

New Sensations Due in Coplon Trial Today

Solon Lashes SOB Charge At Senate Hearing Witness

WASHINGTON (AP)—In an angry scene, Senator Eastland (D-Miss.) dismissed C. B. Baldwin, who was Henry Wallace's campaign manager, from the witness chair of a Senate hearing today and called him an SOB in the full-voiced version.

Baldwin had refused to answer a question whether or not he is or has been a member of the Communist Party, and had accused Eastland of "fighting against Negro rights."

Baldwin, former administrator of the Farm Security Administration, also had shouted that Eastland represented "the cotton council," an organization which Baldwin said is made up of "plantation owners."

Despite the epithets, neither moved toward physical violence. Baldwin is a man of medium height, round-faced, balding. Eastland is a sturdily built man of about six feet. Both are in their 40s.

The hearings were by a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on bills that would require the registration of Communist and Communist-front organizations.

Baldwin appeared as secretary-treasurer of the Progressive Party. He had a prepared statement which called the bills "part of

Foreign Chiefs Set Deadline

PARIS (AP)—The foreign ministers of the East and West sought today to salvage some accords from the debris of differences accumulated over discussion of Germany's future.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky yesterday accepted an American request that the East-West trade and traffic talks in Berlin be ended by Monday.

The Western powers previously had told Russia they were tired of jockeying in the Foreign Ministers' Council and wanted to get results. If the Berlin talks do not produce an agreement by Monday the big four foreign ministers will step in.

Weather Stumbling Block For Wheat, Cotton Farmers

HARVEST IS DELAYED BY RAINFALL

By the Associated Press

Texas farmers are looking for a whopping cotton crop in the South Plains. They may get it—but the weather has already whittled down their chances.

They have so much wheat they hardly know what to do with it—but the weather is working overtime to help solve that problem.

Nightly thunderstorms boiling across the plains with pounding hail and driving rain have cut deeply into fields of cotton and wheat alike.

More rain fell in parts of the Panhandle last night. Rain already had set back the wheat harvest in that section.

The Weather Bureau today reported that rainfall in Texas for the past 24 hours included these measurements: Amarillo, 34.0; Lubbock, 30.0; Brownsville, 1.03; Houston, .03; Beaumont, .08 Galveston, .05; Texarkana, .12.

At mid-morning it was raining at Lubbock.

A waterspout moved in offshore at Galveston but broke up without doing any damage.

More thunderstorms were predicted for both East and West Texas.

Meanwhile, a farm agent estimated that 300,000 acres of newly planted South Plains cotton has been ruined or heavily damaged by storms.

And county agents and country editors estimated high wheat damage. Briscoe County Agent Leo White said 2,500 to 3,000 acres of wheat have been down in his county. Hale County Agent Manuel Ayers figured 1,200 acres damaged in his part of the South Plains. Homer Steen, editor of the Floyd County Hesperian, estimated the last week had seen 600,000 bushel wheat loss in that county.

The cotton damage estimate came from W. N. Williamson of Lubbock. He is district extension service agent for 18 South Plains counties.

Williamson hiked his estimate yesterday from 200,000 to 300,000 acres after getting reports from county agents.

Cotton farmers get a chance to replant. Most of them intend to do so by June 20.

Replanting costs about $2.50 an acre. That's about half a million dollars loss so far.

The Texas Employment Service reported, meanwhile, that medium to heavy rains over most of the wheat belt during the week would delay harvesting two or four days.

Just to show what kind of a year it's been in the plains—Amarillo had 13.22 inches of rain for the year up to last night. The average fall for an entire year is 7.47 inches.

In the South Plains, Lubbock has had more than 17 and a half inches of rain. The normal figure (See WEATHER, Page 10)

Rent Control In Pampa Taken Off

There is no more rent control in Pampa.

Federal Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods today approved rent decontrols for Pampa, Odessa, Midland, and Liberty, an Associated Press dispatch said this morning.

Woods also removed rent controls from three of four counties in which the above cities are located: Midland (Midland), Ector (Odessa), and Gray (Pampa). Carson County, in the same defense rental area as Gray, was also decontrolled.

The decontrol of Pampa rentals came on the heels of Governor Beauford H. Jester's approval of a resolution sent him by the City Commission. The commission found no further need for rent controls here after a public hearing held three weeks ago when 49 out of 50 persons expressed their desire for junking controls locally. Most of those present at the public hearing were landlords and real estate people.

At the same time, in Austin, Woods called on Governor Jester personally asking him to veto the statewide rent decontrol law as passed finally by the House and Senate this week.

The bill is now on the Governor's desk awaiting his action (See RENT, Page 10)

Many Sidelights Result From Case

By the Associated Press

More FBI reports described as "the hottest" of all documents found in Judith Coplon's purse were scheduled to be read in Washington today (Friday) in the espionage case which already has produced a bumper crop of sensations.

Some of the reports have stirred up headline stories that had nothing to do with whether Miss Coplon pilfered government secrets.

Yesterday they indicated (1) the FBI was conducting counter-espionage work in the Russian Embassy in Washington, (2) an alleged Communist barber working in the White Sands proving grounds in New Mexico was expected to get atomic data for the Russian Embassy in Mexico and (3) a San Francisco Russian language newspaper was subsidized by the Russian government.

Today the barber and the newspaper protested, but the Soviet Embassy in Washington was silent.

In New York, the government neared the end of its case against Alger Hiss. It called in more witnesses today to bolster its second charge of perjury against the former State Department official.

The trial of 11 communists accused of conspiring to advocate the forcible overthrow of the government was adjourned until Monday afternoon after hearing John Gates, editor of The Daily Worker, admit yesterday that he had lied but history would justify his lie.

Highlights of the three trials: Coplon — When Miss Coplon, 28, a former Justice Department analyst, was arrested in New York March 4 with Valentine A. Gubitchev, a Russian, her purse yielded among other things 34 so-called data slips.

Defense Attorney Archibald Palmer wanted to make all of them public, but the government sought desperately to keep at least 12 from the court and the world. The judge overruled the government. These 12 reports have been making news ever since.

Palmer said some still to be read were "supposed to be the hottest of them all" but he didn't think they were so hot.

Hiss — The second and last denial before a federal grand jury charge against Hiss, based on a that he was Whittaker Chambers after Jan. 1, 1937, was predated today. Chambers has said that Hiss was once a communist, and had given him state department (See COPLON, Page 10)

Brannan Has New Program For Farm Aid

By ROBERT E. GEIGER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farm aid programs will occupy an increasingly prominent place in Congressional election campaigns next year.

