Four hurt as twister slams into Borger

By TOM ALLSTON Staff Writer and the Associated Press

BORGER - A tornado injured at least four people and caused heavy structural damage to a Phillips Petroleum Co. natural gas plant here

Saturday night, authorities said. One of two other tornadoes 'that touched down near the nearby community of Fritch extensively damaged one house and destroyed a barn, but caused no injuries, said Hutchinson County Sheriff's Sgt. Bob Police Chief Arthur Waight said the Borger twister knocked down cooling towers at the plant. But he said there was no danger of fire.

The first twister roared within a few hundred vards of Borger's Aluminum Dome, where about 400 people were attending a fish fry.

According to Eck Spalich, managing editor of the Borger News Herald. possibly most of those attending the gathering were unaware of the storm's passage, as the sirens sounded only about 30 seconds before the storm came minutes before," reported Spalich. Then it stopped, and I went out to check on my car. All of a sudden it got very quiet...and we saw the tornado. It was beautiful. And everybody got scared as

"Huge hail had been falling a few

"It flipped over two cars near the Dome. he said. "One driver apparently got out before it hit, but then had a heart attack.

Spalich said the man was taken by ambulance to North Plains Hospital in Borger, then transferred to Amarillo. Extent of the property damage to the area was unassessed at News press (see Tornado page 2)

Four charged with hold-up in Canyon

By DAVID CHRISTENSON Staff Writer

Four people, including two Pampa residents, were indicted by a 47th District Court grand jury Thursday on charges of aggravated robbery and robbery of a Canyon Allsup's convenience store March 29.

Arlen Scott Thompson, 19, of 211 Texas, and Debra Sue Hasty. 23, of 901 E. Albert, were indicted on the two counts. Laura Youngquist. 18, of Abilene, and Wesley K. Crow. 19, of Route 3. Box 496. Canyon, were also indicted on charges stemming from the robbery

Police reports say the robbery, performed using a handgun and a ball connected with two other robberies of Allsup's stores in Pampa and White Deer the same night. Thompson was also arraigned in Pampa May 27 on a charge of aggravated robbery

Police claim Thompson entered Allsup's No. 77 in Pampa at about 2:30 a.m., displayed a hammer in his back pocket, and told the clerk to go to the back room of the store.

About $85 was taken from the cash register of the Pampa store.

Two men entered the White Deer store later and robbed the cash register of about $250, according a Carson

Lousy economy blamed for oil drilling slump

By JEFF LANGLEY Staff Writer

incentives for drilling wells, and generally lousy economic conditions were blamed by area oilmen and officials for current sagging oil and gas production. Drilling rigs are being stacked and put out of commission. and industry workers are being laid off, due to the slowing oil and gas activities.

Officials report a nationwide count of operating drilling rigs by Hughes Tool Company dropped from a peak of 4.250 manufacturing operations, but a company spokesman said units in December 1981. down to 3.128 units in operation last month.

Only 17 intentions to drill were filed for the Panhandle District during the week ending June 3. The previous week 32 on lowered drilling activities, due to high interest, lower drilling intentions were filed.

A Pampa Railroad Commission official said area drilling is down 30 percent, compared to the same period last year. The official said he expects activity to drop even more this

Nearly 200 people out of a work force of 1.000 have been laid off at Pampa's Ingersoll - Rand Plant over the past spokesman could not confirm layoffs there and said Tight money, a drop in crude prices, a loss of tax information about job reductions must come from the company president, who is reportedly out of town until Monday

Halliburton Corporation announced layoffs this week at its Duncan. Okla. and Amarillo plants. but a company spokesman here said Pampa operations have not been affected yet by the cutbacks.

Huber Corporation in Borger cut 20 jobs from its rig all but seven people were absorbed into other company operations.

Spokesmen for Ingersoll and Huber blamed their lay offs crude prices and an economy stuck in recession.

Local independent drillers and oil field servicing operators blamed the same factors as did the corporation executives. More specifically though, an oil investments specialist and a Texas Railroad Commission official said many investors are not putting money into oil and gas drilling at this time. Commission official John Rodgers said he thinks some investors fear loss of tax incentives for well drilling. He said

Job cutting has also been reported at Serfco, but a Serfco the some investors believe the government will take away tax deductions for the tangible costs of drilling a well.

> Rodgers said investors can deduct up to 70 percent of the tangible costs of drilling a well from their income taxes. He said some investors are afraid they will invest in a well > now, only to find later that the tangible costs deductions will not be allowed

He said if the government does take away the tangible deductions, "It will kill drilling deader than a doorbell.

Special Report

However, Tom Byrd, investments manager for Edward Jones & Company, said investors do not fear loss of tax incentives, but he said there is just not much money available for tax - shelter investments at this time

He also echoed the drillers' belief that falling crude oil prices have shut many operations down.

Byrd said some drillers could not make a profit when domestic crude oil prices dropped from $34.35 to $28 per

However, he said the main reason for a lack of investors in oil and gas exploration is that corporations and individuals do not have extra income to shelter in production

Byrd said the recession has cut corporation profits which could be sheltered in oil and gas production. He said profits normally looking for tax shelters in oil and gas are just not

He said now is actually the best time for investors to put money into oil and gas drilling, but said, "Most people won't drill when prices are down.

Byrd said now is a good time for investors and a bad time for drillers. "Drillers are chasing deals. There is more competition to bid a well," he said.

Most people contacted said they believe the situation will turn around when oil prices rise and the economy improves. 'It's been like this for years and years. It's up and down-I have seen it do this over and over." remarked one longtime oil industry observer.

Calvin Ray Cornwell, 29, of Skellytown, was arrested in Mesquite late Thursday on a Gray County burglary warrant

The arrest marks the end of a week long investigation by Pampa police into the May 30 burglary of Johnson's Home Furnishings store at 406 S. Cuyler, an investigation that store manager Delbert Johnson has praised for its thorough coverage at the scene and speed in identification of the suspect.

It began as Officer Larry Hinds, on routine patrol in the area, noticed something unusual: a van backed up to the rear of the store. Hynds checked out the van, and discovered a report to police that listed it as missing and possibly stolen Checking out the scene, he discovered evidence of an incomplete act of

"They were fixing to make a pretty good raid," Johnson said. The glass on the back door had been smashed to gain entry, and about $3,500 to $4,000 in merchandise had been loaded into the

Two video tape recorders, a cabinet stereo system, and two color television sets had already been loaded. A color video camera valued at $1,000 was found on a bedspread on the floor of the store, according to Johnson

Johnson said he had three similar cameras in stock, and he believes the burglar was planning to load them into the blanket to carry them out more

When Hinds saw this scene, he called other police units to Johnson's. Five officers searched the store for a burglar, Johnson said, and at least one other patrol car was stationed on Cuyler Street to watch for an escape.

Johnson said "there were plenty of police officers there to help " And through information recieved before by the police, they "had a suspect's name within half - an - hour

Johnson and police said the burglar apparently could not get the van started after loading it, and gave up on the burglary attempt before the police team arrived.

'Maybe he figured he had all he could get." Johnson said.

A warrant was issued for Cornwell. and the investigation effort was in the hands of Pampa Police Detective Ron

Through work that Police Chief J.J. Ryzman called "just plain legwork, detective work," Howell was able to locate Cornwell in Mesquite, a suburb just east of Dallas

Cornwell was arrested by Mesquite police, and will be transferred to custody in Pampa

"I believe the police did an excellent job," Johnson said.

