Crackdown On Mafia Gambling

IRS Linked To City Gambling

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—U.S. Attorney General John Mitchell said in Florida Wednesday "massive" indictments will be brought against public officials in a federal crackdown on Mafia-controlled gambling and corruption in New Jersey.

In another development, New Jersey Attorney General Arthur J. Silles announced he was considering using a state law to remove Newark Mayor Hugh Addonizio from office for refusing to testify before a grand jury investigating corruption in the municipal government.

Mitchell, in an address to the annual meeting of the Investigating Bankers Association of America in Boca Raton, linked gambling in New Jersey to the presence in the Garden State of a large number of Internal Revenue Service personnel controlled by organized gambling syndicates.

Two IRS agents were indicted recently in the Newark area.

Does Not Name State
Mitchell did not name the state involved during his talk but Washington sources confirmed the attorney general was speaking about New Jersey.

"In this state within the next week or 10 days," Mitchell said, "there is going to be a massive indictment of public officials on the local level. And also in this state, through the activities that we have carried on, we're going to break up probably the largest gambling syndicate that's ever been broken up in this country."

In Newark, Silles said he would discuss the possible ousting of Addonizio with Essex County Prosecutor Joseph P. Lordi to see if the statute under consideration "will be effective in this particular instance."

Addonizio invoked the Fifth Amendment Tuesday, declining to answer questions put to him by a federal grand jury probing crime and corruption in municipal government.

Wednesday the mayor admitted knowing reputed Cosa Nostra figure Anthony "Tony Boy" Bolardo, and was temporarily excused from further testimony.

A section of state law dealing with public officials stipulates they may be removed from public office if they invoke the Fifth Amendment against self-incrimination when asked to testify about matters pertaining to their office.

In 1967, the U.S. Supreme Court overturned the convictions of several policemen who claimed the law forced them to testify against themselves. The court, however, did not rule on the constitutionality of the law itself.

There is a difference of opinion on the validity of the removal statute and Silles cautioned against any assumptions about what moves he would make.

Nixon-Johnson In Tete-A-Tete

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former President Lyndon B. Johnson made his first return visit to the White House today since leaving office and spent two hours at breakfast with President Nixon.

The former Chief Executive, in the east for a Washington wedding Saturday afternoon and New York conferences with his publishers, seemed almost reluctant to join in what once would have been a setting tailored to his taste—crowds on the north portico of the White House.

After breakfast, Nixon escorted Johnson onto the portico, jammed on one side by early morning tourists and on the other side by White House reporters and photographers. When Nixon called Johnson's attention to some of his former acquaintances in the White House press corps, the former President managed a faint smile, nodded his head to the group in general and proceeded down the steps to a waiting government limousine.

Johnson departed without a word to reporters about his visit with Nixon.

Johnson arrived at the White House promptly at 8:30 a.m. EST and was escorted to the first floor family dining room, according to members of the Nixon staff. There he and Nixon talked for two hours over breakfast.

Nixon and Johnson last met at San Clemente, Calif., late in August.

Johnson seemed to have put on noticeable weight since August. His hair appeared grayer than when he was in the White House and he was facially ruddy.

Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, said the two-hour meeting centered primarily on foreign policy, including Vietnam, but included some conversation on the problems of putting together a domestic budget.

The conversations touched on a broad range of topics, Ziegler said, including U.S.-Soviet relations, the strategic arms limitation talks in Helsinki; the treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons; and the Washington visit three weeks ago of Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato.

Ziegler said Nixon "feels it is important for the President to maintain good contact with former presidents."

PEP Sets January Meeting

The Panhandle Economic Program (PEP) is surging forward in its overall objective of furthering economic development of the Panhandle area, according to Foster Whaley, Gray County agent.

Planned for next month is a Water Resources Utilization Institute to be held Jan. 22 at the Holiday Inn West in Amarillo.

The institute is scheduled to open at 9 a.m. with agricultural leaders, bankers, agency personnel and other interested individuals in attendance.

Theme for the one-day session will be "Water Resources Utilization—Now and Later."

The program for the water institute is being planned by the PEP Resource Development Task Force, headed by J.W. Buchanan of Dumas.

The 25 counties in the PEP area are Gray, Armstrong, Briscoe, Carson, Castro, Collingsworth, Dallam, Deaf Smith, Donley, Hall, Hansford, Hartley, Hemphill, Hutchinson, Lipscomb, Moore, Ochiltree, Oldham, Parmer, Potter, Randall, Roberts, Sherman, Swisher and Wheeler.

South Viets In Charge

Last Of GIs Head For Homes In U.S.

SAIGON (UPI)—The last of 60,000 American GIs scheduled for withdrawal from Vietnam under President Nixon's pullout plan left for home today, turning over the defense of Saigon entirely to the South Vietnamese army.

The departure for Ft. Bragg, N.C., of the final 188 members of the 82nd Airborne Division's 3rd Brigade meant there were no U.S. units left in the capital's defense ring. The paratroopers had kept Saigon free from rocket attacks since Aug. 24.

In addition to these men, military spokesmen reported Monday that 8,800 other Americans have left the war zone without being replaced in what appeared to be an unannounced withdrawal program.

The report said 100 Americans died last week—30 fewer than the week before—and 592 were wounded. South Vietnam lost 411 dead and 1,005 wounded, a drop from the previous week, and Communist losses were put at 2,490 dead, an increase of 305.

Military spokesmen also announced that two U.S. helicopter crews walked into a South Vietnamese highland outpost Wednesday after 38 (See LAST OF, Page 2)

Taxpayer Wishes Collector Happy Holiday

A first was chalked up at City Hall today when the tax collector received a check for city taxes accompanied by a Christmas card wishing him a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Tax Collector Aubrey Jones says it never happened before. The $45.70 tax payment and the Yule greeting came in the morning mail from Mrs. Iva M. Gordon, 5314 N. Meridian St., Puyallup, Wash.

Mrs. Gordon is the owner of several lots in the Wilcox addition.

Jones passed the Christmas card around among other office employees.

Tax department workers usually "get the business" from taxpayers and are accustomed to complaints instead of a word of cheer.

"To have someone send a tax payment with a Christmas greeting in the same envelope is out of this world," Jones said. "This is the first time it ever happened to us."

Needless to say, Mrs. Gordon's letter "made the day" for tax department personnel.

Inquest Date Set In Kopechne Death

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (UPI)—District Court Judge James A. Boyle today set Jan. 5 for the inquest into Mary Jo Kopechne's death in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's car.

The judge said the inquest—closed to press and public—will start at 10 a.m. (EST).

The date was set 24 hours after a Pennsylvania judge refused to permit exhumation of Mary Jo's body for an autopsy.

Coup Brings Promise Of New African Regime

COTONOU, Dahomey (UPI)—The man who led the latest military overthrow of the Dahomey government has promised a new government will be formed as soon as possible.

The coup Wednesday put the West African nation under military control for the fourth time in less than 10 years.

Gone is President Emile Zinsou, the country's head of state since a military revolutionary committee installed him on July 17, 1968. Reports conflicted as to whether he was injured in a brief gun battle during the coup Wednesday.

In his place is Lt. Col. Maurice Kouandete, 37, the army chief of staff, who told the nation in a radio broadcast he had removed the 51-year-old Zinsou because his regime had created a situation of "total insecurity."

New Government Formed
Kouandete said a new government "will be formed in the shortest possible time. All former leaders showing good will be recalled to the service of the nation."

Dahomey, once ruled by kings and the birthplace of a type of voodoo now practiced in Haiti and other Caribbean areas, gained its independence from France in 1960. Since then it has had seven presidents and only four years of relative political stability.

Ranch Home Combed For Clues In Cult Slaying Of Cowboy

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Twenty-five sheriff's deputies today combed the former ranch home of a hippie cult implicated in the seven Tate-LaBianca slayings for the body of a cowboy who disappeared while the nomadic group lived there.

While deputies began their search Wednesday by digging up several abandoned wells, three young women, members of the pseudo-religious cult, appeared in court and delayed entering pleas to murder charges. They were held without bond.

The leader of the group, Charles M. Manson, 35, was to be arraigned today on seven counts of murder.

The young women, appearing like errant schoolgirls in a standing-room only courtroom, spoke only once and that was to reply "yes" when each was asked by the judge if she understood her constitutional rights.

The three women and three other members of the cult, including Manson, were indicted by the county grand jury and it was believed testimony before the jury triggered the deputies' search at the ranch.

The investigators reportedly searched for the body of Donald "Short" Shea, 40, who was said to have been slain and thrown down a well at the old Spahn movie ranch near Chatsworth.

The cult lived at the ranch at the time of the Tate and LaBianca slayings in August. It was in July Shea disappeared.

The "Manson Family" later moved to the edge of Death Valley.

The Sheriff's Department would confirm only that it had a unit at the ranch, but it was understood a witness at the grand jury proceedings testified about the man's death. According to that testimony, Shea allegedly was stabbed while talking to Manson.

Two deputies suffered minor injuries when one of the several wells on the property partially caved in.

The three young women, Susan Denise Atkins, 21, Linda Louise Kasabian, 20, and Leslie Van Houten, 19, were ordered to appear in court separately later this month. Miss Atkins, Demure in a short velvet dress, turned informer against the family and admitted taking part in the slayings of Sharon Tate and four others in the Tate home. Her attorney said she would plead innocent.

One final attempt to trim the bill back to its original size was expected from economy-minded Sen. John J. Williams, R-Id. He contended the Senate's amendments—generous to rich and poor alike in their impact—had turned the legislation into "a cruel hoax" because it aroused hopes that could not be fulfilled.

"This bill would bankrupt the country," he said.

Subcommittee Okays Watershed Program

With the approval for funding of the McClellan Creek Watershed coming from the Full Public Works Committee of the House, Congressman Bob Price, Pampa, announces that he is pushing for a Senate hearing date before adjournment which is not expected to come before Christmas Eve.

