Military Command Set Up By Atlantic Pact Nations

West Europe Armed Force Ordered by 12-Nation Group

LONDON—(AP)—Atlantic Pact foreign ministers set up a permanent high command tonight and ordered it to develop the armed forces necessary for the defense of Western Europe.

Each of the 12 member foreign ministers will appoint a deputy to serve on the permanent committee.

The appointments will be made "with the least possible delay" so that the deputies can proceed to appoint a full-time chairman from among their members.

This was in line with an agreement to set up a high command to block communism, whether it tries armed attack or "Trojan horse" conquest.

"A year's experience has shown that on the political side the meetings of the council have been too infrequent to permit a sufficient exchange of views on matters of common interest within the scope of the treaty."

"On the military side the strategic concept of the treaty has been adopted and a defense plan drawn up, and the corresponding estimate of the necessary forces is being established."

The highest priority tasks of the permanent council will be: 1. To coordinate the work of the North Atlantic Council's defense committee, its Defense Financial and Economic Committee and all other agencies established under the treaty.

The foreign ministers said anti-Red defense measures would be directed, and coordinated, by a permanent council of their deputies, probably headed by an American.

European newspapers have been full of speculation about who the council head would be. Those mentioned include W. Averell Harriman, roving ambassador for the Marshall Plan; Robert A. Lovett, former under-secretary of state; Gen. Omar A. Bradley, chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff; and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, wartime supreme allied commander in Europe.

The 12 nations which agreed on this plan are the United States, Canada, Britain, France, Italy, Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, Portugal and Iceland.

Agreement was achieved only after considerable soul-searching by some European members who fear they will be used only as expendable bases in the event of Russian armed aggression.

They were told the West must adopt a bold strategy of strength, of winning Russian respect by a display of power.

If war comes, however, the idea is for the West to strike eastward as swiftly as possible in a bid to save Western Europe from being conquered.

"Now a progressive Republican can get the nomination and also be elected."

All of this, of course, rests upon Governor Duff's defeating Democratic Senator Francis Myers in the November election in Pennsylvania.

Myers, now deputy Democratic Senate leader, discounted all Republican claims. He even suggested that some Republicans stayed away from the primary in order to vote Democratic this fall.

Senator Brewster (R-Me.), who heads the GOP campaign committee for this year's Senate races, said "he is very confident that Governor Duff will win in November."

House Committee Backs Rent Curbs

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The House Banking Committee voted 13 to 4 today for another year of federal rent control.

The bill provides, however, that controls will end December 31 in cities that do not vote to continue them until June 30, 1951.

The present rent control law expires at the end of next month. The committee's action sends its bill to the House. The measure, sponsored by Chairman Sprague (D-Ky.), has these main provisions:

- 1. Continuation of the federal control powers to June 30, 1951.
- 2. Increased "local option" provisions whereby localities can determine whether the local governing body or the people in referendum do not decide to continue the controls to June 30, 1951.
- 3. Rent controls to end automatically in December in all localities where the local governing body or the people in referendum do not decide to continue the controls to June 30, 1951.

Governors of the various states would have no authority to veto the action of cities taking themselves out from under the federal rent ceilings.

President Truman asked for a renewal of the rent law in a special message to Congress April 21. He said "a sudden and simultaneous removal of rent controls on a national scale would precipitate a wave of exorbitant rent increases."

Mr. Truman also argued that rent increases would mean the average family would have to cut its spending for food and clothing. He said that would lead to unemployment.

Labor groups also campaigned strongly for continuation of controls. Spokesmen for the CIO and A. F. of L. told the committee yesterday that if controls were dropped, labor certainly would ask for a new round of wage increases.

Mr. Truman said that controls are now being dropped gradually. He estimated that by June 30, only 8,000 rental units would be under rent ceilings. This compares with a total of 16,000,000 units controlled in 1946.

Millions of rental units have been decontrolled under the present law that permits state legislatures to decontrol whole states, localities to decontrol themselves and the federal housing expediter to lift ceilings where he thinks housing pressures have eased.

Freeman talked with Reps. Poage and Teague, Democrats, and Guill, Republican.

Guill's wife left for their Pampa home yesterday after seeing her husband take the oath of office Monday as the first Republican from Texas in the House in 19 years.

Freeman told Poage and Teague everything is ready for closing construction on the Brazos River. "A stop-order which had held up filling in this last section will be rescinded so the closure can be made," said Poage.

Duff Victory Called Stunning Blow to GOP's 'Old Guard'

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Talk of electing a "progressive Republican" as president in 1952 grew louder today among GOP senators who like that label for themselves.

The talk came from the smashing Pennsylvania Republican primary victory that gave Governor James H. Duff the nomination as senator and a strong hold on one of the most powerful parts of the national GOP machinery.

Republicans of all political shades agreed that Duff dealt a stunning blow to what some call the "Old Guard" among Republicans.

And most Republicans pointed to the heavy GOP primary totals in Pennsylvania as evidence that they can recapture control of Congress this fall.

Duff's victory over John C. Kunkel was a defeat for the veteran and long powerful Joseph R. Grandy, 87-year-old former U. S. senator who has been a leading figure in state and national GOP affairs.

It was this angle that brought smiles for Republican senators who enjoy being called progressives, such as Lodge and Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Ives of New York and Aiken of Vermont.

Another of the same category, who would not permit use of his name, explained it this way: "In recent years no one has been able to get the Republican presidential nomination without the support of Joe Grandy, Joe Pew and the Pennsylvania old guard. But with that support all of them have been defeated by the Democrats."

"Now a progressive Republican can get the nomination and also be elected."

All of this, of course, rests upon Governor Duff's defeating Democratic Senator Francis Myers in the November election in Pennsylvania.

Myers, now deputy Democratic Senate leader, discounted all Republican claims. He even suggested that some Republicans stayed away from the primary in order to vote Democratic this fall.

Revision Plans Of President Losing Backers

WASHINGTON — (AP) — New reorganization headlined today for President Truman's Senate forces, already four-time losers in efforts to ward off attacks on his plans for revising federal agencies.

Senator Holland (D-Fla.) disclosed that he might call up for a vote during the day a resolution to kill the controversial plan giving the secretary of agriculture power to reorganize his department.

And Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.), who has led successful fights against two administration plans, indicated he might ask the Senate to disapprove two more, affecting the federal trade and power commissions.

Another plan calling for changes in the Labor Department was up for action in the House.

Johnson rolled up his double triumph yesterday when the Senate killed the Interstate Commerce and Federal Communications Commission plans. The votes were 66 to 13 and 60 to 23, respectively.

Two other plans — to eliminate the office of National Labor Relations Board general counsel, and to place the controller of currency under the secretary of treasury — were junked by the Senate last week.

Congress is required to vote only on those reorganization proposals against which resolutions of disapproval have been introduced. Forty-nine votes are required in the Senate to kill a plan, and 218 in the House. Plans go into effect automatically unless disapproved by either house. The 60-day deadline for the 21 plans is up next Tuesday.

The two killed yesterday would have vetoed in the chairman of (See REVISION, Page 2)

Diplomats Amazed By Slayer's Release

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico — (AP) — U. S. embassy authorities say they are at a loss to explain the release of the confessed slayer of Texas Sheriff Otis W. Blackley, Morrow from a Mexican jail.

Jose Villalobos, 24, was ordered released here yesterday under a court action corresponding to a habeas corpus in the United States. A federal judge ruled that an order from Mexico City for his arrest was not sufficient to hold him.

Villalobos had been held 10 months while extradition proceedings were underway. He was arrested by Mexican officers, accompanied by Texas officers, on March 16, four days after the Presidio County sheriff was found shot to death on a lonely road.

The embassy said yesterday in Mexico City that extradition papers for the youth had been presented to the Mexican foreign office "two or three weeks ago."

Norman C. Davis, Presidio County attorney, said Mexican authorities had never asked for an order of arrest.

"The presidential warrant of arrest, signed by President Truman and Secretary of State Dean Acheson is being held," he said. "It authorizes the sheriff of Presidio to arrest Villalobos in Mexico when extradition is granted by Mexico."

Federal district attorney for Chihuahua state, Guillermo Carrillo Maynez, said he tried fruitlessly to block court action releasing the youth. He said agents of his office are attempting to keep track of Villalobos so he could be re-arrested if further evidence is sent.

The trio was nabbed by Sheriff Clyde Bailey of Canadian and Sheriff C. C. Carr, Miami, a few minutes after they were spotted coming out of the motor company by an attendant who discovered the company's safe battered.

They were arraigned Wednesday, following their indictment before District Judge Lewis M. Goodrich who set bonds for each at $5,000. They were returned to the Gray County Jail where they have been kept since their early Sunday morning arrest on April 16.

Ash is also under bond and faces trial in connection with other Panhandle burglaries at Pampa, Memphis, and Plainview. No date has been set for trial of the trio.

Officials Say Ring Is Broken

GALVESTON — (AP) — Federal and local officers claim to have broken up a $1,000,000 narcotics ring which bought heroin from New York racketeers with marijuana smuggled from Mexico.

About 50 suspects were arrested yesterday in a day-long series of raids on taverns and rooming houses in this Gulf Coast area.

Preliminary hearings on federal narcotic charges were held for 12 defendants late yesterday, including three men which officers pointed out as ringleaders. Hearings for three others are scheduled Friday.

Those charged include: Rudolph Achee, about 50, operator of a bar, who pleaded innocent and was placed under $10,000 bond.

Jose Rangel, a merchant seaman from Corpus Christi, who pleaded innocent and was placed under $10,000 bond.

Frank Castano, beer tavern operator, pleaded guilty and his bond was set at $10,000.

"I want to go before the judge as soon as possible," Castano told U. S. Commissioner Willie Mae Collier. "I'm guilty and might as well save court costs and do my time as quickly as possible."

The cases of Achee and Rangel will go to the federal grand jury. Castano will come to trial at the next session of federal court.

Jurist Halts Move To Oust War Bride

NEW YORK — (AP) — An order from a U. S. Supreme Court justice halted the deportation of a German-born war bride yesterday just 20 minutes before her plane left for Europe.

Signed by Justice Jackson in Washington, the order allows Mrs. Ellen Knauff to remain in this country pending the outcome of an appeal of her case to the high court. She was given until May 26 to file such an appeal.

Jackson followed up his order with a bluntly-worded statement criticizing immigration and Justice Department officials for "bundling this woman onto an airplane to get her out of this country within hours" after the Circuit Court of Appeals had granted clearance to the deportation move.

Such haste, Jackson said, "leaves no doubt that the purpose is to defeat the jurisdiction of this court as well as the determination of Congress."

The House unanimously approved a bill last month to allow Mrs. Knauff to enter the United States. This measure is now pending before the Senate.

Mrs. Knauff, 35, has been held on Ellis Island since 1948. She testified before a congressional committee last month that she believed the expulsion order was instigated by a former girl friend of her husband, Kurt. He was a civilian employe of the U. S. Military Government in Germany.

Jackson took pointed notice of the Justice Department's refusal to make public its reasons for barring Mrs. Knauff other than its report that "she would be a hazard to internal security."

He said he would have refused to sign the delay order if the department "had at any time shown even probable grounds to believe that presence of this woman a few days more in this country might jeopardize national security, even infinitesimally."

He added that neither Mrs. Knauff, the courts nor Congress had been able "to learn what the specific charges against her are."

Clean-Up Launched In City's Ward 3

Handbills are scheduled to be distributed in Ward Two tomorrow, and the sound truck is to visit that ward Saturday.

If the schedule goes along as planned, the drive will begin in that ward, which covers the northeastern part of the city, next Monday.

Although the drive only began last Monday, trucks finished Ward Four Tuesday, and yesterday started on Ward Three.

Erling Winborne, who is directing the movements of the trucks, said that if the citizens of Pampa continue to cooperate, the drive should be completed at least one day ahead of time, and possibly sooner.

