Reagan victorious in battle of budget

Effect on Pampa may be minimal

By DEBORAH BRIDGES
Staff Writer

Local administrators are unsure what effect the austere budget proposed by President Ronald Reagan will have on Pampa agencies. In the first step towards acceptance, the $688.8 billion federal budget for fiscal year 1982 was overwhelmingly accepted in a bipartisan vote Thursday in the U. S. House of Representatives.

City Manager Mack Wofford said the only federal funds now received by the city are the CETA funding, Federal Revenue Sharing and, indirectly, federal highway funds.

"We just don't participate on anything else," he said. Wofford said he has tried to determine how the city might be affected.

"I can't find anybody who knows what these funds really are. We're just kind of fumbling," he said.

The CETA program had already been cut 38 percent, he said.

"The program that we participate in has been affected only slightly, very minimal," Wofford added.

A summer youth employment program involving about seven part-time employees could also be hurt by the budget cuts, he said. However, Wofford said the city has received no notice that there would be any changes in this area.

Federal Revenue Sharing provides about $140,000 of the city's revenues each year. The federal money is used for capital improvement projects only.

The city's share of the federal funds for 1980-1981 have been directed towards the two-inch water line replacement program, Wofford said.

"I don't want to get overconfident. There may be something in there (the budget cuts) that could indirectly affect us," he said, giving the federal highway funding as an example.

Should the highway funding be reduced, it could affect the maintenance of federal highways passing through the city, he explained.

"I really feel like that anything that is done will have a minimal effect on the City of Pampa's operation," Wofford concluded.

Gray County Judge Carl Kennedy feels strongly that whatever belt-tightening actions might be taken, results are for the good of the country.

"I am not aware of any cuts in Reagan's 1982 budget that will affect our county to any great extent," Kennedy commented.

"I feel that in contrast to the overall amount of the budget, the new budget cuts are very nominal," he said.

"There has been some talk about reductions in the CETA program, but we have gotten very little benefit from that program in Gray County. We will also see a reduction in the county's allocation of Revenue Sharing Funds," the county judge said.

"Revenue Sharing is a $7 billion program and the 1982 budget cuts have trimmed some $300 million from the program. Gray County received $147,684 in Revenue Sharing Funds for the 1979-80 period. We have already seen a slight reduction in our Revenue Sharing allocation for 1980-81, the county will receive $131,392," Kennedy said.

"I would rather see our country saved than receive a few dollars," Kennedy said.

District Attorney Harold Comer's office could be the hardest hit by a federal reduction in spending, particularly in the area of funding for the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA).

However, the undaunted D.A. said today that a bill currently before the state legislature would assume all the federal government's responsibility for LEAA funding.

Comer said most of the equipment in his office, the salary and expenses for the Assistant District Attorney, his secretary and investigator are all paid through federal funding.

"We're currently going into the fourth year of a five-year grant," he said. "The county and the district has picked up 20 percent of the cost each year of the five years, so this year it's picking up 80 percent of the total cost of the grant." Comer said.

"We hope that it won't affect us, because we think the state legislature will enact that bill that assumes all the responsibility the feds had under that LEAA act," he added.

Chief of Police J. J. Ryzman said he was not receiving any federal funds except for two clerks, provided by CETA funding.

Compromise on tax cuts hinted

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, savoring a "resounding victory" in his first big budget battle in the House, now is hinting at compromise on the massive tax cuts he has pledged to deliver to the American people.

The $688.8 billion budget blueprint for fiscal 1982, matching Reagan's call for deep spending and tax cuts, was endorsed overwhelmingly by the House on Thursday, with scores of Democrats defecting to join a unanimous Republican minority.

On two votes, the margins were 253-176 and 270-154 for the Reagan-backed plan crafted by Reps. Phil Gramm, D-Texas, and Delbert L. Latta, R-Ohio.

Those far outstripped the 51-seat majority that Democratic leaders had hoped would be their check on what GOP leader Robert Michel of Illinois trumpeted as a change of course for American government. And they left some of the president's opponents and supporters doubting that his less popular proposal for a three-year, 30 percent tax cut could be stopped.

Reagan, however, seemed to be relaxing his vow not to compromise on taxes.

"I happen to believe that what we have proposed is an integral part of the program and strive for all of that," he said when asked about a tax compromise, hours after the House vote as he prepared to welcome Japanese Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki to a formal White House dinner.

"But I don't know what other proposals might be made, just as Gramm-Latta came forth with a proposal with regard to the budget that, uh, even suggested more cuts," Reagan added.

House Budget Committee Chairman James R. Jones, D-Okla., whose budget proposal was scuttled in favor of the Reagan-backed plan, said after the vote that if president gives his tax-cutting recommendation "the same attention" as the budget plan, "I believe it will carry."

Reagan hailed his victory — just the first step on the congressional budget path — as a "historic moment of commitment to a government that can both serve the people and live within its means."

The next step is in the Senate, which is considering a $699.1 billion budget resolution that differs little from the measure endorsed by the House. The Senate's Republican majority was almost certain to deliver on its proposal — also embraced by Reagan — perhaps by Monday.

In initial action Thursday, the Senate soundly rejected moves to strip $100 million earmarked for legal aid for the poor and to add $100 million for the Veterans Administration.

The tide in the House had been shifting Reagan's way for the past two weeks, but the margins were stunning. The president prevailed by 77 votes on the most critical roll call, drawing support from all 190 Republicans and 63 of the 241 Democrats to substitute the Gramm-Latta version for a Democratic leadership plan that would have given Reagan 75 percent of his recommended spending cuts.

That done, the measure passed by 116 votes in what was little more than a formality and a chance for more Democrats to jump on the Reagan bandwagon.

Reagan, who had divided the Democrats and rallied the Republicans with private chats and presidential cufflinks, was pleased.

"When the people speak, Washington will now listen — and will act," he exclaimed in a White House statement. "For years, the American people have been asking that the federal government put its house in order."

Reagan said the House action was "a resounding victory, not only for our economy but for a spirit of bipartisanship that we can build upon in the months and years ahead."

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan declared that the "strong, bipartisan vote will increase the momentum for the adoption of the president's tax cuts."

It may not come quickly, however. Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, called the budget vote "a blunt order to gouge deeper into social programs" and said: "To that end I have directed my subcommittee chairmen to return to work next week on spending cuts."

He said this "will unfortunately demand a delay in the markup of a tax bill."

Reagan's tax plan, which has stirred skepticism even among most Republicans, would start by cutting personal and business taxes about $54 billion across the board in 1982.

Texas Democrats instrumental in House passage of budget bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The voting began at 4:39 p.m., and the big cheer went up six minutes later when the 216th "aye" vote went up on the electronic scoreboard in the U.S. House of Representatives chamber.

President Reagan — with the help of a coalition of conservative Democrats — had won his first major legislative battle.

But Thursday's 253-176 victory on the president's blueprint for economic recovery was also a major triumph for the Conservative Democratic Forum, a band of 47 Democrats, mostly from the South, established only months ago.

"It surprised me, the final margin," said Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Texas, the president of the group that delivered 38 votes to the solid bloc of 190 Republicans — a swing more than enough to overcome the Democrats' 51-vote edge in the House.

The swing of 38 votes by the conservative Democrats was about what Stenholm and many of his associates were predicting, but they were pleased to see 25 other Democrats go with them.

"I think it was a significant vote in that we did change the fiscal direction of the government," added Stenholm, a cotton farmer who came to Congress in 1979.

"But this was the easiest vote we'll have," he said, referring to the battles ahead in earmarking appropriated funds to the programs recommended by the president. "It was just the beginning, but it was a good beginning."

Texas played a significant part in the vote. Of the 63 Democrats nationwide who voted for the bipartisan Gramm-Latta bill endorsed by Reagan, nine were from Texas, including all eight of the state's CDF members.

Rep. Phil Gramm, D-College Station, was swarmed by newsmen and cameramen from all three networks after the bill he co-sponsored ran up its 77-vote margin.

The Democratic leadership, including Majority Leader Jim Wright of Fort Worth, had tried to persuade Democrats to support its budget package, which Wright said gave Reagan 75 percent of what he asked in the way of spending cuts.

The Gramm-Latta bill, which is similar to the Senate version, differed from the Democratic leadership bill in its severe cuts to social programs, including elimination of several of them.

Repeatedly, Democrats rose during six days of floor debate to condemn the administration proposal as one which benefits the rich at the expense of the poor.

"Time and again we've heard this depicted as detrimental to the poor and the elderly, but surely with $419 billion we'll be able to find a bipartisan effort to meet the needs of the poor and needy," Stenholm said. "I believe we can do that."

The Gramm-Latta bill provides total spending of $689 billion, including $270 billion for defense and in interest payments, leaving $419 billion for anything else.

Gunman sprays bullets into tavern, four dead, 20 wounded

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — A man who "didn't say nothing" walked into a crowded rock n' roll bar and opened fire with an automatic pistol, killing four people and wounding at least 20 others before he was wrestled to the ground by customers — one wielding a pool cue.

Four of those shot Thursday night at The Oregon Museum bar, located a few blocks from the state Capitol on the city's northeast side, were in critical condition, authorities said.

Police arrested Lawrence W. Moore, 25, of Lyons, Ore., on charges of first-degree murder. Sgt. Gary Kinsman said Moore was scheduled for arraignment today.

No motive for the shooting was established, police said. "He didn't say nothing. He just opened the door and started firing," said Brent Yagle, a patron at the popular night spot frequented mostly by young people in their 20s. About 100 patrons were inside the one-story, wood-paneled nightclub at the time.

"I didn't think the shots were real until I saw people dropping," Yagle said.

As about 30 people danced to the music of Jenny and The Jtans, the man fired his first shot toward the bar, patrons said. They said he then turned his weapon — described by police as a 9 mm Luger automatic — toward the crowd, sending patrons diving under tables and running toward restrooms.

Others grabbed bar towels to help the wounded, witnesses said.

Kinsman said the gunman "fired multiple rounds" and apparently reloaded at least twice. Police said they recovered at least two empty ammunition clips which could be loaded with eight rounds each.

"During one of the lulls in shooting, the gunman was jumped by one patron, immediately joined by several other patrons, who were able to subdue him," Kinsman said.

At least four people tackled the gunman, who did not resist, witnesses told police. They said one patron hit the gunman in the head with a pool cue, and another one grabbed his gun.

"The first thing I did was grab for the gun," said Ashley Mitchell, one of the customers who subdued the gunman. "I struck him four times on the head."

The gunman was held by customers until police arrived. "I'm sure the time period was at least 30 seconds, probably closer to a minute," said Lt. William Kinch who indicated that the police received the first call about the shooting at 10:24 p.m. PDT.

Marion County Sheriff James Heenan said his 20-year-old son, Joel, was among the critically injured. The name of the other victims were not immediately released.

Three people were dead at the scene, and a fourth died on the way to Salem Hospital, authorities said.

At least 10 ambulances were called in from surrounding communities to take the injured to hospital, Kinsman said. Relatives swarmed to the hospital as news of the shooting spread.

