FOR SEWING MACHINE OPERATORS

Local Training School Due To Open Monday

By LARRY HOLLIS
Fred Neslage, president of the Pampa Industrial Foundation, today announced the finalization of plans for a training school program for sewing machine operators. With classes due to start Monday morning, the program is being conducted in cooperation with the Texas State Technical Institute of Amarillo and the local office of the Texas Employment Commission. Present also at the session this morning to complete plans for the opening of the school were Dr. J.N. Baker, TSTI general manager; Harold N. Roberts, TSTI manager of instruction; Bill Ragsdale, TEC manager; Dale Greenhouse, general manager of Marie Foundations; Naomi McCarthy, personnel manager at Marie Foundations; and E.O. Wedgeworth, Chamber of Commerce manager. Providing a skilled training opportunity, the school will offer classes during a 20-week period, with up to 80 hours of instruction. Eight hours of instruction per day will be conducted five days a week for two weeks, Baker said. The TEC handles free pre-training finger coordination tests and enrollment in the school. The course is offered at no cost to the trainee as a public operation, he added. Of 22 persons who have taken the coordination test, 21 have passed, Ragsdale said. Eleven students are expected for the first class at 8 a.m. Monday. Marie Foundations has donated the space and equipment for the course, conducted by an experienced TSTI instructor. The Pampa Industrial Foundation arranged for the class site, which is separated from the regular firm production activities. Trainees who make unusually rapid progress during the training may be offered employment by the firm prior to the completion of the 80 hours, but trainees are not obligated to accept employment with Marie Foundations. Similarly, the firm is not obligated to hire all trainees. The Pampa plant is currently seeking about 120 additional employees. Trainees who are offered and accept employment will leave the training program and the training area at that time and will become an employee of the firm in their production area, Baker said. Vacancies in the classes will be filled at any time without waiting for the conclusion of a two-week period. Persons interested in taking advantage of the no-cost opportunity for skill training can contact the TEC office at 823 W. Francis and arrange to take the pre-training coordination test. The program is being conducted with the cooperation of county, city and school officials. Approximately 120 persons will have the opportunity for taking the course, with 12 to 15 persons per class. The course is designed to help an individual become a skilled operator of commercial-type electric sewing machines. The contracts for the course operation have been signed and plans finalized, Neslage said.

San Antonio Police Squads Hunt Down Heroin Pushers

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Acting on a record number of cases developed by a young policeman who posed as an addict for 68 days, squads of officers hunted down heroin pushers today in a drive that began late Thursday night. At a late hour, 29 men and one woman had been jailed on charges of selling heroin. Four other persons were taken into custody on marijuana and heroin charges in incidental arrests. City narcotics officers said the arrests were made through the efforts of Patrolman Albert Chevera, 24, who worked undercover to obtain 148 sealed indictments against 138 persons for selling heroin. Admitting he was in danger every day of the assignment—especially when people tried to make him take heroin in their presence, Chevera said he never thought about the risks involved. "I was just interested in it and I wanted to do it," he said. Lt. Preston Slocum Jr., head of the police narcotics bureau, said Chevera was putting his life on the line by seeking out the pushers. "Every time he made a buy, all he had to do was walk in some place where he was recognized, and it would be all over with," Slocum said. A softspoken Marine reservist who grew long hair, a goatee and a mustache for his role, Chevera joined nearly 50 other officers Thursday night and early today in making the arrests.

Working in teams of three and four, the officers included city, state and federal lawmen. Among them were policemen Jerry Rangel and Pat Dotson, whose undercover work in the past two years led to similar massive raids. Chevera, who used the code name "Junior," said he knew nothing about narcotics before taking the dangerous assignment. But the young officer said he soon learned plenty as he bought heroin for as much as $30 a gram, dealing primarily with Mexican-Americans. Most of the pushers were addicts themselves and ranged in age from the late teens to some in their 50s, he said.

Israeli Planes Strike Ten Guerrillas Bases

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Israeli air force planes struck at 10 Arab guerrilla bases deep inside Syria and Lebanon today, a few hours after Israel promised retaliation for the Munich massacre. The Israeli jets bombed and strafed guerrilla bases and headquarters, striking within four miles of the Syrian capital of Damascus and far into the north of Lebanon above the port of Tripoli, the military command announced. The raids were the deepest air strikes by Israel inside Syria since the 1967 Mideast war, and the deepest ever into Lebanon. All the Israeli planes returned safely to base, a command spokesman said. Sources in Beirut reported the Israeli planes bombed and strafed two villages on the Lebanese-Syrian border, Deir Al Achaya and Yanta. The villages were last hit by the Israelis in July in retaliation for the Lod airport massacre and Palestinian raids into Israel. There was no immediate confirmation from the Lebanese government. The two villages, near the Beirut-Damascus highway, are believed to be guerrilla supply points for a road that leads through southern Syria to guerrilla bases on the Lebanese-Israeli border. The Syrian government had put its armed forces on maximum alert and canceled all leaves, fearing an Israeli attack. Israeli forces made an eight-hour raid into southern Lebanon Thursday, but no major fighting or casualties were reported. The Palestinian guerrillas in Beirut charged Israel with an "unprecedented buildup" along the Lebanese and Syrian borders and said they expected retaliation for the Arab attack on Israel's Olympic team.

One source said three Israeli armored brigades were massed on the Golan Heights, which Israel seized from Syria in the 1967 war. The Israeli army refused to comment. But Yigal Allon, Israel's deputy premier, issued a warning Thursday of trouble for Arab countries which harbor terrorists. They "will bear the responsibility for the terrorists' acts," Allon said at a memorial service for the 11 Olympic team members slain at Munich. An Israeli spokesman said the raid into Lebanon Thursday was in search of the guerrillas who clashed with Israeli troops near the border settlement of Baram. He said the guerrillas had fled to Yaround, a village over the border in Lebanon. The Israelis said they went a mile into Lebanon and stayed eight hours, but the spokesman did not mention any fighting. A Lebanese army communique said the Israelis were in Yaroun for 10 minutes shortly after noon and returned again at dusk for two hours. It said explosions and machine-gun bursts were heard from the village. The Lebanese Army has only nominal control of the border villages in southeast Lebanon, leaving them to the guerrillas. But the army said its troops challenged a guerrilla group carrying supplies to the border after the Israelis left and killed one man when the group failed to stop.

The incident came to a bloody culmination late that night at a military airfield outside Munich where the terrorists were allowed to take their captives, ostensibly to be flown to the Middle East. But police sharpshooters had set an ambush and in the ensuing gunfight all nine of the Israelis were killed along with a

West German policeman and five of the terrorists. The other three Arabs were captured, but so far there has been no announcement of charges being filed against them. The Egyptian government and the Libyan press accused the Bonn government of total responsibility for the killings. Services for the slain Arabs were scheduled at all mosques in Egypt today. An Arab lawyers' group announced it was sending an attorney to observe the German police interrogation of the three captive guerrillas.

Germans Take Precaution Against Threat By Arabs

BONN (AP)—The West German government says it is doing all it can to counter the threat of retaliation from Arab terrorists demanding the release of the three guerrillas held for the attack at the Olympics. The Black September Palestinian group said in a broadcast from Cairo Thursday it would "deal Germany a heavy blow" if the three terrorists are not released. "We will show the German imperialists, who dragged the honor of the great German people in the mud, what a heavy blow we can deal them if our comrades are not released and the bodies of our dead fighters

Audit Firm Men Check PSS Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government said today wholesale prices rose faster in the first year of President Nixon's wage-price control than the year before and blamed it on stepped-up price hikes for farm products, some of which are exempt from controls. The Bureau of Labor Statistics said a broad range of wholesale prices for food, industrial raw materials and manufactured goods rose an average of two-tenths of one per cent in August, bringing the past year's rise to 4.4 per cent since Nixon first imposed economic controls. "This compares with a rise of 4 per cent in the preceding 12-month period," it said. "The larger advance in the latest 12 months was due to an acceleration of prices of raw and processed agricultural products." "Raw farm products are exempt from the federal price controls. The report added that by comparison, prices of industrial goods rose 3 per cent in the past year compared with 4.4 per cent in the previous year before price controls. The report said that in August, the over-all rise in the Wholesale Price Index on a seasonally adjusted basis rose six-tenths of one per cent be-

Hoffa's Visit To Hanoi Said OK'd By Kissinger

WASHINGTON (AP)—The lawyer for James Hoffa said today that presidential adviser Henry Kissinger approved a plan for the former Teamsters Union president to travel to North Vietnam and seek the release of American prisoners of war. William L. Taub of New York said today that Kissinger was informed on July 5 in San Clemente, Calif., that Hoffa had been invited by the North Vietnamese trade union movement to visit Hanoi. "Kissinger approved the plans," Taub said, "but asked that the trip be postponed until after July 20." Taub was responding to actions Thursday by Secretary of State William P. Rogers who revoked the passport validation that would have allowed Hoffa to travel to Hanoi. The secretary indicated through his press officer Charles W. Bray the revocation was the result of "procedural irregularities" in the way used to validate Hoffa's passport. Rogers also was quoted by Bray as saying private American citizens should not be involved in negotiations concerning release of the POWs. Kissinger cited the resumption of the Paris peace talks for suggesting the former labor leader postpone his visit to Hanoi until after July 20, Taub said. Kissinger also "said he was going to make arrangements" to get the necessary approval from the federal parole board, Taub stated in a telephone interview. Hoffa's legal counsel disputed the State Department's allegation that the passport validation had not been authorized by a proper authority. He said Robert Johnson, counsel for the passport office, had approved the validation necessary to allow Hoffa to visit his passport in emptying North Vietnam. The Justice Department also approved Hoffa's travel plans, Taub said. The attorney said Hoffa did not solicit the invitation to North Vietnam, but was willing to go quietly and without publicity because he thought he could obtain the release of the prisoners.

August Food Costs Up Again; Farm Products Prices Blamed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The report also said that in the past six months the index stepped up at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of increase of 5.4 per cent. "Prices in the last three months of the period rose about twice as fast in the first three months as a result of the sharp rise in prices of farm products and processed foods and feeds since June," the report said. FBI, Lawmen Continue Search For V.I. Gunmen

CHRISTIANSTED, St. Croix, V.I. (AP)—A posse of specially trained FBI agents scoured rugged hill country today for the slayers of eight Americans gunned down in the holdup of a golf resort. Using a helicopter and other aircraft as spotters, about 150 federal agents, police and federal marshals were involved in the search in an area laden with thick underbrush. The posse concentrated its efforts adjacent to the luxury Fountain Valley Golf Course owned by the Rockefeller family 15 miles southeast of Christiansted. Atty. Gen. Ronald H. Tonkin of the Virgin Islands said Thursday night investigators still had not identified the attackers. "But we believe there are between five and seven of them and we're pretty sure they fled into those hills and are still there," he said. "We'll get them." Four of the victims shot to death in the holdup Wednesday were identified by an Eastern Air Lines spokesman in Miami as Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Griffin Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meisinger all tourists from Miami. Rockresorts, Inc., the parent company owning Fountain Valley, identified three of the other four victims as employees of the golf club. "We don't know why the killers began firing, and unfortunately the only people who would know are those who are dead," Tonkin said.

