Columbia astronauts return home to begin debriefing

Columbia landed with a thump Tuesday at the White Sands Missile Range in New Mexico after staying in orbit an extra day to wait out a sandstorm that scrubbed a landing the day before.

It was the third test flight for Columbia, its toughest and longest. The spacecraft faces but one more test mission before it starts flying cargo for paying customers.

Lousma, arriving in Houston, called the mission "spectacular from end to end, particularly the toboggan down from upstairs."

In overcoming all its problems, he said, "Columbia demonstrated a maturity that was really unexpected."

The spacecraft landed at 9:05 a.m. MST Tuesday, completing a journey of more than 3.3 million miles and 129 orbits of the Earth. It dropped from space and sped across western Mexico and the United States before diving toward a safe touchdown on a dry lakebed amid New Mexico's mountains.

Except for some missing tiles on its skin and a few scars and scratches, Columbia was in good shape. Technicians quickly drained surplus fuel and chemicals and towed the stubby-winged craft to a service area beside the desert runway. In about eight days, the spacecraft will be lifted atop a jumbo jet and flown to the Kennedy Space Center for refitting. A fourth flight is planned in June.

For Lousma and Fullerton, the adventure is over and it's time for the paperwork. The astronauts will spend hours over the next seven days speaking into tape recorders and answering engineering questions about the performance of Columbia.

There was no question about how the two spacemen felt. Said Lousma from space: "This is really a beautiful flying machine."

Astronauts, space center workers and friends stood in a light rain

Tuesday night to welcome the returning spacemen at Ellington Air Force Base near the Johnson Space Center.

Lousma thanked the crowd, particularly for their prayers. "I've always said a few prayers are worth a lot of training," he added.

Fullerton's speech was short. "My job was to lower the landing gear. Jack's was to land and make the speeches."

Neighbors decorated the yards at both astronauts' homes with signs of welcome. In nearby Friendswood, where Lousma lives, streets were lined with flags and more signs.

The third flight of Columbia reached several important milestones for America's space transportation system. The shuttle's eight days aloft was almost twice as long as the earlier two flights combined.

Columbia's first commercial payload is planned for late this year — a couple of communications satellites — but the craft and its sister ships, now being assembled, have a backlog of customers waiting to launch cargo.

Board holds emergency meeting in Amarillo

BY JEFF LANGLEY
Staff Writer

The Gray County Tax Appraisal District board met in emergency session in Amarillo Tuesday, and the meeting was not announced to the media or public until around 3 p.m. Tuesday afternoon.

The board traveled to Amarillo to meet with Dwayne Walker, former Tax Assessor - Collector of the combined Pampa city - school tax office. Walker was succeeded by Charles Rand, and he now works for the Amarillo Independent School District.

Appraisal board chairman Jimmy Wilkerson said the board asked for Walker's expertise to get a better idea about what is required to staff a single-district appraisal office.

Wilkerson said the board traveled to meet Walker in Amarillo because "he was doing us a favor for free, and we could not ask him to drive here."

Wilkerson said Walker critiqued an appraisal budget that he and the board had prepared, and, "he was helpful about the duties and function of people in an appraisal office."

Asked for the dollar figures on the appraisal budget he had prepared, Wilkerson said, "We never did add it up, or put a dollar figure on it."

But budgets usually include dollar figures, and Wilkerson's budget is no exception. In 1982, the Wilkerson worksheet pegged single - district appraisal costs at a total of $184,000, and in 1983 at $312,000.

Wilkerson said Tuesday that Walker might also be asked to look at the appraisal budgets submitted by Gray County Tax Assessor - Collector Margie Gray, but at the meeting with Walker, Wilkerson never called for that discussion.

The appraisal board has previously considered Gray's budget and the appraisal contract with the county, but has never given approval. At that time, the appraisal board proposed changes to Gray's contract and budget, which were sent back to the Gray County Commission for its approval.

Commissioners will consider the appraisal board's proposed contract and budget changes at their meeting at 9:30 a.m. Thursday. If commissioners give approval, Gray's contract and budget will again be sent back to the appraisal board.

Wilkerson said the appraisal board is waiting on the county's action before setting a future meeting date. However, he did say the appraisal board meeting would again be an emergency session.

Reagan to address nuclear issue in first evening news conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan will hold his ninth White House news conference tonight, and his first in the evening, and the president's aides say he will make a statement about nuclear arms limits.

The session with reporters in the East Room of the White House is to begin at 8 p.m. EST and will be carried by the major broadcast networks.

On Tuesday, David R. Gergen, the White House assistant for communications, announced that Reagan, starting Saturday, will deliver a series of 10 weekly radio speeches, available for network use.

He said the live, five-minute radio speeches, will be delivered from where ever Reagan is each Saturday — the White House, Barbados on April 10, Camp David, Md., his ranch northwest of Santa Barbara, Calif., or Versailles, France, where he will attend an international economic summit conference June 5.

The spokesman said the first speech "may well" deal with the economy.

The radio speeches will be broadcast at 12:05 p.m. Eastern time.

Asked whether a need to boost Reagan's sagging popularity, as measured by public opinion polls, overcame staff concern about news conference "bloopers" and the larger audience that an evening broadcast attracts, Gergen told reporters:

"If you felt we are so intimidated by press conferences and the error issue, obviously he might not choose to go on in prime time."

At the same time, he acknowledged that some on the White House staff may have been dissatisfied with the coverage Reagan is being given by the news media.

He said: "It may have been tucked away in the back of somebody's mind. He'd like the opportunity to address the people directly."

Gergen said the radio talks will be given on Saturdays because "after a long, busy week, it's a good time for reflection."

A White House official, requesting anonymity, said that the White House was not buying time for the programs, but merely making them available for broadcast.

Gergen said the White House would not know which radio networks would carry the speech until the end of the week.

Mutual Radio spokesman Tim O'Brien said the network "feels the president is using radio and that's a good sign for radio."

In New York, representatives of ABC Radio and CBS Radio said their networks had not decided whether to use the president's offering.

Jo Moring, NBC vice president for radio news, said her network would carry each speech "live and in its entirety" as long as it was not a partisan speech.

Bill McCloskey, assistant managing editor of AP Radio, said the service is awaiting more information from the White House before deciding.

School board candidates speak at forum

The local association of teachers and administrators felt out the views of candidates for two places on the Pampa school board Tuesday night at a meeting in the Pampa High School Library.

The meeting with the candidates was organized by the Legislative Committee of the Pampa Association of Educators, or PAE.

PAE President Rose Nelson explained that the organization does not endorse candidates for the school board, but the meeting gives teachers an idea of how candidates might perform if elected.

The candidates were asked to speak in the order they will appear on the ballot for the April 3 election. Candidates were allowed five minutes for an explanation of their candidacy, and then each candidate answered questions from the floor for another five minutes.

Place 4 candidate Dr. Robert Philips could not attend the session due to a prior obligation at a hospital committee meeting.

Place 4 candidates, running for the seat of Phil Vanderpool who did not seek re-election, spoke first.

John Tripplehorn said some educators might oppose his candidacy because of an false impression that he is not a strong supporter of public education. But the lead - off candidate said his own education runs counter to that idea, and he emphasized that he does support a strong public school curriculum.

Mary Braswell and Philips failed to complete a written questionnaire submitted by PAE, but Braswell said most of the questions on the written form are administrative, not board decisions. Braswell emphasized her strong support of good academic programs.

Place 5 candidates Dr. H. Dwight Dow and incumbent Curt Beck clashed on most issues, including merit pay for teachers.

Dow said he does not favor merit pay at the present time; instead, the doctor said starting salaries for teachers should be increased first. He said the low starting pay makes many good professionals seek other employment upon graduation from college.

Beck said the school board is currently studying merit pay for teachers, and he said some school districts have seen good response to the idea.

Merit pay would grant raises outside a more formal structure based on degrees and tenure only.

Several parents and teachers asked why they had not been asked by the school board about changes in school music programs.

Beck conceded there were instances when parents and teachers should be consulted.

Dow said he supports expansion of music and athletic programs, not cutbacks.

As in some past campaign statements, taxes were not a hot item of debate during the meeting with the teachers. Issues more mundane, but important to teachers, were mentioned.

Dow said every effort should be made to ensure that school buildings are kept clean.

Phillips to retire effective this June

Pampa School Superintendent Bob Phillips decided to advance his retirement date, effective June 30 this year.

Earlier, Phillips announced that he planned to give up the reins of the Pampa schools on January 15, 1983. The plan to change the effective date was approved Tuesday night by the Pampa school board.

Phillips said the change would not affect his retirement, and advancing the date will allow Phillips's replacement, James Trusty, to begin superintendent's duties on a full, yearly contract. Phillips said Trusty will head the search for his own replacement as assistant superintendent, examining candidates both inside and outside the school district. He said Trusty would probably name his assistant after he takes the superintendent's position July 1.

Phillips explained that contracts for district administrators begin on July 1. Phillips said he also made the change in his termination date because of a new business opportunity.

Trusty was named to succeed Phillips following a recent closed session of the school board. No other applicants were considered for the superintendent's job.

After approving Phillips's retirement date and other routine personnel items in open session Tuesday, the school board met in closed session to consider personnel. No action was taken following the closed meeting.

Senators say economy is worse than Reagan admits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican-controlled Senate Budget Committee, repudiating President Reagan's optimistic forecast for the economy, says the country faces tougher times than the administration wants to admit and much bigger budget deficits.

At the same time, the committee began its work on a 1983 spending plan Tuesday with a bipartisan display of impatience over Reagan's refusal to compromise on his proposed budget.

