson

HOUSTON, June 5. (AP)—Cong. Lyndon Johnson today received a telegram from President Roosevelt suggesting that he stay in the state during the U. S. senatorial campaign "unless conditions change so radically that your presence in Washington is necessary."

The President added "if that happens I will send for you."

The President's telegram was in response to one from Johnson telling the chief executive he would return to Washington at once if he was needed.

Johnson's speaking schedule for Friday is: 8 a. m. Alvin; 9 a. m. Angleton and 10:30 a. m. Bay City. Saturday his schedule is: 8:30 a. m. Yorktown; 9:30 a. m. Cuero; 10:30 a. m. Yoakum; 11:30 a. m. Flatonia; 1 p. m. Schulenburg; 2 p. m. Halletsville; 4:30 p. m. LaGrange; 6 p. m. Weimar; and 8 p. m. Columbus.

FEELS GOOD

Handsome, smiling Dick Metz gratefully rubs his steaming feet in the Colonial club locker room at Fort Worth, after battling wind and rough for 36 practice holes with a score of 150. He says 285 should win and will be a darn good score for the National Open which starts Thursday.

Dutch Trade Reply To Japs Believed To Be Unfavorable

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, June 6 (AP)—The long-awaited Dutch reply—believed to be polite but unfavorable—was delivered today to a Japanese trade delegation which has demanded the right to obtain from the Indies large stocks of such war essentials as rubber, oil, and tin.

The chief Japanese delegate, Former Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshizawa, said yesterday that the reply would not be acceptable unless it substantially met the Japanese requirements. He spoke of the negotiations teetering on a "precipice," with implications of danger to friendly relations between Japan and the Indies.

The Netherlands news agency, ANETA, which announced delivery of the Dutch reply by Negotiator H. J. Van Mook, gave no word of its contents.

Van Mook and his aides were closeted for an hour and a half with the Japanese delegation headed by Kenkichi Yoshizawa.

Van Mook then accompanied Yoshizawa to his automobile, telling newspaper men "there is nothing yet to be said."

Yoshizawa had said in advance that if the reply failed to meet the Japanese economic demands, it would be refused—and Dutch sources indicated that the demands would not be met in any large measure.

When Baer regained his pins, Donovan was undecided for a fraction of a second.

Finally he waved the combatants together, revealing his excitement by neglecting to rub the resin from the baby Baer's gloves.

Had Donovan followed this regular procedure and precaution, all later controversy would have been avoided, for the time it would have consumed would have prevented Louis from taking what apparently was a post-bell shot.

Baer's seconds reached the body almost as quickly as it struck the floor, which is evidence that Louis fired his final shot after the bell.

The pictures also show Freddie Grunyard, Louis' secretary and an observer in Baer's corner, ankleing across the ring in a wide straw skimmer as though in an Easter parade.

Obviously, Grunyard, too, had heard the bell, felt Baer was finished, and couldn't wait to embrace the hero.

Seeing Louis' closing punch land on Baer's chin, he kept right on going to the champion's corner, climbed through the ropes and walked down the stairs.

Because you can't hear the bell, the pictures do not settle the main controversy.

Which is precisely the way Mike Jacobs would have it. There's nothing like an argument. It keeps people talking, and Promoter Jacobs' business is to keep them buzzing about the best-bustling business.

CONN CONVINCED HE'LL WHIP JOE LOUIS JUNE 18
By GAYLE TALBOT
POMPTON LAKES, N. J., June 6 (AP)—Billy Conn, the classic young boxer from Pittsburgh, is so convincingly certain that he will win the heavyweight championship from Joe Louis on June 18 that he has signed this charter agreement: The Louis-is-terrific-club beginning to waver to and fro.

Billy has grown up remarkably in recent months. Not physically, for he finally has given up hope of outgrowing his natural 180 pounds, but mentally.

Now, instead of making flip cracks about his opponents and refusing to admit that anybody else can fight a lick, he sits and tells with the cold detachment of a surgeon how he will defeat the big negro. He sounds like a much more dangerous Billy Conn than that was the slim-waisted firebrand who used to fly into a cursing rage when hit solidly and slug away like a back-alley fighter.