Congressman Bob Price, Pampa, announced Wednesday that the proposed work plan for the McClellan Watershed had been approved in action taken by the subcommittee on watersheds of the House Public Works committee. The $2,851,000 project is sponsored by five area county and conservation groups including: Gray County Soil and Water Conservation District; Gray County Commissioners Court; McClellan Creek Soil and Water Conservation District; Donnelly County Soil and Water Conservation District; and Carson County Commissioners Court.

This project is designed for watershed protection and flood prevention in Carson, Gray and Donnelly Counties. Involving 222,400 acres, the principal measures included construction of 13 small dams which will impound 29,580 acre-feet of water.

A local soil conservation spokesman reported today that 12 of the proposed dams will be located in Gray County along McClellan Creek, the first to be constructed just south and east of Panhandle, with other continuing downstream to the junction of McClellan Creek with the Red River some six miles north of McLean.

Construction can not be started until approval of the plan is passed by the full House Public Works Committee and the Senate Public Works Committee, on these dams or the one which will be located in Carson County. Donnelly County will not have dams constructed since only a small drainage area is affected by McClellan Creek.

In the event the project passes, both committees the County will be responsible for land easements, right-of-ways and maintenance after construction of the dams is completed with Federal funds.

Trustees Approve Paving Bid For Angle Parking At PJHS

School trustees paid the district's monthly bills, approved November personnel changes today.

The board accepted the lowbid of Wyco Construction Co. for $1,915 for angle parking at Pampa Junior High. The only other bid submitted for the parking was $2,140 from Lewis Construction Co.

Trustees approved payment of $19,885.41, which is 75 per cent of Herbert Brasher's architect fee for building projects underway. Brasher is architect representative of Brasher-Goyette-Rapier, Lubbock, supervising the district's $900,000 building program.

November due bills approved were for $30,676.31; cafeteria bills, $30,390.96; and athletic expenditures of $24,030.26 which is $19,045.81 over the athletic income. Trustees reported they spent $91,728.28 of its $951,239.70 allocated for the 13 building projects approved by voters in March.

Nativity Scenes To Be Lighted

The Nativity Scenes, depicting the Christmas story, will be lighted in a ceremony scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday in Central Park.

It will mark the 23rd year of the traditional event. Program arrangements will be in charge of the Tru-Teens Club, sponsored by Mrs. Thelma Bray.

The Nativity Scenes program has been staged annually as one of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce overall Christmas projects.

It all began in 1946 with the scenes painted by local artists attracting visiting groups and organizations from surrounding towns and cities.

E.O. Wedgeworth, chamber manager, said today the scenes have been repainted and rebuilt once since the beginning. That was three or four years ago.

The Tuesday night program will be open to the public and many visitors are expected to be on hand for the Christmas music and to view the scenes when the lights are turned on again.

They will remain lighted for public viewing each night until after the New Year Holiday.

First Eye Transplant Completed

HOUSTON (UPI)—A doctor who performed what he first called a complete eye transplant has been reinstated into the Harris County Medical Society.

Dr. Conrad Moore was suspended Sept. 20 after world criticism called the operation on John Madden, 55, of Conroe "utopian" and "doomed to failure."

Later Moore claimed he transplanted only the front portion of the eye.

Madden, a photo shop owner, who has one good eye, said in October "I can see (images) but I can see a strobe (photo-flash) in the previously blind eye."

Pampa Miss Named Indian Princess

Southwest Indian Organization in the Pampa area selected Miss Jo Helen Bland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bland, Pampa, as Princess Sunday. She will represent the group at Indian meetings and conferences in the Southwest.

Miss Bland, 16, is a student at Pampa High School.

Selected as runners-up were Miss Deania Owens, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Owens, Panhandle, and Miss Suzie Gage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Gage, Stinnett.

The girls were judged on poise, personality and public speaking ability.

Past Chief R.E. Neigin crowned the Princess and presented the runners-up with headbands.

Newly elected officers were installed. They include Chief, Marlin P. Hayes, Pampa; Sub-Chief, Tommy Arnold, Barger; secretary, Mrs. Charlene Blakney, Bowers City; treasurer, Mrs. Ethel Taylor, Pampa; sergeant at arms, Henry Bland, Pampa; and Mrs. C.L. Mason, chaplain.

New board members include Mrs. Leroy Arnold, Barger; Mrs. Gene Gage, Stinnett; Mrs. Ann Owens, Panhandle; Sammy Cox, Barger; Smokey Hall, Barger; and Mrs. Marlin Hayes, Pampa.

Marlin Hayes and Bob Blakney gave reports on meetings they attended in Oklahoma City, Okla., and in Lubbock. The main objective of the trips was to explore new ways and means to raise money for the organization.

While in Oklahoma City, Hayes also attended a board meeting of the American Indians United.

Forty members of the organization attended the meeting Sunday.

Welfare Index Lays Plans For Christmas

Mrs. Libby Shotwell was named coordinator of the Welfare Index Christmas basket program in a meeting conducted Monday.

Clubs, organizations and churches may call the Red Cross office with information on individual plans to carry out this program. A central distribution point for names of needy families and persons interested in aiding them is necessary to prevent overlapping, according to an Index spokesman.

The Index is requesting churches and organizations to keep names listed of persons they will aid.

Ted Gikas, Index president, presided during the meeting which included reports on the Thanksgiving program. Mrs. B.R. Shultz reported 26 baskets were delivered through the Index. Mrs. Jess Hatcher reported several small baskets had been donated through the Rebecca Lodge.

E.M. Stafford gave an annual report of Index work, listing clothing and furniture as the major items of distribution, adding that several garments had been forwarded to individuals, who constructed lap robes and bibs for Amarillo Veterans Hospital patients from the items.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. Eula Killian and Mrs. Jess Hatcher, representing the Rebecca Lodge; Mrs. C.C. Fitzgerald and Mrs. Louise Sewell, Altrusa; Mrs. Ruth Sewell, American Legion Auxiliary; Mrs. Mildred Colium, Mrs. Opal Franklin and Mrs. Claudia Everly, First Baptist Church; Mrs. Gerald Shultz, County Welfare; Lester Woods, State Welfare; Mrs. Raymond Wilson, Pampa Plane Teachers Association; E.M. ## Hill Named To Office Of PCM President

City Manager Charles Hill was elected President of the Panhandle City Managers Association at a bi-monthly meeting of the group Wednesday afternoon in the Amarillo City Hall.

The Pampa city manager succeeds John Stiff, Amarillo city manager.

City Manager H.R. Macomber of Dumas was elected vice president and Jim Shearer, Littlefield city manager, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Outgoing president Stiff told the 15 city managers and assistant city managers present that the regional planning concept of government is part of today's changing world.

Stiff declared cities cannot operate alone and the same way they did years ago.

The Amarillo city manager urged participation in the recently organized Panhandle Regional Planning Commission.

Pampa is not an affiliate of the PRPC.

Stiff said some smaller cities seemed to fear "they would be swallowed up by the larger cities in regional planning setups."

It was pointed out that all federal grants to Panhandle cities now have to be reviewed by the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission. That, according to Leland Nelson, assistant city manager of Amarillo, went into effect last Sept. 1.

Nelson said Gov. Preston Smith has declared that regional planning commissions are the clearing houses for grants in Texas.

Hill said today the next meeting of the association will be held in Amarillo in February.

The Pampa city manager was accompanied to the Amarillo meeting by Ronnie Wood, personnel director.

Nigeria on the east. Dahomey is the size of Tennessee.

Diplomatic sources said the coup reflected army dissatisfaction with Zinsou's efforts to keep the military subordinate to his primarily civilian government and with his economic austerity program.

Not Without Bloodshed
The coup engineered by Kouandete apparently was not without bloodshed. It began with the occupation of the Cotonou radio station.

Army officers then moved toward the presidential palace behind brief volleys of gunfire.

Witnesses said Zinsou was wounded during shooting in front of the palace. But diplomatic sources and Lome Radio, broadcasting from neighboring Togo, said he was uninjured. It was believed he was taken to the remote northern garrison of Natitingou under heavy guard.

Kouandete said Zinsou had permitted security to collapse and strayed from his declared aims. "Faced with such a situation," the colonel added, "the army has once more assumed its responsibility and has decided that President Zinsou is divested of his power."

Tuberculin Tests Slated For School Children In Spring

Pampa public schools will enter into the state tuberculin testing program in the spring, according to Bert Nuckols, president of the Top of Texas Tuberculosis Association.

Charles McIntosh, executive director in charge of the program, said the test is simple, safe and reliable and is designed to indicate whether the individual is ill with the infection.

"Parents should not become unduly upset if a child comes home from school with a positive test," Nuckols said. "After all, about one American in six is infected, and most infected individuals never develop active TB." He said that the U.S. has about 50,000 active cases reported each year.

Explaining the concept of chemoprophylaxis, association director Mrs. Lillian Jordan said the modern concept in TB control is prevention of the active case rather than cure.

days as prisoners of the Viet Cong. The was no word on whether they had escaped or been released.

WO Michael T. Peterson of Redmond, Wash., and Sgt. Vernon C. Shepard of Akron, Ohio, both 21, were listed as missing Nov. 2 after their helicopter was shot down near the Cambodian border.

Officials said they had been wounded but were in good condition today.

Light fighting was reported across the battlefield, with communiques listing a total of eight guerrillas slain against U.S. casualties of two dead and eight wounded in four significant clashes.

Tow of the biggest U.S. bases in Vietnam came under rocket attack this morning—Army headquarters at Long Binh outside Saigon and the air base at Da Nang on the northern coast.

Testimony To Start In Crumie Trial

PLAINVIEW (Staff) - Testimony was to begin Wednesday afternoon in 64th District Court in the rape trial of Charles Crumie, 38, of Pampa.

Crummie is accused of the February rape of a 55-year-old Pampa woman. The case was moved here on change of venue from Pampa.