"It's absolutely urgent we move and move with dispatch," said Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., the committee chairman. He favors a series of steps to reduce budget deficits, including higher taxes, less spending on defense and limits on cost of living increases for Social Security.

"This isn't a game of budget chicken. This is a very serious business," said Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., ranking Democrat on the panel and author of another alternative to Reagan's budget.

"The president needs to get on line," echoed Sen. J. Bennett Johnston, D-La.

The committee, which is expected to complete its redrafting of Reagan's budget after a two-week Easter recess, began the job Tuesday by voting 13-1 to reject the president's optimistic forecast for the economy. Sen. Robert Kasten, R-Wis., was the lone dissenter, urging his Republican colleagues not to begin their work by rejecting Reagan's own.

But the committee adopted a forecast that said the economy will rebound more slowly from recession this year and show less growth in the following two years than the White House predicts. The panel also assumes that inflation, unemployment and interest rates will generally be higher than the president forecasts.

It said the actual deficits will climb from $121.8 billion in fiscal 1983 to $136.4 billion in 1985 — even if Congress enacts all the spending cuts the president is proposing. In contrast, Reagan says the deficits will be $96.4 billion in 1983, declining to $71.2 billion in 1985.

Support for nuclear freeze is growing

WASHINGTON (AP) — For Mark Hatfield, the only U.S. senator who witnessed the devastation of Hiroshima, this is a magic moment that may never recur.

His reasoning goes this way: Since the United States and the Soviet Union are roughly equal in nuclear weapons — and thus need not fear the other side has an advantage — the sensible thing is for them to agree to a freeze in production, testing and deployment.

"It's a very simple resolution," the Oregon Republican said of a measure now moving through Congress aimed at pushing President Reagan into approving freeze talks with the Soviet Union.

But Fred C. Ikle, the undersecretary of defense, is concerned that Hatfield's idea would keep the United States from adding weapons "that would be more survivable," like the B-1 bomber and new Trident nuclear submarines.

Since those weapons are less vulnerable to Soviet attack than some current arms, adding them to the U.S. arsenal now would help prevent war, Ikle said in a recent interview.

"We are not adding weapons systems just for the sake of increasing the numbers on our side," said the former U.S. arms control director.

The views of Hatfield, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, and Ikle, the Pentagon strategist, typify a growing international debate that Reagan plans to address it at his news conference tonight.

Indications are he will support a freeze, but only after the United States overcomes what the administration considers to be a Soviet lead.

The idea of a freeze — stopping the nuclear buildup in its tracks — is rapidly gaining momentum in and out of Congress.

Hatfield's resolution, co-sponsored by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., calls on the United States and the Soviet Union to "pursue a complete halt to the nuclear arms race." Twenty-two other senators, including Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, and 161 representatives support the measure.

Under the resolution, the two superpowers not only would agree to "a mutual and verifiable freeze" in warheads, missiles and other delivery systems, but "pursue major, mutual and verifiable reductions."

Other freeze proposals have been aired. The best-known, advanced by Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev, would halt — and even trim back — deployment of Soviet missiles based roughly west of the Urals and trained on Western Europe.

The rub, from the U.S. view, is that this also would prevent the installation of 572 U.S. Pershing II and cruise Tomahawk missiles in West Germany, Britain and Italy.

Building slurry pipeline won't be delayed

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) — Plans to start building the proposed ETSI coal slurry pipeline next year probably won't be delayed by efforts to stop the line from crossing U.S. Forest Service land, a pipeline official says.
 "We don't think there's a serious threat here to the timetable," for building the pipeline, which will use Missouri River water to carry Wyoming coal to southern states, ETSI-spokesman George Coffey said Tuesday.

Doctors link rare cancers to homosexuals

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Doctors alerted to unusually high incidences of some cancers among homosexuals have found outbreaks of two additional types of tumors among homosexuals in San Francisco.
 Dr. John L. Ziegler of the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco said Tuesday that doctors at a clinic dealing with homosexuals have uncovered four cases of rare Burkitt's lymphoma and three incidences of squamous carcinoma of the tongue since August.
 Ziegler told an American Cancer Society seminar the reason for the unusual outbreaks is unknown. But he said scientists suspect it is related to low disease-resistance among homosexuals and possibly multi-viral infections.
 The federal Centers for Disease Control last year identified unusual

House discusses 'unthinkable' prospect and how to avoid it

WASHINGTON (AP) — In mostly measured tones delivered to a sparse audience, dozens of House members talked for nearly seven hours about what once was said to be an "unthinkable" prospect — nuclear war — and how to avoid it.
 Several said Congress was being impelled to address the issue by a growing concern among the American people over the chances of a nuclear exchange between the superpowers as expressed in polls, public meetings and letters.
 "The American people are now thinking hard about the unthinkable. They are demanding leadership from their leaders," said Rep. Jim Leach, R-Iowa, an organizer of the debate and spokesman for those seeking an immediate freeze on the testing, production and further deployment of nuclear weaponry by the United States and Soviet Union.

 Similarly, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., who has endorsed the immediate-freeze resolution, told colleagues:
 "It's time that all of us as national officials stopped and thought about the consequences of a nuclear conflict and dedicated ourselves to taking those steps necessary to reduce and eventually eliminate the possibility of nuclear war."
 And Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., said, "I think the remarkable thing is that the American people have taken up the debate and we have followed them."
 O'Neill and Leach said they hoped the special session would be likened in history to a debate in October 1969 that marked Congress' first general discussion of Vietnam war policy.

 The speaker recalled that both the House floor and the visitors' galleries were packed for that debate. But it was a far different scene Tuesday, with only a handful of members and a few dozen observers present at any one time.
 Thirty-nine members took turns addressing the relative merits of rival resolutions urging a mutual nuclear arms reduction.
 The resolution calling for negotiations that would freeze the U.S. and Soviet arsenals in place has some 180 co-sponsors in the House and Senate, the large majority of them Democrats.
 Its rival — formally backed by 57 senators and the House's Republican leadership and informally by the White House — takes a longer-term approach.

El Salvador's president in trouble

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Troops retook El Salvador's fourth largest city from the leftist guerrillas as rightist pressure grew for the ouster of moderate President Jose Napoleon Duarte in post-election political maneuvering.
 A Defense Ministry spokesman said 15 soldiers and 100 leftist rebels died in four days of fighting in Usulután, 60 miles southeast of San Salvador. He said the situation in the city of 60,000 was "now controlled."
 A heavy guerrilla attack in Usulután Saturday prevented voting there and in five neighboring towns in the elections Sunday for a constituent assembly to name a new interim government and write a constitution. Reporters who returned from there Tuesday said the rebels escaped into the countryside as fresh troops attacked.

 In San Salvador, Duarte's centrist Christian Democratic Party maintained its plurality as the election tally neared completion, but the right-wing National Conciliation Party that controlled the government from 1961 until the 1979 coup emerged with the balance of power.
 Although composition of the assembly will not be known until all the returns are in, the Christian Democrats have been talking about an alliance with the Democratic Action Party, the most moderate of the five right-wing parties. But it was in fourth place and apparently would not win the additional seats the Christian Democrats need for a majority.
 National Conciliation was in third place with the prospect of about 14 seats that it could throw behind the Christian Democrats or a right-wing coalition led by the ultra-conservative Republican Nationalist Alliance (ARENA) led by former Maj. Roberto d'Aubuisson.

 The five other rightists appeared Tuesday morning to be near agreement to unite in a majority coalition. But by afternoon, prospects of such an agreement receded.
 "The only consensus at this point is that Duarte must leave the presidency," National Conciliation secretary-general Raul Molina Martinez told reporters. "Without us, there is no government."
 "If we're not in the government, people will lose faith," he said. "If they lose faith in democracy, they'll have to find other ways to change things."

Senate mired in tax-breaks debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Parts of the federal government face bankruptcy tonight unless the Senate quits arguing over how big a tax break members of Congress should get for living in Washington.
 An acrimonious debate over the congressional tax breaks issue dominated Senate action Tuesday following introduction of an amendment to a stopgap spending bill needed to keep funds flowing to several government agencies through Sept. 30, the end of fiscal 1982.

Unless the Senate approves the temporary spending bill — already passed by the House — by midnight, spending authority would end for the Department of Health and Human Services, the Justice Department, the Federal Trade Commission and a number of other agencies.
 Senate Republican leaders and President Reagan hope to keep the spending bill free of controversial amendments, which would have to be sent to the House for further debate and therefore threaten a shutdown of the agencies.

 But an eight-hour debate Tuesday on an amendment that would repeal the tax breaks ended for the night with the issue — and the fate of the spending bill — unresolved.
 Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo., leader of the effort to roll back the special tax deductions, said late Tuesday that his goal "is to see that taxpayers in the Senate and House are treated just like taxpayers anywhere else."

Bodies of more Haitians found along beaches

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) — Three more bodies were found along Florida beaches today, bringing to 13 the number of people believed drowned when an ill-fated Haitian coastal freighter was broken apart in stormy seas over the weekend, officials said.
 Condominium residents told police they sighted two bodies along South Ocean Boulevard here at about 7 a.m., police said. To the south, in Hillsboro Beach, police Lt. Robert Jones said officers found a body floating in offshore waters and had been sent to retrieve it.
 The sexes of the bodies were not immediately determined.
 On Tuesday, seven bodies were carried ashore by rough surf and an eighth was sighted in the waves along a five-mile condominium-studded stretch of exclusive Florida Golf Coast beach, bewildering authorities, who had found two female bodies Monday and expected to find no more than two additional dead in the wreck of the Esperancia.

