22 KILLED AS WAR RAGES IN ALL OF SPAIN

GOVERNMENT FACES A WELL-ORGANIZED REVOLUTION

By REX SMITH

MADRID, Oct. 5 (AP)—Spain's extremists fulfilled their threat of rebellion against the government today with a nation-wide uprising in which, by nightfall, at least 24 persons had been killed and more than 100 wounded in the nation, but the bloodier fighting in night tonight. Just at twilight the general hospital of Madrid was converted into an emergency ward as extremists captured the institution and opened fire from the windows on authorities outside.

MADRID, Oct. 5.—Batting forces of Spanish extremists, attempting to overthrow the government of Spain, today captured Eibar, the firearms manufacturing center of the nation and the first town that rebelled when the monarchy fell and Spain became a republic.

At least ten men were dead in fighting throughout Spain when the radicals swarmed through the town. Some had been killed in Madrid, the capital of the nation, but the worst fighting was occurring in the general area of Catalonia where various villages were reported under the domination of anarchists, communists, and socialists.

Red flags waved from some of the city halls.

It was reported that the attackers were red socialist armbands and used army types of guns.

At the Eibar gun manufacturing center, one extremist was killed and ten wounded in an attempted assault on the arm plant.

The government dispatched an airplane squadron to Asturias, which is considered one of the extremists' strongholds following the recent discovery of an armed plot there. The airplane was to be used not only for reconnaissance but for attack on extremist gatherings.

Red Flag Waves
In two small towns in Catalonia the red flag of communism was raised but both places were captured by an assault by the civil guards, and the extremists fled.

At Salien, several were wounded as the guards expelled extremists.

An unconfirmed report in Madrid was that Gen. Francisco Franco was holding an airplane in readiness for immediate departure to Catalonia should the situation there grow worse.

As the guards changed shift at the national palace, extremists attacked and a lengthy gunbattle resulted. Several men were wounded.

Ten postoffice officials were arrested for agitating a strike of postal employees.

Socialists made several assaults on food stores in extremists' centers in Madrid.

International telephone communication was difficult because the main international trunk line was cut at the relay station of Mallen, north of Zaragoza, when extremists captured the town. Only a single line remained open to London.

Two bombs exploded in the plaza San Miguel of Madrid near the homes of the populist leaders, Manuel Carrillo and Miguel Perez. No one was hurt but the property damage was considerable.

Police captured one of the participants in the night's attack on the Montana barracks. He declared he was a socialist and had been sent there with about 30 men to fight with machine guns. He said that none of the detachment knew how to operate the guns, however, and two of the men had wounded themselves as a result.

In Segovia, street car tracks were torn up and barricades were erected by extremists. Guards wrecked the barricades, however, and dispersed the demonstrators.

Premier Lerroux declared: "We are facing a well organized revolution and are ready to take all measures against it."

President Alcalá Zamora declared martial law in the province of Asturias and a nation-wide decree of martial law was prepared for promulgation at any moment.

Republic Declared
In the Catalonian city of Sabadell, anarcho-syndicalists declared Catalonia a republic.

Radicals were reported assembling in the mountains of Asturias to gather fighting equipment from caches already established there by their leaders.

The capture of Eibar was regarded as a feat which might add vastly to the fighting equipment of the extremists.

Except for its firearms manufacturing, Eibar is virtually unknown.

Those with a flair for statistics might figure out how much it costs American business for workers and bosses to listen to the world series.

And, if you must be technical, add to that the sum represented by time taken out to discuss the Lindbergh case.

Yet nothing will compare with the loss suffered by the millions of unemployed, to whom time is nothing except opportunity to worry and wait.

The greatest waste of all is war. Nothing else compares with it. Waste incident to economic maladjustments must not be overlooked.

We used to refer to a drought as waste, in the sense that it is waste, in that it is inequitable as to sections and makes relief necessary. Orderly drought could be called reduction of supply to demand; i. e., crop curtailment.

Musings of the moment: Several cases of infantile paralysis in this area give no special cause for alarm but should warn everyone to take all steps possible to halt spread of the disease. The paralysis has no alarming symptoms by which it can be easily diagnosed. It is usually preceded by several days of fever, with possibly a slight ache along the spine. It may go unnoticed unless parents are watchful. After a few days of fever, paralysis may follow. This may be slight or extensive, temporary or permanent. Paralyzed parts should be kept as still as possible and a physician summoned at once. In case of doubt, call a physician.

Brevitorials

SWAPPING CAUTIOUS generalities with W. W. (Bill) Gibson of Amarillo, we learn that the Sandies are considered generally to be lacking in the dash and ability of other harvesters. "That's B's story and he says he will stick by it."

The big ones didn't get away from Carmen Howard, above, when he went to Arkansas on a fishing trip. He is shown with two giant catfish which he caught on a hook in the White River. Even the natives admitted they were big fish for a greenhorn plainsman to catch. The biggest of the two fish he is holding was over three feet long, and looked like a pair of giant fish. Carmen, formerly played center on the Harvester football team. He recently spent two weeks in Arkansas fishing.

After hearing our tale of woe about Harvester injuries and greenness, he looked about as skeptical as we felt about the Sandies. Neither was fooled and the parting was amicable.

IT IS A FACT, however, that Lubbock is by far the best looking school of the three at this time. The Westerners got away to an early season, thanks to the coaching school in which they were used to illustrate grid points. They have enough veterans to take up where they left off in spring training. On paper it looks as if they could "take" both the Harvesters and Sandies by a touchdown or two.

ACTUALLY, OF course, there is no way of judging due to the Pampa-Lubbock-Amarillo Triangle Coaches and players "save themselves" for these crucial contests. Players fail to generate offensive steam in early season games. Pampa and Amarillo scores are smaller than usual this year. Listless playing, however, is no indication of what these same lads will do when they meet each other. Amarillo will be the boys feel that way about it. The Westerners, crowded out of their former rank by Pampa, will

Defense In 'American Tragedy' Trial Rests Abruptly

PARENTS ARE PITEOUS PAIR DURING PROBE

MOTHER'S TREMBLING LIPS HARD TO CONTROL

By LEO W. SHERIDAN
Associated Press Staff Writer
WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 5 (AP)—The defense in the trial of Robert Allen Edwards rested abruptly at noon today.

The state closed its rebuttal a few minutes later after calling one rebuttal witness, County Detective Richard Powell, who testified Edwards asked to be returned to the state police barracks from the county jail.

A subdued note, pathetic in contrast with the emotional turmoil of yesterday was struck today in the trial of Edwards, 21-year-old maverick survivor when the youth's mother and father came to his defense before a Luzerne county court jury.

Edwards, pale and harassed from his long cross examination and the "experience" of hearing his love letters to the "other girl" read to the public, furtively wiped his eyes as his mother testified in trembling voice to the early life of "Bobby."

The flaming love letters written by Edwards to Miss Margaret Crain, East Aurora, N. Y., music teacher, were termed by Edwards, Sr., the cutpurse of a boy in the throes of "puppy love."

"I shall stand by him," gruffly stated the father.

The young engineer's long cross examination was completed quickly today as the prosecution sought to end the story of the death of Freda McKechnie at Harvey's lake July 31 in a realistic "American Tragedy" setting. Edwards is charged with bearing her to death as they swam together at night.

Mrs. Edwards, in a dark blue coat and small white hat, spoke unflinchingly and held her handkerchief to her mouth to hide the trembling of her lips. She was on the stand less than three minutes.

The father, who yesterday stumbled from the court room as his wife's love letters were read to an avid, titillating crowd, gave his son a reassuring look as he took the stand. He testified less than two minutes and over his accustomed seat behind Robert.

It was expected the case might go to the jury late today after the defense concluded with its character witness, Herbert Crum Endicott, N. Y., school superintendent, is expected to testify also. Miss Crain, the "other girl" is employed in the Endicott schools.

From a reliable source it was learned that Miss Crain refused several appeals by the defense to come here and testify in Edwards' defense. Requests were made over long distance telephone by Frank McGuigan, chief of defense counsel. Edwards was pale and scowling when his cross examination was resumed this morning, worn from the emotional strain of hearing his love secrets bared.

EES Needs Teachers, Pupils

Five More Teachers Needed; 200 Subjects Available to Possible Students

Both teachers and pupils are needed in the Emergency Education School which reopened this week in the high school building, Supt. R. R. Fisher said after a recent conference with Mr. Darnell, state supervisor of the EES.

Some 200 subjects are available at the demand of pupils, and a nursery school may also be maintained. Only five teachers are employed here now, but that many more are wanted. If eight teachers are secured a supervisor may also be employed.

HARD WINTER AHEAD THINKS OLD TASCOSAN

'I Feel It In My Bones,' She Says, 'We're Certain For a Tough Winter.'

AMARILLO, Oct. 5 (AP)—Mark Twain's statement about the weather has been contested.

When the famous humorist said, in substance, "everybody talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it," he evidently had not dreamed of such a weather control project as the proposed tree-belt across the nation from Canada to the Texas Panhandle, and he probably didn't guess that in 1934 people of the southwest would prepare in advance for a severe winter.

Even mesquite trees sending a long, hard winter, have put on a second crop of beans. Squirrels and rats have joined in "doing something about it" by storing grain, nuts and other food for winter.

A second crop of mesquite beans and action of rodents in storing early to store food are among the sure signs of an impending long and hard winter, old-timers of the plains country declared.

There are other signs, too, and all of them indicate blizzards that will be referred to long in the future. Mrs. Mickey McCormick, 80, only survivor of the gun-running days at old Tascosa, stepped to the door of her rambling "dobe" glanced at the hazy horizon with observing eyes and verified the forecast.

"I feel it in my bones," Mrs. McCormick reported. "We're certain for a tough winter, one with blue northers and snow storms like we used to have. It's going to get cold early and stay cold late."

However, the fact that thousands of acres of land in the middle and southern states have been denuded has not led government observers to forecast a severe winter.

