

Solidarity leaders urge general strike

More taxes likely in '83 and '84

WASHINGTON (AP) — With most of the budget decisions for 1983 behind him, President Reagan now must choose between two unpleasant alternatives — raising taxes or asking Congress to swallow a $100 billion deficit next year.

Treasury Secretary Donald Regan said Wednesday that he thinks it will be tax increases — perhaps an increased excise tax on some consumer goods.

Other sources said one plan under review calls for turning at least part of the money over to states and local governments, who also would inherit responsibility for continuing programs now financed by the federal government.

Congressional sources said such a plan presumably could help mobilize the support of governors and mayors behind a tax increase, aiding its chance for approval in Congress.

Moreover, Reagan long has espoused the philosophy of turning over to local governments programs now operated and controlled in Washington.

The president has expressed opposition repeatedly to raising taxes, but his treasury secretary said Wednesday, "I think there will be some new tax increases in '83 and '84."

Without them, according to administration estimates, the federal deficit for those years could be well over $100 billion a year.

Underscoring his prediction of tax increases, Regan said, "We're not going to have deficits in the $100-billion area in '83 or '84. They'll be much lower than that."

Other officials say the administration is attempting to produce a budget with a deficit of $70 billion or less in 1983 and under $50 billion in 1984.

The decisions on taxes are among the last that confront the president as he nears completion of the spending and tax recommendations he will send to Congress Feb. 8.

The major points decided so far, according to administration officials, include:

—Spending cuts of $30 billion or a little more, including reductions in domestic programs such as welfare, food stamps, public housing and health care for the poor and elderly. Reagan has pledged to leave Social Security unscathed.

—A jump of 18 percent in the Pentagon budget, to a record $215 billion. That would represent the second installment of the Reagan administration's military buildup.

—A proposal that Reagan embraced during his 1980 presidential campaign to establish "enterprise zones" in decaying cities. That could include tax cuts for businesses that locate in the impacted areas.

The president started making tax and spending decisions last month.

Fire marshal called into Brunow probe

The arrival of a State Fire Marshal in Pampa Wednesday has created speculation of arson in the Christmas night fire, which gutted the Brunow Building at Cuyler and Foster Streets, destroying businesses located in the building.

Richard C. Womack, a deputy with the State Fire Marshal's Office in Lubbock, and Detective Ken Neal of the Pampa Police Department are viewing photos and video tapes of the blaze as part of the fire investigation.

Pampa Police Chief J. J. Ryzman said, "It is not uncommon to request that a State Fire Marshal be called in to

SNOWBALLS WERE SMALL THIS MORNING. The 0.1 inch of snow that fell in the city during the night was just enough to tempt Tom Mollohan, above. ### Light snow falls in Panhandle

There was a big hurrah heralding the coming snow, but Pampans awoke today to see only a light snow covering the ground.

The fine snow started falling in Pampa late Wednesday night as a fast-moving Arctic cold front pushed across most of the state during the night.

Pampa temperatures varied Wednesday from a high of 48 degrees to a low of 12 degrees.

The front was located at dawn today along a line from near Del Rio to south of San Antonio to north of Houston.

In addition to the snowfall that amounted to only a trace by dawn in most areas, some light rain fell in portions of East Texas and Southeast Texas. Snow flurries were reported in some areas of the South Plains.

Area towns reported their snowfalls today, with most just receiving a trace of the moisture.

In Pampa, 0.1 inch of moisture was recorded. Borger, Shamrock, Amarillo and Friona reported just a trace.

Officials at the Wheeler Omega Grain and Supply Company said there was just a trace of snow on the ground today. Skies were clear and sunshine was coming through.

Hutchinson County Sheriff's Office reported the light powder snow covered the ground. Skies were still cloudy this morning with cold and windy conditions.

White Deer Wheeler Evans spokesman said the trace of snow was still on the ground with cold temperatures.

The forecasts for this afternoon called for a possible accumulation of about one inch of snow in western sections of the Panhandle. It was to be cloudy and cold over much of the state today with a clearing trend expected late today or tonight.

Temperatures were to continue falling over most of the state today. Highs were forecast from the low 20s in northern sections of the state to 40s and 50s in central and southern sections.

500 stranded in mudslides

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — Rescuers struggled past toppled trees and crumbled roads today to reach up to 500 people stranded by rain-triggered mudslides. The storm killed at least 23 people and officials feared up to 20 more bodies might be found in the ruins of their homes.

Damage from the rains that pelted northern California from Sunday to Tuesday exceeded $200 million.

More than 200 California National Guardsmen were on patrol or flood duty, mostly in Marin County north of San Francisco, where 80 homes were leveled by mudslides and 150 damaged during the rains. Army helicopters made three trips Wednesday, rescuing stranded or sick people.

Temperatures on Friday were to be quite a bit warmer, reaching the 50s in Pampa through Saturday.

Early morning temperatures were in the teens, 20s and 30s north of the front and in the 60s and 70s in South Texas ahead of the front.

Temperatures contrasted sharply to the north and south of the front. During the pre-dawn hours it was 30 at College Station and 70 at Houston at the same time.

Some early morning temperatures around the state included Amarillo, 12; Guzman, 9; Corpus Christi, 70; Midland, 24; and El Paso, 34.

Two Solidarity leaders urged Polish workers to prepare for a general strike against the martial law regime, and a defecting journalist accused the Communist government today of forcing colleagues to sign loyalty oaths.

Meanwhile, blizzards pummeled northern Poland, shutting down harbors and crippling rail service across the country, the official PAP news agency reported. It did not say whether shipments of food and supplies were disrupted.

Fierce winds downed power lines and rail passengers had to be "taken to safety" when their train became snowbound on the Hel Peninsula, the report said. Two passenger trains also got stuck in heavy snow for two hours in the northeastern province of Sulwaki, PAP said.

Two Solidarity leaders who apparently escaped the widespread arrests of union activists, Wladyslaw Frasnynik and Zbigniew Janas, exhorted Polish workers in clandestine letters circulated in Warsaw, according to uncensored reports reaching the West late Wednesday.

"Remember that our union has not fallen apart from the stomping of (Premier Gen. Wojciech) Jaruzelski's shoe," wrote Frasnynik, a 27-year-old member of Solidarity's 18-man presidium and head of the independent union's Wroclaw regional branch.

Another letter signed by Janas, head of the Solidarity branch at the big Ursus tractor plant near Warsaw, called on the workers to make preparations "in deep conspiracy" for a general strike.

But both union leaders warned against violent resistance to the authorities, saying too much blood had been spilled already.

"Remember that the authorities are murderers," Janas wrote. "They are indifferent to the number of people they will shoot if it suits their interests."

There have been unconfirmed reports of more than 200 deaths under martial law, but the government insists there have only been eight.

The Soviet army newspaper, Red Star, said the Reagan administration's claims about human rights violations in Poland were intended to protect Solidarity activists who planned to stage "a coup d'etat, terrorize the population and erect gallows for communists."

Zolnierz Wolnosci, the army newspaper, said Tuesday that the Independent Students' Association had planned to organize a new international organization with "anti-communist aims." It said the imposition of martial law thwarted the plans, and Radio Warsaw announced Tuesday that the students' association had been dissolved.

A Katowice court convicted five Solidarity members of illegal union activity in the Huta Katowice steel complex, PAP said today. They were sentenced to prison terms ranging from three to 6½ years and their civil rights were suspended for two to four years.

The unionists were found guilty of "organizing, against martial law regulations and in spite of binding suspension of union activities, of strikes in the steel mill and publication of outlawed communiques and bulletins calling for the continuation of strikes and inciting to murder," PAP said.

In Tarnow province, three Solidarity workers drew three and 3½-year prison terms for organizing and directing strikes at Cracow's Lenin Steelworks, the agency said.

Three men at the FSO automobile plant in Warsaw were sentenced Wednesday to two years in prison for leading a strike at their factory.

In Lodz, a four-year prison term and heavy fine were administered "for an impudent theft of a fur hat. A similar punishment was meted out to a man who snatched a shopping bag," PAP reported.

Elsewhere, two men were sent to jail for three years for assaulting policemen, the report said.

Capt. Wieslaw Gornicki, a close aide to Jaruzelski, denied a report received by a British group that Solidarity leader Lech Walesa was being transferred to a monastery to be held incommunicado under the protection of the Roman Catholic Church.

Gornicki told a Warsaw news conference Walesa was still held in a villa outside the capital, and the regime hopes the crisis will ease enough to allow him to resume his activities "as a trade union leader."

Jaruzelski continued a purge of local Communist officials, apparently trying to improve the public image of the party and the government as well as weed out troublesome liberals.

Well-placed party and government sources in Warsaw said Andrzej Zabinski, the hard-line party boss in the Katowice region, had been fired. Katowice is the center of the coal industry in southern Poland, and much of the industrial unrest there was believed due to his heavy-handed tactics. But some sources reported he was replaced by another hardliner, Zbigniew Mesner, former rector of the Economic Academy of Katowice.

A purge of journalists also was underway. They were being called individually before panels of up to 10 people and quizzed on their political views. Some of those questioned said it seemed from the questioning that their fate had been decided in advance.

Injured man's leg amputated

The cause of suspicious injuries suffered by Albert Lewis Wolfe, 75, of 532 S. Somerville, over the New Year holiday is still under investigation today by the Pampa Police Department, according to Police Chief J. J. Ryzman.

Wolfe was still listed in critical condition Wednesday in High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo, after his broken left leg had to be amputated because of gangrene. He had reportedly laid unattended for several days in his home with a broken leg, nose injuries and possible back injuries.

