County commission sets tax rate .at 1981 level

BY SHEILA ECCLES Staff Writer

The 1981 Gray County tax rate was set at $.2737 per $100 evaluation during the regular session of the Gray County Commission Thursday

"This tax rate we set this year is equivalent to the 1981 tax rate, which - was based on a 23 percent evaluation. . Gray County Judge Carl Kennedy said.

A public hearing on the 1982 budget is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Oct. 13 in the Grav County Courthouse

The preliminary estimated receipts for the county were listed at $3,287,717. Total estimated expenditures reached $3,010,301

A $500,000 expenditure was added to the 1982 budget in connection with the widening of State Highway 70 from 21st Street to Loop 171. The county and city will be responsible for payment of the engineering and the storm sewers.

The $500,000 could have been taken from the $1.9 million surplus from the 1981 budget, but commissioners decided to leave the surplus collecting interest to be used for any non budgeted items at a later date

Commissioners discussed receiving revenue sharing funds which amount to $135,000 for 1982. The funds may not be available in 1983, and the surplus will be needed, according to Precinct 3 Commissioner Jimmy McCracken

In other business, commissioners approved sending a letter to Governor Bill Clements and Railroad Commission Chairman Jim Nugent concerning the recent resolution before the Texas Railroad Commission concerning oil and gas production.

The letter will state. "We have become aware of the resolution to redefine oil field rules. We are against anything that would adversely affect the economy of Gray County.

In a discussion of the battle heating up with Phillips Petroleum Company and the Texas Railroad Commission.

Commissioner McCracken said, "This fight is just one sided - Phillips's

Commissioners designated eight voting places for the 1981 election to include one box for the Gray County Courthouse, Steven F. Austin School, McLean, M. K. Brown, Lefors, Horace Mann School, Grandview School and the City of Alanreed.

Nomina ions for the five - member Gray County Central Appraisal District Board were discussed, and according to Gray County Clerk Wanda Carter, only one name has been submitted for nomination, Lloyd Hunt from McLean.

The nine taxing entities in Gray County have until Oct. 15 to submit their nominations.

The situation in Gray County concerning the Central Appraisal District has become complicated and "We needed to appoint an appraisal board for 1981 so that we could be allocated some $13.000 in state funds. If all the board members elected for 1982 -83 agreed, they could possibly serve as an interim board for 1981. However, they all would have to agree and that seems to be the problem." Judge Kennedy said.

Commissioner McCracken said. Industry has been getting a break for years, and it has been up to the local homeowners to pay the taxes. Now it looks like due to the central appraisal district, they may have to pay more.

Airport business was again on the agenda, but this time it was the Perry Lefors Airport rating of a "B or a B plus" received from the FAA. according to Airport Chairman Bill Hallerburg said the rating of the FAA indicates that the airport is in good major shape. However, some suggestions were made concerning the

Comer resigns from DA post

Comer today announced he is resigning from the office to return to his private law practice. The resignation will be effective Jan. 31, 1982, he said.

"I am resigning because I need more time with the private practice of law. I have really enjoyed my tenure as district attorney for the past five years." Comer said this morning.

Comer said the district attorney's job is full - time, and it is next to impossible to be both district attorney and keep up a private practice at the same time

Comer's term is to expire in 1984, he said. adding under the state election code, his resignation will give persons interested in the position as district attorney time to file for the office in

The next District Attorney for the 31st and 223rd Judicial Districts will be elected in the November 1982 general elections and whoever is chosen will serve the remainder of the term. Comer

Pampan indicted for tax evasion

A Pampa man was indicted Thursday for two counts of income tax evasion. during Federal Grand Jury action in James U. (Bob) Wallace, formerly of Perryton, was indicted on two counts of willfully attempting to evade income taxes in 1974 and 1975.

The indictment charges that for the two year period. Wallace filed income tax returns reporting taxable income of $23,232,31 and income tax of $5,508,88.

Internal Revenue Service officials say Wallace should have reported a taxable income of $117.265.51 and an election, the governor will make an appointment," he said.

Comer was sworn in as district attorney on January 1, 1977. "I'm proud of the changes seen in the office since I've been here," he said. "I hope it will make it easier to operate for my successor He said since beginning as district attorney in 1977, the office was able to hire an assistant district attorney and investigator through federal grants. Penny Burt, the assistant district attorney, resigned her position in September Comer said he did not intend to fill the assistant DA position, so that his successor can hire someone suitable for the spot.

Comer said he had only two major cases, the stabbing murder in Roberts County and the Cabot arsenic poisoning, pending. He said he hoped to have both cases completed by the time of his resignation.

Reagan sets defensive

course

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan, announcing probably the most important military decision of his presidency, is setting a decades-long course for defense against what he considers a growing Soviet ability to wage all-out war.

While sources said the Reagan defense plan being unveiled todats on a scaled-down MX missile deployment in the West a of a new B-1 bomber, the exact scope of the MX system and where the nuclear missiles will be located were a closely held secret.

Reports that the Reagan plan would include 100 MX missiles scattered amid 1.000 shelters were labeled "so many errors" by administration spokesmen. but sources indicated it was the number of shelters - not missiles - that may have been wrong. The sources also said Reagan had not decided exactly where the missiles will be put Actual construction of the shelters is not scheduled to begin until 1984, so delaying a choice of sites, would not hold up putting the missiles in place.

The most likely locations are on government-owned land in Nevada. with other possible sites in Utah or in existing Minuteman missile silos in North Dakota, Montana and Wyoming.

Some 400 of the 1,000 Minuteman silos ould be easily modified for the V critics have contended these shelters are vulnerable to destruction by advanced Soviet weapons unless a second layer of defense - anti-ballistic missiles - are put in place.

Whatever the configuration of the plan, it will form the basis of U.S. defense policy for years because major weapons systems are not born in a day or even a decade.

A new generation of missiles such as the MX was first discussed in the mid-1960s, for instance, and the first MX, 10 nuclear warheads, will not be operational until the mid-1980s.

As for the B-1, development of a new bomber has been an Air Force priority since before the last B-52s - the stratofortresses - were produced in 1962. And sources say that at the same time the B-1 is being built, development will continue on the even more advanced, radar-eluding Stealth bomber, expected to be ready in the Former President Carter's MX plan called for 200 missiles to be shuttled among 4.600 shelters. The idea was to force the Soviets, whose increasingly accurate missiles make current fixed U.S. sites vulnerable.

Pantex survivors lose battle with government

survivors of three men killed in a 1977 explosion at the Pantex Nuclear Weapons Assembly plant have lost the first round in their suit against the federal government.

U.S. District Judge Mary Lou Robinson not only ruled the federal government was not responsible for the deaths, but also ordered the plaintiffs to reimburse the government for court costs. U.S. Attorney William Johnson said the costs would not exceed $500.

We will take it to a higher court We will take it to the Supreme Court, said Norma Grimes, the widow of one of the victims.

"I still think we have grounds to stand on." she added.

Survivors of the three victims had filed wrongful death suits against the government and asked for $750,000 in damages. Robinson heard the case in a non-jury trial in February Chester Grimes, Johnnie Hendershot and Ray Tucker were killed in the explosion on March 3, 1977 when one of them was "contact machining" LX-09. a plastic explosive. Contacting machining means an operator works directly with an explosive without safety barriers.