"I've always been that way," Conn smiled. "I know, you think I'll do that with Louis too, and get my head knocked off. But I won't. I'll fool you and I want to be on easy street too much to let my pride stop me."

"Maybe he'll knock me down. I know Joe can punch, and he's a great fighter. But if he does put me down I'll guarantee you I'll take a full nine-count, and when I get up I won't be standing there with my hands hanging down."

"I'll be stepping around and giving him this with my hands and making him miss. Joe doesn't knock anybody out with one punch and I think I'm a little better boxer than these guys he's been putting away."

Warehouse Men And Buyers Form New Organization

A group of men representing in-pa and BMorger met last night at the Black Hotel in Borger and organized the Buyers and Material Men's Association of the Texas Panhandle. J. R. Boone of the Shamrock Oil and Gas corporation, Amarillo, was elected temporary president and J. G. Gabbell of the Panhandle Power and Light company, Borger, was elected temporary secretary.

The purpose of the organization is to form acquaintanceship among the buyers and warehousemen of the Texas Panhandle and afford an opportunity to meet together at regular intervals for the exchange of ideas in connection with the procurement and distribution of construction and operating materials.

It is also the purpose of the organization to have a very active entertainment committee which will work hand in hand with the board to the end that all meetings will be most enjoyable and instructive. It is the thought of the organization

Red Sox Move From 6th To 3rd Place In 9 Days

(By The Associated Press)
Recognized already has been given the Philadelphia Athletics as a late-blooming miracle of the spring, but the A's should move over to make room for the Boston Red Sox.

Joe Cronin's gift-edged American leaguers have done a lot of aimless wandering, some of it in the second division, since winning five in a row at the start of the season. Just nine days ago they slipped to sixth place, the mighty Jimmie Foxx benched himself because of a bating slump, and the future was clouded with uncertainty.

Yet today they are up in third place with a brand-new five-game winning streak and are only three games behind the pace-making Cleveland Indians, whom they crushed yesterday, 14-1.

It was the worst rout of the year for the Indians, who didn't score until the eighth and wouldn't be in first place until except that the Athletics took care of the Chicago White Sox, 9-3.

The Detroit Tigers took a ragged 5-4 decision from the New York Yankees in 10 innings to complicate the American league race further by bunting no fewer than six teams within a range of four games.

The St. Louis Browns sent Luke Sewell off to a good start as manager by whipping the Washington Senators, 4-2.

He pitched out the National league program.

Because everybody suspected it would be just another dud on The-Bum-of-the-Month club program, no one would bid a sou for the picture rights to the Buddy Baer-Joe Louis performance.

So Uncle Mike Jacobs took them himself, with the principals happy to settle for $7,000.

As you may have heard, the fight turned out to be the most spectacular since the memorable meeting of Jack Dempsey and Luis Angel Firpo.

Including distribution, each print costs about $50, and Jacobs sold them all over the country as fast as planes travel. He collected $200 a release at the outset, and the film continues to enjoy a remarkable run. It is shuttled from one house to another in the larger cities.

The Buddy-Baer-Louis fight pictures will go on record as one of Jacobs' more profitable promotions of 1941.

A punch which it is generally agreed was landed after the bell ended the sixth round, is the best of the dispute, which perhaps is why the sound of the gong is omitted from the movies.

The film is not complimentary to Arthur Donovan. When Louis dropped Baer just before the end of the sixth, the referee stood with his hands on his hips . . . made no effort to pick up the count of Knock-down Timekeeper Reynolds, who insists he counted the huge Californian out.

FOOTSTEPS IN THE FOG

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

Copyright, 1941, NEA Service, Inc.

YESTERDAY, Angela's announcement that she was leaving Deborah puzzled, awaiting Deborah's explanation. But Deborah does not return to class and Deborah and Angela drive home to Cape Cod. There is a letter from Stephen. He explains his abrupt departure, thanks her for her kindness to him.

STEPHAN RETURNS

CHAPTER V
THERE wasn't much more. The letter was written on hotel stationery, and Stephen had not suggested any address to which she might see her. Deborah read it again and again. Deborah read it again and again.

