Truman Backs Western U.S. Development

By ERNEST B. VACCARO CASPER, WYO. (AP)—President Truman pledged today a fight to push development of the West over the opposition of "reactionary forces" which he linked to the "Teapot Dome" scandal.

The 13-car presidential train pulled into Casper shortly after 7 a. m. and the chief executive quickly was surrounded by a crowd as he took a six-block stroll through the streets.

In his speech here, Mr. Truman blasted at "privilege and greed" as the main obstacles to western development and pointed to the new Kortes Dam, 60 miles south of here, as an example of government enterprise which will be a source of "wealth and strength for the people of the world."

The president scoffed at those who cry "socialism" and "regimentation" at such government efforts toward water and land resource development.

He was met at the station by two of his World War One companions, Gilbert Houseley, an auto dealer, and James F. Hook, state director of veterans' employment.

The president had gone no more than 100 yards from his car when he picked up a cheering, laughing escort of some 300 youngsters and oldsters. Secret Service men had to shove away some of the bolder ones so the chuckling chief executive wouldn't tread on their heels.

This struck the same informal, folksy note that marked yesterday's progress through Nebraska where he told an agriculture-minded audience at Lincoln that the controversial program plan would help assure "peace and prosperity for ourselves and the world."

Throughout yesterday, he continued to talk to large and apparently happy throngs in the same chatty, neighborly fashion that marked his successful vote appeal of 1948.

Like at Pacific Junction, Iowa, yesterday where he told them he wanted them to look at their "hired man" to see if he is the same fellow who came out "looking for votes two years ago." He added he was 66 even if they thought he didn't look it.

Mr. Truman revisited the old "Teapot Dome" scandal at Casper, contrasting the philosophy of "Teapot Dome" with that behind the construction of the Kortes Dam.

The solemn note he sounded in speeches yesterday in Illinois and where he warned the Midwest that a return to "isolationism" could bring on "a third world war," crept into his Casper talk.

"We are engaged in a worldwide struggle to bring lasting peace to the world," he said. "In that struggle we are being opposed by a cynical imperialism which asserts that freedom, democracy and peace are incapable of any action."

By developing projects like the Kortes Dam, Mr. Truman continued, this country "can prove how false, how hollow, are the claims of communism."

In the democratic tradition, he added, "we shall move forward on the path of freedom and peace."

Panel Urges Mail Service Restoration

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Postoffice Committee today approved a resolution directing that Postmaster General Donaldson drop his economy cutbacks in the postal service. The vote was 9 to 0.

On April 18, Donaldson cut down on a number of services, explaining that the department lacked the money to continue them.

One order cut residential mail deliveries to one a day and reduced deliveries in business areas. Donaldson also shortened the hours of window service and dropped some night handling of mail.

Since his orders were issued, there has been a barrage of protests from organizations of postal employees.

Donaldson said the reductions were necessary because Congress had decided against making postal rate increases he had recommended. He proposed increases to bring in about $60,000,000 a year. The House trimmed that to $100,000,000 and the Senate has not acted.

For the fiscal year beginning July 1, Donaldson asked a $2,235,607,000 appropriation, congress has not acted finally, but the House Appropriations Committee has recommended that the department's funds be held to $2,297,500,000. Donaldson said actual expenditures during the present fiscal year will top $2,340,000,000.

The Senate committee's recommendations go to the Senate. The committee approved a resolution and two bills which would have the effect of cancelling Donaldson's cutbacks.

If the Senate and House should take the same view as the committee, Congress would be obligated to supply the money needed for the restored services.

U.S. Secretary Promises Aid To Indochina

LONDON (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin met today to discuss ways of winning the cold war.

Acheson came by plane from Paris, where he talked yesterday with French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman and agreed that the United States would give military and economic aid to help warring Indochina out of the Communist clutches.

Acheson and Schuman also were reported in agreement on giving more political and economic freedom to Western Germany by easing the occupation law under which the big three control their German expenditures.

One of the problems the U.S. and British ministers will examine was similar to that of Indochina—the Communist uprising against Britain in Malaysia, source of much of the world's rubber and tin.

Diplomatic sources reported Acheson and Bevin also would: 1. Review postwar restrictions on Germany. For security reasons and to build up western economy Acheson wants to lift the German arms embargo.

2. Discuss how to speed up the increased unity of Europe. How the east Britain go in joining with the rest of Europe while still heading a commonwealth and sterling bloc?

3. How they can work out agreed policies in the future to avoid such embarrassments as the split over recognizing Communist China. Britain recognized the Chinese Reds more than four months ago. France and the United States have refused to follow the British lead.

4. How to promote economic health in the Middle East, an oil-rich strategic area whose poverty-stricken masses provide fertile soil for Communist agitation.

While Bevin and Acheson will discuss these problems, the most major decisions probably will await the arrival of Schuman for the three-day Big Three meeting beginning Thursday.

The trio's forthcoming talks are described as the most important since they were marked by a great change in western diplomatic attitudes.

Previous conferences have been held either with the Russians present or with the West still hoping that Kremlin concessions might ensure peace.

Russian U.N. Delegate Stalks Out Of Meeting Over China Question

BANGKOK (AP)—Russia today walked out of a United Nations committee where it had expected to win a seat for Red China.

The Russian delegate stalked out when the committee refused to take up a Soviet resolution calling for unseating the Nationalist China delegate and seating of the Communist China representative.

It was the first meeting of the industry and trade session of the UN Regional Economic Conference for Asia and the Far East.

It was the 26th and last of the major United Nations bodies from which the Soviets have walked out rather than participate because of the Sino-Red delegate's refusal to be seated.

With the United Kingdom, which has recognized Red China, and other Southeast Asia countries represented here, it had been considered likely the Russians could win a seat for Communist China over Nationalist China.

The full regional committee will meet May 16. At that time the Soviet delegate, minister to Thailand S. S. Nemtchina, is expected to reiterate his resolution to exclude the Kuomintang (Nationalist) representative and recognize the Red China delegate.

As yet no delegation from Peiping has been sighted in Bangkok. Even the Soviet presence at today's committee-meeting of members and associate members was not decided upon until the last minute. Then Nemtchina and his second secretary, I. G. Usatchev, appeared.

The Sino-Red issue was raised a few minutes after the session opened when Nemtchina introduced his resolution.

War Mobilization "Czar" is Proposed by President

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman today proposed to make the chairman of the National Security Resources Board the country's war mobilization planning "czar." W. Stuart Symington, former Air Force secretary, now holds the post.