Reagan says Japan is now a competitor as well as partner

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, asking visiting Japanese Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki to work with him so "we do not exhaust ourselves," is acknowledging that the United States and Japan have become competitors as well as partners. The two leaders promised increased cooperation Thursday as they began two days of talks designed to help them get to know each other while forming a foundation for future efforts to resolve policy differences on trade, defense and foreign relations. The president, looking fit and carefully groomed less than six weeks after he was shot in the chest in an assassination attempt, chatted with his guests Thursday night after a formal White House dinner in Suzuki's honor. He then sat erect in a straight-backed wooden chair during a performance by soprano Shirley Verrett. After escorting the prime minister and his wife to their limousine, Reagan returned to dance two numbers with his wife, Nancy, and chat with a few friends before retiring for the evening. Suzuki, who like Reagan is 70 years old, told his host: "I have to admit, Mr. President, that I can't match your health and vitality. I was born 26 days before you." Reagan's toast, like that of his guest of honor, stressed deep friendship between the United States and Japan and how "profound the similarities are," although the two countries have become both "principal trading partners and chief competitors." The American president recounted a Japanese legend about two villages separated by a river. A man from one town would come out and sing, and his voice would carry across the river to the next town, Reagan said. The people of the second town found a singer of their own. Hearing the second singer prompted the first man to sing at the top of his voice. "The singing grew more and more beautiful as each singer found depths to his talent that he hadn't known were there," Reagan said. "Well, Japan and America are like those singers...The standards we set for each other are marks of excellence." But as if to ward off the inevitably tragic conclusion to that legend, the president said, "Yet, we do not exhaust ourselves in that contest but rather pursue our respective goals as friends and allies."

Inflation moderated in April

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation at the wholesale level moderated to a 9.9 percent annual rate in April as surging energy costs slowed significantly and food prices held steady, the government said today. The jobless rate remained at 7.3 percent of the workforce for the third month in a row, the Labor Department said in a separate report. April's seasonally adjusted rise of 0.8 percent in wholesale prices was down markedly from a 1.3 percent jump the month before. The March rise, which translates into a 16.2 percent annual inflation rate, was buoyed by steep increases in energy costs that produced the largest jump in the monthly index since last summer. The April increase is in line with wholesale price rises recorded during January and February. Energy costs last month rose 1.6 percent at wholesale. In March, energy prices had jumped 6.1 percent, reflecting in part President Reagan's Jan. 28 oil-decontrol order. Food prices at wholesale showed no change from March, when food prices rose 0.8 percent. The wholesale price report — which the government calls the Producer Price Index for finished goods — usually provides a good indication of future price trends at the consumer, or retail level. Finished goods are products ready for sale at retail. During the 12 months ending in April, wholesale prices climbed 10.6 percent. Consumer prices rose 12.4 percent during 1980, but slowed to a 9.6 percent annual rate during the first three months of this year. Despite renewed surges in interest rates, some economists see encouraging signs of a continued slowing of inflation in 1981. The economists say energy price inflation has been slowed by the current worldwide glut of oil while spiraling housing prices have been cooled off by high mortgage interest rates. The government, which also measures price changes at earlier stages of production, said that prices at the intermediate stage rose 1.1 percent in April, the same rise as in March. Prices for crude materials jumped 1.5 percent in April, after declining 1.3 percent in March. This sharp rise was attributed to the first increase in food prices since last November. With the April increase, the Producer Price Index for finished goods stood at 267.7, which means that a basket of goods that cost $100 in 1967 now costs $267.70. In its unemployment report, the government said the number of people holding jobs increased by 564,000 during April to 99 million, while the number of jobless Americans edged down by 18,000 to 7.7 million. The nation's jobless rate has shown little change since last spring, when it jumped from 6.3 percent to 7.6 percent.

Long-distance rates up next week

WASHINGTON (AP) — Long-distance phone calls within the United States will likely cost more next week as overseas calls become cheaper and the telephone bills of government and the nation's largest businesses skyrocket. It's all part of a series of rate actions granted American Telephone & Telegraph Co. that, more by chance than planning, came together Thursday before the Federal Communications Commission. Under a Supreme Court ruling which also took effect Thursday and rate increases effective May 14, the government and other large users of leased private telephone lines will see their bills soar by 35 percent to 63 percent. Rates for business users of Wide Area Telephone Service (WATS) lines will jump 16 percent the same day. The WATS and private line increases already have final approval for implementation May 14. Unless the FCC changes its mind today, the cost of residential and regular business long-distance calls within the United States will increase 16 percent the same day, while rates for overseas calls drop 35 percent. The FCC already has approved the 16 percent increase in interstate long-distance rates with the condition that the company's profit margin on all regular long-distance calls not exceed 12.75 percent.

AT&T's proposal to meet both criteria by cutting the cost of overseas calls 35 percent has won tentative approval from the commission's staff. Officials wanted to go over the figures one more time, and the final OK was expected late today. The company said Thursday that it settled on a domestic increase and an international decrease because the volume of overseas calls is climbing much more rapidly than interstate calls. Assuming AT&T's business customers keep the same level of service they have now, the various changes in private line and WATS rates will generate more than $830 million in new annual revenues for AT&T. That figure does not include another $120 million annually which the company began collecting this week from the government and 135 business customers because of the Supreme Court action. The court last year refused to hear an appeal of a lower-court ruling that allowed AT&T to drop, effective Thursday, a special private line service for giant customers like the government, news and financial services, airlines and car rental companies. None of the rate changes will affect a customer's bill if he makes no interstate or international phone calls.

Habib meets Lebanese leaders

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Reagan's special envoy Philip C. Habib, met for 90 minutes with Lebanese President Elias Sarkis on ways to persuade Syria to withdraw its anti-aircraft missiles from Lebanon. He told reporters afterwards the situation was "dangerous." The sound of artillery fire was heard in the suburban presidential palace as Syrian troops traded fire with Lebanese Christian militiamen at three central city locations. A police spokesman said four mortar shells exploded near the downtown Prime Ministry 15 minutes before Habib's motorcade arrived from the palace for his meeting with Prime Minister Shafiq Wazzan. In Damascus, Syrian President Hafez Assad said his armed forces were "poised to answer adequately any Israeli aggressive action" as a result of Syria's deployment of heat-seeking SAM-6 and SAM-2 surface-to-air missiles in eastern Lebanon. Israel has demanded Syria remove the missiles and has threatened military action if it doesn't.

Minister is facing judgment day

THE COLONY, Texas (AP) — A 33-year-old Presbyterian minister stands a good chance of going to jail because of his belief that a parishioner's right to confidentiality is more important than the state's right to know. The Rev. Ron P. Salfen, pastor of Trinity Presbyterian Church in this town north of Dallas, has claimed the pastoral privilege six times in refusing to tell prosecutors whether church secretary Maud Williams ever discussed "skipping bond" on a drug possession charge. State District Judge John R. Roach cited the clergyman for contempt and told him to return to court May 14 to "present arguments why he shouldn't be held in contempt," said Salfen's attorney, James M. Stewart. Salfen faces six months in jail and a $500 fine if he is found guilty. "I'm locked into a principle, and the judge seems to be locked into his," Salfen said. "I have no particular desire to be a martyr or a test case. I feel I'm right, but it's in the court's hands now."

Severe storms roaming Texas

By The Associated Press
Thunderstorms, including some severe storms, moved eastward across North Texas early today bringing strong winds, heavy rain and hail to some areas. Some power lines were blown down and some houses had their roofs blown away early today as the storm moved through the Snyder area. Some low lying areas around Snyder were flooded and some roads were under water before dawn. Fluvanna, about 20 miles northwest of Snyder, received three inches of rainfall, according to the National Weather Service. The thunderstorm activity was expected to die out in North Texas by noon, but forecasters warned that new thunderstorm activity would resume in western portions of North Texas and begin moving eastward across the area late today and tonight. Some of the new activity could become severe, forecasters warned. Forecasts called for partly cloudy skies statewide today. Highs were to be mostly in the 80s and 90s except in the Panhandle where highs were to be in the 70s. Except for North Texas, partly cloudy skies were reported early today across the eastern half of the state while the western half had clear skies. Some fog was reported in South Texas. Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 60s and 70s except in the Panhandle and extreme Northeast Texas where the mercury dipped into the 50s.

Key Club presents annual awards

Family, teacher and adult leader of the year awards were presented during the annual Key Club installation and awards banquet held Thursday at the First United Methodist Church. Family of the year award was presented by Lisa Raymond to the Joel Combs family in recognition of their work and support of the Key Club. Joel Combs was honored for addressing the first 1980 Key Club meeting and the last 1981 Key Club meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Combs are the parents of Bill Combs, Key Club member and graduating senior. Adult youth leader award was presented by Jeff Hinkle to John English, Pampa High School counselor, for his untiring work and help to the members. Teacher of the year award was presented by Jana Linville to Howard Graham, Pampa High School American history teacher, for his work with the club and in various school activities. Jana Linville was honored as the Key Clubber of the Year.

Mark Alexander received the Sandy Nininger Award. The Pampa Key Club was honored for receiving second place in the Texas-Oklahoma Key Club Division. Angela West has presided as the Key Club Sweetheart. Key Club Faculty Advisor is Mike Andrews and David Cory is the Downtown Kiwanis Club of Pampa Advisor. The President's Farewell Address was given by Key Club President Tyler Berry who also acted as presiding officer at the banquet. # Northern Ireland rioting continues

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Sniper fire, a gun battle and some rioting occurred in Northern Ireland after the Irish Republican Army buried its new hero, hunger-striker Bobby Sands, and renewed its vow to free all of Ireland from British rule. In Dublin, police reported a bungled attempt to assassinate a former foreign minister of the Irish Republic, Garrett Fitzgerald, leader of the opposition Fine Gael Party and an outspoken critic of the IRA. The violence in Ulster Thursday night was less intense than security chiefs had feared. But the 20,000 mourners at Sands' funeral cheered wildly when IRA political expert Owen Carron declared in a fiery graveside oration: "Bobby Sands, your sacrifice will not be in vain...We haven't got the tanks and the guns but, please God, this will not always be so." Police headquarters warned the province to be alert "in the days ahead...having regard to the known intentions" of the IRA's Provisional wing and the splinter Irish National Liberation Army. The police statement added: "This should be especially borne in mind by persons who occupy positions of prominence or influence in the community." Mobs of young Roman Catholics lobbed gasoline and acid bombs at security forces in Belfast and Londonderry, as they have every night for more than a week, and in the border town of Strabane. Police said Strabane's municipal tourist bureau was gutted by firebombs. Army and police patrols came under sporadic sniper fire in Roman Catholic areas of Belfast and Londonderry. Officials said at least one policeman was wounded. An army patrol fought a gun battle with four guerrillas near the border of the Irish Republic Thursday night. The soldiers captured one gunman and another was arrested by police in the republic. Unconfirmed reports said the other two guerrillas were shot and killed, but the army refused to confirm or deny it. Sands, a 27-year-old member of the IRA Provos, died of starvation early Tuesday in the Maze prison near Belfast, where he had been serving a 14-year sentence for illegal possession of firearms. He had fasted for 66 days in a campaign to force the British to jailed IRA members as political prisoners rather than common criminals.

Tent's ordered for prisoners' shelter

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Tent cities inside present state prison units and a new conditional parole system will be used to ease overcrowding in the Texas Department of Corrections, Gov. Bill Clements said Thursday.

National Guardsmen stretched a squad-sized tent on the Capitol lawn later as a preview of the prisoners' new homes. "If tents are good enough for our Army, four our Marines and our National Guard, they're good enough for our prisoners," Clements told a news conference.

Clements said the tents are part of a two-pronged effort to answer a federal court's finding that Texas prisons are so overcrowded that 3,000 inmates sleep on the floor. He said the plan resulted from a series of conferences that involved state prison officials, the Board of Pardons and Paroles, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Speaker Bill Clayton, and Attorney General Mark White.