Nine Prominent Texans Secret Donors To Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Money contributed to President Nixon's re-election campaign by a prominent Texas Democrat may have ended up in the bank account of a man accused of breaking into Democratic headquarters, the Washington Star-News has reported.

Nine prominent Texas businessmen are included on a secret list of Texas donors to the Nixon campaign, according to the report Thursday by newsman James Polk.

The President's campaign organization denied that the list represented campaign donors and insisted that those named "were in no way related" to the June 17 break-in at Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate Hotel complex.

Polk reported that the only prominent Democrat on the list of Nixon's biggest Texas contributors prior to April 7 was Harding Lawrence, chairman of the Braniff International airline and a longtime friend of former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Republican campaigners have sought to keep secret the names of those who gave before April 7, when a new reporting law took effect requiring that names of contributors be made public.

The Democratic headquarters break-in becomes involved because investigators reportedly have traced a total of $14,000 in contributions to the Nixon campaign to the Miami bank account of Bernard L. Barker, one of the five men arrested for the break-in.

Of that total, there have been reports that $89,000 came from early Texas collections, moved through a Mexico City bank, then to Washington and finally to the Miami bank. The Star-News reported that the $89,000 came from Democratic circles and that Lawrence "is the only well-known Democrat on the secret list."

Polk reported from Houston that Lawrence was en route to Japan and could not be reached for comment.

Others named on the list, according to the newspaper, were:

—Robert A. Allen, the Nixon campaign's Texas finance chairman and the president of Gulf Resources & Chemical Co. in Houston. The company's Mexico City lawyer's name was on the four bank drafts for the $89,000.

—Albert B. Fay, a Houston oil operator and former GOP national committeeman.

—Erik Jonsson, a former mayor of Dallas, a Republican and founder of Texas Instruments Inc.

—William H. Lane, president of a Houston rice processing firm, Riviana Foods.

—John J. Moran of Houston, board chairman of D.E. Hycel, Inc.

—Robert A. Mosbacher, a Houston oil operator and past supporter of Nixon.

—Watson W. Wise, an industrialist in Tyler, Tex.

The newspaper said that Brown, Fay, Jonsson, Moran and Wise confirmed that they had given money to the Nixon campaign, but none would say how much. Wise's name is the only one of the nine listed on public records of donors after April 7.

A spokesman for the Nixon campaign's finance committee issued a statement calling the Star-News report "a hoax."

The secret list of donors, the spokesman said, "is merely a list of some individuals who re-

Pampan Held For Burglary

Richard Allen DeArman, 24, 224 1/2 N. Wells, is in county jail charged with burglary in connection with a $70 loss from a W. Brown St. apartment two nights ago.

According to the police account, DeArman was visiting at the apartment when all present decided to go for a ride. He declined, saying he was going home, the complainant told officers.

When the residents of the apartment returned, 140 in cash, an American flag bedspread and some jewelry was missing.

Pampa police officers took the suspect in custody yesterday afternoon and recovered all but $20 of the money.

March of Dimes Withdraws Name As Dance Sponsor

The Gray County Chapter of The National Foundation, March of Dimes, has withdrawn its name from the dance to be held Saturday evening in the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium.

Action was taken Thursday morning at an executive board meeting called by A.W. Bassett, chapter chairman. Word had been received that specific guidelines requested by the chapter had been refused by organizers of the dance. The guidelines were deemed necessary by the chapter to insure proper procedures would be observed in using the March of Dimes name.

Bassett said the committee wishes to thank those people and companies for time and effort contributed toward this dance and previous ones.

The last dance sponsored by the Gray County Chapter on Aug. 26 was headed by the Teen-Age chairman, Mrs. Jimmie K. Williams, and $107.25 was raised for the 1973 drive.

Pinup On 'Soldiers' Triggers Controversy

WASHINGTON (AP)—There's a different breed of soldier in today's Army.

The editors of "Soldiers," the Army's official magazine, had hoped to heighten the publication's appeal by featuring a monthly color pinup of a scantily clad female. Apparently, they figured wrong.

"You won't believe it," the editors wrote in the latest issue, but reader response was 48 per cent to 37 per cent against the cheesecake. They said the remaining 15 per cent who wrote in asked for an occasional male pinup. Possibly these requests came from WACs.

"I'm amazed," said Maj. Gen. Winant Sidle, chief of Army information, as he looked over a photo of the August pinup in a revealing red negligee. "Who could complain about that?"

But some of the troops, both men and women, are complaining in a flood of letters to the editors.

"It seems the military leadership, in order to make anything acceptable to its soldiers, feels it must make it easier to swallow by throwing in liberal doses of beer and naked women," wrote an enlisted man from Vietnam, one of the magazine's 240,000 readers.

An infantry captain from California objected to the "playmate" idea, saying it lacked "true professionalism."

Some male chauvinism remains, however, as an artillery specialist from Ft. Bliss, Tex., acknowledged: "Perhaps I am merely a male chauvinist but the monthly edition of your back cover certainly brightens the offices at this installation."

The letter-writing controversy was triggered by a WAC in Greece who wrote a stinging letter last May calling for a halt to the cheesecake.

"In this age of enlightenment," she wrote in defense of women's liberation, "you should be the first to see that these pictures reinforce the woman-as-an-object mentality and are an insult to the many professional military women who are included in your readership."

The magazine's editor, Col. Lane Carlson, disagreed. "As a woman," said the colonel in an interview, "I don't see anything wrong with a beautiful girl. We pick the prettiest, sweetest girls we can find and it's all plus for the magazine."

Col. Carlson said readers' response is not an accurate sampling and believes that today's American fighting men are no different from 25 years ago when nearly every GI's wall locker was adorned with a Betty Grable pinup.

As a Navy enlisted man assigned to the Pentagon wrote "Soldiers": "Were it not for such works of art, many a Navy man would have gone stir-crazy at sea, and many a soldier would have left his marbles in Vietnam."

Panama Authorities Smash International Narcotics Ring

PANAMA (AP)—Authorities are holding several members of an international narcotics ring based in Panama that reportedly handled as much as 100 kilos of cocaine yearly between South America and the United States.

The office of the superior state attorney said Edgard Meier, 49, an American, who is manager of the firm Pan Mundial, S.A., in the Colon Free Zone was named by one of the members as the head man. Meier has denied the charge, though he has admitted his firm had commercial dealings with persons accused as narcotics smugglers in Chile.

In addition to Meier, the state attorney's office said Alcides Paez Gonzalez, 55, and Jorge Munoz, 37, both Chileans, are being held along with Meier. One more Chilean and two Ecuadoreans were named but their connection was not specified.

It was Jorge Munoz, according to the state attorney's office, who in a sworn statement named Meier as chief of the ring. Paez Gonzalez, the official report stated, has had business dealings with Meier for a number of years and received his correspondence at Meier's offices in the Free Zone. In addition, authorities reported, Meier has admitted he is holding $50,000 for the brother of a woman who is free on bail in the United States on drug charges.

The official statement said that in a raid Aug. 4 in a hand-craft shop owned by Munoz, investigators seized 98 small tin-foil packages containing what they described as a mixture of cocaine and sugar. Authorities quoted Munoz as admitting ownership of the cocaine.

Folklife Fiesta Draws Turnout Of Over 7,000

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Like a carnival from 20 countries rolled into one, with Texas history thrown in to boot, the first Texas Folklife Festival opened Thursday night to a turnout of more than 7,000.

Music and old-fashioned steam whistles could be heard for blocks throughout the evening as the crowds swarmed to the University of Texas Institute of Texan Cultures for a night of fun.

Surrounding the institute and spilling onto its 13 1/2-acre grounds were scores of booths and concessions stands with wares ranging from wood carvings to stained glass.

Foreign languages wafted through the warm night air as Germans, Italians and Mexican-Americans, all from Texas, chatted.

The unmistakable Cajun accent drifted from a contingent representing Port Arthur's Cajun Festival.

There were watermelon spitting contests and other games, as well as a few unofficial contests—like somersault races down the grassy slopes of the institute, something only youngsters seemed to want to do.

As the night wore on and the steam whistles blew, some of the visitors brought a contest with them, too, whistling as loud and long as they could.

More than 1,000 persons from 84 Texas cities, representing 20 ethnic groups, staged the festival, a celebration of Texas' rich heritage. It continues through Sunday.

Scientist Offers Advice Avoiding Lightning Hit

HOUSTON (AP) — A Rice University space scientist says first aid could save the lives of at least 50 per cent of the persons struck by lightning.

Dr. Arthur A. Few Jr. says only a very small number of lightning victims die instantly after they are struck. However, he said the current often is strong enough to stop their heart and lungs.

What he called "induced lightning current" was described as "sort of like an electric shock treatment."

"It can knock you out and can stop heart and lung action," he said.

He said in all but a few cases of lightning victims, "you can breathe life back into them."

"They're not going to be charged with lightning and there would be no danger to you unless they were lying over an electric wire," he said.

Few earned a doctorate for his extensive research on thunder and lightning. He was consulted by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration when Apollo 12 was struck by lightning shortly after liftoff in November 1969.

He said there are five ways lightning injures people.

—A direct flash to the body. You are in an open area when the lightning strikes and goes through you to the ground.

—A side flash to the body. You are standing beside a tree that gets struck. The current comes down the tree and sometimes jumps from the tree to the person beside it.

—Ground currents. This when lightning hits a tree and the current travels through the roots near the surface. The current traveling through roots damages any person or animal standing on the surface.

—Induced current. A person could have no contact at all with lightning but still feel the effects. High current going down a pole or tree could induce current in a person standing nearby although they are not touching the tree.

—Explosions and fires. Often persons die not as the result of direct hits but perish in the ensuing fire or explosion.

Few had some advice for persons caught in a thunderstorm.

If you are in a heavily wooded area, get near the smallest tree, he said.

If you are in an open area, you might be the tallest conductor around. So, he said, lie on the ground.

