Churchill Predicts War To Last Thru 1942, Says Hitler Is Suffering Shortage In Air

TRAINING FOR NATIONAL COTTON PICKING CONTEST

brother; Orville Mason, father; Harold Mason, champion; Paul Wayne, another brother.

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark., Sept. 30 (AP)—Approximately 200 of the South's best cotton pickers, ranging in age from 14 to 60, lined up today for the national cotton picking championship and prizes totaling $2,000. With near perfect picking weather predicted, the judges set the start of the second annual contest for noon (C. S. T.). The final weighing was not expected to be completed until near sundown.

First prize will be $1,000 with an additional $1,000 to be distributed among 25 other pickers.

The pickers came from Missouri, Mississippi, Arkansas, Texas, Tennessee, Indiana, Oklahoma, North Carolina, Illinois, Arizona, and Louisiana.

'No Drastic' Army 'Purge' In Prospect

By RICE VAHNER

LEESVILLE, La., Sept. 30 (AP)—Lieut-General Lesley J. McNair, chief of staff of army general headquarters, told high officers of the second and third armies today "leadership and command can and must be improved," but that there would be "no drastic purge."

Warning that "time is fleeting," he called upon army and division commanders to replace weak leaders with strong ones as soon as possible.

Discussing the last field problem of the Louisiana maneuvers which ended Sunday, General McNair said in his final critique "it would be unfair to create an impression that all leadership is bad, for there are a host of fine leaders actually exercising responsible command while many other potentially fine leaders have not yet had a real opportunity to exercise the leadership of which they are capable."

Referring to a "lack of discipline" among the almost 400,000 soldiers of the second and third armies, General McNair said:

"There is no question that many of the weaknesses developed in these maneuvers are repeated again and again for lack of discipline. Our troops are capable of the best of discipline. If they lack it, leadership is faulty. A commander who cannot develop proper discipline must be replaced."

"Other faults—a mass of them—are due to a comparatively low training ceiling of officers. The unit can be no better than the commander is able to make it. If the commander himself is unable to instruct

Four Hurt In Car Wreck On Borger Road

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 (AP)—Governor Coke Stevenson of Texas accompanied by Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.), paid a courtesy call today on President Roosevelt.

The Texans had an appointment with the chief executive at 11 o'clock, but because of a prolonged conference between the President and Secretary Hull they were unable to fulfill their engagement until noon.

The pair emerged from the President's office about 10 minutes later, asserting that they had exchanged greetings with the President and had assured him that Texas was solidly behind him.

The Texans entered the long black, official car of the speaker's and drove to the Capitol for a luncheon with the Texas members of congress.

Only Rayburn of the Texas congressional delegation professed to know anything about the governor's visit.

Questioned by newsmen concerning the political implications of his visit, the governor agreed that it was his intention to seek re-election next year but said any political ramifications of his visit would be purely incidental.

One of the defense matters he planned to discuss, he added, was the Texas Home Guard. He said it was his hope federal funds might be forthcoming to aid in equipping and uniforming the organization.

The Texas congressional delegation planned a luncheon for the governor in the speaker's private dining room in the Capitol.

Nazis Reported Hurling Back From Leningrad Sector

(By The Associated Press)

Prime Minister Winston Churchill, disclosing that Britain has "several times" considered an invasion of the continent, predicted today that the war would last at least through 1942 and warned that Adolf Hitler might fall back on the defensive in the struggle with Russia and lash out simultaneously at Egypt, Spain, Africa, and England itself.

In optimistic vein, however, Churchill declared that Britain had now seized the initiative from Germany in the air.

The Reich, he said flatly, is suffering a serious air shortage—presumably from pilots and planes lost in the 14-week-old campaign in Russia.

As Churchill spoke, the Russians reported that Red armies defending Leningrad had recaptured a city on the approaches to the old czarist capital and hurled the Germans back "a significant distance."

The city, designated only as "B," fell to Soviet troops after 12 hours of violent hand-to-hand and house-to-house fighting, said the Russians, announcing also that many other communities on Leningrad's outskirts had been retaken in mass counter-attacks.

Red Star, Soviet army newspaper, said the Germans had made no gain for a fortnight in the siege of the great northern metropolis.

Posing the question "where will Hitler turn next?" Churchill mentioned the possibility of vast new assaults against the Egyptian Nile, North Africa, Spain and the British Isles.

"It would certainly be in his (Hitler's) power while standing on the defensive in the east to undertake all of these enterprises on a great scale together at one time," he said.

Coincidentally, German military quarters in Berlin stressed the importance of statements in the Nazi press that the Russian campaign might run into the winter months.

Reviewing the war on the third anniversary of the ill-fated Munich conference, Churchill declared that "the enemy's only shortage—a very serious shortage—is in the air." Elsewhere, he said, Germany still holds the initiative.

Churchill said he could make no comment on the possibility of a British invasion of the continent "without giving information to the enemy," but he cautioned that even the advent of winter would give no assurance "that the danger of invasion will be entirely lifted from this island."

Bluntly, Churchill informed Italy that British warplanes would "bomb Rome as heavily as possible if the course of the war should render such action convenient and helpful."

In the war at sea, Churchill reported that the British "slaughter of enemy shipping" had risen one and one-half times in the last three months over the previous three-month period "and is increasing by leaps and bounds."

British, allied and neutral shipping losses in the same period dropped two thirds from the three months before, he said.

However, Churchill forecast an intensified Nazi U-boat campaign "by a larger number of U-boats than ever before," and said the German undersea raiders could be defeated only by intensified British counter-measures "and also by the assistance which we are receiving in increasing degree from other quarters"—an evident reference to the United States navy.

Only an "enormous" conversion of American factories to produce war supplies can keep Russia on the firing-line indefinitely, he said, and suggested that the war would last at least through 1942.

London military quarters gave a more optimistic picture of the bloody struggle on the eastern front, reporting that "there is no indication of any new German advance anywhere."

Hitler's invasion armies were still smashing at the Russian Crimea, attempting to slash through the four-mile-wide Perekop Isthmus linking the Peninsula with the U.S.S.R. mainland, but were making scant headway.

In the north, defenders of siege-battered Leningrad were reported to have driven the Germans back at several points, with Red army troops maintaining the initiative. British and Russian fliers working together were declared to have shot down 26 Nazi planes in two days in a single sector.

Hitler's high command reported that Nazi troops had stormed and captured 210 Russian pillboxes "on the northern sector of the east front"—apparently in the assault of Leningrad—and declared that Italian troops had annihilated strong Soviet forces east of the Dnieper river, in the Ukraine. The Italian high command said Fascist troops crushed

Bronze Stolen From Ice Plant

City police are investigating a burglary at the Crystal Ice company plant at 800 South Cuyler street in which a quantity of bronze tubing, arm brackets, tubes and wire was taken. Value of the stolen articles cannot be estimated because most of them cannot be replaced due to the shortage of bronze and copper.

The burglary was not discovered until this morning when a representative of the Pampa Ice company, owner of the plant, which has been closed for some time, visited the building to start removing the equipment. Entry to the building had been gained through the roof of a shed at the rear.

No one had visited the building in nearly two weeks and as a result date of the burglary is unknown. The burglars took 100 3/8-inch bronze tubes 37 inches long, 100 arm brackets, 50 2-inch short bronze tubes, roll of copper wire, and movable parts on the bath room fixtures and just about every other gadget that could be moved. Original cost of the stolen equipment was between $200 and $300. It was estimated by company officials.

Because of the armament program it is almost impossible to buy bronze, copper and brass. Company officials said today that it might be years before the equipment could be replaced.

Wire Confirms Miami Cook's Death At Sea

A telegram received at Miami yesterday by Mrs. John W. McCormick, from the Parry Shipping company, New York, confirmed the Associated Press story of the death of her husband, who was second cook on the freighter Libby Maine.

Up until yesterday relatives had received no information on Mr. McCormick's death, other than through the Associated Press story.

Mr. McCormick died Sunday aboard the coast guard cutter Unalga. He was injured in the foundering of the Libby Maine in a Caribbean storm Thursday.

The U. S. destroyer Roper picked up the 13 survivors of the freighter, who took to rafts when the freighter went down. The men were later transferred to the cutter.

There were 12 men reported missing from the Libby Maine which had a crew of 32. Seven were known to have been washed overboard from the ship's bridge or rafts.

McCormick had operated a cafe in Miami for several years and is well known in Roberts county.

Funeral arrangements had not been announced today. McCormick is survived by his widow, who resides in Miami; two daughters, Mrs. John T. Marshall, Jr., 524 N. Faulkner, Pampa, and Mrs. Johnny Miner of Fort Worth; and by two sons, Jimmy of San Francisco and Blake of Oakland, Calif.

Boat Club To Hold Business Meeting

Covered dish luncheon scheduled for tomorrow night at Lake McClellan by the McClellan Boat club has been postponed and instead a business meeting will be held in the county courtroom here at 7:30 o'clock, Commander W. A. Noland announced today. Postponement of the luncheon was made because of condition of the roads to the lake following Sunday's heavy rain.

All members and prospective members of the club are invited to attend the important meeting. Several new members will be received and committees will be named.

The club plans an active winter program of lunches, dances and entertainment.

Last meet of the season will be staged at Lake McClellan on October 12.

Oil Field Classes Open To Anyone

Night classes in oil field practices, open to anyone employed in oil and allied industries, will be organized and schedules adopted at a meeting in the Junior High auditorium Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

Courses designed to help the workers at their present jobs and to fit them for advancement will be taught at a nominal fee. Most courses will require 48 hours.

Many oilfield workers in the Panhandle have filled out blanks showing what courses they desire to take during the winter months. All who filled out the blanks and others are eligible to attend the organization meeting Thursday night.

Superintendents of all companies have been issued a special invitation to be present at the organization meeting.

The petroleum courses to be offered are: Elementary engines and

PAMPA WELCOMED GOVERNOR COKE STEVENSON last Friday on his first visit to the Panhandle since he became governor. Upon arriving in Pampa, where he was honored at a luncheon at noon in the new high school cafeteria, the governor was greeted by a large crowd at the city hall where he held "open house" just like he does in Austin where his office is open to all people of the state.

sentative Dick Craig of Miami, Representative B. D. Thornton of Mt. Pleasant, Representative Favors, Mayor Fred Thompson, the governor, Frank Culbertson, president of the Pampa Board of City Development, Senator Grady Haslewood of Amarillo, and Representative Paul Hubanks of Matador.

