

New flu drug is expected to save lives

HOUSTON (AP) — An experimental drug that appears capable of killing influenza virus within 24 hours could be especially effective in preventing deaths from the disease, according to a medical specialist.

"We believe this therapy ultimately offers great promise in treating influenza pneumonia, which is the lethal form of the disease, especially for people with heart failure or emphysema," Dr. Vernon Knight, chairman of microbiology and immunology at Baylor College of Medicine's flu research center, said Monday.

The drug, ribavirin, must undergo more extensive clinical testing before it can be prescribed by doctors or sold over-the-counter.

But tests indicate it may be important breakthrough for the elderly and for people already weakened by other illnesses, Knight said.

Ribavirin is already marketed in Mexico. Studies conducted with oral forms of the drug are inconclusive.

Doctors first used an aerosol version of ribavirin last January during a flu epidemic at Texas A&M University at College Station. The results of the test are being published in the current issue of "The Lancet," the British medical journal.

Doctors at A&M's student health center randomly selected 14 students to receive the treatment and 17 others to be treated with an ineffective aerosol saline solution.

The 14 students who received ribavirin had to wear facial masks 12 hours a day for several days.

They inhaled a mist containing tiny particles of ribavirin that spread through the respiratory tract and penetrated the lung tissues.

Those treated with ribavirin recovered from their flu symptoms faster than those who did not, and showed no signs of toxic side effects, Knight said.

He said similar tests will be conducted this winter at six universities in the United States, Canada and Great Britain.

Knight began his studies on influenza in 1962 as clinical director of the Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases in Bethesda, Md.

In 1978, his research team elected to study ribavirin because the drug has a potent antiviral action that prevents the influenza virus from multiplying in lung tissue.

Hussein to shop for weapons at Fort Bliss

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — An improved Hawk missile will be fired during a demonstration for Jordan's King Hussein when he comes shopping at the Fort Bliss Army base here Nov. 11, officials said.

U.S. officials in Washington have said Hussein is in the market for the improved ground-to-air missile system, called the I-Hawk. Jordanian soldiers are being trained at Fort Bliss to operate the I-Hawk. Lt. Col. Ed McDonald, a Bliss spokesman, said.

McDonald said the missile will be fired on the Bliss ranges by the U.S. Army's 11th Brigade as Hussein watches.

In the demonstration, the 16-foot missile will be fired at a flying drone at nearby McGregor Range. Officials said the firing will take only minutes.

Hussein also will be briefed on the missile system by base officials, a spokesman said.

The Reagan administration is hoping to sell Hussein more U.S. arms rather than have him buy weapons from the Soviet Union. Jordan has purchased weapons, including the original Hawk system, from the United States for the past two decades.

Hussein came under fire from officials in Washington during the weekend because he apparently has expressed interest in buying weapons from the Soviet Union.

"There could be problems with the introduction of Soviet weaponry in another country in the Middle East," one official said.

Officials said the arms topic did not arise during Hussein's talks with Reagan on Monday, but it is expected to be discussed when the king meets with Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig.

Fort Bliss officials were hesitant to discuss the missile firing and it was not on a schedule of events for the visit released to the press.

McDonald said he was under instructions from Washington about what the press could be told about the visit and at first said only that the king would "go out and observe U.S. air defense units." Later, he confirmed the missile firing.

A&M bans saber on football field COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas A&M University officials and student leaders apologized Monday to Southern Methodist University for an incident Saturday where an Aggie cadet waved his saber at SMU cheerleaders.

Col. James Woodall, Corps of Cadets commandant, also announced that cadet officers of the day will no longer wear sabers at football games.

Woodall said new regulations will be implemented to reduce the possibilities for any such future incidents.

It was an officer of the day — who traditionally is responsible for keeping A&M students clear of the field — who pulled his saber to get the cheerleaders to leave.

Texas A&M President Frank E. Vandiver said he is sending a letter of apology to Dr. Don Shields, SMU president.

"We deplore the regrettable behavior exhibited at the football game Saturday," Dr. Vandiver emphasized, "and it certainly is not indicative of the normally exemplary conduct of our fine student body."

Dr. John Koldus, Texas A&M's vice president for student services, said he also is sending a letter of apology, along with one from Cadet Colonel of the Corps Kelly Castleberry. A&M's top-ranked cadet.

Koldus said a formal hearing has been initiated as a result of the incident and will be carried out in accordance with prescribed university procedures.

The incident occurred when SMU cheerleaders went on the playing field during the game.

Flooding causes $1 million damage to state highways

DALLAS (AP) — While some North Texas residents scurried from their homes again to avoid more flooding from a rising Trinity River, state highway officials found more than $1 million damage done to roadways by Saturday's floods.

The weekend rain, exceeding nine inches in some places, resulted in severe damage to many roads in Palo Pinto, Parker, Wise and Tarrant counties of North Texas, according to District Engineer J.R. Stone of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

U.S. 180 in Palo Pinto County remains open, but "sections of embankments were washed away at the Brazos River and Ioni Creek crossings," Stone said. "We had water six feet deep at the intersection of Texas 199 and FM 51 in the Springtown community of Parker County."

"We estimate it will cost us more than $1.5 million to repair the damage," Stone said. Meanwhile, the Trinity River continued to rise, swollen by runoff from the heavy weekend rains. Police officials estimated 15 homes and 15 commercial buildings were evacuated in a flood plain of northwest Dallas, and said the water probably would be waist deep before the river crested.

