

CONVERSION OF COAL TO OIL MAY AVERT FUTURE SHORTAGES IN U.S.

LOUISIANA, Mo. — (AP) — The groundwork for a new American industry—the conversion of coal to oil and gasoline—was laid here yesterday with the dedication of two big demonstration plants. About 500 persons, including government officials, military officers, members of Congress and industrial leaders, attended the ceremony. The plants were developed by the U.S. Bureau of Mines as an answer to the dwindling supply of gasoline and an ever-increasing demand. Julius A. Krug, secretary of interior, in his dedication speech, called on private industry to get busy on plants of its own without delay. He expressed hope

Congress would pass measures extending government credit to that end. Some of the visiting industrialists, especially oil men, commented adversely on the project. They raised doubts as to whether any serious shortage of petroleum is likely for many years to come, but in view of their position as guests refused to be quoted. One of the plants cost $10,000,000 and the other half that amount. The buildings are spread out over several acres, with miles and miles of exposed pipe. The plants will produce not only diesel oil and automobile fuel, but aviation gasoline and a variety of by-products, including alcohols and phenol for plastics. The plants will demonstrate respective merits of two basic processes for converting coal to oil. The two processes are called "coal hydrogenation" and "gas synthesis." By the former, coal is turned into oil by forcing hydrogen into it under great heat and pressure. By the other, coal is first turned into gas. This city was selected as the site for the plants because of its central location with respect to major coal fields. Also a synthetic ammonia plant erected here for the army during the war offered facilities readily adaptable to production of synthetic fuels.

Patterson Says Pact Will Keep Peace

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Former Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson said today the case for the Atlantic Treaty is simple: It would preserve peace because a Russia would not dare go to war against the combined strength of the pact nations. Patterson testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. It is holding hearings on the question whether the Senate should ratify the treaty of mutual aid against aggression, signed here April 4 by the United States and 41 other nations. The treaty will not be binding on this country until it is approved by a two-thirds vote of the Senate. Patterson told the committee that Russia's "guilt" in starting World War II in 1939 "was second only to that of Hitler."

This was an obvious reference to the Berlin-Moscow agreement which preceded the Nazis' march into Poland. Calling Russia "an ambitious and power-hungry dictatorship that has never had any scruples against launching a war," Patterson said the Soviets understand only force. What the pact does, Patterson added in a prepared statement, is to bring together strength "far in excess of any that Moscow could muster."

He ticked off these estimates of Western strength: (1) Manpower at least equal to Russia's; (2) steel-making capacity ten times greater; (3) petroleum production six times greater; (4) a lead in science, invention and industrial skill "that is beyond question." (See PATTERSON, Page 2)

Offers of Mediation Are Refused

DETROIT — (AP) — Ford Motor Co. refused outside offers of mediation today as effects of the five-day strike spread from coast to coast.

The company held its position that the mediation dispute should be arbitrated by an expert selected by the company and union. The CIO United Auto Workers have rejected this suggestion. With prospects for an early settlement of the 65,000-man walk-out growing dimmer, the union staged a mass demonstration Sunday. It was partly to arouse enthusiasm among strikers, partly to put on a show of strength, the union said.

Today the company said another 8,000 workers would be laid off in the next few days. They are employees at Ford plants in Los Angeles, St. Louis, Metuchen, N. J., Minneapolis-St. Paul and Iron Mountain, Mich. Numerous small plants among Ford's 3,500 suppliers were also beginning to feel the pinch. Mass unemployment was rapidly undermining business in Dearborn. The suburban community is built around the Rouge Plant, and the shutdown had repercussions in every part of the town.

Youth Injured By Smoke Bomb

RIVERSIDE, Tex. — (AP) — A smoke bomb which Deputy Sheriff Marcy Rummels said was found in a Navy practice field near here brought serious injury to Nard Williamson, 17.

When he fired at the bomb it exploded. His left cheek was ripped open. Rummels said the youth placed the bomb on a post and was using it for rifle practice. Two other youths were not hurt. The deputy said "300 to 400" unexploded bombs had been found on the field, which has been in disuse since the war.

Rummels said the bombs were "not ordinarily dangerous and hard to make explode." The bombs are about an inch wide and ten inches long.

Correction Made In Office Location

Panhandle Insurance Agency, Southwestern Investment Corporation and Security Federal Savings and Loans Association plan to move their offices to 300 W. Kingsmill, as soon as the building is remodeled, rather than 308 W. Kingsmill as it was first reported. The companies have signed a ten-year lease with Carroll H. Wood, owner of the property. Wood's Garage, owned and operated by Wood, will continue at its location, 308 W. Kingsmill. Helped crystal for that shaver gift, Sam Lewis Hardware. adv.

Lefors to Clean Up Next Week

LEFORS — (Special) — Mayor W. R. Combs and the City Council have proclaimed next week Clean-Up Week in Lefors.

In a statement signed by the mayor and Councilmen J. R. Sparkman, F. C. Jones, Fred Blackwell and John L. Carpenter, townspeople were asked to clean up the alleys behind their property. They said further that "the city ordinance regarding the licensing of dogs is to be enforced beginning May 16."

An order was also issued regarding livestock: "Those residents who have livestock within the city are also requested to move them out of the city, especially during the summer months." "It is for the protection and safety and by the request of many local citizens that this proclamation was made," it was said. "Guard yourself, your family and friends by helping forward this campaign."