Does He Dislike ACTIVITY

It's natural and healthy for young boys and girls to want to be out-doors, playing hard, having active fun. If your child wants to be alone, it may be that his feet hurt him. Growing feet are tender, and improperly fit, poorly-made shoes can cause permanent injury. We're equipped to fit children's shoes correctly, and our prices on Poll Parrot footwear are always moderate.

Another meeting of the club will be held on Oct. 9 in the home of Mrs. Oliver Erzen with Mrs. Dale Hughey as hostess.

Beginners Course In Spanish Will Be Offered Here

Through the Pampa branch of the American Association of University Women, interest has been aroused in a beginner's course in Spanish.

All members of the A. A. U. W. and others outside of the organization are eligible for the Spanish class.

Those who are interested are asked to call Mrs. Fred Roberts or to meet at her home on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

FINISHING MATERIALS If you are making your own wardrobe this fall, you will find it true economy to buy good quality fabrics. Tapes, buttons, thread, hooks and eyes, snaps and all the fasteners, bindings and beltings, all are inexpensive enough, but if they are shoddy in quality, they more than likely will not stand up well under long wear, dry cleaning or laundering, and may detract eventually from the appearance and fit of the garment.

Women's Society of Christian Service of First Methodist church met for monthly business session Monday afternoon in the fellowship hall of the church.

Mrs. H. H. Boynton, president, opened the meeting by having the group sing the hymn, "Jesus Calls Us," followed by a prayer.

The week of prayer will be observed the first week of November with a retreat in the morning and a program in the afternoon. It was decided to send a cash offering of ten dollars in place of the mission box.

Plans were made for the society to celebrate its first birthday with a party in November. Mrs. Boynton announced the fellowship supper which will be Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock in the fellowship hall when the public school teachers of the church will be guests. The chairman of the circles are to be on the hospitality committee with Mrs. Travis Lively as chairman.

Mrs. Frank Showwell asked that all Red Cross garments be returned to her as soon as possible. Mrs. W. Purviance urged that the spiritual life chairman in each circle emphasize the importance of prayer, encourage a quiet hour each day, and use prayer cards and the Upper Room.

The worship service for the month of September from "Proof Sheets of Power," a program pamphlet put out by the Board of Missions of the church, was conducted and the topic, "I Am Among You," was led by Mrs. Purviance, assisted by Mmes. A. B. Whitten, E. C. Hart, Herman Van Sickle, and H. B. Gris.

Roswell Streets Again Under Flood Waters

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 30 (AP)—Muddy flood waters of the Hondo and Gila rivers, in opposite sides of the state, rolled over towns and countryside today to inflict general widespread losses upon flood-battered southern New Mexico and southeastern Arizona.

In the Pecos valley, the Hondo for a second time within a week inundated the city of Roswell to as much as four and five feet with little prospect of relief for another 48 hours.

In the southwest, the destructive Gila left wreckage and crop losses in its wake as the flood crest, from mountain-born cloudbursts rolled down into Arizona to take two lives and wreck its fury on southeastern Arizona communities.

The Duncan and Virden valleys in New Mexico and Arizona felt the full fury of the Gila crest, but flood warnings enabled livestock to be saved in many communities in the flood path.

Roswell's streets, not yet dry from 40-foot crest which faced down the little Hondo a week ago, were under water to depths greater than before.

A core of Roswell families were moved from the lowlands as adobe houses crumbled and the water ran into homes. The entire business district was under water, some residential areas under a foot and a half, and at the Spring river area the water had backed up as much as five feet.

The weather bureau voiced the belief that Carlsbad, downstream on the Pecos, was in no danger of an expected moderate rise in the river there.

Carlsbad's known dead from a destructive flash flood a week ago rose to five today, when the body of a negro woman was found in the Red Bluff reservoir 45 miles down the Pecos in Texas. At least seven other persons are still missing.

The lower Pecos valley, across the Texas line, remained mounting losses in what was considered the worst flood conditions of 20 years or more. The Pecos spread over farm lands, damaging thousands of acres of cotton and feed crops.

employes were reinstating such men, but it wanted to make sure that none is treated unjustly, Page said.

He instructed all local draft boards to utilize every facility to aid men rejected because they could not meet army physical standards.

Pointing out that the Selective Training Act required former employers to reinstate men who satisfactorily completed military training, Page said employers also had a moral obligation to reinstate former employes who patriotically answered a call for service but were not actually inducted.

New Turn May Be Near In United States-Jap Affairs

TOKYO, Sept. 30 (AP)—Japan's international situation was discussed in a cabinet session today and informed circles presumed that relationship with the United States was high on the list of topics.

It was announced that Foreign Minister Admiral Teijiro Toyoda presented a report, and since he held a long conversation last Saturday with United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew, it was believed he gave his colleagues an account of this.

Informed circles continued to attach considerable importance to the Grew-Toyoda meeting, which has led to belief that a new turn in United States-Japanese affairs is imminent. It was disclosed that Grew was accompanied by his Counselor of Embassy, Eugene H. Donnan. Other sources said the ambassador also talked with Elji Amano, vice minister of foreign affairs.

The newspaper Nichi Nichi criticized Alfred Duff Cooper and other British diplomats in the far east today, charging that Britain was seeking to black and thwart any possible rapprochement moves between the United States and Japan.

Gray Polio Chapter Will Meet Tonight

An important meeting of the Gray county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the office of Dr. R. A. Webb.

There will be a report on the four-year-old Gray county boy, recently sent by the chapter as a patient to a Dallas hospital, discussion of a plan to acquire an iron lung, among business to be transacted.

Bert Curry is chairman of the chapter, which was chartered on March 24 of this year.

Deferment For Law Students Asked By Dean

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 30 (AP)—A proposal that law students be deferred from the draft until their professional education is completed was advanced today by Dean Albert J. Harno of the University of Illinois college of law.

Speaking before the national conference of bar examiners, he said law students should not be given immunity from military service but that their legal training should be finished first.

These men, making up the new Supplies Priority and Allocation Board, will soon announce a plan for conserving scarce defense materials, will make a national inventory of materials, and will run nationwide pickup campaigns in metals, comparable to the aluminum collections. Pictured at their first meeting, they declared less essential business must now give way to military work. Seated are Harry Hopkins, lease-lend administrator; William S. Knudsen, OPM chief; Vice President Henry Wallace, SPAB chairman; Donald Nelson, the board's executive director. Standing: James Forrestal, undersecretary of Navy attending for Secretary Knox; Robert Patterson, undersecretary of war attending for Secretary Stimson; Leon Henderson, price control administrator; Sidney Hillman, OPM associate director.

Issuance Of New Drivers Licenses Delayed Ten Days

AUSTIN, Sept. 30 (AP)—Issuance of new drivers licenses, scheduled to begin Oct. 1, will be delayed a week or 10 days.

State Police Director Homer Garrison, Jr. said paper stock for printing applications and other supplies, ordered more than 180 months ago, have just been received and several days will be required for distribution.

Due to be renewed by Dec. 31 are all old licenses numbered from 1 to 450,000. Licenses bearing numbers above 450,000 will be renewable at later staggered periods.

Renewal applications will be available after distribution at highway patrol offices, sheriff and police departments, banks and other public places and from drivers license examiners. They also can be obtained by writing to the public safety department in Austin.

Applications must be executed on a typewriter or printed in ink. Licenses cost 50 cents and are good for two years.

Applicants for renewals will not be required to take examinations unless they have a bad record for traffic violations.

Drastic Shake-Up In Army Looms

ALEXANDRIA, La., Sept. 30 (AP)—The army's new age limits for officers' ranks will cause a drastic shakeup in the second army's staff, forcing most of the top-ranking officers who directed the troops in summer maneuvers out of their posts, it was learned officially today.

The chief loss to Lieut.-General Ben Lear, commander of the second army, will be that of his chief of staff, Brig.-General David A. Robinson, who is past the 60-year old limit for his grade.

Colonel Marion O. French, deputy chief of staff and one of the ranking tacticians of the U. S. army, and Colonel Louis P. Ford, in charge of the army's training program, are past the 55-year-old level for colonels.

Five-Year-Old Girl Hunted In Forest

CONWAY, N. H., Sept. 30 (AP)—A distraught father's appeal over an amplifying system in a forest fastness went unanswered today by five-year-old Pamela Hollingworth, missing in near-freezing temperatures since she wandered from a picnic Sunday.

Hundreds of volunteers carrying lanterns searched through the night for the child, who was clad only in a green sundress and red sneakers.

Riding in a sound-truck along narrow woodland roads, Joseph E. Hollingworth, Lowell, Mass., lumber company superintendent, shouted time and time again:

"Pammy, this is daddy calling. Don't be afraid, Pam. Don't be afraid."

"If you can hear me, come to me or go to the men in the woods who are looking for you."

"If you are stuck anywhere and can't move, yell and the men will come to you."

Equipped with five portable short wave radio sets, foresters were aided by two circling airplanes and a detachment of 100 soldiers from Fort Devens, Mass. Pamela's dog "Shag" accompanied them, but couldn't pick up her trail.

"FACTORY TRAINED"

We're not "just talking" when we say that our mechanical staff is "factory trained." We mean just that, and WE'VE GOT THE PROOF! Every one of our mechanics have received their 1941 Factory Certificates. Five (5) of our staff made 100% on the extensive test—taken after three months of study—and the other two (2) made 96%. IN OTHER WORDS, we really know how to diagnose your automobile trouble and repair it expertly.

Water Covers Crops In Pecos Valley
PECOS, Sept. 30 (AP)—The gradual rise of the Pecos river today sent high water lapping over thousands of acres of cotton and feed crops in the worst flood experienced by the Pecos valley in more than 20 years.
The overflow forced 30 families to flee the area. Flood waters covered 95 per cent of the Reeves county water improvement district No. 2, one of seven districts under the Red Bluff project. A greater area was reported under water in Ward county.
Farmers expressed the fear that in addition to flood losses there would be heavy damage from erosion, loss of levees and irrigation canals.
Sand bags were used to shore up the Texas and Pacific railroad bridge east of Pecos. Emergency trains with additional sand were held on both sides of the bridge.
Although the flood peak already had passed Red Bluff dam, the reservoir discharged 14,000 second feet of water. The rate was expected to continue for a week or more.
The river flow at Highway 16, east of Pecos, was estimated at 16,000 feet by U. S. Highway engineers.

