netional committee meet. held at noon yesterday at Le Court House Cafe at which time subcommittee chairmen were assigned their disaster duties.

Ed Weiss, chairman, explaining the responsibilities of the committee, said, "The better prepared confusion will result and the better the job will be.

Sherman White, chairman of the Pampa Chapter of the American Red Cross, said the meeting had been called to better organize the committee.

Each subcommittee chairman asked to study his duties to appoint a committee to him with his phase of the should there be a disaster in the county.

Subcommittee chairmen attending the meeting were: Lloyd Stallings, rescue and first aid; Dr. Julian Key, medical aid; C. McWilliams, transportation; Huelyn Lavenck, communication: L. G. Langston, public informa-

Common Ground By R. C. HOILES

'Wandering Scholar"

I have been reading a rather in teresting book under the title "Wandering Scholar". It is reall-sort of an autobiography of M. J. Bonn, Mr. Bonn was a college president in Germany before the war and had a wide experience in Germany and Austria and England and the United States. He was visiting professor to several colleges in the United States. In 1941 he was the speaker at the Riverside Inn and was obliged to make his address in the dark because of a blackout. Mr. Bonn's book gives rather an interesting background of the ideologies that developed Hitler in Ger-many and socialism in England and Europe. He has a very gifted way of expressing very trite statements describing the character of individuals. As an illustration he says that a certain professor in Germany "oozed slyness from every pore". He was referring to a professor by the name of Schr who he says mainly controlled the economic education of the Prussian bureaucracy and of the many pupils whose appointments he had wangled.

When I read this statement "oozed slyness from every pore", I could not help but think of the superintendents of schools and the teachers whom I have come in contact who are so sly and conceited that they will not for $500.00 or $100.00 consent to attempt to harmonize tax supported schools with other things that they profess to believe in. On the sub ject of the European school system, he says:

"For nearly a century the German professors had been leaders of the people. Ideas formulated in their lecture rooms had stimulated the nation. From the days when Fichte had addressed it and had prepared the ground for the national rising of 1812, to Treitsche or Adolph Wagner (he preached state socialism mixed with a little anti-Semitism), and both are among the ancestors of the Nazis, the universities were the vanguard of nationalism, Karl Marx himself. formed by Hegel, was a university product.

"German universities were not meant to run out 'gentlemen'. They trained professionals, lawyers, teachers, ministers, medical men, all of whom had to pass state examinations before they could practice their trade. The only degree they conferred was that of doc-

Its fight against the Corn Laws was not a purely economic or even social move, Its aim was the defeudalization of Great Britto, 'Peace, Free Trade and Good the form not a mere slogan. For a goods quarter of a century its leaders were in position to influence political events. going to an island off freland. He gives a good illustration as to why subsidies are harmful instead of being helpful. He tells about taking a boat out to an island west of Ireland. The inhabitants thought their boat was a reilef boat or a steamer bringing goods for which they did not have to pay, to save them from starvation. He says one of them explained to him afterward "If it were not for the famine, nobody could live here." That is what the people in Europe wil sooner or later be saying about Socialism that brings on war that bring them help from U. S. "If we speak of arms," he told the Senate Foreign Relations com-mittee, "we could never furnish them enough." The real deterrent to aggression, he replied, is the Atlantic Pact itself, with its com-mitment of United States support in case of an armed attack in Eu-

The Administration has sought to make military assistance an integral part of the pact. If in so doing it has jeopardized Senate ratification of the pact, it has no one but itself to blame. General Bradley explicitly rejects this view. "Military assistance is not specifically required by this treaty," the Army man Undoubtedly the western Euro-peans would feel better if they had more guns. But, as the Aministration views it, the guns are going to cost the American tax paver untold billions over an unrevealed number of years. It is pertinent to inquire if they are

So far as armed attack is concerned, Soviet communism is halted in western Europe. It may be doubted if the threat of armed attack, as opposed to political subversion, was ever anywhere near as great as supposed. A strong case can be made that the Soviets never intended operating that way. For one thing, subversion is their forte. For another, they knew what the Atlantic Pact has now spelled out that armed ag-gression against western Europe yould mean tangling with the United States. Whatever their past intentions. the evidence is just about conclu sive that they are not now plan-ning to start World War III in the Atlantic Pact area. They have backed down in Berlin and there is very good reason for believing they will back down in German They make no secret of the fac that one of their proposals at the new meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers will be withdrawal of all occupation troops in Germany.