Most of the residents in that area left voluntarily, police and fire officials said, although firefighters prowled through the area in a boat and helped one stranded resident leave the area.

Ten streets were closed Monday night by the high water.

It was the second time homes in the area were threatened or damaged by high water after heavy rains.

Workers face questioning

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — One of four Mission school workers on trial for allegedly defrauding a school lunch program faced cross-examination today by federal prosecutors.

Michael Jon McCarthy, the Mission schools food services director, testified last week he did not know about a phony invoice scheme carried out by school workers until 1980, when federal agents started investigation.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Eddie Medrano was to have questioned McCarthy on Thursday. However, U.S. District Judge James DeAnda recessed the trial last week when McCarthy's mother died.

but officials said flooding the week of Oct. 13 was more severe than that from Saturday's rains.

"We had water five to 10 feet deep in homes along the shore (of Eagle Mountain Lake west of Fort Worth) after the Oct. 13 rains," said Tarrant County water district supervisor Ben Hickey. "It got into many of the homes again this weekend ... but it wasn't as deep."

GM wants emission rules lifted for diesels

WASHINGTON (AP) — General Motors Corp. says it plans to ask the Environmental Protection Agency to suspend emission standards for diesel-powered, 1985-model cars and light trucks following the Supreme Court's refusal to lift the regulations.

The high court on Monday left the rules intact and declined to free the auto industry from its current obligation to try to comply with them. GM claims the rules, limiting the amount of exhaust particles that can be discharged into the atmosphere, will cripple production of the 1985 vehicles.

"We'll have something in (to the EPA) this week," GM lawyer William L. Weber Jr. said in a telephone interview from Detroit.

Weber said the company, in its supplementary request, will argue that the EPA has the authority to put the rules on hold while they are being reviewed by the agency.

The company claims the necessary anti-pollution device — known as a "trap-oxidizer" — will not be ready in time for use in 1985 vehicles.

GM first asked the EPA for a suspension of the anti-pollution rules on Sept. 30, but agency spokeswoman Martha Casey said Monday that there had been no action on the request.

Weber said the company is now "spending considerable funds" to try to meet the rules, although he did not have a specific dollar figure.

The Reagan administration already is looking into whether the rules, adopted on March 5, 1980, during the Carter administration, should be relaxed. They were upheld by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia last April 22.

"The technologically unachievable 1985 particulate standards promulgated by EPA will prevent the manufacture of diesel-powered cars and light trucks," GM told the high court in its unsuccessful appeal.

However, the Supreme Court, noting only that Justice Sandra Day O'Connor did not take part in the case, simply let stand a lower court ruling upholding the regulations.

Following the court's refusal to hear the case, the EPA spokeswoman said, "The 1985 standard still stands as far as we're concerned."

She said she did not know when the agency would decide on GM's request for a suspension.

In other action, the Supreme Court on Monday: —Agreed to decide whether many foreign companies operating in the United States must comply with federal laws barring employment discrimination.

—Heard an Oklahoma lawyer argue that executing killers under 18 years of age is "barbaric" and violates the constitutional ban on cruel and unusual punishment.

—Refused to speed up its consideration of a New York challenge to the results of the 1980 national census.

—Agreed to decide whether a 1975 federal law requires school districts to provide certain deaf children with sign language interpreters.

Business failures increase from last year

By ROBERT BURNS AP Business Writer

Towering interest expenses and sluggish sales are pushing U.S. businesses into collapse at a faster pace than during the recession year of 1980, according to the latest federal government and private economic figures.

Dun & Bradstreet, the economic information service in New York, reported Monday that there were 459 commercial and industrial failures in the final week of October, or 51 percent more than in the comparable week last year.

For the year through Oct. 29, business failures are up 41 percent from the corresponding 1980 period, Dun & Bradstreet said.

The government's latest economic reports indicated more bad news ahead for business despite a reduction Monday in prime lending rates at major U.S. banks.

The Commerce Department said orders for new manufactured goods fell sharply in September, while manufacturers' inventories rose. In a separate report, the department said the value of new construction in September declined 0.4 percent, hitting the lowest rate since October 1980.

The department said orders for new manufactured goods fell 0.9 percent in September. That was better than the revised drop of 1.5 percent in August but it would have been worse if not for an 18.1 percent rise in defense orders.

More significantly, the department said the value of non-defense capital goods in September plunged 8 percent from August after being unchanged between July and August. That represents a steep drop in corporations' spending on plant and equipment, a key to the nation's manufacturing system.

Meanwhile, the department said the value of manufacturers' inventories rose 1.1 percent in September, the biggest jump since last February and a sign manufacturers will cut production to compensate for lower demand.

Meanwhile, banks' and savings institutions will be paying lower rates starting today on six-month money market certificates sold in minimum amounts of $10,000. As a result of the Treasury Department's latest auction of bills Monday, the rate financial institutions may pay on the six-month certificates falls to 13.659 percent from the previous 13.869 percent.

Encouraged by the prospect of lower interest rates, the stock market rose sharply Monday while prices in the bond market were mixed. Open-market interest rates were mostly lower.

In another development, a federal judge in Cleveland agreed to reconsider a ruling that temporarily barred Mobil Oil Co. from pursuing its $3.4 billion tender offer for 67 percent of Marathon Oil Co.'s common stock.