 Because of the north-to-south flow of the Atlantic currents, Jones said he thought it "highly unlikely" that the body sighted Tuesday was the same as the one seen by police officers this morning.
 "It's pretty probable we're talking about different bodies," he said.
 The number of bodies fueled speculation that the crew of the wooden-hulled ship had concealed Haitian refugees from a Coast Guard boarding party off the coast of the Bahamas early Sunday.

 "Obviously there must have been either more people on the Esperancia than the rescued crewman told us there were, or there's another vessel that's gone down, and so far we have no indication of any other vessel going down," Coast Guard Petty Officer Mike Kelley in Miami said.
 Survivors said the sunken vessel, which was dashed by 15-foot waves during a storm Sunday night off Highland Beach north of Boca Raton, had only 10 crew members aboard.

Cancer awareness special on cable tonight

The second cancer awareness special under the sponsorship of the American Cancer Society and the National Cable Television Association will be broadcast from 7:05 to 8:35 p.m. tonight in the Pampa area, the program will be carried on local cable from WTBS Atlanta, Channel 3.
 This year's special, "Cancer: The Human Side" intends to present the many facets of the disease, using patients, members of their families and physicians. It will also feature practical, life-saving information on cancer prevention and early detection.

"Whatever their relation to cancer, viewers will come away less afraid and better able to cope," said Elaine W. Ledbetter, chairman of the public information committee of the Gray - Roberts Unit of the American Cancer Society.
 Using a talk - show format plus film and tape segments, the program will cover clinical advances in breast and colorectal cancer, childhood cancer, the American Cancer Society's upcoming cancer prevention study, research advances and the psycho-social aspects of the disease.

Featured on the show will be prominent cancer specialists, Dr. David Kinne, head of breast service, Memorial Sloan - Kettering Cancer Center; Dr. Paul Sherlock, chairman, of the Department of Medicine, Memorial Sloan - Kettering Cancer Center; and Dr. Robert V. P. Hutter, national president of the American Cancer Society.
 Ledbetter added, "From this program we will learn to what extent we are winning the war against cancer and where hopes lie for a cure and eventual prevention."

Princess seeks rancher husband

DALLAS (AP) — Marie-Antoinette Elisabeth-Alexandra Irmgard Edda Charlotte Anhalt is looking for a prince of a guy.

The woman, who calls herself Princess Alexandra von Anhalt, has checked into a suite at the Fairmont Hotel here and says she won't leave until she finds a Texas rancher to marry.

"I need a Texannie," the German woman says in broken English. "I need a rancher who will offer me his arm when we walk."

Fairmont officials said the princess arrived Friday with her nephew, who calls himself Prince Jurgen von Anhalt. The pair paid $3,000 in advance for the two-bedroom, $350-a-night Republic Suite, hotel officials said.

There's a little royal mystery, though. The woman's passport lists the regal-sounding — and lengthy — name.

But the Anhalt name is listed neither on the protocol list of the German embassy in Washington nor in "Who's Who in Germany." The German consuls in Houston and Dallas have not heard of her.

Embassy official Charles Bentlean said the Anhalt name comes from a house of nobility in the 15th century, when Germany was divided into several principalities led by titled aristocrats.

Governor likes Arkansas water

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements' mouth is watering over something Texas lacks and Arkansas seems to be swamped with — spring floodwater.

Clements says he believes Arkansas will send Texas its surplus water in the 21st century, despite Arkansas Gov. Frank White's emphatic rejection of the proposal.

"But that's today," Clements said Tuesday while in Abilene for a fundraiser.

"What you have to do is court the girl," he told newsmen and supporters at a news conference.

"The first time is not a willing seller-willing buyer proposition," he said, evoking laughter.

"I'm working on Gov. White in Arkansas," he said, to louder laughter.

White, a fellow Republican, has flatly refused to sell Texas the surplus floodwaters from Arkansas' southwestern corner.

Clements said the media have done the public a disservice by not making it clear that solutions to the water problem are long-range, not immediate.

The governor also said he was disappointed in the U.S. Supreme Court's refusal to block the May 1 state primaries, pending consideration of redistricting lawsuits.

He said the districts left intact by the high court violate "commonality, or community interest" in several metropolitan counties.

Clements interrupted a reporter questioning him about the Combined Law Enforcement Association of Texas to denounce the group as "one small organization flying under false colors."

CLEAT's most vociferous spokesmen are union organizers who want to unionize all law enforcement officers in Texas, Clements said. He said the organization has only 600 members.

Hightower against tax break

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressmen went to far when they approved legislation allowing them to take up to $18,000 a year in tax deductions to offset their living expenses in the nation's capital, says Rep. Jack Hightower.

The legislation was passed with the reasoning that congressmen are only temporary residents of Washington who also must have a residence in their home state. But Hightower, D-Texas, considers the tax break excessive and has joined as a co-sponsor of a bill seeking to lower the deduction to its previous limit of $3,000.

"This issue was badly handled by the Congress and is properly resented by the American people. I do not want any special tax treatment, either that which favors me or discriminates against me," Hightower said Tuesday.

He criticized the way in which the legislation was approved — as an amendment to a "black lung" bill that helps coal miners. When the measure came over from the Senate to the House floor, only a voice vote — not a recorded vote — was taken.

"Most members were unaware the tax provision had been slipped in," Hightower said, calling the tactic a "back-door method" to pass a benefit without causing Congress the embarrassment of going on record for it.

The bill is sitting idle in the Ways and Means Committee, but Hightower said he is supporting a discharge petition that would force the measure onto the floor for consideration by members.

A majority of 218 must sign such a petition before a bill referred to committee can be forced out for floor action over objections of that committee.

Former bank president is sentenced in fake coin case

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A fourth Amarillo man still faces sentencing after pleading guilty to participating in a conspiracy to manufacture and sell counterfeit South African Kruggerands.

Former bank president Robert Finis Ringo, 46, was sentenced Tuesday to three concurrent one-year federal prison terms for failing to report loans of more than $10,000 by making the payments in cashier's checks under that amount.

David Patrick Merchant, 45, a former Amarillo building contractor now living in the Denver area, has yet to be sentenced. Merchant has pleaded guilty to aiding and abetting Ringo and faces a $500,000 fine, five years in jail or both.

Ringo admitted approving $270,000 worth of loans using the lead-centered, gold-plated South African coins as collateral while he was president of Tascosa National Bank.

Two jurors selected in drownings trial

DALLAS (AP) — Two jurors have been chosen in the trial of three former law enforcement officers charged in the deaths of three black teen-agers who drowned while in custody.

Both jurors were selected Tuesday. Attorneys planned to resume picking the six-member panel today.

Charged with negligent homicide are former Limestone County Deputy Sheriff Kenny Elliott, 23; former reserve deputy Kenneth Archie, 23, who is black; and former probation officer David Drummond, 32.

A conviction on the misdemeanor charge would carry a maximum penalty of one year in prison and a $2,000 fine.

The drownings took place June 19 at a Juneteenth picnic celebrating the day Texas slaves learned of the Emancipation Proclamation.

The three youths had been arrested for suspected drug violations and were being transported by the lawmen across Lake Mexia in a small fishing boat when the vessel capsized. All six were dumped into the lake, but the officers managed to swim to shore.

U.S. District Judge Mary Lou Robinson could have sentenced Ringo to a maximum of three years in jail and fined him $3,000.

Sidney James Heard, 39, was sentenced Monday to seven years in prison for conspiracy and fraud in the same case. He was accused of scheming to defraud two Houston men by selling them bogus Kruggerands.

Last week, William Lester Lankford, 42, was sentenced to four years in prison for his part in the conspiracy. The indictments followed a 15-month investigation of organized crime in Amarillo.

Political asylum requests soar

MIAMI (AP) — U.S. Associate Attorney General Rudolph Giuliani is scheduled to take the witness stand today to defend the government's actions in a suit seeking freedom for some 2,000 Haitians now detained in federal centers around the country.

The suit, filed by the Haitian Refugee Center, Inc., of Miami, charges that the federal government is discriminating against the Haitians because of their nationality and race, and that there is no precedent for detaining them while their applications for political asylum are processed.

On Tuesday, U.S. Immigration Commissioner Alan C. Nelson told the federal judge hearing the case that the number of aliens claiming political asylum in the United States has risen in the past five years from 5,000 to 106,000.

The testimony and cross-examination of Nelson, the first government witness in the case, brought frequent acrimonious exchanges between Ira Kurzban, chief counsel for the HRC, and Robert Bombaugh, a justice department attorney from Washington, and an occasional sharp reply from the witness.

At one point, Kurzban asked Nelson whether or not it was the administration's intent to keep the Haitians in detention "indefinitely."

"That is not correct," Nelson answered heatedly. "We took the initiative in attempting to get the Haitians pro bono attorneys (lawyers working without fees) to represent them."

Nelson said he also involved himself in the efforts to help the Haitians get adequate legal representation before immigration authorities.

Nelson's testimony concerning the dramatic increase in the number of aliens seeking political asylum came during direct examination by Bombaugh.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

You'll be hearing from our lawyers

Forty years ago, hardly anybody thought about going to court to sue somebody.

A person could bump a pedestrian with his Chrysler Airflow and the victim would say something like, "No harm done," and walk away. Ipso facto. No filing of codicils, taking of depositions or polling the jury. Attorneys need not apply.

Unfortunately, times have changed. Witness the case handled by San Diego, Calif., Superior Court Judge Edward T. Butler recently. Standing before the judge was a man who has filed more than 50 Superior Court lawsuits in two years.

