Britain Gives Berlin Worst Bombing Since War Began

German Press Assails Raid As 'Insanity'

Planes Bomb Nazi Capital From Midnight To Dawn

BERLIN, Sept. 8 (AP)—An early morning British air raid in which at least 27 inhabitants of Berlin were killed was played up under two column headlines today and one newspaper, the Nachtausgabe, bitterly assailed the attack as "especially low-down and contemptible."

Ominous hints that the Luftwaffe soon would get around to reprisals appeared in the press. The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung declared, "this infamy will be atoned!" Obviously with the permission of authorities, the press went beyond the customary mere publication of the high command communique. At least a column was given to description of the attack which the British said lasted from midnight almost to dawn and was the heaviest RAF blow on Berlin so far.

Emphasis, however, was on "the exemplary discipline of civilians" and the care given victims. Besides 27 dead announced by informed sources, a number of others were injured and fear was expressed that the number of dead might increase.

Of 17 British planes downed during the night, three were said to have been bagged over Berlin.

"Explosives and incendiaries were dropped by the British aviators on residential sections where, almost exclusively, workers' families live," said the Nachtausgabe.

The newspaper also denounced among them, old people, women and children, are lamented victims of a species of warfare which shrinks back at no crime, no murder."

The newspaper Der Angriff gave this description: "We stop before a school where all victims of the attack are being collected. In a class room, a Nazi women's organization is already at work making mountains of sausage sandwiches. Milk is warmed, coffee prepared. . . In another room we find the women of old people, children, young mothers. "The British insanity in a few seconds has robbed them of all they owned and have saved as fruits of their labor. Some wear bandages."

Cotton Crop Seen As 10,710,000 Bales

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—The Agriculture Department today forecast this year's cotton crop at 10,710,000 running bales, excluding lint, compared with 10,817,000 bales forecast a month ago, 12,556,000 bales produced last year and an average of 13,246,000 bales in the ten years, 1930-39.

The condition of the crop on Sept. 1 was 65 per cent of a normal, indicating a yield of 226.8 pounds to the acre, compared with a condition of 72 per cent a month ago and an indicated yield then of 224.4 pounds. The condition was 74 per cent of a normal a year ago and the final yield, 252.5 pounds, while the 1939-39 ten-year Sept. 1, average condition was 63 per cent and the average yield, 205.4 pounds.

The census bureau reported that 504,125 running bales, excluding lint, are being produced as half bales, of cotton of this year's growth had been ginned to Sept. 1, compared with 605,764 bales a year ago, and 1,401,691 bales two years ago.

School Enrollment Higher Than In 1940

Despite a small decrease shown in the last scholastic census, enrollment in Pampa's schools is expected to be greater than last year, a preliminary survey today revealed. To noon a total of 2,757 students had registered and that didn't include the high school, where enrollment is expected to be higher because of delay in completing the new building.

Junior high, which this year will include the sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth grades, had a total of 1,227 students enrolled while the four ward schools reported a total of 1,430 students. No figures were available from other schools but complete preliminary figures will be made available following a meeting of principals tomorrow morning. With students already enrolled, and an anticipated 750 in high school, enrollment this year should be close to 3,400. At the close of the

Damaged Nazi U-Boat Captured By British

LONDON, Sept. 8 (AP)—A German submarine has been captured in the Atlantic, damaged by aerial attack which forced it to the surface, the admiralty and air ministry announced today.

The U-boat lay in a gale-tossed sea while the British kept guard in the sky overhead until British warships could reach the scene and take over and bring the prize "successfully into harbor." (The circumstances were such as might attend entrapment of the German submarine which clashed with the U. S. destroyer Greer, but the joint London communique failed to note any connection, giving neither the precise location of the air attack, nor the date. Naval authorities in London, however, expressed doubt that the captured submarine was the one which fought with the Greer.)

Autumn Weather Arrives Today

Timed right with the start of school, the weatherman handed Pampa and vicinity typical autumn weather today with a cloudy sky and a temperature in the 60's. The cooler weather was doubly welcome, as it came after a Sunday that was dusty, windy, and hot. Sunday's maximum was 92 degrees, minimum 70. Maximum wind velocity was 23 miles an hour.