The old objection to that was that it was a tactical device for getting American troops back across the Atlantic while Soviet roops withdrew a short distance to the Polish border. With Ameri can troops gone, the red army would have a clean sweep thru western Europe. The Atlantic Pact takes care of that; if Soviet troops move across the border of a western European nation i would be the same as if they had to shoot American soldiers first This would probably be the case even if America rejects the pac at least ... so likely to be the case the Soviets would not dare take the chance. The fact is that the Soviets are in retreat in Europe. The threat which the Administration's mili tary aid proposal is designed to answer is rapidly evaporating. What seems not understood in the State Department is that because they have no choice, the Soviets are giving western Europe and us a handsome gift—time.

That is no justification for complacency. The time must be used well. But it is time- time for western Europe nomically and as it does so to rebuild up its defenses on the basis of what it can afford. And, if the Administration would only let it be it is time in which the American economy could recover the strength which alone can spell victory either in war or in the clash of ideologies.

SMART MOVE TAWM-MAYBE TOO SMART (The New York Daily News)

Chairman Tom Connally (D-Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee plans what he apparently considers a smart move with regard to the North Atlantic

When the pact's supporters finish shouting its praises at the com-mittee's current hearings, Connally intends to call in the with a great show of fairess and freedom of speech—and who do you suppose the first two witness are to be? None other than Eugene Dennis, general secretary of the nunist Party and now on trial for teaching violent overthrow of Government, and Henry A. Wallace, the Communists' champ J. S. captive politician.

The Connally strategy obviously is to smear the entire opposition to he treaty by leading off with these two witnesses. Texas Tawm evidently hopes thereby to spread the mpression that no decent Amercan is against the pact, and that it is opposed only by the Reds and their dupes Tawm is being smart, all right.

But we wonder if he isn't being just a bit too smart. The opposition to this proposed agreement includes many an American who always has hated Communism far worse than Connally's own party leaders were hating it a few ago. Efforts to tar such patriots with the Communist brush can just conceivably kick back and boot Connally's political face off. We'll see. This is going to be

WASHINGTON - (P) - Pinchunner Lou Stringer's blunder and Washington's quick capitalization on it presented the Sen-ators a 3-2 decision over the Boston Red Sox here Monday. The game ended with Manager Joe McCarthy and a swarm of Red Sox protestingly bitterly plate umpire Joe Paparella that Tom O'Brien had scored the tying run before the final out

With one out in the ninth O'Brien beat out an infield hit. Marshall Bill Hitchcock flied out, but Longview Paris Birdie Tebbetts' single shifted O'Brien to second. Stringer ran for Tebbetts and Sam Mele batted for pitcher Jack Kramer. Mele singled to right, but outfielder Buddy Lewis quickly re-trieved the ball and fired it to shortstop Sam Dente at second base, and Paparella ruled that the final putout was accomplish-ed before O'Brien reached the plate. Mickey Haefner notched victory with an 8-hitter, while Kramer was dealt his third loss in a winless season.

Plane Will Pick Up Body

A plane was to be dispatched om Tinker Field, Oklahoma City, at 1 p.m. today to pick up at the Pampa Army Airfield runways the body of 1st Lt. William Frederick Haimes, who died in the crash of his F-51 plane early yesterday morning six niles south of Pampa.

The 30-year-old Air Force flyer was enroute to Little Rock, Ark., from California at the time of his death in the one-place craft. He was destined eventually to return to his base, Bolling Field, Washington, D. C., according to Albuquerque dispatchers where the flyer last refueled. The body will be taken to the field by Duenkel-Carmichael where it will be put aboard the ship for Bolling Field.

Capt. William J. Lookadoo, pub-relations officer at Bolling Field, told The News in a telephone conversation yesterday afternoon that the California-reared flyer served 23 months in the Atlantic Air Transport Command in World War II. At the time of his death, he was attached to the Air Force Officers Review Section at Bolling Field.

Flatter said he swam 50 yards to safety and did not remember what happened before he found himself in the water. Mrs. Flatter was found in shoulder deep water holding her son above her head on a bridge on Grant's Lane. Rubber collapsible boats manned by airmen from Carswell Air Force Base were cruising the area of the trailer court. They reported taking persons from trees and the tops of trailers.

Dallas, 30 miles to the east, had 5.43 inches of rain and much low-lying land was flooded. Carrollton, north of Dallas, had 6.62 inches of rain.

The U.S. Weather Bureau in Dallas said a major flood is indicated along the upper Trinity River in the Dallas area. The bureau said the Trinity was rising rapidly and had already risen to 30 feet at Dallas, two feet above flood stage. At Fort Worth, the West Fork of the Trinity was at 27.1 feet, three