Residents of Ward Two, in which the drive is sponsored by the Rotary Club, are urged to have their trash ready to move by Monday. This is necessary as the trucks are not required to start at any set place in the ward.

It was estimated that the four trucks working yesterday averaged about eight loads a each, making an approximate total of 32 loads for the day.

Open House at Phone Company Attracts 953

Up until 9 p. m. yesterday, 953 persons had attended the three-day open house of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., according to George Newberry, district manager.

Since the last open house held in 1940, the local office has added 70 feet to the building and made other improvements.

Where there were nine local positions and ten toll positions in 1940, there are now 16 local positions and 14 toll. Ten years ago, the office handled 20,000 local calls daily; it now handles 42,000.

Visitors are conducted through the station by qualified operators and employes. In the front or commercial office, each visitor has his voice recorded on a tape recording machine, which is supposed to reproduce voices just as they sound over the telephone.

They are then directed to the switchboards where each board, long distance, and information, is explained thoroughly by operators designated for that purpose. Then the visitors are taken through the plant system and shown what happens behind the scenes in a telephone office.

The tour requires about an hour for adults and 45 minutes for student groups. Tours are conducted from 1 p. m. until 9 p. m. daily.

16 Killed in Crash Of B-29 in Azores

PONTA DELGADA, Azores — (AP) — A B-29 bomber crashed off the runway at Lagens Field last night and burst into flames, killing all 16 persons aboard.

Unofficial reports said the U. S. Air Force plane hit an automobile parked off the field. The plane caught fire immediately and burned in a few minutes. Fourteen men were burned beyond recognition.

The plane, carrying a crew of 11 and five passengers, believed to be military personnel, was en route from Bermuda to England.

Its home was Barkadale Air Force Base at Shreveport, La. Capt. Salvatore Pelle, public information officer at Barkadale, said the plane had been diverted to Lagens Field when it developed engine trouble. He said no high ranking officers were aboard. The bomber was en route to England as part of the Air Force rotational plan to provide overseas training for regular Air Force groups.

The two commissions authority over the administration and purserings of the agencies. The ICC plan would also have permitted the president to name the chairman. The same general provisions apply to the FTC and FCC.

Johnson has opposed all of the plans for the four regulatory agencies on grounds they would turn the commissions into "one man agencies" and shift control from Congress to the president.

He mustered 33 votes from each party against the ICC plan, while two Republicans and 31 Democrats went along with the administration.

The FCC disapproval squeaked through with the vote of 24 Democrats and 26 Republicans, with 15 Democrats and eight Republicans backing the administration.

Centuries-Old Passion Play Staged Again

By JAMES DEVLIN
OBERAMMERGAU, Germany—The centuries-old Passion Play was staged today for the first time in 36 years with a schoolgirl playing the Virgin Mary and an innkeeper cast as Christ.

A capacity audience of 5,200 watched as a cast of 1,500 villagers put on the dramatic spectacle with all its 300-year-old pageantry.

Dignitaries attending the premiere included West German President Theodor Heuss, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, a U. S. American and British high commissioners John McCloy and Sir Brian Robertson.

The officials sat in a special rear box of the arch-roofed amphitheater. From there they looked over the audience and out upon the open stage backdropped by the Bavarian Alps, dotted with cottages.

The attention of the audience was focussed chiefly upon Anton Freisinger, brown-bearded village innkeeper in the role of Christ, and Annemie Mayr, 16-year-old wood-carving student portraying the Virgin Mary.

Christ, clad in a pale yellow robe with a crimson cloak thrown over his right shoulder, appeared for the first time a short while later.

Mary was demure and saintly when she stepped onto the stage for the first time a short while later.

One American boy has a part in a crowd scene. He is six-year-old Johnny McMahon, son of Major and Mrs. John McMahon of Boise, Idaho. Major McMahon is stationed here with the U. S. Army.

The voices of the cast rang clearly from the open stage into the huge covered theater. No microphones or other mechanical aids were used.

The play which lasts from 8:30 a. m. until 6 p. m., opened with a prologue read by Alois Lang, who played Christ in the last Oberammergau play.

Now gray haired, Lang wore a golden robe. He was accompanied by a gray-robed choir of 80 men and women lined up across the 60-yard wide stage.

As they filed from the stage the curtain fell back revealing a street scene in Jerusalem.

Hundreds of inhabitants strolled into view. They were clad in a colorful array of red, blue, green and yellow costumes.

Among them were the children of the town, bare-footed despite the early morning chill.

Both the men and boys in the cast had gone without haircuts for a year to obtain a Biblical appearance with hair falling to their shoulders.

As Christ stepped into the milling scene his first words were:

"What do I see here? Is this the house of God? Or is it the market place?"

The stage crowd muttered angrily.

But the children, undaunted by their first stage appearance, shouted "Hosanna" in loud clear voices that echoed through the amphitheater.

Christ reminded the crowd that out of the mouths of children came wisdom.

Treasury Chief Says '50 To Be Good Year

MEMPHIS — (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Snyder said today that 1950 "will be one of the most profitable business years in our history."

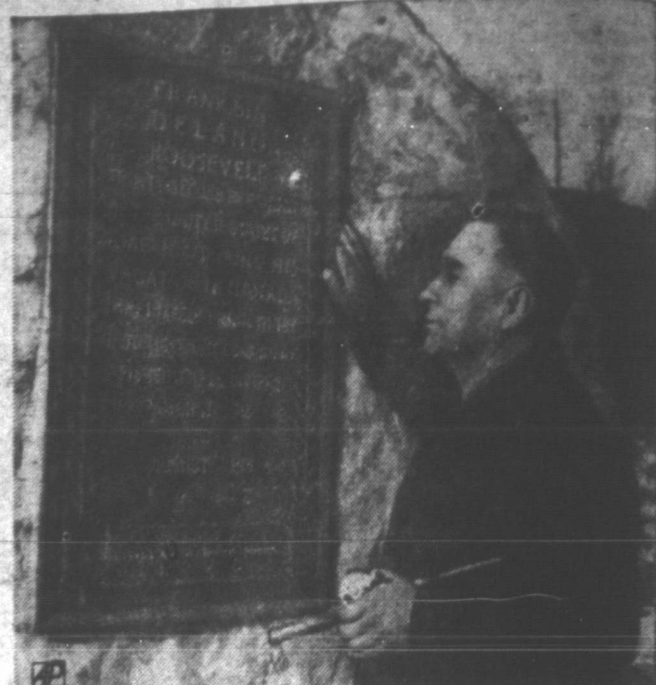

"There is sound basis for confidence in the business outlook for our nation," he said in a speech before the 50th annual convention of the Tennessee Bankers Association.

Reciting that business profits this year "are less likely to be held down by inventory losses since commodity prices have shown a firm trend for nearly a year," Snyder questioned whether new capital outlays by business will be cut back as much as was earlier estimated.

He said strong points in the business picture include high level home building, auto production and consumer incomes and spending.

The treasury chief, a native of neighboring Arkansas, described the growing labor force as "one of the nation's biggest assets for future progress," but added:

"To realize our full potential for business profits and national income, new jobs must be developed in step with our growing population. In the longer run, as our population grows, new jobs must be created by the initiative and vision of both management and job seekers."

McCarthy Asked For Real Proof

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senate Communist investigators asked Senator McCarthy today for evidence backing up his charges that State Department loyalty files have been rifled.

McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, replied that before he can provide such evidence, Democratic members of a Senate inquiry committee will have to be convinced "that the raping of the files should be exposed rather than covered up."

The files being examined by a Senate foreign relations subcommittee cover 81 persons accused by McCarthy of being Communists, Red sympathizers or security risks for other reasons.

McCarthy has charged that the files were stripped of much material by the State Department before it turned them over to the committee.

Blaze Damages Drive-In Here

An early morning blaze today started by an overloaded neon sign circuit, heavily damaged parts of the inside of the Old Mill Drive Inn, Hobart and Wilks, the fire department reported.

The blaze was discovered by city policemen on routine cruise at 3 a. m. when they saw smoke blowing across the highway. Investigating, they saw flames leaping up around the drive inn's counter and refrigerator.

Firemen turned a booster hose on the flames and finally got the blaze under control.

Damage to the counter, a deep freezer and a refrigerator was extensive, Fire Chief Ernest Winborne said.

Interest Is Personal But Search in Vain

READING, Pa. — (AP) — With fellow members of the Liberty Fire Company, Walter Skrocki went in search of a blazing automobile.

Responding to a telephone alarm, the firemen went to the spot where the car was supposed to be yesterday. Unable to locate it, they returned to the fire house.

There, they learned the burning auto was on another street — where it had been left by its owner, Fireman Skrocki. Neighbors put the flames out before the firemen arrived.

Atlanta Transit Workers Strike

ATLANTA — (AP) — Atlanta's 1,300 trolley and bus drivers struck for higher wages last midnight, leaving this city of almost 400,000 residents without public transportation.

Although on strike against the Georgia Power Company, the operators climbed into their private autos — clearly labeled — and started giving free service to former trolley riders.

The union — Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America, AFL — said the cars would run as long as the union's gas and oil supply lasts.

Two beekeepers collected the insects and the mail moved again, nearly an hour late.

Weather-Conscious Giant Makes Good Wine Salesman

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — (AP) — The thing that Jack Earle hated most about being a circus giant was having people ask, "how's the weather up there?"

"I figure I was asked that question at least 10,000 times," recalled Earle.

At 44 and still standing eight-feet-six-and-a-half inches, he is happy in his new career as "the world's tallest traveling salesman."

You must remember Jack, probably the most famous and certainly the most talented of a long line of Ringling Brothers circus giants.

"I used to sell my giant's lucky rings for a quarter," he grinned. "I sold thousands of them. Every once in a while I still bump into someone who pulls out one of those rings, tarnished with age. I always offer to give them their quarter back if it hasn't brought them good luck."

Jack got his circus job in an odd way. As a child he had wanted to be a motion picture actor. And from the age of 13 to 17 he did appear as a gangling, overgrown kid in some 48 film comedies with Baby Peggy and other stars of the day.

"One day I fell off a truck and went blind for more than four months," he said. "The injury hastened the growth of a pituitary tumor."

Jack shot up weedlike as he was recuperating at his home in El Paso. One afternoon he went with some other boys to see the Ringling Brothers sideshow. He was amazed to find he was taller than "the world's tallest man." So was the circus. It promptly offered the youth a contract.

"I didn't want to be a sideshow freak," Jack said. "But I did want to earn a living. I traveled with the circus for 14 years. And by then all its glamor and color had ended for me."

After a trip to Australia, Earle returned and looked up an old friend who was working with the wine division of Schenley Industries. The company hired Jack to make a three-month good will tour — and he's been with them ever since.

He was graduated from being an oddity to becoming one of the ablest merchandising specialists in the wine business.

Jack spends more than 11 months of the year on the road.

"Learning to overcome the physical hardships of traveling—such as having to buy my socks a gross at a time and sleeping doubled up in train berths—wasn't the chief difficulty," he said. "It was psychological—getting other people to realize that, despite my size, I was just another man trying to earn a normal living in a normal manner."

"But that worked out, too, in time. When I call on dealers now, they know I'm there on business. And my heights has even been an advantage. No receptionist ever tells me her boss isn't in."

Jack only met one man taller than himself in his life — Robert W. Low, the late Alton, Ill., giant.

"He stood 8 feet, 9 3/4 inches," Earle said. "I was so flabbergasted when I saw him the only thing I could think to say was, 'how's the weather up there?'"

"He didn't like it either."

UAW Local's Office Staff Calls Strike

TOLEDO, Ohio — (AP) — Local 12 of the CIO United Automobile

Workers had a strike of its own employees on its hands today. Twelve girls, who are members of the local and employees in its dues collection office, have walked out.

They went out yesterday against what they termed "the domination of Richard Gosser," of Toledo, international vice president of the union. In a statement last night, the union asserted they quit their jobs. The local refused to recognize the action as a strike, and said the girls' jobs would be filled by others.

