Judges say holding election on time is crucial, but Republicans to appeal

DALLAS (AP) — For the second time in less than a week, a three-judge federal panel has handed down a Texas redistricting decision that pleased Democrats and angered Republicans. Republicans say they will appeal the legislative reapportionment plan handed down Friday by U.S. District Judges Barefoot Sanders and Jerry Borchmeyer of Dallas and appeals court Judge Carolyn D. Randall.

On Feb. 27, another trio of federal judges in Austin revealed a congressional redistricting plan that was called "partisan, political gettrymandering" by one Republican candidate who was shifted out of the district in which he planned to run. Steve Bartlett of Dallas says he is taking his case to the U.S. Supreme Court, and the State Republican Executive Committee also is planning to appeal.

The court-ordered legislative plan released Friday left almost intact the state House and Senate districts drawn up by the all-Democratic Legislative Redistricting Board in October. The judges changed lines only for House seats in Bexar and El Paso counties, accepting for those districts a plan presented by the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund. That means that much of the court-ordered plan is the same as the one rejected by U.S. Justice Department on the grounds that it improperly dilutes minority votes. The department on Thursday withdrew some of its objections, but continued most.

Throughout the six-day trial in January and the later lengthy hearings, the judges repeatedly expressed intense concern about holding the May 1 primary election on time, with Ms. Randall once saying from the bench that disruption of the election would "disenfranchise" Texans.

In the Friday decision, the panel stated that if the primaries are postponed, the probable low voter turnout would have a "materially adverse affect" on minorities who depend "on a high voter turnout for success at the polls."

The judges also said that testimony at the trial showed the elections will cost at least $7 million, a price that might rise substantially if there is delay.

Noting that it had less than a month to draw the plan, the court said it relied on the parties to the lawsuit — the MALDEF and Republican plaintiffs and the defendant State of Texas. But most of the proposals reflected political rather than legal concerns, the judges said.

Calling the situation an emergency, and noting that redistricting is properly a legislative rather than a judicial function, the court adopted as its own temporary reapportionment plan the modified LRB plan.

Various Republicans said they were "astounded" and "angry," with Republican Gov. Bill Clements calling the decision part of a "chain of almost unbelievable events" that leaves Texas in "confusing mess."

Democrats hailed the decision, with LRB members saying the decision showed their plan was fair.

Looking to the future, the judges admonished lawmakers that the court's plan would govern elections until Dec. 31, 1983, but that if valid reapportionment plans are not in effect by Sept. 1, 1983, the panel would take up the task of drawing permanent district lines.

"Many of the objectives sought by the parties in this litigation can be obtained only through the legislative process," the judges concluded.

Newspaper publishes Carlos threat

PARIS (AP) — The international terrorist-assassin Carlos says he is not mad at France's government but must retaliate unless two of his jailed comrades are freed, the newspaper Le Figaro reported Saturday.

The paper said Carlos' written threat also said the two suspected terrorists he wants freed were not working under any orders from him to carry out attacks.

The newspaper quoted part of a letter which the French government on Friday said it had received last week. The Interior Ministry did not disclose the text of the letter and Le Figaro did not say how it obtained its information.

Carlos said in the letter he would "personally attack" Interior Minister Gaston Defferre and other French officials unless the two terrorist suspects were freed, the French government said. French officials said the letter, written in Spanish, was authentic and addressed to Defferre, chief of the nation's police.

Carlos, the alias of 32-year-old Venezuelan terrorist Ilich Ramirez Sanchez, is the eldest son of a wealthy Venezuelan lawyer and has been linked to several political kidnappings, bombings and killings. The most spectacular was the 1975 kidnapping of 11 oil ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in Vienna, Austria.

Le Figaro published the following passage:

"You have arrested two members of my organization, though they had received no particular direction to commit an attack on French territory because we have nothing against the Socialist government.

"I am giving you one month to free them, if not, I will personally attack the French government, particularly the minister Gaston Defferre."

The letter was the first direct word from Carlos since the OPEC ministers attack. It was deposited in the mailbox of the French Embassy in The Hague, Netherlands, last Wednesday and authenticated by two thumbprints, authorities said.

Defferre said he has increased protection for the French ambassador to the Netherlands, Jean Jurgensen, and an alert to border and airport police.

Investigators were intensifying an investigation of Bruno Breguet, 32, of Minusio, Switzerland, and Magdalena Kopp, 34, of Ulm, West Germany, who were arrested Feb. 16 at an underground parking lot near the Avenue Champs-Elysees.

Their car, carrying phony license plates, contained a time bomb, bottles of gas and grenades. Police found about $2,000 on the suspects along with false identity papers.

Gasoline price wars making a comeback

By ROBERT BURNS
AP Business Writer

Two hours after Rex Parker cut the price of regular leaded gasoline to 96.9 cents a gallon at his St. Louis station, his sales had doubled, his pumps had run dry and customers were pounding on his windows.

Parker is a soldier in the gas wars popping up as Americans use less fuel, and dealers desperate for sales cut their prices to the bone — and, in some cases, even lower.

"The gas war today is far more vicious than when gas was 29 cents a gallon," said Charles Shipley, executive director of the Michigan Service Station Dealers Association.

An Associated Press spot check of prices nationwide showed regular leaded gasoline selling for as low as 88.9 cents a gallon. Motorists in a number of cities were paying less than $1 a gallon.

That's a far cry from the $1.38-a-gallon national average price for all grades last March — and even the current average of about $1.28 a gallon.

At an Amoco station near Henderson, Ky., scene of a fierce price war, Mary Jo Williams said her crew has changed the sign board so often. "We've worn out our ladder."

Bob Ballance, a competitor, said the latest form of price warfare doesn't compare to the street corner skirmishes of the 1960s. It's now more the oil companies' fight than the dealers', he said.

Yet some dealers are selling below cost — to stay in business.

James Fash, a gasoline station operator in Terre Haute and president of the Indiana Service Station Dealers Association, cited a Marathon dealer in Fort Wayne who was locked in a furious war with a neighboring Shell station. The Marathon dealer was selling his gasoline for $1.03 a gallon, or 15 cents a gallon less than he paid for it, Fash said.

"The whole marketplace is in an upheaval," said Paul Dennis, a spokesman for Union Oil Co. of California.

Major oil companies such as Union, struggling to boost sales, have been cutting wholesale prices almost daily. And in many cases they are being undercut by the smaller, independent marketers.

In Chicago, the AAA-Chicago Motor Club said its most recent survey showed 40 percent of the area's gasoline dealers were cutting prices compared with about 25 percent changing prices, up and down, just six weeks earlier.

Dan Lundberg, publisher of the Lundberg Letter that tracks gasoline market trends, said prices since January have been dropping half a cent a week.

In Austin, Texas, a price war between neighboring stations drove the price below $1 a gallon. And a petroleum marketing group in Missouri says prices have dipped to the $1-a-gallon mark in much of Kansas and Missouri.

Regular grade gasoline was selling in Tulsa, Okla., Portland, Ore., Fort Wayne, Ind., and Denver for less than $1.10 a gallon. And in Newcastle, Okla., the price for regular fell as low as 88.9 cents a gallon one day.

Sen. Byrd seeks to limit power to send troops to El Salvador

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Minority Leader Robert C. Byrd said Saturday he will introduce legislation next week to prevent the Reagan administration from sending U.S. troops to El Salvador without congressional approval.

Byrd, D-W. Va., said he is concerned about what he described as a creeping escalation of rhetoric that could lead to gradual involvement of U.S. troops in the Central American country.

"It is my view that if Americans are to be asked to shed their blood in the jungles of El Salvador, all Americans should first have an opportunity to debate and carefully evaluate that action," he said.

Byrd said he would introduce his proposal Monday as an amendment to the War Power Act, which allows American forces to be committed for up to 60 days without congressional approval. The War Powers Act was passed by Congress Nov. 7, 1973, over presidential veto.

The West Virginia Democrat said his amendment would allow the president flexibility to send troops to El Salvador if the United States is attacked or if troops are needed to protect or assist in the evacuation of American citizens.

In Santa Barbara, Calif., White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes, said: "We see no need for changes. We are fully consulting with Congress."

Speakes said Reagan has "made it very clear he has no plans to use troops... It is an awfully far-fetched idea that we would ever contemplate using combat troops. We think we can accomplish what we want through aid and training assistance."

Speakes acknowledged that White House mail is running heavily against U.S. involvement in El Salvador.

Explaining what he meant by a gradual escalation of rhetoric, Byrd said several generals have suggested that "we might have to rethink our policy of not allowing our advisers to accompany Salvadorans in combat. We read reports of the administration's growing concerns over the Salvadoran government's ability to achieve a military victory.

"We hear the secretary of state say the advisers may be more secure by carrying M-16s," he continued. "Looking at the trend implicit in these events, I am led to the conclusion that now is the time to undertake a full debate on this issue."

Approximately 50 U.S. military advisers are already in El Salvador.

Byrd said he did not want to see American involvement "such as we saw in Vietnam which would then make it necessary for the Congress to extricate those troops as we did in Vietnam."

"It would be an embarrassment to the president. It would be an embarrassment to the nation," he said. "And it would be a far greater loss to the presidency and the nation's foreign policy than if we have the debate first and make it clear Congress has authorized such involvement."

Haig meets with Mexican official on El Salvadoran peace proposal

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., expressing greater interest than before in a Mexican peace plan for El Salvador, said Saturday it must include curbs on Nicaraguan involvement in the insurgency.

Haig and Mexican Foreign Minister Jorge Castaneda conferred for two hours on the plan, put forward Feb. 21 by Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo. Castaneda said the Mexicans suggested the meeting with Haig. Both men described their talks as useful and positive.

"President Reagan's intention is to explore every avenue that could lead to a successful and appropriate peaceful resolution to the situation in Central America... and that includes exploring the Mexican initiative in depth," Haig told a news conference after the talks.

He said he will discuss the plan again at a meeting with Castaneda here next week.

Castaneda told reporters the talks were "extremely useful and very constructive and we agreed in many aspects." But he said they had different viewpoints on events in El Salvador and what should be done following the March 28 elections there. He did not elaborate.

Castaneda also indicated disagreement on the infiltration of arms from Nicaragua to Salvadoran left-wing guerrillas. Haig has said a large quantity of arms have moved through Nicaragua. While Castaneda did not dispute that this might previously have been the case, he said only a small amount of arms are now reaching the rebels.

Haig appeared not to rule out the possibility of talks with the leftist leaders of Cuba and Nicaragua, which the Mexicans are advocating.

"The way and how communications will be conducted are matters which are best left without a lot of public hoopla," he said.

The three-part Mexican peace proposal calls for a negotiated settlement of the Salvadoran guerrilla war, a nonaggression pact between the United States and Nicaragua, and talks between the United States and Cuba to ease tensions.

Lopez Portillo offered to serve as a mediator to help resolve the conflicts.

"The exchange we had today was positive," Haig said. "Both sides learned something. We had a very constructive and I think very valuable exchange."

He said he voiced to Castaneda what the Reagan administration felt was the failure in the Mexican plan "to grapple very directly with the issue of Nicaraguan involvement in El Salvador."

Haig said he stressed to Castaneda the necessity for Cuba and Nicaragua "to stop arming insurgents in this hemisphere."

He said Nicaraguan support for the Salvadoran leftist rebels is the "primary issue" in resolving the conflict.

Haig said the administration will make public by Wednesday new evidence to support its accusations that Nicaragua and Cuba are directing the Salvadoran guerrillas.

Haig also said he and Castaneda discussed the case of a Nicaraguan taken into custody in El Salvador, whom Haig described last week as a Nicaraguan "military man" sent to assist the Salvadoran rebels. But he declined to sort out confusion over the incident.

Hardin named district attorney

Shamrock attorney Guy Hardin has been named to the post of District Attorney for the 223rd and 31st Judicial Districts by Texas Governor Bill Clements.

The appointment came Friday as a result of the Jan. 31 resignation of former District Attorney Harold Comer.

Hardin served as district attorney from 1969 to 1976. He has been in Shamrock for 32 years and is currently in private practice there.

He has also served in the office of Wheeler County attorney and is currently the city attorney for Shamrock.

Hardin said he was advised of his appointment on Friday from the governor's office.

"Now I have to get busy and find someone to take over the post of assistant district attorney," he said.

Reagan plans holiday against aides' advice

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — President Reagan is determined to go ahead with plans for an Easter holiday in Barbados despite advice from aides that a trip to the Caribbean resort island might be politically unwise during a deepening recession, White House sources said Saturday.

Reagan and his wife Nancy have accepted an invitation from actress Claudette Colbert, a long-time friend, to visit her Barbados home next month and the White House has been arranging a summit meeting with several government leaders in the region during his stay.

The first indication of problems with the Barbados trip came several days ago when deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes told reporters in Los Angeles that an advance team had returned from the island and raised some "logistical questions" about the support facilities that would be required for a presidential visit.

Sources who spoke with the understanding they would not be identified said the logistical problems included bringing in some conspicuous equipment that would be very expensive and potentially embarrassing to the Barbados government.

For example, the island nation might be sensitive to having attention drawn to the lack of such things as medical facilities deemed adequate for the American president, the sources said.

In addition to the planeload of vehicles, communications gear and security apparatus normally is flown in to any city the president visits, the sources said the Barbados trip would involve stationing an American hospital ship off shore and the transport of modern fire trucks, chemicals and firefighters that stand by whenever the president's helicopter takes off or lands.

They said security considerations and the layout of the island and Miss Colbert's home also would require the use of a motorcade and helicopters whenever Reagan wanted to go to the beach.

But on Friday, when questioned about his earlier remarks suggesting the trip was in doubt, Speakes said the Barbados trip "is very much on, and I would be absolutely certain it would take place."

"The president is very anxious to meet with the heads of the east Caribbean states," he said.

Asked if the logical problems had been overcome, Speakes replied: "We'll be able to live with them."

Government is promising honest elections

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — Strife-torn Guatemala elects a new government Sunday, choosing a president among four candidates, all rightists.

The Central American nation's future may depend as much on how the selection is made as on who wins. Gen. Fernando Romeo Lucas Garcia, the outgoing president, has promised a "free, clean and pure" election and has pledged to honor the results.

Guatemala has been governed by elected military presidents since 1970, but recent elections have been tainted by allegations of fraud. Rightist governments, often dominated by the military, have ruled since leftist-leaning President Jacobo Arbenz was ousted in a U.S.-backed coup in 1954.

Many leftists have claimed this year's elections will be rigged, and all left and liberal parties declined to run presidential candidates. One center-left party has candidates in some congressional and local races.

The past five years have seen an increasingly bloody battle against leftist insurgents and the government has been accused of tolerating — or even directing — widespread kidnappings and murders of liberal politicians, academics, students, labor leaders and others.

At stake in Sunday's elections are the presidency and vice presidency, 66 members of Congress, and state and municipal offices.

If none of the four presidential candidates wins a majority of the vote, the presidency will be decided by the outgoing Congress, controlled by President Lucas Garcia's right-wing coalition of the Institutional Democratic Party and the Revolutionary Party.

In 1974 and 1978, the vote count was steeped in confusion and allegations of fraud.

Weather

The forecast calls for sunny and mild conditions today with high temperatures in the mid 50s. Winds will be gusting today 15-25 mph.

LAWSUITS
A suit was filed in the district clerk's office by the American Eagle Insurance Company versus Anne W. Lemons, administrator of the estate of Jerry Wayne Lemons, killed in a Feb. 9 plane crash in Roberts County. The insurance company alleges that the insurance policy effective 5-24-81 through 5-24-82 does not cover Lemons in the operation of the Cessna 182 he was piloting because it did not qualify under the portion of the policy for "newly" acquired aircraft. The plane was allegedly purchased through a partnership.
A suit was filed in the district clerk's office by Robert L. Cunningham versus the Morris Well Service Company, 821 W. Wilks, for injuries received in a motorcycle accident on June 27, 1981.

Five sentenced to death for assassination of Anwar Sadat

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) - The four Moslem fanatics who assassinated President Anwar Sadat and a fifth man convicted of supplying the guns were sentenced to death Saturday after a three-month trial.

A three-judge panel of the Supreme Military Court gave seventeen other men sentences ranging from five years to life and acquitted two - a blind Moslem preacher and a teacher.

As they had throughout the trial, the defendants called out and shouted slogans from behind the steel bars of a 40-foot-long restraining cage in the courtroom.

"Please tell your people that we are not the killers," Aly el-Salamouny, a 33-year-old teacher who was acquitted, shouted in English to about 100 foreign reporters before the verdicts were announced.

"Sadat killed himself by his behavior here in Egypt," el-Salamouny said. "Sadat made of himself the last

Say Walesa to attend daughter's christening

WARSAW, Poland (AP) - Poland's martial law authorities will allow detained Solidarity union leader Lech Walesa to attend his daughter's christening in Gdansk in two weeks and let him stay through Easter, his wife said Saturday.

Officials could not be reached for comment. But church sources said Walesa met several weeks ago with Poland's deputy premier, signaling a possible breakthrough toward talks on Solidarity, suspended when martial law was imposed Dec. 13.

"Maria Victoria's christening will take place March 21 with the participation of her father," Walesa's wife, Danuta, said. "I'm not coming to Warsaw for Easter because Lech will be back home by that time. We will spend Easter together." Easter is April 11.

Lawyers are surprised by own witnesses

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) - Defense lawyers in the attempted murder trial of socialist Claus C. von Bulow admit they had never heard of two of their best witnesses when the case began eight weeks ago.

The two witnesses - a hospital technician and an exercise instructor - bolstered the contention of the defense that heiress Martha "Sunny" von Bulow had a death wish and used drugs recklessly.

Von Bulow, 55, is accused of twice attempting to kill his wife with injections of insulin and barbituates, both times causing her to go into a coma. She is not expected to recover from the second coma.

The defense rested Friday without calling the Danish-born financial consultant to the stand in his own defense.