He said the most frequent casualties are persons under trees, those in open water, those driving tractors and those on golf courses.

President Promotes Gen. Haig

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is promoting Maj. Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., Henry Kissinger's top assistant, to the rank of four-star general and is naming him Army vice chief of staff, the White House said Thursday.

The President's action continues the meteoric rise in military and government ranks of the 47-year-old Haig, who joined Kissinger's staff in January 1969 as a colonel.

Haig will replace Gen. Bruce Palmer Jr. as vice chief of staff. Palmer's new assignment was not disclosed.

The unusual action of promoting a two-star general to the four star rank—skipping the rank of lieutenant general—is not unprecedented. White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said in responding to questions after making the announcement.

Haig's nomination as general requires Senate confirmation, but the assignment as vice chief of staff does not.

O'Brien Says His Telephone Tapped

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawrence F. O'Brien said Thursday his telephone was tapped for several weeks when he was Democratic national chairman, and that an abortive attempt was made to bug the pre-convention campaign headquarters of Sen. George McGovern.

O'Brien, now national chairman of McGovern's campaign as Democratic presidential nominee, told a news conference the five men arrested June 17 at party headquarters in the Watergate Office Building were in fact trying to repair a defect in the tap on his line, and install new listening equipment.

He said at least two telephones were tapped at Democratic headquarters—his and that of Spencer Oliver, liaison man with Democratic state chairmen.

O'Brien said an attempt was made to bug the Capitol Hill campaign headquarters of the McGovern organization on May 27, but was abandoned at 3 a.m.

O'Brien said conversations on his office telephone were monitored by eavesdroppers in a room on the seventh floor of the Howard Johnson Hotel, across the street from the Watergate, and transcribed in summary form.

U.S. Athletes Boomed By Crowd

MUNICH (AP) — Vince Matthews and Wayne Collett, who ran 1-2 in the Olympic 400-meter dash Thursday, were boomed by a crowd of 80,000 following the victory ceremony because the crowd thought they were disrespectful to the American flag.

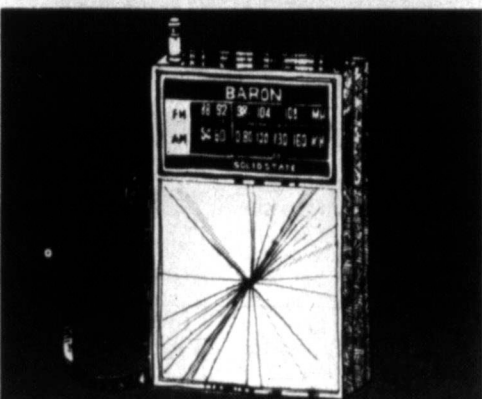

As the U.S. national anthem was played, Matthews, of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Collett of Santa Monica, Calif., stood facing sideways to the flag. Matthews had his arms folded. Collett had his hands on his hips. Neither stood at attention.

When they stepped off the victory stand and the boos and whistles started, Matthews left the stadium twirling the gold medal around his finger.

When Collett came back into the stadium briefly to pick up his sweatshirt, the boos and whistles began again and Collett raised his right fist to the crowd in defiance.

The acts were completely unexpected, since neither Collett nor Matthews was known to be politically motivated.

Socialism's Death Wish

In a sense, national socialism (facism as practiced in Mussolini Italy and nazism as applied in Hitler Germany) is superior to international socialism or communism (Marx called it "scientific socialism") the Russian and Chinese revolutionaries set out to establish in their respective countries.

Putting it another way, fascist and nazi socialists are a mite smarter than their communist counterparts.

We use the modifying terms "in a sense" and "a mite smarter" for reasons that will become clear as we move on; for, actually, in the long run both forms of statism, when pushed to the extremes, the theories have inherent in them, result in the same thing—total bureaucratic domination of the economy, destruction of the private property concept, economic stagnation and, ultimately chaos and death.

In order to grasp why this is so, it is necessary to first grasp what the two socialist theories call for.

Under communist socialism (see the "Communist Manifesto" of Karl Marx) private property, in all but the most personal and intimate of belongings, is abolished. The State, under the "dictatorship of the proletariat"—that is, the governmental bureaucracy—owns everything.

"Everything," to the true Communist, means the "means of production" and, of course, what those "means" produce. The "means of production," under communism as elsewhere, are natural resources (earth, air, water), capital (i.e. tools), and human energy (that is, human beings). All decisions as to the use of these "means of production" (what is to be produced, how much, and how), as well as how what is produced is distributed (who gets what and how much) are made by such governmental bureaucrats.

The perceptive reader will have realized by now that what we have just described is dictatorship and slavery; dictatorship by the bureaucracy, and slavery of the people.

National socialism (facism and nazism) on the other hand, and as we noted in the beginning, is just a mite smarter. Tacitly recognizing that governmental bureaucrats are just not equipped, mentally, by inclination, or by training, to efficiently manage the "means of production" to the extent called for by communism, national socialism grasps that it will have need of the special knowledge and productive know-how possessed only by the private enterprise entrepreneur. This national socialism, instead of calling for the total ownership of everything (outright) by the State, leaves such ownership nominally in the hands of private individuals, subject to use under broad "guidelines" laid down by the bureaucracy.

By this maneuver, national socialism gains an initial superiority over its blood brother communism. On the one hand, it holds ultimate control (true ownership) over the economy through its system of "guidelines," sucking off the life blood of the economy via taxation and inflation of the money supply, and, on the other hand, retaining the services of the market place entrepreneurs which it must have if the economy is not to go smash.

That initial advantage over full-blown communism, however, is short-lived. As time passes, the propensity of bureaucrats to meddle creeps in. At first content to lay down "broad guidelines," the bureaucrats begin to intervene at the points of production and distribution until, gradually, they, the bureaucrats, are making the very decisions that national socialism, theoretically, allotted to the market place entrepreneurs, the entrepreneurs becoming mere lackeys of the bureaucrats in the process.

(For an example of what we are talking about, witness the way the government is now dictating to the automotive industry in this country; not content with its former "broad guidelines," governmental whim, rather than the desires of the consuming public as expressed in their purchases, now dictates how autos are to be made, what will be sold.)

Thus, nationalism loses its initial advantage over communist socialism, and thus the State, while retaining the outward appearance of allowing private ownership to exist, acquires the control (ownership) of everything, as under communism. The "differences" between the two systems are more apparent than real.

Under both systems, the function of market place prices, the "signals" by which true market place entrepreneurs determine what the public does or does not want, how much, and with what intensity, is made inoperative and, finally, destroyed. That both national socialism and communist socialism, in their drives to destroy the capitalist system and voluntary market place, demonstrate an uncomprehending death wish is made evident by the following excerpt from a chapter, "Pitfalls in Planning: Veteran's Housing After World War II," by Marshall R. Colberg in "Toward Liberty" (Institute for Humane Studies, Inc., Menlo Park, Calif.) just off the press. Citing Ludwig von Mises' magnificent treatise on economics, "Human Action," Colberg notes:

"Von Mises called it a 'paradox of planning' that socialist economic calculation could to some extent rely on prices established under a previous regime of capitalism but that as conditions changed the planners would more and more grope in the dark. Similarly, he pointed out that an individual socialist country can utilize market prices established concurrently in capitalist economies but that without such assistance would founder. As a consequence the attempt to 'reform' the world socialististically would never be successful. The necessary guideposts would be destroyed."

Higher Criticism

Some clerics and laymen are given to "higher criticism"—that's modernist dialogue for agnosticism—saying that our Bible, like our Constitution and our moral values, are all out of date and unsuitable for our times.

The modernists rely not on the Bible or the eternal verities to get a "consensus" on such things as evolution to decide whether we are a monkey's brother or a brother's monkey.

Crossroads Report

I see where, after the Democratic nomination wrapped up, Sen. McGovern commenced to rethink his plan to give every citizen of the country $1,000 per year.

Any real with-it politician, of course, would have known he couldn't buy the votes of more than half of us honest citizens for this chicken-feed figure.

In an age when hijacking an airplane pays off around $500,000 and a parachute, Mr. McGovern should know that most of us citizens wouldn't sell out for less than $10,000 and a motorboat.

Most education, especially the "higher" type, is obtained from books written by self-certified experts, and from educators who got what they teach from books.

In fact there is a widely-held theory, usually accepted as gospel, that if you read lots of books (kind and content never specified) you are qualified for membership in the Educated class.

But just because something is printed in a book doesn't guarantee that it is so, as professional book writer Clifford Irving has made very clear.

I see where most of the folks favoring vast fleets of school buses swarming on the streets and highways twice a day believe this is necessary to insure all kids a "quality" education. But my one-room-school-graduate neighbor says the location and grandiosity of the schoolhouse or the color of teachers and schoolmates have nothing to do with the quality of education a kid gets.

He claims it is pure common sense that you can't "give" anybody an education, quality or otherwise, unless he wants it and has a place to put it.

My GOP-leaner neighbor says he likes one part of the new 1972 model Democrat platform, calling for "equitable" distortion of national wealth and income.

He figures that a man who works for his money, or thinks up and markets useful devices, is equitably entitled to a bigger share of the monetary reward than a bum who lives on welfare and won't work.

Considering that "equitable" means "just," he says an "equitable" distribution of wealth and income would be 100 percent for the worker and 0 percent for the bum.

I see where some government barnacles are trying to think up a word to replace "welfare", which is getting to be somewhat ire-raising among the taxpayer mob. Being considered are Americare, Fedicare, etc., and a lot of expansively educated brains are being wracked to produce a catchy term for this compulsory charity system which will help to pacify the plucked.

But this job is going to take the semanticists' best efforts. They're competing with highly motivated name-callers who already refer to this operation as "bumcare" and "teatfare".

Question Box

QUESTION: One of the points repeated over and over by The News in expounding its policy is that any system must be judged by the laws of the marketplace. On this point we agree. Accepting this, can we not also assume likewise responsive to those laws? Your claim that child labor is an emotional term would seem to be dictated by your balance sheet since every newspaper in the country with the possible exception of the Christian Science Monitor is dependent for its survival and success upon the efforts of children. I have no complaint against youngsters' delivering newspapers, but I am against real abuse of child labor.

However, if my own property and income were dependent on the efforts of children, I might well decide that since one phase of child labor is good for me, then no child labor needs to be regulated. I should think that an institution whose existence is dependent on child labor could at least disqualify itself as a judge of this feature of our economy.