The girls who walked out appointed as their spokesman a four-member committee—Johanna Kocica, Alms Phininger, Peg Reihle and Virginia White. The committee declared:

1. Dues collection office workers were not permitted to vote on strike assessments they were asked to contribute. They said they asked Howard Seren, Local 12 president, if they could vote on a donation for strikers at the Mather Spring Co. in Toledo, but he refused.

2. Gosser and his staff interfered with the routine operation of the dues-collection office and put in "scabs" after the strike was called.

Said the striking girls, "we are not against donating for men on strike, but we are against having to pay without the right to vote."

Improved Relations With Peron Regime Sought After Loan

WASHINGTON — (AP) — American officials have expressed hope a $125,000,000 credit to Argentina will persuade President Peron to grant more civil liberties in his country.

The loan announced by the Export-Import Bank was labeled as strictly a business proposition to improve trade between the two countries.

But these authorities said it may also improve chances that the Argentine chief of state will institute some of the political reforms the United States would like to see.

Some support for this view came in a companion announcement issued by Assistant Secretary of State Edward G. Miller, Jr., indicating hope for an end to the strained U.S.-Argentine political relations which have existed since the war.

As far as trade is concerned, Miller said, the credit marks a "new era in economic collaboration" between the two nations.

President Herbert E. Gaston of the Export-Import Bank said the main purpose of the credit is to enable Argentina to repay a backlog of commercial debts owed for over a year to American exporters.

The deal was negotiated by Argentine Treasury Minister Ramon A. Cereijo during a recent two-month mission to Washington.

The Peron government started repayment of the debts about a year ago by setting aside 30 percent of all her dollar income and

Stowaway Gets Jail Sentence

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng. — (AP) — Henry Lawrence Durham, 26, a former sailor from Halls, Texas, began a 14-day jail term yesterday for stowing away to see his wife severely restricting her imports. The amount owed stood at $108,000,000 as of March 1, but Gaston said it probably runs around $105,000,000 now. In addition, the government itself is behind on between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 of its commercial debts.

and children in England. His 20-year-old wife, Veronica, and two baby daughters — one ill and about to undergo a mastoid operation — are staying with her parents at Liverpool. They came here from the United States in February for a visit.

Durham, a Houston steel worker, admitted he stowed away in the ship "Empire Ely" at Mobile, Ala., April 22.

In Liverpool, Mrs. Durham said she had appealed to the immigration authorities not to deport her husband when he is released and was told he might be allowed to stay for six months.

National Record Set In Building Permits

NEW YORK — (AP) — Dun & Bradstreet has reported building permit valuations in 215 cities set a new record for the first four months of this year.

The current total of $1,872,993,049 is 37.9 percent higher than last year's $1,350,473,007 and was 21.5 percent higher than the previous record of $1,504,575,220 reached in the comparable 1929 period.

During April, building permit volume was only slightly below the high level of the previous month but well above a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet reported.

Permits last month amounted to $445,978,656 which was 0.6 percent below the March total of $448,893,854 and 28.3 percent above the total of $347,997,506 in April of 1949.

Sales Managers Becoming 'Fair-Haired' Lads in U.S.

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK — (AP) — Sales managers in many companies are the fair-haired lads around the conference tables these days. They have placed enough orders to keep their plants going for many weeks or months ahead, in spite of growing competition.

A long list of booming sales orders is reported today in a wide assortment of industries. There is a surprise or two in the lot. And there are some predictions of better sales and therefore more production in the months ahead for a number of other industries.

Businesses that haven't been doing so well of late join the happy sales parade, for the time being at least — like cotton textile mills and freight car builders. Some that are heading for their usual summer doldrums — as fuel oil, for example — think they'll be busier than ever next fall, and raise prices and set production goals higher.

The booming lumber, steel, rubber and paper industries say they expect good times for quite a while yet.

Enough print cloths and other cotton goods — an estimated 150 million yards — has been sold in recent days in New York's Worth Street to keep many cotton textile mills busy for six months.

The largest freight car order to outside builders in 25 years has just been placed by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The Equitable Life Assurance Society will pay for the 10,000 cars and rent them to the railroad. The insurance company also is buying 1,300 cars to rent to the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad.

Freight car orders hit a low point in 1949 (only 6,248 ordered in the entire year) but up till May 1 orders for 27,950 have been placed this year, and the new Equitable deals will boost the year's figures still higher.

Lumber dealers around the country report their sales top last year by as much as 25 percent. Little wonder, with starts of new homes running 53 percent ahead of last year.

China Theory Is Defended By Lattimore

BALTIMORE — (AP) — The Communists might not have won control of China if some of his suggestions had been accepted, Owen Lattimore told his colleagues at Johns Hopkins University last night.

More than 600 members of the faculty and students at the university turned out to show Lattimore that they believe he is a loyal citizen.

Lattimore, a Hopkins professor, has been the main target of Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.). The senator has called Lattimore the top Soviet spy in the United States and contended that he shaped this country's Far East policy.

He was no shaper of Asiatic policy, Lattimore said. In fact, he added, if some of his ideas had been accepted, they might have prevented the American position in the Far East from becoming "so dangerously exposed to further successful advances."

Lattimore, who is director of the university's Walter Hines Page School of International Relations, won heavy applause from his listeners.

A university spokesman said there were more faculty members present than at any meeting "within the past ten years."

Dr. George Boss, chairman of the philosophy department, introduced Lattimore.

The basic theme running through both their talks was: "It might happen to any one of us."

Lattimore said the type of charges brought against him "called for fighting, not fixing."

How did his friends react to it all?

Rise in Inventories Brings Boom, Recession Speculation

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK — (AP) — The climb in inventories this spring leads some observers to wonder whether the face another inventory boom and inventory recession like those of late 1948 and early 1949. And, if so, at what point will rising inventories give the tip-off on the next slump.

Others hasten to point out that inventories are still well in line with the advancing national income and the continuing boom in sales of durable goods. And they point heavily on the common sense which most businessmen have shown since the war. Things to watch about inventories, where they grow and where they back up; the trend of prices up and down and the changes in consumer income and purchasing power.

of 55 billion. But adjusting to the normal seasonal variations, the Department of Commerce reports the gain as one half billion dollars during March, and says it was concentrated in the retail and wholesale stockrooms. Manufacturers' inventories held where they were.

In other words, there was no backing up at the factory — such as led to the sharp drop in production just a year ago, and to a drop in inventories of $3 billion by midsummer. On the contrary, in March the nation's manufacturers, as a whole, were having their best postwar month for orders, a record $20.6 billion, 14 percent better than the year before. The question is how much of this is going into consumers' hands, and how much into inventories.

Business inventories went up $9 million in March to a total

Alabama Woman Recommends HADACOL

TO FOLKS SUFFERING WITH DEFICIENCIES OF VITAMINS B-1, B-2, NIACIN AND IRON

Mrs. Casady and Children
 Mrs. R. E. Casady, 406 Tennessee Avenue, East Gadsden, Alabama, has suffered for some time with loss of weight, nervousness and gas pains. After taking HADACOL, she says: "I would wholeheartedly recommend HADACOL because it has done so much for me."

Mrs. Casady was suffering from a deficiency of Vitamins B-1, B-2, Niacin and Iron, which HADACOL contains. She says, "I wouldn't take anything for the complete change HADACOL has made in my home."

Here is Mrs. Casady's statement: "For some time, I have been underweight, nervous, had terrible headaches and gas pains all the time. I had taken all kinds of medicine. Then a friend told me how she got such wonderful results from HADACOL. After two bottles, I could tell a terrific difference. I now have a fine appetite, have gained weight and beat of all, have lost those gas pains and headaches. I wholeheartedly recommend HADACOL because it has done so much for me. I wouldn't take anything for the complete change that HADACOL has made in my home."

Money-Back Guarantee
 To give this remarkable HADACOL medicine a chance to help you if you suffer from stomach distress, nervousness, insomnia, constipation, aches and pains of neuritis, a general run-down condition, and are sick or ailing, because you have deficiencies of Vitamins B-1, B-2, Niacin and Iron. Those who are betting on a continued high business activity in the second half of the year point out that the inventory gain came at a time when the construction industry was pushing toward a new record, when auto factories were working up toward a new high annual output of cars, when steel production was setting new tonnage marks.

Opinion is divided on how much of the present high level of business activity can be traced to building up inventories. Some hold that last year's scare led to unnecessary cuts in inventories ($3 billion in a few months) which haven't yet been made up. Others stress that no one should ever count on an inventory boom lasting very long.

One reason given for the shortness of the 1949 slump is that during both the inventory boom which preceded it and the rush to whittle down inventories which characterized it, consumer spending continued remarkably steady in total dollars spent, although shifting among various types of goods bought.

Many believe that the same thing will happen again, should inventories get out of line. And many doubt that inventories will be built up dangerously.

ITU Members Cast Ballots

INDIANAPOLIS — Sixty-five thousand printers cast ballots yesterday in a bitter election contest in the AFL-International Typographical Union.

Woodruff Randolph of Chicago, seeking his fourth two-year term as president, was the central figure in the fight. He headed the Progressive Party slate.

He was opposed by C. G. Sparkman of Detroit, candidate of the Independent Party.

The Progressives contended

the Taft-Hartley law was the only issue. The Independents denied that it was an issue.

Don Hurd, candidate for reelection as secretary-treasurer, expressed the Progressive position by saying, "The issue is whether we fight the Taft-Hartley law or lay down and take it."

C. D. Tubker, president of the Independents, said: "The issues in this campaign, as expressed by the Independent Party, are constructive and meet the exigencies of the times."

"Mr. Randolph has tried to make the Taft-Hartley Act an issue, but every union printer in the land is fighting that infamous law. Mr. Sparkman has been far more successful than has Mr. Randolph in achieving the utmost union security under unfavorable anti-labor laws.

Unofficial returns complete enough to decide the election are expected at ITU headquarters here by late Friday.

Former Nazis Returning to Public Offices In Germany, but Government Not Worried

By DONALD DOANE
STUTTGART, Germany — (AP) — Thousands of former Nazis are returning to public office in Western Germany.

Does this mean that Nazism is reviving?

A high German official insists that it does not. A high American authority agreed with him.

Neither was alarmed by the disclosure that 76 percent of the 11,000 officials in the government of Wuertemberg-Baden state once belonged to the Nazi Party.

The German and American officials differed, however, in their explanation of these figures.

"We can not find enough able officials to run the government without using these former Nazi Party members," said Reinhold Maier, German minister-president of Wuertemberg-Baden.

"I don't agree with that," said Maj. Gen. Charles P. Gross, U. S. commissioner in this state.

Gross said the rehiring of ex-Nazis is a product of the German bureaucratic system by which the same group of officials continues to administer the laws, no matter who controls the government.

"These officials form a close fraternity," the American commissioner said.

"They favor each other. They protect each other. They hire each other. These ex-Nazis who are returning to their old jobs are being rehired not because they were Nazis but because they belong to the fraternity."

Gross said American authorities can not intervene to stop the rehiring of ex-Nazis as long as the Germans follow the rules — and apparently they are following them.

"These rules, made by the Allies, permit official rehiring of minor Nazi Party members who took no active part in Nazi crimes. These are officially classified as 'followers.' Gross said there was no evidence German officials are rehiring any who are not eligible.

Maier insisted those being rehired were never really active Nazis.

"They were not political peo-

Wayland's Ban on Smoking Not Prudish, Says Leader

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
Associated Press Staff

"I'm not a prude," said Dr. Bill Marshall grimly, "and I don't want to be known as 'that guy who doesn't smoke.'"

"But the use of tobacco certainly is believed to be detrimental and harmful to the human body and so little is done to discourage college students from smoking. That's why we really are going to a bold smoking at Wayland College."