Judge Thomas H. Needham said he expects the case to go to the jury by Wednesday afternoon.

C. Robert Huggins, a hospital technician, drew a blood sample from Mrs. von Bulow as she recovered from her first coma. He rocked the courtroom Friday when he repeated a conversation with Mrs. von Bulow in her private room at Newport Hospital.

Neither the defendants nor their lawyers were present for the sentencing. A guard said he could not bring the defendants because they would disrupt the session.

The tribunal has 30 days in which to spell out reasons for the verdicts, which then go for ratification to President

Pharoah in our country."

Army Lt. Khaled el-Islambouly, leader of the team of assassins who leaped from a truck in a military parade Oct. 6 and charged Sadat's reviewing stand, shouted, "The blood of a Moslem is not an altar sacrifice for the Jews or the Americans!"

The shouting ended when power was cut in the two-story courthouse inside Gebel al-Ahmar military camp on the northeastern outskirts of Cairo.

Reporters were cleared out of the courtroom and waited next door for nearly two hours before the sentences were read in the lobby of the building.

Prosecutors accused the other defendants of complicity, charged them with premeditated murder and asked for the death penalty for all 24.

All but two of the 27 trial sessions were closed to the public. The sentencing came five months, almost to the minute, after Sadat's assassination.

met with the church's labor specialist, the Rev. Alojzy Orszulik, who is said to have acted as a go-between for union-state contacts for the past several weeks.

The Rakowski-Walesa meeting, coupled with reports of Walesa's possible release, may indicate a new drive by the authorities to begin talks on reviving Solidarity.

Previously, Walesa had refused to agree to full-fledged talks with the government unless union advisers and lawyers of his choosing were allowed to attend.

Poland's Roman Catholic church, which counts 90 percent of Poland's 36 million people as members, has been urging resumption of the talks, as well as an end to martial law.

"I said, 'Oh, what happened to you?' She said, 'Oh, I tried to kill myself,'" Huggins said.

On Wednesday, Joy O'Neill, a former instructor at a New York City exercise salon patronized by Mrs. von Bulow in 1976-1980, testified that in 1978 Mrs. von Bulow advised her to use injections of insulin and the tranquilizer Valium to control her weight and nerves.

The last defense witness called Friday was Dr. John Carr, a psychiatrist who talked with Mrs. von Bulow after her first coma. He said the utilities heiress was deeply depressed and admitted to him she frequently wished herself dead.

Prosecutor Stephen R. Famiglietti, through rebuttal testimony that continues Monday, will try to repair his damaged portrait of Mrs. von Bulow as a mentally stable woman who rarely drank or used drugs.

Herald P. Fahringer, von Bulow's principal defense lawyer, admitted after court Friday he knew nothing about or Huggins or Miss O'Neill when the trial began.

"They were very helpful," he said. "We didn't expect this, but we knew it (the testimony) was out there somewhere."

Huggins said he mentioned the conversation to others only twice - once that day to a hospital co-worker and again a few weeks ago to a cabinet-maker for whom he works parttime.

Supporters of former State Senator Max Sherman will formally kick off his campaign for Texas Attorney General with an area-wide supper rally Monday on the campus of West Texas State in Canyon at 7 p.m.

The east dining of the university can seat 700 persons and supporters hope every seat is taken as Sherman launches his first race for state-wide office.

Sherman will make a brief speech at the rally, which will also feature music and other entertainment.

Campaign coordinators in the 26 counties of the Texas Panhandle - part of the area Sherman served as State Senator from 1971 to 1977 - are assisting with plans for the rally.

Donald Braswell named to U.S. Naval Academy

Donald Hodges Bowman Braswell, son of Dr. and Mrs. Roy F. Braswell of 2701 Beech Lane, has been appointed to attend the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., by Congressman Jack Hightower.

He is one of four area men recently appointed to U.S. armed services academies by Hightower.

For Braswell it was his second appointment to an armed services academy. He also received an appointment to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., by Senator John Tower.

A 1981 graduate of Pampa High School, Braswell graduated second in his class with a 3.6 grade point average. While in school, he was elected to membership in the National Junior Honor Society and the National Honor Society.

He was a member of the Pride of Pampa Band one year and the Key Club for two years. Braswell earned four varsity letters in cross-country track, being a regional qualifier two years. He was team captain his senior year. He also received two varsity letters in track and three in swimming.

In 1980 he was selected as the Outstanding Chemistry Student and named to Who's Who in Math for 1980-81. He received the Texas Chemical Council Award in 1981.

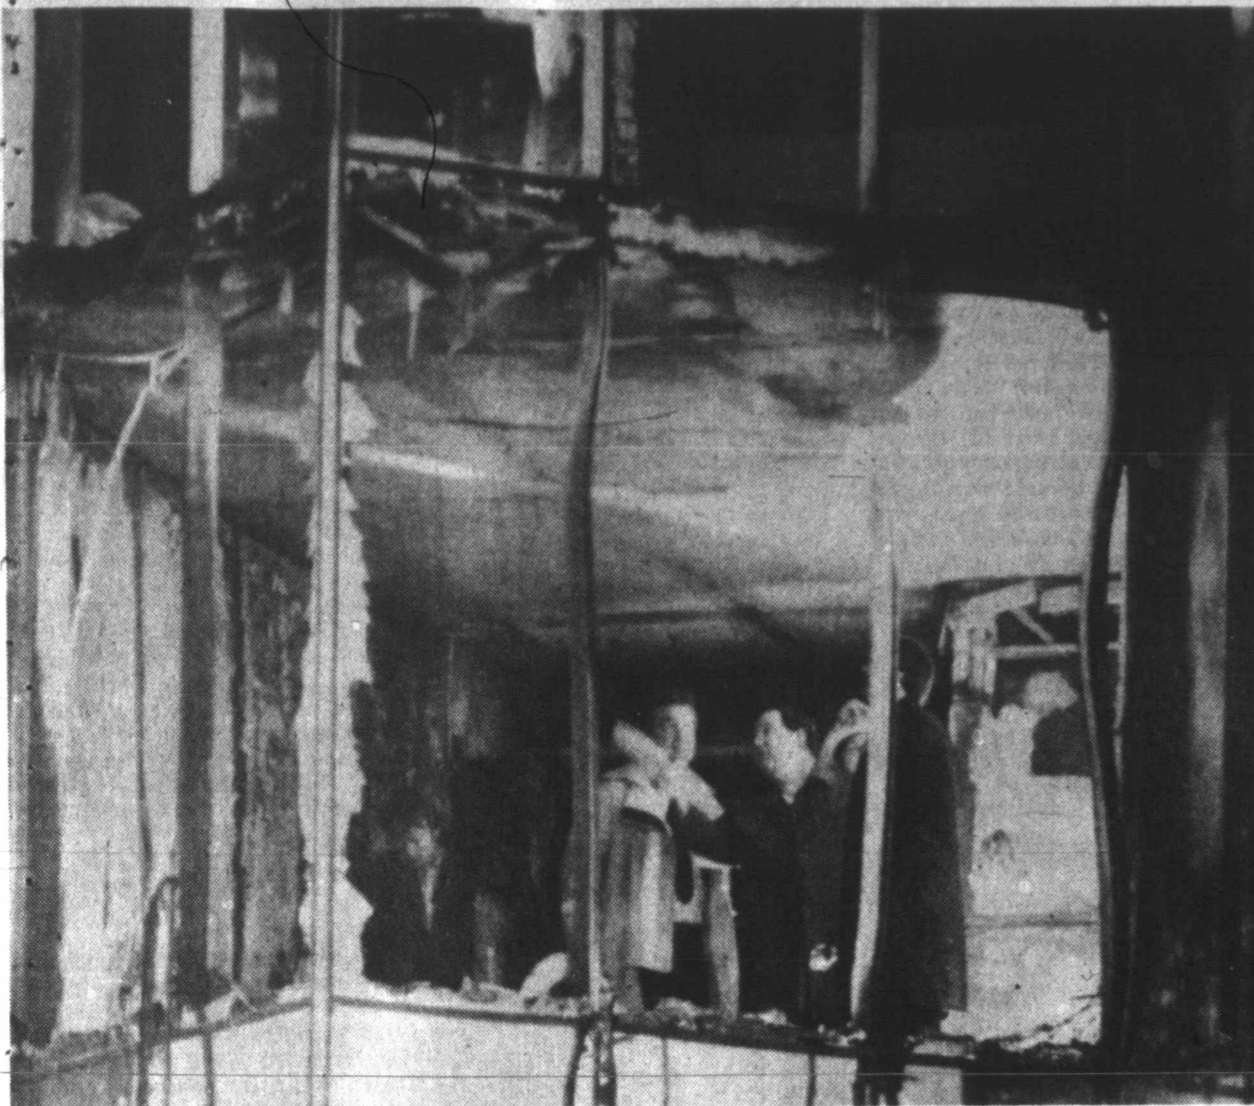

Braswell was a member of the first class at Pampa High to participate in the new Gifted and Talented Study group. During the summer between his junior and senior years, he was chosen to attend an Alternate Energy Seminar in Austin, sponsored by Southwestern Public Service Co., and to attend a National Science Foundation Math Seminar for six weeks at Hardin Simmons University, Abilene.

He also was an active member of St. Mathews Episcopal Church, where he served as an acolyte for eight years and was president of the Episcopal Young Churchmen for 1980-81.

Braswell is currently attending Texas Tech University at Lubbock, where he is enrolled in the College of Engineering and is a member of the la crosse team.

INVESTIGATES SCENE OF HOTEL FIRE. Arson investigators of the Houston Fire Department examine Room 404 of the Westchase Hilton Saturday morning where a fire broke out killing 10 guests. (AP Laserphoto)

Hotel's fire alarm was turned off, smoke from blaze kills 10 guests

HOUSTON (AP) — A hotel worker repeatedly turned off the building's alarm system as a fourth-floor blaze filled the high-rise building with smoke and killed 10 people early Saturday, fire officials said.

"It would have sounded a general alarm, but the occupants we have been able to interview did not hear any alarm at all," said Deputy Fire Chief L.H. Mikeska. "The alarm was reset several times by one of the hotel employees."

The victims included a Louisiana family of four who came to Houston for a wedding. Among them were two brothers, ages 2 and 4. Eleven other people were injured, two of them critically.

Fire officials said all 21 victims suffered from smoke inhalation, and no one was burned.

Two victims, Joseph Ilvento, 27, of Boston, and Patrick Belmon, 30, of France, were in critical condition critical with lung injuries.

The fire was confined to Room 404, but its smoke spilled into the upper floors of the glass-and-steel, 13-story hotel, and the remaining of the 178 guests were evacuated.

Officials said the cause of the pre-dawn fire apparently was accidental, although investigators were questioning two 19-year-old men. Room 404 was registered to one of them, but the other was asleep inside when the fire broke out. He escaped unhurt.

At least four people escaped the deadly, thick smoke by smashing their floor-to-ceiling windows and climbing down fire ladders to the ground outside.

"I was waked up by the screaming and yelling and general chaos," said Donna Harris, 32, of Beaumont, who fled from her fourth-floor window on a fire ladder when the fire broke out shortly after 2 a.m.

"I broke out the window in our room with an ashtray and then I took a chair and knocked the rest out," she said.

Only four bodies were identified positively — Roland and Cecile Pabst and their two sons, Roland "Chuck," 4, and Jonathan, 2, of Metairie, La. The Pabsts, Mrs. Harris, and about 35 other hotel guests were in town for a wedding, said a relative of the bride.

The 300-room hotel, built in 1980, does not have a sprinkler system.

Many of the surviving guests complained that they pulled manually operated fire alarms located in the hallways — and nothing happened. Mikeska said why the hotel worker turned the alarm off several times was not clear.

"I think he took it (the alarm) seriously. He kept cutting it off — he wasn't really familiar with the system. He hadn't been briefed on it, and I don't think he was aware he was cutting off the entire system," Mikeska said.

Several hotel guests said the only alarm they heard was the sirens from the fire trucks arriving at the scene.

Fire Chief V.E. Rogers said he said he summoned arson detectives to the scene as a matter of routine.

Mikeska and other fire investigators were questioning Scott Petersen, 19, of Santa Fe, N.M., who was registered in Room 404, and Scott Owens, also 19, of Houston, who was alone and asleep in the room when the fire broke out.

Hilton officials in Santa Fe said Petersen is employed as a cook in their hotel.

"Owens and Petersen are friends," Mikeska said.

"Owens was in the room by himself. He was asleep. Petersen was gone, and he returned," said Mikeska. "Owens said the room was full of smoke. He saw a glow but he doesn't know where the fire was," Mikeska said.

He said authorities were "looking at the possibility" a cigarette may have caused the fire.

The county medical examiner's office said it appeared seven of the victims died in their sleep and the other three were awake when they were choked to death by the smoke.

Deputy Fire Chief Carl Hooker said eight bodies were found in their rooms and two were in the hallway where they collapsed apparently trying to escape.

The names of the other six victims were not immediately released. Authorities said they included five women and one man.

The Pabsts were in Room 407, directly across the hall from Room 404, where the fire started. A thick layer of soot coated everything in 407 — luggage, a woman's hair dryer, a Kermit the Frog doll, two tiny pairs of shoes, a man's watch and comb — but the room showed no signs of damage from flames.

Room 404 was gutted by the blaze, the beds reduced to charred box springs.

Rogers said firefighters responding to the 2:28 a.m. CST alarm donned oxygen masks and went from room to room to wake up guests and guide them through the

Judge to rule refund injunction

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A state judge says he will rule Monday on a request by Southwestern Bell to hold off paying its customers a refund it thinks is too high.

Bell is asking District Judge Hume Cofer for an injunction. It also is seeking to overturn a Public Utilities Commission rate decision that gives the company a $243.7 million rate hike instead of the $469.7 million increase the company had requested last year.

Bell wants $89 million more than the PUC granted, citing expenses it says the agency didn't take into consideration.

The company had raised its rates to $246.8 million, mostly in local and business accounts instead of long distance. That was until the PUC reached its final rate decision last December.

The PUC ordered Bell in its decision to raise long distance rates instead of local and business rates. Bell argues that overall revenues were reduced by changing the rate increase to long distance, which involves tariffs.

The PUC says it simply was consistent in ordering Bell to refund on a rate-by-rate basis the excess its customers paid.

Under the PUC refund plan, Bell would give back $21 million. Under Bell's suggested plan, it would pay out $600,000 in refunds — "not an insubstantial difference," as one Bell attorney characterized it.

Bell called only one witness, the company's chief accountant, who said the refund process would cost the company over $500,000.

D.W. Swinson said if the injunction were denied and the refund went forward — but Bell won the case later — it could cost another $500,000 for a "refund in reverse."

Wedding will go on

HOUSTON (AP) — Alan Paterson needed only one word to describe the deaths of four Louisiana friends who perished in a pre-dawn hotel fire on the eve of his wedding.

"Nightmare," said Paterson, who heard the news from his fiancée, Elizabeth Ann Waters, after returning from his bachelor's party.

"It was pretty late and I went to my fiancée's house and they told me there'd been a fire at the hotel where some of the wedding guests were staying," he said.

He said they went to the hotel about 3 a.m., where they were told one person was dead and a family was missing.

"The firemen were there; they were giving artificial respiration to some people. We had to count relatives. I tried to see if they were all accounted for. What a way to start a marriage. It was a nightmare," he said.

Roland Pabst, his wife Cecile, and their two sons, Roland, 4, and Johnathan, 2, died in a blaze that killed 10 and injured at least 11. The Pabsts had traveled to Houston from their home in Metairie, La. to attend the wedding.

Miss Waters said about 50 out-of-town guests at the 13-story Westchase Hilton Hotel were planning to attend the 7:30 p.m. wedding.

"It'll be a very, very sad wedding," Miss Waters said. "It's been a big tragedy, it's awful. But we have been planning the wedding for a long time; it will go on."

The groom's father, Gerald Elliot Paterson, said he found out about the fire from his daughter.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

OPINION PAGE

Enough is enough!

Well, it really is back to the drawing board for the Gray County Tax Appraisal District board.

The agreement for tax appraisals between the tax appraisal board and the city - school tax office in the garbage can. So much criticism of the highfalutin budget resulted that the school board wanted no part of it.

Many of the people who sit on the boards which approved this agreement initially believed it might be the best plan. After all, the appraisal board must come up with some kind of plan for the county's property appraisals.

Gray County received a one year delay to comply with the bureaucrats and legislators in Austin who dreamed up and legislated the new single district tax appraisal law, but if the local taxing entities plan to continue receiving tax money in 1983, they had better figure out a way to comply with the mandate.

Even the formation of the new appraisal board ran into political squabbles. The appraisal board members are nominated to sit on the board by all of the county taxing entities, but the entities place members on the board based on revenue collected. That leaves the little rural taxing entities out in the cold on appraisal board representation.

But the five - member board was finally formed, meeting that mandated requirement. Then the board decided to turn over the appraisal work to the school tax office and Charles Rand. Rand said he could do the job, but the price tag he placed on the 1982 budget was a whopping $532,000. While preparing that budget, Rand had the enviable luxury of setting his own salary as new Chief Appraiser. He figured his worth at $44,000 per year and pegged his three budgeted appraisal assistants upwards to $30 grand. On top of that, he wanted the local taxpayers to buy his staff $35,000 in new vehicles - with a tank full of gas. More, he wanted the local taxpayers to foot the bill for $80,000 worth of remodeled office.

That itty bitty budget just nearly slipped by public inspection. The budget issue did not surface until late at night during the Feb. 15 meeting of the appraisal board. Then, the only board member who raised any questions about what he calls the "gold - plated budget", was County Judge Carl Kennedy. Kennedy forced a discussion of the issues. Members Bill Gething and Lloyd Hunt had nothing to say or question during the budget discussion.

And chairman Jimmy Wilkerson only defended each and every proposed expense. Member Dr. Robert Lyle was not present for the budget discussion.