Clements said the two steps would include: — Amend a Senate-approved bill, now pending in the House, to allow 1,500 low-risk prisoners, near the end of their sentences, to be released from Texas Department of Corrections units and sent to halfway houses in Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, and San Antonio. He said a number of prisoners have already asked to be released under the conditional parole plan. — Set up tent cities, "with cots and board floors," within the security perimeters of present TDC units. "These groups of tents would take another 1,500 inmates off the floor by July 1." By November, Clements said, prison construction planned or now underway would allow these 1,500 to be moved into permanent housing.

Clements stressed that the release of inmates would be allowed only to "intensively supervised halfway houses" and that the tent cities would be inside the same security systems that protect existing prison units. "I will not support the wholesale release of inmates to their homes under the guise of work release," said Clements, in reference to a plan proposed by TDC director Jim Estelle. On other subjects, Clements said: — His office has received estimates from Washington on how the pending federal budget and tax cuts would affect Texas, and his comments would be released next week.

— He had no opinion about House Democrats formally organizing to influence legislation. "I'm not surprised that the Democrats are so interested," he said. "After all, this is time for redistricting and I think they Democrats are really trying to protect themselves in the redistricting process."

Bill prohibiting school ticket scalping advances

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Scalpers who hawk high school and college athletic tickets for more than face value could spend six months in jail under a bill that has advanced in the House. Representatives tentatively approved the bill Thursday on a voice vote and were scheduled to take final action today. Passage would send it to the Senate, where a broader bill already has passed.

Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, said Southwest Conference officials requested the bill because of a "serious problem" with scalpers accumulating large blocks of tickets while college alumni and students sometimes can't get seats. Scalping recently came to public attention when it was reported that some University of Texas football players had sold tickets above face value in violation of NCAA rules. Bryant's bill provides up to six months in jail and a $1,000 fine for buying or selling a ticket to a high school or college game at more than face value.

Rep. Ed Emmett, D-Kingwood, tried to expand the bill to include scalping of tickets to professional sporting events, but Bryant said he feared this might kill the measure. Bryant urged the House to wait for a Senate-passed bill that outlaws scalping of both college and professional athletic tickets.

"Scalping is really a problem at the professional level," Emmett said, noting that Houston Oilers and Dallas Cowboys football games always sell out.

Emmett said that when scalpers buy blocks of tickets for resale, "people of limited means" lose an opportunity to buy tickets at face value.

Rep. David London, D-Bonham, opposed Emmett's amendment, saying he himself had "used the free enterprise system" to sell $30 Super Bowl tickets for $175.

London said he fully intended to go to the Super Bowl game — even had a hotel room and airline tickets — until he saw a businessman's newspaper advertisement offering to pay $175. "The guy was glad to get them. I don't see it as morally or ethically wrong," London said.

He said he supported Bryant's bill because college and professional sports present different considerations, including the ability of alumni and students to get tickets.

El Paso man charged with threatening Reagan

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — An El Paso, Texas, man was being held today in Wyoming for allegedly threatening President Reagan's life, federal officials said.

Alfred Lee Baker is being investigated for writing "three or four" threatening letters to the White House, according to assistant U.S. Attorney Jeff Fisher and Wyoming's resident Secret Service agent, Jerry O'Rourke.

The arrest marked the second time Baker had been arrested for threatening a president.

Baker, 38, surrendered to Secret Service and FBI agents in Cheyenne on Wednesday. He was being held in the Laramie County Jail Thursday under $100,000 bond.

Baker appeared before U.S. Magistrate William Beaman Wednesday and requested a court-appointed attorney. He faces a preliminary hearing May 18.

A spokesman for U.S. Attorney R.E. Thompson said the arrest warrants for Baker were issued in Albuquerque, N.M., because the letters were postmarked from Albuquerque.

Baker, a former process server for the El Paso County Sheriff's Office, was arrested by Secret Service officers in El Paso in February 1979 for threatening the life of former President Jimmy Carter.

Federal Public Defender Herb Cooper said charges were dropped after local arrangements were made for psychiatric help.

Baker reportedly had also sent threatening letters to various governors and his ex-wife recently.

El Paso Police Detective Ramiro Gonzalez said Baker was arrested in El Paso April 21 on a charge of harassment by mail for allegedly sending a threatening letter to his ex-wife.

The charge was a Class A misdemeanor and Baker posted bond. He said the El Paso Secret Service office is working on the case. Baker reportedly has sent a threatening letter to every governor in the country, Gonzalez said, and the Secret Service has received 18 of those letters, Gonzalez said.

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

OPINION PAGE

Tax laws act to cut U.S. overseas sales

Congress should do something about a short-sighted tax law that is undercutting the efforts of American businessmen to increase their foreign sales.

A 1976 revision of the income tax laws affecting Americans working abroad has forced U.S. firms to reduce their foreign operations even as this nation is accumulating a $150 billion trade deficit.

The General Accounting Office has cited the disastrous effect of the law that brings in $500 million a year, while it costs the Treasury as much as $6 billion in potential revenues on export sales.

In a report issued late in February, the GAO urged Congress to place Americans employed abroad on an income tax basis comparable to that of citizens of competitor countries, who generally are not taxed on their foreign-earned incomes. The present U.S. law taxes not only the salary of Americans working abroad, but their allowances to compensate for the cost of living in remote places where house rents may run as high as $60,000 a year.

The effect of U.S. tax laws is to compel American employers to reimburse their workers abroad for their income taxes. The GAO noted that companies provided Americans working in Saudi Arabia with tax reimbursements averaging $18,889 for married employees and $10,558 for unmarried employees.

The costs of keeping Americans in such expensive places as Saudi Arabia, Japan, Hong Kong and Nigeria, has proved so high because of the tax factor that companies are forced to employ foreign nationals instead. This, says the GAO, has resulted in materially lowered sales by U.S. firms in foreign markets.

This is obviously not the time to put a brake on the sales of American goods abroad. Congress can place U.S. business on a more competitive basis either by exempting from tax the salaries of American citizens living abroad, or by providing a generous exclusion of cost of living payments. It should do one or the other in short order.

Speeding up wheels will be a final result

In one of those decisions which is little heralded but nonetheless significant, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled recently that defendants in criminal trials do not have an automatic right to demand that potential jurors be examined for signs of racial or ethnic prejudice.

In their 6-3 decision, the justices upheld the conviction of a Mexican national, Humberto Rosales - Lopez on alien smuggling charges. Rosales - Lopez was given a 30-year suspended sentence, placed on parole, and deported to Mexico. He contended in his appeal of the conviction that Judge Howard F. Corcoran, who presided over the trial in the U.S. District Court in San Diego, Calif., had failed to ask prospective jurors whether they were biased against Mexicans. Both the federal appeals court and now the Supreme Court upheld Judge Corcoran and ruled that Rosales - Lopez had no right to demand such an examination. The Rosales - Lopez decision should resolve uncertainty arising from conflicting rulings handed down by federal appeals courts across the nation. The legal issue of ensuring the defendant's Sixth Amendment right to an impartial jury now rests with judges and will no longer be an automatic procedure in criminal proceedings involving members of minority races. But the ruling was at pains to safeguard minority rights in court. It said trial judges must always ask about possible prejudice in cases where the defendant and the victim are members of different racial or ethnic groups.

The affirmative result of this common-sense decision should be a minor but measurable speed-up in the slowly grinding wheels of criminal justice. Most Americans probably would find difficulty in disagreeing with that.

A look at 'restraint'

Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige is hailing the Japanese government's reported decision to reduce auto exports to the United States as an example of "voluntary" restraint. It is nothing of the sort.

Reagan administration officials, Mr. Baldrige among them, have been hinting publicly for weeks that the alternative to "voluntary" restraints was an import ceiling imposed by Congress. No doubt these hints have been more bluntly expressed in private discussions with Japanese trade representatives.

And just in case the Japanese weren't getting the message, a visiting parliamentary delegation from Tokyo was told by congressional leaders recently that failure to curb auto exports would guarantee the enactment of legislated quotas.

Under these kinds of pressures, no decision by the Japanese to restrain exports can properly be called voluntary. Beyond this semantic but nevertheless important distinction lies the more serious issue of whether fewer imports are the appropriate remedy for Detroit's woes. We think not.

Any reduction in imports, whatever the cause, will unquestionably restrict consumer choice, effectively boost prices, and ease pressure on the domestic industry to lower its labor costs and increase production efficiencies.

Thus, curbing imports not only punishes vulnerable consumers, but delays the day when American automakers will once again become fully competitive.

The emerging result may be good politics, but it's hardly representative of the sound economic thinking we've already come to expect from the Reagan team.

BY DON GRAFF

The French are big on revolutions. There was the business that began back in 1789 and that many of the French would argue has yet to be finished. Since then they have been through 1830, 1848 and 1870, which saw the shuffling or dispensing of kings and the collapse of an empire.

Those were the real things. There also have been the near-misses. In 1889, history's original man on horseback almost did in a shaky republic. In 1958, Charles de Gaulle came to power in an upheaval that was a revolution in all but the official proclamation. And in 1968, he was very nearly removed in something similar staged by disaffected students and workers.

A history like that can make an ordinary election a standout event, even one as apparently predictable and in the long run quite probably indecisive as the current presidential voting.

The first round has ended in the expected near-draw between President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, seeking a second seven-year term, and Socialist leader Francois Mitterand, making his third try for the presidency. The run-off between them on May 10 shapes up as almost a rerun of the 1974 election in which Giscard edged Mitterand by less than half a million votes.

Almost but not quite. The French have had seven years in which to get to know Giscard and his ways and they are less than enchanted with the experience. The presidential image had changed from that of an appealing and reform-minded innovator to an aloof conservative. His regime has been touched by scandal and he has family problems. Not with wayward members, as has been the case with certain American presidents, but with close relatives so well placed in the French establishment that the Giscard gives the impression of an unofficial royal family. And think of themselves as such, some critics say.

But if many French don't much care for their incumbent president, neither are they all that enthusiastic about his opponent. No one has ever accused Mitterand of possessing charisma. He does, however, possess a shrewd political sense and has used it to capitalize on what was initially a political disaster — the rupture of the alliance with the Communists that caused his 1974 presidential bid virtually to self-destruct. In subsequently presenting himself as the sole valid alternative to continued conservative government, he has steadily increased the Socialist vote at the expense of the Communists.

Success, however, also may have its disadvantages. Large numbers of French firmly positioned in the center may be more alarmed by the prospect of a single dominant party of the left than a less-formidable coalition.

Also, Mitterand is proposing a program of social reform, industrial nationalization and government expansion that would amount to a revolution by ballot box, the most far-reaching restructuring of the French economy and society since de Gaulle — and toward very different ends.

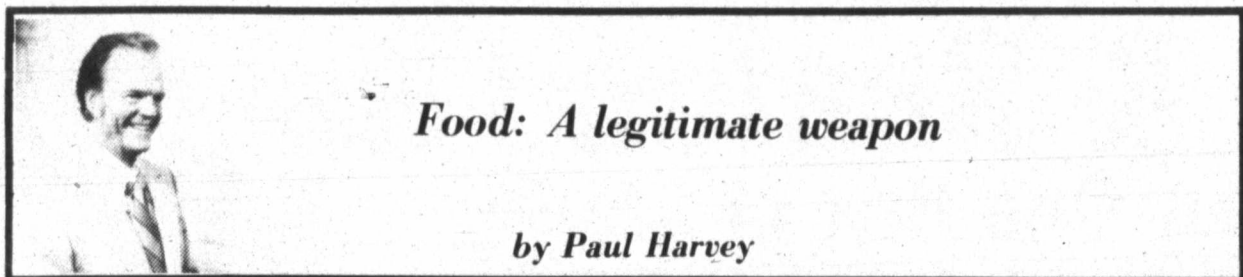

That program may be decisive. Despite full quotas of turmoil at home and abroad, the postwar years have been good to the French. There is now the fourth largest economy among the industrial democracies — after the United States, Japan and West Germany in that order. They are troubled with unemployment among the young and inflation, but who other than the Japanese isn't? Their standard of living nevertheless is among the world's highest and still rising. It is a better life for more of them than the French have ever known and it is getting better.