2,500 Hear 1949 Mother

NEW YORK — (AP) — Some 2,500 persons gathered in Central Park here yesterday for a Mother's Day ceremony at which Mrs. E. A. Gillis of Fort Worth, Tex., America's "mother of the year" was guest of honor. The affair was sponsored by the Salvation Army.

Mrs. Col. Samuel Hepburn, territorial home league secretary of the Salvation Army, pinned a rose and sweet pea corsage on Mrs. Gillis' dress. The tiny Texas mother, named mother of the year by the Golden Rule Foundation, told the gathering that "the future of our nation and the world lies in the future of our children."

Parents, she said, should set a good example for their children. "We should make love the key word of the home," Mrs. Gillis added. The wife of a postal worker, she has reared six children of her own and helped educate eight others. Mrs. Gillis was accompanied by her husband and a son. # John Friauf, Seventh Eagle Scout Of Year for Santa Fe District

The Boy Scout Santa Fe District gained its seventh Eagle Scout of the year Saturday night when John Friauf, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Friauf, was presented with the highest award in Scouting.

James McCune, assistant Scoutmaster of Troop 14, presented Friauf the badge at the troop's Mother's Day banquet at the First Presbyterian Church. John is 16 years old and a Junior at Pampa High School. Other Eagle Scouts of the district this year include: John Young, Troop 22; Paul Boswell, Troop 80; Bob McPherson, Troop 22; Roy Sullivan, Troop 22; James Harrah, Troop 80; and Don Light, Troop 1, Panhandle. Approximately 75 people attended Saturday's banquet at the First Presbyterian Church. Each Scout presented his mother with a corsage. The dinner was prepared and served by the Scout fathers and troop committeemen. John Schofield, Troop 14 Scoutmaster, addressed the group and Paul Beisenherz, council executive, presented the troop's charter for the forthcoming year. Troop 14 is beginning its 19th year under the sponsorship of the Presbyterian Church. During the 19-year existence of the troop there have been 19 Eagle badges awarded to members of the troop. Fete Kilpatrick, Senior patrol leader, presided over the banquet.

Pair Rescued After Crash On Mountain

VANCOUVER, B. C. — (Distributed by Associated Press) — Sun-burned and grimy, weary of chocolate bars and mosquitoes, Bill Grant and Sheila Cure came home last night—six days overdue.

They were dressed in the same light clothing they wore when their light fleet Canuck aircraft crashed late Monday in a driving snow storm atop 8,900-foot Mount Hozomeen, 135 miles east. Grant said one wing hit a snag going in and the propeller snapped off. The only injury suffered was "a bruised finger" on Grant. The pair spent that night—under freezing conditions—in the hole the nose of the plane had dug when it crashed. "It was awfully cold," said Miss Cure. "Bitter."

Tornado Hits Oklahoma Town

SCHULTER, Okla. — (AP) — A tornado unroofed the high school gymnasium here last night and destroyed three barns and some nearby crops. No casualties were reported. The twister struck at 6:25 p. m. (CST), moving in from the usual southwesterly direction. Over the little community of 800, however, it reversed itself and left the way it came. A hailstorm followed the wind, with hailstones reported to be the size of golf balls. There did more crop and fruit tree damage, and broke windows. The storm also damaged government-owned power lines running from Demison Dam on the Red River to Arkansas.

Agreement Provides for Extension

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Southern Democrats today promised to go down the line for one of President Truman's campaign pledges—extension of the trade agreements program in its original form.

Senator George (D-Ga.), who will lead the administration battle in the Senate, told a reporter he expects to win approval of the trade program in about 10 days. Senators Byrd (D-Va.) and Sparkman (D-Ala.) said they will support George. But Senate Republicans with promised help of some Northern Democrats are planning another presidential upset.

The situation is this: The reciprocal trade program permits the president to cut import duties when other countries reduce their tariffs for our goods. From the time Congress must renew this authority. Last year the Republican-dominated 80th Congress put on some restrictions President Truman didn't like. Now he wants these restrictions eliminated. Senator Millikin (R-Colo.) has been fighting the administration plan for more than a month and he confided "there will be much to say before we reach a vote."

Millikin, with solid backing of GOP Leaders Taft of Ohio and Wherry of Nebraska, wants to retain existing restrictions upon the presidential authority to cut this country's import duties. They will concentrate upon retention of the "peril point" provisions inserted by the 80th Congress. Under these Tariff Commission was directed to fix a "peril point" for cutting tariffs below which domestic industry would be threatened with injury. If the President goes below this point—he must explain why to Congress this week. The House already has knocked out this and other GOP restrictions on the trade pact program and Millikin fought to retain them in the Senate Finance Committee this week. He lost by a 7 to 6 party line vote.

House Group Eyes Military Payroll Bill

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A bill to give the nation's military payroll its first general overhauling in over 40 years is up for approval by the House Armed Services Committee this week. The bill would raise military pay an average of about 14 percent. The increases would be scaled from about three percent for the next to lowest enlisted grades up to almost 50 percent for brigadier generals and Navy officers of comparable rank.

The man at the bottom of the list—the Army's "recruit" and the Navy "boot"—would not get any boost at all. The Kilday subcommittee defends this stoutly. Since 1908, the date of the last general pay raise, the Army's "recruit" and the Navy "boot" have been hiked 10 percent, committee men said last week, while the enlisted men at the other end of the line have gone up about 400 percent.