Walter Johnson, spokesman for Coronado Community Hospital, said Wolfe had been admitted to the Pampa hospital early Monday morning, prior to his transfer to the Amarillo hospital, injured, incoherent, and suffering from a possible stroke.

Later that same day, Wolfe's partially blind daughter, Dorothy Allen, who resides with her father, told authorities that she had not seen him since New Year's Eve until she returned home and found him injured. She stated to police that someone had beaten her father, causing the injuries. However, neither she nor her father have named an assailant.

Rig goes up in city limits

That towering oil rig on Price Road, which appears to emerge from a Pampans back yard, almost does.

Triple J Oil Company of Pampa is the operator of the well, which is located adjacent to the Curtis Well Servicing Company on Price Road.

Owners of the Triple J Oil Company are Jack and Joe Curtis, also of Curtis Well Servicing. Jack Curtis Jr. said today that the rig was spudded in Tuesday, and the surface was set Wednesday.

Leonard Hudson Drilling Company started moving the equipment onto the lease Jan. 1.

"We are going to a 3,400 depth and expect to reach that in about 72 hours. The rig is rated at 12,000 feet and actually has no reason to be in this part of the Panhandle. But it became available and Hudson moved it over here and we got started," Curtis said.

"I guess if anyone wanted to see a big rig, now is the time," he said. "How does it feel to be so close to your rig?"

"Extremely convenient," Curtis laughed.

The recent drilling ordinance proposed by the city council was tabled, but Curtis said the ordinance could have been followed if in force.

"We would have had to make some changes, but we could have complied with the ordinance. It was a stiff ordinance," Curtis said.

WHERE THE OIL FLOWS. This rig may bring that flow even closer to home. Triple J Oil Company is drilling a 3,400-foot well just inside the city limits. The drilling is being done by the Leonard Hudson Drilling Company. (Staff Photo by John Wolfe)

Fire destroys Phillips warehouse

A second fire in two days struck Phillips Petroleum Company in Borger, early Wednesday morning, at a leased warehouse, destroying approximately 1.5 million pounds of unfinished synthetic rubber products.

According to Borger Fire Chief Hugh Putnam, the fire was being allowed to burn itself out Wednesday night, while firefighters took precautions to protect surrounding property. He said there was little firemen could do to extinguish that type of blaze, and the main concern was to keep the blaze from spreading to other buildings.

Tom Baugh, Human Resources Department employee relations representative with Phillips Petroleum in Borger, said no estimates of damage were available today on the amount of damage to the 20,000-square-foot building.

Baugh said that the cause of the warehouse fire Wednesday, and the cause of the fire Tuesday, in Unit Seven of the Phillips Refinery, are both unknown at this time.

Tuesday morning, a fire in the Phillips Refinery occurred in the unit where liquified natural gas is treated to produce pentane. The fire was extinguished quickly by plant employees. No damage amount from that fire was available.

OPERATING ROOM EQUIPMENT FOR SALE. All Highland General Hospital property, including this operating room equipment, will be sold during the auction which begins at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, Jan. 19. The public is invited to attend and bid on the numerous items. (Staff Photo)

County hospital equipment on block

The sound of auctioneers will resound through Highland General Hospital beginning at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, Jan. 19, as the auction of all Gray County owned hospital property begins.
Ernest St. Clair Auctioneers of Amarillo will handle the sale which should keep four auctioneers busy, according to auctioneer Stan Campbell.
All medical equipment, operating tables, X-ray machines, vacuum pumps, examining tables and incubators will be sold at one time during the auction day. The auctioneers will specify the time of the sale. All typewriters, business machines, desks, tables, dressers, beds and kitchen supplies will also be sold.
A preview of all the hospital property is scheduled for the public to inventory the items which will be tagged and numbered for easy identification the day of the sale. The preview date has not been announced as yet.
The sale will wind through the hospital floors with an auctioneer taking bids on one type of item at a time.
The auctioneers have been working in the vacant hospital since Dec. 28, tagging, moving and setting up the items for the sale, according to auctioneer Carl Hancock.
"There will be no prior sales of the items," Hancock said.
Gray County Judge Carl Kennedy said the public is invited to participate in the sale and the preview days. Any of the items will be sold individually for the convenience of local residents.

Defense lawyer challenges fiber evidence

ATLANTA (AP) - A 10-foot-long scale model of the Chattahoochee River bridge where Wayne B. Williams first came under police scrutiny was set up in court this morning on the second day of testimony in Williams' murder trial.
Williams, a 23-year-old black free-lance cameraman, is accused in the slayings of Nathaniel Cater, 27, and Jimmy Ray Payne, 21, two of 28 young Atlanta blacks killed during a 22-month period. No arrests have been made in the 26 other deaths.
The fourth-floor courtroom in the Fulton County Courthouse was filled with spectators before the start of testimony.
The Jackson Parkway bridge depicted in the model was the site of Williams' first encounter with police. He was spotted there May 22, 1981, by a stakeout team which heard a splash in the water below. Cater's body was found downstream from the bridge two days later.
As testimony got under way Wednesday in the highly publicized trial, defense attorney Alvin Binder challenged the prosecution's fiber evidence, saying it could have come from several sources - including the clothing of rescuers.
Prosecutors have said minute fibers found on the bodies of the victims are the key to the murder case against Williams.
Binder also got an associate Fulton County medical examiner to acknowledge that Payne, whose death was listed as a homicide, could have drowned.
Cater, Payne and six of the other victims were found floating in area rivers. Public Safety Commissioner Lee Brown, who headed the task force, testified Wednesday that police stakeouts were set up at as many as 24 bridges from the beginning of April to May 22, when Williams was stopped near a bridge over the Chattahoochee River.

Officers on stakeout testified in pretrial hearings that Williams was spotted driving slowly over the bridge after an officer underneath heard a loud splash. Two days later, Cater's body was found downstream.
Binder told the jury the state will imply that Williams threw Cater's body off the bridge, but he said his 5-foot-7, 160-pound client could not have lifted the 146-pound Cater and thrown him over the 4-foot-high bridge wall into the river.
Brown testified that bodies did not begin turning up in rivers until news reports came out in February stating that fiber evidence had been found on the bodies of a number of victims.

Marathon controlled by U.S. Steel

NEW YORK (AP) - U.S. Steel Corp. took control of Marathon Oil Co. today, besting Mobil Corp. in a $6.2 billion takeover that was the second most expensive in American corporate history.
It was Mobil's second failed attempt in six months to buy another oil company. Last summer, Du Pont Co. defeated Mobil with a $7.8 billion offer for Conoco Inc.
U.S. Steel began buying 51 percent of Marathon's common stock for $125 a share today at 12:01 a.m. EST, the deadline a federal judge had set for Marathon shareholders to withdraw the shares they had tendered to U.S. Steel.

Because the steelmaker's cash offer attracted 21 million more Marathon shares than it wanted, the company will buy about 58 of each 100 shares tendered. The rest will be accepted after a merger, in exchange for U.S. Steel notes currently valued at about $80 each.
Due to the paperwork involved, U.S. Steel's bank is not expected to begin sending checks to Marathon's stockholders until Monday.
On Wednesday, seven hours before

U.S. Steel took control of Marathon, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger rejected Mobil's last-ditch plea to halt the takeover. Mobil wanted Burger to freeze the deal until the full court considered Mobil's formal appeal of a lower court ruling that blocked its $6.5 billion bid.
Before the ruling, telephones in the clerk's office and the public information office rang steadily with stockbrokers and shareholders seeking information. Messengers for law firms waited in the corridors with two-way radios to relay the word.

Mediator called in on OCAW talks, union's contract expires at midnight

DEER PARK, Texas (AP) - A federal mediator has been called in by representatives of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers union Local 4-367 in contract talks with Shell Oil Co. as OCAW's pact with refineries throughout the nation faces expiration at midnight Thursday.
"It is not unusual for a mediator to come in when it gets this close to the deadline," said Shell spokesman Bill Gibson.
Ed Watson, president of Local 4-367 representing 2,100 workers at the Shell plant, agreed with Gibson saying, "It's normal procedure to call the mediator in when it gets close to the end of the line."

Officials on both sides said they expect talks to continue today on the current two-year pact but added they are prepared for a strike.
OCAW officials have not specified their wage demands, saying only they are seeking "substantial increases" in pay and benefits. Union workers currently earn from $11.66 to $12.15 an hour.
The union represents some 55,000 workers nationwide including about 19,000 in the Houston area.
Gibson said his company and the union have met several times since contract talks began Dec. 8. "The union requested the federal mediator come in and talk with the group," Gibson said.

Both Shell and union officials have met privately with the mediator presenting their sides in the labor dispute, he said.
If today's talks fail and a strike is called, supervisory personnel will keep the Deer Park plant in operation, Gibson said. Supervisors will work 12-hour shifts until additional personnel can be called in, Gibson said.
The plant is currently operating at 70 percent of capacity, moving about 285,000 barrels per day, Gibson said. During a strike two years ago the plant set production records with contingency personnel, the spokesman said.

WTSU president runs for attorney general

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Former state Sen. Max Sherman is giving up the ivory towers of West Texas State University for a chance at state attorney general's seventh-floor office.
Sherman on Wednesday entered the race to replace Attorney General Mark White, who is running for governor. Sherman told Capitol reporters he will enter the Democratic primary. Former U.S. Attorney John Hannah of Tyler is the only other announced Democratic candidate, but state Sen. Jack Ogg of Houston is expected to enter the race.

Sen. Bill Meier of Euless is the only GOP candidate.
Sherman said he will resign as president of West Texas State on Jan. 16.
During his news conference, Sherman refused to comment on some of the controversial lawsuits the state faces, including a prison reform case and a case involving education of illegal alien children.

