SPRING SHOWERS? The month of March is supposed to roar in like a lion and out like a lamb, but this year the end of March means misery, with snow, sleet and rain pelting the area over the weekend. Pampa had received .29 precipitation as of Saturday evening, with clearing skies and 50-degree temperatures forecast for today. Can spring be far away? (Staff Photo by Larry Cross)

Shuttle Columbia soars toward full-mission landing on Monday

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The space shuttle Columbia sailed on toward Monday's full-mission landing after officials decided there was no reason to fear the blustering New Mexico winds. "We have done 100 percent of the activities we had scheduled," the astronauts were told. "We're going to make it more than 100 percent," said pilot C. Gordon Fullerton.

And commander Jack R. Lousma chimed in. "It's not 100 percent without a good landing... and we're going to do that too."

Touchdown was set for 12:27 p.m. MST on a desert runway at the White Sands Missile Range. After that, just one more test flight remains before the shuttle begins operational missions late this year.

There was praise all around Saturday after the astronauts fired an engine to change into a slightly elliptical orbit.

"With the completion of the OMS (orbital maneuvering system)... you're back on the timeline. It looks like we're ready for a 100 percent mission," said capsule communicator George Nelson.

And flight director Harold Draughon said scientists got "all or more than they ever hoped for" out of the voyage.

There had been concern that a desert storm might prohibit a Monday landing, but NASA management looked at weather forecasts Saturday and decided to bring Lousma and Fullerton home on schedule. A Sunday landing had been discussed — even Tuesday or

Wednesday — but the decision was: "a nominal landing Monday at White Sands."

The shuttle was getting along just fine with its troubled radio equipment. Just one out of four "downlink" S-band channels was working, a minor disappointment among major achievements.

"Our objective was threefold: to go up, stay in orbit seven days, and come down safely," said Glynn S. Lunney, NASA's shuttle program manager. "I'm just tickled pink with the overall progress of the mission."

The chief forecaster for White Sands Missile Range, David Novlan, predicted possibly stiff winds beginning about 10 a.m. MST.

The touchdown could still come earlier Monday if the winds kick up.

"If we needed to come in a rev (orbit) early, I would exercise that option," said Harold Draughon, the descent team flight director. He said scientists were ecstatic over the data from Flight 3, and he described the performance of the ship's remote arm as "spectacular."

Bringing the orbiter to Earth a few hours early would give ground crews time to secure the spacecraft before the winds worsened, said Alex Paczynski, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration senior engineer.

"We'd like to have three hours to be able to tow it over to the stiff-legged derrick before the winds start kicking up," he said. "That's the lapse time from the time the wheels stop rolling to the time we get it buttoned up where the sand can't get in."

The option remained, of course, to extend the flight. Columbia has enough "consumables" — fuel, power and food — for an extra three days.

The astronauts were busy Saturday with more firings of their engines to determine how they have endured "cold soak" for three days — turned into the minus 215-degree chill of space.

They found time to take another show-and-tell look at the insects-in-weightlessness experiment designed by Minnesota high school senior Todd Nelson. As the television camera picked them up, the astronauts piped down "The Flight of the Bumblebee."

"The flies have given up flying and just walk," Fullerton said. "I think the bees got smart fast. They just float around, instead of flapping their wings."

Lousma sent his compliments to Nelson for an interesting experiment, adding "I hope you got something out of it, Todd."

From their perch 150 miles up, Lousma and Fullerton looked down at their landing site.

"Looks like CAVU (ceiling and visibility unlimited) at Northrup," said pilot Fullerton, who spent 16 years as an astronaut-in-waiting for this week in space. He said he could see lights in the town of Truth or Consequences, N.M., and "all of White Sands loud and clear."

Mission Control's Brewster Shaw replied that "The weatherman agrees with your observation there and says Northrup's going to be pretty good for the next couple days."

"That's good news," said Fullerton.

The scientists who planned the shuttle's 14 experiments and the Canadian engineers who designed the robot arm sent their compliments to the crew.

No matter when the touchdown, the crew had accomplished what it went up for:

— Successfully tested the ability of the shuttle's robot arm to zero in on a payload in the cargo bay, latch on to it, and lift it out of the vehicle. The Canadian-built arm is vital to the shuttle's eventual mission of placing satellites into space and retrieving them for repair.

— Subjected the ship to severe thermal stresses by exposing different portions to the temperature extremes of space and measuring the effects. Ship systems seemed to perform to expectations.

— Performed a variety of scientific tasks: processing medicines, studying the sun; assessing the ship's environment; watching bees, flies and moths flapping their wings in weightlessness; observing the growth of plants.

The shuttle's second flight was cut in half due to a problem with one of three fuel cells. Flight 3 ran into a number of problems and overcame most of them.

The S-band failures, while bothersome and never fully understood, posed no threat to the astronauts.

A flight director, Harold Draughon, said "if they lost all communications, they would use their hand computers to come in."

Kremlin warns U.S. that it may deploy missiles in Cuba

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin warned the United States anew Saturday against stationing new medium-range nuclear weapons in Europe, and gave its clearest indication yet that Soviet missiles might be deployed in Cuba.

Valentin Falin, a top Kremlin spokesman, said on Soviet television that the plan would be a "grievous error. It (the United States) is bringing the danger closer to itself."

Appearing with Falin, who is first deputy chief of the Communist Party

Central Committee's International Information Department, was Lt. Gen. Nikolai Chervov, described as "chief of department of the general staff of the armed forces of the U.S.S.R." He told the viewers:

"In the U.S.A., they probably entertain illusions that they are invulnerable, separated by two oceans.

At present, however, distances must be evaluated differently, differently in the sense that, by moving a threat closer to others, the U.S.A. is in the same manner bringing it closer to itself. "This important thesis follows from a law-governed pattern. Each side must measure the security of the other side by the yardstick it applies to its own security. This is an objective reality. This can be brushed aside, but it cannot be changed."

While no Soviet commentator or newspaper has yet stated directly that the Kremlin might be considering stationing missiles in Cuba, Western diplomats here suggested that the latest warning was, while veiled, the most direct.

In December 1979, NATO voted to deploy 572 new American Pershing 2 and cruise missiles in Europe to counter the Soviet deployment of medium-range nuclear-tipped missiles targeted on Western Europe.

President Reagan has offered to scrap the plan but insists that the Soviets must dismantle all their SS-20s and older-generation SS-4s and SS-5s. The Soviets have rejected the proposal, just as Reagan rejected President Leonid I. Brezhnev's latest offer.

Brezhnev announced March 16 that the Soviets had unilaterally stopped deploying its new-generation SS-20 medium-range missiles and would not put more of the rockets in the European part of the Soviet Union unless NATO deployed the new U.S. weapons.

Pampans uninjured in forced landing of plane

A small plane, carrying five Pampans on a return flight from Galveston, was forced to make a crash landing in a wheat field Saturday, 21 miles west of McLean.

Department of Public Safety Troopers said the accident occurred about 3:38 p.m. Saturday, just north of Interstate 40.

Officers said there were no injuries in the crash of the Cessna 81. Officers identified the pilot as Dwayne Dunn, with passengers, Thomas Charles Etheredge, Nora and Robert Collett and June Hall, all of Pampa.

Authorities said the group was returning to Pampa when they encountered fog and freezing drizzle.

"When the wings iced, the pilot lost all instrument readings, and the plane began to lose altitude. The pilot tried to land in a wheat field, but he hit a soft spot where it had been irrigated. The landing gear collapsed, and the plane flipped on its top," officers said.

SECURE IN DADDY'S ARMS. Dusty Romines, held by his father Freddie Romines, continues to recover as he receives rabies vaccine, following a vicious dog attack here.

New rabies vaccine used by mauled child

By JEFF LANGLEY
Staff Writer

A 2-year-old Pampa boy, mauled in a vicious dog attack, now has received three of a required five rabies shots, in a continuing, preventative treatment against the fatal disease.

Dusty Romines, son of Freddie and Dawn Romines, 1601 Duncan, is receiving a new rabies vaccine that has only had FDA approval for about one year.

The new vaccine is called HDCV, Human Diploid Cell Vaccine, and is made in France by the drug company Merieux.

The new vaccine was ordered for the Romines child from the Region I Texas Department of Health office in Canyon by Pampa Dr. V.J. Mohan.

Jerry DeSha, Immunizations Program Manager at the Canyon office, said the HDCV vaccine is "new in the sense that the FDA just released it for use in the United States."

He said the new vaccine has been widely used overseas and has been available from the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta for several years, but "they would not release it unless it was a life or death situation."

But DeSha said since the FDA gave its approval, the new vaccine is now the only type available in Texas.

The new vaccine has several advantages: it only requires a series of five shots in the arm; there is less chance of allergic reaction or side effects; and it provides better protection against the rabies virus than the old-type vaccine.

The old vaccine against the always fatal hydrophobia, the name for rabies in humans, required a series of 14 to 21 painful shots with a long needle through the abdominal wall, and anyone allergic to ducks could not take the vaccine.

Detective locked in by habit

MERTON, Wis. (AP) — When you're locked into a habit — like closing the car door behind you — it can be embarrassing.

Waukesha County Sheriff's detective Charles Flanders, who in his off-duty hours is a town police officer here, discovered Thursday that he had locked his cruiser with the ignition keys on the front seat.

However, he saw that the rear passenger door was unlocked, so Flanders crawled in and instinctively closed the door behind him.

Unfortunately, the keys were still out of reach because of the steel safety screen separating the front and back seats. The back doors, through which prisoners often pass, had no latch handles.

"I tried to roll down the windows, but they do not roll down in late-model cars," Flanders said. "After I sat there for about five minutes, I remembered I

WRECKED PICKUP CATCHES FIRE. Wheeler County Judge Wendell Morgan, his wife Sandra and son Wendell Jr., all of Shamrock, were involved in this one-vehicle wreck just east of Loop 171 Saturday. The boy and woman suffered burns when the truck caught fire. The Morgans were northbound when the pickup hit a slick spot, going out of control about 10:15 a.m. DPS Troopers said the vehicle jumped a guardrail and slid along the rail, until the gas tank ruptured and ignited. The two injured were reported in good condition Saturday in Coronado Community Hospital where they were admitted for observation of first- and second-degree burns. The judge was uninjured.

The duck connection resulted from the way the old vaccine was made. DeSha explained that that vaccine was made by injecting active rabies virus into a fertile duck egg with an embryo.

The virus was grown in the egg under controlled conditions. Then, the chick embryo was killed and a serum of killed virus was refined and extracted from the culture. "Anyone allergic to ducks, eggs or feathers could not take it," DeSha said.

He said the HDCV vaccine is made in a human volunteer. "The volunteer is injected with killed rabies virus, until his blood level, or titer, is to the point where his blood can make serum. There is no killed rabies virus in the new vaccine. It is made from antibodies in the volunteer's blood. The antibody serum is made in a series of washing and separating plasma," DeSha said.

DeSha said the HDCV vaccine is now "the drug of choice" in preventing rabies, and the old vaccine is no longer being manufactured.

He said all of the Canyon office's supplies of the old vaccine were shipped back to Austin last November.

Dr. Mohan said since one of the dogs involved in the Romines attack could not be identified or located, he decided to administer the HDCV vaccine.

Mohan also treated the child for the wounds suffered in the attack. More than 100 stitches were required to close the lacerations, and the child had to undergo general anesthesia for both the surgery and removal of the stitches.

Mrs. Romines said the rabies shots are expensive, and she does not know if her private medical insurance will cover the cost of the treatment. "He cries when he gets the shot, and it takes seven of us to hold him down," she said.

Mrs. Romines said she stayed with Dusty 24 hours a day during his five day stay at Coronado Community Hospital. "All of the doctors and nurses were great," she said.

She said Dusty still will not sleep through the entire night, even though for the first time, he is sleeping in her bed.

She told the family has two dogs, and she told Dusty, "Some dogs are good, and some are bad."

About the pit bulldog, identified as the child mauler, Mrs. Romines said Dusty told her, "Mama, that dog hurt me bad."

She said he only will doze off for a few hours at a time, and once awakened crying, "Mama, Mama, they are biting my head!"

The child's mother said he suffered four major, deep gashes in the back of his head; six wounds in his right arm, one deep wound in his stomach, 13 wounds to his right leg and five to his left leg.

"The holes in his right leg are where the dogs grabbed him when they dragged him to the street," she said.

"The doctor told us if one of the bites had been about an inch lower, he would have bled to death before we got to the hospital," Mrs. Romines stated.

Mrs. Romines said the one dog positively identified in the attack was returned to its owner, Phillip Hutchinson Jr., 1137 Christy, who denied his dog was involved in the mauling.

Chance named Officer of the Quarter

Pampa patrolman Stevie L. Chance was named Officer of the Quarter Friday at a Kiwanis Club luncheon, following his role in saving the life of a young Pampa woman.
On March 5, Chance is credited for service above and beyond the call of duty in halting a suicide attempt.
The young victim later wrote Chance a letter which reads: "Dear Sir, Please forgive me for forgetting your name. Saying thank you for saving someone's life doesn't seem quite enough. The only way I know to repay you is to straighten up my life and never let this happen again."
"I must say if more police officers conducted themselves as you do the resentment young people have for your profession would fade. You are a fine officer and man. May God bless you and watch over you. Thank you for your understanding and kind manner."
Chance joined the Pampa force March 6, 1981. He previously was employed by the TSTI Police Department.
He is a Certified Peace Officer and attends Frank Phillips College in Borger.
The U.S. Army veteran is active in youth programs of the police department, and he coaches a little league baseball team.

No cases to prove validity of release on LSD star tattoo

BY JEFF LANGLEY
Staff Writer

An official release from the office of District Attorney Guy Hardin warns parents about a transfer, ink - type tattoo containing the drug LSD, or as it is commonly known, acid.
But the actual author of the release from Hardin's office could not confirm any case where a child has received an LSD tattoo, and her reported source of information, the Austin Police Department said there have been no cases reported to them.

The LSD warning release is a photocopied text entitled, "LSD For Children," under the official letterhead of Hardin's Office of the District Attorney, 31st Judicial District — 223rd Judicial District. The information also was released to the public from 47th District Attorney Danny Hill of Amarillo.
The information was distributed in Pampa by Hardin's investigator Michael Hartsoc. Upon investigation, Hartsoc said there were no reports of the LSD tattoo here, a fact confirmed by Pampa Police Chief J. J. Ryzman.
Hartsoc said the "LSD For Children" text under his letterhead was received by his office in a newsletter from the Texas Prosecutor's Council in Austin.
The release states: "According to police authorities, a form of tattoo (sic) transfer called 'Blue Star' is readily available in some areas of the United States."
The information goes on to say that the tattoo is a small blue star, impregnated with LSD, on a piece of paper, and that the LSD can be "absorbed through the skin by simply handling the paper or tattoo."
The last paragraph of the release states: "These are new ways of selling acid — A young child could happen to come upon these and have a fatal 'trip.' It is also feared that little children could be given a free 'tato' by older children who want to have some fun. It is important that all parents be alerted in case their child is involved, even innocently."
The editor of the Texas Prosecutor's Council's newsletter and author of the release, Belinda Carlton, said she wrote the release "to catch attention." She said she wrote the story from information from the Austin Police Department.
But a spokesman in the Narcotics Division of the Austin Police Department said, "That's not possible," about the LSD tattoos. "The only LSD we have seen here is to be ingested, not through a tattoo. There have been none (LSD tattoos) reported here. I don't know where her source of information is — it did not come from here. We have not run across that type of LSD," the spokesman said.
Carlton explained the Texas Prosecutor's Council is a new state agency, created by the last session of the legislature. She said the council issues a newsletter to all 314 state prosecutors each month, and about release of the information, "It is their option to use or not to use it."

