Johnson; 1950, John H. Johnson.

The heavy rains the past week have made the starting area soft, but if no more rain falls today it should be in fair shape to handle the spectators. The race will start at 10:30 a. m. on Saturday afternoon. The race will be run on the old Miami Highway, four miles north of Pampa.

331 POUNDS OF RECRUIT - Sgt. Lawrence Majewski (right) looks on with dismay as he uses two scales to weigh 331 pound Karl Hays, 23, of Washington, Ill., at the induction center in Chicago. The ordinary 200-pound scales wouldn't do the trick, so two were used and the totals added. Hays, photographer for the Tazewell County Reporter, a weekly paper, wants to be a signal corps cameraman. Although he carries 120 pounds too much for his six foot, three inch frame, his enlistment was approved. (AP Wirephoto)

Few Prices High Enough for Ceilings if U.S. Had Power

By OVID MARTIN
 WASHINGTON — (AP) — Despite price increases since the start of fighting in Korea, few farm products have yet reached levels which would make them subject to ceilings if the government had power to control prices.

Probably only hogs, beef cattle, veal calves, lambs, and cotton would be put under ceilings at current conditions.

The government has not said at what levels ceilings would be established should they be deemed necessary, but existing law sets a guide which in all probability would be followed.

That guide is farm legislation setting up a standard for measuring agricultural product prices. That standard is called "parity."

Parity is legally defined as a price which is equally fair to farmers and to those who buy his products. Parity prices are the goal of most of the government's farm aid programs.

Ceilings below parity would be a contradiction of the farm program goal.

In World War II Congress directed that no price ceilings be set below parity. It undoubtedly would make a similar direction in new price control laws.

The Truman administration itself would not likely propose ceilings at below parity levels. A proposal of such nature could be expected to weaken it among farmers — a group which has been influential in keeping the Democrats in power.

The fact that President Truman and Secretary of Agriculture Brannan have been characterizing recent price increases as "unjustified" does not mean that they oppose parity prices for farmers.

What they have been saying is that price increases are unjustified on the basis of current large supplies. As they see it, handlers and processors and distributors of farm products have in many cases increased prices unnecessarily and are reaping big profits.

Farmers, they say, are getting little benefit because they already had sold most of last year's crops at lower prices than now prevail.

The government already is in a position to exercise control over prices of such products as corn, wheat, cotton, tobacco, dry beans, flaxseed, butter, dried milk, dried eggs and cheese. It has large stocks of these items and can put them on to the market to help curb price increases.

But Agriculture Department officials say the government probably would use these stocks — except perishables like butter, cheese, dried eggs etc. — only to keep price from going above parity.

They say action to hold farm prices below parity while prices of other products were going up would be unfair to farmers.

Green Doughboys No Match For Reds' Fighting Ability

By PHILIP POTTER
 TOKYO — (AP) — Those who felt the United States was taking on a bush league foe out here have learned differently.

The professional competence of the little brown-clad Orientals leads one to suspect that their military training long antedated the establishment of the people's democratic republic of Korea, under whose flag they fight.

Their familiarity with tank warfare indicates that some might have been around in Russian uniforms at the battle of Stalingrad.

In any case, the green American doughboys who were thrown against the Communist invaders have had a bloody and sweaty time of it.

They have been in tears, too — the tears of strong men whose best is not quite good enough.

The North Koreans have had too heavy a punch for the light-weight battalions which we have committed one at a time in an operation which one soldier de-against a Joe Louise — one at a time."

The gaunt and bearded faces of the men who have faced North Korean tanks and infantry for three crucial weeks are those of men who have been in a war.

The shock of defeat is registered in their faces.

Expressions of optimism heard here don't jibe with the picture one sees in the battle area and along the supply lines.

One of the major weaknesses of our position from the start has been the lack of flank protection for the battalions facing the main Communist forces.

This has made possible the Communist tactics of infiltration which have turned one of our positions after another and forced our continued retreat.

Some observers see withdrawal to a beachhead, where we could have a continuous line of American troops in some depth, as the best we can hope for now.

Eager Buyers Want Hangers

DALLAS — (AP) — Dallas wholesalers reported Friday war scare buying here had spread to coat hangers and other cleaning and laundry supplies.

Jobbers said they had imposed voluntary rationing of coat hangers to cleaning plants. Said one dealer: "any shortage of coat hangers there may be created by customers themselves, and is a false shortage. We are rationing them at the rate of 1,000 to a customer."

The development brought these comments from various jobbers: THERE WILL BE AN APPLE SY there will be an ample supply of all cleaning supplies for normal needs if there is no hoarding; manufacturers will have no trouble meeting a normal demand for hangers.

"There are enough coat hangers in closets over the nation to meet all needs for at least two years, if people would only be sensible," one Dallas dealer said. (But hangers for supplying the Dallas dealer said.)