What it all amounted to, she told herself in the end, was—just nothing—except that he remembered her as a chance acquaintance who had been kind to him that summer, and that he felt he owed her the courtesy of this non-committal note.

One afternoon shortly afterward, Deborah went for a long walk among the dunes beyond the town. She had often dreamed of bringing Stephen here if he came to Cape Cod. He would love the chilling wind, the fury of the waves. Not quite safe to think about that yet, though—not about Stephen.

She walked fast and furiously, as if she could run away from those forbidden thoughts which always crept into her mind. What, for instance, would all this mean to Stephen? Strange that he had not been recalled home!

Except to say casually one day that his visitor's permit in the United States would be good for several months more, he had never mentioned returning to Europe. It was one of those things he had not talked about. But the point of view of a soldier had crept into often in little involuntary ways.

TOWARD dusk Deborah struggled home through a fitful wind. On the wind came the tang of the sea, and on her lips was the taste of a low cloud of racing dun-colored clouds seemed barely to clear the house-tops, and drops of moisture hung heavily on her tweed-covered shoulders and in her hair.

By the time Deborah reached the water front, the Harbor was half curtained off. Soon—unless rain came instead—the fog would be, not just a curtain, but an opaque wall of gray.

Over the bulkhead that reinforced the little park across the street from the Lovett house, spume tossed flecks of spume across the sandy turf, while above,

"Uncle Sam's hens" swooped and wheeled, protesting in raucous angry cries. . . . And now, even two trim Coast Guard cutters had taken cover in the Harbor, their ships' bells adding their warning to that of the fog horn.

Altogether, Deborah decided, a day for a cheerily blazing wood fire. . . . But the fire refused to be cheerful. It refused even to blaze.

Deborah was choking with streaming eyes in a smother of smoke when she realized with a sense of ultimate insult that the draft chilling her sweatered back came from the open front door.

"Bridgie!" she called. "Bad cess to you, you crazy Irishwoman! For Heaven's sake, shut that door!"

Bridgie did close the door—but conspicuously not with her habitually belligerent bang; and when she announced, "A gentleman to see you, Miss Deborah," it was in the honeyed accents which Bridgie saved for occasions of high social luster. . . . In the bosom of the family, Bridgie's communications were carried on in a jovial bellow.

Deborah pivoted about on her knees, tongue in hand, to peer through the enveloping murk. Then, borne by a current of air from the entrance, the smoke swirled aloft, and she could see a little.

In the hallway, the formality of his precise little foreign bow discounted by the holiday flash of his smile, stood Stephen.

"The 'Miss Deborah' and the unctuous deference in Bridgie's manner were assumed purely for guest consumption. Behind Stephen's back, Bridgie's left eye winked—nudging, prompting, as it used to do in Deborah's school days: 'Mind yer manners, child!'"

Deborah heard herself saying obediently, "Of course, Stephen. You know I'd love to have you."

"But really, I had no idea," he said hastily. "I can't—"

"Ah, sure an' 'tis no trouble at all—" Bridgie dismissed his objections with a hospitable wave. "An' now, Miss Deborah, I'll be makin' the Master's room riddy fer the Captain."

"I say—" Stephen, Deborah was puzzled to see, wheeled to look with a kind of startled consternation after Bridgie's broad back—"but how did she know—" He broke off, frowning, shrugged, and lighted a cigaret.

"That you rate the 'Captain'?" Oh, Bridgie can spot gold braid and shoulder straps even when they're not in the show case. I suppose she's developed a kind of sixth sense for rank from working for seagoing families most of her life. To Bridgie, having a fine figure of a fightin' man as a guest is the next thing to entertaining royalty. . . . But does it matter?"

"I am flattered, naturally," he smiled; but his eyes were all of a sudden guarded, watchful.

"I'll fated is that which comes out of the fog! For always, in the end, it must return whence it came."

For the first time she realized how inescapably her feeling for Stephen had always been laced with fear—fear for him.

"But you are looking at me as if I were a ghost!" he cried, taking her cold hands into his warm ones, and laughing down at her. "Just the way you did that first night."

"Are you sure you aren't?"

SHE tried to laugh, too, wondering if her voice sounded as strained and thin to him as it did to her.

