Why have all the great aggregations of power of the famous conquerors of history fallen of their own weight to an opposi-tion that derives its strength from something other than mere size? Why was Candhi's passive resistance and Christ's method of "at-tack" so effective? We cannot deny that a form of might resid size, but size is not might per se inherent weakness in size and ag-gregations of power, which tends to cause their downfall. Perhaps the problem of peace should be approached from a new and unconventional direction. On the record, at least, the solution would seem to lie elsewhere than in the methods that have been tried again and again without even a semblance of success. What is more, the customary means of trying to remove a difficulty by the use of force and power seems always to demoralize those who adopt it; observing this may have suggested to Bentham his defini tion of war, as "mischief on the largest scale." It may explain why human reason seems to go on fur-lough, for the duration of serious conflict and in many instances thereafter. It may explain why both sides of most wars seem to come out as losers.

Perhaps the only route to peace is to increase liberty by breaking up each and every source and form power, to the greatest possible extent and by peaceful means prior to its inevitable eruption into conflict. There must be substituted for the conflict of power a code of justice whereby the enemy of libor of any nation which violate the liberal design of society. Once this concept has been grasped, the words of Thomas Paine, when he said that one who would make his own liberty secure must guard even his own enemy from oppres-sion, comes to have a new beauty of meaning. The futility of sale conflict as a defense of liberty

Personalizing the enemy of liberty makes it impossible to come to grips with the true enemy, which is an act of the person. Or act of a person may be in violation of liberty, and that is the enemy; all the other acts of that person may be in harmony with liberty. To personalize the enemy of liberty in this way is as though a surgeon, who has been engaged to cope with a malignant growth, were to personalize his enemy and kill the patient as his professional duty; if this procedure be wrong in surgery, can it be right in elv

In like manner, we are prone to personalize and nationalize the ensuing war the object becomes that of trying to kill the patient those who are lovers of liberty within that nation as well as the who are violators of liberty, all of whom have been conscripted into the enemy's armed forces indiscriminately.

This line of thought offers no panacea to a quick certainty of world peace. But to whatever ex-tent this analysis is correct, there When we consider the deep-seated desire of persons for liberty. and when we note the relationship between liberty and peace, could wars occur except as the power to drive a whole nation into war comes to be vested in the hands of one or a few persons — perhaps even someone in a foreign "friendly nation"? That person may have motives entirely different from the persons they are presumed to be serving. He may be overmindful of the personal glories of war.

History reports in glowing terms of the glories of war and of vic-tory. Emblazoned on the pages of history are the names of those who happened to have been the political leaders during the pageantry and historic din of sacrificial conflict. But in many instances those who thus acquire historic recogniing the bitter consequences of their the destruction of the underpin-

Main points of difference be-tween the bills are: Ownership—one bill establishes federal jurisdiction over all off-shore tidelands. The other measure asserts state ownership within the three-mile limit and main-tains Texas' jurisdiction over tidelands within 10 1/2 miles of the low-tide line. This exception recognizes conditions under which

Texas entered the Union.

Effective date—the tederal bili would be retroactive to June 23, 1947. Most provisions of the state bill would become effective Jan. 11, 1949. Involved in this disagreement are millions of dollars in lease revenues collected by the states since the Supreme Court decision in the California case of 1947 declaring the federal government's "paramount" interest in lands off the California coast.

In Texas, the completions included University Y No. 5 in Andrews County, good for an initial of 439 barrels daily, Proctor No. 6 in Gaines County for 354 barrels and Northrup No. 3 in Gaines County for 148 barrels.

One Oklahoma wildcat, Dacus No. 1 in McClain County, was completed by Cities Service et al for a total potential of 109 barrels of oil daily. Nelson No. 1 in Grant County was finaled for 83 barrels, bringing Oklahoma total to 192 barrels daily.

Illinois provided a single completion in Clark No. 2, Wayne County, good for 118 barrels daily.

Illinois provided a single completion in Clark No. 2, Wayne County, good for 118 barrels daily.

Inland waters — The federal independent in does not specifically include the Great Lakes. The state bill cites the Great Lakes in definite inland waters subject to state control.

Division of revenues—The federal bill would leave the division up to Congress. The state measure would give the states 62 1-2 percent and the federal government 37 1/2 percent of revenues from tidelands within state jurisdiction, not including bays and harbors. From the three mile-limit (10 1/2 miles from Texas) to the out edge of the Continental Shelf the lease revenues would be divided equally. the strain and discomfort of head noises be eliminated? Which is your better ear? Why does hear-ing loss become progressively worse? How does the strain of even partial deafness affect the nervous system? How many phys-ical ailments can be traced to impaired hearing?

What are the imminent physical and emotional dangers that can easily develop from faulty hearing? Is it true that poor hearing can lead to total deafness unless the proper preventive steps are taken? The startling answers to these and many other vital questions about your health and your hearing wi be answered expertly for you in this clinic. Mr. Hammer takes a personal interest in your individ-ual hearing problems, and will demonstrate for you how normal hearing can again be attained. Simply attend at the time mentionfor a demonstration in your own home may be arranged. This is a regular part of Acousticon's public service program, without cost or independent dealers and distributors of The Shamrock Oil and Gas Corporation join in this expression of thanks to friends and customers who have helped to make this one of Shamrock's most important anniversaries since its origin in 1929.

The past year was one of the most progressive in the company's history of growth and expansion. Today its properties, equipment and modern processing plants represent an investment in excess of 25 million dollars. But, Shamrock regards your goodwill as its most valuable asset.

In appreciation of your loyalty to its products, dealers and distributors, Shamrock on its twentieth birthday renews its pledge of quality: "To provide at all times only the best of petroleum products . . . which merit the continued confidence of dealers, distributors and customers

Men Stay After Hours to Paint Can, Save Plane

ORLAHOMA CITY - (P) men who stayed after hours to paint a trash can were credited Saturday with saving a four-jet B-45 bomber and its crew.

Pvt. Bill M. Arnold T-Sgt. Gerald Peltier an Pfc. Vito Spinelli got tired o looking at the battered trash can so they stayed in the office to paint it. The are members of the Air Force's very high frequency direc-tion finding unit, and decided to keep the radio on while they keep the radio on while worked.

Capt. Hubert Hartley, Com-mander of the 1921st Airways and Air Communications Service Group says the crew was saved from possible death and relates the events that followed:

"Suddenly, they heard voices on the radio. They discovered it was the pilot of a B-45 jet bomber flying at some 29,000 feet over Central Kansas. The pilot was trying to contact Forbes Air Force has replaced the once-great pres-tige of the white man.