Sex after heart attack may cut risks, study says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elderly people usually can and should resume their sex lives 12 to 16 weeks after a heart attack, and that actually may cut the risk of another attack, the National Institute on Aging says.

"The risk of death during sexual intercourse is very low," the government institute says in a new publication.

The institute also said stroke victims should not fear adverse effects from sex. "Stroke rarely damages physical aspects of sexual function, and it is unlikely that sexual exertion will cause another stroke," it advised.

The institute, part of the National Institutes of Health in the Department of Health and Human Services, issued a fact sheet on "Sexuality in Later Life" to dispel some myths and provide some tips for senior citizens.

"Although a doctor's advice is needed, sex usually can and should be resumed an average of 12 to 16 weeks after a heart attack, depending on physical conditioning," the institute said. "An active sex life may in fact decrease the risk of a future attack."

The report said most older people "want — and are able to lead — an active, satisfying sex life. With age, women do not ordinarily lose their physical capacity for orgasm, nor men their capability for erection and ejaculation."

"There is, however, a gradual slowing of response, especially in men," but even that eventually may be treatable or reversible, it said.

"A pattern of regular sexual activity (which may include masturbation) helps to preserve sexual ability," the institute said. "When problems occur, they should not be viewed as inevitable, but rather as the result of disease, disability, drug reactions or emotional upset — and as requiring medical care."

It said diabetes "is one of the few diseases that can cause impotence," but potency may be restored if the diabetes is brought under control.

It said prostatectomy, or removal of the male prostate gland, "rarely affects potency."

Excessive use of alcohol "is probably the most widespread drug-related cause of sexual problems," the institute said.

"Tranquilizers, anti-depressants and certain high blood pressure drugs can cause impotence."

Dear Abby

Girls endless diet may have tragic end

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our 14-year-old niece is suffering from anorexia nervosa (dieting to the point of starvation), but she has not been diagnosed as such because her parents refuse to seek further medical help. (They took the girl to two doctors. One said, "She needs to gain weight, and she can if she wants to." The other doctor said, "You're lucky. I have a daughter her age and she's too fat!")

Abby, this girl is going to die if she doesn't get help soon. She is 5 feet 5 and is down to 75 pounds! She's pale and listless and eats literally nothing. It all started when she decided she was too fat and she quit eating. Now she's determined to stay "thin" and she's down to skin and bones.

Abby, is there some organization, support group or information center one can contact to get literature about this terrible disease? Talking to these parents has done no good, and the doctors they have seen obviously know nothing about it. Please help us to help them.

CONCERNED AUNT

DEAR AUNT: There has been an alarming increase in the number of anorexia nervosa and associated disorder cases lately, 90 to 95 percent of which are women. The condition usually begins in the teen years when figure-conscious girls begin to diet because "thin is in" — then they become obsessed with the fear of getting fat and can't quit dieting. There are an estimated 500,000 victims in the United States alone, of which about 15 percent of the serious cases die!

ANAD (National Association of Anorexia and Associated Disorders) is the first non-profit, educational, self-help organization in this country (serving Canada and several other countries) to address itself to this problem.

ANAD provides information about anorexia and also provides referrals for counseling, treatment and support groups wherever you live. Write to: ANAD, Box 271, Highland Park, Ill. 60035. A self-addressed, business-size envelope with 37¢ postage speeds the response, but it is not necessary.

DEAR ABBY: We are making plans for our daughter's wedding. Her fiance chose a best man and three ushers. My husband and I do not approve of one of the ushers.

Do we have the right to say we don't want a certain person to be in the bridal party? We are paying for the whole wedding and reception. The person is not a family member — just a friend of the bridegroom.

We do not want hard feelings with our daughter. Hurry your answer and thank you.

MOTHER OF BRIDE

DEAR MOTHER: The choice of the ushers is up to the bridegroom. And if you want no hard feelings with your daughter, you will voice no objections to her fiance's choice of ushers.

DEAR ABBY: The question has arisen in some of our singles' coffee "get-togethers," who should pay for the baby sitter? I am a single guy dating a divorcee with two children. When I ask her out, should I pay the sitter? Or should she?

by bernice bede osol

November 4, 1981
Before launching new projects or ventures this year, finish what you have begun. You're likely to be luckier with the old rather than the new.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Use tender measures when dealing with members of your family. If you come on too strong you may ignite something that you'll wish you hadn't. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph, which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
On occasion you have a tendency to blurt things out that are better left unsaid. Today you should count slowly to 10 before speaking.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
In business situations, double-check all the facts if someone offers you a lavish proposal. There could be hidden strings attached.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Should you become involved in something competitive today, don't underestimate your competition. The odds may be in his favor.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Sometimes, no matter how hard we try, we can't please everyone. Don't be discouraged today if your best efforts go unnoticed or unrewarded.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
You won't like having your routines or what you plan to do disrupted today, so it's best to stay away from persons who may try to change your schedule.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Try to function as independently as possible. You may not work too well in tandem with associates. Each of you might aim for different targets.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Stick to standard methods and procedures workwise. Experimenting with shortcuts may cause more problems in the long run.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Be careful today if you are buying an expensive item from an unfamiliar firm, or from a person about whom you know little. Bargains could be a bust.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
This is not a good day to try to resolve issues on which you and your mate are poles apart. Neither of you is likely to compromise.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Coworkers may be a trifle more difficult to get along with today. Their attitude will be a contributing factor, but you're not blameless.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Unless you are extremely prudent today, there's a possibility you will not manage your resources too well. Stretch each dollar to its limits.