The 12th juror was qualified Wednesday afternoon—three days after jury selection began.

Jury selection necessitated a delay in starting testimony, according to Judge Boyd.

Rotarians Hear Of Asian Trip

Guest speaker for the Pampa Rotary Club yesterday noon was the Reverend T. O. Upshaw of Central Baptist Church.

"Where Jesus Walked" was the title of the subject the local pastor used in his talk to the noon luncheon club assembled in the Coronado Inn.

Reverend Upshaw gave his first hand experiences in a round the world trip he completed last August. The primary purpose of his trip was preaching 10 days in an Evangelism Crusade in India.

Accompanied by 31 other ministers, Reverend Upshaw stopped in Tokyo, Hong Kong, Rome and London while touring India and the Holy Land.

Burglar Takes Condensed Milk At Swordpoint

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An "Uncle Sam" bandit is being sought by police for stealing two cans of condensed milk from a liquor store at swordpoint. Liquor store manager Arthur Lazore said the bandit wore a white cowboy hat, Ben Franklin spectacles, a blue and white striped coat, Uncle Sam trousers of red, white and blue and carried a walking stick. Lazore said the strange visitor picked up two cans of condensed milk Saturday night and started to depart. When asked for payment, the bandit drew a two-foot-long sword from the walking stick, assumed the en garde position and snapped, "Either I take these items or I'll run you through."

Greek Ministers Working To Head Off Suspension

PARIS (UPI)—Greek Foreign Minister Panayotis Pipinelis lobbied today to head off moves to suspend Greece from the 18-nation Council of Europe for allegedly violating human rights and democratic freedoms. A two-day meeting of the Council of Europe's Committee of Ministers is scheduled to open here Friday.

The committee of Ministers last discussed the Greek question in London May 5 and 6. At that time it was agreed any final action by the group would not be taken before the Dec. 12 meeting.

Greece has been accused of violating Article 3 of the Convention of Rome on Human Rights by imposition of a dictatorship and torturing political prisoners.

Diplomatic sources in London said Britain and three Scandinavian nations, Denmark, Norway and Sweden, have agreed they believe Greece should be suspended unless it shows readiness to restore democracy or unless it withdraws from the council.

The council has no binding authority but is one of Europe's most prestigious advisory and consultative bodies.

Greek newspapers have said Pipinelis came to Paris ready to use procedural and tactical methods to fight the suspension. He reportedly will demand a two-third majority vote instead of a simple majority.

Pipinelis was expected to call for a postponement of any decision pending a European court ruling on a report by the Commission on Human Rights on conditions in Greece.

report appeared in several European newspapers two weeks ago. The dispatches provoked official Greek charges that public opinion was being mobilized unfairly against Greece.

Burglary Old Story At Local Company

Burglars have hit his office so many times that James Finkenbinder, manager of Pampa Milk Co., 601 S. Cuyler, has decided that a sign on his door may help.

"I think I'll put up a sign that says there's nothing in here," Finkenbinder reportedly told police.

Burglars struck his office again Monday night prying off a padlock on the back door. Nothing was taken.

In a report released today by Police Chief Jim Conner accidents in the city of Pampa and injuries for the month of November increased from the same period a year ago.

A total of 18 persons were injured in 61 accidents last month compared to eight injuries and only 46 accidents for the same month in 1967. Accidents are up for the year also and injuries show a slight rise.

There have been 680 accidents for the first 11 months in 1968 with 122 injuries. In the first 11 months of 1967 police investigated 603 accidents with 116 injuries.

There have been no deaths from traffic accidents in the city during the year.

Most of the accidents happened between 4-5 p.m. (10) and most of them occurred on Friday (14) with driver's between the ages of 25-34 involved in the majority of them (19).

There were 56 male drivers involved and 51 female drivers and the contributing factor was failure-to-yield right of way.

Property damage totaled $21,700.21.

Festive Raisin Fruit Cakes Add Holiday Spice To Yule Desserts

Fruit cakes for the festive season are perfect for experimentation. One that will make a family must-make at Christmas is a raisin fruit cake, adapted from the southern Lane cake and filled with dark and golden seedless raisins.

Preparation time is cut with use of one basic white batter. Top with a butter cream frosting and decorate.

JAPANESE RAISIN FRUIT CAKE

- 4 eggs
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup shortening (half butter)
- 3 cups sifted flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 1/4 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 cup milk
- 1/4 cup brandy
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 cup dark seedless raisins

- 1/4 cup golden seedless raisins
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans
- Raisin brandy filling
- Butter cream frosting...

Separate eggs; beat whites until soft peaks form. Gradually beat in 1/2-cup sugar, beating until stiff. Set aside. Beat shortening with remaining 1 1/2 cups sugar. Beat in egg yolks. Resift flour with baking powder and salt and add to egg yolk mixture alternately with milk and brandy. Fold in beaten egg whites. Grease and flour 3 (9-inch) round layer cake pans. Turn one-third of batter into one pan. Add cinnamon, raisins and pecans to remaining batter, mixing well. Divide batter between remaining 2 pans. Bake in 350-degree oven about 25 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes. Turn out onto racks to cool. Put layers together with Raisin Brandy Filling. Spread Butter

Cream Frosting over top of cake. Make 1 (9-inch) 3-layer cake.

RAISIN BRANDY FILLING

Blend 1/2-cup sugar with 1/4-cup cornstarch and 1/4-teaspoon salt. Stir in 1 cup water. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until sauce boils and clears. Stir into 1 beaten egg. Return to very low heat and cook a minute longer, stirring briskly. Remove from heat and blend in 2 tablespoons brandy and 3/4-cup chopped seedless raisins. Cool thoroughly.

BUTTER CREAM FROSTING

Blend 2 1/2-tablespoons soft butter, 2 cups sifted powdered sugar and 1 tablespoon brandy with 1 to 2 teaspoons milk for good spreading consistency.

Honey gingercake and gingerbread men.

Honey Gingercake Accents Christmas

Gingerbread is one of the world's most venerable sweets. Egyptians, Romans and even the Goths loved it. But it took medieval monks to perfect the art of using the fragrant dough artistically.

Today, there are many ways to use the dough artistically. Here is one, perfect for Christmas parties.

HONEY GINGERCAKE

- 2 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ground allspice
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup light brown sugar, firmly packed
- 1 cup honey
- 1 egg
- 1 cup sour milk or buttermilk
- Orange whipped cream...

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; set aside. Blend soda and spices with shortening. Gradually add sugar, mixing well after each addition. Stir in honey. Beat in egg. Add flour mixture alternately with milk. Beat batter 1/2-minute. Turn into 2 well-greased, lightly floured, 8- or 9-inch square cake pans. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 30 to 35 minutes. Let stand in pans 10 minutes. Turn out onto wire racks to finish cooling. Put together in layer cake fashion with orange whipped cream. Garnish with grated orange peel and shaved chocolate, if desired.

(ORANGE WHIPPED CREAM)

Beat 1 cup heavy cream until it stands in soft peaks. Stir in 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon grated orange peel and 1/2-teaspoon pure vanilla extract. Nine to 12 portions.

Raisin fruit cake offers dessert variety at Christmas.

Elves' House Is Edible Decoration

For a Christmas party for youngsters, or as a centerpiece for the holiday dinner, a Christmas elves' house is a delightful suggestion. It's good to eat and makes a wonderful decoration. THE ELVES' HOUSE 1 package yellow or white cake mix

- 1/2 cup light corn syrup
- 6 tablespoons water
- 1/4 cup shortening
- 1 12-ounce jumbo package or two 6-ounce packages (2 cups) semisweet chocolate morsels
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 4 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
- Candies for decoration

Bake cake, using 13x9x2-inch pan. Cool completely. To make frosting, combine corn syrup, water and shortening in sauce pan and bring just to a boil over moderate heat, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and add semisweet chocolate morsels and vanilla; stir until melted and smooth. Blend in confectioners' sugar.

A Chocolate house for Christmas elves.

Hot Idea!

HOT Dr Pepper

Here's something truly different. Dr Pepper...which is great as an icy cold soft drink...is also delicious served steaming hot. And Hot Dr Pepper is so easy to prepare. Just heat Dr Pepper or Diet Dr Pepper in a saucepan till it steams. Then pour over thin slices of lemon. Hot Dr Pepper. That's a hot idea!

Advertising

Start with an Audit

Advertising is a serious investment... art, engraving, typography and copy are costly. All are planned carefully to attract readers who are prospects for the merchandise or service. No business can afford to waste any part of this investment in any medium that cannot guarantee definite circulation and readership. "Waste basket circulation" in post offices, and so called throw-aways that usually travel to the incinerator are of little or no value to the advertiser.

The Pampa Daily News

is a completely Family Newspaper Delivered Daily - - - paid for and Welcomed!

BUYING ON THIS BASIS IS SOUND!

Careful studies made regularly by an independent organization—the Audit Bureau of Circulations—shows advertisers exactly what they get in circulation and readership for their advertising investment.

For most subscribers the PAMPA NEWS is the family shopping guide, for it carries the advertising of practically all progressive Pampa stores, markets and services.

It is the ABC's of advertising

the Audit Bureau of Circulation (ABC) is a co-advertising agencies and publishers for the verification of circulation of newspaper members in operative, non-profit organization of advertising in the United States and Canada.

Pampan's Daughter Contributes Cherry Pie Recipe For Holidays

Mrs. O. C. Cannedy, Vernon, daughter of Mrs. Willie Ruth Hathaway, 1100 Terrace, serves her Christmas holiday guests her "specialty of the house," a French Cherry Pie, ideal for large Santa-season parties. Mrs. Cannedy was born in Mobeetie and learned her cooking techniques from her mother. She contributed this recipe for publication in The News because "we've had so many requests for it in Vernon, we thought Pampa women cooking for the holidays would like to try it," she said.