The board might have been wise to listen to Kennedy. Before registering his lonely "No" vote on the budget, he warned the board, "If we show this budget to the public, we are going to hear about it, and they are not going to like it." Wilkerson countered, "I think we can be knowledgeable enough to explain it."

The appraisal board did hear about it, but it is unknown if Wilkerson explained it. He gave questioners several different answers when asked about Rand's approved salary, but finally admitted it was $44,000.

Maybe he was a little ashamed to tell his neighbors that he agreed to a salary that is well above other long-time public officials. Wilkerson knew what questioners wanted him to admit about Rand's salary. A percentage of Rand's pay would be charged to both the appraisal and school districts.

The only budget document that Wilkerson ever approved contained the figures, conveniently added together in black and white, to total a $44,000 salary. Yet, he could initially only find words to give the appraisal district's share during the tax appraisal board's meeting with a mob of angry taxpayers.

We feel for Wilkerson and the good men who donate their time to serve on the elected boards, and who must deal with this emotional issue. What the boards have witnessed is the fury of local taxpayers with the attempt to pick their pockets - leaving only lint. Local, state and federal taxes are gobbling up 30 to 40 percent of an average person's hard earned money, and people have had it.

Some patriots who idolize from history got so angry about an even smaller percentage of taxes, that they dumped the commodity for the King's Tea Tax into Boston Harbor.

But to today's taxpayers, the Statehouse seems distant, and Washington, just a dream. That leaves local taxing entities to perhaps catch the rath for the legal highway robbery on all levels.

And that wave of anger for all taxes slaps local government with the clear message - "Enough is enough!" Most of us who make up "We the People", have been forced to learn how to stretch a dollar and do without. We are struggling to put beans on the table, pay light bills, doctor bills and house payments - and extravagances like put - off dental work, clothing, meals with meat, and new shoes for the kids are out.

With big layoffs everywhere, bankruptcies by the thousands, and some economists talking about depression, (a recession is when your neighbor is out of work - a depression is when you are out of work.), government should learn that taxpayers can no longer allow them a free - wheeling ride.

The Gray County Tax Appraisal District board must come up with another solution and budget to comply with state law, and we support them in the effort - "Get the job done, but do it cheaply."

Just in case, we urge local representatives of the taxing entities to continue to meet and veto the appraisal services budget. Let's not take a chance and be stuck with this "gold - plated budget."

We urge local taxpayers to continue keeping an eyeball peeled when governmental bodies try to spend their money. Thomas Jefferson said, "The cost of freedom is eternal vigilance."

By OSCAR COOLEY

Why do people who have committed a crime and been caught and punished, as at least some are, go out and do it again?

Evidently, we are failing to deter crime. When the Federal Bureau of Investigation a year or two ago quizzed 78,000 convicts, it found that 64 percent of the murderers had been arrested on criminal charges before, and that 73 percent of arrests for rape were people who had been arrested and convicted for previous offenses. Clearly, this shows a lack of deterrence.

Do we clap people in prison merely to get revenge on them for the crime they have committed? That would only satisfy our sense of indignation, an emotional urge.

I can think of no logical reason for a fine, imprisonment, or other penalty than to persuade the offender not to commit the same or a similar offense again and to deter others from such acts. Penology is the science of accomplishing this. The statistics of the FBI, as well as other authorities, shows we are not succeeding.

Why so many repeaters?

As a strictly amateur penologist, I think we should study what goes on in the minds of law - breakers. Having done wrong and suffered for it, why do they so often do it again? Did they enjoy the penalty? Did it hurt but less than the judge thought it would? Do they reason that they can probably get away with it and not be caught? After all, only one in 5 robbers are apprehended, and only one in 3 crimes of force or threatened force are ever reported.

Criminals are human beings. There is no such thing as the criminal mind. They look ahead to the probable consequences of their acts much as the rest of us do. They may reason incorrectly but they are not utterly irrational. If our law enforcers can learn what motivates offenders, they'll know best how to deal with them.

Centuries ago, offenders were tortured, the theory being that if their offense is punished with severe pain to themselves, they will remember this and refrain from offending in future. With the Enlightenment of the 18th century came a movement to treat offenders more leniently. At least four of the amendments to the U.S. Constitution spell out their rights, and Amendment 8 states, "Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted." The idea spread that if offenders were treated humanely, they would respond and become decent citizens.

Neither the flogging of the 17th nor pampering of the 20th centuries were wholly effective. There may have been some deterrence but, over all, crime increased - though the world was supposed to be getting better - and there were many repeaters. Today the cells are crowded. Ohio talks of spending nearly a half billion to build new prisons, and other states have similar prospects. Judges are sending fewer convicted persons to prison because there's no room for them there. The problem of crime is unsolved.

Has psychology been fully utilized? The mind of the criminal should be studied. Why does he persist in unsocial behavior? Did he assume he would not be caught? All of us take chances. Was that his reasoning? If so, maybe we should have more police, not more prisons. Was he getting back at the world? If so, did he succeed?

Every person is an individual different from others. No one treatment should be prescribed for all law breakers. The mind of each criminal should be studied and if possible a legal way for him to satisfy his desire should be found.

Today in history

Today is Sunday, March 7, the 66th day of 1982. There are 299 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On March 7, 1926, the first successful trans-Atlantic radio-telephone conversation took place between New York and London.

On this date: In 1573, the Peace of Constantinople ended the war between Turkey and Venice.

In 1968, the United States and Soviet Union pledged to protect all weaker nations from nuclear blackmail and aggression.

In 1974, East and West Germany agreed to establish permanent diplomatic missions in each others' capitals.

Ten years ago: Maine Sen. Edmund Muskie won the New Hampshire Democratic presidential primary, with South Dakota Sen. George McGovern running a strong second.

Five years ago: At a conference of African and Arab leaders in Cairo, Saudi Arabia said it would give $1 billion in aid to Black Africa.

One year ago: Anti-government guerrillas in Colombia executed U.S. missionary Chester Bitterman, whom they had kidnapped and accused of being a CIA agent.

Today's Birthdays: Houston Astros pitcher J.R. Richard, who suffered a stroke in 1980, is 32. Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., is 80.

Debunking energy myths

By ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Everybody knows that available sources of energy have become scarce, energy cost increases are likely to escalate in the future and this country's dependence upon imported oil is a major cause of its energy problems.

Notwithstanding what "everybody knows," none of those popular beliefs are correct, according to a group of respected researchers who recently concluded a two - year study of the nation's energy prospects for the future.

The report on their work, "Eight Great Energy Myths," is a provocative study that attempts to debunk a variety of widely embraced yet fallacious notions about energy production and consumption.

The study was conducted by the Energy Productivity Center of the Mellon Institute, a division of Carnegie - Mellon University in Pittsburgh, under the direction of energy experts Roger W. Sant and Steven C. Carhart.

Their innovative analysis differs from most other efforts because they view the production of energy not as an end unto itself but rather as a means of providing crucial services to society - notably the comfort derived from heating and air conditioning; illumination for homes, offices and factories; and mobility offered by various forms of transportation.

"People do not need or want gas or electricity in their homes. They want comfort and convenience," the study explains. "Industry doesn't really care about using natural gas or coal. It needs machines that operate to produce products."

If the end - use of energy is considered, "scarcity is not the problem (because) abundant options exist to meet this country's service needs," the study says. "Growing human needs and wants are met with very modest increases in fuel use."

That's because energy utilization is becoming far more efficient than in the past. For example, new light bulbs have been developed that use only one-fourth the electricity yet produce the equivalent amount of illumination of older bulbs.

Retrofitting and sophisticated construction techniques have made residential, commercial and industrial structures far more energy-efficient than in the past. New cars travel almost twice as far on a gallon of gasoline as autos produced only 10 years ago.

Even assuming a healthy 3.2 percent annual rate of economic growth, a "least - cost energy strategy" would produce a slight decline in total energy consumption in 1990 and only a modest increase by the end of the century.

Increased efficiency in utilizing energy offers a means of refuting another myth - that the cost of energy will continue to rise at an increasing rate.

The Carnegie - Mellon study assumes that the price of gasoline will increase by 46 percent - plus inflation - between 1980 and 2000. But vastly improved fuel economy will lead to a 9 percent decline in the cost of transportation.

Attacking the myth that petroleum imports are responsible for a disproportionate share of energy problems, the study acknowledges that this country "obviously... remains vulnerable to sudden oil interruptions." It also says, however, that "the storm has been weathered" because "there is just too much competition for the OPEC cartel (and) energy users are now free to choose a mix of fuels and end - use equipment on the basis of consumer economics."

Similarly, the study refutes the conventional wisdom that the nation cannot conserve its way to economic growth by noting that technological conservation need not be equated with deprivation but rather with more efficient productivity of energy from a wide array of fuel sources.

That process is already well under way. One especially promising cogeneration system, for instance, utilizes a gasfired turbine that generates electricity, then uses waste heat to produce steam for industrial applications.

That system operates at almost 70 percent efficiency - almost twice as high as conventional generating plants. It and other technical advances hold the promise for an energy future far more favorable than generally assumed.

Shed a tear for OPEC

By ART BUCHWALD

Unlike many I do not rejoice in the misfortune of others. Therefore I imagine I'm one of the few people in America whose heart goes out to the OPEC countries, because there is now a worldwide oil glut. This has forced many of these nations to cut their prices, some to as little as $30 a barrel.

Not only is the glut cutting into the billion - dollar - a - day income of these struggling nations, but it is causing discord between the OPEC countries, each of whom feels the other is driving down the price by selling too much on the marketplace. This major tragedy is being played out behind closed doors by OPEC representatives, a once happy fraternity of men, who in the good years had pledged lifelong fidelity vowing to stick together through thick and thin oil - whichever they produced.

But alas, the organization's members are now bitterly accusing each other of treachery, and eternal friendships spawned by untold prosperity have been split asunder.

The last meeting of the group went something like this:

The minister from Nigeria, "I wish to announce that the pigs from Iran have lowered the price of oil $1 below the price we all agreed upon at our last meeting."

The Iranian representative, "We had to cut the price to finance our war with the infidels of Iraq. And we will keep lowering it until we destroy every Iraqi who put his foot on Holy Iranian soil."

"Then we will cut our price until we drag the Ayatollah Khomeini's body through the streets of Baghdad," the Iraqi representative said.

The Venezuelan representative said, "What's happened to the OPEC spirit of all for one and one for all?"

The Libyan man said, "Curses on the OPEC spirit. If you want to know who is the villain in this drama, look no further than down the table to the Zionist - loving oil minister of Saudi Arabia, whose pumps are working day and night to supply the Western colonial powers with enough fuel to put all of us in the poor house."

The minister from Saudi Arabia spat on the table. "That's my answer to Libya. At least we have not used our royalties to overthrow every non - Communist country in the Arab world. We will not be bound by pressure from Marxist members who talk tough, but are underselling us in spot markets all over the world."

The Kuwaiti representative said, "This political infighting is hurting the little OPEC nations. Because of the oil glut, we will not be able to add much to our $70 billion in foreign holdings this year, and may even be forced to cut back on spending. We can't go on this way and maintain the lifestyle we are accustomed to."

The man from Qatar echoed the Kuwaiti's sentiments. "Since the oil glut we've had to cancel four palaces, make do with three used 747s for our sheiks. They are getting very restless and want to pull out of OPEC if their allowances are cut."

The Algerian minister said, "My country cannot continue its war against Morocco if the price of oil goes down two more dollars a barrel."

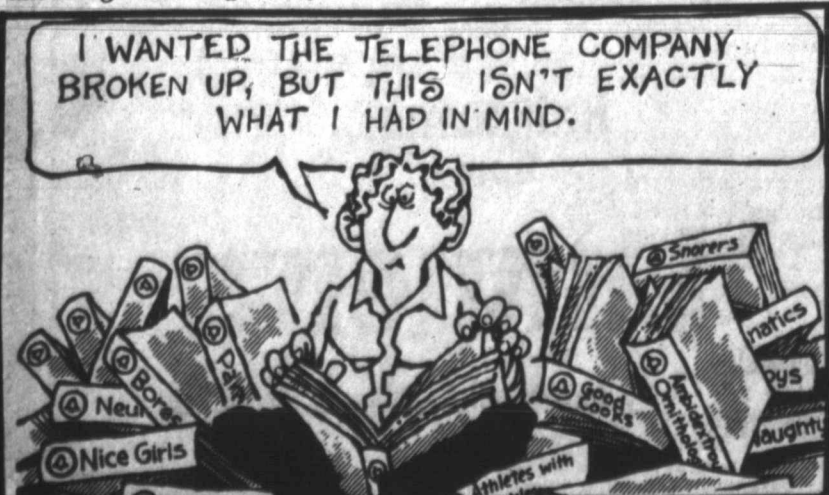

"The only solution," said the representative from Ecuador, "is for Saudi Arabia to stop drilling, so the glut will dry up."

The minister from Saudi Arabia overturned the table and stomped out, leaving all the OPEC plans for a united front in disarray.

Now some people, who have suffered at the hands of OPEC, are clapping their hands that the members are now at each other's throats. But there are those of us who weep when we see an oil - producing country have to lower its prices to keep itself afloat. Call us bleeding hearts if you will, but OPEC has been good to us, and now that they are in financial straits we must do unto them what they have done unto us.

As one wise man from the Exxon Company once told me, "It's a crude, crude world."

Estrogen benefits may outweigh hazards

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Women taking estrogens following hysterectomies may have one-third the death rate of women not using the hormone, according to research prepared for an American Heart Association conference Saturday.

In addition, results from the Lipid Research Clinic follow-up study indicate a reduced risk of heart disease may outweigh an increased incidence of uterine cancer in estrogen users documented by earlier studies.

"Since the absolute risk of death from endometrial (uterine) cancer is relatively small while that from cardiovascular disease is relatively large, it may be that the net effect is a lower total mortality in estrogen users," the researchers reported in a prepared statement.

Among a sample 2,269 white women, the death rate was nearly 1 percent a year among those not taking estrogens, compared with three-tenths of 1 percent among estrogen users.

The study, presented Saturday to the American Heart Association Council on Cardiovascular Disease Epidemiology in San Antonio, Texas, looked at women between the ages of 40 and 69.

Women in the sample were examined initially between 1971 and 1976, followed by annual contacts through 1980. Included in the most recent analysis were 72 deaths.

The scientists cautioned, however, that estrogen could not be proven to cause a lower death rate.

"While the evidence for an association between estrogen use and reduced rate of death is clear, we cannot say that estrogen use is the cause of the reduced rate of death," Dr. John M. Karon, a biostatistician for the study, said in a telephone interview from Chapel Hill. "At this stage there is no reason to change normal patterns of prescribing estrogen."

He said it was possible that estrogen users get better overall medical care than controls in the study. It also is possible, he said, that women with serious illnesses and a higher risk of death were not prescribed the estrogens.

To control the later possibility, women who died in the first two years of follow-up were excluded from the study. The mortality rate in estrogen users remained about one-third the rate in non-users.

Karon said the research was limited by incomplete information on the composition, dosage and patterns of use of estrogens as well as the lack of information about why the women were or were not prescribed the hormone treatments.

Karon mentioned several strong points of the research, including the fact that subjects were selected before any deaths occurred. He said previous studies have shown it is difficult to determine whether women who have died used estrogen.

In addition, he said, the death-rate differences were consistent within each group, regardless of whether hysterectomies left the uterus and ovaries intact.

Cause of John Belushi's death not been determined

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian John Belushi, who was found dead in a Sunset Strip bungalow, underwent an autopsy Saturday but the county coroner's office said the cause of death had not yet been determined.

Los Angeles County Coroner Thomas Noguchi said in a statement: "The cause of death has not yet been established."

Noguchi added: "Pursuant to the order of the Board of Supervisors instructing us to confine information to the determination of the physiological cause of death, no additional information will be released until further medical investigation and tests have been complete."

The autopsy, which began 10:30 a.m., took about 1 1/2 hours. It was another hour before Noguchi read his statement to reporters outside the county coroner's headquarters.

Noguchi, who came under fire for what the Screen Actors Guild called "editorializing and sensationalizing" in the deaths of actors William Holden and Natalie Wood, refused to answer any questions or say anything beyond his statement.

Belushi, the food-fighting fraternity hell-raiser of "Animal House" fame, was found nude Friday on a bed in a $200-a-day rented bungalow behind the famed Chateau Marmont Hotel. The hotel gardener who discovered his body said it appeared he had choked on food.

Police Lt. Dan Cooke said the 33-year-old beetle-browed actor apparently died of natural causes.

"The detectives have found nothing to make it seem suspicious in any way," he said.

Belushi, who first gained national fame as a regular on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live," was found dead about 12:15 p.m. by William Wallace, the actor's physical trainer. Cooke said Belushi had been dead for two or three hours before his body was found.

"(Wallace) tried to administer mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, and the paramedics were called," Cooke said.

Hotel gardener Bruce Beckler, a daytime security guard, said he went into the bungalow with Wallace and saw Belushi on the bed, his head on a pillow. He said Belushi appeared to have choked on food and had swallowed his tongue.

Edward Day, a senior investigator for the county coroner's office, declined to reveal any preliminary indications on the cause of death.

He said the county Board of Supervisors had warned the office to stick to the facts when discussing sensitive details of celebrity deaths.

Police on Friday detained, then released, a dark-haired, heavyset woman who returned to the bungalow in Belushi's Mercedes about 2:15 p.m. The woman was identified only as a 34-year-old worker in the entertainment industry.

"She woke him up this (Friday) morning about 8 a.m.," Cooke had said Friday. "He was breathing with difficulty from some nasal congestion. She asked if he was all right and he said yes. She gave him a glass of water and he went back to sleep. She went into the living room and, assuming he was asleep, went out about an hour later."

"Detectives are satisfied that there is no criminal involvement on her part and she is being released."