Cary Grant Is Given Treatment For Alcoholism

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Oct. 5 (AP)—Cary Grant, movie actor whose domestic difficulties with Virginia Cherrill, actress, were made public a few days ago, was treated for alcoholism early today by emergency doctors who had responded to a call that he had been poisoned.

When receiving hospital physicians arrived they said he told them he had taken a tablet of poison. A phial of poison tablets was found on a table nearby.

After his stomach had been pumped, sheriff's deputies found that the phial of tablets had not been opened, and the actor told the officers that he had been drinking heavily because he had been despondent.

Miss Cherrill rushed to his apartment, but when she found that he had not been poisoned, she turned on her heel, saying:

"If you want me you know where to reach me," and she went back to her mother.

Grant who at one time was leading man for Mae West, has had a marked success since coming to the films. He signed a new five-year contract at double his present salary with his studio last week.

He and Miss Cherrill were married last February 9.

Early this week Grant announced he hoped to patch up his troubles with his estranged wife.

Smaller Brother Is Ill of Dreaded Disease

The first death from infantile paralysis in this area was reported last night when Robert Jackson Burba, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Burba, died at 7 o'clock at the home of his parents, one the Merced community. He had been ill only four days. A smaller brother is ill of the dreaded malady.

Robert was a student in the Junior high school here. He moved to Pampa from Berger six years ago with his parents. Mr. Burba is with the Gulf Production company here. Robert was a member of the Amador Baptist church. Before his school hours, he handled the delivery of Fort Worth papers in the Merced community.

Besides his parents, Robert is survived by three sisters, Frances, Mary Elta, and Linda Mae, and two brothers, J. L. Jr. and Oran Dee.

Funeral services were to be conducted at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the chapel of the Pampa Mortuary with the Rev. C. E. Lancaster, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating. Burial was to follow in Fairview cemetery.

Chris B. Martin Loses Brief Case

Chris B. Martin, manager of the Jarecki Manufacturing company here, reported the loss of a brief case to the city officers last night. Mr. Martin said the case had been stolen from his car while it was parked across the street from the Schneider hotel.

The case, a zipper type, contained price lists of oilfield equipment, discount sheets and other papers of no use to anyone else. If anyone finds the case they are asked to return it to Mr. Martin at his office on West Brown street. He will pay a reward.

Woolley Suffers Broken Arm and Other Injuries

C. L. Woolley, of the Cabot company here, is in Worley hospital, where he was brought from Panhandle last night after receiving treatment for injuries received in an automobile accident yesterday afternoon. R. C. Rogers, auditor for a Dallas accounting firm, was less seriously injured and was able to leave the hospital.

The two men were returning from Berger and were driving on the short cut between Panhandle and White Deer when the accident happened. According to Mr. Woolley, they were approaching a narrow bridge when a large truck pulled onto the bridge and there was not room for the two vehicles to pass. Mr. Woolley, to save crashing into the truck, turned his car into the ditch.

The car turned over on its radiator and crashed into an embankment. Mr. Woolley received a broken arm, severe body bruises, and cuts about the face and head. Mr. Rogers was severely bruised but received no broken bones.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-lesson is the following from the Bible: "Beloved, follow not that which is evil, but that which is good" (III John 1:11).
The lesson-lesson includes also the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christian Science brings to light truth and its supremacy, universal harmony, the entireness of God, good, and the nothingness of evil" (page 293).

FOR HOURS HE IS EXAMINED BY ATTORNEY

ADMITS HITTING HER WITH BLACKJACK ON LAKE

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 5 (AP)—Robert Allen Edwards returned to the witness stand today to defend his story that the death of Freda McKechnie was an accident, not an "American tragedy" murder.

Almost until midnight last night Edwards withstood the attack of District Attorney Thomas M. Lewis, who seeks to send him to the electric chair. The youthful coal surveyor met the shouted questions with quiet answers.

"I'd have told the truth if I had killed Freda."

That was Edwards' plea near the close of the hours of grueling cross examination.

Edwards admitted that he struck the prospective mother with a blackjack in the lightning of the night of July 30, while they were bathing at Harvey's lake near his home.

"Freda was dead when I hit her."

Face pale, eyes bloodshot, the coal town "dude" slumped over in the witness chair as he parried the state attorney's thrusts in retracing the story of the girl's death.

Edwards protested that she fell while clambering into a boat and, fearing he would be blamed, he struck the girl with the blackjack "to make it appear as an accident."

Lewis contrasted his relations with the hometown girl against his love letters to Margaret Crain, music teacher at East Aurora, N. Y., whom he had met at college.

"What," asked the prosecutor, "did you mean in your letter to Margaret Crain when you wrote, 'you are the only one for me eternally?'"

"What it says," was the reply.

"Then that's why you killed Freda with a blackjack?"

"Freda was dead when I hit her."

"You wrote to this girl in East Aurora, 'no one but God can separate us.' Did you hold Freda higher than God?"

"No, I believe in predestination, though."

Defense counsel plan to call character witnesses and rest by night.

CENTENNIAL NEWS ITEMS

Official Pledge Adopted by the Texas Centennial Commission:

"I will think—write—do—teach—speak—live—be my celebration. In its achievement I may give the world a new purpose for Texas. In its glory that are to be."

DALLAS, Oct. 5 (Special)—Favored with a history replenished by deeds of pioneers and patriots, Texas will blaze new trails, again in commemorating a Centennial of freedom and progress by staging celebrations in 1936 that will be unlike anything else ever held in this country.

Instead of focusing their exposition on one place as is the usual custom, Centennial leaders are planning celebrations in San Antonio, Houston, Goliad, Brenham, Huntsville, Nacogdoches and other cities as well as Dallas.

Getting away from the stereotyped form of celebrations, the Texas Centennial will be featured by pageants and displays that will review the glamorous history of the Lone Star state. The celebration will be statewide in scope and no place of historic interest in Texas will be overlooked.

Many counties now are making plans to hold celebrations in conjunction with the central exposition in Dallas, and the number of these local observances is growing daily. Among the newest celebrations planned is one at Fort Davis which will be timed to commemorate another advance in Texas—opening of the McDonald observatory by the University of Texas.

San Antonio also is planning a celebration that probably will last throughout the time of the central exposition. All over the state similar plans are being made so that historic points and deeds will all be remembered in 1936.

DALLAS, Oct. 5 (Special)—Those reading Texas history and finding hours of profitable interest in its stirring, heroic pages because of the approach of the Centennial of Texas in 1936, when celebrations will be held by San Antonio, Houston, Goliad, Brenham, Nacogdoches, Huntsville, Dallas, and other Texas cities, may be unfamiliar with the early land measurements. The term "league" and "labor" frequent yesteryear at one from the pages having to do with the early colonists.

Land was measured into leagues and labors instead of into acres. A league contains 4,428.4 acres. The league also contains 25,000 square varas, of which there are 1,800.8 in an English mile. The vara, the old Mexican yard is about 33 1/3 inches long. A labor, accented on the second syllable, is one twenty-fifth of a league, containing 1,000,000 square varas or 171.1 acres. An acre contains 45,560 feet.

A person, such as Stephen F. Austin, who contracted with the government to settle a specified number in the wilderness of early-day Texas, was called an empresario. About two dozen empresarios are named in history, few of whom made any attempt to bring colonists into Texas. Some of the designated land was as far north as Kansas, one was partly in what are now Colorado, New Mexico, and Oklahoma. One was found to be located in what is now Arkansas, due to an error or carelessness.

Thousands of Texas land titles trace back to Mexican or Spanish grants to colonists, who came here because of inducements held out by an empresario such as was Astin, the "Father of Texas."

DALLAS, Oct. 5 (SP)—Members of the Texas legal fraternity, along with other groups, during the preparation for the observance of the Texas Centennial, to be celebrated in 1936 at San Antonio, Houston, Goliad, Brenham, Nacogdoches, Huntsville, Dallas and other cities of the state, doubtless will learn from historical data being published more of little known details of the history of lawyers and courts of the Republic of Texas.

The first trial to be held at Columbia—the first capital of the Republic—shortly after the declaration of independence on March 2, 1836, and creation of the new government, is said to have been that of a man charged with murder.

The murder was committed following a quarrel over a poker game. A judge was appointed to try the case and he rendered a verdict of guilty and assessed the penalty of death by hanging.

The attorney for the defense gave immediate notice of appeal from this decision.

The judge is quoted as having said: "Go ahead and appeal. In the meantime the prisoner is going to be hung."

DALLAS, Oct. 5.—Substantiation of the claim that Texas always has afforded individual initiative and unlimited opportunity to achieve success will be afforded by innumerable instances to visitors to the Texas Centennial celebrations to be staged at such points as San Antonio, Houston, Goliad, Brenham, Nacogdoches, Huntsville, Dallas, etc. in 1936. Typical is that of H. L. Justice, who, as a young man, arrived at Spanish Fort soon after the war between the State, and located on the Red River in the northeast corner of Montague county, possessing twenty-five cents in money and a shoe-maker's awl, which he carried in his pocket.

Today the name of Justice marks the products of one of the State's shoe factories, located at Fort Worth. It has been identified with finely-made cowboy boots for more than half a century.

Mr. Justice founded the Justin Boot factory at Nacona, in Montague county, and from that institution has grown the present boot

NEW PRICE OF GASOLINE SET BY REFINERS

SEVEN AND ONE-HALF CENT PRICE IS AGREED ON

KILGORE, Oct. 5 (AP)—Virtually every East Texas refinery selling gasoline by truck today has agreed on a 7 1/2-cent price, Miss Junita Hardy, assistant to M. Deavenport, executive secretary of the Independent Refiners' Association, said.

By midnight an 8-cent price was slated to go into effect, Miss Hardy said after a survey of the field.

Many refiners have stated they will attend the meeting of the Texas stabilization committee at Dallas Tuesday.