Satisfy Cookie Requests With Candied Ingredients

Imagine, cookies as gay and sparkling as a tinsel Christmas tree! Regal fruit jellies, candied fruits and nuts make these sweet tooth favorites come to life — right in your very own kitchen.

Jewelled Thumbprints and Butter Rum Cheese Bars are gaily decorated holiday cookies that can be made as fast and as effortlessly as they disappear. The short cut secret — refrigerated slice and bake cookie dough from the grocer's case.

For a bar cookie that's pretty to look at and even better to eat, try Butter Rum Cheese Bars. These feature a creamy cheese cake layer which bakes atop refrigerated butterscotch nut cookies. Before serving, cut into squares, triangles, or diamonds and add a special decorative touch to suit the occasion.

An up-dated version of a traditional favorite, Jewelled Thumbprints promise sure success with family and friends. To make, re-frigerated sugar cookie dough is rolled in butter and nuts. While still warm from the oven, center with sparkling red or green jellies.

After the holidays are over, you'll want to keep these recipes close at hand. Both promise to become cookie favorites at home and for special occasions throughout the year.

JEWELLED THUMBPRINTS
1 roll refrigerated butterscotch nut, peanut butter or sugar slice 'n bake cookies
¼ cup butter, melted
2 cups chopped pecans
Red or green jelly
Slice cookie dough into ½-inch thick slices. Roll each into a ball. Dip in butter; roll in chopped nuts. Place on greased cookie sheet. Bake at 375° for 10 to 12 minutes until golden brown. (Cookies will be puffy when removed from the oven.)
Remove from oven; indent

the center of each warm cookie with thumb. Place ¼ to ½ teaspoon jelly in each center. Cool; loosen with spatula.

BUTTER RUM CHEESE BARS
1 roll refrigerated slice 'n bake cookies
½ cup sugar
1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened
1 egg
½ to 1 teaspoon rum flavoring
Slice cookie dough ¼-inch thick; place in bottom of greased 8 or 9-inch square pan. Bake at 375 degree for 15 to 20 minutes until lightly browned. (Cookies will be puffy when removed from oven.) Cool slightly.
In small mixer bowl cream sugar and cheese. Add egg and

FRENCH CHERRY PIE
6 Egg whites (beaten stiff)
2 Cups sugar (add to beaten egg whites)
Fold in 24 crushed soda crackers
1 cup chopped nuts
2 tsp. vanilla
2 tsp. vinegar . . .

Pour into large (9x16) well-greased pan. Bake in 350-degree oven 30 minutes or until golden brown.

FILLING
2 (3 oz.) pkgs. cream cheese
2 cups sifted powdered sugar
2 tsp. vanilla
1 pt. whipping cream . . .

Combine cream cheese, powdered sugar and vanilla. Then add whipped cream. Spread over cooled crust. Spread two cans of Cherry Pie Filling over filling and chill for five hours.

Greet Guests With Happy Holiday Recipes

NEW YORK, N.Y. (Spl) — Bored by the sameness of dips and drinks that greet you everywhere when the holiday welcome mat is out? Why not surprise friends, not to mention your own household, with these bon vivant different colorful dips and punches? They're bound to make for holiday twinkles and welcome additions to your recipe file.

Particularly colorful is the Green Glow Dip made with 6 ozs. cream cheese, 2 tsp. finely chopped chives, 2 tbs. mayonnaise, 1 tsp. prepared mustard, ½ tsp. Worcestershire sauce, 2 hard boiled eggs finely chopped, 3 tbs. milk, salt and pepper to taste.

Beat cheese until fluffy, add ingredients, blend well, mould into a ball, decorate top with a sprig of holly, place mould on a plate and encircle it with holly leaves.

Expect friends to request your recipe for Blue Glow Dip made with 2 ozs. blue cheese, ½ lb. cottage cheese, ½ tsp. finely chopped onion, 6 tbs. sour cream, and 2 ozs. caviar.

Combine all ingredients except caviar, until well blended, mould with 2" circle in the center of the mould, and place in refrigerator until a half hour before you plan to serve it. Place mould on plate, fill center with caviar, and decorate with parsley sprigs.

To mellow throats for Christmas carols, serve Camparinara Punch, a tangy, savory cup that warms and cheers without the overpowering effects sometimes associated with holiday punches. Moreover, this punch is equally savory served cold or hot.

Serving 40, Camparinara calls for 1 cup water, 1 cup sugar, 4 sticks cinnamon, 2 tbs. allspice, 2 pieces ginger root, 1 tbs. whole cloves, ¼ tsp. nutmeg, 2 sliced lemons, 1½ bottles white rum, and 1½ bottles Campari.

Tie spices in cheesecloth. Boil water, sugar syrup, and spices for 15 minutes. Remove cheesecloth when mixture cools, pour it into punch bowl, stir in Campari and rum, add two trays of ice, and float lemon slices. To serve hot, omit ice cubes, add a quart of water, heat (do not boil), and garnish with lemon slices.

In 1907 President Theodore Roosevelt announced he would not be a candidate for another term.

In 1930 effects of the depression began to spread in New York when the Bank of the United States, including 60 branch banks, closed its doors.

In 1936 Britain's King Edward VIII abdicated his throne to marry American divorcee Wallis Warfield Simpson.

In 1941, four days after Japan's sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, Congress declared war on Germany and Italy.

TASTE-TEMPTING TREE FOR CHRISTMAS . . . edible cereal ornaments frosted white and decorated

Tree-Trimmers Nibble Ornaments Made Of Sparkling, Frosted Cereal

For an edible Christmas tree to brighten holiday gifts-wrapping and tree-trimming spirits, try decorating your natural tree with sparkling ornaments made of cereal and covered with white frosting.

- CEREAL BALLS
1 (10½-ozs.) package Whirligigs
2 tablespoons water
4½ cups rice honeys
Green florist's wire
Prepared white frosting mix
Red and green food coloring
Colored ribbon and other decorations of one's choice . . .

Place whirligigs and water in top of double boiler; stir until smooth. Add rice honeys and stir until evenly coated. Keep over hot water. Cut wire into 12-inch lengths. Make a loop at one end and shape cereal securely around to form a ball. Place on wax paper and let dry overnight, at room temperature. Next day frost and decorate as desired. Let dry overnight before hanging on tree. Makes 8 (1½ ozs.) balls.

CEREAL CONES
Prepare above recipe substituting wheat honeys cereal for rice honeys. Lightly oil 6 cone-shaped paper cups. Put a small amount of cereal mixture into cone; insert wire and pack in cereal mixture to the top. Next day, peel paper. Frost and decorate. Let dry overnight. Makes 6 (2 ozs.) cones.

PASTRY PACKAGES

Texas Mayor Convicted In Violation Of Open Meetings

WACO (UPI)— Mayor E.H. O'Dowd of Robinson was convicted Tuesday of violating the 1967 Texas open meetings law. The case was the first test of the statute.

O'Dowd was convicted of unlawfully closing a city council meeting March 18 when several citizens came to air complaints. The jury set his fine at $150.

C.B. Threadgill, one of five persons removed from the meeting by the mayor, filed the complaint. Threadgill and UPI newsman Larry Surratt of Little Rock, Ark., then with the Waco News-Tribune, testified the meeting was not adjourned when they were ordered out. Four councilmen and the Robinson police chief testified they understood the meeting was adjourned and the council was in closed executive session to confer with O'Dowd.

The opening criminal law makes it a criminal offense to close a criminal offense to close a public meeting except under six special circumstances and provides for a fine from $25 to $200 for offenders.

DWI Fines Levied In County Court

Pleas of nolo contendere were entered by defendants charged with driving while intoxicated.

Judge S. R. Lenning Jr. heard the cases of C.W. Brandenburg, Stroud, Okla., and James R. Collins, Lefors.

Both were sentenced to three days in jail and placed on six months probation and fined $50 and court costs.

WASHINGTON—Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., accusing Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans of allowing a flood of textiles, shoes, and other imported goods on the U.S. market: "We're the dumping ground of the world."

Senator Challenges Spiro To Debate On Tax Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., today challenged Vice President Spiro T. Agnew to a public debate on the tax policy, and said the Nixon administration was backing a "rich man's tax bill."

In a UPI interview, Gore took sharp issue with a charge by Agnew that Gore was undermining anti-inflation efforts by his proposal to raise the personal income tax exemption to $800. Agnew said Tuesday that would "pump $2 billion back into the economy just when the administration was cooling things down."

Gore insisted his amendment, approved by the Senate as part of the tax reform bill, would cost no more than administration-backed tax cuts it would replace.

"I would be glad to have a public discussion with the vice president on the issue, at any time and place," Gore said. Gore charged that the administration wanted a "rich man's tax bill" which would cut taxes up to $100,000 in top brackets but provide little relief to families of moderate means.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) —If you drive for more than 2.7 miles along any one stretch of interstate highway, chances are you will encounter a sign reading: "Your Highway Taxes at Work."

I don't know how much these signs cost, but it is obvious that a sizable wad of our sign-painting taxes also are at work.

At any rate, all of us motorists should be extremely grateful to the Bureau of Public Roads, or whoever it is who is responsible for erecting the signs.

Without them, we might erroneously assume that some contractor was building, improving or repairing the road with his own money.

We also should be extremely grateful to D. C. Rogers of Marion, Ill., who has come forth with an idea for spreading this type of informational transmission to other fields of governmental endeavor.

Sees Workmen Reclining

One day as Rogers was tooling along an interstate route he saw about a half dozen workmen reclining in the shade of one of the signs. This started him to thinking that the sign should have read: "Your Highway Taxes at Rest."

And that started him to thinking thusly: "Why not have signs or badges made for every city, state and federal employe to wear while on the job so we taxpayers would readily be able to distinguish who was doing what?"

Why not indeed?

Sociologists tell us that one of the reasons so many taxpayers feel alienated today is because they are unable to figure out what their taxes are doing.

