Record Exports To Russia Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Official announcement that a U.S.-Soviet trade pact may be signed in the near future underscores the speed with which East-West trade barriers have crumbled since President Nixon's summit trips to Moscow and Peking.

The Commerce Department considers it possible that U.S. exports to Russia may reach or exceed $800 million this year, five times the 1971 level.

The forecast of an early trade agreement, made jointly by the White House and the Kremlin Thursday, coincided with reports of multibillion-dollar industrial deals brewing with the Russians and historic wheat sales to China.

Meantime, a congressional hearing explored Democratic allegations that the Nixon administration let wheat exporters profiteer—at the expense of U.S. farmers and taxpayers—from massive grain sales to Russia.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz denied the accusations. He told a House Agriculture subcommittee that, if George McGovern continues "innuendoes, misstatements, falsehoods and haranguing," further business with Russia may be endangered. But already the charges by the Democratic presidential nominee and others had become a campaign issue in the wheat belt.

In addition to the Russian sales, the Agriculture Department said export payment registrations indicate that 15 million bushels of wheat have been sold to China, but possibly through third parties.

These events capped a succession of announcements by U.S. corporations of trade deals with both Communist governments, despite the lack of a trade agreement.

There are indications that even administration officials are surprised at the rapid series of East-West trade developments. These include:

—Disclosure that Russia, which agreed in July to buy $750 million worth of grain in three years, by now has bought at least $1 billion worth and is taking deliveries four times faster than expected.

—Announcement by the Boeing Co. that China will pay hard cash—125 million U.S. dollars—for 10 Boeing 707 jets.

—Announcement in Moscow by President Armand Hammer of Occidental Petroleum Corp. that Premier Alexei N. Kosygin has approved a series of major projects including construction of a permanent U.S. trade center with quarters for 400 American firms in Moscow and a large hotel.

—Other pending transactions, totaling "several billion dollars" by Dr. Hammer's estimate, involve a "very big" U.S. purchase of Soviet natural gas and a 20-year agreement under which Occidental would supply fertilizer chemicals to Russia in exchange for Soviet raw materials.

—A prediction by Deputy Assistant Secretary of Commerce Edward Allen that Soviet purchases of grain and other products will be "large enough to help correct the U.S. trade deficit in the final months of 1972."

In a speech Wednesday, Allen forecast the $800-million total of U.S. exports to Russia.

—Pullman Inc. has reported that it hopes to sell up to $400 million worth of foundry equipment through its subsidiary, the Swindell-Dressler Co. of Pittsburgh, for the Russians' huge Kama River truck plant. Swindell-Dressler already has a $10-million design contract for the plant.

—McDonnell-Douglas Corp. has received an export license to demonstrate its DC10 airliner in China.

—Two relatively small U.S. tool-and-die companies have signed letters of intent for a $55-million contract to set up plants in five Russian cities to produce silverware and other tableware. The firms are Allied Tool & Die Corp. of Rochester and Atlas Fabricators of Los Angeles.

Many of the transactions exist merely on paper so far because the Russians want credit. Credit terms await the signing of a U.S.-Soviet trade treaty and an agreement on the settlement of Russia's lend-lease debt from World War II.

The Soviets' serious grain-harvest failure has prompted the unexpectedly heavy buying of U.S. wheat and feed grains, and inevitably will deplete Russia's supply of foreign exchange available for buying Western machinery and industrial equipment.

Some experts predict Moscow soon will be obliged to sell significant amounts of its gold hoard to pay for grain. In any case, the Russian bargainers will be hard-pressed for cash, but their credit is good worldwide.

Kissinger, Tho Meet In Paris

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger is meeting again today with Le Duc Tho of the North Vietnamese Politburo, the U.S. Embassy announced. But the Embassy refused to say where or when they would meet or even if Kissinger had arrived in Paris from London.

It did announce that the meeting was the 17th secret talk on the Vietnam war between President Nixon's national security adviser and the North Vietnamese leader. And it said Xuan Thuy, the head of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks, would also attend.

"In accordance with our agreement with the other side, we have no further information to provide you on this meeting," the embassy announcement said.

The language of the announcement mirrored that of an earlier statement issued by Presidential Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler in Washington.

The announcement added that Kissinger would meet with President Georges Pompidou late this afternoon to "report to him on the talks in Moscow and discuss other matters of mutual interest." Kissinger is on his way back from talks in Moscow on trade arrangements and other matters. He was in London Thursday and is due to fly back to Washington this evening.

Senate OK's Arms Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved a U.S.-Soviet five-year agreement to limit nuclear arms, and called in advance for any permanent treaty to provide numerical equality in intercontinental atomic weaponry.

The 88-2 vote Thursday sent the amended resolution of approval to a conference with the House, which passed it Aug. 18 without the "equality" language.

The agreement, and a companion treaty limiting defensive weapons in the United States and the Soviet Union, was signed by President Nixon in Moscow May 26. The defensive treaty was ratified by the Senate Aug. 3.

The interim agreement on offensive weapons freezes intercontinental ballistic missiles to those deployed or under construction, an estimated 1,618 for the Soviet Union and 1,054 for the United States.

Saigon's Victory Ends Reds' 3 1/2-Month Control

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese forces today regained control of Quang Tri City, ending North Vietnam's 3 1/2-month occupation of South Vietnam's northernmost provincial capital. U.S. officials in the field informed the American Embassy Lt. Col. Do Viet, a spokesman for the South Vietnamese Command, said that at 5 p.m. (5 a.m. EDT) South Vietnamese marines "completely controlled" the Citadel, the 19th century fortress in the heart of the city.

The North Vietnamese forces withdrew to the west outside the Citadel, and fighting is continuing near the province headquarters along the river that marks the western boundary of the city, Viet said.

"The fighting is still going on, but the main target is already taken," he reported.

Quang Tri fell to the North Vietnamese on May 1, the first provincial capital to be captured in South Vietnam. President Nguyen Van Thieu in a speech last June 19 gave his troops three months to recover all territory taken by the North Vietnamese in the first two and a half months of their offensive.

Saigon launched a 20,000-man offensive on June 28 to retake Quang Tri. But a month later South Vietnamese paratroopers were pulled out of the battle after heavy casualties in an unsuccessful attempt to storm the Citadel. The marines replaced them.

The marines, too, have suffered heavily in six weeks of slow clearing operations under savage, sustained artillery bombardment.

U.S. fighter-bomber support at Quang Tri was curtailed today by the approach of Typhoon Flossie, which produced rain, high winds and overcast skies. But U.S. B52 bombers made nearly 50 strikes on both sides of the demilitarized zone, including within a mile of Quang Tri.

In other developments: Three South Vietnamese infantry battalions were reported overrun with heavy losses in fierce fighting earlier this week near the district town of Tien Phuoc, 40 miles south of Da Nang.

Tien Phuoc fell to the North Vietnamese earlier and government forces retreated to its outskirts.

In the air war against North Vietnam, the Navy reported that two Marine fliers from the carrier America who were shot down last Monday—Maj. Lee T. Lasseter, 38, of Lakes Wales, Fla., and Capt. John D. Cummings, 36, of Olathe, Kan.—destroyed one North Vietnamese MIG three miles north of Hanoi and damaged another one before a surface-to-air missile brought down their F4 Phantom. The two Americans were rescued.

McGovern Criticizes Controls

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — George McGovern called today for abolition of the Federal Pay Board and Price Commission and said control of the nation's economy should rest with the president alone.

In place of the inflation-fighting machinery of the Nixon administration, McGovern said in a speech to labor leaders here, a system of voluntary wage and price guidelines should be established. The president would have authority, under McGovern's plan, to roll back wage and price hikes in major industries that are in "flagrant violation" of the guidelines.

On another front, the Democratic presidential candidate challenged Nixon to come out of "hiding" in the White House and campaign in public.

McGovern was greeted at the Portland airport by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, who earlier this year had also sought the Democratic presidential nomination, and by Rep. William Hathaway and Gov. Kenneth Curtis before driving into town to unveil his anti-inflation plan.

McGovern called the Nixon administration economic controls "radically unfair." He said "wage increases have been strictly limited (while) the Price Commission has been using a rubber stamp on most requests for higher prices."

"In the last three and one-half years," McGovern said, "the price of a pound of hamburger has skyrocketed by 30 per cent."

Gordon Weil, a McGovern adviser, told newsmen that the South Dakota senator's program for voluntary guidelines would apply only to major industries "in the belief that a certain number of firms and wage contracts lead the economy. You don't need guidelines on mom and pop stores."

Weil said McGovern's objectives could probably be met under the same legislation already on the books that President Nixon acted under in first imposing wage and price controls in August 1971.

In essence, McGovern's plan is to set a broad wage hike maximum and a price increase limit on industry-by-industry basis. Adherence to the guidelines would be voluntary, however, and, in any case, would apply only to the major industries.

"A certain amount of jawboning" on the part of the White House is envisioned by McGovern as a means of holding down wage and price hikes in those key areas. But the president, under McGovern's plan, would retain legal authority to force a rollback if necessary.

McGovern said his policy "must be linked to an all-out effort to achieve full employment. It would take its place in the anti-inflation arsenal along with a shift in budget priorities from inflationary civilian spending to more productive civilian purposes."

House Okays Defense Budget; War Money Cutoff Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has approved the biggest defense-spending bill since World War II and refused, after 10 minutes' debate, to cut off funds for the Vietnam war.

A two-hour squabble was climaxed by a vote to phase out KP duty from the military.

The $74.6-billion defense bill was passed 322 to 40 Thursday night and sent to the Senate.

The war-money cutoff, the same as one being pressed by Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., in the Senate, was rejected 208 to 160.

"We have stayed too long and paid too great a price," said Rep. Joseph P. Addabbo, D-N.Y., author of the House amendment. "It is time to come home and heal our own wounds."

But House Armed Services Committee Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., noted the House repeatedly has refused to vote congressional restraints on the war and said there was little left to debate.

There were shouts of "Vote! Vote!" and the House rejected Addabbo's amendment after ten minutes of debate.

It would have cut off money for all U.S. operations in Indochina, except for withdrawal, in four months providing Hanoi had released American prisoners by then and given an accounting of missing GIs.

The major House debate was over military programs to phase out KP, derided as making life too soft for GIs and defended as a major incentive for attracting an all-volunteer military by next June 30.

Overriding an Appropriations Committee recommendation to terminate programs aimed at turning KP over to civilian workers, the House voted 265 to 117 to authorize continuation of the programs.

The amendment was offered by Rep. Robert L.F. Sikes, D-Fla. It would authorize the military to divert $92.5 million from other programs for the civilian KP workers.

Backers of his amendment contended the KP programs create jobs for 45,000 low-income civilians.

The House rejected with voice votes and little debate amendments by Rep. Sidney R. Yates, D-Ill., to cut from the spending bill all $445 million for the advanced B1 bomber and $10 million for more-sophisticated nuclear warheads.

Senate and House conferees agreed Thursday night on a formula which, one aide said, means that everybody wins.

While that does not appear to be literally true, there seems little doubt that the two chambers will accept the compromise and send the bill to President Nixon—who asked for it—in time for October disbursements.

The conferees expected to dispose of other aspects of the $30-billion, five-year measure at a final session today, pointing to final passage next week.

Senate and House versions of the bill disagreed on the weight that should be given different factors in determining states' revenue shares.

The House version rewarded states relying on their own income tax. The Senate formula allocated more funds to 33 small states, less to 17 big, industrialized states.

This is how the conferees resolved the problem. They left both formulas in the bill and provided that each state's share should be figured by the one more favorable to that state. But since this would have required more funds than the $5.3 billion budgeted for this year, the compromise provides that each share be scaled down by about 9.1 per cent.

Sharing Issues Settled; Funds To Flow October

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional fashioners of a revenue-sharing program say they have resolved a big, state, little-state rivalry and cleared the way for $5.3 billion to start flowing in October to statehouses and city halls.

Senate and House conferees agreed Thursday night on a formula which, one aide said, means that everybody wins.

While that does not appear to be literally true, there seems little doubt that the two chambers will accept the compromise and send the bill to President Nixon—who asked for it—in time for October disbursements.