Deavenport, secretary of the Independent Refiners' Association of East Texas, told the gathering that refiners were waging "a terrific price war among themselves and not against the majors in an effort of the legitimate refiners who want to stay in business to whip the others into line."

Referring to hot oil in the East Texas field, Deavenport said: "I have no defense of hot oil. All kinds of men entered the refining business in East Texas, but most of them have learned their lesson and now face annihilation. Any sane refiner knows that the government is closing in and hot oil operation cannot go on. Public sentiment is down on it and there is just one thing to do—eliminate hot oil. It will come, may be now, or at least in 60 to 90 days."

Fred M. Lege Jr., Texas state marketing chairman, said the marketing branch of the industry is "doomed unless something is done."

East Texas refiners cannot operate at the present price of 1 1/2 cents at the dock, even on hot oil, Deavenport said. "Someone will be eliminated and I hope it is not the East Texas refiner who wants to cooperate," he added.

and shoe factory in Fort Worth and three other factories manufacturing boots and leather goods in Nacona, established and operated by men who secured their training with the original concern.

The name of Justin is known wherever boots are worn throughout the world.

COWTOWN BOYS ARRIVE, CONFIDENT THEY WILL BEAT HARVESTERS TONIGHT

REJUVENATED TEAM INTENDS TO WIN GAME

STEERS ARE ALL IN GOOD SHAPE AND RARING TO GO

According to dope, the Pampa Harvesters are in for one of their toughest games of the season at Harvesters field tonight when they play the big North Side Steers of Fort Worth. Game time will be 8 o'clock. The Harvesters will be outweighed several pounds, to the man.

The probable starting lineups with comparative weights:

Fort Worth—	Pos.	Wt.
Fifer	LE	177
Harris	LT	186
Wynn (Co-Capt.)	LG	187
Sheek	C	187
Clayton	RG	167
Stegall	RT	201
Zepeda	RE	134
Bell (Co-Capt.)	QB	147
Allen	LH	137
Green	RH	155
Pugh	FB	181
Pampa—	Pos.	Wt.
Owens (Capt.)	LE	160
Noblett	LT	160
Smith	LG	159
Haner	C	167
Green	RG	152
Mumford	RT	200
Hamilton	RE	165
Hamilton	QB	145
Dunaway	LH	144
Mackie	RH	185
Fanning	FB	168

The Steers, looking bigger than anticipated, arrived here from Clearwater this morning. They were immediately hustled to their hotel, instructed to keep off their feet and rest. Their coaches frankly admitted that the Steers had in their mind to trounce the mighty Harvesters right on their home lot.

"That bunch of mine learned a lesson last week and the practice of loafing will no longer be seen in the Steer squad," declared the head coach, Herman Clark. Doped to win with ease, the Steers went to Austin last week and when the smoke of battle had cleared away, Austin had won 14 to 7.

The entire Fort Worth squad is in excellent condition for the game. Not an injured player reported for hard practice sessions the early part of the week. North Side is doped to provide the strongest opposition in the history of the school for the Harvesters.

The Mitchellmen will be short on backfield substitutes tonight. Bob Drake and Ray Elkins, two fleet half backs, will not be in uniform because of injuries received in a scrimmage Tuesday afternoon. Elkins suffered a badly strained knee while an old ankle injury put Drake out of the game.

Haner and Mumford, hurt in the same scrimmage session, will be ready for duty tonight, although they may not be at their best. Other members of the team came through the hard practice sessions in good shape. A smoother offense and a tighter defense will be seen tonight. The coaches worked long hours on blocking and tackling, following by long scrimmage sessions during the week.

Officials tonight will be Bill Kimbrough, Eddie Sain, Bill Honey and Kellon Turner.

Four Dead After Auto Accidents

(By The Associated Press.)

Four persons were dead and four others critically injured today as the result of three automobile accidents in various parts of Texas. The head-on collision of two automobiles on a highway 20 miles southeast of Teague left Mrs. Arch Holmes of Houston and Fred Luttrell of Fort Worth dead. Mrs. Holmes' niece, Miss Vera Epperson, 26, of Abilene and Luttrell's brother Charles, were badly injured. Mrs. Ruby Pitts, 25, of Houston was killed and her husband, Roland Pitts, 31, and Kenneth, their 5-year-old son, seriously hurt when the automobile crashed head-on into a pipe laden truck 25 miles from Houston on the Humble road. The truck swerved to avoid striking a cow. Pitts said. Four-year-old William C. Davis was killed at Dallas when an automobile struck him as he played near his home.

ALL FOR IT
TORONTO—George Yanowski was awarded $86.60 in division court because Judge P. M. Field refused to find him incapacitated by one glass of beer.
Yanowski's car was in collision with a dairy cart and counsel for the dairy sought to show that the glass of beer was material to the case. "Nowadays," said his honor, "we are all encouraged to drink beer."

RAMBLERS ARE FAVORED OVER TEXAS ELEVEN

AGGIES ALSO DUE TO LOSE TO WARNER AT TEMPLE

By HERBERT W. BARKER
NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (AP)—Stealing a lead from the recent America's cup yachting series, football prognosticators hoisted the red flag of protest today.

"To tough," they cried, "they scanned the list of Friday and Saturday games. But that fact failed to prevent them from foisting their selections upon an unsuspecting public."

Absolutely without guarantee of any sort, here's the way the teams line up so far as this corner can see:

Northwestern-Iowa—Boasting a fine passing attack of their own, the Wildcats' defense against air raids was weak against Marquette last week. Iowa's fleet and skillful backfield may give the Hawkeyes the edge.

Yale-Columbia—Columbia was a hard-hit by graduation but it's only the toss of a coin that Yale gets the call here.

Vanderbilt-Georgia Tech—The bid offering on the Southern card with Vanderbilt slightly favored.

Southern California-Washington State—Despite the close call with College of Pacific, this gusser will string along with Southern California until the bitter end.

Illinois-Auburn—A fine Tulane array is the indicated choice here though Auburn always is tough for the Green Wave.

Notre Dame-Texas—Elmer Layden unveils his first Notre Dame eleven and barring accidents, snares his first victory.

West Virginia-Pitt—The Mountaineers have licked Duquesne but it's suicide to bet against Pitt when the Panthers play an eastern team.

California-St. Mary's—There may be no more fiercely fought engagements than this one. An exceedingly limited ballot for slip Madigan's Geels.

Army-Davidson—Another one on the right side of the ledger for Army.

North Carolina-Tennessee—Another possible trouble-maker but a vote for Tennessee nevertheless.

Minnesota-Nebraska—Subject to change without notice, doubt is hereby expressed that the Cornhuskers can halt that pile-driving Minnesota offense.

Indiana-Ohio State—Out of a hat in his one and the ballot reads "Ohio State."

Cregon State-Stanford—Death on one side, destruction on the other, but a vote for Stanford just the same.

Michigan-Michigan State—If Michigan can stop State's passes, the Big Ten champions should prove such but Purdue is the choice.

Wisconsin-Marquette—Marquette has Northwestern all kinds of rouble and may annoy the Badgers to end. Wisconsin is picked by a slim margin.

Temple-Texas A. & M.—Pop Warner's Temple outfit seems too powerful for the Aggies in this Friday night battle.

Navy-Virginia—Navy, comfortably.

Cornell-Richmond—Ditto Cornell.

Louisiana State-Southern Methodist—The Baton Rouge Tigers over he Mustangs.

Georgia-Furman—Don't bet against Georgia this season.

Alabama-Sewanee—Alabama with plenty to spare.

Southern Carolina-Virginia Military—Likewise the Gamecocks of South Carolina.

Texas Christian-Arkansas—Purdue a shot in the dark, Texas Christian for its apparently greater scoring power.

Denver-George Washington—Despite the long trip, a hesitant vote for George Washington in this Friday night battle.

Oklahoma-Centenary—Is this the spot where Centenary's long undefeated record will crack up?

Utah-Colorado College—One vote for the Utes.

Princeton-Amherst—The Tigers' first road.

Illinois-Washington University—A scheduled warm-up for the Illini.

BAYLOR WILL PLAY LUBBOCK TECH TONIGHT

FROGS AND ARKANSAS WILL TANGLE ON TOMORROW

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Two games tonight and four Saturday feature this week-end's Southwest conference football schedule. The Baylor Bears invade Lubbock to play Texas Tech tonight, and the Texas A. and M. Aggies at Philadelphia battle "Pop" Warner's Temple University warriors under flood lights tonight.

The ace game will be Saturday at Fort Worth where the inaugural of the 1934 Southwest conference championship will be staged between Coach Fred Thompson's university of Arkansas Razorbacks and Coach Dutch Meyer's Texas Christian Horned Frogs.

Other Saturday meels will be of the non-conference variety. The University of Texas Longhorns are en route to South Bend to play Notre Dame. The Rice Institute Owls are at Lafayette, Ind., to tackle the powerful Purdue Boilermakers in one of the week's biggest inter-sectional combats. The Southern Methodist Mustangs will test their forward passing against Coach Biff Jones' husky Louisiana State Tigers at Baton Rouge, La.

The Razorbacks left Fayetteville last night for Fort Worth where the "unworned champions" of 1933 hope to start a campaign that will make them the crowned champions of 1934.

The Horned Frogs concluded serious training yesterday with a stiff defensive practice. Coach Meyer, who has been stressing offense, told his cohorts they would have to stop some of the fastest backs in the league when they face Arkansas.

Bombs Explode Near Jap Homes In Arizona Area

PHOENIX, ARIZ., Oct. 5 (AP)—

Authorities seeking a solution of the "Hate-Air" problem in the Salt River valley farmers in the Salt River valley were challenged today by a new series of bombings near the home of Hindus and Japanese.

A Japanese girl was showered with dirt by one of the three blasts set off Wednesday night, sheriff's officers reported, but she was not injured and little damage was caused by the explosions.