A Chicago native who appeared with the Second City improvisational group and later in the National Lampoon production of "Lemmings" on Broadway, Belushi was an immediate hit when "Saturday Night Live" debuted in 1975. He was one of the original "Not Ready for Prime Time Players," along with Dan Aykroyd, Garrett Morris, Chevy Chase, Jane Curtin, Laraine Newman and Gilda Radner.

Citizenship controversy surrounds rights activist

By BRYAN BRUMLEY
Associated Press Writer

VILNIUS, U.S.S.R. (AP) — To Soviet officials, he is Vytautas Skuodis of Lithuania, a "dangerous criminal" sentenced to seven years in a prison camp and five years banishment for "anti-state agitation and propaganda."

To the U.S. government, he is 52-year-old Benedict Scott of Chicago, the only American inmate in a string of prison camps located in Mordovia, 180 miles east of Moscow.

Skuodis' wife, Irina, interviewed at the family apartment in the Lithuanian capital of Vilnius, contends that her husband's only crime was to speak out in defense of human rights.

"He committed no political acts against the state. He never opposed the government. In fact he did a lot of work for the government" in his job as a geologist, said Mrs. Skuodis, 51.

U.S. Embassy requests to see Skuodis in prison have been denied, according to American officials who say the refusal violates a 1968 consular agreement between Moscow and Washington.

A spokesman for the Lithuanian foreign ministry in Vilnius, Mikolas Yatskyavichyus, said the Soviet government does not recognize dual citizenship, and rejects Washington's claim that Skuodis is an American. He does not expect his government to change its position.

Skuodis was born on March 29, 1929 in Chicago. City documents list him as the son of Peter Scott, then a 46-year-old tailor and emigrant from Lithuania, and 26-year-old wife, Elizabeth, also born in Lithuania.

According to a U.S. Senate resolution passed last year on his behalf, Skuodis' "parents returned to their then-free Lithuania while he was still a child and they were caught there in 1940 by the Soviet invasion and annexation of Lithuania."

He was raised in Lithuania, and before his arrest worked as a geologist for an institute in Vilnius, his wife said as she displayed photographs of Skuodis on survey trips in Soviet Siberia.

Mrs. Skuodis said she visited her husband in early February at the camp in Mordovia, an autonomous republic of the Soviet Union. He was working for a while as a carpenter, but switched to a job in the camp laundry, she said.

Skuodis' case has parallels. Abraham Stolar, whose parents emigrated from Russia before the revolution of 1917, returned in 1931 when he was 19. Soviet authorities refused to recognize Stolar's U.S. citizenship and have not allowed the family to leave.

In another well-publicized case involving an American citizen, Alexander Dolgun was allowed to leave the Soviet Union in 1973, but only after he served a term in Stalin's camps. He also came with his parents to the Soviet Union in the 1930s.

U.S. officials say there are about 20 similar cases involving Americans who the Kremlin claims are Soviet citizens. Many are recent emigrants from the Soviet Union who return to visit relatives without first making sure their U.S. citizenship papers are in order.

Skuodis does not hold an American passport. However, before his arrest, he wrote to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow, "expressing an interest in obtaining citizenship papers," his wife said. She has also been in contact with American diplomats, and says they may try to live in the United States after his eventual release. "We love Lithuania. That's why he took part in the human rights movement," Mrs. Skuodis said. "But you see how our life is. We really can't go on living here."

Plainclothes police photographed a reporter coming and going from the Skuodis home, and subsequently followed him.

"This is our life. This surveillance is cruder than usual, but they usually are here to greet visitors," said Mrs. Skuodis, who believes her telephone is tapped.

Skuodis was tried in December 1980 along with two other Lithuanian human rights activists, Gintautas Iesmantas and Povilas Peceljanas, and received the stiffest sentence of the three. Prosecutors sought to prove that Skuodis published or helped publish two human rights chronicles, "Perspektyvos" and "Alma Mater." The government also said a statistical study by Skuodis, entitled "Spiritual Genocide in Lithuania," violated article 68 of the Lithuanian criminal code, which bars anti-state agitation.

Tick inspectors want approval to carry guns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Texas cowboys, one of whom brought his saddle with a bullet in it, appeared before a congressional subcommittee and won support for their pleas that they be allowed to carry sidearms in their daily patrols of the Rio Grande.

Tom Deats, 33, of Carrizo Springs, Texas; Ed Bowers, 39, of Rio Grande City, Texas; and Mark Smith, 24, of Del Rio, Texas, pleaded Thursday for passage of legislation recently introduced by Rep. Abraham Kazen, D-Texas, of Laredo.

The 900-mile stretch of the Rio Grande they patrol, looking for stray cattle that might be carrying ticks, puts the inspectors into frequent contact with armed smugglers, rustlers and illegal aliens, they said.

"Especially at night, the Rio Grande is a major crossing point for the smuggling of illicit narcotics into the United States and, of course, a busy intersection on the illegal alien trail between the two countries," Kazen told the subcommittee on department operations, research and foreign agriculture.

"They are unarmed in an isolated world where drug and contraband smugglers play a high stakes game," Kazen testified.

The cattle tick has been eradicated in the United States, but still thrives in isolated areas of Mexico, Kazen said. The inspectors are needed, because Texas and a dozen other states would face losses of millions of dollars if the tick infested their cattle, Kazen added.

Many of the inspectors already carry firearms, for their own protection, Kazen said.

"I'm afraid, with all the smuggling going on, that one of these fellows some day is going to be forced to fire his firearm, and he will be prosecuted because he doesn't have the legal authority to carry firearms," he added.

The USDA has 94 men who patrol the river from Del Rio to the Gulf of Mexico. Most of them have been shot at, they said — one of them less than two weeks ago.

A USDA official testified in support of the request, and subcommittee chairman George Brown, D-Calif., told the men "you have made a very convincing case for this legislation. I promise you the committee will give prompt attention to taking action on this bill." Dr. Harry Mussman, administrator of the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, said it would cost from $300 to $400 per weapon — or a total of up to $36,000 — to provide each of the inspectors with firearms. Training also would be necessary, he said.

If the total cost were $200,000, that would be small compared to the loss of an inspector's life, said Rep. William Wampler, R-Va., the ranking Republican on the subcommittee.

"These tick inspectors patrol the river border alone, on horseback, and are exposed to the ever-present smuggling, cattle rustling and movements of illegal aliens. Violent criminal activities occur in the areas they patrol," Mussman said.

Deats is president and Bowers the vice president of Local 3106 of the American Federation of Government Employees, representing inspectors in the tick eradication program.

Bowers said the inspectors know how to use guns and would be happy just to have the authority to carry the ones they already own.

"We need the bill to make it clear we actually have the authority to carry the weapons, at no cost to the taxpayers," Bowers said.

Stock market really jumping

NEW YORK (AP) — Some unpleasant earnings surprises from "glamor" companies have added to the gloom on Wall Street in recent weeks.

The first big shocker for security analysts came in early February, when Datapoint Corp. reported that it would show an earnings decline for the quarter ended Jan. 31.

The stock of the San Antonio, Texas, supplier of data processing systems immediately nosedived. By late Friday, it had fallen to 23 1/2, down more than 50 percent from its 1981 close of 51 1/4.

This past week, there was a similar jolt when Data General Corp., which makes small and medium-size computers, projected a "down" quarter for the period ending March 13. Data General's stock tumbled about 15 points in the next two trading sessions.

The severity of investors' reaction to such disappointments provided evidence of the jumpy state of the markets as they grapple with recession worries and the battle of the federal budget in Washington.

But analysts said it also demonstrated the vulnerability of any stock that becomes the subject of high expectations among a large number of investors, particular money managers at financial institutions.

Datapoint stock climbed from 22 in early 1980 to 67 a year later. Now, in the past 12 months or so, it has seen almost all of that threefold gain vanish.

Data General, which had soared from about 8 in 1975 to almost 88 in 1980, had fallen back below 28 1/2 by late Friday.

The drop in Data General's shares, more than two-thirds of which were in the portfolios of institutions at last report, was cited as a major depressant on the market in general in the past week.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 17.03 to 807.36, hitting its lowest levels since May of 1980.

Other readings for the week showed the New York Stock Exchange composite index down 2.19 at 63.14, and the American Stock Exchange market value index off 15.44 at 250.69.

ON DE-ICING. Ted Trump, president of Trump Inc. of Plattsmouth, Neb., testifies before the National Transportation Safety Board hearing in Arlington, Va., Friday on the January crash of an Air Florida jetliner into Washington's Potomac River.

Trump, whose company manufactured the de-icing equipment used on the ill-fated jet, said he would have recommended a stronger concentration of de-icer than was used on the plane.

Plane's engines working properly before crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal investigators were told Saturday the engines of ill-fated Air Florida Flight 90 were working properly, but there is evidence a clogged sensor may have given the pilot false readings of how much power the engines were generating during takeoff.

The investigators theorized that the pilot received false indications from a key instrument on the plane, possibly because a sensor in the engine may have been clogged by ice.

Gavin said that if ice was present on the sensor, it would have provided a false instrument reading, but he said other instruments should have made the pilot aware that engine power was inadequate.

John Gavin, an engineer for United Technologies, testified today before the National Transportation Safety Board on the Jan. 13 crash of the Air Florida Boeing 737 shortly after it took off from Washington's National Airport. Seventy-eight persons were killed when the jetliner struck a bridge and plunged into the icy Potomac River.

Gavin, whose company makes the engines for the Boeing 737, said each engine normally should provide more than 14,000 pounds of thrust. Board investigators have concluded, however, that the engines on Flight 90 attained only 80 percent of that amount.

Meanwhile, board investigators said examination of an engine recovered from the Potomac indicated that the pilot did not engage an anti-icing mechanism that is designed to free the sensor of ice or snow.

They said four of six valves on the anti-ice system were found closed. Gavin testified that United Technologies, in advisory bulletins, made clear that the anti-ice system should be operating whenever there are icy or snowy conditions.

Investigators said the captain has ultimate responsibility to check the plane. But testimony has shown there was confusion over who had responsibility for the final inspection of Flight 90.

Oil cartel schedules an emergency session

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — OPEC announced Saturday it will hold an emergency session in Vienna March 19, and its president said he will urge the world oil cartel to reduce production to combat plummeting prices.

Saudi Arabia, the world's biggest oil exporter, said it believed the Vienna meeting will be "very successful," and confirmed reports that it had already cut its production 1 million barrels daily in an effort to dry up the world glut estimated at 2.5 million barrels.

OPEC production is now estimated at 20 million barrels daily, just under half the total world output. "We have been told to prepare a meeting here," said Hamid Zakeri, spokesman for the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in Vienna. "We won't know more than that until next week."

The emergency session will be the first gathering of the ministers since November when OPEC members announced a unified base price of $34 a barrel and froze it through the end of this year.

Since then, however, world oil consumption has dropped, creating a market surplus that has forced producers to cut prices.

The emergency meeting follows a decision by Britain earlier this week to slash the price of North Sea oil by $4 per barrel. It was the second sharp price reduction by Britain since Feb. 8.

The move by Britain, a non-OPEC producer, raised prospects of a widespread break in oil prices. Oil analysts here said OPEC would likely try to counter Britain's move at its meeting here.

Some analysts here doubted whether OPEC members could agree upon production cuts. Others said cuts would not shore up declining prices because of continued possible price reductions by non-OPEC producers.

OPEC President Mana Saeed Oteiba of the United Arab Emirates told reporters in Abu Dhabi he will ask members to bring down OPEC's daily production total to less than 18.5 million barrels.

Oteiba said most OPEC members were "responsive" to the idea.

Mexican-Americans more susceptible to diabetes

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A researcher says a study shows Mexican-American men and women are three times more susceptible to diabetes than are Anglos.

Dr. Michael Stern said in a report prepared for presentation at the 22nd Annual Conference on Cardiovascular Disease Epidemiology Friday that his conclusions were based on a study of 1,332 Mexican-Americans and Anglos in three San Antonio census tracts.

Stern, associate professor and chief of clinical epidemiology at the University of Texas Health Science Center here, said the study included a low-income barrio whose population is nearly all Mexican-American, a middle-income transitional neighborhood of about 60 percent Mexican-American and 40 percent Anglo, and an upper-income suburb with 10 percent Mexican-Americans and 90 percent Anglos.

The researchers found that Mexican-American men are 3.1 times more likely to have diabetes than Anglo men, regardless of age or socioeconomic status, and that Mexican-American women are 2.5 times as likely to be diabetic, compared to Anglo women, Stern said.

Women in the barrio had nearly eight times the incidence of diabetes than women in the suburbs, while in men the difference was nearly twice the incidence among barrio residents compared with suburbanites," he said.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

Tough New Crime Laws

AUSTIN — We have been talking a lot about what we need to do to solve the crime problem in this state, but we haven't talked very much about what we did last session. Here's a look at some crime laws we passed during the last session of Legislature:

We added elderly people to the list of people protected by the laws protecting children. Now, assault on an elderly person carries a stiffer penalty, like child abuse.

We created a new crime, theft by bomb threat. A person who extorts money by using a bomb threat now faces 20 years in prison.

Punishment is a valid goal of law enforcement, but it really doesn't help the victim much. We wanted to do something for the victim, so we now allow judges to require juvenile offenders to make restitution to their victims. Also, judges can require victims to do charity work.

Before the last session, Texas was the only state that did not allow prosecutors to use oral confessions in a criminal trial. We changed that, although there is a provision in the law that the confessions must be recorded.

Many people have long contended that wholesale dealing pornography was a function of organized crime. The Legislature agreed last session, and increased the penalty for wholesale dealing in pornography from 10 years to 20 years in prison.

For years, the only legal wiretaps in Texas were those ordered by federal judges and manned by federal officers. We gave local officers the power to ask state judges for wiretaps last session, in an attempt to control drug traffic. Because of criticism from civil liberties groups, we put strict safeguards on the issuance of warrants for the taps, and on use of the taps after the warrant is issued.

In an effort to stop crime before it starts, we raised the liability for parents for the malicious acts of their children from $5,000 to $15,000. We hope this will make parents more responsible in supervising their children. Even if it doesn't, someone has to pay for the malicious acts of children.

We also passed other crime laws during the last session, but we hope this will give you an idea of what we are doing to stop crime. We are trying, but we need your help. We not only need your support, but we also need your ideas. Write us and tell us what we should do next to fight criminals. Write to Senator Bill Sarpalius, P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

Dreaming of life as mercenaries, teenagers attempt to take hostages

BEAUFORT, N.C. (AP) — Two 14-year-olds who dreamed of being mercenaries hid combat gear in their lockers and homemade bombs in a bathroom before using a 12-gauge shotgun to take a school principal and a teacher hostage. The principal was not identified because of their age. They were charged with assault with a deadly weapon by pointing a gun, manufacturing an incendiary device and bringing firearms on school grounds — all felonies. They were being held at the Cartaret County Juvenile Detention Center in the coastal town of Beaufort until authorities decide whether to try them as adults or juveniles.

No one was injured in the incident at Beaufort Middle School, where 350 students in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades are enrolled.

Principal Ben Day said the youths had hidden three combat knives, a teargas container, military clothing and some food in their lockers.

"I suspect they knew what they were doing. They had been reading a lot of mercenary magazines," Day said.

"I guess they were going to hold me for three or four days, commandeer an airplane and go to Brazil and join the mercenaries," he said. "They'd been telling their friends about it for about a week and no one took them seriously."

Day said the attempted takeover began about 8:10 a.m. after the boys got off a school bus and entered a bathroom.

"They had a knapsack with a 12-gauge shotgun in it," he said. "They assembled the gun and loaded it in the bathroom."

He said one boy pointed the gun at a teacher, Shirley Adair, and forced her into the school office. When Day went into the office moments later, he saw about 25 students gathered at the door. Thinking it might be a fight, he shoed them away.

"I walked up to the front desk and asked, 'What's going on?'" Day said. "The two boys with the gun turned on me and said, 'We're taking over the school.'"

Researcher cures disease in mice embryos by healthy cell injections

HOUSTON (AP) — A fatal genetic blood disease was cured in mice embryos by injecting them with healthy mouse cells, which caused the diseased mice to develop into normal ones, a researcher says.

The mouse embryos given the treatment led normal life-spans. Without the injection of the healthy cells, they would have died before birth, Beatrice Mintz of the Fox Chase Cancer Center said in an interview Friday with The Associated Press.

Scientists said they hope that eventually, a similar method might be developed for curing genetic diseases in humans.

Ms. Mintz presented her work to other scientists Thursday afternoon during a symposium held by the M.D. Anderson and Tumor Institute.

Scientists say much more research must be done with animals before it is known whether the technique would work with humans.

Ms. Mintz and Roger Fleischman, an associate in her laboratory, treated a group of mice with a severe genetic disorder that prevented their blood cells from developing normally.

There is no human counterpart of this disease, she said.

The embryos of mice contain stem cells, which normally develop into red and white blood cells as the embryo develops.

In the diseased mice, however, a defect in the stem cells did not allow normal development of blood cells.

Ms. Mintz extracted healthy stem cells from the livers of healthy embryos. She injected them into the diseased embryos so they would enter the blood vessels.

The healthy injected cells developed into normal blood cells, replacing the defective cells, Ms. Mintz said.

No harmful side-effects apparently were associated with the process, because the treated mice lived normal lives, Ms. Mintz said.

The researcher had been concerned the mouse embryos would reject the healthy cells.

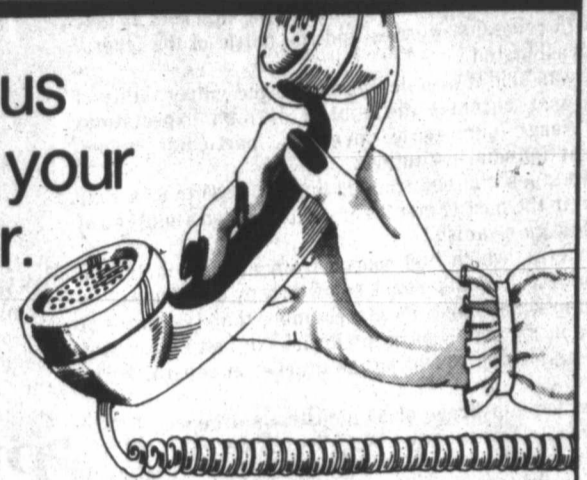

But the immune system of the embryos were not functioning yet, so they did not reject and destroy the injected cells, Ms. Mintz said. The immune systems do not begin to work until the animals are older.