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan suggested a plan that would put a floor under farm income. Government payments would be made direct to farmers if prices for some perishable products fell below a certain level. Non-perishables would be handled the same as they are now, through price supports.

In return the farmers would limit production, when necessary, and agree to use certain soil-conserving methods.

The plan has been attacked by most farm organizations, by some members of Congress and others on the grounds it would be too costly and would place farmers under too much government control.

Leaving out this controversy over the details of a program, many housewives and other city people have asked why farmers need any government help at all.

Why not let farm food prices (See BRANNAN, Page 10)

Tucker Auto Promoter Faces Charge

CHICAGO (AP)—Preston T. Tucker, promoter of a novel automobile that never got into mass production, today was indicted on charges of mail fraud, SEC violations and conspiracy. Seven associates were indicted with him.

A 31-count indictment was returned before Federal Judge John P. Barnes by a grand jury which has 12 weeks since Feb. 12 investigating affairs of Tucker and his corporation.

Maximum possible penalties for conviction under the indictment would amount to 155 years imprisonment and $60,000 in fines for each of the eight defendants.

The counts are 25 of mail fraud, five of violating regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission and one of conspiracy.

Other defendants with the 46-year-old president and director of the Tucker Corporation:

Harold A. Karsten, 68, alias Abraham Karatz, North Hollywood, Calif., former Minneapolis lawyer;

Floyd D. Cerf, 60, Chicago, former investment banker, who floated the public issue of stock in the corporation;

Robert Pierce, 50, Detroit Athletic Club, Detroit, formerly associated with Briggs Manufacturing Company of Detroit, a former director and treasurer of Tucker;

Fred Rockelman, 63, Chicago, who held the posts of director, general sales manager and executive vice president of Tucker Corporation. He had been associated with Ford Motor Company and Chrysler Corporation for more than 27 years;

Truman Off Today for 35th Reunion

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman flies today to Little Rock to join his old battery at another reunion of the 35th Division of World War I.

The onetime captain of Battery D, 12th Field Artillery, will mix with old cronies, look in on a ball tonight, and have 7 o'clock breakfast Saturday morning with his battery mates.

The President worked last night to complete an address to be delivered at 2:30 p.m. (CST) Saturday, highlighting the observance with the buddies with whom he served in France.

The prospects for peace are expected to have heavy emphasis in the talk.

Mr. Truman's take-off in the "Independence," the White House DC-6, was timed at 11:30 a.m. (CST) for the three and a half hour flight. He will return to Washington immediately after Saturday's talk.

As he did in the reunion last year at Omaha and two years ago at Kansas City, Mr. Truman plans to march with the other 35th Division veterans in their annual parade Saturday morning.

'Lady' Yank Convicted

BURTONWOOD, Eng. (AP)—An Air Force court martial convicted Delbert E. Hill today of desertion for his four-year absence as "Donna Delbert," girl fire-eater on the English music hall stage.

Hill, who told the court he left the Air Force just after being assigned to duty as a latrine orderly following Japan's surrender in 1945, was sentenced to serve two years at hard labor. He also was ordered given a bad conduct discharge.

The airman, a 35-year-old Philadelphia, denied he was a deserter.

He said he always intended to come back to the Air Force, was merely absent without leave, and pleaded innocent to a charge of deserting in 1945 "to avoid hazardous duty."

The prosecutor, Captain George E. Koonz, claimed Hill left the Air Force in July, 1945, "with the intention not to return." This is a vital factor in proving a charge of desertion.

Hill, in a shoulder length hairdo and plucked eyebrows, had been appearing in a Newcastle theater as "Donna Delbert," demon fire-eater.

Hill was permitted to talk with newsmen during the noon recess of court.

He said he planned eventually to return to the stage in America, where he performed as a magician and fire-eater with the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus beginning in 1935. He said he often appeared in the circus as a female impersonator.

McDowell to Head Lions In New Year

O. E. McDowell, manager of Plains Creamery, yesterday was elected president of the Lions Club to succeed H. P. Dosier.

Dosier automatically became a vice president. Other officers elected were: O. K. Gaylor, secretary; Paul Brown, lion tamer; Veri Hagaman, tail twister.

Directors for the forthcoming year elected yesterday were Joe Calhoun, R. H. Nestel, a and W. E. Moore. O. L. Blinn was selected to fill McDowell's unexpired term on the Board of Directors.

Preceding the election, the twin 12-year-old daughters of Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Ward, Paty and Peggy, played two piano duets—"Approach of Spring," by Lindsay, and "In Schubert's Day," by Krensey. They are students of Miss Elise Donaldson.

Paul Brown announced the registration deadline for the local Soap Box Derby is fast approaching. He urged members to be ready within three months to draft their cars and to be ready to participate in the annual race. He said to date 63 boys have registered.

Jim Leverich appealed for fishing tackle donations from members of the club. He said members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce are trying to gather enough fishing equipment to fulfill needs at Boy's Ranch.

McKellar Suggests Hoffman Resign Post as ECA Boss

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.) today suggested that Paul Hoffman, ECA boss, resign. "The sooner you resign, the better it will be for the United States."

The veteran chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee openly accused Hoffman of trying to bully the committee into not cutting European recovery funds.

Hoffman coldly denied he tried to put any "pressure" on the committee or that his talk of resignation was a "threat."

Hoffman had told reporters yesterday he would resign if he reached the point where he no longer thought he could direct the recovery program successfully. And he said he did not think it could be done with less than the $3,568,470,000 that ECA is asking for the first ten and one-half months of the next fiscal year.

McKellar brought up the subject again in today's hearing on the ECA appropriation, saying:

"Other than giving away other people's money, I wonder what you are doing in Europe. I think it would be a very good thing if you did resign."

Some senators said they will press for a cut in the recovery funds even if it means Hoffman's resignation.

Hoffman tried to get in an answer several times but McKellar shouted him down.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) broke in to say he did not consider Hoffman's remarks any threat and did not think the ECA chief had intended them as such.

"Don't you think," Ferguson said, "it is going to hurt people in the government who are willing and able to resign if they don't think they can do a good job? Mr. Hoffman should be complimented. There are too many who stay when they know they can't do the job."

McKellar retorted "I did take it as a threat," and then he turned on Hoffman again.

"You have undertaken to do it before and you are not going to do it this time," he said. "I think it would be the best thing for the people of the United States and Europe if you did resign."

Ferguson interrupted again: "I think it would be a great calamity."

McKellar: "Well, every man is entitled to his own opinion."