Better communication along that line might go a long way toward ameliorating the average taxpayer's attitude toward the government.

Subcommittee Investigating

Suppose, for example, that some congressional subcommittee is leaving for Paris, France, to investigate the impact of pornographic skywriting on the European Common Market.

On the side of the Air Force plane carrying the lawgivers on this mission there would be a big sign reading: "Your Tax Dollars Taking a Junket."

Or you visit the Commerce Department and find in one of the offices a sign reading: "Your Tax Dollars Filing Copies of Form 497-841-B in Triplicate."

Sign in a Senate hearing room: "Your Tax Dollars Yielding to Pressure from Special Interest Groups."

Sign in a Capitol Hill restaurant: "Your Tax Dollars Being Taken to Lunch by a Lobbyist."

SPONTANEOUS GESTURE
LONDON (UPI)—A Russian patrol vessel was shadowing the British aircraft carrier Eagle as part of the cold war—but it was Trafalgar Day, a British holiday, last Oct. 21. So, the British Ministry of Defense disclosed Tuesday, the British troops sent one of their number by which over the Soviet vessel—and presented the Russians with a bottle of whisky—as a spontaneous gesture.

OFFERS TO OPERATE
MILAN, Italy (UPI)—Rosetta Arena won't have to sell one of her kidneys to raise money for a leg operation. A Milan hospital director who read of Miss Arena's offer said today he had offered to perform the operation free. The 18-year old girl, one of 12 children of an unemployed farm worker, offered last week to sell a kidney to pay for surgery on her leg.

PLEADS GUILTY
SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI)—Paul Walker, 72, pleaded guilty in Municipal Court Tuesday on a charge of tossing a brick through a plate glass window of the home next door. Walker said he took the action because the rock music drums of his neighbor, William Fernandez, 19, offended his "noise tolerances."

Fiji Islands Resort To Fashions

NEW YORK (NEA) — Praise of resort fashions that hail from such holiday spots as the Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico, the Bahamas, Bermuda and Acapulco is par for the course this time of year—with winter vacations not far away.

And now comes proof that good fashion comes from Fiji, too.

Designer Cherie Alofe Whiteside, a native of Suva, Fiji, designs the fabrics and creates the fashions for her own firm. With tourism in Fiji growing each year Cherie's aim is to create something uniquely Fijian for her customers to wear back home after their holiday is over.

Mrs. Whiteside, who studied formal art at the East Sydney Technical College, taught herself screen-printing and hand-blocking from books and magazines. The fabrics she designs are bold and colorful — the fashions dramatic and glamorous.

Her business has grown right along with tourism to her native land. Originally a one-girl firm, now employs two printers and staff of nine for cutting and sewing.

Cherie, now the mother of three, is a busy lady. She does wall prints and lamp-shades for some of Fiji's newest hotels as well as maintaining her going-less business.

When commissioned to do a mural for Suva's Civic Centre, she turned out a brilliant contemporary design — not in fabric but in beaten copper and stained rough timber.

Her name and her designs are making themselves known in Australia and other places far from Fiji.

As other designers from faraway places have achieved recognition in Europe and the United States in the art and fashion areas, Cherie Whiteside seems to be on her way.

Bath Accessories Make Neat Aids

CHICAGO (NFS) — Make your bathroom so attractive that family members will be inspired to keep it neat at all times.

This suggestion comes from Jeanne Norwood, styling consultant to a leading manufacturer of knitted deep-pile bathroom accessories and rugs. "Assuming that floor, walls, and plumbing fixtures are sound, there's no need to spend a fortune on your 'bathroom beautiful' project," Miss Norwood said.

She advises beginning the project by planning a decor that will put pep into the room. Using generous splashes of vibrant color is an easy way to achieve the desired effect, Miss Norwood noted. "Because they make the room look smaller, bold patterns and strong colors don't belong on the walls of small bathrooms."

Miss Norwood said. A proper space for strong color and plenty of it — is in bath accessories and matching non-slip rugs or carpeting. Accessories may include any number of things, from doorknob covers and tissue bonnet to a tank set and lid cover, bowl brush canister, laundry hamper, scale cover, wastebasket, and tissue box. All come in a rainbow range of colors.

AUTHOR DEFINES VALUES

Mom Not Girl's Best Friend

NEW YORK (NEA) — The boy cupped his hand to catch the rain, then his hand closed convulsively. The drop slipped between his fingers. He drew his hand back and caught a lock of shoulder-length hair in his fingers, slowly twining and untwining it, breathing in the acidity of burning pot, the musk of incense. He thrust a hand into his pocket—blackened nails on blackcreased fingers. A dime. No dime. No coffee. Nothing.

It's Haight Ashbury or the East Village of a hundred sections of a hundred cities. It's where the kids come when they drop out, turn on, sometimes give up.

Claudia did it. Claudia is a very real person who happens to be a character in a book "Claudia, Where Are You?" written by Hila Colman. Claudia is not understood, even by herself. So she leaves home moves to Greenwich Village and searches — a lot — for herself.

"Claudia's mother took out her own frustrations on her daughter," explains Mrs. Colman, a short, dark-haired mother herself. She has tremendous good humor — and it all comes out of her eyes.

"Parents think children have to tell them everything. A child does not have to confide — her mother is not her best friend," she said.

In her book, Claudia, a 16-year-old high school dropout from a middle-class family, leaves home and moves to the Village, where she learns the meaning of identity and independence.

"There is a rigidity in so many middle-class parents," said Mrs. Colman, who has two grown sons. "The parents of disturbed teen-agers might need psychiatric help themselves. They should go for family counseling."

She has written 26 books since 1957, and most of the fiction deals with adolescent problems. "Kids are victims of tremendous u's permissiveness," she explained. "I go along with Dr. Spock—I like a disciplined household. People shouldn't confuse progressive thinking with permissiveness."

She can sympathize with teenage problems — she describes the "generation gap" as a value conflict, with the young challenging the values of the old.

"Parents display the greatest hypocrisy on two issues — sex and money."

"Girls are exposed to magazines which tell them to be seductive, alluring, etc. — yet they're told, 'The boy can't touch you.'"

"Kids see their parents' affluence — but they also see that it doesn't solve their problems."

Mrs. Colman has raised two sons who also look to social change.

"Both my sons are interested in city planning. My older son is director of planning for the city of Hartford, Conn. My younger son took a stand against the draft and went to teach in a ghetto school instead of going into the Army."

"I was a pretty tough mother, but our kids always knew they could count on us for support."

Mrs. Colman writes for six hours a day, every day churning out novels about mixed marriages, racial prejudice and her newest nonfiction deals with student-produced movies, called "Student Films to Features."

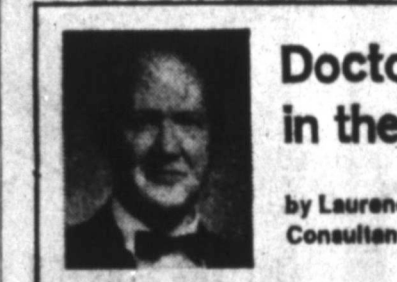

"Books have become more sophisticated," said Mrs. Colman. "They deal with social problems and kids respond."

In an age where young people are labeling everything over 30 irrelevant, Hila Colman is not.

"You can't confuse young people's values with the way they dress," she said, the twinkle in her eye turning into a flash. "The whole discussion about the length of someone's hair is insane to me."

"Young people frequently come up to Connecticut, where I live, for a weekend and we thrash things out."

BE KIND TO YOUR GUESTS

Last year, about this time, I wrote a column on how you could outfit your hostess. It dealt with the perils of being a guest during the holiday season if you had a weight control problem.

Well, today let's talk about that from the standpoint of you being the hostess. In other words, how you can be considerate of your guests and not load them up with unwanted calories.

You could, of course, serve rich food if you also provide enough exercise to work off the excess calories. We discussed this business of being able to eat more if you exercise enough in last week's column. Thus, if you live on a ski slope, or want to stage a winter cross-country hike, rich foods for your guests would be all right. But for the average hostess, who is simply going to entertain her friends in the living or family room, let's figure on a less rich and less vigorous routine.

What To Avoid
You can avoid rich gravies, all gravies, in fact. And you can trim the fat from all meats you will serve. Buy leaner cuts of meat. Avoid offering, especially forcing, second helpings on guests. Do not serve bread and rolls in excess. Easy on salad dressings and oils. Try to avoid large pieces of cake or pie as desserts. And don't be upset if some guest leave part of their dessert at their place, or turn it down entirely.

A good idea is to serve buffet. That way guests can pick and choose what they want, avoiding items they may feel are more than they want. It's more festive, too, I think, especially if you go out of your way to decorate the buffet table with ornaments and other trappings of Christmas that surpass what you could place on the dining room table.

If you're serving cocktails, remember that probably the greatest source of extra calories you can press on your guest comes from this source. Let people take it easy. Don't be Lady Bountiful with the bottle.

Allow Restraint
And as you serve hors d'oeuvres, allow your guest to exercise restraint. If you're a friend that insists on being helpful every minute by running around your party with the trays of goodies, get her to relax, to stop unloading hors d'oeuvres on your guests as fast as they can be turned out in the kitchen. People will take one every time the tray passes, either absentmindedly, or feeling they must. Better to leave the stuff at the buffet table where they have to at least walk to get it.

You may feel this all smacks at something less than hospitality. But we go, after all, talking about how to help your guests out with less excess. You and other hostesses will get twice the thanks in January if your guests have no weight-lossing to do.

Hila Colman

Kitchen Is More Than Food Area

CHICAGO (NFS) — Your kitchen should be as attractive as possible and equipped to be more than just a place to prepare and serve meals.

So says interior decorating consultant Barbara Brody. She notes that the kitchen is frequently used for informal gatherings, checking household accounts, and even for hobbies and homework.

As consultant to a Chicago, manufacturer of metal dining furniture, she advises that your kitchen dining set should be made of durable materials and be pleasingly styled to match the many uses of the kitchen.