ARMY MILLINERS DESIGN DOUBLE-PURPOSE HELMET
Infantry chiefs at Fort Benning, Ga., are testing a new, double-purpose helmet designed for greater protection. Soldier at left shows two-piece tin hat. He slips on light lining helmet for use as a field hat. At right, he dons outside protector for use in combat. Whole thing weighs 2 1/2 pounds or three ounces more than helmet now used.

WILLKIE FAVORS SCRAPPING OF NEUTRALITY ACT
WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie made it known today he would support President Roosevelt in any effort to repeal or modify the neutrality act.
At the same time, reports reached Capitol Hill that Secretary Willkie would urge the chief executive to recommend virtual scrapping of the present law.
Returning from a week-end sojourn at his Hyde Park estate, Mr. Willkie was expected to confer with Hill some time today and to talk with legislative leaders tomorrow before starting work on the special neutrality act message which congress looks for later this week.
White House officials indicated that these two conferences probably would determine whether the president would seek a limited modification of the law or its outright repeal.
There have been reports that the president would confine himself to a request for authority to arm American merchant ships. On the other hand, some informants have said he would tell congress he also should have the power to send American commercial vessels into belligerent ports and combat areas now forbidden by the neutrality law. If both requests were granted, only a skeleton of the law would remain.
Those congressional informants in close touch with Willkie, the 1940 presidential candidate, said he had advised them that he would give his support to any move to relax the neutrality law.
Support for arming merchant ships and sending them into zones now forbidden came last night from Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the senate foreign relations committee. In a broadcast address (NBC) on the forum program of the Washington Evening Star, Connally said it was time for the nation to "reassert and reorganize our adherence to the doctrine of freedom of the seas."

CAMP LIFE
(By The Associated Press)
FORT MONROE, Va.—Mr. "Blitzkrieg" Gernak's reason for not showing up for inspection were rather flimsy but he was excused anyway. The husky fireman on an army mine planter sent the uniform he intended to wear to the laundry. Back came a bundle containing one skirt, one brassiere, one slip, two pairs of step-ins, one girl's play suit.
FORT BRAGG, N. C.—Private Earl Oxford wants it made clear that his one and only love is the army. The former actor appeared on a coast to coast radio program from this post. The mall man subsequently brought him nine proposals of marriage. One woman wrote: "I love your voice, and if you marry me, you will get out of the army. I am a widow with five children."
CAMP BLANDING, Fla.—Bob Smith can ascribe his failure to get into the army to an unfortunate bit of business with a monkey. He dressed past one examining physician after another until one doctor noticed his trigger finger had been lacerated and couldn't be bent. He suffered the injury while playing with a monkey at a zoo.
Correspondent Rides With Jap Bombers
By CLARK LEE
WITH THE JAPANESE ARMY IN HUNAN PROVINCE, China, Sept. 30 (AP)—Japanese troops were visible in the streets of Changsha as I flew over that provincial capital in a Japanese army plane today in the wake of Japanese bombers which are blasting at the Chinese forces along a line from the northeast to the southeast of Changsha. We flew from an airport north of the Yangtze river.
From a score of towns, dozen of columns of smoke spiraled upward in the clear atmosphere.
Several times Japanese bombers sped below us, so low they seemed to skim the ground.
We crossed over Changsha at 300 feet while the bombers swooped over nearby villages, planting sticks of incendiaries. In a matter of minutes, long tongues of scarlet flames could be seen to spring up from the center of the targets, as if there were munitions stored there.

Police Seek Clues In Miley Slaying
LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 30 (AP)—Rewards totalling $2,277 and a fund-raising proposal for a memorial were counted today as police struggled vainly for clues to the slayers of Marion Miley, 77, popular and pretty golf star.
Miss Miley was killed and her mother, Mrs. Fred Miley, was wounded critically early Sunday at the swank Lexington Country club. Two thieves broke into Miley's room, knocked her down, shot her thrice in the abdomen and killed Miss Miley with shots through the head and back.
Mrs. Miley remained in a grave condition after an operation to remove the bullets. She has been unable to confer with police since lapsing into a coma Sunday morning after giving officers a thin picture of the crime.
Extradition Ordered
AUSTIN, Sept. 30 (AP)—Acting Governor H. L. Winfield today ordered extradition of Paul Edwards Thames, 26-year-old Georgia escapee from Cherokee county work farm.
Thames, arrested in San Antonio on a fugitive warrant, was convicted in Georgia of attempted rape on a woman passenger in his taxicab when she was unable to pay her fare.

Farmers Asked To Produce More Eggs And Milk
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 30 (AP)—Farmers in Texas will be asked to produce 162,000,000 pounds more milk and 18,000,000 dozen more eggs as part of their share in the food production drive for national defense, it was announced here at a Southern Regional meeting of farm leaders conferring with Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard.
Texas goals are part of the national drive to produce more food to feed America and the nations resisting aggression and to better the diets and well-being of Texas farm families. B. F. Vance, chairman of the Texas USDA defense board, said. Vance, along with other defense board members and Texas farm leaders, is attending the Memphis meeting.
More production of peanuts for oil, vegetables, several feed crops, beef and veal, lamb and mutton also is being asked of Texas farmers, Vance said.
Texas production goals are in line with Secretary Wickard's announcement of February 8 setting national production goals to encourage vast increases in the nation's food supplies.
Farm leaders attending the conference said that the need for additional food production in Texas to meet local needs was not new but had existed for years. The needs of national defense and the price support afforded agricultural products by the department of agriculture will enable Texas farmers to expand their production to help in the defense effort and at the same time provide more food for home use, Vance explained.
"All additional food produced in Texas for home use will release that much more food for the rest of the nation and for the embattled democracies," Vance pointed out. "Texas will provide its share for export and for better living within the state."
The state production goals announced at the conference will be reviewed by the Texas board and by county USDA defense boards, Vance said. Working with the county boards, the state group will assign production goals for every county in the state.
County and community AAA committees, working with the county boards and using the AAA farm plan sheet, will contact every farmer in the state to assist in planning farming operations for 1942 so that each farmer may do his share in attaining the defense production objectives.

New Flood Surges Down Gila River
DUNCAN, Ariz., Sept. 30 (AP)—A devastating new flood surged down the Gila river today, submerging wide areas of the rich Gila valley and causing destruction and damage estimated unofficially at $1,000,000.
Two children lost their lives when swept from a bridge near here. The new flood crest hit the stricken town of Duncan at 4:10 a. m., and moved on toward the towns of Safford, Pima, Paton, Sanchez, Kimball and Graham.
Five feet of water flowed through the main street of Duncan, a town of 880 population.
Convoy Turned Back, Says Italian Paper
ROME, Sept. 30 (AP)—Il Giornale D'Italia asserted today that the east-bound British convoy which was attacked by the Italian air force in the Mediterranean last Saturday turned back to the west and failed to make its passage through the Mediterranean.

'New Actions Of Axis,' Predicted By Axis
ROME, Sept. 30 (AP)—Virgilio Gayda declared today that "new actions of the Axis" soon would disprove reports of weakening morale in Italy and Germany which he accused "the Anglo-Saxons" of inventing.
Writing his Il Giornale D'Italia, the Fascist editor said the British were trying to create the impression that Italy wanted to ask for peace because of difficult conditions.

Today's War Analysis

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

"Would Hitler like to back out of the war at present and, if so, do you think he possibly could?"

This man-size query comes to me from Jacksonville, Florida—and I like the confidence shown in my ability to tell what is in the ruler's mind. As though to help us out, we have from Berlin an emphatic denial of any attempts anywhere at peace feelers or peace negotiations by Germany.

Still, that denial isn't as useful as it might be, because while it may be truth it isn't the whole truth, and begs the issues in our double-barrel question. The correct answers seem to be these:

Yes, the Nazi chief would like to get out of the war now, provided he could be left in dominion of the continent of Europe. Who would not!

No, I don't think he could get out of it. Just as he isn't likely to quit unless he cashes in on his conquests or is defeated, so the Allies have sworn that they will stop until they have pulled him down.

Peace talk has been going the rounds quietly in Europe recently. My information is that some Axis supporters have been predicting Hitler would make the Soviet an offer of separate peace before winter shuts down on the Russian front. If that venture were successful, he would make suggestions to England for terminating the war.

These Axis sources believe such a proposal to Britain would follow the lines of a previously rumored plan. That is to say, Germany and England would be the dominant powers of Europe—with heavy accent on Germany. Sovereignty would be restored to those countries in which Britain has special interests, such as Norway and the Netherlands. All the other powers would come into Hitler's "new order" or be annexed by the Reich.

In other words Hitler would be pretty much lord over all he surveyed on the continent. John Bull would be allowed to keep his shirt and his imperial connections.

Why shouldn't the Nazi leader want to conclude peace on such terms? His alternative is to fight the war through to a bitter, bloody finish—and he is a long way now from having assurance that he will win. Things have changed mightily since the days when he beat the French to the earth and drove the British into the sea at Dunkerque.

Hitler is still powerful and he still retains the initiative, excepting for the war in the air over the western theater from which he has withdrawn the bulk of his Luftwaffe for use against Russia. He is a conqueror who hasn't yet been stopped. However, there are many reasons why he might be glad to secure right now even a part of the loaf of conquest which he started out to get, rather than continue what is becoming a colossal gamble. Here are some of those reasons:

Even if Germany should conquer Russia, the Nazi losses in men and material have been heavy. This is particularly true as regards the all-important air force.

It is claimed that very few important ships carrying munitions to Britain have been lost. That is to say, England's strength is increasing rapidly.

The American defense program daily moves faster, to provide aid for the Allies.

Posters Attacking Killers Probed

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 30. (AP)—Handbills and posters attacking army officers for last Tuesday's fatal shooting of nine arms factory workers in front of President Avila Camacho's home were turned over to investigating authorities by the National Defense ministry today with a charge that they constituted subversive propaganda.

The posters appeared placarded about the center of the city the day after the shooting, which occurred when workers attempting to obtain a mass interview with the president were halted by the troops. The handbills were distributed during a workers' manifestation Friday at the time of the burial of the victims.

Woman In Dramatic Shooting Slain

LONDON, Sept. 30. (AP)—Mrs. Alice De Trafford, the former Alice Silverthorne of Buffalo, N. Y., who figured in a dramatic shooting more than a dozen years ago, was found shot dead today in her South African farmhouse at Gligli, Kenya colony, according to a Reuters dispatch from Nairobi.