Higher taxes favored for cigarettes, alcohol

NEW YORK (AP) — A majority of Americans favor raising federal taxes on cigarettes and alcoholic beverages, according to the latest Associated Press-NBC News poll.

The proposed "sin taxes" were endorsed both as a means of raising tax revenues and to discourage smoking and drinking, according to the Oct. 25-26 telephone poll of 1,598 adults in a scientific random sampling.

Fifty-two percent said they think federal taxes on cigarettes should be raised, while 41 percent said they should not.

The 52 percent who said cigarette taxes should be raised broke down this way: 7 percent said taxes should be raised to increase revenues, 11 percent to discourage smoking and 34 percent both.

Fifty-five percent said federal taxes on alcoholic beverages should be raised, while 41 percent said they should not.

The 55 percent who said alcoholic beverage taxes should be raised broke down this way: 11 percent said taxes should be raised to increase revenues, 9 percent to discourage drinking and 35 percent both.

The Senate Budget Committee recently drew up a number of proposals to raise taxes next year, including one which would double the excise taxes on cigarettes, liquor, wine and beer.

The proposed increases, which Senate leaders say will be considered next year, would raise the price of a pack of cigarettes by 8 cents, the price of a gallon of liquor by $10.50, a barrel of beer by $9 and a gallon of wine by 34 cents.

Sixty-two percent of the poll respondents said they drink alcoholic beverages, while 32 percent said they smoke cigarettes.

People who said they smoke and those who said they drink were less likely than non-smokers and non-drinkers to say either cigarette or alcoholic beverage taxes should be raised.

One-fourth of the smokers said cigarette taxes should be raised, and half the drinkers said alcoholic beverage taxes should be raised.

The poll said single and divorced people were more likely than married people to say they smoke and drink.

Protestants were more likely than either Catholic or Jewish respondents to say they are teetotalers; and people with more education and higher incomes were more likely to say they drink.

And while people with children 17 or younger were less likely than other respondents to say they smoke, they were also more likely to say they drink.

Aviation task force formed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements has selected A.S. Black of Houston as chairman of the new Task Force on State Aviation Policy.

Clements said Monday the 25-member task force was set up to look at state aviation policy.

"The number of people and airlines licensed to fly in Texas has increased dramatically over the past few years," Clements said. "This task force is going to examine what our needs are, what the potential growth in aviation is, and what the laws are."

Judge reconsiders order barring Mobil takeover

CLEVELAND (AP) — A ruling temporarily barring Mobil Oil Co., the nation's second-largest oil company, from pursuing a $3.4 billion attempt to take over Marathon Oil Co. will be reconsidered in federal court here today.

At Mobil's request, U.S. District Court Judge Frank J. Battisti has agreed to reconsider his order issued late Sunday which keeps Mobil and its stock brokerage manager from soliciting stock or pursuing its offer for 67 percent of Marathon's common stock until at least a week from today.

The $85-per share offer was made Friday for 40 million of Marathon's 60 million outstanding shares of stock.

On the strength of what looms as a major takeover battle, Marathon's closing price on New York Stock Exchange trading rose Monday by $22.50 to $90 a share. Mobil's stock went up $1.25 to $25.37 1/2 per share.

Meanwhile, U.S. District Judge Robert Van Pelt in Lincoln, Neb., on Monday temporarily prohibited that state from invoking its Corporate Takeover Act against the Mobil offer.

He said it appeared Mobil has a "substantial likelihood" of success in challenging the constitutionality of the state law. Marathon has extensive gas and oil holdings in Nebraska.

Mobil also filed suit in federal courts in Ohio, Utah, South Carolina and Louisiana to challenge similar laws.

Mobil issued a statement in New York on Monday, saying that the company disagreed with Battisti's order and took "legal steps to have it reversed."

Meanwhile, Marathon's board of directors in Findlay said Monday that Mobil's offer was "grossly inadequate."

The board said none of its 12 members who owned about 256,000 shares of the company's common stock in February 1981 planned to tender stock. It also advised other shareholders against selling.

"We are very pleased that the court has issued the temporary restraining order. We believe that Mobil's proposed takeover of Marathon would clearly violate the antitrust laws," said Harold D. Hoopman, Marathon president and chief executive officer.

The Dallas Times Herald reported that Sedco Oil Co. of Dallas, the largest single holder of Marathon stock with 4 million shares, also is opposed to the tender.

U.S. District Judge John M. Manos of Cleveland has scheduled a Nov. 10 hearing on Marathon's request for a permanent restraining order against the offer.

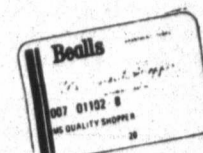

Marathon, in a statement, said the offer "raises major antitrust and other public policy issues which make successful completion of the offer highly problematical."

Marathon is the nation's 17th-largest oil company. Mobil, which is based in New York City, is No. 2, ranking only behind Exxon Corp. Marathon has been considered a prime candidate for a takeover attempt, given its large reserves of domestic crude oil.