J. W. "Bill" Marshall, president of Wayland, Plainview, Texas, persuaded the trustees of the Baptist institution this week to pass the "no smoking" rule. (Some smokers were on the board, too.)

It means:

1. That no student who smokes "anywhere or any time" will be permitted to enroll at Wayland.

2. Smokers who already are attending Wayland must either quit smoking or transfer to another college.

"We are taking this step because we feel it is our obligation and our responsibility. Some students have already complained that I am taking away their freedom. I told them: 'You are free to go to any other school. I am just asking that the Baptist people be free to have the kind of institution they want to have.'"

Wayland, a liberal arts college, has its maximum student body — 800 — and turns many prospective enrollees away. Five percent of its students are from foreign countries and it has an international outlook. It takes students on world tours, has a summer school in Mexico. Its international capella choir toured 8,000 miles last year, singing in French, Spanish, Chinese, Russian and even Latvian.

"Most of them were pressured into joining the party in order to hold their jobs."

"These people are professional public officials. They served the Weimar republic. They served Hitler. Now they are back again, doing the jobs they know best."

Ambulance Fees Cause Headache

MIAMI, Fla. — (AP) — Rival ambulance companies have put acting City Manager A. D. F. Bloodworth on a spot to decide which is the smaller contractor for a penny a year or one for "the smallest fee possible to give effect to a 'legis' contract."

W. L. Philbrick, who operates 14 radio-equipped ambulances, offered to answer Miami's emergency calls for one cent a year.

The Dade Ambulance Operators Association, with 13 funerals a homes and 31 ambulances, posted a bid of the "smallest fee possible."

The two have been contending for the city's business for several years.

The city commission referred the matter to Bloodworth and asked for his recommendation at the next meeting, June 7.

Enterprising Vets Obtain Results

ISELIN, N.J. — (AP) — Two Navy veterans have discovered that Woodbridge Township helps those who help themselves.

Harold Maul, 27, and Jack Foster, 28, got tired of waiting for the township to fulfill its promise to grade a street by the housing development where they reside.

So they made a grader by hooking two old cast iron radiators to the back of Foster's pickup truck. Neighbors sat on the radiators to add weight.

After they graded out some of the wrinkles word came that the township committee was "properly impressed" and would send a grader to finish the job.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Stick to Rules You Know

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Last night," writes H. M. B. of Denver, "I discarded a deuce to freeze the pack. I held six cards and my partner held three, while each of the opponents had at least a dozen cards. Each side had more melds down on the table than we had."

"I thought that this was a good time to freeze, but my opponents said it wasn't. They said it was contrary to all the Jacoby rules. It worked out well for me. My partner got rid of two cards that were making a nuisance of themselves in her hand, and then she melded out. She said it was a fine play and who is this guy Jacoby anyway?"

"All of this puzzles me. What have you got to say for yourself? I've got plenty to say, but it won't do me much good. You'll hear lots of people quoting 'Jacoby rules' that don't exist except in their own imagination. The next time somebody springs one on you, ask to see it in print—either in one of my newspaper articles or in one of my books."

Actually, you picked a very fine time to freeze the pack. You had every reason to expect what eventually took place. You and your partner were right to be playing for out since the opponents had more melds down on the table and more cards in their hands. Your partner had the better chance, with only three cards in her hand, and your freeze was shrewdly planned to help her get rid of unwanted cards so as to build up some sort of going-out meld.

Incidentally, your partner had the right idea when she scoffed at "rules" and the people who make them. The advice of a card expert is useful only if it works. Don't pay any attention to impractical advice. Stick to tactics that win, no matter what the experts say. But remember that if the advice is silly enough the expert probably never gave it to begin with.

Q—Your side has already made a canasta, and you hold only one card. You draw a joker. Can you meld the joker and just refuse to discard? You don't want to meld out.

A—No. If you meld the joker, you must automatically meld out. If you other card is meldable, you may meld it; otherwise you must discard it. Either way, you are out. If you don't want to meld out, you must discard one of your two cards and keep the other in your hand.

Q—Your side has no canasta. You hold only one card, and draw a joker. Can you meld the joker and discard your other card without melding out? In other words, you come down to no cards, and simply draw one card and discard it whenever it is your turn to play.

A—You are not allowed to do that. Coming down to no cards at all is just what is meant by melding out; and that automatically brings the hand to an end. However, you are not allowed to meld out when your side has no

Seven Youngsters Do Best They Can

COLUMBUS, Ohio — (AP) — Children's Hospital in Columbus received a $3.19 contribution, and officials said today they wouldn't feel more grateful if it was $10,000.

The money was raised by seven youngsters, their leader a little boy crippled by infantile paralysis. It was their own idea to raise the money for the hospital, which treats polio sufferers.

Nine-year-old Betty Newburger had learned how to make paper flowers out of tissue paper and bobby pins, coloring them with crayons. Her six-year-old brother, David, who has been in Columbus since he was 18 months old, suggested:

"Let's make the flowers and sell them. Then we can give the money to children's hospital."

When the flowers were finished the children canvassed the neighborhood. Customers paid either one or two cents per flower.

Mr. Guill Goes To Washington

Mr. Guill has gone to Washington. Ben Guill, businessman, is now representative of the Panhandle in Congress.

He has assumed, by his own choice, responsibilities of a gravest nature and will be called upon to make, also by his own choice, sacrifices most people would rather ignore.

Mr. Guill has been patted on the back. He has been fêted. He has been smiled upon by Dames Fortune and by his friends.

He is now congratulated once more. These are the people who, not merely for his victory over ten other candidates for the position he now has won, although that victory is laudable in itself, this congratulation is more comprehensive.

Any person willing to devote himself to the last sought and won by Mr. Guill deserves congratulations, respect and cooperation. We tender these.

Ben Guill, businessman, carries with him the hope and faith of the people of the Texas Panhandle. These are the people to whom he is responsible. He is merely representing poll-tax-paid voters for these are but a collective mass sought by the political aspirant.

He is not representing "my constituents" nor "my friends" for these are only catch-all terms representing an indefinite mass of humanity.

Ben Guill has gone to Washington to represent all the people of the Panhandle. The actual flesh-and-blood individual. He has made several promises including a fair fight against increasing socialist tendencies and the government spending of Harry Truman's administration plus a fight for the two-party system in Texas.

These are promises. As a businessman who has been a part of American concept of free enterprise, he should be in a position to carry out the fight he promises to make. As the first Republican elected from Texas in 24 years he will be given the opportunity to appear in the front ranks of Congress. He will be given the chance to carry out the promises he has made to the people.

Mr. Guill, Pampa, can do many things for the Panhandle through the course outlined during his campaign.

Gracie Says

Public health officials recently suggested that "because 99.44 percent of fat people are fat due to their eating too much," they urge the organization of a group called "Appetites Anonymous."

No matter what you call them, sitting in groups won't reduce you — unless it's a group like Aunt Clara's family. Her 17 kids were so close together at the table that they had to put their arms around each other to fend themselves. For years Little Joe was eating from Bobbie's oatmeal bowl, but on the way to

Washington.....by Peter Edson

NORFOLK Naval Base (NEA) while Army, Navy and Air Force have been conducting the "big Portrex" and "Swatner" maneuvers to test airborne and paratroop invasion landings, the Marine Corps has been experimenting with helicopter tri-tribious landings at the Quantico, Va. marine base. This development was disclosed here by Marine Brig. Gen. Gerald C. Thomas, president of the Marine Corps Equipment Board, to a civilian naval orientation course. General Thomas was chief of staff for the Marine Corps operation against Guadalcanal.

Under the joint chiefs of staff agreement at Key West, paratroop operations were reserved for the Air Force. The Marine Corps had some paratroop forces during World War II, but did not find their use of great advantage. So the Marine Corps was just as happy to turn its attention to developing new techniques for invasion landings.

Possible use of an atomic bomb against an amphibious landing force had made World War II techniques obsolete a ways. Great concentrations of landing forces, such as were employed throughout the Pacific war or even at Normandy, would be out of the question if the defending force had atomic weapons. If World War II-type landings were to be made at all, two things would be necessary. First was a greatly increased speed of landing craft. Second was a greater dispersal of landings over a wide area so that the invading force could not be knocked out by one bomb.

Washington.....by Peter Edson

Three POSSIBILITIES. Solving these problems seemed so difficult that attention was given to finding ways to bypass this type of operation altogether. Three possibilities are being considered.

One is to use submarine transports. While possibly effective in deep water, they would be of limited use in securing ordinary beach-heads.

A second possibility is to use assault troop carrier seaplanes or amphibious aircraft. The operation would involve flying to the objective, landing on the water, taxiing to the beach and unloading troops and equipment for the invasion.

The Navy already has transport submarines and troop-carrier aircraft with which these two techniques are being studied. An item in the new military funds bill now before Congress will, if passed, provide an appropriation for additional assault seaplanes for the further development of airborne invasions.

The third possibility — and the one which seems to intrigue the Marine Corps tacticians the most — is to use helicopters. The Marine Corps now has some Piasecki helicopters at Quantico. The Marine Corps school has been using them in experimental take-offs from baby flatpops, with landings in the Quantico base maneuver areas.

HOP OVER DEFENSES

Use of the helicopter offers certain advantages for an invasion landing. Ships bearing the force could be off shore 40 to 100 miles away from the objective. The helicopters could be dropped on the beach, which are always so hard fought over, and land on more commanding positions from which they could advance.

A text on this type of helicopter and assault-plane operation was prepared by the Quantico Marine Corps school over a year ago. It has been undergoing refinement since that time, as new experience has been gained.

The maneuver is still far from perfection, with many technical problems to be solved. Carrying capacity of today's helicopters is limited to six men with full equipment. What the Marine Corps wants is a machine that will carry 15 to 20 men and equipment.

Today's helicopters are, of course, relatively slow. They would be easy targets for modern anti-aircraft artillery. The load limit factor does not permit the carrying of much armament or offensive fire power.

Because of limited troop and space capacity, a small escort carrier could not be based for more than a Marine company, even if there were 15-place helicopters available.

Any helicopter landing would have to come in low, and it could operate only against lightly held enemy positions. In rough country, however, a helicopter operation might be of value in securing an isolated, strategic position where small forces would count most. Another advantage is seen in support operations for guerrilla or partisan warfare.

At any rate, the Marines seem to think they have this situation well in hand, too.

Repetitious Politicians One Of The Prices of Democracy

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — (AP) — If you have a slight feeling that you've heard it before, you're right.

When President Truman set out on his cross-country speaking tour, he wanted to drum-up votes for his Democrats running for Congress.

No one expected him to say nice things about the Republicans running for Congress. He didn't disappoint anyone.

The picture he painted was all white and black: He boomed the Democrats, blasted the Republicans.

Of course, the element of surprise and newness was lacking in this. Mr. Truman had done this before. So had all Democratic politicians before him.

The element of surprise and newness was also lacking in what Senator Taft, Ohio Republican, had to say Tuesday in reply to Mr. Truman.

No one expected Senator Taft to do otherwise. He's running for reelection himself, besides being just one of the leaders of the Republicans.

He has also done the same thing before many times, speaking in blacks and whites.

In fact, for years now, it seems every time Mr. Truman has polished off the Republicans, Senator Taft has promptly shot the Democrats, just to make things even.

All this gets accepted, as it always has been, as a legitimate part of American politics, although the voters know, being human beings, that life is not just blacks and whites but has various shadings.

Nevertheless, these political tactics make it a little tougher for the non-political voters who are looking for the best possible government and want to pick the best men to run it.

This is a wistful thought but it would be helpful if somehow politicians could be persuaded to listen to the same positive things on both sides.

But it's spring again. And about this time every two years — when congressmen are running for re-election — we have to represent an indefinite mass of humanity.

The Leopard's "Free" Lunch

Once upon a time there lived in the jungles of northern India a handsome young leopard. He roamed the dense virgin forests carefree and happy, and with a zest for living and with that love of freedom which is intense in all members of the animal kingdom.