PLANT SHUT DOWN TEMPORARILY

City Asks Public To Be Patient Until Water Lines Are Cleared

By TEX DEWEES

Pampa's $1.4-million water treatment plant was shut down at 2:45 p.m. yesterday after about four and one-half hours of initial operation.

The shutdown was ordered when a malfunction was discovered in the post-chlorinator.

Tony Anderson, superintendent, said this forenoon the plant will not be put into operation again until Monday because of time needed to get replacement parts and install them.

City Manager Mack Wofford said that, as expected, telephone lines at City Hall were hot with complaints during the first hours of the plant operation and continued into the night at the homes of city officials.

Callers complained the water was muddy, not fit to drink and wanted something done about it.

Wofford and Anderson both said the discoloration was only a natural occurrence that is unavoidable when a switch-over is made.

The city manager said the main point he would like to have stressed is that the change brought about yesterday was not caused by Lake Meredith water.

"The discoloration and any change in taste was the result of the sudden directional change of flow in the city's water mains," Wofford said.

"What happened to change the color of the water was caused by the dislodging of sedimentation and mineral deposits that have accumulated in city water lines over the past 30 or 40 years."

"What was coming into Pampa homes was not Lake Meredith water—it was caused by residue in the lines."

Anderson said fire hydrants along the Kentucky Ave. main line from the treatment plant were opened to clear out and centralize the worst areas of sediment.

The plant superintendent added that he believed the worst of the trouble has been passed. There will still be some difficulties and it will take perhaps a week or more when pumping is resumed to erase all of the problems, he said.

City Manager Wofford said complaint calls had almost ended this forenoon and added his appeal to water consumers to be patient.

"This is something that has happened in every one of the cities that switched over to a new pumping and treatment system," he said. "It is something we just have to live with until it is all cleared out."

Plant officials also pointed out that even though the water is discolored, there are no bacteriological or health hazards.

Senate Asked To OK Pact On Hijacking

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked the Senate today to promptly ratify a 1971 international treaty aimed at curbing sabotage and terrorist attacks against aircraft and air travelers.

He said these criminal acts pose "an increasingly grave threat to civil aviation around the world."

Meanwhile, a 15-nation group headed into its final session here on another proposed treaty, to provide for enforcement of the treaty Nixon discussed, and others as well. It would require actions against nations not living up to agreements against air piracy.

The 1971 treaty, known formally as the "Convention for the Suppression of Unlawful Acts against the Safety of Civil Aviation," was signed at Montreal about a year after an international conference at The Hague adopted a treaty to insure that hijackers would be subject to severe punishment.

In a letter to the Senate, Nixon said this hijacking treaty has been signed by United States and 39 other countries.

The treaty he sent the Senate today, like the hijacking accord, requires extradition and prosecution of offenders when they are found.

Perryton Woman Charged With Murder Of Husband

Charges of murder with malice were filed Thursday against a Perryton woman in connection with the shooting death of her estranged husband. Mrs. Gloria Patricia Pattison has been charged with the murder of her husband, LaVaun Pattison, 48, who was found shot to death outside his home at 1101 S. Baylor in Perryton about 11:55 a.m. Wednesday. Pattison, a farmer-rancher, was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace H. F. Hulsey. Hulsey has not yet made an official ruling on the cause of death. According to sheriff's officials, Pattison died from a massive loss of blood resulting from a severed artery in the groin area.

Mrs. Pattison, who lives at 1101 S. Colgate, was found in a hysterical condition outside of Pattison's home, officials said. She was admitted to the Ochiltree County Hospital and placed under heavy sedation Wednesday. She remained in the hospital Thursday. Law enforcement officials had not been able to question her.

Richard Countiss of Spearman, the 84th District attorney, filed the charges against Mrs. Pattison. A warrant for her arrest will be served when she is discharged from the hospital, sheriff's officials said.

Funeral services for Pattison will be at 3 p.m. Saturday in the Perryton Church of the Nazarene, with the Rev. Marvin Kellman, pastor, and the Rev. John Otley, pastor of Trinity Presbyterian Church, officiating. Burial will be in Ochiltree Cemetery.

Born in Beaver County, Okla., Pattison had lived in the Panhandle area all of his life. He was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Perryton Elks Lodge.

He is survived by a daughter, Angela, and a son, Bill, both of Perryton; three brothers, A. W. Pattison of Balko, Okla., Ralph Pattison of Perryton and Charles Pattison of Oklahoma City; a sister, La Janta Nelson of Davis, Okla.; and his mother, Mrs. Roseta Pattison, of Davis.

Prosecutors Expect To Finish Case In Trial Of Man Accused In Slayings

BELTON, Tex. (AP) — The state says it will finish its case today in two thirteenth murders in the Big Thicket, and defense lawyers for Fred F. Young Jr. are expected to open their case Monday by claiming a "madman," not Young, did the murders.

Joe Goodwin of Beaumont, chief defense attorney, has made it clear he will contend Young's former codefendant, Dennis R. Anderson, was the madman, who may be responsible for similar murders in Arkansas and Ohio.

Anderson pleaded guilty Monday in the death of Mabel McCormick, 50, a Kountze antique dealer. He got a life sentence.

Young is being tried in the McCormick slaying.

Both men face charges in Tyler at a later date in the death of Mrs. McCormick's granddaughter, Leslie Bowman, 3, whose body was stuffed in a toilet.

The unsolved murder in Arkansas and Ohio involved antique dealers, and a baby was jammed in a toilet in one of those cases, the defense says.

If the defense can make the jury believe Anderson is a madman, and that Young did not know it and did not help Anderson in any way, Young conceivably could be freed on the murder charge, or receive a life sentence if found guilty.

State Dist. Court Judge James K. Everts slapped down defense efforts Thursday to explore the Arkansas and Ohio murders.

Young's lawyer asked Texas Ranger L. C. White if he knew of "similar occurrences" in those states.

The judge sustained a prosecution objection and, when Goodwin tried to pursue the subject, sternly lectured him. "You're an able lawyer, Mr. Goodwin. You know what is admissible and what is not admissible."

Goodwin also tried, outside the hearing of the jury, to get the Ranger to say if he knew that Anderson had "an abnormal interest in small children and in taking their pictures," had a reputation as "a pathological liar" and "wore contacts to change his appearance." White said he did not know.

Another state witness, Henry Whitt, a Pearland service station operator who also rents EZ Haul trucks and is a justice of the peace, identified Anderson as the man who rented a truck from him late last Jan. 4 and returned it late Jan. 5. He identified Young as Anderson's companion.

White said Anderson told him he wanted to move antiques from Conroe to Pearland.

When Anderson returned the truck, Whitt said, he joked with two highway patrolmen at Whitt's service station about the cost of renting a truck.

This was more than five hours after an all-points bulletin had been broadcast for two men in an EZ Haul truck.

Revival Services Planned

A series of services termed "old-time revival" have been announced by the Church of God of the Union Assembly, Inc., 626 S. Cuyler.

A news release from the church group assures biblical answers to questions such as tithing, preaching by women, the "rapture" and the millenium and whether or not Adam and Eve were the first people.

"Old-fashioned Gospel singing" is the way church leaders described music planned for these services.

The series begins at 8 p.m. Sunday and will continue at that time each evening. These meetings are open to the general public as well as members of the church.

Three Food Chains In Texas Checked On Pricing Policies

DALLAS (AP) — Three Texas supermarket chains—two in the Dallas-Fort Worth area and one in Lubbock—have been included in a nationwide inquiry by the Internal Revenue Service into the spread between wholesale and retail beef prices.

W.T. Copping, director of IRS for North Texas, said the probe was ordered by the Nixon administration's price commission. IRS declined to name any of the stores involved, but emphasized the move doesn't necessarily indicate wrongdoing on the part of the stores.

E.W. Keeling, president of Piggly-Wiggly, said his firm is one of the chains involved, according to the Dallas Times Herald.

"We heard that the government was going to check pricing policies on beef in this area and the IRS informed us they wanted to see our books," Keeling said. He stressed that his firm is open for inspection in compliance with price commission regulations.

"We are allowed a markup for every item sold in the meat market, provided that combined gross profit doesn't exceed the figure established by the government," he said.

Donald Rumsfeld, Cost of Living Council director, said the spread between wholesale and retail beef prices is 8.6 cents per pound more than a year ago, thus prompting the inquiry.

"It just isn't so, commented industry officials. "In the first place," said one, "I have been told that Rumsfeld is using figures for a period in August when there hadn't been time for the lower wholesale prices to show up at the meat counter. You have to remember that there is at least a 10-day lag. Every political year we're a football for both parties."

Jack Evans, president of Tom Thumb Stores, said his firm uses the same profit margin regardless of the wholesale price.

J.D. Newsome of Affiliated Food Stores said, "If Mr. Rumsfeld feels that the spread between wholesale and retail prices is 8.6 cents per pound more than last year, he is very badly mistaken and we would be glad to show our records to anyone."

An IRS spokesman said the present investigation will take about 10 days.

RIC Creditors, Shareholders Sue Carr And Others For $15 Million

DALLAS (AP) — Former Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr and former Texas insurance commissioner John Osorio were among 30 defendants in a $15 million federal suit filed Thursday against officers and directors of RIC International Industries.

The suit was filed on behalf of creditors and shareholders of RIC International by John L. King, a court-appointed trustee of the corporation which is in Dallas bankruptcy court.

Six others listed as defendants in Thursday's suit, as well as Carr and Osorio, were also defendants in the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission's Texas stock fraud suit.

The RIC suit claims that the defendants personally benefited by at least $5 million from the wrecking of the corporation. It claimed that directors, officers, and controlling persons conspired to "misappropriate and waste the assets of RIC."

The suit charges "the defendants engaged in a scheme to waste, defraud and destroy RIC to manipulate the market price of its shares, to issue its securities in violation of the securities law, to defraud its shareholders and creditors and to enrich themselves in the process."

According to the charges the defendants forced RIC:

—To borrow money and make commitments far beyond its ability to repay.

—To issue misleading financial statements.

—To issue unregistered stock, much of which found its way into the hands of innocent investors.

—To use other means to manipulate the market price of RIC stock so the defendants could profit by selling shares at the manipulated price.

The suit also claimed that the defendants had the company overpay for the purchase of properties in Alaska, and attempted to acquire controlling interest in National Bankers Life Insurance Co. whose stock was being manipulated by some of the defendants.

King also filed a second federal damage suit against the Bank of Louisville-Royal Bank and Trust claiming it fraudulently charged RIC a $66,000 service charge on a loan.

King said the legally allowable interest on the RIC loan was $57,590, but the firm was charged $153,045 in interest and other charges.

The suit was filed in U. S. Dist. Judge William M. Taylor's court and asked the bank to repay RIC the $66,000 charge or $190,590 in damages.

The suit against Carr and others was filed in U. S. Dist. Judge Robert M. Hill's court.

Other defendants are Andy Byram, Sam Stock, Tom Thomas, City Bank & Trust, Dallas Bank & Trust, David Hoover, Elmer C. Baum, who invested in stock along with Gov. Preston Smith; Frank Jackson, James A. Van Fleet, Warren Gilbert, Willard Roe, Walter Benning and M. F. Frost.

Also Strickman Industries, Nick Pappalos, Jarrell Orman, Ormand Industries Inc., Jack Cox, Thom S. McFarling as liquidator for NBL Insurance Co., Ruder and Finn public relations agency, John F. Beard, South-eastern Funding Co., Beavan Woodward, The Bank of Louisville-Royal Bank & Trust, Ernst and Ernst accounting firm, the law firm of Carr, Osorio, Palmer, Dickson, Long & Coleman, and Charles Powers.

Charles W. Smith, Amarillo district engineer for the Texas Highway Department, will be the speaker.

The program will be presented by the chamber's Highway Committee, headed by Fred Thompson.

The luncheon will be at 12 noon in the Starlight Room of Coronado Inn. Roy Sparkman, chamber president, said it will be an open meeting with a special invitation to residents of surrounding communities.

Connally's Brother Active In Seeking Support For Sen. McGovern

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Even if he turned on his full powers, former Treasury Secretary John Connally would be hard pressed to persuade one Texan in particular to join the Democrats for Nixon drive—his brother, Golfrey Connally.

