Federal Board To Take Over Ship Controls

President Truman today created a new federal maritime board and named Maj. Gen, Philip B. Fleming to be undersecretary of commerce for transportation.

The president also picked three chairmen of federal commission including his old friend, Mon C. Wallgren, to head the Federal Power Commission. Wallgren, former governor of Washington, succeeds Nelson Lee Smith.

Acting under powers vested in ederal reorganization plans which took effect today, Mr. Truman also: named former Senator James M. Mead, New York Democrat, to be chairman of the Federal Trade Commission and designated Harry A. McDonald to be chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Mead, former state colleague of the president, replaces Lowell Mason, a Republican who has been acting chairman of the FTC. McDonald has been serving as

The reorganization shakeup produced a temporary three-member federal maritime board to replace the 14-year-old Maritime Commission abolished today. The new board will serve for up to 90 days pending appointment of permanent members. It is made up of: John T. Koehler, now assistant secre-tary of the Navy; South Trimble, Jr., and Rear Adm. Paul L. Pirate Rookie Shuts Out Phils; Cubs Trim Dodgers

Young Bill MacDonald, rookie bonus righthander, fits right into the Pittsburgh pitching tradition. When the 21-year-old native of Alameda, Calif., first bonus player in the Pirate organization, hurled a shutout last night in his first major league starting assignment, he followed a Pittsburgh pattern set by Nick Maddoc 43 years ago. It was on Sept. 13, 1907 that

"Why I'm So Glad My Son is Saving Money Now"

· ONE of the many things that make a mother glad her son has a newspaper route, is the practical way it teaches and encourages him to earn his own money, spend it wisely, and above all, SAVE some of it regularly.

As he collects his accounts, pays his bills and figures his profits, he is impressed with the real value of each dollar he earns-much more so than if it came from the parental purse!

And, as his route and savings grow, he acquires qualities of thrift, self-confidence and foresight that will prove even more valuable when he tackles the larger problems of manhood.

Pollard solved about as many of those sorrows as any man possibly could. He built the Western Favorite Barbecue Pit, designed Distraught Youth with the customer in mind. Being a lover of good barbecue himself, Crifically Wounded Pollard just solved his own prob lems and found he had solved those of his neighbors and friends, and a lot of other people he had never heard of.

Naturally, as with all inventions, Pollard didn't build a perfect pit terday, then the very first time. In fact, he the abdomen. had to build about 25 or 30 different ones before he finally found just what he wanted. It was so simple that people in Pampa refused to accept it, and he had to take it elsewhere.

've had a sign in my window for weeks trying to rent my spare room. Now I've decided to run an ad in Classified.

By Grace Nies Fletcher

IF the lovely young Mrs. Miltiades Brown, formerly of Mt. Vernon Street, Beacon Hill, Boston, and more recently of the Splendide Apartments, Prospect Park, Brooklyn, had learned to cook before she was married, she might never have known, outside of the movies, how one glance at the wrong end of a gun can turn your mouth drier than a salted codfish; and certainly her bridegroom of four months would never have met Lieutenant McGann of Homicide. It's funny how things work out; a moron writes a cookbook and so two people die, but not from what they ate. The cookbook explicitly said in small, firm print: "Cut holes with a knife in the top 3 NEW LISTINGS