The procedure was prohibited under U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration regulations that required the work with explosives to be done from behind a safety barrier by using a closed-circuit

Attorneys for the survivors of the victims had argued the government was liable in the deaths because the federal agency had extended the plant's 1969 exemption from regulations barring contact machining. ERDA had continued the exemption in 1972 and 1975 based on safety tests conducted by Mason-Hanger explosives experts and the $2.1 million cost of the safety equipment

Robinson ruled the government was not liable because the deaths did not result directly from the actions of a federal employee. And she said ERDA 'did not fail to exercise reasonable by relying on data from Mason-Hanger's own explosives experts in granting the continuing exemption.

Robinson said the federal government was responsible for protecting the employees of its contractor or warning the contractor of the danger. Mason-Hanger was aware of the danger involved in the explosives processing, Robinson said.

Frances Tucker, the widow of engineering technician Ray Tucker said. "I think they should have ruled the other way. I think it was proven beyond a doubt that the machinery was out-dated.

Tucker's daughter. Sonia Dumas. said she was "certainly not surprised" by the decision, but declined to comment further until her attorney returned from out of state.

The Pantex plant is located about 17 miles northeast of Amarillo and serves as a final assembly point for U.S.-manufactured nuclear weapons.

tax on livestock Representatives of Texas Cattle Feeders Association were in Pampa Wednesday, pushing for support of Proposition 5. a proposed amendment to the state constitution making livestock and poultry non taxable farm products.

Richard McDonald, executive director of the organization, said the proposal is unusual because it is the only legislation to pass through the House of Representatives without a single dissenting vote.

Staff Writer

Proposition 5 is one of seven constitutional amendments to be decided in the Nov. 3 general election. This amendment will include livestock and poultry with other farm products already exempt from property (ad valorem) taxation.

McDonald explained that the amendment would clarify a vague statute in the constitution about farm products

In 1976, then Texas Attorney General John Hill ruled that livestock and poultry were not farm products. specified in the constitution as exempt from taxation, and were, therefore,

McDonald said this is unfair to the cattle and poultry owners in several ways.

First, Texas cattle feeders in counties who chose by local option to tax livestock have a disadvantage over those who do not, and over the competing states who do not tax livestock, he said.

Of the seven largest cattle - feeding that imposes an unconditional property

Pampa State Representative Foster Whaley, a strong proponent of the amendment, said Wednesday that in the past three years. Texas cattlemen have not had one four - month period when they were not "in the red. Whaley said the average 1.000 - pound steer is valued at $660. Depending on the school district and county the ranchers are paying over $10 a head in taxes on cattle they are already losing from $100 to $175 per head, he said

The constitution is hazy here. Whaley commented. "It's unfair to tax cattle and not tax maize or wheat.

The state representative said only 50 out of 1.080 school districts are now taxing livestock. Pampa Independent School District is one of these, and Gray County also taxes livestock, tax officials said. Whaley pointed out also that the tax revenue is hard to collect, since many of the owners are from out of state. McDonald said the revenue lost, if livestock were not taxed, would equal only one - fourth of one percent. In actual dollars, that is about $4.5 million,

However, the proposed amendment provides that school districts would receive increased state aid equal to about one - half of the lost revenue

Kenneth Graeber, executive director of the State Property Tax Board, said revenue from the livestock and poultry taxes often do not justify the administrative expense tax assessors to find, value and tax these animals." Graeber said "But, it has always been difficult to tax livestock because they are hard to locate on open rangeland and it's even more difficult to value them correctly.

Graeber added that taxing authorities with feedlots in their jurisdiction would be affected most by Moody Farms and Heaton Cattle Company are two feedlots near Pampa. Lee Wilcox, communications director for Texas Cattle Feeders Association. said these companies are suffering from the "blatant inequities" of the current state statute.

McDonald said the two cattlefeeding businesses here would move the money going into taxes from cattle into buildings and equipment, making the taxing process easier for the tax

Wilcox also pointed out that cattle feeders are taxed only on Jan. 1 of each year, a time when farmers are trying to rent their wheat pastures for cattle

Reaganomics: cuts begin to pinch

School lunch prices in Oklahoma are going up by a nickel, a dozen lawyers will have to be let go from Vermont's legal aid program and a 32-year-old Vietnam veteran in a Florida drug care center is worried about where he will

The warnings about the impact of the Reagan budget cuts are beginning to hit

"I almost feel like I'm sitting on death row," said Frances Kramer, director of elderly services for Dade County, Fla.

Reductions in some areas have been under way ever since legislation was passed trimming a wide variety of social programs. But the start of the new fiscal year Thursday provided a final deadline for many.

An Associated Press sampling found people being affected in many ways.

The last of 300,000 public service jobs paid for by the federal government under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act are being phased out. for example, at a savings of $4.6 billion. Four hundred CETA employees in Delaware worked their last day Wednesday

We had to lay off 150 people at midnight last night," said Ed Stanek, head of the Governor's Office for Planning and Programming in Iowa. Officials kept the CETA workers on the payroll until midnight, trying, unsuccessfully, to find a way to save the

The state transportation agency in Vermont announced 30 people will be laid off next week; the legal aid program will be cut by 25 percent and 12 lawyers will have to go.

State officials said that in the past they were successful in finding jobs for CETA workers whose positions were phased out; 80 percent either got new jobs, joined the armed services or entered employment training programs. But Jeanne Van Vlandren, director of employment and training for Vermont, said the success won't last. "It's one thing to find jobs for 10 people a day. Finding them for 1,000 people is something else again.

Vermont welfare officials said 2,500 people now receiving food stamps will be cut off by new eligibility requirements - the maximum annual income a family of four can have and still get food stamps dropped from $14,000 to $11,000. In Oklahoma, schools are raising lunch prices by 15 cents to 20 cents. Ten of the state's 22 Community Action Programs are going out of business, and 1,500 families will stop getting help under the Aid to Dependent Children program.

'Just wait until we see little children that don't have the money to buy these lunches." warned W.C. Pulliam. superintendent of schools in Oklahoma's Coal County

Officials in Washington state predicted the crunch will come gradually. "Things will be difficult throughout the month as people apply and we deal with the changes and people find they aren't eligible," said Bob Utter in the welfare office in Olympia. "There could be some unhappy folks."

Nation's unemployment rate climbs

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rising joblessness among adults and the highest rate ever for blacks sent unemployment up three-tenths of a percent to 7.5 percent in September, the Labor Department said today

The total number of people out of work neared 8 million - more than 300,000 above August's total, the department said.

For blacks, unemployment rose one-tenth of a percent to 16.3 percent, a record. The unemployment rate among whites in September jumped four-tenths of a percent to 6.5 percent.

Last month's 7.5 percent overall jobless rate was the highest since last November, except for a 7.6 percent rate in May, which government analysts attributed to a statistical fluke resulting from school terms ending earlier than in past years.

For black and other minority teen-agers, the jobless rate, which had jumped to 45.7 percent in August, dropped to 37.5 percent with the start of the new school year. For blacks and other minorities overall, the rate stood at 15.1 percent, one-tenth of a percent higher than in 'Clearly, there's considerable weakness in the economy," said Jack Breggar, a Labor Department analyst. He attributed much of the problem to declining employment in state and local governments, saying such things as cutbacks in federal education aid, resulting in teacher layoffs, and in federal subsidized public service job programs - mandated by the Reagan administration budget cuts - caused non-federal government employment to decline by 145,000.