For all their experience with revolution, the French are also deeply conservative. Given the circumstances of 1981, they may indeed opt for a rerun of 1974 and against a revolution at the polls.

Maybe next time.

Food: A legitimate weapon

by Paul Harvey

BY PAUL HARVEY
President Reagan resumed selling American grain to Moscow because the embargo had served its purpose.

We used the embargo as both a carrot and a whip, as a punishment when the Soviets moved into Afghanistan, as a reward when they did not move into Poland. It's as simple as that.

Should we use food as a weapon? Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige insists that there was "no deal" with the Soviets; that we received no concessions, no private assurances from Moscow — in exchange for our grain.

But Baldrige also concedes that if the Soviets should move against Poland, we most certainly would slap the embargo on again — and then some! And why not? Indeed, we might well have used grain exports more effectively in countering the arbitrary OPEC increases in oil prices.

If there are "weapons" at our disposal which can be used to encourage our neighbors to behave themselves, that's certainly preferable to a military confrontation.

It can be argued that the American embargo did not really hurt the Soviets, they managed to buy 32 million metric tons of grain, anyway.

And while it's difficult to compare the cost to American taxpayers and American farmers, it probably hurt us as much as it pinched the Soviets.

Anyway, candidate Reagan campaigned against the embargo — was obligated to end it as soon as it became propitious to do so.

It is the argument that withholding food from anybody in need is somehow "immoral" which deserves a rebuttal.

In the first place, much or most of the food Americans have distributed so generously around the world has not gone directly to the hungry. Instead, it's usually filtered through the sticky fingers of officials who themselves use our largesse for their political purposes.

Beyond this, however, is the conspicuous asininity of the implied argument that bloodshed is somehow preferable.

Any adult American can remember when a swaggering Uncle Sam was willing to set the world on fire over lesser provocations than the recent hostage crisis.

Instead, we withdrew food, money and weapons from that country — and stopped purchasing anything from that country — and inveigled our allies to do likewise.

Tedious as the process was, it eventually accomplished its objective. Face it, the United States does not have much leverage left. Industrially, we are being outpaced by others. In manpower, our six-percent fraction of the world's population is impotent. Our most sophisticated weapons technology has been offset by theirs.

It is only America's farmers who still manage to outproduce their counterparts anywhere else in the world. They alone may save our skins.

But the next time we divert agricultural production to political purposes — the producers should not themselves be punished!

(c) 1981, Los Angeles Times Syndicate

Behind the embargo decision

BY ROBERT J. WAGMAN

WASHINGTON (NEA) - The lifting of the Soviet grain embargo has ended the longest and sharpest debate to have taken place thus far within the Reagan administration. In the final analysis, it was a combination of personalities and politics, both domestic and international, that caused the White House to reverse its previous decision to retain the embargo.

Candidate Ronald Reagan often promised farmers that as president he would end the embargo and refrain from using food as a weapon of international politics. But by mid-March the decision to retain the embargo, at least for the time being, had been all but made.

In fact, the administration not only intended to continue to bar the Soviets from buying more grain than they had already contracted for under a multi-year agreement, as President Carter had ordered last year after the invasion of Afghanistan, but was also talking about closing some loopholes in Carter's embargo order.

The decision to continue the embargo was made chiefly for reasons of foreign policy. Anti-Soviet Alexander Haig, believed that ending the embargo would send the Soviets "mixed signals" at the very time that Washington was trying to establish a firm front in its dealings with Moscow.

Haig and others insisted that the embargo had to be continued even if it was not very effective and even if American farmers were being adversely affected. Reagan seemed ready to accept this argument despite his campaign promises to the contrary.

This position was strongly opposed by Agriculture Secretary John Block and other administration officials in the fields of domestic policy and politics. They argued that the embargo was hurting U.S. farmers and the U.S. economy more than it was hurting the Soviets and that Reagan had to keep his campaign pledge.

The debate reportedly led to some direct confrontations between Haig and Block in which the secretary of state asserted in effect that the final decision was his because the embargo was a matter of foreign policy. This left some bruised feelings within the cabinet and the White House domestic-policy staff.

Several recent events turned things around. First, France notified the State Department that next year it would increase substantially its grain exports to the Soviet Union, which was willing to pay premium prices for grain. Upon learning that Haig's State Department had in effect signaled the French to go ahead by not protesting or trying to dissuade them, Block let his anger be known quite forcefully.

A number of influential farm organizations then informed the White House in no uncertain terms that the embargo had better be ended if Reagan expected their cooperation and the cooperation of their friends on Capitol Hill when it came time to vote on his economic package.

Finally, the events surrounding the assassination attempt brought to a head much of the animosity felt toward Haig by some senior White House officials. Some staffers began to argue for ending the embargo in order to further "put Haig in his place."

The threat of a Soviet intervention into Poland gave the administration an excuse to change its mind. No Washington official really believed by late April that the Soviets were planning an invasion. But the administration was able to save face by seeming to lift the embargo as an inducement to keep the Soviets from marching into Poland.

The phase-out of the embargo is not all that it seems. The Soviets will be allowed to buy as much as they want of grains that are in oversupply but will be precluded initially from buying more corn, not to insure that they behave in Poland as much as to determine whether the drought has left U.S. farmers any corn to export.

So, in the end it was the unwillingness of the State Department to try to force U.S. allies not to sell additional grain to the Soviets along with domestic political considerations that forced the lifting of the 15-month-old embargo. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Mercenary ringleader to get wealth for overthrow

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The alleged ringleader of a "band of mercenaries" that included six men with ties to the Ku Klux Klan was offered wealth and influence if he could overthrow the government of Dominica and restore a black politician to power, according to a federal indictment.

Michael Perdue, 32, of Houston and his nine alleged co-conspirators were indicted Thursday on multiple conspiracy, firearms and customs counts. The charges carry penalties of up to 50 years in prison and $33,000 in fines.

The men — eight Americans and two Canadians arrested April 27 with a vanload of automatic weapons and explosives — are in custody on bonds totalling $4.6 million.

According to the seven-count indictment, Perdue was to receive $150,000 in cash, Dominican citizenship and a high position in the government. In return, the indictment said, Perdue signed a contract to mount an invasion of the tiny Caribbean republic, oust Prime Minister Eugenia Charles and reinstall former Prime Minister Patrick John.

At that point, the indictment said, the alleged conspirators were "to set up an enterprise known as Nortic Enterprises, whose agent was to be Michael E. Perdue, to engage in agricultural development... the construction of an international airport; tourism and gambling; the cutting and exportation of lumber found on government land."

The indictment said the Dominica National Defense Force then would be increased by 200 and Perdue's men would be hired "as specialists used in training and maintaining the National Defense Force."

Others indicted were Stephen D. Black, 27, of Birmingham, Ala.; William B. Waldrop, 33, of Braxton, Miss.; George T. Malvaney, 21, and Joe D. Hawkins, 37, both of Jackson, Miss.; and Michael S. Norris, 21, of Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Also, Robert W. Prichard, 30, of Raleigh, N.C.; Christopher B. Anderson, 41, of Oklahoma City; Larry L. Jacklin, 22, Listowell, Ontario, Canada; and Wolfgang W. Droege, 31, of Toronto.

Black, Norris, Hawkins, Malvaney, Perdue and Droege have been linked to various Klan factions by Klansmen and police in the United States and Canada.

Perdue's lawyer, John Mulvehill of the Federal Public Defender's Office, and the nine other court-appointed defense lawyers could not be reached immediately for comment.

The indictment included a chronology of the alleged plot, which was said to have begun Sept. 20, 1980, when "Michael E. Perdue and Patrick John entered into a written contract."

The indictment said the alleged operation was penetrated when Perdue gave an undercover U.S. treasury agent $5,000 as partial downpayment for chartering the one boat to be used in the alleged invasion.

According to the indictment, Perdue told the agent, John L. Osburg, he was paying each of the other alleged mercenaries $3,000 "for the purpose of mounting an invasion and coup on the island of Dominica."

Reagan firm on firearms issue

DENVER, COLO. — President Ronald Reagan pledged his full support to American gun owners this week, and promised to support efforts which would reform the gun control act of 1968.

The president's commitment was voiced by his deputy counselor, Rear Admiral Robert M. Garrick USNR (ret), keynote speaker at the National Rifle Association's 110th annual meeting, held May 1-5 in Denver, Colo.

"The President's philosophy on the 1968 gun control act is exactly the same as yours," Admiral Garrick told the assembly. "He is a member of the NRA."

Admiral Garrick said that the President supported the McClure - Volkmer Bill, designed to correct certain areas of the gun control act which have allegedly been used to violate gun owner's civil liberties.

The McClure - Volkmer Bill, which was introduced in both houses of Congress on April 29, will also shift the enforcement emphasis of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, the federal agency which enforces the gun law and which itself has been subjected to four congressional oversight hearings for civil liberties abuse.

At the NRA annual meeting, Admiral Garrick said that President Reagan supported efforts to curb the BATF's activities and "anything else that assists

Carter, others to be at Truman memorial

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Bess Truman was in "noble spirits" after hip surgery, but the health of the 96-year-old former first lady cast a shadow on an award ceremony today honoring former President Jimmy Carter.

Carter and other dignitaries were to arrive today to mark the 97th birthday of Mrs. Truman's late husband, former President Harry S. Truman.

Mrs. Truman was reported in stable condition today in the intensive care unit of Research Medical Center, where she was taken Wednesday after suffering a "serious" fracture of her right hip in a fall at her home.

After 45 minutes of surgery to remove bone splinters and replace the hip ball joint with metal parts, Mrs. Truman was in "noble spirits," doctors said.

Carter was scheduled to arrive in nearby Independence, Mo., today to receive the annual Harry S. Truman Public Service Award. The award is given each year by the city of Independence in Truman's honor.

Phil Wise, Carter's chief of staff in Plains, Ga., said the Carters were praying for Mrs. Truman and had planned to visit her at her Independence home.

A hospital spokeswoman said Thursday night that no one from the Carter camp had called to arrange a hospital visit.

Brighton sale completed

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The Dallas-based Inns of the Americas Inc. has completed purchase of controlling interest in the struggling Brighton Hotel & Casino.

The company and two businessmen from Binghamton, N.Y., paid about $30 million for 78 percent interest in the Great Bay Hotel Corp., which in turn owns 73 percent interest in the casino hotel and a country club and condominium development in nearby Somers Point.

The settlement Thursday is the first time that controlling interest has been sold in an Atlantic City casino hotel.

The 504-room Brighton, which was built for about $70 million, opened last August as the fourth of Atlantic City's seven legal casinos.

Stabbed Ohio man dead

DALLAS (AP) — Police say the slaying of a grocery manager found in a fashionable Dallas suburb was so cruel that it looked like the killer was out for revenge.

Michael A. Roop, 32, of Toledo, Ohio, died at 3:37 a.m. Thursday at Parkland Memorial Hospital. He had been stabbed about 30 times and apparently had been robbed. A construction worker found him in a fashionable neighborhood near Southern Methodist University.

"It was a brutal, brutal thing," said Highland Park police Chief Henry Gardner. "If he wasn't a stranger, you would think this was some sort of vindictive thing."