Hoffman finally got in a word. "Nothing I said implied any threat."

Again McKellar cut him off. "Why, you had a lobbyist come to my hotel this morning and he tried to lobby with me. He said you had offered him a job in Korea. I ordered him out of my room. He was trying to show me how right you are and how wrong I am."

Hoffman said quietly: "That is an absolute falsehood."

He said a man he did not know "from Adam's off ox" approached him this morning and tried to tell him about a conversation "with a senator."

"I offered him no job," Hoffman said.

He said he had no "false notions" about himself and the job he is doing. "I said I would administer the program to the best of my ability. I said if I came to the conclusion I could not administer the program successfully then I would resign."

And then Hoffman said sharply: "I'm here as a matter of public service just as you are. And I'll be here only as long as I can give service and am wanted."

Woman Released From Hospital

Mrs. A. W. Babione, 211 N. Starkweather, was released from the Pampa Hospital this morning after receiving treatment for a sprained ankle.

Mrs. Babione apparently turned her ankle and fell in front of the Modern Beauty Shop, 110 N. Russell, opposite the City Hall, about 2:30 p.m. yesterday.

She was on her way to the hospital to relieve the nurse who was caring for her husband. Babione was injured in an automobile accident near Lefors several weeks ago.

A Blackburn-Shaw-Sims ambulance took Mrs. Babione to the hospital and at first it was feared she had broken her ankle. It proved to be no more than a severe sprain, however, and she was released this morning.

Better Check Your Hat Angle, Men

LONDON (AP)—A man gives himself away by the set of his hat, the trade journal "Men's Wear" said today.

It provided these clues:

"A hat dead straight on the head shows lack of imagination."

"Too much on the back of the head suggests the yokel."

"Too much over the nose, a prig."

"Too much on one side suggests a character with rather too much bounce."

Russia Seeks Treaty

PARIS (AP)—Russia called today for a new Big Four conference within three months to draft a German peace treaty, French sources said.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei V. Vishinsky placed before the Foreign Ministers' Council a proposal that all four powers agree to withdraw all their troops one year after a German peace treaty.

'FRECKLES' SEES GOVERNOR

By MARTHA COLE

AUSTIN (AP)—I ain't never seen a governor—said the youngster with 41 freckles on his nose.

"Can't we just sit out here and look at him as he goes by?"

That's why one dozen little boy Scouts from Taylor were sitting under the shade of a big old elm tree on the lawn when the Governor came home for lunch the other day.

Not only did they see a Governor—they shook hands with him and they shook hands with a lieutenant governor, too, and a secretary of state, and a speaker of the House.

The little Cub Scouts wanted to go on in and look over the mansion.

"But you can't go in while they're eating lunch," said Mrs. W. H. Buchanan, social secretary of the mansion. "Isn't that the way your mother does it?"

"No'n", one solemn little boy declared.

Anyway, they were content to keep sitting out on the lawn until 2 p.m. when they could go in. The mansion is open every afternoon except Saturday. Hours are 3 to 5 p.m.

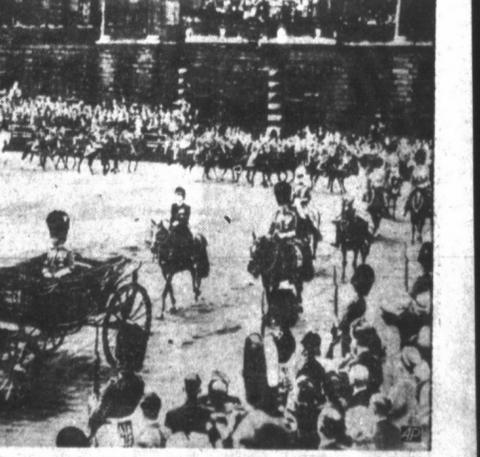

This spring school children by the hundreds had walked up and rung the doorbell. A guard answers and shows them around the first floor and up the sweeping staircase to see 8 a.m. Houston's bed.

"One day we had 500 children here," Mrs. Buchanan said. "We were giving signals to get back and fourth across the hall."

"But they're all well-behaved. All of them."

Teas bring in the women. All the women have to do is ask permission to hold a tea at the mansion. If no other engagement interferes, permission is granted. The ladies bring their own flowers, own tea party dishes and own serving personnel. One kitchen downstairs is set aside for their use.

Mrs. Jester stands in the receiving line and talks with the guests until she has to go back upstairs and maybe find those old tennis shoes young Beauford, 10 years old, has lost.

X-Ray Survey Starts Tuesday in Perryton

PERRYTON—(Special)—Headquarters for the mobile X-ray unit coming to Perryton next week will be in the Perryton-Furniture Co.

The unit will be in Perryton from Tuesday through Thursday of next week to administer free chest X-rays to all adults over 15 years of age in the Perryton area. The operating crew from the State Health Department will be able to process and X-ray 1,500 persons a day.

P. W. Gauss, field representative of the Health Department in Perryton two weeks ago to help lay plans for the survey, said that one of the difficulties encountered in making a successful survey is the problem of convincing apparently healthy persons they should be X-rayed. WINTER'S LAST STAND—This is June in the state of Washington. In some places the snow is over 30 feet deep, a record for this time of year. The drifts are the last reminder of the northwest's toughest winter in history. Here, Palmer Larson of the state highway department shows the comparative height of drifts on a highway in the Cascade Mountains near Chinook Pass.

Known Takes Lead in Open Stars Slash Through Woods

CHICAGO (AP)—The National golf championship looks like Tom, Dick and Harry argument after the first round. Les Kennedy, one of the known pros, paced the with a two-under-par 69. Hamilton Hands League-Leaders 6th Loss in Row

AMARILLO (AP)—The Amarillo Gold Sox handed the Albuquerque Dukes their sixth straight defeat here last night by a score of 10-5 to drop the league-leaders into a virtual first-place tie with Abilene.

Luke Hamilton went the route in chalking up his sixth win of the season and managed to scatter the Dukes' 13 safeties fairly well. Home runs with bases vacant in the third inning by starting pitcher Don Ferrarese, Len Attyd and manager Hershel Martin provided the visitors with a three-run lead. The Sox got two of them back in their half on a walk, Paul Halter's double and Dick Gentzkow's single.

They knotted the count the next frame without the benefit of a hit. Three free tickets, a hit batter and a sacrifice manufacturer that marked Amarillo went ahead in the fifth and stayed there.

Fourth Place Battle in Longhorn League

By The Associated Press
The hottest fight in the Longhorn League race is for fourth place and as of today it's a virtual stand-off.