Spending will not plummet

By OSCAR COOLEY

The Republicans want to reduce government spending by paying out $40 billion less in Social Security checks over the next three years. People who supposedly speak for the aged protest, but Reagan and his aides assure them the truly elgible will not be cut, that those who are receiving payments fraudulently will be weeded out and other economies made.

Democrats, hungry for old folks' votes, would balance the budget, not by cutting Social Security but by raising taxes and cutting defense outlay. Their opponents come back with the warning that during a severe economic recession is no time to raise taxes, that these should be cut instead, and that to reduce defense is to endanger the safety of the U.S. from attack.

But government spending must be reduced, for the Treasury has to borrow much of the nearly trillion dollars a year it is spending and its huge volume of borrowing is the main cause of the high interest rates.

There is no doubt but what the rapid increase in government spending must be halted and the total spending eventually reduced. Social Security benefits being a major item in government outgo, how to reduce these has become a vital question.

The originators of the Social Security system in the 30's little realized what a mare's nest they were building. They reasoned that as people grow old they come to an age when they can no longer earn by working and so must fall back on pensions. But a pension is simply interest on a principal that consists of prior saving. Not trusting workers as individuals to save enough, the Social Securers legislated compulsory saving, that is, a tax on wages, the revenue being invested to yield future pension

This, be it noted, was socialism substituted for individualism in the area of old age insurance. Events proved it was an unwise substitution. The outgo has vastly exceeded the income, causing the principal to shrink and threaten soon to disappear. Hence, the present pressure to reduce the benefit payments.

Undoubtedly, much can be saved by eliminating wrongful payments and operating more efficiently, but such savings can only give temporary relief. The basic difficulty is that the number of people legally eligible for Social Security benefits has grown rapidly and is still growing, both in numbers and in demands or government dollars.

Senior Citizens are a new class in America. They include everyone who is 65 or over, that being the age at which the Social Security act provided that people could stop earning and start collecting.

Seniors are a larger percentage of the population than used to be the case because people live longer. This in turn is because of doctors' skill and new medicines and treatments that have been discovered.

Old folks are more independent now. Many have personal savings, they belonging to a generation that was taught to save, and they also receive those monthly Social Security checks. They don't have to live with relatives as Grandpa and Grandma used to, but live by themselves. When they fail and can no longer make a cup of tea, they go to a

Politicians are well aware that the seniors are a class with special interests. The old folks are loyal citizens, believe strongly in democracy, and are in the habit of going to the polls every voting day. Constituting about one - sixth of the population, they are a voting bloc to be catered to. The parties vie to see which can give the old folks the more benefits. Budget by assumption

By DON GRAFF

One thing to keep in mind about the great budget debate is that it is about

To start with, the original administration proposals back in January were based on an optimistic assumption that after a virtually no growth 1982, the gross national product would resume expansion by a healthy 5.2 percent the next year, 5 percent in 1984 and 4.7 percent in 1985.

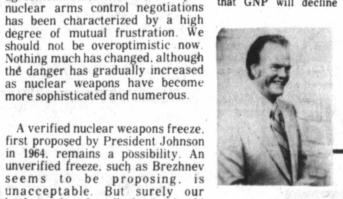

Those were regarded as excessively optimistic assumptions by the Democratic opposition and most economists, and one result of the weeks of otherwise unproductive congressional - White House budget negotiations has been to scale them

The consensus assumption now is that GNP will decline by almost 1 percent this year, with an upturn in 1983 projected at 4.5 percent. The figures for the following two years similarly have been revised downward to 4.1 and 3.7

And then there is inflation, with assumed rates currently in the 6 percent and 7 percent annual range throughout the four - year period. On this basis, and assuming all tax cuts take effect as now planned, it is being assumed tax revenues will rise steadily from $623 billion this year to $780 billion in 1985. But expenditures, as now projected, will rise more rapidly from $742 billion in 1982 to more than a trillion dollars in 1985.

What you get from putting these last two sets of figures together are assumed federal deficits beginning at $119 billion this year and climbing steadily and steeply to $233 billion in

By PAUL HARVEY

You will be a Millionaire, but . . .

By PAUL HARVEY

As our nation's economy recovers its virility, Americans will have more money to spend and wil resume bidding prices upward Resultant inflation will mean that our dollars will start shrinking again - so we will demand and get more dollars. Within 40 years, just your income from IRA savings may make you a millionaire - but it could take more than that just to buy food. History says that of all economic ills, the one malignant one is inflation. And no nation has yet found a permanent cure for it. Something happened last fall which was noted by almost nobody. The President's chronic critics eagerly focused your attention on our nation's trillion dollar debt - but, at the same time and unnoticed - our government went another trillion dollars in debt.

The second trillion dollars is what we taxpayers are going to have to provide to cover the pensions of federal government employees.

Federal employees retired or retiring expect pensions which already total a thousand billion dollars. Former Congressman Hastings

Keith, retired, is now collecting three separate pensions — but he does not approve of the practice, calls the continuing escalation of pensions "a time bomb

What with military personnel and civil servants retiring earlier from jobs which pay more, plus cost - of - living adjustments, that obligation which taxpayers must pay has been increasing more than 10 percent per Editor Marvin Stone of U. S. News says, "Mathematically, our future is

For every dollar the civil - service employee contributes toward his own pension, taxpayers contribute five. Military personnel contribute nothing toward theirs.

Most members of Congress are understandable reluctant to consider any curtailment of pensions because of the generous retirement benefits which they have voted for themselves, as much as $48,500 a year plus cost - of living adjustments.

Indeed, nobody can rightly condemn the retirement income earned by working people when our nation is so generous with people who don't work at

But as Rep. Barber Conable of New York says, "We have constructed a federal pension system over the years which goes far beyond reasonable limits and threatens to overwhelm America's taxpayers.'

The only option - if there is not a de escalation - is to print more money worth less.

And anybody presently on retirement

"Changes in the cattle business - Lord, how would you describe that?

Emmett LeFors has seen them, though: the changes. Since the first decade of this century, he's been involved in the Texas cattle business. Involved in the Panhandle.

He leans forward in his chair, then back, brow furrowed with the remembering. A smile chases the lines away, and he shakes his head.

"I was up in Kansas, and I stopped at a place to get my boots shined. I didn't even look at the guy sitting next to me, up on that high shine stand...didn't even think I knew him.

"Then suddenly he turns to me, and says, 'Emmett - you and me both got too much sense to be in this business!' He was a good friend, and he committed suicide later, in

It was in the Thirties, and the Great Depression had settled deep on the land, and those who lived off it. Panhandle cattlemen were tied tight to the land itself. LeFors, then in his forties, had already been ranching for 20 years or more. He had already seen his hard times. "After the war (World War I) things were bad. Cattle brought 6 or 7 cents a pound. I lost a lot. Then, by '24, I'd begun to make money. The Crash of '29 came...

He pauses, grins again, remembering "The Crash caught me with 1800 yearlings I'd just purchased from 3 - C Cattle Company.'

It was typical of LeFors' life and career as a cowman. Listening to him recount 70 years and more of life as a Texas rancher - he is a deceptively active 92 years old - one gets the feeling that this is just the sort of man author William Faulkner was talking about when he said in his Nobel speech, "Man will not endure: he will prevail."