Highland Park police Sgt. Larry Gentry said Thursday police had no leads in the slaying. The body was taken to the Dallas County medical examiner for an autopsy.

Roop, a store manager for Centre Supermarkets, was in Dallas for the Food Marketing Institute convention.

Blockade threat retracted

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The Mexican union leader who threatened to blockade the bridges between Juarez and El Paso says "it was never our intention at any moment" to carry out the threat.

Roberto Delgado Urias, head of the non-government Confederacion Revolucionaria de Trabajadores, threatened Monday to block all traffic coming into Juarez in eight days if "extremely slow and humiliating" border inspections were not corrected.

He said union members crossing to work in El Paso are often held up for several hours in the mornings, causing them reprimands and sometimes costing them their jobs.

About 8,000 union members possess "green cards" identifying them as permanent resident aliens who may work in the United States, primarily in construction, agricultural and manufacturing jobs, he said.

Delgado said he met with U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service district head Al Giugni and inspection supervisor Henry McGehee Wednesday and asked them "in writing to look into the problem."

"They said lately, due to such great numbers of cars crossing during vacations such as Easter, the lines back up," Delgado said. "They said they would study the problem and give us a report."

Why the Klan?

By DAVID L. LANGFORD
Associated Press Writer

The Ku Klux Klan connection in an alleged plot to invade a tiny, impoverished "banana republic" and overthrow its government is puzzling authorities from Canada to the Caribbean.

"How on earth could the Ku Klux Klan be interested in fighting with blacks against blacks?" asked Prime Minister Mary Eugenia Charles of Dominica, a nation of 74,000 people in the Windward Islands that gained independence from Britain in 1978.

Yet six of the 10 men who face a hearing Friday before a U.S. magistrate in New Orleans on charges of trying to launch a seaborne invasion of Dominica from Louisiana have been active Klan members.

They include one grand wizard recognized as a national leader, a former sailor who helped establish a Klan klavern aboard a U.S. Navy ship and an organizer for the KKK in Canada. At least one of the others has been linked to a neo-Nazi organization.

Federal agents arrested the clandestine band — eight Americans and two Canadians — April 27 at a marina at Slidell, La., across Lake Ponchartraine from New Orleans, as they arrived with a vanload of weapons, mostly automatic rifles and handguns, plus 20 sticks of dynamite and plastic explosives.

Mike Hall, an agent of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, said the trap was set for the mercenaries after they agreed to pay an undercover agent $15,000 for a boat to take them the 2,000 miles to Dominica.

U.S. Magistrate Kenneth Hughes scheduled the hearing to determine if agents had probable cause to arrest the men on charges of violating the Federal Neutrality Act and firearms violations.

Several questions remained unanswered. Were the raiders simply mercenaries, guns for hire? Were they motivated by their ultra right-wing ideology? Who bankrolled the operation?

Miss Charles, in New York last Friday for a meeting at the United Nations, said Dominican authorities in February uncovered a plot to stage a coup and restore to power her political rival, ex-Prime Minister Roland John. She said her government gave the FBI the names of mercenaries in North America who were believed involved.

"The men were coming to assist the dissatisfied ex-prime minister to put him back in office," she said. Miss Charles said she was "completely puzzled" to hear that several Klansmen were involved.

Dominica is a poor island, 29 miles long, covered mostly by rain forests, banana plantations and what Miss Charles called "some of the best growth of marijuana."

"We feel quite sure that the money for mounting this mercenary coup could not have come from the people of Dominica," she said. "I'm merely surmising and I wonder if this has something to do with the drug traffic."

U.S. agents identified the ringleader of the band arrested in Louisiana as Michael Eugene Perdue, 32, of Houston, one of the few in the group not known to Klan-watchers.

A neighbor said Perdue, who lives in an antique-filled home with a roommate, told him he was a former Army Green Beret, gun buff and expert marksman. The neighbor, who requested anonymity, also said Perdue "travels a lot" and had been in Canada recently.

According to an affidavit filed April 24 by federal agents seeking a warrant to search Perdue's home, he told a federal informer that he had a deal with a former prime minister of Dominica to "supply men and equipment," including sophisticated Israeli machine guns.

Dominican police commissioner Oliver Phillip said island police had interrogated Mary Ann McGuire of Toronto, Canada, a psychiatric nurse who told them she was sent to Dominica to spy for a raiding party that was to follow.

Phillip said Ms. McGuire, who at first gave Dominican officials the address of the Klan's Toronto office as her home address, admitted she knew Perdue but said she had been hired by Wolfgang Droegge, 31, of Victoria, British Columbia, one of the Klansmen arrested in Louisiana.

Droegge, a native of Forchheim, near Nuremberg, West Germany, who went to Canada 15 years ago, has been an organizer for the Association of Canadian Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

In an interview last July, Droegge said the Canadian Klan's main aim was opposition to the immigration of blacks and the removal of those living there. "We're just going to fight for our rights just like so many other groups have," he said.

Droegge's Klan group is affiliated with the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, headquartered in Tusculum, Ala., and headed by Grand Wizard Don Black, 27, who was also among those arrested in Louisiana.

Study seeks to find reasons for the violent acts of Americans

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — For the past eight years, Dr. Margaret Zahn, an associate professor of sociology at Temple University, has been studying why people are killing each other.

"Violence in general seems to be characteristic of American society, so I thought if I could understand violence, then I could understand American society," explained Dr. Zahn.

"One form of violence is homicide and it's the most easily studied."

During a 1980 leave from Temple, Dr. Zahn studied the available reports and research on homicide from as far back as 1900 to understand more about the cause and frequency of murder in this country.

She found that there are distinctly different patterns of murder for different periods of time.

"We are now much like we were back in the 1900s," says Dr. Zahn. "There are more murders by strangers. There are proportionately fewer family murders and we should start to look at why we are seeing this repeat in pattern."

She says there are three main types of murder: strangers, or assailants unknown to police; spouses killing spouses and male acquaintances killing other males.

"Women are not very involved in killing other people or in getting killed," she added.

Researching the studies on homicide, Dr. Zahn was able to record a pattern of murder in the United States throughout this century and reports that it was particularly high in the 1920s.

"I think Prohibition was the key during that period," she says. "It was almost like open warfare between those people who were trying to market illegal alcohol, and you can see the dropoff occurring in the early '30s when Prohibition was revoked."

The murder rate dropped and stabilized in the '40s and '50s and went up again the 1960s. One peak was recorded in the mid-'70s.

Woods awarded 1981 4-H scholarship

Rhonda Woods, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. David Woods of McLean, has been awarded the 1981 Gray County Extension Homemaker Council 4-H Scholarship.

The scholarship is awarded annually to a top senior 4-H girl and can be used in any course of study at any Texas college or university.

Miss Woods has been active in 4-H for nine years and has completed projects in beef, horse, clothing, veterinary science and sheep. She attended the National 4-H Citizenship and Heritage Tour to Washington, D.C. in 1978, Texas 4-H Congress in Lubbock in 1980 and has also attended State 4-H Round-up.

In high school, she has been active in band, basketball, Future Homemakers of America, FBLA, annual staff and head cheerleader. This year she was elected Miss MHS of McLean High School.

She plans to attend Abilene Christian University.

Dear Abby

Compulsive adulteress needs help

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You've often recommended Alcoholics Anonymous, Gamblers Anonymous and Overeaters Anonymous for compulsive drinkers, gamblers and overeaters.

I wish there was an Adulterers Anonymous for compulsive adulterers. I am one, and there's nothing I can do about it.

Don't laugh, Abby. I have a wonderful husband and family, but I've gone from one adulterous affair to another until now I can't even count them. I'm not oversexed. In fact, I'm just the opposite. I get nothing out of these affairs. I can't for the life of me understand why I deliberately get myself into such miserable situations that offer no sexual fulfillment, knowing if I'm caught I'll lose my husband and children and everything that is dear to me.

I must be crazy. Can't something on the order of Alcoholics Anonymous be organized for compulsive adulterers?

WEAK IN ILLINOIS

DEAR WEAK: I can't imagine a compulsive adulterer phoning another compulsive adulterer and being talked out of it.

You need some form of psychotherapy. Only when you understand what motivates you to behave as you do will you be able to control your actions. Your community mental health clinic can provide you with confidential counseling at a price you can afford. Please give the clinic a call.

DEAR ABBY: A former associate of my husband (a married woman) has been in love with him for some time. I found some letters she had written to him. He admitted receiving them but said he never loved her — only liked her — and he was not responsible for what she wrote. He said he never responded to those letters, but it's hard to believe that she would write such passionate letters without some encouragement.

The problem is that although she is no longer associated with him, she visits him regularly at work. I have asked him to tell her there is no future in it for her and that she should quit visiting him. He says to tell her this would be making more of the relationship than exists. I think she is trying to wear him down. What do you think?

UPTIGHT IN ENCINO

DEAR UPTIGHT: I think by not discouraging the woman, your husband is encouraging her. And regardless of what he tells you, he is getting something he enjoys out of her visits.

You're never too young or too old to learn how to make people like you. Get Abby's new booklet of practical advice. Send $1 and a stamped (35 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Popularity, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

LIFESTYLES

GLENDORA GINDORF makes preparations for a welcoming dinner she will host for 14 artists who will exhibit their artworks during the Spring Art Festival, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday, May 9 at Coronado Center Plaza. Included in the show and sale are paintings, stained glass and bronze sculptures. The artists will also give demonstrations throughout the day. Mrs. Gindorf, owner of Las Pampas Galleries, is sponsoring the show and sale. Members of the Junior Service League will be helping with the exhibition. (Staff Photo by Skyler Chapman)

French dads want rights

PARIS (NEA) - French women will readily agree on one thing: Less than a decade ago, no male would have spoken - much less written - about his joys, his dreams, his fantasies of being a father. He had other subjects to muse over: politics, power, war, even love.

"While it is the woman's role to bear children," says author Jacqueline Dana, writing in the popular weekly, Elle, "she is still a prisoner, biologically and psychologically, which means that the higher universal and metaphysical visions are the father's privilege. Liberated of all practical and down-to-earth care of his child, a father is free to launch into another sphere: For him the Noble Thoughts, the Creative Inspiration..."

However, France's fathers are no longer satisfied with noble thoughts and creative inspiration. For two years now, French men have been fighting for their parental rights - for the right to be equal to their wives, in regard to child care - after a marriage breaks up.

For two years now, the fathers' movement - "Mouvement pour l'Egalite Parentale" - has been growing throughout France. In major towns like Paris, Nice, Avignon, Toulouse and Marseilles, members hold regular meetings and even publish their own magazine, charitably called "Mother - Child - Father."

The movement, to the indignation of many women activists, is campaigning for a change in the custody laws. Fathers want equal rights in caring for their children, with the right to see them at least three days a week, regardless of weekends and religious holidays.

They are also calling for the automatic right to visit the child if he or she is ill or emotionally upset over something, an equal share in the responsibilities of raising the child, including material contributions; and the right of consultation regarding the child's education.

The group's thousands of members (including women) insist that women are not instinctively maternal. In fact, the argument has been set forth that the so-called maternal instinct might not even exist - that's it's just a creation of modern society.

The goal of the movement is to change the fuddy-duddy approach of judges and magistrates who presume that the male is incapable of looking after anyone.

Dissenters have pointed out, however, that the only person not being considered at all here is the child himself, who, in this new arrangement, is buffeted to and fro in a Kramer vs. Kramer-type conflict - and still expected to grow up with all of society's so-called proper virtues.

