All Pampa School Students Face Roomier And Cleaner Year STRIKE LEAVES 400,000 AFOOT IN DETROIT

Schools Will Open In Pampa September 8

3,700 Students To Go Back To Desks Soon

Pampa schools will open for the fall semester on September 8 with enrollment about the same as last year when nearly 3,700 students began studies. This year high school students will be in a new $350,000 building which is nearing completion.

Students in other Pampa schools will work and play in more cheerful surroundings than in many years. All school buildings have been given a "house cleaning" during the summer months and Italian Rye grass has been planted on all school lawns and playgrounds and the growth has been far beyond expectations because of the heavy rains. This year students will be able to play on grass instead of dirt and gravel, and dust, prevalent in past years, will be reduced to a minimum.

With completion of the new high school building, nearly 800 students will move from central campus. The downtown building, formerly occupied by both high school and junior high school, will be for junior high students. Sixth grade classes from all ward schools will be moved to junior high which will make room for more and smaller classes in ward schools and do away with the holding of classes in cottages.

Junior High Remodeled

The new high school building will accommodate between 1,000 and 1,200 students but the number enrolled this year will be smaller than next year because the full 12th grade system will be installed in Pampa schools next year.

The junior high building is now undergoing necessary changes prior to the moving of sixth grade classes. Custodians are moving large desks from the east wing to the west wing, repairing lockers and moving commercial desks, etc. from the west wing to make room for additional class rooms.

Principal Frank Monroe of junior high returned yesterday from Greeley, Colo., where he received his master's degree at Colorado State college. Today he announced that sixth grade classes would occupy the first floor in the east wing; seventh grade the second floor in the east wing; eighth and ninth grades both floors of the west wing.

The library will be moved to the central part of the building. More than 1,200 junior high students are expected to enroll this year which will be about the same number that occupied both high school and junior high last year.

Teachers Transferred

Several new teachers and band directors will have to be named to fill vacancies which occurred through resignations or transfers during the summer months. Announcement was made today that Jacques Farnum had been appointed high school band director and that W. S. Dickenson would be junior high school band director with Ken Bennett being named teacher of public school music.

New teachers in junior high as announced today by Principal Monroe will be Miss Lema Jane Butcher from Horace Mann, Miss Virldie Denton and Ken Bennett from Baker, Miss Lola Campbell and Fred Forrester from Woodrow Wilson, Miss Jessie Burpess, Miss Florence Jones and Dan Price from Sam Houston. Miss Denton will be teacher of art and Mr. Bennett of public school music. Others will be home room teachers: Miss Mary Louise Smelzer, graduate of Oklahoma A. and M. college, has been named physical education instructor to succeed Miss Maxine Richardson who has been transferred to high school.

Other transfers and appointments will be announced soon by Supt. L. L. Sene.

Nazis Claim Russian Tanks Attacking

(By The Associated Press)

Masses of Russian tanks were reported by the Germans to be counter-attacking Nazi lines on the lower Dnieper river front late today, while elsewhere on the 1,200-mile battle line a Russian counter-offensive was said to have recaptured five Soviet villages.

The locale of the Red army's counter-offensive, reported by the official Soviet news agency, Tass, was not disclosed except that it was in a "western direction"—possibly on the central front guarding Moscow.

The Germans said Red tanks in large formations were attacking Nazi troops storming up to the Dnieper river in an attempt to cover the retreat of sizeable Red forces eastward across the river.

Adolf Hitler's invasion armies have tightened the ring on Leningrad with another 50-mile advance, the Russians acknowledged, driving to the Novgorod region 100 miles south of the old czarist capital.

While two other German and German-Finnish columns drove on Leningrad from the west and north, the Soviet high command's communique said the fiercest battle raged about Novgorod, an ancient walled town above Lake Ilmen.

The Russians said the Novgorod province terrain was favorable for a determined stand, since it is half-covered with forest and dotted with about 1,200 lakes. The town itself, standing high on a hill over the Volkhov river, is surrounded by swamps and lowlands.

A Red army bulletin also indicated that the Germans were beginning to use air-borne troops in the 60-day-old conflict, reporting that a number of big 4-motored Junkers transports, loaded with light tanks and men had been shot down.

Coincidentally, British military experts predicted that the Germans would make an unprecedented use of air-borne forces in an attempt to smash their way across the formidable barrier of the Dnieper river, in the southern Ukraine.

Authoritative London quarters said the Germans had avoided the mass use of parachutists, troop-carrying planes and gliders—such as they exploited in the battle of Crete—to await just such an emergency as the Dnieper crossing.

German military dispatches said the left wing of General Von Rundstedt's army, estimated at 1,500,000 men, was advancing against stiff resistance toward the great bend of the Dnieper river, site of the big industrial city of Dnieperpetrovsk.

Advices reaching London indicated that Marshal Semeon Budyenny had succeeded in withdrawing a great many of his troops across the river, but his forces were believed to be weak in guns and depending too much on old-fashioned horse cavalry.

Hitler's field headquarters declared that Nazi headquarter troops ("speed troops") were successfully attacking the few remaining bridgeheads on the west bank of the Dnieper still held by the Russians, and it was evident that the grand assault on the new Soviet defense line was about to begin.

German dispatches said that Nazi siege guns were intensifying the attack on Odessa, Russia's big Black sea port, and that increased pressure was also being exerted on Kiev, the Ukraine capital. Nazi aerial observers said Odessa harbor was littered with the burned wreckage of ships.

"The Russians, noting bitter, all-night fighting along the entire front, conceded that the Germans had advanced to the Gomel sector, midway between Smolensk and Kiev, as Nazi columns lunged eastward beyond the Pinsk (Pripiet) marshes in a new salient.

"Our troops fought especially stubbornly in the Novgorod and Gomel directions," the Soviet communique said.

With the German drive to the Novgorod sector, Lenin faced a three-headed onslaught. From the west, other German columns were striking along the Gulf of Finland from Estonia, capturing Kingisepp, the rail gate to Leningrad, on Monday. From the north, German and Finnish forces were pressing down the Karelian isthmus, some 75 miles from the city.

The Russians declared, however, that withdrawals were orderly and marked by savage resistance.

In Berlin the possibility of a sea-borne Nazi thrust on Batum, Russian oil port at the far eastern end of the Black sea, was envisioned.

Further to the southeast, British and Russian troops were reported poised on the frontiers of Iran (Persia) for direct action if the government at Teheran failed to answer British and Russian demands for expulsion of 3,000 German tourists and

Police Chief Urges Traffic Law Changes

Proposed changes in traffic ordinances of the city were outlined to the city commission yesterday by Police Chief John B. Wilkinson.

The changes have not yet been incorporated into new ordinances, but are the result of a month's survey by a committee of which the chief is a member.

Among changes proposed was one to make it illegal for any vehicle to be parked on a paved street for more than one-half hour, except physicians, from 1 a. m. to 6 a. m.

Another would ban the use of reflectors on cars and make use of a red light on the rear mandatory.

The question of speed limits was discussed but no decision reached. It was stated that the generally accepted limit was 20 miles an hour, and the "slow" around school zones was understood as 10.

Chief Wilkinson said a study of traffic on Foster showed 30 as the usual speed of most cars, with about one out of 25 cars operating at 35 miles an hour, and one out of 50 past 40.

The state speed limit within towns is 30 under a new law, but Pampa's is 20, with 15 miles an hour the rate in school zones.

It was suggested that cars parked illegally in prohibited hours be brought in and held by the city until a fine had been paid.

Basis of many of the suggestions was the laws of Big Spring.

City Attorney R. F. Gordon emphasized that the fewest possible speed zones as necessary be established, in order to lessen confusion and to make speed limits over the city as uniform as possible.

500 To Attend Singing Sunday

Between 500 and 600 singers from the Top O' Texas are expected here on Sunday, Aug. 31, for the Top O' Texas Fifth Sunday Singing at the high school gymnasium, according to Charles E. Ward, president of the organization.

Most of the crowd will come from Gray, Hemphill, Wheeler, Roberts and Potter, Armstrong, Carson and Hutchinson counties, but a few singers are expected from practically every country in the Panhandle, Ward said.

Singing will begin at 10 a. m. and continue until about 4:30 p. m. with a recess for lunch. All singers and those who want to come and listen are invited to bring sandwiches for lunch. The Red Brick school building will be available for lunch and free coffee will be served the crowd there. Ward has announced.

All church organizations, such as quartets and other church musical groups are invited to participate on the program. L. H. Earthman, program director, has announced.

A number of church musical groups are expected to participate.

Over 600 singers attended the last meeting of the singing organization when they met at Alameda, June 29, and a bigger crowd is expected in Pampa.

Among the county directors who will be here and will bring with them a big group of singers are the following: W. F. Copeland, Amarillo; Newt Waldron, Clarendon; M. Crawford, Hedley; George Fuks, Silverton; W. L. Bruce, Borger; and J. L. Graham, Panhandle.

New Band To Play At All-States Picnic

Farnum Will Be Harvester Band Director

Jacque Farnum today accepted a contract to become director of band in Pampa high school. Last year Mr. Farnum directed the Sam Houston ward school band. Also added to the music department in Pampa schools today was W. S. Dickenson of Panhandle who will become director of the junior high band.

During the summer Mr. Farnum resigned to accept a position as band director of the junior high band at Corpus Christi, but when offered the position of director of the high school band he returned to the Pampa school system. He is scheduled to arrive Monday to begin plans for the fall semester.

Mr. Farnum received his bachelor's degree at Colorado State college on Sunday, Aug. 11. He is now working toward his master's degree.

The new junior high director was in charge of the Panhandle high school band last year. He has been enrolled at Texas Tech at Lubbock this summer taking post graduate work.

New directors have yet to be named at Sam Houston school to succeed Mr. Farnum and at Woodrow Wilson school, Mr. Forrester having been transferred to junior high as a teacher.

It was the second rainfall of the month. On August 8 Pampa received a 1.25-inch rainfall. This forenoon's rain made the monthly precipitation total 1.98-inches, exceeding the entire separate months of January, February, March and April. Annual precipitation was brought up to the 21.77-inches mark.

Yesterday's maximum temperature was 86, minimum 60. Early this afternoon the temperature was 76.

Forecast for Pampa and vicinity: Partly cloudy this afternoon, tonight, and Thursday, with scattered thundershowers; little change in temperature.

American Eagle Pilot Picked Up In Channel

LONDON, Aug. 20 (AP)—Pilot Officer B. W. Olson of Boise, Idaho, who was flying with the American Eagle squadron, bailed out over the English Channel yesterday and was picked up by Britain's sea rescue service.

The air ministry news service said Olson was returning from a sweep over German-occupied France when he was shot down.

FDR Quotes Lincoln And Draws Parallel

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—President Roosevelt used words which Abraham Lincoln uttered at a dark moment in American history to emphasize to the nation today that he foresaw a long, hard road ahead before a final victory over the Axis is won.

The chief executive spoke of the war continuing through 1943 if necessary, and made plain his belief that the people of the United States were not yet awake to the enormous proportions of the task confronting them.

Mr. Roosevelt chose to be indirect at his press conference yesterday in appraising the present and the immediate future, and for that reason he had the capital wondering how literally to accept the parallel which he drew between 1941 and Lincoln's day.

The Lincoln quotation which the President cited was in a passage from Carl Sandburg's monumental work, "Abraham Lincoln—The War Years." It described an interview between Lincoln and a delegation of women, headed by Mrs. Mary A. Livermore of Chicago.

The time was September, 1862. Only a few days before, the battle of Antietam had been fought—"The bloodiest single day of fighting of the war" in the opinion of Confederate General Longstreet. Behind lay a series of almost unbroken Union reverses, stretching from the first Bull Run to McClellan's luckless Peninsula campaign against Richmond.

Mr. Roosevelt read Sandburg's description of what Lincoln said to the women, who were seeking encouragement. It ran thus:

"I have no word of encouragement to give," was the slow, blunt (Lincoln) reply. "The military situation is far from bright; and the country knows it as well as I do."

"The women, however, they knew it was a heart-to-heart talk that he was telling them what he could not well tell the country, that he was frankly relieving the burden of an overweighed mind. It was a silence of a moment, but deep and painful," says Mrs. Livermore.