Chances are the former Texas governor won't bring up the matter at all with Golfrey, an economics professor who staunchly supports Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern.

Golfrey, 53, two years younger than his conservative brother, doesn't care to discuss John's support of President Nixon, although he says they're still friends.

In fact, he says he hasn't had time to sound out his other brothers—including a former county judge and a state senator, both conservative Democrats.

He says he's been too busy with his jobs as head of voter education committees for both the county Democratic Party and the local Citizens for McGovern organization.

Golfrey, who sports mod clothes and wears his gray hair stylishly long, generally has been more an observer than a participant in politics until now.

This year he's busy making speeches and organizing McGovern workers when he isn't teaching economics at San Antonio Junior College.

He also is a member of the Texas Economists for McGovern Committee, and he's armed with letters, pamphlets and documents on McGovern's economic proposals, which he says have the support of some of the nation's most eminent economists.

Golfrey grew up on the family farm with his brothers, and he occasionally reverts to the South Texas vernacular when he takes aim at the Nixon administration.

"Nixon's response is 'Take care of yourself,' or in more early language, 'Root hog or die,'" Golfrey said in an interview.

He added, discussing national employment: "McGovern's proposals include specific programs and various alternatives such as public service jobs—a training program for new skills or as a last resort, public service employment."

The Democratic presidential nominee "conceives of very useful jobs like pollution control and development of housing," Golfrey said, reeling off statistics and leafing through notebooks filled with McGovern proposals. "He also has a $10 billion program for contracts with private industry for civilian programs such as mass transit, air traffic, new transportation systems."

Nixon's proposals are vague, he said, and he depends on "creating an atmosphere of fear. This is a lifelong pattern of dealing with his opponents."

Golfrey, who has taught nine years in San Antonio, just 30 miles from John Connally's Floresville, Tex., ranch, is no stranger to liberal philosophies.

He marched the last few miles of a 1966 farm workers march to the state Capitol, although he missed an earlier confrontation between the marchers and his brother, who was governor at the time. He said John never said a word about his joining the demonstration.

Golfrey also was a strong supporter of former Texas Sen. Ralph Yarborough, while John was always against the liberal Democrat.

Tall and softspoken, with the unmistakable Connally family features, Golfrey says this election year provides the sharpest distinction over issues between the two parties in years, and this is why he has become so actively involved.

Earlier this year, he was an alternate delegate to the Texas Democratic Convention.

He finds McGovern's proposals for closing tax loopholes especially attractive.

Under McGovern's program, he said, the rich would simply "have to pay their fair share. That's a terribly radical proposal, isn't it?" he said sarcastically.

"If you keep up at all with economics," he added, "these proposals for tax reform have been discussed at length over the years. They're not radical. They're not even original, much less radical."

The closest Golfrey will come to commenting on John Connally's support for Nixon is a general assessment of Democrats who are backing the President. "They've been grossly misled by the Republicans about what McGovern stands for," he said.

U.S. And Russia Jointly Announce Progress In Drafting Trade Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union jointly proclaimed "significant progress" in drafting a broad-scale trade agreement between the two countries during talks Henry A. Kissinger held in Moscow this week with Soviet leaders.

A statement released simultaneously in Washington and in Moscow Thursday said that "in view of this progress, negotiations on a lend-lease settlement and concluding a trade agreement will be continued in Washington in September with the aim of completing them in the near future."

At one point, Secretary of Commerce Peter G. Peterson said President Nixon had a fixed goal of seeking a trade accord by the end of 1972 but the Soviet-American document indicated the matter would be wrapped up much sooner.

Kissinger, Nixon's assistant for national security affairs, spent the earlier part of the week in Moscow talking to Communist Party Chief Leonid L. Brezhnev, Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and others.

Earlier, sources cautioned against a report from Moscow forecast the trade agreement would produce $4.9 billion worth of U.S. trade by 1977.

Diseases of the heart and blood vessels killed more than 1,048,000 Americans in 1968, according to the American Heart Association.

Texas College Attracts Five African Students

MARSHALL, Tex. (AP) — The African continent became a distinctive part of the Wiley College campus this fall with five Nigerian students enrolled as full-time students.

Their arrival is the result of negotiations made by Wiley's president, Dr. Robert E. Hayes Sr., and Archibong Nyanibo, African coordinator at Wiley.

Wiley College, one of the 12 historically black colleges sponsored by the United Methodist Church, has felt it should reach beyond the American continent in an effort to serve the church more completely, the president said. Dr. Hayes called the venture an "experiment in Christian mission."

In an effort to establish an International Scholarship Fund of $10,000, he called on the Texas Conference to share in the cost. The scholarship would make it possible for these students and others to pursue a higher education at Wiley College, since foreign students are not eligible for government grants or work-aid programs.

Man-Hating New Topic Of Debate

NEW YORK (AP) — And now there's a new topic of debate about women's liberation that's bound to make at least half of the population a bit uneasy — man-hating.

While more than 200 women cheered, several speakers gave their personal views Wednesday night on why hating men was an essential subject related to women's equality. The conference, closed to men, was organized by the Feminists of New York, who had a similar speakout on rape several months ago.

"We have a moral cause for hating men for they have taken away all our power," said Barbara Mirnof of the Feminists, by way of introduction. "Men have imposed their minds and bodies on women and our hatred is a natural response, a rational and political hatred developing from centuries of male rule."

The women in the audience, mostly young, dressed in jeans and T-shirts, knitting or taking notes, had paid up to $2 to hear speakers like Robin Morgan, editor of an anthology of feminist writings, "Sisterhood Is Powerful."

She read some of her favorite man-hating poems from her new book, "The Monster."

"I want a woman's revolution like a lover. I lust for it. How I wish that my tears ... were bullets ... to kill what terrorizes in men."

Pat Mainardi, married, the author of "The Politics of Housework," and the editor of the Feminist Art Journal, said, "Man-hating marks a turning point in the movement. We have been defensive long enough."

"People often ask me how married women can be a man-hater," she added. "And I wonder, how can we be anything else?" The women cheered.

"We sleep with the enemy to find out his secrets and we pass them onto our allies," she said, but the audience hissed.

"The only way to win liberation is to make men miserable so they will have no peace until women are free. Married women invented man-hating," she declared.

Two Russians To Play Chess In Texas City

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Two Russians have been named to compete in an international chess tournament here Nov. 18-Dec. 11, it was announced Thursday. Spokesmen said defeated world champion Boris Spassky was not among them, although there is still a slight chance that he may play.

The Soviet players will be former world champion Tigran Petrosian and the current Russian champion, Anopolis Karпов, publicists said.

Lothar Schmid of West Germany had been scheduled to compete but has dropped out of the tournament, meaning there is still a spot open for Spassky, spokesmen said. They said negotiations are under way in an effort to have him play here.

Spassky, defeated for the world crown by Bobby Fischer, previously had said he planned to enter the tournament although no official word had been received from Russia.

The event will feature about 16 players. It is sponsored by George Church, a local business executive and chess enthusiast.

U.S. Denounces Red Proposal

PARIS (AP) — The United States today denounced the Viet Cong's proposal for a tripartite provisional government as "nothing more than an undisguised attempt to put the Viet Cong in power in South Vietnam without an election."

U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter said as he arrived for the 159th session of the peace talks: "That's the crux of the matter. They can't stand the thought of an election under international supervision."

Dear Abby

Teen-ager wants pill but doctor hesitates

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: A rather unstable 14-year-old girl has asked me to provide her with birth control pills. That this girl is having intercourse is a fact, and I know she would continue whether she had the pills or not.

Without preventative measures she will surely get pregnant, and in her circumstances she couldn't get an abortion because it's illegal in Nevada, and she is poor, so there would only be another unwanted, innocent child.

So, if you were in my place, what would you do?

ON THE SPOT

DEAR ON: I would consider the options, and choose the lesser of the evils—which is obvious. Since the girl is relying on you for help, I hope you realize that she desperately needs counseling. I also hope that you have explained that while "the pill" prevents pregnancy, it offers no protection whatsoever against venereal disease.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago my husband and I built our dreamhouse. We designed it ourselves, wanting something different from the run-of-the-mill floor plans. We also searched far and wide for our furnishings.

We now have a very original and unusual home. It's so unusual, in fact, that we have had a steady stream of visitors who come by just to see it, and get "ideas" for their own homes. Some have had the nerve to take notes, and ask us about where we got this and that, and how much did it cost? I mean, everything from our light fixtures, hardware, carpeting, draperies, wallpaper to our lamps and furniture!

Abby, please don't tell us that imitation is the sincerest form of flattery. This goes beyond imitation. It is more like "stealing."

Thanks for letting us express ourselves. Print this, but don't use our names or town.

HATES CHISELERS

DEAR HATES: One is more or less helpless against friends who turn out to be copycats. But if you permit strangers to tour your home, you're lucky if all they steal are "ideas."

DEAR ABBY: There is a very pushy woman in our town who greets all the men with a kiss on the lips. I have watched her go from man to man pollinating and contaminating at least 20 men, one right after the other. [Some of these men she hardly knows.]

My husband is one of her victims. I have told him he did not have to hold still for a kiss like that, but he insists there is nothing he can do about it.

Abby, when people come at me with an unwelcome kiss, I quickly extend my hand to indicate that I will shake hands, but want no kisses, and I can't see why my husband couldn't do the same. What do you think?

HATES KISSING STRANGERS

DEAR HATES: When the kissing creature approaches, your husband could turn his head, so her kiss would catch him on the cheek instead of on the lips. And if she tried again, he could take his cue from the Good Book and turn the other cheek.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90060 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90060, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, SEPT. 16

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: The search for coherence and rational meanings fills your life in the year ahead, generally with good results. Today's natives are builders of patterns, collectors of odd facts.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Yesterday's repercussions are still with you. Concentrate on activity that directly promotes your progress.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Look around to make sure some detail isn't being skipped. Keep a supply of items most likely to run out with changes.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Get out of the workweek mood, take a vacation, at least symbolically. Think about changes several times before making them.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Take a more personal interest. Do something that is of no great quality, but which you've wanted to try in a dull time.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Extra effort is a requirement today, even if all you want is to drop off the mainstream for a respite. Take it all in stride.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: The fun of doing what you do may be the main reward available, rather than any financial returns. Share favorite stories.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Stretch out routines to make them more restful. Drift thru the weekend, with time spent in reflection over recent past.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Indulge that streak of laziness. It will give your unconscious a moment for restoration, and new inspiration.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Just turning around to move away from the past is enough to achieve now. Keep in touch with loved ones, whether near or far.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Despite an early start, overtime is indicated. No matter what you do—you get into a bind. Today's work is never repeated.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Try letting everybody alone to make his own choices, find it gives you more time and energy to pursue your own goals.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: A judicious mixture of busy spells and loafing spells gets you thru this long day, with something done on most of your goals.

YAM SEASON is in full swing. These golden potatoes with reddish-orange flesh are amazingly rich in nutrition. A medium-size boiled, peeled yam provides more than twice the recommended daily allowance of vitamin "A" for an adult, 42 per cent of the iron and thiamine, and also provides other vitamins and minerals. These pleasant potatoes from North Carolina are good both as vegetables and in desserts such as yam pies and puddings. Enjoy them now.

Jameson-Cloud Vows Said In Double-Ring Ceremony

Nuptial vows were exchanged by Judy Anne Jameson and Kenneth Joe Cloud Friday, Aug. 19, in the Central Baptist Church, Pampa.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil V. Jameson, 435 N. Starkweather, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Marie Cloud, 623 E. Browning, and the late Homer Cloud Jr.

THE CEREMONY

Rev. Bryan Halliburton officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Miss Dixie Bond, organist, played theme from "Love Story" and "We've Only Just Begun."

THE BRIDE

The bride was given in marriage by her father, with the "her mother and I avowal." She was attired in a formal A-line gown of Chantilly lace over soft taffeta, with the lace over-lay giving a redingote effect to the front of the floor-length skirt that swept into a chapel train.