Ms. Mintz's work with mice suggested possibilities for the treatment of human blood diseases such as sickle-cell anemia and thalassemia, because human embryos also carry stem cells that develop into adult blood cells.

Ms. Mintz refused to speculate on the likelihood that her work would lead to human treatments, but other researchers said there is no evidence that shows the technique would not work in humans.

However, there is also no evidence to show that it will work, as no one has tried it yet.

U.S. funds help church care for war orphans

ZARAGOZA, El Salvador (AP) — Little Hugo cuddles up to visitors but communicates only by grunts and signs.

Asked his age, he shyly holds up six fingers. But he looks younger because he is underweight.

Sores on his shaved head are healing, and his second set of teeth are coming out. He has nightmares and often wets his bed.

Hugo is one of El Salvador's estimated 10,000 war orphans, their parents among the estimated 32,000 civilian dead or the 200,000 to 300,000 adult refugees displaced in the war between government forces and leftist guerrillas.

With financial help from the Roman Catholic diocese of Cleveland, Ohio, the church in Zaragoza is caring for 110 of the children ranging in age from 8 months to 13 years.

"All of them are underweight," said Dr. Jose Romano, the orphanage's physician, in his early 30s. "Not enough food, and also their background. Most of them came from poor rural families in the first place. Add to that the war and the trauma of seeing parents killed and..."

"We try to give them a special diet to bolster them up. Plus some vitamins if we get them. Otherwise, they fall prey to all sorts of disease."

"They develop parasites, internal disease, things like bronchitis and catarrh, and because of the living conditions and crowding, also skin ailments like boils and sores.

"They eat beans, rice, corn and milk every day. And we try to give them meat — and by that I mean mostly chicken — twice a week. Three times if we can manage it."

"Our biggest shortages are food, clothing and medicines, in that order. Milk is very difficult to get. Antibiotics are also difficult, like most medicines, there is a shortage. And then we need shoes, and a lot of other things."

Most of the children don't know their surnames and are hazy about their ages.

EXPERIENCE IS NOT ALWAYS THE BEST TEACHER.

When it comes to many aspects of life, experience is the best teacher.

But when it comes to planning a funeral, don't leave your family or friends to deal with that experience alone and unprepared.

No one in your family should learn by being unprepared.

It is important to discuss your funeral plans with us and your family. We can put those plans in writing, so there will be no complications or misunderstandings later.

Professor questions transcripts of tapes

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — A scholarly study of the famed Watergate tapes that helped topple Richard Nixon from the presidency shows the recordings were inaccurately and inadequately transcribed, according to a late college professor.

Dr. Helmut Esau, a Texas A&M professor of English, said the transcripts should not have been allowed as evidence at the trials of Watergate defendants.

Esau was killed in a recent auto crash, a month before his findings were published in Quest, A&M's magazine of campus research. Esau and doctoral student Annette Bristol-Poth listened to the tapes and studied the transcripts during eight weeks of research at the National Archives.

The linguist concluded that defense lawyers were right when they claimed the tapes and transcripts should not have been allowed as evidence.

"Before listening to the tapes the jury was advised that the transcripts were not evidence of what was said or not said, or by whom it was said or not said," Esau said. "They were told if they found differences in the transcripts and the tapes, they should ignore what they saw on the transcripts and rely solely on the tapes."

Nevertheless, the jurors relied heavily — perhaps too heavily — on the transcripts, according to Esau.

"The tapes are too ambiguous and the transcripts used during the trial fall far short of representing even the audible portions of the recorded conversations accurately. They skew portions of the conversations in a way that makes their use in court highly questionable," Esau said.

Transcripts of tapes can have a far different effect than actual recordings, he said. Nixon's comment, "All right, fine, I understand it all," can be "interpreted very differently," he said.

"The remark may be taken as an admission that the president literally understood all the information and that his future actions and statements would be judged in terms of that knowledge," Esau said. "But in an oral conversation it may be little more than an instance of the listener's feedback to the speaker. The message could have essentially had the same force as 'uh huh' or 'umhmm.'"

Esau said research showed large portions of information were lost when the tapes were transcribed. Also, the researchers found at least 50 instances where speakers were incorrectly identified by the transcribers.

Obscenities were not transcribed with the same degree of specificity for different speakers, words were invented that were unintelligible on the tape or absent, and the lengths of pauses were not indicated, he said.

Some of the pauses were as long as 25 seconds, said the Quest article written by Michael Courtney. Several pauses in a June 23, 1973, talk between Nixon and H.R. Haldeman were crucial to the conversation, Esau said.

The pauses pose little problem to people familiar with the scandal, but Esau said people unaware of some of the references in the conversation could be confused.

"When people can't immediately find a pattern they fill in the gaps," he said. "People resolve ambiguities on the basis of their own mind set. Everyone is prejudiced to some degree."

Esau also found a problem in a Nixon quote about covering up the White House's involvement in the break-in at Democratic headquarters in the Watergate.

Pampa claims regional crown with victory over El Paso

MIDLAND—Pampa High's heritage of sending its basketball teams to the state tournament has suffered during the past two decades. However, 1982 has brought us back to the good old days.

The Harvesters will be heading for the Class 5A state tournament in Austin next weekend after a second-half surge lifted them past El Paso High, 59-51, Saturday afternoon in the championship finals of the Region 1 Tournament in Midland College's Chapparral gym.

Led by the sensational Nelson brothers, Mike and Charles, the Harvesters outscored El Paso, 16-6, in the third quarter to add to a slim two-point lead (22-20) at halftime.

Pampa led by 11 (38-26) after three quarters and by as much as 14 (46-32) three minutes into the fourth quarter, but El Paso still made the Harvesters suffer through some tense moments.

Almon Holmes started an El Paso rally with 5:47 to go in the contest. Holmes tossed in a dozen points in the final quarter, including a pair of outside jumpers to cut the lead to four (55-51) with 40 seconds to go.

El Paso got the ball right back when Mike Nelson missed a free throw, but Steve Cortez blew an inside shot with 36 seconds to go. Charles Nelson grabbed the rebound and coach Garland Nichols called time out with 34 seconds remaining. Pampa then broke El Paso's press and Charles Nelson found himself free inside for a layup to put the Harvesters out of danger.

"That layup was the key basket for us," Nichols said.

Mike Nelson converted a pair of foul shots with 10 seconds left to make sure the Harvesters could start packing their uniforms for the state tournament. "It was a well-played game for us," Nichols said. "We got the early lead and made El Paso play our game."

Charles Nelson, a 6-4 senior, led all scorers with 18 points while Mike Nelson tossed in 16, 14 in the second half. Terry Faggins hit for 10 points while Coyle Winborn had eight, Phil Jeffrey four and Terry Ferguson three.

Holmes led El Paso with 17 points. Cortez followed with 11.

Pampa zeroed in on 22 of 36 shots from the field for an outstanding 61.1 percent shooting night. The Harvesters hit a radar-like 73.3 percent (11 of 15) the second half.

Pampa did most of its scoring from the foul line the fourth quarter, downing 15 of 19 attempts. Strangely, the Harvesters never stepped to the foul line the first three quarters. El Paso was 11 of 12 from the line for 91.6 percent.

Pampa held a 21-15 edge on the boards. Charles Nelson and Faggins pulled down seven rebounds apiece.

"It looks like we might be peaking right now," Nichols said. "I was a little scared after that Tascosa loss, (in the second half of district play), but the kids came back. They've shown a lot of character."

The 1981-82 Harvesters will be the first Pampa team since 1959 to advance to the state tournament. The 1958-59 squad won the state crown, a feat this year's Harvesters would like to duplicate.

Pampa, now 29-4, also used a third-quarter outburst to easily dispose of Denton, 51-35, in Friday's opening round of the regional tournament.

Trailing by two (20-18) at halftime, the Harvesters—used balanced scoring by all five starters (four points apiece) to outscore Denton, 20-8, in the third quarter.

Thanks to Pampa's tenacious zone defense, Denton was ice-cold (17 of 57) from the field while 6-6 strongman Doyle Franklin was held to only a foul shot the second half.

Pampa hit an even 50 percent (23 of 46) of its shots from the field after a below par 39.1 percent (9 of 23) the first half.

"I told the kids at halftime that we had to get into our game," Nichols said. "We went out and really got up and down the floor and forced them to play our game."

Mike Nelson shook off the affects of a high fever the night before to hit for 15 points to claim high scoring honors for Pampa. Charles Nelson followed with 14 points while Faggins added 12 and ripped off 13 rebounds.

Willard Jackson led Denton with 10 points while Franklin had nine.

Also scoring for Pampa were Jimmy Barker and Coyle Winborn with four points apiece and Terry Ferguson two. Winborn, a 6-6 sophomore, collected a half-dozen rebounds and was instrumental in shutting down the 240-pound Franklin the second half.

The Harvesters leave Wednesday for Austin with the tournament starting Thursday. First-round pairings will not be known until Monday or Tuesday.

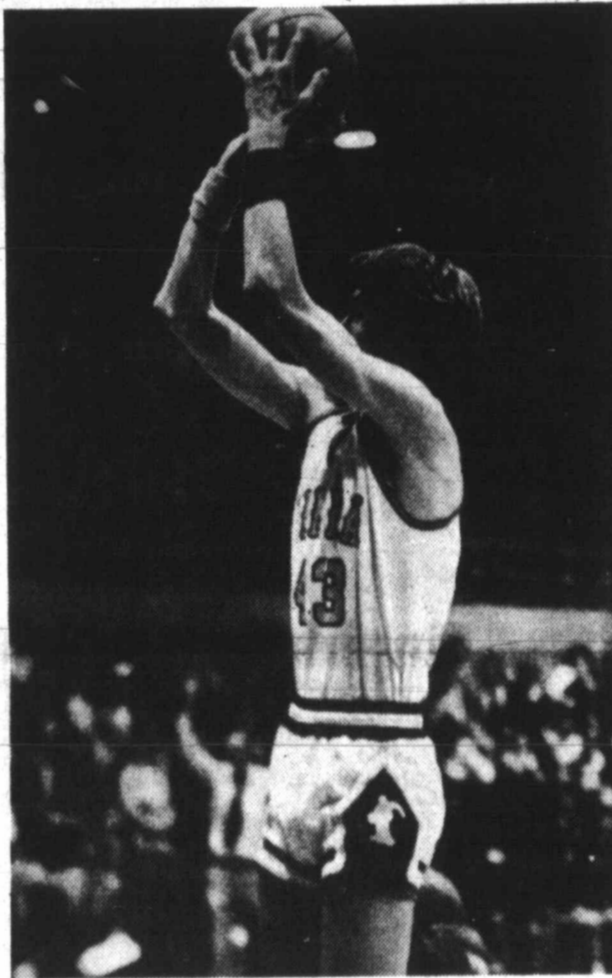

This will be Nichols' third trip to a state tournament as a coach, but his first while at the Harvester reins.

A WINNING COACH. Pampa High coach Garland Nichols will be making his third trip to a state basketball tournament after his Harvesters defeated El Paso High, 59-51, Saturday afternoon in the Class 5A Regional Tournament at Midland. While coaching at Petrolia, Nichols guided his teams to the state tourney in 1972 and 1973, reaching the finals in '72. Nichols has won one district title and two bi-district championships in three years as Pampa head coach.

Buckeyes win Big 10 title

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Randy Breuer scored a career high 32 points and grabbed 12 rebounds as seventh-ranked Minnesota defeated Ohio State 87-75 Saturday and gained the Big Ten Championship.

Minnesota went into the game with a share of the title clinched, and the victory gave them the title outright.

The Gophers finished the regular season 22-5 overall and 14-4 in the Big Ten. The Buckeyes finished 21-9 and 12-6. It was a wide open game from the opening tap, with Minnesota grabbing the upper hand behind the shooting of Breuer, a 7-foot-3 center, and Trent Tucker, who scored 23 points.

The Gophers built a 10-point lead, but Ohio State cut it to six at intermission behind the shooting of Clark Kellogg.

In the second half,

Minnesota kept the pressure on, building its lead to 12 early, and then never faltering. Ohio State could never cut it down and was forced to foul in the closing minutes.

Ohio State had four players in double figures. Tony Campbell led with 21 points, followed by Kellogg, 20, Granville Waiters, 11, and Larry Huggins, 10.

Borden wins shot at IC4A meet

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Bill Borden of Southern Connecticut State College won the 35-pound weight throw title and Greg Bell of Notre Dame took the long jump crown Saturday in the 61st IC4A Indoor Track and Field Championships at Princeton University.

The powerful 5-foot-10, 240-pound Borden hurled the iron ball 67 feet, 8 1/4 inches, nearly three feet farther than his previous personal best of 64-9. Bell long-jumped 24-6, two inches better than his previous best of 24-4.

In the battle for the team title, Mount St. Mary's, which had the top three finishers in Friday's pentathlon, led by Gudmund Olsen of Norway, with a collegiate record of 4,089 points, was on top with 24 points. Maryland, the defending champion, was second with 16 points, and Notre Dame and Southern Connecticut State were tied for third at 10 apiece.

The remaining 16 finals will be held Sunday.

Borden, the favorite last year when he finished second to Maryland's Alan Baginski and rated No. 1 again this time, trailed his Terrapins rival after the three preliminary flights to determine the eight finalists.

On his first throw in the final round — after a period of meditation — Borden grabbed the lead with a heave of 66-5. His winning toss came on his final attempt.

Borden credited a different throwing style for his victory. He said that he was only taking two turns in the throwing circle as opposed to three last year, when "I choked."

"Three turns is very technical," he said. "With two, you can become more of an animal. You can be more berserk."

Baginski, who fouled on four of his six attempts, finished second at 65-9 and Declan Hegarty of Boston University was third at 64-8 1/2.

In the long jump, Bell, the starting tailback on Notre Dame's football team, edged Anthony Philip of Seton Hall for the title.

In skiing

Mueller wins World Cup title

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Switzerland's Peter Mueller, admitting he wished the downhill season would last a week longer, recorded his third straight World Cup downhill victory on Saturday but fell just short of capturing the season title.

Mueller, a two-time downhill champion who was bothered by injuries and equipment problems earlier in the year, closed with a flourish, winning last week's race at Whistler, British Columbia, and then taking the season's final downhill Friday and Saturday on Aspen Mountain.

Mueller, 24, finished Saturday more than a half second ahead of Canadian Todd Brooker. Helmut Hoeflehner of Austria was third. The finishes by both Brooker and Hoeflehner were the best of their careers.

Mueller was clocked in 1 minute, 46.50 seconds, bettering his winning time Friday.

Brooker was timed in 1:47.18 and Hoeflehner in 1:47.31. Another Austrian, defending downhill titlist Harti Weirather, was fourth in 1:47.35.

Finishing fifth and sixth were two Swiss skiers, Silvano Meli and Gustav Oehrli. Canada's Dave Irwin was seventh, followed by Valery Tsyganov of the Soviet Union, Phil Mahre of Yakima, Wash., and Gerhard Pfaffenbichler of Austria.

Steve Podborski of Canada, who clinched the season downhill title on Friday, finished 14th for the second consecutive race.

Mueller's victory enabled him to tie Podborski in the season standings, but Podborski won the title based on their comparative sixth-best results. Both had three victories and two second-place finishes, but Podborski's next best result was a fourth while Mueller's was a sixth.

"I would like for there to be one more downhill," Mueller said. "I'm in the best form of my life right now. It has come a little too late, but I'm very happy."

Phil Mahre's ninth-place finish tied his personal best in the downhill. "I felt very good about my run, but this doesn't make me want to run any more downhills," said the World Cup overall champion who specializes in slalom and giant slalom.

Ohsako takes four-point lead in Sun City Classic

SUN CITY, Ariz. (AP) — Tatsuko Ohsako shot a 5-under-par 67 Saturday to pull away from Beth Daniel and take a four-stroke lead after three rounds of the $100,000 LPGA American Express-Sun City Classic.

The 72-hole tournament concludes Sunday at the 6,232-yard Hillcrest Golf Course here.

Ohsako, a veteran of the Japanese LPGA tour, extended to 45 her streak of holes without a bogey as she moved to 12-under-par 204 for the tournament. Daniel, meanwhile, carded a 71 and is now at 208.

She and Ohsako began Saturday's round tied at 137 — 7-under-par.

Carole Jo Callison fired a 70 to take over third place with a 209 total — five strokes off

Ohsako's pace.

Donna Caponi and Dianne Dailey are in fourth at 210. Caponi had a 3-under-par 69 Saturday, while Dailey carded a 70.

Tied in fifth place at 211 were Barbara Moxness and Ayako Okamoto, winner of last week's Arizona Copper Classic in Tucson.

Daniel, the leading money winner on the U.S. tour the last two years, had moved to 8-under with a birdie on the par-4 fourth hole.

Playing in the same group as Daniel, Ohsako pulled even with a birdie on the fifth hole and went a stroke ahead by sinking a 20-foot birdie putt on the par-3 eighth.

Ohsako moved two strokes up with a birdie on 13 and closed with back-to-back birdies on 17 and 18.

"The difference was my putting," she said through an interpreter. "I made some good putts."

Daniel said she considered her 71 a good round despite slipping four strokes back.

"If I hadn't hit the ball well, there's no telling what I would have shot," said Daniel, the tour's 1980 Player of the Year. "I don't feel I was putting that poorly. I just couldn't make anything."

Fitness First!