White Deer cagers field veteran club

With four starters returning, the 1981-82 White Deer High basketball squad stands a good chance of bettering its 5-22 record of a year ago. That's good news for Randy Burks, who begins his initial year as a head basketball coach. "We didn't a district game last season, so hopefully we'll be more competitive," Burks said. Darrin Bennett, a 5-8 junior guard and the team's leading scorer (8.5 ppg), along with 5-9 senior Jack Dupy (8.0 ppg) are the Bucks' top returnees. "Bennett is a good shooter and Dupy has a lot of speed," Burks said. "These two are going to have to come through for us."

Seniors Jack Kotara, a 6-2 forward, and 5-9 guard Shawn Craig are the other returning starters. Both average five points per game last season. Burks is a graduate of Abilene Christian University and coached the junior varsity team last season at Stamford. Burks is an Abilene native. Two starters return to the White Deer girls, who also have a new head coach in Lenora Otman. Rose Williams, an honorable mention all-district performer, and Tammie McCown will be expected to provide the leadership for the Does, who finished 11-18 a year ago. Williams, a 5-7 junior, averaged 10 points a game and McCown averaged seven points last season. Tammy Barnes, a 5-10 senior, will be the tallest player. Coach Otman played basketball at Clarendon College. White Deer opens the season Nov. 23 at Miami.

UIL proposals

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Legislative Council of the University Interscholastic League has voted to let its member schools decide whether spring football training should be abolished in Class 5A, the only division that holds it. The council also agreed to allow its members to vote on whether private and parochial schools should be permitted to join the UIL. In placing the proposal on the February referendum, the council recommended that it be rejected. Also placed on the February referendum were proposals that would: — Set up state tennis playoffs by teams, rather than just having singles and doubles competition. — Divide Class A basketball schools into those that play football and those that do not.

Texas' Tate will miss Houston game

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas tailback Rodney Tate, responding to his first start this season with a 52-yard scoring dash, is out with an injury for the Houston game on Saturday and probably will be replaced by A.J. "Jam" Jones, who is in a three-game slump.

and was later replaced by third-teamer John Walker. Jones, the Longhorns leading rusher in each of his four seasons, has gained only 112 yards in the past three games.

Oilers face first 'must win' game

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers were able to X-ray quarterback Ken Stabler's injured left wrist on the sideline Sunday and determine it was not broken. Ed Biles wishes he could do the same with his defense.

"The biggest thing for our defense to do is keep its poise, and at certain times in the game make some big plays." Biles said. "When the time comes for a knockdown or an interception, we've got to start making them."

Raiders with a star-studded injury list that includes Stabler, Earl Campbell and starting free safety Mike Reinfield. Biles said Campbell, who left the game with a hamstring injury, had a 50-50 chance of playing in Sunday's home game against defending Super Bowl champion Oakland.

Farm exports expected to set record value for 13th year

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the 13th consecutive year, exports of U.S. farm commodities are expected to set a value record in the current fiscal year, the Agriculture Department says.

Officials said Monday that farm exports in 1981-82 are estimated at $45.5 billion, up 4 percent from $43.8 billion last year.

The actual volume of exports for the fiscal year that began on Oct. 1 was estimated at a record 180 million metric tons, an 11 percent gain from 162.6 million last year — which was down slightly from 1979-80.

“However, there is still considerable uncertainty about U.S. exports, depending on world economic conditions and crop developments,” the report said.

Imports are expected to be worth around $17 billion, the same as last year. Thus, the agricultural trade surplus or the difference between exports and imports will be more than $28 billion, up from $26.7 billion in 1980-81.

Grain and feed exports are expected to be worth $22.3 billion this season, up from $21.9 billion last year, with sizable gains in the quantities to be exported.

Wheat exports, projected at 50 million metric tons, would be up from 42.2 million in 1980-81. Feed grains were indicated at 74.1 million tons, up from 69 million last year.

Soybean exports were indicated at 22.9 million tons, compared with about 20 million last year.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds — equal to 36.7 bushels of wheat or soybeans or 39.4 bushels of corn.

Much of the increase in grain export volume is due to short crops in the Soviet Union and Spain, the report said.

Mainly because of low domestic procurement, India is presently expected to import up to 4 million tons of wheat, mostly from the United States, it said. “Continuing increases are forecast for grain shipments to other developing countries in Asia and Africa.”

The report said, “Competition from foreign grain exporters may slacken. Argentina and South Africa, which provided strong competition late in fiscal 1981, are not likely to repeat their record harvests of last spring.”

In addition, it said, the European Common Market is expected to reduce grain exports. However, Canada and Australia “should expand exportable supplies” in 1981-82.

Exports of soybeans and other oilseeds and oilseed products were valued at $9.4 billion, unchanged from 1980-81.

Other categories included: —Livestock products, including meat and hides, $3.6 billion estimated for the current year and $3.14 billion in 1980-81.

—Dairy products, $400 million and $251 million. —Poultry, $800 million and $765 million. —Cotton, $2.6 billion and $2.25 billion. —Tobacco, $1.5 billion and $1.34 billion. —Seeds, $300 million and $285 million. —Fruits, vegetables and nuts, $3.3 billion and $3.08 billion. —Sugar and tropical products, $1.3 billion and $1.37 billion.

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department dairy expert says he expects “the beginning of some adjustments in milk production” in 1982, although the timing is uncertain.