Your Health

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Stress May Precipitate Gout
Dear Dr. Lamb—I have some questions concerning gout. Is a small hornlike growth on the edge of the outer ear sometimes a symptom of gout? Is severe pain in the middle toes ever a first indication? I know it can be hereditary. Is tension from emotional stress ever a contributing factor? Should a patient's diet be restricted? Is exercise beneficial? Is gout a symptom of a rundown condition or does the rundown condition follow gout? Is Benemid the usual medication? Is it usually successful?

Dear Reader—The horny-like growth at the edge of the ear is a deposit of uric acid. Gout is associated with an increased amount of uric acid in the bloodstream. The uric acid is a leftover product from the metabolism of certain types of proteins and it can also be formed by the body. In most instances an excessive formation in the body is the real culprit. The uric acid material is normally excreted in the urine, but if there's too much of it, it will accumulate and form a chemical salt which is deposited in various regions of the body. These deposits can cause bones to degenerate and can cause gouty arthritis. Small deposits of them in the edge of the ear are sometimes seen.

Many different joints can be involved in gout, including the middle toe. Classically, it is the big toe that becomes red, hot and swollen, but other joints or toes can also be affected.

Yes, there is a hereditary tendency for gout. Women often have high blood levels of uric acid without having the gouty attacks or gouty arthritis, and the men often have the actual arthritis or red, hot, painful toe. There are several things which can precipitate an attack. This includes overindulgence in rich foods and alcohol. Emotional stress can be a contributing factor.

If the person is overweight, he needs to lose weight, but cautiously, under a physician's supervision. I have seen patients on crash diets who have activated an attack of gout for the first time. If there's no need for a weight reduction, the most important point is to maintain a normal, sensible diet. Some doctors like to eliminate certain foods, particularly organ meats like heart, liver and tongue, but usually altering the diet alone isn't sufficient to control gout or prevent attacks of gouty arthritis. For this purpose, most doctors today also give medicine. Benemid, which you mentioned, is one of these. So is colchicine or combinations of these drugs.

Regular exercise is good unless the person has had an acute attack of gouty arthritis and then it is out of the question. Excessive, unusual exertion can sometimes precipitate an attack of gout.

Individuals who are taking medicine regularly for gout should continue as long as their doctors want them to take it.

Cast-Iron Stomachs

Dr. George M. Briggs, Chairman of the Department of Nutrition at the University of Berkeley, reports: "Recent nutrition studies show that as many as 20 million Americans are now deficient in iron," the cheapest of all nutrients. And this, continues Dr. Briggs, is because we no longer use cast-iron cooking utensils. The nutrition expert suggest a diet with plenty of liver, beans, green leafy vegetables, nuts, eggs, and dried fruit. But he recommends as an even better course the purchase of a new cast-iron skillet. "It would," concludes the doctor, "give a family of five the iron they need."

Survivors' Benefits Bill To Senate Floor—Finally

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Widows of military retirees are guaranteed a minimum income of $2,100 a year by the survivors benefits bill now pending in the Senate.

The legislation, very similar to that unanimously passed by the House last October, was finally approved by the Senate Armed Services Committee after months of delay and sent to the full Senate for enactment. Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., committee chairman, says it will be taken up after the pending multibillion-dollar military procurement and construction bills have been disposed of.

Both have been passed by the Senate, but differences with the measures voted by the House have still to be ironed out. This is expected to take several weeks.

The Senate Armed Services Committee approved the military retirees survivors benefits bill on the recommendation of a subcommittee headed by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., after a day of hearings. Other committee members were Sens. Harry Byrd, Ind.-Va., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.

The full committee endorsed the subcommittee's recommended measure unanimously and after only two hours' consideration.

This speedy ratification is significant in view of the fact that the legislation was stalled in the full committee for some nine months after being unanimously enacted by the House. There has never been any explanation for this mysterious, protracted delay.

Committee chairman Stennis finally bestirred himself on the measure after Sens. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., threatened to offer as an amendment to the then-pending $20 billion military procurement bill.

Goldwater bluntly told Stennis, "I don't intend to wait any longer. We are going to see this thing through now. It's long overdue. This legislation is of utmost importance to close to one million veterans and their families, and the long delay in its consideration is unconscionable."

Beall pointed out the measure has extensive bipartisan support, as evidenced by the fact that 38 Republican and Democratic Senators had joined him and Goldwater in cosponsoring it.

"They are in full accord with us that further delay is unwarranted and indefensible," Beall said.

What it Does
In recommending the guaranteed minimum income of $2,100 a year to military widows, the subcommittee asserted emphatically "that it is needed now."
Sen. Bentsen, in a report to the full Armed Services Committee, explained this key provision as follows:
"The bill provides a guaranteed income of $2,100 a year to those who were widows of retirees prior to enactment of the proposed legislation. In effect, if the widow in question has an income from all sources, (both public and private) of less than $1,400 a year, the Department of Defense will supplement her income up to $2,100 a year.

The subcommittee believes this is a provision that is needed now, and it is the minimum that is acceptable in terms of providing some benefits to these widows. Using any standard for comparison, $2,100 a year can only be viewed as the lowest payment that would maintain any kind of livable income."

One important change from the House-passed bill recommended by the Bentsen subcommittee eliminates the attachment of retired pay.

The subcommittee explains it did this for two reasons:
"Such a provision makes an exception of military retired pay by providing that it alone, among all Federal pay and annuities would be subject to attachment. The subcommittee felt this would be an unfair and unwarranted discrimination against the military retiree."

"Further, an attachment provision is extraneous to the question of survivor benefit legislation and, as such, the attachment provision and all of its ramifications could not be evaluated to the extent appropriate or desirable. The subcommittee believes that, although an attachment provision may be justified of its applicability to all Federal pay and personnel."

Also recommended by the subcommittee were the following:

Adoption of Defense Department proposals for coverage of dependent children and members who work in and subsequently retire from civil service and waive military retired pay to increase civil service retirement benefits; a method of social security integration; and application of the survivors benefits plan to active duty personnel who are eligible to retire for longevity (20 years).

In concluding, Sen. Bentsen's report stresses:

"The provisions of the bill are applicable on the date of final enactment, and the difference in benefits provided those survivors who become widows before and after enactment is substantial. From this perspective, it is essential that the plan be implemented as soon as possible."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

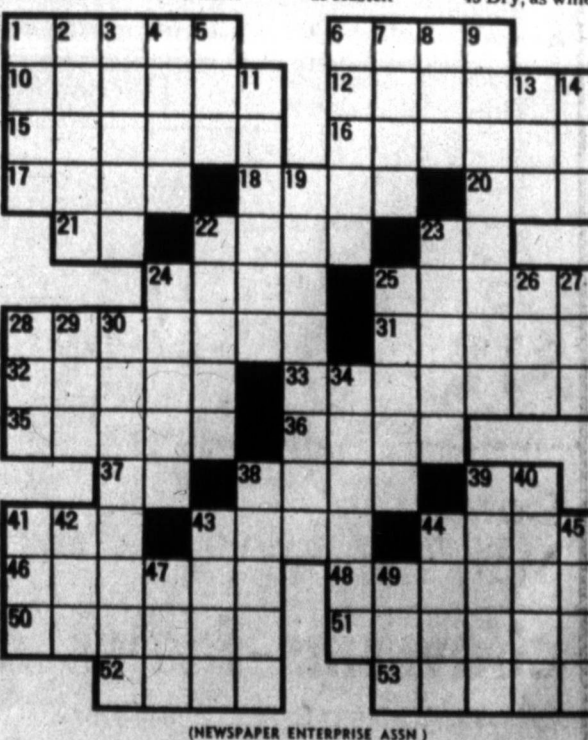

The concept of an independent air force in the United States was strongly advocated by Gen. "Billy" Mitchell following World War I, but wasn't achieved until after World War II. The U.S. Air Force was established under the Armed Services Unification Act of July 26, 1947. The World Almanac recalls.

Black Baptist Leader Booed For Praising President Nixon And Attacking McGovern

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The head of the 6.3-million member National Baptist Convention was loudly booed Thursday when he praised President Nixon and attacked Sen. George McGovern.

The Rev. Dr. Joseph H. Jackson ran into the opposition as he brought the keynote address to the convention of blacks.

About 10,000 persons were present, and observers could not determine the proportion which objected to the convention president's remarks outside his text.

The Rev. Dr. Jackson, who earlier this week endorsed President Nixon during a news conference, had to pause until boos subsided. A few delegates walked out, but whether in protest to Jackson's remarks or the outcry could not be determined.

The convention president said, "Mr. McGovern has said that if he is elected he will stop the bombing immediately. He has said he will bring all the troops home in 90 days. If he does more than Mr. Nixon has done, he'll have to carry a white flag."

At this point, the boos began and increased until Jackson could not be heard.

The boos continued as Jackson tried to praise Nixon. "Don't take anybody's word. Examine the record," Jackson said.

"Boo!" the dissenters roared. "Now Mr. Nixon is not perfect," Jackson began. A cheer went up from the crowd.

"He has made many mistakes," Jackson continued.

Another cheer.

"But unfortunately for the time being, he is President of the United States," Jackson said.

"Vote him out!" came cries from the audience.

In his speech, Jackson, who has spoken out against racial segregation for nearly two decades, attacked what he termed "the new segregation" sought by some blacks.

"If the trend continues, it may not be long now before the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People must bring some of our Negro segregationists to trial for the sins that they commit against the Constitution which they once loved and defended," Jackson said.

Raza Unida Asks Court Action To Assure Its Status At Polls

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The Raza Unida party told three judges Thursday that it is "shell shocked" from winning a place on the November ballot and that it wants court action to assure its status at the polls.

The federal panel took these and other arguments under advisement after a lengthy hearing on four suits challenging the constitutionality of the Texas Election Code.

The key issue attacked in the hearing was the code's requirement that political parties must circulate petitions to qualify for the ballot, if they polled less than two per cent of the votes for governor in the last election.

"What we're asking is that we won't have to go through this again if we don't get two per cent of the votes this year," said Raza Unida lawyer Jesse Gamez.

Reminded that the state has certified Raza Unida for the November elections, Gamez replied:

"I guess we're just shell shocked, your honor. We have been in positions before where we were on the ballot and at the last minute we were taken off."

He referred to court fights over local elections in Southwest Texas two years ago.

Others challenging the election code were the American party, the Texas New Party, and the Texas Socialist Workers party. The latter two filed a joint suit in Houston. All the cases were consolidated for today's hearing.

In an unexpected development, a Houston lawyer was permitted to present his plea for injunctive relief, claiming he had found the code discriminatory in his attempts to run as an independent candidate for state representative.

The lawyer, Robert Hainsworth, said he is making his fourth attempt at an independent candidacy. It is a simple matter for a Texan to file for office in the two major parties' primaries, Hainsworth argued. He claimed the law requiring petitions for independents and minor parties is arbitrary and unconstitutional.