"The President went on: 'The fact is the people have not yet made up their minds that we are at war with the South. They have not buckled down to the determination to fight this war through; for they have got the idea into their heads that we are going to get out of this fix somehow by strategy! That's the word—STRATEGY! General McClellan thinks he is going to whip the Rebels by strategy; and the army has got the same notion. They have no idea that the war is to be carried on and put through by hard, tough fighting, that it will hurt somebody; and no headway is going to be made while this delusion lasts.'"

When President Roosevelt had finished, one reporter inquired how he thought the "lead" to the story should be written—the at-a-glance summary.

"President quotes Lincoln and draws parallel," Mr. Roosevelt replied, and gave newsmen permission to quote him directly for emphasis.

Mr. Roosevelt let it be known that he thought the parallel applied to world conditions. Asked if they included the United States, he responded that of course it did.

There was much conjecture as to how the President meant his use of the parallel to be interpreted.

One school of thought was that Mr. Roosevelt intended a limited application, as far as the United States was concerned. This interpretation was that he was seeking to discourage wilful thinking, com-

Picnic Tour Will Be Held August 28

Residents of the Top O' Texas will be invited to attend the All-States Victory picnic on Thursday of next week, when 30 carloads of Pampans, representing the various native state clubs, will make an invitation tour of this territory.

It had been planned for the tour to last two days, but later it was decided that one day was sufficient to reach the people who will come.

The picnic will be held at Central Park in Pampa late on the afternoon of Labor Day, September 1. Top O' Texans will be invited to bring their lunch and spread it with hundreds of others on "the longest table in the world" at the park.

Itinerary of the invitation tour has been announced by Finis Stillwell. All who wish to go on the tour and to secure native state identification signs for their cars are asked to get in touch with him.

Mr. Stillwell announced the itinerary as follows:

Leave Pampa, 8 o'clock; Skellytown, 8:15; Borger, 9:00; Panhandle, 10:30; Amarillo, 11:30; Claude, 1 p. m.; Groom, 2:00; McLean, 3:00; Shamrock, 4:00; Canadian, 5:30; Miami, 6:30.

The caravan will parade in Pampa at 7:30 on Thursday evening and there will be another parade here on Saturday.

Cars making the tour will represent the clubs organized during the Top O' Texas Folk Fiesta here last June. The tour is also open to natives of other states who wish to organize clubs. All are to get in touch with Mr. Stillwell.

An impressive part of the program at the picnic will be the flag-lowering ceremony and the pledge of allegiance to the colors, given in unison, and led by a member of the local post of the American Legion. It is planned to have "The Star Spangled Banner" played as the flag is lowered.

The Pampa Legion post is to supply its flag and appoint a member to lead the pledge, and the flag is to be on a pole supplied by the entertainment and program committee.

The Dogcatchers, comedy team based on the characters in the cartoon, and the Pampa Band Veterans band, will participate in the picnic program.

C-C Will Take 'Cake' To Perryton

Pampa will be represented at the Perryton Birthday celebration Friday by a float, according to Garnet Reeves, manager of the chamber of commerce. The parade will be at 10 a. m.

The Pampa float, which will be placed on top of a station wagon, will be in the form of a large birthday cake decorated with candles and flags. The float is being made by Jim Edwards of the Pampa Recreation council.

Many Pampa residents plan to attend the big party and all who make the trip are asked to call at the chamber of commerce office in the city hall to secure hat bands and car stickers.

Then Why Has Bread Gone Up Over Half Cent?

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. 20 (AP)—Less than half a cent of any increase in bread prices can be charged to the higher price farmers are receiving for wheat. B. F. Vance, chairman of the Texas U. S. Department of Agriculture Defense board, said today.

The board has received reports of one and two-cent price increases on bread, in some localities, the board chairman declared. The reports have indicated that the price rise was being "laid at the door of the wheat farmer who for the first time since the last war is receiving a decent price for his wheat," he continued.

Vance cited a recent statement by Price Administrator Leon Henderson, who declared: "Since average ingredient costs have risen only about half a cent a loaf, fractional increases in the selling price would be more in line with cost changes than would increases of a full cent. In no locality does it appear that an increase of more than one cent would be warranted."

Operators Of Street Cars, Buses Quit

Mayor Rages At Strikers; Says They Are "Off Base"

DETROIT, Aug. 20 (AP)—Street car and bus operators of Detroit's Municipal Transportation System struck suddenly this morning leaving some 400,000 office and factory workers to seek emergency means of getting to work. Thousands were delayed.

The strike brought from Mayor Edward J. Jefferies, youthful head of the city administration, a threat to "call upon the might of government" to end the tie-up.

"You can't run the city of Detroit," he warned leaders of the American Federation of Labor here at a conference.

A spokesman for the striking union, division 26 of the Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Operators of America (AFL), said the walkout was intended to enforce the union's demand for recognition as sole bargaining agent for the operators.

Mayor Jefferies reported that this was in effect a demand for a closed shop, and that "we can't grant that."

"When are you going back to work?" was the mayor's opening remark at this morning's meeting with union leaders. "We've got some state laws and some city laws, and you fellows are a little off base this time."

There was no immediate answer from the unionists.

One thousand street cars and 1,650 buses stood idle in terminals as a result of the 4 a. m. strike action, which the AFL leaders called "The Motor City" took on a new and stern significance.

Taxi drivers extended their cruising radius and reaped a rich harvest. Companies placed additional cabs in service as fast as other drivers could be found to man them.

Neighbors begged rides from neighbors as citizens became aware of the overnight tie-up.

And still there were hitchhikers on nearly every corner at 7 a. m., at start of the rush to work. Motorists generally proved obliging and there were few automobiles that were not carrying at least double their customary load.

A survey of automobile factories important in defense work indicates many employees were from five minutes to an hour late arriving at their posts but in most cases production lines began on schedule without waiting for the stragglers.

The mayor said he was "dumb-founded" at the act of unionists who established a 4 a. m. strike deadline when they voted the walkout shortly after midnight. State labor laws require a five-day "cooling off period" after notice of intent to strike, and a 30-day wait in disputes involving public utilities.

A jurisdictional dispute between the AFL union and a rival CIO organization resulted in the strike, unexpected in view of recent wage concessions which stilled previous rumblings of discontent. A three-man board of arbitration increased the hourly wage of street car motormen and conductors from $3 to $5 cents, and the wage of bus drivers, who collect their own fares, from $6 to $2 cents.

Pampans Asked Not To Drive On Paving Base

Pampans living on streets where base has been laid for paving are asked by city officials not to drive over the base during wet weather. Barricades have been placed at each end of such streets but some have been ignoring the warning.

"After the base has been laid it is easily destroyed in wet weather," City Engineer Dick Pepin said today. "That is why we are asking Pampans to keep off such blocks."

Several blocks of streets have already been topped and the program is progressing favorably, the city engineer reported today.

Three Canadian Women To Attend PEO Convention

CANADIAN, Aug. 20—Three Canadian women are among several hundred disappointed ladies, because Great Britain has cancelled sailing of liners including the steamship which was to have been used for the excursion from Seattle to Alaska points and return early in September.

Mrs. F. D. Teas, Mrs. W. J. Todd, and Mrs. John Caylor had planned to make this side trip in connection with attendance at the national P. E. O. convention to be held September 10, 11, and 12 in Victoria, Canada.

They will leave Canadian on September 1 and have all the other sight seeing trips planned and attend the convention.

AUTUMNAL DRESS.

Do you feel that it is time now to make a new frock in which to enjoy the cooler weather of the new season? Pattern No. 8014 is the kind of dress you are likely to want, if you are of the 36 to 52 size range. The neckline of this dress is cut low, in keeping with the fashion trends—and at the same time, is comfortable for the warm days which we get throughout the first months of fall. The soft bodice sections give an interesting front effect and a raised waistline feeling, both of which are slenderizing for the larger figure. Pattern No. 8014 is designed for sizes 36 to 52. Size 38 requires 2-3 yards 36-inch material with short sleeves.

For this attractive pattern send 15 cents in coin, your name, address, pattern number, and size to The Pampa News Today's Pattern Service, 211 W. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill.

Looking for more sewing ideas? Then send for the Fashion Book, just off the press. It is a complete preview of fall styles. Pattern 156, Pattern Book 156. One Pattern and Pattern Book ordered together, 35c.

White Deer Schools To Open September 1

Special To The NEWS: WHITE DEER, Aug. 20—The 1941-42 school term will be officially opened Monday, September 1, at 8 o'clock with a breakfast for the faculty in the high school cafeteria, followed by a general faculty meeting, according to announcement made this week by Glenn F. Davis, principal of the high school. Separate faculty meetings will be held at each school Monday afternoon.

On Tuesday classes will begin in the high school and students will be enrolled in the grade schools.

Registration of high school students will begin Tuesday, Aug. 26, and continue through Saturday, Aug. 30. Seniors may report at any hour Tuesday from 8:30 to 4:30 o'clock; Juniors, Wednesday; and sophomores, Thursday. All freshmen are asked to be in the high school cafeteria promptly at 9 o'clock Friday for general instructions preceding their enrollment.

New students will report on Saturday, Aug. 30, for classification. They should bring their book cards and grade books or have their credits sent to the high school principal.

One bus will leave Skellytown at 8:30 each morning during registration.

Under the new schedule of classes this year, school will begin at 9 o'clock and dismiss at 3:20. Students will choose the fourth or fifth periods as their lunch period and the cafeteria will be open from 11:15 to 12:45.

Vocational Ag Boys Making Equipment

H. G. Wills, new director of vocational agriculture at Pampa high school, and a number of his students have been working for the past month making equipment for their new headquarters in the high school building and to assist the boys in their farm program.

The boys and their instructor have made a new cattle squeeze for dehorning, trailer, butchering equipment and laboratory equipment.

Mr. Wills announced today that 10 boys have secured calves and nine have purchased gilts for the winter program.

A class of 50 boys is expected to enroll for vocational agricultural work this fall, Mr. Wills said.

Mr. Wills comes to the Pampa system from Miami where he was director of vocational agriculture for five years.

Eskimo Claims To Be Christ -- Seven Charged In Slaying of 9 Others

BELOCHER ISLANDS, Hudson Bay, Canada, Aug. 20 (AP)—One of the weirdest stories to come out of the frozen north was unfolding today before a white man's court hearing murder charges against seven Eskimos accused of putting nine others to death in a dispute over whether Christ had come to earth again.

Some of the nine died of gunshot wounds, some of beatings, and the rest—four of them children—were sent naked into the wind-whipped snow last winter to perish of cold.

Preliminary testimony was taken yesterday from some of the accused, their relatives and tribesmen.

They spoke through interpreters in a tent which served as the courthouse for the judicial party headed by Justice C. P. Plaxton of the Ontario supreme court—a party which took 13 days for the long trip north.

The story they told was one of long arguments over claims of two tribesmen to divine power, of beliefs that Satan was driven from the tribe by the deaths, and of the burning of religious books deemed no longer needed if Christ walked again among men.

Peter Sala and Charlie Ouyrack, whose claims to divine power were said to have figured in the fierce arguments, were among the accused.

Sala said he believed he was God in thoughts but not in body. Ouyrack said another Eskimo told him he was Jesus Christ and thus he became convinced that he was.

The Eskimos normally are peace-loving, Seldor, was a member of any of the tribes been executed for violation of the white man's law. A verdict of guilty makes the death sentence mandatory. However, such a sentence can be commuted by the governor general on the advice of the department of justice.

One of the first cases taken up here was the death of 15-year-old Sarah Apawkok. Her brother, Alec Apawkok, was charged with clubbing her to death with a rifle carried by a tribeswoman named Akeenk, also accused.

One witness told the court the girl was killed because she refused to believe Sala was divine. Another testified she was struck because she failed to do her work in the tribe's winter camp.

An Eskimo woman testified the other Eskimos were pleased when Sarah was dead—that they believed Satan had been driven from their camp.

White Deer Baptists Observe Homecoming

Special To The NEWS: WHITE DEER, Aug. 20—Homecoming day was observed at the First Baptist church here for the fourteenth consecutive year, with a number of former members returning to the services.