The mood of the kitchen is also important. If the room is small, a monochromatic color scheme that matches or blends with the table and chairs can be the answer.

In larger rooms, boldly patterned wallpapers that climb up the walls and even across the ceiling can unify the area and bring cheer on the dreariest day.

Brightest Christmas Party Is Mobile

The march of the "light brigade" can brighten your holidays and lighten the decorating load of your neighbors. If exterior decorations characterize your neighborhood during the Christmas season, you might organize an early-December party for stringing exterior lights at each guest's house—then celebrate the completion of the task at yours.

On a regular party cart, prepare a "Christmas caisson" filled with holiday goodies and beverages. Decorate shallow cardboard boxes in Christmas colors and secure boxes to each cart shelf. This will prevent foodstuffs and drinks from tipping over—for this caisson will go rolling along a more ambitious path than the usual party cart.

Fill another cart or wheelbarrow with decoration supplies: extra light bulbs, U-nails, strands of wire, electrician's tape, pliers, two hammers, and other tool chest items to satisfy all contingencies. And there's no reason why the utility cart can't show its Christmas colors, too.

As each house scheduled for the "light brigade," wires can help test bulbs and run supplies to the troops on the roof, while the hostess does courtesies "K.P."

In 1898 Spain signed the Treaty of Paris, officially ending the Spanish-American War and giving Guam, Puerto Rico and the Philippines to the United States.

In 1901 distribution of the first Nobel Prizes began on the anniversary of the death of Alfred Nobel.

In 1941 Japanese troops landed on northern Luzon in the Philippines.

FRIDAY, DEC. 12
YOUR BIRTHDAY FRIDAY: Your life in the coming year encounters special opportunities, high spending, some unusual source of cash, and a great deal of public participation or exposure. Changes in the world come right to your door.

AIRES (March 21-Apr. 19): — Strangers and old friends with more or less the same approach are helpful. Some of them may inspire you to intense emotional reactions.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): — Attend matters where you share ownership and leadership with other people.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): — Progress on all fronts is probable. Keep rolling with the incoming tide of energy; evaluate any important field of interest.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): — Everybody is more willing to help.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): — Teamwork produces better results Friday. New ideas should be coming into use, along with better skills.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): — Your long-considered idea is most likely to be put into use by your associates now. After a day of normal routines, devote the evening to yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): — Creative activity blossoms into visible forms Friday. Promotion of whatever you do has a better chance of early success. Romantic interests are encouraged this evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): — Higher values are attached to home furnishings, property, and gardens. Anything you do now to improve your material circumstances has immediate favorable impact.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): — Travels, visits with friends and business contacts should work out well. Friday favors new ideas and greater emotional rapport.

Circus Performer Describes Life As Bearded Lady

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (UPI)—Few women qualify for Lola Conklin's job and fewer still would want it.

Miss Conklin is a circus bearded lady.

She has been on the road with circuses, carnivals and vaudeville troupes for 45 years and claims to be the original bearded lady in the business.

Miss Conklin, now 60, bears no bitterness at the quirk of nature that made her different from other children. She was born with three sets of teeth, her heart is on the right side of her body and even as a child she had to be shaved at least once a day.

She grew up in Hawaii where she was born, the daughter of an Hawaiian girl and an English sailor.

During the winter, when the circus lays up until the next season, Miss Conklin stays at her home in Tarpon Springs, Fla. and designs clothes.

When she's not on tour, she shaves twice a day. Otherwise, she keeps her beard trimmed at about three inches a day.

During tours, Lola finds it preferable to stay in her trailer quarters much of the time. "People see you on the street and they don't know what to make of it," she explained.

She watches television a lot. "That's about the only relaxation I get," she said.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: It's easy to understand why a married man of 42 would leave his wife for a younger woman, but how about a man that age who would leave a beautiful 36-year-old wife for an old, wrinkled grandmother of 50?

That is exactly what my brother Gordy did. He must be out of his mind. Don't tell me he is looking for "mother love." Our mother is still living and if ever a man got his share of mother love, Brother Gordy did. He was the "baby" of the family, and the only boy—after five girls.

So please tell me what an intelligent, good-looking, professional man can see in a divorced 50-year-old retreat? It's not money. She doesn't have any, and he has plenty. Thank you.

DISGUSTED SISTER
DEAR DISGUSTED: There is something obviously more powerful in Brother Gordy's book than youth and beauty. One of the biggest mysteries in the world is what two people see in one another, but I suspect your brother's reasons are younger than springtime and older than the hills.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this on behalf of my fellow workers. There is an older woman in our office who has the habit of humming one low-pitched, monotonous note constantly from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

We who work with her have approached her kindly, asking her to please stop. All she says is, "I can't promise anything."

I have a sign on my desk reading, "Marion, will you please stop humming"—just in case she glances over.

Several of us have imitated her to remind her that she is humming, but that hasn't helped. We have spoken to her supervisor, but to no avail.

For seven months I've endured this constant maddening distraction, and now I even hear it when it's not there. Please, please, help us.

GOING CRAZY IN HARTFORD
DEAR GOING: Poor Marion has probably developed the humming habit over the years and now she hums unconsciously. But habits are "learned" and can be "unlearned." unite! Tell her gently, emphatically that her humming is driving you bananas. And the boss that he'd better ins background music to drown the humming bird, or you go south.

Hiccups Remain Medical Mystery

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Hiccups, source of amusement to onlookers and embarrassment and discomfort to the victim, remain a medical mystery. Neither can nor treatment is fully understood.

Hiccups begin when diaphragm, a muscular partition between the chest and abdominal cavities, begins to contract spasmodically.

An attack can be triggered by a variety of irritants, including highly spiced foods, alcohol, excessive smoking, fatigue, gulping liquids that are too hot or too cold.

Ordinary hiccups subside within five or 10 minutes. If they do not stop after an hour, a doctor should be consulted.

OUR CAPSULE POLICY NEVER STRIVING FOR THE TEXAS PANHANDLE TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE. Let Peace Begin With Me!

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Tariffs Lead To War

Some hundred years ago, Frederic Bastiat, the French economist whose works have largely been given the silence treatment in this country, pointed out that where men and goods are not permitted to freely cross borders, armies will. History has proved him right again and again. But our politicians and bureaucrats never seem to learn; one wonders, indeed, if even the inclination is there?

Evidence that the lesson has not been learned by the man entrusted by the voters with the highest and most powerful governmental position in the land was provided by President Richard M. Nixon recently when he asked Congress to grant him even more arbitrary and discretionary power than he already wields.

Taking out of both sides of his mouth, the President posed as an advocate of competitive private enterprise on the one hand while, on the other, emphasizing the validity of Bastiat's warning when he asked Congress to give him authority to go beyond the limits of the 1962 Trade Expansion Act (a classical nightmare) which authorizes the President to impose duties, tariffs, or other import restrictions on any nation that treats U.S. agricultural products unfairly. Not satisfied with that heavy power, Nixon wants the 1962 Act expanded to apply to ALL U.S. products; which means, of course, the power to embargo anything produced anywhere abroad.

The retaliatory nature and war-making potential of such power in the hands of a governmental official is so plain as to be self-evident. Nor, is it difficult to see that the so-called Trade Expansion Act itself, even without the additional requested power, is designed to restrict, rather than to expand, trade between the peoples of the world and, as a by-product, to increase, rather than abate, animosities.

But, in addition to creating conditions leading to war, what other harms to import tariffs and other restrictions against foreign products work on the people of this country? Well, such restrictions play, of course, into the hands of greedy union bosses and compliant employers. By curtailing or eliminating foreign competition, they make it easier for union czars to press unrealistic wage demands upon U.S. producers. Then, too, such restrictions act, indirectly, to increase the taxes U.S. citizens must pay to defray the cost of paying the salaries of tariff and import inspectors.

But the chief harm tariffs and other import restrictions do to U.S. consumers — especially the poor — is that they act to deny such consumers free access to and, consequently, the full benefits of, products that can be produced more cheaply abroad than in this country. In short, such restrictions act as competition-killing, price-boosting subsidies to inefficient U.S. producers. This works in two ways:

1. The tariffs and other restrictions add to the prices that U.S. consumers must pay for foreign goods entering this country; thus, as already noted, the U.S. consumer is forced to pay more for such goods than would otherwise be the case.

2. Relieved of the competitive pressure that cheaper, non-taxed, foreign goods would exert on the domestic market, the U.S. producer is thus enabled to charge more for domestically produced goods than would be the case if the full competitive influence of foreign goods were permitted to act as a disciplining factor.

So, in the outcome the U.S. consuming public — especially the poor — is hit with two clubs. On the one hand, the U.S. consumer is prevented from buying foreign made goods at their true (cheaper) market price while, on the other hand, that same consuming public is forced to pay higher prices for domestically produced goods by virtue of the protective tariff enjoyed by inefficient U.S. producers.

President Nixon, in asking Congress for the additional retaliatory tariff powers, made the claim that such powers were required for the purpose of protecting U.S. industries and businesses who are unable to compete with cheaper foreign products. He, thus, confirmed what we have just said. However, if he is really sincere in this respect and knows what he is doing (and we happen to know that he has at least one economic adviser who knows what is needed), then he will take immediate steps to remove or drastically reduce the three factors that are really pricing U.S. producers out of the world market. These are: Governmental inflation of the money supply, exorbitant taxes, and the just as exorbitant wage increases greedy union bosses are enabled to demand, and get, by virtue of preferential laws.