Typifying the relative scarcity of jobs overall was the record 4.5 million people who accepted part-time employment last month, the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said. Total full-time employment month to a seasonally adjusted 98.3 million, compared to 98.9 million the month before. The entire decline occurred among white workers, primarily adult women, the department said. Of the total population, 58.1 percent nationwide fell by 670,000 over the held full- or part-time jobs in September.

The department also reported that the number of "discouraged workers" - those who have abandoned their job searches - grew by 1.1 million in the third quarter.

Violence flares as Iranians vote

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's government claimed a huge turnout today in Iran's third post-revolution presidential election. But violence flared despite precautions and six guerrillas were killed. Tehran Radio said.

Revolutionary Guards and special volunteers were posted at polling places as Iranians voted for a successor to assassinated President Mohammad Ali Rajai and motorbikes — a favorite vehicle of hit-and-run assassins - were banned for the day.

The state-run radio, monitored in Beirut, reported six Mujahedeen Khalq guerrillas slain in three incidents in the central Iranian city of Shiraz. Tehran Radio urged the nation's 20 million eligible voters to cast their ballots even if standing in long lines in the hot sun was "irritating.

The broadcast reminded them of the "oppressed martyrs ... who burned amid flames of fire." The radio referred to fire-bombings that have killed Rajai, his prime minister and the founder of the Islamic Republican Party. The assassinations were blamed on the Mujahedeen Khalq.

The current IRP head, Ali Khamenei, was considered a shoo-in to become Iran's third president in 22 months and the first clergyman head of state.

Khamenei, 42, faced three token opponents. But Tehran Radio and the city's newspapers have stopped mentioning the other candidates. instead reporting the likelihood of Khamenei's victory when the votes are tallied next week

Khomeini, the supreme leader of the revolutionary regime, stopped short of endorsing Khamenei by name but made clear in recent speeches that he wanted his election.

Latest changes in Social Security benefits

Several important changes have been made in Social Security benefits by a recently enacted law, Larry Mayo, Social Security branch manager in the Pampa office said recently. These changes include:

Mothers' and fathers' benefits. Benefits to mothers and fathers who receive benefits because they care for an entitled child will end when the youngest child reaches 16. Under the old law, benefits ended when the youngest child reached 18. For parents entitled to benefits in August 1981 or before, the change will become effective September 1983 or when the youngest child turns 18, whichever is soonest. The change is effective immediately for parents becoming entitled after August 1981.

Lump - sum death payments. Effective for deaths after August 1981. the lump - sum death payment can be made only where an eligible husband or wife survive or there is a child entitled to benefits. Under the old law, the lump - sum could be paid to the funeral home or the person who paid the funeral expenses if there was no eligible surviving husband or wife.

Annual earnings test. The new law delays the reduction in the annual earnings test exempt age from 72 to 70 until January 1983, instead of 1982 under the old law.

Month benefits begin. The new law allows payment of Social Security benefits to workers at 62 and for dependents of retired and disabled workers only for months in which conditions of eligibility are met for the entire month. Generally, this means that benefits would be paid first for the month after the month a person reaches 62. Under the old law, a benefit could be paid for the month a person reached 62. even if he or she reached 62 near the end of the month. Disability benefits. The change in the law concerns total income avialable to a disabled worker. Under the old law, a disabled worker under 62 who also receives workers' compensation would not receive combined Social Security and workers' compensation payments totaling more than 80 percent of his or her pre - disability earnings.

The new law makes 3 changes in this provision. First, the offset will also apply to disabled workers 62 - 64.

Second, the offset will apply to certain other disability benefits provided under federal, state, and local programs. Third, the offset will apply the first month the worker receives both Social Security and other public disability benefit This change in the law is effective for people who become disabled after February 1981 and who became entitled to disability benefits after August 1981. Student benefits curtailed. Social Security benefits to students 18 - 22 attending colleges and other post secondary schools will be sharply curtailed under a recently enacted law. First, children who become eligible for Social Security benefits after July 1982 will not receive post - secondary school student benefits.

Second, post - secondary school students who first become eligible for benefits in the period September 1981 -July 1982 will only receive benefits through July 1982 (one month for some students).

Finally, students currently receiving benefits (or child beneficiaries who begin their college or post - secondary education before May 1982) will receive limited student benefits.

Benefit rates for students who are eligible for continuing benefits will be frozen at the July 1981 level, Mayo said. Furthermore, these rates will be reduced 25 percent each year starting with August 1982, and benefits cannot be paid to students during May, June, July or August starting in 1982. As a result, no further student benefits will be paid after April 1985. Beginning August 1982, elementary and secondary school students can receive as under the old law, except that no benefits can be paid for months in school terms after a child reaches 19. Benefits to children who are not students will end at 18 as before.

Rumored Bullock redistricting effort against two Senators denied by his aide

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Comptroller Bob Bullock's stand-in on the Legislative Redistricting Board has denied reports that Bullock is trying to 'get' certain senators by eliminating their districts.

But, said Robert Spellings, a senatorial redistricting plan can satisfy legal requirements only if it "pairs" two West Texas senators and two East Texas senators.

Population shifts mean each of those two areas must give up a senator, said Spellings, Bullock's redistricting consultant and former deputy Lynn Moak, an aide to Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, chairman of the board, said such pairings of senators are unnecessary.

The five-member board has until midnight Oct. 28 to draw new House and Senate districts. Bullock is under treatment for alcoholism in California, but Spellings said he will return Oct. 23. Spellings denied reports that Bullock instructed Howard, D-Texarkana, with Sen. Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches, and Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, with some other senator, such as Ray Farabee. D-Wichita Falls, or Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville.

'I will swear on my children's head he has never told me, 'Go pair those people.' ... I'll take a lie detector test." Spellings said in a telephone

Howard and Jones have drawn Bullock's ire in recent months, and Jones has talked of running for comptroller

A friend of Bullock suggested Bullock might have 'popped off" that he would like to "get" Howard or lones through redistricting but never intended to follow through.

"My plan will have an East Texas pair and a West Texas pair ... It is obvious from a legal standpoint you have to make those pairs.... Personalities don't make any difference to me they just don't," Spellings said.

Legal requirements districts must meet under the federal Voting Rights Act and U.S. Supreme Court decisions include equality of population, protection of minority voting strength, compactness and community of interest. The Tyler Morning Telegraph this week said Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong reportedly backed Bullock's alleged plan to pair Howard and "That is an error. I am going to look at everybody's plan and see what looks right," said Armstrong, a board member.

Attorney General Mark White said he would have a Senate plan but would offer it only if the board can't agree on a remap he feels he can successfully defend in court.

'I would like to avoid pairs," he said. Moak said a West Texas pair and an East Texas pair were not necessary to withstand a legal

Tests begin on synthetic growth hormone

10-year-old Houston girl with the first dose of an experimental synthetic growth hormone said they were excited by the promise the new drug holds for children abnormally short because of glanular

Doctors at the Baylor College of Medicine said the synthetic hormone may be the answer to a shortage of the natural hormone that has severely restricted the number of children who could be treated.