The bodice, embroidered with seed pearls and sequins, was fashioned with a round, scalloped neckline, embroidered with seed pearls and sequins, and long lace sleeves terminating in ruffles that extended over her hands.

Her three-tiered shoulder-length veil of illusion fell from a headpiece of lace leaves, accented with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations, baby's breath, and purple statice over a white Bible.

For "something old," and "blue," she wore a garter belonging to her mother. "Something borrowed" was the white Bible, belonging to Mrs. Ray Feazle. In her shoe, she placed a birthdate penny, a gift from Mrs. Paul Pylon.

ATTENDANTS

Maid of honor was Miss Debra Shouse, who wore a floor-length gown of orchid dotted Swiss, styled with an empire waistline. She carried a cascade bouquet of light and dark purple asters.

David Jenkins of Pampa served as best man, Glenn Jameson, brother of the bride, and Allen Cloud, brother of the bridegroom, were ushers.

MRS. KENNETH JOE CLOUD
...nee Judy Anne Jameson

Presiding at the guest register was Miss Robin McDowell of Pampa.

MOTHERS

The bride's mother wore a yellow and tangerine knit dress, and the bridegroom's mother wore a pink and white ensemble. Both wore corsages of white carnations, accented with purple ribbon.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. Presiding at the punch bowl and serving the cake were Mrs. William M. Slaughter of Amarillo, sister of the bride; Miss Janet Feazle and Miss Pam Britten, both of Pampa.

Following a wedding trip to Oklahoma City, Okla., the couple is at home at 1345 Duncan, Pampa.

Betty Canary

By BETTY CANARY

We look at the calendar and wonder, where did it all go? Summertime, splendid mornings, shimmering afternoons, gone, past, so soon.

Children force their feet into new school shoes. The traditional vacation time is over.

No more family reunions until next year (and your children will still be the prettiest, brightest, tallest, wittiest at the next one).

Another class reunion gone by (and aren't you still amazed at how everybody except you has aged).

It seems only yesterday we were scooping sand out of the sofa; now we're laundering sweaters and checking football schedules.

Time, the relentless master, sweeps along, taking us and the summer with him.

He didn't allow us enough margin to get the spring cleaning done. He didn't give us enough rainless Mondays to insure we'd keep to our summertime schedule of painting the shutters. He seemingly forgot we'd need more days to complete the window box plantings.

We'll accept with delight the idea of autumn almost here. We look forward to drives to the country, apple cider, bouquets of scarlet and yellow leaves. We'll be glad for mellow days and crisp nights.

We'll try not to complain about the heavier schedules of September, even though we have all those First Fall Meetings to attend, plans to make for holiday parties, and furnace filters to clean.

But, for now, let's relax and enjoy the last golden days of summer. Let's watch Orioles eat orange slices we've hung in the backyard maple tree. And be glad that less DDT meant more butterflies this year.

Pampa ABWA Schedules Hand Of Friendship Tea

Pampa Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Association will hold its Hand of Friendship Enrollment Event at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the Hospitality Room of the Citizens Bank and Trust Company, according to Mrs. Ellen Malone, chapter president.

This event is held semi-annually to introduce the organization and the local chapter to business women in this area. At the same time, similar events will be held across the country by more than 1,000 other ABWA chapters.

"The chief function of ABWA is to help women in business advance through education, increased competence, and through upgrading of professional skills and business attitudes," said Mrs. Ellen Malone.

The Association, founded in Kansas City, Mo., in 1949, now has over 60,000 members. One of its worthy projects is giving scholarships to women students. Locally, chapters awarded over $350,000 in scholarships from Oct. 1, 1970, to Sept. 30, 1971. During this period an additional $70,000 in scholarships was awarded from the National Scholarship Fund.

Pampa Charter Chapter has awarded local scholarships to 10 worthy recipients and has assisted six students in securing interest-free educational loans from the ABWA National Scholarship Fund.

The Enrollment Event will feature a panel discussion on ABWA. Mrs. Ken Plotner is membership chairman and Mrs. Homer McNeil is tea chairman.

COSMETIC ALLERGIES

An allergic reaction to nail polish frequently produces a dermatitis observed on the face or around the eyes, areas the user has touched with freshly polished nails. The dermatitis is rarely seen on the fingers. The sensitizing agent, allergists explain, is a plastic ingredient common to most nail polishes.

A pamphlet on "Cosmetic Allergy" can be obtained from the Allergy Foundation of America by writing to the organization at 801 Second Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017, and enclosing $0.25. Hair coloring, eye makeup, nail care products, deodorants, and perfumes are the categories included.

Brimms for the Beach

Beach hats are a fashion accessory that will brighten up already-sunny shores. Floppy, wide brims protect skin and hair from the ravages of sun and wind. And the hats can accent any beach outfit.

Delta Kappa Gamma Names Chairmen, Plans Activities

Committees were appointed and plans for the coming year were made at the meeting of Theta Delta chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, Saturday, in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Company.

Mrs. John Vantine, president, named the chairman, who met with their committee members for a planning session. They are Mrs. John Morris, program and yearbook; Mrs. Frank Hawkins, personal growth and services; Mrs. Jack Williams, professional affairs; Miss Mary Dean Dozier, research; Mrs. Aubrey Jones, auditing; Mrs. Freeman Melton, ceremonies; Miss Thelma Holman, finance; Mrs. Charles Hill, membership; Mrs. Edith Hughes, nominations; Miss Claudia Everly, publicity; and Miss Marjorie Ewing, scholarships.

membership from five to three years teaching experience failed to pass, as did the proposal to abolish the attendance rule, which requires that a member attend at least half the scheduled meetings unless prevented by illness, bereavement, or professional duties.

Miss Everly stated the convention was attended by more than 2,800 members, representing all 50 states, the District of Columbia, six Canadian provinces, Norway, and Sweden. She also reported that, according to Miss Arletta Bailey, one of the participants, Project North America is succeeding beyond expectations. Through this project, Delta Kappa Gamma assists the Navajo Community College at Many Farms, Ariz., by providing two teachers in the college and two scholarships for students seeking further education.

After the planning sessions, a salad luncheon was served, with Mrs. Elbert Walker, Edward Wiens, Quentin Williams, Aubrey Jones, and W. L. Parker as hostesses.

Patriotic decorations and campaign materials reminded those present of the importance of exercising their right to vote.

Former Base Personnel Meet For First Reunion

Forty-two former Pampa Army Air Force Base military and civilian personnel met Sunday afternoon for their first reunion since the base closed 27 years ago.

Photographs, squadron albums and base newspapers were on exhibit. The group formed a permanent organization and tentative plans were made for a second reunion, to be held in September 1973. Officers elected were Max Presnell, president; Mrs. Annie B. Booth, vice-president; and Mrs. Nina Spoonemore, secretary-treasurer.

"The organization is long overdue," Presnell stated, "its later than you think. Many of our group are already gone. We urge all AFB personnel to get in touch with us to ensure a continuing fellowship with those who did their part to help win World War II. We are especially anxious to contact those who live out of town."

Quenton C. Nolte, former T-Sgt., Chief Clerk, Cadet Training Detachment, stated the first class of cadets arrived for training in October 1942. The base closed in 1945. Arrangements for the meeting were made by Mrs. Mattie Scott, Mrs. Palesteen Drum and Mrs. Annie B. Booth.

Attending the event were Sgt. Howard C. Hollingworth, T-Sgt. Alvin S. Macartney, Sgt. V.C. Moore, T-Sgt. Quenton C. Nolte, C.C. Mead, Cleo Ruff, Mrs. Elleta Nolte, Mrs. Burton Bearden, Sgt. Dillard C. (Dick) Bayless, Pfc. Vernon Camp, Thurmon Stapleton, Bill Potter, Buck Smith, T.D. Pfiel, Sgt. William A. Bennick, Annie B. (Hunnicut) Booth.

And Sgt. Fay McLean, Nina Spoonemore, Max Presnell, S-Sgt. John Holt, Jim Goff, Ruby Wylie, Elizabeth Looper, Alvena (Brandon) Williams, Mattie (Gattlin) Scott, Genia (Graham) Sparkman, Ruby M. Burrow, Mavis Converse, Betty (Shryock) Marx, Vera Mae (Brabham) Kettlewell, Opal Moore, Marguerite Nash, Mary Hoyer, Janice Meyers, and Palesteen (Gething) Drum.

HEADLIGHTS HELPFUL ADVICE FOR THE WOMAN DRIVER

by Kay Nicolette
Women's Service Director
Gulf Oil Corporation

Now hear this: you have to develop an "ear" for your car's operating efficiency.

Here are three common car ailments and the noises that indicate them:

1. A sputtering or roaring sound under the midsection of the car. This usually means a muffler, exhaust or tail pipe is rusted through or damaged in some way. If defective, the part should be replaced without delay, so that poisonous fumes cannot enter the interior of the car.

2. Tapping sound in the engine. Possibility of a valve sticking, or insufficient oil in the engine. Have the engine oil level checked and put in a can of additive if necessary.

3. Loud squeal when brakes applied. Signal that brake linings may be badly worn or padded by dust or oil. Brake linings should be checked immediately.

Then he led a club and finessed his jack. West took his king and led the queen of diamonds.

South ruffed and proceeded to make his contract by the simple expedient of just taking the rest of the tricks.

Why were all his cards good? Because a simple squeeze developed against West when he cashed his last two trumps. Everyone was down to five cards. Dummy held four spades and one club. South three spades and ace and one club and poor West held a tiger by the tail. He couldn't guard both spades and clubs and East couldn't help him.

North really liked his 17-point no-trump after South's three-heart response.

His three-spade bid was a slam try and in spite of South's sign-off at four hearts, North decided to carry on with a four no-trump call.

South wasn't sure if his partner's call was Blackwood or just a strong bid in no-trump but decided to bid five hearts to cover all contingencies. North went on to six and South had to play the slam.

It was not the sort of slam that should be bid, but South was able to find a winning line of play.

After winning the diamond opening, he drew trumps

Mills Hopes To Steer Through House Major Tax-Reform In '73

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills says he hopes to steer through the House next year a major tax-reform bill, probably including substantial revision of the capital-gains tax.

The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, also hopes for House passage next year of a national health-insurance bill and one on foreign trade.

But he said that if the Senate again fails to agree on a welfare-reform measure "I cannot ask the House to go up that mountain a third time."

In the last Congress the House passed a reform bill along lines proposed by President Nixon, only to see it die in the Senate. The House last year passed a similar bill which is still bogged down in the Senate Finance Committee as adjournment of the present Congress approaches.

Mills discussed the outlook in an interview with his committee during a series of executive sessions to trim its agenda for the remainder of the present Congress, which hopes to adjourn by about Oct. 14.

The only remaining major piece of legislation assured of committee action is an increase in the national debt ceiling, on which hearings begin Monday. The committee also may act on tax credits for parents of children in nonpublic schools, but chances of final passage of such legislation at this session are slender.

Mills indicated he cannot support Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern's proposal to phase out the preferential tax treatment of capital gains in three years. Generally speaking, such gains are taxed at half the rate of ordinary income.

With a caution that "I am only thinking out loud," Mills said he is interested in proposals to establish a graduated scale for taxing the increased value of assets, so that those held longest would carry the lowest rate. The minimum period for which an asset must be held before the profit on its sale is taxed as a capital gain should be longer than the present six months, he said.

Smith Says He May Open Call To Other Subjects

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith said Thursday he probably will open his call for Monday's special legislative session to other subjects once the main business receives action.

And if that action happens to be only quick adjournment without considering any of the governor's bills, Smith said he would not call the lawmakers back into session.

Sen. Murray Watson of Waco has threatened to move to adjourn the special session within minutes after it convenes Monday.

Smith called the session to restore budgetary powers taken from him by an attorney general's opinion and to enact a competitive rate bill for car and house insurance.

Once those subjects are disposed of, he said at an informal news conference, he would have "no objection" to opening his call to include repeal of a law requiring farm trailers to have brakes. He also might open it to "local, non-controversial bills" and to legislation exempting flying schools from regulation by the Texas Education Agency. The schools contend they already are regulated adequately by the federal government.

Smith said Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes asked him to include trailer brake legislation in the call.