Informed the local DA had copied and released the information under his letterhead, she said, "It is our hope prosecutors will use discretion in releasing the information. It should be checked with a local police agency."
When questioned about the information she had written, Carlton said, "I'm not a professional writer. I had no idea this would get so much response."
Carlton said she knew of no reported deaths in connection with her information that, "A young child could happen to come upon these and have a fatal 'trip.'"
The council's released information about "LSD For Children" duplicates a recent plot of an ABC television police series, "Strike Force," aired on Friday evenings.
LSD, or lysergic acid diethylamide, is a chemical compound extracted from ergot alkaloids, used in the study of schizophrenia and other mental disorders and as a psychedelic drug.
It is a hallucinogen that can affect users in very small doses. Very small quantities of the drug for illegal street sales are placed on a carrier, such as a tablet, or piece of paper. The LSD on paper is more commonly known as "blotter acid."
Dr. Timothy O'Leary brought popular attention and use of the drug in the sixties with his exhortation to "turn on — tune in — drop out."
U.S. government agencies also gave the drug to unsuspecting guinea pig humans during mind - control experiments in the 50s.

Prosecution of little girl has court officials wondering

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Ken Hebert and a team of prosecutors find themselves proceeding against 6-year-old Nancy Jo Burch and 13-year-old Ronnie Dexter and wondering if they're doing the best thing.
"The defendant — that's a funny name for a little girl," said Hebert, the first assistant state attorney, after he was put in charge of the case.
Nancy Jo and Ronnie are charged with aggravated battery. Nancy Jo was accused of hitting 7-year-old Shirley Lynn Nickolls in the face with a stick on Feb. 4 while Ronnie held the girl's arms behind her back.
Taking the case into criminal court leaves a number of unanswered questions: Should it go this far? Would the lengthy judicial process involved in a criminal trial obstruct the aim of juvenile court to correct the behavior of an offending child?
Circuit Judge R.A. "Buzzy" Green ruled Friday that under Florida law, the girls were entitled to receive a jury trial. There is no state law stipulating the minimum age for adult prosecution, and that's what the defense team requested.
Hebert wanted to try mediation or some other pretrial diversion procedure normally used in juvenile cases.
But the parents of both girls are adamant that the case be pursued through the courts, he said, although the girls have made up and are friends that children are not capable of committing a crime.

He questioned whether the lengthy delays associated with criminal trials might adversely affect the goal of the juvenile system, which is to correct the behavior of the delinquent child.

Shuttle recovery crews take 'a breather' before landing

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — Recovery crews at Northrup Strip were "in a breather mode" Saturday, ready and waiting to handle the space shuttle's first landing on the white gypsum flat.
Touchdown was to come Monday at 12:27 p.m. MST.
Alex Paczynski, National Aeronautics and Space Administration senior engineer here, said, "We're planning on landing nominally unless we get a bad weather forecast."
Paczynski said it was possible that windy weather could cause a landing an orbit or two earlier than scheduled.
Meanwhile, work continued at the desert public viewing area about five miles from the graded and marked runways.
Maj. David Olmsted, a White Sands spokesman, said more than 500 soldiers from area military bases had been called into service to aid sightseers and keep them from interfering with the landing.
Weather is a major concern for mission management because of seasonal winds that could send the fine white granules swirling into a sandstorm.

But David Novlan, chief forecaster at White Sands, said the forecast looked fine for Monday.
Novlan said there will be some middle and high-level cloudiness Monday, but winds — the major concern — will be only 5-15 knots, not enough to create problems for the orbiter or the landing crews.

Falwell sued

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — The former national field director for the Moral Majority is suing its founder for $46 million, claiming the Rev. Jerry Falwell breached an agreement for an elaborate fund-raising and political organizing campaign.
Charles Cade filed the suit Friday in U.S. District Court here. He said the fund-raising plan, aimed at Christian fundamentalists in four Southern states, could have raised up to $4.5 million annually in West Virginia alone.
Cal Thomas, vice president for communications for Moral Majority, said he had not seen the suit.

Brother agonizes before turning in family who took missing child

CLEVELAND (AP) — Don Gress agonized for five days before calling authorities. He had noticed his mother was caring for a little girl who suffered from "lazy eye," the same condition that afflicted a friend's missing baby daughter.
On Friday, 4-year old Denise Kay Gravely, who disappeared from her front yard in Cleveland on Aug. 28, 1980, was found at the home of Gress' mother and stepfather in Mayville, N.Y., 150 miles away.
Authorities have arrested Charles W. Gress, Don's brother, and his mother, Susan Schmidt.
Authorities allege that Mrs. Schmidt paid Charles Gress to go with her to Cleveland for the purpose of abducting a child. John H. Thurston of the Buffalo, N.Y., FBI office said Gress was charged with violating federal kidnapping statutes.
"He so much as states that this was his mother's idea and she agreed to give him a sum of money to accompany her to Cleveland and grab a kid,"

Police Sgt. James Moon said Saturday. Mrs. Schmidt, 45, was arrested Saturday at her home in Mayville, FBI special agent Joseph Griffin said here.
"All I can say ... is that we are charging her with the actual commission of the kidnapping and the transportation of the victim from Ohio to New York. ... We expect additional arrests."
Police and FBI officials said Denise had apparently been abducted and had been in the custody of a woman identified as Mrs. Schmidt. Cleveland police detective Matt Pompeani said Mrs. Schmidt had four sons and had wanted a daughter since her own was stillborn.
Denise was returned to her mother, Patricia Thompson.
Don Gress was a friend of the child's father, Earl Gravely. Gravely died of carbon monoxide poisoning four months after she was reported missing. The coroner ruled the death a probable accident. His wife remarried in last year.

Moon said Charles Gress and his mother, however, had no idea the child they allegedly abducted was known by Don Gress.
Police said Don Gress told them he noticed the child on a visit to his family's home in Mayville last Sunday. He said the girl's "lazy" or "wandering" eye condition helped him make the connection.
Moon said authorities weren't aware of Mrs. Schmidt's involvement in the case until her son was taken into custody.
"He gave us a statement implicating his mother," Moon said.
Law enforcement agents said the house where the Gravely child had been kept was closely watched Friday, and the child was recovered when she was taken out of the house, Griffin said.
The child was apparently in good health, authorities said.
The girl didn't remember her family and refused to be called Denise, her mother said.

Chagra reported negotiating with government

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Amid persistent reports that indictments could be handed down next week in the 1979 slaying of a federal judge, a key figure in the investigation is reported negotiating with government attorneys.

Joe Chagra, an El Paso attorney, and his Dallas lawyer, Billy Ravkind, met with prosecutors and FBI agents in San Antonio, Dallas and El Paso in recent days in an attempt to reach an agreement that could lead to Chagra testifying in the case, a newspaper reported Friday.

Chagra, his imprisoned brother, Jimmy Chagra; Jimmy's wife, Elizabeth Chagra, and convicted hit man Charles V. Harrelson are likely to be indicted for conspiracy and murder in the slaying of Judge John H. Wood Jr., Joe Chagra told the San Antonio Express.

Joe Chagra and Ravkind said they were seeking an agreement whereby Chagra would not be indicted by the federal grand jury, but instead would testify if a judge rules attorney-client privilege is not involved.

Joe Chagra represents both his brother and Harrelson, the two key suspects in the nearly three-year-old investigation, but government attorneys have indicated attorney-client privilege might not apply if Joe Chagra were named a co-conspirator.

"We're trying to work out a procedure where Joe could testify before a grand jury or a trial jury," Ravkind told the Express.

The meetings were with prosecutors Ray and LeRoy Jahn, the husband-wife team of assistant U.S. attorneys that has been presenting evidence to the grand jury, Ravkind said.

The Jahns would not comment on the reported talks.

Jimmy Chagra is suspected of hiring Harrelson to shoot Wood to prevent the judge from presiding over Jimmy Chagra's 1979 cocaine-related criminal enterprise trial. Wood was known as "Maximum John" for his tough sentences on drug convictions.

Jimmy Chagra eventually was convicted and sentenced to 30 years in prison without parole, while Harrelson was later convicted of unrelated state narcotics and weapons charges and given sentences totalling 80 years. Harrelson previously served a 15-year state sentence for the 1968 hired killing of Hearne, Texas, grain dealer Sam Degelia Jr. Wood was shot in the back with a high-powered rifle on May 29, 1979, outside his San Antonio town home. "I've told them (Jahns) what my position is," Ravkind said. "They've never told me what their position is. I'm not sure we're that far apart as to what we believe. ...The Jahns are honest people, they don't want to try innocent people and lose."

Ravkind said the only thing Joe Chagra might know about the killing would be what his clients, Jimmy Chagra and Harrelson, may have told him.

Joe Chagra has said he expects to be indicted and, "I don't see any deals being made."

But the attorney added, "I would certainly never rule out a $2.02 a tournament record crowd of 61,000-plus at both today's semifinals and Monday night's finale."

North Carolina, the nation's top-ranked team, met unranked Houston in the opener while sixth-ranked Georgetown played No. 20 Louisville in the second game.

No survivors aboard downed airplane

SOCORRO, N.M. (AP) — The wreckage of a twin-engine airplane reported missing with as many as six people aboard on a flight from El Paso, Texas, to Salt Lake City was found Saturday in a rugged, mountainous area southwest of here, authorities said.

"Everybody aboard the plane is dead. There were no survivors," said Ernie Thais, state police communications specialist in Socorro. He said a medical investigator was being flown to the area.

"The crash was so severe that at this time, we don't know how many people are aboard," Thais said.

A Civil Air Patrol spokeswoman, 2nd Lt. Pat Norvell, said there were six people believed aboard the Beechcraft Barron, which was reported missing Friday at 5:18 p.m. She said, however, she did not have the names of those on the plane.

The downed craft was spotted Saturday afternoon by a helicopter from the 1550th Aircrew Training and Test Wing at Kirtland Air Force Base about 1 1/2 miles north of Mount Whittington in the rugged San Mateo Mountains 27 miles southwest of Magdalena, state police said.

The chopper, carrying five crewmen, made a hard landing near the plane crash site, and a second helicopter was sent in to assist it, said

Lt. George Sillia of the Kirtland public affairs office. He said there were no injuries to the helicopter crew.

Les Torres, a dispatcher with the state police in Socorro said the plane, a turbocharged propeller-driven craft, "started icing over and losing altitude. It was starting to ice up at an altitude of 13,000 feet."

He said the pilot "requested clearance to go to a higher altitude and received it, but he couldn't gain it and started to lose it."

The FAA reported the craft on a flight pattern that took it in a straight line from Truth or Consequences to Gallup, he said.

Contact with the airplane was lost just north of 10,115-foot Mount Whittington in the San Mateo Mountains, he said. Ground crews from the New Mexico Emergency Services Council searched through the night in the vicinity of Magdalena and a New Mexico Civil Air Patrol airplane combed the area, Mrs. Norvell said.

The airplane used for the search picked up an emergency locator beacon, but it turned out to be a signal originating from the Albuquerque International Airport and was turned off, authorities said.

Man prefers jail term

HOUSTON (AP) — A Louisiana man who decided 30 days in jail was better than five years' probation got his wish.

Kenneth Wayne Major, 25, of Morgan City, La., was given a probation sentence Friday by State District Judge Ted Poe on a weapons charge conviction.

Police found a sawed-off shotgun in the trunk of Major's car after he was stopped for a traffic violation.

The judge told Major if he reported to his probation officer regularly and obeyed state and federal laws during the next five years there would be no record of his conviction.

$7,000 to $71,000? School board is at it again!

An increase from $7,000 to $71,000?

That's what the school board now proposes to charge Gray County for the use of the school district's 1982 appraisal data.

Since many properties are inside the taxing jurisdictions of both the Pampa school district and Gray County, the school tax office has in the past provided appraisal data on overlapping properties to the county for a nominal contracted fee of $7,000.

But a proposal that surfaced at a recent meeting of the school board would jack up the price to the county to $71,000.

Sounds as if this may be some sour grapes about the school board's forced dumping of the contract and budget for the Gray County Tax Appraisal District. But the reality of this proposal is the taxpayers are going to get stuck twice for the price of the same appraisals.

School Superintendent Bob Phillips' suggestion to gouge the county was attached to Margie Gray's appraisal budget for county-wide tax appraisals and given to school board members at their last meeting. Gray is the County Tax Assessor - Collector who said her office could handle the entire county's 1982 appraisal office work for $67,000.

Charles Rand, we remember, is the school's tax man who would have charged the appraisal district about $532,000 for the same service.

Official and taxpayer protest stopped Rand and his budget, but Margie Gray remains in the running. Could the school board want to scuttle her budget and appraisal work because the taxpayers said no to the school's appraisal plan?

As the largest and richest of the 10 county taxing entities, which, by state law, must form a single district for all appraisal work, we hope the school board plans to cooperate in the effort to comply with the law.

We hope that as the richest entity, the school district will not take the attitude, "It's our ball and if you don't play by our rules, we are going to take our ball home!"

Instead of rubber stamping Phillips' ideas, we would like to see individual members of the school board take initiative and publicly discuss some of the problems facing the school district.

We also think that the school board's recent criticism of school board candidate Dr. Dwight Dow during an open meeting of the board was out of line. That criticism certainly was not listed on the board's agenda for that meeting. Who knows? Maybe Dr. Dow would have appreciated an opportunity to defend his campaign issues which were discussed during the open session.

But regardless, the comments struck us as an unethical attempt to use the public forum of the school board sessions for politics.

Their defense of past actions merely raises the question, "Why are they afraid of Dow?"

Another matter we felt the school board handled in a less than professional manner was meeting in secret and then appointing James Trusty to replace Phillips, without even seeking other applicants for the job.

Trusty has worked for the district 26 years, and he may indeed be the best possible man for the job. But in filling a position that will shape the district for many years, the board could have at least advertised for applications and looked at other applicants.

Phillips has announced his intentions to resign in 1983, not next week.

The board's unannounced actions give the appearance of wanting to keep a tight group in control.

Shouldn't the taxpayers and parents of the Pampa school district hear a discussion about who will be appointed to head their children's schools?

Interestingly enough, the agenda for the next session of the school board has only one item: "Personnel (Executive Session)."

Each of these items indicates a less than cooperative attitude of the school board towards the people they're supposed to serve - the taxpayers.

It doesn't take a lot to operate a public body in an above-board, open and cooperative fashion. Just good common sense.

This war isn't a movie, Ronnie babe

By BUTLER D. SHAFFER

I must admit to a bias I have long held against actors and other entertainers. I have always shared the attitude that prevailed in prior decades among polite company, namely, that the business of acting is not an altogether wholesome activity. After all, what can we say about the character of people who make careers out of pretending to be somebody else? If one of my daughters were to announce to me her intentions to marry an actor, I would greet the news with about the same discomposure as I would her decision to marry a Las Vegas blackjack dealer or a male stripper.