"I don't think it's appropriate to second guess unless you're familiar with all the factors involved," he said, adding any comment he made might "jeopardize or adversely affect that litigation."
However, Sherman said he would comment on the lawsuits later in the campaign, when he was more familiar with them.
The former Amarillo legislator said recruiting good assistants is among the most vital tasks facing an attorney general.
"Many times you don't have people for a long time," he said, and promised to "run the best law office possible."
Sherman, 46, is a Phillips, Texas, native and served in the state Senate from 1970 through 1977. He was chairman of the Senate Committee on Natural Resources.
"My years in the Texas Senate provided an opportunity to know in depth the concerns of Texans across the state," Sherman said.
He predicted his campaign would "not be one of the highest budget campaigns," and that he had no "waist" set aside for the race.
"What we're able to raise, we'll spend," he said.

Sam Rayburn remembered on birthday

BONHAM, Texas (AP) - A string of lawmakers lined up for their turn to remember the late Sam Rayburn on his 100th birthday, praising the man who served more years than anyone else as speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives.
"He never forgot the people or his faith in America, its future and its youth," said House Majority Leader Jim Wright, who served under Rayburn.
About 1,100 people crowded into the National Guard armory Wednesday to hear the Bonham native praised and enjoy birthday cake and punch.

Former House Speaker Carl Albert said Rayburn "could be plain without being common."
Lady Bird Johnson, wife of former President Lyndon B. Johnson, said the 44-year veteran of the House "walked through the Capitol and district like a man driving a wagon - pulling up the reins to talk."
Texas Gov. Bill Clements called Rayburn a "man of great honesty, integrity, leadership and skill."
Also present were Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, former Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, Texas Attorney General Mark White, Rep. Jim Mattox, D-Texas, and Texas Sen. Peyton McKnight.
Rayburn, who served 18 years as House speaker, was elected to Congress in 1913 and served until his death in 1961.

Redistricting plan suit rejected

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A judge has turned back a challenge to a state Senate redistricting plan that purportedly might cost the Texas Republican Party up to half of its eight-member Senate delegation.

State District Judge Herman Jones on Wednesday rejected a suit by seven Republicans who questioned the 31 new Senate districts fashioned by the Legislative Redistricting Board in late October.

Jones, himself a former legislator from Wise County, said he was "not willing" to rule that the board plan violated either the state or federal constitution.

The board got the task of drawing a plan after Republican Gov. Bill Clements had vetoed the one approved by the Legislature. The board is made up of five Democrats, including four statewide elected officials and House Speaker Bill Clayton.

The GOP plaintiffs tried to convince Jones that the Senate should be reapportioned on the basis of "qualified electors" — who must be at least 18 years of age — rather than total population, and that the plan should take into account "the pattern of explosive population growth" in certain areas.

Jones ruled from the bench after two days of testimony.

State GOP Chairman Chester Upham, who joined six Republican senators in filing the suit, said the ruling was "kind of a shock to me."

"I think the evidence was strong enough that we will have to appeal," he told reporters.

Jones said he found predictions of growth "too speculative."

"At this time, to me, it seems a pretty difficult chore to determine how many qualified electors there are," the judge said.

Jones said in speculating about growth, the number of people over 18 and, for example, the number of aliens in the population "that seems to be a pretty good hiding place for someone who wanted to reach, in bad faith, some type of discrimination."

The judge said he did not think the redistricting board had abused its discretion in using population to draw new Senate districts, even though the Texas Constitution specifies that the state shall be divided into Senate districts "according to the number of qualified electors, as nearly as may be."

State lawyers argued that provision had been invalidated by a 1965 three-judge federal ruling. Jones said he thought any agency charged with redistricting "would be indiscreet to close its eyes" to that decision.

Austin lawyer Jim George, representing the GOP, said, "The state is here contending its own constitution is unconstitutional."

A bipartisan legislative study group has estimated the board plan could cost the GOP three of its eight Senate seats, but state Democratic chairman Bob Slagle estimated as many as four Republicans might be defeated this year.

Prior to Jones' ruling, a black legislator testified that the redistricting plan drawn by the Republicans "puts us at the back of the bus again."

Republican witness Doug Harlan of San Antonio labeled Rep. Craig Washington's remarks "wonderful theater."

Washington, D.-Houston, said the plan represents a "total reversion to separate but equal" status for blacks.

Washington, who has expressed a desire to run for the Senate, said when he first saw the GOP plan Tuesday night he thought, "It had to be a joke. But this is a serious lawsuit and it couldn't be a joke."

Their plan is not in the best interests of the minority community of Texas," Washington said.

Seven die in fire called 'worst in city history'

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — Fire swept through a two-story frame house Wednesday night and claimed the lives of a woman and her six young children who were trapped in an upstairs bedroom. Public Safety Officer Charlie Davis said.

Authorities had not confirmed the identities of the victims early this morning, but four family members who escaped the blaze said Martha Burton, 26, and the children were upstairs when the fire began at about 9:20 p.m.

Nick Burton, 28, Ms. Burton's brother, identified the children as Ethel, 12, Henry, 8, Adam, 4, Linda, 3, Leon, 2, and Hollywood, 1. Burton said he tried to rescue his sister and her children but was driven back by intense flames and thick smoke in the staircase.

"This was the biggest fatal fire I can remember in Texarkana, on either side of the line," Davis said. The Texas-Arkansas state line splits the city in two. "Nobody I've talked to can remember a fire this bad," he said.

Ms. Burton's mother, Maudie Burton, stepfather Robert Hubbard, and brothers Nick and Timmy Burton, 18, escaped from the flames without injury. Davis said. Another brother, David Burton, 22, was not at home at the time, he said.

Maudie Burton said she first saw flames coming through a downstairs floor and called the Public Safety Department. The first fire units arrived and started battling the blaze about 40 seconds after the call came in at 9:28 p.m., Davis said.

The fire started downstairs in the rear of the wooden structure and spread swiftly through the upper story, Davis said. "The stairs were completely engulfed when we got there," he said. "There wasn't any way to get to them. We even had one officer up in a tree trying to fight the fire."

Authorities said the fire gutted most of the structure and that no cause had been determined early this morning. Firefighters were unable to reach the bodies of the victims until after the blaze was extinguished at about 11 p.m., Davis said.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The federal trial of two brothers charged with operating a heroin and cocaine ring will be moved, probably to Victoria or Houston, because of local publicity over the case.

U.S. District Judge James DeAnda granted a change of venue Wednesday for Meynardo and Manuel Montemayor after more than 40 of the 53 potential jurors said they had heard of the case.

Nineteen panelists said they either had formed an opinion or would be influenced by what they already knew.

DeAnda said he would announce the trial site after checking court dockets in Houston and Victoria.

DeAnda also ordered a separate trial for another Montemayor brother in the case and allowed him to change lawyers and hire Percy Foreman of Houston.

Foreman was present Wednesday but said one of his associates, Charles Szekely, likely will handle the bulk of Matias Montemayor's case.

Matias Montemayor faces a minimum of 10 years in prison and up to a life term if convicted under racketeering statutes. A 16-count indictment returned in November identified him as the "organizer, supervisor and manager" of a family-run drug operation.

Five to six U.S. marshals remained in the courtroom during the pre-trial hearing Wednesday. Matias, Manuel and Meynardo Montemayor — all Mexican nationals — are in custody in lieu of large bonds.

Matias and Manuel were transferred from the local county jail to Corpus Christi after authorities feared they might escape and slip across the Rio Grande into Matamoros, Mexico.

Two other brothers, Reyes and Benito Montemayor, were indicted but are fugitives and believed to be in Mexico.

Agents for the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration have testified that the Montemayor family runs one of the largest brown heroin pipelines from Mexico to Chicago.

During a civil trial involving property confiscated from the Montemayors, witnesses testified they saw a heroin laboratory used by the family in Mexico.

The family lost an attempt to recover one home in McAllen, the furnishing of two houses and other objects seized by DEA agents under a civil law. The controversial statute allows seizure of goods purchased with proceeds of illicit drug transactions.

During the trial, Manuel Montemayor testified that the family had a construction company in Mexico with government contracts. He said each family member received a substantial salary from the company.

Some property seized was ordered returned to the family. Many of those items eventually could be forfeited.

to the government under criminal seizure laws.

Matias and Benito Montemayor lived in Chicago during the early 1970s and bought expensive homes in McAllen in approximately 1978.

In addition to the racketeering indictment, Matias Montemayor faces a federal firearms violation charge. Meynardo Montemayor and his wife, Graciela, were indicted Dec. 29 on income tax evasion charges.

Manuel, Benito and Meynardo Montemayor also face charges of conspiracy to distribute $3 million worth of cocaine.

Bridge damaged in explosion is reopened to railroad traffic

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A drawbridge damaged when a barge struck it and exploded early Sunday has been reopened for railroad traffic.

"The first train was on the causeway about 3 p.m.," a bridge operator who would identify himself only as a Southern Pacific Railroad employee said Wednesday night. "We've had 10 trains through at this point."

Coast Guard Lt. j.g. R.S. Randall said officials hoped the Intracoastal Waterway would be reopened to marine traffic this afternoon.

The busy Gulf Intracoastal Waterway has been closed here since the accident and waterfreight traffic waiting to pass through Galveston Bay has backed up for miles.

The barge and its cargo of 400,000 gallons of the toxic and corrosive chemical acrylonitrile has been burning in the bay since the vessel smashed into the drawbridge and exploded about 3 a.m. Sunday. Officials were reluctant Wednesday to estimate when the fire would burn out.

"It is still burning slowly, but when it would go out is hard to say," said Lt. j.g. Bill McHenry.

The Coast Guard is letting the fire burn in hopes that none of the toxic chemicals aboard will spill into the bay.