Smith said he was opposed to the session taking up any insurance matters other than the

Ex-Amarillo Mayor To Be Buried Today

AMARILLO (AP) — Funeral services will be held here Friday at the First Christian Church for A. F. "Judge" Madison, former mayor of Amarillo, who died at his home Wednesday while resting in his easy chair. He was 76.

Madison, a onetime resident of Fort Worth, was instrumental in bringing about negotiations for the Canadian River water supply project, and served as Amarillo mayor from 1959 to 1961.

He was known here also as "Mr. Baseball" because of his interest in the game and the encouragement he gave to local professional teams.

Madison was born in Wayside and after graduation from high school joined the First Texas National Guard Cavalry and participated in the Mexican border campaign with Gen. John J. Pershing.

During World War I he served in France with the American Expeditionary Forces as a first lieutenant. Earlier he had been stationed for a time in Camp Bowie in Fort Worth.

It was at Camp Bowie that he met and married Nell Williams of Clarendon.

After the war the couple resided in Roswell, N.M., before moving back to Amarillo.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Mrs. Joe Leonard of Roswell; a son, Ford, of Wichita, Kan.; and nine grandchildren.

The Silent Epidemic: Burns

By D. L. DRAKE

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The United States is in the grips of a silent "epidemic" of serious burns which is killing and crippling more people today than polio did in its peak epidemic year of 1954.

Three Texas physicians, Armond Goldman, Duane Larson and Sally Abston, urge a national effort against burns as great as the campaign that finally brought polio under control nearly two decades ago. They make their suggestions in a recent editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Assn.

Fires and burn injuries killed 6,700 persons in 1970, of which 1,500 were children, the National Safety Council estimates. Another 250,000 persons were disabled by burn injuries.

"It is evident," the Texas physicians say, "that burn prevention should be of high priority in our society."

Studying the causes of burn injuries in 368 children from 1966 to 1970, the doctors found that 90 per cent of them were burned in or near their homes. Flammable textiles and liquids were responsible for 70 per cent of the total burns.

In the recently published book "Save Your Child's Life," medical writer David Hendin adds that "Nearly half of all fire deaths occur because clothing catches fire."

He says that careful selection of a child's wardrobe can eliminate many hazards. "More girls are involved in clothing fires because skirts and dresses hang away from the body and catch fire more easily."

Flammable liquids, such as gasoline, were responsible for 30 per cent of the burns. In some cases, gasoline helped ignite the clothing.

When a person's clothing catches fire he must never be allowed to run away, for this fans the flames. Instead the person should be rolled in a heavy cloth material, such as a coat or blanket.

This will smother the flames.

Since burn prevention is so clearly the only answer to saving patients and their families from the trauma of burns, the Texas physicians have called for a single government agency to coordinate a program with the responsibility for a continual analysis and survey of burn injuries, and to organize and implement methods of prevention.

They urge that a national education program be launched via the mass media about dangerous and combustible substances. Another measure that is vital is control of key fire hazards.

For instance, the government should aid and encourage industry in its efforts to provide flame-retardant clothing.

However, in "Save Your Child's Life!" Hendin points out that until all children's clothing is made flame retardant, parents can take their own precautions.

"Even though almost all clothing will burn, some materials are safer than others," he says.

Wool, for example, is the least flammable of all natural fibers. Other fibers, such as cotton, are ordinarily highly flammable, but can be made flame-retardant by soaking them in a mixture of water, borax and boric acid.

Other common hazards, such as open space heaters, hot-water heaters and kitchen stoves, could be improved by design and regulation. These are threats to older persons as well as children, studies show.

Hendin also warns parents that defective wiring and dangling cords, improper disposal of cigarette ashes or butts and overturned containers of hot food or water are also major causes of burns.

"Save Your Child's Life!" which is now available exclusively through this newspaper, gives basic first-aid suggestions for burns, as well as outlining clothing, electrical and chemical burn hazards which must be guarded against.

In addition the book discusses first aid and prevention of poisoning, animal bites, drowning, shock, electrical injury and drug overdose. The book features an emergency reference guide and is designed especially for quick use by parents of young children as well as others.

Curiosity Keeps Cat Young?

NEW YORK (AP) — Curiosity kills the cat.

So an old English proverb says. It may be true, but it is also true that curiosity keeps a cat young and greatly alive, just as it does human beings.

That's why I am beginning to suspect that our family cat, Lady Dottie, may live forever. If curiosity can guarantee immortality, she will never run out of breath.

Lady Dottie is something of a feline Cinderella. The souvenir of a midnight passion on a suburban backyard fence by parents of unknown ancestry, she came to us as a homeless stray kitten with a black dot on her nose that made her look vaguely like a comic Adolf Hitler in fur.

Now 14, black and white and large, she has the manners of an aristocrat and — thanks to an early visit to a veterinarian who made a lasting impression on her — the morals of a saint.

Last year Lady Dottie completed her freshman year at Windham College in Vermont with my other teen-ager, Tracy Ann, a daughter both following a new custom that is becoming a tradition among many college students, are staying home this semester in order to "find themselves."

Lady Dottie is completely different from the typical human teen-ager, who would rather commit hara-kiri than show emotion of any kind in the presence of an adult.

Although at 14 a cat is getting to be a senior citizen, she is almost frantically curious about everything around her, particularly anything that moves.

She will lie and lap her fur indifferently at the screaming of a siren or the ear-hurting chattering of an automatic jackhammer outside the window, but if anything within eyesight makes a fractional move, she is on it in a bound and a pounce.

Automatically, she assumes that anything brought into the house is a present for her. She will scratch at a parcel, trying to open it, and won't rest until she gets to inspect its contents — first, of course.

Of all North American mammals, pronghorn antelope are the fastest runners.

G O P -- Jumbo Party?

The question before the house now is not whether the GOP will win in the fall but whether Richard Nixon will be able to transform the once-bumbling Jumbo from a minority elephant into one that knows how to throw its majority weight around.

It happened to the Democrats under President Franklin D. Roosevelt and it just might be up to President Nixon to change the order of things with his re-election this fall.

When President Roosevelt moved into the White House in 1932 he took with him a Democratic Party that had been the weak sister since Civil War Days. But he gave it immediate muscle, muscle that the party has kept through the years until recently.

Success is mercurious, however; it can work to one's advantage as long as proper balance is maintained. Give the scales a slight tilt, and the top becomes the bottom.

The Republican convention in Miami Beach has all the glitter of a strong current of mercury running into the GOP pond. Ronald Reagan, governor of California with a picturebook profile, used his movie-star charm to sugar his colleagues and his politician's instinct to knock huge slabs from the bread-and-butter offerings of the enemy Democrats.

He was aided and abetted by Senator Barry Goldwater, whom Reagan introduced as "a man who would rather be right than be President."

Watching the convention on TV, one got the impression that this was a stacked-card game and everyone knew it, and the only people hurting were the Democrats.

And when Reagan alluded to the silent insults given to former President Lyndon Johnson by the Democrats at their convention, burning their hides for turning their backs on their own former leader, and then when resolutions of tribute were paid to Johnson and former President Harry Truman, one could see the dealer grinning as he shuffled.

The Republicans are painting their adversaries with unusual, rich colors, but the finished product resembles a work of mad art fashioned by a Mack truck using its wheels as brushes.

It cannot be denied that the Democrats have asked for it. In power for so many years, they made a plaything out of a serious operation, and if the Republicans are able to move into majority party status they, too, in time will succumb to the siren calls of success. History stands as a giant crystal ball.

Nixon is making fast inroads into traditional Democratic territory. The fact that the Democrats chose Senator McGovern as their standard bearer almost automatically delivered 147 electoral votes to Nixon in the South. And it isn't that the South loves Nixon that much; it's that McGovern is looked upon with such a degree of scorn.

This considerable helping of discontent is not confined to the South. In such a long-time Democratic state as Rhode Island, a recent poll indicates that McGovern's chance of victory there in the fall is about as good as his chances in North Carolina.

If Nixon can win in Rhode Island the got whomped there by 2-to-1 margins the last two times he ran, then he can win anywhere. And if he can win anywhere, then he is going to take a lot of fellow Republicans to Washington come next January.

And if he can pull it off in January with such a whoosh, and maintain the balance that he has offered during the past four years, who in the Democratic herd of harmless hopefuls could do commendable battle against the GOP offering in 1976, no matter whom it might be.

To The Heirs Of Nature

Concern over the environment is one of the better things that has surfaced with intensity in the past decade. The only problem is that the activists seek to "solve" the pollution problem with action by political government.

It is too bad that those who see the rivers and lakes of the future being ruined through bit by bit pollution do not also see individual freedom being destroyed by the programs and power-grabbing of political government.

It is encouraging that many industrialists are spending some of their promotional money to encourage awareness of the pollution problems. Most of the pollution comes from individual people who carelessly add to the litter where they live or visit or merely pass by.

Simple reminders often can accomplish much more than the bureaucratic edicts.

In this connection we have a comment from Don Oakley of Newspaper Enterprise Assn. about a will of Charles Lounsbury of Chicago in 1898. His real name was Williston Fish and he managed a streetcar line in the windy city.

His poetic will was first published in Harper's Weekly, and we think you will find it captures the imagination today possibly more than ever. It reads in part:

"I, Charles Lounsbury, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, do now make and publish this my last will and testament, in order, as justly as I may, to distribute my interests in the world among succeeding men..."

"ITEM—I leave to all children exclusively, but only for the life of their childhood, all and every, the dandelions of the fields and the daisies thereof, with the right to play among them freely, according to the

Clark Plays Politics With POWs

Chicago Sun-Times

Former Atty. Gen Ramsey Clark played the lowest kind of irresponsible politics in trumpeting that election of Sen. George McGovern in November would result in the freeing of Vietnam prisoners of war when McGovern took office in January. An appeal for votes using war prisoners as campaign material is such a miserable ploy it ought to be disowned by McGovern.

Clark obviously has been used by the North Vietnamese in an attempt to put pressure on the White House while the President's representative, Henry Kissinger, is holding secret talks aimed at ending the war.

Former U.S. Atty Gen. John Mitchell was being charitable when he dubbed Clark "a naive American" who was "unwittingly duped into playing Hanoi's wretched game."

Clark spent two weeks in North Vietnam as part of a peace group invited by Hanoi. What he saw and what he was told obviously were well-controlled. He at first said he had been told prisoners of war would be released "when we stop this senseless bombing."

Later he said he misspoke or was misquoted. He also denied that he had spoken on Radio Hanoi as actress Jane Fonda did. But Clark acknowledged his comments while in Hanoi may have been tape recorded and broadcast by his hosts. In other words, he was "used."

Specifically, Clark said Hanoi's foreign minister "guaranteed" him that the American POWs would be released immediately after a war-ending treaty was implemented by the United States. And, of course, on Hanoi's conditions that he was hardly sensational news. It is customary for POWs to be released at war's end. We assume, Kissinger has received such assurance.

Clark has served as a transmission belt for Hanoi to make its arguments directly to the American people. He quoted the conditions which Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh set for PW release: The United States must "stop its war of aggression" and cease maintaining the "the Saigon stooge administration." And that, again, is hardly sensational news. It's merely a restatement of Hanoi's shibboleths for ending the war, which are well known.

President Nixon would end the war by an agreed-on cease-fire, with each side holding the territory it now has. Hanoi and Saigon would then work out their own political settlement. Hanoi demands a political settlement first, starting with the removal of South Vietnamese President Thieu. McGovern would simply pull out all American forces, end aid to Thieu and let the Vietnamese, North and South continue to fight it out or make what peace they could. Hanoi obviously would prefer McGovern's election, but no American, be he for McGovern or not, should permit Hanoi to influence an American election.

It is not clear whether activities such as Clark's and Jane Fonda's violate the Logan Act of 1799 which forbids any U.S. citizen, without authority of the United States, from "any intercourse with any foreign government or any officer thereof, with intent...to defeat the measure of the United States."

Clark's irresponsible ambiguities are hardly intended to strengthen the measure the United States is taking to end the war and bring peace to Vietnam. If the people prefer McGovern's approach, they can so signify November 7. But as long as Mr. Nixon is President we believe he should be able to pursue his own means to that end without undercutting from political opposition parroting Hanoi's line.