Emmett LeFors has prevailed. Over youthful inexperience, early responsibility, economic setbacks, and o a great measure over time itself.

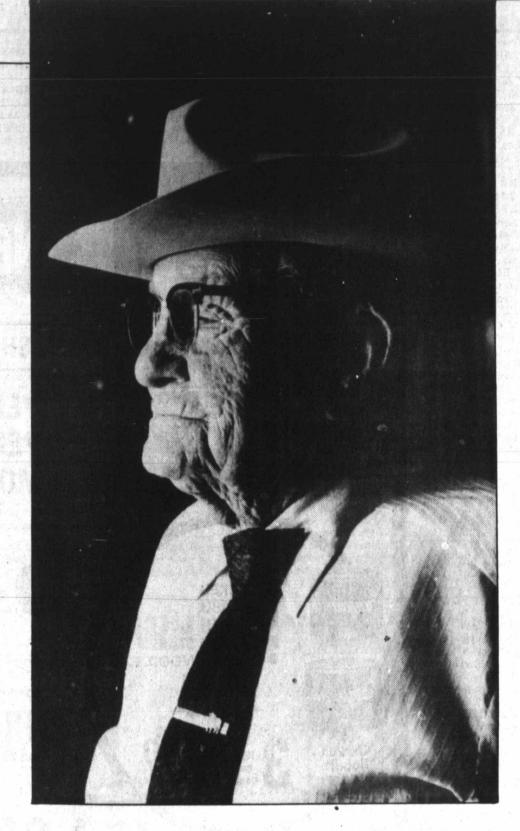

He was born in 1889 in Mobeetie - then a thriving town with 13 or 14 saloons." Perry LeFors had come into the area in about 1874, working for Col. Charles Goodnight and for 'old man Groom." He had established a camp on Cantonment Creek - and had begun to acquire land and cattle for himself.

"I was 8 or 9 when I started helping my father out," he recalls. "By the time I was 16 or 17, I'd made him a hand." It was in his teens, he recalls, when his father sent him on a solo mission to round up some strays from a distant range. "He told me, 'There's a bunch of remnant steers up by Lark. Go up and get 'em. But be careful when you go through a gate or anything: if that horse throwed you and kicked you in the chest, it might be a month before we found you.' You know, there's not many folks now that'd send a kid on a job

But he came back, and he learned the business, and by the time his father died in 1909, Emmett, then 20, was ready for the task of being a rancher.

"The Groom pasture was 60 sections. Levi D. Rider had equired it from the White Deer Land Company, and my dad leased it for 10 cents an acre," he recalls. "I stayed in that camp and looked after that pasture with another hand in 1912 - 13. Then they began to plow that pasture up.

Settlers were being enticed to the Panhandle by the landowners - more and more of them.

"They'd bring them in, and have excursions. There was a big yellow house there, and on its side was painted: '600,000 acres for sale to actual settlers. Low rate of interest and 40 years to pay.' I think they built the house just for the sign.' he opined.

"Charlie Tignor drove a big hack for the White Deer Land Co., and Bill Wilkes did too. They'd bring that big old hack up, and load up the people, and take them out to show them LeFors pauses a long moment in recollection. "I wish I'd made notes when old Charlie was alive," he says a little sadly. "He knew the names of all the windmills and all the little lakes, all over the Panhandle.

where all those were any more.' He sits a little longer in thought. He is no stereotype of the Old Cowhand: compact and energetic, sitting quietly, hatless, in boots, slacks, white shirt and tie, he looks more a cross between an oldtime rancher and a New York merchant. It's hard to picture him on a horse. But he's spent a lot of time on horseback just the same.

"A couple of reporters in Kansas one time did a story on me. They said they wanted a picture of me rounding up

"I said, 'Do you think I round up cattle all by myself? Well, I don't.' So they said to just get up on a horse, and they'd take their pictures. And they did.

Favorite horse? One out of all he's had?

"No - I loved 'em all. I've had some good horses in my time, too. One was called Red Leather. He had a lot of endurance. Must've had some high blood in him. The horses we had back then had a lot of Spanish - bred blood in them, and we had some good ones."

"I went all over on horseback. Up to Amarillo, and to Goodnight — I'd stay overnight with the Colonel.

"I first saw cars about 1911 - 1912. I had one then, a little Ford roadster. And I'd dam' sure go places!"

Emmett LeFors has gone places. He maintains a pasture in Kansas where he runs about a thousand head, in addition to those on his pasture near Miami.

"I've gone up there every year since 1914. When I first went there, it was nothing but a sea of grass.' Rangeland in the Panhandle in the early part of the century was already "pretty well fenced," he recalls. "They used ribbon wire - a strip of wire about half an inch wide, with barbs on it. I found a roll of it on a fencepost some Years. His accumulation of them sits like a mantle of quiet

"Had a nice party for my 90th. But when I hit 100, I'm going to have one that lasts three days!'

He has mixed emotions following the naming of Lefors after his father. Perry LeFors had established a camp at the site, to serve the route from Mobeetie to Tascosa.

"Henry Tutt came across the Canadian River in a wagon to live there and run the camp. He left the womenfolk in Mobeetie and started the camp.

But when the citizens of the LeFors camp decided they wanted a post office, he says, trouble developed over the

"They said they couldn't have a compound name, or some such foolishness, and so they made it Lefors. That's not right: there's lots of compound names in this country

But Le - smail f - ors hung on, while Mobeetie "just sorta dwindled" to its present, stable size as the railroad bypassed it time and again.

And Emmett LeFors prevailed, surviving the Depression to rebuild again - and in 1935 married Musette Sewell of Plainview. She died in 1971.

Emmett LeFors' success as a rancher has spanned more than half a century. It takes determination and tenacity for a record like that. But there's much more to LeFors: he has "always come up with a smile on his face," according to one longtime friend.

And he has aided his cause all along with imagination and plain moxie. He smiles as he recalls being able, at the worst of times, to to deliver a gentle kidding

"It was during the Depression, and I went to my banker and said, 'I just bought 900 head down in Scurry.' 'Oh?' he said, 'And who's going to pay for them?'

"I said, 'I thought you would.' He said, 'And who's going to Answered Emmett LeFors:

Swine producers in Gray County should keep their guard up to prevent pseudorabies from infecting their herds. The virus disease has been a major problem in the Midwest but a recent case in Texas has resulted in a number of herds Pseudorabies is caused by a herpes virus which affects the respirator, reproductive and nervous systems of animals. The these apparently normal animals are then a source of infection for susceptible animals.

Most outbreaks occur after infected feeder pigs or breeding stock are introduced into a herd. Once the disease is established in a herd, it spreads to other swine on the farm or on neighboring farms by direct contact between infected and susceptible animals or by way of contanimated clothing, boots or equipment. Dogs, cats, and many wild animals also can spread the disease. The virus can survive the move to other farms in waterways and surface drainage.

Symptoms of pseudorables in swine are variable. Baby pigs may die suddenly without showing any sumptoms or they may live several days and show signs such as vomiting, diarrhea, listlessness, weakness and loss of appetite as well as incoordination, violent shaking, circling, paddling movement of legs and convulsions. Their temperature may exceed 105 degrees F. The mortality rates for pigs under two weeks of age can be 100 percent.