Officials said acrylonitrile can produce poisonous gases when it burns. Experts from the Monsanto Corp., which was shipping the chemical, said so far only traces of hazardous gases close to the barge have been detected.

McHenry said there was considerable pressure on the Coast Guard to open the waterway, which stretches from Brownsville, Texas, to Florida's west coast.

"Anyone who owns a barge and wants to get through to Corpus Christi has been calling us," he said. "We're doing everything we can because there is a lot of money involved."

He said in case the Coast Guard decides to open the waterway before the barge is removed, "it has already been marked and lighted."

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

OPINION PAGE

Consultants feel pinch of budget

A vast cult of consultants, who congregate on the outskirts of the nation's capital and receive fat contracts from the government to conduct studies, are feeling the pinch of budget cuts.

According to a Wall Street Journal article, Uncle Sam, who has been a huge customer of consulting firms, all of a sudden is becoming a tough sell. "I think there's going to be an awful lot fewer consultants here a year from now," says Robert R. Nathan, a consultant himself in the field of economics.

The ax already has fallen. An example of cutbacks is Planning Research Corp., that contracts with the Department of Energy. Its staff of 200 has been reduced to 10. At two other firms, TRW Inc., dropped 158 people from its energy consulting work force, and Booz, Allen and Hamilton Inc., reduced personnel in the Bethesda, Md., office by 50 percent.

All the troubles didn't start with the present administration. Former President Carter in April, 1980, ordered consultant spending slashed 15 percent. In his first week in office, President Reagan ordered another 5 percent cut. And finally, in the 1982 budget reconciliation bill, congress called for a $500 million slash in consultant spending.

Of course, some of the consulting force brought expertise and sage advice to Washington projects. But, "There were an awful lot of parasites, phenomenal waste and mismanagement," says David Johnston, who consults on solar energy.

The situation shows that bureaucrats are getting the message — that people are tired of wasteful spending. Now, even Washington, itself, is feeling the crunch.

Canada seeks constitution

Canada has taken the step in bringing its national charter home from Britain and creating a federal constitution. The recent vote in the Canadian House of Commons represents a major victory for Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and for his nation's federalists.

But in French-speaking Quebec, flags flew at half staff after the vote. Quebec Premier Rene Levesque protests against provisions that would strike down parts of a Quebec law that discourages English language education. The constitution would also halt Quebecers favoritism in local employment laws.

Ironically, the group of French separatists, who do not constitute a majority of Quebecers, look to Britain for protection of the status quo. They want the British to hold onto the North American Act of 1867, which now serves as Canada's principal legal document.

Does the dissatisfaction of some French Canadians constitute a threat to the vast majority of Canadians' aspirations for a federal constitution?

In a referendum in May 1980, Quebec voters rejected separation from Canada by a 60-40 majority. But extremists, while not able to create an independent state, could begin a desperate campaign to polarize Canadians.

As federalists celebrate the historic step toward a constitution, they must be sensitive to the complaints of Quebecers and other minorities. Inequities which occur after the constitution comes into practice must be stopped. Emotional anxieties must be recognized, and fundamental liberties guaranteed.

To work, a constitution must not only be written into the law, but into the hearts of the people. Canada's new constitution has an American-style bill of rights, provisions for revenue-sharing from the oil rich provinces, and broad regional independence within a federalist structure. It was hammered out by representatives of all groups after the failure of many previous constitutional conferences. Our hope is that it will be a document worthy of both the mind and the heart of the Canadian people.

Some things can't be cloned

By ROBERT LEFEVRE

The universal principle which undergirds the concepts of liberty found within what has been called the "libertarian movement," is called individuality. Thus, since the suffix, "ism" denotes a body of thought or a belief, it would follow that individualism is a belief in, or a body of thought about the concept of liberty.

Individuality appears to be the single absolutely predictable characteristic of the universe. No two items of any order, family, genera, or class are precisely identical to each other. No two blades of grass, no two grains of sand, no two snowflakes are precisely alike. The same is true of human countenances bodily structure and character.

It is the same with animate as with inanimate objects or items. Further the phenomenon of individuality persists even in terms of events. Nothing that has ever occurred on this planet is the precise duplication of anything else that had occurred before.

I was recently challenged in respect to this assertion. Indeed, the challenger made such an astute point that I thought briefly that I had overstated my position and would have to amend it. He pointed out that every carbon atom is the precise duplicate of every other carbon atom. Indeed, that when we enter the atomic world, instead of individuality and diversity, we find universal cloning. Thus, the concept of individuality must be put aside.

I was fortunate in being in the company of several rather learned men, and one of them was far better informed concerning the structure of atoms than I. He was also better informed than my challenger. He pointed out that while one atom is definitely identical to every other within the same family or category, each atom occupies its own particular space and its internal rhythm is not synchronized with its fellows.

Were such a synchronization to occur, all of a given type of atom would converge upon each other and the shape of all things would change. Explained another way: If we had 100 carbon atoms and gave each its own designation by number, we would discover that atom number 1 would relate to atom number 2 on one side, but would relate to an entirely different type of atom on another side or in another direction. Thus, in relationships to each other, atom 1 and 2, while appearing to be identical, are in space and time completely unique. Thus, we have the principle of individuality sustained even at the atomic level.

This is such an important point that it should be underscored. Indeed, the same notation ought to be made in regard to the cloning of human beings. While it may be possible (I am not yet convinced of it) that science could duplicate every cell of a given human being and thereby create his precise double, the two would remain distinctly separate creatures. The model would be able to sit on the lap of the clone, or vice versa, and in consequence within the space-time continuum each is unique. Both apparently identical people cannot at the same instant sit on each other's laps.

I have stressed the importance of individuality and most especially I wish to underscore it in relation to events. Space and time do not duplicate. No two items can occupy the same space at the same time in the same way.

Thus, if I had a precise knowledge of everything that has occurred on this planet since it was formed, that knowledge would not make it possible for me to predict accurately the very next event that will take place.

This inability to predict with precision makes a mockery of every effort human beings have ever made in enacting legislation or forming constitutions or creating models which will work fairly, justly and harmoniously in the future.

Thus, since positive law (that enacted by politicians) is largely the result of precedence every effort to compel individuals and individual circumstances to coincide with what has gone before, becomes in each case an act of injustice, unfairness and inhumanity. It cannot be otherwise.

This is not only true of the physical world, it is also true of the human world of judgment and value. No two of us will have precisely the same judgment, nor a given time in precisely the same way or at the same level. Universal diversity is the single principle of natural law which man has presently glimpsed and seems capable of grasping. Individuality gives us what is, perhaps, the only reasonably accurate view of infinity.

The principle of human liberty derives from the still more fundamental law of diversity which reigns throughout every kingdom of nature.

The reality of individuality is a fact which causes most of us, until we know better, to be very uneasy. Humans have always wanted to be able to predict, in an effort to approximate prediction (which is the best we can hope for), we put things into categories and groups. So long as categories are loosely drawn some measure of predictability can be found.

We can predict, for example, that if one person without apparent provocation inflicts injury on a second person that the person will be displeased.

What will the second person do as a result of the injury inflicted on him? The full range of human action stretches in all directions. The injured party may do: (a) nothing; (b) flee; (c) cry; (d) seek to warn the aggressor; (e) seek to "get even" with the aggressor; (f) seek to punish the aggressor; (g) seek to kill.

People who make their livings by predicting, i.e., soothsayers, economists, necromancers and divines are rarely accurate and never precise, except by the wildest lucky chance. Of course, if such a professional happens to make a plausible guess he can win fame and fortune if he moves fast before he is found out to be fallible.

Human liberty is constructed of individuality. It can be stifled, suppressed, taxed, regimented and imposed upon. But to destroy a person's liberty altogether, the person must be destroyed. Even a slave has some liberty and will use whatever he has to obtain more.

The person who knows what liberty and individuality are, will find a way to express both.

(Robert LeFevre, a libertarian writer, lives in Orange, Calif.)

Today in history

Today is Thursday, Jan. 7, the seventh day of 1982. There are 358 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On Jan. 7, 1798, the first U.S. presidential election was held.

On this date: In 1584, the Gregorian calendar was adopted by Catholic states of the Holy Roman Empire.

In 1598, Boris Godunov seized the Russian throne following the death of Feodore I.

In 1927, radio-telephone service was opened between New York and London.

And in 1979, Cambodia's Pol Pot regime fell to Vietnamese-backed rebels.

Ten years ago: An Iberia Airlines jet crashed on the Mediterranean island of Ibiza, killing all 104 people aboard.

Five years ago: Czechoslovakia detained at least five intellectuals who had signed a manifesto in support of human rights.

One year ago: The Dow Jones Industrial average dropped 24 points, a day after investment adviser Joseph Granville urged his clients to "sell everything."

Today's birthdays: cartoonist Charles Addams is 70.

Thought for Today: "People generally quarrel because they cannot argue." — Gilbert Chesterton, British writer, 1874-1936.

What did you say?

By ART BUCHWALD

Once again 1981 was a year during which many people said things they wished they hadn't.

For example, how would you like to have been the person in the White House Situation Room who said to Al Haig, "Mr. Secretary, I think you better go upstairs and tell the American people who's in charge?"

Or the official in the Department of Agriculture, who told his superiors, "I think we better stock up on cheese. My people are predicting a shortage."

Or the press aide to David Stockman who said, "Dave, do you have a few minutes to speak to a writer from the Atlantic Monthly?"

What about the reporter who rushed into the office of the editors of the Washington Post and shouted, "Guess what the Carters did, while the Reagans were living in Blair House?"

Or the aide who told Tip O'Neil, "The Republicans control the Senate, but don't forget, you control the House."