Before he could answer, Bridgie, who had closed the door again, coughed discreetly from the hallway.

"You'll excuse me, Miss Deborah," she said, "but I took the liberty of havin' the grocer's boy run the gentleman's car into the farridge an' carry his bags upstairs. Wit' this weather, no knowin' is it wind or fog 'twill turn out to be, you'll be askin' him for dinner an' the night, I doubt not."

"The 'Miss Deborah' and the unctuous deference in Bridgie's manner were assumed purely for guest consumption. Behind Stephen's back, Bridgie's left eye winked—nudging, prompting, as it used to do in Deborah's school days: 'Mind yer manners, child!'"

Landing Strips Along Highways Being Planned

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—The largest airplanes—both giant bombers and huge passenger airliners—eventually may be making emergency landings alongside the thousands of highways throughout the United States.

Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) disclosed today that a section of the proposed national defense highway bill requested by President Roosevelt would authorize construction of "landing strips" along the nation's highways.

"The idea has been used successfully in Germany for several years," the senator said. "It's too bad that we have not done it before but once we get this authorization, development should be rapid."

McCarran explained that the "landing strips" will be constructed along our present highways usually in the direction of prevailing winds. "If two highways form a 'V' the inner area may be utilized for the emergency field. He added that the "landing strips" might not be surfaced depending upon soil conditions and other factors.

A related plan, the widening of highway crossroads to provide 400 "satellite airdromes" to provide landings for military aircraft in mass movements, was urged before the house roads committee yesterday by Gen. George H. Brett, army air corps chief.

Others senators said that the

The legislation is expected to be ready for senate consideration next week.

Shortage Of Electricity And Oil Seen

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—Millions of Americans, rich and poor alike, today faced a prospect of going short on both oil and electricity because of the war abroad and this country's vigorous preparations for defense.

Secretary Ickes, defense petroleum administrator, warned that the great population of the eastern seaboard may be called upon, within a month, to forego the use of automobiles for pleasure, both on weekdays and Sundays.

The office of production management announced simultaneous curtailment in the consumption of power "in important areas" would be necessary, if sufficient energy was to be made available "in time to produce the supplies of aluminum and magnesium needed for the growing aircraft and lend-lease program."

Ickes accordingly renewed his advocacy of daylight saving time for the whole country, as an emergency measure to conserve electric power.

Meanwhile, congress took cognizance of the threatened oil famine. The house yesterday hurriedly passed a bill, requested by President Roosevelt, that would turn oil to the east from Texas and Louisiana, and probably from Illinois and other sources.

Under the measure, which now goes to the senate, government agencies or private concerns would be empowered to use the right of eminent domain for obtaining right-of-way to push construction of any pipe line the president designated as vital to defense. Powers in the measure would expire June 30, 1942.

Ickes said that if a curtailment of civilian use of oil became necessary it probably would be undertaken on a voluntary basis, by an appeal of patriotism.

The cabinet member emphasized that, as far as could be seen now, restrictions on oil would be necessary only in the east, where the deficiency in supply is threatened by the transfer of one-fifth of America's tanker fleet to British service.

Tax Bill To Provide For Needy Blind And Destitute Children

(By The Associated Press)
AUSTIN, June 6.—In the form of practical cash benefits, shafts of light soon will pierce the darkened environment of an estimated 3,000 needy blind persons and 60,000 destitute children in Texas.

Officials guessed today that, for the first time in state history, initial monthly state-federal payments under the recently-financed social security acts would reach the blind adults and dependent and neglected children in 25,000 families some time after Sept. 1.

Legislative approval of a $22,000,000 multi-level tax bill allotting $1,500,000 annually for child relief and $40,000 to the sightless inaugurated the social security functions which, although approved several years ago, went unfinanced until now.

Declaring state money would be matched by federal funds, J. S. Murchison, director of the state department of public welfare, said payments could not be expected until 30 to 60 days after money had been made available.

A bill setting up machinery to start payments Sept. 1 was passed by the house and awaits senate action.

With establishment of these two final phases of the nine-point federal social security program, Texas lined up scidily with the national government in its plan to provide better living for under-privileged classes.