Mr. Truman also recommended to Congress that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation be placed under the jurisdiction of the department of commerce.

The two proposals were among four new federal reorganization plans recommended by Mr. Truman affecting housing, lending and industrial mobilization.

All of the proposals except that transferring the RFC to the Commerce Department are in line with recommendations of the Commission on Government Reorganization headed by former President Herbert Hoover.

The plans, which will become law automatically unless they are rejected by the Senate or House within 60 days, involve:

1. Transferring to Symington, the chairman of the National Security Resources Board, all the powers now held jointly by the eight cabinet-rank members of the NSRB. The board would become merely advisory to Symington.

2. Shifting RFC into the Commerce Department as a government corporation under Secretary Sawyer's supervision. RFC now is an independent agency making loans to business.

3. Stripping from RFC its subsidiary corporation, the Federal National Mortgage Association, a multi-billion dollar mortgage buying concern. This agency would be merged into the housing and home finance agency under Administrator Raymond M. Foley.

4. Transferring from RFC to Foley's agency the government's function of making loans to aid the production and sale of prefabricated housing.

The proposals bring to a total of 25 the number of White House reorganization plans pending in Congress. Twenty one will become law on May 23 unless rejected by the Senate or House. Resolutions opposing 11 of these have been filed.

Many Homeless In Northern Floods

(By The Associated Press) Fresh floodwaters from the Red River of the North today made thousands homeless and isolated many communities in parts of the water-soaked North Dakota and Minnesota. A 24-hour rain fed the rising stream and its tributaries.

Across the border in flood-besieged Winnipeg, there also were more evacuations as a new storm threatened further damage from the raging Red River. More than 12,000 persons already have been driven from their homes in Winnipeg and Southern Manitoba in the last week. New floods in North Dakota and Minnesota hit the area which only recently had battled the worst floods in 50 years.

In Nebraska, the worst flood since 1908 hit Lincoln early today only a few hours after President Truman's special train passed through the city on a western jaunt.

The water was playing havoc all over the low lying residential areas and in the low warehouse district of Lincoln. There was an estimate of damage but it was certain to run high. There were no injuries but several people had to be rescued from their homes.

Two main highways leading into the city were blocked by flood waters and there was considerable flooding of railroad tracks. The flood waters came from Salt and Antelope creeks following torrential rains in the areas around Lincoln. The city itself recorded nearly an inch and a half of rain, the downpour starting just before President Truman stepped off his special train to make his first major address of the current trip.

National guardsmen were called out at Grand Fork, N. D., as the Red River crept high 45.5 feet, 17 1/2 feet above flood stage. Additional rain was forecast for much of the flooded area. There were more than 200 families forced from their homes in Grand Fork and 300 families were evacuated from East Grand Forks, Minn., across the river.

Other communities endangered Dakota included Minto, Bowes, by the floodwaters in North north, Grafton and Pembina. At Oslo, Minn., 20 miles northeast of Grand Forks, the Red River narrowed bridge at Canadian, the state has brought Highway 60 to a level far above the route in other states.

The convention re-elected the entire slate of officers, headed by Harry Glasser, Enid, president, and E. Zink, Enid, secretary. It also chose Riverside, Calif., for the 1951 convention site.

Strike Threat By Rail Group Is Mounting

CHICAGO (AP)—Threat of a strike by railroad firemen against four of the nation's major carriers at 6 a. m. (local time) tomorrow appeared mounting today.

Representatives of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the carriers appeared deadlocked. Federal mediators said, however, all efforts will be made up to the last minute to prevent a walkout.

The Santa Fe Railway system announced that beginning today there would be "some curtailment" in passenger service. A spokesman for the railroad said details of the reduction in passenger service remain to be worked out. Plans for curtailing freight service also are being completed, he said.

In Washington today the Southern Railway System issued an embargo on movement of all freight and passenger traffic which cannot reach its destination or clear Southern lines prior to the walkout time being handled.

The Southern also said that in event the strike materializes it will discontinue all passenger mail, express and freight service. The National (Railway) Mediation Board held separate sessions with railroad and union representatives throughout yesterday.

In the principal demand is for a second diesel locomotive multiple unit diesel locomotive. The demand has been rejected by the carriers as well as by two presidential fact-finding boards.

Sneak Thief Gets $345 At Station

City police and Santa Fe Railroad detectives were still looking today for the sneak thief who stole $345 in bills from the local ticket office of the Santa Fe station early Saturday night or early Sunday morning.

Special Officer Lawrence Sanky, Santa Fe Railroad Police, reported the theft yesterday afternoon, saying that between 10:30 p. m. Saturday and 7:45 a. m. Sunday someone got into a supposedly locked drawer in the ticket office of the Santa Fe station here and took the money.

The denominations missing, Sanky said, are: two $100 bills, two $20 bills, eight $10 bills, and five $5 bills. The thief left $4.51 in one dollar bills and change in the drawer. The loss was discovered by night ticket agent Jim Parks at 7:45 when he prepared to go off duty.

No leads had been uncovered by investigating officers at this morning, Chief of Police John Worthington said.

Association Votes Down '60' Change

PONCA CITY, Okla. — A proposal that U. S. Highway 60 be re-routed through Shattuck, Woodward and Gage, Okla., was dropped at a general session of the U. S. Highway 60 Association here yesterday.

The proposed re-routing, bitterly opposed by Arnet, Vici and Fairview, Okla., which the highway new service would not have been binding upon state and national officials, but highway association recommendations are usually considered by governmental agencies.

In other actions, the delegates praised Texas for its work on Highway 60, pointing out that with the exception of the long, narrow bridge at Canadian, the state has brought Highway 60 to a level far above the route in other states.

The convention re-elected the entire slate of officers, headed by Harry Glasser, Enid, president, and E. Zink, Enid, secretary. It also chose Riverside, Calif., for the 1951 convention site.

Delegates from Pampa include George Newberry, Howard Buckingham, G. S. Vineyard and E. O. Wedgeworth.

Two Men Slain In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—An automobile salesman and his customer were shot to death by a holdup man last night on a West Philadelphia used car lot.

Alex Martin, 46, the salesman, and Daniel Neary, 50, died in Mercy Hospital as an encore. They had been shot in the abdomen. Benjamin Dearman, who had accompanied Neary and his wife to the lot, was shot in the left hand.

The robber escaped in a high powered sedan, taking $200 which Neary had brought with him to make payment on a car, police said.