He was instructed to submit his case to the Attorney General's office in Austin by Monday so the state can respond to his arguments.

Another independent candidate, Laurel Dunn of Waco, argued the state has placed an unfair burden on him and others by requiring petitions to qualify for the ballot.

Dunn, who seeks to run as an independent for U.S. representative, said he had not collected any signatures for the petition because "I was flat on my back from a heart attack."

Dunn also argued on behalf of four independent candidates for state offices in the Waco area.

So far only Raza Unida and the Socialist Workers have been certified for the Texas ballot.

Doctor-Patient Communication Ruled Not Constitutional Right

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas does not recognize the doctor-patient right of privileged communication, and therefore doctors must notify the Board of Medical Examiners when treating a narcotics addict, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin said Thursday.

The 1971 Legislature outlawed prescriptions of narcotic or dangerous drugs to addicts except where they are under treatment for their addiction and provided the doctor notifies the state board.

M. H. Crabb, secretary of the state board asked Martin if the 1971 law violated any other state or general law, or if it abridged any rights under the state or federal constitutions.

Dr. William Drennan first referred to Ireland as the "Emerald Isle" in the poem, "Erin." It refers to the bright verdure of the island.

Housewife happy being a housewife

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 27-year-old housewife with two small children. Now that my older child is in school all day I have time to watch some of the morning talk shows on television. Lately I have noticed that these shows have become a soapbox for Women's Libbers who tell me what an empty life I'm living. "The dull, dreary housewife, tied to dirty dishes, diapers and the family laundry." They say I have no chance to express myself or use my imagination.

I have never felt that I was "tied" to anything. I have a car in my driveway, and even if I didn't, I have two healthy legs to get me where I want to go.

As for expressing myself and using my imagination, I have done that in the best possible way. I've made my own draperies and curtains and I've even upholstered my own furniture. I dream up a different menu for nearly every meal, and I express myself plenty where my children are concerned.

I am happy as a homemaker, and I wish women who find fulfillment in other ways would quit downgrading me. Since this wonderful country of ours began, the source of its strength has been the family. The wife and mother has made the house a home and held the family together.

Sign me "HAPPY IN OLYMPIA"

DEAR HAPPY: I'll tell Gloria and Betty, and Germaine and Bella.

DEAR ABBY: When I was in my teens I gave birth to a baby boy which I gave up for adoption because I was not married. My husband knows all about it and has never held it against me.

We have two darling daughters and are considering adopting a baby boy. We don't want another child unless we are sure of getting a boy.

I keep thinking maybe the reason I want a boy is to replace the one I gave away. If this is true, it wouldn't be fair to the child. My husband is satisfied with our family, but I am the one who wants a boy. Please help me decide.

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: If you have any doubts or misgivings about your reasons for wanting to adopt a child, you'd be wise not to.

DEAR ABBY: My husband of 46 years insisted on renting the small house which is situated on our property to two young women. He did this last year in spite of my strongest objections. He doesn't need the money. His checking account is in four figures and he has an adequate pension. I also have my pension.

I made that little house habitable, but to hear him talk, he did it all himself. Unconscionable braggart!

Those women are in and out all day long and my husband enjoys looking at them far too much to suit me. I knew this would happen when he rented to them. At the time I couldn't decide between divorce or suicide. Now I have made up my mind. It's divorce. Why should I die and leave him living?

I'm not in need of any advice. I just want someone to tell me I have made the right choice. Have I?

SUFFERED ENOUGH

DEAR SUFFERED: You have.

Prewitt-Woodington Vows Said In Methodist Chapel

Your Horoscope

By Jeanne Dixon

The marriage of Peggy Earle Prewitt of Amarillo and Timothy Lee Woodington of Spearman was solemnized at 3 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 20, in the chapel of the First United Methodist Church of Pampa.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M.B. Deason of Amarillo, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Woodington of Pampa.

THE CEREMONY

Dr. Lloyd Hamilton officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Jerry Whitten, organist, played the theme from "Love Story" and "The Twelfth of Never." S.L. Tate sang "More" and "We've Only Just Begun."

The church was decorated with two 10-branched candelabra entwined with greenery and two basket arrangements of Shasta daisies, gladioli and baby's breath.

THE BRIDE

Given in marriage by her step-father, M.B. Deason, the bride wore a formal gown of sheer organza and lace. The high-rise fitted bodice featured a lace yoke and a Victorian lace collar. The Juliet sleeves ended in wide lace cuffs embroidered with seed pearls. The floor-length skirt, highlighted with lace appliques and seed pearls, was designed with a detachable sanctuary train that fell from the back waistline.

Her mantilla of illusion fell from a tiara and extended over the sanctuary train. She carried a bouquet of shasta daisies and sweetheart roses.

"For 'something old,' the bride wore her grandmother's brooch and for 'something borrowed,' she wore a ring belonging to the bridegroom's mother. For 'something blue,' she wore a garter."

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Peggy Knight of Amarillo, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. She was attired in a floor-length gown of yellow bonded lace, styled with an empire waistline and long bell sleeves.

Bridesmaid was Mrs. Peggy Hendren of Amarillo, cousin of the bride, who wore a floor-length gown of green bonded lace, styled with an empire waistline and long bell sleeves.

Both carried bouquets of Shasta daisies and gladioli.

Hold Onto Halters

Don't pack away those halter tops too soon. The bare midriff won't leave with summer. The new flowing palazzo pants look great topped with halters and bare tops.

MRS. TIMOTHY LEE WOODINGTON ...nee Peggy Earle Prewitt

Shasta daisies and gladioli.

Ben C. Woodington of Odessa, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man, and Grant Gikas of Pampa was groomsmen. Ushers were Donnie Deason of Cleveland, Miss., brother of the bride; and Mark Goettsche of Canyon.

MOTHERS

The bride's mother wore a formal gown of blue floral chiffon over taffeta, fashioned with an empire waistline, encircled with blue satin.

The bridegroom's mother wore a pink chiffon dress designed with a ruffled skirt and long sleeves, with matching accessories.

Both wore corsages of white sweetheart roses.

RECEPTION

For the reception in the church parlor, the serving table was centered with an arrangement of yellow gladioli, Shasta daisies, and sweetheart roses.

At the bridegroom's table, Mrs. Vicky Long presided at the coffee service, and the chocolate cake was served by Mrs. Billy Johnson. Rice bags were distributed by Mrs. Susan Goettsche.

For the wedding trip to Red River, N.M., the bride wore a brown, floral formal, with white lace collar and cuffs. Her corsage was of the flowers from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will reside in Spearman.

AFFILIATIONS

The bride was graduated from Cleveland High School, Cleveland, Miss., and attended West Texas State University, Canyon, where she majored in elementary education and art.

The bridegroom was graduated from Pampa High School, and attended Frank Phillips Junior College, Borger, and WTSU, where he majored in psychology. He is employed by White Lumber Company in Spearman.

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goettsche and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Goettsche, all of Canyon; Miss Diane Goettsche, all of Canyon; Dr. H.H. Goettsche of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hutson of Perryton; Mr. and Mrs. E.C. Abston, Mrs. Sam Abston and April, all of Spearman; Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Riffel of Follett; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Woodington and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Robins, all of Odessa; Grant Gikas of Lubbock; Jim Cooper of Okmulgee, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lehrman, Bruce and Renee, Mrs. D.L. Hendren, Mr. and Mrs. Dwain Knight, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Henren, all of Amarillo; Donnie Deason and A.B. Cox, both of Cleveland, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. Rosco Deason and Mr. and Mrs. Polie Deason, all of Borger.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 9

Your birthday today: A strong interest in justice should be acted on. Relationships flourish as far as the will of the people you encounter permits. Today's natives have a knack for writing or presenting arguments, sometimes lead political causes.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: For millions this is a holy day. Any plans you worked out ahead of time might be scrapped because of current developments.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: There should be all the backlog of odds and ends you can tend, along with the details of your home and its management.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Bring your notebook, for by the end of the day's exploration you'll have enough ideas for a month's planning.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Where there are considerations on both sides of an issue, leave the balance alone to swing back and forth for a while longer.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Conditions tend to divert your drive from expected pathways. Stick with what remains feasible in your planned schedule.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Realize that your expectations may be stiff as others see them; make graceful adjustment. Gather reserves for possible use.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Emotion continues to tint your views of any issue. Your friends and rivals alike make use of any impulsive move you may make.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Turbulence in your environment arises from the doings of people and forces beyond your control. Seek inner serenity.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: A normal, or less pressured, routine Saturday should be your goal. Thrashing about in impatience results in lack of progress.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Winding up neglected details may be more important than trying to start a major project. Notes will be interesting later.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Let well enough alone. Realize when your advice has not been asked, and when it is falling on inattentive ears.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: If the idea gives you a practical short cut, it might work. Give yourself a break, contemplate your progress thus far.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church

Father Francis J. Hynes C.M.

GOOD SAMARITAN--the narrative about the "man who went down from Jerusalem to Jericho and fell among robbers."

And this parable was in response to a question: "Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?"

The "Martha-Mary" account is also part of the answer to what is necessary to inherit eternal life.

St. Luke gives the answer to the question not by one single parable, but shows that our virtue must necessarily be both horizontal and vertical. Horizontally, it must extend itself to the love of neighbor; vertically, it must lift itself up to God. The parable of the Good Samaritan only showed the first-love of neighbor. The story of Mary and Martha illustrated the second, love of God.

Vertical virtue, the practice of love of neighbor is extremely important in fulfilling the necessary and basic commandment as it calls for action, work, sacrifice (like the Good Samaritan), showing our concern for others. But when our relation deals with God, it is quite different. Toward God we are to be receptive, not active. With regard to God, we listen. We are silent, we receive. We open our hearts to be filled, as Mary did, manifesting our love of God.

WHAT IS NECESSARY? Practically everybody is familiar with the Gospel story about Martha and Mary--Martha being busy about many things; Mary sitting and listening to the words of the Master. And just about everybody has made an application of this anecdote from St. Luke. Have you seen yourself in the person of Martha doing all the work, or do you prefer to see yourself as Mary contemplating the words of Jesus?"

Did St. Luke, the author, mean anything special in this story?