J. Tamura of the Japanese association of Arizona said he had reported the incidents to the Japanese consul in Los Angeles but that he did not believe serious harm was intended.

An organization of white farmers in the valley has demanded that the Japanese and Hindus leave. They charge the alien land law, which prohibits aliens from owning or leasing land, is being violated.

Hamas And Lasky To Fight Tonight

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (AP)—The business of building up a heavy weight championship fight for next summer which will be attractive enough to the public to justify the outlay of cash begins tonight with the opening of the new winter season in Madison Square Garden.

Art Lasky, the big boy from Minneapolis, and Steve Hamas, who is still remembered as the greatest all-around athlete ever produced at Penn State college, will clash in the indoor curtain raiser, a ten-round affair.

Later in the year the two former heavyweight champions, Primo Carnera and Max Schmeling, and Jack Peterson, promising English heavyweight, will be tossed into the lists.

When the winter program is finished the Garden management hopes to have discovered a worthy challenger for Max Baer's title.

The 1935 session of the Texas senate will lack a woman member for the first time in eight years.

THE SPORTS HORN

The United States may be having an off-year in sports, but U. S. athletes are still outstanding in other lands throughout the world, despite the fact that they are very often comparatively unknown at home.

Consider, for example, this letter from our scout in England on one Pete Desjardins.

Pete Desjardins, the little bronze statue from Florida, who captured three world diving titles in the 1928 Olympics, still is the world's finest diver, according to English critics who have watched him perform in the British Isles this summer.

"Pete can perform every dive on the tariff, and then some, and his technique is the standard. He thinks nothing of practicing four to five hours a day."

Not too complicated.

"If I had been brought up in the British Isles I would never have become a champion," said Pete, "because the climate is far too cold for the necessary maximum training in the open air, for which Florida is excellent."

"One of Desjardins' most intricate feats is the 1 1/2 front somersault with full twist from the three meter board. His success with it caused it to be added to the Federation Internationale de Natation Amateur list.

"Previously this dive was considered too complicated. In executing it Pete bounces from the board like a rubber ball to marvelous height, turns and twists with ease and perfect rhythm of movement, then slips into the water head first.

Thrills British.

"This summer British crowds have gone wild with cheers and shouts even on his first trial dive. After he has displayed feats ranging from the easiest to the most intricate he stages a comic act. In this he does his famous cocktail dive. The recipe for it is a running reverse somersault to land back on the board, a bounce up and 1 1/2 forward somersault in the half lever position.

"Pete has made himself popular in Britain by his advice to the youngest novice and experienced veterans alike. He has coached scores of divers, given numerous lectures at clubs. Capt. G. Baudains, secretary of the amateur diving association, who is looking after his arrangements here, says 200,000 is a conservative estimate of the number of people who have watched him dive. His last London performance this summer was in the Wembley pool in connection with the Empire swimming club."

SCHOOLBOY IS DECLARED THE EQUAL OF DIZ

DEANS PROBABLY WILL PITCH REMAINDER OF GAMES

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 5. (AP)—To paraphrase the chant of Mr. Kipling, it was the Gunga Deans today, the Deans, Deans, Deans, and the blooming blawstin' blighters can't get in there, too soon if the swashbuckling St. Louis Cardinals are to regain the upper hand in this blood-pounding duel with the Detroit Tigers for baseball's world championship.

Paul (Gunga) Dean it was, 17 brother Dean, the freshman, to whom Frankie Frisch turned for aid and comfort as the Cardinals rallied for the second phase and the third game of the world series on their home grounds, Sportsman's park, St. Louis. The Tigers, wild cats again overnight, chose the curve ball wizard, Tommy Bridges, to carry on the astoundingly grand pitching work of Lywood (Schoolboy) Rowe that pulled them up to evens in the series yesterday.

The situation today was one that well merited the attention of the Deans, Deans, Deans, and it is more than likely that if the 22-year-old Schoolboy from El Dorado, Ark., has more of what he showed yesterday in his system, and the Cards can't do any better by such a grand old warrior as Wild Bill Hallahan than they did, then the cry of Dean, Dean, Dean is merely the announcer feeling off the St. Louis starting pitchers for the remainder of the conflict.

The unveiling of Rowe, winner of 16 straight games during the American league season, the most publicized pitcher in the business, barring the Dean brothers themselves, was such a magnificent success that it even overshadowed the performance of Big Diz, the elder, in winning the series opener 8 to 3 in Detroit. It also brought a cry of wonderment from the assembled experts as to why Mickey Cochrane, manager of the Tigers, ever hesitated, and finally decided to hold the youngster over for the second game, rather than risk his ace in hand to hand conflict with the Dizzy One.

Once he recovered from a shaky start, the 6-foot, 4-inch Schoolboy turned out one of the most amazing performances in all world series history as he outclassed unlucky Hallahan and went on to win 3 to 2 in 12 innings the victory that brought Detroit back, made a hero of old Goose Goslin, and not only changed the entire complexion of things but rattled the confidence and cohesion of the World Series champions for the moment at least.

They were a maddened, grouchy, scorching hot today, these Cardinals, and the third battle was conceded the turning point in their progress. If the mastery the Schoolboy displayed in the third inning through the twelfth, setting men down in order, allowing only one hit in the last nine innings, has punctured their balloon, that fact can't be hidden long. If the Cards are mad in the way that Goublers their strength and leaves their efficiency untouched, then the duel from here on will be one for the all-time record.

Rowe, of course, had the Cardinals themselves to thank for his chance to display a brand of pitching genius, for over the nine-inning route gallant little Hallahan, a 5-foot, 2-inch midsize brawler, was hidden around some phantom corner.

The Cards belted Rowe for six hits in the first three innings, scored two runs, and might have scored more if Goslin hadn't nipped the final rally in the third with a beautiful peg to the plate. Hallahan allowed only four, and three of them flukes at that, until the lid blew off in the ninth, taking him with it from the game, and a pinch hitter, Gerald Walker, tied the score with a single after he should have been out. But up to that time, the tiny lefty had been continually in hot water, little of it of his own making, what with errors, of which the Cards made a total of three, the high wind blowing pop flies around, and a mental collapse here and there.

It was the same Martin, incidentally, who spotted Earnshaw's chance for a no-hit game in the 1931 series between the Athletics and Cardinals. The big right-handed speedball artist of the A's blanked the Cards in the fourth game, 3 to 0, yielding only two hits, both by Martin, who singled in the fifth and doubled in the eighth. Earnshaw issued a single pass in that game but retired the National leaguers in order in the other six innings.

The one big bit of drama to look forward to now is the chance that before the smoke clears Rowe will be pitted against the great Dizzy Dean, with the outcome of the championship at stake on what these two superb right-handed pitchers can accomplish.

A fig tree imported from France to Seattle bore six gallons of fruit this year, proving the species can be raised in the northwest's cool climate, its owner believes.

Clingman Will Wrestle Here Tuesday Night

Sailor Otis Clingman, the boy who stayed two hours and 15 minutes with Champion Gus Kalilo last week, will appear on the local mat Tuesday night. Along with Clingman will be three newcomers to Pampa who will wrestle in the semi-final and preliminary events.

Clingman's opponent in the main event will be that wildcat, Charlie Carr of Shreveport, La. Carr is the fighting cock who takes them coming and going regardless of size. Clingman will outweigh Carr by several pounds but the little fellow will have speed and determination over the veteran.

Carr is one of the meanest and roughest grapplers who has roughed here in some time. He beat Ernie Arthur in a titanic struggle but fell before the onslaught of Cyclone Mackey, another of Kalilo's victims. The little fellow would like nothing better than to topple Clingman off his throne.

The semi-final is doped to be a colorful affair. It will see Chief Wa-Shawn, Apache Indian from Arizona, meeting Jack Davis, known over the entire country as the Oklahoma Bear Cat. Both battlers are young gladiators although in the middleweight class. Both are still making their names in the sport.

Wa-Shawn is particularly a rough and tough mauler. Davis has the same reputation although he has not been presented in these parts before. The Indian showed a lot of stuff in Amarillo last week.

Kid Thomas, Berger bad man, will meet Bob Brown of Amarillo in the preliminary at 8:30 o'clock.

McLean Will Play Hornets This Evening

The scheduled game between LeFors and Claude has been canceled because of a mix-up in dates. Happy will come to LeFors tomorrow night for a game under the new lights at Bshaw field. Claude will play Amarillo, meeting the Price Memorial team.

Happy has another good team this year despite the loss of G. Barnard, who was a one-man team for three years. The team is better than usual but it is said to be much faster than any Happy team of the last few years.

Coaches Bronson and Smith have been working at top speed this week in an effort to uncover two new guards. One of the LeFors regulars is out with a bad injury and the other starter suddenly quit school. The starting guards had not been named following a hard practice yesterday afternoon.

The fast stepping Tulsa Hornet will invade McLean tonight for another tough battle. Last week the Tigers lost a 6 to 0 battle to Shamrock. Tulsa has a big fast team this season. McLean also has a team which is drawing much favorable comment.

The Green Tigers will go to Canyon tomorrow afternoon for an important game with the Canyon Eagles. The Tigers have won two or three one game this season. The team opened the season with a 1 to 0 win from Mobeetie. Two weeks ago Wellington downed the Tigers but last week Green came back to win 25 to 7 from Happy. Canyon lost 6 to 0 in Panhandle last week in a bitter battle.

P-TA WORKERS LEARN DUTIES AT ANNUAL SCHOOL THURSDAY

WELFARE AND IS IMPORTANT TOPIC OF YEAR

SHAMROCK WOMAN IS ONLY OUT-OF-TOWN SPEAKER

Following a regular Parent-Teacher council meeting, the annual school of instruction for leaders and members was conducted in a short session at high school cafeteria yesterday.

Thrift room plans featured the council hour, and work of the room also had a prominent place in the instruction program. The council is to have full charge of the room, with assistance of each unit.