"The courts of the land are and ought to be open to all citizens," the judge told the hyperactive litigant, "but the courts have an obligation to protect persons from continued attacks."

Then Judge Butler declared the man before him a "vexatious litigant" — a person who files cases chiefly to cause annoyance — and ruled hereafter he would have to post a $5,000 bond for each defendant named in his lawsuits.

Good for Judge Butler.

Sure sounds like Haig

Alexander M. Haig Jr. is a complex man and occasionally something of an enigma. The four-star general Haig always talks a tough anti-Communist line but Secretary of State Haig often behaves as a seasoned diplomat.

There was a recent news story attributed to "a senior administration official" that had the hallmarks of the Haig style. The official was quoted as saying about El Salvador, "And I urge you not to be overly mesmerized by that problem right now." That sounds like Haig talking. The point of the story was that El Salvador cannot be considered as a problem in isolation from regional and even global influences. And that it must be settled by some kind of negotiated agreement that involves all parties.

Precisely, and that was the point of Haig's recent meeting with Mexico's foreign minister, Jorge Castaneda, their second meeting in a week.

If we're lucky, a process of negotiations is starting in the Caribbean and the dialogue will continue.

Take Cola off federal lunch menu

Freeze COLAs, reduce federal budget.

This prescription has been made by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce to reduce the deficit. COLAs are a cost-of-living allowances for federal entitlement programs. They put an inflationary fizz into the budget, even when many programs are cut.

By freezing COLAs for all federal entitlement programs, including Social Security, federal pensions, veterans' benefits and Supplemental Security Income, the chamber predicts $24 billion could be saved next year. The freeze would last one year. Many retired people squeezing by on entitlement checks are likely to protest. But they should consider that 90 percent of working Americans do not receive any automatic inflation allowance. Of those who do, their pay hikes average about 58 percent of the consumer price index for inflation, while people on federal entitlements get 100 percent. A freeze now would also be less painful than in times of high inflation. For the first time in six years, wholesale prices went down last month.

The freeze parallels a proposal made by Senate Budget Committee Chairman Pete Domenici, R-N.M., to freeze entitlement payments. The federal government should stop from serving COLA until it can pay its bills.

Cocaine, coffins are not funny

There was nothing funny about the accident that nearly killed comedian Richard Pryor two years ago. He is now dead — serious when he talks about the menace of cocaine, which caused it. As for John Belushi, another comedian and cocaine-user, he is simply dead.

Most of the news about the rising popularity of cocaine comes from the entertainment world. But most of those getting hooked on this "in" drug are not celebrities. They are, to use a recent term from Hollywood, ordinary people.

If John Belushi's sad death from a combination of heroin and cocaine was startling to his fans, it was not as alarming as the statistics coming from the National Institute of Drug Abuse. The number of Americans severely dependent on cocaine is now estimated at between 100,000 and 200,000, and if the trend of the past few years continues, the number could surpass the 500,000 believed to be addicted to heroin.

Deaths associated with cocaine quadrupled between 1975 and 1980. Persons who have sniffed, injected, smoked, or swallowed cocaine now constitute a major category of drug-abusers showing up in hospital emergency rooms and entering treatment programs to break their habit. That cocaine is "safe" compared to other psychoactive drugs is a dangerous myth.

What does this mean? For one thing, it poses a major new problem for enforcement agencies already struggling to keep up with the traffic in heroin, marijuana, and other illegal drugs. Cocaine, which comes mainly from South America, now accounts for more illicit income than marijuana on the underworld market.

But the more pertinent meaning is for our society as a whole. We see yet another insidious drug working its way into our midst, even as we worry about the implications of the post-smoking habit that took root among young people during the 1960s.

Officials of drug abuse agencies believe the use of cocaine would be even more widespread if it were not so expensive. That's the irony. Those who are "doing cocaine" are typically well-educated members of the upper middle class — people who ought to know better.

The two sides of Ayn Rand

By BUTLER D. SHAFFER

When I read of the death of novelist Ayn Rand, I could not help but recall my introduction in 1960 to her classic ATLAS SHRUGGED, as well as my subsequent consideration of her self-styled philosophy of "Objectivism."

I discovered from reading Rand that she was capable of offering the kind of direct, blunt criticism of the political state I was able to appreciate.

Even though my wife and I were later to participate in two taped series of lectures on the philosophy of Objectivism, I have to admit to never embracing this philosophy as did some of my true — believer acquaintances. I learned a great deal not only from Miss Rand's works, but from some of her close associates. Who and what I am today is, at least in part, a product of my having come into contact with these people. I read, and I listened, and I thought... but I did so as I would shop for groceries: taking that which seemed consistent with my view of the world, and rejecting that which, upon examination, seemed to be inconsistent. I have never been willing to attach myself to causes or cults or movements, and so I was never able to become what Miss Rand and the Objectivists insisted upon: an unquestioning follower of her every pronouncement.

It was just such an attitude that ultimately got me into trouble with the Objectivist hierarchy. Following a lively exchange of correspondence with two of Miss Rand's close associates regarding what I considered the totally indefensible position of "limited government," I was informed of my expulsion from all future Objectivist activities. My letter of excommunication was written in that haughty tone that characterized all Randian rhetoric. I was told that these people "no longer chose to be of value" to the likes of someone who, such as myself, insisted on a contrary point of view.

I was to discover, in subsequent years, that I had not been singled out for my philosophic transgressions. Miss Rand's strength as an essayist (her novels tended to read more like philosophic tracts than did other novels) was offset by her sad and pathetic weakness to dominate the thinking of people around her. Even though she was very anti-religious, she insisted upon demonstrations of unquestioning faith that even the most structured religions have long since abandoned. What was even more pathetic was the willingness of many of her inner circle of close lieutenants to play this sycophantic game, and to engage in childish and vindictive reprisals against those who had, for one reason or another, earned the disfavor of Miss Rand. For a philosophy that emphasized thought and the processes of reasoning, Ayn Rand demanded of those around her to think and act as she did. As an outspoken critic of political tyranny, she insisted upon an intellectual absolutism that was as unforgiving as an Orwellian bureaucrat.

Nevertheless, the weakness in her own life does not detract from the value of many of her ideas, of the powerful nature of her novels. Perhaps it is because I have always preferred writing in a style that is as forceful and direct as possible, that I have enjoyed Miss Rand's identification and treatment of issues. Unlike the case with most editorial writers, academicians and intellectuals, one did not have to sit around and wonder what she was trying to say. She used words cleanly a powerfully, and she expressed herself on behalf of the plight of human beings trying to live — not just survive, but live in a manner that is consistent with the flowering of their entire personality — in a world dominated by institutional absurdity. She had her drawbacks, of course. She failed to understand how corporate interests managed to use the political state to control and exploit people, and even believed the palpably absurd idea that "big business" was "America's persecuted minority." But when she was right, there were few around who could match her ability to focus on philosophic issues, or identify the human consequences of a particular course of action.

For all her faults, the world is much better off for her having lived in it. She will be missed: not only by those true believers who must now struggle to think things out for themselves, but by those to whom her writings will always have appeal — free and responsible men and women of unfettered intelligence.

Today in history

Today is Wednesday, March 31, the 90th day of 1982. There are 275 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On March 31, 1953, Dag Hammarskjold of Sweden was elected U.N. secretary-general.

On this date:

In 1492, Jews in Spain were given three months to accept Christianity or to leave.

In 1496, Pope Alexander VI formed the Holy League in an effort to expel France's Charles VIII from Italy.

In 1683, Poland formed an alliance with the Holy Roman Empire against the Turks.

In 1948, Congress passed the Marshall Aid Pact for Europe's post-World War II recovery.

Ten years ago: North Vietnamese attacks forced South Vietnam to abandon two bases and an outpost near the demilitarized zone.

Five years ago: The Soviet Union signed a friendship treaty with the former Portuguese African territory of Mozambique.

One year ago: President Reagan, signed a bill into law from his hospital bed as he made a speedy recovery from a gunshot wound to the chest by a would-be assassin a day earlier.

Today's birthdays: Humorist Henry Morgan is 67. Actress Shirley Jones is 48.

Thought for today: Self conquest is the greatest of victories. — Plato, Greek philosopher (about 427 B.C.-347 B.C.)

Is the cheese really free?

By OSCAR COOLEY

The parceling out of free cheese by the U.S. Government demonstrates the utter futility of interfering with economic laws.

The government bought the cheese — hundreds of tons of it — on the theory that cheese factories were making and selling "too much" cheese, so much that they had to offer it "too cheaply" in order to get it sold, so cheaply that they would pay the dairymen "too low" a price for the milk, so low that the dairymen would make "too little" money and out of anger toward the government would cast "too few" votes for the party in power. Cheesy politics, this.

Cheese has to be refrigerated to keep, and the government found that cold storage was expensive, so after it had been piling up cheese for a matter of years Washington decided to give away the cheese and save the storage and refrigeration expense. (Why didn't the bureaucrats think of that in the first place? Maybe their brains, too, were in cold storage.)

It is assumed that the people who are getting the free cheese, five pounds each, have not been buying cheese at their supermarkets lately because of the high price — high because government — supported — and now, being given cheese for nothing, they will consume it in large mouthfuls. But is this the case?

Have these people, being on welfare, actually been depriving themselves of such foods as cheddar cheese?

It is not, even at supported prices, a major item in the usual family's food bill, and being on welfare does not mean that these folks have been living on highly restricted diets. Indeed, from all reports many of them eat quite high on the hog. And a slice of cheese now and then is not so extravagant. It is a fair substitute for meat.