Coat hangers for supplying the Dallas market generally come from factories at Houston and Midlothian.

"The Houston factory said it had an order from a New Orleans wholesaler for four carloads of hangers," another Dallas dealer said. "This was the first order the Houston factory had received from the New Orleans dealer. The order was not filled."

Propeller-Turbine Airliner to Make London-Paris Hop

LONDON — (AP) — British European Airways announced yesterday that the world's first propeller turbine airliner to go into passenger service will begin London-Paris flights on Saturday.

The plane is the Vickers Viscount 700. It is powered by four propeller turbine engines which develop 1,400 horsepower plus 295 pounds of jet thrust apiece.

The Viscount will leave Northolt Airport Saturday with 27 passengers for Le Bourget Air Field on the outskirts of Paris. One of the passengers will be Sir Frank Whittle, who pioneered the development of jet engines in Britain.

The plane, a prototype, will stay on the London-Paris run for several weeks. The first production model for regular passenger service will be ready in about two years. The Viscount will accommodate 40 to 53 passengers, depending on the seating arrangements. It will cruise at 315 miles an hour at 20,000 feet.

MacArthur Shuns Escort to Tokyo

TOKYO — (AP) — General MacArthur dismissed escorting fighter planes on the way back from a flying trip to Korea yesterday so they could return to the front "where they'll do the most good."

MacArthur's pilot, Major Anthony Story of St. Louis, Mo., told about it after bringing the general's plane, "Bataan," in through a drizzle to Tokyo airport.

The "Bataan" was being escorted by three rocket-carrying F8T Mustangs. MacArthur told Story:

"Release the escort so they can go back to the front and put those rockets where they'll do the most good. We will make it all right."

Sir Walter Scott wrote the novel "Guy Mannering" in six weeks in 1815.

Middle Game of Series Set For 2:30 This Afternoon

The Pampa Oilers scored four runs in the first inning off Berger righthander Joe Prucha, and then maintained their advantage to shove aside the Berger Gassers, 8-4, in the opener of a three-game series in Huber Park last night.

George Payte, Oiler ace righthander, received credit for the victory, although little Roy Parker was waved in as reliever in the seventh.

The two teams are slated to clash in the middle game of the three-tit series this afternoon at 2:30. The Gassers will send Fred Parker to the mound in an attempt to even things, against either Earl Doud or lefty Bill Garland for the Oilers.

Pampa started in a determined fashion when a walk and two singles, followed by Virgil Richardson's home run over the center-field barrier gave them a four-run lead in the initial frame.

The Gassers partially retaliated with a singleton in the bottom of the same inning when Payte walked Crouch and Eldridge, before allowing singles to Eddie Carnett and Bob Leohard.

A walk to Jim Martin, singles by Wolf and Jeandron, and Deck Wold's three base blow in the fourth propelled the Oilers into a 7-1 advantage, but the inning's efforts were evened when the Gassers roared back with the same number of counters in their turn at the plate.

The scoring was ended in the sixth when Martin singled, went to third on Burnett's error, and Payte's ground ball and then scored on a high fly to center by Dick Dawson.

Payte Vega ace Gasser right-hander recently purchased from the Abilene Blue Sox, relieved Prucha in the fifth, and allowed only two hits the rest of the way.

The Oiler victory shoved them another game ahead of the third place Lubbock Hubbers, who lost to the Abilene Blue Sox in their first game.

The Oilers' victory was a result of the fact that the Abilene Blue Sox were late to be available.

Hubs Trounce Rosin To Capture Finale From Pioneers, 11-1

CLOVIS — The Lubbock Hubbers hopped on Bill Rosin and the Clovis Pioneers for three days in the first inning and then kept adding to the margin to carry out an easy 11-1 triumph here Friday night.

Bob Chodfelder scattered six hits effectively to post his 15th victory. The big righthander toyed with the cellar dwellers from the second inning on allowing only three batted singles during this stretch.

Halley Bright's single followed by Ron George's triple with none away in the second prevented Chodfelder from challenging up a winning run. The Hubber pitcher bore down after George's sacrifice, striking out George Mendoza and retiring Joe Abreu and Bill Rosin on weak infield grounders.

Chodfelder was in complete charge thereafter.

The Hubbers crashed out 11 hits, one Mike Dooley's 27th homer in the fifth with the bases unoccupied. The Hubber catcher sparked the winners at the plate with a single and double in addition to his line drive homer over the centerfield barrier.

Lobos, Hubbers Head South; Parker Is Unanimous Choice

DALLAS — (AP)—Borger, Lamesa and Lubbock placed the most men on the West Texas-New Mexico League All-Star squads that meet at Pampa next Friday night.

Borger led the North with six white Lamesa and Lubbock each put five on the South squad.

Among the 32 players picked were 20 who had been on previous All-Star teams, 13 of them last year.