These clubs are playing each other and last night Odessa advanced within one percentage point of taking over the spot. The Oilers beat San Angelo 9-7.

Big Spring, the top club, lost to Sweetwater 10-7, but it didn't hurt much. Second-place Vernon divided a doubleheader with Roswell.

Roswell trimmed Vernon 7-3 in the first game behind the six-hit pitching of Vic Michalec. Three Roswell errors helped Vernon to a 7-4 decision in the nightcap.

Midland beat Ballinger 12-8 in the other game of the evening.

WARREN'S WARMUP

By Warren Hass—News Sports Editor

QUESTION: Who was the last foreigner to win the U.S. Open?

THE U.S. OPEN got underway yesterday over the par-71 Medinah Number 3 Country Club course. Most of the professionals playing in the tournament are of the opinion that near par golf will win the event. They also predict that because of the narrow, tree-lined fairways and small, dime-sized greens the winner will be a man who has complete control of his game at all times; someone like Byron Nelson or Bobby Locke.

A new record was set over the course the final day of practice, Wednesday, by Ed "Porfy" Oliver. He travelled over the rugged eighteen in 68 strokes, 5 below par for the course. But strange as it may seem, Oliver isn't eligible to play in the tournament, except as an alternate, his qualifying score not being low enough to join in the starting field of players.

Last year's champion, Little Ben Hogan, will be unable to defend his crown this year because of his near-fatal automobile accident last winter. Hogan holds the record for the National Open, winning last year with a 276 over Los Angeles' Riviera Club course.

Another of the favorites to win this year is Shammin' Sammy Snead, who has been burning up the course in the last few major tournaments. He has come close to taking the Open several times, but each time has blown sky-high on some hole to lose. Snead's personal prediction that a one-over-par 285 will take the tournament this year shows how tough he considers the course to be.

A quick look at the course shows that it is covered with traps, bunkers, woods doglegs, and water holes. The longest hole on the course is No. 10, a 366-yard dogleg to the right, skirted with woods and a sand trap. Shortest is No. 14, a par 3, 163-yard shot. The 445-yard 15th hole is one of the toughest on the course. It is a par 4 hole with a vicious 90-degree dogleg to the left, approximately 150 yards from the tee. The 16th is just a narrow lane chopped through the woods, and on the 17th the stars must carry 198 yards across a body of water to hit the small green. If the shot is short it's in the lake; if it's long, it's in a deep rough. On the last two rounds of the tournament, when the course will be lengthened, this hole will be extended to 288 yards, which will be more woe for the

Cardinals and Tigers Hottest Clubs in Majors at Present

Redbirds Take Sixth Straight

NEW YORK — (AP) — The rampaging St. Louis Cardinals scored their sixth straight victory Thursday. Lefty Howie Pollet turned back the slumping New York Giants, 4-1, on a neat six-hitter. Pollet, who now has won five consecutive games, was in front all the way.

The Cards rapped losing pitcher Clint Hartung of Lona, Tex., for three runs in the fifth to set up the game.

Marty Marion singled to start the rally. After Muniel walked, Enos Slaughter singled to plate Marion and then third sacker Sid Gordon allowed leftfielder Whitey Lockman's relay to escape. Muniel also scored and Slaughter raced to third. Northey filed out and Slaughter came in after the catch.

Hartung bowed out for a pinch-hitter in the fifth and Kirby Higbe, recently obtained from Pittsburgh, and Hank Behrman held the Cardinals behind the rest of the way.

The Cards now have won 15 of their last 17 starts.

One of the most famous names in goldfom, Bobby Jones, Jr., has captured the tournament four times. Among the other famous winners are such names as Tommy Armour, Tommy Farrell, Johnny Goodman, Olin Dutra, Tony Manero, Ralph Guldahl and Gene Sarazen.

The first player to break 70 in a single round of the U. S. Open was Tom McNamara, who shot a 69 at Buffalo in 1912. Highest 72-hole total to ever win the event was a huge 331, scored by Willie Anderson in 1901. First amateur to win the event was Francis Ouimet, in 1913. Last amateur to capture it was Johnny Goodman in 1933.

What will happen this year? Something of importance surely, over this mighty fine course in Chicago. Maybe Snead will finally win the event that has eluded him for so long. Maybe Nelson will prove to all that he is back to his old form. Perhaps some unknown will walk off with the honors. Let's wait and see?

Longhorns' Chances in NCAA Filled With Great Deal of 'ifs'
By WILBUR MARTIN Associated Press Staff

Texas' chances of winning the regional NCAA baseball playoff next week depends a great deal on these "ifs":

The Steers come up with one more front line pitcher.

Big Tom Hamilton and Ed Kneuper haven't lost their batting eyes.

Ebb Falk's Longhorns will be host team in the regional, June 16-18. They'll meet the champion of the Midwest-Missouri Valley area.

Falk and the Longhorns had a mighty good season. They won 12 conference games, lost three. Over the year they won 15 games, lost seven.

Texas did all of this with only one first-rate pitcher, Murray Wall.

Wall won eight of Texas' conference victories and nine for the season. He was beaten twice all year.

With the Dallas youngster on the mound, Texas is a pretty good bet to take one of the three games in the regional series. But unless Charles Gorn, Frank Womack or Jim Ehrler blossom into nine-inning pitchers, the going will be rough.

It'll be even rougher if Hamilton's lousy batting has lost its bloom.

The big first baseman topped Southwest Conference batting with a .475 average, led in runs scored, 22, hits, 28, home runs, 7, total bases, 57, and was runner-up to teammate Ed Kneuper in runs batted in with 26. He also handled 184 chances at first base without committing an error.

Evers' Big Bat Defeats Yankees

DETROIT — (AP) — The Detroit Tigers, paced by the hitting of Hoot Evers, poured five runs across the plate in a wild seventh inning Thursday to beat the Yankees for the third straight time 9-3.

The win gave the second place Tigers a sweep of the series and left them just three and a half games behind the American League leading Yankees.

Evers was practically a one man ball team as he got a triple, a double and three singles, scored three runs and drove in two more.

George Kell opened that big Tiger inning with a triple off Yankee relief hurler Joe Page.

Evers singled sharply to center scoring Kell and sending Wertz, on base from an error, to third. Johnny Groth then drilled a hot grounder at third baseman Bill Johnson who booted the ball. Wertz scoring on the play and Evers moving to second.

Evers scored on Johnny Lipson's single, with Groth moving to second. Art Houtteman grounded out with Groth scoring.