I realize, of course, that my views in this matter are totally out of the mainstream of American life. We live in an age that judges the worth of everything by its entertainment value. Serious literature has given way to motion picture script writing, with book markets increasingly populated by frivolous, narcissistic, or dilettantish twaddle. Intellectuals and other creative artists parade across television screens to hawk the wares of a variety of sponsors, while the fine old art of intelligent conversation has withered to a form not unlike the mindless babbling of a television talk show. We insist upon our fantasies, our illusions and delusions. We seek a state of near-constant amusement, intoxicating our minds with a combination of nonsense and evasions of reality that will, we hope, keep us forever in a condition of irresponsible bliss not unlike that of a drunken driver.

Thus it is that in an age in which Johnny Carson has become not only the prevailing standard of success but the principal social philosopher, political decision-making has come under the sway of - you guessed it - actors and other entertainers. What political or social cause can hope to get off the ground without the frontline endorsement of a motion picture or television performer? Didn't the Jane Fonda, the Shirley MacLaines, the Joan Baezes, the John Waynes and the John Lennons occupy center stage during the Vietnam War debates? Haven't politicians taken to marrying entertainers? Even Shirley Temple managed to get appointed to an ambassadorial post. And of course, how could I fail to take note of the ultimate political success from the world of make-believe, the current presidency of Ronald Reagan?

Part of the danger in this trend toward an entertainment mentality can be found in the current saber-rattling being engaged in by the White House's resident prince - pretender. With the macho swagger of a John Wayne or

Randolph Scott, Mr. Reagan appears intent on either precipitating the United States into a war or, at the edge of a military confrontation. Perhaps the man has lived for so long in the artificial worlds of Hollywood sound stages that he honestly believes that war is something that is only waged by actors and extras, with the aid of special effects and stock film footage, and that at the end of each work day all performers go home to their hot-tubs or beach-front properties.

If this is the case, then it is incumbent upon the rest of us to impress upon Mr. Reagan - as well as those like Ed Asner, whose announced contribution to Salvadoran rebels only provides more resources for the continuing war in Central America - the reality of war. Real wars are fought with real people, not with matinee idols. Real wars are not the noble, heroic adventures portrayed in films, but brutal, vicious, painful and vulgar exercises. To the parents, siblings, wives and children of servicemen, whose stomachs and nerves wrench out a day-to-day existence, fearful that each ring of the telephone or knock on the door may bring dreaded news, real wars are something less exciting than a gala opening night.

Real wars, in other words, are an affront to even the most minimally acceptable standards of human decency. They are rendered all the more scandalous and obscene when they are contrived by men trained in the skills of mass deception, for no greater purpose than the aggrandizement of their own power and prestige. Mr. Reagan professes to be a religious man, a man in tune with the highest standards of morality. Perhaps this is but a part of the make-believe of the story he is playing out with the lives of millions of human beings. If so, then Mr. Reagan can only be regarded as yet another in a long line of unprincipled scoundrels to hold political office. But if he is something more than what he appears, if he genuinely desires to act as a decent and moral human being, then let him regard what he is doing. There is no standard of morality of which I am aware that would countenance the contrived slaughter of people.

Bad omens for Republicans

By ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON (NEA) - The potential Republican candidates widely perceived to be the most formidable challengers to Democrats seeking re-election to Congress are backing away from those contests in states all across the nation.

Despite the public claims and private hopes of Republican party leaders that their prospects for success in this year's elections will be enhanced if the economy improves in the coming months, the current trend does not bode well for the party's chances in November's House and Senate contests.

Although the general election is more than seven months distant, filing deadlines for participation in primary elections are rapidly approaching in many states and the crucial candidate-recruitment phase of the 1982 political campaign has been virtually completed.

In Ohio, Gov. James A. Rhodes, arguably the state's most successful and popular politician in recent decades, is barred by a constitutional provision from seeking re-election to the post he has held for an unprecedented four terms.

Rhodes has resisted, however, the blandishments of Republican party leaders seeking to convince him to oppose Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum.

By ART BUCHWALD

"Mr. Reagan, Mr. Reagan. Wake up, your honeymoon is over."

"So soon?"

"You've had a longer one than most presidents, sir. If you weren't such a lovable guy we would have asked you to leave the honeymoon suite three months ago."

"Gosh, I was having such a good time. I wish it could have gone on forever."

"Don't we all? But no honeymoon can last forever - or it wouldn't be called a honeymoon. Now you have to go and find out what it really like to be married to the American people. Don't forget when you took your presidential vows it was for better or for worse."

"How does a President know when his honeymoon is over?"

"When the population starts to question all those beautiful things you whispered in their ears. They've heard them before, but when they're in love, they want to believe them. Then one day they say, 'He promised me a rose garden, and all he gave me was cheddar cheese.'"

"It's the media that have done it. They've made me into a Scrooge. I am a compassionate, kind, generous person and the softest touch they've had in a long time. But all they talk about is budget deficits, and unemployment and high interest rates. Why do they do that?"

"Because the press is in show business, Mr. President. They're always playing up the bad news in South Succotash and they never talk about the good news. Now will you please get out of bed so the maid can clean up the room?"

"You know who really ruined my honeymoon?"

In Michigan, equally popular Gov. William G. Milliken has decided not to seek re-election - and has rebuffed GOP leaders who implored him to run against Sen. Donald W. Riegler Jr.

In Washington, former Gov. Dan Evans, held in extraordinarily high regard by politicians throughout the country, has resisted efforts to convince him to return to politics by challenging Democratic Sen. Henry M. Jackson.

In North Dakota, House Speaker Earl Strinden, one of the state's most powerful and influential politicians, has disappointed those who sought to induce him to file as the GOP candidate in opposition to Sen. Quentin N. Burdick.

In four other states, Republicans now holding House seats were generally believed to be among the party's strongest candidates in races against Democrats seeking re-election to the Senate.

But Rep. Jack Kemp declined to make the race against Sen. Daniel P. Moynihan in New York. Rep. Trent Lott decided not to challenge Sen. John C. Stennis in Mississippi and Rep. Marjorie S. Holt rejected the idea of running against Sen. Paul S. Sarbanes in Maryland.

In Florida, Reps. L.A. "Skip" Bafalis and C.W. Bill Young both backed away from a possible race against

Democratic Sen. Lawton M. Chiles Jr. (Bafalis is, however, challenging Gov. Robert Graham.)

In Texas, a statewide poll commissioned by Republican leaders identified three potential candidates who might have a chance to defeat Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

They were James A. Baker III, the White House chief of staff; Anne Armstrong, a highly respected veteran party activist; and Rep. Phil Gramm, a Democrat who has been a leading proponent of President Reagan's budget initiatives and is a likely prospect to switch to the Republican Party.

All three declined, however, as did Roger Staubach, the nationally known former quarterback for the Dallas Cowboys.

In this year's races for House seats, Mayor Woodie Woods of Fort Worth, Texas, was widely assumed to be preparing to challenge Rep. James C. Wright Jr., the House minority leader - but Woods will not be entering the race.

In south-central North Carolina, former State Sen. Phil J. Kirk Jr., a veteran GOP politician, has decided against challenging Rep. W.G. "Bill" Hefner.

Wake up, Mr. Reagan

By ART BUCHWALD

"No, sir."

"Congress. They're out to get me because they hate to see anyone happy."

"I couldn't agree with you more. Congress always promises a president a honeymoon, and then when he turns out the lights, they start dropping shoes on his head. Here, Mr. Reagan, is your bathrobe. Would you like to take a shower before you go?"

"Business hasn't been any help either. They're all so skeptical and downbeat, they don't believe anything I told them. If anyone ruined my honeymoon it was the gloom and doom boys on Wall Street. I gave them everything they wanted, and they still turned against me when I needed them."

"Businessmen are terribly fickle. They'll applaud you in the East Room and as soon as you leave for the Oval Office, they'll sell you short. I'll start packing your clothes while you're shaving."

"I'll tell you who really ruined my honeymoon. It was all those government bureaucrats who kept screaming about what I was doing to the old and the poor. I was willing to take care of the old and poor, but I wasn't going to let people who could work get a free ride any more. Did I ever tell you about that lady in Chicago who was getting ten welfare checks at the same time?"

"Many times, Mr. Reagan."

"How about the student who took his college loan, and put it into a 20 percent money fund?"

"That was one of your best ones."

"Or the guy who took his food stamps and bought vodka with them."

"You told that one to everybody."

"They say I never get my facts right."

"They'll say anything, Mr. Reagan, when the honeymoon is over."

"Maybe my problem is everyone thinks I'm just a nice guy. As long as they're ruining my honeymoon, I can now be myself, and show them I'm as tough and mean as they are."

Libya's bad habits lead to oil boycott

Only a trickle of oil from Libya has been finding its way to the U.S. market, so President Reagan's decision to ban the traffic altogether has mainly a symbolic effect. But the symbolism is important.

The United States should not be doing business with a Libyan government that openly sympathizes with international terrorism and advocates assassination of its political enemies. This country can do without Libyan oil.

Oil revenues are permitting Col. Moammar Khadafy to menace his North African neighbors with an army that his otherwise dirt-poor country could not afford. Oil money pays for his "hit squads" of assassins sent abroad, and for the weapons and other support going from Libya to left-wing governments and guerilla organizations around the world.

Without oil, Col. Khadafy would not amount to much, either at home, where he recently survived an assassination attempt, or in those foreign capitals that still accord him a welcome.

Most of the Americans working in Libyan oil fields left the country late last year at the urging of President Reagan. The President's recent boycott decision included a ban on the export to Libya of U.S. oil and gas technology and equipment that is not available from sources outside the United States, an order that could have a more serious impact than the ban on oil imports.

The worldwide slump in demand for oil and the weakness in prices already has created a financial deficit for the Khadafy government. By shopping elsewhere for the 150,000 barrels of oil a day which we have been importing from Libya, the United States may only mildly aggravate Libya's financial problems. But anything that helps deflate the treasury of the terrorist-minded Moammar Khadafy does the world a service.

TANA TRUSTY

Tana Trusty, daughter of Nancy and Woody Trusty of Lefors, has been chosen by her school to represent them at the Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership Foundation Seminar held this weekend in Dallas.

Miss Trusty was chosen for her leadership ability demonstrated through membership in the Future Homemakers of America, as class officer, Student Council representative, UIL participant and cheerleader for two years.

In belief that America's greatest resource is in its youth, Hugh O'Brian established the Foundation in 1958. Its purpose is to seek out, recognize and reward leadership potential in high school sophomores. Its program is basically simple: by bringing a select group of sophomores together, with a select group of leaders in business, industry, education, and government and letting them interact, the young leaders will gain a realistic look at what makes the American incentive system tick.

Two seminars will be held this year, one in Dallas March 26-28 and the other in Houston May 14-16 with 260 students invited to attend.

Mrs. Harry Youngblood of Lefors, a member of the Texas Advisory Committee, will assist in the seminar as state Free-Enterprise chairman for the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. She will accompany the Panhandle representatives to Dallas.

Lefors Art & Civic Club, a Top of Texas district member of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, and Beta Chi chapter of Kapa Kappa Iota are sponsoring Miss Trusty.

Others from the Panhandle attending will be Dana Williams of Stratford, Donna Peters of Sunray, Paul Address of Borger, Andrea Siebert of Dalhart, Dallas Ann Phillips of Hereford, Robert Rabb of Amarillo, Lori Brewer of Dumas, and Denise Gilbert of Wheeler. TEXAS TECH UNIVERSITY More than 1,000 students at Texas Tech University

McGrath, 2500 Duncan; Ronald J. Palmer, 2232 N. Sumner; Donna J. Preston, 1035 E. Francis; Bobbie G. Skaggs, 805 N. Christy; Chris L. Skaggs, 805 N. Christy; and Michelle McKnight of Lefors.

To qualify for a dean's honor roll, a student must have a grade point average of 3.5 or more on a 4.0 scale and must have taken 12 hours or more of work.

BRENDA J. CONNER

Staff Sgt. Brenda J. Conner, daughter of Cleo W. and Bertha M. Beck of 845 E. Kingsmil, has been decorated with the second award of the Air Force Commendation Medal at Castle Air Force Base, Calif.

The Air Force Commendation Medal is awarded to those individuals who demonstrate outstanding achievement or meritorious service in the performance of their duties on behalf of the Air Force.

Conner, an administration technician with the 4017th Combat Control Squadron, is a 1969 graduate of Erick High School, Okla.

Her husband, Air Force Staff Sgt. John A. Conner Jr., is the son of John A. and Marie Conner of Cleburne, Texas.

OKLAHOMA STATE TECH

Four students from the Texas panhandle are among 2,968 students enrolled for the spring trimester at Oklahoma State Tech, Okmulgee, Okla.

Tech, the residential, technical branch of Oklahoma State University, is recognized nationwide for the quality of its instructional programs.

Students from the panhandle attending Tech, their program of study and hometown, include: James L. Hollingwood, electrical-electronics technology; Alvin L. Morse, diesel mechanics; Audree C. Wilkinson, diesel mechanics, all of Pampa; and Roy O. Ford, diesel mechanics, Wheeler.

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS Three students from Pampa were recently included on the College of Engineering honor roll for the 1981 fall semester at The University of Texas at Austin. Included were Michael Don Butler, 1237 North Russell; Lou Ann Robertson, 2400 Mary Ellen; and Randall Ray Tucker, 807 North Frost.

To achieve the engineering honor roll, a student must have maintained at least a 12-hour course load throughout the semester, passing all courses with a minimum grade-point average of 3.25. Total grade points are calculated by multiplying course hours by the value of each grade (A equals 4 points).

BILL COMBS

Bill Combs, freshman Texas Tech music major, will perform the lead role of Lord Chancellor in the Gilbert & Sullivan musical "Iolanthe" scheduled for Saturday, April 3, at 7:30 p.m. The "Night of Operatta" will be in Hemule Recital Hall on TTU Campus.

Man in fair condition after high-voltage shock

HOUSTON (AP) — A Kansas man jolted from the top of a 90-foot tower by 345,000 volts of electricity was resting and in fair condition Saturday at Ben Taub Hospital, authorities said.

David King, 25, of Winfield, Kan., suffered second- and third-degree burns on his chest, arms and face and multiple fractures to both legs after he fell from the metal transmission line tower Friday.

King said he climbed the high-voltage tower in southeast Houston because he was hypnotized, paramedic Mark Maddox said. But King did not know who hypnotized him or why, Maddox said.

"Another five minutes and we wouldn't have been needed ... Time was critical because he was losing a lot of fluids due to the burns and blood because of the broken legs," Maddox said. King told authorities he came to Houston recently but had not found a job or a place to stay.

Mike Murphy, a repairman working on a utility pole, was talking by telephone with his supervisor when he saw King fall to the ground, police said. Murphy told his boss to call an ambulance, police said.

King, with his clothes afire, fell 15 feet onto a metal beam where he lay and "smoldered a while, then fell to the ground. He was definitely on fire: flaming when he came down," said D.R. McKinney, who was driving by the tower when the accident occurred.

Family reunited after 39 years

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — A 39-year gap was bridged this weekend for two Dallas area men who had not seen their family since 1943, when their mother was forced to give up her daughter and four sons.