In 1927 Mrs. De Trafford, then the Countess De Janze, shot Raymond Vincent De Trafford and wounded herself while traveling on a London boat train. Five years later, in February, 1932, she married De Trafford, but was divorced from him on grounds of adultery Oct. 25, 1937.

RAF Showers Stettin, Hamburg With Bombs

LONDON, Sept. 30. (AP)—Hamburg and Stettin were given their heaviest bombing of the war in overnight raids by hundreds of RAF planes, the air ministry announced today. "Many large fires" were set around the docks, railway station and elsewhere in Stettin, one of the cities through which German supplies must pass to the Russian front, it was reported.

Incendiary attacks were made overnight on docks at Gherbourg and La Havre.

New Mexico Can Blame Its Flood Troubles On Tropics

By JOHN R. WARD

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 30. (AP)—Usually arid New Mexico, its great deserts, plains and mountains soaking up more rain than ever plodded through at the end of the Santa Fe Trail, can blame its flood troubles on the Tropics.

Weather records going back to time-yellowed 1857 reports, found in Santa Fe and Albuquerque, have been eclipsed this year by heavy rains which early this week transformed the Gila and Hondo rivers into raging torrents and wrought untold damage.

U. S. Meteorologist D. C. Cameron offered an explanation for the unprecedented rains as the flooding Hondo invaded Roswell for the second time in a week and the Gila washed away homes and farm-lands in deep southwestern New Mexico and Arizona.

"What was left of a tropical hurricane in the Gulf of Mexico caused cloudbursts along eastern New Mexico about 10 days ago, when Roswell and Carlsbad were hit by floods," Cameron said.

"This week-end, heavy rains which were general over New Mexico, the Texas Panhandle and southern Arizona were caused by a big wedge of cold air sweeping down the east slopes of the Rocky mountains, and sliding under the warm, moist air left from the storms the week before. This time it was related to the tropics but not directly."

The Gila valley bore the brunt of the latest storms, adding new damage to the incalculable amount already incurred in other parts of New Mexico. Damages to highways alone was figured roughly at $8,000,000, and may exceed that; 19 lives were lost in the past 10 days and thousands of acres of rich farm-lands have been washed away or plied high with debris.

Floodwaters at Roswell rose slowly overnight, but city officials predicted property damage would be light despite observers' reports that the flood appeared worse than that of last week. Sandbagged protected business establishments.

Early today, the Santa Fe railway agent in Roswell reported a span of the railroad bridge 18 miles northeast of the city had been washed out by the Pecos river. He said the crest apparently had been released from Alamogordo dam.

Downstream on the Pecos, the crest from last week's floods continued to overflow West Texas farm-lands. Thirty families fled from the Reeves county water improvement district, which was estimated 95 per cent under water.

Crude Production Increases Slightly

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 30. (AP)—Daily crude oil production in the United States increased 735 barrels to 4,062,000 for the week ended Sept. 27, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Production for the year thus far was 1,007,894,140 barrels compared to 1,003,937,439 for the same period of 1940.

Illinois production was 9,550 to 416,965; Louisiana, 1,355 to 335,295; Michigan, 970 to 92,980; Oklahoma, 2,300 to 424,550; Rocky mountain area, 3,850 to 115,550, and East Texas, 100 to 369,700.

California production was down 13,300 to 635,250; Eastern fields, 100 to 111,900; Kansas, 150 to 256,650, and Texas, 3,400 to 1,458,850.

Game-Already-Sell-Out

DALLAS, Sept. 30. (AP)—Don't bother about sending any more checks or money orders to Southern Methodist University athletic department for tickets to the Texas game Nov. 1—there aren't any more seats to be had. James H. Stewart of the S. M. U. athletic department said yesterday there were fewer than 200 of the 23,000 tickets unsold, and these were in the hands of the Texas athletic department at Austin.

17,000 Freshly-Paid Soldiers To Camp East Of Marshall

MARSHALL, Sept. 30. (AP)—This East Texas city today expected an influx of 17,000 freshly-paid soldiers of the 45th division en route to their home station at Camp Barkley from the Sabine area maneuvers. The 45th, part of the third army, is made up of former National Guardsmen from Oklahoma, Colorado, New Mexico, and Arizona. "The division will concentrate at a bivouac area eight miles east of Marshall, and proceed westward in two convoys."

His Opinion

Commenting on a league to enforce world peace, Charles Francois Dupuis, famous French savant of the 18th century, wrote: "It is neat, complete, logical, chemical and impracticable."

Housewives' donations of used aluminum during the 1941 scrap collection should permit construction of 2,000 more fighters or 500 four-engine bombers.

'War Is Here,' Says Lawyer At Convention

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 30. (AP)—A leader of the American Bar association contended at the 64th annual convention today "there is no necessity for congress to announce or declare a war" because "the war is here, whether congress recognizes it or not."

"Germany has started it," said James W. Ryan of New York City in a speech prepared for delivery before the association's section of international and comparative law. "If we don't use force to resist the attacks, our vital commerce on the high seas will be destroyed."

Ryan, chairman of the section's committee on laws relating to protection of American citizens and their property in foreign countries and on the high seas, said Germany had violated international law by sinking American ships. He declared that when a foreign nation had started war against this country, "whether or not there has been a technical or verbal declaration of war," it was the commander-in-chief's constitutional duty "to use immediately the entire army and navy, if necessary, to fight back and protect us."

There Will Be No PERMANENT BLACKOUT IN PAMPA

Saturday thousands witnessed a simulated Blackout that is a means of safeguarding property and life over across the waters.

Local merchants cooperated in staging this event to show that the true American initiative and spirit still is existing today, however latent it might seem.

Although it is very improbable that a Blackout will ever be needed for the same purpose as used in England, it is wise to be trained and prepared, just as America is doing today. Every industrial wheel is turning, and faster each day, producing greater protection for this mighty nation in which we live, every American firm and individual, has joined in doing their share in the National Defense.

Electric power is a vital need today . . . and the Southwestern Public Service stands ready, and equipped to continue with the demands made by industry and domestic life, safeguarding Pampa against a permanent Blackout!

Hess Reported On Hunger Strike

LONDON, Sept. 30 (AP)—Eudolph Hess, former deputy for Adolf Hitler who made a sensational flight to England last April, was reported tonight to have started hunger strikes twice in his place of detention in anger because he was being treated as a prisoner of war and not as a "special envoy."

The Star, London evening newspaper, reported that Hess was being confined "within a very easy distance of London," said he was contending that as an "envoy" he should be allowed to return to Germany at once.

When Hess, then the No. 3 Nazi, flew to Scotland alone early in May in one of the most sensational episodes of the entire war he was reported widely to have brought peace overtures from Hitler.

The Star implied that Hess now was living in comfortable quarters, saying:

"Some of our very senior officers who have been captured by the enemy now occupy decent villas. Has Hess a villa or something better suited to his higher rank?" Government officials, who have been silent regarding Hess since his spectacular landing nearly five months ago, declined to comment on the Star story today.

The only thing the government has disclosed is that Hess was being treated as an officer and that he has all the privileges granted by the Geneva convention on treatment of prisoners of war.

Sears Ruling 'Great Shock' To Bridges

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30 (AP)—To the Harry Bridges defense committee, Judge Charles B. Sears' recommendation that the CIO longshore leader be deported is a "great shock" and an example of "extreme anti-labor bias."

Judge Sears, presiding examiner at Bridges' second deportation hearing, submitted his finding to the justice department yesterday.

He held that the trial evidence showed Bridges had connections with the Communist party, that the party advocated the violent overthrow of the government and that in consequence Bridges, as an alien, should be obliged to leave the country.

This ruling the defense committee declared to be in direct contrast "with the concise and fair decision of Dean James M. Landis of Harvard law school," who presided at Bridges' first hearing and afterward cleared the defendant of Communist party affiliations.

Government Orders Cut In Production Of Refrigerators

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 (AP)—The government ordered makers of household mechanical refrigerators today to cut production for the last five months of 1941 to a level 43.2 per cent under average monthly output for the year which ended June 30, and warned that cuts in 1942 "will probably be greater."

Thirty factories employing 45,000 workers will feel the curtailment imposed by Privileges Director Donald M. Nelson as a means of conserving steel and other strategic materials for defense needs.

COKE

By coincidence, Governor Stevenson and Speaker Rayburn were at the Union station at about the same time when the former returned after his early morning sightseeing walk. Rayburn was on hand to welcome his sister, Mrs. E. Bartley of Bonham, who arrived on a 7:40 a. m. train. She planned to spend a few days here before going on to Boston to visit a son, Robert Bartley.

The Governor arrived at Senator O'Daniel's office at 9:05 and was greeted by the senator's secretary, D. B. Foster. The senator was called immediately and he hurried up from his downtown hotel. The two warmly greeted each other and talked privately for a while before departing for Rayburn's office.

It was the governor's plan to attend his business today and to leave on a train tonight for Texas. He said he did not register at a hotel and added:

"I understand it's almost impossible to get a room here."

He appeared pleased to learn that an old friend, Judge Joe Montague of Fort Worth, attorney for the Texas Cattle Raisers association was in town and was contemplating departing tonight for Texas. "Maybe we can get together for the trip home," he added.

Speaker Rayburn was not in his office when the governor arrived so he waited. Later the congressman came and the two exchanged greetings. Shortly thereafter the White House calling list was announced and it included an appointment for Rayburn and the governor at 11 o'clock.

from Pampa dealers in these lines. This is to be a 10 per cent sale tax on jewelry and watches, collected by the retailer.

Radios will be hit with a 15 per cent tax, of which 5 is state and 10 federal.

Liquor Tax Raised And that isn't all. Your Christmas and Thanksgiving liquor will cost more, for Uncle Sam decrees that the tax on distilled spirits will be increased from $3 a gallon to $4 a gallon, and levies a $1 floor tax on all liquor on hand in liquor selling establishments on October 1.

Thousands of Americans have been stocking up on liquor so heavily lately that the new higher liquor tax won't reach them for months to come.

The treasury has revealed that in August, for instance, the liquor industry withdrew 10,092,469 gallons of distilled spirits from warehouses. This was more than double the 4,947,967 gallons of the similar month last year.

Many distilleries are getting ready to turn their plants over to making pure grain alcohol for various defense needs and are piling up whiskey stocks. They can get no tax advantage out of this piling up of inventories.

Pampa retailers in some of the affected lines under the new taxes have been kept in a dither checking their inventories and figuring out the next move on prices. While there has been no unanimous statement on price increases, reliable sources indicate that retail prices in Pampa on the lines covered by the new federal tax are almost sure to rise.

was the first time bayonet combat has been reported here.