Henderson Goes To Bat With Dies

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—Martin Dies and Leon Henderson locked horns today over the question of whether the boss of the Office of Price Administration and four aides should be fired from the government service on the ground that they held or condoned Communist views.

Dies, house member from Texas and chairman of the committee on un-American activities, made public yesterday a letter to President Roosevelt urging that Henderson and the four employes be dismissed immediately.

To this Henderson promptly replied that he would answer the questions only to the Civil Service Commission, and if the commission held the employes to be unfit he would discharge them as soon as he could get to a telephone. He added, however, that summary punitive action on the part of one man's opinion is as un-American a procedure as anything to which Mr. Dies has yet given his attention."

Russia Will Send 390,000 Germans On Volga To Siberia

MOSCOW, Sept. 8 (AP)—The Soviet government, declaring the lower Volga had become a haven for Nazi spies and saboteurs, directed today that some 390,000 persons of German extraction be uprooted from their homes in that area and resettled in various parts of Siberia.

Those affected by the mass migration order—descendants of German families whose forefathers the Great Invited to settle along the Volga in 1872 as a barrier to Tatar invasion—will be given land and state aid to start life anew, the government said.

The migration was decreed, it was explained, as the result of an investigation by military authorities which disclosed "tens of thousands of diversionists and spies among the German population of the Volga."

AAA Urges Lifting Of Gas Curfew

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—The American Automobile Association urged today that the Eastern seaboard's 7 p. m. gasoline "curfew" be lifted, on the ground that it was an "unnecessary inconvenience" which had little or no effect in conserving the East's supply of motor fuel.

This was one of several recommendations made by Russel E. Singer, general manager of the association, to the special senate committee investigating the petroleum supply.

"It is already evident," he said, "that none of the savings by retail outlets in the form of lower operating costs is being passed along to consumers."

Singer also urged that the committee continue to function for the duration of the emergency "to assure a carrying-through of the steps already taken to relieve the oil shortage and also to guarantee to the public that all concerned meet their responsibility to the users of petroleum products."

In another recommendation he asked the committee to "use the full weight of its great influence to see that any threatened gasoline shortage is not used as a means of boosting prices." He said his organization had found "widespread disregard" by gasoline retailers of a "fair price schedule" promulgated by the federal price administration.

Chairman Maloney (D-Conn.) announced at the opening of the hearing that the committee would attempt to wind up its immediate inquiry tomorrow and make a report to the senate Thursday.

He placed in the record a letter from J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, which said that the railroads were moving promptly to have emergency rate reductions on petroleum products put into effect at the earliest possible date.

The railroads announced during the day that they had applied to the Interstate Commerce commission for authority to make emergency reductions in freight rates on petroleum from West to East. Immediate action on the application was asked. The proposed reductions would expire December 31, 1942, unless cancelled or extended.

Baylor Bans Smoking Among Women Students

WACO, Sept. 8 (AP)—Baylor women's dormitories hung out the "full house" sign today—even though there will be strict enforcement of a no-smoking rule for university girls.

No girl who smokes will be allowed to enroll, and those who violate the no-smoking pledge will be subject to suspension from the university, officials said.

The school's 97th annual session will begin Sept. 12 with arrival of freshmen for week-end orientation and aptitude tests.

'Low-Down, Contemptible,' Yells Berlin

Britain Gets Gory Revenge For First Raid Year Ago

(By The Associated Press) LONDON, Sept. 8.—One year from the night of the Luftwaffe's first mass attack on London, hundreds of planes of the American-strengthened RAF rode in moonlight over Europe and bombed Berlin from midnight to almost dawn today.

It was the heaviest raid ever made on the capital of the Reich, the British Air Ministry said. The British lost 20 bombers out of what was described as a "very powerful" raiding force. Four German night fighters were said to have been shot down. One British fighter was missing from attacks on German-held continental air-dromes. A communique said that "a great number of high explosives and incendiary bombs were dropped" in Berlin and in particular, what the air ministry called the first big aerial assault on the British capital.