'We're excited about this because in the past there have been serious problems with supply and demand that have limited the number of children who could receive the (natural) hormone." said Dr Rebecca T. Kirkland, a pediatrician at the Baylor College of Medicine.

She said the only source of the natural hormone has been the pituitary glands of cadavers. She said funded by Genetech as part of a clinical trial the hormone cost each patient $5,000 a year and was so scarce it could only be given to children whose pituitary gland did not produce the substance at all. Ms. Kirkland said the synthetic hormone could be

Ms. Kirkland and Dr. George W. Clayton, professor of pediatrics at Baylor and director of the Baylor Clinical Research Center, administered the first dose of the synthetic hormone Thursday to 10-year-old Shannon Pillow of Houston.

Shannon appears to be about 6 years old because of an injury to her pituitary gland caused by a car accident

She will continue to take the shots three times a week for a year, said Hazel Haby, spokesman for the Texas Children's Hospital, where the Baylor clinical center is located.

Shannon is about 44 inches tall. Doctors say normal 10-year-old girl should be about 54 inches.

The synthetic substance was made by Genetech Inc. of South San Francisco, Calif. The tests were supervised by Dr. Selna Kapland of the University of California at San Francisco. The synthetic drug is produced by taking bits of human growth hormone DNA, the substance in cells that determines hereditary, and combining them with E. coli bacteria. The bacteria then copy the DNA code and reproduce it.

"The hormone will not add inches to genetically determined height, but it can help children who are abnormally short because of deficient or ineffective growth hormones in their pituitary gland," Ms.

Ms. Kirkland said Shannon was chosen to be first to receive the new drug by "a lucky draw.

Mrs. Haby said Shannon and another abnormally short child under treatment here, Joe Dee Arrant, 8, of Newton, Texas, were among 25 selected in 10 medical centers across the nation to test the synthetic substance.

Both patients in the Texas Children's Hospital did not produce the hormone at all and would have been eligible to receive the natural substance. Ms. Kirkland said.

The doctors said no harmful side effects emerged in tests conducted earlier this year on adult dealers' invoices at the end of each month. Wayne Konitshek, acting chairman of the National Texaco Dealer Task Force, has said the processing charge will cost Texaco dealers business because they will be forced to raise their prices 4 cents a gallon. Texaco officials have maintained the cost increase will amount to only 1.5 cents a gallon.

About 40 representatives of dealers from across the nation are gathering this weekend in Houston to protest the charge. At a Thursday news conference, Konitshek told reporters he believes the charge "is a ploy to force additional dealers out of business." He said Texaco, like other major companies. overbuilt service stations in the 1960s.

Funding fantasies not very dependable

Politics tends to be the adult version of the childhood fantasy of getting something for nothing. A leading example is the hope of localities that if they can exert the right pull in the right places, then a bonanza of "free" federal money will Never mind that local taxpayers are the source of the bonanza, either for their communities or for the "free" money going to other communities. Most people indeed realize this, at least abstractly, but the fantasy of not having to live within one's means exerts a powerful appeal

Appealing or not, however, fantasies have the distinct liability of not being very dependable. Up in Colorado, one city found this out recently when a district court judge ismissed its appeal for federal nioney to fund a sludge - handling project. The city had believed that the grant from the Environmental Protection Agency was a sure thing. but now it doesn't seem so.

Economy moves by the Reagan administration and shifting priorities at the state level have put the sludge project far down on the list for funding. So costly and cumbersome is the illusion of something for nothing that many of the less adept political players end up with nothing in exchange for Pamnpa and other cities around the country are experiencing similar cutbacks in outside "free" funding.

Cities now plotting their courses may grow more leery of depending on such funds in the future. And to some citizens it may occur that city government itself may not be the agency best suited for providing such services as sewage treatment.

Conventional wisdom is that there are many things that only govrnment can do. But this strikes us as another fantasy, of dependence on a parent like figure in preference to the self reliance of induviduals using initative and enterprise to accompolish tasks.

Life without political fantasies can be demanding at times, but at least it spares the pain of rude awakening.

There's no substitute for the horse's mouth

president Reagan has had only three Washington press conferences since taking office last January. President Carter, at this point in his administration, had held 11, veteran UPI correspondent Helen Thomas pointed out recently Asked about why the president isn't meeting the press more often. assistant press secretary David Prosperi replied that "the president will hold a press conference when he's ready.

Well, we're ready, and by "we" we don't mean just the press. The purpose of a news conference is not the convenience of reporters. It is the enlightenment of the people. Granted. Reagan took a bullet last March and that put him out of commission for quite awhile. Granted, too, he has been taking a vacation, and no one ought to begrudge him that.

Still, events do not take a vacation. Things are happening abroad, in the Mideast, in southern Africa, in Central America., and at home. where the administration is in the throes of trying to figure our how to make additional spending cuts in order to keep Reagan's pledge of a balanced budget in 1984. It is all very well for this or that spolesman to relay his version of the president's thinking, but there's no substitute for the horses mouth.

Hance and company survive the switching

Things got hot recently for 10 Connecticut. And they have every Texas Democrats who came under fire during a party caucus in Washington. The session was called by the Democratic leadership to punish errant southerners who bucked the party line to push President Reagan's tax and budget programs, but the affair ended in a shambles for liberal Democrats.

Rep. Kent Hance of Lubbock and his colleague, Rep. Phil Gramm, were perhaps hardest stung by the Democratic switches. The Associated Press reported that both Texans took some verbal cuts for their rebelious actions — Hance for co - sponsoring the president's bipartisan tax package, and Gramm for his role in the Reagan budget bill.

When the dust had settled, House Majority Leader Jim Wright told reporters. "Nobody is going to be punished. There was no disciplinary action taken against Hance or Gramm. And there remained only vague threats that maverick Democrats would not be given influential committee memberships in the future, unless they pledge allegiance to liberal party proposals.

Such a prospect, of course, is patently absurd. Viewed from the skeptical side, it also underscores a basic weakness of party politics. Southern Democrats tend to be much more conservative than their counterparts in, say, New York or right to ask their representatives to carry that sentiment to Washington, and to vote accordingly

While party liberals may well be upset with Boll Weevils who torpedoed expansive Democratic tax and budget plans, we agree with Rep. Gramm's comments on the issue. Northern Democrats have a right to be critical of their colleagues from the Southwest. But their rights stop when it comes to stripping Texas of its representation.

The party mainliners should take note of the fact that here in his home district. Rep. Hance has become something of a notable. His constituents have heaped him with praise for helping to engineer partial relief from confiscatory federal tax policies. In other parts of the state, other Boll Weevils have fared equally well with their constituencies over the same issue The reduced spending plans and expanded tax cuts are strong reflections of shifting philosophical trends across America. For once, the voice of the people has been heard, and Kent Hance and Phil Gramm are two of the representatives who heeded the message first. We're not much for praising politicians. But instead of punishment, we believe that Hance, Gramm and representatives of a like mind should be accorded a certain degree of admiration in this case.

The political mentality

By BUTLER D. SHAFFER Some particularly revealing traits of politicians and bureaucrats can be found in recent news stories. One such quality involves the tendency of those in power to look after their own interests to the detriment of others in society. While President Reagan basks in the warm reviews he is receiving for taking a tough stand aganist the air traffic controllers union - a stand that included terminating all strikers and seeking the deccertifiation of the union itself - it is generally forgotten that private employers do not enjoy the legal right to take such a stance. The federal government that insists upon moderating the anti - union sentiments of private corporations wants no such 'liberal'' sentiments getting in the way of its activities.