Let's not forget the poor chap who told Senator John Warner, "Your wife called, and she has something exciting to tell you."

Or the television executive who said to his wife, "Freddie Silverman, the head of NBC, got me to quit my job and go over to his shop to be his assistant."

And the President's economic adviser who said to Mr. Reagan, "You can announce we're going to balance the budget by 1984."

And the friend of Richard Nixon who said, "Congressman, I would like you to meet Paula Parkinson. She's a very

We almost forgot the agricultural expert who told Governor Jerry Brown, "I can get you a good buy on sterile Mediterranean fruit flies."

And the toy manufacturer who said to Erno Rubik, "Whoever heard of anyone paying money for a colored plastic cube?"

As well as Giscard d'Estaing's political adviser: "The French will never vote for a Socialist supported by the Communists. The best way to beat Mitterrand is to ignore him."

And the priest who said to Cardinal Cody of Chicago, "Have you ever thought of buying a hideaway house in Florida?"

Or the friend of Governor Carey's new wife who told her, "Tell him you've been married twice. He'll never find out about the third one."

Not to mention the Japanese friend of Richard Allen who said to him on Inauguration Day, "Dick, can you do me a small favor?"

And the Middle East expert in the State Department who told the President, "If we sign a defense pact with Israel, Begin can't do anything without first consulting us."

Or the chairman of the Mobil Oil Company who called up the chairman

Officials say mass deportation of Mexican aliens not planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — An estimated 100,000 aliens living in the United States under a special program — most of them Mexicans — are being asked to report to immigration offices because it has been determined they are ineligible for permanent resident status, says the State Department.

But no mass deportations are planned and the affected aliens are not being rounded up, the State Department said Wednesday.

Although Mexican authorities reportedly are displeased with the U.S. decision, the Mexican embassy here issued a statement denying reports that Ambassador Hugo Margain is being recalled to Mexico City in protest.

Florencio Acosta Burgunder, the third-ranking member of Margain's staff, said the ambassador is going to Mexico City next week "but not on this matter. He goes about once a fortnight, and he has plenty of other business to discuss there."

Margain met Wednesday with Diego Ascencio, assistant U.S. secretary of state for consular affairs, to discuss the issue.

The affected aliens had been given temporary permits to remain in the United States because of a 1977 federal court decision requiring the State Department to make available 144,999 visas to applicants from Western Hemisphere nations.

That many visas had been assigned improperly to Cuban refugees in the late 1960s and early 1970s, the court found, so the extra visas should be granted to make up for the discrimination.

The court ordered that Latin Americans who had filed visa applications between July 1968 and December 1976 should be granted the chance to obtain them.

TERRORIST CHECKPOINT. Italian police, armed with automatic weapons, stop automobile traffic at Florenzuola, in northern Italy, Wednesday, in a search for Red Brigades terrorists. Anonymous telephone

Allen's exit was a lengthy one

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was the longest exit yet from the Reagan administration.

The fact that Richard V. Allen would leave his post as President Reagan's national security adviser was clear to Reagan's top three aides before Christmas and from then on his departure was just a matter of time, a White House source said.

Even before Christmas, they agreed that his replacement would be William P. Clark, a long-time Reagan associate who has spent a year as deputy secretary of state, said the source, who asked that he not be quoted by name.

But even as he walked into the Oval Office to meet with Reagan Monday, Allen was fighting for reinstatement, he acknowledged later. After all, he reasoned, both the Justice Department and a deputy White House counsel had found no evidence of wrongdoing after investigating a disclosure that Allen had accepted $1,000 from Japanese journalists and three watches from Japanese friends.

In his first year, Reagan weathered several possibly embarrassing personnel problems. The incidents were handled with the speed and efficiency of a guillotine when it became clear the central figures could not work for the administration.

Ernest W. Lefever, Reagan's choice to be assistant secretary of state for human rights, withdrew his nomination soon after the Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted against him, deciding quickly not to press for approval by the full Senate.

Max Hugel, the CIA spy chief, stepped down soon after The Washington Post reported that he had supplied two Wall Street stock brokers with advance inside information about a firm he once headed.

Army Maj. Gen. Robert L. Schweitzer was removed from his post as the top military officer on the National Security Council staff after saying in a speech that the "Soviets are on the move. They are going to strike." Reagan said he disagreed with that statement.

So, Reagan has shown that he can act quickly to cut off someone who could become a political liability. But Allen presented difficulties.

For one thing, he made it clear he had no intention of resigning.

Allen also had an ally in Edwin Meese III, Reagan counselor and by some accounts the most influential member of the White House staff.

Meese showed a reluctance to give up on Allen well after the other members of the top trio, chief of staff James A. Baker III and deputy chief of staff Michael K. Deaver, had decided Allen was through.

Meese also may have been reluctant because the increased authority given Clark, compared with Allen's role, means "a diminished role for Meese," the official said.

Who will speak at big fund raiser is a major question

By DAVID ESPRO
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The embossed "invitation" to the $1,000 fund-raiser says Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. will speak on foreign policy.

But the State Department says he will not.

The invitation — sent out by five conservative fund-raising groups — also says Treasury Secretary Donald Regan will speak on the economy, although an asterisk serves notice that he is merely "invited, but not confirmed."

Treasury Department says Regan has no plans to attend. Nor does outgoing White House political director Lyn Nofziger.

The "Big Three" at the White House — chief of staff James A. Baker III, deputy chief of staff Michael Deaver and counselor Edwin Meese III — also are "invited but not confirmed."

Despite problems with the schedule, sponsors say everything is moving ahead smoothly for the 1982 Conservative Leadership Conference and First Reagan Inaugural Anniversary Ball.

on Jan. 22 in Washington, if so, that could mean $700,000 or more for the war chests of the five organizing groups.

Steve Cran, a spokesman for one of them, Americans For Change, says, "It's going to be a big success. It will be worth doing."

The other sponsoring groups are the National Conservative Political Action Committee, Committee for the Survival of a Free Congress, Fund For a Conservative Majority and National Congressional Club.

The event is advertised as a day-long series of briefings involving prominent officials from the administration, Congress and the "New Right." Tickets are $1,000. With a capacity for 400 or 500 persons, the event could yield $400,000 or $500,000 before expenses.

Top off the day with an "First Reagan Inaugural Anniversary Ball," at $150 a ticket. That could mean an additional $300,000.

For anyone who can't make it, but still wants to donate $1,150, there is a line on the reply card to accommodate them.

"This was put together so that major conservative supporters will have an opportunity to get together," Cran said.

When first asked about the event, he said the presence of administration officials on the invitation was important.

But informed several days later that many of those listed had no plans to attend, he said. "It says on the invitation they're not confirmed."

Mother's helper: vegetable tacos

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Getting youngsters to eat their veggies has been a mother's bane for generations.

It can be done. And, if youngsters learn to enjoy vegetables early in life, chances are they will continue the habit of making nutritious foods part of their daily diet.

You can spruce up their eating habits with such current favorites as confetti vegetable tacos, pick-up-sticks salad (which suits their finger-food urges) and fresh broccoli with cheese sauce. An older child can get into the kitchen act and help prepare the tacos.

CONFETTI VEGETABLE TACOS

- 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
- 1 1/2 cups finely chopped carrots
- 1 1/2 cups finely chopped parsnips
- 1 1/2 cups finely chopped celery
- 1 1/2 cups finely chopped, unpared zucchini
- 1/2 head cabbage or lettuce, shredded
- 2 cups (8 ounces) shredded American cheese
- 1 box (5 ounces) prepared taco shells (12 shells)

In large bowl, combine all ingredients except taco shells. Heat taco shells according to package directions. To serve, fill taco shells with chopped vegetables. Spoon hot Taco Tomato Topping* over each. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 12 tacos.

*Taco Tomato Topping

- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 2 teaspoons flour
- 3 ripe tomatoes, chopped
- 2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon chili powder

In saucepan, heat vegetable oil over medium heat; blend in flour. Cook 1 minute, stirring to avoid lumps. Add remaining ingredients. Cover. Cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, 10 minutes. This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 2 cups sauce.

PICK-UP-STICKS SALAD

- 6 carrots
- 6 celery ribs, cleaned and trimmed
- 4 parsnips, pared
- 3 apples, cored,

unpared 1/2 head lettuce, washed, torn into bite-size pieces

Cut carrots, celery, parsnips and apples into 3-inch sticks. Line individual salad plates with lettuce. Toss prepared salad sticks in Orange Salad Dressing*; turn onto serving plates. Pour extra dressing over top. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 servings.

*Orange Salad Dressing

- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1/2 cup fresh orange juice
- 1 tablespoon sugar

Combine all ingredients in small bowl; mix well. Chill.

This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 1 cup dressing.

FRESH BROCCOLI WITH CHEESE SAUCE

- 1 bunch fresh broccoli
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1 cup shredded processed American cheese

Wash broccoli and remove large leaves and tough part of stalks. Separate into flowerets. Place broccoli in large saucepan with 1-inch boiling water. Cover. Cook 10 to 12 minutes, until crisp-tender. Drain.

Meanwhile, melt butter in saucepan over medium heat. Stir in flour and seasonings, blending well. Stir in milk and cook, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and comes to boiling. Add cheese; stir until cheese melts and sauce is smooth. Serve sauce over broccoli. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 servings.

SURVEYS SHOW TIMES CHANGING

WASHINGTON (AP) — What a difference two decades makes, observes the American Council of Life Insurance, reporting on surveys taken in 1962 and again in 1980.

In the earlier poll when 1,000 women were asked by University of Michigan researchers who should make a family's major decisions, including the purchase of life insurance, two in three said the husbands should have the last word.

In the more recent survey fewer than three in 10 of the women interviewed still felt the man of the house should make family decisions.