In her article, entitled, "They Are Going Too Far, the New Fathers," Ms. Dana touched upon a subject that has caused some irritation among women: the emergence of what is now known as the "Papa-Hen." This image evolved from a spate of books by reputed authors, psychologists and psychoanalysts, published in the last several months, plus a serial on TV entitled "Papa-Poule," all of which extolled the paternal instinct.

On TV last year, "Papa-Poule" exasperated many women. The father-hero, left by his wife with four children to raise, aged 4 to 13, simply took over and managed splendidly. Thanks to his masculine sense of perfect organization, Papa-Hen faced every problem with perfect equanimity while continuing to hold down a job. Household chores? Shopping? Cooking? Sick spells? Homework? Easy. No worry or fuss and eventually every problem is solved satisfactorily. The children laughed, romped, accepted their share of the chores, did their homework without demurring, went to bed when told and were allowed to bring in friends on the weekends.

Father as Superman. All this seems to have put women in a fighting mood. "This paternal instinct is causing ravages throughout our country," writes Ms. Dana.

But the men persist. In the classier suburbs of Passy, Auteuil and Neuilly it is quite usual to meet young fathers pushing a baby buggy or walking a couple of toddlers to the nearest public garden, while mother is left to tidy up at home. Many young fathers now think it quite natural to give the bairns their baths and their bottles.

Francis S., 34-year-old executive and father of three children, says: "I did spend a lot of time looking after my first-born, a daughter. My wife had a difficult delivery and came home very tired. So I took it upon myself to give the baby the 3 a.m. bottle, change her and put her back to sleep. I repeated the procedure in the morning before going to my office. I think I am a normal father, without any grandiloquent phrases, and I am deeply interested in my children."

Asparagus easy to grow, cook

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

When early this spring I paid as much as $1.79 a pound for asparagus to use in recipe testing, I wished I had more than a city terrace for growing purposes. Then I looked into several reliable new books on gardening to see what was involved in raising asparagus; now I urge cooks who have the necessary outdoor space to raise this epicurean vegetable and thus lower its cost for home use.

do not know that after the tough ends are snapped off asparagus spears, the bracts and fibrous covering, up to the buds, should be removed before cooking. At my house we use a swivel-blade vegetable peeler for this job, but some cooks prefer to use a small sharp knife to scrape off the bracts and covering.

If you peel the spears you'll never need to buy an expensive asparagus cooker or to improvise one. Just arrange the asparagus in a skillet (if necessary in a couple of layers) - the number of spears to be cooked will determine the size of the pan. Add a small amount of water, cover and boil - lifting the cover several times to help keep the asparagus a lovely green color - until the spears are as tender - crisp as you like. The tips will cook in the same time as the stalks.

As for serving asparagus, in our opinion the simplest ways are the best. Serve hot asparagus with Hollandaise or a la Polonaise (with buttered bread crumbs) or with browned butter. If you serve asparagus cold, you can accompany it with homemade mayonnaise or a vinaigrette sauce. One word about vinaigrette: add it to the asparagus just before serving, or pass it separately, so that it won't change the bright green of the vegetable to a dull, olive color. Sliced or sieved hard-cooked egg tastes delicious with cold asparagus and makes a perfect garnish because of its color contrast.

I learned that starting the vegetable from seed is a two-year project. Most gardeners buy one-year-old asparagus plants in the spring and start their asparagus beds from these. Great to contemplate: asparagus is a perennial vegetable that produces a crop each year. Once you set out your plants and care for them, you have it made.

I am constantly startled to find so many cooks who still

Calf walk

This special walk is wonderful for toning your calves. Start by standing up straight, high on your toes, arms relaxed at sides. Then bend your knees until you're midway between standing and squatting, and start walking. Keep weight over back leg, stepping as far forward as you can with front leg. Stay upright - if you pitch forward, you'll lose your balance. Take 50 steps, work up to 90.

WAYNE AND SUSAN STONE

Special services set at Bethel Assembly

Solid Rock Ministries and the Stone Family will be conducting special services at the Bethel Assembly of God, Sunday, May 10, through Wednesday, May 13.

Dwayne and Susan Stone have been sharing the gospel of Jesus Christ to old-fashioned preaching of the work. Both Stone's minister in song, their songs being old and new, with an old-fashioned flair.

The ministry of the word and prayer is the most important part of the Stone's ministry. There is no substitute for prayer to heal the sick and set the captive free.

Bethel Assembly is located at the corner of Hamilton and Worrell Streets. Pastor Paul DeWolfe and the congregation of Bethel Assembly of God invites the public to attend these special services. Services will begin at 9:45 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday at 7:30 p.m. nightly.

ROBERT LOKEY

Calvary Assembly revival

Revival Services will be conducted on May 10 through May 14 at the Calvary Assembly of God Church located at the intersection of Love and Crawford streets.

Sunday services will begin at 10:45 a.m. and at 7 p.m. Services for Monday through Thursday will be at 7:30 p.m. Pastor Mike Benson urges the community to come and hear the guest evangelist, Robert Lokey from Killeen.

Lokey will have a Pentecostal message each night. Special singing will be provided each night. A nursery will also be provided.

Area Methodist conference

Ministers and lay delegates of the United Methodist Church will gather at Lubbock's First United Methodist Church June 2-4, for the Northwest Texas Annual Conference.

During the conference, Bishop Louis Schwengerdt will announce new appointments of ministers to United Methodist Churches in Northwest Texas for the coming year.

In special ceremonies, candidates for deacon and elder will be ordained by the United Methodist Church.

Bishop Robert Goodrich will be conference preacher for the meeting. As such, he will deliver morning and evening sermons each day of the conference.

Bishop Goodrich retired in 1980 as bishop over the Missouri East and the Missouri West Conference of the United Methodist Church. He now lives in Houston.

The Northwest Texas Conference includes the districts of Abilene, Amarillo, Big Spring, Lubbock, Pampa, Plainview and Seymour.

Ballard Family evangelism

The Ballard Family of Richardson will be conducting evangelistic services on Monday and Tuesday, May 11 and 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the First Free Will Baptist Church, 326 N. Rider.

The Ballard Family ministries will include sermons and songs. The pastor, Rev. L.C. Lynch, invites everyone to come and enjoy these services.

Religion in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. Roman Catholic bishops have taken a long, hard look at the nation's energy situation and concluded that it's tough and "is likely to get worse."

But they say that necessary sacrifices should be accepted cheerfully, in Christian spirit, and the brunt of them not heaped on the poor.

In a 10,000-word statement, more than a year in preparation, the bishops say that protecting human life "is uppermost" in the church's approach to the nation's energy problems.

Like the National Council of Churches (Protestant and Orthodox denominations), the Catholic bishops see the clearest, long-range hope in solar power, but they're not as set against nuclear power.

"Both pro- and anti-nuclear advocates seem prone to exaggerate claims, creating an atmosphere in which rational public discussion is difficult," the bishops say, and they take a middle view of it.

They suggest voter referendums about it so those on both sides can air their cases and help "dispel the mythology and reduce tensions that cloud the nuclear issue."

The Protestant-Orthodox council has taken a stand against nuclear power generators, citing possibilities of permanent danger to the environment and the human genetic pool.

Some people, including federal energy specialists, have questioned why churches should speak out at all on energy issues, but the Catholic bishops say "moral insight" is essential, not just technical expertise.

Join Us In Worship

IN THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE

A Crown for Mother

You, as a Mother, are honored by your children on a special day — Mother's Day. How the little things they make for you with their own small hands please you and warm your heart.

It warms and quickens the heart of God when you honor Him on His special day. "Remember the Sabbath Day, to keep it holy." Exodus 20:8. Worship God on this next Sunday in the church of your choice. We should honor our loving Heavenly Father even as we expect our children to honor us.

Attend church on Mother's Day.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Damon should be able to help them," Nichols said. The Greyhounds, coached by Larry Riley, posted a 11-17 record last season. (Staff Photo)

Rangers down White Sox

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — In the first 22 games of this season, the Chicago White Sox had been charged with 18 errors, which put them about in the middle of the American League statistically. But after 23 games, the Sox have collected 22 errors, three of them in one inning.

That was the eighth inning of Thursday night's 9-4 loss to the Texas Rangers, who took advantage of the three miscues for seven runs, four of them unearned.

It gave the Rangers their first sweep of a series with Chicago since 1976.

"The errors they made were on real tough plays," said Rangers outfielder Leon Roberts, who scored the first run in the eighth inning outburst. "It's not like they caved in."

Roberts opened the inning with a single and was moving on the pitch when John Grubb laid down a bunt to advance Roberts to second. But Chicago relief pitcher Ed Farmer was not able to field it cleanly.

"The ball rolled into a little hole and fell away from me," said Farmer, 0-2. "I couldn't grab it good and I had to hurry the throw."

He threw it into right field. Roberts charged around third and headed for home where he collided with Chicago catcher Carlton Fisk.

"You don't have time to think about what you're going to do in a situation like that," Roberts said. "They tell me to slide. I slide. I tried to put down my shoulder and do the best I could."

Roberts and the ball reached Fisk about the same time.

"It was all like slow motion," said Fisk. "Then the ball took a big hop and bounced away."

Roberts bowled Fisk over and scored, Harold Baines' throw from the outfield skipped into the Chicago dugout and a hard running Grubb — who scored three runs for Texas — came home too.

"I was already around third when the ball sailed toward the dugout so I just came on in," Grubb said.

That gave Texas a 4-3 lead with no outs and the damage had just begun.

Jim Sundberg singled, Mark Wagner doubled and Bump Willis drove them both in with a single.

Willis stole second. Al Oliver walked, both players moved up on an infield out and scored on a single by Bill Stein.

To complete the scoring, Stein crossed the plate when Chicago third baseman Jim Morrison booted a ground ball by Roberts, who was batting for the second time in the inning.

Astros shut out Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — The Houston Astros have shown Bob Knepper a few things about playing baseball, and the left-hander acquired from the San Francisco Giants is showing the Astros a few things about pitching.

Although Knepper was without his good fastball Thursday, he had enough to hurl Houston to a 6-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs as he effectively scattered six hits, struck out five and walked only two.

It was his third victory of the season since going to Houston in a trade for third baseman Enos Cabell last winter, and all three have been shutouts.

Knepper, who soon will be 27, hurled successive 1-0 shutouts against Los Angeles and Cincinnati but was involved in a non-decision start against Pittsburgh before blanking the Cubs.

"The defense certainly helps a pitcher," said Knepper in assessing his new teammates. "And the overall attitude of the team is positive. It's contagious. You might fall behind, but the team never quits. They're always battling."

Knepper also felt his pitching has been a positive factor toward the Astros' recent surge, which includes nine victories in the last 11 games and an 8-2 record on the current road trip, which will end with a four-game set in Cincinnati.

"It's nice to get shutouts," said Knepper. "It shows them I can pitch, and it helps everyone on the team."

Manager Bill Virdon and relief ace Joe Sambito will attest to that.

"We needed a complete game," said Virdon. "We've been using our bullpen more than we like lately."

"A complete game is one thing," said Sambito. "It's important. But not having the bullpen get up at all to warm up is even more important. That's a full rest."

The Astros got their early lead by jumping on starter Randy Martz, 1-1, for two runs in each of the first two innings before Ken Kravec came in and put a halt to things.

A walk to Terry Puhl, singles by Craig Reynolds and Danny Heep and a sacrifice fly by Jose Cruz gave the Astros a pair in the first inning.

Knepper singled to open a two-run second, which included a pair of walks, another sacrifice fly by Cruz and a run-scoring single by Art Howe.