Military unions have estimated the bill would increase the combined Army, Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps payroll about $400,000,000 a year. Clean-up, fix-up, paint-up campaign will continue as scheduled, Edward Vineyard, chairman, said this morning. Residents of Ward 2 have been urged to fill their alleys with trash so the Kiwanis Club sponsored trash pick-up may start Wednesday, he added.

Clean-Up Drive Will Continue

Clean-up, fix-up, paint-up campaign will continue as scheduled, Edward Vineyard, chairman, said this morning. Residents of Ward 2 have been urged to fill their alleys with trash so the Kiwanis Club sponsored trash pick-up may start Wednesday, he added. The alleys in all of the wards are too muddy to risk trucks picking up. Vineyard said. "However, if weather conditions permit the drive's continuance Wednesday, we can get started on Ward 2." Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored trucks will haul away the debris from Ward 3 as soon as possible. "Eighty-six loads of trash were hauled from Ward 2 to the city dump last week before the rains came. Last year's drive netted more than 300 loads, so Pampans will have to do a lot of cleaning before we surpass last year," he said.

Hobbs' Condition Reported 'Fine'

City Commissioner Vernon Hobbs, stricken Thursday morning with a heart attack, was reported today by his physician as "fine as a frog." However, the "no visitors" rule was still in effect, his doctor reported. Thursday morning physicians stated the commissioner would have to undergo a rest period of at least six to eight weeks.

Constitution for Germany Adopted

BONN, Germany — (AP) — The Germans at last have the Constitution for a new West German republic — Democratic, unarmored and pledged to peace. Today it is being rushed to Western zone military governors for final approval. The 11 West German states' legislatures must ratify it yet, too. Despite opposition from states fighters, some centrists and the Communists, the German Constitutional Convention approved it, 53 to 12, last night.

The Constitution leaves the door open for the Russian Zone to join the new state — if free elections take place in Soviet-controlled East Germany. The four-power council of Foreign Ministers will discuss the German question generally in Paris May 28. However, at present German Communists say they are proceeding with an "all-German government" in the Russian Zone. Not mentioned in the final Constitution were the reservations which the U. S., British and French made at Washington (See CONSTITUTION, Page 2)

Tidelands Argued in U.S. Court

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Opening of a new skirmish in the multi-billion-dollar battle over oil-rich tidelands was called for today in the Supreme Court. Texas and Louisiana take the position that the court should not let the United States file suits against them which seek to establish federal control over submerged lands in the Gulf of Mexico. They said they foresaw years of tangled litigation. The United States previously won a Supreme Court ruling that the federal government possesses "paramount rights in, and full dominion and power over" submerged lands off the California coast. That ruling was given two years ago, but disputes over it are still unsettled.

Landlords Rush to File Rent Forms

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of landlords are filing out forms needed to increase rents — but that doesn't necessarily mean a general lifting of rent ceilings. This double announcement came over the weekend from federal rent officials. They said: 1. At least 500,000 landlords have already taken out official forms to petition for a rent increase, and the government is printing an additional 400,000 application sheets to meet the demand. 2. The rush for such forms is due to the fact that, if an increase is granted to a landlord, it dates back to the time he filed his petition. However, each petition will be handled separately, for approval or rejection.

The new rent control law directs federal officials to set ceilings that will reflect a fair net operating income for landlords. Housing Expediter Tighe Woods released his formula for determining such a fair income one week ago. Under Wood's formula, landlords operating one to four dwelling units will be allowed rent increases if their net operating income is less than 25 percent of gross income; their rents would be raised to a 30 percent level. Landlords operating more than four units will be permitted to bring operating income up to 25 percent if the net figure is now below 20 percent.

Solon Quits Pact Session

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Watkins (R-Utah) quit the North Atlantic Pact hearings today, declaring he was "sick and tired of being humiliated" by Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Watkins has been a persistent critic of the treaty. He has been permitted to question witnesses during the hearing although he is not a committee member. Military unions have estimated the bill would increase the combined Army, Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps payroll about $400,000,000 a year.

Higher Costs Cause Merger Of Newspapers

LAWTON, Okla. — (AP) — Ned Shepler, publisher of the Lawton Constitution, announced he had purchased the Lawton Morning Press. Effective Saturday, both the Constitution, an afternoon newspaper, and the Press will be published in the Constitution's two papers will be combined. The Sunday edition of the two papers will be combined. The sale of the Morning Press was made by Lawton Newspapers, Inc., of which J. L. Jennings was business manager. Bob Kniseley resigned recently as editor and publisher. Kniseley headed a group which bought control of the company from Carl J. Bergman in February, 1948. Shepler said his purchase included the name, circulation and certain other assets of the Press, but not its Lawton plant. The Press is in its 16th year as a morning paper in Lawton. The Constitution has been published for 48 years. Both will continue members of the Associated Press. Shepler said: "This merger has been brought about by constantly mounting costs of newspaper publication."