Dr. Lamb

Avoid it if you can

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My nose is running and my eyes are watering. I look like the wrath of God and feel terrible. I do take antihistamines prescribed by my doctor but they make me sleepy. I'm staying indoors until the hay fever season has passed again and I feel like a hermit. I'm not sure that staying inside is all that much help but at least people won't see me looking like this and dripping all the time.

What is the antihistamine really supposed to do? Would I be better off to take allergy shots? My doctor says it is too late to do any good now. Any suggestions would be appreciated.

DEAR READER — Since this is the ragweed season it is a good probability that you are allergic to ragweed. If so, you might be better off to take a trip to the Pacific Northwest where ragweed pollen is less abundant. Or if you want to do it right, go to Europe, which is relatively free of ragweed. Such a trip points out one of the best treatments of all for an allergy — avoid what you are allergic to.

Shutting up the house does help some. You may need to take more precautions than you have. Window air conditioners are not very effective in removing pollen. The Health Letter number 8-4, Hay Fever (Allergic Rhinitis), gives you more details about what you can do to your house to help solve the problem.

Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

When you are allergic to a substance, your body forms a special form of globulin, called immunoglobulin E (IgE). You inherit the tendency to form this type of globulin. It attaches to your cells in the nose and sensitizes these cells to the allergic substance. The next time you come in contact with the substance, the IgE in the cell reacts with the allergic substance. The cells form histamine. Your body reacts to the histamine, producing the symptoms you have. Antihistamines help to neutralize that histamine reaction.

Desensitization programs are often very helpful. But you have to know what you are allergic to and begin the process well in advance of the season for the allergin. You should have had desensitization several months ago.

DEAR DR. LAMB — About three years ago I tried to kill myself with carbon monoxide from the exhaust of my car. Obviously I didn't succeed, but some brain damage occurred which caused a complete loss of memory. Since then my memory has improved about 50 percent but it is not back to normal. Before this happened I had a photographic memory and a college education. According to my understanding, brain cells don't reproduce. I was wondering if you could tell me if I will have a complete recovery. If so how long will it take?

DEAR READER — You need to know the truth. The greatest improvement you can expect occurs within two years after such an incident. Carbon monoxide toxicity is similar to acute lack of oxygen because the carbon monoxide binds the hemoglobin in your blood so it can't carry oxygen.

That doesn't mean you can't improve your memory.

A lump of sugar in the dish prevents cheese from becoming mouldy and hard.

Dear Abby

Eager 'Family Man' no bargain husband

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The man who has been telling me for eight months that he loves me told me last night that he is marrying someone else! He says he doesn't think any more of this woman than he does of me, but he's 33 and wants a family. This girl has agreed to sign a "contract" drawn up by a lawyer stating that if she doesn't conceive within a year, she will agree to an uncontested divorce so he can marry someone else. She also agreed that he may commit adultery while he is away from home (he is a truck driver). He asked me if I thought he was crazy, and I said yes. Abby, what kind of man would ask a woman to sign such an agreement? And what kind of woman would sign it? I am interested in knowing your views.

IT HAPPENED IN OCALA, FLA.

DEAR IT: Any man who can get a woman to sign such an agreement is the world's greatest salesman. And any woman who would sign it should have her head examined.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is in the retail business, and I'm here every day helping him. A man comes into our store regularly and stinks up the place with a cigar. Every time I see this man coming with his cigar, I want to run out of the place. Should I say something to him about it or not?

ABE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Is the man buying or selling?

DEAR ABBY: The letter suggesting that warning labels be placed on peanut butter jars because a 2½-year-old child tragically choked on peanut butter prompts this letter. I am an old emergency room nurse who has seen many children with obstructed air passages. Total lack of oxygen will usually cause brain death within four to six minutes, long before medical attention is available.

Abby, if we put warning labels on peanut butter jars, why not on gumball machines, dog kibble, teething biscuits, bottle caps, as well as the Thanksgiving turkey? (How many people pay attention to the warning labels on cigarettes?)

I think a better solution would be for parents to take a course in C.P.R. It includes instructions on clearing the obstructed air passages in infants and children. The course is offered free by the American Red Cross and the Heart Association, and it takes only a few hours.

A choking child needs immediate help, and the 10 or 12 minutes it may take before the paramedics arrive, or to get the child to a doctor, is already too much time.

KAREN SIMONDS, R.N.

DEAR KAREN: It's true, youngsters (and adults, too) can choke on a variety of foods, but because of its consistency, peanut butter is difficult to swallow and has a tendency to lodge in one's throat. However, suggesting a course in C.P.R. is appropriate. I've recommended it in this space before, but it's time for a reminder.

Everybody needs friends. For some practical tips on how to be popular, get Abby's Popularity booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed stamped (37 cents) envelope to Abby, Popularity, 12060 Hawthorne Blvd., Suite 5000, Hawthorne, Calif. 90250.

James Michener considers book on Texas for 1986

Pulitzer Prize-winning author James A. Michener decided to go through with a proposal by Governor Bill Clements and write a book about Texas to coincide with the Sesquicentennial, say sources in the governor's office.

Michener, who resides in Maryland, was a guest of Clements in Austin during August in order for the governor to "stimulate his interest in writing the book." The novel will probably be entitled "Texas" and will be of the same rich scope as some of Michener's other famous novels, including Hawaii and Centennial.

Michener, now seventy-four, has averaged nearly a best-seller yearly since his prize-winning Tales of the South Pacific was published in 1947. He is no stranger to politics either, having served as a delegate to Pennsylvania's constitutional convention in 1969 and later as chairman of an implementation commission for that state's new basic charter.

During his visit to Austin Michener made a brief appearance before the Texas Senate, commenting on his past involvement in state politics, and toured the University of Texas campus. He also visited the Texas State Library and Archives and met with Texas State Librarian and Sesquicentennial Commissioner Dr. Dorman Winfrey.

Michener has ties to Austin and UT, having donated his multi-million dollar modern art collection to the university several years ago. The collection is now housed in the Michener Gallery of the Harry Ransom Center on the UT campus.

Michener told state senators he found the state's position in the nation "fascinating." "You're right on the firing line," he said, pointing to Texas' pivotal role in the changing political axis of the nation, the economic migration to the Sun Belt, and the other factor making Texas a threshold state.

The author plans to move to Austin in October of 1982 to begin research on the project and intends to utilize the libraries and staff of the University of Texas and the Texas State Library and Archives Commission. He has already submitted to Clements a rough outline for a 12-chapter book, but the governor would not elaborate on its contents.

Clements said the book will be Michener's own endeavor, if undertaken, and not be underwritten by the state government. Sales during the Sesquicentennial celebration will be enough to justify the effort Clements indicated.

In the top photo she duplicated her time, the fastest for the fall meet at Sunland, to win the Savannah Swinger Distance Series 2.

Exchanging merchandise is a customer service

By Mark White
AUSTIN — Once the Christmas season passed consumers often are faced with the returning or exchanging of gifts.

Although most consumers expect to be able to return or exchange their gifts with little or no problems, this may not always be the case. Most merchants will accept an exchange of merchandise, as a form of customer service, but stores are not legally required to exchange merchandise, refund money or give the customer a store credit on their purchase, unless the item is not as represented or the item is found to be defective.

It is recommended that before a consumer makes a purchase, especially one that entails a large sum of money, they inquire about the store's "refund and exchange" policies on gift purchased. All merchants have their own return or exchange policies, and consumers may find some merchants are more restrictive in their policies than other merchants which they have dealt with in the past.

When purchasing items such as swimsuits, undergarments or intimate apparel, the consumer should be especially certain that the correct size is purchased. For the protection of the purchaser, these items are all sold on an "All Sales Final" basis and are not returnable or exchangeable.

Consumers may avoid problems or delays in seeking refunds by following these recommendations:

- Return goods in their original packages.
- Take all your sales or charge receipts, price labels and tags with you.
- Return items to the department where it was purchased or to the service desk designated for refunds.
- Explain your reason for returning merchandise.

In the event that the problem can not be satisfactorily resolved and you feel an adjustment is due, contact your local Better Business Bureau and Attorney General's Office.

Race Horse addiction pays off for Pampa man

BY CINDA ROBINSON
Lifestyles Editor & Race Horse Owner

It is hard to explain to a person who has never owned a race horse, what drives a human to own, promote, breed and train a four-legged, uncooperative beast to race in front of the pack, just to be the first one across the finish line.

It is definitely a case of compulsive gambling in advanced stages. There is such an afflicted man in Pampa, L. G. Clifton, owner of Clifton Equipment Co., and more important to him, Three C Racing Stable.

Clifton has been in the oilfield equipment business for 11 years and in the race horse business for 15 years. Horses are his passion. 1981 was the year for the Three C Racing Stable in the form of a four-year-old Special Secret mare named Native Gypsy. As a three-year-old, she won over $11,000 dollars. As a four-year-old, she more than doubled that amount.

Native Gypsy won all three Sunland Park races this fall including the Savannah Swinger Series No. 2 and 3. Twice winning 400-yard dashes, she zipped to 19.50 readings, fastest time for that distance this fall.

Native Gypsy was named best older quarter horse and best handicap quarter horse at Sunland Park in New Mexico.

Native Gypsy is trained by Bob Arnett and ridden by Richard Bickel.

"We sent her (Native Gypsy) to Los Alamitos to run. She did okay there, but we're bringing her back to Sunland to prepare for the spring meet. We plan on running her some at Ruidoso this spring, too. Our big race coming up in 1982 is the World Championship Quarter Horse Classic with an estimated purse of $200,000. The finals will be Aug. 1 at Ruidoso Downs," Clifton said.