Another example of State officials looking after themselves was the recent outpouring of official reaction against any possible parole for Bobby Kennedy's convicted killer, Sirhan While the State of California man it alleges to be the Hillside Strangler, at least one prosecuting attorney has urged a public expression of opposition to Sirhan being paroled when he becomes eligible. At the same time, the California legislature has before it a resolution urging the state. parole board to deny any request for parole by Sirhan. This resoultion surfaced at about the same time that the legislature passed a bill doing away with the defense of "disminished capacity" in homicide cases. This defense has been employed in a number of criminal cases, but when it was successfully used by a man convicted of shooting the mayor and a supervisor in San Fransisco, the politicos became

I certainly have no defense to make of Sirhan Sirhan nor, for that matter, for any other person who kills people.It may well be that all of us will be safer if Sirhan is never again let onto the streets. But why do officials of the State seem so preoccupied with persons about the men and women who "only" kill cab - drivers, or winos, or children, or housewives, or bartenders? Where are the resolutions, the special legislation, designed to confine the killers of us ordinary folk?

The politicians, abundantly aware of the elitist implications involved in singling out politically - motivated murders as more heinous crimes, are quick to respond. The Kennedys, Ronald Reagan, Gearge Wallace, and other elected officials are not, they insist, "more important" people: it is only that their assassinations would involve "crimes against the democratic process itself." One cannot help but be reminded of Anatole France's classic line about the essential equality of a law in France that prohibited both the rich and the poor from sleeping beneath

I am not suggesting that the lives of politicians are any less important than the lives of the rest of us. It is only that

"Why don't we cancel the travel plans and just join the Fruit of the Month Club?"

An end to the honeymoon

By ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Voters with long memories may recall that one of the most frequently asked (but never fully answered) questions posed to the candidates in the 1980 presidential campaign went something like this:

How can Republican presidential nominee Ronald Reagan, if elected. fulfill his incessantly repeated pledge to siumltaneously cut taxes, increase military spending and balance the federal budget?

As the first anniversary of his election to the White House approaches. President Reagan and his senior policy advisers finally are providing some - They convinced Congress to slash drastically both personal and business taxes only a few months ago - but now they're talking about possible increases in tobacco, alcohol and other taxes to offset the revenue shortfall they created - They insisted for months that the defense budget not only would be immune to federal spending reductions but would enjoy a 7 percent increase but now they're forced to substantially scale down that increase.

- They repeatedly promised a balanced federal budget by 1984 - but now they're backing away from that commitment, haplessly explaining that their expectations for economic growth during the next few years were excessively optimistic.

In other words, all three components of the president's principal campaign pledge - lower taxes, higher military spending and a balanced budget - now are endangered. What went wrong? First, Reagan relied upon economic assumption so hopelessly unrealistic that his program was virtually doomed to collapse upon its first confrontation with the real world, where conditions never match any president's expectations. Second, the president paid a very high price for his month - long August vacation in terms of losing the initiative and momentum he had captured during his first six months in office. That phenomenon involves intangibles such as expectations and perceptions - but those elements are inordinately important in the murky world of politics where reality often is subordinated to imagery.

Finally, in an exquisite display of bad timing, the president allowed the initial reports of backpedaling on all of his fiscal commitments to surface at a time when he was basking in the California sun, unavailable to apply the personal charm and political savvy that were so

crucial to his successes in earlier

Reagan could well regain the initiative he has temporarily lost, but he faces a tough struggle against a formidable array of ideological opponents who have been searching in vain ever since his inauguration for the opportunity to effectively thwart the president and his programs.

While the outcome of that battle for control of the voters' hearts and minds remains very much in doubt, it's probably safe to assume that the president's protracted honeymoon finally has come to an end.

The acerbity of the rhetoric critical of the president already is rapidly climbing to unprecedented levels. In the October issue of Harper's magazine, for example, contributing editor Walter Karp argues:

"I truly hope it is now obvious to everyone that Reagan's program for cutting inflation and ending economic stagnation is not an economic program at all. It is merely a pretext for carrying out certain fundamental political goals that the American people would never accept on their own ruthless terms.

Indeed, while the president was on vacation, the Agriculture Department revealed how it plans to implement the Reagan - promoted reduction in federal funds used to subsidize lunches served to low - and middle - income school children.

The federally mandated serving of milk for kindergartners would be cut from 6 to 4 ounces, while the minimum portion of hamburger for elementary school children would be reduced from 2 to 11/2 ounces.

With similar actions scheduled to be disclosed in the coming months, even Reagan's vaunted popularity will be hard pressed to withstand assaults based on claims that he is taking milk from the mouths of babies.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

it would be nice if this elitist gang of power - weilders would be as determined to provide as much protection for the rest of us as they insist upon for themselves.

Finally, there was the story, out of Chicago, involving a proposed ordinance in that city to prohibit joggers, pedestrians, and bicyclists from wearing headphone radios while out on the streets. The argument advanced was the same as that employed by other people - pushers who have endeavored to require motorcyclists to wear healmets: "It's for their own safety and well - being" (actually, I have long suspected that the insurance industry has fostered such legislation as a way of reducing claims.) Nevertheless, the politicians professed concern for the safety of members of the public tends to lose it impact when one considers the willingness of the State to produce neutron bombs that "only" kill people, or to maintain dangerous missile sites that explode and or leak poisonous gases out into communities, or draft young men to be sent off to foreign lands to be killed. If I were a teenager, I would prefer to walk the streets of Chicago listening to "the nifty top fifty" blaring in my ears, to being shot at or bombed by the agents of foreign governments. But then, what is war tothe rest of us is "peace" to the States, and when politicians are faced with the choice of protecting our interests or their own, there is no doubt as to how they will respond.

An early morning walk down most Vermont roads will fill your nostrils with the pungent smell of woodsmoke. Peeks into many homes from that of the most humble farmer to that of Gov. Richard Snelling - will show working fireplaces and woodstoves

And last winter. Americans burned between 30 million and 40 million cords of wood to heat their homes. compared to about half that amount in 1970, said Diane O'Connor, a spokeswoman for the U.S. Forest Service.

Eighty-three percent of Vermont is forested. We've got a lot of trees and we should use them," said Norman Hudson, a wood energy specialist in the state

Indeed, the state has developed a program whereby people can chop their heating wood on state land, paying just $6 a cord, Hudson said

Because of the chopping and splitting work involved. buying wood directly from private loggers - who chop. split and deliver - is the easiest way to build up the home woodpile.

It's not just the toasty feeling of coming home to a crackling fire that's driving Vermonters to wood heat it's the money they save. It costs anywhere from $65 to $90 to buy a cord of wood a stack of four-foot logs measuring eight feet long by four feet high — with the average home needing about six or seven cords per year. Add the cost of the woodstove or wood-burning furnace, ranging from several hundred dollars to several thousand dollars, and throw in about $40 for each time the chimney is cleaned.