Inexcusable Waste

Stephen B. Moser, executive vice president of Boise Cascade Corp., one of the country's larger timber companies, has expressed some thoughts on government and housing that show how our vast governmental machinery can sometimes be geared to work at cross purposes. He describes how conflicting governmental policies have deprived the public of maximum economic benefit from the nation's forests. Mr. Moser says, "... One part of our government has set a policy of 'top dollar' for the sales from its forest resources. And a third has cracked down on the money markets with disastrous results for homebuilding. ... Mr. Moser goes on to tell how nearly two-thirds of all softwood sawtimber in the country is on federal forest lands, and these lands are producing logs far below capacity. Billions of feet of salvageable timber, damaged by blowdown, insects, fire or overmaturity, go to waste because federal forest managers are hampered under present federal timber management policies in their efforts to salvage such timber. Federal forest managers have been denied manpower and the funds to build necessary access roads. The timber industry, whose private industrial timberlands have borne the brunt of meeting demand of wood products through the most progressive forest management techniques, strongly supports current legislation before Congress designed to provide intensive management of the federal forests, while at the same time protecting and insuring other multiple benefits on these lands. Known as the National Forest Conservation and Management Act of 1969, the legislation, in the view of Mr. Moser and other timber industry leaders, would enable managers of the federal forest lands to "... do their job the way they would like to do it. ..."

CAPITOL EYE

'Political' Aspects Of Vietnam

By BRUCE BLOSSAT Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA) —

Some of President Nixon's adversaries, both young and adult, are reasoning quite badly as they try to weigh his motives with regard to the Vietnam war.

Many say they distrust his announced intent to disengage the United States from that war, at least on a combat basis, because he is a "political animal" responsive only to shallow political considerations.

To clear away the fringe aspects of this issue, let us first set aside those who simply distrust Nixon the man — and allow that to color their judgment of all his actions.

Recently a leading Democrat privately acknowledged that he feels this broad distrust, and there is evidence he has much company among adult liberals of both parties. It's a heritage from the 1960s, when they saw Nixon as the Republicans' young hatchet man.

Countless young people voice a general distrust of the President, but the judgment has less meaning since they profess to feel the same about all "establishment" leaders.

When all such leaders are automatically blackened in a blanket indictment, obviously no real powers of judgment and discernment are being exercised and the conclusions lack all force. There is nothing easier, or more useless, than condemning everybody.

The argument that does deserve answer is that Nixon can't be believed on the subject of war disengagement because he is "political."

Th reporter must try to appraise the validity of that argument without either defending or assaulting the President's specific plans for getting us out.

Politics is highly complex, and being political can have many meanings. It's unlikely that all those who apply the label to Richard Nixon have the same things in mind. But one can be pretty sure that a high proportion of those individuals believe that the President wants very much to be re-elected in 1972.

His track record on this score is persuasive. He has been running for something most of the time since 1946. In 1968, undisciplined by prior, back-to-back defeats for the presidency and the California governorship in 1960-62, he staged an impressive comeback to gain the White House. No first-time GOP loser had ever before managed that.

Now, if the President is the sharp-eyed politician both his friends and his enemies say he is, and no more than an ordinary reader of the newspapers, then he knows what every major pollster has been reporting for a good many months: that a very substantial majority of the American people want us out of Vietnam.

In case any of Nixon's untrusting adversaries missed it, his acute awareness of this sentiment has been widely and often reported. Moreover, it has been many times reported that he does not believe he would have a very good chance of re-election in 1972 if by then he has not severely reduced our role in Vietnam and eliminated battle casualties.

This June he set out upon a course of unilateral combat-troop withdrawal from Vietnam, a path no leading dove in 1968 had urged upon us. He did so because, watching the empty peace talks in Paris, he could see no other way to get in motion toward disengagement. Can there be any real doubt that political urgency was high in his mind?

One does not have to buy all the elements of Nixon's plan, to ignore the conditions he attaches to withdrawal stages, or to argue that there are no heavy gambles in it, to accept the high probability that he is on an irreversible route to full disengagement of our ground combat forces — for a starter.

Granted the accuracy of the general judgment that the country wants out, given the President's evident grasp that his political future is linked to fulfilling that national wish, his adversaries would appear to need to trust only that he is indeed political. Otherwise, one must guess that what they do not trust is their own judgment.

PATRICA YOUNG SAYS

Can't See The Stars Looking In Gutter

By PATRICIA YOUNG

VANCOUVER, B.C.—I like to tell the story of the young man who, walking down the street one day, found a five-dollar bill in the gutter. During the remainder of his life, he kept his eyes on the ground. Thus, by the time he was 70, he had collected 55,000 buttons, 89,000 pins, nine pennies, four bus tokens, a crooked back and a lousy disposition!

Today's movie and TV writers, playwrights and authors who continually rake in the gutter and present their findings in the name of realism remind me of this misguided young man. Their pre-occupation with the dark side of man's soul is not only morbid, but is in conflict with the very essence of man's being which instinctively wants to reach for the stars.

To be sure, we all know that the gutter is there. But do we need our writers and entertainers to rub our noses in the slime? While asking us to pay for the sordid experience? Since the "shock" value has long since passed, one can only question the motives of those who appear to relish the "reality" of homosexuality, Lesbianism, rape, incest and nudity.

The simple truth is that man is set apart from the animal by reason of his capability to reason, hope and aspire. While the animal survives by way of instinct, man alone can live by way of appreciation, idealism, aspiration and enthusiasm. Those who work to destroy these qualities, force man to the level of the animal — ultimately destroying man as the proud, inspired creation of God.

Indeed, today, there are those of us in the communications media who are kept so busy warning of the forces of evil which seek to destroy us that we ourselves forget to point to the stars; to remind readers of the miracle of the seasons and stars; the mathematical precision of night and day, the mystery of light, sound and distance; the glories of nature and man.

Today then, rather than exposing our children to the "reality" of the gutter "because it is there," we should spend more time pointing to the reality of the stars — which are equally there! It is not a question of protecting them from the stench of the sewer, but of giving them a chance to fulfill the purpose of their existence, which is not a lifetime of collecting buttons and pins— but of acknowledging the glory of the stars.

Your Dental Health

Dentures Possible Despite Lumps on Roof of Mouth

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: I'm 78 years old and I have a problem. I have bony lumps on the roof of my mouth. My dentist says I must have them taken off before he can make me a full upper denture. But I'm really too old to have an operation and I don't have the money anyway. Is it possible to have a denture made without removing those lumps?

—Horace W.

DEAR SIR: I don't know how big "those lumps" are but it would seem that your autumnal age and depleted resources are two excellent reasons for not having them removed from your palate.

And beyond that, while they do sometimes present difficulties in full denture construction, surgical intervention is rarely necessary. I can't recall the last time I even heard of a torus being removed.

Tori (torus-singular) is their professional name. They are benign bony growths, hereditary in origin, rather common, occurring in about 35 per cent of our people, and usually completing their growth by age 30. They have been known to have a spurt of growth in later life, but that's rare.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: In the past 10 years I have had two metal partial dentures made and each time the same thing happens: After a while the hooks break off. What causes this? Are they poorly made?

—Seymour J.

ANSWER: Denture clasps or "hooks" on teeth that hold partial dentures in place must be strong and yet have some spring in them. This balance is sometimes difficult to achieve; thick clasps can damage teeth and thin, spring clasps can break.

Clasps also break when there is too much pressure on them. This happens when the denture is not in balance with remaining natural teeth. Denture imbalance is further exaggerated by gums that have shrunken, teeth that have shifted, eccentric chewing habits and when other teeth in the mouth are lost.

I don't know why it was necessary to make NEW dentures for you since broken clasps can usually be repaired or replaced by spot welding to metal dentures.

To avoid, or at least reduce the incidence of denture repairs, your dentures should be cleaned, examined and adjusted twice a year.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of this paper. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

Inside Washington

John Goldsmith

Robert Allen

WASHINGTON — It now develops that the Pentagon's own auditors became concerned about cost overruns on the giant C-5A transport plane as early as late 1965.

The Defense Contract Audit Agency has unearthed a written report made soon thereafter, on May 17, 1966, when the C-5A contract was only a year old. It states in classic Pentagonese, that the project had already incurred some $62 million in potential "additive dollars."

The audit agency has recently advised Congress that its auditors subsequently discussed the contract's "impending cost growth" with Air Force experts in the fall of 1967, the spring of 1968 and again in the fall of 1968. No further written audit was submitted, however.

The 1966 report examined only three aspects of the then very new contract: direct labor rates, overhead costs, and the costs of Lockheed-Georgia Company's subcontract. The audit was sent by Andrew Stennett Jr., a resident auditor, to the Air Force representative at the Marietta, Ga., plant.

At that time, according to the audit, Lockheed's own cost analysis indicated a possible overrun of $3.1 million on the development portion of the contract, but the sum was offset by funds from a "management reserve" account.

The audit blamed "inflationary trends and labor scarcities" for mounting direct labor costs. The same inflationary trends were affecting Lockheed's subcontractors, the audit said, and because of "the higher economic conditions and the probable continued tight labor market" overhead costs would continue to exceed the contract estimates.

In sum, auditor Stennett reported: "Since the April 1965 submission of the contractor's proposed target cost for the C-5A program, certain inflationary trends have developed which affect direct labor rates and overhead rates. In turn this inflationary trend has apparently increased subcontractors' costs. These costs have been passed to the prime contractor during negotiations of subcontracts. As a result, the contractor's proposed target costs as submitted in April 1965 appear to be understated."

FAULTY FOLLOW-UP — Because it was limited to the three cost factors and because it was made so early in the C-5A program, Stennett's audit appears to have generated no follow-up beyond the discussions at the three program review sessions.

It is clear, however, that the Air Force had a very early warning that substantial cost overruns could be expected on the big contract. The early audit makes it even harder to understand why those excess costs were permitted to mount to $2 billion before the Pentagon finally acted to reduce costs by canceling some of the planes.

It was 30 months after the early warning, in mid-November 1968, when Congress was advised of the full scope of the overruns. That is when the matter was finally aired by the Senate-House Economic Committee in hearings chaired by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

Air Force experts had been struggling with the problem for more than two years when management specialist A.E. Fitzgerald won congressional plaudits by telling the full story to Proxmire.