My guess is that Washington's theory that giving away cheese to the Welfare recipients will not reduce the market demand and so will not depress the price is wrong. No one will buy cheese, or anything else, as long as he can get it free. You just can't sell goods if a fellow on the next block is giving away the same kind of goods.

What should the government do with its wealth of cheese? Unless it is willing to undo and thus show up the futility of its price-supporting program, it might as well dump it in the ocean. Even to sell or give it away abroad would weaken the potential market. The same is true of the tons of corn, wheat and other farm products Washington is now buying and storing.

The farm vote is costly.

Castro launches 'air war'

By PAUL HARVEY

This is mostly shop talk but may soon involve you.

Cuba's Castro threatens an "air war," threatens with Big Bertha transmitters to out-shout American radio stations.

While his present quest, obviously, is for political leverage — the potential nonetheless exists for that bush-league dictator to sure enough foul up stateside communication. Including our emergency frequencies.

A bit of background: With the proliferation of radio broadcasting in our hemisphere, a North American Regional Broadcast Agreement was signed whereby each nation respected the rights of the others.

But Castro announced last year that he was going to build some superpower radio stations — obviously infinitely larger than necessary to blanket his tiny island.

Logically, he intends to use such Big Berthas to propagandize Latin America and to muzzle some United States stations broadcasting on those frequencies.

We sent FCC and State Department officials to Cuba last year to discuss the interference; they thought they had an agreement. A Cuban delegation then visited Washington to confirm the agreement.

But when Western Hemisphere nations conferred in Rio last November — preparing to update self-imposed regulations — and we blocked 40 changes which Cuba had proposed in frequency allocations — Cuba denounced the United States and stormed out of the meeting.

And since then, Castro's unofficial "air war" has "jammed" 16 Florida stations and has interfered with others as far away as Salt Lake City.

The Florida Association of Broadcasters is urging our country to "fight fire with fire," to amplify our transmissions on Cuban frequencies, to drown them out.

But FCC Commissioner Anne Jones is disinclined, says them jamming us and us jamming them is not constructive.

So a delegation of Florida broadcasters was heard this month by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. At least, the broadcasters want representation on any future negotiation delegation.

They want a real live broadcaster included among the bureaucrats in any future Cuban-American meetings.

Legislation is presently pending in Congress to create Radio Marti, a station specifically intended to broadcast from the United States into Cuba.

Unlike our Voice of America, which broadcasts only straight news, this Radio Marti would blanket Cuba with propaganda.

Just the presence of this item on the congressional agenda seems to have sobered Castro. Some of his stations have gone off the air. Others have changed power and frequency. No Big Berthas have been heard from.

At the moment, it's a standoff. But in this kind of "air war" bigness is no advantage.

Jump in which four paratroopers died was marred by winds, soldiers report

SENDING ASSISTANCE. A medical evacuation helicopter heads for an army field hospital near Fort Irwin, Calif., Tuesday after picking up an injured paratrooper hurt during Gallant Eagle 82, the largest airdrop since World War II. Four soldiers were killed in the military exercise.

FORT IRWIN, Calif. (AP) — A paratrooper whose pelvis was broken in a huge airborne military exercise that left four dead and 71 injured says a gust of wind hit him about 50 feet above the California desert, snarling the straps of his parachute.

"I hit the ground, rolled about three times and started to pass out," said Army Spec. 4 Danile Maynard, 24, of New York City, one of 2,300 soldiers who took part Tuesday in the first exercise of units of the Rapid Deployment Force from all four military services.

The jump was one of the largest ever in peacetime U.S. military history. Three of the injured paratroopers were reported in critical condition with head injuries at Loma Linda University Medical Center, 60 miles from the jump site. Three other soldiers were hospitalized there and five were at other hospitals.

Lt. Gen. Robert C. Kingston, commander of the Rapid Deployment Joint Task Force, said the exercise was conducted in winds varying from 6 to 10 knots. He said 13 knots, about 15 mph, is considered the maximum allowable wind velocity in peacetime training exercises such as Gallant Eagle 82.

Deputy San Bernardino County Coroner Marshall Franey said Tuesday that an external examination of the four bodies showed the men "appeared to have died of head or neck injuries," and one had a fractured arm and leg.

"We won't know the exact cause of death until autopsies are completed, but the injuries suggest they were dragged by their parachutes," he said, referring to all four victims. Asked about reports that two parachutes had malfunctioned, he repeated that the cause of the deaths was still uncertain.

Kingston said, "One soldier apparently was dragged." Two paratroopers were killed after their parachutes malfunctioned and the fourth landed on a piece of heavy equipment, officials said.

The 2,300 paratroopers, members of the 82nd Airborne Division from Fort Bragg, N.C., jumped from C-141 jets 800 feet above the Mojave Desert just after dawn Tuesday.

Late Tuesday, two C-130 cargo planes took 60 injured paratroopers to Norton Air Force Base in San Bernardino, where they were loaded onto a C-141 Starlifter for a flight back to Fort Bragg.

Maynard, speaking from his bed at Loma Linda hospital, said the jump had been called off once as the planes approached the drop zones after authorities estimated winds were gusting to 45 mph on the ground. But shortly afterward the soldiers were told the jump was on.

Maynard said the troops expressed no concern about the wind and wished one another luck as their plane flew toward the target area.

"On the plane they told us it (the wind) was only 4 to 6 knots," said James Davis, 19, of High Point, N.C., who was hospitalized with groin and back injuries at Loma Linda.

Report shows economy improves

By The Associated Press
The government's report of a 0.9 percent rise in February orders for new manufactured goods matched a pattern of modest improvement in economic activity from January, when harsh weather hampered business and industry.

Yet a major obstacle to economic recovery — high interest rates — is showing no signs of retreating. Rates in the nation's money markets were slightly higher Tuesday, contributing to a broad decline in bond prices.

Those high rates, which have persisted for more than two years, are taking an increasing toll on the housing industry. Samuel R. Pierce Jr., the secretary of Housing and Urban Development, told a Senate panel that President Reagan is studying legislation to provide federal subsidies for some new home mortgages.

Pierce said the administration had no plans for a bailout of the housing industry. While he agreed that the homebuilding industry is in dire straits, he noted that "a lot of industries are in trouble; automobile, steel."

The administration argues that if Congress goes along with further cuts in federal spending, the financial markets will exhibit greater confidence in the prospects for economic recovery without a burst of inflation. That in turn will push interest rates lower and provide relief for troubled industries.

But while some economic indicators are pointing to improvement from the low marks of January, few economists see any immediate and robust recovery.

The Commerce Department reported a 0.9 percent increase in orders for new manufactured goods in February. That was a major improvement from the 1.4 percent decline in January, but most of the growth was in orders for military hardware.

In other economic developments:

—F.W. Woolworth Co. said it will close 13 Woolco discount department stores in three states, idling about 900 workers. The company said the stores were not profitable. Seven stores in Chicago are scheduled to close May 15. Three stores in Memphis, Tenn., and three in Charlotte, N.C., are to close July 3. Joseph Carroll, a Woolworth spokesman, said more may close later.

—The Commerce Department reported that its Index of Leading Indicators, designed to foresee trends in future economic activity, fell 0.3 percent in February. It was the 10th consecutive monthly decline but smaller than the drops recorded in January and December.

—Eastern Airlines Chairman Frank Borman

asked employees to kick back 5 percent of their pay during the next five years for a $300 million savings.

Brannan says time is right for 'his plan'

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Charley Brannan was Harry S. Truman's secretary of agriculture, he didn't have to worry much about White House interference in his job. "I had almost total freedom," says the 78-year-old Brannan. "I don't even remember clearing a speech at the White House."

Brannan, who was secretary from 1948 to 1952, said he didn't have a bunch of budget-trimmers looking over his shoulder, either, telling him which program to cut and which to increase.

"We got practically no instruction on how to operate, and the president only told me to employ one individual in all of the time I was in the department," he said.

Early in his tenure as a Cabinet officer, Brannan proposed some programs "which became famous or infamous, depending on your point of view."

Congress rejected his proposal, but Brannan said Tuesday the farm subsidies and controls he unsuccessfully advocated in 1949 may be needed to rescue today's troubled agricultural sector.

Moreover, Brannan said farmers may be in more of a mood to accept his program than they were 33 years ago.

The concept he proposed in 1949 basically scrapped the old system of price supports for key farm commodities and used direct subsidies to farmers when market prices dropped below specified levels.

In return for those income supports, farmers would have had to agree to strict federal acreage controls and marketing quotas. The program — immediately labeled the Brannan Plan — was rejected by Congress.

Brannan, 78, said he doesn't think his plan is out of date "in any respect" and that farmers "may be a little more ready" to accept federal production curbs than they were at the time.

"The present situation may be so severe that they will see their participation in that manner as a reasonable price to pay for governmental stabilization efforts," he said.

Brannan said in an hour-long meeting with reporters that target prices introduced in the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973 represented "part of the concept" he proposed in 1949.

Current law also provides deficiency payments — subsidies — to farmers when market prices fall below specified levels or target prices.

Since 1970, the thrust of government farm programs for the key crops — including wheat, feed grains and cotton — has been "market oriented" and less federal control. Brannan said his original plan, if adopted in total, would not mean a repudiation of that policy.

"Fundamentally, the proposals (of 1949) would allow the price of farm commodities to seek their supply-and-demand level in the marketplace," he said. "I don't think it's a repudiation of any of the present programs."