Older pigs may show similar symptoms and also signs of respiratory involvement such as sneezing, coughing, rubbing of the nose and a nasal discharge. Death losses will range from 5 to 50 percent

Mature swine are more resistant than younger pigs ans symptoms and death losses are not as severe Pregnant sows may abort or give birth to mummies, weak or stillborn pigs. Sows infected early in pregnancy may return to heat.

To prevent pseudorabies, purchase herd additions only from herds free of the virus. Breeding stock purchased from out-of state must be negative to a blood test made not more than 30 days before entry into Texas. Regardless of the source of stock, hold new purchases in strict isolation for 30 to 60 days and retest beore adding them to the herd.

Restrict visitors from areas where swine are kept. Require clean clothing, and scrub and disinfect boots before entering swine areas. Scrub and disinfect instruments and equipment before using them in swine areas.

Other precautions are to keep dogs and cats away from swine, burn or bury dead animals deeply, fence swine away from waterways and dainage channels, and keep them from contacting swine on neighboring farms.

Affected herds should be quarantined. Unaffected pigs should be separated from sick pigs and movement between them strictly controlled. Dead pigs shoud be buried deeply or burned. Recovered pigs should be sold only for slaughter.

Swine recovering from pseudorabies are immune for long periods of time. They can, however, remain carriers of the virus and a source of infection for susceptible pigs.

Temporary immunity is passed to baby pigs from immune sows by way of the colostrum, but this immunity is not always sufficient to protect young pigs from infection.

A modified live virus vaccine is being used in some states to prevent psuedorabies. It is administered to baby pigs at three days of age and repeated every six months. A high level of immunity is atatined, but vaccinated swine can be carriers of the virus and react positively to a blood test. In Texas, a vaccine can be used only with permission from the state

CATTLE UPDATE

From the Extension sponsored Western Livestock Roundup. the following information is given relating to the latest developments in the cattle situation.

The cattle market remained strong throughout May. Continued orderly marketing of fed cattle resulted in average carcass weights remaining well below last year. This has helped limit the increase in beef supplies. Lower hog slaughter, along with lighter hog weights, have resulted in significant reductios in pork supplies relative to last year. The resulting sharply higher hog prices have helped support cattle prices. Increases in poultry production has been moderate.

The number of cattle on feed for the slaughter market May 1 in the seven major cattle feeding states totaled 7.07 million head, up 1 percent from last year and 3 percent more than May 1, 1980. Marketings of fed cattle during April totaled 1.41 million head, a 2 percent increase from 1981 but 1 percent less than April 1980

This year's 1.57 million head of placements during April was the second largest April number since 1977. Although placements were down 9 percent from last year, it is important to note that the 1.71 million head of cattle placed during April 1981 was the largest on record for the seven states during that month. Thus, cattle continue being placed at a pace which indicates that fed cattle slaughter during the later part of 1982 will be significantly above the summer and fall of

Per capita supplies of total red and white meat were record large in 1980. Although total meat production increased slightly in 1981, the increases in production were offset by population growth. This resulted in a slight decline last year in per capita meat supplies from 1980 levels.

Sharply reduced pork production in 1982 will offset slight increases in beef and poultry supplies. The decline in meat supplies combined with continued population growth will result in per cpita supplies of all meats being down nearly 7 or 8 pounds (retail weight) from last year. This year's supply of beef should total nearly 77 pounds per person with pork consumption around 57 pounds and poultry supplies nearly 62 pounds per person.

Prospects look favorable for continued strong fed cattle prices for the next several weeks. However, prices for feeder cattle and light calves are not reflecting better cattle feed profits, and little additional feeder cattle price strength is

The higher prices for all livestock this year have prevailed longer than expected by most analysts. As long as meat supplies continue to be relatively tight, the firm prices should hold. As meat production increases during the next few months, downward price adjustments could be rather swift and severe. However, continued orderly marketing of fed cattle will help cushion any price declines.

Expert says "macho" is the wrong approach

SEATTLE (AP) - Women looking for mates do not like the macho male approach, says anthropologist David B. Givens. If a man sees a woman in a singles bar, for example, and wants to meet her with the intention of becoming intimate, he should approach her indirectly and make a comment about her drink or the music.

Do not say, "What's a nice girl like you doing in a place like this?" Do not mention the word "you," at all. It puts too much pressure on the woman to respond, says Givens.

"Courtship is tentative, ambivalent, an exchange of signs over-a period of time," says Givens, who observes human behavior the way some other anthropologists watch gorillas. Macho is a mistake for the male on the prowl, Givens said in ah interview at the University of Washington, where he is a

"Some men take an over-aggressive pose and come on too strong," he says. "Swaggering, a loud voice, pounding each other on the shoulder is appropriate in a locker room.

"It's male-to-male behavior. Because of movies a lot of men think if they can shine the macho image on a woman she'll think it's attractive.

"They talk too loud and get too close. It's not attractive. These are ways of distancing other men so that when a woman comes in he'll have her to himself - like a bull elk.'

The bearded Givens, 37, of Seattle, earned his doctorate degree in 1976 with research on non-verbal communication. He did much of his work by watching young couples on campus. He says he realized then that most non-verbal communication is courtship.

Now, he's writing a book: "How to Attract a Mate: The Body Language of Courtship.'

The research was carried out on the campus, in singles bars, on buses - wherever Givens could watch people meeting. He analyzed behavior into what he calls units. He identified about 150 units - the tilting of the head, rotating a palm upward, compressing the lips. Many of the gestures, body positions and eye movements are common throughout the world, including the animal kingdom, he says.

He learned which kinds of behaviors led to a successful courtship by noting which encounters led to touching or an exchange of phone numbers or expressions of sexual arousal.

Getting attention is the first of five steps Givens has identified in the courting process.

In stage two the male and female move closer, unconsciously exchanging gestures and eye movements. Stage three is conversation. If all goes well, stage four - sexual arousal - follows with touching, embraces and kissing. Givens calls stage five resolution - "for euphemistic

76ers' coach still has hope despite 3-1 deficit

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham realizes his team is in big trouble. But despite the fact that the 76ers face a 3-1 deficit in the National Basketball Association Championship Series. he doesn't sound like a beaten man.

In fact, Cunningham expressed optimism after the 76ers rallied in the fourth quarter in Game 4 of the series Thursday night, only to lose to the Los Angeles Lakers 111-101.

I thought L.A. was a different ballclub when the game got close," he observed. They stopped looking for the run But that doesn't mean we can come out and just play one good half Sunday as we did tonight. We have to concentrate for 48 minutes.

The 76ers will be trying to do something that's never been done in the 35 previous NBA Championship Series: starting with Sunday's fifth game at the Spectrum in Philadelphia. No team has ever overcome a 3-1 deficit to win the league title. Game 5 begins at 2 p.m., EDT. A sixth game, if necessary, will be played Tuesday night in Los Angeles. A seventh game, if needed, would be played next Thursday night at the Spectrum. We have been in this position before, only the opposite way, up three-to-one," said Cunningham after Game 4. "We know it takes four games to win and we are looking forward to coming back to L.A.

The Lakers led by as many as 19 points in the second half at the Forum Thursday night, but the 76ers battled back, getting as close as seven points in the late going. However, they

"I thought it was a case of celebrating a little too early." said Los Angeles guard Norm Nixon. "When you get somebody down, you have to kick them.