A—Gophers.

Q—What is the longest bone of the human body?

A—The femur, or thigh bone.

Q—What major league baseball team was the first to wear batting helmets?

A—The Brooklyn Dodgers in 1941.

Crossroads Report

Dear Editor:

A Mr. Wiley, who is prospering by selling union cards in his National Welfare Rights Organization, says his members will take whatever steps are necessary to get their share of the wealth of this nation.

Millions of Americans have this same attitude and have already taken the necessary steps by doing something or producing something that somebody will pay them for.

But there is some doubt that Mr. Wiley and the able-bodied members of his union have in mind taking any such tiresome steps to get their share.

I see where the opening of schools in some cities under court orders requiring a different pupil color mix has been accomplished with only a moderate amount of confusion and physical discord. Only one school reported getting a telephoned bomb threat, and the building was not evacuated.

It could be that the people who are theoretically in charge of that school had been on the grounds long enough that morning to feel like a bomb or two wouldn't make the situation any worse, and might help.

I see where teenage voters in New York are learning fast. They are said to be registering in 10 or 15

FIGHTING DRUGS

The evidence that Red China is the world's prime source of heroin is still suppressed by the mass media. To distract attention from Peking's role in the destruction of thousands of lives, neutral or pro-Western Asian governments are accused of complicity in the drug trade. The fact is, however, that these governments are cracking down on narcotics, in an effort to stem this evil tide.

In Laos, for instance, the National Assembly has passed a law forbidding any commercial transaction involving opium or its derivatives. The Cambodian government set up a special office in March this year to expedite its enforcement of laws against the possession of narcotics.

Thailand has been in the forefront of efforts against narcotics. After a visit to Thailand to obtain first-hand information on this problem, General Lewis Wall, former assistant commandant of the Marine Corps, declared that Thailand was committed "to all-out battle against the international drug traffic."

In June, for example, Thai police authorities struck a major blow against the drug traffickers with the seizure of 1,600 kilos of opium, concealed in the wells of tank trucks, as well as a large amount of chemicals used in the manufacture of heroin. The U.S. should fully support its Asian allies in their efforts to stop the drug traffic in Southeast Asia.

different precincts each—about as many as even a youthful voter could get around to in a one-day election.

Even 15- and 16-year-olds are said to be registering to vote, on the grounds that it is a silly law, to be properly ignored, which requires a voter to be 18.

And my oh-well neighbor says he's heard that in some places people vote even after they are dead, and he reckons a 15-year-old is as fit to vote as a tombstone.

It looks like life in the U.S. Navy is going to be different. Girl sailors, in the future, will help man (excuse me) personnelize its warships.

Most complaints about this move come from folks worried about the expense of equipping ships with four separate heads and living compartments: two of each for male and female officers, and two for male and female seapersons.

Which would be typical of Navy concern for tradition but might not please the girl Libbers who feel deprived by not being allowed to eliminate with the boys.

I see where a 35-year-old labor dispute has been settled. It concerned whether railroads can disemploy firemen on trains where there is no fire. Decision was reached that the railroads don't have to hire any more firemen but must keep on paying all of the old ones until they retire.

My super-senior neighbor says he once had a job in a bustle factory and it was obviously unconstitutional for the place to fire him when the bustle boom busted, so he wants to sue somebody for 80 years back pay.

Food Is Cheapest

U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz: "The American consumer now pays only 17.5 cents of each dollar for food. There's no country on the face of the earth that gets food as cheap as do the Americans. At no time in the history of this country have we bought food as cheap as that (17.5 cents). "Take the last 15 to 20 years—as compared to the late 1950's an hour's work today buys: 25 percent more pork than it did 20 years ago, 20 percent more beef, 13 percent more potatoes, 30 percent more milk and 40 percent more eggs. Compared to income, food is America's best buy."

Your Health

Don't Keep Old Prescriptions

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I would like to know how long penicillin tablets are good. About four years ago I had an abscessed tooth and my dentist prescribed penicillin tablets to bring down the swelling. I had about six left over and put them in my medicine cabinet. Are they still good?

Dear Reader—Throw them away. Penicillin tablets are usually considered to be safe if stored properly only for about two years. Your letter points up a very important problem with medicine. The shelf life, or how long a medicine is effective, varies a great deal. Personally, I think every bottle of medicine that is given to a patient should have an expiration date or a statement effective only until, and then a specific date stamped on the label.

Don't underestimate the importance of this. The housewives in the nation raised Cain because foods aren't dated and they have a valid point. I submit, however, that the medicines that are taken for illnesses are just as important as food. Usually a person's health, and how well he responds to treatment of an illness, depends on his taking medicine which has not deteriorated from age.

Doctors could probably help solve this problem by writing on their prescription pad, "please label with expiration date for usefulness." The reason doctors often don't do this is they expect their patients to take the medicine that has been prescribed for them. Thus the doctor prescribes just the amount of medicine he wants the patient to have and there should be none left over.

Doctors are trusting souls and we often think that our patients take the things we give them. The truth is, they often don't or they take the medicine they have been given for a few days and after they feel better they stop even though they haven't taken the full course of treatment. Not only can this be dangerous to the individual's health, but it provides a ready stock of unused medicine. Your situation is a good example.

This is one of the ways a lot of dangerous medicines are available for children or to be taken by mistake. Just remember, old medicine is often not good medicine. Throw away all medicine that your doctor has prescribed for you that you have not used.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Do you consider eating sunflower seeds harmful to your health? My granddaughter, who is in her teens, likes them so well she eats them by the pack.

Dear Reader—No, they're not harmful, provided she can afford that many calories. If they've been prepared by being roasted in oils, they'll have more grease and obviously contain more calories. The oil in raw sunflower seeds is very rich in polyunsaturated fats and contains very few saturated fats.

How Sweden Practices Its War On The Family

Strange as it may seem, the government of Sweden has embarked on a national campaign against parents who "poison children with Christian morality."

The atheist minister for church affairs in Sweden, Mrs. Alva Myrdal, who promotes compulsory child-care centers, has said, "the state will never permit Christians to split society." The reason why this is so important is that we see in Sweden an advanced stage of the very course of action which is now being strongly pushed in the United States.

The movement for federal child-control centers in the USA and proposed "tax reforms" all have a bearing on the Swedish situation. We will be embarking on the same journey as the Swedes.

Sweden's War on the Family

In 1968 the Swedish government issued a report called "The Status of Women in Sweden." Stockholm's Socialist daily Aftonbladet headlined its story, "Women, Don't Let a Man Support You!" (Sept. 28, 1968, p.1), and commented (favorably), "The government is making an assault on marriage... The place of woman is in the labor-market, not the home."

The following year the Swedish minister of justice established a committee to study the abolition of marriage in the old sense. The new law accomplishing this abolition may be enacted to take effect on July 1, 1973, according to Svenska Dagbladet (June 8, 1972, p. 7). They will mean the end of both religious and civil marriage ceremonies. A simple notification will replace both marriage and—after a three- or six-month "period of reflection"—divorce. Marriage will officially mean little more for a couple than a common address—there are no special duties or rights.

The Swedish tax reforms of 1970 had already abolished all the tax advantages of marriage. In fact, not only do children born out of wedlock now receive larger state subsidies than those born to a married couple, but unmarried parents get a better tax break and the children get a better deal at the state-run day nurseries.

Proposed new laws would pressure all children to attend state day nurseries from age six months. The official Swedish Investigation Commission for Day Nurseries has this to say: "The children need to experience alternative systems of values and norms..."

"The compulsory state nursery must come because it offers more models of imitation and identification than the parents." Mrs. Alva Myrdal, Sweden's atheist minister for church affairs, has publicly declared that the government will pay no attention to "orthodox zealots" who object to this obligatory state program; the state will never permit Christians to split society."

Another aspect of the Swedish government's strategy for becoming the only determining factor in the education of children is the obligatory teaching in sex-education courses that sexual relationships are more or less acceptable at any age. There is a campaign against parents who "poison children with Christian morality."

When Sweden's present minority prime minister, Olof Palme, was minister of education, he proclaimed the state's intention to force the closure of Sweden's few remaining private schools (then numbering fifty, now about twenty). Compulsory state religious instruction aims, according to Bishop Bo Gertz of Gothenburg, at creating skeptics and atheists. In 1971 thousands of Christians protested this tightening state monopoly to U Thant, then secretary general of the United Nations. A small group of Lutherans has opened a court action against the Swedish government before the Commission on Human Rights of the Council of Europe because of alleged lack of democratic freedoms there.

An action committee led by twenty-eight representatives of religious and political groups has launched an appeal "Radda Familjen!" (Save the family!) in an attempt to alert Swedes to the implications of what their government is planning. So far the appeal has made little headway. An ideological indifference has characterized most Swedes since the Social Democrats began their unbroken reign forty years ago.

The present Social Democratic government controls 48 percent of the seats in the Riksdag, and can maintain itself in power only because the Communists (3 percent) do not vote against it.

MORMON MISSIONARIES — Two elders of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) are currently working in Pampa. At left is David Powell, 21, of Payson, Utah, with his companion, Preston McCarty, 20, of Belle Fourche, S.D. Both of the elders are serving two-year missions in Texas without financial assistance from the Church. The two spend their time explaining the church and the Book of Mormon while on the mission.

"New Life Crusade" — an area-wide interfaith series of services begins at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at Foursquare Gospel Church. It will continue through Friday with services at 7:30 each evening.
The Rev. Walt Lane, Perryton, will be preaching. He will be drawing from his 30 years as pastor and evangelist in Texas and Oklahoma for this series of meetings according to the Rev. Sam Godwin, pastor of the local church.
Rev. Lane is currently with the People's Chapel at Perryton.

NEW RELIGIOUS BEAT

NEW YORK (AP) — Avant Garde Records, a leader in publishing popular religious albums, has issued five new ones, including "Songs of Promise" and "In Love" by the Medical Mission Sisters, who have turned out several previous hits. Mini Explo 72 Brings Unusual Features Here

Mini Explo 72 is just that, a miniature of the spiritual "Explo 72" that brought thousands to Texas this year, according to planners at First Assembly of God Church.
The spiritual festival, beginning at 6 p.m. Saturday will fill four hours with music, film, fellowship and food, affording the young people of Pampa an insight into a way of life that is attracting youth across the nation to the Cross of Christ.

It will feature the Agape Force, a singing group from Houston; "No Need to Hide" — a film featuring Nicky Cruz and Art Linkletter, food and a surprise guest.
Cruz was one of the early converts from the ghetto gangs of New York City of David Wilkerson's "Cross and Switchblade" fame. With Art Linkletter he retraces his steps through the film through his original haunts as a "hood."

His story as the film tells it promises a thrilling experience that can help restless young people and adults find life's meaningful purpose according to church leaders who planned the film as part of the festival Saturday night.
The Agape Force is a musical group of Christian young people who are dedicated beyond the

Hard Knocks Aimed At Sermons Today

NEW YORK (AP) — The old channel of church communications, the "sermon," is coming in for some hard knocks these days. But efforts also are going on to beef it up.
Varying approaches to the matter range from steps to put more quality into pulpit preaching to experiments with scrapping it entirely.
It's a "time of flux" in Sunday services, says the Rev. E. T. DeLaney, of Minneapolis, executive secretary of the American Lutheran Church's Commission on Worship.

Many parishes are trying new methods as sermon substitutes, such as "dialogues" with the congregation, multimedia presentations, dramatic skits. Some pastors, to fill the spot, subscribe to "canned" sermons.
On the other hand, work is going on to upgrade the art of preaching itself.
"A good sermon is the most effective way of communicating the Word of God in today's society," says Roman Catholic Archbishop John F. Whealon of Hartford, Conn. "There is no substitute for it."

DAVID POLING, D.D.

Early Protestant Union Hopes Dim

By REV. DAVID POLING

Most Christians in the United States enjoy using the phrase "the churches ought to get together." You have heard it at garden parties, family cook-outs, and wedding receptions. Your man in the pew failed to thrive on the denominational differences (although he felt most comfortable with services at his "own church") and voiced his disapproval at the fracture of the whole Christian experience.