Charles N. Shaw of the department’s Economic Research Service said in a paper for the annual Agricultural Outlook Conference today that milk production for 1981 is estimated at a record of 132.3 billion pounds, up 3 percent from 1980.

“Basically, the expansion is expected to end during the year as support prices remain unchanged throughout the year,” Shaw said, referring to the pending farm bill and its provision for keeping the support rate the same through next year, at least.

Thus, he said, milk production in 1982 may wind up “about the same” as this year, with lower output in the second half offsetting a continued expansion in the first.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Agriculture Department livestock experts say that large meat supplies will hold down market price gains at least during the first half of next year.

Ronald A. Gustafson of the department’s Economic Research Service said in a paper for the annual Agricultural Outlook Conference today that reduced marketings of grain-fed cattle and a leveling off of slaughter of non-fed cattle may allow for “modest increases” in prices in the coming months.

“However, continued constrained consumer budgets due to a sluggish economy and large total red meat and poultry supplies will hold down price gains,” he said.

Market prices of Choice-grade steers at Omaha, Neb., may average $66 to $70 per 100 pounds in the first half of 1982, Gustafson said. That would compare with the July-September average of $66.50 per 100 pounds, according to government figures.

James E. Nix, another analyst, said cutbacks in pork production will continue into 1982, with first-quarter hog slaughter down 7 percent to 9 percent from a year earlier, and the second-quarter rate down 4 percent to 6 percent.

Even so, he said, “The supply of pork will continue to be relatively large” through mid-1982. And with large beef and poultry supplies, hog prices will be under pressure.

Baby powder inhalation can cause variety of symptoms

NEW YORK (AP) — Baby powder can cause coughing spells, vomiting or pneumonia in children who inhale it, says a pediatrician specializing in poison control, and he is advising his patients not to use it.

Dr. Howard Mofenson, director of the poison control center at the Nassau County Medical Center near New York City, said 92 cases of baby powder inhalation were reported to the center in the first six months of this year.

Mofenson, who is also former head of the accident prevention committee of the American Academy of Pediatrics, had counted 40 such cases in the first six months of 1980. A study showed that almost all of the incidents occurred when the infants were having their diapers changed.

Most of the babies grabbed the container of powder and tipped it into their mouths, said Mofenson.

He is trying to draw attention to the problem, because he thinks incidents of powder inhalation are more frequent than doctors have thought.

Mofenson’s study of the 40 cases reported last year showed that most of the victims were under 2 years old.

“Most parents think it reduces moisture,” Mofenson said in a telephone interview. “I don’t know of any study that shows that. I think it’s more of a tradition. I’m not sure it’s essential for the baby’s skin.”

The largest maker of baby powder is Johnson & Johnson. The company says that baby powder would not have sold as well as it has if it didn’t do some good.

“This has been on the market since the turn of the century, and people like it. If it didn’t work, I question whether the consumer would want it,” said company spokesman James Murray.

The company says baby powder attracts moisture and prevents friction between skin surfaces that rub together.

Murray said that 80 percent of the cases described in Mofenson’s study did not involve Johnson & Johnson baby powder.

“There’s an implication that there’s something hazardous about this material,” Murray said. “That’s not true.”

President Reagan is a downsizer, and the federal bureaucracy is his patient. He has plans to eliminate two departments, energy and education. He hopes to cut the budget. He plans to curtail regulation.

In Reagan’s view, the bureaucracy grew too fast, from 1.1 million civilian federal workers in 1940 to nearly triple that in 1980, accompanied by a rise in payrolls from less than $2.2 billion to more than $50 billion a year. Downsizing that is a keystone of his program.

So also are cuts in services he feels the repair sector, either directly indirectly through their institutions. Downsizing to the President is equated with efficiency.

It is in state governments and in private enterprise also. These are days in which hardnos efficiency experts thrive and sinecured employees suddenly have to prove their worth.

On ‘downsizing’ the dream

NEW YORK (AP) — Houses, cars, government bureaucracies, corporate staffs, incomes and financial goals all share a word these days that you won’t even find in the dictionary. They are being “downsized.”

The word seems to be a euphemism for being forced to do with less, a grudging concession to economic reality, an attempt to make the best of a world which no longer indulges its people in easy luxuries.

If you have to accept less, then make it the fashion, make it the “in” thing. Pity the boor who lives in the old Victorian house with massive rooms, or the wastrel who rides around on eight big cylinders.

The trend probably began with the automobile or the chocolate candy bar, but now “downsizing” has been embraced by so much of society that it might eventually be used to describe the decade of the 80s.

making my life a total misery?” Prince Charles snapped at a posse of press photographers when they outfoxed him on a fox hunt.

Charles, looking forward to a day away from the glare of publicity, chasing foxes across the countryside, glowered angrily Monday when he realized that he had failed to give his pursuers the slip.

The 32-year-old heir to the British throne had been expected to join the Beaufort Hunt near Tetbury in the County of Gloucestershire for the first hunt of the fox season.

Tetbury is just a mile from his new home at Highgrove House where he and his wife, Princess Diana, have gone to live.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A bout with bronchial pneumonia forced former President Gerald Ford to cancel a speaking engagement in Montgomery today.

J. Walker Whittle, president of Alabama Christian College, said Monday that Ford could not attend the fund-raising dinner for the school because of the illness, which he described as “not serious.”

Whittle said Gov. Fob James and Montgomery Mayor Emory Folmar would substitute for the recuperating Ford at the dinner.