BERLIN, Sept. 30 (AP)—German firing squads have executed 24 Czechs accused of plotting to overthrow German rule. It was announced today, and spokesmen blamed Moscow and London for rebel preparations which led to the swift German counter-measures in the protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia.

four Russian divisions—about 60,000 men—and took 3,000 prisoners. Soviet dispatches said Russia's Red armies had struck two blows against the Nazi invaders—a tanked attack on the northwest front in which 1,500 Germans were killed or wounded, and another attack in which 600 Nazis were slain.

A German military spokesman declared today there would be "little news from the eastern front for the next few days" because of "certain reasons" which were not disclosed.

He added that "certain importance can be attached" to statements in the German press that the campaign on the Russian front might run into winter months.

Axis forces scored successes on the northern and southern flanks of the battlefield, military commentators said.

NO WONDER MRS. MEL B. DAVIS is smiling in the above picture. She had just been presented with a check for $1,000 to be given to the Pampa Girl Scout council. The check was the personal gift of Frank Phillips of Bartlesville, chairman of the board of the Phillips Petroleum company, and was presented by K. S. "Boots" Adams, president of the company who was principal speaker at a barbecue Friday night sponsored by Pampa civic clubs at the new Girl Scout camp site five miles east of LeFors. The Girl Scouts have been given 45 acres of land by John Sullivan for a camp site and Mr. Phillips' check was the starter of a fund to erect buildings at the site.

ARMY PURGE

in the essential subjects of training, he is unable to command adequately.

General McNair's discussion was restricted to about 1,000 officers and he issued a prepared statement.

A serious fault, McNair declared, was a serious fault. He said that commanders must make sure a road is safe from enemy fire before massing of troops are sent over it.

Repeated violations of this procedure, he said, piled up "countless traffic jams which in war would have resulted in evitable and indefensible slaughter."

He said the maneuvers were "the fairest test short of war itself" and that the training value justified the cost. The army's summer and fall maneuvers programs cost approximately $25,000,000.

"Appreciation also is due the press," McNair said. "All elements—news, pictures and radio—strove only to give the true picture and it was a very real picture. The members who covered the maneuvers accepted restrictions cheerfully, lived with the troops and earned in many ways the respect and gratitude of us all. We hope that they will come to see us often."

Nuthatches Early European woodcutters named the nuthatches in the belief that the birds hatched from nuts, since they have been observed emerging from nut-filled cavities in trees.

Smallest Fish Pandaka pygmaea is the smallest fish known in the world. Reaching a minimum length of 6-16-inch and a maximum of 7-16-inch, it is found in the waters of the Philippines.

FDR Confers With Secretary Hull

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 (AP)—For an hour and 45 minutes President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull conferred on all phases of the international situation today, presumably with emphasis on revision of the neutrality law.

As he left the White House: The secretary told reporters:

"We were going over all the different phases of the international situation as they affect matters which we thought called for an exchange of ideas and discussion."

Asked whether they had considered the neutrality law in particular, Hull said they had given their attention no more to one thing than to another.

As to discussion of neutrality law revision continued at the capitol, Wendell L. Wilkie let it be known that he would support Mr. Roosevelt in any effort to repeal or modify it.

Back from a week end at Hyde Park, N. Y., the President planned to follow up his conference with Hull with a talk tomorrow with legislative leaders before starting to work on the special neutrality act message which congress looks for later this week.

California Denies Pardon For Valtin

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30 (AP)—Jan Valtin, who wrote the best seller, "Out of the Night," was denied a pardon today by the state advisory pardon board.

Valtin, 36, under his true name of Richard Krebs, was convicted in 1925 of assault with a deadly weapon in Los Angeles, and was sentenced to 10 years. He was released in 1929 for deportation to his native Germany, and recently re-entered this country illegally.

The petitioner, who attacked Communist and Nazi activities in his book, and told of astonishing experiences he said he encountered, applied for a pardon to escape deportation to Germany again.

The advisory board voted two-to-two against a pardon, but Gov. Culbert L. Olson, before whom the matter will next come, may grant a pardon or refuse one.

Gray HD Clubs Place Exhibit At Amarillo

Remodeled, refurnished upholstered furniture of four Gray county home demonstration club members, are on display in the educational exhibit from this county at the Amarillo Tri-State exposition in Amarillo.

The exhibit was arranged Saturday by Mrs. W. F. Taylor of Wayside and Mrs. Ronald Dauer of Bell, representatives of the Gray county home demonstration clubs council.

Articles in the exhibit were the same as were recently displayed in a Southwestern Public Service company window here, and at the fifth annual community fair at Alameda last Thursday.

Comprising the exhibit is a chair, ottoman, magazine rack, table-book cabinet combination, wall book shelf, dining room chair, handmade hooked rug. These articles were from four home demonstration clubs: Wayside, Hopkins, Bell, and Laketon.

ONE PUNCH BY JOE LOUIS RUINS LOU NOVA IN SIXTH ROUND

Fight Stopped With Single Second To Go

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Sept. 30 (AP)—If Joe Louis has fought his last fight, then the world can say goodbye to a fighting man the likes of which it may never see again.

The right that Joe laid on Lou Nova's jaw in the sixth round last night at the Polo grounds, knocking the big Californian flat and preparing him for the technical knockout that came moments later, was the sort of picture punch that a fight fan might wait a lifetime to see.

The big negro, now awaiting his call into the army, may never again deliver a single blow with the precision and power of the one that paralyzed Nova's senses and shocked a great crowd of almost 60,000 that had been slowly warming up to what it thought was a fairly even contest.

A year of absence from the heat of championship fighting might rob Louis of the perfect sense of timing and the deadly kick that went into that one climactic blow. If that happens, then it will be something to remember.

Nova was close to the ropes, near his own corner, boxing confidently and well, waiting for Joe to give him an opening. Louis, his face impassive as ever, was shuffling about and getting nowhere, apparently. The crowd had been doing some booning, and the champion's most ardent followers were waiting that the "never" looked like that before.

Then suddenly, and simply, it happened. Louis feinted with his left and threw all of his 202 pounds behind his right. It struck the powerful Nova flush on the jaw and he dropped as though he had collided with a boxcar. It was such a terrific blow as to make what happened before and afterward in the fight seem scarcely worth the telling.

Though terribly hurt, Nova managed to gain his feet at the count of nine and to stagger into a barrage of blows. He shuddered under the impact of twenty or thirty cruel shots to his head and body as he sagged and floundered three-quarters of the way around the ring before Referee Arthur Donovan stopped it, just at the bell. But that one punch had ruined him.

"I just forgot to duck," said Nova, almost cheerfully, after the wobble came out of his legs and he had reached the dressing room. "Joe's the hardest hitter I ever fought. I saw the punch coming all the way, but I couldn't get out of range. It must have been a beauty."

Ray Carlen, Nova's manager was bitter because Donovan had stopped the bout with only seven seconds remaining of the sixth round. He argued, with seeming logic, that Lou should have been given the minute rest period to see if he could come out and fight. But Nova refused to join him in his beef.

"Maybe I could have taken care of myself if I had had a rest," he said, "but I've got no complaint about Donovan. He can referee all my fights."

Bums Are National's Best Entry Since 1934

BROOKLYN BRIDGE HAS been the scene of many historic happenings, but all Brooklyn bridges and the subways, too.

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Sept. 29—Yankees have the balance and all-round class. No question about that.

But the Beautiful Bums can't be laughed off.

After all, they comprise the best club Larry MacPhail could buy, and he spent $881,000 of other people's money.

The bums go into the world series hotter than a firecracker.

The Yankees have had a month in which to cool off.

The Cardinals won the pennant on the last day of the campaign of 1934 and went on to bowl over the Tigers.

The Cubs grabbed 21 straight to get up in the nick of time and take it all in the National in '35. They really should have beaten thoroughly rested Detroit in the big show.

The breaks and a series of decisions went against them.

All the Bums are in perfect condition.

Charley Keller of the New Yorks is still favoring what was a severe sprain and chipped bone in his ankle.

Red Rolfe is recovering from colitis.

They are key men even in such a powerful organization as the one guided by Joe McCarthy.

BROOKLYN HAS PITCHING EDGE

Brooklyn is the National League's strongest world series entry since the Deans helped St. Louis repulse Detroit in '34.

Off the records, they must be given a pitching edge, so important in a short series.

They have 22-game winners in Whitlow Wyatt and his slider and Kirby Higbe and his speed and curve.

It repeatedly has been demonstrated that two great pitchers backed by a capable relief worker are enough to win a world series.

Toss out the chatter about Wyatt having an American league complex.

He had arm trouble and was given little opportunity in his junior wheel trials.

He did not learn to pitch until the late Allan Sutton Sotheron got hold of him in Milwaukee in '38.

He's all pitcher now—from head to feet, and will be out to demonstrate that to the American leaguers.

LACK OF LEFT-HANDER NO FATAL HANDICAP

You hear that the Yankees will feast on Koiby Higbe's speed. The answer to that one is that they have always had what you would call a picnic with Rapid Robert Feller.

Back of Wyatt and Higbe, the Bums have Curt Davis and his cunning, and fat Freddie Fitzsimmons and his knuckler and knowledge.

The Bums' lack of a starting left-hander against the Yankees is not necessarily a fatal handicap. Good pitching is good pitching—right or left-handed and in any language, and the Bums have had it all season.

If a left-hander is needed for a spot, they possess the veteran Larry French, who still knows how to cut corners.

For the Yankees, Red Ruffing was flattened in his last outing by the last-place Athletics. Johnny Murphy has had to ball Lefty Gomez out. Spud Chandler, Atley Donald, big Ernie Bonham, and Marius Russo are untried in world series warfare.

DODGERS SWAT LONG BALL, TOO

All Yankee regulars—and Charley Ruffing can be included—swat a long ball. The New Yorks have the great Joe Di Maggio.

But the Dodgers' team batting average in a pitchers' league is .285 against 289 for the Yankees, and the Bums hit the ball fair pieces themselves.

They led the National league in all offensive departments—home runs with more than 100, club batting, runs batted in, runs scored with 792 or nearly 100 more than the second place Cardinals, triples, doubles, and total hits. They have the league batting champion in Pete Reiser, and other long distance swat-smiths in Dixie Walker, Dolph Camilli, Joe Medwick and Cookie Lavagetto.