It is an unfortunate circumstance that the leopard had learned to protect himself against the elements and jungle denizens, there remained for him only one real problem—food.

Early in life the leopard learned to forage for his breakfast and supper. He learned too that appealing hunger didn't come easily. This always required physical exertion and the use of his jungle-bred intelligence. He learned, in fact, that satisfying all his wants sometimes was most difficult, but this knowledge only made the young cat work the harder.

Something for Nothing. Bounding through the great forest, like a character in the Tarzan stories, our leopard grew to young adulthood, sleek, lithe and sinewy, a powerful and beautiful creature of 175 pounds. One day while roaming happily through a vine-hung stretch of forest, the big spotted cat caught a tantalizing scent on the down wind—raw meat. He wasn't too hungry but he swung along the scent trail to investigate.

At the edge of a clearing the leopard came upon the meat. It was a rich red hunk, odorless, tempting, asking to be taken. The cat? Nothing! The leopard circled it, sniffing. The animal really wasn't hungry, but here was something too good to pass up. He licked his chops and stepped in for the feast. Wham! The trap door worked. Four months later the leopard was the star attraction at the Oklahoma City Zoo, in an 18-foot-deep concrete pit.

A GOOD PROVIDER. The zoo provided the captive with a mate, a beautiful leopardess. The spotted prisoners liked each other and they seemed delighted to make the best of things. Zoo Director Julian Frazier was assigned the job of providing for them. They got shelter, protection, cold running water for eight pound hunk of juicy horse meat every morning. No worries at all. But the big male leopard from the jungles of India got restless. He longed for the soft shady floor of the forest and the wind rustling through tree boughs. A basic instinct was at work. He longed for freedom.

Late one afternoon, driven by this powerful instinct, the leopard made a single incredible leap, cleared the moat, the 18-foot-high pit wall, and regained his freedom. While the hue and cry of the whole countryside was raised in pursuit, and front legs bantered the story from coast to coast, the leopard hid by day and roamed the woods by night—free. For three days he was lost to the world. But in those woods game was scarce. And thoughts of the lone-mate drove the big fugitive back to the zoo area.

BAIT ATTRACTS. It was moonlight when the animal reached the encircling fence. One leap and he was within the zoo grounds and approaching the pit. He sent a whining call to his mate. But—ah, ha! The scent of raw meat intruded. Two big hunks of horse meat lay at the pit's rim. With a growl the big cat closed his jaws on a four-pound piece—another free lunch. The meat disappeared. The leopard attacked the second hunk, devoured it. Then satisfied, he became strangely drowsy. He staggered down a runway and collapsed asleep.

The captive from India never again regained his senses. Within fifteen hours he was dead. Zoo Director Frazier was grieved. The meat, he explained, contained a sleeping poison. And the leopard ate more than expected. Of course the zoo officials had only wanted to capture the leopard, protect him, and provide for his welfare.

"We didn't want to kill him," pined the late leopard's masters. "We only wanted to put him to sleep. We thought everything was working perfectly."

Are we Americans, like the leopard, trading our liberties for a free lunch?

So They Say

If we accept such glittering panaceas as the belief that a world organization capable of preventing war can now be created, we are preparing the way for our own destruction.

news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — President Truman has finally given his blessing to the movement to nominate 35-year-old Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., as Democratic candidate for governor of New York next November.

The invitation was extended by Interior Secretary Oscar Chapman in a formal letter to the Idahoan. Mr. Chapman has done most of the advance preparation for the current western tour, and is Mr. Truman's general western political agent.

The invitation was originally approved by the White House for the Cabinet member in fact, but it is understood that Mr. Frazier will consent to be used as a possibility solely to corral support for young F.D.R. and to stave off opposition.

Thus, if James Roosevelt will become Governor of California next November in the face of several hurdles ahead of him, there may be two members of the family on the way to the White House out of which they moved rather recently. That is, assuming that F.D.R. makes the grade, and that his birth on Canadian soil does not bar him from the presidency.

MAGIC — Mr. Truman was not and is not now an enthusiastic admirer of either of these ambitious Rooseveltians. In addition to personal reservations, there is the family "magic name" which his friends refer to them, he wants no rival of that name for the 1952 nomination.

But it is understood that James has given a pledge that he will not seek the honor, even if he is nominated. And F.D.R. Jr. obviously will be too young and inexperienced to aim for the White House only two years hence. In fact, his sponsors admit that he is too new to public affairs to run for Governor of California.

But the 98-man delegation might fall apart, if left to their own devices and factional decisions. Some would go for Senator Taft, some for Harold E. Stassen, and others for "The" Eisenhower.

REINCARNATION — On the advice of his political nursemaids, young Roosevelt has begun to behave more like a candidate in Congressional corridors. His more regular attendance suggests that he has taken to heart Ohio Clarence Brown's advice that "you can't serve your district here from a New York night club."

In contrast to the brashness he exhibited in his first few days in the House, he now keeps out of floor debates. His latest speech showed signs of thought and preparation, evoking praise from his colleagues and the press gallery. He is making friends of his members from other states, and he has his father's radiant, smiling personality when he wants to turn it on.

He has no illusions about the reasons why the politicians want him to run, for he breakfasts frequently with National Communist emissaries from a downtown hotel. When he recently told a few friends that he would be nominated and elected, they asked him why he was so certain of winning in his first major try.

"Have you ever heard of reincarnation?" he smiled.

CALCULATING — Practical political considerations forced President Truman to withdraw and replace the invitation given to Senator Glen Taylor of Idaho to ride on the presidential train during its passage through Idaho.

The strange incident depicts the man in the White House as an extremely calculating and hard-boiled individual where his personal fortunes are concerned.

INSIDE YOUR CONGRESS

By RALPH W. GWINN

Distinguished member of Congress

At every whistle stop on his way to the West, Mr. Truman is asking the people to put their faith not in themselves but in a little group of governing men.

They are being promised that, if they will submit to that group's management, control, and taxation, they will have more houses and food, a higher culture, and better health. For nearly 100 years prior to this trip, the freedom of the individual from such governing men had been a fighting matter.

Every individual's liberty, his responsibility for himself, was a thought to be absolutely essential. The typical American has had no faith that anybody, even a President, could do better for him than he could do for himself.

We have been taught, up to now, that the progress people had been in direct ratio to the freedom had been thought to be a precious substance like the precious elements in sunlight and air, in rain, in soil, when its elements were released and free, was explosive like atomic energy in the mysterious and capable of the most amazing results.

For a thousand years, prior to the American discovery of liberty, there has been little appreciable change in the condition of men. The scale of life and living has been famines about every 10 years. In proportion to population there were more babies born in those days than there are today, but many of them died of hunger and cold. Life was a long, dreary, and grinding struggle for the earth for meager subsistence. There was little surplus above bare necessities.

The experience of having plenty is strictly associated with the American era of freedom. In a little more than a century of liberty, our population has doubled, and yet invention and science and an era of comparative peace under free enterprise has enabled our people to improve their scales of living tremendously.

What about the choice we must make now? Are the ideas, and inventions, of the free to be slow up and their production reduced by our governing men? Have they made any contribution to science? Can they add to the number and quality of houses and our foods? Can they extend our life and add to the health we enjoy? How about television and penicillin and a good poetry? None of these have come from our governing men yet. Is it sensible for us to put our faith in these men who have shown little incentive, creative, or productive capacity?

If the free mind and spirit is the only substance from which inventive and creative men come, then everyone of us is concerned with protecting their liberties. We all depend on them. Must we not therefore protect them against governing men who want to supervise, control, inspect, hinder, and tax them? These governing men always work and fight to expand the power of their government and to expand their business of governing. By so doing, they always reduce the individual's freedom, his capacity, his productivity, and his means of serving up.

Freedom is a word all too casually used. In 1776 its meaning was clear. In 1950, it is foggy and needs reanalyzing. Freedom is no mere sentimentality to sing hymns or write poetry about. Nor is it a constitutional game to be played by the powerful against the weak.

Freedom is a most practical utility, precious to all conditions of human life. It is, in truth, the very practical source of food and houses and health and the good life, especially for the needy. Unless the imaginative, productive, inventive free individual produces a surplus over and above his own consumption, there can be nothing for the needy.

Success Secrets

By ELAMER WHEELER

Ralph Adams Cram is known as the architect who designed the "most beautiful churches in America."

Some people think that to be successful is "hard." Stories like Cram's prove that far from being difficult, success should be as easy as natural.

He had his disappointments. He had obstacles to get through. He had to work hard—and did. But becoming a successful architect was as "natural" for Cram, as it is for an Oak tree to have cones.

He was one of the lucky ones who was able to perceive his "natural bent" and had the courage to follow it.

Long before he knew there was such a thing as "architecture," Cram was interested in houses. He used to cut pictures of houses out of magazines and pin them on sheets of paper—making "streets" and cities. It was his favorite form of amusement when he was a child. He was also interested in drawing—and thought maybe he should try for a career as an artist. Then when he was fifteen, his father gave him a book about architecture, and Cram said to himself—"this is it."

Early in his career, he failed to win a scholarship, because he accidentally saw the subject of the examination before hand—and voluntarily disqualified himself. However, failing to win, he became discouraged with architecture and decided to give it up as a profession. He decided to take up journalism. But he was unhappy—and soon found himself as interested in houses as ever. He then decided that win-lose-or-draw—it didn't really matter as long as he was doing what he liked to do. That decision—to follow his own natural bent without regard for fame or money, made him both famous and wealthy—and happy in the bargain.

do not discover, invent or produce. In fact, unless their activities are confined to the maintenance, protection, and glorification of individual liberty, they are too often destructive forces. On the liberty of our individual free citizens depends even our safety from foreign enemies.

The records of the Patent Office do not show that, from the beginning of our history, our governing men have produced any instrument essential to the winning of a single war. We won World War II because a farmer in Virginia dropped his old cradle and gave us the papers two bicycle makers from Ohio flew a poor tinkerer in Detroit put a whole world on wheels.

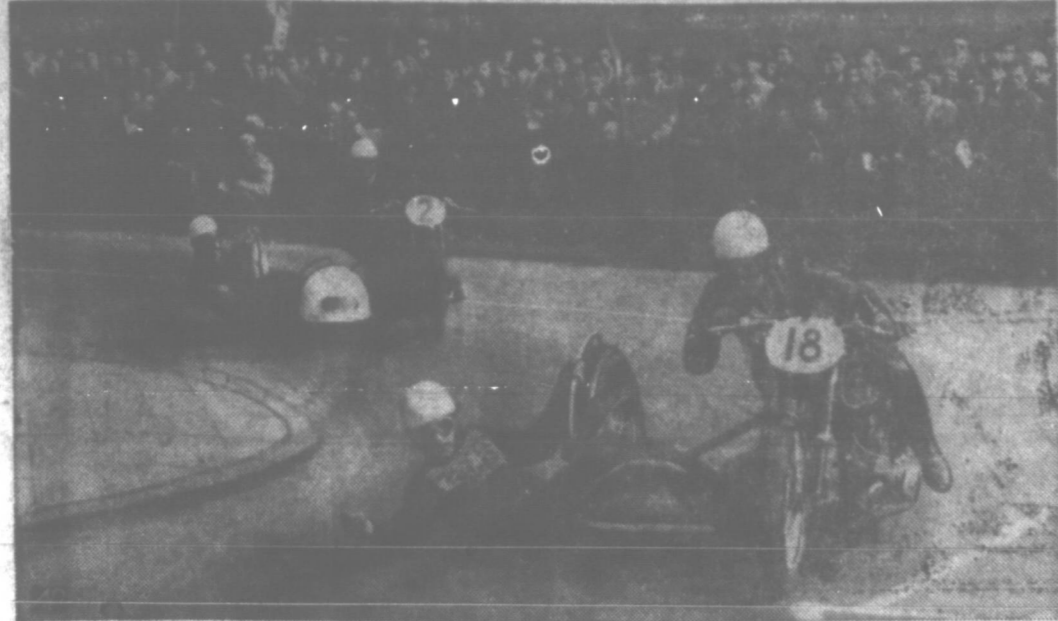

Will we keep our faith in ourselves under God and reject the false promise of any group of mere men to rule over us?