George and Wilbur Dean traveled to Dallas Fort Worth Regional Airport Friday to meet their elder brother, James McConaha, who flew in from his home in Moses Lake, Wash.

Last month, they went to their sister's house in Kansas to reunite with her and their mother, who lives less than 80 miles away from them in Quitman, Texas.

"I thank the Lord for letting me find my children," said 71-year-old Hazel McConaha Cox.

Mrs. Cox's husband died in 1942 after a four-year illness, leaving her with four children and a fifth on the way.

"After he died, I couldn't take it any longer," she said. She turned her children over to the Oklahoma welfare department.

Maxine Terrel, 47, who now lives in Mulvane, Kan., has fit most of the pieces of her family together with a series of reunions after searching for her brothers 29 years.

She and McConaha, 50, grew up near Mrs. Cox's Cushing, Okla. home and both maintained contact with their mother over the years.

But they lost touch with George and Wilbur — now 45 and 42 respectively — who lived in several foster homes, then were adopted by the James A. Dean family of Kingfisher, Okla.

"I grew up knowing that I had brothers who weren't there," Mrs. Terrel said. "I reached a point in my life when I knew I had to find them. When you're adopted, you don't have any idea of who you really are."

Congress reluctant to put up cash for S&Ls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Savings and loan associations, experiencing their worst financial troubles since the Depression, stand an increasing chance of getting more help from Congress this year, officials in and outside government say.

The assistance, though, is not expected to be a cash bailout that would be a financial drain on the deficit-ridden budget. And there has been only a little talk of extending the one-year, tax-free all-saver certificates that Congress approved last year to bolster S&L and bank deposits.

The help that will come from Congress is likely to be in the form of more regulatory relief and paper transactions that would guarantee, or contribute to, an institution's financial soundness.

The paper transactions, which are opposed by the Reagan administration, would cost taxpayers only if an institution failed and had to be liquidated.

The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. (FSLIC) has used a similar "capital infusion" approach utilizing non-taxpayer funds to bring off several recent mergers of weak S&Ls with stronger ones.

Despite some regulatory relief and the All-Savers certificates, savings and loan associations are still having to pay more for new money than they are taking in from low-yielding home loans agreed on years ago when interest rates were lower.

Rep. Fernand St Germain, D-R.I., who is pushing the "net worth guarantee" paper transactions, said in a telephone interview he felt certain that "once various parties ... realize they've got a horse out in front," they'll "put money on it."

But the Reagan administration said last week that St Germain's government bailout fund was not needed. Insurance funds

— FSLIC for savings and loans and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. for banks — had the resources to handle any problems, the administration said.

St Germain, who is chairman of the House Banking Committee, also is at odds with his counterpart on the Senate Banking Committee, Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah.

Garn and the administration have favored giving the thrift institutions and banks a broad array of new loan and investment powers, among them allowing S&Ls to make commercial loans and accept corporate demand deposits.

St Germain said a plan to give more powers to the thrift institutions would be "very, very controversial" and would immediately spark opposition. He said his "net worth guarantee" has not aroused strong opposition.

The banking and savings and loan industries — long-time competitors — have found it hard to agree among themselves on what they want from Congress.

The "smart money," said one source, is betting on such a package.

Even Garn is now considering whether to back a "capital infusion" program, and an announcement is likely later this week, said Senate Banking Committee staff director Dan Wall.

Sky - high terror

AUSTIN — Ten people recently died in Houston in a terrible fire in the middle of the night. Put yourself in their place for a moment.

You're in a strange town, asleep in your hotel room. You're either all alone, or with your family. Suddenly the smell of smoke awakens you. You jump up and try to find your clothes so you can leave. You stumble around for a light switch. You think you find it, but the lights won't work.

Now you are really scared. Smoke is coming into your room from under the door. You run to the window and look down. All you see is pavement and concrete 40 feet down. You run to the door and burst out into the hallway. It's full of smoke but you make a run for it. The next day, they put a note about you in the newspaper. It ends "withheld pending notification of next of kin."

That was the way the last weekend on earth was for those 10 in Houston.

It shouldn't have ended that way and doesn't have to be that way for others. Houston Fire Chief V.E. Rogers said a sprinkler system in the hotel would have reduced the death toll.

We supported a bill that would have required sprinkler systems in new hotels and hotels that were reconditioned. It would not have required systems for existing structures. The sponsor of the bill thought that would be too great a burden for hotel owners.

Even this modest measure did not pass. The powers that be in this state decided it would be too expensive to require builders and remodelers of hotels to install sprinklers.

This is not the first time people have taken a calculated risk. Indeed, there is nothing wrong with doing so. We do it every day when we don't put on our seat belt in our car, or maybe even when we get into the car to begin with. The key is that the decision to take such a risk must be reasonable.

Was the decision not to require sprinklers in hotels reasonable? That's up to you to decide.

Write to Senator Bill Sarpalius and tell us whether you think hotels should have sprinkler systems. Our address is P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

Rare books are harder to steal

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A book thief once almost put publisher-collector John Jenkins out of business, and Jenkins has been on their cases ever since.

His 10-year war against book thieves crystallized Jan. 1 with the completion of a security system utilizing FBI and federal customs agents, telephone reports and a computer program called BAM-BAM.

Jenkins, president of the Antiquarian Booksellers' Association of America, Inc., said the system works so well a person would have to be "awfully stupid" to try to steal rare books and sell them for profit.

In 1971 a stranger offered to sell Jenkins a hundred Audubon prints, which the seller said he had found in his aunt's attic. Jenkins held back and later read in a trade journal that an entire folio of Audubon bird prints had been stolen from Union College at Schenectady, N.Y.

The FBI arrested the man in New York, where Jenkins had arranged a meeting at his hotel, supposedly to buy the prints.

"I realized that if I had not been accidentally suspicious of this man who offered them to me, I would have paid out between $50,000 and $100,000 for the Audubons that would later turn out to be stolen, and I would have had to return them, and these crooks would have hit the road," Jenkins said.

"It would have bankrupted me at that time," Jenkins said. "I would have been absolutely out of business, and I realized that for the whole book world there was no protection, there was no system established to pass the word about thefts."

Establishing the security system was not easy. There had been little coordination between archivists — who handle manuscripts — and booksellers. Also, law officers had had virtually no experience with book thieves, and librarians and school administrators had been reluctant to report major thefts.

"It reflected on them personally," Jenkins said. "Their jobs were on the line, so they would just sit tight until they saw their books somewhere or someone pointed it out and then they would act. All of which adds up to some bookseller getting stung for a great deal of money."

Jenkins explained in a new booklet and in an interview what to do when books are stolen.

On thefts of more than $5,000, call Jenkins, who is security chairman for the rare book dealers association, then FBI agent Mike Burns in Austin. Next, call your attorney and your insurance agency.

Jenkins will call five chapter chairmen of the antiquarian association, and they will call their members. The relay notifies 500 professional booksellers. Within 24 hours the word of the theft is passed to BAM-BAM (Bookline Alert-Missing Books and Manuscripts) in New York, which makes it available on computer terminals throughout America and Europe.

Within 24 hours, 95-98 percent of the potential buyers have been notified," said Jenkins. "Even if the airlines were running on time, I don't believe a thief could get away with them quickly enough to succeed."

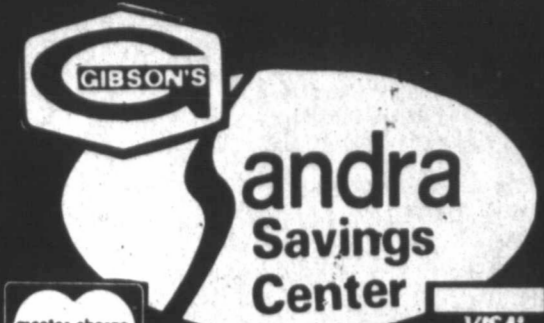

For a few dollars, AB Bookman's Weekly, a trade journal which goes to 11,000 book people, also will carry a notice of the missing book or books on its back cover, Jenkins said.

By the end of seven days, more than 100,000 people in the book world will have been notified of the theft.

Jenkins said three book thieves have been arrested since the system went into effect. "We've literally been 100 percent successful," he said. "There are no major unresolved book thefts at the present time."

"I do not believe that it's possible now for someone to successfully steal (valuable books) for profit," he said. "It would take an awfully stupid person to make a major book theft thinking he could get away with it and profit from it."

There is one final step in the security system — prosecution.

Government says snow, rain would stop wind erosion

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — New government figures show one of the most effective ways to control wind erosion in the Great Plains is for the region to get plenty of snow and rain during critical months.

Conversely, when snow and rain are sparse the vast region often does not have enough vegetation to hold soil in place, leaving it vulnerable to the wind.

According to the Soil Conservation Service, wind erosion in the 10-state Plains area during the first four months of the season that began last Nov. 1 was only about half that of a year earlier.

Through February, the agency said, wind damaged fewer than 2.1 million acres in the Great Plains, compared to nearly 4.2 million in the same period in 1980-81.

The SCS reports on Great Plains wind erosion damage during the season which runs through May 31.

Land is considered damaged by wind if enough soil has been removed or deposited on it to subject the land to further erosion hazard, or to impair its productive capacity.

Norman A. Berg, chief of the Soil Conservation Service, said this season's wind erosion decline so far has been attributable to "good snow cover and adequate soil moisture."

Total damage in the six-month 1980-81 season totaled nearly 12.5 million acres in the 10-state area, the most in 26 years and the second-largest area of wind erosion damage recorded by the agency.

EXTENSION ACTIVITIES

Swine producers are reminded of the High and Rolling Plains Extension Swine Short Course to be held April 7 in Plainview at the Hale county Agricultural Center. The program is from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. with a $10.00 registration fee. A lunch will be furnished. This program features outstanding speakers on current topics of interest to swine producers.

Immediately following the Short Course, the Plainview Industrial Foundation will sponsor, in the same location, a meeting of producers with a representative of a packer interested in operating a packing plant in Plainview.

Copies of the complete program are available in the County Extension Office.

MICROCOMPUTER WORKSHOP
A workshop covering use of microcomputers in Farm and Ranch Management will be held April 6 and 7 in College Station on the Texas A & M University campus. The registration fee is $50.00.

Programs and registration forms are available in the County Extension Office.

EXPERIMENTAL RANCH PLANS FIELD DAY
Report on a year's testing of a short duration grazing system and results of intensive research on range animal nutrition, control of pricklypear cactus, and the response of livestock and vegetation to grazing management will be featured Thursday, April 8, at the field day of the Texas Experimental Ranch at Throckmorton, Texas.

The program begins at 8:30 a.m. with registration and tours beginning at 9:30 a.m. The experimental ranch, 11 sections on the Throckmorton Ranch of the Swen R. Swenson Cattle Co., is on U.S. Hwy. 183 and 283 between Throckmorton and Seymour.

BEEF SHORT COURSE
There's still ample time to enroll in the 1982 Beef Cattle Short Course, set for April 5 and 6 at Texas A & M University, College Station, Texas.

"Gaining an Advantage" is the general theme for the short course. An added program attraction this year will be a special financial management program on tax and estate planning and general business structure.

METHOD
DEMONSTRATIONS

The County contest set for April 4 has been rescheduled for April 18, at 2 p.m., at the Courthouse Annex. This is a great learning experience, and you can choose the topic and area which is an interest to you.

It is not too late to begin working on your demonstration if you begin now - there are some contest areas open. To sign up or for further details, call the Extension office - 669-7429.

NAME THE TEXAS 4-H MAGAZINE

Remember, the deadline for naming the new 4-H family magazine is April 1. Therefore, if you have a name suggestion or logo (trademark such as a windmill, etc.) or can create a cover, bring it or mail it to the Extension office by April 1.

The magazine will be a 4-H family magazine with information for 4-H members, volunteer leaders and 4-H parents. The magazine will be published every other month or six issues per year, with the first issue planned for November 1982.

4-H RABBIT PROJECT
A 4-H Rabbit Project is in the planning stages at this time and participants are needed. 4-H members or any youth ages 9-19 who is interested in learning about rabbits and raising them can participate in the project.

Any youth interested in the 4-H Rabbit Project is urged to contact the County Extension Office this week and sign up. We would like to have a large group participating in this project.

Contact the Extension office by calling 669-7429 or come by the office located in the Courthouse Annex located on Highway 60 East of Pampa.

LIVESTOCK JUDGING
Congratulations go to the 4-H Livestock Judging teams which competed in the Gruver Livestock Judging Contest Saturday, March 20.

Preston Cross, Cody Rice, and Mindy Romines were named the High Team in swine judging and placed 18th in overall judging.

Benny Benally, Sheila Romines, and Michelle Wallace placed 15th in overall judging.

These teams competed against 39 other 4-H and FFA judging teams from the Texas Panhandle. These placings show that a lot of hard work is beginning to pay off. Congratulations to Coach Jerry Fulton and team members!

Cattlemen need to find and use all possible financial advantages to offset the current economic situation. Many short course speakers are active in the beef industry, and will share ideas and programs that have worked successfully for them, the agent adds.

Short course registration is set for 8 a.m. April 5 in the Exhibit Hall area of the J. Earl Rudder Center. The program opens at 9:15 a.m. in the Rudder Theatre.

Among key speakers will be J.D. Sartwell, chairman of the board of Port City Stockyards at Sealy and a longtime leader in the Texas Cattle industry, who will discuss industry outlook and challenges ahead; and Dr. John A. Hopkin, Stiles Professor of Agricultural Finance and Head of the Agricultural Economics Department at Texas A & M, who will address marketing and finance issues.

Dr. Wayne Hayenga of College Station and Robert Kensing of San Angelo, Extension economists in management, will discuss estate planning, tax planning and business structure.

Another major speaker will be Larry Cundiff, research geneticist with the U.S. Meat Animal Research Center at Clay Center, Neb., who will discuss "Cattle Breeding for the Future."

Additional information may be obtained from the County Extension Office.

LOVEGRASS MANAGEMENT
The spring growth of Weeping Lovegrass is about ready to start as a few green sprigs can be found. Better grazing utilization will be obtained this year if old growth from last year is removed or gone over with a brush beater - stalk shredder or mower real soon before grass really starts growing.

Also a spring application of fertilizer is needed. A general recommendation for Weeping Lovegrass is an application of about 30-15-0. This may not give the maximum amount of total grass but it should give the biggest return on the fertilizer dollar you spend. A soil test would give you a more exact recommendation to fill your individual situation.

DISCUS WINNER Jessica Marcum of Pampa threw the discus 101-8 to take first place in the Borger Invitational Track Meet Saturday. Pampa finished in the final girls' team standings with 141 points.

Pampa girls take second at Borger

BORGER—Placing in almost every event, Pampa's Lady Harvesters piled up 141 points to place second Saturday in the Borger Girls' Track Invitational.

"The times weren't all that good, but it was cold weather," Pampa coach Frank Belcher said. "We competed good. I think it was the best showing ever for a Pampa girls' team as far as point totals."

Amarillo High won the five-team meet with 197 points. Borger was third with 97 points followed by Canyon with 65 and Caprock 36.

Pampa's Jessica Marcum won the discus with a toss of 101-8 and Tina Bunton ran a 13.1 to win the 100-meter dash. Marcum, a senior, qualified for regionals last year by placing second in the shot put at the district meet. Bunton, a sophomore, was clocked at 12.1 in the preliminaries.