With the stove a one-time purchase and the cost of heating an average home with oil sometimes running as high as $2,000 a year. Hudson says it's a wonder all Vermonters don't heat with wood

Industry is fat, dumb and happy, Baldridge contends sites in the United States and Government, they say, must was no misunderstanding Malcolm Baldrige. The Commerce Secretary, who built a troubled Waterbury, Conn., brass mill into a profitable international manufacturer, put it right on American industry, he told a small group of exporters, has been too "fat, dumb and happy" to compete with foreign competition. especially in overseas markets. It won't take risks. It lets opportunity pass by.

Whatever the reason some say U.S. regulations protectionism have something to do with it - U.S. exports accounted for 18 consume a staggering 1,500 percent of world trade in 1960. only 15 percent in 1970, and a mere 12 in 1980.

So ominous a trend, especially in view of the Japanese propensity to succeed where Americans fail — in exporting cars, consumer electronics optics and in markets that Americans built - copiers and computers - must eventually deserve a verbal kick in the pants. Baldrige gave it.

"I don't think it's labor productivity that's a problem," he said. "I think it's management, and I speak as a former manager

From 1962 until he joined President Reagan's cabinet. Baldrige worked for Scovill Inc., becoming chairman, diversifying and expanding the consumer and industrial products company until it now has 81 manufacturing in 22 foreign countries.

In other words, he has credentials to speak about fat management and skinny exports - about executives who exploit companies for personal profit rather than exploit markets for shareholder goods; who work the domestic market to death but ignore the birth of new markets abroad

Under pressure of declining profits, and sometimes declining sales too. American companies increasingly are aware of fat management, of the stockpiling of executives around the middle management levels. Xerox is reducing its management girth because of competition from Japanese firms. In fact, 'resizing' has become a new management word.

The focus on management as a source of problems has grown intense

In the past, seekers of greater productivity have looked into blue collar habits and production line efficiency. Now they study executives, whose one bad decision can equal many millions of errors on the assembly line. The purchase of Reliance Electic Co., for example, reportedly cost Exxon hundreds of millions of dollars when an energy-saving device that came in the package proved to be a dud

They are St. Bernard's Institute, a Catholic school: Bexley Hall, an Episcopal seminary and Colgate Rochester and Crozer theological seminaries, both American Baptist institutions.

The schools will continue to maintain separate faculties and student bodies, but will share the educational enterprise through an agreement for sharing classrooms, offices and library facilities

St. Bernard's, with its 45,000-volume library, has moved to the campus. Bexley Hall moved there in 1968 from Ohio and Crozer moved there from Pennsylvania in 1970.

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (AP) - The newly installed president of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod says "we need to cultivate the kinds of brotherly relationship that will lead us to greater peace and unity.

The Rev. Ralph Bohlman, successor to the Rev. J.A.O. Preus who headed the 2.7-million-member denomination for 12 sometimes-turbulent years, told a planning conference of executives

"We're not going to find togetherness, solidarity, unity, simply by proving that wl are right and they are wrong. But we're going to find it ... in the acceptance of one another as forgivien sinners who indeed have erred and erred often. ...

LOUISVILLE Ky. (AP) - The president of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, the Rev. Duke K. McCall, says a United Methodist screening of seminaries outside that denomination is "arrogant and insulting."

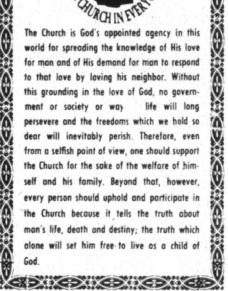

The Southern Baptist institution was among 24 of various denominations that declined such a review and were automatically stricken from a list of Methodist-approved seminaries for training Methodist ministerial candidates.

Is there human life beyond the sand trap?

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

AP Special Correspondent
RIVERDALE, N.J. (AP) — Golf is a four letter word. Backwards, it spells flog, the verb that supplies the pain and the action in the psychotic disorder known as self-flagellation. Golf pros, in fact, speak in praise of flogging the ball with a whip-like lash of the clubhead. Freud might have made something of that.

The game was devised in 1457 by Dutch burghers spaced out on giniver, the mash of malt and juniper berries. They called it "kolven" or "kolf." not being able to pull g's from their palates in that condition. Realizing the horror they had created, the panicky patroons pulled their fingers from the dike, flooded the first few links and unloaded the sport on the Scots, a gloomy, guilt-ridden race much given to brooding and

The formal rules of the game were formulated by the Honorable Company of Edinburgh Golfers, dour, conscience-stricken Calvinist moralizers who believed man should suffer in this world for his sins and laid out a course at

Muirfield to practice penitential rites Golf is said to be the sport of kings and queens. Robert the Bruce. Mary Queen of Scots, James I and II, Bonnie Prince Charlie, King Farouk and Edward VIII were all avid golfers. Guilt and remorse still hang over the game like menacing thunderheads (heaven's revenge on many a Sunday golfer). It is not for naught that the habit of slyly relocating the ball in more advantageous terrain under the guise of playing "winter rules" is known by the accusatory term "preferred lie. These thoughts rise with my impotent rage from the scrawled chaos of a scorecard that records my first participation in a golf tournament.

The tournament last week at the Riverdale course in northern New Jersey was for Associated Press employees, hard-living newspaper types who are to touring golf pros what piano movers are to concert pianists. The idea was to increase camaraderie among the staff. Judging from the sullen faces

No reason for optimistic farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the financial picture for the nation's farmers gets bleaker, the Agriculture Department is providing no reason for them to be optimistic about the future. The prices farmers were paid for their crops in September plunged to the lowest level — in terms of the price yardstick called parity — in nearly half a century while the bills they pay continued running at the record levels of August. And Agriculture Department analysts said the record U.S. grain harvests, coupled with little or no economic growth worldwide, will keep market prices depressed the rest of the

They are still projecting 1981 net farm income at $20 billion to $24 billion, in the range of last year's earnings which had plummeted more than a third.

Since most developed nations are fighting inflation with tight-money policies. "global economic growth remains slow and will continue so through next year," the at the department's monthly Agricultural Outlook. the analysts said in

'With only sluggish gains anticipated in U.S. consumers' income, consumer demand offers only moderate support for farm prices," they added, "a situation particularly critical for livestock producers.

According to the department's Crop Reporting Board, farm prices for raw products dropped another 2.2 percent in September, bringing them below year-earlier levels for the econd straight month.

Higher prices for milk, eggs, peaches, tobacco and apples failed to offset dropn corn, potatoes, soybeans, kranges an$ cAtle prices, the board said.

The decline sent the September parity ratio to 59 percent. the lowest level since 54 percent in April 1933. The revised parity ratio for August was 60 percent, compared with 68 percent a year ago. At 100 percent, the parity measurement would mean, theoretically, that farmers have the same buying power as in On a month-to-month basis, farm prices rose slightly last January and since have held steady in three months and declined in five. On the consumer side, department economists predict retail food prices will go up an average of about 8 percent thisear, matching last year's gain, which was the smallest since 1977. Analysts also said the bumper 1981 U.S. crops could moderate prices even further if lower feed costs lead to larger livestock production.

Meanwhile, farmers' expenses, while remaining at the August leel, were 7.1 percent higher than a year earlier. Higher prices for replacement livestock, family living items and farm machinery were offset by lower feed prices.