Perhaps he did. This "Martha-Mary" story is only a part of chapter 10 from which it is taken. Just preceding this story we find the parable of the FESTIVAL OF TRUMPETS--This painting by Morris Katz depicts a rabbi blowing a shofar (ram's horn) symbolizing God's summons to the people for self-judgment. Today, the sound of the shofar heralds Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, Tishri 1, 5733. Authority is Lev. 23:24-25: "The first day of the seventh month is a solemn time for all people to meet together for worship; it is a time for remembrance and is to be announced by a loud blowing of trumpets. Don't do any work on the day of the celebration but offer a sacrifice by fire to the Lord."

Jewish Holidays Time For Contemplation

NEW YORK (AP) -- "Chet," the Hebrew word for "sin," had its origin in ancient archery. It means "missing the mark" in a person's ways of life. It's a common occurrence.

But biblical faith teaches that the lively conscience hurts when it happens, and God forgives the repentant.

This is the ever renewing message of the Jewish holy days, the 10 "days of reverence" beginning Friday evening with the coming of Rosh Hashanah, the start of a spiritual "New Year."

The blowing of the ram's horn, the shofar, sounds the rousing call to conscience at synagogue services Saturday morning, and signals the prayers of thanks to God for giving humans the ability to know right from wrong.

The occasion opens a period of personal stock-taking, of individual reassessment of life style, attitudes, values and relationship with others, and penitence for past failings.

After the opening observance of Rosh Hashanah, including ceremonies both in homes and synagogues, comes the ensuing days of penitence culminating Sept. 18 on Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement.

It is a day of fasting, reminding believers of the distress caused others by negligence or unkindness, and a seeking of reconciliation with fellow men and with God.

"Wide open are the gates of Thy forgiveness to all who truly seek to be reconciled with Thee," the prayers read.

Several religious leaders have urged special memorial services during the period for the slain members of the Israeli Olympic team. Rabbi Louis Bernstein, president of the Rabbinical Council of America, said:

"We must also offer prayers of atonement for all of mankind which must share the guilt for this dastardly crime by virtue of the casual manner by which it has accepted outrage after outrage against innocent civilians."

Rabbi Irving Lehrman, of Miami Beach, president of the Synagogue Council of America, representing all three wings of Judaism, urged strengthened dedication to the ideals of Judaism to lift it out of a modern slump.

"American Jews have for too long neglected the nurturing of those inner resources without which we cannot survive as a viable community," he said, in calling for "unrelenting struggle" to revitalize the faith.

"We have allowed an erosion of Jewish life which must be stopped if there are to be future generations of informed, loyal American Jews on whom Israel and our brethren throughout the world will be able to depend."

Rabbi Bernstein said the new Soviet regulations, calling for payment of exit visa fees ranging up to $25,000 for release of Jews of higher academic or professional training "a modern version of ancient slavery."

He urged the United Nations to intervene to stop the new Soviet effort to "hold its intellectual Jews for ransom."

Worship Hour Features Two Ceremonies

Two important features, in addition to the minister's sermon, are planned for the morning worship hour at First Presbyterian Church.

Holy Communion will be observed with the elders assisting the pastor with the serving of the commemorative sacrament.

Also, there will be a special church school promotion service. Recognition of teachers for the fall season will be a part of this service.

Mrs. Carol Mackey will direct the chancel choir for this service with Jerry Whitten at the organ.

Church Sets Bazaar Date

The fifth annual Christian Church bazaar has been set for Nov. 17, according to Mrs. Jim Osborne, chairman.

Work on bazaar projects has been scheduled for 9 a.m. each second and fourth Wednesday to prepare for the gala event.

Projects include Arts and Crafts, Country Kitchen, Stitch and Sew, Christmas and Food. There are project chairmen on charge of each of these.

Money garnered by the bazaar each year is used to finance worthy projects of the church.

Prayer Week To Be Noted

Women of First Baptist Church have designated Wednesday as the day for their participation in the Women's Missionary Union's week of prayer for state missions, Sept. 11-16.

The meeting will be at 10 a.m. at the church with a covered dish luncheon at noon. It will adjourn at 2 p.m.

Gifts for the Mary Hill Davis offering for state missions will be received throughout the week. The church goal is $1,000.

US Basketball Team To Meet Russia In Finals

MUNICH (AP) — "The Russians are stronger than we are," U.S. Basketball Coach Hank Iba said. "We'll see if we're quicker than they are."

Quarter-milers Vince Matthews and Wayne Collett showed they were quicker than anyone else—but how they performed while standing still seemed to leave something to be desired.

"We'll have a tough time keeping them off the backboards," Iba said of the Russians Thursday night after his kids demolished Italy 68-38 in the semifinal game which followed the Soviet Union's 67-61 triumph over Cuba. Both teams carry 8-0 records into Saturday night's gold-medal final.

Matthews and Rod Milburn highlighted the best day of the American track and field squad has had at these 20th Summer Olympic Games—but some of Matthews' and Collett's actions on the victory stand, somehow reminiscent of the black-gloved protest by U.S. athletes four years ago, angered some of the 80,000 Olympic Stadium spectators.

Milburn, from Opelousas, La., stood erect, facing the flag as the Star-Spangled Banner was played after he'd won the 110-meter hurdles in a world record-equaling 13.2 seconds. France's Guy Drut was second and Army Lt. Tom Hill of Knoxville, Tenn., got the bronze.

But after Matthews and Collett finished 1-2 in the 400-meter dash, Collett stepped up from his tier and joined Matthews on the No. 1 perch as the national anthem began. They stood sideways, facing away from the flag. Matthews with his arms folded and Collett with hands on hips, chatting occasionally as the music played on.

And when the ceremony ended, Matthews walked toward the stands, twirling the gold medal on its chain as the whistles and boos rolled down upon the field.

Was it a protest? "No way," replied Matthews, the speedster from Brooklyn, N.Y., who had been clocked in 44.66 seconds to the 44.80 by his silver-winning teammate from Santa Monica, Calif.

"The reason Collett came on the stand with me was not a protest," Matthews continued. "We consider ourselves the best quarter-milers in the world. If we wanted to protest we could do a better job than that."

But Collett wasn't as emphatic in his denial. When asked why he hadn't stood at attention during the national anthem, he said: "I couldn't do it with a clear conscience."

The other American medal of the day went to Kathy Hammond of Sacramento, Calif., who took the bronze in the women's 400 meters, setting a U.S. record with her clocking of 51.64 seconds. The gold went to East Germany's Monika Zehrt in an Olympic-record 51.08. West German Rita Wilden got the silver. Steve Prefontaine of Oregon was the only American qualifier for the finals of the 5,000 meters, coming in second in his heat.

Russia also got two golds in track and field Thursday as Nadezhda Chizhova won the women's shot put and Anatoly Bondarchuk took the men's hammer throw. Another gold came in the women's 200 meters, won by Renate Stecher in a world record-equaling 22.4 seconds.

A defense that has become a trademark of the American basketball team here—it has allowed an average of just 43 points a game—destroyed Italy's hopes of an upset. The United States, unbeaten in 63 games since the sport was introduced to the Olympics in the 1936 Berlin Games, broke it open in the first half, taking a 13-10 lead and running up to 33-16 by the intermission and 54-24 in the second half.

It was another dismal day for Americans in the circular ring and another successful one in the square one.

In Greco-Roman wrestling, eight of 10 U.S. entries were eliminated, including 400-pound Chris Taylor of Dowagiac, Mich., who found himself amazingly hoisted into the air, then pinned by Czechoslovakia's Petr Kment.

The only Americans remaining in medal contention are Air Force Capt. Wayne Baughman of Universal City, Tex., despite a loss to West Germany's Guenter Kowalewski, and Jay Robinson of Spring Valley, Calif., who defeated Jesus Blanco of Argentina.

Stars Out

MUNICH (AP) — The International Olympic Committee executive board today banned American track stars Vince Matthews and Wayne Collett from all future Olympic competitions—including the 1,600-meter relay here Sunday—because of their behavior on the victory stand Thursday.

An IOC spokesman said a letter to Matts and Collett had been sent by Clifford Buck, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, telling him of the banning following the incident Thursday.

The spokesman said: "The IOC has expressed to Mr. Buck its displeasure and disgust at the demonstration by the American athletes after the 400-meter final."

Matthews won the gold medal and Collett was second. On the victory stand they did not stand at attention during the playing of the American anthem. The crowd whistled and jeered. Matthews later said they did not intend to be disrespectful.

The IOC spokesman made no mention that Matthews and Collett would be deprived of their medals. Presumably they will not.

WINNING at weekend tennis improving your doubles game

By Tony Trabert with Joe Hyams

38. Trapped at the Net?

Why is it that I sometimes get trapped in quick exchanges at the net?

Most players get trapped because they are standing up straight with the weight on their heels. They are anchored in position.

Or they take too big a swing at the volley. Before they can stop the follow-through, the ball has come right back to them before they have time to prepare. Always bring the racket back to the ready position after you have completed any stroke, including the volley.

Another reason some players get trapped is that they stand at the net with the racket head parallel to the ground and below the top of the net or at the same height. The ball will not often come at that level. Since it usually comes higher, it's better to have the racket at the anticipated height.

Rule of thumb: After making a volley at the net, return the racket to the ready position. This goes for any other stroke you make.

It will also help if you remember to use your free hand to help get the racket into the hitting position.

In boxing, middleweight Marvin Johnson and welterweight Ray Seales came back from first-round standings eight-counts—knockdowns according to Olympic standards—to score decisions by victories.

It puts four Americans—welterweight Jesse Valdez and bantamweight Ricardo Carreras are the others—into the semifinals and guarantees them medals.

Seales, 22, from Tacoma, Wash., took a split decision over Cuba's Andres Molina despite taking a standing eight-count, in the first round. Molina lost an important point in that round when he was penalized for hitting with the heel of his glove.

Spitz Damned In '68 And Again This Year

MUNICH (AP) — Mark Spitz was damned because he didn't in 1968 and damned because he did in '72.

Seven gold medals and his reputation as a choker weighed heavily on his mind when he started Olympic competition Aug. 28.

With each event he eclipsed a world mark, put a medal around his neck and erased some of the doubt about his ability that had lingered since the games in Mexico City.

His final burst of glory Monday, when he and his teammates thrashed to triumph in the 400-meter medley relay, was overshadowed by the disqualification in the 1,500-meter freestyle of Rick DeMont of San Rafael, Calif., for using a prescription drug officials said was illegal.

A pall of death of fellow Jews Tuesday paled a news conference, his swansong to Olympic swimming that should have ended on a happy note.

Instead of being praised for his athletic prowess he was picked on for dominating a sport. Instead of relaxing and enjoying nearly another week of Olympic competition from the sidelines, he was hustled out of Munich under heavy guard because his victories made him the most prominent Jew in the games and nobody wanted to take any chances.