MASS PIANISTS GIVEN ENTHUSIASTIC PRAISE

"One of the best musical organizations ever heard in Pampa" was the comment made frequently by an enthusiastic audience at the first of two concerts by the Piano Symphony at the Junior High School Auditorium last night.

The Symphony will give a repeat concert at 8 o'clock tonight.

Mrs. May Foreman Carr, organizer and director of the organization, estimated the audience at about 600, but said that a much larger crowd is expected tonight. She said that in music love a from all over the Plains were present, and also some from Austin, Dallas and Lubbock.

All numbers were well received, but the favorite selection was Liszt's "Second Hungarian Rhapsody." Mrs. Carr responded to several curtain calls, and the last movement of the Rhapsody was repeated as an encore. The concert was presented with two bouquets after the playing of Mozart's overture to the Marriage of Figaro, and the Rhapsody.

The solo Rhapsody by Rachmaninoff, played by John Branson of Tulsa, with Mrs. Ernestine Holmes Scott playing second piano arrangements, was one of the highlights of the evening. Both artists played with brilliance and wonderful clarity of tone. They reminded listeners of the Bartlett and Robertson duo team that delighted Pampa a few years ago.

New Position To Be Filled By Symington

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman today proposed to make the chairman of the National Security Resources Board the country's war mobilization planning "czar." W. Stuart Symington, former Air Force secretary, now holds the post.

GOP Leaders Map Cut in Money Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Republican leaders agreed today to try to cut $996,000,000 from the $29,000,000 omnibus appropriation bill.

The agreement was reached at a meeting of the GOP Policy Committee.

Rep. Taber of New York, leader of the Republican drive to whack approximately one billion dollars from the big measure, said the committee decided to push amendments which would:

1. Restrict federal agencies in filling job vacancies during the fiscal year starting July 1 and reduce sums tentatively approved for operation of the government.

2. Tabor said if the House rejects the proposals, they will be tied to a motion to send the bill back to the appropriations committee.

The Army, the Navy and the Air Force, he said, will be exempted from the proposed cuts.

Actually, the House was all set to add $350,000,000 to the bill for national defense spending. Most of the extra money would go for air power.

Youth Fined After Loot Is Recovered

Pilfering cars cost a local boy $43.05 in fine and costs yesterday afternoon before Judge Bruce Parker in Gray County Court.

A warrant for the arrest of another boy who was with him was issued but he had not been picked up by this morning, Chief of Police John Wilkinson said.

J. C. Teague, Jr., 20, of 729 E. Driver, was accused the first by Judge Parker. Young Teague was picked up Sunday night in front of the Fundamental Baptist Church by two members of the church who came out to investigate noise around the parked cars.

Chief of Police John Wilkinson said Teague was nabbed in his own car by Glen Deering who was later joined by G. E. Winegar. The men had been in church and had heard noise outside that sounded like parts being broken from cars and doors being slammed shut.

Teague told police that he and another boy had been rifling the cars. He said the other boy was bringing the loot to him in his car as it stood parked in front of the church. Wilkinson quoted young Teague as saying he didn't know "why I did it."

The other boy got away as Teague was caught by Deering. Teague later told police who his companion was and the warrant for his arrest was issued.

Inside Teague's car police found two automobile window shades, four rear view mirrors, one defroster fan, one woman's coat, four radio aerials and an assortment of flashlights and screwdrivers. Some of the items were taken earlier from cars parked near the Calvary Baptist Church. Most of the items, Wilkinson said, have been identified by the owners and the property restored to them.

Teague was charged with tampering with a motor vehicle and entered a plea of guilty. The fine amounted to $25 and the costs of court to $18.50.

State Textbook Depository Coordination Is Requested

AUSTIN — (AP) — Paul Bolton of Austin, state board of education member, yesterday proposed the state save $145,000 a year by building a combined textbook depository and central education office.

He said five private book depositories in Dallas which store textbooks for the state charge 5 percent of the books' value. Annual book contracts run about $4,000,000 a year, which means the state pays $200,000 a year for storage of school texts.

Bolton figured a state-owned depository could be operated for $150,000 a year. Inclusion of the central education agency in the building would save $45,000 a year in rental money, he estimated.

The board of education authorized appointment of a committee to study the legislative, budget and director Vernon McGee the possibility of a bond issue to finance such a state building.

(Bolton later told reporters he was in error in telling the board private depositories charge 5 percent of book value for storage. He said he had learned the charge is 8 percent, and his plan would thus effect an even greater saving for the state.)

In other action, the board approved Hillboro Junior College's request for permission to call a Hill County election on the question of converting the school to a countywide basis.

J. W. Bruner, pastor of the Hillboro First Baptist Church and chairman of the Hill County Citizens for Hill County Junior College group, submitted a petition of 1600 names, and Robert W. Calvert explained legal aspects of the request.

The college now will ask the county commissioners court to call the election in which the following questions would be voted upon: a $90,000 bond issue for a new college plant, a 20-cent tax limit; the city of Hillboro not to have more than one member on the board of trustees.

Boards members Leslie Huff of Waco and Jack Binion of Houston voted against allowing the election.

Church Merger Loses in Vote

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — A proposal to merge the United Presbyterian Church and the Reformed Church failed to receive the necessary three-fourths affirmative vote.

Dr. T. M. Taylor, of the Pittsburgh-Ekenta Theological Seminary and chairman of the U. P. Committee on Church Relations, said the merger was defeated although the popular vote favored the plan.

A church rule, Dr. Taylor said, provides that the merger must be accepted by a three-fourths majority in each of three-fourths of the church's 51 presbyteries.

The vote was 1,004 to 220 in favor of the merger, he said, but 18 Presbyteries failed to give the needed three-fourths affirmative vote.

The merger would have brought together 160,000 Reformed Church members and 210,000 members of the United Presbyterian Church.

The U. P. General Assembly in 1944 rejected a similar proposal to merge the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. (Northern).

Rare Orchid Find Is Told

FORT MYERS, Fla. — (AP) — A new field with millions of rare orchids has been found in the Everglades within 30 miles of the Tamiami Trail, a Fort Myers collector reported.

Robert Halgrim, manager of the Thomas A. Edison Home, said under his return that the unusually dry weather allowed his party to go into a section usually closed to collectors.

When the home of the great inventor was willed to the city of Fort Myers, one of the conditions was that work in plant experiments should be continued.

Halgrim's find was mostly of earth growing orchids, but many beautiful tree growing specimens also were collected.