There also are five managers on the squads.

There were three unanimous choices — Roy Parker of Pampa and Eulis Rosson, Lamesa, pitchers, and Mike Dooley, Lubbock, catcher, all on the South squad.

The players are selecting their managers.

The All-Star teams: North (Abilene, Amarillo, Borger, Clovis) — Pitchers, Don Cantrell, Albuquerque; Eddie Carnett, Borger; Ray Faust, Amarillo; Tom Gallagher, Clovis, and Rene Vega, Borger; Catchers, Ted Clawitter, Borger, and Harry Bartolomei, Albuquerque.

Baseball fans will get their first chance at West Texas-New Mexico All-Star game duets tomorrow morning, it was announced yesterday by Oiler manager Jim Arndt.

Tickets will be placed on sale at Leders Jewelry, Frank Dial Tire Co. and Richards Drug Store.

There will be no reserved seats for the contest, so the seating will be strictly on a first-come, first-served basis.

The contest will be a renewal of the annual North vs. South classic which has been waged in various parks in the circuit since its birth, before the war.

The Oiler representatives will be chosen to play for the South, Stan Surma, Albuquerque, Left which will also be composed of Field, Crawford Howard, Amarillo, Center Field, Hershel Martin, Albuquerque, Right Field, Bob Leonard, Borger, Utility Outfielder, Pete Trabucco, Clovis.

South (Abilene, Lamesa, Lubbock, Pampa) — Pitchers, Bob Clodfelter, Lubbock, Chris Hanks, Lubbock; Roy Parker, Pampa; George Payte, Pampa, and Eulis Rosson, Lamesa; Catchers, Mike Dooley, Lubbock, and Don Moore, Lubbock; First Base, Bill Jackie Sullivan, Lubbock; Third Base, Jack Wilcox, Lubbock; Utility Infielder, Hayden Greer, Abilene; Left Field, Pedro Santiago, Lamesa; Center Field, Wiley Fordin, Pampa; Utility Outfielder, Jay Hanes, Lamesa.

R. M. Samples and family, Malcolm Douglas, and Harry Wilbur took off for Colorado Springs yesterday to play in the big Pikes Peak Invitation Golf Tournament, which gets under way August 1. Grover Austin Jr., and Richard Miller are planning to participate in the one at Lubbock, with starting dates the same as the Colorado event.

Let's Talk Things Over
With Gabby Garrison

The West Texas-New Mexico League, long famous for its production of higher class talent, seems to have a bumper crop of rookies this season. Each team in the circuit has its roster studied with the names of young players, making their first stab at professional baseball. The Oilers, however, have probably the smallest number of rookies today, with only one first-year man listed on their roster.

The Oiler rookie is Jerry Squires, young catcher from Wichita, Kans., who won Friday night's game for the Oilers with his pinch single.

Squire's performance was his most notable achievement of the year, but there have been numerous other such incidents involving rookies throughout the campaign. And this isn't the only season in which young players have come through. It's been that way for years.

In any Class C League, you are likely to find the same situation. Whenever a hopeful starts the breaking-in process, he usually tries to get his start in Class C ball, or at least Class D. The difference is very little, but in the instance of the WT-NM League, probably no Class D group in the country can touch it, as far as talent and thrills are concerned.

But the point I'm driving at, is that I think it would be fine to formulate a "Rookie of the Year" contest for this league. Such an idea could be run in the same manner as the major league selection, and along the same lines as our "Player of the Week" voting. A poll could be conducted at the close of each season, between managers, players, writers, or even the fans, to find who the outstanding rookie had been.

The voting would also be used for future reference. Take for instance, the case of Gordon Goldsberry, the young Albuquerque Duke first baseman of 1946. If Goldsberry would have received such an award at the time he was spending his first year in our loop, the people in this area could now brag "we told you so," especially since he is currently spending a fine year with the Chicago White Sox. And then there have been others during past seasons, and there are many now. The selection might even serve as a tip for some of the scouts from the majors.

Taking all I can gather into consideration, I can't see why some such plan hasn't already been conceived. But, since it hasn't, it seems as if there would be no better time to begin than this year. I have already sent out some "feelers" on the matter, and should be hearing from them any day.

It won't be long now until the annual All-Star game will be held in Oiler Park. The ballots have already gone in, and the official squads will probably be released during the early part of this week. Guess I started too late in getting local fans to choose teams, although I did receive selections from several. As I said before, it took some arm-twisting, but I got 'em.

One fellow, Mr. B. E. Ricketts, salesman at Pampa Maytag, is a fan who should be able to choose a squad with a reasonable amount of accuracy. Mr. Ricketts has seen every Oiler home game, except one, and he missed it due to illness. He's the type fan that enjoys baseball from every angle, and usually comes out long before the game to watch the squads warm up.