After appropriations clear their last legislative hurdle, Murchison said, a complete plan of operation will be drawn and submitted to the federal board for approval.

Local agencies then will be opened in all counties to receive applications and make factual investigations to determine eligibility of applicants. The department planned to use old age pension investigators on the program.

To qualify for blind aid an applicant must be over 21 years of age, show sufficient financial need, undergo an examination to determine degree of blindness, and have been a resident of Texas five years out of nine years prior to filing an application, and one continuous year immediately preceding.

Inmates of public institutions and persons publicly soliciting alms were excluded under provisions of the law.

Children seeking assistance must be under 14 years of age, and deprived of parental support or care because of death, continued absence from home, or physical or mental incapacity. It also must be shown that relatives liable under the law are unable to provide sufficient care.

The applicants must be living with either one of their parents, grandparents, brother, sister, uncle, aunt, or other specified relatives.

Murchison said the state constitution limited payments to $16 for one child in a family, and $24 for a family of two or more children. The blind would receive up to $30 monthly, depending on need.

SIDELIGHTS

Panhandle will hold a "sudden death" meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the chapel at Huffman-Nelson Funeral home. They will elect officers, decide on a float, and elect a queen to ride in the parade.

The meeting is being called by Maxlee Fann who invites everyone in the Panhandle who was born in Georgia to attend the meeting. He has called several natives of Georgia and has mailed cards to others, inviting them to the meeting.

"I probably missed a number of natives, who failed to register, and they are invited to the meeting," he said today.

Final meeting of the Missouri club before the opening of the Top O' Texas Folk Fiesta will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the district court room.

The publicity committee, headed by Mrs. A. L. Prigmore, and the membership committee, headed by S. L. Pipkin, have been busy contacting Missourians and they state a large attendance is expected at the meeting.

After a short business session, the meeting will be turned over to the entertainment committee, who have arranged a program of music and speaking.

J. B. Clark, Shamrock attorney, will make the principal address. He will be introduced by District Judge W. R. Ewing.

Missouri headquarters have been established at 205 N. Cuyler, as a meeting place for natives of the "Show Me" state to register and meet their friends.

Out of a field of six candidates who presented themselves at the club's meeting last night in the district court room, Auburn-haired Mary Bellflower was the victor in the election of a queen to represent Oklahoma in the Top O' Texas Folk Fiesta parade.

The election was held with a primary, followed with a run-off, in which Pat Garfield was runner-up.

Good reports have been received on the sale of the state buttons. A committee was named with Helen Dudley as chairman to speed up the sale so that all money could be turned in by the end of the week.

Next meeting of the Oklahomaans will be held at 8 o'clock Tuesday night in the district court room, when final plans will be made for the Sooners' part in the Fiesta.

The Michigan club will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Patrick's. All natives of Michigan are asked to be present, it was announced.

Plans, Texas went on record as the 43rd state to provide aid for the blind, and the 44th to furnish assistance to destitute children.

Wheat Loans Will Be 98 Cents Bushel

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—The agricultural department announced today a schedule of rates—said to average about 98 cents a bushel—at which it would make loans to farmers on this year's wheat crop.

The loan program was established under recently approved legislation designed to support market prices of the basic crops—cotton, wheat, corn, rice and tobacco—at 85 per cent of parity.

A similar program last year provided wheat loans at 56 per cent of parity.

(Parity is a term used to describe prices which would give farm products as much purchasing power as they had in the pre-world war period of 1909-14.)

The schedule set up base loan rates for the principal bread-grain markets and provided a formula for determining rates on grain which might be stored under loan elsewhere, either on the farm or in smaller markets or country elevators.

Rates at the terminals were higher than those which would prevail elsewhere. They are designed to reflect the normal price relationships which take into account transportation and hauling costs in moving wheat from the farm to the big markets.

The schedule for the terminals included:

Galveston, Beaumont and Houston, Texas, and New Orleans, La.—No. 2 hard wheat and No. 2 red winter, Both $1.17 and No. 2 mixed wheat, $1.14.

Rates at other points, including farms, will be less than the rates at the closest and most accessible terminal market by the amount of freight and handling costs that would be required to move the grain to the terminal.