Canadian River Talks Draw Near

AUSTIN — (AP) — Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico are ready to begin a parley about Canadian River waters, Interstate Compact Commissioner E. V. Spence of Texas says.

The commissioners from the three states will get together when President Truman names a federal representative, Spence said. He noted that the president has signed a resolution granting the consent of Congress to negotiation of a compact between the interested states.

TIDELANDS DRILLING INVESTIGATION ASKED

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Harold L. Ickes, former secretary of the Interior, has asked the Supreme Court to investigate agreements under which private oil companies are continuing operations in the California tidelands area.

The agreements were announced by the Justice Department after the Supreme Court in 1947 declared the federal government has full dominion and power over the California submerged lands.

The agreements permit the oil companies to remove oil under leases from the state of California pending settlement of disputes between the federal and state governments over actual boundary lines in several sections along the coast.

Royalties collected by California from these operations are kept in a special fund for distribution after the disputes are settled.

Ickes in a petition filed with the high tribunal said:

"It is suggested that not only the attorney general and the secretary of the interior of the United States but the attorney general of California, are proceeding without statutory or other authority, and contrary to the decision of this court, and that all action taken pursuant to the stipulations (agreements), or in reliance thereupon are illegal, null and void."

Ickes said in his petition that California has agreed to lease certain areas which drain oil from the federal government's submerged property.

Ickes said he filed his petition as a member of the bar of the Supreme Court. He said he felt it was his duty to call the court's attention to the situation.

He suggested that the justices order all the parties involved in the agreement, as well as others interested, to show why the agreements "should not be set aside as inconsistent with and contrary to the decision of the court."

ECA Criticizes European-U.S. Trade Barriers

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Economic Cooperation Administration (ECA) said yesterday that unless the United States takes "extraordinary action" Western Europe may never earn enough dollars to be independent of U. S. aid.

Marshall Plan nations trying to sell goods in this country, the recovery agency said, "are still meeting formidable obstacles in the form of competition from American producers in the U. S., high tariffs, and administrative hindrances to imports."

These barriers, ECA added, may be "so formidable as to set practical limits on the ability of the European countries to enlarge their dollar earnings."

"These limits may well make it impossible for Europeans to obtain the volume of exports necessary to maintain essential imports and to bridge the dollar gap to the point of becoming independent of United States aid."

The agency outlined this situation in a report submitted to Congress by President Truman. It covers the last three months of 1949.

Machines Invade Cemetery Business

HOUSTON — (AP) — The cemetery business has succumbed to the machine age.

One topic drawing a lot of attention from the 100 or so persons attending the spring meeting of the Texas Cemetery Association here is a new grave-digging machine.

While there are relatively few such machines on the market, President F. E. Gifford of the association predicted that dozens of grave-digging machines will be available in the next five years.

The president of Greenland Memorial Park in Port Arthur, Gifford said the cemetery business had to turn to machine to keep pace with the rest of business and industry.

Grace Friend...

Leaders of The Pampa News are invited to send their problems to Grace Friend. Letters not published in the columns will be answered personally provided a self-addressed stamped envelope is enclosed with the question. Writers must sign their names without the writer's permission, TOO MUCH TO DO

Dear Grace Friend: Recently my husband and I moved from the apartment in which we have lived since our marriage to a very attractive new home.

As I have always worked in an office and as I very much enjoy it, I have planned to keep it up I have used Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning to do my housework. In the apartment it was easy but now I don't ever get done. I used to finish at noon Sundays and then we could have the afternoons to go out or have people in but now with a nice place in which to entertain I no longer have time for it.

My husband says that I am getting pretty cross and that I can't get the house if it does this to me. He tries to help me but it doesn't seem to make much difference. I am still too tired to enjoy the place. Do you think that we should get rid of it and move back to an apartment?

Dear Mrs. J.:

It would be too bad to give up your nice new home for which you probably wished and planned a long time when a little "managing" would make your job as an office worker and housewife much easier.

In the first place, don't try to do all of your housework yourself but use some of your salary as an office worker to hire a woman to come in once a week and clean for you. Even having someone half a day each week would lessen your week-end chores considerably.

The money you spend in this way would pay big dividends in the end as you would be able to rest on Sundays and again have fun with your husband. It probably would go far towards keeping you well as no woman can work a full day at an office and spend the rest of her waking moments doing housework without taxing her health.

Dear Mrs. Friend: Do you ever give advice on people's appearance?

As I can't afford to go to the beauty parlor for shampoos I always wash my own hair but it has gotten dull and brittle and isn't a bit prettier any more. I wonder if you could give me some hints about it.

Sincerely, Betty L.

Dear Betty: The most important thing is to keep your hair clean. Perhaps as you do it yourself, you put off your shampoos and they are too far apart. Always wash your hair once a week and in hot weather do it even oftener in order to keep it free of dust which dulls its natural sheen.

Beauty experts recommend quick lathering shampoos for home use as they have special detergents which clean your hair whether the water is soft or hard. They are liquid, jelly or cream so you can choose whichever you prefer to use. Keep your hair well brushed between shampoos and see that it is neatly combed. Sometimes a permanent helps keep the ends of your hair from looking straggly. If you cannot spend the money for one at a beauty shop, perhaps you can have a friend help you with a home permanent.

Be sure that you are well yourself as your health has much to do with the health of your hair.

ANOTHER JULIET

Dear Mrs. Friend: I have lost the only boy I ever loved.

I can't go on and finish high school knowing that I might meet him any time with another girl. I have decided to become a nun. Can you tell me how to go about applying for admission to a convent?

My mother tells me that I am silly and that I will get over being hurt but I don't think I can as my love isn't any fly by night affair. I have been going with this one boy for three years, ever since I was in the eighth grade and I know that after we have meant so much to each other that I will never get over it or find anyone else to interest me. So, if you can tell me how, I shall devote my life to others. Mary E.

Dear Mary: I feel that you are a little young yet to become a nun.

If you are sincere in your desire to become one you should be using these years to prepare yourself. Then, when you are 18, you can decide whether you really want to continue with your plans.

In the meantime I am almost sure that you will recover and will find another nice boy. You will recover quicker if you accept invitations and go to parties and dances as if nothing had happened. Don't sit home and mope whatever else you do.

Ennis Band to Play at BGK Dance Tomorrow Night

Skinny Ennis will appear with his band at the Southern Club Wednesday night, May 10, for the annual Beta Gamma Kappa spring formal.

Skinny was born Edgat C. Ennis, Jr., in Salisbury, N. C., and having no regard for popular superstitions, selected Friday, August 13, 1909 for his birthdate. Appropriately enough the street in which he was born was named Ennis Street.