Mrs. Lewis Goodrich of Shamrock was the only out-of-town speaker on the instruction program. She gave a lesson on parliamentary laws by conducting a parliamentary drill.

Study Clubs Urged Mrs. Claude Lard, council president and second vice president of the district, discussed parent study clubs and insisted that members take the national correspondence course. Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar, state endorsement chairman, discussed vital problems and needs of the public schools at present.

Mrs. J. H. Hulme, council welfare chairman, told of work in the thrift room where clothes are distributed to needy students. At the start of this term 208 children were practically without school clothing, she said. Already 518 garments have been given out of 26 pair of shoes bought by the welfare committee and as many by the Red Cross, which has sent aside a fund this year to provide shoes for children. Members yesterday contributed $33 to the shoe club fund of the thrift room.

Duties of committees were discussed by a series of speakers. Mrs. H. C. Nelson told how to prepare programs. Mrs. L. L. McCollum how the hospitality committee may greet visitors and new members. Mrs. Roy Holt where to secure helpful publications and how to use them. Mrs. J. M. Turner how to prepare publicity scrapbooks and direct inside publicity, and Sue Vinson of the Daily News staff how to best direct outside publicity.

WTSTC Enrolls 26 Pampan; Offers Extension Credit

CANYON, Oct. 5. (Special)—Twenty-six students from Pampa are enrolled in the West Texas State Teacher's college at the present time. Besides these, there are other Pampan citizens who are taking work from the college through the extension class which is taught each week in Pampa by Dr. R. P. Jarrett, dean of the college and head of the department of education.

College authorities at Canyon have indicated that they will offer any course that are wanted by Pampa students, young or older. Young people who have graduated from high school and are not able to go to college, can go ahead with their college work for a small part of what it would cost them to be away from home if they wish to do so. It is necessary for a class to have twenty members to be maintained in Pampa.

Courses will be given in English, history, government, typing, shorthand and any other subject demanded and full college credit will be given on the work.

This work is handled through the bureau of public service of the Canyon college and inquiries may be addressed to it.

RIGHT TO JOBS AND VOTES ARE WON BY WOMEN

Spanish Feminists Even Turned to Bull Fighting

(This is the fifth of a series of six daily articles in which foreign bureaus of the Associated Press describe the status of feminism in many lands.)

LONDON. (P)—Feminism, in England, has shoved the ball across the goal line.

The campaign for women's rights is a movement which has achieved most of its objectives. So feminism, as an issue stirring a crusading zeal in women, is petering out.

A mop-up squad of alert women is still active ironing out some slight inequalities. An effort is being made to win for women the right to enter Great Britain's diplomatic service.

On another front women are campaigning for abolition of the press law under which English women who marry foreigners lose their British nationality.

Women may, and do, sit in the has sat in the cabinet. The House of Lords still sticks to the ancient tradition of being a man's institution.

MADRID. (P)—The advent of the second republic three years ago opened a new era for Spanish women. Today women sit in congress, and a few have even become bull fighters.

Spanish women have won the vote, and their independent use of it is credited with being the chief reason for decisive victories of the conservatives last November.

Divorce has been legalized. Modern Spanish laws strike less severely at women whose children are born out of wedlock. Spanish women are showing an aptitude for professions.

NRA ABANDONS PRICE-FIXING AND CONTROL OF PRODUCTION

NEW KINGPIN WILL LIKELY MODIFY CODES

'SOUND COMPETITIVE SYSTEM' IS URGED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. (AP)—NRA policy swung sharply away from price-fixing today and headed toward competition in a "free market."

As the revamped Blue Eagle unit gets under way, it is expected to reopen major codes gradually to delete or modify some of the price and production control devices they contain.

This step, foreshadowed in President Roosevelt's speech last Sunday night, was hinted yesterday in a talk by Donald Richberg, now kingpin in the recovery drive.

The intention apparently is to rely on other provisions of codes, such as minimum wages and maximum hours—to prevent the rule of "tooth and fang" which has been blamed for sweatshops and cut-throat competition.

In advocating a "sound competitive system," Richberg quoted from an article he wrote for Fortune magazine. He said:

"I think many businessmen that came down here determined upon production control and price control which they thought were essential to their safety and would produce them profits, have been seriously disillusioned in the course of the year—disillusioned partly as to the practical possibility of carrying out their desire and partly disillusioned as to whether they really want them carried out."

"There is no doubt of the necessity in some specific instances of preventing destructive price cutting. There is no doubt of the necessity sometimes of putting some controls on production. But to apply any sweeping theory to business as a whole, that in some way through trade associations they are going to control production and prices in such a way as to bring about wonderful results, is an iridescent dream."

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 5. (AP)—As the morning progressed the market settled into quietness and there was little disposition to trade in advance of the bureau report on crops estimates due early next week.

Prices improved largely on covering by shorts in an oversold market. December traded up to 12.31 and March to 12.11, or 10 to 11 points above yesterday's close and the price level was only 2 to 2 points under the best at mid-session.

Mildred Mason has returned home from Worley hospital, and is reported making rapid recovery from a serious illness.

J. T. Cantrell of Miami was here on business yesterday.

TICKETS GOING FAST; BANQUET TO DRAW MANY

Guill Polishing Off Austin Play For Event Here

Local citizens who want to attend the Centennial banquet here next Tuesday are urged to buy their tickets by Monday from members of the Junior chamber of commerce.

The tickets are selling fast and only a few over 100 will be sold. Each Jaycee has two tickets for sale. Club women who were recently urged to attend the banquet by Mrs. Volney Taylor, president of the State Federation of Women's clubs, were instructed to buy their tickets from the Jaycees or through Clarence Kennedy at the De Luxe cleaners or Archer Fullington at the NEWS.

Bill Jarrett is in charge of ticket sales. Sponsors had been assured today that members of the Centennial advisory boards would be present from the following counties: Armstrong, Carson, Castro, Collingsworth, Deaf Smith, Donley, Hansford, Hemphill, Hutchinson, Haskell, Howard, Kaufman, Roberts, Wheeler, Gray. Addresses will be made by John F. Sturgeon, member of the Gray county advisory board; Irv E. Duncan, chairman; Walter D. Cline, official of the Centennial commission.

The following cast in costume, will present a one-act play, based on the life of Stephen F. Austin, founder of Texas: Speaker of prologue, Otto Rice; Stephen F. Austin, Odell Walker; Mrs. Emily Perry, Austin's sister, Ella Faye O'Keefe; Samuel Williams, Austin's secretary, Paul Williams; Mrs. Mary Foley, Austin's cousin, Dorothy Harris; William Barrett Travis, patriot, Jim Bob Johnson. The play will be produced under direction of Ben Guill. The cast includes some of the most talented members of Mr. Guill's class.

Cody's resemblance to Austin is said to be remarkable. They know their lines and will likely give the splendid performances typical of Guill-coached plays, Jaycees said.

LABOR OPPOSES RICHBERG PLAN FOR BARGAINING

FUTURE NRA POLICIES HOLD INTEREST AT CONVENTION

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5. (AP)—The blue eagle of the NRA dominated discussions of the American Federation of Labor convention today.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins came from Washington with a message to the representatives of organized American workers from the national administration. President William Green declared the federation would "mobilize its entire force" to resist any effort to establish an NRA policy of permitting employers to deal with minority or individual factories in collective bargaining activities.

Two more issues threatened to bring heated debate to the convention floor. The federation executive council's report on its effort to end the internal strife in the building trades department was the admission of the carpenters, electrical and bricklayers unions appeared imminent. A controversy was expected on the establishment of a policy as to whether federation unions should be organized on craft or industry lines.

President Green's statement followed, declarations in Washington by Donald Richberg, recovery coordinator, that elections to determine representation in collective bargaining could elect leaders only for those voting. Labor leaders contend that decisions of the relations board give the majority group the right to conduct bargaining activities.

"It seems it is clearly evident there is a need of understanding between the administrators of the NRA and the national labor relations board, the petroleum, steel and railway board on the question of collective bargaining," Green said. "The statement of Mr. Richberg is in distinct opposition to the decision these boards have made. The coordinator's statement is undemocratic and fatal to the principle of collective bargaining."

Jim Poe Is Held Here For Mexico

Jim Poe, held here at the request of New Mexico officers, is to be returned to either Tucumcari or Estancia, N. M., officers of the sheriff's department said today. He is wanted in both towns on robbery charges. Poe was arrested in Tucumcari Wednesday night after Tucumcari officers had learned of his presence in this county and notified the sheriff here.

COLQUITT SAYS 'FORGETFULNESS' IS REWARD FOR PUBLIC SERVICE

AUSTIN, Oct. 5. (AP)—To former Governor O. B. Colquitt the reward for faithful public service is "forgetfulness."

Colquitt gave his views on the subject recently in a short dissertation before the Texas house of representatives.

"The reward for faithful public service is forgetfulness," Colquitt said. "You have less friends and more enemies when you go out of office than you did when you went in. You are soon forgotten."

Colquitt revealed that during his 12 years of public service as a member of the state senate, railroad commissioner and governor he received $48,000 while it cost him $56,000 to live and pay expenses during his tenure.

Former Governor Colquitt's son will start his political career with the 44th legislature next January as a member of the house. He is the first Colquitt to do so. Those who know him predict a career that will carry him far in politics in event he chooses to follow in his father's footsteps.

So many investigating committees were proposed the third special session of the legislature, both in the house and senate, that it was hard to keep track of them. There were committees advocated to investigate relief, the railroad commission, fishing conditions on the Texas coast, etc.

To be certain that the committees functioned properly one was proposed appointment of an investigating committee to investigate the investigating committees.

"But," said another member, "don't you think we should have an investigating committee to keep tabs on the investigating committee, investigating the investigating committees?"