Among the visitors and former members present were Mrs. D. M. Snelter, Mrs. Byron Hilburn, and Mrs. Mahon Hilburn of Pampa;

Mrs. Vestus Hodges of Hereford; Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Stovall and children, Billy Neal and Patsy, and Miss Lucille Smith of Kingsmill; Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Weakley and son, Jimmie; Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Overstreet; and Mrs. Ray Crumpecker and daughters, Neva and Jo Ann, all of Amarillo.

The Harvest offering, which is always a part of the observance, amounted this year to more than $1,450.

Special music for the occasion was furnished by the girls trio, Beatrice Haiduk, La Velle Horton, and Nelrose Horton. Special music by the choir was directed by Mrs. Neal Edwards.

The usual luncheon at the church was not served because of the death of J. N. Osborne, whose funeral was held Sunday afternoon.

Today's War Analysis

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

Washington's determined step in arranging to ferry warplanes to the allies in the Mediterranean has given rise to speculation as to whether a British offensive against Italy might result from this much needed acquisition of aerial equipment.

It strikes me that the allies likely are more interested at the moment in safeguarding the Russo-Persian border in case the Nazis break through the Ukraine into the Caucasus. We get support for this view in the word from London that British and Russian troops have been moved to Persia's frontiers to enforce an ultimatum that several thousand alleged German fifth columnists be expelled from the country to prevent their cooperation with the advancing Nazi armies.

However, it's natural that the question about Italy should arise. Such a drive has been expected by the world at large ever since Mussolini unfurled his war banners in what he thought to be a gentle breeze but which proved to be a hurricane. Indeed, there's been a good deal of wonderment as to why the British haven't adopted more energetic measures, especially since Italy is terribly vulnerable and has seemed to many allied experts to be ready for the plucking.

From inquiry in usually well-posted British quarters I understand that the reason Britain has dealt lightly with Italy thus far probably has been more a matter of policy than lack of bombers. Actually it's said London believes Italians as a whole are so fed up with Hitlerism that they would break loose from it if they could.

Yet the British also believe that to encourage a revolt against Hitler by any of the embittered Europeans would merely result in fierce Nazi reprisals against those people. The effect would be to frighten other countries into subservience to the Germans, thus damaging the allied cause.

In other words, while the British are banking heavily on general uprisings among the anti-Hitler populations in due course, the feeling is that the time isn't yet ripe for revolts.

Take France, for instance. There's no question about the existence of a widespread spirit of revolt against Hitler. Even the French Vichy government admits unrest, and the Germans in occupied territory are constantly wrestling with sabotage, as note the offer of a million franc reward for information leading to the arrest of railway saboteurs.

So far as concerns Italy, allied observers insist that Hitler has anything from 150,000 to 300,000 troops there to keep the lid on. They say that the Nazi secret police swarm the country—that Hitler rules Italy in everything but name.

All this the Fascists deny in chapter and verse, but the British have their story and cling to it.

More Tankers And Gas For Allies Seen

BY EDWARD CURTIS
TULSA, Okla., Aug. 20 (AP)—Some oil men expressed the opinion today that the United States soon will step up its aid to Britain and Russia through lending of additional tankers and aviation gasoline. This view was reached after a study of the situation regarding east coast supplies. While petroleum coordinator Ickes has been warning that the east coast faces a gasoline shortage, some oil men here pointed out that:

1. Stocks of gasoline and light fuel oils in that section have increased at an average rate of about 107,000 barrels daily during the five weeks ending August 9, compared to 97,000 barrels daily during July of 1940, and 75,000 barrels daily for the July average of the two years, 1939 and 1940, the Independent Petroleum Association of America reported.
2. That transfer of 50 coastal tankers to British service had resulted in a stepup by the industry of its transportation system to cover their loss, at least temporarily. S. That respective measures to bring about conservation of gasoline and fuel supplies in the east may be designed to cope with an impending situation—such as diversion of additional tankers.

Additional tankers for Britain already have been requested, and it was expected in oil circles here that tankers also may be needed to send aviation gasoline to Russia. In its report, the IPAA declared that "Any further actions that may further reduce the tanker fleet will probably have a serious effect upon these supplies."

Another aid for Britain movement, the oil for Britain campaign launched in Texas, failed of support from many companies which declared that they were unable to overcome the legal and technical problems involved. In the field the Oil and Gas Journal reported 674 completions for the week ended Aug. 16, compared with the same number the previous week and 605 a year ago.

Fall Of Odessa Matter Of Days, Hours, Say Nazis

BERLIN, Aug. 20 (AP)—Possibility of a German thrust across the Black sea at the Soviet oil port of Batum was envisioned here today as the Nazis predicted the fall of Odessa within a matter of days—perhaps hours. Capture of Odessa would leave the entire Russian coast west of the Dnieper river in German hands, thereby seriously impairing Soviet hopes of controlling the Black sea, observers pointed out.

The war bulletin from Adolf Hitler's headquarters today said German troops had made successful attacks on Russian forces still defending bridgeheads on the west bank of the Dnieper, destroying 65 tanks and taking numerous prisoners. There were no other claims regarding the eastern front.

A sea-borne assault on Batum, at the eastern end of the Black sea, would relieve the Germans of a long overland offensive and would, if successful, provide a gateway for an assault on the vital Caucasus oil region.

How much naval strength the Germans could muster in the Black sea is a question, but they have reported their air force has reduced considerably the strength of the Russian Black sea fleet.

In addition to Soviet war vessels said to have been damaged by bombs, the Germans declared yesterday they had captured eight warships—including a 35,000-ton battleship—under construction at the Nikolaev naval base east of Odessa. The assault upon Odessa, which the Germans said already was under way, apparently coincided with increased pressure on the Ukrainian capital of Kiev, situated on the west bank of the Dnieper about 280 miles to the north.

Aerial assaults on Odessa, Russia's No. 3 city and No. 1 Black sea port, were said by DNB to have been stepped up sharply in the past two days. It reported the waterfront littered with the wreckage of buildings and the harbor with sunken ships. Airborne artillery, it said, has taken a heavy toll of Red army concentrations there, even to "the destruction of entire units."

Recall Of Nazi Ambassador In Argentine Hinted

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 20 (AP)—Argentine foreign office sources intimated today they expected some change in the German diplomatic setup in this country, but they declined either to affirm or deny congressional reports that the Reich intended to recall her ambassador, Edmund Von Thermann.

Von Thermann has been under the fire of certain congressmen in an investigation of anti-Argentinian activities. The German Embassy's press attache said the report that the ambassador would be recalled was completely unfounded, but the story persisted in corridors of the house of deputies.

Two More Bodies Recovered At Pier

NEW YORK, Aug. 20 (AP)—A police launch took the bodies of two negro longshoremen from the Brooklyn waterfront at the foot of Congress street today raising to seven the known dead in the Monday fire which swept a Brooklyn pier and destroyed the Cuba mail line freighter Panuco and numerous small craft.

Drowning was given as the cause of both deaths, the men apparently having leaped from the burning pier to avoid the flames. Discovery of the bodies revised the police recapitulation to seven known dead, 15 missing, including four crewmen and 11 stevedores, and 31 still in Brooklyn hospitals out of at least 72 injured.

A special board of inquiry went into its second day session today in the cause of the $1,500,000 blaze as police dissipated a possibility that sabotage might have been at the bottom of the tragedy and destruction.

Three bomb-like cylinders were discovered on the afterdeck of the ruined Panuco, which gave rise to the sabotage theory but it was learned that more than 100 similar objects were in a compartment aboard the vessel.

Iran Given Week To Expel 3,000 Nazis
LONDON, Aug. 20 (AP)—Britain has given Iran (Persia) about a week in which to answer a British-Russian request for expulsion of 3,000 German tourists and technicians said to have filtered into the country, authoritative quarters said today.

They regarded this as sufficient time for Iran to reply. Although these sources insisted that Britain had not sent an ultimatum on the issue, British and Russian troops were reported poised on Iran's frontiers ready for possible direct action if the Iranian government should fail to satisfy the Allied governments.

Complete Embargo Likely On Certain War Materials
WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—Government control of exports, now covering 80 per cent of all commodities, soon may be expanded to blanket all shipments abroad, authoritative quarters disclosed today.

Further, these sources said, a complete embargo is likely for certain materials. President Roosevelt lengthened the license list yesterday by adding six new categories—furs, synthetic fibers, wood, natural asphalt, bitumen, non-ferrous metals and precious metals. The new restrictions will become effective September 10.

Officials explained that export control was required to assure adequate supplies of raw materials and manufactured articles in this country for national defense and everyday life, and to enable the United States to fulfill commitments to Great Britain, China, Soviet Russia, and the Latin American republics.

Completed in 1906, the British battleship Dreadnought gave its name to all battleships of this type.

RAF Delivers Leg To Prisoner Bader
LONDON, Aug. 20 (AP)—The RAF has delivered its strangest cargo of the war to German-held northern France—a new leg for Wing Commander Douglas R. Bader.

Bader's entire squadron flew across the channel yesterday, it was disclosed today, to share the honor of dropping the metal leg by parachute near St. Omer, near where the legless ace is held prisoner after having been shot down nine days ago.

The Germans had sent word to the air ministry through the International Red Cross that the grinning, outspoken pilot was safe but that he had ruined one of his artificial legs when he hit the ground after bailing out of his flaming plane.

The London firm that made Bader's original spare and the pilots of the flier's squadron promptly started competing for the job of making delivery. Bader lost his legs in a civilian flying accident.

Fighting 69th Pauses To Order Groceries
FRESQUOTT, Ark., Aug. 20 (AP)—The famous Fighting 69th paused today in its mimic warfare long enough to help an Arkansas farm wife order her groceries.

Seeing a radio communication car of Co. A of the 69th (now the 165th infantry from New York), she shuddered from her farm house and asked if the crew was in contact with anybody in the nearby town of Hope. The commander said an operator was talking with a crew near the town.

"I'd like to get in touch with my husband there before he comes home," she said. "We have no telephone here.

The fighting Irish got busy on the radio directed the other car to the husband's place of business in Hope and soon had him on the hookup. His wife gave him the message. Both crews got thanks and cold drinks for their assist.

Paratroops Missing At Coast Maneuvers

WITH THE ARMY IN SOUTHWEST WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—Development of the parachute technique in the European war has brought changed tactics in the army's war maneuvers.

There are no parachute troops hovered about in the current large scale maneuvers in this area, but caution is taken to assure that one of them wouldn't be able to find his way to any vital point if he did drop in.

Road signs are taboo in the military area. Guards no longer stand at intersections, as in previous war games, with signs to indicate the whereabouts of specific units.

Sentries remain hidden at night, ready to seize any unsuspecting person who might amble along a dark rural road. Only civilians in lighted cars are allowed to proceed unmolested.

Military observers with the army in the field expressed the opinion that the rough western Washington terrain was ill-suited for panzer-type warfare, and horse cavalry and mule pack mountain artillery would be vital in defending the region against enemy invasion.

One soldier from Fort Ord, Calif., was killed yesterday in the first fatal accident of the current maneuvers, which will involve 100,000 soldiers.

Second Cavalry To Leave For Maneuvers

CAMP FUNSTON, Kas., Aug. 20 (AP)—Motor units of the second cavalry division will start a six-day overland trek to the Louisiana war maneuver area tomorrow, moving in two columns.

Monday the division's horses, baggage and men not accommodated in the trucks and jeeps will depart by train.

One motor unit will travel by highway U. S. 75 with overnight stops at Burlington, Kas., Bartlesville and Calvin, Okla., Paris, Tex., and Lewisville, Ark. The other will travel on highway 99 with stops at Emporia, Kas., Pawhuska, Okla., Ada, Okla., Greenville, Tex., and Greenwood, La.

Girls Getting Jobs At Filling Stations

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20 (AP)—Manpower shortage in defense areas is bringing glamor to gasoline.

Attractive young girls chosen for charm, poise and ability are getting a chance to show what they can do as filling station attendants.

The Sun Oil company decided to experiment and selected eight winsome lassies for training before testing their efficiency at the pumps.