Budget-conscious members of Congress and administration officials have rejected massive increases in direct subsidies as a way of relieving the crunch on farmers who are seeing net incomes decline for the third year in a row.

Brannan, a lawyer, has served for many years as general counsel of the National Farmers Union, which has its headquarters in Denver.

He went to work for the Agriculture Department in 1935 and was appointed an assistant secretary of agriculture by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1944, a post he held until President Truman tabbed him for the Cabinet four years later.

Asked to elaborate on the mechanics of running the Agriculture Department in those years, Brannan said that while Truman kept a loose rein there were "a couple of guys on the White House staff" who occasionally tried to apply some pressure.

One case involved one of Truman's closest aides, Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, who wanted Brannan "to help a fellow who had got himself a whole batch of mules" back in Missouri — Truman's home state.

It seems food-and-mouth disease had broken out in Mexico, posing a threat to cattle, sheep, goats and hogs there and in the United States. The disease does not affect horse and mules.

Apple Pie for anytime

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Far be it from me to sing the praises of apple pie or remind cooks that it is still one of America's favorite desserts. Enough has been written on that subject to induce me to leave it strictly alone.

But because I am often asked for my favorite apple pie recipe, here is the one that, at present, I like best. It calls for Granny Smith apples — the great variety that is here all year because nowadays it is grown in the United States and also shipped in from a number of other countries. And the pastry for the pie is made with butter.

YEAR-ROUND APPLE PIE
Butter Pastry, recipe follows

¾ cup sugar
¼ cup all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
6 medium (about 1½ pounds) Granny Smith apples
2 tablespoons butter, cut into small pieces

Make up the pastry and refrigerate as directed in the following recipe. On a pastry cloth, with a stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out half the pastry and line a buttered 9-inch pie plate with it; keep the remaining half of the pastry in the refrigerator. In a large bowl stir together the sugar, flour, cinnamon and nutmeg. Peel the apples, core and slice thin — there should be 6 cups; toss with the sugar mixture; turn into the pastry-lined pie plate; top with the butter.

MAKING APPLE PIE — This 1924 print is from the culinary collection of Cecily Brownstone, Associated Press Food Editor.

Roll out the remaining pastry a little larger than the top of the pie plate; place over apples; seal edges well with your fingers — fluting will not hold its shape. Cut 6 to 12 one-inch slits for vents. Cover the edge with a 2- to 3-inch strip of foil. Bake on the rack below center in a preheated 425-degree oven until apples are tender and pastry is browned — 55 minutes. Remove foil around edge about 20 minutes before the end of the baking period and place a sheet of foil on the lowest rack of the oven to catch any syrup that may bubble over. Serve hot with vanilla ice cream or cheddar cheese.

Butter Pastry: Into 2 cups all-purpose flour, with a pastry

Brandy Apples

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
DINNER FOR FOUR
Baked Stuffed Fish
Stuffed Potatoes Peas
Salad Bowl Rolls
Brandy Apples Beverage

BRANDY APPLES
Adapted from an out-of-print cookbook.
4 medium apples (1 1/4 pounds, generous)
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup water
Grated rind and juice of 1/2 lemon
2 tablespoons brandy
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
Custard Sauce flavored with brandy

Pare and core apples; slice 1/2-inch thick. In the top of a steamer with a solid bottom, heat the sugar, water, lemon rind, lemon juice, brandy and ginger, stirring until sugar melts. Stir in the apples. Cover tightly and steam (cook over rapidly boiling water) until the apples are soft but still hold their shape — time will depend on the variety of apple used. Serve warm or cold with the custard sauce. Makes 4 servings.

Dear Abby

They don't live happily ever after

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: When I see letters in your column from young girls who fall in love with older men, I ache for them because I know what they're feeling.

When I was 16, I baby-sat for a divorced man who had two young children. I fell in love with him the first time I saw him. I was thrilled that an older man would even look at me. (He was 30.) I lost my heart (and my virginity) to him. Our affair went on for a year and a half. I never realized that all he saw in me was a bed partner when he felt the need. Meanwhile he was on my mind night and day.

My love for him took me out of circulation at school. Boys my own age seemed like infants. I missed the school proms and all the activities and fun high school girls have. And worst of all, it made a liar and a sneak out of me. My parents never knew, thank God.

What did I get instead? The constant fear of pregnancy. (I was just plain lucky; he was selfish and inconsiderate and refused to use protection.)

He said he was "thinking" of marriage. He was. But not to me. In the middle of our big love affair he married a woman he had said was "just a friend." My heart broke into a million pieces.

That was 15 years ago, Abby, and I've never told anyone about it. If you think this will help someone, use it in your column, but please don't say where it came from.

YOUNG AND FOOLISH ONCE

DEAR YOUNG: Thanks for the testimonial. Girls, if the shoe fits, wear it, and run as though your life depended upon it, because it does.

DEAR ABBY: This is a tough one. A very dear friend of mine (I'll call him Tom) recently had a physical examination and his doctor found a spot on his lung. Tom was a three-pack-a-day man, so the doctor told him he had to quit smoking.

Well, Tom has quit buying cigarettes, but he hasn't quit smoking. Whenever he sees someone with a cigarette he asks for "just one drag." Of course, no one would refuse him. I plead guilty to having given Tom many drags, even though I know I shouldn't.

Apple Tarts

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
When I find a superb recipe I usually try variations of it and pass them along to you. My reason for doing so: A superb recipe is hard to find and variations of it are wonderfully useful in a permanent recipe repertoire.

A while back I found a recipe for a fresh peach tart in a food magazine, "The Pleasures of Cooking." Since then I've tried the recipe with fresh pears, canned apricots and frozen blueberries. Now I've worked it out using apples and I am happy to pass along this delectable version.

APPLE TART
Butter Crust, recipe follows
4 medium (about 1 1/4 pounds) Golden Delicious apples
3 large egg yolks
1-3rd cup sour cream
3/4 cup sugar

1/4 cup all-purpose flour
Prepare the Butter Crust. Peel, halve and core the apples; cut each half into 8 equal slices. Beat together the egg yolks, sour cream, sugar and flour until smooth. Arrange the apples in concentric circles, overlapping if necessary, in the Butter Crust; pour the yolk mixture over them. Bake in the 350-degree oven until the apples are tender and the meringue that partially shows is golden — 1 hour. Cool on a wire rack. Loosen edges and remove pan's sidewall. Serve warm or at room temperature. Store any left over, uncovered, in the refrigerator — the crust will not get soggy. Makes 8 servings.

BUTTER CRUST
1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 cup (1/4-pound stick) butter
2 tablespoons sour cream

In a medium bowl with a pastry blender, cut the butter into the flour until butter particles are fine. With a fork, stir in the sour cream until the dough forms a ball. Place dough in the center of an ungreased round 9-by 1 1/2-inch cake pan with a removable bottom. Press dough over bottom and sides of pan to cover evenly and completely. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until set-looking but not brown — about 20 minutes. (Crust may be puffed in places.) Set crust aside at room temperature to cool somewhat while you prepare the filling. Reduce oven temperature to 350 degrees — oven will be ready to bake the filled crust.

Imperial Sugar helps you celebrate the Easter Season with this festive Easter Egg Cake recipe. And to add to your nest egg, here's a 15¢ coupon good on your next purchase of Imperial Pure Cane Sugar.

Easter Egg Cake

1 1/4 cups sifted flour
1 cup Imperial Granulated Sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/4 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup shortening, butter or margarine
2 eggs
1/2 cup milk

Sift flour, Imperial Granulated Sugar, salt and baking powder together into bowl. Add other ingredients and beat well with a wire whisk or electric beater for three minutes. Pour mixture into 9" x 13" pan generously greased and floured. Pre-heat oven. Bake at 350° for 25 to 30 minutes or until cake tests done.

Let cake cool. Remove from baking pan and trim to egg-shape oval. Frost top and sides of cake with buttercream icing. Decorate with shredded coconut tinted with yellow and green food coloring, green candy slices, pink icing borders, pink and green jellybeans.

Astro-Graph
by bernice bede osol

While coming year something quite fortunate may be offered you which could better your lot in life. However, take care before bringing others into the picture. They might upset your peace.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Although you're feeling fortunate today, don't press your luck on the domestic scene. If you become too self-serving, you can expect sparks to fly. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in each of the seasons following your birth by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each Astro-Graph, Box 469, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

AURUS (April 20-May 20) You can talk your way out of most situations today, but not tomorrow. The only thing that is effective there is responsible behavior.

EMINI (May 21-June 20) If you place too much emphasis on having a good time today, you could be passing up a golden opportunity to better your lot in life.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Domestic responsibilities may put a damper on your social life today. Trying to fight the situation will only make matters worse.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be extra careful and protective of yourself today if you have to do any running around. Drive defensively. Watch out for loose cracks in the sidewalk.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) While out on the town today, you could be having such a good time that you'll neglect to keep an eye on your belongings. Another may covet what you own.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The wrong choice of partners today could cause all kinds of problems, from deception to arguments. This may be one of those times to go it alone.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) There is nothing wrong with your blueprint, but your methods and techniques to build your castle may leave a lot to be desired. Think before you leap.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't pretend to be, or have, more than you are today. If you do, there's a good chance you'll be challenged to prove what you present is fact.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's very possible today that you might be thrown together with one who is unreasonably hostile. Keep your wits. Don't let this person bring you down to his or her level.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) An excellent break may come your way today in your work or career. Unfortunately, one who is jealous might attempt to undermine and belittle your good fortune.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're not likely to handle your resources today with the same consideration and care that you do other things in your life. Losses could ensue.