By Tim McLaughly
Youth Center Director
Fitness Testing

Testing for fitness lets you know what level of fitness you have. There are many factors that go into fitness (strength, flexibility, cardiovascular pulmonary fitness, body shape include percent of body fat and mental relaxation) and many individual factors (age, weight, sex, body type and lifestyle) determining what kind and level of fitness you should have. If you have not been exercising regularly, DO NOT take a strenuous fitness test like the one in this article. Instead check with your doctor, especially if you are over 30, or begin a gentle slow progression of walking and slow running.

New Aerobics
In the NEW AEROBICS Dr. Kenneth Cooper gives a simple test for cardiopulmonary fitness. Mark off 1.5 miles then see how long it takes to complete the distance. For men under 30, 16 1/2 minutes or slower is very poor fitness, 16 1/2 minutes to 14 1/2 is poor, 14 1/2 minutes to 12 is fair, 12 minutes to 10 1/2 is good, and 10 1/2 minutes is excellent. With this test he confirmed the effects of aerobic training in thousands of Air Force personnel and uses it for directive testing for a training program.

Cardiovascular pulmonary fitness is the foundation for all sports and the cornerstone for all-around fitness.

Volleyball League
The volleyball league drew over 40 teams this year and includes several area teams. Play begin this week with mixed on Monday nights and Thursday nights, women on Tuesdays, and men on both Mondays and Wednesdays. There will be open times to practice on the weekends and during the week. Practice sessions are for a period of one hour at a cost of $2.

Old-timers discuss records

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — What is the most imperishable record in baseball?

This intriguing question was bandied about Saturday when three of the game's foremost record-setters — Joe DiMaggio, Roger Maris and Johnny Vander Meer — headed a star-spangled cast for the annual March of Dimes Old-Timers game at Al Lang Field.

Is it DiMaggio's 56-game hitting streak? Maris' 61 home runs in 1961? Vander Meer's successive no-hitters in 1938? Or Lou Gehrig's streak of 2,130 consecutive games?

"I would add two more to that list," said Vander Meer, paunchy, bespectacled onetime pitching ace of the Cincinnati Reds, who not only hurled no-hitters against Boston and Brooklyn but carved a skein of 21 2-3 hitless innings.

"You'd have to include Hack Wilson's 190 runs batted in in 1930 and Roger Hornsby's four seasons of batting over .400.

"Personally, I think DiMaggio's and Hornsby's records will be hardest to beat. After all, it's been 41 years since we've had even one .400 hitter (Ted Williams .406 at Boston in 1941). Can you imagine some guy ever getting four again?"

"As for my record, somebody may tie. I don't think anybody will ever break it."

Maris said all of the records could be broken. "It's possible, but not probable," he added.

"Somebody's always coming along to blow records to smithereens," said DiMaggio. "How can you prevent it? Take my record! Pete Rose came this close (gesturing with his hands) to breaking mine."

Softball meetings planned

The City Pampa Parks and Recreation will hold organizational meetings for men and women's church slowpitch Monday, March 15, and men and women's industrial or open slowpitch Tuesday, March 16. The meetings will be held at 7 p.m. in Room 202 or City Hall, 100 North Frost.

Coaches or managers are urged to attend to obtain information concerning fee deadlines, fee structures, league bylaws, roster forms and number of games.

Umpires to sponsor clinic

Pampa Umpires Association will sponsor an Umpire's Clinic March 18-19, starting at 7 p.m. both nights in Room 202 of City Hall.

Both nights must be attended to successfully complete the clinic. Membership to the Pampa Umpire's Association will be awarded after completion of the clinic and paying $15 and $10 national dues.

The purpose of the clinic is to instruct individuals who want to be umpires for the City of Pampa sponsored softball leagues or tournaments and also umpire for the Pampa Umpire's Association at out of town tournaments.

Coaches or managers of teams are urged to attend at no charge.

U.S. posts easy win over India in Davis Cup

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — John McEnroe and Peter Fleming overpowered Vijay and Anand Amritraj 6-3, 6-1, 7-5 Saturday as the United States took an insurmountable 3-0 lead over India in first-round Davis Cup play.

The U.S. squad, making its first appearance since capturing the 1981 Davis Cup title against Argentina in December, moves into second-round competition against Sweden later this summer at a U.S. site yet to be determined.

Sweden has a 3-0 lead over the Soviet Union in its best-of-five Davis Cup competition.

McEnroe, defending Wimbledon and U.S. Open champion, dominated Saturday's matches with his superior skill and refrained from his customary outbursts. In the decisive final game, Fleming made only one return.

It was the third consecutive straight-set victory for the U.S. against India. In Friday's opening round, McEnroe defeated Vijay Amritraj 6-4, 9-7, 7-5, and Eliot Teltscher beat Ramesh Krishnan 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

India never led in the first two sets, but held a 2-0 game lead in the final set after breaking the U.S. serve in the second game.

The Americans tied it at 3-3 and went ahead 4-3 before the Indians deadlocked again at 4-4. The Americans capitalized heavily on Anand Amritraj's inability to return service.

After breaking Anand's serve, McEnroe ended the one-hour and 57-minute match with an ace.

McEnroe, who lost a critical point in the final set of Friday's singles for talking to the umpire, made one or two comments but remained silent for the most part throughout the three sets while boosting his doubles record to 6-0 in Davis Cup competition.

Sunday's meaningless matches will pair Teltscher, seventh in the world, against Vijay Amritraj, and McEnroe will meet Krishnan. Both matches will be abbreviated to best-of-three by mutual consent of both team captains.

The Amritraj brothers, who had held a 2-0 lead in the first set and led 4-0 in the third game, said their inability to win the next game prevented them from gaining momentum.

"If we could have held, we might have had a chance," said Anand Amritraj.

Tulsa blasts Illinois State

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Big Bruce Vanley scored 21 points as 10th-ranked Tulsa blasted Illinois State, 90-77, for the championship of the Missouri Valley Conference basketball tournament Saturday.

The victory gives the Hurricane, 24-5, a berth as the Valley's representative in the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament beginning next week.

Vanley, a 6-foot-10 sophomore forward, had 14 points in the second half to help Tulsa expand a 36-35 intermission lead in the bruising contest.

Tulsa hit 32 of 46 free throws, including Phil Spradling's two with no time left in the first half to give the Hurricane a lead it never gave up.

Rick Lamb led Illinois State with 18 points and seven rebounds while Dale White finished with 14 points and Hank Cornley had 12. The Redbirds finish the season 17-12.

Tar Heels in ACC finals

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Sam Perkins scored 16 points and top-ranked North Carolina hit eight free throws in the final 1:21 to defeat North Carolina State 58-46 Saturday and earn a berth in Sunday's Atlantic Coast Conference basketball tournament finals.

The Tar Heels, 26-2, will face either No. 3 Virginia or No. 16 Wake Forest for the championship.

N.C. State crept to within 50-46 when Scott Parzych scored off an assist by Sidney Lowe with 1:32 remaining.

North Carolina, operating in its four-corner offense, took advantage of Wolfpack fouls to hand N.C. State its ninth loss in 31 starts.

James Worthy, who scored 13 of his 15 points in the first half, hit the first two free throws in the late going. Matt Doherty hit four more, two each at the 47- and 26-second marks, and Jimmy Black added a pair with four seconds left to close scoring.

N.C. State trailed by as many as seven in the first half before battling back to take the lead 30-29 on Dereck Whittenburg's jump shot at the 18:18 mark. Perkins' two free throws, which made it 33-32 at the 17:05 mark, put North Carolina ahead to stay.

Doherty scored 12 points for the Tar Heels. Whittenburg scored 18 for N.C. State and Thurl Bailey added 10.

UIL nixes school proposal

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Members of the University Interscholastic League have voted overwhelmingly against a proposal to allow private schools to compete with public schools in athletic and academic competition in Texas.

The vote, released Saturday, was 919-64 against allowing private schools into the UIL. A group of private schools had asked for admission into the UIL.

UIL schools also voted to continue to allow spring football practice at 5A schools. Those schools, the only teams allowed to conduct spring practice, voted 114-96 against banning the early workouts.

Class 5A schools voted 131-82 in favor of a state co-ed team tennis championship, which would be conducted in late October. This tournament will be in addition to the individual championships held in the spring.

The four smaller classes voted against team tennis championships.

Among the other proposals approved by all schools was a ban on filming or videotaping games, without the permission of the participating schools. The ban applies to filming or videotaping by schools not participating in the event.

The vote was 976-16 in favor of the ban.

Phillips falls in finals of Class 2A girls tourney

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Nazareth won a record sixth straight girls' state basketball championship Saturday. Hardin captured its second consecutive title, and Mont Belvieu Barbers Hill took home its first crown. Nazareth broke its own record of five consecutive titles by coasting past Dime

Box 64-37 for the Class A championship. Hardin defeated Phillips 69-61 in 2A, and Barbers Hill beat Sweeny 68-53 in 3A with junior Pennee Hall scoring 37 points.

Sweeny also lost in the finals in 1979 and last year.

Charlotte Reescano, an all-tournament selection in 1981, tossed in 33 points and grabbed 22 rebounds for Hardin, which also got 12 points from Jennifer Reescano, Charlotte's cousin.

Laura Williams scored 31 for Phillips, which won its only state title in 1976. Mittie Bivens, a 1981 all-tournament player, led Sweeny with 14 rebounds and 19 points, but made only 3 of 15 free throws.

Kentucky Derby may be richest ever

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Churchill Downs may have to dust off the rule book on jimiting the Kentucky Derby field after Saturday's announcement that 388 thoroughbreds are nominated for the May 1 classic.

D'Accord and Stalwart were among the standouts among the nominees for what could be the richest Derby ever. This year's list is the second largest ever, outdone only by last year's 432 nominations.

Other strong contenders whose owners paid the nominating fee, raised this year from $100 to $200, include Deputy Minister, the 1981 Eclipse Award winner, and Timely Writer, narrowly beaten for that honor.

The only thing likely to prevent a crowd at the starting gate is the emergence of a star among the nominees. Bertram R. Firestone, owner and trainer of D'Accord, thinks the son of Secretariat might fill that role.

D'Accord won three of his four starts last year, by a total of 34 1/2 lengths, including a 7 1/2 length romp in the annual Breeder's Futurity at Keeneland in October.

In his only start this year, D'Accord finished second to another Derby nominee, Distinctive Pro, in an allowance race at Hialeah on Feb. 24.

Stalwart, owned by Warner & Oxley and trained by Wayne Lukas, won four of his five starts last year.

He scored an impressive victory last November in the $715,000 Hollywood Futurity, adding $365,805 to his owner's bankroll. That made Stalwart the second wealthiest 2-year-old thoroughbred (behind Buckpasser) in American racing history.

Even if a star scares off enough opponents to trim the field, increased nominating and entry fees could make this the richest Derby in track history.

If only nine horses started, the purse would be $417,600, topping the record Derby purse of $413,450 in 1981. If the maximum 20 thoroughbreds ran, the purse would go to $527,600.

Churchill Downs limits the field to the 20 horses with the highest career earnings at the time of entry. An also-eligible list will let excluded horses run in the event of scratches.

Nazareth wins girls crown

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Nazareth extended its domination over Class A girls basketball Saturday by winning its sixth straight state championship with a 64-37 victory over Dime Box.

Roxane Birkenfeld, a two-time all-tournament player, led Nazareth with 16 points, even though she picked up her third foul with 2:51 left in the first quarter and sat out over half the game.

Her cousin, Karen Birkenfeld, scored 13 points and drew the defensive assignment of shadowing Dime Box scoring store Jackie Benson, who scored only 11 points — 10 under her average — and fouled out with 37 seconds to play.

Nazareth ended its season with a 33-5 record, with four of those losses to Class 5A teams. Dime Box completed a 31-2 season, losing previously to Hempstead.

Ariene Sams also scored 11 for Dime Box, but was only one of 12 from the field in the first half when Nazareth took a 25-16 lead.

The Vining's'

Bluegrass and Energy

Story by Cinda Robinson

Have you ever heard energy? If you have listened to bluegrass music performed by The Vining's, then you've heard energy in its purest form.

Bluegrass is a term that has been applied to a wide variety of music, including almost every kind of unamplified country music as well as some amplified kinds. While exact definitions vary, there would be little disagreement over this broad one. Bluegrass is string band music based on fiddle, banjo, acoustic guitar, mandolin and bass, and that's what the Vining's do with style and enthusiasm.

Brian and Joan Vining, from Earth, Texas, first became interested in bluegrass when they attended a bluegrass festival in Winfield, Kans. At the time, Brian was just learning to play the guitar, what he saw and heard in Kansas prompted him to perfect his music and encourage his wife to get involved.

Brian sings lead and accompanies the group on his Martin guitar in the traditional bluegrass style of chord runs and quick changes. His vocals are also traditional in the style of Bill Monroe and The Osborne Brothers.

Brian is a toe tapper and moves constantly with the music. He enjoys what he does which is evident to the audience. Brian not only plays and sings, he is better known in Pampa as one of the Vice Presidents for First National Bank.

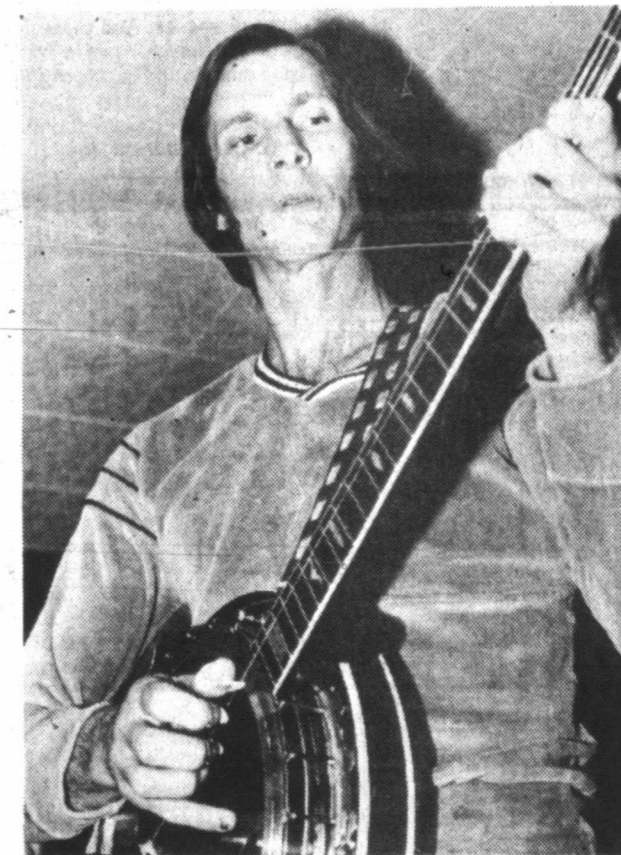

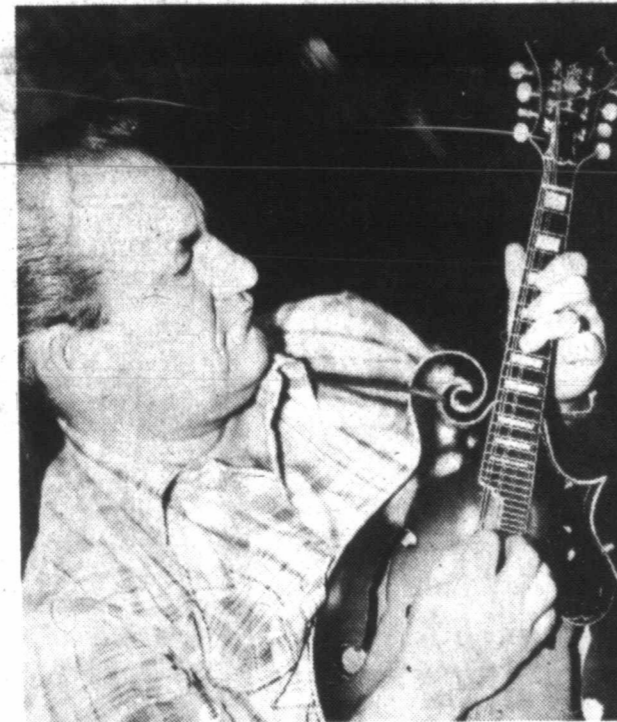

Joan Vining plays a standup bass (which is bigger than she is) and sings harmony. She has been playing since she was 2. Her voice blends well with Brian and other group members and she knows when to jump in to produce the full rich effect of two-part harmony. Joan spends her days at Security Federal Savings working as a Loan Officer. Both Joan and Brian enjoy the company of their daughter, Vanessa, 21 months, and encourage her involvement with the group.

Joe Grubb plays the 5-string banjo like a pro. Grubb, raised in West Virginia, said that he and his banjo came to the Panhandle in 1955 and have been here ever since. He has played semi-professional for many years with other groups in the area. His style leans towards Alan Mundy, but also stands out as the individual style of Joe Grubb. He lends his voice to many of the songs in three, four and five part harmony. He hasn't given up his day job for music, though, and works for Cabot.

Jack Selby, mandolin player, makes the little instrument sound like the string section of an orchestra. His style, talent and experience lends itself to a full sound for a five-piece group. He started playing when he was 7 and hasn't quit since. Selby calls Pampa his home, although he was raised in Durham, Okla., and works as a programmer for Cabot's Cad-Cam System.

Every group must have a humorist, and the Vining's have Richard Brantley. Brantley plays the fiddle with finesse and antics. He thoroughly enjoys performing and shows it with a glib tongue and facial expression. His style is a combination of Bob Wills and bluegrass. Brantley said that singing gives them an excuse to play, so he does both, by joining in on group harmony. He came to Pampa from Chickasaw, Okla. and works here for Sage Petroleum.

The Vining's lend their talent to private parties, benefits and festivals. They classify their music as family entertainment and perform for many family oriented gatherings. Individuals or groups interested in booking the Vining's may call 665-6253.

March Lunch & Learn

Evaluating ready - to - wear to determine quality, fashion trends, and new homesewing ideas will be the topic for the March Lunch and Learn sponsored by the Gray County Extension Council.