INGRID'S HUSBAND—Dr. Peter Lindstrom, husband of Screen Actress Ingrid Bergman, carries a brief case as he prepares to leave Rome, Italy, via plane for Sweden, where he will visit his father. # Ex-Convict Picked Up In Burglary

Two veteran and two rookie policemen Sunday morning cracked the city's latest burglary — less than 12 hours after it was committed. Chief of Police Louis Allen reported that police had picked up an ex-convict in connection with the early Sunday morning burglary of the Smoke House Beer Tavern, 321 W. Foster, when $95 in nickels, $10 in dimes and $5 in quarters were taken from two pin ball machines, a cigarette vendor, and a juke box. This was the second time the tavern has been robbed this year. The first burglary is still unsolved. Veteran Policemen S. B. Patterson, Joe Wilkinson and rookie Patrolmen Clarence Godfrey and L. D. Hillburn were credited with the solution of the case and capture of H. B. Line, ex-convict, at the Court House Cafe shortly before 10 a.m. yesterday. Allen said Line made a statement to police Sunday that he broke the glass in the rear door of the tavern and used a nail bar, screw driver and ice pick to crack into the three machines. He also told police he had the money cached away in a bureau drawer of his room in the Hillson Hotel Annex. The money was later recovered by police where Line said it was.

Choice on Bill Action Up to Truman

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman may have to choose between early Senate action of the North Atlantic Security Treaty or on the administration's labor bill. Legislative leaders were reported planning to ask the President at their weekly White House conference today which he would first. If a decision is forthcoming it may affect House timing of the controversial labor measure. Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee told reporters he plans to ask Senator Lucas of Illinois the Democratic leader, to schedule the treaty for the earliest possible Senate action. Lucas had indicated previously he wanted to get some of President Truman's domestic program cleared before taking on what promises to be a tough Senate debate over the treaty. ## Compact Furnishings, Right Colors Enlarge Small House

The small home that first loomed so large on the American scene just before the war as housing has undergone such steady evolution in design that today's small home barely resembles it. Today's small home is so well-planned that a 10x11 foot bedroom seems spacious; a 9x11 foot kitchen almost over-sized.

Architects have abandoned their old method of laying out the interior of a house after the exterior was designed. Architects in all sections who today are concentrating on the small home design the interior first. They use enormous ingenuity in utilizing every inch of space, every bit of knowledge of color and light, every new development in building materials and equipment to make today's small home as livable as the larger prewar home.

Partitions are no longer placed arbitrarily to close off space regardless of the family's needs and habits. Wall locations are planned to bring doors near each other, eliminating crisscross "traffic" through rooms.

Partitions are thinner and fewer than a few years ago. Although a 2-inch saving on each side of a partition may appear unimportant, when 2 inches are saved on each side of the 66 feet of partition walls in the average small home, the total saving amounts to 22 square feet; nearly 230 cubic feet.

Window placement creates maximum wall areas for furniture grouping without sacrificing space, as so often happens when wall areas are narrow and skinty.

Hallways are eliminated. The front door opens into a small vestibule or directly into the living-room. To make space for a picture window on the front of the house, the entrance is often placed at a corner of the house. In such a case, stairs to the attic rise on the end wall of the living-room.

Architects employ open construction and careful use of color and light to make rooms appear larger. The dining room has become a part of the double-duty living-room. Storage walls separate room areas. Wide windows admit maximum light. Bright but soft and glareless artificial illumination is provided in "concealed" spaces or recessed walls and ceiling fixtures. Color values are kept light to give a feeling of cheer and of greater space and to avoid an oppressive sense of crowding.

This use of color embraces walls, ceilings, furnishings, floors and draperies. Interior designers consider floor color an integral part of each room. They create floor color harmony and contrast at low cost by using asphalt tile flooring, available in such a wide range of marbled and plain colors that it can harmonize with any decorative plan.

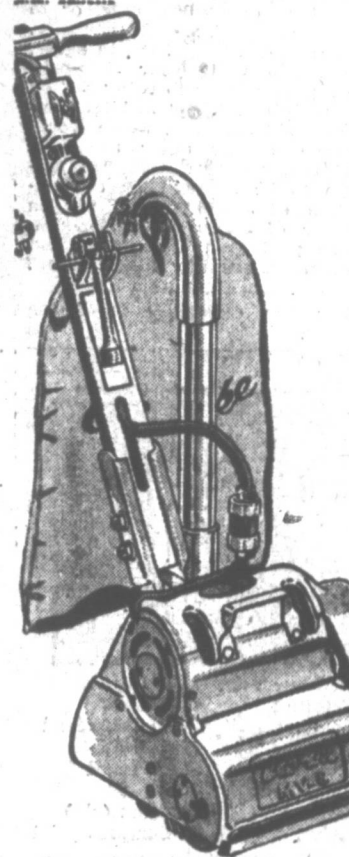

Apparent size of rooms is increased by pastel wall color with woodwork to match. Draperies are hung beside rather than over windows to help convey an impression of space.

One of the greatest post-war space-savers in small homes is the reduction in size of radiators or eliminating them altogether. For a home heated with steam or hot water, today's radiators are half the size of those a decade ago, and when recessed into walls waste practically no space. Even this space is saved in the home which has warm-air grilles in walls, hot-water coils embedded in its concrete floor, or steam or hot water circulating through baseboard radiators.

Kitchens are compact for maximum storage in minimum space. This trend saves steps, lessens work. Revolving shelves are placed in cabinets where they join at a corner. Sliding cupboard doors save space used by swinging doors. Cabinet shelves are placed at irregular heights so that bulky articles can be stored in the same compartment with low stacks of dishes and utensils. Wall cupboards extend to the ceiling; additional work surfaces are provided by auxiliary counter tops which slide or swing beneath the work surfaces of floor cabinets.

A job shortage always changes some lazy loafers into unfortunate victims.