First selected "gas girl" was Helen Rawlinson, a librarian who holds a bachelor of music degree. She and the others given trials were more than 500 applicants.

Only high school graduates 21 to 28 years old who passed physical and personality tests were considered. Bleached blondes and high heels were outlawed.

Starting in at a station in the city's fashionable main line outskirts, the cuties will do such less exacting chores as wiping windshields, filling radiators, selling gas and oil and inflating tires. They'll work six and a half hours daily and get $100 a month.

Their "charm, poise and ability" will be enhanced by hand-tailored costumes—navy blue wool jackets for cool days and blue shantung colettes trimmed with powder blue and brown.

Soldiers Capture Lion At Camp Lee

CAMP LEE, Va., Aug. 20 (AP)—Soldiers of Camp Lee engaged in an unscheduled maneuver with a 400-pound lion today.

The big cat escaped from its cage, raced through a crowd of soldiers and finally was trapped in a coal bin after giving this army post an exciting few minutes.

The animal was brought here from Mason City, Ill., by Dr. Manley E. Mathers to perform in a camp circus.

Halifax Successor? Murder Increase Due, Says Criminologist

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 20 (AP)—Finding the lust to kill most rampant during boom years, a criminologist concluded today the "murder barometer" is due to rise with business indices.

Dr. Walter A. Lunden, criminology professor at the University of Pittsburgh, based his deductions on a year-long research into 2,500 murders committed in Pittsburgh and surrounding Allegheny county from 1906 to 1940.

"If the next six months of 1941 keep pace, there will be more murders than in 1940," said Lunden. "It appears that as the business cycle moves up the number of murders tends to increase."

"We found 494 murders were committed in the boom years of 1925-1929—only 53 less than the total for the 10-year depression period from 1930 through 1939."

Lunden doesn't claim his figures are indicative of a national trend, but pointed out that statistics compiled by other crime scientists in other sections of the nation also showed more murders during boom years.

Motives behind crimes ran the gamut from "trivial slayings" to an argument over the Ten Commandments, one of which forbids man to kill, Lunden reported.

'DF' Antidote For Modern Tank Warfare

By NORMAN WALKER
CAMP POLK, La., Aug. 20 (AP)—The army's antidote for modern blitz warfare got its first real test in third army maneuvers and was found by officers to be highly capable of dealing havoc to enemy armored tank spearheads.

The new weapon is a destroyer force, or "DF" as the army already has dubbed it, focusing devastating shell fire on enemy tanks before they can start a front line smash. Three highly maneuverable motorized "DF" groups have been ordered organized by the war department for the inter-army games in Louisiana next month, but the third army's fifth corps commander, Major General Edmund L. Daley, unveiled a destroyer group for preliminary tests.

Thirty-seven and 75 m. m. cannons, augmented by small infantry, engineer, air and armored scout car detachments, plus a signal unit, blasted enemy tanks converging for an intended power thrust. Under this withering fire from close range, advancing tanks were ruled blown apart and their crews groping in heavy smokescreens, annihilated in 50 calibre machine gun barrages.

Top ranking general staff officers, including Lieut.-General Lesley McNair, army chief of staff, and foreign observers saw the first full dress showing of "DF" in action resulting in hypothetical destruction of nearly half the "enemy's" tank strength. "This is a blitz defense for a blitzkrieg," was the way Lieut.-General Walter Krueger, commanding the third army, described the new integrated anti-tank group. General Krueger yesterday called a halt to the initial third army maneuver problem after the "blue" forces battled through enemy lines over a 35-mile battle front and virtually routed the "red" forces. A critique will be held on the first phase Thursday and commanders will be given full rein in the second problem starting Sunday.

Hopkins May Head U. S. Delegation To Meeting In Moscow

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—Capitol Hill heard forecasts today that Harry Hopkins, lease-lend administrator, probably would head the American delegation to the joint meeting in Moscow of United States and British officials with Premier Stalin.

At the same time, there were apparently authentic reports that arrangements had been made to fly American-manufactured bombing and fighting planes to the Soviets both by way of Siberia and over an extension of the newly-delegated south Atlantic ferry route to the British forces in the middle east. The details of this arrangement, said to involve transport and military plane operations over both routes by Pan-American Airways, were expected to be worked out finally in the Moscow conference. An appointment of American military production to Russia, particularly as to warplanes, also was reported listed for discussion.

A well-informed legislator, who asked that he remain anonymous, said he understood the Russians had prepared a chain of landing fields across Siberia so that not only bombers but the relatively shorter-ranged fighting planes could be flown to the front.

Although the Russians were said to be willing to assume the responsibility of delivering the planes, this legislator said it was likely that Pan-American would be asked to establish a line similar to the route which President Roosevelt disclosed Monday would be set up to West Africa and thence to the Mediterranean sea. This line also would be utilized, it was said, to take planes thru the near east to Russia.

Britain Warns Japs To Make No Further Move In Far East

LONDON, Aug. 20 (AP)—Any further move by Japan in the Far East would be regarded by Britain as "extremely serious," authoritative quarters said today, although it is understood that London has given Thailand no specific assurances that this little nation's independence would be maintained by British arms.

"There is no doubt that the British government's feelings would be if Thailand's independence were threatened," one of these quarters said, although it was added that Britain had not been asked to guarantee this independence. Comment has been provoked in authoritative quarters by a speech one a broadcast by British to Thailand from the Netherlands East Indies in which the speaker had said: "Let Thailand stand firm in maintenance of her independence. She will not stand alone."

Britain's fighting services, it was said, have taken adequate defense measures in the Far East. Concern has been expressed over Japan's intentions regarding Thailand ever since she moved into neighboring French Indo-China and was reported to be bringing pressure upon Thailand to grant her military and economic advantages.

The United States expects to spend $22,000,000,000 during the current fiscal year, mostly for defense.

Boys Should Be Allowed To Select Type Of Clothes

Wise parents will give their youngsters a wide freedom of choice in the selection of the type of garments they want to wear even though all parents are fully justified in seeking the rugged, strongly constructed clothes first, for the average school boy.

Fortunately, the manufacturers of wearing apparel for boys are keen psychologists, designing their products essentially in masculine style of durable materials, cut for comfort and with plenty of allowances for the kind of freedom that is necessary to young frames that insist upon twisting and squirming and growing a bit faster than anyone thought. Durable materials like corduroys are very popular among the younger school set whether in knicker or slack type trousers. What boy won't approve of a leather jacket that is fur or fleece lined and slide fastened. The essential sweater he wants may be a matter of taste, slipover or coat style.

The sport coat and slacks combinations will provide variety—and plenty of pockets. There is the new surcoat in either single or double breasted slide fastened style to thrill him with masculine pride.

Top coats and overcoats for school lads take their cue from what dad wears and are available in covert, camel hair or fleeces. The new inexpensive raincoats for school boys are a must in every wardrobe.

The military influence will be felt along with the western influence in many of the things the school boy will want to wear back to classes this year.

Gravity alone, moves oil through some pipelines.

Back-To-School Buying Should Begin Here Soon

Advising all parents to "Do Your Back-to-School Shopping Early," leading Pampa merchants have joined with The Pampa News in presenting this handbook on how to get youngsters of grammar grades as well as high school and college students ready for the return to classes during this important season.

The advice is based on an ever-increasing determination on the part of parents, derived no doubt from the current national emergency, to see to it that their children are properly and completely equipped from the very start, for resumption of the education that is going to fit them to carry on when they achieve adult age.

This determination is being manifested in early plans being made by parents for purchase of complete wardrobes, instead of just a fall garment or two; for purchase of two new pairs of shoes instead of one, for purchase of new slacks and trousers and sweaters for the younger children instead of making "hand me downs" do the job.

Anticipating this trend, Pampa merchants spent months preparing for the season and they have succeeded, as their individual announcements in this section will indicate, in assembling wide and varied selections to fit every family requirement whether it involves only size and taste, or budget, or both.

Background Of Child Should Be Checked On

Parents find that the reopening of school is an occasion for stock-taking and for asking themselves whether children are growing up to be sturdy citizens who are ready and able to do their part in making democracy a living, vital thing and not merely a fine oratory. Clara Savage Littlefield, editor of Parents' magazine, has stated:

Democracy is not experienced by reading about it or by talking about it. It is a living and a vital thing, and its future rests in the hands of our children.

In recent months the American people have become much more aware than they have been for a good many years of their great fortune in living in a free country. Many fine and true words have been said about democracy. But it is essential to remember that democracy lies not alone in the provisions of the Constitution, nor in the legislative chambers, nor in other formally designated, rather remote places.

These provisions for freedom are empty unless they are made to come to life in the everyday world. And that is done first in our homes. Democracy has become such a high-sounding term that it is easy to forget that its cause is furthered—or hindered—in such a small circle as the home.

Must Be Sure of Their Beliefs To take their rightful places in a democracy, to help maintain this form of government, children must be healthy in attitudes and body. They must be self-reliant, responsible persons, sure of their beliefs and capable and unafraid of standing up for them. They must be tolerant individuals, and unselfish ones. They must be able to reason clearly.

Democracy begins in a home free of dictators. Children who are allowed to share in family decisions and family affairs, who are allowed to make their own decisions—with reasonable explanations from their elders as to why some activities are necessary and why others cannot be permitted—are better equipped to take their places in the larger world. Children who are given responsibility by doing even small jobs about the house—increasingly important jobs as they grow older—are better able to serve their communities later on.

Won't Push Other People Around Training in self-reliance, as is true of the development of other qualities, starts very early. It is much easier to dress Johnny than to be patient while he struggles into his clothes. But patience pays, and soon. Children do what is expected of them, if they know it is expected. When they carry through their assigned tasks, they achieve the sense of belonging and the feeling of security that come with the knowledge that they and their work are respected. On such small things is democracy built.

Children whose privacy is respected—whose desks, for instance, are regarded as their own personal property, whose confidences are respected—acquire self-respect and that important quality of doing to others as they are done by; they won't grow up to "push other people around."

And they won't allow themselves to be pushed around, either. Children who are accustomed to reason out differences at home, whose opinions are regarded as important, are not apt to accept demagogic words that may lead them blindly to another way of life. Democracy will have meaning and value for them because they have experienced it.

All College Girls Want Fur Coats

Fashion experts assembled in a clinical discussion of clothes for the college girl, conducted by Claire Wolff just prior to the beginning of the Back-to-School season, unanimously agreed that "every college girl wants to have a fur coat almost more than anything else, because it offers the perfect solution to so many different dress problems."

It was pointed out that a fur coat can be worn on the campus, for dates, and for week-end visits and that, therefore, it is an "all purpose garment." In the long run, it was pointed out, the carefully selected fur coat not only simplifies the wardrobe problem, but is also easier on the budget.

SEWING TIPS

The new pleated and wrap-around dirndl skirts, favorites of the school girl, are simple to make if sewing is your hobby. Even if you are a beginner-sewer of 'teen age, you can make your own skirts with smart tailored touches that look really professional.

For instance, the shirring of dirndl skirts is done in a twinkling of an eye with the gathering foot attachment of the sewing machine. And if you select a style that buttons down the front even the buttonholes may be a jiffy job with the button-holer attachment.

If you prefer the type of skirt with inverted pleats you will find that it's no trick at all to stitch the pleats with tailored perfection if you use the edge stitcher attachment on your sewing machine. If you do not know how to use these helpful attachments, your local sewing center will show you.

NEAT FINISH Pinked edgings are taking the spotlight as a smart finish for trimming new fall draperies, table covers and chair seats. Even if you are not an experienced home decorator you can give glazed chintz, felt, taffeta and many other materials the smart finish by using the pinker attachment on the sewing machine. Besides, it will go faster and is less expensive than almost any other finish you can think of.

American College Girls Set Vogue For Modern Fashion Trends Of Seasons

America's college girls are fashion pace-setters in the world of today, many of them introducing fashion trends that their mothers, even some of their grandmothers, are following, according to Mrs. Dorothy W. Anderson, executive director of the New York Dress Institute.

She believes the college girl has an especial place in the style spotlight. She set the trend for the dirndl which in various interpretations is still very much in the picture for girls and women of all ages; she set the vogue for fresh flowers in the hair; for colored hair bows; for pig-tails.