Lon E. Alsop of Carthage, blind member of the house, has been dubbed "the blind watchdog of the treasury" because of his activities in opposing appropriations. J. Manley head of Granbury is the "head" representative according to a telegram he received. It was addressed to J. Manley "head representative" . . . George Butler of Bryan, who sponsored the law legalizing prize fighting, announced in favor of repealing the law after witnessing the encounter between Repp. Amos Scarborough and C. M. Turlington on the house floor. "It hasn't produced results if that is an example," Butler said. "One member described the Scarborough-Turlington clash thusly: They carefully exchanged blows."

Cowtown Team Entertained at Kiwanis Lunch

Coaches of the Fort Worth football team and local coaches and school officials were guests of the Junior chamber of commerce at the Kiwanis club luncheon at noon today.

The visitors were introduced by Gilmore N. Nunn who also presented a committee of Jaycees who arranged the reception.

Mr. Nunn, on behalf of the Junior chamber of commerce, other civic clubs, and the citizenship of Pampa, welcomed the visiting coaches, saying that Pampa was glad to have a Fort Worth football team play in Pampa. Coach Herman Clark and Assistant Coach Mack Flenniken replied that the North Side school considered itself fortunate to be able to meet Pampa on the gridiron and that they hoped friendly rivalry could be continued.

Coach Odus Mitchell of the Harvesters said he was glad to meet the Fort Worth team on the gridiron and especially meet Coach Clark again. Coaches Mitchell and Clark were baseball buddies "way back."

The Kiwanis club membership has been divided into two teams in a "penny jar" drive. Each member is to place a jar in some store or office in the city for the collection of funds for the crippled children's program. The contest will last one month with the team gathering the most money being able to eat chicken while the losing team eats beans.

The proposed move to limit the ad valorem tax was discussed by

ENDS BODY ODOR Leaves No After-Smell
It isn't the smell of a soap that gets you clean—it's the lather. Ordinary toilet soaps don't lather freely enough in this hard water. Often they yield only a sticky suds curd that dams up stale perspiration instead of removing it. Kirk's Castle, a 100% pure vegetable oil soap, gives you a lather even in hard, cold water—soaps deep into pores and not free the scale perspiration curd. Instantly your body is fresh and odorless! As suggestions to prospective pupils, indicating the range of possible classes, Mr. Fisher suggested that a group of club women may form a class for the study of Browning, the members to lead discussions with a teacher to guide them; or a man who can teach garage mechanics, whether or not he has a college education may form a class and recruit a group of students in that subject.

The opportunity for a comprehensive adult education program is great, Mr. Fisher said, and he urges adults to take advantage by requesting the subjects they wish, or enrolling in classes already formed. He will answer inquiries regarding the school.

LIBERALS ARE ADDING COLOR TO ELECTIONS

UPTON SINCLAIR AND PROGRESSIVES ARE IN SPOTLIGHT

BY CECIL R. DICKSON.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—A record-smashing array of "third party" attempts, a multitude of issues and a host of colorful candidates feature the campaigns for the November elections. At least 25 parties are in the field—the largest number in the memory of old-time observers.

The Farmer-Laborites in Minnesota and the progressives in Wisconsin headed by Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr. are in the van of the side-party movements, with candidates listed in other states. Communists and socialists also have contestants in many states.

Aside from the main "new deal" issue between democratic and old guard republican candidates, numerous others, ranging from "redistribution of wealth" to "more stringent marriage and divorce laws" have been raised.

Usual personalities dot the political scene. Chief among these is Upton Sinclair, with his spectacular campaign for the governorship on his "end poverty in California" platform, young "Bob" LaFollette of Wisconsin, who is seeking to return to the senate on the progressive ticket after dropping his G. O. P. label, and former Governor Theodore G. Bilbo of Mississippi. Bilbo's election to the senate was assured when he defeated Senator Hubert D. Stephens for the democratic nomination.

The sensational come-back James M. Curley, former mayor of Boston, made in Massachusetts for the democratic gubernatorial nomination; the surprising victory in Ohio of the genial "Vic" Doherty for the right to carry the democratic senatorial banner, and the republican senatorial nomination won by former Senator Joseph I. France in Maryland, returned the men to the national political spotlight.

The "third party" drives are being watched closely by G. O. P. and democratic leaders. While most of the movements are farther to the left than the democratic party, there are rumors of others in the embryo that are on the ultra-conservative side and which are not connected with the republican organization.

The fate of the progressives in Wisconsin in November is expected by Senator Nye, North Dakota republican independent, to have a definite effect on the chances of a liberal third party movement in 1936. Nye is supporting progressive candidates in Wisconsin and farmer-laborites in Minnesota. Mayor F. H. Laguardia of New York, republican independent, also plans to campaign for the LaFollette and Senator Shipstead (F-L, Minn.).

One of the new parties has arisen in Connecticut. There the independent citizens party has candidates for senator and governor. In New Jersey there are candidates bearing such labels as socialist labor party, plenty for everybody, tax reduction, prohibition, independent veterans and farmer-laborite.

Pennsylvania, Virginia, Washington, Michigan, Illinois, Iowa, Idaho, Oklahoma, Montana, Kansas, California, and Ohio have scores of candidates running on new tickets, few of which are complete. Among them are equal rights, industrial recovery, national union, a balanced federal budget, veterans, communists, prohibition, socialists, citizens party, Lincoln fair deal, and honest elections.

In Ohio there is the commonwealth party whose platform calls among other things, for tighter divorce and marriage laws, and a graduated system of income tax laws as the main source of government revenue.

In Louisiana, congressional candidates backed by Senator Long, are advocating redistribution of wealth. In California, there are the progressive and commonwealth, among other parties.

BEAR FIGHT IS DEVELOPING IN SPEAKER RACE

Calvert Is Running Against Coke Stevenson

AUSTIN, Oct. 5 (AP)—Rep. R. W. Calvert's entrance into the race for speaker of the 44th legislature has precipitated a contest that bids fair to develop into a real bear fight before it is over.

Calvert is a Hillsboro lawyer with a sharp tongue and a keen mind who is completing his first term in the lower house and he is in the fight to stay, planning a determined and aggressive campaign to wrest the office, one of the most powerful in the state, from the incumbent, Coke R. Stevenson of Junction.

If either Calvert or Stevenson is elected a precedent will be broken. No speaker has ever served two consecutive terms while election of "one-termers" is a rare exception. Retiring speakers often have returned as members but ever offered for the honor twice.

Calvert's bid for the office followed the heels of the withdrawal of Rep. E. B. Ford of McGregor, whose campaign had been supported by a strong bloc. Calvert was one of the foremost opponents of Ford's candidacy.

The struggle will be one of the most bitterly contested in years. Virtually all of the maneuvering will be carried on behind the scenes and little of it will come to the notice of the public. There is more intrigue in a speakership campaign than in most any other race. Great pressure is brought in round-about ways from numerous sources to support one or the other of the candidates.

One member reported his relatives in an adjoining state had been contacted in one of the speakership races to induce him to support a certain candidate. "They work on you from all angles," he said.

Few of the general public appreciate the power of the speaker's office. He holds the whip hand over legislation and although it is an unusual case when he chooses to exercise it, can bring great influence to bear for or against a proposition.

To the speaker is delegated the task of appointing personnel of committees, another major factor in the legislative process. The passage of a bill. A committee whose members favor a proposition can grant it an early hearing and speed its consideration on the floor whereas a committee adverse to a bill can delay its disposition and hold it back until it becomes lost in the maze of legislation that usually crowds the calendars of both houses in the closing days of the session.

Some members bemoan the lack of knowledge on the part of the average citizen with respect to the legislative activities and especially those that concern the speaker's office. It is because they seldom, if ever, have occasion to become sufficiently interested to delve deeply into what is behind the scenes. Admittedly it would be a Herculean task to inform the public of the questions involved.

Great Britain Is Increasing Her Armaments

BRISTOL, Eng., Oct. 5 (AP)—Great Britain is strengthening the empire's defenses and increasing her own armaments, says the Chamberlain told the conservative party's convention here today as Lord Lloyd's resolution demanding a new defense scheme was approved.

Chamberlain declared the safety and security of the nation forced increases in armaments because other nations failed to follow Great Britain in reducing them. He said Britain will not spend out of reason, however, for the building of new defenses.

The Tories approved a resolution asking "reform" in the house of lords, meaning a return of the ancient powers once held by the upper house of parliament. The resolution expressed fear of what socialists might do to the house of lords if they should get into power.

The central council of the party asserted the national government's policies have brought about "a notable period of peace and progress" in Great Britain, and cheers of approval greeted the report.

Harvard Rejects Nazi Scholarship

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 5 (AP)—Dr. Ernest F. Sedwick Hanftsaeng's close association with "the leadership of the Hitler party" has caused the Harvard corporation to decline his offer to Harvard college of a German traveling scholarship.

James Bryant Conant, president of Harvard, said in a letter to Hanftsaeng, Chancellor, "The leadership of the Hitler party" has caused the Harvard corporation to decline his offer to Harvard college of a German traveling scholarship. "We are unwilling to accept a gift from one who has been so closely associated with the leadership of a political party which has inflicted damage on the universities of Germany through measures which have struck at principles we believe to be fundamental to universities throughout the world."

The Harvard corporation announced last night it had refused the offer at its fall meeting on September 24. Hanftsaeng's offer, the corporation stated, was "appreciated."

J. C. Holton, Mississippi's commissioner of agriculture, estimates that state's agricultural crops will be valued at $150,000,000 this season, 50 per cent more than last year.

1. I am the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman.
2. Every branch in me that beareth not fruit, he taketh away; and every branch that beareth fruit, he cleanseth it, that it may bear more fruit.

3. Already ye are clean because of the word which I have spoken unto you.
4. Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; so neither can ye, except ye abide in me.

5. I am the vine, ye are the branches; He that abideth in me, and in him, the same beareth much fruit; for apart from me ye can do nothing.
6. If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and they gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned.