Blow Out the Heat to Keep House Cool

WHAT ATTIC FAN DOES

By ROBERT SCHARFF
Written for NEA Service

You can make your home comfortably cool this summer. That doesn't mean a complete air conditioning system, with ducts; that's not practical in most existing homes. But there are several simple things you can do to increase home comfort during the months ahead.

An unventilated attic may be a source of as much heat energy as the sun itself. Heat absorbed during the day is radiated down into the house at night.

Louvers at each end of the attic will allow heat to escape. There should be at least 35 square inches of opening for each 100 square feet of attic floor. A piece of wire mesh behind the louvers will keep out insects and leaves.

An attic fan of proper size is a good way to bring cool night air into your home. The fan pushes the hot air out of the attic, allowing cooler air to enter through downstairs doors and windows.

KITCHEN FAN AT WORK

Your local electric company or appliance dealer has information on the size of fan for your home.

The kitchen is another source of heat. An exhaust fan, either fitted directly into the window, or set into the wall and controlled with a pull chain or switch, will provide relief.

Direct sunshine on windows, which raises the temperature indoors, can be stopped with open-side awnings, which form no hot air pockets outside the window. The color of outside walls can also affect the amount of inside heat. Dark outside colors absorb heat. Light outside colors reflect heat, making inside temperatures from 5 to 20 degrees cooler on hot days.

Good insulation in walls and ceilings will make at least a 15 degree difference in room temperatures by stopping penetration of heat and retarding extreme changes of indoor temperature. It also saves upwards of 30 percent on your winter fuel bill.

Stucco Saves on Heat, Paint And Lasts Longer Generally

Accelerated efforts of the nation's building industry and the federal government to produce low-cost homes of high quality as the main housing goal during 1949 is bringing stucco exterior walls back into use. It was reported by the Construction Research Bureau, New York clearing house for building information.

Savings ranging from $1.30 to $2 per square yard of surface, depending on local labor and material costs, are reported from all over the country where stucco is being used instead of wood siding. For a one-story 30x25-foot house, such as is being built extensively today in the economy housing program, savings on this basis range from $140 to $220 per house.

Reason for the cost difference is not only because the stucco material is less expensive but also because it is applied more quickly than siding with lower labor expense.

Builders using stucco construction, point out that money is also saved on paint since the modern practice is to mix color into the cement, sand, lime and gravel mixture of which the stucco finish is composed.

Three successive coats of the mixture are troweled over wire mesh attached to wood sheathing and the masonry makes a firm bond, less likely to crack than if applied over wooden lath as was the practice 20 years ago.

Thermal insulation is even more imperative with stucco walls than with wood siding. This is because heat escapes more rapidly through stucco than through wood, according to findings of the Small Homes Council of the University of Illinois.

Experiments conducted by the university with one-story homes showed that 304 heat units were required to properly heat a stucco house and 100 heat units for wood siding when neither house was insulated. Installation of weatherstrip, storm windows and full-thick mineral wool insulation in walls and roof saved 50 heat units in the stucco house, 47 in the all-wood structure. Heat savings were exactly the same until it came to the walls. There, the five-proof mineral wool batts and blankets between the wall studs saved 18 heat units in the stucco house, 13 in the house with

Year Round Play Room In Basement

If you heat your home with steam or hot water, a little time and effort plus, of course, a little money, are the only ingredients needed to transform a basement from a dark, damp catch-all into a room or rooms where the family can play and live. With adroit planning, quality construction and efficient heating equipment, the basement can become a comfortable play area all year 'round.

The extra space is more important than ever in these days of high building costs. Too many home owners abandon the basement because of dampness, inadequate lighting or heating equipment which makes excessive demands on available space.

In homes heated with hot air, the large ducts of the distribution system are a barrier to effective modernization. Usually, much more basement space is available in homes heated by hot water or steam. Instead of large ducts, steam and hot water systems use only small pipes which run almost flush against the ceiling and connect with the individual room heating units and thus give greater flexibility to conversion of the basement area. For heating the basement play area, new compact convective radiators are simple to install and require little space. These radiators may be recessed in the walls to give extra space, if needed.

Homes Account For More Than Half of Awards

AUSTIN—(AP)—New home construction spurred upward last week to help bolster the industry after last month's sag.

The Texas Contractor, trade publication, reported that in May's first week construction contracts totaled $21,864,851. More than half of it, $13,532,150, went into new homes.

Houston accounted for most of the home building. There, 1,410 small homes were placed under contract. Only 102 additional small homes (costing under $7,000) went under contract elsewhere in the state. There were 88 more expensive homes, apartments providing 224 one-family units, and four duplex apartments.

Non-residential construction contracts for the week totalled $7,904,136. Engineering contracts amounted to $428,868.

The activity marked recovery from the lowest week of the year last week when total awards dipped to $8,634,253.

Total construction contracts for the year to date stood at $337,922,975.

WHITE TO BLACK

In contrast to the snowy owl, which is black when young, there is the booby, a species of gannet, which grows from a snow-white fledgling into a black-plumed adult.

wood siding. This is one of the reasons why the Small Homes Council declares: "Insulation is needed in all homes that use heating systems in winter or are exposed to high temperatures in summer."

Resumption of stucco construction is regarded with favor by the FHA, which now guarantees a majority of small home mortgages. Properly applied, stucco meets FHA structural requirements, but the presence of insulation also is considered by the FHA when evaluating a house prior to guaranteeing a loan.