Pampa's 800-relay team of Leslie Albus, Shelia Grays, Ashlie Darby and Joan Burns ran a 1:54.9 to win that event.

"By the time the district meet gets here we're going to be ready," Pampa coach Frank Belcher said. "I don't expect to win it because of Amarillo High and Tascosa. They've got too many people in events where we don't have any, and we still have a chance to get a lot of people into the regionals. We're improving every week."

The District 3-5A meet is scheduled April 7 in Amarillo. Pampa was also entered in the boys' division, but coach Wendall Palmer pulled his Harvesters out before the meet was over due to the 34-degree weather.

"I just didn't want to take a chance on losing somebody," Palmer said. "I just don't feel like we could have gained anything competing in that kind of weather."

Randy Slaybaugh placed second in both the discus (159-8) and shot (52.4).

"Randy could hardly stand the cold, but he still threw good considering the type of situation," Palmer added. Slaybaugh, a senior, qualified for the state meet last year in the discus.

Chito Ontoveros finished third in the two-mile run in the junior varsity division before Palmer decided to call it quits.

"We've got three good meets to look forward to before before district," Palmer said. "They're very important meets and it should put us in good shape for district."

Pampa results in the girls' division are as follows:
Shot Put—2. Whitney Kidwell 35.5; 3. Jessica Marcum 33.4; 4. Leana Young 31.0.

Discus—1. Jessica Marcum 101-8.
Triple Jump—2. Rebekkah Guenther 31-7; 6. Tina Greenway 30-3/2.

Long Jump—2. Tina Greenway 31-7; 4. Leslie Albus 15-7; 6. Rebekkah Guenther 14-10 1/2.
440 relay—2. Joan Burns, Cynthia Powell, Shelia Grays and Leslie Albus, 52.8.

800—3. Sandy Jones 2:40.1; 4. Susan Andrews 2:41.1.
100—1. Tina Bunton, 13.1; 2. Tina Greenway 13.6.
800 Relay—1. Leslie Albus, Shelia Grays, Ashlie Darby and Joan Burns, 1:54.9.

440—6. Tina Greenway.
220—2. Joan Burns 28.3; 3. Cynthia Powell 29.0; 4. Leslie Albus 29.1.

1 Mile Relay—4. Dona Darby, Sandy Jones, Ashlie Darby and Susan Andrews, 4:29.5.

Melton, Carner share lead in Kemper Open Tournament

KAANAPALI, Hawaii (AP) — Nancy Lopez-Melton, looking for consecutive victories on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, shared the 54-hole lead Saturday with JoAnn Carner in the $175,000 Women's Kemper Open golf tournament with 5-under-par totals of 214.

Lopez-Melton shot a 4-under-par 69 Saturday, while Carner had her second-straight 70.

Along in third place, one stroke back, was Amy Alcott, who fired a 69 Saturday for a three-day total of 215. They were the only three golfers in the field to break par at the 6,393-yard Royal Kananapali North Course, which has proved to be a difficult and different test each day.

Lopez-Melton birdied the 18th hole when her sand wedge hit the pin and stopped less than two feet from the hole. Her tap-in birdie enabled her to tie Carner, who had held a 1-stroke lead heading into the third round.

"I'm feeling confident, I'm putting well," said Lopez-Melton, who won last week's J&B Scotch Pro-Am tournament in Las Vegas.

The slimmed-down Lopez-Melton thinks that whoever plays the par-5s aggressively Sunday should walk off with the $26,250 winner's prize.

Strikes n' Spares

With L.D. Strate
Mr. Treat Donuts treated themselves to a 2,880 series and the Class A championship of the City Women's Association Tournament held earlier this month at Harvester Lanes.

Mr. Treat team members were Karen Horton, Rachele Nail, Linda Stokes, Trudy Gideon and Barbara Turner.

Blanche Moore won Class A singles (688) and scratch all-events (1,593) while Allene Coker and Rita Steddum won Class A doubles (1,237).

Also picking up prize money in the Class A team event were Bell Conoco (2,880), Four B's & C (2,864); Fatheree Insurance (2,863); Rudy's Automotive (2,857); Lefors Cable TV (2,855) and Halliburton (2,846). Bell Conoco's 2,475 was high scratch series.

Following Moore in Class A singles were Pat Williams (640); Helen Lemons (635); Carol Furrh (621); Billie Hupp (619); Kerrick Horton (612); Cheryl Lanham (604); Kitten Meeks (603) and Karen Adkins (599).

Anita Davis and Joyce Epperson rolled a 1,228 to place second in Class A doubles while Ann Pennington and Kathy Snyder shot 1,194 to take third. Jody McClendon and Betty Parsley were fourth at 1,192.

The Nugget Club (Kathy Snyder, Lee Baggerman, Jean Rose, Carolyn Taylor and Mallinda Wilson) rolled a 2,911 to win the Class D team title. Norma's Corner Cafe was runner-up with a 2,897.

In the Class B division, Rachel Nail had a 696 series to win the singles crown. Cheryl Wilson and Freddie Dougherty combined for a 1,308 to win the doubles title.

Other singles placings were Freddie Dougherty (651); Tish Doan (638); Lillie Hernandez (628); Diane Bowden (615); Betty Cochran (614); Dorothy Vaughn (613); Belinda Stafford (612); Rita Stephens (611); Billie Gowdy (610); Marilyn Copeland (608); Nona Gray (607); Lois Rogers (606); Jackie Evans (602); Ruby King (598); Carol Johnson (598); Kim Mize (597); Debbie Bryan (597); Ina Reading (595) and Freida Sturgill (595).

Also placing in doubles were Eva Jo Brown-Betty Cochran (1,263); Gwen Killgo-Ruby King (1,259); Trudy Gideon-Barbara Turner (1,247); Fleta Anderson-Betty King (1,208); Dorothy Vaughn-Wauline Reynolds (1,199); Belinda

Stafford-Tish Doan (1,195); Nancy Garrison-Sarah Newman (1,189); Diane Bowden-Nan Rhine (1,182); Kerrick Horton-Rachel Nail (1,179).

Trudy Gideon won handicap all-events with a 1,934.

Going into fast week's league action, Rudy's Automotive was atop the Men's Caprock standings with a 27-9 record.

Rudy's has a solid team from top to bottom. Anchor man Ted Erickson carries a 183 average while R.O. Johnson, Dale Haynes and Bryant Nail are all at 179. Joe Achord follows at 165.

Miller Jewelry holds down second place with a 24-12 record while Culberson-Stowers is third at 22-14.

Summer league sheets are posted at Harvester Lanes. A dozen leagues are looking for bowlers this summer.

Pampa Men's City Tournament is underway now at Harvester Lanes. It ends next weekend.

Chase Production rolled a 3,116 last year to win the team title. Bryant Nail won both the singles (670) and all-events handicap titles (1,979). Howard Musgrave claimed scratch all-events with a 1,814. Elmer Williams and Tommy Hollis posted a 1,248 series to win the doubles title.

Tenpin Tips: One of the most popular bowlers on the old "Make That Spare" television show was burly Junior Powell.

Powell, now in his 50s, was one of the best bowlers in the nation before the Professional Bowlers Association came along. He carried a 191 average for 30 years of ABC tournament play. He once carried a 224 average in league play in his hometown of Toledo, Ohio.

Powell's secret to success is interesting as he explains: "I always pictured the foul line as a solid brick wall extending up, and if you didn't complete your ball release properly at the right spot you would bang right into that wall. I made it my business to get the ball away at that precise spot. That practice got me out of many a bad slump. If you don't observe that imaginary wall, you release the ball too early or too late, and the ball just doesn't have the action it should."

Rice edges Arkansas

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Second baseman David Van Horn stroked an RBI single to left field in the bottom of the seventh to boost Arkansas over Rice 2-1 in the first game of a double-header Saturday.

The 11th-ranked Razorbacks embarrassed the Rice Owls 17-2 in the Southwest Conference nightcap.

Van Horn's game-winning single scored John Benberg from second to break a 1-all tie. Mike Robinson led off the seventh with a double down the left field line, but Rice's Mike Horn nabbed him at third on a Benberg bunt.

Benberg then stole second to set up Van Horn's winning shot over third baseman

David Edwards that brought Benberg home.

Rice scored first in the game on a sacrifice bunt in the third that scored Mike Fox. The Razorbacks countered in the fifth with a sacrifice by Chris Shaddy that scored Benberg.

The Razorbacks were all warmed up for the nightcap, although the Owl posted two runs before Arkansas got on the board in the second.

Chandler retains WBA bantam title

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jeff Chandler stopped former classmate Johnny Carter at 2:28 of the sixth round Saturday to successfully defend his World Boxing Association bantamweight championship for the fifth time.

Chandler, now 28-0-2 with 15 knockouts, caught Carter on the ropes near his own corner in the nationally televised fight. As Carter spun out, Chandler led with a right and connected with a left hook that sent the challenger staggering into his corner.

After a standing eight count, Chandler closed in on the nearly defenseless Carter, hitting him repeatedly with left jabs and right hooks before referee Frank Cappocino stopped the fight.

For Chandler, 25, the victory was also a measure of revenge since his only loss in the ring had been to Carter in 1975 when both were amateurs. Carter came into this fight ranked second by the WBA.

It was the first championship bantamweight fight between two Americans since 1947.

Carter and Chandler both attended the same high school here, but Carter went to Las Vegas after turning pro in 1977 when he could not get fights in Philadelphia. Carter, now 23-2, earned $50,000 to the champion's $150,000.

Chandler, the first American to hold a bantamweight crown since 1950, connected with a good left hook 22 seconds into the fourth round. The champion continued to score with short lefts and uppercuts in clinch fighting and opened a small cut on Carter's right cheek midway through the round.

Chandler seemed to get more confident as the fight progressed, taunting the challenger and several times winding up his right hand in a theatrical show.

Carter came out dancing in the first round as he promised he would, but before the first round was over, he was boxing Chandler toe-to-toe.

Carter stopped dancing in the second round, and Chandler began hitting him with uppercuts in the clinches.

In the fifth round, Cappocino warned Chandler about a hook to the midsection, but took no points from the champion. The challenger, 24, was strongly supported by the crowd in his first fight back home in nearly four years.

Rangers down Braves in exhibition game

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Jim Sundberg belted his first home run of the spring while Frank Tanana, Paul Mirabella and Danny Darwin checked Atlanta on six hits as the Texas Rangers clipped the Braves 5-1 in an exhibition baseball game Saturday afternoon.

The Rangers lifted their spring record to 12-7 with the win and Tanana, the free agent left-hander who signed with Texas this winter, raised his ledger to 2-0. The loser was Atlanta starter Larry McWilliams.

The Braves took a 1-0 lead in the top of the second on infield hits by Rufino Linares and Matt Sinatro and a sacrifice fly by Randy Johnson.

Mark Wagner delivered a two-run single for Texas in the bottom of the second and came all the way around to score himself on a throwing error by the catcher Sinatro.

Sundberg slugged his home run in the fourth, immediately after Ranger rookie centerfielder George Wright doubled off the left field wall, extending his hitting streak to 16 games.

AHS girls extend lead in district golf race

CLARENDON—Three Amarillo High golfers broke 100 to pace the Sandies to a 28-stroke victory Friday in the District 3-5A girls' golf tournament's second round at the Clarendon Country Club course.

Cindy Shanks carded a 94, while Brenda Moreland scored 97 and Nancy Avery shot 98 to lead AHS, which now holds a commanding 48-stroke advantage (783-831) over Tascosa in the overall standings through two rounds.

Julia Jones of Tascosa won medalist honors Friday with a 91.

Pampa shot a 447 Friday to stand fourth with a 929 total score.

Tryout dates slated for Babe Ruth baseball

Baseball tryouts for boys 13-18 years old wanting to play in the Babe Ruth League this summer will be held at the Optimist Club building, 601 Craven, March 30-31 and April 1, beginning at 5:30 p.m. Boys 13-15 must make two of the three tryout dates. Boys 16-18 must sign up, but will start playing at a later date. If unable to attend because of a sickness or being out of town on the sign-up dates, call league president James Davis at 665-4160.

Records set at UIL swim meet

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Chris Rives of Houston Memorial and Diana Zock of Conroe McCulloch were named outstanding swimmers at the University Interscholastic League swimming and diving meet Saturday at the University of Texas.

Rives set a new national record in the 100-yard butterfly with a time of 48.49, snapping the old record of 48.50, set in 1980. Rives also established a new state record in the 200-yard individual medley, swimming the course in 1:50.50, topping his own 1980 record of 1:52.59.

Zock captured the 200 and 500-yard freestyle events, breaking her old mark in the 500 to set a new state record. Zork won the 200 in 1:50.71 and broke the record of 4:53.26 with a time of 4:52.70.

Vanessa Richley of San Antonio Lackland won the 200-yard individual medley with a 2:05.87, breaking the state record of 2:06.86 she set in the preliminaries. Amy McLeod of Humble Kingwood also set a new state mark, swimming the 50 yard-freestyle in 23.55. Her old mark, set in 1981, was 23.79.

Former tennis pro leads Heritage Golf Classic

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Frank Conner, a former tennis pro seeking his first victory on the PGA tour, fought his way through cold, gusty winds to a 1-under-par 70 and a one-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the $300,000 Sea Pines-Heritage Classic.

Conner, 36, in his eighth year on the pro golf tour, put together a 54-hole total of 207. He was six shots under par for three trips over the difficult Harbour Town Golf Links that winds 6,650 yards through piney woods and along the marshes of Calibogue Sound.

Despite a shaky finish with bogeys on three of his last four holes, 22-year-old Fred Couples was second at 208 after a 71.

"Actually, I'm pretty fortunate," said the tour sophomore, who one-putted for two of those bogeys. "I could have had a couple of doubles in there and got away with bogeys."

Tom Watson, the current Masters champ and a former winner of this prestigious event, and Scott Hoch were another shot back at 209. Hoch had a 69, and Watson managed a 72 despite some erratic iron play.

Doug Tewell and Craig Stadler, each with a par 71, were at 210, only three back and well within striking range. Ed Sneed, who made up a lot of ground with a 68, and Australian Bob Shearer, with a 71, were at 211.

"A heaven-sent day," Sneed said of the wind and cold. "You know that with conditions like this, the field, generally, is going to back up. If you can get in with a decent score, you can go past a lot of guys."

Bill Rogers and Tom Kite, who combined to unseat Watson as golf's leading performer last season, were at 215. Rogers, the 1981 Player of the Year and defending champion in the Heritage, had a 72, and Kite, last season's leading money-winner, shot a 73. Jerry Pate, a winner last week, went to a 76 and was far, far back at 220.

Couples birdied three of his first four holes and appeared to be poised to make a rout of it. He got it to 8-under par on two occasions, then backed off with three consecutive bogeys starting on the 15th, where he took two to get out of a bunker.

He put a wedge in a bunker and bogeyed the 16th, then bogeyed the 17th, where he flew the green, put his next in a bunker and had to get up and down for bogey.

While Couples was scattering bogeys and birdies all over the course, Conner remained steady. He birdied the ninth from five feet but 3-putted for bogey on the 16th. He got that stroke back, and sole control of the lead, with an eight-foot birdie putt on the 17th.