CINDY RAYMOND.... Has personal best of 2:13.6 in the 200 IM despite being disqualified in the Class 5A state swim meet.

Raymond set outstanding example for swim program

By L.D. STRATE
Pampa News Sports Writer

Pampa's Cindy Raymond may be wondering if the fates are against her after she was disqualified in the Class 5A girls' state swim meet last weekend in Austin.

Miss Raymond, seeded sixth in the 200 IM, was disqualified in the preliminaries when she missed the wall with her hand on the backstroke. Ironically, she was clocked at 2:13.6, her best time ever.

Although Miss Raymond didn't make the finals, it was her third consecutive trip to the state meet. An honor student, she had won both the 200 IM and 100 freestyle at the district and regional meets this year to qualify for the Austin trip.

"Needless to say she was upset," Pampa coach Jackie Stephens said. "She's a senior and she said she'd give anything to have another year to try it again."

Miss Raymond also competed in the 100 freestyle and finished thirteenth.

"That event came after the 200 IM and Cindy was still feeling bad about being disqualified," coach Stephens said. "It was a real bad break for her. She wasn't trying to gain an advantage. It was actually a disadvantage for her because you can't get a good pushaway when you miss the wall. It was a maneuver she had practiced many, many times. She worked hard for three years and this has to happen. It just makes you wonder sometimes."

Had Miss Raymond's time stood, she would have finished fourth in the preliminaries. The top six qualifiers advanced to the finals.

"She wasn't the only one that got disqualified," coach Stephens said. "There were several swimmers in the finals that didn't make it."

Miss Raymond can still see the positive side, a true sign of a champion.

"Cindy knows at one point she was ranked sixth in the state," coach Stephens said. "That's a pretty big accomplishment in itself."

The swim season isn't quite over for Miss Raymond if she doesn't want it to be. She has qualified for the National Junior (age group) Swimming Championships to be held in Austin next month.

"She hasn't decided yet if she wants to enter, but I feel like she would do good and have a chance at getting a college scholarship," coach Stephens said.

If Miss Raymond never swims competitively again, she can still look back and know she was the original pacesetter for the Pampa High swim team. She leaves seven individual school records and three trips to the state meet behind her.

That's quite a legacy.

Entry fees due soon for softball leagues

The City of Pampa Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring the summer softball leagues again this year.

Roster forms and by-laws are available in the Parks and Recreation Office, Room 204 of City Hall, 100 North Frost. Roster forms, entry fees and players fees must be submitted to the Parks and Recreation Office by April 13 for men's slowpitch, April 14 for women's church slowpitch, April 15 for men's open slowpitch and April 16 for women's open slowpitch.

All dates listed have 5 p.m. as the deadline time. Rosters must include players first and last names, address and phone number.

Entry fees are as follows:
Men's church slow pitch $145; women's church slow pitch $10; men's open slow pitch $150 and women's open slow pitch $150.

Player's fees are $10 per player with a minimum of 12 players per team.

All checks should be made payable to the City of Pampa Softball.

Pampa High cagers receive more honors

Honors just keep pouring in for the Pampa High boys' basketball team, which advanced to the state tournament for the first time in 23 years.

Junior sensation Mike Nelson was recently named to the Class 5A All-Region I first team along with Hamod Holmes of El Paso High, Gil Wright of Plainview, Preston Robertson of Midland High and John Dudley of Wichita Falls Rider.

The 6-3 Nelson led the 29-5 Harvesters in scoring (19.2), assists (7.1) and steals (2.7). Nelson, a model of consistency all season long, tossed in 20 points in the state semifinal game with San Antonio Churchill, 22 in Pampa's District 3-5A playoff win over Tascosa and 19 in the bi-district win over Plainview.

Mike's brother, 6-4 senior Charles Nelson, was a second-team selection.

Charles averaged 16.2 points per game while shooting 57 percent from the floor.

Other second-team picks were James Dawn of Tascosa, John Chaik of Abilene High, Lawrence Hudson of Fort Worth Dunbar and Alton Jackson of Plainview.

Terry Faggins, also a 6-4 senior, tossed in 13.2 points per game for the Harvesters and led the team in rebounding with around eight boards per game.

Also on the third team were Mark Perkins of Richland, Waymond Brown of Fort Worth Paschal, Willard Jackson of Denton and Reggie Lee of Tascosa.

Harvester coach Garland Nichols was nominated for Region I coach of the year.

The All-Region I cagers were selected by the Texas Basketball Coaches Association.

The two Nelson brothers,

Faggins and Coyle Winborn garnered top honors on the Amarillo Globe-News All-District team released last Sunday.

Mike Nelson was named player of the year while Winborn claimed sophomore of the year honors. Winborn, a 6-6 center, moved into the starting lineup midway in the season and averaged 8.5 points and five rebounds per game. He had 15 points and five rebounds in Pampa's state semifinal game against San Antonio Churchill.

The Globe-News All-District 3-5A team is listed below:

First Team

Outside: Mike Nelson, 6-3 junior, Pampa; Reggie Lee, 5-9 senior, Tascosa.

Inside: Charles Nelson, 6-4 senior, Pampa; Terry Faggins, 6-4 senior, Pampa; James Dawn, 6-4 junior, Tascosa.

Richard may go to minors

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — J.R. Richard, the Houston Astros pitcher struggling to come back from a near-fatal stroke in 1980, can agree to go to the minor leagues or be placed on the major league club's injured reserve, manager Bill Virdon says.

Richard gave up seven hits, two walks and three earned runs in three innings of an intrasquad game Tuesday. "He's still a ways away," general manager Al Rosen said.

John McMullen, the Astros' chairman of the board, has said he wants Richard to pitch in the minors this year.

"That's his only chance" to pitch, Rosen said. He said he would put Richard on the injured reserve list if the 6-foot-8 pitcher does not agree to go to the minors.

Richard says he will let

"God take care" of the decision.

Pitching coach Mel Wright said Richard's control "was not real sharp" in Tuesday's appearance.

Pampa girls enter Amarillo Relays

Pampa High girls' track team is entered in the Amarillo Relays Friday and Saturday at Dick Bivins Stadium, beginning with field-events prelims and finals and running prelims at 2:30 p.m. Friday.

Running finals are slated to begin at 1 p.m. Saturday.

The Lady Harvesters, coached by Frank Belcher, finished second in the Berger Invitational last weekend.

Pampa High rodeo roundup

Pampa High rodeo club members competed in rodeos at Canyon and Happy during the past two weekends.

At Canyon, Shawn Whitley took fourth in ribbon roping and teamed with Wendall Shultz to take third in team roping. At Happy, Lena Stewart placed second in goat tying and fifth in breakaway roping. Lee Lowrey took sixth in team roping.

Pampa travels to Plainview this weekend for its next rodeo.

NBA roundup

Nuggets outlast Sonics in overtime

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

The Denver Nuggets are finding a gold mine in overtime.

The high-scoring Nuggets won their 10th National Basketball Association game in a row and second straight in overtime Tuesday night, beating Seattle 145-142.

That gave them 285 points in the last two games, improving their already gaudy per-game average of 126 that will set a record if the Nuggets can maintain it in their last 11 games. The record team average was 125.4 by the 1961-62 Philadelphia Warriors, who had Wilt Chamberlain averaging 50.4 points per game.

"You've got to be a believer or crazy or something," Denver Coach Doug Moe said of the latest victory over the SuperSonics. "They had the upper hand almost all the way. But we just hung in there."

"We had to have this game and we won through determination," said Alex English, who scored 33 points for the Nuggets. "It's our second overtime game in a row and we're tough in overtime."

English scored six points in overtime, including a running one-hander with eight seconds remaining that preserved the victory.

"The last two games have been super," said Kiki Vandeweghe, who led all scorers with 35 points. "We've come out and had a lot of confidence and it's helped us out."

In other NBA games, Washington bombed Detroit 127-96, Milwaukee edged Philadelphia 116-114 in overtime, Golden State tripped San Antonio 113-107, Atlanta clubbed Chicago 107-92, Houston nipped Dallas 99-95, Los Angeles outscored San Diego 143-120, Portland beat Kansas City 100-99 and New York defeated Indiana 108-104.

The 10-game string tied the Nuggets' longest streak since they joined the NBA in 1976, set in December 1977 and January 1978.

Gus Williams paced Seattle with 32 points and Jack Sikma had 29, while Dan Issel had 29 for the Nuggets.

The victory cut San Antonio's lead over Denver in the Midwest Division to 2 1/2 games.

Bucks 116, 76ers 114
Sidney Moncrief scored nine of his 23 points in overtime, including a game-winning jump shot with one second left.

Milwaukee, which has clinched the Central Division title but hopes to gain a home-court playoff advantage over Philadelphia, now trails the 76ers by one-half game in the Eastern Conference.

Julius Erving scored eight of his game-high 28 points in overtime for Philadelphia.

Lakers 143, Clippers 120
Earvin "Magic" Johnson scored 29 points and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar added 28 to lead Los Angeles over San Diego, extending the Lakers' Pacific Division lead to 2 1/2 games over Seattle and handing the Clippers their 10th straight defeat.

The Lakers led by as many as 25 points in the third quarter and they coasted with reserves for much of the final period.

Blazers 109, Kings 99
Jim Paxson scored a career-high 33 points to help Portland snap a four-game losing streak with a victory over Kansas City.

With Blazers playmaker Kelvin Ransey sidelined with an ankle injury, Paxson also passed for seven assists while hitting 13 of 19 shots.