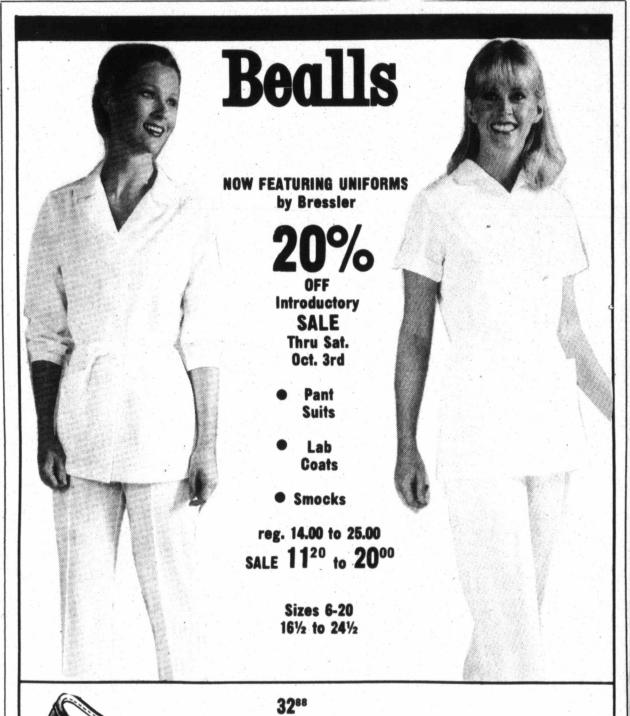

According to the preliminary September figures — which are based mostly on mid-month averages — prices of meat animals as a group remained unchanged from August but were 4.3 percent below a year earlier. The September index for feed grains and hay continued declining, falling another 8.8 percent after dropping 8.2 percent in August. It stood 14 percent below the September

Potatoes and bean prices plummeted 29 percent from August while vegetable prices at the farm dropped 3.3 percent. Lower prices for onions, carrots and tomatoes contributed most of the decrease from a month earlier. Higher prices were reported for watermelons, cucumbers and sweet corn.

Dairy prices jumped 2.2 percent from August and were up 3.7 percent from the previous year. Farm prices in September averaged 134 percent of a 1977 base price average used for comparison, according to the preliminary figures, compared with the revised August index

These people are more characterized by different subject to the adverse complications of acute infection than are younger. healthy people, says Dr. James Luby, chief of the Infectious Diseases Division at the University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas. In these "high risk" groups, flu may develop into flu pneumonia or bacterial pneumonia. People with impaired lungs, abnormal metabolism or suppressed immunity could die from the complications.

Those "at risk" for influenza complications include: the elderly; anyone with cardiovascular or respiratory disease or metabolic disease such as diabetes; persons with tumors or hematologic malignancy: anyone taking immuno - suppressing drugs; and children with cystic fibrosis or other chronic lung problems.

Confectioners' sugar

Scald the milk, add the lemon rind and cool to lukewarm. Proof the yeast in 4 cup of the cooled milk.

Cream the egg, sugar and salt. Gradually stir in the kirsch, cooled milk mixture and proofed yeast. Stir in 1/2 cup white flour and the golden raisins. Mix well and add additional white flour to form dough. Knead the dough until smooth and elastic, adding more white flour if necessary. The dough should be soft but not sticky. Cut the butter into thin pieces and with the heel of your hand gradually work it into the dough. Add enough additional flour to keep the dough from being sticky. Knead 10 minutes

Place the dough in a greased bowl, cover and allow to rise until double in bulk. Punch down, turn and let rise a second time. Turn the dough out onto a floured surface.

Heavily grease a 9 - inch bundt pan (or other round pan) and sprinkle the bottom with slivered almonds. Form

Piano lessons should be fun for children, teacher believes

By CAROL DEEGAN NEW YORK (AP) — Some people express themselves with words. Richard Bradley expresses Bradley, 38, sits behind his cluttered desk at the offices of his New York City - based music publishing business. It is impossible for him to explain his piano - teaching method without springing from his desk to a nearby piano. 'Did you ever play the piano?" he asks. "No?

Well, here, you play this one key and I'll play the rest, OK?" And he plays a little melody. Bradley is energetic and enthusiastic. His approach to teaching the piano is to find a student's interest, whether it's playing country and Western music or church hymns, and then to make it fun to

"I think a teacher has to focus in on music that a person is going to relate to, and because of our experiences in life, we all relate to different things," Bradley said.

LOWEST PRICES OF THE SEASON!

"If you came to me and I said, you're going to learn Bach and you've never heard Bach before in your life, and you said, gee, I'd really like to play Willie Nelson, most teachers would say, well, you learn your Bach real well and eventually you'll be able to play Willie Nelson. Well, I think that's kind of backward," he said.

Bradley has developed two lesson books. The first, published about four years ago, is for preschool children and is titled, "Bradley's Color My Piano Lesson.

"My book gives a child all the basic knowledge required to play the piano, starting with counting numbers and learning the musical alphabet," he said. "It will help a child by familiarizing him with lines, spaces, the staff, notes, charts, et cetera, all introduced by coloring, games, and fun pieces to play on the piano." developed "The Instant Virtuoso: How to Succeed play things of legitimate music immediately. at Piano Without Really Trying," emphasizing ear Bradley said.

In developing his teaching materials, Bradley says he always tries to find the key that will unlock his students' interest.

"What does a 4 - year - old relate to, for example? What songs? Not Bach and Beethoven. They don't even know the Beatles, they don't know Billy Joel. But they do know commercials. The kids hear commercials and they know them and they're thrilled to play them," he said.

So, Bradley has put together a songbook of commercials for young students.

For the adult beginner, it is more or less a question of providing some form of "instant gratification," he said.

"What we tried to do for the adults was to come For the adult beginner, Bradley recently up with a way where they could actually read and

Pecan-raisin loaf is worthwhile bread

Associated Press Food Editor Here is our latest bread making "love" - a pecan raisin loaf that combines high fiber bran with whole wheat

PECAN-RAISIN YEAST LOAF 1 envelope dry yeast Water

1-3rd cup milk •1/2 cup 100 percent bran cereal 1 tablespoon dark brown

3 tablespoons honey 3 tablespoons butter 2 teaspoons salt - 1 large egg, at room

11/2 cups wholewheat flour

13/4 cups (about) all-purpose 1 cup pecan halves

34 cup raisins In a 4 - quart bowl sprinkle the yeast over 1/4 cup warm water (105 to 115 degrees) and stir until dissolved. In a 1 quart saucepan over low heat tir together ½ cup water, the milk, bran, sugar, honey, butter and salt until lukewarm (about 95 degrees) butter does not need to melt; off heat, vigorously stir in the egg. Add to yeast mixture with wholewheat flour; with a wooden spoon beat until smooth. Stir in 1 cup of the white flour, then the pecans and raisins. Work in enough more white flour to make a stiff dough.

Turn out onto a prepared pastry cloth and knead until smooth and elastic — about 8 minutes. Place in the clean buttered 4 - quart bowl; turn to butter top. Cover with saran and let rise in a draft free warm place (about 80 degrees) until doubled about 1 hour. Punch down dough. Shape into a loaf. Place in a buttered pan (about 9 by 5 by 3 inches). Cover and let rise as previously until doubled about 1 hour. Bake on the rack below center in a pre heated 400 - degree oven until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean about 25 to 30 minutes. Turn out on a rack and cool.