She started the fad for the beanie and bang-caps; for cowboy boots on the campus and for sportswear; for high socks and ankle socks; for mittens worn at all hours of the day—even for formal evening occasions; for corduroy for evening; for parka capes; tweed pinafores and for all kinds of original and amusing gadget jewelry.

"I wouldn't suggest that you wear fraternity pins all over your hats," Mrs. Anderson warns, but she does suggest that if you are a "pretty little grandmother" you would look mighty pretty in many of the soft woens that your granddaughter wears with a bow or a flower in your hair.

"There was a time," she adds, "when only a small group of social leaders set our fashions, when the styles that they wore to the opening of an opera, to the Horse Show, at winter and summer resorts here and in Europe, and throughout their social activities—established the fashion trend of our seasons. They are still an important part of our fashion picture, only today we have a much broader fashion horizon and the average woman has as much to do with helping establish a fashion as does the 'Four Hundred'."

Doctor Cites

Importance Of School Lunch

In discussing the importance of the school lunch, Dr. James A. Toney pointed out that not only must it satisfy the appetites of active children but it must nourish and keep healthy those youngsters who are growing while they are learning.

Success in school depends, in fact, upon good nutrition. There is, of course, no one food that really serves as a "brain food," but a well-constructed daily diet will actually promote mental alertness and efficiency. The sound mind in the well-fed and sound body is also an aid to the attainment of success in athletics and in general leadership.

The right kind of school lunch will furnish sufficient food-energy, plenty of body-building proteins, and a liberal supply of the vitamins and food-minerals needed to protect the body and promote the best physical and mental fitness. This means that the lunch must include the proper kinds of sandwiches, beverages, fruits, salads, and simple desserts.

Sandwiches are an ideal basis for school lunches, because they are economical and convenient, taste good and are satisfying, and because so many highly nutritious sandwich combinations are possible. There are literally hundreds of appealing sandwiches which can contribute variety and pleasure to the diets of the sturdy eaters of school lunches. Here are a few practical suggestions:

In making sandwiches, different kinds of bread may be employed to advantage, both for the sake of variety and for their own nutritive contributions to the diet. In addition to white, whole wheat, and rye breads, use nut, raisin, fruit, egg, honey, and brown breads from time to time.

The new enriched white bread is particularly well-suited for school lunches, since this easily digestible white bread is enriched with vitamins and minerals natural to whole wheat. This bread also contains plenty of milk solids, and so is rich in the important growth-promoting and vigor-giving vitamins of the vitamin B complex.

Enriched bread is also a good source of the calcium and phosphor-ous needed for strong bones and sound teeth, and it contains an abundance of blood-building iron.

The bread used for sandwiches, whether enriched bread or some other type, should be well-buttered, with the crusts left on. Butter supplies the valuable vitamin A needed for growth and good health, while crusts provide beneficial exercise for the developing teeth of children.

The interior of the sandwich may consist of lettuce, meat, cheese, eggs, chopped vegetables, jam jellies, peanut butter, fruits, nuts, and various delectable combinations of these and other foods. For example, grated carrots and chopped raisins, with a little mayonnaise; or hard cooked egg yolk sliced and seasoned, with a little minced parsley; or ground ham and cooked egg; or crisp bacon and peanut butter.

Many kinds of fruit fillings are appropriate for sandwiches. Sliced bananas, cranberry sauce, chopped apples, crushed prunes, sliced apricots or peaches, mashed plums, pineapple. The juicier fruits may be blended with cream or cottage cheese, or with peanut butter.

An excellent and highly nourishing sandwich spread can be made with molasses mixed with butter and egg yolk. Prepared in this way, the molasses has the consistency of peanut butter. Such a sandwich, made with enriched bread, is literally loaded with vitamin B1 and iron, two food substances needed daily by every growing child.

Good lighting makes it easier for your child to read.

It minimizes the danger of eyestrain, headaches, and fatigue.

Innumerable tests have shown that school children make faster progress in their studies and that there are fewer failures when they study in a room that is well lighted. If your child thinks his or her studies are dull and uninteresting, then more than likely the lighting conditions under which they are studying aren't ample to insure ease in reading, and you should install new and larger bulbs or buy an improved IES lamp. New Wardrobes And Textbooks Mean Much To Boys And Girls

Starting a new grade this fall with last year's textbooks would have the same effect on grammar graders as going back to school next month in last year's clothes. For juvenile fashions look so new this year that they make last year's look positively archaic, Betty Green, fashion editor of Parents' magazine, has pointed out. Shoulders, in everything from toddlers' coats to teens' sportswear, have eschewed all darts and puffs. They're rounded, not droopy, and they look NEW. Waistlines have descended to create a long torso silhouette that looks NEW. Instead of shirtwaist frocks, the teen girl will want dresses that have a figure molded, pleasant look about them. Little girls will doff pinafores for peasant dresses that look like something out of Heidi. Instead of the green blues, such as last year's teals, girls of all ages will turn to the grayed blues, such as R. A. F. blue. Instead of gored skirts they will wear pleated skirts. We could go on for pages, listing the new features in school clothes, as they were recently paraded down the runway at Parents' Magazine's Fall Fashion Show in New York. But, suppose we let the children speak for themselves and tell you the fashions they would like to wear back to school this fall. THE HIGH SCHOOL GIRL SPEAKS HER PIECE Teen Age Trixie says: "My new jacket and skirt must be in campus tan. My jacket must be a long, single-breasted affair like my best beau's sports coat, with big pockets and a convertible collar. My skirt must be pleated—not gored. I'd like a waistcoat to match. "I'll wear it with other skirts, too, instead of a jerkin and decorate it with a watchchain full of charms. "My sweaters should be loose and sloppy with push-up long sleeves, and I prefer my pull-on with a V-neck because I've grown to love open-neck shirts or dickies. "My favorite 'extra' skirt will be a pleated clan plaid with fringed side and a big safety pin—just like a real kilt. My favorite 'extra' jacket will be a blazer with contrasting binding. "The big 'fad-shions' in my crowd will be rubber or cowboy boots, Kne

Hide stockings in bright colors (yes, over-the-knee long stockings again) or argyle patterned knee-high's copied from the boys and bulky gloves that look like mops or like a hockey player's mitt.

"For dates I'll wear soft wools in long torso, full-skirted dresses. My preference is wool jersey. My favorite school coat will be a mannish tweed, boxy style with a zip-in lining of the same tweed, or a loose arm-hole wrap-around of Campus Tan fleece. Very snazzy. "My favorite hat will be an old-fashioned tam-o'shanter. I'll want loads of long-sleeved shirts in everything from white rayon to lumberjacks' plaids. I'll want lots of gadget jewelry." Silk is used for gun powder bags because of its rapid and complete combustion when the powder is detonated.

Sister To Wear Almost Duplicate Of Brother's Shoe

Almost exact duplicates of their brother's shoes will be worn by girls for back-to-school footwear this year. An especially favored shoe that takes part in this brother and sister act, is the Norwegian moccasin, with the comfortable crepe-soled brogue oxford a close runner-up. This similarity of style amounts to a family affair, with mother and daughter shoes also slated for popular reception. One family we know writes "brother," "sister," and "Mom" in their respective shoes to prevent any mistakes occurring. On Campus First Back to school styles are first introduced on the college campus, and then copied right down through the age groups. The moccasin type shoe and saddle oxford are still in first place with boys and girls alike, but the many new styles introduced are giving these perennials a close race for fashion favor. A newcomer that has carved a notch for itself is the shoe with the polished bootmaker finish. First introduced for men, its durability and glossy look gained the school crowd's attention, and students now list it as one of the "must haves" for the school year. Another style trend that is running rampant in school footwear is of western influence, a perfect sidekick for fun-loving students. Co-eds are covering their ankles with high decorative boots, or joining the boys in wearing branded or stitched leather shoes. These are most often seen in shades of brown from natural to burnished tones, often with a square or rounded walled toe. Occasionally, elasticized fabric is inserted for comfort and better fit. For Younger Child For the youngest school child, the oxford has proved serviceable for actual school wear, and it too is most popular in shades of brown. Here again the saddle oxford and moccasin put in an appearance, in the same casual styles that walk the campus. For parties and Sunday best the step-in pump or sandal are the accepted styles. Although fit and durability are still first in importance for school footwear, the fashion aspect of a shoe should be considered. The wise parent acquaints herself with the right fashions, and thus is able to influence the selection of a proper fitting shoe that complies with the choice of her style conscious offspring.

Colorfulness Is Most Distinguishing Mark Of 1941 College Fashion Scene

From a fashion eye-view the American girl "comes of age" when she matriculates for her first semester at college. Shopping for her class, campus and date clothes she is, for the first time, given the responsibility of planning a wardrobe so balanced that it will provide all the essentials necessary to see her smartly through her many activities; plus enough of the fads to permit her to be singled out for fashion inventiveness. Many a mother will be delighted, and will realize a new faith in her daughter's sound judgment when she sees the many considerations each fashion purchase is given. "Is it the thing they're going to wear at my particular college? It is a color easy to mix-match with other colors? Is it well made so seams and fit will last? Is it classic enough to be smart all term—better still, all year?" With typical modern alertness, the college girl of '41 first takes cognizance of silhouette changes. Perhaps the most important purchase in her wardrobe is her suit, new this fall in every detail. Its jacket must be long-wrist length is most popular. Its collar must be shirt styled, and its fabric fine, preferably tweed. The suit jacket will serve other endless uses: downhill ski trousers, dresses and jumpers. She'll add a waistcoat—not only for warmth, but because her lithewasted figure can wear it so becomingly. She'll cheer the new blazer bindings on jackets. And with her suits she'll wear sweaters, long, with V-necklines, and beautifully tailored skirts, long with boyish collars and long, bloused sleeves. Abreast of the fashion news, the college girl knows that in coats her shoulders must look rounded with "easy" fullness under the arms. And while she believes it's smart to wear subtly influenced military fashions—she won't try to go around looking as though she borrowed an army uniform. Patriotic buttons, pocket and epaulet details, arm holds in casual coats so they can be flung over the shoulders, and the revival of the trench coat for rainy day wear are indicative of this trend. Suit, Coat, Dress In dresses, the college fashion expert will look for more natural shoulder treatments and long, moulded bodices defining her slim hips above full, full skirts inspired by the broomstick types she wore all summer. She'll applaud—jumper dresses with capped shoulders; long middies over pleated skirts; two or three contrasting colors in one dress; gay appliques outlining the hemline of her skirts; the pleasantly peasant accents of embroidery and braid. Her neckline will always be emphasized—by square treatment, lunging lowness, shirt collared dickies, and Kitty Foyle bows. On these basic "must" fashions—suit, coat, dress, the college girl will plan her entire wardrobe, getting as many garments as her budget will allow—but always preferring a limited number of well wearing clothes to a quantity of garments of less dependable quality. An evening gown—a wrap, or many-purpose fur coat or jacket; house-coat, pajamas and undies; lots of colorful hose and exciting shoes; these are the additions which make the college wardrobe complete. And to these fashions, each college girl will add her own interpretations; gadgets and accessories with which to give endless variability to the originality expressed in her wardrobe. Fads and Fancies Since the college girls themselves are the only people who know what to their mind makes a fad a fashion, they may as well be given free rein to choose the gadgets and accessories with which to win a reputation for doing, and wearing the smart thing. Not necessarily expensive, "separates" are the effect achievers; the conversation pieces on which the girls and their beaux dote; and invariably they're as functional as they are witty and clever. Smart headgear for the campus, is the little Dutch cap, much like the beanie of yesteryear, but with little side wings. In bright suede or fabric it best epitomizes the casual kind of hat the college girl prefers. Little boys' hats made of coat or jacket fabrics, stitched; or with turn-up visors; knitted stocking caps and mop-like shaggy caps are more campus fads of '41. For dates, of course, the felt off-the-face hat is the first choice. Brilliant Color Because they "go with everything" the tan tones are most popular with the college crowd. Tan coats in fleeces and oatmeal tweeds; tan suits in covert, tan shorts in corduroy; will top tan jersey dresses as well as more vividly hued sweaters and skirts. Color moods dropped from the skies by the R. A. F. are the new grayed blues which will only be second to tan for popularity in coats, suits, dresses, and dance-time gowns. Redder than the little red schoolhouse; as red as a fire engine—is the red favored for campus fashion accents, and for entire daytime cos-