Son of a prominent old Southern family, Ennis boasts among his ancestors, Major James Smith who fought with Light-Horse Harry Lee's famous cavalry during the American Revolution, and a Dr. Mongleburg, who was personal physician to Napoleon during the latter's disastrous campaign in Russia.

Like several other popular band leaders, namely Fred Waring and Horace Heidt, Skinny started his musical career in his hometown Boy Scout band. He tooted a bugle and paraded on the drums in turn. He entered the University of North Carolina and there struck up an acquaintance with Hal Kemp. As a Delta Sigma Phi fraternity brother of Kemp's he roomed with Hal and played drums and trumpet in Hal's original campus band.

At the close of his freshman year, when Kemp received his degree and decided to enter music professionally, Skinny cast his lot with him.

About 12 years later he organized his own band and opened at the Victor Hugo in Beverly Hills on a two week engagement. He stayed five months. At that time, he used 13 men in his band; four rhythms, four saxophones, three trumpets and two trombones. Combining his distinctive with a staccato-brass background behind subdued clarinets, Skinny had the foundation of a band style that was destined to take its place among the top stylized bands of the country, along with Kemp, Lombardo, Kyser and Fields. In addition to Skinny, Carmene, stately blond charmer, handles the vocal.

Gold Sox Sweep Series From Abilene Hose

AMARILLO — (AP) — Amarillo won a wild battle of home runs last night, 12-1, to sweep the series with their third consecutive victory.

A total of 39 of the 23 runs scored by the two teams came as a result of 12 circuit smashes, six by each team.

Walt Seast, big Abilene first baseman, led the parade of over-the-wall swappa with three.

The second round trip bet by Lewis was the most important of the dozen. It came with two mates ahead and put Amarillo on top for the first time in the ball game.

Abilene got 19 hits and 10 runs in the first four and two thirds innings off Jack Hollowell making his Amarillo debut, and Bob Zollheimer.

Manager Harry Davis called LaFollette in from right field to take over for Zollheimer in the fifth.

The big utility player, formerly a West Texas State athlete, started only three hits, a pair of singles and Seast's third homerun. The Tigers today were leading the league on their best pitcher in the league out there today.

Outfielder Dick Wakenfield relaxed at his Ann Arbor, Mich., home when the Chicago White Sox refused to restore his $525 pay cut after purchasing the first of the bonus babies from the Yankees.

Lobos Slaughter Gassers, 26-6

BORGER — (AP) — A three-day home stand of the Borger Gassers ended on a sour note here last night as the Lamesa Lobos routed the locals 26-6, scoring 26 runs on 26 hits.

While the Lamesans were increasing their hit tempo at the plate, right-hander Eulis Rossen was recording his third win on a five-hit job.

The Borranas scored five of their six runs off his slants in the third when he gave up two hits and three walks while the Lobos made their two errors.

In a wild seventh inning that produced eight Lobo runs, the Lamesans took a 16-6 lead.

The Lobos made eight runs on seven hits and three Borger errors, all three of them by right-fielder Bob Leonard, Manager Mickey Burnett and Fred Williams, Gasser first baseman, were ejected during the biggest Lobo frame when they raised a protest after Lamesa catcher Frank Calo cried the bases on a ball that lodged beneath the steel structure of a rightfield light stand.

The hit was ruled a ground rule double before the rhuabarb ended. Calo's double was his second hit of the inning. It and third baseman Billy Cappi's double were the only two extra base hits during the Lamesan's big seventh.

The long, drawn out affair that went 2:52 was delayed 20 minutes at the start. Gasser club officials had debated playing the game because of high winds. The winds died as it darkened and the game was played before 700 spectators.

WARREN'S WARMUP

By Warren Hasse—News Sports Editor

QUESTION: What is the fewest number of home runs hit by a team in a full major league season?

MR. BOB BRAY, sports editor, Amarillo Times: Dear Bob: Please cancel my membership in the PTPSWA (Phoneless Texas Panhandle Sports Writers Association) immediately. Southwestern Bell (bless their hearts) finally dropped around the little blue bungalow and installed one of those things. So there is still hope for you, Bob. It only took me eight months. Helloingly yours, Hasse.

The Chicago Cubs have sent pitcher Warren Hacker, former Olney right-hander, to their Springfield, Ill., club of the International League, Class AAA. Hacker was having considerable control trouble this spring and Manager Frankie Frisch apparently thought it better to let the youngster go somewhere that he could pitch regularly to work on his trouble than to have him riding the bench with the Cubs.

Springfield just moved into the International League this past winter. It was formerly the Newark franchise, but the Wright enterprise purchased the floundering Yankee property and moved it to Springfield, which had been a Cub farm previously. So far, despite a seventh place showing, the new entry has been drawing spectacularly.

Manager of the Cubs is Stan Hack, former all-star, all-time Chicago Cub third baseman. R. C. Oety, another former Oilier, is playing regularly with the Little Rock Travelers, not having missed a game so far this spring, and latest available reports are hitting the apple for a .288 mark. It looks like the fiery second baseman is going to make the grade this year.

Two other former West Texas New Mexico League first sackers, Maul, have both moved on up. Gordon Goldsberry and Allan Goldsberry is now up with the Chicago White Sox, apparently for keeps this season, as understood to the aging Luke Appling, who has been shifted to the initial sack.

Maul was just sent from the Oakland Oaks of the Pacific Coast League to Sioux City of the Class A Western Association. Maul last season was with the Dukes of Albuquerque. Another former Duke of last year is still breaking in and out of the Oakland lineup. He is Ray Hamrick, who came in to play shortstop for Hershel Martin when Frank Okrie came down with polio last season. After leading the PCL, the first couple of weeks in hitting, he has slumped off and Bill Herman, the veteran National League and former Pittsburgh manager, is now in the lineup.

Roy Campanella, star catcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers, has named the six most dangerous hitters in the National League as far as he is concerned. And surprisingly, not all of them are the long ball hitters.

Campanella lists his choices as Stan Musial and Enos Slaughter of the Cardinals; Eddie Stanky of the Giants; Hank Sauer of the Cubs, Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh and Sid Gordon of the Boston Braves. Stanky is not a long-ball hitter, but the pesky, dangerous clutch hitter that is one of the smartest players in the game today.

"All you can do about Musial is hope he doesn't hit the ball squarely or that he'll hit it to somebody. Slaughter will hit anything to any field and there is really no way of stopping him except to keep mixing 'em up."