We must realize that the continuation of our prosperity and well-being depends on like-minded nations being able to maintain their freedom and democratic institutions.

—Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

North Korean Reds Hold Young Farmers

SEOUL, Korea — (AP) — The South Korean government said today 240 of its young farmers have been captured by trickery and forced into a Communist North Korea labor battalion.

The Ministry of Agriculture told this story:

For 2,000 years ricelands south of the 38th parallel have been watered from lakes north of the line. Since the Russians occupied North Korea, water was released only on payment of immense quantities of rice.

The North Koreans this year asked 300 bonafide farmers instead of government men to negotiate the contract. The South Koreans sent 280 farmers one month ago.

Twenty just returned. They said the Communists demanded another 1,000 South Korean negotiators — one for every 10 farmers in the rich Koo Ahn and Ye Ee districts of the Kyungkeapio Province. This area annually produces about one-half million bushels of rice on 61,700 acres.

New Food Preservation Plan Ready for Industry Trials

By FRANK CAREY

BALTIMORE — (AP) — A new five-day process of food preservation is ready for "pilot" trials by industry, a government scientist has reported.

Dr. A. A. Andersen of the Department of Agriculture said the method — or modifications of it — offers possibilities of improving the quality of preserved products without sacrificing safety.

He addressed the golden jubilee meeting of the Society of American Bacteriologists.

Key to the new process is a substance called "subtilin" — a drug derived from a microbe found in soil.

Government tests have shown that when tiny quantities of it are added to vegetables or fruits being preserved in cans or jars, the heat usually required to preserve the foods safely.

Dr. Andersen said that under present commercial procedures, extreme heat processing is required — to kill all potentially dangerous spoilage germs. Such heating, he said, affects the taste, color and texture of the products.

With the new method, he declared, there are indications that effective preservation can be achieved by reducing the heating temperature from 240 to 212 degrees, cutting the heating time from between 40 and 60 minutes to between 5 and 10 minutes, and eliminating pressurized equipment.

This is because the "subtilin" substance knocks off certain germ formations which ordinarily would require high, prolonged heat. These are bacterial "spores" which have a kind of armor plate around them, making them more heat-resistant than other bugs in the food.

Andersen said that lesser heat requirements would conceivably make for products of improved quality.

The drug alone would not suffice for food preservation because there are other factors which require some heat treatment.

Dr. Andersen, of the Department of Agriculture's western regional research laboratory, Albany, Calif., said subtilin might not be the last word in this line of drugs in the same class might attack. Possibly, he said, other drugs found for combination use with subtilin, or with one another.

Subtilin is classed as an "antibiotic" — of the same nature as penicillin and streptomycin.

But the latter two drugs have proved of no value as food preservatives.

Meat Dealer Is Released On Probation

DALLAS — (AP) — Louis K. Risken, Minneapolis meat dealer, was released yesterday on probation, with the condition that he pay his $5,000 fine within 30 days.

Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson told Risken he would probate the six-months jail term for one year, but that he must pay his fine within a month.

Meyer Gilgus of Kansas City, co-defendant with Risken, paid his $5,000 fine Monday and was given a like probated jail term.

The men pleaded no defense last week to indictments charging them with shipping more than 17,000 pounds of horse meat, labeled beef tenders, from midwestern points to Texas during December, January and February.

Dr. A. A. Andersen of the Department of Agriculture's western regional research laboratory, Albany, Calif., said subtilin might not be the last word in this line of drugs in the same class might attack. Possibly, he said, other drugs found for combination use

Formosans in Japan Seeking Independence

TOKYO — (AP) — Formosans in Japan have joined to support independence for their island homeland. They said Formosans are forced to "a life of misery under feudalistic" Chiang Kai-shek, president of Nationalist China.

Frank S. Lim yesterday announced formation of the Formosan Democratic Independence Party. Lim is chief of the political department of the new group. He said the party is a combination of several Formosan groups — the Formosan League for Independence, the League for Formosan Re-annexation and the Formosan Students League.

Lim said the party has 3,000 members from the estimated 11,000 Formosans in Japan.

A statement from the new party said:

"We have been forced to live a life of far less freedom and more misery under the fetters of the feudalistic and imperialistic regime of Chiang Kai-shek than during the Japanese colonial days. We are involved in the Chinese civil war which means nothing to us from either a legal or moral standpoint.

"Formosa's misfortune and peril are the result of bargaining at the Cairo conference and the assistance which General MacArthur gave to the Chinese in taking over the island.

"No one without a plebiscite of the people of Formosa has the authority or right to decide the fate of Formosa.

"Unless Formosa is given independence soon it will not be long before Formosa is trampled down under the iron hoofs of the Chinese Communists of Red imperialism.

"Formosans appreciate the traditional American policy of the right of self-determination of peoples. We regret that they (the United States) have not yet shown any signs of sympathy toward us in applying this principle to the case of Formosa."

Zion's Residents Seek Blue Law

ZION, Ill. — (AP) — Some of the residents of Zion — founded as a church community — want the city to reinstate the blue laws, repealed last year after 45 years.

A petition with 940 signatures asked the city council to forbid Sunday movies, other recreational and business activities, and gainful labor.

The last of the blue laws in the community of 6,400 some 40 miles north of Chicago were discarded after a referendum last year. These laws had been in effect since John Alexander Dowie made Zion the home of the Christian Catholic Church in 1901.

Labor Law Oath Rule Defeated by Author

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said yesterday the Taft-Hartley labor law has assisted the CIO to replace "Communist unions" with "Communist-free unions."

"The so-called Communist oath provision of the Taft-Hartley law has proved itself an effective means of reducing the power of communism in labor unions," he declared.

Taft made his observations in a weekly column sent to Ohio newspapers.

JAPAN'S EXPORTS HIT HIGH POSTWAR LEVEL

TOKYO — (AP) — Japan's exports soared to $380,000,000 in the last fiscal year — the highest since the war, official sources said.

The total represented an increase of $180,000,000 over the last fiscal year, which ends on March 31 in Japan. But the new total was below the official estimate of $578,000,000 for the 1949-50 fiscal year.

Textiles again led the field as the major export. Some 50 percent of Japanese goods sold abroad were textiles. Metals and machinery made up about 20 percent and chemicals, ceramics, medicines and miscellaneous products the balance.

Asia continued to be Japan's best market. But officials noted that trade with Red China now is "almost nil." Before the war China took about 20 percent of Japan's exports and supplied Japan with about 10 percent of her imports.

Japanese officials noted that competition increases as Japan's trade expands. They said Japanese products now are meeting more opposition from goods made in Britain, West Germany, Belgium and Italy. Britain is a major competitor in textiles and machinery and the Germans, Belgians, and Italians are becoming increasingly active in the machinery markets.

Japan's increasing trade is beginning to bring cries of pain from manufacturers in other countries. The British especially seem worried. One of their textile makers said in London the British textile industry is being threatened by Japan. He declared if Japan is allowed free entry into world markets again "we shall bring communism in to Britain."

Some American manufacturers have complained but none seems as alarmed as the Londoner. American textile makers, nevertheless, have sent a delegation here, together with Britain, to talk over the situation with the Japanese.

Japan's business uptrend highlights one of the occupation headaches. It is the occupation's task to boost Japan toward self-sufficiency and reduce the cost of supporting her. To do this the occupation stresses increased production and exports. Those exports compete with goods made by the allies, including the United States.

Bill to Pay Texans For 1941 Damages Due Vote in Senate

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Senate has ready for consideration a bill to pay $19,138 to five Texans as the result of a highway crash near Blanco, Texas, Jan. 10, 1941.

The House passed the bill yesterday.

Ernest W. Tillinghast and John R. Lusk, Jr., were fatally injured when an Army truck struck a bridge over the Little Blanco River, then careened into the path of a car driven by Tillinghast. Lusk was killed when thrown from the army truck.

The payments proposed in the bill are to Mrs. Ruth B. Moore of Dallas, who was then married to Lusk; to the legal guardian of John Robert Lusk, 3rd, Mrs. Moore's son; to John R. Lusk, Sr., Ballinger, Texas; to Mrs. Minnie P. Pruitt, of Colorado City, Texas, formerly Mrs. Tillinghast; and Mrs. Billie John Bickle of Hamilton, Texas, daughter of Tillinghast.

Misuse of Farms in Russia Criticized

LONDON — (AP) — Russia's Communist Party newspaper Pravda yesterday reported unlawful use of collective farms land by individuals and organizations in the Soviet Union.

In an editorial broadcast by Moscow Radio, Pravda said more than 17,300 acres had been misappropriated last year in the Kirgiz republic of Central Asia.

Similar land diversions, the newspaper said, had been taking place in the Kazakh and Uzbek republics of Central and Western Asia, in some places "with the connivance of local party and Soviet organizations."

Such organizations, Pravda added, "are underestimating the dangers to collective farms which arise from this."

One of the first things you notice, when you step from another make of car into Buick, is the wonderful difference in the Buick ride.

There are good technical reasons, if they interest you . . .

Soft coil springs all around, the gentlest type of spring man knows how to make.

A stout torque-tube, acting like the husky keel of a battleship to steady the whole carriage.

Low-pressure tires on wide, Safety-Ride rims, that stop heel-over and sway on curves.

Firm, sure, quick-acting shock absorbers, promptly snubbing the after-bounce of the bigger bumps.

The important thing is what these all add up to.

Freedom at last from jounce and jiggle. A level, floating, road-free passage over almost any kind of road, with even the worst of them tamed and gentled as never before.

Reception Honors Graduating Class Of White Deer

WHITE DEER — (Special) — Members of the graduating class of White Deer High School were guests of honor at a reception given by Supt. and Mrs. Ray Vineyard, Saturday evening, in McConnell Hall.

The hall was lavishly decorated with bouquets of spring flowers, and an arrangement of blue and white irises and blue candles centered the refreshment table, which was laid with a linen cut-work cloth. Frosted punch, cakes iced in blue and frosted with coconut, mints, and nuts were served.

Presiding at the punch bowl, in turn, were Meses. B. R. Weaks, D. V. Biggers, Kittie Allison, and Miss Helen Walker. They were assisted by the women of the faculty and the faculty wives.

In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Vineyard, Principal Fred Mullings, Mrs. Mullings, Miss Gertrude Golladay and Wendell Cain, senior sponsors, and Douglas Smith, senior class president.

The program for the evening included vocal music by R. Virgil Mott, accompanied by Mrs. Mott, and Bill Boyd, accompanied by Patsy Stovall, accordion music by Mrs. J. W. Studer, all of Pampa; piano music by Mrs. Hope Rusk and Linda Skaggs; and a reading, "Mrs. Vineyard Gets Ready for a Tea," by Carolyn Evans.

In spite of the rain, 25 seniors and a large number of other guests were present.

Q—What are the three major divisions of history?
A—The date used for the close of ancient history is usually 476 A. D. The date signifying the end of medieval and the beginning of modern history is not so clearly defined. Some historians consider the invention of printing in the 15th century to be the beginning of modern history, others use the early 16th century.

Grace Friend

Members of The Pampa News are invited to send their problems in Grace Friend. Letters not published in the columns will be answered, personally, provided a self-addressed stamped envelope is enclosed with the question. ### HOW MANY DRESSES

Dear Mrs. Friend:
How many dresses do you think a junior high school girl should have?
My mother says that I have enough and I say that I don't. She even thinks that I should wear the same dress two days in a row and I say that I don't. I have a lot of dresses, but they have changes every day.

What can I do to convince my mother that I need more clothes?
May.

Dear Mrs. Friend:
You don't say how many dresses you have, I hardly know how to answer your question as to whether you have enough clothes.