Spitz, a handsome, mustachioed man of 22, won his first gold medal of these games in the 200-meter butterfly on the first full day of competition in the 20th Olympiad. He cracked his own world mark with a 2:00.70 to beat fellow Americans Gary Hall of Garden Grove, Calif., and Robin Backhaus of Redlands, Calif.

It was in that event in Mexico City four years ago that he sputtered in eighth and was labeled a choker.

Four years ago the 18-year-old product of the Santa Clara Swim Club enroute to Indiana University brashly predicted he would win six gold medals. He won only two—in the 400 freestyle relay and the 800 freestyle relay. He also won a bronze in the 100 freestyle and a silver in the 100 butterfly.

"Losing that event cost me two gold medals," Spitz said of his upset by American Doug Russell in the 100 fly. "If I had won, I'd have swum on the American medley team."

If he had won then he would have matched Don Schollander's record of four swimming golds.

But he lost. And no one likes a loser. Especially Mark Spitz. So he put himself through four years of punishing practice, honing his body and tuning his mind for Munich.

Moments after winning the 200 fly, he anchored the 400 freestyle relay team to another world record of 3:36.42.

The next day he won the 200 freestyle in 1:52.78 and smashed another world mark.

DeWitt Weaver Leads Southern Open Golf

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — "If they have to carry me around I'll be here," says DeWitt Weaver, who faces minor ear surgery tonight following the second round of the Southern Open Golf Tournament.

Weaver, the long-hitter from Atlanta, stormed in with a five-under-par 65 Thursday to take the first round lead in the $100,000 event.

With only one tour victory to his credit, last year's U.S. Match Play Champion, Weaver says he hopes to continue on a hot streak during which he has won $22,000 in the last four weeks, including about $5,000 in Pro Am events and $10,000 for his fifth place finish at the Westchester Classic.

"When I saw the doctor yesterday he said he couldn't understand how I'm playing golf," Weaver said. "But it doesn't bother me that much. It just sounds like I'm playing on TV every shot I hit."

Wednesday was a day off, but Thursday he winged his way to a 54.27 in the 100 butterfly and tied Schollander's harvest of four victories in 1964 at Tokyo, then swam four lengths of the Olympic pool as anchorman of the 800 freestyle relay and helped America to another gold pendant and another world record.

"I had waited four years for that," said Spitz of the 100 fly. "To me that race meant a lot. I was glad it was the one that let me tie Schollander."

"Winning the fourth gold to tie Schollander's record and then winning the fifth to break it Thursday night—that was the big night for me."

"Everything after that is downhill."

Even though he was riding the crest, he wouldn't let himself rest. He still had two races to go.

He was accused of creating dissension among teammates by bad-mouthing Steve Genter, a care-free 21-year-old UCLA freestyler, who was hospitalized five days before competition began for surgery of a partially collapsed lung.

When Spitz heard of Genter's illness, he was reported to have quipped: "Well, at least I don't have to worry about him."

Even though he came out of the Olympics without defeat, in a way, everything was downhill.

The sleek six-footer was born Feb. 10, 1950 in Modesto, Calif., the first child of Lenore and Arnold Spitz. He took to the water at the age of two when the

Harvesters, Area Teams Take The Field Tonight

The Pampa Harvesters take the field tonight at 8:00 against Hereford, the team that beat them 28-20 in the bi-district clash last November.

The game tonight in Hereford is the season opener for each team, their only other action this fall being scrimmages.

Last Friday night the Harvesters trounced the Vernon Lions 50-7 in a game condition scrimmage at Harvester Park.

Hereford scrimmaged the same evening against Amarillo Tascosa and according to the Hereford Brand's Marshall Day did not perform up to expectations.

Those scrimmages must be looked at in much the same way as exhibition games in pro ranks. They don't count anything but the game tonight means a great deal to each of the teams involved.

Pampa is the pre-season choice to win District 3-AAAA and Hereford has been similarly chosen in District 4-AAAA. Tonight's contest is, therefore, one of the most important in the state this weekend.

Pampa fields a team tonight that is both quick and large.

They have to counter an offense led by Keith Kitchens, whom Pampa head coach Buddy Williams has termed "the best high school passing quarterback I've ever seen."

He heads a backfield made up of Terry Champ, Danny Harris and Wesley High.

Pampa counters on offense with Rick Musgrave at quarterback. Richard McCampbell and either Steve Mathis or Chuck Reeves at the halfbacks and Jack King at fullback.

Rick McGuire and Jesse Hunnicutt are the Pampa ends. Larry Johnson and Harmon Staus are at the tackle posts. The guards are Billy Lemons and Ed Townsend and David Lanehart is at center.

Hereford's front line finds Steve Nieman and Alan Cornelius at the ends. Wallace Hill and Jim Marsh at tackle. Allen Hare and Winston Short at the guards and Dale Hollingsworth at center.

Pampa's defense consists of Jody Johnson and David Nipp at the ends. Lemons and Staus at tackle. Hunnicutt and Mike Robbins at the linebackers and Townsend at nose guard. Mathis and Reeves are the cornerbacks and McCampbell and McGuire are the safeties.

Hereford's defense is made up of Hill and Marsh at ends. Billy Ohlig and Maurie Montgomery at the tackles and Walter Olson at nose guard.

Danny Harris and Winston Short will be at the linebacking slots where Short was second-team all-state last year. The secondary will be composed of Champ, Kitchens, Barry McNutt and James Harris.

In action tonight involving District 3-AAAA teams, Tascosa plays Odessa Permian. Palo Duro meets Dumas. Amarillo High takes on Odessa. Caprock plays Odessa Ector and Borger fights it out with Perryton.

In other area play this evening Canadian meets Phillips. White Deer plays Memphis. McLean takes on Shamrock. Wheeler plays Lefors. Groom meets Vega, and Miami plays Forgan, Okla.

Shockers Gain Win Over Hereford JV

Pampa's Shockers ran up 26 points in the first half last night against the Hereford junior varsity and made it stand up in gaining a 26-16 victory over the visitors.

Pampa scored on its second possession of the game on a 24-yard pass from Chuck Quarles to Howie Lewis. The two-point conversion attempt failed and the Shockers led 6-0.

Later in the first quarter Greg Beck scored from 18 yards out behind a good block thrown by Mike Adair. The extra point kick failed leaving the score 12-0.

On Sunday he took the 100 freestyle to surpass the cache of Nedo Nadi, an Italian fencer who had won five medals at the 1920 games at Antwerp. On Monday, he completed what he set out to do. He swam the butterfly leg of the 400 medley for his seventh gold medal in seven tries and became the idol of the Olympics.

But for how long? "I have no control over that," he said. "I'd like for what I've done here to be remembered, but who knows?"

Both Howie and Deanie Lewis made fine receptions in the game. Beck, Quarles and Adair led the home team in rushing.

Television And Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — It was bound to happen. The National Broadcasting Co., which gave America "Today" and "Tonight," is planning to come out next spring with "Tomorrow."

The show is NBC's brave new hour for insomniacs, students, people who leave work at midnight and other assorted night owls who heretofore have made do with ancient film clips on television's graveyard shift.

"Tomorrow" is scheduled to appear five days a week — at 1 a.m. in the East and West and midnight in the Midwest — and bear no resemblance whatever to the show it follows, Johnny Carson's "Tonight."

University students will also be a very large audience. Teenagers don't go to bed with a glass of milk at nine o'clock anymore.

Who will host the new show? One report has it that Burt Reynolds, fully clothed, is in the running. Reynolds appeared nude in a centerfold of Cosmopolitan magazine.

Werner declined to say exactly who is in the running: "We're interviewing a lot of people."

Where will the show originate? "We don't know right now," he said. "It probably would depend on our talent choice. It's my hunch it probably would come from New York."

And, he said, it probably won't have a live studio audience.

"The idea here is to give the viewer at home the feeling that we are talking to him, not performing to a studio audience," he said.

Mort Werner, an NBC senior vice president who is developing the show, says it probably won't have an orchestra and that levity, comic skits, songs and the like won't form the basis for "Tomorrow."

Instead, it'll have what Werner calls a "bright, inquisitive interviewer," a given topic each night and knowledgeable guests to discuss the topic. In short, a show of a generally serious conversational nature.

Such topical talkfests abound at all hours on radio in the nation's major cities and the audience for them "is the market we're going after," Werner said.

Croatia Specialists Asked To Contact Ekrem Spahic

Croatia specialists are asked to contact Ekrem Spahic, who is organizing the Croatian Philatelic Society.

The society will be dedicated to Croatian philately and related Yugoslav areas.

Spahic, an American of Croatian descent, asks participation of every philatelist, organization and those who consider themselves just ordinary collectors.

He said the Croatian Philatelic Society is believed to be the first of its kind in the Free World.

Additional information may be obtained by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to: Ekrem Spahic, 1408 Hazelwood, Borger, Texas, 79007.

The Beale Street immortalized in American jazz is in Memphis, Tenn.

SO YOU WANT TO BE Retirement Activity Requires Planning

By ERNIE HOOD

The U.S. Department of Labor has issued a publication that should be of interest to older workers generally and more especially to those who have already retired. While this column is primarily aimed at a young audience in search of careers, the heavy mail volume from older people deserves attention.

The new publication notes that "it takes planning to keep off the shelf in retirement" and offers several choices that appear to provide the answers for a great many of our readers.

You can enjoy a leisurely retirement—pursue hobbies; enjoy your children; move to a new home in another state; travel.

You can take part in voluntary activities in your community—social and charitable—that will offer you a meaningful role, keep you in touch with people of all ages.

You can get a part-time or seasonal job that will allow you flexibility in hours of work and also provide income to supplement pensions and social security.

You can start your own business—a real challenge, with some pitfalls.

You can take another full-time job—but it isn't easy for older people. The work you do will depend on your skills, your resourcefulness, the needs of your community—and also upon your own attitude, your willingness to accept a job change or retraining to meet today's employment needs.

Obviously, your retirement income will influence the choice you make, but it isn't necessarily the only factor.

ARKANSAS DIAMOND RUSH MURFREESBORO, Ark. (AP) — For the price of admission fortune hunters may hunt for diamonds on a finders-keepers basis in the only diamond-producing mine in North America, located near Murfreesboro.

Since the 80-acre Crater of Diamonds was first mined commercially in 1906, more than 60,000 stones have been discovered. While most average 50 diamonds to a carat, about 8 percent have been of gem quality.

The largest was the Uncle Sam. Discovered in 1924 and weighing 40.23 carats, the gem was cut to 14.42 carats.

In early 1972, the state purchased the Crater of Diamonds from a private concern for $750,000 and it is now a state park.