NAMES IN THE NEWS

TOKYO (AP) — Both orchestras are celebrating their 100th anniversaries, but one conductor says he still feels like the other conductor’s student.

Herbert von Karajan, 73, conductor of the Berlin Philharmonic, was Seiji Ozawa’s teacher 20 years ago. Now Ozawa, 43, conducts the Boston Symphony.

Both are appearing here this week.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Film and television star Rock Hudson is expected to spend the next two weeks in a hospital after heart bypass surgery, described by his manager as “an unqualified success.”

“His heart is functioning perfectly on its own, with no signs of any complications,” said Tom Clark, personal manager for the 55-year-old actor.

Arteries feeding the heart muscle were bypassed in surgery Monday at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center.

“We’re lucky they caught it this early,” Clark said. “The doctors said he could have had a fatal heart attack within a month.”

After his hospital stay, Hudson will recuperate at home for about six weeks, Clark said.

TEXAS BUSINESS BRIEFS

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Valero Energy Corp. has declared a cash dividend of eight cents per share on the company’s common stock, officials announced Monday.

The dividend is payable Dec. 10 to shareholders of record on Nov. 9.

DALLAS (AP) — Halliburton Co. announced Monday record results for the third quarter of 1981, including a 23 percent increase in consolidated revenues to $2.2 billion.

Operating income gained 49 percent to $338.6 million, while net income jumped 48 percent to $191.5 million, company officials said.

Earnings per share totaled $1.62, compared to $1.09 for the same quarter last year.

John P. Hardin, board chairman and chief executive officer, cited a strong performance in the company’s oil field services and products group for the increases.

DALLAS (AP) — Summit Energy Inc. reported Monday record revenues of $8.8 million for the fiscal year ending July 31 — a 44.4 percent increase over the previous year.

Net earnings also hit a record high of $2.1 million and cash flow was up 38.8 percent to $5.66 million, officials said.

Summit officials cite the gains to increased drilling activity and a 41 percent increase in oil and gas sales.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gifford-Hill-American Inc. will divest a concrete pipe facility in Kansas City, Kan., under a consent agreement announced Monday by the Federal Trade Commission.

GHA is the leading producer of concrete pressure pipe in the south central states. It acquired the Kansas City plant as part of its acquisition of Lock Joint Products Division of Interpace Corp., which was the largest producer of the pipes nationally.

Concrete pressure pipe is used primarily for water supply and sewage disposal as well as oil and natural gas distribution.

The FTC had alleged that the acquisition could help create a concrete pressure-pipe monopoly in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas and New Mexico.

GHA agreed to sell the Kansas City plant within 15 months to a seller approved by the FTC.

All will foot the bill for TMI decontamination

WASHINGTON (AP) — No matter who you are and no matter how far you live from Harrisburg, Pa., you'll be helping foot the bill for cleaning up after the billion-dollar nuclear accident at Three Mile Island.

The accident happened March 28, 1979, and the plant still sits — idle and dangerous — with eight feet of radioactive water on the floor.

Even after it's decontaminated, the damaged reactor may never produce electricity again.

Whether the cleanup money comes from utility bills, stock dividends, taxes or — as is likely — a combination of the three, all Americans will be dunned for decontamination costs.

Already, the federal government has spent $12 million on radiation research at the disabled plant. Another $19 million is budgeted for this year.

Now Congress must decide whether to endorse a Reagan administration recommendation to spend $100 million more for cleanup. Congress is also weighing legislation that would force utility companies nationwide to contribute to the project.

General Public Utilities Corp., owner of the crippled Three Mile Island plant, is warning that without government help it will go bankrupt. Utility analysts have told Congress that GPU's bankruptcy would shivel capital investment in electric utilities and cripple the entire industry.

Not everyone buys that argument.

"It's a game of nuclear chicken. Who's going to be the first to blink, the Congress or GPU?" said Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass., who opposes federal cleanup aid for TMI. "If we blink because of their threat, we end up picking up part of the tab that belongs squarely on the shoulders of the utility industry."

Markey and other opponents of federal aid for TMI believe utility companies would produce the money to buoy GPU if there were no possibility of federal help.

And the plea for federal funds is particularly galling to lawmakers who were forced to cut job training projects and the school lunch program this year under the Reagan administration's austere spending program.

"It's a budget-busting bailout of a privately owned utility," said Rep. Richard Ottinger, D-N.Y., chairman of the House energy conservation and power subcommittee. "The Reagan administration continues to spout its rhetoric about the magic of the marketplace while it quietly spends millions of dollars to save the nuclear industry from the verdict of the marketplace."

New technique will aid eye doctors

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP) — Los Alamos National Laboratory scientists have developed a technique to interpret measurements of the cornea in the human eye, which will enable doctors to better treat eye problems or disease.

J. James Rowsey, chief of corneal surgery at the Dean A. McGee Eye Institute and the Department of Ophthalmology at the University of Oklahoma, will use the technique to evaluate radial keratotomy, a method of surgically reshaping distorted human corneas, Los Alamos announced in a news release.

The cornea is the shiny thin layer that covers the eyeball in front of the iris.

Any distortion of the fragile eye cover means light is not focused properly on the retina, the membrane lining the back of the eye, which transmits visual signals to the brain by way of the optic nerve. The result is fuzzy vision of varying degrees.