7. If ye abide in me, and my words in you, whatsoever ye will, and it shall be done unto you.
8. Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; and so shall ye be my disciples.

9. Even as the Father hath loved me, I also have loved you: abide ye in my love.
10. If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love.

11. These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy may be in you, and that your joy may be made full.
12. This is my commandment, that ye love one another, even as I have loved you.

13. Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends.
14. Ye are my friends, if ye do the things which I command you.

15. No longer do I call you servants; for the servant knoweth not what his lord doeth; but I have called you friends; for all things that I heard from my Father I have made known unto you.
16. Ye did not choose me, but I chose you, and appointed you, that ye should go and bear fruit, and that your fruit should abide; that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my name, he may give it you.

Golden Text: Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; so neither can ye, except ye abide in me.—John 15:4.
Time: Christ spoke these words at the last supper, on the evening before his crucifixion, Thursday, April 6, A. D. 30.
Place: The upper room in Jerusalem.

Introduction
Jesus simplified and clarified his truth, and fixed it in men's minds, with illustrations from the everyday things of life. What more familiar sight was there than grapevines? Palestine was still the land of the vine, as it had been in the days when the spies brought back the huge cluster from Eschol. Moreover, the vine was a familiar object of symbolism, in psalm and prophecy and in the ornamentation of the Temple (Ps. 80-81; Jer. 2:21; Hosea 10:1). In making himself the Vine and his followers the branches Christ throws new light on the whole subject of spiritual fruitfulness, reveals its underlying law:

"Greater Love Hath No Man." v. 13
"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." "What is laying life down? To live, not for your own pleasures, but to make gladness more possible for such as walk in the shadows of many sorrows, in order to make godliness more possible for such as stand in the tense darkness of great temptations, to set others before ever first, to pass into the life of the world each day to minister and not to be ministered unto,—this is the greater love, and they who do these things have heard it speak."—Rev. Percy C. Ainsworth. And yet there is a great love even than this. It is the love of Him who died for us, not when we were friends, but when we were enemies.

"But I Chose You." v. 16
"Ye did not choose me, but I chose you." "The beginning of everything is God's love and grace. If we love him it is because he first loved us. It is not that we choose, but that we are chosen. Christian faith is simply the acceptance of Christ's love, a love which is there, not dependent on our love or anything in us. A right acceptance of

The DOCTOR says:
Do this when you have a HEADACHE

All human impulses center in the brain. So, too, do many ailments effect that source of all feeling. So when your head aches it may be a result of numerous body disorders. It may be from an upset stomach or bad eyes or nervous strain. Whatever is the real cause, you may be sure that no one but a good doctor can tell. Headache-cures only temporarily ease the pain.

When your head aches, have the doctor give you a thorough examination. It's a protective safeguard against all possibilities.

And of course you'll want the doctor's prescription compounded as perfectly as though he himself did the work. So bring your drug needs to this efficient pharmacy.

NRA OFFERS HOPE FOR ALL IN INDUSTRY

It seems to be the fate of this perplexed country to move from one crisis to another. Each crisis seems, at the moment, to be the biggest and the most difficult yet encountered; each gets solved or at any rate passed by, only to lead up to another.

These, possibly, are rather strong words to use in description of the latest twist in personnel and structure of the NRA. Yet this whole NRA effort has been, all in all, one of the most amazing and portentous experiments ever made by our government; and it is not working out according to the original blueprints, it has attained a momentum that is carrying it on and on—and no one can do more than guess where it is going to wind up.

We began with a great fanfare of trumpets, and some of the more enthusiastic saw the New Jerusalem, or something like it, coming down out of the clouds. Wages were going to be raised, prices were going to be raised, profits were going to be assured, men were going to be put to work, and chisellers were going to bleed and die, willy-nilly.

So we got started, and little by little the bright colors faded. What looked simple, in the first flush of excitement, began to appear remarkable complex. It is so in Gray county.

Some men were put back to work, but the unemployment problem continued to grow. Some profits increased and others vanished.

Some wages went up and others did not. Chisellers bled and died only sporadically, and not by platoons. So now we come to a great reorganization, under new leadership, and there is much disillusionment about it all.

Yet it is worth remembering that certain definite gains have been made, in spite of all the confusion and all the disappointments inherent in the NRA, and the gains we originally envisioned can still be made, if we want them badly enough.

For the NRA, at bottom, was and is simply a common recognition of the fact that in a country as great and rich and intelligent as ours it ought to be possible to run business and industry so as to give everybody a break—wage-earner, stockholder, and consumer.

That fundamental premise is perfectly sound. Our first effort to accomplish it may not have been very successful; but the machinery remains, and by paying due attention to the mistakes of the past we should yet be able to realize a very substantial part of the rosy promises which we made ourselves at the beginning.

A Washington Daybook

By WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON. — The Postoffice Department is launching a new drive against the handling of letter mail contrary to law outside the postal system; that is, by trucking companies, milk wagon drivers, or private messengers.

Sometime ago it issued regulations to prevent use of mail boxes for delivery of any articles not sent by mail. It's hard to calculate the exact result of that drive, but it probably netted the government something by bringing business back to the postoffice.

Now postmasters are being urged by the inspection department to look into possible violations of the private express statutes in their bailiwicks.

One inspector turned up a case in which losses of revenue to the Post Office Department reached a million and a half dollars in a few years. The government's now trying to collect.

It's all a part of the rather determined effort to put the postoffice on a paying basis, and there will be further attempts this winter to try to get it "out from under" some of the heavy subsidies to water and air lines which now come out of postal appropriations and keep the department in the red.

Within three-quarters of an hour after he returned to Washington from Hyde Park, President Roosevelt was receiving a record delegation of newspaper men and women—nearly 100 crowded into his temporary office in the Blue Room.

Many, despairing of getting close enough to the presidential desk to see the president, sat themselves down at the cabinet table (which has been temporarily placed in the office) to make notes. . . The president, in a double-breasted white linen suit, white, soft-collared shirt and maroon tie, is the picture of health. . . A vase of yellow roses stood out on his desk among the increasing number of Democratic donkeys of every kind and material which are always in evidence. . . the familiar ship models have been brought along even in the temporary office. . . your correspondent noted the name of a particularly elaborate one: It was "Prosperity."

On government paydays here the flood of pay checks is so great that many employes find it hard to get them cashed at all—banks and stores are swamped to convert the $2,000,000 into cash. One single store had to send out for $140,000 in cash the other day. Questionnaires are being circulated in the departments in an effort to find a way of paying off that will minimize the flood of checks. . . The Civil Service Commission is posting in all departments its rules against political activity, thus doing its bit to cooperate with Treasury Secretary Morgenthau and other New Dealers who are trying to soft-pedal such. . . There are nearly 2300 lawyers in the Washington telephone directory, or one for every 200 persons in town.

Mrs. Field III Found in Reno

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The Chicago Herald and Examiner said in a copyright story today it had been informed that Mrs. Marshall Field III, the former Mrs. Dudley Coats of London and the wife of the grandson of Chicago's first great merchant prince, was in Reno. Her reported arrival in the Nevada city, the newspaper added, followed rumors of a marital rift recurrent in fashionable circles for several months, but denied by Marshall Field III. The newspaper said that Mrs. Field, who was Audrey James before her first marriage to Dudley Coats, flew through Chicago Tuesday night, traveling under an assumed name, leaving the plane at Reno for a residence nearby which she was reported to have engaged. Marshall Field III and Mrs. Coats were married in London August 19, 1930. They spent their honeymoon in Africa shooting lions for the Field museum of Chicago.

Texan Is Almost Killed by Bull

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Trapped in a pen with an angry bull, Gus Kruckemeyer, 53, was saved from almost certain death today when his daughter, Meta, and several other persons came to the rescue with fence posts and broom-handles. Upon entering the pen to feed the animal, Kruckemeyer was knocked down by its sudden savage rush. Helpless, the man was trampled.

TIGER ISLAND

By Gouverneur Morris

Chapter 33
"TIGER, TIGER!"

It began to look as if even the barricade of fire would not much longer hold the tiger back and toward dusk, working with feverish haste, Bowers finished the deadfall for the last time.

He had simplified it somewhat and there remained a twelve-foot piece of coconut stem for which there was no logical place in the new design and no real need.

"Where are you going to put that piece?" Ivy asked.

The tiger just beyond the line of fire snarled at the sound of her voice, and Bowers answered: "It ain't no going to put it anywhere."

As he spoke he gave the big stick a little push with his hand so that it would fall away from him and at the same moment, or almost at the same moment, realized what an idiotic thing he had done and sprang for the falling timber in a vain effort to catch it and keep it from falling.

The further end of the timber grazed the nearest of the three triggers and the deadfall collapsed with a heavy crash. Bowers sprang back to be out of danger, but not far enough. His head was merely grazed, but he fell as helplessly as one of his own legs and lay unconscious at Ivy's feet.

During the long siege Ivy had seen calm and untroubled, but her nervous system had been slowly going to pieces. She perceived at once that Bowers was not dead.

Instinct told her immediately that unless he came to quickly and was able to help himself, there was nothing between him and untrodden, but the barrier of fire which they had made against the tiger was burning low. The way to Bowers over the fallen timbers of the deadfall was simple and direct.

Her mental processes at the moment were quick and cool. If the tiger came to them it would be with a rush. Better, she thought, for her to go to him while the fire still burned and he still hesitated to attack.

If the gun failed her, as it probably would, the tiger, when he had killed her, would for some time pay no further attention to Bowers. Bowers would have a chance to come to and save himself.

"You great, cowardly, skulking beast," she said and she stepped forward on the last of the fallen logs to firm ground, separated from him by no more than a dozen feet. "Afraid of a little fire? I don't see what I am doing with this gun. I could drive a thing like you with a whip. I wish I had my whip. I'd cut your hide to ribbons!"