WATCHING IT FLY. Tom Watson of Watson ended play with a five under par Mission Hills, Kansas and some of the 137 and a five-way tie for the tournament gallery watch as his chip shot flies to the lead. (AP Laserphoto)

Louisiana Tech takes on Cheney State for women's cage title

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Louisiana Tech's Leon Barmore summed up the problem his Lady Techsters could face when they battle Cheney State today for the NCAA's first women's Division I basketball title.

"They may be better than we are," the assistant coach of last year's AIAW champions said at a news conference Saturday.

No. 1 Louisiana Tech easily defeated a Tennessee team rattled by pressure defense 69-46 in the semifinals Friday. The second-ranked Lady Wolves broke open in the second half for a 76-66 victory over Maryland.

They face each other at noon in a nationally televised game.

Tech, 34-1, is big-time women's basketball, dominating the sport for the past two years after usurping Old Dominion's crown. Cheney, a small college in Pennsylvania, plays with a professor who doubles as coach and has unpaid assistants.

Louisiana Tech is preceded by a great reputation," said Cheney State coach Vivian Stringer. "Now Tech will find itself up against a team that's gonna say, 'No.' I don't think there's an underdog."

"It comes down to five people on the court, so that's what we're talking about besides all the money all the other schools may have," said senior Valerie Walker, who contributed 20 points to Cheney's semifinal win.

HAVING A BALL. North Carolina's Sam Perkins (right) and Houston's Lynden Rose (00) and Larry Micheaux go after the ball during the the NCAA semifinals Saturday at the New Orleans Superdome. North Carolina won, 68-63, to advance to the finals Monday night. (AP Laserphoto)

North Carolina holds off Houston to advance into NCAA cage finals

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Sam Perkins and James Worthy, the pillars of North Carolina's offense, took control late in the game. Giving Coach Dean Smith another chance to win that elusive national championship, North Carolina blew an early lead, then regrouped behind the four-corner offense to defeat Houston, 68-63 Saturday in the semifinals of the NCAA Basketball Tournament.

"We're delighted to be in the Final Two," said Smith, who will be going after his first national title in seven Final Four appearances. "We were there last year (losing to Indiana). Our work is cut out for us."

"We'd like to win, of course, but win or lose we've still had a successful year. Our world would not come to an end if we lost."

Houston's world, at least for this season, did come to an end. Perkins and Worthy saw to that by combining for 11 straight North Carolina points in the final 9½ minutes. Worthy scored six straight points, including a slam dunk after North Carolina went into the four-corner spread with seven minutes left. Perkins then scored his team's next five points as the Tar Heels built a lead they could live with.

"When it gets down to a single-digit lead, I start thinking about going into the four-corners," said Smith, whose team lead 52-48 when the slowdown began.

North Carolina breezed to a 14-0 lead to open the game, but Houston's powerful baseline game got the Cougars back into contention.

"We were getting shots from the baseline," Perkins said. "But then they started to block out. They go to the boards really well. And all of sudden we had a ballgame."

Perkins scored 25 points and had 10 rebounds, while Worthy added 14 points and four rebounds to help the Tar Heels offset the Cougars' inside strength.

"Our cold start in both halves hurt us," Houston Coach Guy Lewis said, adding that a poor game by guard Rob Williams also hurt. Williams was 0-for-8 from the field, scoring only on two free throws, and Lewis said: "I don't know what happened to him. North Carolina did a good job on him, but a lot of teams have done a good job on him. It looked liked he wasn't trying."

Williams went into the game with 21.8 points per game average.

Smith, whose strategy may have won it, almost let the game get away in the first half. After the Tar Heels breezed to their 14-0 lead, Smith began wholesale substitution that allowed Houston to regroup.

Smith said it was the law of averages, not his strategy, that allowed Houston to rally.

"When you get two very good teams and one gets an early lead, it's just the percentage that they will come back," Smith said.

Whatever the reason, Houston trailed 31-29 at halftime.

Georgetown rallies past Louisville

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Georgetown parlayed the finesse of Eric Smith and the power of Patrick Ewing into a 30-46 victory over Louisville in the semifinals of the NCAA Basketball Championships Saturday, giving the Hoyas their first chance at a national title since 1943.

Smith, carrying much of the offensive load for four-troubled Eric "Sleepy" Floyd, scored eight straight Georgetown points in a 14-4 run that erased a one-point deficit and produced a nine-point lead.

Smith, who averaged only 9.3 points a game in the regular season, scored 14, including an assortment of twisting layups, back-door plays and jump shots to help the Hoyas end Louisville's title hopes.

The victory earned Georgetown the right to meet top-ranked North Carolina Monday night for the national championship. In their only other appearance in the Final Four, Georgetown lost to Wyoming 51-43 in the 1943 title game.

Battling Louisville all the way, the Hoyas intimidated the Cardinals inside, with the 7-foot freshman Ewing blocking shots, causing turnovers and harriving shooters.

The Cardinals, national champions in 1980, trailed by only 24-22 at the half. They outscored Georgetown 8-5 in the first 4:03 of the second half, twice taking one-point leads, the final time on a 15-foot baseline shot by Wiley Brown that made it 30-29 with 15:57 to play.

That's when Georgetown exploded. Floyd, Georgetown's All-American guard, started it with a pair of free throws and Ewing added a layup on a feed from Fred Brown.

Then Smith took over. He scored two baskets before Floyd picked up his fourth personal foul, forcing him to the bench. Smith then hit another basket and pair of foul shots and Ewing capped the run with two free throws that made it 43-34 with 5:50 left.

Sixth-ranked Georgetown still clung to a nine-point lead, 47-38, when Louisville began to show championship-caliber courage. The Cardinals, ranked No. 20 in the final Associated Press ratings, outscored Georgetown 8-2 over the next three minutes and trailed by only 49-46 on a basket by Derek Smith with 14 seconds left.

Georgetown's Eric Smith had a chance to sew up the victory when he went to the line with a one-and-one with 11 seconds left, but he missed the first shot. But Louisville lost the rebound out of bounds and when Georgetown inbounded, Floyd was fouled. Floyd sank the first of two free throws, sending Louisville home for the season with a 23-10 record. Georgetown upped its record to 30-6 in only its seventh appearance in the NCAA Tournament.

Louisville, with four starters back from its championship team of two years ago, managed to neutralize the brute force of Ewing through much of the first half by using a swarming, double-and-sometimes triple-teaming defense. The Cardinals were able to force Georgetown to shoot from the outside.

The Hoyas built their biggest lead of the first half, 18-12, by scoring six straight points, including four in nine seconds by freshman Anthony Jones.

But the Cardinals rallied with a 6-2 burst that brought them within 20-18 on a baseline shot by Derek Smith with 5:38 left in the first half.

Floyd managed to avoid fouling out and contributed 13 points. The top scorer for Louisville was Derek Smith with 10, and Charles Jones and Jerry Eaves had eight apiece.

The victory set up a showdown with North Carolina, which got to the final by beating Houston 68-63 earlier Saturday before an all-time NCAA record crowd for basketball of 61,612 in the Louisiana Superdome.

Astros' pitcher challenges Texas law

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros pitcher J.R. Richard, whose major league career was sidlined by a stroke, is challenging a Texas law that limits malpractice awards to $500,000.

Richard, in a lawsuit filed Friday in state district court, alleges the team physician, Dr. Harold Brelsford, and three doctors at Methodist Hospital misdiagnosed an ailment that led to a life-threatening stroke on June 30, 1980.

Also named in the suit were Michael Feltovich, a specialist in internal and diagnostic medicine; Charles H. McCollum, a specialist in cardiology and vascular surgery; and Ben Cooper, a neurology specialist.

The suit does not specify damages sought by Richard and his wife, Carolyn, but challenges a Texas law limiting malpractice awards to $500,000, said Richard's attorney, Jeffrey Parsons.

The suit seeks to declare unconstitutional the statute limiting doctors' liability when alleged malpractice occurs during their hospital duties and asks that the couple be awarded damages "many times" the amount now allowed by law.

Richard and his agent, Tom Reich, could not be reached for comment. Astros general manager Al Rosen, contacted in Cocoa, Fla., said he did not know about the suit and could not comment.

Richard, a National League All-Star whose fastball was clocked at 100 mph, has two years remaining on his $850,000-a-year contract.

He has not pitched since the mid-1980 National League season. However, he has regularly pitched batting practice at the Astros spring training this year.

Richard's physical problems surfaced June 17, 1980. He walked off the mound in the 6th inning of a game against the Chicago Cubs, complaining of a "dead" arm.

Doctors performed several tests on Richard and said they found blockage. They concluded, however, the pitcher did not need surgery and allowed him to resume pitching.

A week later, Richard collapsed while working out in the Astrodome and was rushed to Methodist, where he underwent surgery to remove a blood clot in his neck.

The suit alleged the doctors failed to remove all the clot lodged in the subclavian cavity, causing Richard to require additional surgery in California the following September.

As a result of the "acts and omissions" of the Houston doctors, Richard has sustained "great physical and emotional damage," the suit said.

He wins money, not titles Why Tom Kite is pro golf's 'best man'

By Murray Olderman

LOS ANGELES (NEA) — You won't find Tom Kite jumping into a lake to celebrate a victory. He won't brandish his clubs ferociously when things are going bad. Or twist them around a tree. He won't even use any deleted expletives.

His hair is cotton blond. His clothes are slim and trim, like Tom's. His face would never be picked out of a police lineup. It's round and expressionless. His voice is soft and Texas flat.

You could order him out of Neiman-Marcus catalog, labeled, "Professional Golfer."

From a media standpoint, the best thing about him is that his name will fit almost any headline size.

Not that Tom makes headlines. And that's the wonder of Tom Kite.

His father put a golf club into the hands of little Tommy back home in Austin, Texas, when he was 6 years old. At 11, he won his first tournament. At 22, in 1972, he turned professional.

It's like one of those computer experts in California's Silicon Valley clicked a few buttons, programmed a tour professional, and out came Tom Kite.

He is coming up to $1.5 million in official prize earnings. Since 1976, he has never made less than $100,000 annually. In 1981, he hit the big bonanza, emerging as golf's leading money-winner, dethroning Tom Watson and walking away with $375,699 in tournament loot.

That puts him in the hallowed company of such past leading money-winners as Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Arnold Palmer, Sam Snead and Ben Hogan. And Paul Runyan, who won the grand total of $6,767 to emerge on top when they first started calculating prize money in 1934.

Kite is well on his way to repeating in 1982, having banked $150,910 through mid-March, when he finished second in the Inverrary Golf Classic. Yet he has never won a major tournament, meaning one of the Big Four.

In fact, it has been a struggle for him to win any tournament. His specialty has been Top 10 finishes. Tom is always in the money, but the other guy usually gets the girl.

TOM KITE, known as Mr. Consistent in pro golf, is still shooting for his first major championship. Yet thanks to his skill under big-money pressure, he's been named by Golf Digest as the early favorite to win the 1982 Masters.

Slim Bill Rogers, another taciturn Texan, once won $230,500 in a single year (1979) and never won a tournament.

Yet it doesn't bother Kite that he's been designated as the "best man." While winning more money than anyone in the world last year playing golf, he won only one tournament, that same Inverrary.

"A lot of emphasis is put on it, by sports writers trying to be critical," he says blandly. "But others talk about how consistent I play."

"Now consistency is great if you're baking bread, but it doesn't create a whole lot of excitement, which turns out to be exactly what Tom Kite is trying to avoid."

"To be a professional golfer," he analyzes, "you got to be a fairly driving person, be very competitive, but you can't have too many highs and lows."

"That's what the press doesn't understand, or refuses to understand. In football or basketball, you want to be emotional because that's what gets you pumped up. In golf, because the whole purpose is to control the ball, the touch is such that you don't want to have your adrenalin pumping too much. The press refuses to accept that's the nature of the game."

So he tromps blithely along, content in the knowledge that as long as he finishes among the leaders, he has played well, which to him is the purpose of the game.

"Not for just a couple of weeks," he explains, "but for the whole year — that's the significance of being the leading money-winner last year. That's very pleasing."

Yet somewhere the competitive fires must burn to dominate. To win the Open or the Masters or the PGA or the British Open. Tom ponders that thesis and concludes: "I guess I won't be satisfied until I do. But very few ever win a major championship. I like myself as a person, no matter what I do or don't do. That's not going to change Tom Kite one way or the other."

In other words, nothing except a prolonged series of skulled shots is going to disturb his equanimity. "I enjoy the tour," he says. "I'm happy with the life I'm leading. I enjoy going to different cities, meeting people. I don't have a whole lot of complaints about anything."

This season, he picked up his quota of one win: a victory in the Bay Hill Golf Classic, which gives him five for his career.

Kite's game is perfectly tailored for his personality. He's not a big man, at 5-foot-8½ and 155 pounds. He can't match the big hitters in golf — though he once reached the green at the 625-yard 16th hole at Akron Firestone in two. He'd rather put the ball out 250 yards in the center of the fairway than 280 yards and land in the rough.

"I consider myself to be a good player," says the 32-year-old Texan (he still resides in his native Austin). "Not quite in my prime yet, but still working to get there."

Does it bother him that he has been consigned to the plastic mold that seems to fit today's breed of golf pro — intense, humorless, controlled, dull? "Accountants fit into a mold," he shrugs. "Steelworkers, too."

Astros edge Cardinals

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Nolan Ryan tuned up for his National League season opening assignment Saturday with seven strong innings and catcher Alan Knicely's second-inning homer gave the Houston Astros a 2-1 exhibition victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Astros, 6-9 in the Grapefruit League, scored both runs off St. Louis starter John Martin and the Cardinals, with five runners thrown out on the bases, slipped to 10-8.

Dickie Thon hit a first-inning single off the foot of the left-handed Martin, stole second and came around on a single by Terry Pohl and Mike Ivie's groundout.

Knicely, a converted pitcher, led off the second with his first spring homer to make it 2-0.

The Cards scored their only run on Darrell Porter's leadoff double, Dane Iorg's first of two hits and Ken Oberkfell's fielder's choice bounce to first baseman Ivie.

The 35-year-old Ryan, who has thrown five no-hitters during his 14-season career, allowed seven hits in seven innings and left-handed reliever Joe Sambito permitted four hits in the last two as rookie David Green lined into a game-ending double play with Cardinal runners on first and second.

Phelps says college players are paid

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The going rate for a front-line college basketball player is $10,000 a year, paid under the table and in untraceable cash, Notre Dame basketball Coach Digger Phelps says.

"It's not coming from the coaches, but from assistants, boosters and alumni," Phelps told The Associated Press Thursday night via telephone from his hotel in New Orleans. "The going rate is about $40,000 over four years."

Phelps, who is here to attend the National Association of Basketball Coaches' meeting and the final two rounds of the NCAA Tournament, said he has informed the NCAA of his suspicions concerning several schools, "but one situation in particular," as long as a year ago.

He said he would not name the school publicly, nor would he say whether any action had resulted from his conversations with Bill Hunt, NCAA assistant executive director for enforcement.

The AP phoned the NCAA at its headquarters hotel here, but the call was not returned.

"We're all concerned with what's going on today in college athletics," Phelps said. "In our sport, the NCAA is doing a great job — yet, at the same time, their hands are tied by cash transactions they can't prove."

"There has to be a review of the situation. From all the rumors that have been going on, it becomes obvious, when you hear enough talk, that we have a problem."