FIRST RUN-GETTING NATIONALS SINCE '34

Yankees were threatening the American league double play record at the finish, but the Bums are far from slouches in the field. Pee Wee Reese has settled down.

reason for anybody doing a Steve Brodie from any Brooklyn bridge on the way home.

Brooklyn has a crafty second baseman in Billy Herman and the finest fielding first baseman in the game in Camilli, the most valuable man in the league.

Since '34, National league world series representatives have been defensive clubs which had to get a small lead and hold it. The Yankees were able to break down that barrier.

This National league entry is a run-getter.

The Yankees have more speed, but the Bums play inspired and daring baseball.

They are skillfully managed by Leo Durocher, who knows what it is to win a world series.

New York may be the logical choice, but don't be afraid to take the short end.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, Sept. 30. (The Special News Service)—So Joe Louis has slipped, eh?—He slipped over a punch Nova never saw, but that's about all—Lou really took it in the fourth and came back—until Louis found the opening he was trying for. . . Joe's first wallop of the fight was convincing enough. It brushed across Nova's forehead and left a pink trail. . . Louis said he found the way to that one-punch ending in the fifth round. He missed that time but as soon as Nova came out working his hands back and forth carelessly Joe knew he had him. . . Lou's explanation was "I forgot to duck" but the way most of those 56,549 fans figured it out, he forgot immediately after he didn't duck. . . Sid (AP) Feder and Al (N. Y. Post) Buck came within a second of being wrong. They both picked Louis in the sixth. . . Tony Galento wasn't introduced from the ring before the fight, but he let everybody know he was there by hollering from the back row of the press section for Joe to hit that "Yogi on the cosmetic chin." . . . Even if Billy Conn does make another trip to Hollywood (and he's supposed to be considering a $100,000 offer) Max Baer still is the best actor in the fight business. He brought down the house when he pretended to run from Jim Braddock and then staged a love scene with Harry Balough that completely ruined Harry's dignity.

Northeast Unscored On, Undefeated This Season

Northeast Norsemen of Oklahoma City, undefeated and unscored on this season, will be the Pampa Harvesters' opponent here Friday night in the third home game of the season. The Harvesters are also undefeated, so one team will lose its perfect record when the two clash on Harvesters field at 8 o'clock.

Big job of the Harvesters will be to stop Ray Ary, a young man who moved from Stigler to Oklahoma City in time to be eligible to play for the Norsemen. The fancy-stepping 175-pounder, who runs from the fullback position, scored 19 points in less than 15 minutes of play Friday night when Northeast swamped the Concho Indians 39 to 0.

On the previous week the same Ary ran wild against Capital Hill of Oklahoma City, the Norsemen winning 32 to 0 in the biggest upset in Oklahoma football circles in many years. Last year the Norsemen were the doormats of the conference.

Coach Buck Prejean, Harvesters' mentor, saw the Norsemen beat Concho and he came home with the report that Northeast really "has something" this year. Ary isn't the only ball toter the Harvesters will have to watch because Villines quarterback, and Gideon and Case, halves, are also top boys at their respective duties. The Northeast line is not big but it's fast and blockers pull out with lightning rapidity.

Rain and cold weather kept the Harvesters from working out yesterday but the time was not wasted. Coach Prejean gave the boys a real blackboard workout on Northeast plays and started mapping out a defense he hopes will stop Mr. Ary and company. Main part of the "company" is Villines', 160-pound quarterback who is really a scoter and Case, 180-pound halfback.

Rain or shine the Harvesters will work out at Harvesters park this afternoon. Coaches Prejean and Mac Bect will start practice by going over mistakes which showed up against Clovis last Friday night. Then they'll work against Northeast plays and if the field is dry enough a scrimmage will end the practice.

The Harvesters came through the Clovis game in pretty fair shape and all the boys except Jerry Kerbow, out with a broken arm, will be ready to go against the Norsemen.

Leningrad, Russia, also has been known by the names of St. Petersburg and Petrograd.

Matty Moans Fordham May Beat His Ponies 30 Points

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
DALLAS, Sept. 30 (AP)—Southern Methodist's Madison Bell, who takes sports writers to task for calling him Moanin' Matty, says:

"We'll be lucky if we can keep Fordham from beating us by 30 points."

Matty takes his Mustangs on a jaunt to New York Saturday to battle the mighty Rams in a top intersectional game.

"Red McClain (that's the former S. M. U. star now playing on the New York Giants pro team) told me Fordham was better than last year—and you know what a ball club they put in the Cotton Bowl against Texas A. and M."

"My boys hustle. They did that Saturday but don't let that 54-0 score we ran up on North Texas State fool you. North Texas just didn't have the usual strong team."

"Fordham is rated the best in the east. Well, we're not rated the strongest in the southwest. I'm afraid it's going to be mighty rough for us up there."

Bell said he was pleased with the showing of his boys in their first game. "Well, we're not rated the strongest in the southwest. I'm afraid it's going to be mighty rough for us up there."

Begin At Home

Fire Prevention Week will be observed from October 5 to 11 this year. And every community in America, from the biggest metropolis down to the tiniest village, should participate. Now, as never before, fire prevention is a public duty. For fire prevention is of great and direct service to national defense.

What most of us fail to realize is that it is the cumulative total of relatively small fires which is responsible for the bulk of this country's shameful fire waste. Fire prevention, to be successful, must literally begin at home. Defective furnaces, defective wiring, accumulations of paper and rubbish, improperly stored flammable liquids, such as paint and cleaning solvents, matches, cigarettes—such little things as these are the cause of hundreds of millions of dollars of fire loss. A little knowledge, a little effort and a little money will make your home safe.

From the community point of view, one essential protection against fire is a modern building code. These codes should be up to the highest standard, and should make such hazards as the existence of fire traps impossible. Equally important, they are of small use unless they are rigidly enforced—and enforced without fear or favor. A code which is a dead letter because of lack of enforcement, is as bad as no code at all.

During Fire Prevention Week, every citizen should take advantage of the opportunity that will be offered to learn the causes of fires—and how they may be prevented. Then, apply what you have learned. Do it at home, and do it at work. It will save you money—and it may save life. And it may save valuable materials and resources which are so sorely needed now for defense. Let's make 1941 the year in which this country solves the problem of preventable fire.

No Mass-Production Doctors

No group is working harder for American defense than private medicine. Doctors by the thousands have entered the military service. Selectees for our great new army are examined by local doctors who receive no payments whatsoever. The American Medical Association has pledged its fullest cooperation, and its members are fulfilling that pledge.

However, out of justice to the public, the medical fraternity must oppose proposals which it believes would have a dangerous effect on the national health. In a recent editorial, the A. M. A. Journal says, "It should not be necessary to argue that a continuing and undiminished supply of well-trained physicians is absolutely essential to the welfare of the nation. We cannot speed up that training beyond a certain point without lowering educational standards and degrading the quality of medical service. The present crisis demands, in fact, better qualified physicians if we are to face the future with reasonable confidence."

Doctors cannot be turned out like machines, on a mass-production basis. To substantially reduce the length of time given to medical training would have far-reaching effects on the public health in the future. This country has the finest physicians in the world—and the main reason is that it has the finest schools of medicine. Unless the strictest standards of medical training continue to prevail, the health of this nation cannot help but suffer severely.

A LITTLE NEWSPAPER HISTORY (New York Daily News)

Mr. Field in Journalism

It appears that Marshall Field III, principal heir to the big Chicago drygoods fortune founded by his grandfather, is going to start a morning newspaper in Chicago, along about Jan. 1 next. The paper's editorial policy is to be interventionist, and already its midwives are talking about how it is going to "end the un-American monopoly now enjoyed by the Chicago Tribune."

Mr. Field says he doesn't give a damn what happens to his fortune, inferring that he likes to toss money into losing newspapers. It has been demonstrated time and again that mere possession of a great deal of money does not make a man a competent newspaper publisher. Some talent for daily journalism is also required. Mr. Field may possess this talent, but up to now it has not been evident.

There is some newspaper history behind the news that Mr. Field is going back to the old family hunting grounds in Chicago.

Medill—White—Greely—Field I

In 1872, Joseph Medill was editor of the Chicago Tribune, but did not own a majority of the stock. Before Lincoln's nomination he was an original Lincoln man. Throughout the Civil War he had supported Lincoln, the Republican Party and the cause of abolition of slavery. The majority stockholders removed him in 1872, and elevated as editor Horace White, a New York liberal anti-Grant man.

Grant's first administration had had some doubt about it, and the liberals decided to run Horace Greely, editor of the New York Tribune, against him in 1872. In that year, the Chicago Tribune, having fired Joseph Medill as editor, appointed Greely against the hero of Appomattox.

This, of course, was the doing of the new liberal editor from New York, Horace White. What it did to the Tribune was to lose it about

Common Ground

By R. C. HOLLES

"I speak the past-world primal, I give the sign of democracy. By God! I will accept nothing which will not have their counterpart on the same terms."

OUR COSTLIEST NIGHTMARE

The more I analyze our plight, our confusion, our unemployment, our decline in accumulating capital and our decline in our constantly increasing living standard that existed for a century, the more I become convinced that there is one nightmare, one error in belief, that is bringing about all this trouble. This nightmare, this error in belief, is held by people in most all walks of life. It is held by specialists performing wonderful services in their line. If, however, we are to again make progressive steps with an ever-increasing standard of living for an ever-increasing population it is necessary that this in thinking, must be recognized.

This belief has led to laws being passed which will continue to impoverish us unless they are repealed. It seems impossible to believe that one belief could cause so much harm as this nightmare has caused.

This nightmare that is causing our trouble is the belief that one man's working and producing hurts another man. That competition is harmful to the working man.

This belief, undoubtedly, comes from the fact that the individual concentrates his attention on the workers producing the same kind of a service he is producing. He sees that this prevents him from exchanging his services on a basis on which he would like to exchange them. It often causes him to adjust his methods, or his work. He does not see that this adjustment benefits every other worker in producing something else. He does not see that every other worker producing something different from what he is producing helps him exchange his services for more.

He does not realize that if he were the only worker producing anything he could not exchange his services for anything of value.

This belief is in short a denial of free enterprise or the competitive system. It is to deny the axiom that competition is the life of trade. This nightmare, believing that other workers hurt the working man in general has led to laws that have greatly reduced production and retarded the constant increase, if not caused a decline, in wage levels.

It is the cause of tariff laws, restricted immigration, the discriminatory tax laws, the Wagner law, the Minimum Wage Law, the so-called Social Security Law, and the Clayton Amendment to the Sherman Anti-Trust Law.