As Patty on "The Young and the Restless," Lilibet Stern portrays a manipulative self-centered young lady. In this case, art does not imitate life, however. While her girlfriends at Coronado High School in California were busy practicing for the cheerleading squad, Lilibet was busy too. She was preoccupied, however, commuting to Los Angeles for acting, singing, and dancing lessons with some of Hollywood's most respected coaches! Apparently the hard work paid off when Lilibet landed a regular role on her CBS

"I'd rather be good at a lot of things than excellent in just one particular field," explains Lilibet, who'll tackle just about any

To illustrate this point it should be noted that during her formative years, she sang and danced in numerous industrial shows in San Diego and San Franciso, while maintaining good enough grades to graduate from high school a semester early in 1977. After two years as a theater and dance major at Eastern Washington University near Spokane Lilibet felt she was better off on the road than in school. Her instincts were right and during the following year she appeared in musical theater and nightclubs throughout the west. As part of the singing/dancing trio "Lady" she taped a series of specials in 1979-80 in Mexico City for Mexican National Television. ## Harvesters hope to end victory drought tonight the song coach Larry Gilbert has been playing on the nickelodeon this week after the Pampa Harvesters' devastating 42-6 loss to Borger last week.

Gilbert hopes to be playing a victory song follov g Pampa's meeting with Anus, Okla. tonight in Harvester Stadium

"It's going to be interesting to see how the team reacts after getting blown out by Borger," Gilbert said. "They haven't lost heart. They seem to be sticking together real

Playing at home and it being homecoming should be a boost to us. I anticipate a good crowd. The team needs their support

Pampa and Altus have similar clubs. The Bulldogs have an inexperienced crew and lack size, just like the Harvesters.

They're not overpowering

They do have an Oklahoma blue chipper in Craig Miles (6-4, 220). He plays up front on both offense and defense. so he should be a challenge to our young linemen.

Altus (1-3) has been the victim of two close games, while slipping past an injury-riddled Lawton, Okla. club, 11-10. Last week the Bulldogs were wiped out by Lawton Eisenhower, (Oklahoma's No. 1 ranked Class 4A team) 35-0. Other losses were to Vernon, 14-10, and Palo Duro, 14-7.

'They're coming in with nothing to lose and comiing off a bad defeat like us. Gilbert said. "I look for a real good football game.

Quarterback Jim McCullough, who runs a 4.5 40, and sophomore halfback Glen Townsend, who has 205 yards on 56 rushes, lead the Bulldogs' offense.

'McCullough is as fast a quarterback as the one we faced last week (Borger's Tony Tillman). He poses a threat to us," Gilbert said.

McCullough was a starter at tight end last season, but had to be converted to quarterback because of a shortage there.

Townsend is the Bulldogs' leading rusher with 205 on 56 carries.

"He's been doing some great things for a sophomore," Gilbert added. He looked good against Lawton Ike. Gilbert plans to beef up his offensive backfield, starting 190-pound senior Harold Landers to fullback. "Harold has played there before on short-yardage situations. We're just trying to get a spark going," Gilbert

John Kadingo leads Pampa's rushing attack with 235 yards on 51 carries.

Head coach Dave Brown, who has been at Altus for 15 years, said his Bulldogs are about three weeks away from being a good football team.

Defense is our strongpoint, but our offense has been struggling," Brown "We're young and inexperienced, but the kids have a great attitude and that's the most important thing.

Tonight's probable lineups are listed below:

Pampa Harvesters

Murphy signs contract

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Rockets will announce today that free agent Calvin Murphy has signed a new contract with the National Basketball Association club and Rudy Tomjanovich is ending his 11-year professional career. The Rockets, who open training for the 1981-82 season today, called a noon news conference with both players.

A spokesman for the Rockets said Murphy, the NBA free-throw champion who has been negotiating a new contract over the summer, accepted the terms of a new 3-year pact. However, the terms of the new contract were not

Pampa rodeo clown to appear at McLean

Rodeo clown Bill Thorpe of Pampa and his specialty animal act will be appearing at the McLean High School Rodeo this weekend

Performances are at 8 p.m Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday. Headlining Thorpe's act is Cajun, a 1900-pound brahma steer who will jump through a flaming ring of fire, say his prayers, and lie down on command.

Canjun, who was purchased from a western Kansas feedlot, became a pet when Thorpe nursed him back to health after a truck carrying the steer overturned and broke his horn.

Also appearing will be Wildfire the cowpony, and Old Blue, a multi-talented dog who plays a deceiving Texas-size jackrabbit, and returns later in the rodeo to demonstrate his skills in the ladies' barrel race. Thorpe will also be performing as Texas Bill, the clown, during the rodeo performances. Last year Texas Bill worked 106 performances in 12 states

District 3-5A quarterbacks have faltered in their passing game this season. They've tossed 25 interceptions heading into the halfway mark of the season.

A frequently asked question fielded by Texas Parks and Wildlife Personnel this time of season is "Do I need a hunting *license to hunt Doves in my home county?"

The answer is no. However, residents of counties offering a white-winged dove season are required to purchase a three-dollar white-winged dove stamp to hunt during the four-day whitewing season. A person hunting in his county of residence need not Waterfowl hunters must purchase a five-dollar state waterfowl stamp, even if hunting in the county of residence. Federal law requires possession of a federal migratory waterfowl stamp (duck stamp) for all waterfowl hunting.

Texas residents under 17 years of age or 65 or over must have a ressident exempt hunting license to hunt deer or turkey, but no license is needed to hunt any other species in any county during open hunting seasons.

Tom Landry, the dean of NFL coaches in his 22nd season, is the third winningest coach in NFL history.

Landry has compiled a 188-106-6 regular-season record with the Dallas Cowboys. He trails only George Halas (200 wins) and Curly Lambeau (213), and is one ahead of Don Shula (187). Landry's Cowboy teams have appeared in a record five Super Bowls, winning twice, and compiling 15 straight winning seasons, including 14 trips to the playoffs. His playoff record is

Rangers ax Jenkins

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Vetern pitcher Ferguson Jenkins will not return to the Texas Rangers in 1982, according to Eddie Robinson, the team's executive vice president for baseball operations.

Robinson said Thursday the Rangers will not exercise an option to retain Jenkins for the 1982 season.

"Fergie has been an outstanding pitcher for the Rangers over the years," Robinson said. "and we regret that he no longer will be with us. With 264 career victories, he has a record of which he can be proud." Jenkins' record was 5-8 this season, but in six seasons with the Rangers he has won 93 and lost 72. In 1974 he posted a 25-12 record and was named Comeback Player of the Year after bouncing back from a 14-16 record with the Chicago Cubs in 1973. Jenkins has won 20 or more games seven times in the major leagues and has compiled 2,962 strikeouts. Only six pitchers in history have topped the 3.000 strikeout plateau. Jenkins will be a free agent and will be able to sign with

NEW YORK (AP) - There's always somebody trying to build a better mousetrap. Now it's "Safe Base," a double-size baseball bag which is half-white and half-orange. It is the brainchild of Jim Hendrickson and Charles Fuller. The bag is for use at first base only.

The bag is designed especially for play in youth leagues. The idea is that a first baseman tags the bag in fair territory, the white portion, and the baserunner spikes the bag in foul territory, the orange part. Theoretically, the new base will cut down collisions at first