Lipson moved to third, then Don Kolloway hit a ball that bounced high into the air. Before it landed, Lipson was across with the Tigers' fifth run of the inning and Detroit led 9-5.

Empire Gets Transfer
ABILENE — (AP) — Frank Rakestraw has transferred from the East Texas League to the Longhorn League as an umpire. President Hal Sayles announced yesterday. Rakestraw replaces Ben Cook, who has been returned to the East Texas League.

Gus Steiner and Dave Crockett are two other newcomers on the Longhorn umpiring staff. Steiner worked in the league last year and will be used as an alternate.

Crockett is a first year man and graduate of the George Barr umpire's school.

Mobeetie Loses to Strong Memphis Team
MOBETTIE — (Special) — Memphis had one big inning last Sunday afternoon, but it was enough to win. In the second frame the slugger got to the offerings of Harris and before the side could be reset they had scored 9 hits and 7 runs. Martin relieved Harris with the bases loaded and two out and retired the next batter.

Martin continued to pitch good ball, but his mates could not solve Corpus offerings of Pitman, Memphis hurler. In addition to his fine pitching corps, Pitman was tough at the plate. He got two home runs and one long single in four trips to the plate.

Trap Shot Actually Is Easiest, You Don't Have to Hit Ball; Stroke Loses Its Power in Sand

(Eleventh of a series written for NEA Service) By GENE SARAZEN Winner of Them All

One of the reasons why the average golfer is paralyzed in a trap is that he never practices trap shots, doesn't familiarize himself with sand.

I have devoted thousands of hours to this shot, and even now when I go to the major tournaments I spend 10 or 15 minutes practicing in sand.

Actually it is the easiest shot in golf because it is the only shot in the game in which you don't have to hit the ball!

Play the ball off the right heel with your sand iron.

It must have a wide flange. The back is one-eighth of an inch higher than the front sole. This prevents the clubhead from digging into the sand.

Pick the club up with both hands, and punch down and through, hitting behind the ball. Use a short backswing.

When taking the club back it should be taken away on the outside of the backswing. This automatically opens the face of the club which is necessary when playing with a sand iron.

The stroke loses its power because of the cushion of sand between the ball and the clubhead.

Don't hit the ball, and don't be afraid of the shot. The sand will push the ball up onto the green.

Practice good and bad lies. You should also practice different ranges.

The range is controlled by the distance behind the ball that you hit.

Hitting from a trap 10 yards from the green you should hit two inches behind the ball. In order for the ball to carry 20 or 30 yards, hit within one inch of the ball.

That is how to guide the distance.

Practice this shot and lower your score.

Unless you master it you'll never be a winner.

This is the shot that saves strokes, and makes up for strokes lost on the fairway.

NEXT: Approach shots.

Gene Sarazen... differing from the No. 9 iron, left, the wide, high-flanged sand iron prevents the clubhead from digging into the sand.

Fair Enough - Pegler

(Copyright, 1949.)

NEW YORK — In "Human Events," the weekly pamphlet produced in Washington by Felix Morley and Frank Hanighan, Joseph P. Chamberlain, the daughter of the late Pierre Laval, answers some disparaging remarks written by Winston Churchill in "The Gathering Storm." Like the memoirs of Lloyd George, who held the same job in the first war, the Churchill papers will continue to be read with interest by those who are not too busy to read the light little pamphlet squeezed out of his old diaries and chits.

The dirty socialists are confabulating receipts at the pay-window when the hissing John Bull has been poured back into the bottle, there will be enough estate to keep Randolph out of quod for speeding. Winthorn should have followed the Duke and Dutchess of Windthorpe in New York where Britons of their station can live on the cuff and tip the bell-hops with autographs.

Again like the Lloyd George books, Churchill's memoirs are calculated to give their authors none the wiser of it where impartial judgment might be seen to go even further than he need in shading his opinions of American grandees and I have to suspect him of further designs on the youth and riches of the United States for Britain's sake. He is just too damn nice to us. It isn't British. But that would be just like him, for he was one of the greatest traitors of the war second not even to Hitler, and incomparably more loyal than many of ours.

If he can help to deliver us again to Britain's side, at whatever cost in flattery and self-respect, that will be his hat-trick of stupendous grandeur.

It is a sad fact for history and the intelligence of man that the survivor in such a controversy as the late war gets all the say. Those who go down with the lost cause are discredited with it. After years there is little padding and piecing together of fragments, but the merits of the beaten people and their case are regarded as quaint relics for museums. Reasonable men, now grown older and wiser, are coming to agree with the hated "pro-Germans" of 1914-1918 that the United States had as much reason to fight the Allies as the Germans, and should have listened to Hearst and Henry Ford.

Jose de Chamberlain's letter to Churchill picks up the remark of his that "Laval's later shameful record and fate must not obscure the fact of his personal force and capacity. He had a clear and intense view."

There is small recognition in that, so Laval's daughter leans into Churchill with great force assisted, I suspect, by her husband, Rene, some sort of descendant of Lafayette, who sat out the phoney war in the Maginot Line but got into the widest part of the rout of the British and French armies. Rene is a lawyer with some stringy connections with our own royal family. I remember his saying that he only wanted to see France free again and I gather that he was quite willing to bargain, too. He had the honesty not to prattle about four freedoms everywhere nor to pretend that the U.S.A. was every true Frenchman's "other country." Although he was quite an honorable citizen here, he is a Frenchman absolutely.

"How have you been able to speak of his (Laval's) shameful record and fate?" Jose asks Churchill. "It is a fine one, those who have written in devotion to a fashion already out-dated? Or was it merely to qualify your eulogistic judgment of my father, which could be shocking to some people?" No, I believe you are too independent and courageous to have obeyed such impulses. There remains only one possible explanation.

tion. You characterize the conduct of my father as "shameful" because it was not placed at the service of Great Britain, because he was exclusively preoccupied by the interests of his own country. Honor for a Frenchman, according to your definition, was to be obedient to British orders. Shame was to struggle, step by step, at Paris or at Vichy so that France might continue to breathe and live.

"During those days, a few Americans pondered on their own conduct in the same circumstances that caught Laval and Pétain. Would it be better for their countrymen, their homeland, to 'collaborate' with a conqueror and thus save lives and preserve the physical assets of the United States — or throw themselves and the nation on the German bayonets? The British got all the good publicity in the United States, they and the fugitive Frenchmen who were brave enough to fight, no doubt, but, given their way, would have brought more misery on the people trapped at home.