On the night of Sept. 7-8, the Germans pounded London for eight hours and 18 minutes, losing 65 planes, according to the British count. In particular, what the air ministry called the first big aerial assault on the British capital.

(Signs of the intensity of the raid came from Berlin itself in acknowledgement of 27 fatalities, damage to apartment houses and accounts in the Berlin press of the effect on the population whose reaction, it was said, ranged from "exemplary discipline" to the fear shown by women. The Berlin newspaper Nachtausgabe called the attack "especially low-down and contemptible."

The air ministry news service said the attackers found the lakes to the west of Berlin shining in bright moonlight.

"We could see the place like a map," said one flight sergeant. "Soon there were many fires, with one in particular, a blazing large and fierce in the heart of the city as a further guide to bombers."

Crews returning from the German capital said that many big fires burst around a main railway station and their glow could be seen long after the bombers set out for home.

The German defenses were strong. Anti-aircraft was virtually incessant and stopped only to allow the approach of German night fighters.

"We were clamped in the large cone of a searchlight," one gunner said. "Jerry was pumping flak as hard as he could. Suddenly the flak stopped and I saw an ME-110 coming up on our starboard quarter."

"I gave it a burst and saw my tracer enter a starboard engine. The 'ME' caught fire and crashed. It passed so close I thought it was going to hit us."

The press association called the Berlin raid a powerful force, the heaviest since the war began, but no figures were issued either for the number of planes or the bomb tonnage.

The forays, highlighting a week-end of RAF attacks on a front ranging from Norway to France, were said to have been carried out in bright moonlight and good results were reported observed everywhere.

Governor To Submit Only One Subject

AUSTIN, Sept. 8 (AP)—Governor Coke R. Stevenson today completed his message to be delivered to a special session of the legislature convening tomorrow and reiterated he would submit no subjects except county road bond financing.

Meanwhile, legislators were arriving, and numerous informal conferences, among themselves and with the governor, were held.

The governor had said that his message would recommend a plan to compromise the controversial bond matter which would have the support of a majority of both senate and house of representatives.

The issue, which caused a deadlock in the general session which ended July 4, is over disposal of a $2,500,000 surplus in the county and district road bond indebtedness fund.

Asked at a press conference about submission of other subjects, Governor Stevenson pointed out that his proclamation calling the special session had not contained the customary "savings" clause.

Such a clause usually says the legislature may consider subjects not named but which the governor may submit from time to time.

At special sessions only specific submissions of the governor may, under the Constitution, be considered.

Closely tied to the matter of additional subjects was that of the session's length. If only bond financing was considered the session might end in comparatively short time. The constitutional limit for a special session is 30 days.

Governor Stevenson declared that the subject of appropriations for miscellaneous purposes had not been opened.

He expressed the opinion that any bills on bond financing normally would go to the Highways and Motor Traffic or the State Affairs committees of both houses.

Rivers, Harbors Bill Assailed As Super Pork Barrel

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—A senate fight against a new rivers and harbors bill was in the making today even before the measure cleared a house committee, and Senator Clark (D-Mo.) called the legislation "the most colossal pork barrel proposition in history."

The bill, which now contains authorizations for 175 projects totaling $675,000,000, is pending before the House Rivers and Harbors committee. The committee will consider an additional 50 projects when hearings resume Sept. 22.

The senate has only routine business on its calendar today and the house convened for another nominal session to satisfy parliamentary requirements. On the committee front, the senate committee investigating the eastern petroleum situation had the task of itself, but tomorrow another senate group will open an inquiry into accusations that the motion pictures and the radio have been used for propaganda favoring entry of the United States into the war.

House and senate conferees will get together Wednesday on the task of ironing out the differences between the house and senate versions of the huge new defense tax bill. As passed by the senate Friday, the tax bill calls for $3,538,900,000 in new revenue—$367,500,000 more than provided in the house version. The house conferees will not be appointed officially until next Monday when the chamber ends its legislative vacation, but Speaker Rayburn who is in Texas, notified them to go ahead with the work as though they had been appointed.