"I always try to mix them up for Kiner, too. He's a strong boy and anything he gets his bat on he'll hit a long way. Stanky has excellent judgment and a very good eye. He gets more walks than any other man in the league. I tell my pitchers to get the ball over and make him hit it."

"Gordon is a strong hitter and don't ever give him a good piece of the ball or he'll hit it a mile. Sauer is a top home run hitter. If you keep the ball high, he won't hurt you. If you put it low to him, he'll hit the ball out."

That's the way one of the top catchers in the National League rates his hitters. And he backed up last season just like that.

ANSWER: The Chicago White Sox only hit 3 home runs in 1908.

Penn State has had 49 Eastern intercollegiate boxing champions in 27 years. Syracuse is runner up with 47.

Southern Golf Meet Starts

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va.—(AP)—Attractive Mary Lena Faulk, 24-year-old brunette golf star from Thomasville, Ga., set out over the par-72 Cavalier Yacht and Country Club course here today to prove the old axiom that the third time's the charm.

Twice before, the modest, shy shotmaker who yesterday fired a record-making 69 to take medalist honors in the 36th amateur championship of the Women's Southern Golf Association, tried to win this classic. She failed both times.

"This year? I'm going to win this one," she said.

Yesterday's second best score was made by Polly Riley, Texan from Fort Worth, who came here favored to take the championship back home with her after Saturday's 36-hole finals. Miss Riley had a one-over-par 73, a score which included an eagle three on the 400-yard fifteenth hole.

Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, and Bee McWane, Alabama state crown-holder from Birmingham, had 74's. Two strokes behind them was Mary Ann Downey, Maryland titlist from Baltimore.

Only four returning lettermen are on Navy's crew roster.

Dukes Edge Past Hubbers, 6-5

ALBUQUERQUE—(AP)—Pitcher Don Cantrell pitched and batted the Albuquerque Dukes to a 10-winning 6-5 victory over the Lubbock Hubbers last night. The victory gave the Dukes the series three games to two and they will continue their rivalry at Lubbock tonight.

Cantrell in winning his first game of the season, yielded 12 hits but he singled past Jackie Sullivan with the bases loaded in the 10th to bring in Manager Hershel Martin with the winning run.

Martin, who collected two triples and a single, led off the 10th with a triple and Sullivan intentionally walked Al Carr and George Miller to load the bases. Harry Bartolomeo, batting for Hal Abbott, popped up to Mike Dooley and then Cantrell lined a 2-1 pitch into right field for the game-winning run.

NEW YORK — (AP)—Johnny Ostrowski, who became Yankee "property" — or did he — in the on-again, off-again Dick Wakefield deal, was called upon to pinch-hit for the White Sox against the Yankees Wednesday.

A few days before he had been used similarly against the Tigers . . . This could provide grounds for a couple of protests, if there was any point in protesting a White Sox game. But Johnny avoided trouble neatly by striking out each time and leaving a total of five runners stranded.

Tight Battle Forecast in SWC Meet This Week

AUSTIN — (AP)—Another of those tight battles down to the last gun between Texas and Texas A&M is forecast here Saturday in the Southwest Conference track and field meet.

Texas last week shaded A&M in a dual meet by four points but that won't make the Longhorns top favorites to beat the Aggies out for the conference title they've held for three years now.

Rice is going to figure strongly. The Owls do not appear to have the manpower to win the meet but they will take points away from both A&M and Texas. Southern Methodist, Baylor and Texas Christian are due to pitch in and scramble things in some events. John Morton of Texas Christian could threaten George Kadera of the Aggies as shot put king. Morton did 49 feet 10 1/2 inches last week — just 3 3/4 inches under the conference record. Morton's throw was almost a foot better than Kadera's has made this season.

Tony D'Ambrosio of Baylor, who has run the 220 in 30.8 and the 100 in 9.8, could edge Texas out of some points in the sprints. Val Joe Walker of Southern Methodist might bite into Aggie points in the hurdles.

The Rice 400-yard relay team that has turned 41.3 might upset the Texas quartet, which has made 41.7 but is capable of faster time now that its team is back at full strength. Big Jack Adkisson of Southern Methodist, who flipped the discus 162 feet 2 1/2 inches last week, may give Kadera a tussle for the title in this event. Kadera's best throw this season has been 185 feet 11 inches.

RESIGNATION
After Jake LaMotta gave out a list of prospective opponents for his middleweight title defense, George Kanter, Robert Villemain's manager, wired the commission: "Consider it outrageous" Villemain not considered challenger for LaMotta. Insist you do something but don't think it will do much good."

J.L. Swindle

In the untimely death of J. L. Swindle Pampa has lost one of its most enthusiastic and capable young businessmen. The responsibilities of a managing editor for a daily newspaper are many. The schedule is rigid. Meeting the demands of his office would readily engulf the thoughts and energies of most people.

Not so with J. L. He went beyond his personal obligations. He gave generously of his time and talents to the things he considered for the betterment of Pampa. It is difficult to put a yardstick beside the life of one whose career is ended so abruptly and evaluate its worth. It is easier when we think of him in terms of books we have read.

Some require many long, arduous hours of reading but are uneventful and soon forgotten. Others, though shorter in length, are so rich in human values that they become parts of us and are of lasting value.

Life is like a book — like a long — another short. Like a book, life cannot be measured in terms of pages but by its contents. The book of life as authored by J. L. is brief. Yet when we think of the high standards he set in going beyond his obligation to life to give ungrudgingly of his time as a director of the Salvation Army, whose purpose is to serve others less fortunate; as a member of the Kiwanis Club, where the chief interest is in the youth of our community; as a committee chairman of the Chamber of Commerce, whose objective is a better community; as an active church member, a devoted father and husband his goal for life was high.

Though brief, his life was of lasting human values — a challenge in unselfish service to his community. — Fred Thompson.

Story of the British Soldier And the Zero Hour of 1917

By DEWITT MACKENZIE AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

War stages strange dramas, as witness this story which I got as correspondent from British Secret Army headquarters in Cassel, Flanders, during the bloody fighting of 1917.

The first gray streaks which heralded a sunless dawn were just beginning to rear themselves mushroom-like into the sky from the far off edge of the stinking sea of Flanders mud.

Down to the south of Ypres, in this cockpit of Europe, the British front line trench along a stretch of perhaps five miles was manned by tight-lipped, silent soldiers. They crouched beneath the parapet, waiting for the signal to "go over the top." The zero hour was almost there.