When asked about his racing team, Clifton said, "Sure I'm going to stick with Arnett (trainer) and Bickel (jockey)."

Native Gypsy is not the only running horse from the Pampa-based Three C Stable. Clifton said, "We have 15 horses here in training. We have three 2-year-olds that will run this year. There are two Tiny's Gay (World Champion, deceased) colts entered in the All American Futurity (in Ruidoso). We have another colt, Loom's Bolero, entered in the Riley Allison Futurity to run in April at Sunland Park. We also have one of the Tiny's Gay colts entered in the Poor Boy Futurity in March at Enid."

The Three C Racing Stable also has eight head in training with Bob Arnett in Sunland Park.

Another 5-year-old handicap horse, Mito's Endeavor, out of Mito Paint, is an 870 horse who has been running at Los Alamitos. He will soon be returning to Sunland for the 1982 meet.

So what makes a man want a race horse? Winning — it's the ultimate high.

Town determined to regain identity

By ADRIENNE E. LYONS
Beaumont Enterprise & Journal
WALLISVILLE, Texas (AP) — It's difficult to find this tiny community hidden behind the clumps of trees and bushes that dot the south side of Interstate 10.

Part of the reason is that there's not much left of Wallisville these days. From a thriving community in 1966, Wallisville today is little more than a barren no-man's land, consisting mostly of a swampy marshland and an abundance of cypress trees.

But Wallisville does exist, and folks there are determined to let the world know it, or at least remind them. There is, for example, a post office, a few houses scattered near the highway and some old ruins.

There is also the office of the Wallisville Heritage Park, a nonprofit foundation dedicated, among other things, to putting Wallisville back on the map. Any map, that is, because technically the town doesn't belong to the State of Texas.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers condemned Wallisville, about 10 miles west of Anahuac, in preparation for the construction of a reservoir. The construction came to a halt in 1973 when the Corps' plan was found to be environmentally unsound. So for eight years the town has been the property of the U.S. government, and as such has been nearly uninhabited.

The driving force behind the project is lawyer John Middleton, who provides 90 percent of Heritage Park's financing.

"I'm doing it because of my love for history and because of my appreciation for what my forefathers did," he said.

The Heritage Park's main goal is to rebuild the old Wallisville courthouse, jail and hanging tower, all constructed more than a century ago. A secondary project is to reconstruct the prehistoric El Orequisac Archeological District, located on the north side of Interstate 10. At various times the site was an Indian settlement, a French trading post and a Spanish mission.

The project has been both helped and hampered by the efforts of the Corps. When the townsite was condemned in the 1960s, the Corps took over more than 19,000 acres of land to be developed into the Wallisville Reservoir. The reservoir was 75 percent complete in 1973, when various environmental groups, including the Sierra Club, declared the Corps' plan violated the Environmental Policy Act because it would have locked marine life out of the river delta.

A federal court upheld the environmentalists' claim, forcing the Corps to devise a new environmental impact study. That study is awaiting final approval by Corps officials and eventually Congress.

If approval is granted, the townsite and archeological district probably will be leased to the Heritage Park. And when that happens, Middleton expects the project's funding to be based on endowments.

The Corps' plans have been drastically reduced by the new study. From the original 19,000 acres, the reservoir will now only cover about 5,000 acres.

It will cost the federal government an estimated $28.5 million to complete the reservoir and about $23 million has been spent already. As Middleton said, "If it's projected into 1981 dollars, it's astronomical. It'll probably cost more to build it at a reduced size than the original size, because of inflation."

And while Corps officials say they cannot estimate how much damage has been done to the area during the eight intervening years since the project was halted, they will say the lock structure has been hurt the most.

Despite this, they insist benefits will abound once the reservoir is completed. It will provide for continued use of the navigation channel to maintain existing traffic and will provide salinity control, particularly for rice crops that now rely on the salty Trinity for irrigation.

The Corps also says increased water supply storage will make an additional 140 million gallons a day available when the reservoir is operated in conjunction with Lake Livingston. Despite the increase, local water users will pay less for it than an equivalent increase from another source.

Unfortunately, there will be a heavy price for such benefits. The reservoir could destroy a 3,000-acre forest of cypress trees. But Corps officials believe that keeping the pool elevation at only two feet will reduce the shock to the trees. That elevation will be raised to four feet when the extra water is needed.

Furthermore, there will be an annual $989,000 loss to the marine fisheries industry, a loss that cannot be recouped. But Corps officials like to point out that the new, environmentally conscious plan also will enhance fish and wildlife reserves.

"We had an opportunity to preserve what we had left and make something positive out of a negative thing, the Corps had started," Middleton said.

Ag officials claim boll weevil knowledge

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — When it comes to fighting boll weevils, the Agriculture Department says it knows a thing or two about those legendary cotton pests and how best to cope with them.

Harry C. Mussman, administrator of the department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, took issue with a critical report last summer by a National Research Council committee.

Since they invaded the United States in the late 1800s, boll weevils have been a costly enemy of cotton farmers from the High Plains of Texas to the Atlantic Seaboard.

Annual losses have ranged from 7 percent to 9 percent of the U.S. cotton crop in recent years. That's a hefty dip into a harvest that has a farm value of about $5 billion annually. Moreover, farmers spend about $300 million a year on insecticides to control the pests.

In its report last August, the committee said the department's program to eradicate or keep boll weevils in check in test areas of Virginia and North Carolina did not prove successful enough to warrant expansion into a national program across the entire Cotton Belt.

Instead, the committee said efforts should be concentrated on "integrated pest management" programs that combine insecticides, short-season and insect-resistant strains of cotton, and natural insect predators to combat cotton pests.

Mussman said the committee's recommendation was based on "two key areas of disagreement" with his agency's approach.

Those included the use of sterile boll weevils for reducing the number of natural pests and the actual rate of eradication of weevils in the trial area.

In both cases, Mussman said, department scientists confirmed that the procedures were effective.

Further, he said, evidence suggests "rather clearly that singling out only one or two options" for boll weevil control on a large scale under all circumstances "would be impracticable and unwise."

Mussman's remarks were in a speech prepared for delivery to a cotton research conference in Las Vegas, Nev. Copies of his talk were distributed here by the department.

"It seems to us that a great number of factors come into play when considering the feasibility or advisability of initiating a cotton insect control program for a given area," Mussman said.

"Even so, we believe the technology for suppression and/or eradication of the boll weevil is available, and continuing research will improve our knowledge."

In an "optimum pest management" test in Mississippi, techniques were used to keep weevil populations down enough so they would not cause significant economic losses.

The project in North Carolina and Virginia was aimed at the eradication of boll weevils and proved they could be eliminated by using existing technology, including trapping, the use of sterile insects and selective applications of chemical pesticides, Mussman said.

"USDA holds the view that the future of cotton insect management is in the hands of the producers and the industry," Mussman said. "Only they can determine what is best or most applicable under different sets of circumstances."

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's still double-digit, but the interest rate farmers pay on government crop price support loans has come down a notch.

Agriculture Department officials said Tuesday the interest rate on loans made in January will be reduced for the first time in nine months.

The rate will be 12.25 percent, compared to the 14.5 percent which had been in effect since April 1.

Everett Rank, executive vice president of the Commodity Credit Corporation said the reduced rate also applies to outstanding 1981 crop loans made before Jan. 1.

In NFC title game

Injured Dutton may play

DALLAS (AP) — No Dallas Cowboy has a more vested interest in John Dutton's health than Ed "Too Tall" Jones.

Jones was named to The Associated Press All-Pro second team this week and one of the primary reasons was the big guy lined up next to him.

"We've got to have John Sunday against San Francisco," said Jones. "He's been making my life a lot easier this season."

Jones, who lines up at left defensive end, and Dutton, the left defensive tackle, have a primary responsibility of stopping the run in Dallas Coach Tom Landry's Flex Defense.

But their pass defense has bordered on the spectacular this year. Jones has tipped two passes that have turned into interceptions.

In last week's 38-0 NFC divisional playoff victory over Tampa Bay, Dutton tipped a pass that resulted in Jones' first National Football League interception.

Dutton showed up at the practice field Wednesday with a swollen right thigh which doctors believe was caused by a broken blood vessel.

Team doctors think Dutton will be able to play in the NFC title game at San Francisco Sunday with proper treatment during the week.

"I woke up at 5 a.m. and it hurt like heck," said Dutton. "It was pretty nasty. Not only could I not run I couldn't even drive a car. I just crawled into the backseat and Ginny (his wife) brought me to practice."

Dutton and the team doctors believe the blood vessel was weakened by a leg whip Dutton received from Buffalo's Conrad Dobler several months ago.

Dutton, who was severely bruised, started the next game but only played a few downs before he had to come out.

Teammates walked by Dutton's locker and shook their heads at the bandages encasing his right leg.

"Fix it... I don't care what you have to do but fix it," said strong safety Charlie Waters. "We've got to have you in the game."

Dutton has been having his best year for the Cowboys since he was brought to Dallas three years ago from Baltimore for two high draft choices.

"Things have been going well for me," said Dutton.

Area basketball roundup

PHILLIPS—Jody Wood tossed in 21 points as Panhandle slipped past Phillips, 45-43, in high school basketball action Tuesday night.

Wood had one more point than Phillips' Kyle Lynch.

Kevin Brown added nine points for Panhandle.

Phillips overpowered Panhandle, 65-29, in the girls' game.

Phillips was led by Corina Woods and Sharra Bush with 16 points apiece. Sheryl Sherwood led Panhandle with seven.

CANADIAN—Lee Young scored 24 points to lead Canadian past Booker, 47-34, in prep basketball action Tuesday night.

Canadian led at the half, 23-18, and pulled away to a 13-point lead in the third quarter.