Words angrily spoken might, she conceived, serve a little to bewilder the tiger. She kept the gun pointed at him, and the hammerstone ready to strike. If only he wouldn't make a move until she was within a few feet of him!

In places the fire was almost out. She stepped across it, and the tensed muscles of the tiger began to quiver. He was going to spring.

She drew a long shivering breath and bit her lips. Then with death staring her in the face, she suddenly smiled and in a loud voice began to repeat:

"Tiger, tiger burning bright . . ."

She finished with a wild scream of rage and fear. The tiger sprang, and she struck the firing-pin of the gun with a hammer stone. There was a terrific detonation. She saw ten thousand stars.

When Ivy came to, it was night and a heavy weight was being lifted from her. Her brain began to clear.

"What happened?" she asked.

But Bowers, who was kneeling beside her and feeling gingerly for broken bones, did not answer.

"Do you hurt much anywhere?" he asked.

"No . . . no . . ." she said, "not particularly. But I feel numb and prickly."

She had reason to feel that way. She had been lying under the body of a dead tiger for nearly two hours.

Bowers lighted a match.

Ivy was all a mess of blood. But it was all tiger blood. She hadn't a scratch. She had only one bad bruise. This had been made by the recoil of the gun. Her right shoulder hurt her for several days. She was weak and shaken, but the hurt had been to her nervous system and not to her body. She was even able, after resting awhile to climb the notched pole to the cave.

They talked well into the night. Bowers was so proud of Ivy that he couldn't stop telling her so and she didn't.

Ivy herself was happier than she had ever been before. There is nothing in the world so sweet as praise that is well deserved.

Usually they waked at dawn. The next morning, however, they overslept.

When Bowers yawned his way to the mouth of the cave to have a look at the weather the sun had already cleared the volcano. Having blinded himself somewhat in ascertaining the exact position, the sun he stood blinking and did not for some minutes perceive the gray hull of a gunboat at anchor in the lagoon.

When he did at last see the Lady-smith, he turned and rushed back into the cave laughing and shouting like a schoolboy. He got out the starred and striped flag of his country, hitched it to the waiting hal-

REMISSION OF TAX PENALTIES IS ADVOCATED

DELINQUENT TAX BILL URGED AS SUBJECT FOR REMISSION

AUSTIN, Oct. 5. (P)—If Texas Centennial sponsors heed the advice of Rep. T. H. McGregor of Austin, veteran legislator and friend of the administration, they will support relief legislation before seeking an appropriation to help finance the exposition.

Governor Miriam A. Ferguson has strongly indicated another special session of the Texas legislature will be necessary.

Legislation likely to be considered at the session was ranked in importance by McGregor as:

Remission of penalties and interest on delinquent taxes.

Creation of the lower Colorado river authority to obtain a $4,500,000 F.W.A. loan and grant to complete a hydro-electric power project.

Remission of certain ad valorem taxes in the Brazos river watershed to help finance a $50,000,000 flood control and power project.

Lastly, appropriation of state funds to help finance an exposition of the recent session ended. The Brazos river bill died in the house.

After passage of the relief and development bills, "we can approach a consideration of the Centennial with a courage and a determination worthy of that great purpose and make for it appropriations which will insure its success," McGregor observed.

"Without either the first three bills enacted into law we will demonstrate a lack of faith in and fairness to ourselves which will perhaps not only hamper but hinder a successful Centennial."

LEGISLATURE WILL ATTEMPT TO PASS 4 BILLS AT NEW SESSION

BY CHARLES E. SIMONS.

AUSTIN, Oct. 5. (P)—A concentrated drive for the accomplishment of four objectives will be made at the expected special session of the Texas legislature which may come soon.

Advocates of the four propositions, although widely separated in individual views on the merits of the respective proposals, would form a coalition to get all of them across. It would be a case of "you vote for my bill and I'll vote for yours" with the expectation of passing all of them singly each might fall.

The governor has indicated she would strive for enactment of a law affording relief to hard pressed property owners whose taxes have become delinquent and incurred consequent heavy penalties and interest and for passage of the Colorado river authority and Brazos river conservation and reclamation district bills. All failed in the recent special session, the tax penalty remission being choked off in the closing hours, the Colorado river bill dying in conference while the Brazos river bill never gained house consideration.

The fourth prime purpose of the session would be to appropriate state funds to aid financing the Texas Centennial in 1936.

It is conceded the centennial appropriation will have tough sledding and meet with serious opposition from those members who take one look at the rapidly mounting state deficit and throw up their hands when mention is made of incurring further obligations.

When reports gained circulation that an appropriation of $5,000,000 would be asked for the centennial the house adopted a resolution to sound out the sentiment of the general public through a referendum to be conducted by the secretary of state. It was adopted by a substantial margin but was killed in the senate by a close vote after sharp debate.

The legislature, through a constitutional amendment adopted two years ago, was authorized to extend financial assistance in carrying out the centennial. Members, in view of other conditions, believed the legislature should be given another opportunity to express itself on the question, particularly with respect to the proposed $5,000,000 appropriation.

Moves to consider a centennial appropriation in the closing days of the special session met instant, and formidable opposition which centennial leaders hoped to dissipate through an extensive educational program setting forth the benefits that would be derived by the state from a properly planned observance of Texas' 100th birthday.

When an elderly woman of San Diego, Cal., began to remodel a coat given her by the county welfare bureau she found $1,500 in the collar lining and returned it to the bureau.

Clubman Debate Tax Amendment

The proposed state amendment to limit appropriations to $22.50 per capita annually through limiting of the ad valorem tax was debated before Pampa Lions Thursday by Supt. R. B. Fisher and C. H. Walker.

Mr. Fisher was assigned the negative and Mr. Walker the affirmative. Mr. Fisher said the amendment, if voted, would reduce the scholastic appropriation for Gray county by about $25,000 annually and otherwise cripple the school system of Texas. Mr. Walker said the amendment would be a check on the legislature without imperiling any present state functions.

There will be no luncheon of the club next week but instead the club will be host to Lions from Miami, McLean, Clarendon, and Claude. A business session of the zone will be held at 7 p. m. at the Schneider clubroom, followed by a ladies' night banquet in the dining room. T. A. Landers of McLean is zone chairman. George Briggs will be toastmaster for the banquet.

Visitors yesterday were W. F. Finley of Washington, D. C., H. O. Shields and W. T. Hollman of Amarillo.

SALES TAX TALK SWEEPS NATION; 22 STATES HAVE SIMILAR LEVIES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. (P)—Sales tax talk—pro and con—is sweeping the country.

A survey showed today that the sales tax wave has rolled over the nation until 22 states now have such levies in one form or another.

Under the domes of many a state capital this winter the controversial subject of inaugurating or extending such taxes will arise again. For states, like their Uncle Sam, are wrestling with deficits.

The movement toward sales and other newer forms of taxation has gained momentum as real estate taxes in many cases have reached a point of diminishing returns. Real property owners have been crying for relief.

Gasoline taxes, seized upon since the war as a lucrative source of revenue, also have been boosted in some states to the point where it is difficult to raise them higher. Income levies, whose use by states has been growing, have risen in many instances until, combined with the federal tax they have become a sizeable burden.

States that have sales taxes include Arizona, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia.

In some cases such taxes are applied to all retail sales, in others to selected products and services. In still others the tax is collected only from manufacturers.

The costs of collection range from comparatively low to high figures. In West Virginia the average cost over six years was 1.31 per cent, whereas recent figures from Mississippi show a cost of 16.7 per cent. The variations are described as due, to some extent, to differences in the laws.

yards and proudly hoisted it to the top of its flagpole, where it gayly flapped and rattled in the fresh breeze from the sea.

On the Lady-smith there were many pairs of sharp eyes, and a few minutes later the credit of being the first to see "Old Glory" went to the boatswain's mate. Two minutes later, and thereafter at intervals of a minute for twenty-one minutes, the Lady-smith fired a gun.

During those twenty-one minutes many other things happened.

While the flag was being saluted, the commander of the Lady-smith, gazing through his marine-glasses, had a lamentable lapse from his usual precise and correct English, and was heard to murmur: "It's them."

While the flag was still being saluted, a boat was lowered, and this CHAPTER 33—Continued pushed a thought in Ivy's head. She rushed back into the cave and returned with the dress which she had made on the Bolder in one hand, and a blue dress, also of a wash material, in the other, and in a great excitement asked which she should wear.

"The gold brocade," said Bowers joyously, "and don't forget your diamonds."

Other things happened. Bowers started off to greet and meet the landing party. As he started down the ladder, the remorseful Helen, unseen by him, was starting up.

Meeting in the middle, neither of them stopped, but there was a second of time during which Helen did not climb the ladder, but the somewhat startled Bowers himself. He shouted to Ivy, "Look who's here! Helen!" and dropped the remaining six feet and hurried to the beach.

Wiping hands helped with the packing, and transferred all of their belongings to the boat. But Helen, stylishly dressed for the occasion in her red coat with the gold braid, and her little green hat with the red feather, insisted on carrying her own suitcase.

Tiger Island was not an accident. Tiger Island was not an accident. The great smoke rising from the conflagration in the back valley had been seen and reported by a passing ship. The Admiralty had decided that it would be worth while to investigate. The Lady-smith had received orders, and here she was.

Yes, Wong Bo had been captured, and had taken his own life. Bowers' guns had been recovered and were in apple-pie condition. What, he no longer had any use for them? He was going to give up big-game hunting?

Ivy said that he didn't have to unless he wanted to, but he insisted that he was going to trade in his guns for a lot of cameras and do that kind of big-game hunting.

That night at dinner the commander and the second in command wanted to know all about the economies and routines of life on a desert island, but Bowers was much too gay and joyous to be serious.

"I did all the cave-keeping," he said, "cooking, washing, ironing, shelling peas, peeling potatoes and working the vacuum cleaner. I wore a cap and an apron. The woman did all the hunting."