Most school girls have a skirt and sweaters or blouses, which they can combine in such a way as to have several changes. A dress or two more should give you a week of changes.

I wonder if you really try to keep what you have, I hardly know the proper order so that there is always a clean dress or blouse?

With all of these wonderful new soaps and starches it shouldn't be hard for you to wash and iron a blouse or dress after school, so that you would always have a change ready.

Too many girls leave their clothes for their mothers to do once a week which means that they have to have many extra things in order to get through a week of school.

Why not try laundering your own things several times a week. I have another suggestion. How about doing some work in order to earn money for the extra clothes you want? You should be old enough to baby-sit, which is a comparatively easy way to earn more money. Then you could buy an extra sweater occasionally in order to vary your wardrobe more.

CHURCH OFFERING

Dear Mrs. Friend:
Do you think that anyone still gives 10 per cent of his income to the church?
R. W.

I suppose some people give 10 per cent of their incomes to the church just as many more do not. Each one has to decide for himself how much he wishes to give to church or other philanthropy.

To make a gingernap crust for chiffon pies mix a cup of fine gingersnap crumbs with a quarter cup of melted butter or margarine. Press down firmly in an eight-inch pie pan — covering bottom and sides — and bake in a moderate oven for about 10 minutes. Cool before adding filling.

Apples, baked, stewed, or made into sauce, make a fine breakfast fruit. Or apple slices may be simmered in a sugar syrup and served with crisp ready-to-eat breakfast cereal.

If there are young children in your family, and the adults like highly seasoned food, be sure to add the seasonings after the children's portions are taken off. In this way it is not necessary to cook two sets of dishes.

Founders Day Tea Honors Members Of Merten Home Demonstration Club

A Founders Day tea honoring early day members of the Merten Home Demonstration Club was held Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Audell Swafford, as a part of the National Home Demonstration Week celebration. Honored guests were three charter members, Mrs. H. B. Knapp, Mrs. Fred C. Fisher and Mrs. L. A. Laverly.

The president, Mrs. C. A. Jones, gave the welcome address and Mrs. H. B. Knapp, speaking for the old members, gave the response. She told of the club's beginning, which she said was in January 1922 with 14 members. She recalled many early happenings of the club, which led the listeners up to the present day club. She said that the Merten Parent-Teacher Association and the Merten Home Demonstration Club were made up of much the same group of women and that their work was closely tied together.

Mrs. David Collins sang two numbers, "So Well" and "Together," and played her own accompaniment.

Letters of greeting were read from former club members who were unable to attend the meeting. Mrs. Robert W. Taylor wrote from Delhi, La., stating that she is still in home demonstration work. Mrs. T. L. Birman wrote from Kilgore announcing the arrival of her first grandchild, Carolyn Thomas, born Easter Sunday to Mrs. Birman's daughter, the former Madge Birman, who grew up in Pampa.

Mrs. E. M. Hope wrote from Freer saying there was no home demonstration work in Dumas County. She said that salt in the water made gardens, lawns and flowers difficult to grow in that locality. Mrs. Edna Logan, a former member and mother of the late Mrs. Nell Haney, Merten Club president in 1944, wrote from Amarillo, where she is visiting another daughter, Mrs. H. C. Mower. Greetings were sent by Miss Ann Hastings, former Gray County home demonstration agent, who now has an interior decorat-

EAT PLENTY AND TAKE OFF UGLY FAT

Many people have reported amazing results with this home recipe. It's easy to make at all and costs little. Just go to your drugist and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Barcostrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic, from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back.

His Own Farm Plan Means More to Texan Than Land

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
Associated Press Staff

For about 17 years now, a tall, serious, Texas farmer has been spending all his spare time trying to interest congressmen in a government farm program he thought up.

His name is Fielding Helm, he's 60, and his home is at Clifton in Boscawen County, central Texas. He's a sure enough farmer, all right, with 2,000 irrigated acres around Plainview and another 200 acres at Clifton. Talk to Helm a few minutes and you get the idea that his farm program means more to him than all his 2,200 acres put together. He thinks his plan would save taxpayers billions of dollars.

Here are some of the points he is advocating:

The Secretary of Agriculture would make allotments to farms in pounds, bushels or bales — not in acres as is now the system. The farmer would sell his quota of products on the open market and if the market price was below parity, the government would give him a check to make up the difference between the market price and the parity price.

The farmer would not be restricted in how much of anything he could raise. Anything he raised beyond his quota, he would sell for anything he could get for it — with no government assistance of any kind. Helm would discontinue the government practice of buying or making loans on any agricultural product. Instead, prices would be regulated by supply and demand.

Where would the money come from for the government quota checks?

"The government would get this money by levying a tax on goods manufactured from the agricultural products," said Helm. "There would be a tax, for instance on cotton shirts and dresses."

This would make cotton shirts and dresses costlier, wouldn't it, Mr. Helm?

"No it wouldn't. You have a loan on cotton now which causes a cotton goods manufacturer to pay the support price. Under my program, the manufacturer could buy cotton at a lower price but the tax would bring it up to the support price."

"Mr. Helm, what would happen if Southern farmers raised as much cotton as possible, causing a big surplus and driving the price of cotton down to about five cents a pound? What would happen to the farmer then?"

"He would just be out of luck that year. He knew the risk and he took his chances. But I don't think anything like that would happen."

Just back from Washington, Helm said he had interested Republican Senator George W. Malone of Nevada in his farm program. He said Malone is having it drawn up as a bill.

"Why have you spent 17 years and a lot of money on the program of yours, Mr. Helm?"

"It's just something I believe in and think would help this country. When a man really believes in something, he doesn't mind working."

French Are Accused Of Holding Russians

LONDON — (AP) — Russia has accused France of keeping Soviet citizens from going home and has asked for reopening of the Russian repatriation mission in Paris, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

A Russian note to the French government, handed Monday to the French ambassador in Moscow, said 20,000 Soviet citizens still are in France and more are awaiting repatriation in the French zones of Austria and Germany.

The French closed the repatriation mission in 1947, charging it was a front for subversive activities.

The Russians said all French citizens in the Soviet Union have been repatriated.

Russia's note was the latest of several exchanges between the two governments on repatriation. It rejected a French proposal for a new repatriation conference, asserting that such matters could be settled fully on the basis of an agreement of June 29, 1945, between the two governments.

Two Million Working In Executive Branch

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The number of civilian workers in the executive branch of the government totaled 2,090,925 at the end of March, the Civil Service Commission has revealed in a monthly report.

The total included 145,085 temporary census workers and was 146,517 higher than at the end of February.

Big Jim Duff Due Big Part In GOP Plans

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — The husky, low-pitched rumble of Jim Duff's voice is going to be heard a lot, and receive a lot of attention in national Republican affairs.

And Duff if he runs true to the form, he's shown through most of his 67 years, will have no hesitancy about speaking his mind.

He's a husky, six-foot-plus red-head who believes in doing what he thinks should be done — like the primary election fight which he won Tuesday along with the GOP nomination for U. S. Senate.

The governor — a lot of his friends call him "Big Red" — had plenty of chances to avoid a contest that couldn't help causing hard feelings within the party while supplying the Democrats with ammunition for the November general election.

Duff was opposing the forces allied with former Senator Joseph R. Grundy. The leaders included U. S. Senator Ed Martin, former Governor Arthur Hays Sulzberger, national committeeman G. Mason Owlett. They headed an organization that for three decades operated in every county in the state.

Back of his ticket, Duff lined up most of the 40,000 men and women on the state payroll, and as many leaders as he could, swing away from the old organization.

If Duff had been willing to go along with any candidate for governor acceptable to the Grundy forces, there would have been no primary state row.

"There will be no compromise," Duff said. "We started out to define an issue in this campaign. That issue was the domination of the party by a small group of men. There will be no swerving from that aim."

It wasn't the first time Duff took the bit in his teeth. Away back in 1912 Duff, then a not-too-prominent Pittsburgh lawyer, bolted the party organization to back Teddy Roosevelt and the Bull Moose ticket.

Duff worked with Gifford Pinchot, too, in two successful and several unsuccessful campaigns. He gradually came to be recognized as a power in Pittsburgh, and jumped into the state picture in 1942 when Martin, then governor, appointed him attorney general.

Four years later the party leadership was tangled on a choice for governor. Weeks of closed meetings produced no agreement until Duff was suggested to and, somewhat later, accepted by the Grundy leadership. He won the nomination in a relatively quiet primary, and was elected that fall.

In 1948 Duff stepped into the national scene at the Republican convention. He did all he could to prevent the nomination

Joel McCrea Loaded With 'Moola' - And He Hangs On To It

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — The whole thing started when an actor tossed Joel McCrea a copy of a financial daily.

"I expected to see McCrea gobble up the news about stocks and bonds, since he is considered one of the most 'loaded' (with moola) stars in town. But he confessed he never reads the sheet."

"I never sell," he remarked, "so why should I read a financial paper?" Then he drew on two decades of experience in Hollywood and made this observation:

"I think the trouble with most movie actors is that they think about everything but acting. They are either 'doping' the horses or worrying about what their stocks are doing or mulling some deal to buy an apartment house. They devote their time to everything except what brings in the money to invest — motion pictures."

"The movies are a warm, satisfying business. But it's an exciting business, too. And you can't give a good performance when you worry about that call to your business agent."

McCrea, a rare star who seems properly adjusted to life, said his thoughts seldom stray far from a picture when he is making it.

McCrea's own financial interests are large, but apparently simple.

"I have my ranch, but it needs a manager," he said. "I have a man there who can handle everything himself. I could so away for six months and I wouldn't be missed."

His other investments include stocks. "I buy reliable stocks and hold onto them. They may go down but I don't care. They always go up again."

He is one of the few stars who handles his own money. He told me why.

"If I could make this much money, I ought to have the brains to know what to do with it."

"I always remember what Bob Hope and Bing Crosby told me. They said there is no better investment than U. S. savings bonds. The interest is not as much as you might get elsewhere but the principal is always safe. And if an actor can put away some of the principal that he makes every year, he doesn't have to worry."

"The trouble is that new stars who earn a $100,000 a year try to live as though they were making that much. Actually, they are making a lot less when taxes are deducted."

McCrea also remembers another bit of advice. He was a ranch hand when Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., told him: "no matter how successful you are, always retain the ability to go back to work with your hands."

Then "you always remain independent and nobody can push you around."

Joel added with a grin: "that's why I've kept up with the latest ranchers' equipment. I will always be able to get a job somewhere."

18 Hollywood Actors Form Own Theater in Pasadena

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Any Saturday night, you can see such performers as Dana Andrews, Robert Preston, and Victor Jory hauling chairs, tables and other props into a tiny park building in Pasadena.

And shortly before 11 p.m., you can see the same persons hauling the stuff away. Another performance of 18 Actors, Inc., has been given.

Until recently, the acting group kept its activities sub rosa. But one of the members, character actor Morris Ankrum, divulged some of the details to me on the set of "Beyond the Sunset," in which he is playing a daytime role.

The 18 actors, most of them graduates of the Pasadena Playhouse, have been gathering for six months. After reading plays at each others' houses, they decided to go in for the real thing. They rented a building from the Pasadena park commission at $10 per Saturday night.

"We presented Ibsen's 'A Doll's House' first," recalled

Ankrum. "We played it free of charge to a number of invitational audiences. They were invited to pay — if they liked us. About 75 percent of them did, and soon we had close to 300 subscribers. We now present a play on four successive Saturday nights."

The company performs with the central staging technique, which means they act in the middle of a room with the audience all around them.

The 18 perform their weekly stint for the love of acting and to improve their own craft. The project is non-profit and for that reason is fighting for its life.

Equity, the union for stage actors, is stepping in to require the minimum wage for the actors.

Now the 18 actors are in the strange position of being unable to pay themselves the Equity minimum and survive. They hope to finance the project with a performance at the Ojai, Calif., festival on May 27 and two weeks of repertory at UCLA in June. They plan to provide their own theater in Hollywood.