Several other coaches agreed with Phelps' charges, although North Carolina State's Jim Valvano expressed surprise. "Digger said that? I'm shocked," was all Valvano would say.

Abe Lemons, fired earlier this month as coach at the University of Texas, told the Cable News Network: "Of course it's true. It's about time someone said it. All coaches are going to say it, but won't say it involves them."

Phelps said payments were being made to prospective college freshmen in the form of season tickets, cash and other untraceable transactions.

As he has in the past, Phelps recommended stronger penalties for rules violations and a more carefully planned program to educate incoming college freshmen.

"When a youngster is recruited, he should know two things — one, what the rules for recruiting are, and two, what goes on after he's in school," Phelps said. He said informational booklets sent to prospective college athletes outlining NCAA rules are insufficient.

"Even with the flyers, you've got to be more organized," he said. "Youngsters and parents should be required to sign an affidavit saying, 'We understand the rules.' They should send it back to the NCAA, and the NCAA releases a list that says, 'Okay, now you can recruit these players.'"

Mary Jane Rose Johnson heads list of stars to perform during the 1982-83 Community Concert Season

The Pampa Community Concert Association has begun its 38th annual membership campaign. Last Sunday's Workers' Tea was the kick-off day for renewal week for those patrons already holding membership in the association. During this week, March 28 - April 3, remaining memberships are available for new members. A sell-out audience of 1,500 persons is expected again this year.

Forty-four years of presentations by the Community Concert Association has allowed Pampans to experience world famous artists in all areas of musical expertise. Among those concerts most remembered by some are the Trapp Family, Rise Stevens, Arthur Fiedler, the Royal Philharmonic of London, Ferrante and Teicher and Guy Lombardo. M. K. Brown auditorium serves as a compliment both to the artists and to Pampa as few cities can boast of such a fine facility to accommodate star performers.

The 1982-83 Pampa Community Concert season promises to be one of the most varied and exciting yet. The four concert offerings are: Mary Jane Rose Johnson, soprano; Ballet Folclorico Nacional De Mexico; Rostal and Schaefer, piano duo; and the Big Band Cavalcade.

Headquarters for this year's campaign will again be located in the lobby of the Coronado Inn Hotel. A full staff of workers will be there to assist those interested in becoming new members. Further information may be obtained by calling headquarters at 665-2690 or by contacting Lilith Brainard, 2125 Mary Ellen. Membership fees are: $15 for adult; $8 for students; and $38 for family (2 adults and 2 or more children). In accordance with the New York based Community Concert Association, no tickets are sold for individual performances.

An additional bonus is offered to new members of the 1982-83 concert year. By presenting membership stubs, new members will be able to attend the final concert of the 1981-82 season, The Roger Wagner Chorale, at 8 p.m. on April 8.

The Pampa Community Concert is led by Mrs. William L. Hallberg, president. Other officers are: Mrs. H. J. Johnson, first vice president; Mrs. R. W. Curry, second vice president; Mrs. Richard Steele, third vice president; Paul Brown, treasurer; Mrs. M. Q. Wilson, corresponding secretary; and William H. Tuke, house chairman. Other directors are Curt Beck, Mrs. Hugh Burdette, Mrs. D. F. DeWeese, Mrs. E. L. Green, Jr., William Haley, Mrs. C. B. Hawkins, Dr. Ron Hendricks, Warren Hasse, Kenneth Fields, Homer Johnson, Mrs. Darville Orr, Mrs. Lonnie Richardson, Jack Skelly, L. Dudley Steele, Mrs. Victor P. Raymond, Mrs. Robert R. Williams and Mrs. Wilbur R. Whitsell.

Soprano Mary Jane Rose Johnson is one of America's most promising young artists. Her versatile repertoire including oratorio, German lieder, French chansons, opera and operetta have brought her both critical praise and numerous awards.

The Big Band Cavalcade is scheduled to bring favorites from the past by the artist who made them happen. Included in the show will be Frankie Carle, Roberta Sherwood, The De Castro Sisters and Jack Morgan.

Do you remember "Sunrise Serenade" by Frankie Carle, "You're Nobody Till Somebody Loves You," the song which launched Roberta Sherwood's meteoric career and was written by none other than Russ Morgan; "Teach Me Tonight," a hit song of the De Castro Sisters; "Does Your Heart Beat for Me," Russ Morgan's great theme song.

All of these and more will be presented by the Big Band Cavalcade in what is bound to be a night to remember.

The internationally acclaimed Peter Rostal and Paul Schaefer will bring their twin pianos to the M. K. Brown auditorium.

Rostal and Schaefer have firmly established themselves as the most popular duo-piano team in their native England and are currently enjoying an impressive reputation on the international concert scene for their brilliant renditions of both classical and popular music. The 1981-82 season brings them to the United States for their fifth tour and, while here, these keyboard masters will travel with their Baldwin SF10 grand pianos.

Silvia Lozano's Ballet Folclorico Nacional de Mexico, hailed with rave reviews and audiences' standing ovations on its last U. S. tour, will appear in Pampa, courtesy of the Community Concert.

Considered the most authentic exponent of Mexico's folk dance and musical heritage, this company is the Mexican Government's official representative folkloristic troupe at home and abroad. Columbia Artist is privileged to present this distinguished company on its third sold-out coast-to-coast U. S. tour.

With exhilarating dancing, colorful music and dazzling costumes, the Ballet Folclorico Nacional will take you on a whirlwind journey through Mexico's diverse provinces and traditions.

Artist of the year Evelyn Epps to hold show

Pampa Fine Arts Association's 1982 Artist of the Year, Evelyn Epps, will hold her first show of '82 on Sunday, April 4 from 2 - 5 p.m. and Monday and Tuesday, April 5 & 6 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in Lovett Memorial Library.

Her artwork features Indians and local cowboys in natural settings characteristic of the Panhandle.

Included in her paintings are Skip Montgomery, Homer Taylor, Bud Crow, Billy Neal, Rod Smithers, The Bridwell Boys, Charlie Glison and many more recognizable to area residents.

"Don't be surprised to find yourself in other pictures," Mrs. Epps said.

Her show will include about 40 paintings of varying sizes in oil and acrylic.

"Anyone can paint a mountain, but to capture the beauty around you is very special," she said.

A champagne reception for members of the Pampa Fine Arts Association and the artist's guests is scheduled for April 3 from 7 - 9 p.m.

MR. AND MRS. LEROY THORNBURG JR.

Aparicio-Thornburg

Elizabeth Ann Aparicio and Leroy Thornburg, Jr. were united in marriage on Saturday, Jan. 13 at 4 p.m. in St. Anthony's Catholic Church in Palacios, Texas.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer J. Aparicio, Sr. of Palacios, Texas. She is employed by the South Texas Nuclear Job.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Thornburg, Sr. of Pampa. He is employed by the South Texas Nuclear Job.

The couple will make their home in Bay City Texas.

MRS. JOE DAN HOLLAND

Reunion planned for Class of '56

Organizers for the Pampa High School class of 1956 are planning a class reunion for Saturday, July 3rd. The day's events will include a morning coffee and business meeting, an afternoon picnic and an evening barbeque.

Help is needed in locating the following classmates: Danny Brister, Jerold Clark, Bill Cobb, John Dial, Becky Dodson, Gene Emerson, Jerry Gee, Kenneth Gorman, Gary Green, Arlene Hazel, Connie Head, Jerry Hill, Bill Hogan, Jerry Hunter, Charlene Moore, Ruth Mounce, Loyd Moxley, Sandra Noblitt, Lucy Jo Neely, Frank Outhier, James Owensby, Dorothy Payne, Don Pendergrass, Mary Pippen, Wendell Powell, Tommy Rhoten, Wayne Rogers, Melvin Romines, Perry Schanefelt, Norman Smith, Paula Stevenson, Helen Steward, Edward Stickland, Velda Thompson, Gene Vinyard, Betty Wagner, Betty Walker, Bill Weatherford, Leon Wood, and Ronald Woods.

Information concerning any of these people should be called to Mary Janis (Silcott) Lewis, 665 - 3458 or Jerrine (Shelton) Clark, 665 - 3107. Any help will be sincerely appreciated.

MRS. STEVENSTEINTJES

Bray-Steintjes

Deborah Bray and Steven Eugene Stientjes were united in marriage March 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the Wellshire Presbyterian Church of Denver, Colorado, with the Rev. Joe Hadley officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bray of Rockport, Texas. She is a graduate of Pampa High and Texas Tech University. She is employed by The United Bank of Denver.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Dr. Austin Lovelace.

The bride was attended by Deborah Strine, Kathy Bray, Dana Stientjes, Pam Bride, and Jennifer Strine as flower girl.

The groom was attended by Dr. Lawrence Larson, Gene Stientjes, Robert Connor and Eric Peterson.

A reception was held in the Wellshire Inn after the wedding. Kathy Brown attended the guest book. The couple danced to the music of The Malcom Smith Orchestra.

The couple will make their home in Denver, Colorado after a honeymoon trip to the British Virgin Islands on a Windjammer Cruise.

Reduce sodium intake

Reducing sodium consumption and low sodium diets will be the topic for a special program, Tuesday, March 30, at 2:00 p.m. in the Courthouse Annex Meeting Room. Mary K. Sweeten, Extension Food and Nutrition Specialist, will make the presentation. Mrs. Sweeten has had experience as a therapeutic dietician and is well qualified to present accurate, up-to-date, information on special diets and other diet and nutrition related topics. She has been a guest speaker for several diet-related programs in the past.

Most Americans are consuming too much sodium in the form of table salt. Studies show that Americans get anywhere from five to twenty times more sodium than we need. Many of us are in the category of needing to reduce sodium consumption. Many people have been put on low sodium diets by doctors.

All interested persons are invited to attend the program. It is free of charge and sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Dear Abby

Lutheran pastors call the shots

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You were off base in your response to "Lutheran Mother of Four Daughters" who wrote in support of the pastor who refused to allow an obviously pregnant bride to have "I'm Having His Baby" sung at her wedding. Your answer: "A pregnant bride is also entitled to a church wedding with a 'soloist, fanfare, etc.' if that's what she wants. It is not the pastor's function to judge her. That's the Lord's job."

That answer might have been all right if you had preceded it with: "In my opinion." As it stands, it is dead wrong — at least in Lutheran practice.

Lutherans consider a church wedding a religious service and have strict rules as to how it is to be conducted. No secular music is allowed. There are rules on the types of floral arrangements. A specific liturgy must be followed; bride and groom may not prescribe their own rites, etc.

The Lutheran pastor is charged with seeing that these rules are carried out and may refuse a church wedding to those who insist on deviating from them. He may, in fact, refuse to marry a couple if he feels they are not entering the marriage in a right relationship. On the other hand, he may perform a secular marriage for the couple at another location if they choose not to abide with the church wedding rules.

So you see, a bride (pregnant or not) is not necessarily entitled to a church wedding with a soloist, fanfare, etc., if that's what she wants — at least not in a Lutheran church. I think you owe your readers a correction.

AN OHIO LUTHERAN

DEAR LUTHERAN: I do, and you provided the evidence, for which I thank you. I stand corrected.

DEAR ABBY: I sit home about two nights a week while my wife goes out to play tennis with her friends. Abby, there is no way I could ever be interested in that sport.

I tell her she has no right to leave me alone, but she says she has her own life to live and I should find something of interest to do myself while she's playing tennis.

This argument is shaking our marriage. Who is right? UNHAPPY

DEAR UNHAPPY: She is. Even though you are not a tennis player, the ball is in your court!

DEAR ABBY: All those letters in your column about "the missing silverware" apparently caused a twinge of conscience in one of our past dinner guests.

My husband and I just received a package containing the clipping of your column plus a knife, fork and spoon!

But here's the kicker: It wasn't our pattern! STILL LAUGHING IN ST. PETERSBURG, FLA.

Urinalysis screening to be held in Pampa schools

A urinalysis screening project designed to detect kidney disease among school age children will be held in the Pampa Public Schools on April 5-8th 1982.

The program, sponsored by the National Kidney Foundation of West Texas, is free of charge to the school and students.

Children who participate in the screening must return a signed consent form. The form and letter to the parents have been distributed to the students.

The purpose of the project, which is being sponsored through out the Panhandle, is to detect Kidney disease early and to distribute educational materials and information through the Public School System.

Dr. Miguel Rios, Chief Nephrologist at the Amarillo High Plains Dialysis Center and president of the National Kidney Foundation of West Texas Board of Directors, states that 50 percent of all patients presently on Dialysis could have avoided the costly, time-consuming treatment if they had been diagnosed during childhood. Some Kidney diseases can be present for 20 years before any symptoms are present. By then, 85 to 90 percent of the Kidney functions can be lost.

Before the children are screened, volunteers present an educational program to the children covering such topics as the function of the Kidneys, Kidney disease and treatment.

The urinalysis screening consists of a simple procedure. Children are asked to go into the restroom and give a urine sample in a papercup.

The child gives the cup to a nurse, who inserts a dip stick into the sample. The color will then tell if the child has any abnormal kidney function.

The tests check PH, Glucose, Protein, and Blood in the Urine.

If a child shows some tendencies towards Kidney disease, the Parents will be informed that their child should be seen by their Family Physician.

The screening is funded entirely through donations. The Pampa Noon Lions Club is furnishing the Educational Materials for this project.

Pioneer Telephone Club will assist with the children. Mary Summers will be organizing the workers.

Peeking at Pampa

Heard several old - timers talking about Pampa's history the other day. Every city has pride in its past. I'm sure. But since early - day Gray County is within the memory of many of our citizens here now, it's exciting to hear them tell of their experiences.

Almost every pioneer Panaman was an achiever. He had to be.

One outstanding one, of course, was Montagu Kingsmill Brown. Almost everywhere you look today, you see the beautiful possessions he left to us. The auditorium, the gifts to Pampa churches, our London Bridge, the Coronado Inn, so many other fine things we enjoy were given to us, in part or in full, by M.K. Brown. Somebody who knew him said

Mr. Brown told them he came to the Panhandle poor and made his fortune in Pampa, so he wanted to leave part of his wealth where he had built it. And he did, most generously.

Probably many of the newer people here did not have the opportunity of knowing him, so you may want to read about him. He was English and fought in the Boer War with Young Winston Churchill. After that war, he planned to go to Australia but his uncle, Andrew Kingsmill, has spent some time in the Texas Panhandle and persuaded his nephew to come here. Mr. Brown arrived with $100 in his pocket and went to work for the White Deer Land Company for $25 a month plus room and board. (Local history says he told people the board was what he slept on.) He was naturalized in 1914 and married Josie Barnes in 1922. He became associate manager of the company, then co - manager. He branched out into many businesses - railroads and oil among them.

He began boosing Pampa as soon as he landed here and kept doing it as long as he lived. He used to go south in the winter but show up again in Pampa in the spring, ready to lead the Rotary Club in "The Bells of St Mary's", his favorite song.

In the early days, there was a town band here - and Mr. Brown beat the bass drum with vigor and pleasure. He continued his love of band music - and, in his later years, when he gave London Bridge to the town, he acted as drum major and led the high school band across the bridge for the first time.

He met all the trains here, as long as he lived, continuing the custom he started when he first came to Pampa. Lots of us visited with him at the depot, entranced by his fascinating stories.