These people who believe in restricting competition, as all these laws do, do not realize that each worker produces his own reward or wages; that the more labor is divided naturally and freely, the more can be produced and the higher labor's reward can be. They do not seem to realize that if men attempted to satisfy his own wants without exchanging, he would perish in a few days.

Union Labor's Great Error

There has been no group that has been more confused on this erroneous opinion, this nightmare, than modern labor unions. Their whole theory has been to limit those who dare learn and produce. Their whole theory has been a theory of scarcity, instead of a theory of production. Through their miseducation, they have helped bring about public opinion that sanctioned these laws that will eventually lead to a totalitarian state unless this erroneous nightmare can be dispelled from the minds of the people.

All believers in tariffs' minimum wage laws, immigration laws and restrictive labor laws, will find, if they analyze the cause of their belief, that it can be traced back to the error that one man's working and producing hurts another man. If this erroneous idea could be dispelled from the minds of the people, the growth and prosperity of this country would surpass any growth in all history.

half its readers and almost bankrupt the paper. Corbett farmers went over in droves to the Inter-Ocean, and a lot of them never came back.

Medill meanwhile took a trip in Europe, following his services as Mayor of Chicago after the great fire of Oct. 8, 1871; and in 1874 he came back to Chicago and borrowed from Marshall Field I—grandfather of the current Mr. Field—enough money to buy majority stock control of the Chicago Tribune.

That was not all Medill found he had bought. He had also bought a great deal of freely and frequently given advice from Marshall Field I on almost everything under the sun, especially on how to run a newspaper. Medill nursed the Tribune, back to health; and on Jan. 2, 1883, he took the full amount of his debt around to Mr. Field. Mr. Field courteously offered to extend the loan, but Medill insisted on paying it in full on its due date, saying: "Now again, Mr. Field, we meet as equals."

Medill who was the grandfather of the present editor of the Chicago Tribune, said that the day he paid off his loan to Field was the happiest day of his life.

The Tribune does not, as alleged by Mr. Field III and his co-workers, enjoy a newspaper monopoly in Chicago.

Competition for Tribune

There is also the Chicago Daily News, a fiercely interventionist paper owned by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox—who in 1936 was running for Vice President on the Republican ticket and calling Roosevelt soft, sentimental, extravagant, etc., etc. And there is the interventionist Chicago Times, run by S. E. Thomason.

When Mr. Field's morning paper is started, there will be one morning interventionist paper and two afternoon interventionist papers in Chicago against the lone isolationist Tribune. Our guess is that Mr. Field's paper will pull as many readers from his interventionist friends, the News and the Times, as from the Tribune.

The Tribune, too, is splendidly equipped as to staff, plant, distribution service, and so on—meaning Mr. Field III will have to spend a lot of money in Chicago to get off to a fair start. We do think, though, that what competition Mr. Field is able to offer will be good for the Tribune. It will put the Tribune even more on its toes than it is now.

We remember a time when The News was well started in New York. Mr. Hearst sent Mr. Brisbane around to tell us, with a tremor in his voice, that, much as he hated to do it, unless we would sell The News to Mr. Hearst he would be forced to start a rival tabloid and put us out of business. We replied that we were sorry but wouldn't sell. Mr. Hearst founded another tabloid—and that competition forced The News to become a better paper. It was Mr. Hearst's other New York morning paper that went out of business.

THE TIDES OF BATTLE

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

Hollywood, Sept. 30—Lacking any evidence from a nationwide survey, you'd guess that an overwhelming share of marriage proposals are pounded in parked cars, or maybe in the living rooms of young ladies' homes, but that isn't what happens in movies.

I was reminded of the force of the scenario's struggle for novelty while watching a scene for "They Died With Their Boots On" in which Errol Flynn was doing the "Will you be mine?" business with Olivia de Havilland. The striking thing about it was that Flynn was not proposing during a battle, nor while swimming at the bottom of a well, nor while skidding on his ear down the front steps of his lady-love's veranda. Mr. Flynn, as a West Pointer, was factoring in conventional fashion on the academy's famed flirtation walk.

So I got to recollecting and checking out the new pictures. There are two proposals in "King's Row." In one of these girls, Ann Sheridan, does the talking. She proposes to Ronald Reagan in her bedroom. But it's all right, really, because Reagan has been taken there after an accident. Also, Robert Cummings proposes to his pal, the as-yet-uncast Cassie, beside a pond while being perturbed during a thunderstorm.

FREIGHTED ROMANCE

Jack Carson's proposal to Priscilla Lane in "Blue in the Face" happens in a rumbling boxcar of a moving freight train. Jimmy Cagney voices the fateful words to Brenda Marshall in "Captains of the Clouds" just as he comes out of some operation either in a Canadian log cabin, or in a hospital.

"Incidentally, the proposal scene for "For Whom the Bell Tolls" hasn't been written yet, but you may be sure that it won't involve a sleeping bag. That article, though, is a reminder that in "Unexpected Uncle" Jimmy Craig and Anne Shirley exchange their preliminary vows from opposite berths in an airplane. This is as noisy as the proposal scene in "Woman of the Year" with Spencer Tracy and Katie Hepburn standing in the clattering teletype room of a big newspaper. "I want to marry you," shouts Tracy. At that point Editor Reginald Owen, wondering if any big news is breaking, looks in and asks if anything's going on.

BOWER BOWLES' TEM

In "Appointment for Love," in which Irene Dunne is a woman physician, Charles Boyer begins a series of persistent proposals during a physical examination. Boyer made another unusual proposal in "Hold Back the Dawn," in which he sat all night regarding Olivia de Havilland asleep in a hotel lobby. Came the dawn, and before the poor girl could realize what was going on, he led her across the street to a justice's office.

For drama and action in a declaration of sentiment, though, you could depend on Cecil DeMille. His "Reap the Wild Wind" has a big scene in which Paulette Goddard is being married to John Wayne on the deck of a ship. At the last instant, Ray Milland charges up, knocks Wayne overboard, throws Miss Goddard into the ocean, and then jumps in after her. Grabbing her there, he sputters exultantly, "You didn't say 'I do!'" And then he ducks her again to keep her from saying it. "You're going to marry me!" declares the masterful Milland. And she does.

Senator O'Daniel made another speech in the senate last Thursday, introducing a senate joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution that "no person shall be denied employment because of membership in or affiliation with or resignation from a labor union, or because of refusal to join or affiliate with a labor union, or if you do not work." It is a disgrace that we have a government in Washington which permits what it has apparently permitted to be done in the shipbuilding yards in New Jersey. Government agencies have taken the position that if a man is a member of a labor union and does not pay his dues he should lose his job. "In my opinion the maintenance of "Freedom to Work" and the problem of protecting employees in America from violence mean more to the domestic affairs of this country and to the future of the Nation than the temporary decision on any matter concerned with the present World War.

Letters have poured into my office telling me of exorbitant fees demanded by power-grated wild-eyed union labor leader agitators for the right of free men to work on national defense projects. I have advised me that after the exorbitant fees are exacted the victim is discharged without just cause as soon as full payment of the fee is made. I am going to ask only that they (the senators) stand in the way of the people deciding whether they want such legislation as I am discussing."

O'Daniel's speech was not carried by press wires. These excerpts from it are taken from the Congressional Record.

Behind The News In Washington

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30—It's about time people began to feel sorry for Governor McNutt—of Gov. Paul Voorhis McNutt of Indiana, that is—now federal security administrator. The Gov's luck seems to have gone haywire lately—in fact, every since the Chicago convention when the managers' idea to pack the gallery at the stadium was appropriated by the Kelly-Nash stalwarts who wrecked a perfectly good demonstration intended to build him for the vice presidency.

Down in Washington, McNutt's beautiful new Social Security Building was about finished, when what happens? OPM and Ordnance move in, leaving the Gov. just one wing for his immediate staff. The Gov. is encircled there, not in all his splendor, looking just as handsome, hale and hearty as ever, handsome even in the flesh than the new life-size painting of him that hangs on the wall at the side of his desk.

Somehow, the Gov. best efforts just don't jell. The campaign to build up civilian morale is in a ditch. The nutrition campaign backfired. And now the Gov. is up to his ears in—of all things—oleomargarine. BATTLE OF FATS

Unless you're a dairyman or an oleo manufacturer you probably haven't been following this battle of animal vs. vegetable fats, but it is one of those lovely rows that happen in Washington every so often, making it such a jolly place. More fun "I never was more surprised in all my life," Governor McNutt confesses, "that at all the repercussions this stirred up."

The Food and Drug Administration, now one of McNutt's babies in the Federal Security Agency family, but before that a long-time Department of Agriculture demander of pure foods, recently issued an order raising the minimum standards for oleomargarine. Food and Drug held the customary hearings, though some of the dairy industry people say they didn't know about it and didn't have a chance to see their own copy of the order.

The hearings, the order was put over McNutt's signature, specifying that oleo must have so much fats and so many vitamins. What has happened, of course, was that oleo industry research had been improving the quality of the product so that it was vitamin enriched, and it even had a pretty close imitation butter flavor.

Shortly after the new oleo order was issued, the Consumers' Council Division of the Department of Agriculture sponsored a broadcast in which consumers were told that oleomargarine was much cheaper than butter, and that it was now an important food of its own account. That was when the fireworks really began.

Dairymen and creamery men began to see oleo nightmares. They held local protest meetings, and then a national meeting in Chicago. A United Dairy Committee of two representatives from each of 22 principal dairying states and one representative from each of 10 principal dairy industry trade associations was formed to fight.

Congressman Bernard J. Gehrmann (McNutt Wis.) and August H. Andresen of Red Wing, Minn., were two of the leaders. Consumers Counsel and Food and Drugs caught it, plenty. Oleo manufacturers were charged with raising a fund of a million and a half dollars to advertise the new high-standard oleo, which they claimed even tasted like butter. Andresen finally introduced a bill which would prohibit the sale and movement in interstate commerce of oleo made under McNutt standards.

SET FOR SECOND HEARING

With all this fat in the fire—butter and vegetable fat—a delegation from the United Dairy Committee headed by R. E. Ammon of Madison, Wis., came down to Washington to see McNutt to ask that the hearings be reopened so that the dairymen could have their say.

But consider the grease spot this put Governor McNutt on. He called a press conference to explain his side of the predicament. Reporters were kept waiting 45 minutes while the dairymen were closeted in McNutt's handsome milk house. Then the reporters were ushered out of the reception room and into an ante room so they wouldn't meet the protesting dairymen as they came out of McNutt's office.