Do Not Fall Into "Autumn Anesthesia"

BY ALICIA HART Those late summer and early fall doldrums you find yourself sinking into all too frequently these days may be nothing more or less than a crying need for a black dress or a new hat. Light colored summer dresses and white straw hats have a way of seeming not quite suitable once there is a hint of fall in the air. The ideal black dress for late August is the one that will be perfect during September, when you don't wear a coat but when you do wear fall accessories as well as useful later on under fall and winter coats. A hat to wear with the new black dress and with summer dresses as well might be a sheer black wool turban or a black velvet pillbox. Get the suntan situation well in hand right now. Make up your mind whether you are going to retain a dark coat of tan until late in the fall or whether you are going to be fully white once you start wearing fall clothes. Don't go in for half-way measures on this subject. Be tanned or be white. Don't be half-tanned. GETTING RID OF "SUMMER HANDS" Work on your hands. If you've had a fine summer of plenty of swimming, golf and tennis, it's more than likely that your nails are shorter than you like to have them and that backs of hands and fingers aren't as smooth as they were last spring before you started summer sports. Use your nail brush each time you wash your hands; always dry them carefully, then apply hand lotion. Better keep hand lotion on the kitchen shelf as well as in the bathroom. Lightly rub small callouses at sides of nails with a piece of wet pumice now and then between manicures. Massage oil on the ends of fingers into dry cuticle around the nails. Don't cut the cuticle, and don't let a manicurist scrape the base of nails with a steel instrument. Bits of dead skin should be removed with a cotton tipped orange stick, dipped in cuticle remover. tunes, to say nothing of demure evening gowns and dashing capes. Colorfulness is most profusely seen in the peasant-stock fashions which will make class-rooms and campus grounds more brilliant scenically this term. Wool crepe skirts in forest color will go to college to be worn with cotton blouses. Bright lacings will cinch in the midriff of jumpers and peasant-maid dresses. Lots of cross-stitching and appliques of huge flowers, apples and other gay motifs bring color to college fashion scene. On Daring Footing The college girl takes a footing with daring effects in hosiery and shoes this term. She'll love knee high hose because they're new and keep legs warm on frosty days, and maybe she'll wear one red stocking, one green, with green skirt and red sweater. And with her good tweed suit she'll love Argyle plaid hose, like the boys wear! North, south and east, as well as in its native ground, the Western boot will be an outstanding campus favorite, and will be worn in or shine in saddle leather or rubber. Saddle ties will again roam through college corridors, while moccasins are dearly beloved, especially if they have nailheads or saddle stitching, and brightly colored laces. From bobby-pinning bows all over their sweaters, to wearing clipped plaid kiltie skirts, college girls make every effort to achieve colorful effects. Colorfulness is young, cheering and feminine, and in itself the most distinguishing mark of the college fashion scene for the semester ahead.

White Sox Mound Staff Best In Major Leagues

The finest pitching staff in the major leagues this year belongs to the Chicago White Sox. This has been no secret, but the feat of Lefty Thornton Lee and big Jimmy Humphries in pitching a double shutout yesterday against the Philadelphia Athletics served to switch the spotlight in the direction of the Sox.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR. (Pinch-hitting for Eddie Brizts) NEW YORK, Aug. 20 (The Special News Service)—Rumor market: What's this we hear about Steve O'Neill, the Tigers' coach, being offered the job of managing the Indians next year?

Obscured by such developments as the fancy pennant fight in the National League and the collapse of the Cleveland Indians, the White Sox nevertheless have won eight straight games and 17 of their past 20 in spurring from fifth place to second in the American league since Aug. 2.

This was accomplished almost entirely on superb pitching. Lee, recognized as the outstanding left-hander of the year, achieved his 16th victory by holding the Athletics to six singles. He let only one man reach second and hit a double himself to drive home Chicago's first run in a 4 to 0 victory.

Humphries, a 26-year-old right-hander acquired from Cleveland last winter in exchange for Clint Brown, allowed only four hits. It was his third starting assignment and his second straight shutout. John Babich opposed him with a five-hit job, but walked four batters, one intentionally, to force across the only run of the game in the third inning.

The injury tended to push him out of the American league pitching competition as Ted Williams came up with three home runs during a doubleheader between the Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Browns. Williams' big day, which included a couple of singles, boosted his batting average to .410, gave him a total of 26 round-trippers, one behind DIMaggio, and a total of 89 runs batted in, third-highest in his league.

Sabotage Theory Fades In Burning Of Ship In Brooklyn

NEW YORK, Aug. 20 (AP)—The possibility that sabotage might have caused the burning of a Brooklyn pier and the Cuba mail line cargo ship Panuco was raised briefly today by the discovery of three bomb-like metal cylinders on the vessel's after-deck but quickly disappeared when it was found that more than 100 similar objects were in a compartment aboard the vessel.

First reports said Fireboat Lieutenant Arthur Braconier found "two time bombs" and that one of the two exploded after discovery. Ship officials explained later that the Panuco loaded a number of empty iron cylinders used for carrying ammonia when the vessel called at Progresso, Mexico. The ship also carried a small amount of mercury in metal containers.

The bomb scare came in the midst of an investigation by a special board from Washington into the cause of a $1,500,000 fire that took at least five lives and resulted in injury to at least 72 persons.

Houston Beats Tulsa Oilers 1-0

(By The Associated Press) The Houston Buffs got a little uneasy about their five-game losing streak—after all, they were only 20 games or so in front of the other Texas league teams—so last night they up and beat the second-place Tulsa Oilers 1-0.

With Ted Wilks throwing the curves, the Buffs proved to be a home crowd that they still are able to win ball games.

The Dallas Rebels, attempting to erase the half-game lead over them by third-place Shreveport, were unfortunate enough to drop a 5-4 decision to the Sports on the latter's grounds. Fort Worth won a 10-inning contest from the Exporters at Beaumont 9-6 in the day's only afternoon schedule, and the visiting Oklahoma City Indians took San Antonio into camp, 3-0.

The relief hurling of Orval Grove, who took over from Max Thomas in the final inning, and timely hitting in the pinches gave the Sports the upper hand over Dallas.

Jackie Reid and Ed Greer were nipped by Beaumont for 14 safe blows—but Marcus Beddingfield was sent in and held the Exporters from the seventh on. He allowed only one hit.

Oklahoma City scored two runs in the fourth inning of their contest with San Antonio by virtue of a walk and two hits. Two hits and a wild pitch in the sixth gave the Indians their final run. Stan Goletz permitted the Exporters five hits, while his opponent yielded seven safeties.

Tomasic Ready To Trade Grid Career For Pro Baseball

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20 (AP)—Temple's great triple-threat Andy Tomasic, rated by many as the 1941 successor to Michigan's Tommy Harmon, is ready to trade his grid career for a professional baseball contract.

He's had several tryouts with major league clubs but none of them talked business with the pitching prospect because each figured he wanted to finish his studies at Temple where he will be a senior in business administration this fall.

"My college career is out—and so is football—if I get a baseball contract as late as it is with a big league club or one in a double AA minor league," declared Andy.

The 174-pound ace of the Temple backfield who finished 1940 tied with Harmon in the number of yards gained—1,824—was invited out by Shibe park yesterday for a tryout before Manager Bill McKeehan and Coach Hank Gowdy of the Cincinnati Reds. Rain spoiled the chance.

"I think I'm good enough for a double A league right now," declared Tomasic. "Hank Gowdy told me to come back today but I don't see how I can. I'm working, doing jobs around Temple stadium and I can't afford to lose time."

Nova, Who A Year Ago Couldn't Walk, Now Ready To Step Out Against Louis

Lou Nova... a lot of man

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor
POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Aug. 20—Win, lose or draw against Joe Louis at Yankee Stadium, Sept. 19, the story of Lou Nova's comeback from the grave is more remarkable than any one growing out of the battle possibly could be.

Looking at the confident and tanned Nova at Dr. Joe Bier's famous camp here, you wouldn't suspect that the tall Californian couldn't walk a block a year ago last June.

But Nova had suffered from Streptococcus infection for some time before Tony Galento stopped him in the 14th round in Philadelphia in September, 1939. The infection was the result of his squeezing a pipe on his arm and not having any alcohol to use as a disinfectant.

He looked fine before previous fights, but he knew he wasn't well. The brutal beating dealt him by Galento, whom Referee George Blake permitted to get away with everything in the book, put Nova in a hospital.

When Manager Ray Carlen was able to transport Nova to Woodland Clinic, near Sacramento, an arthritis condition set in. There he remained flat on his back for three months.

"Men have died from much less than what I had," beams the big collegian.

WORK WITH PRISONERS PUTS NOVA ON HIS FEET

It was well after the first of the year 1940 before Nova felt like accepting the invitation of his friend, Bill Lewis, to visit the hot springs at Carson City, where Bob Fitzsimmons knocked out Jim Corbett. Until he came into an inheritance recently, Lewis was warden of the Nevada state penitentiary.

Nova's body responded to the medicinal waters of Carson City, but it was late July before he was in shape to box.

A red hot boxing bug, Warden Lewis had a ring set up inside the prison walls, and Nova's first sparring partners since his preparation for the Galento catastrophe were one-time fighters who were prisoners.

"It was a perfect setup for a fellow struggling to get back on his feet in this business," says Nova. "No one could see me. Inmates gave me all the work I could use at the moment and two or three of them rubbed me down as well as Ray Arcei."

TOTALLY UNAFRAID AFTER WHAT HE'S BEEN THROUGH

Nova gradually lengthened his road work, but October rolled around before Pilot Carlen considered him fit to take the first step on the road back.

Nova got $350 for knocking out Johnny Erjavec in Oakland.

Exactly 11 months later he is fighting for the world heavyweight championship with the top prize $30 and the anticipated gate $750,000.

Back in New York and big time again in January, Nova dropped Pat Comiskey in the opening and closing heats, but went 10 rounds because he needed them.

In April he repeated his knockout of Max Baer to earn the Louis shot, and knocked out Jim Robinson in Minneapolis in June just to keep in trim.

Since then he has been at Poughkeepsie with the varsity crews and in the Maine woods.

"Me afraid of Joe Louis?" sighs Lou Nova.

"Not after what I've been through."

O'Daniel Has Cast Eleven Senate Votes

By L. T. EASLEY
WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—The new junior senator from Texas, W. Lee O'Daniel, took his seat Aug. 4, at the beginning of an unusual series of roll call votes on highly important issues.

During the two weeks he served before congress recessed, he answered 11 roll calls.

In some of those he went against the wishes of the Roosevelt administration—although there were no clear cut administration and anti-administration factions involved in any of the decisions. Some times he voted along with the state's senior senator, Tom Connally; sometimes to the contrary.

Those 11 votes give no fair basis for a safe guess as to the trend O'Daniel might follow in regard to legislative acts.

On Aug. 5, barely 24 hours after he took the oath of office, the senate voted on the Taft amendment to the draft extension bill. The administration opposed the amendment because it would have limited the extension of service to only six months. Connally voted against the amendment. So did O'Daniel. It was defeated.

This vote in itself gave no clue, however, as to O'Daniel's attitude toward the legislation. Shortly after that vote, he obtained the floor and made his maiden speech, pointing out that he was opposed to keeping selectees in service one year, six months or one day beyond the one-year term for which they originally were drafted.

The next day the senate voted on a proposal by Senator Burton (R.-R. I.), to limit the extension of the draft to one year. Both Connally and O'Daniel opposed this amendment.

On Aug. 7 the senate had four roll call votes on the draft bill.

It approved an amendment by Senator Thomas (D.-Utah), a compromise proposal to extend the service periods by 18 months. Administration forces agreed to this. Connally voted aye, O'Daniel in the negative.

It rejected a proposal by Senator Johnson (D.-Colo.) to give all enlisted selectees, reservists, guardsmen, and regulars $750 more per month. Johnson made the proposal after Senator Mead (D.-N. Y.) had suggested giving only selectees a raise, and that they get $10 more per month. Connally, along with administration leaders and economy-minded senators, voted against the Johnson amendment. O'Daniel supported the wage increase proposal.