'The pressure is on Philly now. If Sunday's game is close; they'll feel it more than us. I don't think anybody can beat us."

A victory by the Lakers Sunday would not only give them their second NBA championship in the past three years, it would enable them to record the finest one-year postseason record in league history.

Six NBA champions have gone through the playoffs with only two losses. But only the Milwaukee Bucks, in 1971, had to win 12 games to win the title. The Bucks were 12-2 that year, while the Lakers are 11-1 in this year's playoffs.

A member of that Milwaukee team was center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who was playing in his second NBA season. Abdul-Jabbar, who is now 35, had 22 points for the Lakers in Game 4 Thursday night and now has scored 20 points or more in 102 of 108 career playoff games.

Abdul-Jabbar isn't ready to celebrate any championships yet.

"Last year we took the playoffs for granted and found ourselves thrown into an early vacation." said Abdul-Jabbar, referring to the fact that the Lakers were eliminated by the Houston Rockets in a first-round mini-series. "We have a game to win and we're not taking anything for granted.

Russ Francis vows to rise from exile

By Murray Olderman

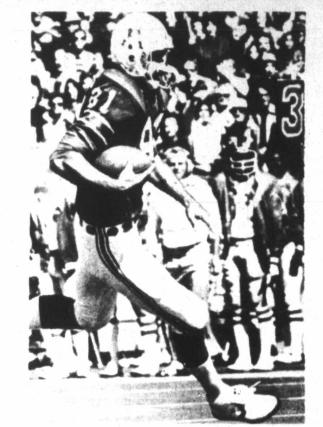

REDWOOD CITY, Calif (NEA) - Given his record for impulsiveness, there's an element of suspense in the announcement by the world champion San Francisco 49ers that they are employing the services of Russell Francis, often acclaimed as the world's greatest tight

When he was a senior at the University of Oregon Russ suddenly forsook the game of football because he didn't approve of a coaching change that had been made Besides, not having to report to practice each day would give him more time for his other interests - like scuba diving, surfing, mountain climbing and horseback riding - which constituted a good excuse to return to his native Hawaii, where those pleasurable pursuits were more available

Then last year, after he had played six impressive seasons of professional foot-ball with the New England Patriots, who had made him their No. 1 draft choice in 1975 despite his unfinished varsity career. Russ abruptly announced that the thrill was gone, that he no longer desired to spend his Sundays solving the mystery of a double zone pass defense.

"The main reason I retired." says Russ reflectively 12 months later "was that there were other things I wanted to do. At 28. I wanted to go into broadcast television

And, of course, he also wanted to go back to scuba diving, surfing, mountain climbing — back in his native Hawaii, naturally and to them he had in the interim added the challenges of sky diving, motorcycle riding and piloting a plane. Somehow, he managed to work in some stints on the air with ABC Television, where his poise, exuberant personality and congeniality came across

At first, his retirement from pro ball was treated skeptically, but as the golden autumn leaves gradually deserted the trees in New England, the Patriots' hopes of ever getting him back were as barren as the bare branches. They made do with a big artist-type named the conditions were right. Don Hasselback at the tight end position while Francis accustomed himself to a

In fact, retrospectively, Francis speculated about the deleterious effects of the game of football. Although he stands 6 feet, 6 inches tall and is magnificently proportioned at 242 pounds, with the speed afoot to keep up and even exceed smaller men, assets which gained him selection to three Pro Bowls, Russ had also been bounced around quite a bit. Rib injuries, concussions and assorted bruises had caused him to miss playing time. He had also been on the field during an exhibition game in 1978 when teammate Darryl Stingley was dealt a blow that crushed his spinal column and left him paralyzed for new mode of life.

"I made a comment that I had some philosophical differences with the game of football," says Russ. "People are going to get hurt, but they don't have to be destroyed. I don't feel the game is brutal. It's a hardhitting, clean game if you play it right.'

During his year's layoff in spite of his supposed disenchantment with the - Russ's services were highly coveted by other teams in the National Football League. During the winter, surreptitious inquiries indicated that he was disposed to play again - if

On the eve of the NFL draft in late April, the San Francisco 49ers effected a trade with the Patriots, acquiring Francis for a mixed bag of draft choices. And the 49ers, knowing they now have the ideal man for the tight end position, are delighted — although Charle Young, the incumbent, won the Len Eshmont Award as the most inspirational player on the team in 1981.

Some of Francis' achievements in the NFL are worth recounting to explain the 49ers' exultation. He scored 28 touchdowns and caught 196 passes for 2,996 yards in his half dozen seasons with the Patriots. His latest season (1980) was his best, with a career high of 41 catches for 664 yards and eight touchdowns. He is also a superb blocker at a position that is vitally important to the success of a team's run-

The only question about him is that unpredictable

"I wouldn't be coming back," says Russ, who quickly agreed to terms in the neighborhood of $200,000 a year, "if my intentions were not completely serious. During my year off, I gained a renewed appreciation for the game.

Cielo wins Belmont crown

Several opponents tried to mount challenges on the final turn of the 11/2-mile race, but when the field turned for home, Conquistador Cielo simply ran away and gave jockey Laffit Pincay his first victory in 17 appearances in Triple Crown competition.

It also was the first Belmont victory for 68-year-old trainer Woody Stephens, who has won stakes with 90 different horses in his

It was a victory that almost didn't happen for Pincay. Eddie Maple was assigned to ride Conquistador Cielo, but he sustained a broken rib and a kidney injury in a spill at Belmont on Friday. Stephens put in a call for Pincay, and the Panamanian veteran flew in from California, after first missing a flight, and arrived in New York at 10 a.m.

Pincay's trip to New York was a lot tougher than his ride in the Belmont.

Conquistador Cielo finished 141/2 lengths in front of Gato Del Sol, with Illuminate another four lengths back and 3% lengths in front of Linkage. It was the biggest winning margin since Secretariat won by 31 lengths in gaining the Triple Crown in 1973.

Conquistador Cielo's victory means this year's Triple Crown was shared by three 3-year-olds. He had not participated in the two previous races - the Derby and Preakness. On this rainy, windy day, Aloma's Ruler, the winner of the Preakness, finished ninth.

Conquistador Cielo reached the end of the 11/2 miles in 2:281-5, four and one-fifth seconds slower than Secretariat's stakes and track record.

The winner, owned by Henryk deKwiatkowski, paid $10.20, $7.40 and $6.80 to his backers in a crowd of 45,128, the smallest Belmont Stakes crowd since 43,832 watched Celtic Ash in 1960

Too Tall may join new league

DALLAS (AP) - Dallas Cowboys defensive end Ed "Too Tall" Jones says he is considering joining the new United States Football League if the current impasse in his contract negotiations is not resolved.

"I'm hoping things work out with the Cowboys and that it doesn't come down to playing in the USFL," said Jones, an All-Pro who left the Cowboys three years ago for professional boxing.

The 12-team USFL gained credibility last week when it signed a 2-year, $22-million TV contract with ABC.

"I'm not trying to use the other league as leverage, but if I can't work things out with Dallas, I'll check out the other league," said the second year of his two-year, no-option $175,000 a year contract.

Cowboys Vice President Gil Brandt said contract negotiations with Jones were going

Jones' New York agent Don Cronson said the salary talks had stalled. Cronson would not specify the details of the negotiations, but he is said to be asking for a four-year contract in the neighborhood of $1.5 million.