Wickard Calls For Record Production Of Crops In 1942

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard announced today a 1942 farm program calling for "the largest production in the history of American agriculture" to meet the expanding food needs of this country and nations resisting the Axis.

Production goals set up under the program call for the largest output in history of such vitamin and mineral-rich products as pork, eggs, evaporated milk, dry skin milk, chickens, poultry, vegetables, and such edible-oil producing crops as peanuts and soybeans.

Although providing for bigger crops in many products, the 1942 program continues rigid production and marketing controls for commodities of which there are large reserves, namely cotton, wheat and tobacco.

The sharply-expanded food production program is based, Wickard said, on a "thorough canvass of the needs for improved nutrition in this country and the needs of the nations that still stand between this country and Hitler."

Germans Seize 100 Jews In Paris

VICHY, Unoccupied France, Sept. 8 (AP)—More than 100 Jews and two prominent French lawyers, one of them a minister of justice in the old republic, were reported today to have been seized as hostages by German occupation authorities in Paris because of attacks on members of the German army.

It was in these new mass arrests that the Germans took the two once-prominent lawyers, former Justice Minister Pierre Masse, who is a Jew, and Theodore Valensi, a former deputy, who is a native of Corsica.

$60,000 Suit Filed In Groom Car Accident

Damages for $60,000 are asked in a suit filed in 31st district court here, styled Mary E. Work, individually and as next friend of George Work, Barbara Ann and Ruth Work, minors, plaintiffs, vs. W. R. Oldham.

The suit is based on an automobile collision on U. S. 56, one mile east of Jericho, at 8 p. m. July 30 of this year, in which three persons were killed and six injured.

Plaintiffs allege negligence on the part of Oldham, claiming that he was driving at an unlawful and excessive speed, given as 65 miles an hour, according to plaintiffs petition.

It is also claimed that Oldham failed to sound the horn on his automobile, failed to apply brakes just prior to the collision, and that just before the accident Oldham veered suddenly to the left, getting over into the south half of the road, then failed to get back on his right hand side, according to the petition.

Plaintiffs allege that the Work automobile, driven by George Edwin Work, husband of Mary E. Work, was being driven at a speed of 35 miles an hour and was headed east, while the other vehicle was going west.

In the accident, Mr. Work was killed, as was Laurence Russell Work, 10, son of the couple. Another son, George Work, 14, suffered a disfiguring scalp wound, according to plaintiffs petition. Mrs. Oldham was the third person killed in the crash.

Extent of injuries suffered by those riding in the Work automobile, which was demolished in the accident, is listed by the plaintiffs:

Mrs. Work, brain injury, concussion, unconscious for several days after the accident, fractured right arm, injury to optical nerve that means, according to plaintiffs petition, the virtual loss of sight from the right eye.

In listing the amount asked, plaintiffs claim hospital and medical bills totaling $1,500, have been incurred, and that an additional $1,000 will be needed for this purpose; and funeral bills totaling $1,000.

Assassin Wounds Jap Vice Premier

Blow to ties between the democracies and Japan was the attempted assassination of Baron Kichiro Hiranuma, 75, above, Nipponese vice premier and friend of Britain and the U. S. The statesman was gravely wounded.

"commit no folly by bringing Japan into by seeking the advantage of other countries."

In discussing public opinion in the United States, he warned the Japanese against concluding that isolationist talk meant American opinion was split.

"The American method of free discussion of public issues, he said, generally results in greater unity and stronger support of the national government.

Japs Told To Depend On Own Efforts Alone

TOKYO, Sept. 8 (AP)—Gyokuzo Hanazawa, editor and proprietor of the semi-official Diplomatic Review, declared today that "Japan should depend upon no one but herself," in a statement aimed against Japanese who talk of independence upon the Axis or other allies.

Writing in the newspaper Chugai Shogyo, Hanazawa said Japanese statesmen should survey the general world situation and calculate Japan's own interests. He was confident, he said, that Japan's leaders would

Two Air Corps Officers Killed

ROCKVILLE, Ind., Sept. 8 (AP)—Two army air corps officers were killed yesterday when their two-seated training plane plunged to a woods during a violent thunderstorm.