Russian Overtures Result Of a Worsening Economy

By JOHN FISHER
The latest development in the Berlin blockade case is evidence that a firm-chinned America can win economic battles in the cold war with the Soviet Union.

Wary diplomats believe that had Russia's own economy and that of her satellites been stronger than the rival West, Germany might have gravitated toward the Soviet system. But the opposite is the fact. Dominant Russia, in itself, is a backward country, notwithstanding the propaganda gloating over the supposed success of her (1946-50) Five Year Plan.

Her sickly economy offers no inducement to the Germans who watch rehabilitation in the Allied zone. Her inherent industrial weakness prevents Russia from attempting aggressive war which Marxist prophecy foresees and her hothouse desire.

Although the statistics of Moscow's industrial statistics are hidden by censorship, certain significant bits of information leak out. When appraised, these prove that the economy of the Soviet Union is still far behind our own.

Elsewhere progress is not so encouraging. N. A. Voznesenski has been made the scapegoat for this. He was formerly the boss of the all-important Gosplan (State Planning Commission), deputy prime minister and member of the Politburo. He has been stripped of all three jobs — the first to be done in a decade.

Unlike in other years, his name did not appear on the official list of dignitaries for Moscow's May Day celebrations. His banishment from the top dog ranks is a sign that under the Five Year Plan, failure to meet Stalin's expectations.

There is other evidence in addition to his fall. Moscow has tried to hide Gosplan faltering by publishing general statistics, showing that various industrial ministries reached or surpassed their 1948 targets.

But gimlet-eyed American economists warn that such figures — even if accurate — reveal only half-pictures. War industry records are hush-hush. Peace index figures are reckoned on the basis of the value of goods produced.

Thus a ministry can concentrate on a narrow field of high-priced goods, to the neglect of its less expensive items, and give the impression that it has gone over the top.

We have disclosures from Russian sources of this phony book-keeping. For example, Pravda in a drive to stimulate production, disclosed that Gosplan quotas had not been reached in autos, steam turbines, mining cranes, Diesel engines, chemical equipment, textile machinery, tractors and electric motors and generators.

Yet in reports circulated outside the Iron Curtain the ministries in charge of various items including these categories were credited with attaining their overall goals.

A Soviet economic journal in an effort to combat slow-downs reported that several local consumers' goods industries had exceeded 1947 output but had dropped behind in certain specific lines.

The Armenian S.S.R. was up 19 percent on overall but down in footwear, metal household goods and furniture. The Azerbaijan S.S.R. was up 12 percent on overall but down on stockings, bricks, lime and soap.

A recent copy of the Bolshevik berates Gosplan functionaries for manifold shortcomings. "In a large number of enterprises," it complains, "technical discipline is grossly violated, goods produced are of bad quality and the number of rejects is considerable."

As a consequence, thousands have been arrested for slackness. Lateness, absenteeism, Monday morning hangers and minor infractions, which in other lands would not be considered crimes, are rated as sabotage. The guilty are treated as "public enemies" and are shipped to concentration camps.

Others punished with long terms in slave colonies are known as "hair-dressers," persons who switch from collective farms. In this class are hungry peasants caught cutting ears of corn, digging potatoes at night or borrowing a cup of milk from a Kolkhoz cow for a sick child.

The brutal Soviet system impartially squeezes labor, whether free or slave. Men and women are placed on piece work. To increase production their quotas are raised without a corresponding boost in pay.

If, in an attempt to obtain extra food for their overworked, half-starved bodies, they pilfer a vegetable or two, they are sent to concentration camps or Siberian colonies. There the government receives the benefit of their back-breaking toil without the payment of wages.

Their fate is described by Vladimir Petrov, an instructor at Yale University, who was six years in a Soviet prison camp. "It was much better to be a horse than a human. The horse worked only eight hours a day and its groom was punished heavily if it suffered an accident. The human worked 15 hours a day and nothing happened to his guard if there was an accident."

Common Ground

By R. C. HOYLES
Why the Farm Subsides?

There are, of course, various forms of government subsidies of one kind or another. The farmers were subsidized years and years ago when they established the Agricultural Department. That was just the beginning of farm subsidies. The federal government was attempting to do something for the farmers that the farmers should have and would have done themselves much better than the federal government did.

Then we established a subsidy to farmers by establishing a loaning agency to loan money to them at less than market rates of interest. This stimulated a lot of additional production and helped keep the prices down lower than they would have been had the government not extended a subsidy credit.

Probably the reason people began to think that the farmers needed assistance was because labor unions had combined and with the assistance of class legislation such as the Norris-LaGuardia Act and the Wagner Law and tariffs and immigration restrictions the city workers were getting wages entirely out of proportion to what the farmers received having the same skill and same ability. When the government starts to interfere with a free market and to establish values it leads on from one step to another.

It seems absurd to think that we are an educated people and to believe federal laws that compel the United States government to guarantee a certain price to farmers and to guarantee this by having the federal government buy the produce if there is no market for them.

Now we have a nice example of how wasteful and costly such a policy is. The Alkali-Hoppe farm bill in 1948. The purpose of it was to support farm prices. The government had helped organized labor get a non-competitive wage so the farmers demanded the same help.

The result is that the Department of Agriculture Commodity Credit Corporation now has millions of dollars worth of surplus potatoes, dried eggs and dried milk. Nobody wants them now at any price. These perishable goods are rotting in the hands of the government.