The fact was that France had absolutely no belly for the second world war and went dragging her heels from the front because the people deeply felt that they had been bungled into it by politicians who made stupid commitments. Communist regiments were quitting to the Germans without shooting even to make a noise because Stalin was Hitler's ally and they were loyal to the enemy and knifing Frenchmen in the back. Yet, when it was over, Laval was hot while Thorez and a whole evil pack of traitors were hurrying back to claim honor for the victory and a power in the new government and nation. And the United States elaborately dealt with Communists while we loathed the "Vichyites."

Jose de Chamberlain writes that too, when she reminds Churchill that her father covered for his cell in August, 1945: "Henceforth Europe will be under a Russian hegemony, Germany with its regimentation, is politically prepared to receive the Soviet imprint. It is necessary to consider as a historical fact, formidable and unexpected by those who have prepared it, the installation of communism in Europe."

Churchill the orator, writer and fighter, Churchill the patriot, was responsible, in a negative, submitting way for the fate of Europe that Laval foresaw. Many Americans knew that with Germany destroyed, communism would rule. Churchill was reduced to begging "like a puppy" in his dealings with Roosevelt and he had to concede everything for Britain's sake — just as Laval "collaborated" for the sake of France.

Twice, therefore, communism has profited by the tragic necessities of the civilized nations of the West. The first time, the Germans let Lenin and his circle cross their country from Switzerland in 1917 to break up the Kerensky government which was trying to keep a few divisions in the war on the Eastern Front. The massacre of the best Russians came soon afterward and the scourge was lost on the world. But the Germans were relatively innocent. They didn't know what communism really was. Roosevelt and Churchill had no excuse. They knew.

I cannot help it if the Communists follow-traveled with me. I didn't follow-travel with them. A-omic scientist Harold C. Urey, before the Illinois Seditious Activities Commission.

There are huge quantities of fat in this (Army Civil Functions) bill. Let us build a hot fire and fry out $300,000,000 of the fat.

Common Ground

By R. C. HOLES

Our Trouble is Meddlers

When we give careful analysis of why so many people are unable to get the things that they need and are entitled to have, we find that most of our poverty that is not the result of the individuals' own lack of effort, is due to meddlers.

There is not much that meddlers are so as individuals. People are protected from meddlers by the fact that they can go onto their own land and refuse to associate with individual meddlers. Where meddling does the most harm is when it is done collectively. Every socialist is a meddler at heart. He is too weak as an individual to meddle, but his real nature is shown when he joins with other people to use force to make others comply with his will. Most people are meddlers at heart and don't even know it.

The worst form of meddling in the United States is in the so-called educational field. When the majority has a right to coerce the minority to pay for "education" that the minority is sure will kill the souls of individuals and thus cause poverty and misery and wars, you have a nice example of collective meddling. . . . of collective do-goodism. Many persons who are indolent and incompetent and lazy to really help themselves and thus help their fellowmen, seem to enjoy joining together with other people and taking the money from the man of vision and distributing it to their fellowmen for their temporary comforts. This gives them a feeling that they are leaders and important.

The man who believes in tariffs, believes in meddling. So does the man who believes in "social security." . . . of collective do-goodism. Many persons who are indolent and incompetent and lazy to really help themselves and thus help their fellowmen, seem to enjoy joining together with other people and taking the money from the man of vision and distributing it to their fellowmen for their temporary comforts. This gives them a feeling that they are leaders and important.

Most meddlers are men who are regarded as "good people." They think that the end justifies the means. They want to reduce poverty, but in the long run they greatly add to the poverty and make it difficult for the one talent man to develop and grow and enjoy life as God intended every man to do.

There is nothing that would promote the character and welfare and general well-being of our people as much as getting people to work for their own support. . . . of collective do-goodism. Many persons who are indolent and incompetent and lazy to really help themselves and thus help their fellowmen, seem to enjoy joining together with other people and taking the money from the man of vision and distributing it to their fellowmen for their temporary comforts. This gives them a feeling that they are leaders and important.

HEALTHY — Publicly, Mr. Truman still maintains that the nation's economy is in a healthy state of "distinction," despite increasing unemployment, buyers' resistance, the flight of capital from Wall Street and other indications that the economy is anything but healthy.

Incidentally, although he still insists on an increase in taxes at his press conferences, he has not mentioned the idea to his Congressional Monday morning quarterbacks for at least two months. He knows that they do not agree with him, in view of changing conditions, and he seems willing to forget it, too.

LONG-RANGE — Many presidential pals, however, think that this program falls short of saving out a recession or depression. They look to the government alone as the only power which can keep the national economy on an even keel.

Incidentally, although he still insists on an increase in taxes at his press conferences, he has not mentioned the idea to his Congressional Monday morning quarterbacks for at least two months. He knows that they do not agree with him, in view of changing conditions, and he seems willing to forget it, too.

Temporary Bridging

By ELMER WHEELER

In my book, "How to Sell Yourself to Others," I have a chapter called, "Don't Hide Under a Basket." . . . of collective do-goodism. Many persons who are indolent and incompetent and lazy to really help themselves and thus help their fellowmen, seem to enjoy joining together with other people and taking the money from the man of vision and distributing it to their fellowmen for their temporary comforts. This gives them a feeling that they are leaders and important.

Consider Harry and David Holmes of Medford, Oregon. They both studied agriculture at Cornell. Then they acquired the Bear Creek Orchard at Medford, which produced fancy DuCombe pears. But about that time the depression came along and there was no market for fancy fruit.

Harry took a few boxes to New York with him to see if he could sell them as Christmas gift packages. They met a smart advertising man — G. Lynn Sumner — who didn't believe in hanging a light under a bushel. Sumner sent boxes of the fruit to the biggest businessmen in New York.

In less than an hour the telephone rang and the first order came in. By the second day they had orders for almost 500 packages. The orders kept coming in from individual consumers. The Holmes kept advertising their fruit — and in 1948 they sold over a million packages, which brought in $4 million dollars. They met almost a million dollars in wages. The Holmes brothers now sell all sorts of fruit by mail.

If we've got something good — there is always a market for it. If one market seems closed there are others waiting for you to open up — and this applies to individual talents as well as to produce. So don't moan when one door shuts on your path. There are others — and better ones — waiting to be opened to you.

PROGRAM — First, he believes that the country will be better off on a slightly lower level, at least 10 percent below the present status, and possibly 20. He thinks that the use of his present authority, together with new powers he has asked from Congress, will steer us out of the gathering storm.

He would stimulate credit as the Federal Reserve governors have done in recent weeks. He would maintain purchasing power through foreign spending and construction of public works. He would pour out more funds through his proposed health, housing, farm and federal education program.