"Learning From Ready - to - Wear" will be presented by Donna Brauchi, County Extension Agent, on Thursday, March 11 at 12 noon in the Energas Flame Room. Participants will learn to evaluate ready - to - wear in order to purchase or make wardrobe additions that are good buys or save time in sewing while producing a professional look to increase wardrobe satisfaction and make the most of the clothing dollar.

Lunch and Learn activities are planned primarily for employed homemakers, but all interested persons are invited. Bring a lunch. Beverages are provided. The program is free of charge.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Spicy Dip

MARGE'S DIP
You can vary this by substituting scallions and fresh herbs for the garlic, parsley and red pepper.

- 2-3rds cup salad oil
 - 3 tablespoons red wine vinegar
 - 1 tiny clove garlic, minced
 - 1 tablespoon minced fresh parsley
 - 1 tablespoon minced pimiento or roasted sweet red pepper
 - 1 large hard-cooked egg, minced
 - Salt and pepper to taste
- In a jar shake together the oil, vinegar, garlic, parsley, pimiento, egg and salt and pepper. Makes about ¾ cup.

Serve as a dip for cooked artichokes.

Most of us remember Jeanette and Arty Aftergut, who moved from Pampa to San Antonio a couple of years or so ago. Everybody loved Arty and he loved everybody. Headed ever so many community projects that were publicized - and dozens more that most people never knew about.

Arty was a key booster for Pampa and for the Tri - State Senior Golf Tournament. One year he was elected Colonel Bogey, the highest award given by the Association each year. Jeanette was co - chairman of the ladies events one year and did a marvelous job. Well, these lovely people have sent word that they will be here for this year's Senior Tournament in July. So let's all get ready to welcome two of our longtime favorites.

Just heard of a musical treat enjoyed by a church group here. A Sunday School Class, (conversation I overheard didn't give the specific name of the class) held a Valentine party and the musical program was presented by Pauline (Mrs. Leon) Daugherty and R. H. Dyson, Betty's husband and it consisted of love songs befitting the occasion. Ruby Gunn was their accompanist.

General consensus was that Pauline could have been a famous professional singer. This was also expressed in Hawaii, where the Daughertys vacationed some years ago. She was invited to sing with a dance band there - and sang three numbers, closing with "The Eyes of Texas", receiving a standing ovation from the audience and the band.

Another greatly appreciated singer in Pampa is Floyd Stone, affectionately known as "Stoney". Before World War II, he had done two years on the professional circuit and was well known for his excellent voice. But after the war, he did not resume his musical career.

We are fortunate to have him among us. And those of you who haven't heard him sing duets with Pauline on the dance floor, have missed something special. Next time, dance close to them. It will be worth a listen.

misspells names. But last week there was a fact wrong. Had heard somebody say the committee to select the magnificent organ for First Methodist Church went to New York City. Understand now they went to Allentown, Pa. One of the choir's leading sopranos, Rochelle Lacy made the trip with Tracy Cary, Chuck Weatherford and Buzz Tarpley.

Always so good to see Laura and Floyd Imel, Mary Burdette and Helen and Frank Shaller of Canadian old dining and dancing. The three ladies are so well dressed, so beautifully coiffed, and so peppy. The men aren't bad either.

People have been doing a lot of talking about the beautiful evening, on Friday, Feb. 27, at the wine - and - cheese buffet, followed by a lovely display of Oriental, Persian and other valuable rugs. It was sponsored by the Junior Service League, one of your hardest working groups. The proceeds of the evening went to the Community Day Care Center, Meals on Wheels, the Amarillo Speech and Hearing Center, the hospital auxiliary, the Satellite Center and other worthy charities. Karen Skaggs is president of the Junior Service League this year, and Pernie Simon was in charge of the highly successful wine - cheese - rug enjoyment.

Nice to know that our P. H. S. and Middle School choir members are doing so well in area contests. Billy Talley and Elena Donald, both possessed of wonderful voices themselves are to be commended along with the long list of dedicated students who won awards at Amarillo College.

The Palace Restaurant held a pre - opening party for special guests and media personell on Thursday, March 4 preceding their Grand Opening on Friday, March 5.

The meal consisted of six courses served on beautiful oriental china. The oriental feast started with egg rolls. The delicate crust encircled tender cabbage and pork which contained the hint of chinese spices.

The second course consisted of Sweet and Sour Pork. The pork was deep - fried in a golden batter and covered in a rich sweet and sour sauce. Next came strips of chicken breast deep fried with a delicate lemon sauce. The taste was different and delicious.

The fourth item was beef strips stir - fried with young tender broccoli. The light sauce complimented the meat and the vegetable to make a very palatable combination.

Fried rice with bits of carrots and peas was the next entree. Following the rice came the final course of shrimp and chinese vegetables. It was stir - fried with a very delicate sauce and the combination of water chestnuts, carrot and green pepper made a fabulous oriental dish.

The Palace Restaurant is owned and operated by Sang Ho Cho. His pre - party was a success with guests that included several Pampa attorneys Lee Waters and Ken Fields, Steve Vaughn, Judge Carl Kennedy, Dr. Earl Hoffer, Mr. and Mrs. Brad Mink, (Jackie was looking fit and lovely after the birth of their new son, Riker) Mr. and Mrs. Pat Albert, and Father Francis J. Hynes.

Heard that Dr. Hugh Sanders held a clinic for young singers on Feb. 25. Many of us remember when Hugh was our P. H. S. choir director. Such a friendly, accommodating man, always ready to present wonderful programs for our civic functions. He and his wife used to do duets that were a joy to audiences here.

Good to learn the Capt. Francis Ivey and his wife,

Maggie, held the annual Salvation Army dinner for Golden Agers of the area, not long ago. They look like such happy, smiling people. And wasn't it a gracious and much - to - be - enjoyed thing that the Pampa News did when they presented the Golden Agers with a brand - new Bingo game? Those things wear out fast and need replacing.

Speaking of our older folks, how about the "Rock and Roll Jamboree" to benefit the American Heart Association, put on by the ladies of Leisure Lodge? How many of us would put out such effort if we were in wheel chairs? Congratulations to them!

Think spring!

Mother - daughter style show is scheduled for March 10

An Irish theme is planned for the Mother - Daughter Style Show and Banquet to be given by United Methodist Women and Hi - Land Fashions, Wednesday, March 10 at 6:30 p.m. in Lively Hall, First United Methodist Church. Special awards will be given to the oldest mother, the youngest mother, mother from the farthest distance, the mother with the most daughters present and to a mother born in Ireland.

For the '80s, designers have given women a variety of looks with a new emphasis on fashion freedom. They continue to present new, fresh ideas, but the variety is so enormous that there is something for everyone!

Skirt lengths as a whole are shorter. While most women choose a length just below the knee, others may want to experiment with longer lengths or even the newly revived mini length which some juniors want to try. The variety of lengths promotes the attitude of individuality in fashion and actually puts an end to the skirt length question.

Spring suits of raw silk or linen - like blends present new silhouettes. Some of the jackets are shorter and create good proportions with dirndl skirts. Suit jackets are often shown over soft, silky dresses or sun dresses.

Sportswear continues to fit the American life style in fabrics of linen, poplin and kettle cloth. Pants reflect the new feeling of freedom. There are trousers, slim - leg jeans, clam diggers, coulettes and walking shorts. Any length is fine and the variety is exciting.

Bright, clear colors dominate the spring portfolio. In girls wear, casual fashions reflect a nautical theme with novelty pant styles leading the way. Sports - oriented fashions are important for boys.

The Mother - Daughter Fashion Show will give a glimpse of what's new for spring. Tickets are $3 for adults and $1.75 for children. Fashions will be presented by Hi - Land Fashions for ladies, juniors, girls and boys.

Mending Mature Marriage

Healthy attitude is good for any age

"DEAR LOUISE: Is getting older an excuse for getting sloppy? My wife says it is. I think she's wrong. So we'll leave it up to you.

"We're in our early 70s and have fairly good health, are able to go where we want and do what we please. But my wife is making a 100-year-old woman of herself.

"She used to be real pretty, everybody said so. She took care of her face, went to the beauty shop, combed her hair in the morning and wore nice clean clothes, even at home.

"But now she's changed all that. And it makes me sick. People used to say she was slender. Now they call her skinny. She never gets her hair done, doesn't even comb it before noon, sometimes not then. She doesn't care what she puts on. And she never uses make-up. She says nobody notices an old woman so she might as well be comfortable.

"When I fuss at her, she gets mad. What can I do about her looking so rundown? V.G."

DEAR V.G.: Try appealing to her vanity. Tell her how proud you used to be of her looks, how pretty she still is, how much you want to show her off when you go out together. And take her out for dinner often. Maybe you haven't done that lately. Women love to be seen in public at their best.

Also, she needs a new interest of some kind. If you can afford a special trip, take her somewhere, say Hawaii. Beautiful people abound there. The sight of them would be good for her.

Remind her that people in their 70s are not too old to enjoy life. And everybody should stay as attractive as possible. Many articles in current magazines now tell us that beauty is more than skin deep, that we are usually judged by how we look — because first impressions really do last a long time. Professor Ellen Bercheid, psychologist, writing in U.S. News and World Report, recently stated that physically attractive people capture interest at once — and are given more credibility and respect, tend to be remembered longer than others. And it does not apply only to young people; it is also true of us older ones.

Encourage your wife to meet new people, make favorable impressions on them, win and keep their friendship. Most of all, tell her she will always be young to you — and you want her to look like the girl of your dreams as long as you both shall live.

"DEAR LOUISE: My husband and I have lost our pride and don't know how to get it back. We had good jobs all our lives and made excellent salaries. We were supposed to get to work till we were 70. But the company we worked for started heckling us right after we turned 65. They kept saying things like, 'The inefficiency of our older employees is affecting the profits of the firm,' and 'We need the influx of younger people.'

"We got so tired of hearing those remarks that we quit. That was what they wanted, of course. But we've been miserable ever since. Should we have stayed on till we were 70, no matter how they treated us? B.F."

DEAR B.F.: I don't believe you should have. You were unhappy there. Nobody can stand such slander and small-minded treatment forever. You were right in leaving when you did.

Forget the meannies you worked for. Get out and find jobs you can enjoy and where you will be accepted as you should be. I know many retired people who say they like their second careers better than they did their 'lifetime' ones.

Older people are becoming more in demand every day. Our age people are often preferred to younger workers. The average length of time a young person stays on a job is 3.6 years.

Young men seek promotions elsewhere. Young women quit to have children. But the older workers stay put when they begin second jobs. They're usually settled in houses and towns they like. They don't do much job-hopping.

So start canvassing your town for new work where you'll be appreciated. I feel sure there are available jobs in every city for people our age who want to work. If you don't want to take a full-time job, look for part-time employment. More and more, two people are sharing one job, each sharing half the work, half the time. That leaves them both freedom to pursue other interests. People have told me it works fine. Why don't you give it a try?

Write problems to DEAR LOUISE, Box 616, Pampa, Texas 79065.

Dear Abby

Girl gags on her own bitter medicine

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Here are the facts. I'm practically engaged to a guy who says he loves me. Tony is 23 and I'm 22. We had a date for last Saturday night, then he called about 6 p.m. and said he wasn't feeling very well and thought he'd better stay home and rest. I told him I would come to his place if he didn't feel like going out, but he said he was going right to bed, so I shouldn't come.

He didn't sound "sick" to me, so about 10 p.m. I got in my car and went to his place. His car wasn't out in front, so I drove to a disco he and I usually go to, and sure enough I saw his car parked nearby!

Instead of going inside, I wrote a note and said, "Hi, Tony! I'm sure glad you got well so fast. Have a real good time, and don't bother to call me because I don't want to have anything to do with liars." And I signed it, "Your ex-girlfriend." I put it under his windshield wiper so he couldn't miss it.

I haven't heard from him since, and now I am wondering if I did a dumb thing. I really love him, Abby. What would you have done under the circumstances? And how can I get Tony back?

DUMB NOTE WRITER

DEAR NOTE WRITER: I would not have gone looking for Tony, nor would I have left him a note. Don't try too hard to get him back. You might succeed. Then what would you have? A guy you can't trust.

DEAR ABBY: Some good friends of ours have two teen-aged daughters and two preteen sons. The father sits between the girls at mealtime, and the tickling, punching, bra-strap-snapping routine begins with giggling and usually ends up with Dad and the girls on the floor wrestling and screaming. The mother smiles and says, "Aren't we a close family?"

At bedtime, Mother goes into her act, giving the boys an eye-full of Mom in her baby-doll "jam jams" as she runs and hops into their bunks to "get warm." Again there are peals of laughter, tickling, teasing and wrestling.

Are we justified in being ...

ALARMED IN ALABAMA?

DEAR ALARMED: If conscious or unconscious seductive behavior alarms you, I would say you are justified in being alarmed.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a happily married woman, except for one problem that frustrates me. My husband and I love to go dancing. Occasionally a woman will come to our table and ask my husband to dance. He goes and leaves me sitting on the sidelines to do a slow burn. When a woman asks him to dance, he never refuses.

Do I have a right to ask other men to dance? I don't mind when we exchange dances with other couples, but I hate to be left sitting on the sidelines.

Last Saturday night I sat out three dances in a row while my husband danced with some widows. Is there a solution? If so, what?

ARCADIA, WIS.

DEAR ARCADIA: You have as much "right" to ask another man to dance as those women who ask your husband to dance. Your husband is generous to dance with unescorted widows, but if you were left sitting on the sidelines three dances in a row, I think he overdid it.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who just had a miscarriage. I'm afraid if I ignore it, she might think I don't care. But what if I were to call her just at a time when she is spending a peaceful evening with her husband? I don't want to bring up something that she may have succeeded in putting out of her mind temporarily. What should I do?

TO CALL OR NOT TO CALL

DEAR TO CALL: If you want to express your sympathy, don't call — write. A written message is less intrusive.

Mincemeat Cookies

SNACKTIME FARE
Mincemeat Cookies
Beverage

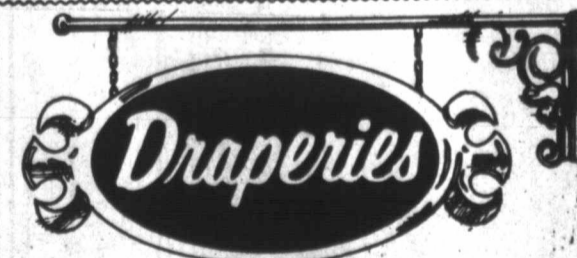

MINCEMEAT COOKIES
They're the easy-to-make "drop" variety.

- 1 cup fork-stirred all-purpose flour
- 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon

- 1-3rd cup butter, at room temperature
- 1-3rd cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
- 1 large egg

3/4 cup ready-to-use mincemeat (with brandy and rum) from a 28-ounce jar

1 tablespoon dry sherry
On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, soda, salt and spices. In a medium mixing bowl cream the butter and sugar; beat in the egg. Stir in the flour mixture until smooth, then the mincemeat and sherry. Drop by level tablespoons, a few inches apart, onto greased cookie sheets. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until lightly browned — about 10 minutes. With a wide metal spatula, remove to wire racks to cool. Makes about 2 1/2 dozen.

Couple united in afternoon ceremony

MRS. LYNDON DIRK AMMERMAN

Cheryl Ann Twigg and Lyndon Dirk Ammerman were united in marriage in an afternoon ceremony on Feb. 14 in the parlor of the Central Baptist Church with Dr. Alvin Hiltbrunner, pastor, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie D. Twigg of 922 Twiford. She attended Pampa High School.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Walker of 1149 Terrace. He attended Pampa High School and is employed by Ingersol-Rand.

The bride wore a formal length white gown of chantilly lace and organza with a modified Queen Anne neckline with seed pearl and sequin trim. The chapel train had a lace border. The long, full sleeves were made of lace.

A reception was held in the church parlor after the ceremony. Nancy Jarcis and Keven Ammerman served.

The couple will make their home in Pampa after a honeymoon trip to Colorado.

MRS. BLAKE ALLEN HOWARD

Kindle, Howard exchange vows

Toni Michelle Kindle and Blake Allen Howard exchanged vows Saturday at 2 p.m. in the First Christian Church with Glen Walton of the North Amarillo Church of Christ, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kindle, 2109 N. Christy. She is a 1981 graduate of Pampa High School and is employed by the Campbell Ranch Office.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Howard, 2705 Comanche. He is a 1980 graduate of Pampa High School, he attended WTSU and is currently employed by Ingersoll - Rand.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Doretta Bruce, soloist and Tracy Cary, organist.

The bride was attended by Donna Craig, matron of honor; and Sheila Ledbetter, bridesmaid.

The groom was attended by Jim Richardson, best man; and Robbie Benyshek, groomsman.

Tenille Smith served as flower girl and the candlelighters were Tina Kindle and Karie Howard.

The register was attended by Melody Oliphant, and Kim Smith was rice girl.

Ringbearer was Greg Smith, Brad Beyer and Johnny Malone were ushers.

The bride wore a formal length gown of ivory organza and chantilly lace. The gown featured a Queen Ann neckline outlined with a double ruffle or organza pearl encrusted lace appliques which spilled onto the fitted empire bodice. Lace Bishop sleeves are gathered onto lace cuffs edged with organza ruffles.

The reception followed the wedding in the church parlor.

The couple will make their home at 601 N. Wynne in Pampa after a honeymoon trip to Denver.

Sewing with the spring fashion fabrics

BY DONNA BRAUCHI
County Extension Agent

Have you caught "Spring Fever" yet? Many of us have with all the warm weather, budding trees and sunshine! This atmosphere also puts our minds on spring clothing.

Spring is busting out in fresh looks that have a casual air. Silhouette and fabric together spell excitement in a variety of themes.