Remember how people criticized Wallace for proposing to kill the pigs when they were little. It might have been better to kill the little pigs than to waste the feed and energy to raise them and then have the government buy them and eventually destroy them.

This farm commodity scheme to support prices now is so absurd that the bureaucrats are scared lest the housewife and the voters will sicken of it. So they now want to try something else. No matter what they try, it will be just as costly and wasteful as the present parity scheme. Now the secretary of agriculture proposes that we let the price on farm commodities go down and then the government will give the farmers the difference between what the bureaucrats call "parity" and what they get for it.

Of course, when the price is low, the housewife will buy more of what is high. Thus more will be piled up in the hands of the government and the more will be produced out of proportion to what other things are needed. If the secretary of agriculture attempts to do a question of time until the people will begin to see how unsound and costly it is.

The next step, of course, will be to see that no farmer can get his subsides unless he limits his acreage. The government will probably establish some percentage of what the individual produced previously. That will mean that eventually the farmer cannot grow as fast as he usually would permit him to grow. It will mean that efficient farmers will still stay in business instead of working with somebody who could better see what things were in demand. If we had attempted to do this to the farmer, it would have only permitted them to produce by giving each an automobile quota, we wouldn't have had the improvement and development and the quality of automobiles for the price that we have today.

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — President Truman will probably withhold the renomination of Leland Olds, a Franklin D. Roosevelt protégé, to the Federal Power Commission until it becomes clear whether present negotiations with Russia for settlement of the German controversy succeed or collapse.

Mr. Truman would like to re-name Mr. Olds because the appeal which the move would have to stifle being a "Moscow party liner." And this commission will eventually have considerable voice in the eventual development of atomic power for commercial and industrial use.

In their present mood, senators will hardly confirm any man even slightly suspect of such an important post. They revealed their critical attitude in handing the nominations of Mon C. Wallgren to the National Security Resources Board and of John Carson to the Federal Trade Commission.

But if Moscow unbends a and agrees even to a small degree of cooperation in Europe and elsewhere, the climate on Capitol Hill might be more favorable to Mr. Olds's reappointment. If not, the New Yorker may become a victim of the "cold war."

TRUBLE — Mr. Olds's strong-est ally on the commission — Thomas C. Buchanan of Pennsylvania — is also involved in trouble. Unless their difficulties can be straightened out, the agency now so extremely pro-public power may have a new lineup, with no assurance that it would pursue the present policies.

At the urging of Senator Francis J. Myers of Pennsylvania, Democratic whip and Truman's friend, Mr. Buchanan was named to the commission. But his association with and support of Olds antagonized Senate Republicans and conservative Democrats and he has not yet been confirmed. His more recent testimony at Congressional hearings on public utility and natural gas questions have tended to hurt his chances.

"TEST" — He did nothing to improve them when he wrote an indiscreet letter to a Pennsylvania politician in a staff fall's campaign. He said that Truman defeat seemed likely, and he intimated that he would not regard such an event as a calamity.

Senator Myers and Mayor David Lawrence of Pittsburgh have tried to persuade President Truman to forget and forgive. They have begged him to exert influence on behalf of a Buchanan confirmation. So far the White House has done nothing in that direction.

MEDICAL NON-CARE
By George Feick
In a previous article I pointed out that "Free Medicine" has now been taken to "Excessive Medicine" in Germany.

Germany. At a peak at what has happened in New Zealand, which made the sad mistake of instituting a program of compulsory health insurance. Since 1939 the New Zealand Government has brought under its control by nationalization, the banks, dental profession, chemists, masseurs, National Airways, and many other formerly private businesses and professions. This served to prove that the regimentation of its medical profession was but the entering wedge, part of a carefully calculated plan of the "Left-Wingers" to socialize completely New Zealand's economy. There is no reason to doubt that the proponents of "Free Medicine" here have in mind the eventual complete socialization of the United States.

In propaganda used by the sponsors of the New Zealand law, the word "free" was used in many instances. For example, it was stated that the act would provide pharmaceutical benefits "free of any cost to the patient," and State hospital benefits "free of cost to the patient." The tax deductions and other expenses were not mentioned. Today Social Security expenditures equal $60 per person per year, or approximately one-fourth of the Government's total income.

Does this "Free-For-$60-Per-Year" program give the New Zealand adequate medical care? Not by a jugful. A New Zealander is required to pay a considerable propaganda egg and a couple of hammy diplomats and George says, there isn't a day goes by that they don't bring some new beef to our State Department.

Why does a New Zealander get so little for the $60 per year he is taxed for medical care? The answer lies in the fact that the greater part of this $60 is absorbed in the cost of administration. An army of civilian servants is engaged full time in routine work, checking claims and making payments to doctors.

Of course, this medical plan is costing New Zealand more per year than was anticipated. It is almost six times as much. There is nothing strange about that, such is always the case. All the evidence proves that "Free Medicine" is not "Free" in New Zealand. It is a costly, wasteful and awfully darned inefficient, just as it is in every country that has embarked on such a Utopian scheme. We do not want the kind of medical care that is to be more factual, medical non-care, in the United States. If you agree, won't you write your Congressman and Senators to vote "No" on House Bill H.R. 783 and its companion Bill Senate S. 5, which would provide, among other things, a compulsory health insurance program to be financed by the collection of a 6% payroll tax on salaries of $3,600 and under—3% to be paid by the employee and the same amount by the employer?