The accident at dawn near Vivalta, southeast of here, killed Lieut. Col. Rufus B. Davidson, 48, and Major Fred M. Murchison, 43, of Scott Field, Ill., both experienced fliers.

Highway From Matamoros To Nogales Advocated

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 8 (AP)—A concerted campaign for construction of a modern highway along the Mexico-United States frontier from Matamoros to Nogales has been organized by Chambers of Commerce in the five border states it would serve.

The National Confederation of Chambers of Commerce reported support of the state government of Tamaulipas, Nuevo Leon, Coahuila, Chihuahua and Sonora would be sought for the campaign.

Mexico now has no important east-west thoroughfare in the north. Matamoros is opposite Brownsville, Texas, and Nogales, opposite Nogales, Arizona.

The campaign will emphasize the tourist and trade benefits Mexico would receive from such a highway, the National Confederation said.

Modern locomotives pull as much weight as could be pulled by 25,000 men.

Last chance to get your name in the new telephone book

If you want your name in the new telephone directory, there is no time to be lost.

Tomorrow the directory goes to press and that will be your last chance to order telephone service and get your name in the book.

The new directory will be the telephone "Who's Who" of the city for months.

Your friends will look for your name there . . . New acquaintances may search its columns for you.

Business acquaintances, customers, prospective employers, will turn to it when they want to get in touch with you.

To be in this book may mean much to you in comfort, pleasure and the general satisfaction of living.

But they're only superficially different, for the significant fact still remains—right still finds defenders! There still are people—now as hundreds of years ago—with the courage and vision that it takes to defend the Right. What Price Cheap Power

Prime argument for public ownership of electric plants is "lower rates." The agitators for power socialism always hold out rosy promises of the great rate reductions that may be expected once the people vote themselves into debt for a public electric system.

However, save for a few very rare exceptions, these promises are almost never fulfilled. The rate advantage, as a rule, actually rests with the private utilities.

An excellent statistical example of that recently came from California. The principal private utility in that state pays 21.9 cents out of every dollar, in taxes. If it were tax-free, as are government-owned utilities, it thus could immediately reduce its rates 21.9 percent without affecting its net revenues.

If the United States were in the British position, two years deep in a desperate war, we might feel that we had to close our eyes to the monstrosities of the Russian regime, to its very recent oppression and its exposure to it by war, and to the frightfulness of a peace which Stalin could dictate.

The choice would be a hard one, but if our government and our country engaged at close quarters with a mighty military machine which had overrun all our neighbors and was at our door, we might be forced to say that we must do everything we could to help the enemy which was weaker against the enemy which was stronger.

THREE KINDS OF INFLATION If people understood the effects of inflation, a large part of our troubles would be solved.

In the August issue of Debt, Inc., Lambert Schuyler, who wrote "Think Fast America," has the following to say: "In the first place, there are three kinds of inflation: (1) credit inflation, meaning the lending of huge sums of money to individuals, corporations or to the government."

"Now the state is set for the last of the three kinds of inflation, (3) money inflation. Loss of faith in the banks means that people no longer deposit their money, they draw it out. And thus it is no longer available to the government which in this 'new emergency' needs to borrow very heavily to stave off extreme suffering or revolution. In this extremity, the leaders issue fiat money, they cut the silver coin in two, as Nero did, or they print greenbacks by the bale and use them for relief. That kind of inflation, direct descendant of the other two, has won for the whole inflation family a very bad name."

It will be noted that between the final stages of printing money, or wild bank credit, which is the same thing as printing money, Mr. Schuyler has pointed out that following the first two comes deflation. The question most people want to know, is when this deflation will take place or whether it has already taken place.

By JOHN SELBY "Pino Country." By Haniel Long (Duell, Sloan & Pearce: $3). Perhaps there is magic in the idea of book series. The publishing field is littered with series dealing with various departments of American life and history.