'Are we considering the USFL? Absolutely. Every day, it becomes a more realistic alternative," Cronson said. "I've had conversations with people concerned with the league. If anyone is capable of making a move, we've proved we're

Can the NBA stifle free agents?

By Murray Olderman

SAN FRANCISCO (NEA) Franklin Mieuli took off his deerstalker cap, brushed a few strands of wild black hair from his eyes, thrust the morsel of tortellini to the side of his mouth - and outlined a startling proposal to turn back the pages of

In a rare foray into public dining at the Washington Square Bar & Grill, a favorite hangout for sporting and journalistic types, Mieuli suggested that professional athletes be paid what they're actually worth, not what their inflated salaries say they're worth. Mieuli is vitally concerned because he is the owner of the Golden State Warriors, a collection of would-be millionaires in the National Basketball Associ-

Now the senior owner in the sport (having acquired the Warriors 20 years ago), Mieuli is faced with the loss of his prized property, one Bernard King, unless he can ante up enough money to meet an anticipated demand for $750,000 annually

Right now, King's salary is in the rather modest (by basketball standards) neighborhood of $200,000 per annum, which is what Mieuli thinks is just about right—though for good services rendered this past season, he might go so far as to double it. But Bernard has played out his contract.

Professional basketball in the past year has entered the rarefied atmosphere of true free agency, which means a player can go unshackled to another team without any compensation for the team that loses him.

Shortly available on the free-agent mart in the NBA will be: Moses Malone, whose agents are already talking about a $2 millionplus yearly wage; the Warriors' King; young and desirable Kiki Vandeweghe of Denver: and an assortment of oldsters (Elvin Hayes, Dan Issel and Bob McAdoo) on whom no one's going to risk big bucks. The plums are Malone and King. And Mieuli doesn't want to see other teams dangling big bucks in front of his exposed player because to keep King — under the rules now operating — he would have to meet the top offer.

"We've got to hold the line," Mieuli says realisti-cally, "but give the league to antitrust laws."

What Franklin means is that he's got to convince his fellow owners of the folly of bidding against each other. Such action involves an implicit risk of collusion and conspiracy if Mieuli doesn't proceed cautiously in his crusade to get the other owners to embargo free by his lawyer that he can espouse his cause as an indi-vidual owner.

"If I made a speech before the Board of Governors meeting," he admits, "the lawyers would hush me

Not to mention agents for players crawling all over his back. "I say to the agents," says Mieuli scoffingly, "How are you going to prove it?"

As a business proposition, according to Mieuli, a team's entire annual payroll should not be more than $1.5 million. Malone alone wants more than that, and in Los Angeles, Magic Johnson already is collecting $1 million a year for the next 25 years.

Two factors have triggered Mieuli's resolve to turn back the salary clock.

"One," he jabs a finger over his pasta, "there has always been a New Fool theory. A guy buys a club, holds it three to five years, takes advantage of the tax writeoffs, gets his jollies off, then finds out the hard line that it's a business. He the club at a profit.

"I paid less than a million when I bought the Warriors.
The guy in San Diego, Donald Sterling, paid $13 million for an expansion team. I don't think there are that many New Fools around." The cities that "New Fools" would shun are Denver, Utah, San Diego, Cleveland, Detroit, Indiana and Kansas City, and all of those franchises are in trou-

The second factor in Mieuli's sudden concern is the disastrous result of last year, when free agency in the NBA became reality. Los Angeles signed Mitch Kupchak for high six figures and lost him for most of the season because of an injury. Cleveland invested $750,000 in James Edwards, a journeyman center (a move that appalls Mieuli) and also signed Scott Wedman to a whopping contract. Denver. held on to Alex English, but only after Seattle drove up the price with an offer.

"I want to stop it now," insists Mieuli, "before the flood gates open."

Telling him that he's fantasizing are his own people, like aide Scotty Stirling of the Warriors: "Everybody is going to bid on Bernard King."

"They say I'm wasting my money," time, energy and money," nods Franklin. "The other owners are listening to their general managers, coaches and scouts. It's not their money on the line. Listen, the guy pushing the button is the owner." So Franklin offers the radical proposal that they all take their hands off the button before they selfdestruct.

"We are not," says Mieuli firmly, "planning to go into the free market business. I'm going to sign Bernard King to a new contract. I don't want anybody to make him an offer.

The benevolent despot lives again.

The Soul of Travel is Excitement. Leta Olson, 1982

"Come travel with me" may well be a favorite saying of Leta Olson, Pampa High School Marketing Distributive Education (MDE) teacher who spends each summer conducting an educational tour in Europe.

During the nine - month school year Mrs. Olson conducts the MDE program which includes five hours a week in the classroom and 15 hours a week on a related job. She coordinates the program which includes advertising, marketing, food services and a number of jobs which offer hands - on - training

V This year Mrs. Olson and 44 followers will depart on June 29 to study and observe the lifestyles and cultures of several European countries. She believes that to grow to an awareness of human values and forms of expression in several cultures and to gain an appreciation of the role of the past in the development of the present permeates a trip abroad.

While visiting Amsterdam students will have the special opportunity of staying with Dutch families in the suburb of Hoofddorp. Because students will receive six collge hours in Art History, a visit will be made to the Rijksmuseum, which contains the world's richest collection the works of Rembrandt, Vermeer and other Dutch masters.

Architecture too is a vital part of Art History and many visits will be made to the architectural treasures in Europe. The Gothic cathedral in Koln, Germany is one that will be 'visited before the students cruise the River Rhine to Bengin. A brief sightseeing tour of Hudleburg will also be made before the group drives to Switzerland," Mrs. Olsen said.

Classes in International Switzerland and the Swiss People will be conducted at Institute Fatenia in Wangs, Switzerland near Bad Regaz. Students plan to attend the village chapel on Sunday and make a trip to Lucerne to the 14th and 15th century bridges which are carved in wood and adorned with panelled paintings before departing for a skiing trip in the alps

"Two days is a short time to spend in Venice, but the city is a must to the serious student because of its uniqueness and its place in History," Mrs. Olsen said.

Rome, the Eternal City, will be where Ancient Rome, Its History and Civilization; Renaissance Italy, Its Art and History; and Introduction to the Opera will taught at Marianum University.

"In addition to visits to all the usual places one wants to see in Rome, the group will attend the opera and some will spend a day at Naples, Pompeii and the Isle of Capri. On Sunday, July 11, the youth will assemble in St. Peter's Square for the appearance of the Pope, if he is in residence," said Mrs. Olsen

Florence, the cradle of Renaissance Art, is the next stop where the group will have a three day stay which includes a half - day visit to Pisa. Mrs. Olsen said that the art lovers will find the famous galleries of Pitti, the Uffizi and the Academia contain some of the greatest treasures in the world.

"By this time on the trip, everyone is ready for rest and recuperation and so they will return to the lovely Swiss Alps at Leysin situated at an altitude of 4,700 ft. above Lake Geneva. Only one activity is planned during a two - day stay and that will be the Chateau of Chillon made famouse by Lord Byran's poem 'The Prisoner of Chillon'," Mrs. Olson said

The capital of the French - speaking world, Paris, is also a vibrant cultrual center. The student of the arts will have unique opportunities to increase his knowledge in the art galleries, theaters, concert halls and opera of Paris.