A flattened cornea results in far-sightedness, a bulging cornea causes near-sightedness, an egg-shaped cornea produces astigmatism, and a cone-shaped cornea is the result of a progressive, blinding disease called keratoconus.

Los Alamos scientists said the primary instrument currently used for measuring the cornea is limited to measurements of the central 3 millimeters, while the cornea has a surface of about 12 millimeters.

Newer photographic instruments provide pictures of the cornea up to 9 millimeters, but Los Alamos researchers said it's been difficult to interpret that data so the proper amount of correction needed in the eye can be evaluated.

The new Los Alamos technique, which will enable that information to be interpreted, resulted from a discussion between two researchers over a coffee break.

Danny Doss, a Los Alamos engineer who has done pioneer work in developing instruments to correct distorted corneas, was working on the problem of data interpretation and told physicist Dick Hutson about it.

Minutes later, Hutson returned with a step-by-step mathematical procedure on which Doss could base a computer program that would allow a doctor to calculate a precise profile of a distorted cornea and determine the focusing ability present in the eye.

"It was a 'eureka' situation that happens once in a while in science," Doss said.

Rowsey called the technique "a bridge that has filled a gap in ophthalmology."

"We can now monitor patients before and after surgery or corrective lens fitting to define the success of therapy and make continuing corrections as needed," he said.

Tax-free status voted House group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Perhaps with some foreboding, the House wants to grant a tax-exempt federal charter to an organization known as "Former Members of Congress."

The lawmakers spoke in glowing terms of the organization but none expressed much interest in joining it.

The service club was formed by 10 former members in 1970 and now claims a membership of 580 one-time House and Senate members.

"I am sure their membership will grow even more at the end of this Congress," Rep. Carlos J. Moorhead, R-Calif., who sponsored the bill, told the House. Naturally, he was referring to Democrats.

Said Rep. George E. Danielson, D-Calif.: "I did hear with some sorrow the comments of the gentleman from California that after the next election the size of Former Members will be increased."

"I hope the gentleman will not be too gloomy, because I am sure there will be some members of the minority who are returned." Naturally, he meant Republicans.

The charter states that the group's purpose is "to promote good government at the national level."

But to qualify for its tax-free, nonpartisan status, the organization must ban from its ranks anyone who is a candidate for Congress.

With little more said, the bill sailed through the House unanimously, right along with companion bills to grant tax-free charters to the U.S. Submarine Veterans of World War II and the American Council of Learned Societies.

Other bills just never make it through Congress. It isn't always for lack of persistence.

Walking a well-worn path, Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., recently filed with the Senate clerk a bill to reimburse the citizens of Frederick, Md., for a $200,000 debt incurred by the United States during the Civil War.

"The bill was first introduced by Representative Louis McComas of Maryland in 1889 before the 51st Congress. The bill has been introduced by a Marylander in each succeeding Congress," said Mathias, who has introduced it 10 times himself.

On July 9, 1864, Gen. Jubal A. Early, commander of the Confederate Army at Frederick, demanded $200,000 from the city to support his invading army. The citizens borrowed the money from local banks.

Utility executives claim that some federal responsibility for nuclear accidents was implied when the U.S. government offered financial incentives to build nuclear power plants.

Opponents of federal aid note that the utilities have never shared their profits with the government.

In addition, the utility executives say the Energy Department and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission will benefit from research and development conducted during cleanup at the plant.

"The federal government spent $12.8 billion in 1979 dollars from 1950 to 1979 to encourage the commercial use of nuclear power," Louis T. Austin Jr., nuclear task force chairman of the Edison Electric Institute, told j. uwothis fall.

H's accident demonstrated that neither the efforts of the federal government nor the electric utility industry were sufficient to avoid the (resultant) loss. We both have an underlying responsibility to learn from the experience and assist in decontaminating the facility," Austin said.

But in the Republican-controlled Senate, where approval of federal cleanup money is expected, Democratic opponents say manufacturers of nuclear hardware should help pay for cleanup before the government steps in.

"Companies like Westinghouse and Babcock & Wilcox who make the reactors and profit handsily from the nuclear program haven't been asked to come up with any of the funding," Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., said.

The EEI, which represents 200 utilities, has pledged to contribute $192 million for the cleanup. To make it easier for EEI members to collect that money from ratepayers, the organization has asked for legislation making the contribution mandatory.

So far, the cleanup of TMI is estimated to cost about $1 billion, but further delays could escalate the cost. GPU has exhausted its $300 million in available nuclear insurance money to vent gas from the plant and prepare for chemical decontamination.

To produce an additional $700 million, Pennsylvania Gov. Dick Thornburgh has proposed a funding plan endorsed by President Reagan.

Under Thornburgh's plan, the utility industry and the federal government each would pay $190 million, while GPU would pay $245 million and the states of Pennsylvania and New Jersey would contribute a total of $45 million.

Critics, pointing to the Reagan administration's promise of only $123 million, predict that the governor's plan will sputter for lack of funds — a suggestion that infuriates Thornburgh.

"This is not an exercise for bean counters. What we have accomplished is that the president of the United States now acknowledges that TMI is a financial priority," Thornburgh said in an interview.

"I cannot tell you the exact dollar amount of what the federal government will eventually pay, but I have to take the president at his word when he tells me he considers this a national problem and pledges his help," Thornburgh added.