Mr. Long's territory overlaps, to some extent, the district covered by his predecessor. The pino country is chiefly in Arizona and New Mexico, and mostly in the northern halves of these states.

With such topography, such problems and in some districts such accessibility it is not strange that many remarkable things have happened in the pino country.

Behind The News In Washington

If the outfit could have been named Defense Economic Board, DEB would have meant something and had a certain amount of significance.

Indications are that the board will let the executive director do all the work. Perkins is still confined to his house by doctor's orders, but an exceedingly active young mind has been racing all over the globe.

Announcement of the creation of EDB was the signal for any number of bankers, business men, and broad brains from the colleges to offer their services.

He is known as one of the hardest working men in Washington. Ten and 12-hour days, with a cup of coffee brought to his desk every few hours.

Since Milo Perkins was named as director of EDB, there has been a new interest in his speeches and writings. He is only 41, a self-made business man, a telephone salesman while working his way through high school in his home town of Milwaukee.

WASHINGTON QUOTATION MARKS One quotation from Milo Perkins, new director of the Economic Defense Board, perhaps expresses best the ideas of the man who will guide this important government agency in waging economic warfare—now, and perhaps after the war is over:

"In ever civilization of the past, bar none, if you took the most that it was possible to produce, and divided it among all who were alive to share it, we would have always a lousy standard of living."

"Within your lifetime and mine, however, we have entered an era dominated by the machine and test tube in which, if we produced all that we could and divided it among the people who are here to share it, we would come out with a very good standard of living for the first time in all history."

"That's the most important material thing that's happened to the human race since the discovery of fire and the invention of the wheel."

SERIAL STORY

BRIDE FROM THE SKY

BY HELEN WELSHIMER

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER I

JUDY ALLEN met Sandy Ammerman quite by accident at LaGuardia Airport that night. It was damp and the beacon lights shone through a mist that dimmed the radiance of the incoming planes.

One minute Judy's bright eyes were focused on the timetable in her hands. A famous courtier, an exile, was due on the Clipper, and she had come to interview the refugee. The next minute a tall young aviator, gray-eyed and laughing, swung Judy around.

"Going somewhere tonight, Judy?" he asked, strong brown fingers closing over hers. "If you aren't, how about tagging along with me?"

Because Sandy Ammerman's touch always made Judy's heart swing like a pendulum whose beat was growing wild, Judy covered her confusion with gaiety.

"No, darling, I stay places. But you're in uniform. That means up. Where?"

The laughter didn't leave the gray eyes, but his fingers closed possessively on her arm as he swung her around. "Then you'll see me off, won't you? It won't take two minutes. Not even half of one. The engine's warmed up, the propeller's spinning..."

"But, Sandy, where are you going?" she asked, as he guided her into the wet night. "Yesterday you thought you were taking a technical job with an aeronautics company—staying on the ground mostly, I mean. And—Oh, Sandy, won't you ever stay put?"

Judy knew the gray eyes darkened, knew that a little pulse beat sharply at Sandy's temple, but the man's voice was low, slow, mocking as usual when he spoke.

"Sorry, honey, but that's the way I am. It's San Francisco tonight, and I'm testing a new oil for Sikways, Incorporated."

"Sure it's safe?" Even as she asked, Judy reminded her heart that it was completely absurd for it to grow excited because a perfectly capable aviator, who had done outside inverted loops and turned a somersault in a condemned ship to show that it was safe, was starting out again. He would reach Mars or the Municipal Airport at San Francisco or any place he chose.

Now the man's voice grew serious, a little tender. "No, Judy, not safe as you know safety. You like a desk, your name on the door of your office, your by-line in that journal about waistlines and beauty creams. I prefer the sky."

"I know..." She had knocked around the stars with Sandy. Never on a rainy night, though. Never when there was no shining web to catch a sleepy moon. But there was no time for remembrances now. In a few seconds Sandy would swing long legs over the door and hop down the runway.

"Judy sweet, I'll send you a card from the Municipal Airport, but I'll probably get back before it does," he said. "And by the way, my darling, you are in love with me, even if you won't admit it. Otherwise why would you be perfectly nice pair of eyebrows together? See you one week from today. Is it a date?"