CARRIERS NEXT — In the normal course of things congressional committees do not get reports from the Pentagon auditing agency as they do from the General Accounting Office, which is actually an arm of Congress. The early C-5A audit did not go to Congress until recently.

Congressional committees have since asked, however, that the audit agency renew its interest in the C-5A program and submit copies of the audits which result. Significantly, the audit agency has also been asked to study the costs of the Navy's new aircraft carriers of the Nimitz type. Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., made that request and asked that the resulting audits be supplied to Congress.

Ellender says the Nimitz itself has already incurred a $136 million cost overrun. Estimated to cost $410 million when it was first approved by Congress, the carrier is now expected to cost $536 million, according to Ellender.

The senator also referred to the second ship of the Nimitz class, which is still in the contracting stage. He suggested that Congress would like to get into that act "in time to do some good."

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

Traffic Jam In The Sky

By PAUL HARVEY There was hazardous congestion on our overcrowded skyways last year, also.

The Federal Aviation Agency received reports of 2,230 near-misses midair and estimates that there were probably "four hazardous near-collisions for every one that was reported. Last year 35 midair crashes killed 68 people.

However, as air traffic increases, surveillance increases. Our air traffic controllers are improving their capability for keeping aircraft safely separated.

Meanwhile, however, another menace is haunting our jet pilots. And they don't know what to do about this one. Early this month a Pan American Boeing 707 jet with 136 persons aboard, taking off from Sydney, Australia, rammed into a flock of seagulls.

The airliner immediately lost power in two "fowled" engines, veered off the runway, skidded to a stop.

The passengers were less fortunate, however, when an Electra rammed birds and crashed at Boston or when a Viscount recently crashed from that cause in Maryland.

Canada has lost five—perhaps seven — CF-104s from collisions with birds.

In the old days of the comparatively slow prop-plane, birds learned to get out of the way.

Those that didn't did comparatively little damage. Usually we landed with a dent in the wing or a windshield covered with blood and feathers, but we did land safely. Now, when a faster jet strikes a two-pound seagull at 600 M.P.H., the impact force equals 72,000 pounds. That same plane, colliding with a full-grown four-pound duck, develops an impact force of 108,000 pounds!

An Air Canada DC-8 on takeoff from Vancouver, B.C., struck a pheasant. Even at that comparatively slow takeoff speed, the aircraft suffered $200,000 damage.

Another Canadian Pacific Air Lines DC-8, taking off from Amsterdam, ingested a large bird. Repair to the engine thus damaged cost $150,000.

The Airline Pilots Assn., increasingly concerned about this unanticipated hazard, has studied several suggestions for bird control at airports: changing vegetative cover between runways; eliminating small bodies of water and garbage dumps near airports; removing berry-bearing plants from around airports, and destroying earthworms which frequently cover runways following a rain.

The association is researching automated periodic shotgun explosions, recordings of bird-distress calls and tethered falcons.

The most promising device now under investigation is microwave radiation of high intensity which would discomberate any bird up to a mile ahead so that he would fall out of the way.

This hazard was not mentioned here further to frighten potential passengers but rather to acknowledge an increasing concern of the men on the flight deck. And I thought there's just a chance that some farmer who's found a way to protect his berry patch or his cornfield might rescue these city-bred scientists who are now admittedly confounded in their confrontation with a sky full of beautiful, graceful, potentially deadly misguided missiles.

Pampa Woman Commended For Gifts To Overseas Military

Gifts to the servicemen serving in Vietnam are not forgotten nor taken lightly and an expression of appreciation by an organization that attempts to make the tours of duty in combat area a little more pleasant, has acknowledged the gifts sent by Mrs. Grace Purviance, 802 W. Francis.

Mrs. Purviance provided funds to pack 25 "ditty bags" sent through the American Red Cross to service personnel in the war zone.

Mrs. Libby Shoiwell, executive secretary of the ARC in Pampa, enclosed slips in these bags stating that it was supplied by Mrs. Purviance.

This week a letter was received by Mrs. Purviance from "Vietnam Gift-Pac," an organization formed by stars and celebrities to help morale overseas.

Addressing Mrs. Purviance as a "Charter Donor," the letter cited her generosity and thoughtfulness in providing some of the personal necessities of our fighting men in Vietnam. The citation was signed personally by Lucille Ball, Jack Benny, Debbie Reynolds and Danny Thomas.

Harvard-Radcliffe Plan Co-Educational Housing

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—classes together for more than 25 years, but the Radcliffe women live in dormitories about a mile from the all-male Harvard houses.

Under the plan, volunteers will be sought from three Harvard and three Radcliffe houses to move into the new quarters at the end of January.

The Harvard houses selected have self-contained suites so the women can be placed anywhere in the house. The Radcliffe houses, however, do not have such suites so the men will be placed in separate corridors.

The faculty of arts and sciences at Harvard gave near-unanimous approval to the experiment Tuesday following reports on a possible merger of the two institutions.

Small Producers Permitted To Collect Higher Gas Rates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Power Commission Tuesday adopted a new policy to permit small produce certificate holders in the Permian Basin area to collect above ceiling natural gas rates.

The additional rates, subject to refund, are to be based solely on the recent increase in Texas production tax.

Small producer certificates involve those producers with national jurisdictional sales not in excess of 10 billion cubic feet annually.

The new policy was the result of an application filed by Paul F. Barnhart, holder of a small certificate. Barnhart proposed an increase in his rate to Northern Natural Gas Co. as a result of the tax.

In his application Barnhart pointed out that large producers had been permitted to collect, subject to refund, their applicable tax reimbursement above the Permian Basin area ceilings.

The FPC said it has recognized the inequity of treatment involved in the matter and here-

Prolific Gas Well Found In Red Sea

HOUSTON (UPI) — Tenneco Oil announced Tuesday it has an indicated prolific gas condensate discovery in the Red Sea about 10 miles east of Saudi Arabia.

The discovery is on a 2,300 square mile concession of which Tenneco owns one third. A French concern owns the rest.

Tenneco said one of two wells drilled tested at a daily rate of 11,650,000 cubic feet of gas and 650 barrels of condensate.

ASKS SALES STOP

LONDON (UPI) — Police Tuesday asked a chain of Carnaby Street shops to stop selling a note paper labeled "Buckingham Palace." John Paul, owner of the shops, said police told him the paper "could cause a certain amount of embarrassment and inconvenience to the royal family."

A father writes about his newspaperboy-son

Mr. Kirschner and Kevin

Mr. Daniel Kirschner, of La Mirada, Calif., happens to be a Deputy Probation Officer. He also is the father of a 13-year-old. If you are a parent you will want to read what he had to say.

Mr. Kirschner works with children and adults and should know whereof he speaks. Of his son's newspaper route he wrote: "This has assisted in Kevin's developing responsibility and maturity and will aid immeasurably in his future in the world of business."

He also said: "You may be interested in knowing that my son has used monies earned through newspaper delivery and collection to totally pay for Scouting program, including equipment, monthly dues, monthly campsouts, and two-week-long term campout."

Isn't it remarkable that so many people who work with boys recommend a newspaper route as a wonderful business training for a boy. Which it is.

If your son is inclined to take on a route, it would be good to encourage him. Call our Circulation Department today. They will be glad to give you all the facts.

News From Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—John Huston—son of Walter, actor, director, American-Irish citizen, rider to hounds, is eccentric and a free-lance character.

He also is bent on filming an indictment of American middle class, "Bullet Park," from John Cheever's latest novel.

Of this work, Huston said, "It demonstrates that middle class America today is a madhouse. I don't live in middle-class America, but I'm prepared to accept Cheever's observations in the book."

Huston, who has lived nearly two decades in Ireland, has been relatively aloof from the barbecue, bowling video-viewing United States citizen who pays taxes and works hard for a living. Still, he feels he is in touch.

"The bits I've seen from television and my visits to this country tend to confirm Cheever's point of view."

The view is that of the ugly American, domestic version.

"The movie isn't going to satire," Huston said. "It's a cynical evaluation of Americans."

The man who chose to be Irish currently is playing the outrageous character of Buck Loner in "Myra Breckinridge." There is enough American left in Huston for candor, as compared with Irish lyricism.

Asked why he was appearing in the more than freaky film, he replied in all good nature: "I accepted the part because it sounded amusing, a lark. And I am being paid very well indeed."

Huston, a man of elegant taste, admitted he had not read the Gore Vidal novel from which the screenplay was taken. "I just read the script," he explained.

The tall, baggy-eyed, multi-talented Huston prefers directing to his other gifts.

"I act when I have enough time, when I find it amusing and if it is profitable. But I don't take it seriously. When I appear in my own pictures it's usually a last-minute thing when I can't get the actor I had in mind for the role."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Though investors have little specific to look forward to, the stock market does have a couple of good things going for it. Shearson, Hammill & Co. says. The market is greatly oversold and entitled to a rally; some current pressure results from tar loss selling, which will soon peak out; and the depressed prices attained by some stocks are bound to attract long-term buyers who are prepared to wait out an economic storm.

There is an even chance, that institutional investors "will soon detect faint prospects of monetary ease" and will become fairly aggressive buyers in the bond market in the weeks ahead, Spear and Thaff says. The firm observes that stability in the bond market is a necessary precursor for the traditional year-end rally in stocks.

Until a tested base has reformed and emotions have calmed down, reserve buying power should be committed only sparingly and selectively in the market and confined to periods of further price weakness, Hayden, Stone, Inc., says. At present, any recovery progress is being hindered by the relative yield attractiveness of bonds over stocks, the firm adds.

"FACTS PACKAGE"

BOSTON (UPI)—Massachusetts has just issued a new record, but it's unlikely to make the pop charts.

The long-playing record has businessmen, their employees and families, praising the state as a place to work and live.

The Department of Commerce and Development, which issued the recording, plans to include it in a "facts package" to be sent to potential industrial developers throughout the na-