If unemployment becomes threatening, with seven or eight million unemployed, he would fall back on the work relief program of the early New Deal days.

Incidentally, although he still insists on an increase in taxes at his press conferences, he has not mentioned the idea to his Congressional Monday morning quarterbacks for at least two months. He knows that they do not agree with him, in view of changing conditions, and he seems willing to forget it, too.

Washington by Peter Edson

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — "There are a lot of things around here that I don't understand," said the Man from Mars, looking up from his paper. "De tell," replied the Man Who Knows All the Answers. "Fray be a little more specific. Let me enlighten you."

"I thought that because your Congress passed a law to set up a national radar screen network, it was all-out for national defense," began the Man from Mars.

"It is," said the Man Who Knows Everything, with assurance. "Then why didn't they raise the pay of the armed services?" "That was for reasons of economy," said the Know It All. "Is that why the House just passed this new Rankin $85,000,000 veterans' benefit bill?" asked the Man from Mars. "Your question is so ridiculous it doesn't merit an answer," said the Authority. "Haven't you noticed how worried Congress is about allowing the budget to get out of balance?"

ISLAND OF ESCAPE

By Hugh Lawrence Nelson
COPYRIGHT BY HUGH LAWRENCE NELSON DISTRIBUTED BY M&E SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: The violent death of Lilly Warren has upset the island of escape, Spare Island. Lilly was found shot in a car of a tinsmith railway crossing in the store room on the beach. None but Ben Cosgrove knows that Lilly was killed by the automatic which she hid among the sugar sacks. An inquest is held at which everyone, Harding, Miss Cosgrove, Agnes Firth, Mabel Jones, Fred Sillwell, George Bascombe, Mollie Stark and Nona McGuire, all have a right to speak. But, Harding asks, where did the gun come from? Bascombe says that all the guns on Sillwell's yacht, which was shipwrecked on the island, were 38 or larger caliber, while this gun was a Mauser .76, about a .22.

XVI
FRED SILLWELL snatched his fingers. "Wait a minute. I just remembered. I picked up a little automatic in a book shop the day before we sailed. It had 'Waffenfabrik Mauser A. G. Oberndorf A. N. Mauser's Patent' stamped on one side. And the serial number just in front of that. Three hundred thousand and something. Six figures anyhow. I packed it away in oil rags in a watertight tin box and forgot it. I don't think any of the others knew I had it. Does that help you any?"

Miss Cosgrove could have supplied the rest of the serial number from memory.
There was no doubt in Ben's mind that the gun was the one she had smuggled onto Spare Island and had hidden among the sugar sacks on the night of her arrival. She also recalled the gun's swinging door that had crossed her suspicions after she had hidden the gun.

Harding took the gun from his pocket and looked at it closely. "The first number is correct. I think it is clear this is your weapon. I am glad to have that detail explained."

BEA'S pencil-point broke. She resharpens it quickly, looked up to meet George's glance. He returned quickly toward Sillwell, his lips twisted down at the corners.

"There is only one other thing," Harding said. "I have left that for the last because of a personal element. Also I wanted to keep everything fair and impartial until the method by which she obtained the weapon was ascertained."

"Last night, I was forced to speak plainly to Mrs. Warren. Perhaps I spoke too sternly. It seemed the kindest thing at the time, a surgeon's stroke. I was forced to tell her bluntly I would not consider marrying her."

George Bascombe opened his mouth, shut it to swallow audibly, then said, "Was she upset by the news?"

Henry Harding stared, found George's face completely expressionless. "She was," he admitted. "Extremely upset. Naturally I thought at the time she would recover, but the amount she drank subsequently did not help her mental processes."

Fred Sillwell sighed. "That does it."
Harding rapped on the table sharply. "Ladies and gentlemen of Spare Island, you have heard the facts of the case. It has been proven no one on this island could have been near Mrs. Lilly Warren at the time of her death. The method by which she obtained the weapon is clear. I wish written into the record a statement advising Mr. Sillwell from any responsibility. She obtained the automatic from the sea, by her act of God. I have told you her reason for the deed, explained her state of mind. I am sure you will all agree there can be but one verdict. Are there any further questions?"

There was silence.
"Very well," Henry Gough Harding said. "Miss Cosgrove you will enter the verdict of this court. Mrs. Lilly Warren came to her death by a self-inflicted gunshot wound while of a temporarily un-sound mind."

HENRY HARDING brought dynamite from the large supply in the storeroom and planted it skillfully in the hole scooped from the shallow topsoil. The bedrock was shattered for a foot or two and pieces and dirt blew in all directions.
The flowering plant on the grave of A. Robe was clipped off neatly at its base by a flying fragment.

"It's deep enough," Harding said.
George Bascombe and Fred Sillwell helped him lower the stiffened canvas-wrapped body of Lilly Warren into the grave. The women, with the exception of Mollie, stood and watched.

Harding picked up a shovel and tossed in some dirt and rock.
"Aren't you going to say something?" Agnes Firth asked hesitantly.
"Say something?" Harding snapped. "What do you want me to say. Dust to dust? The only thing to say is that it is unfortunate Mrs. Warren's weaknesses should inconvenience others."

He began shoveling again.
Ben Cosgrove heard Nona McGuire draw in her breath sharply. She put her hand on the younger woman's arm in time to stop an outburst.
They watched while Harding and Bascombe filled in the shallow hole. They turned in silence and filed slowly toward the main house.

Harding washed his hands thoughtfully at the kitchen sink, then joined the rest in the main room. He smiled suddenly. "I have thought of a way out of the present difficulty," he said. "For the time being, I will ask Miss McGuire to take over the house duties and the cooking. I will get a black dress for you, Miss McGuire, in place of the green you're wearing."
"I'm glad to know what was worrying you," Nona said too sweetly. "Now what would you like for lunch? Fudge or a tossed salad? That's all I know how to cook."

Atlantic Pact Being Taken For Granted, Says Analyst

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON —(AP)— Nobody pay much attention to a sneeze from a man with pneumonia, and —
In the world that's very sick, one of America's most far-reaching steps, the Atlantic Pact, is being taken for granted, too.
So, perhaps better than anything you can point out, the American attitude about the Atlantic Pact is a sign of the times.

There was no excitement when all 13 members of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee this week approved our joining the Pact.
The committee's final decision was never in doubt. Now it goes to the full Senate for debate because, since the pact is a treaty, two-thirds of the senators must vote for it before we actually join.
But the outcome there isn't in doubt, either, at this writing. And within a month or so we can be expected to solemnly join the Atlantic Pact.