The Kings, after trailing by 13 points in the second quarter, cut the deficit to five in the fourth quarter, but Paxson scored seven straight points to put the game out of reach.

Warriors 113, Spurs 107
World Free scored 10 of his 32 points in the decisive fourth quarter and Golden State took advantage of George Gervin's foul trouble to beat San Antonio.

The Warriors trailed 99-88 with 7:42 left in the game, but they outscored the Spurs 25-8 the rest of the way. Gervin scored 34 points, but 21 of them came in the first quarter and he sat out much of the final period with foul trouble.

Rockets 99, Mavericks 95
Moses Malone scored 38 points and pulled down 20 rebounds and Elvin Hayes had 27 points and 14 rebounds to lead Houston over Dallas.

Alexander returns to Yankees

The Associated Press

George Steinbrenner "invited" the New York Yankees to spring training nearly two months ago. On Tuesday, he welcomed Doyle Alexander back into the fold. That left a few of his new — and well-tanned — teammates shaking their heads in dismay.

Alexander, you see, hasn't been to spring training since last year. He sat out this year's, holding out for a better contract from the San Francisco Giants. He and the National League club couldn't agree on an extension of his six-year contract, which expired at the end of the 1982 season.

So the 31-year-old right-hander, a Yankee during the second half of the 1976 season and their World Series opening pitcher that year, was dealt back to them in exchange for two minor leaguers, pitcher Andy McGaffigan and infielder-outfielder Ted Wilborn.

Alexander's new contract with the Yankees reportedly is worth $2.2 million over four years.

Alexander wasn't the only Giants pitcher changing uniforms. San Francisco also traded former Cy Young Award winner Vida Blue and another left-hander, Bob Tufts, to the Kansas City Royals in exchange for pitchers Renie Martin, Al Craig Chamberlain and a player to named later. Martin is the only one assured of making the Giants' roster.

Public Notices

NOTICE OF TAX RELIEF AVAILABLE TO CERTAIN HOMEOWNERS OVER 65
Homeowners who were 65 years of age or older on January 1, 1979, and failed to receive their Pampa Independent School District homestead exemption in 1979 have until April 1 of this year to do so. In this way, elderly homeowners will be able to take advantage of the school tax freeze associated with the $10,000 homestead exemption. According to a law passed by the 67th Legislature, over 65 homeowners who were qualified for the school homestead "tax freeze" in 1979, but who did not apply for or receive their homestead exemption, may file an application with the Tax Assessor/Collector of the Pampa Independent School District. Eligible over 65 homeowners in Pampa Independent School District must make application to the Pampa Independent School and City of Pampa Tax office, 321 West Albert Street, Pampa, Texas before April 1, 1982. To qualify for this tax relief a homeowner must have satisfied these requirements on January 1, 1979: Been 65 years of age or older; Owned his home; Used that home as his residence homestead. Charles Rand, the Tax Assessor/Collector of Pampa Independent School District will consider all applications and notify each applicant before April 15, 1982. If the application is not made and the Tax Assessor/Collector, C.D. Rand will make an entry on the Pampa Independent School District 1982 appraisal records. This entry will indicate the amount of Pampa Independent School tax the over 65 taxpayer should have paid in 1979, had he applied for and been granted the $5,000 general homestead exemption and the $10,000 over 65 homestead exemption. No refunds of taxes paid will be given for 1979, 1980 or 1981. For 1982 the taxpayers school taxes on his homestead may not exceed the amount of taxes the Pampa Independent School District would have imposed on the homestead for 1979, had the taxpayer received his homestead exemption. This frozen tax amount will remain the same as long as the homestead remains the same. For applications contact Charles Rand, Tax Assessor/Collector of Pampa Independent School District, 321 West Albert, Pampa, Texas 79065 or call 669-3276. A-60 March 21, 25, 31, 1982

The high cost of Congressional resolutions

By JIM DRINKARD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Critics have long lambasted Congress for doing nothing. Not true. Just this year, amid the pressures of the federal budget, lawmakers have found time to give official recognition to peaches and patriotism, bald eagles and ballet.

Those are among the hundreds of commemorative resolutions introduced every year by congressmen. It all costs money, but nobody knows for sure how much. Nobody knows, either, how much time explanation, debate and voting consume on limited floor schedules, or how many staff hours taken up typing, copying and circulating pleas for support for a resolution.

"It's got to cost," said Rep. Robert Garcia, D-N.Y., whose Office and Civil Service subcommittee on the census is handling most such bills in the House. "It bothers me, but I don't control the situation. I didn't make the rules."

By one estimate, the introduction of a brief resolution costs roughly $1,300 for printing and distribution. If the sponsoring member or representative makes a speech supporting his bill on the floor, space to print it in the Congressional Record costs other $475.68 per page. Roughly 700 such bills were introduced last year.

Those costs are nominal, said Mike Ferrell, staff director of Garcia's subcommittee. "The expensive item is the time spent on the floor of a billion-dollar Congress. It takes at least 10 or 15 minutes to explain a resolution."

What some considered to be an example of the problem occurred last Oct. 20, when Rep. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, demanded a roll-call vote on a resolution declaring the fourth day in October to be National Mother-In-Law Day. It passed 305 to 66, with 28 voting "present."

"One of the dangers — and the mother-in-law thing highlights this — is that sometimes these things come up on the floor and there's some squabble between Democrats and Republicans, and they use this as a mechanism to delay and stall by asking for votes on these things," said Garcia.

So far this year the House has passed 11 such resolutions, the Senate more than two dozen. A few are on serious governmental topics, such as National Agriculture Day or Afghanistan Day. But most, Ferrell said, are not.

"The ones that predominate are in the classic sense a special interest: a group, an association or whatever constituency that makes a request to a member, who innocently or blindly obliges that request."

Earlier this month the House considered Joint Resolution 361, granting official recognition to the international ballet competition to be held in Jackson, Miss.

Rep. Jim Dunn, a freshman Republican from Michigan, criticized "the activities that the U.S. government is involved in such as ballet days versus what we really should be involved in, and that is solving the economic problems... These are not normal times, and we cannot go on tradition in this body."

But Garcia rose to defend the bill as important to Mississippi and to Rep. Wayne Dowdy, D-Miss., "who has worked so hard to get this through." The measure passed.

The House also has declared the third week in February as National Patriotism Week and 1982 as the Bicentennial Year of the Bald Eagle, and the Senate has designated July as National Peach Month.

Although any member can introduce a bill, both Garcia's committee and the Senate Judiciary Committee, which handles similar chores in that chamber, have rules to limit and discourage them from reaching the floor for action. That has kept National Junior Bowling Week, International Franchise Day and Parliamentary Emphasis Month from gumming up the floor calendars.

The House requires 218 co-sponsors — a majority — and forbids action on bills naming any commercial or political group or any particular state, city or school. The Senate less call for 25 co-sponsors and bar politics and specific businesses or products.

The Senate rules are being re-evaluated to make it tougher, perhaps by requiring more co-sponsors. "There is some feeling that they've been taking too much time," said a staff member who asked not to be named.

Ferrell said the co-sponsorship requirement, imposed in 1975, drastically reduced commemorative bills for a time because congressmen were reluctant to tie up office staff running around Capitol Hill to collect colleagues' signatures.

But lately the numbers have been creeping upward again. The special interests involved are volunteering their own staff to do the legwork. "Obviously if a member can do someone a favor without committing a lot of staff time, he's gonna do it," said Ferrell.

Broker has plan to save the thrifts

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) —

Stricken by the thrift industry's anemic financial condition, which he fears could undermine the economy and confidence in the entire banking system, Kirby Keefe has come up with a plan.

In his plan, he says, that might avert savings bank failures, panic among investors, the spread of banking depression, and financial chaos.

Keefe would seek to do so by funneling savings to the thrifts, making mortgages available, putting builders and appliance suppliers back to work, and compromising with the anger by making rebuying possible.

His proposal wouldn't cost the Treasury anything additional.

Keefe's brokerage house of Keefe, Bruyette & Woods Inc., of which he is founder and chairman, specializes in sales of major commercial stocks, analyzing far more than any other securities firm.

Keefe is closely associated with commercial banking, "regional banking" as opposed to the thrift industry, which handles savings and mortgages.

Under Keefe's plan, savers could channel $2,000 a year "free" into a "Homebuyer Account," modeled on an Individual Retirement Account except that the money would be used for a house instead.

"It would be a unique instrument to suppliers of mortgage money," said Keefe. It could not be offered for money market funds, because high interest rates are siphoned money from the thrifts.

In Keefe's view, this would give the thrifts a flow of money to work with and enable them to make mortgages. It would permit people to buy homes. It would save housing and related industries from collapse — a collapse he fears might spread like cancer.

HBAs could be offered only by lenders with a certain percentage of assets in housing, perhaps 30 percent. Interest charges could be administered, maybe pegged to 75 percent of one-year Treasury Bills.

Such securities early this week had a bond equivalent yield of a bit more than 14 percent, a rate that would make the cost of money to the thrifts roughly 10.75 percent.

Since they need a 2 percent to 2.5 percent spread to make home loans profitable, the mortgage rate would be around 13 percent, or close to 5 percentage points lower than now, said Keefe.

If a couple saved $2,000 each or $4,000 for four years at 9 percent, a rate arbitrarily chosen by Keefe for illustration, they would have $20,000, based on quarterly compounding (many banks compound daily), and might be able to qualify for a house worth $80,000 or even more.

Some of the nation's 14,000 commercial banks, many only lightly involved in home mortgages, probably won't like his idea, but others might approve.