He sent many young people through college. He renovated the White Deer Land Company into the White Deer Land Museum with Clotilde Thompson as curator. Clotilde is still in charge there, surrounded by the best memorabilia of our area, welcoming all visitors.

Many mementos of Mr. Brown's are on display in the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium. He was still driving his own car when he turned into traffic and was killed. People remember that the last thing he said was, "Don't blame the boy."

Another early - day achiever who left a wonderful imprint on our community was T.D. Hobart. Historians of the area say he was called "the father of Pampa". He was manager of the White Deer Land Company for a while and was largely responsible for the population growth here, those years. He organized the First National Bank, the Stock Raisers' Association and many other worthwhile businesses. He was a student of land and government. Articles about him say he helped build the profit motive in the new southwest and was a friend to all new businesses and people.

Many of his relatives still live in and near Pampa. The Hobarts, the Fatherees, and others are proud to carry on his marvelous work. He helped change West Texas from an uncharted wilderness to a land of ranches and towns.

My best to you. PAM.

American Cancer Society slices the pie

"We want the people of Pampa to know how their contributions to the American Cancer Society are used to support life - saving programs against cancer. The breakdown of how the ACS funds are spent in Texas represents one of the best returns on the dollar that I know of", said Mike Keagy, president of the Gray - Roberts Unit of the ACS.

The accompanying graph shows the breakdown of how each dollar raised last year is being spent this fiscal year in Texas. The 102 percent expenditure reflects increased research allocations to Texas by the national society.

"The ACS is currently sponsoring research investigations in 13 major Texas hospitals, medical schools and universities totalling over $4 million", said Ms. Keagy. "Because Texas has so many research institutions the national society allocates additional funds here."

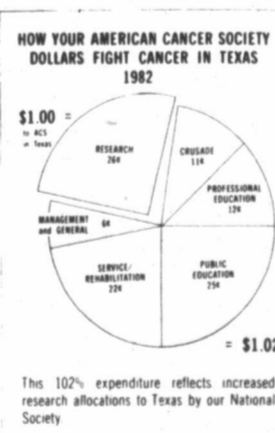

Programs of public education are primarily aimed at cancer detection and prevention. These impress upon people the need for finding and treating cancer early and show how to recognize the early warning signals.

According to Marge Penn, chairman of the public education committee, last year alone the local unit reached a total audience of over 6,000 with public education programs totalling more than $20,000 in actual dollar value.

"Patient services administered by the Gray - Roberts unit are designed to ease the strain placed on patients and their families when cancer strikes", explained Mary Smith, chairman of the service and rehabilitation committee. She continued, "These services in providing hospital equipment, transportation to and from treatment, information, counseling, rehabilitation visits and others amounted to over $2,000 in this local unit last year."

Ms. Keagy emphasized that 60 percent of all funds raised by the society remain in the state for use in local programs of cancer control.

"Fund raising costs for the society as a whole are a remarkably low 13 percent and administrative costs are only 9 percent", she said. She added, "When a Cancer Crusade volunteer comes to your door, we want you to feel confident that your gift is going to be well used."

'Best-kept secret' now on road to stardom

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tom Selleck, who once quipped that he was one of Hollywood's "best-kept secrets," is on the high road to stardom.

The tall, handsome actor, macho heir apparent to Burt Reynolds, has completed two years in the CBS series "Magnum, P.I." and is now in Yugoslavia filming the $18 million adventure movie "High Road to China." Earlier in March he starred in the TV movie "Divorce Wars."

Not bad consolation for a man who was first choice to play Indiana Jones in "Raiders of the Lost Ark," then lost it because of his commitment to "Magnum." Still, says Selleck, there are a few drawbacks to becoming a star.

"Within three weeks after your show goes on the air your whole life changes very fast," he says. "It's an enormous adjustment. You start talking about that — I don't think people want to hear that. They want to hear that everything is wonderful and you're on top of the world. I don't resent what's happened. I don't think it's a cross to bear, but it is a tremendous adjustment to all of a sudden lose all your privacy."

He has also had to pay a personal cost. He says, "I separated from my wife about six months before I did the pilot for 'Magnum.' A lot of people in the media immediately said, 'Well, it's the same old story, the actor gets a series and discards his wife like an old shoe.' That's hard on my wife and me and really unfair. We've been separated a long time, and being in Hawaii, working 80 hours a week, it would be very hard to work at any reconciliation."

He had hoped to spend a month after finishing "Magnum" with his 14-year-old son Kevin before going on to Yugoslavia. But "Magnum" ran over. He got to see his son for only a few minutes, but he hopes to bring him to Yugoslavia during his school vacation.

Since "Magnum" is filmed mostly on the streets of Honolulu, Selleck is seldom able to work out of the view of tourists. Every move is scrutinized. "That takes a lot out of you," he says. "You know subconsciously that everything you're doing is being photographed."

Selleck is in his cottage at the Beverly Hills Hotel. His hair is cut short for his role as the pilot in "High Road to China." He has had little rest since starting "Magnum" two years ago, and he admits that his complaints come from the weariness brought on by his exhausting schedule. At his first break, he fled to Seattle to join Jane Curtin in filming "Divorce Wars" for ABC.

Blood drips coldly from 'Strike Force'

By David Handler

"Strike Force" on ABC doesn't so much exploit violence as it does our fear of it. This show preys on the audience in precisely the same way its weekly mass murderers prey on the innocent citizens of Los Angeles. It is oversimplified, manipulative and morally repugnant. Blood drips from its fangs.

Each episode finds L.A. in the grip of terror. In one episode, someone is walking out of discos with innocent young women and brutally killing them — five in the last three weeks. In another episode, a Manson-like religious cult has savagely murdered 18 people in their homes, leaving the phrase "The day of my wrath has come" scrawled in blood on kitchen walls.

Rita Moreno tries series

By JERRY BUCK

AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Energy met Rita Moreno and fell in love. Or vice versa. Either way, the 50-year-old fiery actress, singer and dancer is trying something she's never done before — a television series.

And she's done just about everything else in show business and has an Oscar, a Tony, a Grammy and two Emmys to show for it.

Miss Moreno stars in the television version of the movie "9 to 5."

"It's sure nice to do a series," Miss Moreno says. "It's lovely to know what you're going to do next week. I imagine some people would tear their hair over that, but not when you've spent your whole life never knowing what you're going to do next."

Valerie Curtin and Rachel Dennison star with Miss Moreno in "9 to 5," which premiered on ABC Thursday. They are secretaries who have to fight a daily battle for respect, decent wages and a chance to move into management. Jeffrey Tambor plays their lecherous, tyrannical boss, and Jean Marsh ("Upstairs, Downstairs") plays his devoted assistant.

In the four-episode spring series, Miss Moreno portrays Violet Newstead, a widow with two children, who in 12 years with the company has gotten a lot of promises but little in the way of promotion. At the end of the film version, she was promoted to vice president. But in the series she's back to section chief.

"The thing that attracted me to the show, which I've been begging to do for years, is that it affords me an opportunity to represent the middle-aged woman on television," Miss Moreno said. "That you don't see enough of at all."

Miss Moreno won her Academy Award in 1961 for her role as Anita in "West Side Story." She won her first Emmy in 1977 for an appearance on "The Muppets," and her second in 1978 for her role as Rita Kapkovich on "The Rockford Files."

The Tony was awarded to Miss Moreno in 1975 for her comic Google Gomez — "she can't do anything right, but she does it with such panache" — in "The Ritz." The Grammy came for her 1972 musical contributions to "The Electric Company Album."

Miss Moreno recently completed work on the CBS movie "Jillian: Portrait of a Showgirl." And she has a night club act that she performs at the Sands in Atlantic City.

"I think that's why I'm still around," she said. "I can go in so many different directions. If something isn't working out I can do

She could have shot J.R.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer-actress Colleen Camp could have shot J.R.

Miss Camp played Kristin in two early episodes of the CBS television show "Dallas." She gave up the role to appear in the movie "They All Laughed," and Mary Crosby eventually was given the role of Kristin — the woman who shot the ornery J.R. Ewing in the highly rated show.

"I have no regrets," Miss Camp says. "You can get stuck in a role as a stereotype, but Mary Crosby will probably be typed as the woman who shot J.R." Miss Camp didn't get involved in the 1980 guessing game, "Who Shot J.R.?"

"I've only seen the two shows I did," she said. "I don't watch TV. I don't even own a TV."

In "They All Laughed," Miss Camp portrays Christy Miller, a husband-hunting country music singer. One of her songs from the film, "One Day Since Yesterday," has already made the country music charts. Another, "Kentucky Nights," should be released soon.

She also portrays Morgan Fairchild's best friend in the movie "Seduction." Her other film credits include "Apocalypse Now," "Battle for the Planet of the Apes," "The Gumball Rally," "Smile," "Funny Lady," "The Game of Death" and "Cloud Dancer."

Miss Camp was originally cast in "They All Laughed" as a jazz singer, but direct

Peter Bogdanovich changed her part to that of a country music singer when he heard her singing a country tune.

"I'm a big fan of Tammy Wynette, but I didn't want a twangy sound," she said. "She's an incredible singer with depth and sincerity."

"I've turned down a lot of stuff," Miss Camp said.

She admires country music for its simplicity and message.

Schweiker protests use of funds to promote condom week

WASHINGTON (AP) — A birth-control group's use of $1,000 in federal aid to promote a "National Condom Week" featuring a "Rubber Disco" dance has drawn criticism from Health and Human Services Secretary Richard S. Schweiker. The promotion by Planned Parenthood of Metropolitan Washington is "tasteless and a flagrant example of irresponsibility and bad judgment at any time, but especially in these times of budget restraint," Schweiker said Friday in a prepared statement.

The organization said it spent $1,000 of its $160,000 in federal funds promoting National Condom Week from Feb. 14 to 21. Mary D. Janney, the group's executive director, said it has staged the event for the past four years with the approval of its federal contract officer.

"The federal government knew very well how we were spending these funds," she said, adding that the group, one of the largest Planned Parenthood affiliates in the nation, hopes to stage the event next year. She said condoms are an important means "of preventing disease and unintended pregnancies." Schweiker said that federal family planning funds are supposed to be used "to educate the public in the proper and safe use of contraceptives, including condoms."

"But this outrageously crude promotion reflects a callous disregard of the need to use precious taxpayers' dollars most effectively to help the needy," he said. Schweiker charged that Planned Parenthood had "buried" mention of the promotion in its application for funds, which he said was "approved by a regional employee."

"I am directing that steps be taken to prevent any recurrence and have asked the inspector general to investigate," he said.

Ms. Janney said National Condom Week was part of a "larger men's program we have to inform and educate men about their role in matters of sexuality and family planning." "We've received money for this for the last four years and we saw absolutely nothing wrong in it," she said.

CARD OF THANKS

LEWIS E. McJUNKIN
 I wish to express my sincere appreciation and deep gratitude to our many friends and the membership of St. Mark's Church for their words of comfort and deeds of kindness at the loss of my darling husband. A special thanks to Dr. R. M. Hampton and the nurses. May God's richest blessing rest upon you.
 Now his work is ended, and he has lain down to rest; I seem to hear him whisper, "I Lord, I have done my best."
 Juanita McJunkin

HAROLD (JOE) PHILLIPS
 We want to thank everyone who has helped us so much during Joe Phillips' illness for the flowers, cards and prayers especially Hobart Baptist Church, Panhandle Industrial employees and all of our friends and neighbors. God bless you all.
 Sincerely,
 The Family of Harold (Joe) Phillips

IN MEMORY OF OUR BELOVED FATHER WILTON W. BRATCHER
 The family would like to express our deep appreciation to all those who comforted us in our hours of sorrow. A special thanks to Dr. R. M. Hampton and the nursing staff at Coronado Community Hospital for their special care during our father's illness. Also a special thanks to Carmichael-Whitley Funeral Directors; Red Weatherly at Fairview Cemetery and Hi Plains Monument Co.
 Also a very special thanks to Buna Gudgel and the other wonderful residents of the Pam Apartments for providing us with the community hall and such wonderful meals. To those who provided food, floral tributes, and messages of condolence, we are truly grateful. May God Bless each and every one of you.

Memorial to Vietnam veterans is reality

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Jan Scruggs first began pushing the idea of a memorial to Vietnam veterans three years ago, it was a lonely fight. Now his goal is in sight.

Scruggs joined 125 Vietnam veterans and dignitaries Friday to break ground for the memorial to remember the 2.7 million Americans who fought in one of the nation's most divisive wars. The goal is to finish in time to dedicate it Nov. 11, Veterans Day.

On a blustery day, Scruggs and the other Vietnam veterans were widely praised during the hour-long ceremony, with backers of the memorial hoping it will help unite the nation in honoring the men who fought.

"Let this memorial begin the healing process and forever stand as a symbol" of national unity, said Scruggs. Scruggs, an Army infantryman who was wounded in Vietnam, is president of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund, the organization he created to raise the $7 million needed for the memorial.

The memorial is being built on two acres in Constitution Gardens between the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Monument. It is in the shape of a "V," with the ends pointing toward the structures honoring the two presidents. The black granite walls will be inscribed with the names of the 57,692 dead and missing Americans.

Designed by a Yale University student, the memorial was criticized by some veterans, 27 members of Congress and the conservative publication National Review. They said it did not properly honor the veterans.

Two days ago, Scruggs announced a compromise in which a flagpole, a statue and two inscriptions will be added to the memorial.

Investors In Top O' Texas Youth

Officials of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and the Top O' Texas Junior Livestock Show express their thanks to all firms, clubs and individuals who supported this year's show and sale—A SPECIAL THANK YOU goes to all investors from our neighboring towns and communities.

A 1,245 pound calf was named Grand Champion of the Top O' Texas Junior Livestock Show. The calf shown above with its exhibitor Randy Skaggs of Pampa, was purchased for $2.00 per pound by the Pampa News who is represented by Mrs. Louise Fletcher.

The Grand Champion Lamb was exhibited by Neil Bentley of Panhandle. He and his lamb are shown above with Gary Sutherland and Ricky Boyd of Canadian Production Credit Co. of Pampa who purchased the 110 pound lamb for $5.00 per pound.

Charlie Coats of Pampa exhibited the Grand Champion Barrow. The 245 pound barrow is pictured above with its exhibitor and Layton Barton and Jerry Fulton representing the Top O' Texas Park Producers who purchased the barrow for $4.20 per pound.

Pampa New Car Dealers paid $11.15 per pound for the 1,225 pound Reserve Champion Calf. Bill Harris representing Pampa New Car Dealers is pictured above with its exhibitor Stormy Fulton of Pampa.

Amie Greene of Pampa exhibited the Reserve Champion Lamb. She and her lamb are shown above with Kenny Smith of Pampa Feed and Seed who purchased the 108 pound lamb for $4.00 per pound.

Layton Barton, representing Terry's Pharmacy of Perryton is shown above with Tony Crumpton of Ochiltree 4-H in Perryton who exhibited the Reserve Champion Barrow. The Reserve Champion weighed 245 pounds and was purchased for $3.20 per pound.

Pampa Chamber of Commerce President, Carl Kennedy, is shown above presenting the 1982 Citizenship Award for Randy Skaggs of Pampa. This award is given to a student in recognition of their excellence in agriculture and school activities as recommended by their FFA or 4-H leader.