Under that pact, or agreement, this country and 11 others in the North Atlantic area will stand together in case of attack by Russia.

Russia, of course, isn't mentioned by name. But it's aimed solely at Russia and it's a sharp illustration of how this country has changed its mind in only 40 years.

A pact like this was impossible in 1909, when Hitler was getting ready to let war loose and gobble up the terrified Western European democracies one by one.

This country was confused then, and split down the middle between a desire to stand shoulder to shoulder with Western Europe and stay withdrawn in our ancient isolation.

Yet, if there had been such a pact in 1939, Hitler might have been afraid to start his war. So the war taught us that our isolation was a bad or savage person.

I wonder when theater managers will start making people hungry for just movies?

The word "barbarian" was first used by the Greeks to mean "foreigners" but it later came to mean a bad or savage person.

★ IN HOLLYWOOD ★

BY ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD —(NEA)— Hollywood can't get the Rita Hayworth-Ally Khan marriage off its tongue. Even a movietown bowling alley has a new sign reading: "Rita got her Aly, Come in and pick yours."

Milton Berle, I think, got off the best quip after reading the news dispatches from Cannes: "He turned to his mother and said: 'Hey, Ma, are those the Khans that used to live next door to us in Brooklyn?'"

Most refreshing account of the wedding appeared in the trade publication, Reporter. It rated four tongue-in-cheek lines in the weekend vital statistic column under the heading of "Miscellaneous" and read:

"Rita Hayworth, Columbia actress, was married to Aly Khan, prince and non-professional, in a French town."
Jack Benny's Rochester (Eddie Anderson) is bidding for ownership of the million-dollar Las Vegas, Nevada, Biltmore Hotel.

The Brian Donlevy-Audrey Totter romance is getting closer to the altar. . . Montgomery Clift, the rugged individualist, is off into the Canadian wilds on a solo fishing trip. Dragging his own canoe behind him, too. When he comes the pine comes out of his hair, he reports to Paramount for a remake of the old Theodore Dreiser novel, "An American Tragedy."
Ingrid Bergman and Leo McCarey have a date in New York next month to revive discussions about filming "Adam and Eve." Wonder if he'll switch the Queen of Eden background to the island of Stromboli?

"Why is a bustle like a historical movie?"
Answer: "Both are fictitious tales based on stern reality."
NEVER FAILS
It's the old story again. Hollywood didn't appreciate Janet Blair until she started clicking on Broadway, in television and on personal appearances. Now the offers are piling up.

What do other men dislike?
Judy Canova is talking a two-picture-a-year deal with Republic. . . A new comic book, "The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet" (and their two kids) will be on the magazine racks July 1.

Lena Horne is paging M-G-M for permission to appear in Duke Ellington's new Broadway musical. . . Bing Crosby nixed an offer of $100,000 for two weeks at the London Palladium.

Maybe this is what's wrong with the movies:
As Eastern theater manager, I am told, was a "showmanship" prize from the heads of his theater chain. His great contribution to the cinema was melting down chocolate bars and putting them into the air ventilators to permeate the theater with the odor of chocolate.

about women's clothes at Bonnie Best, the Beverly Hills fashion designer who has become an authority on the subject while sticking pins into the forms of Pauline Goddard, Ava Gardner, Lana Turner and other glamorous Hollywood man-traps.

I say "other men" because I know what I dislike—women who wear clothes that don't flatter their figures. The ladies, I think, should make the most of what they've got by playing down all that they haven't.

Bonnie's answer was so erudite I'm giving you a full report. As a rule, said Bonnie, dislike: Extremely tailored clothes, over-fluffy and over-fitted dresses, women who dress younger or older than their age, vulgar displays of jewelry, slacks and shorts and extremely revealing clothes.

Said Bonnie: "Remember, a peek is always better than a boo."
Any comments, fellows?

Producer Paul Short takes exception to my reference of "A Row" as the screen's first Western documentary. He claims the title for his Audie Murphy starrer, "The Kid From Texas."

Frank Morgan delights in telling the world about himself. In 1933 he left Broadway to appear in a Hollywood movie and promised his pals he'd be back on the Big Stem in six months. That was 71 films and 16 years ago.

GOOD-LOOKING, ANYWAY
A major studio refused to let one of its rising young actresses appear with a local stock group. The explanation was: "You can't act worth a darn!"

'Menace to Society' Question Before American People Again

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON —(AP)— Should a man who has become a "menace to society" be imprisoned for life or executed?

That old question comes to life again in a case just decided by the Supreme Court, although the court didn't raise it, at least directly.
The court was simply deciding on whether a judge was right to sentence a man to death after a jury had recommended life imprisonment.

This was the case: A New York Negro, Samuel Williams, killed a 16-year-old girl while trying to rob a house.
A jury listened to all the evidence offered in the trial. It thought he was guilty of murder but—
It didn't want to see him executed. So it recommended that the judge sentence him to life in prison.

Then the judge got some information from the court's "probation department and other sources."

This information linked up Williams with 30 other burglaries although he never had been convicted of any of them.
The judge decided Williams was a "menace to society." Ignoring the jury's recommendation of life imprisonment, the judge sentenced Williams to die in the electric chair.

The judge had received his information after the trial. The jury had seen none of it.
So Williams' lawyers appealed against this death sentence all the way up to the U.S. Supreme Court. And Monday a majority of the justices upheld the New York judge. Williams must die.

Justice Murphy couldn't go along. In a dissenting opinion, he cited the "due process" clause of the Constitution which says:
No one in this country shall be "deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law." What does "due process" mean?

Deep within that reasoning, although not mentioned by the court, is this problem:
If a man has a long record of crime, is it all his fault? Or how much allowance should be made for the things that made him what he is?

For instance, his background, family life, childhood, companions, and the twisted slants because of where and how he grew up.
What caused him to be an habitual criminal in the first place? Is he normal? Or is he subnormal? And if he is, should he be judged on the same basis as a so-called normal person?

And what responsibility must society share in the shaping of a criminal? Can it judge a man who grew up in the slums on equal terms with one born in better circumstances, with better care, wealth, health, and hope for the future?

Education Class To Have Opening

There will be several openings July 1 in a distributive education class, objective of assistant manager, for qualified veterans, it was announced yesterday by Jack Graham, local service officer.
The class is part of Veterans Administration training program which is open to veterans, who receive subsistence payments while they train.

The class, now in operation and being conducted by W. B. Weathered, local postmaster, meets each Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday night at the Junior High School. The class begins on those evenings at 6:00.