For example, No. 2 hard winter wheat stored on a farm in eastern Kansas would be subject to a rate of $1.05 a bushel if the transportation cost to the Kansas City market was five cents a bushel. The rate of this grade of wheat at Kansas City is $1.10.

Chevrolet Designer Dies In Detroit

DETROIT, June 6 (AP)—Louis Chevrolet, pioneer motor designer and in his earlier days one of the greatest of all racing automobile drivers, died at his home here today.

He had been in poor health for several years and in retirement for nearly a decade. He is survived by his widow and one son.

Chevrolet was born in Switzerland on December 25, 1878. On May 30, 1905, he drove a Fiat racing automobile over a measured mile at Sheepshead Bay, New York, in 52.8 seconds for a new world's record.

Louis Chevrolet built the first Chevrolet automobile in 1911 in cooperation with William C. Durant. The Chevrolet company became part of General Motors Corporation in 1915.

Mainly About People

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Thomas of Hallsville have been visiting this week with Mrs. Thomas's brother, J. Russell Holloway.

O. F. Shewmaker is convalescing in the local hospital following an appendicitis operation on Tuesday.

The Rev. C. Gordon Bayless, pastor of First Baptist church, will speak at the morning service Sunday on "No Blind Alley for God," and at the evening service on "You Can't Miss It." Rev. Bayless will teach the Evermann's Bible class in the city hall at 10 o'clock.

Mrs. E. W. Voss has as her guest Mrs. W. A. Brown of El Reno, Oklahoma. Mrs. Brown is a sister of Mrs. Voss.

Mrs. Bert Powers of Ardmore, Oklahoma, is visiting with Mrs. Brent Blankenship.

A closing hour of 5 p. m. each day during the summer months, starting Monday, has been the agreement made by three Pampa optometrists. The doctors who have agreed on the office closing hour for the season are Dr. A. J. Black, Dr. Adrian Owens, and Dr. W. E. Houghlin.

Two marriage licenses were issued here yesterday: one to Richard McGrew Jr., and Minnie Lee Wilson; the other to John Russell Holloway and Zenobia McFarlin.

James Herring Sr., is seriously ill at the home of a son, Cloyds Herring at the Texas Elf Carbon black plant at Boyers City.

City Recorder C. E. McGrew assessed six fines on intoxication charges in police court today. The fines totaled $60. The city recorder will leave next week for Atlanta, Ga., where he will attend the Elvans International Convention.

During his absence W. C. deCordova, city tax assessor and collector, will act as recorder.

Officers have received numerous reports on boys stealing cherries and they have secured the names of some of them. The officers say they will act immediately if the practice is not stopped. Yesterday afternoon boys, 15 and 16 years old, tore a limb off a tree at the V. E. Patherne home on West Kingsmill avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Thomas of Winnboro were guests in Pampa today of Avis Thompson, Gray county deputy district clerk. Mrs. Thomas and the Pampa woman are first cousins.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Halley, a daughter, in Boger.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McLaughlin of Los Angeles arrived in Pampa today to visit Mr. McLaughlin's sister, Iva Wilson, secretary to county superintendent Mrs. C. P. Halley, a daughter, in Boger.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McLaughlin of Los Angeles arrived in Pampa today to visit Mr. McLaughlin's sister, Iva Wilson, secretary to county superintendent Mrs. C. P. Halley, a daughter, in Boger.

The McLaughlins are enroute home after a vacation trip to Detroit. Besides his sister, Mr. McLaughlin also has a brother, Floyd McLaughlin, residing in this county. Mr. McLaughlin's home is in Laketon.

A light rain, the third of the month, fell in Pampa overnight, adding 1.4 inch precipitation to make the year's total to date, 11.52 inches, for the month, .59 inch.

Rail And Highway Traffic Impeded

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 6 (AP)—Rail and highway traffic in eastern New Mexico and west Texas was limited today but rain-caused flood conditions, which yesterday drove hundreds from their homes and washed out bridges, were considerably lessened.

Floodwaters subsided in Clovis, leaving 1.53 inches of overland rain which followed a three-inch downpour yesterday, and more than 400 residents were returning to their homes from public shelters.

A continuance of the unprecedented wet spell was forecast by the weather bureau.