Classes at College Stanislas will include Paris Through the Ages; The History and Culture of France; The Impressionists;

After four days in Paris, the group will ferry from Cabras to Dover and then to London for the final five days of their four week trip. While staying in Ramsay Hall of the University of London, classes will be held on The Social and Political Structures of Britain; London The Living City; and Living

Drama. Students will attend the theater in London and the Shakespeare Theater in Stratford - Upon - Avon. Visits will also be made to Windsor Castle, Runnymede, where the Magna Carta was signed and to Oxford. Ample free time in each major city will allow students to explore on their own and allow time for some shopping.

Mrs. Olson has worked for several years with the American Institute for Foreign Study, an organization founded in 1964 to provide educational experiences for students.

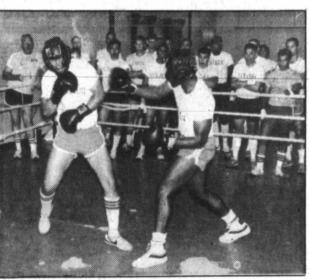

Several local students have just completed a semester of pre

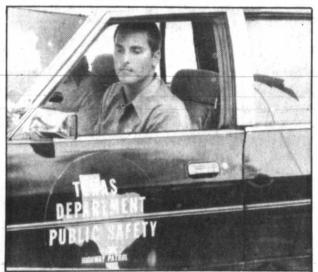

- trip classes and are eagerly looking forward to June 29 when they will depart for Amsterdam. Those from Pampa include Joan Burns, Denise Porter, Tommy Jeffrey, Mike Coon, Shelly Duenkel, Keva Richardson and Melissa Laney. Another area resident, Mrs. John McDowell of Shamrock, will also be touring with the group.

"The soul of travel is excitement about seeing new places. experiencing new cultures, feeling a part of new environments and a desire to learn," says Mrs. Olson, "That is what going to Europe is all about for me and for these young people.

TEXAS STATE TROOPER

AUSTIN - The Texas Department of Public Safety will conduct an additional recruit training school this year to help fill state trooper vacancies, according to DPS Director Jim

The DPS director said the agency hopes to recruit 268 new troopers during 1982

The DPS presently has 86 trooper vacancies within the Highway Patrol ranks and five trooper vacancies in the Driver License Service due to promotions, retirements and attrition.

Adams pointed out that the 67th State Legislature allocated the DPS a total of 20 additional Highway Patrol positions, 10 more License and Weight troopers and 20 additional narcotics investigators over the next two years.

Dear Abby Letters of reassurance By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What can parents do or say to get mail from their son or daughter in the military service? We love our son and write to him often, but we never hear from him. Of course we worry. We don't expect a literary masterpiece. A few sentences to let us know that he is well is all we want.

Abby, we know that your column appears in the Stars and Stripes and just about everybody in the service reads it, so please write a few lines addressing this problem. Thank you.
WORRIED MOM IN YORBA LINDA, CALIF.

DEAR WORRIED: How's this: Servicemen and servicewomen everywhere! Hear this: Long silences worry the folks back home, so even if you have nothing to say, please write a few lines once a week. Example: "Hi, I am alive and well. Feed the dog, kiss Grandma and send cookies."

The sight of your handwriting will make their day. Trust me.

DEAR ABBY: Recently, some friends, a married couple, invited my husband and me to accompany them on a golfing vacation. We accepted (agreeing to pay our own way, of course) and they made the reservations for our party of four for one week at our favorite resort hotel.

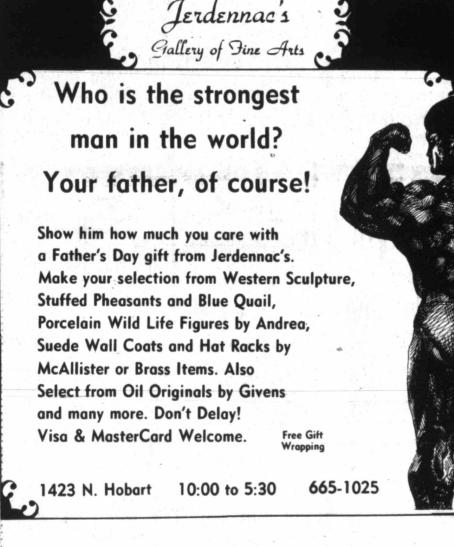

A few weeks later we heard from another couple acquaintances of ours, but unknown to the other couple, They had heard of our plans for this golfing vacation, and much to our surprise they said they had also made reservations for the same time at the same hotel "so we could all play golf together."

Abby, these pushy acquaintances can be enjoyable company for an evening, but spending a "vacation" with them would be a strain.

Is there a tactful way out of this?

IN NEED OF A VACATION

DEAR IN NEED: Tell them as soon as possible that you and another couple have plans for a foursome. If they insist on going, once you get there if you allow these pushy people to include themselves when you really don't want them, you will have to suffer their

Celebrate June the Dairy Month with yogurt

County Extension Agent

It's time to celebrate June as Dairy Month and what better way than with one of the increasingly popular dairy products - yogurt. Yogurt was first discovered in the Middle East during Biblical times, when it was found that milk left in a warm place thickened and developed a tart flavor. Today there are more than 20 flavors to be purchased from among three basic types: (1) flavored, without fruit; (2) flavored, with fruit sundae - style, with fruit at the bottom of the container; (3) flavored with fruit blended - style (Swiss, French, etc.), with fruit blended throughout. Frozen yogurt products are also on the market.

Yogurt is usually made from a mixture of fresh, partially skimmed milk, and non - fat dry milk. The final product may also contain sugar, flavorings, colorings, and fruit. It is possible to make yogurt at home using commercial yogurt as a starter NUTRITIVE VALUE milk group and is a good source of protein, riboflavin and calcium. Yogurt equals milk in its nutrient value, cup for cup, and can count towards the amount of milk recommended daily. Special thereapeutic claims that have been made for yogurt, however, have no scientific evidences to back them up.

Dieters should be aware that the caloric content of yogurt will vary among the different flavors and brands. Many of the sweeteners and the caloric content, but not the nutrients. In general, plain yogurt runs about 180 calories per cup. Fruited or flavored versions may contain over 300 calories per cup. STORAGE AND HANDLING

Yogurt may be stored 10 or more days after purchased if it is handled properly. It should be kept refrigerated. If it has separated, as it normally does, simply stir the liquid back into the solid portion. Unopened cartons with tightfitting lid may be stored upside down to prevent air from entering the carton. Once it has been opened, store it right side up. TIPS FOR COOKING WITH YOGURT

Yogurt's custard - like texture or body will be broken down by any vigorous beating, so treat it gently. Spare the heat in cooking with yogurt. Low temperatures and short cooling times are best or yogurt may separate. This does not hurt the flavor. Yogurt can be stabilized by blending in a small amount of flour or cornstarch

In baked products, use 1/2 teaspoon baking soda for each cup of yogurt used. Yogurt fills in for buttermilk in biscuits and pancakes when thinned with a little water.