That one was too old, and didn't work. Mr. Ammon and his committee came out smiling. The governor had agreed to talk the thing over with his Food and Drug people again, and see if they should be reopened.

But pity poor Paul. If he sticks to the new oleo standards he has made a lot of votes in those 22 dairying states. Governor. If he lets down the Food and Drug Administration in its long hard-fought, sincere efforts to improve the quality of all food products, he will have compromised the virtue of the few ill-whites left among Uncle Sam's departmental needs.

TEX'S TOPICS

CHARLIE Guy, who writes The Plainsman column for The Lubbock Avalanche Journal, has just tossed us a curve. Every once in awhile it has been a habit of ours to lift something from Charlie's column, just as it has been a habit to snitch something good from anybody's column. Well, turning over to Charlie's column in the Lubbock paper today we discovered that it would be utterly impossible to take anything from his column. He had it fixed so there wasn't a chance for us to "pirate" a single line. The first thing that hit us smack-dab in the eye was the same by-line that appears over this column.

Mr. Guy is on a trip to the East and while he is away he is publishing columns by other Texas editors. The one he used today appeared in this space about two weeks ago.

Practical jokers, it is understood, sent Bob Willis a copy of this column several days ago in which we hoped Bob wouldn't do wrong by San Antonio. Rose when he comes Thursday night. The head-man of the Texas Playboys was asked in this note to "peep it on" with a special dedication via KVOD, Tulsa, or at the Southern Club come Thursday night. Lora Nova says Joe Louis didn't hurt him last night. That must be cosmic language for getting knocked silly. Maybe Nova was letting Louis hit him so hard because he felt so good when the referee stopped it.

SINCE a very prominent sports writer picked Nova to win over Louis last night, there is no reason why we can't pick Brackridge high of San Antonio to be the first to bump off the Amarillo Sandies. The Pampa Harvesters will be the second eleven to accomplish that feat. The only reason the Harvesters are first is because San Antonio gets 'em first on the schedule. Nobody wants to go along with us on that one, but why join up with the herd all the time. This is Amarillo's off week in more ways than one, if you know what we mean. We just figure the State Champions' number is up this time. Please omit bets.

We liked Pampa a lot better last Friday night against Clovis than against Burk Burnett the week before that. The Harvesters showed loads of improvement. Their interference on end runs, which was sadly lacking in the first game, was much better. That's important and it still can be improved, which it no doubt will this week. Coaches Frejman and Best are doing wonders with the team. When you can't tell which is the stronger, your first team or your reserves, then you've got something. We rather lean to the belief that Pampa now has two crack first teams and a doggone good team of reserves to back 'em up in case of fire or flood.

CONGRESSMAN Gene Worley prefers to refer to Adolf Hitler as Mr. Shickgrubel, his real name. That's what they called the grotesque paper-hanger before he got to war-larding it over everybody in Europe. Mr. Worley is a fervent believer that Shickgrubel has a superiority complex and that he will attempt to do everything he said he was going to do in his "Mein Kampf". That, of course, calls for whipping down the ears of Uncle Sam after he has erased the others.

Mr. Worley does not believe that Shickgrubel should be under-rated although he does believe that the German killer hasn't a ghost of a chance with a watchful nation like the U. S.

The McNutt office. That one was too old, and didn't work. Mr. Ammon and his committee came out smiling. The governor had agreed to talk the thing over with his Food and Drug people again, and see if they should be reopened.

But pity poor Paul. If he sticks to the new oleo standards he has made a lot of votes in those 22 dairying states. Governor. SERIAL STORY

BRIDE FROM THE SKY

BY HELEN WELSHIMER

COPYRIGHT, 1947, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CASE OF JUDY ALLEN CHAPTER XX THE brighter light did not come on as Judy hurried to get her brown calico dress fastened around her. Her eyes were dark smudges in her face and the russet hair gleamed faintly in the meager outside bulb.

"Phil," she called softly, forgetting that she might sing, dance or yell because there were no other feminine guests of the city tonight. The man who stood behind the matron was not Phil. He was a tall young man in a brown aviator's suit. There was no laughter in his eyes now and his firm chin looked weary.

"I imagine the sky was nice tonight, Sandy," Judy addressed her visitor. "My star patch wasn't bad."

"Would you like to enter Miss Allen's cell?" the accommodating matron asked. "Bein' as you are to be married, I don't see why you shouldn't be together."

The matron unlocked the door of Judy's cell and flung it back. Sandy closed it immediately. "I'm afraid you've got the wrong man. Funny I had the same idea once upon a time." His lips twisted slightly. "She got away from me."

"You mean she jumped from an airplane to escape you?" the woman's voice queried. "Then what was the man like that she wanted?"

"A ten-minute egg. Not good on toast," Sandy supplied. "You've spoiled everything now," Judy answered. "Think of my job!"

"Your job?" She was aware that his eyes narrowed, tried to pick out her features in the dusky cell, gave up. When he spoke again his voice was gentle, disappointed, impersonal. "I thought you stepped into the empty spaces because you wanted to save your marriage after I'd made such a mess of everything. I didn't understand your by-line was so important to you."

"Sandy, you're wrong—" "Never mind, Judy. But I'm rather glad I caught on in time. I'd want any wife I claimed to wear my name. I'll get you out of this, anyway, and let you trot back to Phillip."

He turned swiftly and Judy heard the outer door at the entrance close after him. The matron had hurried ahead to open the heavy gate.

LEFT alone, Judy did not remove the calico dress. She wrapped herself in the blanket and laid down on her cot.

She looked at the slim watch set in blue and white sapphires, a birthday gift from Phil. She had intended to remove it from her wrist but Miss Mattie's arrival had interrupted. The watch had stopped in the high altitude. She would not know that it was morning until the matron came again.

Meantime a rat ran around the cell and escaped through a hole. She could hear it scratching somewhere near and moved closer to the wall.

Oh, this was a thousand times worse than falling into space on your back! When she reached her father and Phil, this jail would apologize. The rat ran back and this time her scream was so terrified, so frenzied, that steps came running.

"What's bein' pulled off?" the warden's huge voice asked. "Another drunk seen' purple pigs?" "Purple pigs! It's a rat!" Judy explained. "Lock me up anywhere! Anywhere! I'll die here! I know I will!"

"It's just Peter, a nice fellow. We all know him around here. When you get your breakfast he'll be mighty pleased if you do some dividing." The rotund warden chuckled and walked away.

"Help! Help! You dumb, inefficient..." Judy's voice stopped. What did it matter that she yelled? Nobody cared.

"JUDY! Judy! Judy darling!" That was Sandy's voice. That was Sandy, too, trying to break down the gateway leading into the police reception room.

She fainted away then, quickly, completely, and did not regain consciousness until the matron came with a small platter. Common sense told Judy that she had been out a matter of seconds, but the strange whirring in her head, the dimness that tried to discover where she was and why, lengthened the seconds into a long vista. "Give somebody named Peter the food," she murmured. "And let me wait some place else."

Her request was granted. She was placed in a wider cell which was shut off from Peter's domain. She was given fresh water with which to wash her face. "Miss Judy Allen, associate editor of Under Twenty, that popular fashion magazine for girls, is now seen splashing cold water on her face," she mimicked, following cutlines from her magazine's advertising.

"Miss Allen was in jail at the time the picture was made." The matron came later with more information. The Police Court was meeting and Judy was to appear.

"Just as soon as I change to my white dress," she answered and began to take off the brown one. "But why?"

"Haven't you observed, my dear, that men fall for the fragile and helpless? Let me wear riding clothes and I'd get two months in your jug."

Talking like this kept up her courage. Policemen, as she knew them, were kind. They chatted with her when she passed them at certain corners. If any of her friends knew where she was, well, they would know most any minute now.

SLIM, very young, not half as brave as she looked, hobbling along on one foot, Judy went with the matron. "My father is also holding court today," she said. "I'll ask the judge to let me telephone him."

She knew that Sandy's face looked ill with worry as she passed him. He leaned to say, "Chin up, Judy. I'm taking the blame. I'll take the rap—What a crazy fool I was!"

His face was stern, cold, critical. "You planned such a nice jaunt, Sandy," Judy heard her voice answering. "Too bad your plans miscarried."

If he thought he could tie life into knots and blow them apart, he might as well begin to learn better right now.

Then she heard her name. "Case of Municipal Airport versus Judy Allen."

Now Is The Time To 'Fall-Proof' Homes

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 30—Safety in the home is mostly good sense and good house keeping, says Bernice Clayton, extension service specialist in home improvement, in urging rural people to "fall-proof" their homes. Falls send thousands of people to the hospital every year and cause many deaths. In fact, life insurance companies report that about 80 per cent of the accidental deaths of persons 65 years or over are due to falls.

The specialist says more falls happen on steps and stairs than anywhere else in the house. To overcome this danger she suggests the following of specifications recommended by the U. S. Bureau of Standards in building safe stairs. Another is to install hand-rails for every flight of stairs on at least one side of the stairs. This goes for cellar steps and attic stairs as well, she says.

Home stairways should be well-lighted, and all steps should be kept firm and in good repair. Stairs finished with wax should not be slippery, the specialist warns. Likewise, carpets on stairs and in hallways should be kept free from worn spots and upturned edges, or they may catch a heel or toe.

Fall hazards in the kitchen include water or food spilled on the floor and climbing up to high shelves. For reaching high storage space, Mrs. Clayton suggests use of a substantial little kitchen ladder. "Don't trust yourself on a chair, a table, or a stool," is her advice.

So Big Texas Not So Big On Record Trees

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 30—Among the hundreds of "biggest tree" measurements of all species collected by the American Forestry association at Washington, none originated in "So Big" Texas. "But," says C. W. Simmons, farmer forester of the A. and M. College extension service, "a Texan might Tom Thumb his way for a Paul Bunyan hall of fame with the clear claims that Texas has the biggest area of firm woods in America."

We have big hat trees, the most middle trees and a whole passel of small lumber log trees of all kinds on farms for small sawmills and small industries, Simmons comments. In West Texas hogs eat acorns off the trees, and in other parts of the state there is an abundance of nuisance trees a little too tall for an upright goat to eat.

"Probably the largest, oldest, slowest and fastest growing trees we have had, or probably now have in Texas, is the cypress," Simmons says. "The wood also has more home and industrial use than any other kind of tree in America."