"Martz just didn't have it today," said Cub Manager Joey Amalfitano. "And Kravec did a good job before he got tired."

Kravec allowed one hit in four innings before the Astros rapped him for two runs in the sixth on successive triples by Puhl and Reynolds and a double by Heep.

Knepper, who said, "I didn't have a good enough fastball so I had to concentrate on keeping the ball down," was in danger of losing his shutout in the sixth when the Cubs put runners on first and third on singles by Steve Dillard and Ivan DeJesus with none out. He fanned Scot Thompson and got Bill Buckner to hit into a double play.

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

May 9, 1981

This coming year your prestige and influence over your peers will be considerably enhanced. You won't necessarily seek the mantle of leadership, but developments are likely to thrust it upon you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There are things which you can do around your place today to beautify the surroundings, and probably save yourself some money in the process. Go to! Romance... travel... luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're very lucky today at making favorable impressions with persons who can help you advance your self-interests, even though your intentions won't be to make points.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Some days material things come to us easier than they do on other days. This could be your day. In fact, you might be fortunate in several areas.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Focus your efforts and energies today on things which are enjoyable. Give your worldly ambitions a rest. Save your push for the work week.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you're on the track to something today which could help you carewise, operate as unobtrusively as possible. Skirt the spotlight, don't stand in it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your judgment is very good today, provided you allow yourself time to study propositions brought to you. Mistakes are possible if you submit to pressure.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't wait on others if there is something important you hope to achieve today. You could spend too much energy trying to rally their enthusiasm.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll function very well in the realm of ideas and intangibles today, but you could lack ability where physical skills are required. Be careful.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Putting business deals together could turn out rather fortunate for you today, but don't oversell. Give the other guy a chance to say "yes."

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) To maintain harmony on the home front today, you may be required to bend a little extra in order to placate your mate. So what? It's worth it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This could be a very productive day, but don't overdo or push yourself too hard. If tasks aren't finished completely, you'll still have tomorrow.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This should be fun day for you because you will be well received, no matter where you go. However, recall: You don't have to pick up everybody's tab!

Care in use of chain saw can help to avoid injury

CROSSETT, Ark. (AP) — Last year, more than 50,000 Americans required emergency hospital treatment for chain-saw injuries, according to the Consumer Product Safety Commission. Many of these could have been avoided, the safety manager of a forest-products company says.

"With more people using wood in their fireplaces and with wood stoves increasing at about a million each year, there are a lot more experienced chain saw users in the woods," Stovall Farmer of Georgia-Pacific Corp. observes. There are now about 15 million chain saws in use, triple the number 10 years ago.

Most chain-saw injuries involve kickbacks and falling on the saw, Farmer explains.

"A lot of people don't consider hazards of tripping over tree limbs and uneven ground when they're cutting wood," he says.

Kickbacks can result in a sudden and violent loss of control when the moving chain binds or touches some object.

Farmer recommends a careful reading of the safety literature provided with every chain saw.

"Keep a tight grip on the chain saw," he says. "Don't let the tip of the saw come in contact with other objects. Keep your left arm straight. And make sure your chain is adjusted.

"Never, never cut above shoulder height," Farmer emphasizes, pointing out that a kickback and loss of control can have disastrous consequences in such a case.

Other safety rules Farmer notes include:

- Think ahead; don't work too fast; quit before you're tired.
- Keep others away from cutting area.
- Dress to protect head, feet, legs and hands; and preserve your hearing with ear protection.
- Be careful with fuel.
- Do your cutting with the engine running wide open.

Leak forces evacuation

WINCHESTER, Texas (AP) — At least six families and a drilling rig crew were evacuated Thursday morning after a pipeline began leaking a toxic combination of gases, authorities said.

Butane, ethane, methane and gasoline, a "very toxic" combination, began leaking from the Phillips Pipeline Co. line about 9 a.m., said Texas Department of Public Safety trooper Emil Soderquist.

No injuries were reported from the leak, near Texas Highway 71 east of Austin, he said.

He said the families and crew were evacuated north of the area "due to winds blowing from the south and southeast."

Spectator killed at Nelson Classic

DALLAS (AP) — One man was killed and several other persons received unknown injuries late this morning when a tree limb fell and struck members of the gallery at the Byron Nelson Golf Classic at Dallas Preston Trails Country Club, authorities said.

A spokesman at Presbyterian Hospital, where the injured were taken, would not identify the dead man pending notification of relatives. The injured were believed to be two men and a woman.

The tree limb fell as a crowd gathered at the 3rd green to watch the second round of the annual professional golf tournament. Heavy thunderstorms battered the Dallas area early Friday morning and authorities said the limb may have been weakened during the storms.

Rockets rally to even series at 1 game each

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Moses Malone, Houston's dominating center, scored 31 points to lead the Rockets to a 92-90 upset of the Boston Celtics Thursday night, tying the National Basketball Association championship series at one victory apiece.

The Celtics held an 82-75 edge with 7:09 to play, but were limited to just eight points the rest of the way as the Rockets rallied to tie Houston outscored Boston 22-8 from the foul line, getting 11 of those free throws from Malone.

The next two games of the best-of-seven playoff final will be played in Houston Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

The victory broke Boston's 14-game winning streak against the Rockets, a string dating back to Dec. 12, 1978.

Despite committing 12 turnovers and being outscored 12-1 from the foul line, the Celtics held a 49-45 halftime advantage on the strength of 62 percent field goal shooting compared to 33 percent by the Rockets.

Billy Paultz scored a pair of baskets and Mike Dunleavy hit a jumper to start the third quarter, giving Houston a 51-49 lead, before Boston responded with 11 straight points. Robert Parish and Chris Ford hit jumpers, Rick Robey scored on a tip-in, Nate Archibald made a three-point play and Robey made a layup for a 60-51 Celtic lead.

But the Rockets refused to fold. They outscored Boston 17-8 the remainder of the period, Calvin Murphy hitting an 18-foot jumper to tie the score at 68 heading into the fourth quarter.

Five points by Larry Bird, who led Boston with 19 points, helped the Celtics take their 82-75 lead with 7:09 to go, but once again the Rockets bounced back and outscored Boston 12-4, going in front 87-86 on a free throw by Malone with 2:49 left.

A hook shot by Cedric Maxwell put Boston back on top, but reserve forward Bill Willoughby regained the lead for Houston at 89-88 with a jumper from the left corner with 2:10 remaining.

Boston was unable to score on its next three possessions, Maxwell and Bird missing jumpers and Malone intercepting a pass, before reserve guard Allen Leavell hit a 10-foot jumper for a 91-88 Rockets lead with 28 seconds to go.

Archibald sank two free throws 10 seconds later to pull Boston within one, but Mike Dunleavy made one of two free throws with 11 seconds left for the final margin.

Archibald missed a 20-foot jumper for Boston in the closing seconds.

Willoughby added 14 points for the Rockets and Paultz scored 13. Bird grabbed 21 rebounds for the Celtics, who had won all 29 previous games this season in which they had limited their opponents to less than 100 points.

It was Houston's eighth playoff victory away from home, an NBA record. The previous mark of seven was held by the 1968 Boston Celtics. The Rockets are 8-4 in playoff games on the road.

Dibbs advances to quarterfinals of Tournament of Champions

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Tenth-seeded Eddie Dibbs, playing his normal steady game, upset Johan Kriek of South Africa, the No. 7 seed, 6-3, 6-0 Thursday night to advance to the quarterfinals of the $52,000 Tournament of Champions at Forest Hills.

Dibbs will meet second-seeded Jose-Luis Clerc of Argentina in Friday's quarterfinals. Clerc advanced with a 7-6, 6-3 victory over Heinz Günthardt of Switzerland.

In other matches Thursday, Carlos Kirmayr of Brazil eliminated Angel Gimenez of Spain 3-6, 7-6, 6-2; Mel Purcell ousted Fritz Buehning 6-1, 6-0 and fourth-seeded Eliot Teltscher survived an upset bid, beating Mario Martinez of Bolivia 2-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Besides the Dibbs-Clerc matchup, other quarterfinal matches Friday will send Purcell against 11th-seeded Victor Pecci of Paraguay, Teltscher against No. 5 Wojtek Fibak of Poland and Kirmayr against No. 9 Balazs Taroczy of Hungary.

Dibbs broke Kriek in the seventh and ninth games to capture the opening set as the South African made 14 forehand errors. In the second set, Kriek found his problems from the other side, making 16 backhand errors.

Dibbs, who won the $175,000 U.S. Pro Championships in Boston last year to qualify for this winners-only event, broke Kriek in the second game of the second set — a 10-minute battle from the baseline. That seemed to take all of the fight out of the South African, who provided only token resistance to the persistent Dibbs the remainder of the match.

The winner in this nine-day tournament receives $100,000, with $40,000 going to the runnerup. Sunday's final will be nationally televised on ABC.

Gimenez, who won tournaments in Austria and Bournemouth, England, to qualify for this winners-only event, easily took the opening set and had triple-match point in the second-set tiebreaker when he led 6-3.

But Kirmayr, who failed to hold serve in the first set, reeled off five straight points to even the match, then needed only 44 minutes to crush Gimenez in the final set.

Gimenez, who's even smaller than the 5-foot-8 Kirmayr, said he lost the match in the first set, even though he won it easily.

"I was feeling down and couldn't concentrate," he said. "In the third set, I tried not to think of the three match points, but I couldn't do it."

Texas League baseball roundups

By The Associated Press

Designated hitter Barney Scott had a solo home, drove in two runs and scored twice as the Tulsa Drillers defeated the Jackson Mets, 8-3, in a Texas League baseball game Thursday night.

In other Texas League action, El Paso beat Amarillo, 7-6, San Antonio shut out Midland, 3-0, and Shreveport edged Jackson, 3-2.

Tulsa jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning and held a 6-1 lead after three innings. Mike Anicich had a solo homer in the ninth for Jackson.

Tony Hudson, 2-3, was the winning pitcher. The loser was Brent Gaff, 4-1.

Relief pitcher Chick Valley pitched six innings of shutout baseball as the El Paso Diablos beat the Amarillo Gold Sox, 7-6. Jerry Skube had three hits in three trips to the plate for the Diablos. Jerry Johnson had a solo homer for Amarillo in the fourth inning.

Valley, 2-0, was the winning pitcher. The loser was Byron Ballard, 2-2.

Chris Malben and relief pitcher Tom Niedenfuer combined for a five hitter as the San Antonio Dodgers shut out the Midland Cubs, 3-0.

Malben, 2-0, was the winning pitcher. Randy Clark also gave up only five hits, but was the losing pitcher.

Warriorettes defend state track title

Miami girls will be defending their state Class A track and field championship today and Saturday for the third year in a row.

The Warriorettes won the regional championship for an unprecedented fourth consecutive year.

Versatile Susan Bean leads the Miami contingent. She won first in the 200, long jump and triple jump at regionals and was a member of the winning 800-meter relay team that included Angela Trimble, Karla Stone and Brenda McCullough.

Miss Bean has won 10 medals in three years of state competition.

Haley Clark is an alternate on the relay team.

Miss Stone also advances to state in the 100-meter hurdles after placing second in that event in the regionals.

Donna Francis coaches the team.

Another area girls' team headed for state is the White Deer mile-relay team consisting of Lisa Hunter, Tina Ford, Kay Ford and Rose Williams. They were timed at 4:05 to finish second behind Panhandle's 4:04 in the regional 2A meet.

Al Lemons is coach.

Emissions of particulate matter and hydrocarbons from this facility will be controlled by applying Best Available Control Technology to all emission points. The Executive Director may require appropriate sampling to confirm that emissions remain below the level authorized in the construction permit.