A few minutes later the majority reversed itself on a similar but broader amendment—to give selectees, guardsmen, reservists, and regulars $10 more per month. The vote was 39 to 34. Connally stayed with his former views and voted against the increase. O'Daniel voted aye.

Then when the senate voted for final passage of the measure (SJR 95) to extend the length of service for 18 months, Connally voted in the affirmative, O'Daniel in the negative.

On Aug. 14 the senate again had the extension bill before it, to pass upon minor amendments which had been added in the house. The senate agreed to the changes and passed the bill in its final form. On that vote Connally again voted for the extension, O'Daniel against it.

In the midst of the extension fight, the senate on Aug. 6 voted to override the president's veto on the national defense highway bill. Both Connally and O'Daniel voted to override.

The house barely failed to pass the highway bill over the veto, and new legislation, with some of the appropriations to which the president objected, was offered in the senate.

Both Connally and O'Daniel voted on Aug. 15 against a proposal by Senator Vandenberg (R.-Mich.) to eliminate a $100,000,000 item in the revised bill for strategic highway construction. The amendment was rejected. Later the senate adopted unanimously a compromise proposal of Vandenberg's, reducing the item to $50,000,000. The bill now is pending in the house.

The Texas senators both voted the same day against an amendment by Senator Taft to a supplemental defense appropriation bill, calling for a reduction from $35,000,000 to $17,000,000 in an item for a new war department building. The amendment failed to pass. Both sup-

Four Killed In Texas Accidents

(By The Associated Press) Four persons were killed in automobile accidents in Texas yesterday.

Miss Rosa Lee Mallock, about 40, and T. W. Miller, 64, both of Clovis, N. M., were killed near Littlefield in an automobile collision. E. L. Roberts, Jr., of Amarillo, occupant of the other car, suffered a crushed chest and other injuries.

A car overturned when a tire blew out and killed Frank Williams, 70, and his wife, 65 of Temple, near Fredericksburg on the Austin highway.

Severe head wounds were suffered by their daughter, Mrs. Oscar Miles, 40, also of Temple. Slight injuries were suffered by Mrs. Miles' daughter, Juliette, and a friend, Mary Catherine Allen, 16. The three were placed in a Fredericksburg hospital.

The party was enroute to Temple from Utopia, near Uvalde.

Yep, A Texan Will Cuss The Weather Along With You

(By The Associated Press) "The difference between a Texan and a Californian," drawled a lank, weatherbeaten man to a Texas visitor, "is that a Texan will cuss the weather right along with you."

Here are some temperatures that Texans fussed about yesterday: Uvalde, 108 degrees—the season's high.

Braumont, 100 degrees—also a record for the summer (and it came on the heels of three days of 99-degree readings).

Laredo—108 degrees.
San Antonio—101 degrees.

Only Deeds Can Now Speak For France

The political strip-tease drearily executed for a year by the regime that claims to speak for the French people is drawing near its climax.

These interminable perorations, this endless succession of now-you-see-it-now-you-don'ts is growing tiresome.

There is nothing in it providing that France must set up a Fascist state; nothing providing that minority groups must be persecuted and hounded.

True, France was left little choice. Germany received the right to terminate the armistice at any time it considered that the French were failing to fulfill its armistice obligations.

But it is one thing to aid Hitler under compulsive force, because you are prostrate and helpless.

If France is merely a conquered country with no will except that exercised in Berlin, all right.

But a country in such a status must be treated by the world as such. France's acts, not Petain's words, must decide.

Julia In Cotton: When in silks my Julia goes, then, then methinks how sweetly flows that liquefaction of her clothes.

When in cotton Julia goes, she glorifies her ersatz hose, while Hitler-ward she thumbs her nose.

The Nation's Press

Assistant Attorney General Arnold's published views as to advertising, whether he intended it or not, have given to many people the impression that he regards it in general as more or less of an economic "waste."

What is waste? Waste is simply the employment of labor upon material to produce something that is not useful, or else the unnecessary destruction of something useful.

Is advertising useful? Advertising is an expression of two things—competition and variety of product or service.

But there is a deeper implication than that related merely to competition—that of variety. Most people would admit that standardization of anything means destruction of dynamism.

Let's be well done with this sort of childlessness before it starts. Let's have no more silly stuff such as "liberty cabbage" for kraut, or the change of any American towns from Berlin to "Libertyville."

Common Ground

This column contends there can be no satisfactory progress until we measure the shares of each man by the common yardstick of the God-given equal right to create and enjoy anything anyone else has a right to create and enjoy.

DEPRIVED OF ACCESS TO TOOLS AND NATURAL RESOURCES: The common expression by reformers and theorists is that those who do not have capital and equipment are being deprived of access to capital and equipment.

It is true that some workers are being deprived of access to natural resources and to the use of tools, but they are not being deprived of access of these tools by the owners, as the socialists and reformers and New Dealers would lead the workers to believe.

And, in fact, instead of benefiting the workers who deprive other workers of the access to these tools; the workers who are doing the depriving are eventually also hurting themselves.

Around Hollywood

BY PAUL HARRISON: HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 20—This is the day of opportunity for newcomers to Movietown, and players such as Kaaren Verne and Nancy Coleman can be glad of it.

Miss Coleman was here before, but was told to go back to the stage. That was only a year or so ago, and he actress presumably was talented enough.

So it wasn't that anybody doubted her ability. Production was slack at the time, players were plentiful, and studios didn't feel like taking expensive chances with new people.

Then the situation in Hollywood began to change. Executives, looking ahead to the big backlog of finished pictures they must pile up to do business under the government selling decree, began to worry about having enough players.

She entered on a work permit which was good only as long as she was employed. When Metro fired her, the future looked not only bleak but desperate.

TEX'S TOPICS

EDITOR'S NOTE: While Tex DeWesse is on vacation, this space is being filled each day by a different writer. Incidentally, DeWesse saw some of the copy before he left and said he had no desire to censor any of it. So here's today's guest columnist:

BY FRANK POSTER: Do you ever stop to consider the other fellows standpoint to the end that you might become a bit more considerate of him and what he has to put up with? Have you ever stopped to think for a moment, when you are so hard boiled that your lips almost crack when you talk, that if you were in the other fellows place and knew all about what he has to put up with you might mellow up a bit and not cut him entirely in two?

Why don't you like your neighbor better? Well, folks here is something to think about at least and there is some food for thought in it. The reason that you do not like your neighbor better, or at least one of the good reasons, is because you do not know him well. Have you ever had the experience of making up your mind about a person when you knew him only slightly, only to wake up later, after you had gotten well acquainted with him, to realize that he is not so bad after all?

We have a beautiful little park and to what better use could it be put. We would not forget the community effort now being made, nor fall to appreciate it, but it's your fault and mine that it is not serving all as it should. We have our Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis and church clubs, also our card clubs and so on, but the number is too limited for the individual and it is my opinion that all should combine their efforts to the end that general community get-togethers where all come and mingle can and would be a reality.

With the effort of the clubs now existing we do not need more at all, we could mark a record for these meetings that would be the envy of the entire Panhandle of Texas, and perhaps the entire state.

The trouble is that we expect the other fellow to do all the work and do not get behind community activities ourselves. Whatever the idea is, that is for the general good of all we say: It is a wonderful idea, and then set it idly by for John to put it over.

We can know each other much better and like each other much better, if we will make the effort to get together and really know the heart of the other fellow. This old poem is really true.

If I knew you and you knew me, If both of us could clearly see, And with an inner sight divine, The meaning of our heart and mine, I'm sure that we could differ less, And sure our hands in friendship, Our thoughts would pleasantly agree, If I knew you and you knew me.

Do you have more mosquitoes this year? Well, we sure do and I am wondering if it is my fault in part. One thing is sure, of course, we have had more rain, but another thing is also true, this causes more vegetation for hiding places and I have been negligent in cutting them down only where I want to live. Have you? Would it pay to cut all weeds?

Did you ever stop to consider that perhaps you are the only perfect person alive and therefore you fail to appreciate the defects of your less favored friends and neighbors.

Wouldn't it be fine if we all could see our own faults as clearly as we can the faults in our friends and customers? It would not be amiss if we would carry a mirror around when they felt that everyone, or most everyone was all wet, take out this mirror and make somewhat of a personal analysis of themselves, and perhaps our opinion of the other fellow would rapidly increase and we might find that he was not such a rascal after all.

The war and what we can do about it. Well, not so much after all but yet a very good lot. We can buy a bond. Maybe small it all makes do it, what a sum it all makes. We can talk, but another thing is not loyal. If one is not loyal, he or she has no right to the benefits of this country and should be sent to the very place they think is better.

To disagree with the President or the congress is a disloyal act in the least, but instead is the right and benefit, or one of them, of living in a free country where you can think and talk as you believe, but everything it grows to the place where everything in the world is better than the government in which you are living then it is disloyalty and you should change your flag. We can all watch for this kind of folks and while we cannot kill them or even jump on them to do bodily injury to them we can report them to the proper authority and have them investigated and if found guilty put them where all guilty should be. I believe I have the best country in all the world, I do not believe it is perfect or ever will be, but it is nearer perfect than any other in the world and I do not believe in putting up with folks that think and act like they believe this very thing about Germany, or any other land in the world, but rather make it possible and quickly so, that they be permitted to go to that land of their choice.

Behind The News In Washington

BY PETER EDSON: WASHINGTON, Aug. 20—Behind the rather surprising action of the Aluminum Company of America and the Tennessee Valley Authority in throwing their arms about each other's necks and making a deal to let TVA control the company's power resources in the upper Tennessee Valley is one of those strange romances of big business and big government that illustrates the old principle, "If you can't lick 'em, join 'em."

In this case, it applies both ways. The corporation and the government here lie down in the same river bed. But it's a legal wedding and the only shotgun aspects of the case are a rearmament program, and in such times you can't question the motives of anyone (by order of Bureau chief, for wanting to do everything possible to produce more aluminum.

Aluminum Company of America, hereinafter referred to as Alcoa, for short, has been having its troubles with the government and vice versa for several years. Alcoa has been operating as a monopoly and the company maintains it has never done anything to prevent anyone else from going into the business if it could raise the capital. And if the truth be known, Alcoa heaved a big sigh of relief when Reorganized Metals did enter the field to take the heat off this monopoly charge. In spite of the fact that without a competitor Alcoa has brought the price of aluminum from about $2 a pound in 1900 and 70 cents a pound in 1910 to 17 cents a pound in 1941, its profits have if anything been consistently good, and that has brought upon it the finger of New Deal suspicion.

SWORN STILL HANGS: In April, 1937, the anti-trust division of the Justice Department filed suit against Alcoa, charging the company with monopoly and a party to agreements with foreign companies, under which the production of aluminum in the United States was restricted. That trial lasted from June, 1939, to August 15, 1940, and it produced a mass of evidence and testimony that Judge Francis C. Caffey of New York hasn't been able to hand down his decision yet.

Whatever difficulties Alcoa may have had with Mr. Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold's division, and with Mr. Peter C. Nease, chief of the bureau of reorganized metals, and the dirty cracks that have been taken at the company by the defense moguls and various congressmen—which is another story altogether, with many misunderstandings and unfair accusations—there has never been a day in recent years that Alcoa has not had occasion to rise up and call the Tennessee Valley Authority blessed. Those two have got along, as business and government should.

The production of aluminum is largely a matter of electric power. One of Alcoa's big and rapidly growing bigger iron and sheet mills is at Alcoa, Tenn., near Knoxville, at the head of the TVA country. Long before TVA, even before Muscle Shoals, Alcoa was in the upper Tennessee valley building big dams of its own to generate power of its own to make aluminum.

In October, 1940, Alcoa filed with the Federal Power Commission a notice that it intended to build another dam in this area, a $50 million project it had been planning for years, and which it spent $2.5 million acquiring site and making survey.