A Santa Fe passenger train, marooned between two washouts near Muleshoe, Tex., yesterday, was re-routed back to Amarillo and was not expected to reach Clovis until late today. At Pecos, Tex., about 300 feet of track was washed out.

The flash floods in the Muleshoe area also blocked highway traffic between Clovis and Lubbock. Traffic was rerouted over several New Mexico roads in eastern counties while highway crews repaired damage.

Rail traffic between Clovis and Carlsbad was suspended temporarily today because of high water in the Portales area and a weakened bridge 18 miles northeast of Roswell.

cupied Damascus, the capital of Syria, only 60 miles from British-led Trans-Jordan.

Both the French and Germans have emphatically denied the presence of Nazi troops in Syria. The German radio broadcast a report from Beirut that British forces were preparing to land on the north Syrian coast and also to attack from Palestine and Trans-Jordan.

In London the press warned that Britain's position in the Middle East was grave. Once more a clamor was made for decisive action to beat Hitler's blitz legions to the punch.

Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha, in speech bitterly assailing Prime Minister Churchill's conduct of the war, told an audience in Edinburgh, Scotland:

"We must win this war and we will back any government that will go all out to win it. We must realize, however, that you cannot win a 1941 war at a 1914 pace.

"We suffer defeat after defeat, and always for the same reason—lack of appreciation, lack of preparation and imperfect execution of the project. Hence reverse is glossed over . . . and the narcotic of false confidence in the future is invariably applied."

Hore-Belisha proposed recognition of common citizenship by Great Britain and the United States as the "most hopeful assurance of the determination of the democracies to establish a new order."

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—Stock prices slumped unevenly lower today in a timid market.

Practical losses were the rule at the close, despite a few striking exceptions. Turnover was about 350,000 shares.

Numbered among the steady losers of the day were Bethlehem, Sperry, Consolidated Aircraft, New York Central, Owens-Illinois and Union Carbide. On the off-side most of the time were Du Pont, Caterpillar, Santa Fe, American Smelting, Air Reduction, American Telephone and Telegraph Sugar, the last reaching a new 1941 low.

Bonds were irregular. Most commodities were higher, although cotton advanced the end of the session 8 to 15 cents a bale down. At Chicago, wheat closed 1/2 to 1/4 cent higher up and corn ended 3/4 to 5/8 cent ahead on the announcement of the 18-cent bushel loan rate on wheat.

efforts to mediate the day-old strike of the United Automobile Workers (UAW) at North American Aviation Corp., so that union chiefs could return to Inglewood, Calif., and consult with local unionists on the stoppage of work on $196,000,000 in warplane orders.

President Phillip Murray of the CIO sent a strongly worded personal message to the Puget Sound lumber strikers last night urging acceptance of the mediation board peace formula and castigating their union leaders, the board itself merely reaffirmed its stand on the back-to-work terms and said it hoped "proper understanding" would bring about acceptance.

Murray, a member of the board, described Orton's recent denunciation of the mediation agency as "a most reprehensible, lying defamatory." Orton had accused the board of "bulldozing" and "strike breaking" tactics.

The I. W. A. strikers seek a general 7 1/2 cent hourly wage increase, closed shop, and other demands. The board recommended the pay raise, with other terms to be fixed after a fact-finding survey of the industry. Common labor now gets 67 1/2 cents an hour.

The board's effort to avoid a repetition of the April soft coal strike took the form of a recommendation to eliminate the 40-cent differential in wages paid by southern operators under the northern scale.

A uniform $7 level throughout the seven-state Appalachian fields would not work undue hardship on southern mines which have been paying $6.50, the board held. Conceding the 40-cent raise would boost production 3 1/2 cents a ton, the board said this would not constitute "an unbearable competitive burden."

Officials of North American Aviation company, when 11,500 employees were rendered idle by yesterday's sudden CIO strike call, decided for the time being against any effort to keep up production, though AFL machinists had previously volunteered to man the machines.

Elmer Freitag, UAW-CIO leader, declared union negotiators would not compromise their demands for a 75-cent basic hourly wage, as compared with the present 50-cent rate, and for 10 cents an hour boost in higher skilled classifications.