Only English monarch to abdicate voluntarily was Edward VIII, who abdicated the British throne in December, 1936.

Housing—A Big Problem In China

EDITOR'S NOTE—In China, society is tightly organized on all levels, even down to the street level. The following, the last of five articles by Barbara W. Tuchman gives a closeup view of how things operate in the land of Mao Tse-tung. Mrs. Tuchman, prize-winning historian, recently turned from China after an extended visit.

By BARBARA W. TUCHMAN
Written for Associated Press

After transportation, housing is the most backward aspect of China. Although given to drastic street widening and bursts of Soviet gigantism in public squares and buildings, the authorities have preferred to let new housing adjoin new industry in the new sectors of provincial capitals rather than attempt urban renewal of the old inner city.

The new housing, in the form of three- and four-story apartment buildings or brick cottage-type rows, is a tremendous improvement over the old but cannot begin to meet the need. Lining the old streets and extending behind them in a maze of alleys and courtyards are the clay cabins—they can hardly be called houses—of one or two dark rooms with dirt or stone floors that are home for millions.

A community faucet or sometimes only a pump serves for running water.

Hankow exhibits a specialty of two-story wooden shacks so dilapidated that they lean wearily from the upright and look as if they must collapse tomorrow. So confined is space in all the old housing that movable beds, a small table and one or two chairs plus some sort of cooking arrangement and possibly a sewing machine placed next to the front door for light, suffice a family for furniture.

Not unnaturally, at least in summer, the inhabitants tend to sit, eat, wash, tend babies, play cards and Chinese chess, hang up the laundry and barber each other's hair on the sidewalk. In Hankow they bring out their beds and sleep in the street. Yet every day out of all this emerge streams of surprisingly neat, clean and cheerful people.

The new is at work here in the form of the Neighborhood Committee, the basic organ of the masses. Five or six of these local units make up a Street Committee, which is the lowest unit of state government.

Size varies according to the district: the Chao Chang Neighborhood Committee we visited in the old sector of Loyang represented 440 people in 80 households and belonged to a Street Committee of 1,800 people in 443 households. The Street Committee has an assigned party member through whom government functions, but the seven members of the Neighborhood Committee are "elected by the masses," that is, by their neighbors.

Voting is by a show of hands and the voters are the housewives and retired adults remaining at home, one or more per household. Here is the smallest cell of that share in control over their own fate so long denied to the common people of China. Here, too, of course, is where indoctrination begins.

The "old women," meaning over 40, are clearly the power in the neighborhood. The three who met us were the frequently seen type of exceedingly spruce, good-looking, simple women wearing spotless jackets of the side-closing, old-fashioned kind, and the silver wrist watches that are clearly a sign of status.

With an official of the Street Committee carefully listening, the women described their Four Tasks. Being a people who like life in a formal framework, the Chinese are comfortable only when they can arrange things in fixed numbers: the Three Principles, the Four Olds, the Eight Points, the Three Mountainous Burdens and so on.

First is the organization of study groups of "Marxism-Leninism and Mao Tse-tung Thought" among the older people which meet three times a week for four hours at a time. This seems like a lot of study, but the women explained to us that "the masses have an urgent desire to learn." They said the enthusiasm resulting from these discussions of how to "serve the people" leads to "good deeds" among their neighbors: for instance, marketing for a woman overburdened at home, or establishing a free tea stand for thirsty carters entering the city.

In the past these were people whose struggle for survival was so close to the edge as to allow no leeway for mutual assistance. Now they were taking part in the social process, and the pride with which they told these incidents was vibrant and very moving.

In the course of the study groups 40 women of the neighborhood in the age group over 40 had learned to read, to the extent of recognizing 100 characters.

The second task is "organizing the masses for production."

Individuals are encouraged to seek jobs in factories and mines and small street factories are organized. An example: a one-room garment factory with a cutting table and six sewing machines, or a plant for assembling electric burners from factory-made parts, the latter for export.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

Del Brunson illustrates the new type of clergyman? He knows that religion is supposed to help people attain the more abundant life! That involves more friends, better jobs, plus an increase in general health and happiness. Bravo!

CASE U-583: Del Brunson is the varsity pastor of the First Baptist Church at Chester, S.C. "Dr. Crane," he telephoned long distance, "I am scheduling some talks on Sunday night for my young people.

"I shall deal with 'Vocational Guidance' and 'Career Planning'.

"So could you please send me via Air Mail at least 35 copies of your 'Vocational Guidance' booklet, plus 35 additional copies of your 'Tests for Employers and Employees'?"

"And if you have anything else that I could use with this group, please send them along at once.

Versatile Clergymen

In my addresses before dental and medical groups, I have been stressing "Total" vs. "Segmental" surgery.

"You don't operate merely on a tooth or appendix," I caution them. "But on the 125-pound woman or 150-pound man on the other end of that tooth or appendix."

And this new organismic (total) instead of organic (segmental) concept is spreading like wildfire.

Rev. Brunson is a superb example of the same thing among our leading clergymen.

For religion should supplement catechism with vocational guidance and practical psychology.

Boys and girls should thus be prepared by our churches for "total" harmonious adjustment to society.

And that involves more than recitation of the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule, the 23rd Psalm, etc.

Our "organismic" pastors thus teach them the "Compliment Club" strategy for winning friends.

Plus the essential personality traits to cultivate when you wish to succeed on the job or in marriage.

It is thus very relevant in Young People's Meetings to launch the "Compliment Club" as a 30-day project for spreading harmony and happiness.

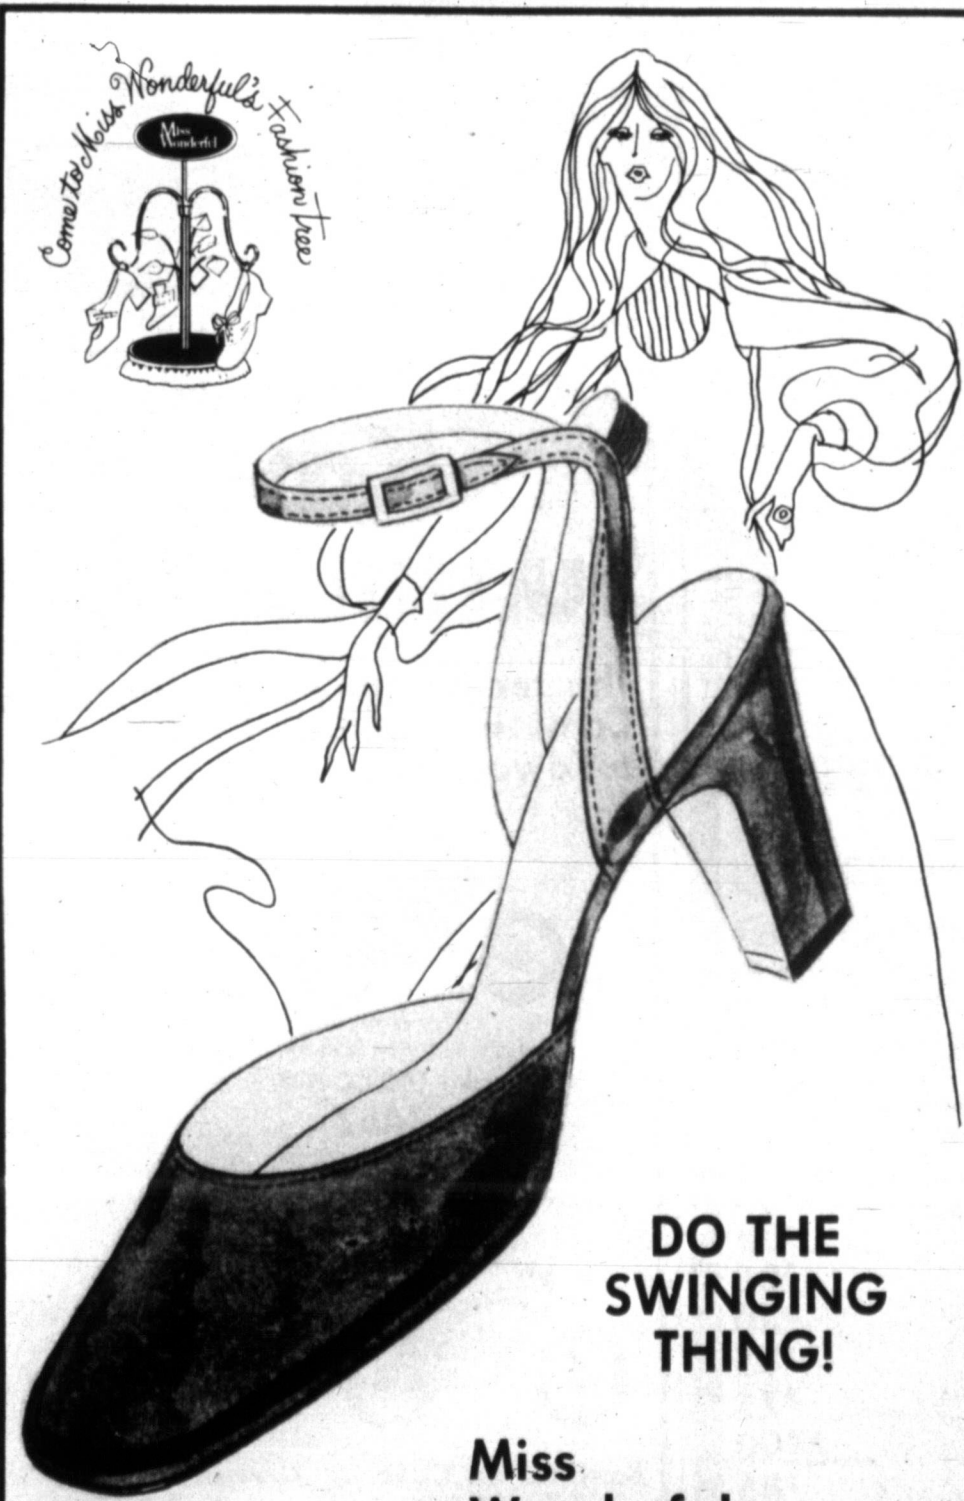

Likewise, one Sunday evening can be devoted to the "Introvert-Extrovert" Tests.

And another should be scheduled on "How to Carry on Interesting Conversation."

While teaching my psychology classes at the university, I would pick a coed and a male student at random; then let them come to the front of the room and occupy adjacent chairs.

They were then to show the class how they would try to launch conversation, as with a stranger seated beside them on a bus or plane.

These practical projects in psychology were very popular, for the students thus learned to