In making gelatin salads, one cup of plain or fruit flavored yogurt may substitute for 1 cup of cold water. The change in taste, texture and color is interesting. Yogurt may be substituted for sour cream in most recipes, especially when' calories are being counted and cooking isn't required. The finished yogurt product will be different, less rich and more

Peeking Pampa

A large crowd of us gathered to see Darrell Sehorn's pictures of our recent tornado and to hear his comments and those of weathermen and police officers of the area. The size of the crowd (well over 1,000 people) was a complete surprise to those on the program, and the meeting had to be moved from the Heritage Room to the main hall at the M.K. Brown Auditorium.

Pictures of destructive tornadoes all over the country were shown, suggestions for tornado watching were given. and the Pampa story was detailed from beginning to end. Darrell and associates gave us tremendous insight into the causes and dangers of wind storms. It was a real service to the community. Thanks, Darrell.

Every age was there, from babies to grandparents. It was well worth the evening spent watching and learning. And nearly everybody had a personal story about our special storm

My favorite story was the one about Bob and Mike Keagy. On Tornado Night they decided to stay home and hide from the storm. Mike settled herself in a closet while Bob climbed into the bathtub; both are recommended hideouts from Pretty soon Mike poked her head into the bathtub area and announced, "Everybody needs to decide what he'd want to keep if everything else blew away. I think our family pictures are our most valuable possession." She disappeared and returned shortly with armloads of photo albums. She dumped them all into the tub with Bob.

He swears he sat with his knees against his chin, buried in pictures for an hour and a half. He sat on some, held some - and waited out the storm. When the siren ceased, poor Bob was so stiff in the joints that he could hardly stand up and walk.

Always good to hear of the accomplishments of our young Pampans. Just learned that Chuck E. Ekleberry (son of Chuck J. and Doris) was named a member of the Men of Mining at the University of Texas in El Paso. This is the highest award the university gives and its oldest one; only one man per year is admitted. It represents outstanding service to the school by a student

Chuck Sr. went to El Paso for the ceremony and also to attend Chuck Jr.'s induction into the Scottish Rite Order of the Masonic Lodge

Another young man we're proud of is Dean Birkes, son of Darlene and Wallace. Dean has been given the Eagle Scout Award, the highest honor a scout can attain.

Must not omit the special awards of the Girl Scouts. Seems one of the outstanding girls is Carolyn Mumford, daughter of the Kenneth Mumfords. She was awarded a scholarship by her church, to apply on her college work. She was presented the first Gold Award ever given by the Quivera Girl Scout Council. The Gold Award corresponds to the Eagle Scout Award for

How many four - generation families are now living in Pampa? Know of at least one, the Carmichaels. Paul and Myrtle are the great grandparents, Bob and Virginia are the grandparents, Doug and Sara are the parents, and their daughters Ann and Lee Allison (born May 18), make up the fourth generation.

There are probably other area families in this category. Seems to me Frank and Esther Culberson head a four - generation group. Must be enjoyable to have your whole family so close to you.

The Malcolm Douglass family with daughters, Dixie, Stacy and Kristen, are all peppy personalities, a happy appearing family. Kristen has bubbling enthusiasm for whatever she does. Heard she is spending the summer working at S.M.U. in the president's office. Wonder if all three girls sing? Know that Dixie has a lovely voice and used to sing in her church choir, rejoined whenever she was at home in the summers. Delightful people, the Douglasses.

Where serious issues are con-cerned today, both you and your mate must be careful not to override or veto the other's suggestions. Keep an open mind. JERRY JEFF WALKER New man at 40?

Jerry Jeff has cleaned up his act

AUSTIN (AP) - Jerry Jeff Walker fans who remember the old tales of heavy boozing and too-rowdy times might be surprised to hear what the singer — who just turned 40 — is into these days. He runs, he swims, he takes vitamins, he offers health tips to his friends, and is, most of the time, a

A national music headliner in the '60s and '70s and one of Austin's so-called country music "outlaws," Jerry Jeff's previous incarnation was one of excessive liquor and drug use.

For years, he created cocktail party conversation prefaced by "Did you hear what Jerry Jeff did?" and followed by a tale, which might or might not have been true, of Jerry Jeff offending the sensibilities of civilized people somewhere.

But there is a new Jerry Jeff Walker now. Since he quit smoking, drinking whiskey and eating red meat about two years ago, he is more "Guiding Light" will be taking its viewers to tropical, romantic St. Croix in special on-location sequences which will air within regular episodes of the serial throughout the month of July.

The popular serial will celebrate its 30th anniversary on television on June 30 (also commemorating its 45th broadcast year, counting radio).

These special location sequences, to be taped June 4-9, are by no means the first such trip for 'Guiding Light," which has long been a pioneer in such remotes. Viewers of the serial have previously been treated to trips to New Hampshire and Connecticut, the Caribbean, and recently, to the Canary Islands, in sequences which aired earlier this year.

Two of the serial's current story lines are involved in the St. Croix trip. The first, which will air during the first two weeks of July, features series regulars Lisa Brown (as Nola Reardon), Michael Tylo (as archeologist Quint McCord) and series newcomer Rose Alaio (as Helena Manzini). Also featured will be actor George Kappaz (as Quint's assistant, Gunther Lugosi). Within their current story, Nola and Quint will travel to St. Croix on a quest for the golden temple of a lost civilization, which Quint believes holds secrets he has long sought to complete his archeological work. But Quint's enemies are after those same secrets, and Helena Manzini hopes to be his main obstacle. The second set of sequences (to be broadcast the last two weeks of July), feature series regulars Jennifer Cooke (as young model Morgan Nelson), John Wesley Shipp (as her husband, Kelly) and Robert Newman (as Josh Lewis).

GENERAL HOSPITAL --Jeremy wants Ann to take a daughter was capable of 'Murphy' marriage -- more than love

LOS ANGELES (AP) -When Katherine Cannon's character got married on NBC's "Father Murphy," there was more behind it than

Schoolteacher Mae Woodward was married on the last episode of the first season to John Michael Murphy, the Father Murphy of the title, played by Merlin

Murphy had pretended to be a priest in the family western so that he could get state approval to allow Mae to run a school for orphans. Murphy and Mae were to have been just friends, but it soon became apparent to creator and executive producer Michael Landon that a change was needed in the storyline.

"I think the original idea of Father Murphy being a phony priest led us into some difficult situations," Miss Cannon said. "It didn't lend itself to enough stories. So to keep Father Murphy a father, we got married. That way we can adopt the kids if necessary to keep the school

"Also, we needed to put Father Murphy and Mae into a situation where they could communicate about real life problems," she said. "In the 1860s, men and women didn't talk about those kinds of things unless they were married. The first year was other and we couldn't talk to each other about these problems."

Now, Miss Cannon said, the characters can participate in some family situations.

"I think the audience out there is starved for this," she said: "You don't see many successful marriages on TV...You don't see romance on television, either, and I want the audience to see this romance. They love and care for each other. They have a deep passion for each other."

The series has suffered badly in the ratings, since moved it to Sunday against CBS' "60 Minutes." It had had a respectable rating on Tuesday before the move.

Miss Cannon has spent most of her career working as a guest star on episodic television and doing TV and theatrical movies. She was in "Fool's Parade" with James Stewart, and in such TV movies as "High Ice," with the late David Janssen, and "Will," in which she starred with Robert Conrad as the wife of convicted Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy.

On her left hand, she wears a little gold ring with a little face with a diamond tear and a turned down mouth.

"My dad gave that to me," she said. "He said it was to remind me of my Sarah Bernhardt youth. I was a very