Within the trench was silence, but out in front of them and just in back of them, there was the ceaseless crash of splintering metal as the great enemy shells sought their hidden targets. Overhead, too, a steady stream of British projectiles screamed towards the German defenses.

A tiny bit more light was all they needed. Then would come the British barrage, a curtain of bursting shells behind which Tommy Atkins would make his way blindly across No Man's Land to do or die.

The broad shoulders of Captain John hunched against the trench among his lads. His eyes on the illuminated dial of his watch, he counted off the seconds. His men saw the big fellow standing there as they had seen him many times before, outwardly calm and steady. It gave a chap courage just to be in the trench with him.

But Captain John was far from being calm as he appeared. He was waging a mighty battle with himself as he stood there counting. Something queer had come over him something he never had experienced before. His men were playing havoc with him. He, the hero of a hundred fights, was afraid. His body quivered with the fear of being afraid.

Came the great moment. Captain John raised his hand and with a cry of relief his men swarmed over the top. But the captain didn't move. He just slumped weakly up against the wall of the trench. The sergeant major's quick eye caught the situation. He rushed over and asked: "What's the matter, Sir? Get up!"

The captain shook his head and muttered: "I just can't make it, sergeant major. My nerve is gone." The sergeant major bared his teeth. He didn't like the captain's attitude. He reported the affair to headquarters.

The assistant provost marshal of Cassel tucked the order for arrest into his tunic pocket. It was a trip to the front line to arrest a man — a court martial. The A.P.M. didn't like his job. It was a captain this time, too — a Captain John. A pity, that.

The sergeant major guided the A.P.M. along the trench and finally pointed out a broad back down the line, with the remark: "There's your man, Sir." The A.P.M. walked over and tapped the captain on the shoulder, with an "I've come for you." The big fellow turned and faced the provost. The latter's eyes encountered first the captain's chest, and there they rested in amazement, for strung across the war-torn tunic was a row of ribbons, won for valor in battle. There were medals from the British, the French, the Belgians — such a tribute to bravery. "I beg your pardon," said the

Common Ground

By R. C. MOILES Answering to Minister's Attempted Defense of A Welfare State

In the last three issues I have been discussing "How Social is Christianity" a sermon preached by Rev. Alfred W. Swan at the First Congregational Church at Madison, Wisconsin. I am discussing this sermon because it is a typical attempt on the part of preachers, who are affiliated with the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, to defend what they choose to call the welfare state.

Dr. Swan attempts to justify his double talk in his welfare state or state socialism by saying that if he is talking double talk, Lincoln and St. Paul and Jesus were also guilty.

If there is anything that Jesus Christ is not guilty of it is advocating running to the government to use force and compulsion to make people do good as Dr. Swan does. Jesus advocated exactly the opposite of using force.

Now let us see how the preacher tries to justify state socialism or the welfare state by saying that Jesus was talking double talk in advocating private ownership of property in the parable of the talents, and at the same time advocating state socialism in the Last Judgment.

Swan hangs his whole contention on the Welfare State on the grounds that Jesus advocated state socialism because Jesus used the word "talents" in the 32nd verse of the 25th chapter of Matthew.

And before him shall be gathered together all nations. Then will he separate them one from another as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats. Then he goes on to relate how the Son of Man separated those who did not give to the hungry and the naked and did not visit the sick etc. from those who did.

Whereas the secretary of state had announced that he intended to "brief" his Capitol Hill advisers on questions he planned to take up with Bevin and Schuman, the Secretary of State, Acheson, who was "briefed." He got a blunt outline of congressional views on the prospective and long-range role of the United States in world affairs.

In general, they told him that this country could not continue forever to support the anti-Russians in a financial, economic or military way. They also demanded that our allies show a greater spirit of cooperation and sacrifice than they have in the past.

BURDEN — It was no narrow, "isolationist" dogma that they propounded. Figuring that the "cold war" will last indefinitely, they pointed out that all our postwar programs have been merely "emergency" remedies, including the Marshall Plan, the British loan and the North American Pact.

These stimulants were necessary, they admitted, but they placed an excessive burden on the United States. With Europe showing remarkable recovery, they urged Mr. Acheson to insist on a new and more permanent arrangement involving this country, the British Commonwealth, the Marshall Plan nations and their overseas possessions.

In short, they told Mr. Acheson to work toward a sort of "United States of the World," which would be a mutual-aid society rather than an organization sustained solely by our contributions.

ULTIMATUM — Insofar as the present Congress, speaking through its Senate Foreign Relations Committee, can act for future legislative bodies, the relation served an ultimatum on Mr. Acheson with the implied suggestion that he pass it along to the British and French governments.

Although he is a loyal administration man and possesses a broad, international turn of mind, Chairman Tom Connally of Texas epitomized the Foreign Relations Committee's general attitude when he said: "I have had a dollar gap all my life," meaning that keeping only on step ahead of the sheriff is the normal state of an individual or of a nation.

Farley—who not too long ago was one of the biggest of the big wheels in the New Deal but who got out when he saw where Roosevelt was headed—

Recently Mr. Truman stated that by the year 2000, based on a projection of the growth of the past 50 years, this country would have a national income of a trillion dollars—that's one thousand times a billion—and every worker would be making at least $12,000 per year.

Mr. Farley felt that Mr. Truman should have applied his projection to at least two other items, the cost of government and the number of people working for the Federal Government.

One of the most common causes of dropsy is the failure of the heart to pump as well as it should. The normally-acting heart pumps the blood through the blood vessels at a fairly even rate.

There are other conditions which may lead to dropsy. One of the most important is damage to the kidneys themselves. If they fail to remove the fluid and other undesirable material from the blood, dropsy may result.

One sure way to put out a fire is to shut off the fuel which feeds the flames. This is the only way in which the big spending conflagration now raging out of control in Washington can be handled.

We know from the '51 budget that the Administration proposes to accelerate the pace of its headlong rush toward state socialism and national bankruptcy.

Maritime Day Given Boost

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman has asked government officials to display the flag on Monday, May 22, in observance of National Maritime Day.
A presidential proclamation called attention to the need of an American-Flag merchant marine in the interest of "trade, travel and defense."
May 22 has been designated by Congress as National Maritime Day to commemorate the first successful transatlantic voyage under steam, made by the Steamship Savannah. It left Savannah, Ga., on May 2, 1819.