"Of course it's a date, silly. I'll bring a folding chair and sit by the runway and every day will say, 'Oh, that's a foolish maiden who put her stock in oil!'"

"You won't lose, Judy." His arms were strong around her, his kiss was cool, hard, swift. "I love you," he murmured.

Then he was gone, a fleet ship running down the apron, circling over her head. Some day after he as it left the field, starting westward. Judy waved though she knew he could not see her.

SHE WAS silent for a moment, leaning against the wind, looking high. Under the green flowers on her sailor, russet curls, glistening in the shining night, took on a new-penny luster.

But her eyes were somber. When you loved a man you would admit it, at least to yourself, she was thinking. No fun keeping a secret there. Anyway, Sandy knew her heart did acrobatics when he came around. Not always—just nearly always. But marriage was something else. How could a girl marry a man who wandered... to Spain... to China... any place that intrigued him? What if his shoulders, and his rough, bright hair wouldn't stay combed? What if he had come through Harvard with honors in science?

If she could transfer her feeling for Sandy to someone else, Philip Rogers, for instance. And why not? He was a designer, as she came back to the waiting room. Philip was good-looking, too. Not carelessly attractive as Sandy was. More polished, though. There were at least 14 girls around the office who would buy a new perfume bottle for a dime worth five times its price in silk or lace, for the sake of a date with Phil.

The courtier was not on the ship. With a small, weary sigh Judy realized that she would have to hunt up another designer for her column's interview. She had half a dozen names of stylists who swung the fashion pendulum. She would make an appointment with one of them tomorrow.

She turned her low gray roadster toward the spires of Manhattan. As usual, she caught her breath at the shinning turrets that marched so high. Sandy was far above them. Free from columns and interviews and not caring that there was a patterned world below him—a world where people moved on green lights, stopped for red, and earned their daily bread by regular routine. Sandy was flying high with his dreams—and his new parachute.

FOR a moment her eyes were misty, violet now. Sandy's parachute was the best of all parachute inventions, several aeronautic officials had said. Yet no company had tried to buy it. She herself had tried to buy it. She had nearly said Sandy make several perfect landings since the days when he had flown into her life. Some day he probably would break his neck. Some day after he

Tear Gas Used To Disperse Soldiers

PETERSBURG, Va., Sept. 8 (AP)—Petersburg police used tear gas tonight to disperse a crowd of soldiers who milled around and in police headquarters protesting the arrest of a Camp Lee soldier.

Police Chief Charles Ryburn said "between 150 and 200" men crowded around headquarters in a disturbance following the arrest of a soldier on a charge of being drunk and resisting arrest.

"The soldiers were going to take him away from us," Ryburn said, adding that he asked them several times to "go along about their business."

"They insisted on coming on and cursed us. We used two grenades of tear gas."

Military police arrived after a hurried call to Camp Lee and kept the men on the move away from the police station.

Chief Ryburn said the disturbance occurred as Petersburg police prepared to change shifts and that about 15 officers were in the headquarters at the time.

Accidents Must Now Be Reported Officially

AUSTIN, Sept. 8 (AP)—People who like to talk about their automobile accidents now can do it officially. The public safety department has begun enforcing a new law which requires that motorists report accidents except minor fender scraping incidents.

Report forms may be obtained from local officers, state highway patrolmen, service stations, garages and auto clubs.

Cotton Pickers Needed In Nueces

CORPUS CHRISTI, Sept. 8 (AP)—At request of 50 farmers who said Nueces county will have 40,000 bales of cotton ready for pickers within the next two weeks, the commissioners' court here today passed a resolution asking that State Director Harry P. Drought stop WPA labor in Texas until the picking season is over.

The farm group, accompanied by Chamber of Commerce officials from several south Texas towns, told the commissioners that they are able to get sufficient help from the Texas state employment service and other government agencies, and expressed fear that a windstorm or heavy rain might ruin their crops.

Jeff Bell, manager of the Corpus Christi chamber of commerce, said a movement has been started to bring in Mexican labor from across the border.