Yet the advent of COCU—Consultation on Church Union — as proposed by the late Bishop Pike and the very active Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, never reached the goals that many claimed to cherish. The aim, in 1960, was to form the Church of Christ Uniting. Main stream Protestantism was not for the merger concept. Evangelical and Pentecostal groups remained aloof, giving restrained, polite support. Yet more than a decade of discussion and debate has passed — and with it the mood for merger and union on a grand scale. The final crusher may have come this year when the United Presbyterian General Assembly asked its representatives to pull out of the Consultation on Church Union. With Pike gone and the United Presbyterians out, the ecumenical hopes for organic union are dim, indeed. Those who want the larger perspective on the collapse of the church union should read the August "Christian Century" article by Methodist Dennis M. Campbell. He covers carefully the major forces behind the call for church union and then catalogues, in his view, the causes of change and disillusion.

He recalls that the climate of the late '50s was one of institutional strength for the churches, a period of growth, building and strong Sunday attendance. How sharply those statistics have changed. Other reasons were current and valid: Pope John XXIII gave Christianity a new sunrise and the spirit of conciliation and reunion were soaring on a global scale. Dennis Campbell reminds us that Christians of every persuasion were challenged by the social and economic needs of mankind and felt that ecumenicity was a natural and logical response to these concerns.

Rev. Campbell cites these reasons for the sag in COCU: Boredom ("The consultation has simply not dealt with issues that excite interest or enthusiasm");

Conflict ("Today... there is a split within the denominations about the nature and purpose of the church");

Black Involvement ("Black consciousness has overtaken a host of black pastors and lay people"—these people fear a loss of identity and a loss of "the burning Spirit of the Lord.");

Lastly and heavily:

Bureaucracy ("Church structures tend to become self-serving, self-satisfied and self-perpetuating, using unbelievable amounts of money on office space, communications and travel.")

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration
St. Matthew's Episcopal Church

Reverend Richard H. Saxer

We can be confident about this wonderful planet Earth. The world started so many millions of years ago and it still continues to turn, in spite of all that has happened to it. Regardless of wars, riots, guerilla agitations, sputnik, LSD, or marijuana, life on this globe was thought of. And HE is the one Who conceived of, designed, and accomplished the fact of the creation of the world.

It is His world. And He does have "stock" in it (so to speak). He is interested therefore in its best management, protection, and care. He gave that job to mankind when He created us.

We have a good deal of weight and responsibility to be godly citizens, then, because we are GOD'S citizens. We are accountable to Him Who keeps track of our stewardship and will remind us of our deeds at the last day.

There have been so many terrible jobs of caring for and bettering ourselves, our families, and the world. When we realize that fact and begin to panic we have to focus our attention and anxieties on the only thing that can save us: "God so loved the world, that He gave His only-begotten Son to the end that all that believe in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." (John 3:16).

God sent Jesus Christ into the world to give the world direction and strength. Jesus showed God's managers of the world how to manage the world and themselves: in love, in love indeed, to the extent of dying for love.

And because Christ came into the world and died for it, the world does not need to fear for itself or for its eventual outcome. God aids us in the governing of our lives (when we let Him) and the world. It is His world. It belongs to Him as well as to us. And He is in it along with the rest of us.

Because it is His world and because He loves it enough to have sent His only Son into it to die for it, we can be confident and secure in the world.

Tarkenton And Grant Are NFL's Odd Couple

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Fran Tarkenton and Bud Grant, on the surface, would appear to be the National Football League's Odd Couple—Tarkenton, outspoken and daring, Grant, impassive and demanding.

Tarkenton returns to quarterback the Minnesota Vikings and add boldness to an offense some critics say is conservative. But the Odd Couple could have some surprises in store for their opponents in the 1972 season.

"He (Grant) is a man I have tremendous respect for," says Tarkenton, who started his career with the expansion Vikings in 1961 and now returns to them after five seasons with the New York Giants. "I think he has the ability to handle any type of situation."

Grant, who has a 46-21-3 in five seasons as Viking coach, says of Tarkenton: "I don't think he feels he has anything to prove. He wants only to earn his way into this team."

But earning his way does not mean scrambling. "We won't make a living out of his running," said Grant, who assesses Tarkenton's greatest assets as his mobility, his competitiveness and experience of 11 NFL seasons.

That probably means the Vikings have not rewritten their playbook for an offense that was criticized frequently last year, even though the Vikings were 11-3, and that was blamed in part for a 20-12 loss to Super Bowl champion Dallas in a first round playoff.

Grant stressed one point about the new relationship. "We feel most of our big play people play defense," he said. "Much of what we do on the field will continue to reflect that belief."

Alan Page, starting his sixth year at defensive tackle, led Minnesota's "big play" men in 1971 and was named the NFL's most valuable player after the Vikings won their fourth straight Central Division title in the National Conference and allowed the fewest points in the NFL for the third straight season. The Vikings rely heavily on Page and his front four associates, tackle Gary Larsen and ends Carl Eller and Jim Marshall. But they have a lot of talent in the other positions—including middle linebacker Lonnie Warwick, defensive backs Charlie West and Karl Kasulke.

There's nothing like experience and we have a lot of it on our defensive unit," says Neill Armstrong, defensive coach. A Viking strength is depth, bolstered by the return from injuries of wide receivers Gene Washington and John Henderson and tight end John Besley. Tarkenton has bomb threats in Washington and John Gilliam, acquired from St. Louis for quarterback Gary Cuozzo, at the flanks and a breakout runner in Clint Jones, who emerged with his best season in 1971. Fred Cox, the kicker, has scored in every NFL game he has ever played—a record 126 straight. Bob Lee, a capable backup for Tarkenton at quarterback, and Mike Eischeid are battling for the punting job, which has been a question mark in training camp.

On Paper, Green Bay Looks Tough This Year

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — At least on paper, the Green Bay Packers have filled many of the holes responsible for their fall to a 4-8-2 record last season, their worst since 1958.

But their apparent improvement may be offset by one of the National Football League's toughest schedules. It includes Dallas, San Francisco, Washington, Cleveland, Oakland and two games with Minnesota. All but perennially tough Oakland made the playoffs in 1971.

The rebuilding Packers have one of the NFL's youngest teams, a source of concern to Coach Dan Devine. "I'm more and more convinced of one thing—to win in this league you've got to have experience," he said. "That's much more important than I thought it was."

Devine said progress has been made to correct some weak areas of a year ago, but that other areas need more work. "The passing game has shown some improvement," he said. "Our pass rush is still spotty."

Four of the defeats in Devine's first year as coach were by margins of a touchdown or less. Some of those games could go the Packers' way this year because of Chester Marcol, their second-round draft choice and a placekicker of awesome potential.

Marcol, a Polish immigrant, kicked eight field goals of 50 yards or more—including a 62-yarder—and 104 consecutive extra points at Hillsdale, Mich. College.

The Packers finished second from the bottom in the NFC in passing last year, but quarterback Scott Hunter showed progress toward the end of his rookie season. He completed 75 of 163 passes for 1,210 yards and seven touchdowns, and most of the 17 intercepted came in the first half of the season.

Behind Hunter is rookie Jerry Tagge, a Green Bay native and first round draft choice who led Nebraska to the national collegiate championship. Both are expected to profit under Bart Starr, the former brilliant quarterback who retired as a player this summer but has stayed on to coach the quarterbacks.

Carroll Dale, who still has superb moves at age 34, is set at one wide receiver. Sam Dickerson, who spent his rookie year on the taxi squad, rookie Leland Glass and second year man Dave Davis are pushing John Spillis for the other spot.

Rich McGeorge has good speed for his 235 pounds and could become one of the league's best tight ends. Backup Len "Graveyard" Garrett is an excellent blocker.

Guard Gale Gillingham is the best of an interior line that includes tackles Francis Peay and Dick Himes, center Ken Bowman and guard Bill Lueck. The runners are led by John

Chiefs Release

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs released seven players Thursday as Coach Hank Stram reduced his squad to the 47-man limit.

The only active player released was Caesar Belser, five-year defensive back and specialty performer. The others are Andy Rice, defensive lineman; John Shipkowski, offensive tackle; John Curtis, tight end; Willie Armstrong, running back; Jim Bishop, tight end and Jerry Holmes, running back.

Stram now has 40 players on the active list and seven on the reserve list, or "taxi squad," but he has not disclosed who is on the taxi squad.

Warren McVea, running back who underwent knee surgery, has failed to pass the physical examination. Stram has until Nov. 1 to decide his status.

Wide receiver Andy Hamilton and linebacker Ted Washington are on the injured reserve list and can't play this year.

Astros Beat Padres 10-6 In Come Back Win

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros relief pitchers are quick to defend the bullpen crew.

They could have a point after Thursday night's action in which the Astros defeated San Diego 10-6, after spotting the Padres an early 5-0 lead.

George Culver was the winner in relief after working the final six innings.

Tim Lincecum was the pitcher of record when the Astros rallied for six runs in the last of the third but Culver was credited with the victory.

"The last two nights prove our bullpen hasn't taken the gas," said York. "I can't agree with scorer's decision. George deserves the win. He did the job, right?"

Culver said he would have been happy with just a save. "As long as we keep it in the family, I don't mind," he said. "I don't think our bullpen has embarrassed anyone the second half."

The Padres raced to a 5-0 lead in the third with Leron Lee knocking in three runs with a bases-loaded double off Houston starter Jerry Reuss. Nate Colbert also knocked in a run in the inning and scored on a force play.

Houston went ahead in its half of the inning with six runs. Tommy Helms and pinchhitter Rich Chiles each had two-run singles and Lee May and John Edwards knocked in one.

Houston scored three more in the fourth on Edwards' double.

Doug Rader's single and Helms sacrifice fly.

In addition to his three-run double, Lee hits his 11th home run in the seventh to complete a two-hit, four RBI night. Norm Miller slammed a homer off San Diego reliever Al Severinsen in the sixth.

Houston picked up a half game on idle Cincinnati in the National League West race and trail the Red by seven games.

Lions Try Ed Philpott

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — The British Columbia Lions of the Canadian Football League said Thursday that linebacker Ed Philpott, just released by San Diego Chargers, has started a five-day tryout with the club. Philpott was a fourth-round draft pick of the National Football League Boston Patriots in 1967. He played five years with Boston before being traded to San Diego last winter.

Havlicek Proves Tough

BUZZARDS BAY, Mass. (AP) — John Havlicek, the highest scorer in the history of the Boston Celtics, may prove tougher to sign than expected in the National Basketball Association club's camp. Havlicek, the Celtics' team captain, is a holdout for the first time in his pro career, missing the first two days of workouts at the Massachusetts Maritime Academy.

He took his physical as scheduled Monday, but then pulled a disappearing act. He was believed to be taking life easy, most likely fishing, on Cape Cod.

Havlicek completed a three-year contract for a reported $140,000 a season last spring. Now he is demanding another long-term contract with a hefty pay hike.

"Now it's my turn," Havlicek was quoted as saying by a newspaper in Columbus, his hometown, Thursday.

"For years the top contracts went to others on the team and I could understand," he said in reference to such former teammates as Bob Cousy, Bill Russell and others.

"I've met all the standards the Celtics use to reward players... scoring, rebounding, playing time, assists, leadership," he added.

Crossing Foundation Announces Contest

Eugene C. Fish, president of the Washington Crossing Foundation, announced the Annual National Washington Crossing patriotic essay contest this week.

All students in the 11th and 12th grades of high school are eligible to participate. First prize is $200, second prize $100, General Frank F. Bell Award, $50, and 10 honorable mentions, $25 each.

The subject of the essay is "The Message of the Spirit of '76 for Today." Last year hundreds of essays were received from schools in forty-three states.

Ann Hawkes Hutton, author-chairman of the board stated, "The awards will be only one aspect of the many benefits which students will receive from participation in this timely patriotic essay contest."

Drug Education, Crime Prevention Taught At School

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Drug education and crime prevention is being taught in all grades, including kindergarten, at the school district that serves Lackland Air Force Base here.