Guy Morrow added eight points for Canadian Jimmy Wilmoth and Gary Mills had 14 points apiece for Booker.

In the girls' game, Canadian won a 50-41 verdict behind 16 points by Stephanie Mitchell and nine points by Mary Alice Parnell.

Guy led Booker with 17 points.

SILVERTON—Silverton came from behind in the second half to nip Groom, 54-53, Tuesday night.

Groom had led by three, 33-30, at halftime.

Kelly McMurry scored 25 points to lead the Silverton attack.

Tracy Britten led Groom with 15 points. Rodney Bohr, Michael Fraizer and B.J. McKnight added 10 points apiece.

Groom girls also lost a close one, 41-38, after leading by nine points going into the final quarter.

Katy Francis was Silverton's top scorer with 16 points.

Jennifer Treadwell, Kimberly Thompson and Kathleen Koetting led Groom with six points apiece.

WHITE DEER—White Deer toppled Gruver, 51-40, Tuesday night in girls' basketball action.

Kay Ford, Rose Williams and Debbie Cochran all had 12 points apiece for White Deer.

Shapley was high scorer for Gruver with 16 points.

In the boys' game, Garcia scored 25 points including Gruver to a 77-62 win.

Larry Martin led White Deer with 20 points while John Kotara added 17.

Jody Wood scores 21 points in Panhandle's 45-43 win over Phillips.

Houston loses bid for Cotton Bowl

HOUSTON (AP) — The Southwest Conference, whose football champion is the annual host team in the Cotton Bowl, has declined an offer of more money to move the game to Houston.

"We simply felt we were in a position of having something that had been a proven success and we were reluctant to give that up," said Dr. James Castaneda of Rice University, president of the SWC.

"We not only did not want to give that up but also we didn't want to treat the people that are responsible for putting on the Cotton Bowl in a way that would be considered as unappreciative for what they have done for us."

The Greater Houston Bowl Association, which sponsors the annual Bluebonnet Bowl in the Astrodome, offered the SWC $1 million above current revenue to end its long standing association with Dallas.

Six Cowboys land on All-Pro team

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

George Rogers of the New Orleans Saints and Tony Dorsett of the Dallas Cowboys, who finished 1-2 in rushing, and Cincinnati quarterback Ken Anderson, the passing champion, make up the backfield of The Associated Press All-Pro team for the National Football League's 1981 season.

Two rookies also are on the first team — cornerback Ronnie Lott of the San Francisco 49ers and linebacker Lawrence Taylor of the New York Giants.

The Cowboys and 49ers, who play Sunday for the National Conference championship, placed 11 players on The AP's first and second teams announced Tuesday and selected by a nationwide panel of 84 sports writers and broadcasters.

The Dallas players joining Dorsett on the first team are guard Herbert Scott, defensive tackle Randy White and place-kicker Rafael Septien. Tackle Pat Donovan and defensive end Ed "Too Tall" Jones are on the second team.

San Francisco's other first-team representative isn't even on the 49ers' first team. He's defensive end Fred Dean, the pass-rushing specialist. On the second team for the 49ers are quarterback Joe Montana, free safety Dwight Hicks and guard Randy Cross.

The Bengals and San Diego Chargers, competing Sunday for the American Conference crown, have seven players on the All-Pro team.

Along with Anderson, Cincinnati has tackle Anthony Munoz and punter Pat McNally on the first team and rookie Cris Collinsworth on the second team.

For San Diego, the first-team members are tight end Kellen Winslow and defensive tackle Gary "Big Hands" Johnson, while the second-team representative is defensive tackle Louie Kelcher.

The rest of the first-team players are wide receivers James Lofton of Green Bay and Alfred Jenkins of Atlanta, tackle Marvin Powell of the New York Jets, guard John Hannah of New England, center Mike Webster of Pittsburgh, defensive end Joe Klecko of the Jets; nose tackle Charlie Johnson of Philadelphia, linebackers Bob Swenson of Denver and Jack Lambert of the Steelers, safeties Gary Fencik of Chicago and Nolan Cromwell of Los Angeles, cornerback Mel Blount of Pittsburgh and kick-returner LeRoy Irvin of Los Angeles.

Arkansas has easy time with Mustangs

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Tony Brown scored seven points and Scott Hastings added two baskets during a 15-0 Arkansas scoring spree Tuesday night as the Razorbacks defeated Southern Methodist 68-48 in a Southwest Conference game.

Eleventh-ranked Arkansas led 40-34 after eight minutes of the second half when it suddenly exploded. Hastings hit a pair of buckets. Brown scored twice and Keith Peterson drilled a 17-footer to give Arkansas a 50-34 advantage.

A reverse layup by Darrell Walker and a three-point play by Brown off a pass from Walker made it 55-34 with 5:53 remaining.

The Razorbacks, who evened their Southwest Conference record at 1-1 and upped their overall mark to 9-1, were playing at less than peak efficiency.

Regular forward Brad Freiss missed the game because of a thigh bruise suffered late in Tuesday's practice. Hastings and backup center Carey Kelly each were suffering from the flu.

Still, Hastings managed to score 13 points and Peterson led Arkansas with 14 as he hit seven of his eight shots from the floor.

Southern Methodist's Dave Piehler led all scorers with 18 points.

With Brown and Peterson leading the way, Arkansas had a 39-25 rebound advantage. Brown, who finished with 10 points, had nine rebounds, while Peterson had eight.

It was the SWC opener for SMU, which fell to 5-6 overall.

"We worked hard in practice the last two days practicing four times and it took its toll," said Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton. "I was taking a calculated risk the work wouldn't hurt us and we could get by SMU. I was doing some second guessing at halftime."

Arkansas led 28-24 at the half.

Pampa swimmers entered in triangular tonight

Pampa High swimmers will meet Caprock and Palo Duro at 7 p.m. tonight in a triangular at Amarillo's Maverick Club.

Pampa coach Jackie Stephens said her squad is "sore and tired" after putting in grueling two-day workouts since returning from the holiday break.

"We've been looking pretty good," said coach Stephens. "We're hoping we can win this meet. It would really be a boost to our morale."

Both Pampa boys and girls won the triangular last year.

Pampa hosts Lubbock Monterey and Lubbock Coronado in another triangular at 12 noon Saturday at the Pampa Youth and Community Center. It will be the final meet at home for the Harvesters this year.

The District 3-5A meet is set for Feb. 26-27 in Amarillo.

COMIC DELIGHT. Two kids had a field day looking for comic books outside a Santa Cruz, Calif., store Wednesday afternoon after the store was flooded with water and mud following a violent storm over Northern California. When they found the ones they wanted, the pair washed mud from the comic books with a hose. (AP Laserphoto)

Mobil goes its own way, but pays a heavy price

By ROBERT BURNS
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — In the staid ballroom of corporate dance, Mobil Corp. insists on doing the bump.

While most other members of the oil industry are reluctant to raise such sensitive issues as antitrust, Mobil twice in the past six months has pursued in public the acquisition of another oil company — and failed.

And while the loss of its fight with U.S. Steel Corp. for control of Marathon Oil Co. may have scarred Mobil's corporate pride, few analysts who track Mobil foresee any change in the company's aggressive character.

Mobil's acquisitive strategy is based on the theory that it is cheaper to buy a company that owns a large oil field than it is to find and develop the same field.

Mobil is second in size only to Exxon Corp. among American corporations, but no company of any dimension can match Mobil's ability to stand out. It's seen in many circles as unpredictable, self-assured and defiant.

"They are a very, very different company," says Bernard Picchi, who analyzes U.S. oil companies for the investment firm of Salomon Brothers. "Mobil is generally viewed, rightly or wrongly, as being ruthless."

Herbert Schmetz, Mobil's vice president of public affairs, contends that reputation is more a media creation than a reflection of reality. Some analysts believe Mobil cultivates the idea that it is different.

"They seem to take some pride in that image of being a maverick," says Robert Morris, an oil analyst at Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc., an investment company.

The corporation has an aggressive public relations policy. Mobil frequently buys ads on the opinion pages of major newspapers to present its views on issues. Television commercials using a format often described as similar to TV newscasts also present Mobil's position to the public.

Mobil's corporate style, while unique, doesn't always set well with competitors.

Marathon's lack of appreciation of Mobil's taste for takeover theatrics was evident at an oil industry convention in November shortly after Mobil announced its tender offer.

A T-shirt pinned to the wall of Marathon's hotel suite pictured an eagle with a Mobil logo on its forehead, swooping toward a mouse wearing a Marathon "M." The rodent was gesturing obscenely toward the eagle. The caption said: "The last great act of defiance."

Marathon was not the first U.S. oil company to escape Mobil's grasp.

Last summer Mobil lost a three-way fight for Conoco Inc. in the richest takeover battle in history. Du Pont, the chemical giant, eventually won control of Conoco at the cost of $7.8 billion in cash and stock.

Since 1979, Mobil has lost in the bidding for Belridge Oil Co., which was acquired by Shell Oil Co. for $3.6 billion, and Texas Pacific Oil, bought by Sun Co. for $2.3 billion. In 1979 Mobil bought General Crude Oil Co. for $782 million, and in 1980 it acquired Transocean Oil Inc. for $740 million.

George M. Keller, chairman of Standard Oil Co. of California, said last summer that he was "distressed" by Mobil's attempt to buy Conoco, saying such a deal would have made "my industry's life in Washington a hell of a lot worse."

John Deere Portable Alternators

Five models supply 2250 to 6500 watts of power when normal service simply isn't available. They're great for hunters, campers and construction sites. And they can be a big help in an emergency situation. Rubber-isolated mounts reduce vibration. Dolly kit and battery charger available.