SPRING FABRICS
Natural fibers in all weights will be the fashion leader this spring. Look for silk, cotton and linen to be at the forefront. Some of the old favorites are growing in popularity - seersucker, cotton, sheeting, polished, chinty and glazed cottons, poplin and duck. Sheer fabrics and open weaves as well as the soft flowing fabric like crepe - de - chine are continuing. The metallics have been carried over from past seasons.

SEWING WITH SILK, SILK-LIKE FABRICS
Silk may be one of those natural fibers you select for sewing into something special for spring. If so - keep in mind the type of material used, nature of the fabric and special sewing and care techniques.
Today's silk and silk-like fabrics are made of 100 percent silk fibers, synthetic fibers and blends of both. Knowing how the different fabrics behave helps sewers choose the right fabric for each particular garment design. For example, if a garment design calls for soft gathers, look for a fabric which would make the gathers too rigid. Some popular silk or silk-like fabrics and their behavior traits are: (1) charmeuse - fine, very soft satin-faced crepe with a lustrous surface and beautifully "drape"; (2) crepe de chine - fine, lightweight crepe with a smooth, lustrous surface and soft "drape"; (3) georgette - lightweight, semi sheer crepe fabric with a grainy surface which "drapes" beautifully and resists wrinkles; (4) noil silk - soft, slightly nubby fabric having a cotton-like appearance.

PRESHIRK SILKS
Before sewing silks, preshrink them. To preshirk handwashable silk, dip the fabric in warm water. Then roll it in a towel to remove excess water. If fabric is off-grain, adjust or straighten it while it's damp. Dry it unfolded over a shower rod. Then press with a dry iron.

To preshirk dry-cleanable fabric, steam it on the wrong side with a press cloth to protect the finish and avoid spotting.

Before cutting fabric, observe pattern layout instructions and keep the proper grain direction. Fluid fabrics, such as crepe de chine or chiffon show uneven grains easily.
To prevent fabric from slipping when pattern pieces are laid out, cut on a cork or felt surface or stretch a sheet tightly across normal cutting surface. In addition, fabrics won't slip if you place them between layers of lightweight paper - shelfpaper or tissue. This prevents slipping while cutting.

When pinning, use fine silk pins only in seam allowances, so pins won't leave marks on silk fabric. Cut nubby fabrics one thickness at a time since folded fabric sticks to itself and doesn't lay smooth. Pattern matching is easier, too, when you cut single layers instead of double layers.

SEWING TIPS FOR SILK
Use a size 11, sharp needle and a small hole throat plate for finer fabrics. A zig-zag throat plate may cause unevenness or jamming. Tension on your bobbin and upper thread tension should be loose and well balanced. This makes a more elastic seam and avoids puckering. Presser foot pressure should be light and provide even feed.

Use a cotton or cotton covered thread. Stitch with 10 to 12 stitches per inch. Tissue paper strips under chiffon or sheer fabrics will eliminate binding or jamming. Sew through paper and fabric, then tear away paper.

Today the fashion look demands simple, exact detail and an effortless appearance. Consider: (1) top stitched hems; (2) unlined jackets with clean seams; (3) bound or piped edges instead of facings and hems. Soft movement and easy fullness is today's fashion message with silk!

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
Hurry a little slower and you may get there a little faster.

Couple celebrate 40 years

Mr. and Mrs. Homer R. Snider were honored at a reception celebrating their 40th wedding anniversary on Feb. 6 at the Energas Flame Room.

Homer Snider married Margie Dumas on Feb. 6, 1942 in Panhandle, Texas. They have lived most of their married lives in Pampa and Skellytown. Mr. Snider is employed by Cabot Corporation.

The reception was hosted by their children, Mr. and Mrs. Don Snider and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Raulston, all of Pampa.

COCOA FANCIES

Less expensive version of the popular recipe we used recently.

- Honey graham crackers
- 1 cup butter
- 3/4 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
- 3 tablespoons cocoa
- 1/2 cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces
- 1 cup chopped (medium-fine) walnuts
- Line a 15 by 10 by 1-inch jelly roll pan with foil. If necessary, break apart the graham crackers at their perforations. Fit one layer of them, with edges touching, so they cover the bottom of the lined pan. In a medium saucepan, stirring often, melt butter and brown sugar; stir in cocoa; stirring constantly, bring to a full rolling boil and boil 2 minutes. Off heat, add semi-sweet chocolate; stir until melted; stir in walnuts; pour evenly over crackers. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until top bubbles 10 minutes. Cool and cut or break apart at cracker edges.

Cancer Society offers personalized services

The American Cancer Society Gray - Roberts County Unit announced today that it has a variety of services available to cancer patients without charge.

Mrs. L. H. Norman and Mrs. Doyle Smith are co-chairman of the Service and Rehabilitation committee of the local unit.

"Many people are not aware of all the services we can provide right here in Pampa," said Ms. Norman. "All that is required in most cases is written permission from the patient's physician."

Loan equipment such as hospital beds, wheel chairs, commode chairs and walkers are available as well as expendable items including dressings, hospital gowns, bed pads, pillows and other items.

"These are all in addition to our basic information and referral services," emphasized Ms. Norman. "And, depending on location, we also have several rehabilitation programs including Reach for Recovery for mastectomies, esophageal speech lessons for laryngectomies, ostomy rehabilitation and related patient and family support groups."

Ms. Norman said that one service they perform is to provide transportation to and from Amarillo for patients who must go there for treatment and who do not have any method of getting there. Either she or Ms. Smith take them or find volunteers who are willing to provide this service. "Many good friendships have developed out of this kind of service," she said.

The concept for these rehabilitation programs is the volunteer - to - patient relationship. Many of the volunteers are themselves former patients and are specifically trained by the Society to help other patients and even their families adjust to living with cancer.

Ms. Norman cited that when most people think of the American Cancer Society, they relate it either to the Crusade only or to cancer research. "While it is true that ACS funds millions of dollars for cancer research, we are also a community-based organization providing many local services. These educational materials of all types are just a few of the ways we can help."

During the 1980 - 81 year the dollar value of all these services to patients in Pampa is more than $2,000. Ms. Norman stressed that much more could have been done if more patients had been referred to them.

Anyone needing more information on these services may call Ms. Nellie Norman at 665 - 5427 or Ms. Mary Smith at 669 - 7779.

The Year of the Dog

The most familiar dog of China is not the pekinese or chow but the FOO DOG. It was chosen as a religious symbol in about the 8th century because of its lion-like appearance. In size, shape and design the male & female are equal except the male will always be seen holding a ball in his paw while the female will be holding a pup either under one paw or chest. Come in & see our collection of Chinese FOO DOGS.

This coming year use your fertile imagination to develop and create new enterprises. These could bring financial rewards because your efforts will have profitable touches.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In matters affecting your security you have two big pluses going for you today: Your imagination and your instincts for separating fact from fiction. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in each of the seasons following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't spend today with dullards. Seek companions who are active and imaginative. You need people who know how to enjoy themselves.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Instead of idling your hours away, this is a good day to make some constructive changes around your home which will beautify your surroundings.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you have made some new acquaintances whom you feel will fit comfortably into your social group, now is the time to introduce them.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your opportunities for personal gain are better-than-average today, so be alert for ways to add to your resources. There are two possibilities.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Those with whom you associate today will be looking to you for direction. You're the catalyst who can make fun things happen. Use your imagination.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Conditions are a bit unusual for you today, but they should work out to your ultimate benefit. Good things could happen by being in the right spot at the right time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Discussing your future hopes today with persons in a position to help you could prove beneficial. Figure out ways they, too, could fit into the picture.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Some positive things are stirring behind the scenes which will be of importance to you financially and careerwise when they break.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're not likely to be happy today unless you have a full schedule to occupy your hours. Plan several activities just in case one fails to develop.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Follow your natural inclinations today to be helpful. You won't go in seeking personal gain, yet you're apt to be rewarded for your efforts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Much can be learned today in discourses with others if you do more listening than talking. Structure your conversation so as to draw others out.

Music makers: X-rated rock

By YARDENA ARAR
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — When a group calling itself People Against Obscenity posted a picket line outside a Pasadena radio station to protest broadcast of a song called "Johnny Are You Queer?" longtime listeners had to laugh.

The amusement was not so much over the reaction to a tune in which singer Josie Cotten wonders aloud about a young man's sexual preferences, but more because of the many songs the station has played without drawing a single demonstrator.

Rock 'n' rollers have had their problems with censors since the first electric guitar was plugged into an outlet. It's hardly surprising, since rock's roots are in the earthy rhythm-and-blues.

Elvis Presley's songs were banned in some communities; in the 1960s, the Rolling Stones were considered daring when they recorded a tune called "Let's Spend the Night Together."

Have things changed much since then? Well, yes and no.

Once-demure Olivia Newton-John drew protests from some radio stations for her recent song, "Physical," because of its suggestive language — "Let me hear your body talk" — but that didn't stop the tune from becoming a No. 1 hit. And the J. Geils Band's current chart-topper about a high school sweetheart who took it all off, "Centerfold," has been widely played on radio.

On the other hand, most radio stations won't touch songs with outright obscenities: San Francisco-based Romeo Void's "Never Say Never" is frowned on not so much because of its catchy refrain — "I might like you better if we slept together" — but because of its off-handed use of a certain expletive.

What's new in the field of controversial music is not so much that it exists, but that in the last year or two it appears to be gaining more acceptance by major record companies.

"Lyrics have changed with the times," he says. "Language in movies today definitely is not the same as it was a few years ago."

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Eighteen months ago, Julie Andrews kept hearing chuckles from the attic of her Swiss chalet. "What's so funny?" she called to her husband.

"I'll tell you later," replied Blake Edwards from his room.

Film audiences can now share what was amusing

Edwards. It's the new MGM release, "Victor, Victoria," starring Julie Andrews, James Garner and Robert Preston, and the director-writer says he believes the film is his best.

That is an uncommon piece of hyperbole from the man who made "Operation Petticoat," "Breakfast at Tiffany's," "Days of Wine and Roses," "10," and all those "Pink Panthers."

"I like it not only because it is very funny," Miss Andrews says of her current film. "I also think Blake raises a lot of pertinent questions concerning our sexual attitudes: Who are you? How do you feel about yourself? What are your preferences? How does it matter?"

"Those things are treated in an amusing but also a thought-provoking way in the movie," Miss Andrews says.

The plot runs like this: Miss Andrews is a starving opera singer stranded in Paris during the 1920s. She teams up with a homosexual cabaret performer, Preston, who teaches her to pose as a man doing female impersonations. The ruse works until she falls in love with a Chicagoan, Garner, who is puzzled by his own affection for the presumably male entertainer.

The script presented the actress with an unusual challenge: she had to play a woman masquerading as a man performing as a woman.

"The choreographer, Patty Stone, set up the numbers as if I were a guy," she says. "I don't do very much in the way of movement. The chorus guys around me do the moving. In the scenes where I play Victor, I was trying to think as a man thinks, behave as a man behaves."

"One thing amazed me: how any man can survive in a tuxedo? To me it was like being in a vise," the actress says. "Partly that was because my bosom was strapped down. Blake and I considered a line for the ads: 'Try to find what you saw in 'S.O.B.'"

The reference, of course, to her bosom-baring scene that created a publicity stir last year.

Mann and Weil have 'that loving feeling'

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Music, maestro, please. We need some background melodies while we celebrate all that Barry Mann and Cynthia Weil have wrought over the past 20 years.

It is hard to believe that two dancing decades have passed since those two first got together to weave their magical, musical melodies. But it is true. It was in 1962 that Barry and Cynthia not only began working together, collaborating on song hit after song hit, but also married each other, too.

In fact, for your historical interest, their relationship was social first, business second. Cynthia tells the tender story in these lyrical words:

"I was writing with Teddy Randazzo at the time. Barry came up to play a song for him. (Randazzo was a modestly popular singer of the late '50s and early '60s.) I heard Barry play and I had never heard anyone play that exciting. We saw each other socially before we began collaborating."

"We've always been very compatible," says Barry.

And compatible they remain. Over the years, they have produced songs that today's generation considers classics — songs such as "You've Lost That Loving Feeling," "Uptown," "Here You Come Again" and "Soul and Inspiration."

But compatible does not require total fidelity. They still will occasionally work with other writers. At the moment, for example, Cynthia has a hit ("Somewhere Down the Road") that she wrote with Tom Snow and, not long ago, Barry and Leo Sayer created the hit "How Much Love."

The Manns, to call them by their married name, have been Californians for nine years now. They moved west when, Barry says, they concluded that New York was at its worst and that Los Angeles had a lot going.

Over the years, as they fabricated the music that the rock generation clomped to, they kept a pretty low profile. In fact, they were almost naively out of the musical spotlight.

"We used to watch the Grammys on TV," Cynthia says. "And we would wonder why we were never invited. So one day we called and learned that you have to be a member of NARAS (National Association of Recording Arts and Sciences) to be invited. So we joined and now we go every year."

The newest Statler feels at home

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Jimmy Fortune, the newest member of the Statler Brothers country music quartet, says singing with the group sure beats writing service orders at a car sales lot.

Fortune, 26, was working for a automobile dealer in Charlottesville, Va., early this year when he auditioned to join the group. He was selected from among more than two-dozen candidates as a temporary replacement for Lew DeWitt, 43, who is under doctor's orders to rest at home and recover from an intestinal disorder.

"I love it," Fortune said in a telephone interview from Staunton, Va., where members of the quartet live. "It was hard to believe it was happening at first, but they've made me feel real good. I feel at home and comfortable about things."

He has worked out so well that he will become an official member of the group's road show when DeWitt returns. He'll be used primarily as a musician, playing guitar, mandolin and banjo.

"He's been put on the spot but he's handled it so well," says Don Reid, a member of the group. "The fans have totally accepted him. We're having a good time."

In fact, he learned the group's songs and arrangements so well that he once had to correct Reid on the words to a tune.

There has been an adjustment. After writing service orders during the day, he used to perform at Charlottesville nightclubs in the evening, before 50 or 100 people. Now he sings before as many as 10,000, as loyal Statler

Brothers fans pack arenas for their family oriented concerts.

"I don't mind the travel, but it is new to me," says Fortune, a tenor like DeWitt.

And now he finds himself besieged for autographs — another contrast with his days back in Charlottesville.

"I like the idea, but it feels unusual," he admits.

Group members, who are about 20 years older than Fortune, say he won the audition based on his singing ability and personality.

"He's our kind of people," says Harold Reid, Don Reid's brother, who does most of the comedy on the Statlers' popular shows.

The Statlers, who are not named Statler and who are not all brothers, are noted for their harmony on gold and platinum albums.

Sean Astin, 10, teams with Elliott Gould

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Among the players in the TV movie "The Rules of Marriage," which is currently being filmed, is a 10-year old boy. According to the rules regarding working with children, the child must be accompanied by a guardian, and almost always that guardian is the mother. That is true in this case.

And there she was, the mother of the boy, sitting quietly in the mobile home the production company provided. This particular mother, however, was probably as well known as the stars of the film.

This was Patty Duke Astin, the mother of Sean

Astin, who is working in "The Rules of Marriage" with Elizabeth Montgomery and Elliott Gould. She is here strictly as mother-of-the-child, and she is carefully staying out of the way.

"I have been here," she said, "for the entire shooting schedule. I have looked after Sean, made sure that he went to his classes, had him on the set on time, all that. And I love my son very much — but no more! This is the last time. I am going crazy because I have nothing to do."

"I answer phone calls. I read. I look over scripts that have been submitted to me. And I can tell you that this is absolutely the last time I ever do this."

At that precise moment, Sean ran by, pursued by his teacher. She mumbled, in passing, that she had told him to get some paper and he didn't.

"I forgot," Sean said, disappearing around another mobile home.

"He is so bright," Patty said, "but as soon as he is asked to do something for school, suddenly he can't remember."

Teacher and pupil came back, heading for the classroom set up in the adjoining mobile home. He had a hang-dog look. Patty turned her head away so her son wouldn't see her laughing.

They were shooting at Trancas, a beach just beyond Malibu and just as fashionable. This was supposed to be Fire Island, a New York beach resort, but they couldn't go there in the winter, so they were here. They were actually filming inside a home that Liz Montgomery described as "just a shack," but it was for sale with a $1 and 1/4 million price tag.

"The Rules of Marriage" is yet another in the steady onslaught of stories about the break-up of a marriage. Gould, doing his first TV movie with this, says he took the part because it was the best script offered to him in some time.

"I'm finding," he says, "that even though we are working twice as fast as we work on a feature, the quality is just as good."

Gould worked with Ingmar Bergman and says the quality of this film appears to be on a par with that of the great Swedish director.

He kept emphasizing how fast it was being shot, but they still had a lot of time between takes.

Liz spent hers ducking outside, sitting on a rock and doing the New York Times Sunday crossword puzzle, using a piece of plywood as a desk. It turned out to be her own plywood, just the right size for the Times puzzle, and she brings it with her whenever she goes to work.

Gould was spending his off-camera moments doing the thing he enjoys most — talking. He said that he liked to get out as often as he could to walk around the city and meet people and talk to them, one on one.

"My son's mother can't do that," he said, referring to his ex-wife, Barbra Streisand. "Jason is 15 now, and he's very interested in music and film."

PAMPA BOARD OF REALTORS

WHAT WE ARE AND HOW WE SERVE YOU

We're a group of local men and women working together to promote a higher level of professionalism in the real estate industry because we care about our community. The Board itself is a professional trade association that helps us give you the most effective assistance. Our Board is also part of a State Association and the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS®. All three set high standards for us as members.

THE CODE OF ETHICS embodies these standards. A prerequisite to becoming a REALTOR®, accepting the CODE basically requires us to:

- provide equal professional service to any person regardless of race, creed, sex or country of national origin.
- protect the public against fraud, misrepresentation and unethical practices in real estate transactions
- take as our guide in all things the Golden Rule, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them."

Every member of this Board of REALTORS® has made a voluntary commitment to the CODE OF ETHICS. This is your assurance of honor, integrity and competence in the practice of real estate.