The sun constantly is losing weight.

ROGER THE LODGER
By Elizabeth R. Roberts
THE STORY: Mr. and Mrs. Roberts are having a picnic in their garden. They are sitting at a table, and Mrs. Roberts is talking to her husband about the picnic. She says that she has a picnic basket, and she asks her husband if he has a picnic basket. He says that he has a picnic basket, and she asks him if he has a picnic basket.

OUR garden was so appreciated that summer, and such a lot of young people spilled over and brought picnic suppers with them, which also spilled over, that we decided we needed some outdoor cooking equipment. It would save us a lot of tramping in and out of the house for coffee, salt and pepper, mayonnaise, paper plates, paper napkins, ice—all the thousand things which piling up requires and which are remembered one at a time. So we got a rolling barbecue grill on which the coffee could be made out of doors, potatoes baked or a casserole heated, and even steaks or chickens or chops or hamburger broiled.

Then we dreamt up a chuck wagon or sort of mobile kitchen cabinet and serving table combination, and called our neighborhood handyman in to build it. The carpenter's version, built to my specifications, took on the precise shape and proportions of a piano box. There were wheels at one end and long handles protruding from the other.

At first it looked like a monstrous wheelbarrow. But by the time I had painted the front and back white, so the deal Bulgarian wheels would stand out, the wheels and handles, black; the inside yellow and white; and applied the over-all pattern—a deal border of flowers, fruits, sunny vegetables, and little figures, it could have been entered in any class of cart. Personally, though prejudiced by a hundred dollars cash outlay, several nights of lost sleep planning it, and several days of work decorating it, I thought it looked like a ravishing Old Country barrel organ.

Her sickly economy offers no inducement to the Germans who watch rehabilitation in the Allied zone. Her inherent industrial weakness prevents Russia from attempting aggressive war which Marxist prophecy foresees and her hothouse desire.

Although the statistics of Moscow's industrial statistics are hidden by censorship, certain significant bits of information leak out. When appraised, these prove that the economy of the Soviet Union is still far behind our own.

Unlike in other years, his name did not appear on the official list of dignitaries for Moscow's May Day celebrations. His banishment from the top dog ranks is a sign that under the Five Year Plan, failure to meet Stalin's expectations.

There is other evidence in addition to his fall. Moscow has tried to hide Gosplan faltering by publishing general statistics, showing that various industrial ministries reached or surpassed their 1948 targets.

But gimlet-eyed American economists warn that such figures — even if accurate — reveal only half-pictures. War industry records are hush-hush. Peace index figures are reckoned on the basis of the value of goods produced.

Thus a ministry can concentrate on a narrow field of high-priced goods, to the neglect of its less expensive items, and give the impression that it has gone over the top.

We have disclosures from Russian sources of this phony book-keeping. For example, Pravda in a drive to stimulate production, disclosed that Gosplan quotas had not been reached in autos, steam miracle. Neither Russia nor any of its satellites was there. But there were big trading nations like Britain, big exporters of raw materials like Canada, big underdeveloped countries like India and China, state-trading nations like Czechoslovakia, and free enterprise countries like the U. S.

They all had the common interest and knowledge that there had to be some order in world trade relations to govern tariffs, customs, cartels, commodity agreements, quotas, nondiscrimination, state-trading, guarantees to foreign investors, development of backward countries and raising the world standard of living.

Opposition to the ITO in the United States is of three principal kinds. All will be heard at length during Congressional hearings. First are representatives of those U. S. industries that favor high American tariffs for protection from foreign competition. They are the wool, textile, pottery, glass and chemical industries.

Second are the perfectionists. There are some points about the present charter they don't like. They therefore condemn the charter would give the U. S. only one vote in ITO. The one-vote-per-country principle is well established in United Nations procedure as protection for smaller countries. Critics think the United States should have voting strength proportionate to its percentage of world trade.

separately instead of trying to make agreements with them all at the same time.

THIRD FACTION
The third kind of opposition to ITO comes from those who do not like present world trends toward nationalization of industry and state trading. People who view this trend with alarm think that the way to beat it is for the United States to band with other like-minded nations and get tough about it to impose their free enterprise ideas on the rest of the world.

When all this opposition to the ITO charter is brought together, it amounts to spokesmen for half a dozen special interests: National Association of Manufacturers, American Tariff League, National Association of Wool Manufacturers, America's Wage-Earners Protective League — backed by a few A. F. of L. unions in tariff-protected industries — the U. S. ceramics industry and the far-flung DuPont enterprises.

SEAFOOD DRESSING

A delicious dressing for seafood is prepared from thick sour cream to which chili sauce, minced green pepper and pimento are added. Serve with shrimp or crabmeat.

Brussels sprouts, for holiday meals, may be cooked whole or quartered. Be sure to remove wilted and discolored top leaves before washing; the tough core-like center end should be snipped off, too.

When baked custard is taken from the oven the cups should be cooled immediately in cold water to prevent the custard continuing to cook from the heat retained in the cups.

PERSIMMONS
If persimmons are available in your market they are delicious used for dessert. Wash, dry, cut in half and serve with a spoon. Or use them in a salad by combining with diced celery and French dressing.

SCRAMBLED EGGS
In making scrambled eggs do not overbeat the eggs; beat just until the yolks and whites are mixed. Have the butter or margarine in the skillet in which they are to be cooked very hot. Then lower the heat when the eggs are added.