Within sixty (60) days after these facilities begin operation, the Irish Pipe Coating Company is required to apply for an operating permit from the Agency. Before the Executive Director issues the operating permit, the Agency will confirm that Best Available Control Technology has been applied and is operating properly. After an operating permit is issued, the Agency will conduct follow-up inspections to monitor performance and to assure continuing compliance with all requirements.

The Executive Director also approved the Company's request that these applications be exempted from the Public Notice and Comment Procedures of the Board, in accordance with TACB Regulation VI Rule 116.10 (a) (5) (A) (131.08.00.010), because this facility has previously received permits from the Board at other locations; and indications are that operation of the facility at the Pampa location will not significantly affect ambient air quality or create a nuisance.

Pursuant to Rule 103.81 (131.02.07.001) of the Agency's Procedural Rules, this action by the Executive Director may be appealed to the Texas Air Control Board by filing written notice of appeal with the Executive Director by May 30, 1981. The matter shall be considered a contested case within the meaning of Section 3 (2) of the Administrative Procedure and Texas Register Act.

SPEAKING OF SOAPS
BY MARY ANN COOPER

A couple of weeks ago Candi Earley spoke about the love of her life, Clint Ritchie. Reader response to her announcement has been enthusiastic and warm. Most readers wanted to know more about the handsome actor who stole fair Candi's heart away. Therefore, this week let's shine the spotlight on Clint Ritchie.

Clint Buchanan, the hard-driving newspaper editor on the daytime serial One Life to Live, has more in common with Clint Ritchie than the same first name. Both are rugged, versatile outdoors enthusiasts, and both are avid horsemen.

A self-described "North Dakota plowboy," Clint Ritchie grew up on a farm in Gratton, North Dakota. He knew he wanted to be an actor since he was seven years old, but he was never in any school plays or other productions as a youngster because he was "always too shy to do anything in school."

At sixteen, Clint left home and headed for northern California, where he held a succession of odd jobs for several years. Eventually he ended up in Hollywood, where he began taking acting lessons. He arrived in New York this fall to join the cast of "One Life to Live."

Clint made his television debut as a cavalry lieutenant on horseback in the pilot of the series, "Wild, Wild West." His other television credits include roles in three of the segments of "The Centennial" series, an episode of "Dallas" and the children's program, "Thunder."

His appearance as the principal character, McMurphy, in a stage production of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" led to a contract at 20th Century-Fox Studios. He has appeared in several movies, including "Patton," "A Force of One," "The St. Valentine's Day Massacre" and "Bandolero!"

Clint owns four horses; Hammer, Boss Dandy, O.K. Fine and Four Flusher. He does his own horse shoeing and horse training and he enjoys competing in 50 and 100 mile endurance races on horseback.

He has brought a genuine western touch to "One Life to Live," which is set in the fictional town of Llanview, a suburb of Philadelphia. His character, a member of a wealthy Houston family and former editor of an Arizona paper, wears western boots and a cowboy hat and likes hot Texas chili.

Now a look at what's been happening and what will happen on all the afternoon dramas.

Maggie tries to talk some sense into an angry James. Lisa resents Cody.

ANOTHER WORLD -- Sandy is captured by Jordan and Blaine is forced to bargain for his life. Jamie inadvertently sells the Dock project to Cooper and Rachael decides to go home to mother. Russ tells Rachael about Jamie's drug problem. Rachael and Mac blame each other for Jamie's drug problem. Rick gives Mary Ann an engagement ring. Cecile seeks out Mac's help for Jamie's problem.

THIS WEEK: Blaine makes a bad deal. Mitch will not give up Matthew and Rachael so easily.

TEXAS -- Elena grows desperate with tranquilizers. Joe befriends Elena and hopes of locating Bernice's $20,000. Paige discovers a murdered Chris when she retrieves her porno pictures and fears that Dennis has murdered him. Dennis desperately tries to remember his fight with Chris but can't. Jeb starts asking questions about Barrett's whereabouts when Ginny was locked in the closet. Justin and Reena work hard to convince Max to allow them to drill on his land.

THIS WEEK: Justin and Reena grow closer. Paige becomes suspect.

EDGE OF NIGHT -- Ravin accepts Derek's proposal. Gavin agrees to work for Sky as the choreographer for his dance company. Beth is thwarted in her attempt to kill Nancy by Bryson. Nancy may undergo plastic surgery to save her life. Jody is taken in by Ravin's seemingly friendly suggestion.

THIS WEEK: Martine is still depressed about Gavin. Nancy fights for her life.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE -- Sam

and Asa split up but Asa is not willing to give her up. Dorian pushes Pat to accept the Texas job offer but Pat turns the tables on her. Brad hits up Dorian for a job and she recommends him as associate producer for Pat's show. Pat sneaks into the Moorehead mansion.

THIS WEEK: Becky and Johnny have a successful tour. Sam wonders if she did the right thing.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES -- Jessica sees Marie and Alex kissing in front of his apartment and is shocked. Later, Jessica disappears. Mary is determined to get Alex back. Neil tries to discourage Maggie from being a surrogate mother. Lee may be able to go home soon. Hope visits Lee. Mickey is also having second thoughts about Maggie's participation in the surrogate mother's program.

THIS WEEK: Marie is upset by Jessica's response to the knowledge that she is her mother. Mary tries to worm her way back into Alex's life.

THE DOCTORS -- Gretta seduces Jack and then faints. Catherine pulls out a pistol. Mack and Althea have it out. If Nola wants information from Kevin, she has to pay for it. MJ suspects Gretta is pregnant. Jason says his marriage to Nola is over. Catherine is back and Nola thinks she is in league with Mo'na. Billy begs Gretta to let him know if she believes him but she can't decide.

THIS WEEK: Maggie and Matt talk about their fractured relationship. Gretta cries in her pillow.

RYAN'S HOPE -- After a couple of close calls, Kim is rescued by Michael and returns home to an unsympathetic Seneca. Faith is playing the part of the woman scorned and tells off both Frank and Jill. Barry is apprehensive about Kim's affection for Michael. Seneca warns Kim that he must think things over and may want to call their marriage quits. Roger takes Faith's part against Jill.

THIS WEEK: Rae worries that Michael will go back to Kim. Joe springs the trap on Jack.

ALL MY CHILDREN -- Palmer buys Donna an engagement ring but when he pops the question he leaves her in shock. Devon worries that Wally never wants her to come back from the sanitarium. Myra discovers Shaun rummaging through her room. Tad goes to the park to smoke pot with his friends. Palmer offers to pay for Donna's singing lessons.

THIS WEEK: Donna worries about her future. Devon feels deserted.

GENERAL HOSPITAL -- Luke and Laura toast their future with champagne. Luke is counting on a large sum of money from Alex and Laura is putting through efforts to get a divorce. Heather crashes Joe's party and intimidates Ann by cutting her hand badly. The auction is about to begin and Luke plans to grab the Ice Princess and exchange it for $50,000 from Alex.

THIS WEEK: Alan worries about Alex's blackmail bid. The auction causes quite a stir.

Recap: 5/4-5/8
Preview: 5/11-5/15

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS -- Casey breaks all ties with Nikki. Greg continues to have severe headaches. Michael has hopes of escape.

THE GUIDING LIGHT -- Philip defies Alan which hurts Alan deeply. Eve continues to be tormented. Vanessa still tries to win Ross back.

SEARCH FOR TOMORROW -- Sissy plans her court machinations. Ted fights to expose Jamie. Janet has a tense talk with Laine.

AS THE WORLD TURNS -- Lyra is infuriated with Margo's attachment to John.

Farmers took it on chin in 1980

AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food prices were held to a moderate gain in 1980 because farmers took it on the chin financially, but the situation is changing, the Agriculture Department says. Last year, farmers' net income plummeted sharply, reflecting drought losses, sagging livestock prices and soaring expenses. Although it continued to be tough for producers in the first quarter, department economists predict the farm income situation will improve the rest of this year.

However, retail food prices will continue upward this year, rising about 11 percent against an overall rise of 8.6 percent in the government's all-food price index in 1980, according to the latest department estimates.

Despite the brighter outlook for farmers the rest of this year, indications continue to show that livestock producers still have a long way to go before profits can be taken for granted.

"Feed costs this spring and summer are expected to be 25 to 30 percent above a year earlier," the department's Economics and Statistics Service said Wednesday. "This factor, plus continued high interest rates may mean that despite stronger livestock prices producers may only approach break-even points this summer."

Livestock producers "are now adjusting output in response to almost continuous losses since mid-1979," the report said. "Pork producers have indicated plans to reduce output sharply, and cattle feeders are expected to hold production at or slightly below year-earlier levels."

The report showed that market prices of Choice-grade steers in the second quarter of this year now are expected to be between $69 and $72 per 100 pounds, compared with an average of about $62 in the first quarter. Prices in the third quarter were projected at $71 to $75 per hundredweight.

Hog prices in the second quarter were indicated at $42 to $45 per 100 pounds, compared with an average of about $41 in the first three months. The third-quarter average was projected at $52 to $56 per 100 pounds.

In a related report issued this week, the same agency said the price of food before it leaves the farm "is not expected to restrain this year's retail food price rise as it did in 1980."

Last year, when the prices of farm-produced food — not counting imports and seafood, which are part of the all-food category — rose 8 percent, the increase in the farm value of food accounted for only 1.6 percentage points.

This year, because of generally higher livestock and crop prices, the farm value of food is expected to account for 3-6 percentage points of the overall increase, the report said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first steps in what Agriculture Secretary John R. Block calls an intensified campaign to sell more U.S. grain abroad are being focused on five countries which he says have a growing market potential.

Block said the first move will be "several high-level consultations with officials of the target countries" and that a team of trade experts is being assembled, along with their meeting schedules.

In another trade development, Block was asked Wednesday about a report that the Agriculture Department is preparing to sell surplus butter to the Soviet Union. He said no decision had been made.

Block said the five countries being targeted for the export push are Algeria, Brazil, Chile, China and Morocco. He said the campaign will be extended to other countries "when plans are developed."

According to the department's Foreign Agricultural Service, the five countries are expected to import nearly 17 million metric tons of the two grains — about 13.7 million of wheat and 3 million of corn — in the 1980-81 marketing year.

Comparatively, U.S. exports of all kinds of grain — including wheat, rice, corn and other feed grains — are expected to reach a record of about 118 million metric tons this year.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal, for example, to 39.4 bushels of corn or 36.7 bushels of wheat.

Meeting briefly with reporters, Block said, "We don't have any idea" on how much additional grain might be sold to the five countries. "We're hopeful, but we don't have any specific projection," he said.

Block said foreign crop conditions and other factors provided a "reason to believe" the five countries' needs might be greater than earlier realized.

"There could be an awful lot of competition in the world to sell wheat, because there are other countries... and we need to be in there scrapping," he said.

Earlier, the Des Moines Register said in a copyright story that unidentified government officials are saying the United States is willing to sell surplus butter for about $1 a pound to the Soviet Union, about 60 cents less than the government paid for it under the federal dairy-support program.

The paper said the butter will be sold to American exporting companies who will resell it to the Soviet Union. The price of about $1 a pound would reflect the world price of butter. In all, it said the sale could involve up to 400 million pounds of butter from a surplus stock of more than 560 million pounds.

"There's no decision been made to do this," Block said. "It wouldn't necessarily be the Soviet Union (but) it could be, if we were to do this."

Block added that the administration is "at least giving some consideration" to selling butter and that "if it were sold, it would be sold at world prices."