A month later, FPC replied that for this project, it would be necessary for Alcoa to take out a license, a federal government procedure not required on its own dams. Taking out a license meant that Alcoa would have to agree to turn the project over to the government at the end of 80 years. In other words, it meant that the company would have to write off this investment at the rate of $1 million a year, which would be next to impossible for any one to do.

ALCOA CONSIDERS WITH offers to OPM and TVA that it would take out the license if the government would assist in financing the project, or that it would sell the project to TVA. Or it would co-operate with the government in any other way that it could, just so it could get the benefits of the 200,000 kilowatts of energy necessary to operate its expanded Alcoa plant.

Out of this impasse came the present deal between TVA and Alcoa. It is a 20 year renewable contract, too long and too complicated to go into in detail, but briefly Alcoa gets the benefits of the 200,000 kilowatts of energy necessary to operate its expanded Alcoa plant.

The immediate benefits to the defense effort will be by pooling the TVA and Alcoa power, energy will be made available to manufacture a maximum additional 22 million pounds of aluminum annually, and bring the total potential capacity to more than 200 million pounds a year.

SERIAL STORY SECRET VOYAGE

BY JOSEPH L. CHADWICK

YESTERDAY: The stranger of- fers Jim Mallory $25,000 if he will tell him the location of the Aurora and break his contract with Jeffrey Hammond. Jim asks if Eric Forbes is supplying the money; the stranger says he is not. Jim refuses to supply the money; the stranger threatens trouble and leaves. Jim tells Curly to follow the man, but Curly loses him in a Miami bar. The Aurora finally sails and Jim goes below in a rubber diving suit to look over the Sonora. He finds the bridge wrecked and carried off by fire or explosion. Jim plans to go down the following day in a metal suit. He tells the whole thing with Curly-Hammond and Forbes not wanting the Sonora salvaged, the crew being sent to China, Mary Larsen's curiosity, the careful talker's bribe. He decides there's something on the Sonora.

radio Coast Guard headquarters and let them know our position, just in case. "No, not that. Hammond wanted this kept secret. We'll keep a double watch tonight. Whatever the play, it won't catch us napping." He went to his cabin and took a revolver from the desk. He knew that Curly also had a gun, but the Aurora had no other arms. This wasn't a pleasant spot. Jim's face was darkly intent as he considered what might happen. He grew a little sore, thinking that he was about to be hijacked when his hands were all but tied.

of the Sonora that nothing more could be surprising. Jim Mallory's expression showed nothing. "The after hold, then?" "If the ore is there it's slim pickings. The Sonora is a small tub, and even a full cargo of manganese wouldn't have made you rich. Are you going to cut into the aft?" "I'll tear the Sonora apart," Jim replied, "and if I don't get my money out of her I'll have a chat with Mr. Jeffrey Hammond." "You have a written agreement with him?" "Yes. But if there's no salvage I can't collect a cent." Blacksheep opened the door and stuck his ebony head in. "Spike stuek, a boat am comin'."

EMPTY HOLD CHAPTER IX

THE Aurora rode out a gale during the next three days. Jim made his second descent to the sunken ship when the sea calmed, and found that task had become more difficult. Curly came down with him the following day. They began cutting huge holes in the hull. They wore metal suits, with lines fastened to the Aurora's winches by a boom. It was slow work, cutting through steel plates with cutters, and they couldn't stay down long at a time. Finally Curly suggested they use dynamite to hasten the work. They planted the charge late that afternoon. They phoned the crew to haul them to the surface then, and when they got out of their grotesque metal suits Jim set off the charge.

THE more he thought about it, the more uneasy he became. He grew suspicious of Hammond. The man might have pulled a fast one on him. Hammond himself might have that schooner out, and Hammond might be back of the man with the careful voice and the careless money. Jim thought a lot about that during the night while he stood watch on the Aurora's bridge, but gradually Hammond's actions seemed less suspicious. The key was the girl, Mary Larsen. She wasn't working with Hammond. Jim was sure she was in with the moneyed man. Jim's anger increased as he thought of Mary Larsen. She had tried to play him for a sucker; she was stringing along with that careful talker; she had fallen for Eric Forbes, was probably in New York now as his secretary. She wasn't worth being sore about, Jim tried to tell himself, but the trouble was he was in love with her.

JIM picked up the revolver at the desk and went on deck. The craft was far off across the blue water, but he was sure it was not the schooner he had seen the night before. He went up to the chartroom for classes, then from the bridge studied the approaching boat. Curly came up, asking, "What do you make of it, Spike?" "It's a yacht. Hammond's, I think. And I hope so. I want to talk with that man." The yacht boe down on the salvage boat. It was trim of line, and gleaming white. It was quite a bit larger than the Aurora. Through his glasses, Jim could see "Hammond Lines" lettered on its solitary funnel. "Put down a boat," Jim said to Curly. "I'm going aboard her." "It may be a trap, Spike. You've led him to the Sonora's position, and we know somebody wanted badly to know where she went down."

The water boiled as the blast went off and the Aurora's hull gave a shudder. Bits of wreckage floated up. Curly observed, "Now all we need is a bottom to put the ore in." And, as though in answer, one of the crew shouted, "Ship to starboard!" Jim saw a ship, crawling like an insect across the horizon. He went to the chartroom and got binoculars. His face clouded as he examined the craft through the glasses. He said, "It's that Cuban schooner, Curly. The one we met a couple of months ago, before we found the Sonora." "And that means trouble, eh?" Curly asked. "It's probably my careful-voiced friend," Jim kept watching the schooner. It was Diesel-engined, and it traveled fast. "It's keeping to its course, and it'll pass us by miles."

"I'll be back tonight, Spike. It'll be back. I'd suggest that you

"This is no trap, Hammond wouldn't work that way." Jim went to his cabin and changed into fresh linen and a white suit. When he came on deck again, the yacht was standing by a quarter of a mile off. Curly had launched a small boat with one of the crew at the oars. Jim went over the side and stepped into the boat. Hammond hailed him as his boat came alongside, then shook his hand as he stepped aboard. The man said, "Any luck, Mallory?" "No luck at all," Jim said. "Neither good nor bad." Over Hammond's shoulder he saw Lois, darkly lovely, with excitement in her eyes. And beyond Lois he saw Mary Larsen. And that gave him a jolt. Mary met his gaze steadily, with laughter in her eyes.

"I'll be back tonight, Spike. It'll be back. I'd suggest that you

Soldiers Urged To Acquire Skill In Use Of Camouflage

WITH ARMY IN ARKANSAS, Aug. 20 (AP)—The second army introduced the use of aerial photography today in an attempt to make its soldiers from top general to buck private acutely conscious of the necessity of acquiring skill in camouflage. Air pictures, used generally by intelligence officers for gauging the positions of enemy troops, will be employed throughout the six weeks of maneuvers in Arkansas and Louisiana to gather material for teaching soldiers in the ranks how to better conceal their actions. Captain Van Brokaw, second army camouflage officer, said pictures of concealed positions would be taken freely of troops during the war games and in addition eight specially prepared situations would be photographed for specific illustrations. The start today of first large scale daylight troop movements in the maneuvers offered the first opportunity for aerial photography. With a stress of camouflage, three full divisions under Maj. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., seventh army corps commander, moved westward in mid-morning against an enemy force represented by the 107th Ohio cavalry—with 1,500 men—under Col. Woods King of Cleveland. The 25th (Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska) division formed the center of the 40-mile front, with the 33rd (Illinois) division on the right and the 27th (New York) division on the left.

Child Tells About Murder At Chandler

CHANDLER, Okla., Aug. 20 (AP)—Armed with only a sketchy description of the man believed to have strangled 18-year-old Billie Grayson, peace officers widened their search today. Shortly after the victim's nude body was found lying across a grave in Chandler cemetery, 12-year-old Helen Grayson told officers, she fled after she saw a stranger grasp Miss Grayson by the neck Sunday night. She described the man as about 30 to 35 years old, fairly tall, of dark complexion and having a thin face. She said she and Miss Grayson were on their way home from Warwick about 11 p. m. Sunday when the stranger picked them up in his car. "He kept asking me if there were many houses in that section," she told Deputy Sheriff Boyd Hicks. "When I said 'No' he drove a ways and stopped. I jumped out of the car and ran. Billie tried to get out, too, but he grabbed her by the neck. That is the last I saw of her." The girl said she fled to a nearby farmhouse, too frightened to give the alarm. Dr. J. W. Adams, county health

Counties Will Share In Road Bond Surplus

AUSTIN, Aug. 20 (AP)—Each of Texas' 254 counties will share in distribution Sept. 10 of a $2,390,000 surplus in the county and road district indebtedness fund.

Payments for the current fiscal year ending Aug. 31 are made on the basis of a formula involving the area, population, automobile registration and lateral road mileage of each county.

The law authorizing distribution of the surplus expires Aug. 31 and currently is the basis of discussions concerning a probable special session of the legislature. The statute becomes inoperative because the legislature failed to reenact it at the recent general session.

Known generally as the road bond assumption law, it authorizes the state to pay the debt service on county and road district bonds issued on the state highway network. After payment of the debt and retention of $3,000,000 as a permanent revolving fund the surplus is allotted to counties on the formula basis.

Secretary George A. Hight of the board of county and road district indebtedness said distribution of this year's surplus would bring to $4,800,000 the amount shared by counties in the two years the surplus distribution has been operating.

The road bond fund is financed from one cent of the four cent state gasoline tax. The surplus shared by counties may be used by the subdivisions for construction of lateral roads or payment of debt on such roads if the debt was incurred before Jan. 1, 1939.

LONGVIEW, Aug. 20 (AP)—If various functions cannot reach an agreement on the road bond assumption bill, it is nevertheless Gov. Coke Stevenson's duty to call a special legislative session to make an appropriation to carry out the present law, Judge Merritt H. Gibson of Gregg county, president of the Texas County Judges and Commissioners association, declared yesterday.

At the same time Judge Gibson denied that the executive committee of the association had criticized the governor's attempts to compromise the bill.

"The idea is ridiculous," he said. "On the other hand, we feel that it is a happy situation in which members of the legislature and citizens of this state can feel free to discuss public questions with the governor."

He declared, "We applaud his efforts to compromise. We have tendered him our cooperation in accomplishing that purpose and made him further suggestions following our Austin conference."

Pride Of Native Land Heeded In Selectee Setup

There'll always be an Austria and there'll always be a Czechoslovakia, Poland, Denmark, Norway, Holland, Belgium, and a France, in the opinion of the state selective service system.

This idea developed from some foreign-born registrants, in filling out questionnaires, listing the name of conquering Germany as the country of their birth.

Reason they did this was that they felt compelled to do so, to make the record authentic, no matter how distasteful it was to those whose native countries have been victims of Nazi aggression.

"This assumption," declared General J. Wait Page, state selective service director, "is wrong and registrants who have previously given their nationality as that of the dominating or occupying country rather than that of their subjugated native country may, upon request to their local board, amend their records as to nationality."

By way of example, General Page cited that a Czech filling out his questionnaire since the conquest of his country by Germany does not have to designate his birth as German. He may record it as Czechoslovakia.

The provisions of the ruling also apply to natives of Austria, General Page said, although the German annexation of Austria was officially recognized by the United States.

There are only three foreign born registrants in Gray county, of whom two are Mexicans and the other a Canadian.

GESUNDHEIT!

There was small comfort today for Gray county residents who are hay fever sufferers, in the information that the next six weeks is the time they can expect the worst attacks. Particles of pollen from ragweed, goldenrod and miscellaneous weeds have tickled Gray county noses like that of the girl above. It's hay fever time across the nation, and the allergic have already identified themselves with the familiar phrase "er-choo!"

The total length of oil, gasoline, and natural gas pipe lines in the United States would make almost 13 loops around the earth.

There are about 150 types of cotton stockings available to American women.

Rayburn Applauds Historic Meeting

DENISON, Aug. 20 (AP)—Speaker Sam Rayburn today applauded the meeting between President Roosevelt and Winston Churchill and declared the defense program had reached its stride.

"I think it was a fine thing for the leader of this country and the leader of Great Britain to get together and have an understanding about help this country can give short of war," Rayburn said in an interview.

The speaker appeared in a cheerful mood as he said the manufacture of airplanes, tanks and other war materials was going ahead rapidly.