THE STORY: Clemency Horton had not intended to fall in love when she went to live with her sister, Mrs. Amberley, in the small town of Pampa. She was a socialite and her sister was a socialite. Clemency Horton had not intended to fall in love when she went to live with her sister, Mrs. Amberley, in the small town of Pampa. She was a socialite and her sister was a socialite.

MADNESS to let herself believe something which might be only born of wishful thinking, Clemency told herself.
But sane or mad, there was a hope of which she had never before had even a glimmer when an hour later, the car finally stopped in the drive before Red Aloys.
They had driven back chased by a little moaning wind, and clouds that had blacked out the stars behind them.
Helping her out, Piers said: "Wait downstairs for me, will you? I shall just drive round to the garage—I want to speak to Jules."
She nodded, unable to trust her voice. "Then Ahmed who was always on duty, opened the door and as the car drove away she entered the hall, glancing at her watch.
It was not so very late after all. Only half past 10. Clemency thought: "I'll run up and see if Baba is all right, and come down again. To come down again because Piers had asked her to wait for him seemed quite natural.
She was walking quickly across the hall when someone came out through the arched doorway of the salon. Thinking with a pang of dismay that it was Jon, she glanced over her shoulder. Then she stopped abruptly, one foot already on the bottom stair, realizing that the person who was looking across the hall at her with coldly angry eyes, was not Jon, but Piers.

Without any preliminary greeting Piers requested in a low voice: "Will you come to me, Miss Norton?" and turned back into the room behind her.
As Clemency crossed the hall she did not know whether to wish that Piers would come in quickly, or that something would keep him away until this impending spot of trouble was over, for that there was going to be trouble seemed a foregone conclusion.
When she entered the big room Piers was already seated.

SHE had chosen a high backed, winged chair, in which she sat very upright, her hands clasping the arms. She was wearing a dark, severely tailored suit relieved only by the merest suggestion of white at the throat and wrists; her bright hair gleamed in the shadows, but she looked curiously old. Clemency had noticed long ago that Piers had a bad tempered mouth, but she had never before seen it set in that straight, hard line.
After all, I haven't committed a heinous crime! Clemency thought, the singing gladness which had been in her veins a few minutes ago, still echoing.
"I had no idea that you were coming back tonight," Mrs. Amberley, she said quietly, meeting the other woman's hardened eyes.
"Obviously," was the curt reply. "I did not think it necessary to announce my return. I arrived an hour ago, and was told that you had gone out driving with Colonel Amberley. Was that really so?"
"Yes. He asked me."
"He asked you?" repeated Piers. The short laugh which accompanied the words was as insulting as it could be, and Clemency flushed, biting her lip to keep back an angry retort.
"Poor Piers!" Piers gave a just perceptible shrug, and then: "Are you in the habit of leaving Baba, to drive about the countryside with any man who 'asks' you?"

East Berlin's Forces Hit By Desertions

BERLIN — (AP) — A flood of desertions appears to have hit the Russian zone "People's Police."
In an effort to plug the leak the Russians have assigned a special roving squad, led by Soviet secret police, to patrol East Berlin's borders nightly.
This information came from seven deserters who fled to West Berlin during the past week. All claimed they were being trained as infantry troops and feared they were being eased into a new war.
None would guess at the rate of desertion but all agreed it is high. Said one patrolman, Gerhard Prosser:
"All of the men there would desert to the West if they got a chance. The discipline is like an army and even worse. None of the men know why this has to be."
"We came over to see if we could be of any use."

Most of Faculty Resigns at Small California School
SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Twenty faculty members at Little Westmont College have announced their resignations in protest to the firing last month of the college president, Dr. James Forrester.
A spokesman for the group said the resignations, effective June 15, involve two thirds of the faculty and include the dean, the registrar, the director of men and women, the athletic director and several department heads.
She gave "complete loss of confidence in the policies and actions of the board of trustees" as the reason for the resignations.

Westmont is a 10-year-old liberal arts school with an enrollment of about 250. It is located in the swanky Montecito district here.
Visitors may climb down into an ancient ceremonial chamber, or "kiva," at the Coronado State Monument, 20 miles north of Albuquerque, New Mexico. Weird pictures on the wall held particular significance for the tribesmen who worshipped pagan gods here hundreds of years ago.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Keep an Eye on Red Three

By OSWALD JACOBY
 Written for NEA Service
 "Some people are hard to convince," writes a Jacksonville correspondent. "They won't believe even when they can see it in black and white. Last night we had three red treys down on the table, and the opponents were pretty desperate. If we got the last red three, the bonus of 800 points would put us over the 5000-point mark. So they were drawing from the stock at every turn, trying to get that last three.

"When we saw what they were doing, we didn't bother to make safe discards. Finally, I made a discard that the next player could obviously take, since it matched one of her melds.

"That player thought quite a bit and then drew the top card of the stock. Luckily for her, it was the last red three. She put it down on the table, and then the fun began.

"She tried to take the discard pile! We said she couldn't do it. She said she was entitled to another draw, and she wanted to draw the discard pile. We said she couldn't swap horses in mid-stream. She said horses had nothing to do with it. Pigs might, but horses never. Somebody mentioned cats, and it took an hour and a box of candy to restore order.

"The funny part of it is that I showed her where you covered exactly this point on page 139 of your book, but she wouldn't believe it. She said she'd believe it if she saw it in her own newspaper that she bought with her own money!

"Will you cover this point soon?" Glad to oblige. My correspondent is right of course, but I'm sorry the argument got so hot and heavy. Canasta is much more fun when it's taken good-naturedly.

This rule on replacing red three covers two completely different situations. In one case you have a red three as part of your original hand. In the other case, you get a red three later on.

When you are dealt a red three, you must put it down on the table before beginning your first play. You then replace it by drawing from the stock. This is not considered a play—but just a sort of preliminary. In this situation, if you replace the red three, you may then make up your mind about your first play. And you may make your first play either from the stock or from the discard pile.

That is true even if you happen to draw another red three as your replacement. You put that down on the table also and draw still another card. That is still considered a preliminary play, and you may still take the discard pile as your first regular play.

After you have made your first regular play, the case is quite different. Then if you draw a red three from the stock, you must replace it from the stock. You cannot switch to drawing from the discard pile.

Q—I had one card in my hand, and the player ahead of me took the discard pile. He then threw a card that I could meld. Was I allowed to take that card and meld out?

A—No, a player who has only one card is not allowed to take a one-card discard pile. The only exception to this rule occurs when the entire stock pile (undrawn cards) has been drawn. In the exceptional case you are forced to take the card and meld out.