Officials of Lackland Independent School District said instruction will be incorporated into other subjects on the elementary level, while it will be added to social studies classes in junior and senior high.

The new program was developed as a result of a new state law requiring Texas public schools to teach the two subjects in grades five and above.

The Lackland district, which has grades kindergarten through 10, decided to extend such instruction to all grades.

Elementary School Principal David Laman said instruction for the lower grades will be "informal, day to day."

Social Security News

By HOWARD L. WEATHERLY
A new film about four young people who get social security payments is available on request at the Pampa social security office.

Called "Four, e.g.," the 20-minute color film is suitable for showing at schools, clubs, organizations, and civic meetings," according to Howard L. Weatherly, social security branch manager in Pampa.

"It shows how young people are protected now and in the future—under social security's retirement, disability, and survivors programs," Weatherly said.

The film features John McCormick, a professional singer; Edwina Barnett, a medical student; Lana Brackberry, a former "Miss Rodeo America"; and Craig Crawford, a high school student and golf course employee.

The film was produced by the Social Security Administration of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Dealer Condemns Subcompact Cars

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — An automobile dealer, Dewey Ray of Big Spring, Tex., refuses to sell subcompact cars, despite the profit motive. He believes the popular little cars are unsafe.

"All of us have to live with our own consciences," Ray says. "It's a car I don't want the responsibility of putting any of my friends or any of their children in."

Ray has a Chrysler Motors Corp. agency in Big Spring, selling Chryslers, Imperials, Dodges and Plymouths—but not Dodge's Colt or Plymouth's Cricket, the subcompacts.

He has concluded after a review of an Insurance Institute study and a viewing of films testing the cars that they pose an "extraordinary danger to driver and passengers in collisions with standard-sized autos."

Dealer Condemns Subcompact Cars

Ray said in an interview while on a business trip to Little Rock.

"In a head-on impact between a Colt and a Plymouth Fury at 40 or 50 miles an hour, for example, it appeared to me from actual films that a person driving the Fury could have opened the door and walked away," he said.

"But it appeared the entire front end of the Colt moved into the front seat, and I don't see how anyone could have walked away from it alive."

His condemnation of subcompact cars is not confined to Chrysler products. He believes that equally unsafe are other autos weighing in the subcompact range of 1,600 to 2,000 pounds, including Ford's Pinto, Chevrolet's Vega, the Toyota and the Datsun.

"I think the thing that has surprised Chrysler Motors so much is that they can't persuade me that the amount of money I can make on those cars should be a compelling factor for me to sell them," say Ray, 48, married and the father of five children.

New Economic Perspectives

By C.R. BATTEN

"We reject all forms of racial oppression or political enslavement. Above all, we see in war the ultimate misuse of science, the baleful destroyer of all economic and social benefit and the final betrayal of our common humanity."

Well said. This statement was buried at the end of a list of General Principles adopted by the Non-Governmental Organizations meeting in an Environment Forum in conjunction with the United Nations Conference on the Human Environment in Stockholm last June. NOT MAN APART, published by Friends of the Earth, reported on the Conference at length in its July issue.

Another Principle from the Forum: "We must accept new economic perspectives. Both in production and physical consumption, the world economy must come to be in balance with environmental carrying capacity." Another noble goal—but do the delegates to the Forum mean the same thing as I when we agree that "We must accept new economic perspectives?"

A person's conception of that statement depends on how he views today's economy. In order to understand each other, we must first define what we see.

In the world economy of today, I see a world of division; a world struggle for power; a world torn apart by trade barriers, increasing reliance on the force of government to fulfill human goals, increasing demands that those who are better off "share" their good fortune with the less fortunate; a world of bickering, violence and conflict as many nations and individuals seek to gain advantage and power over others through force—the force of majority rule, the force of alliances, or the force of brute strength.

On the other hand, the delegates to the Environment Forum probably see in our present system that undeveloped peoples, races and nations have been held back by force by wealthier nations, or by colonialism. They feel a sense of despair at being unable to rise above the poverty because of trade barriers or legal restrictions imposed on them by the more powerful; they envy the more wealthy, and see wealth to be gained with power. They attribute all the good things of the developed nations to the power those nations have wielded in international politics, and their own lack of wealth to their own lack of power.

Their solutions, then, are more government planning on an international scale, a world system of taxation, the spoils to be used to help the developing nations control environmental problems; and a redistribution of the world's resources (take from those who have and give to those who have not).

These are not measures that will lead toward more freedom, less slavery, the elimination of poverty, or an end to war. Those who support them simply seek to wrest power from those who have it, and give power to those who do not—the same old method that has been used throughout the history of man.

Why can we not see that as long as this attitude prevails in this nation and on this earth, mankind will be doomed to conflict and violence, and some part of it will be doomed to poverty and slavery?

It is the very exercise of power that creates slavery; keeps one nation bonded to others more powerful, leads to violence such as that tragic incident in Munich, and causes wars.

A truly new perspective would be one that would drop trade barriers, drop laws and agreements that give the individual the freedom to do with his resources what will best meet his own goals.

Three neighbors can live at peace, each trading those items he produces best to the others in exchange for those he needs that they can produce better. But conflict begins when A and B get together, decide to form a government, and levy a tax on C for a third of the mile he produces—because his cows are better than theirs.

When force is used, someone loses. In a free and voluntary exchange, everyone gains.

Pampa Nursing Center Now Member Of TNHA

The Pampa Nursing Center, West Kentucky Street, Pampa, was accepted as a member of the Texas Nursing Home Association by the TNHA Executive Board at their September meeting in Austin. Jessie R. Taylor will serve as the representative of the home in TNHA activities.

By becoming a member of the Texas Nursing Home Association, the Pampa Nursing Center has agreed to abide by the TNHA Code of Ethics and to join with the state organization in its efforts to raise nursing home standards and to improve patient care in Texas.

Four Pampa Coeds Join Honor Groups At WTSU

CANYON—Four Pampa coeds have pledged social sororities during the fall rush at West Texas State University.

The national philanthropic project of the Delta Lambda chapter of Alpha Delta Phi is to TNHA is the professional association of licensed nursing and custodial care homes in Texas. Its membership is made up of proprietary and non-proprietary homes. All members of TNHA are also affiliated with the American Nursing Home Association.

The areas of activities in which TNHA engages include information, education, publications, representation, public relations, and many others.

TNHA's prime objective is to work for the professionalism of nursing home personnel with the care of the patient as the ultimate consideration.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Friday, Sept. 15, the 259th day of 1972. There are 107 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1949, Konrad Adenauer became the first chancellor of West Germany.

In 1777, the Polish count, Casimir Pulaski, was commissioned a major general in the American revolutionary army.

In 1789, the U.S. Department of Foreign Affairs changed its name to the Department of State.

In 1914, during World War I, German New Guinea and the Bismarck Archipelago surrendered to the British.

In 1938, British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain flew to Germany to try to mediate a dispute between that country and Czechoslovakia.

In 1942, German armies attacked the Soviet city of Stalingrad.

In 1959, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev arrived in Washington to begin a 13-day U.S. visit.

Five years ago, the Egyptian commander in the six-day war with Israel, field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer, committed suicide.

Pampan Named ABFP Diplomat

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Raymond M. Hampton, M.D., of Pampa, has been named a diplomate of the American Board of Family Practice as a result of passing a certification examination administered under the aegis of the ABFP.

To achieve diplomate status, Dr. Hampton, through an intensive two-day written examination, proved his ability in the areas of internal medicine, surgery, obstetrics-gynecology, pediatrics, psychiatry, preventive medicine and other traditional specialties and now is certified in medicine's newest specialty—Family Practice.

The doctors who have earned diplomate distinction are the vanguard of a new type of highly competent "people doctor" who accepts responsibility for the patient's total health care and serves as the natural point of entry into the complex medical system.

These specialists must continue to show proof of competency in the field of comprehensive, continuing care of the family by being re-certified every six years. No other specialty requires its diplomates to prove their competence on a continuing basis.

To qualify for the examination doctors either have completed a three-year family practice residency or been in family practice a minimum of six years and successfully completed 300 hours of postgraduate medical education.

The latest group of successful diplomates took the third examination offered by the ABFP. Most are members of the American Academy of Family Physicians, the national association of family doctors which is headquartered in Kansas City.

The AAFP is the organization chiefly responsible for securing specialty status for Family Practice in February, 1968. The organization which earlier was named the American Academy of General Practice, changed its name to the American Academy of Family Physicians in October, 1971.

Test Set For College Seniors Planning To Teach School

CANYON—College seniors preparing to teach school may take the National Teacher Examinations on any of four dates during the 1972-73 school year at West Texas State University.

Test dates are Nov. 11, Jan. 27, April 7 and July 21.

The examinations are no longer required for certification by the State of Texas, although some Texas school districts and other states require the test, says Dr. Kenneth Waugh, director of the WTSU testing and counseling center.

On each day of testing, prospective teachers may take the Common Examinations, which measure professional preparation and general educational background, and a Teaching Area Examination, which measures the mastery of the subject they expect to teach.

Fees are $16 for both tests, or $10 for the Common Examination and $9 for the Teaching area Examination if taken on separate testing dates.

Registration forms are available through the Testing and Counseling Center, WTSU, Canyon, Texas, 79015.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

Frances was just ready for the wedding when tragedy struck! It was all due to her earlier sexual episode, plus a beer party in the fraternity house! So study this case and don't become duped. For a girl is usually regarded as the castoff when romance dies!

CASE U-589: Frances D., aged 20, is a sorrowful coed.

Dr. Crane, she wept, "I am heartbroken."

"For I have been dating a wonderful boy this senior year. His name is Warren and he even gave me his engagement ring, so we had talked about getting married next June."

"Then something terrible happened."

"He got a new roommate at his fraternity house, whose name is Bill."

"And when I was a sophomore, I dated Bill steadily."

"In fact, he gave me quite a rush, and one weekend he coaxed me to drive up to Wisconsin to spend the holiday with him at a motel."

"He registered us as man and wife."

"But we broke up afterwards and he then dropped out of college for a year."

"Now Bill is back and he blabbed about our affair to my fiancé."

"They had been drinking beer, so maybe that was what made Bill boast about how sexy I was."

"He didn't know, either, that I was engaged to Warren."

"But Warren is old-fashioned and has now broken our engagement."

"Do you think I can ever get Warren to come back to me?"

WOMEN'S LIB

Women's Lib members try to prove that they enjoy equal rights with men.

That's malarky!

For men realize they can win any of a dozen girls to marry them.

But most women are lucky to get even ONE husband!

They know this, even though they try to deny it via their brash talk about "freedom" and "equal rights."

"But, Dr. Crane," they may protest, "a girl can get a lot of men to date her."

True enough, but how many will put a wedding band on her ring finger?

Even in Russian Communism, men chafe and demand "Private Property" signs over their wives.

And in capitalistic America, that is treble true.

You girls might as well wake up to reality and stop being deluded by this "free love" fad that has been sweeping many college campuses.

Free love and "trial marriage" are not new innovations in society.

They are as old as mankind.

And they are eagerly adopted by men for they make it that much simpler for a man to have affairs without accepting the obligations of real marriage.

Moreover, a man may "swap dates" for a weekend rendezvous and thus trade off his current sweetie for a friend's paramour.

But this normal male doesn't do such things when he has placed a wedding band on a girl's finger.

"Wife swapping" is an abnormal trait of American males, as Frances is learning, to her sorrow.

She can still win Warren back to a wedding ceremony, but it will be no easy task.

For most men don't care to pay full price for used merchandise, unless the other man originally paid the similar price via a wedding.

Widows and even divorcees rate above single girls who cohabit with a man without his public payment for the merchandise via a marriage ceremony.

Widows can thus win second mates easily, but that is not as true as castoffs from "free love" nests!

And the public usually regards the girl as the castoff after the breakup.

SHADOW INSULTED
ISTANBUL (AP) — The moral of this story is to be careful where you walk in Turkey.

An 18-year-old boy in Izmit, western Turkey, took offense when two friends trod on his shadow, considered insulting by Turkish villagers.

Rahmi Sarpay pulled out a pistol and shot one of them four times and the other five. Both are in a serious condition in an Izmit hospital.