Capule review: "The Asphalt Jungle" (MGM) ranks with "The Maltese Falcon" and "The Killers" as one of the fine film studies in crime. John Huston has fashioned an exciting picture that avoids all the pit-falls of most crime movies. The picture has no stars, but is filled with tough and memorable characters. Standouts: Sterling Hayden, Louis Calhern, Sam Jaffe. The story concerns a million-dollar robbery, but the film was made B. B. (Before Brinks).

"Why I'm So Glad My Son is Saving Money Now"

ONE of the many things that make a mother glad her son has a newspaper route, is the practical way it teaches and encourages him to earn his own money, spend it wisely, and above all, SAVE some of it regularly.

As he collects his accounts, pays his bills and figures his profits, he is impressed with the real value of each dollar he earns—much more so than if it came from the parental purse!

And, as his route and savings grow, he acquires qualities of thrift, self-confidence and foresight that will prove even more valuable when he tackles the larger problems of manhood.

A Newspaper Route

Enables a Boy to Earn, Learn and SAVE!

DOES your teen-age son have a spare-time newspaper route? If not, suggest that he apply for the next opening in your neighborhood, so that he, too, can profit by this splendid opportunity to earn, learn and save. You'll be proud to see him get off to such a good start in the race of life.

Two-Horse Race Apparent In Saturday's Preakness

BALTIMORE — (AP) — The Preakness looks from most corners today like just another round between Middleground and Hill Prince in their 'he's down, he's up' battle for the 1950 championship among three-year-old horses.

And everyone is of the opinion it was not his best race. The situation is very much the same as last year when three colts were in the early running for 1949 honors.

WARREN'S WARMUP

By Warren Hans-Hunt Sports Editor

QUESTION: Who is the youngest golfer to ever win the PGA tourney?

SPORTS SIDELIGHTS: Roger "Doc" Cramer, former outfield star with the Philadelphia Athletics, is now playing with the Oakland Oaks of the Pacific Coast League. He is a healthy 43. Football bowl note: The University of Tennessee football squad was so impressive in spring drills that Bob Neyland, head coach, fearing the favorable comment an intra-squad game would bring, moved it up from Saturday afternoon to Friday morning to foil the rail-birds.

GEORGE HERMAN RUTH, that name is once again back on the roster of organized baseball. There is a 19-year-old catcher by that name on the roster of the Mayfield team of the Kitty League. His nickname is naturally, Babe. The University of Missouri will soon ask for bids on a proposal to increase the capacity of its Memorial Stadium from 36,000.

Southern League players no longer will have opportunity to gripe over the lack of suitable seating places in Birmingham after night games. To take care of their complaints, the Birmingham ball club has erected a first class restaurant in its park. Bucky Walters would like to go back to pitching. "The greatest job there is," says the Braves coach and former Cincinnati manager and ace hurler. "There's no life like that of a 20-game winner. He's the American aristocracy." Bobby Jones' father, Big Bob, was one of the best outfielders ever to play for the University of Georgia. He was rightfielder for the 1909 team, coached part of the season by Hughie Jennings.

MANAGER FRANKIE FRISCH, who has his Cuba hustling just as Paul Dean has the Pioneers (a Cub farm club), long has been an advocate of taking an extra base on a hit, and the stolen base. However, he takes exception to those who simply decide a team is to be "a running team." "Sneaking or stealing bases is a great device if your runners have the ability to break fast, have speed underneath and possess sliding ability at the end of the trip. Nothing makes a manager look sillier than to have a runner thrown out for lack of a split second in zip." Southern California, long the home of track stars, has only lost three dual track meets in 20 years. The Trojans were beaten by Stanford in 1933, California in 1943 and California Tech in 1944. Jim Ferrier's blowup on the last nine holes of the Masters' Tournament recently recalls Tommy Armour's golf trum. "Tournaments aren't won; they're lost." Buddy Lewis, former Washington third sacker and outfielder, is president of a thriving automobile agency at Gastonia, N. C.

ERNE LOMBARDI, old "Beer" himself, the former lead-footed fence buster who caught for Brooklyn, the Giants and the Reds, now is a sheet metal worker in Oakland, Calif. All-American Clayton Tommemaker, of Minnesota, is deferring final action of pro football negotiation pending more definite word on the coaching situation at Minnesota. He would like to be number one among the Gophers assistants next fall. Dizzy Trout says in 12 years of major league play he has never seen as many

Amarillo Sox Beat Lamesa, Gutierrez With 15-5 Assault

AMARILLO — (AP) — Amarillo's Gold Sox hopped on two Lamesa pitchers for a 15-5 victory to even the series at one all here Wednesday night. Jack Gutierrez was shelled for nine hits and nine runs. Bill McDonald took over in the fifth to allow six more tallies and the same number of bingles. Metz LaPolette was touched for 11 hits but never was in serious trouble. The former West Texas State football and basketball star is undefeated with four triumphs. He started the season as the right fielder.

Western Open Starts Today With Poor Field

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — The championship starts a four-day run today with the defending champion, Sam Snead, unanimously elected the man to beat for the $2,600 winner's purse. With such heralded rivals as Ben Hogan and Jimmy Demaret, to list just a few, passing up this 47th edition of the famed tournament, this man Snead merited the load of favoritism. Actually, the supporting cast is probably the weakest in the long history of the Western. This is Los Angeles' first crack at staging the affair and many of the wandering pros were reluctant to spend the money for the trip to the coast for the one-shot deal despite its prestige and fancy purse. Qualifying rounds were dispensed with, because there weren't enough entries, and today 100 or more pros and a generous sprinkling of California amateurs head out over the Brentwood Country Club course. Far for Brentwood is 35-36-71 and it measures some 6,800 yards.

Indians Command Jeep for Relief

CLEVELAND — (AP) — When one pitcher was driven out of last night's Cleveland-Philadelphia baseball game here, another was driven in — by jeep. The free ride replaced the long, slow walk by relief hurlers from the bullpen beyond the outfield fences because general manager Hank Greenberg of the Tribe wants to speed up games. The Indians' games so far this season have averaged 2 1/2 hours. Greenberg thinks that's too tiresome for all concerned — especially the cash customers — and is working on a program to reduce the playing time to two hours.

BOSTON — (AP) — Former golf king Bobby Jones undergoes an operation at Lahey Clinic today to correct a spinal ailment caused by an accident 20 years ago. Runner-up to Gene Sarazen in the 1923 PGA championship, Walter Hagen, then won the golf tourney four years in a row.

Hubs Club Clovis Pioneers, Paul Dean, for 23-11 Win

CLOVIS — (AP) — The Lubbock Hubbers broke out with all their battering fury here last night to crush the Clovis Pioneers 23-11 in a long, sloppy contest. Hubber bats battered five Clovis pitchers for 24 hits to even the series at one apiece. Mike Dooley, playing third base, sparked the attack with two mighty home runs which drove in five runs. He also had an infield scratch to his credit. Frank Thomas, the second Pioneer pitcher, was charged with the loss. John Wasschuk started for Clovis and Manager Paul Dean finished. In between Mike Britchevic and Ken Motley also pitched.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR. NEW YORK — (AP) — Murray Goodman, the International Boxing Club sub-champion, paused long enough in his task of interviewing fighters to report the quickest substitution on record. Seems that Murray and coachmaker Al Weil were in Stillman's Gym when they got word that Tuno Portuquez was injured. They needed someone to fight Tiberio Mitri in the Garden tomorrow. Seeing a husky looking lad on his way out, Goodman asked: "What's the matter with Dick Wagner?" Weil shouted "nothing" and they signed Dick before he could reach the door. Wagner, who just happened to be present, added: "I needed the fight. I just got back from my honeymoon a couple of weeks ago and I want to take my wife out to Washington. The Indians always have a big pow-wow out there in July and I never miss it." "You're part-Indian aren't you?" Goodman asked. "Yes," grunted Dick. "Part Sioux." "The only Sioux I know," interposed a boxing writer, "is the Bronx zoo." That broke up the interview.

ANOTHER COINCIDENCE. The next interviewee was a rugged looking little guy named George Small, who rather proudly reported that he once was known as the worst kid in Brownsville — even tougher than Bummy Davis. George told about touring the carnival circuit with a strong man known as the Mighty Atom. "I learned some of his tricks," Small explained. "I could drive a nail through a two-inch plank with my hand. There ain't no trick to it; you just get your hand hardened." But the Atom could do things like stopping an automobile by pushing, and biting chains in half with his teeth. "Georgia looked as if he'd like to know that trick and help the managers who were negotiating for a bigger 'bite' of the television money." Goodman explained, "George fights Kid Gavilan next week."

ALL AT SEA. The U. S. Naval Armed Guard, which put Navy gun crews aboard merchant ships during the war, is planning a big reunion at the Brooklyn base May 27 and Stan Sapin asks for help in rounding up ex-athletes who served with that outfit. It's an impressive list of names, considering that they all were sea-duty guys and only four participated in athletics between voyages. If you haven't heard from Stan, you can reach him at the rangers' office.

"Georgia looked as if he'd like to know that trick and help the managers who were negotiating for a bigger 'bite' of the television money." Goodman explained, "George fights Kid Gavilan next week."

ALL AT SEA. The U. S. Naval Armed Guard, which put Navy gun crews aboard merchant ships during the war, is planning a big reunion at the Brooklyn base May 27 and Stan Sapin asks for help in rounding up ex-athletes who served with that outfit. It's an impressive list of names, considering that they all were sea-duty guys and only four participated in athletics between voyages. If you haven't heard from Stan, you can reach him at the rangers' office.

ANOTHER COINCIDENCE. The next interviewee was a rugged looking little guy named George Small, who rather proudly reported that he once was known as the worst kid in Brownsville — even tougher than Bummy Davis. George told about touring the carnival circuit with a strong man known as the Mighty Atom. "I learned some of his tricks," Small explained. "I could drive a nail through a two-inch plank with my hand. There ain't no trick to it; you just get your hand hardened." But the Atom could do things like stopping an automobile by pushing, and biting chains in half with his teeth. "Georgia looked as if he'd like to know that trick and help the managers who were negotiating for a bigger 'bite' of the television money." Goodman explained, "George fights Kid Gavilan next week."

Most Texas Solons Facing Opposition In July Primaries

(By The Associated Press)
Eight Texas congressmen, headed by Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn, will have no opposition in the July 22 primaries.

The other 13 legislators, all of whom seek re-election, have from one to four opponents each. The deadline for filing by candidates was midnight Monday.

Others unopposed for re-nomination:
Olin E. Teague of College Station, 9th District; Albert Thomas of Houston, 8th District; John E. Lyle, Jr., of Corpus Christi, 14th District; Lloyd M. Bentsen, Jr., of McAllen, 18th District; Omar Burleson of Anson, 17th District; Paul J. Kilday of San Antonio, 20th District and O. C. Fisher of San Angelo, 21st District.

Here's the lineup by districts where there is opposition:
1. Rep. Wright Patman, Texas, opposed by Mayor Abe M. Mays of Atlanta and former state legislator.

One is Mrs. Tom Travis, 42, a Waco real estate agent and builder with no previous political experience. The other two are former Waco Mayor Richard C. Bush, 48, an advertising and newspaperman, and Attorney John L. Bates, Jr., 29, of Waco, Bates, too, is inexperienced in office holding.

Wichita Falls Milk Producers Rebel
WICHITA FALLS — (AP) — The Wichita Falls Area Milk Producers Association is going to buy, lease or build bottling facilities here for their milk.

Members of the association voted for the program.

"Members supported directors right down the line in the decision to establish a bottling plant. They mean business," E. B. Griffith, manager of the association, said.

Association officials announced Monday that members would stop delivering milk to principal distributors here.

Griffith said the action was taken after one distributor announced that members of the association would have to handle their own surpluses. Prices are not a factor.