Then there's D. M. Dickey and Bob Watson, the Western Union telegraphers, who are concerned with every game—home or away. When the Oilers are home, they are in the press box sending every detail by wire to the visiting club's home, and when the Oilers leave, they're at KFDR receiving the material and making the broadcasts possible. They know their baseball, too. I know because I've lost probably more cokes to them than any other men in town. If they couldn't pick two All-Star teams, then no one could.

And there are others, too numerous to mention. Fans like these are the ones that keep the game going, here and all over the country. They seldom gripe, unless the reason is just too outlandish, and they get as much fun out of every detail in a ball game as anyone could.

During the past couple of weeks, Mack Hyde has probably been the most surprising individual in an Oiler uniform. Besides pitching his brilliant fourth hitter against Clovis last week, he also skyrocketed to second place among the team's batters. Through July 24, the big righthander had collected 10 hits—four home runs, two doubles, and four singles. If he could maintain that pace for one entire season, even as a pitcher and batting only seven or eight times a week, all home run records would certainly be endangered.

Here's the way the Oiler batting has stacked up, through July 24, according to the official statistics:

Jack Burke Races to Lead In 3rd Round of Tourney

SIoux CITY, Ia. (AP)—Jack Burke, Jr., the little White Plains, N. Y., favorite, raced into the 54-hole lead in the Sioux City Open Golf tournament Saturday.

Burke, 165-pounder with hundreds of backers in the gallery, posted a 65, seven under par, for his third round and a 108 total.

Other leading scorers were: Skip Alexander, Knoxville, Tenn., 138-68-201; Sam Sneed, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., 131-70-201; Ed (Parky) Oliver, Seattle, 136-71-207.

Decision of Louis to Fight Draws Mingling of Comments

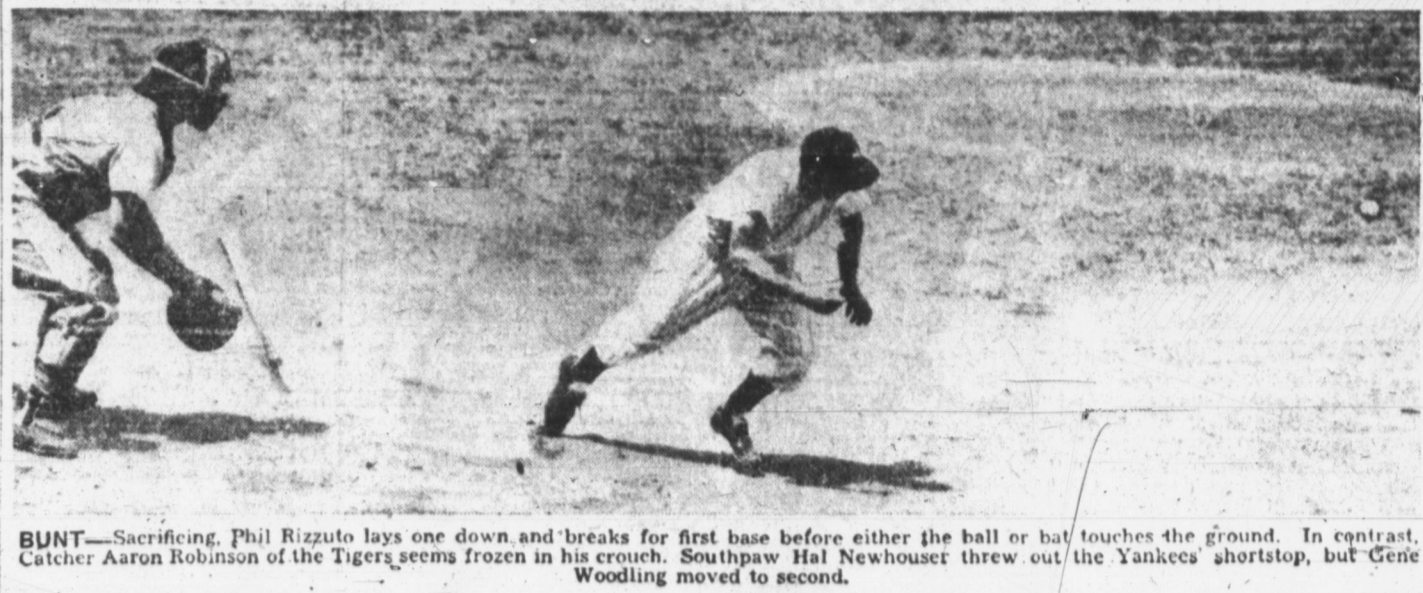

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Louis' decision to make a comeback at the age of 36 drew mixed comment yesterday in boxing circles.

"Say it ain't so, Joe," was the reaction of many with treasured memories of the Brown Bomber of the late 1930's. They didn't want to see another disillusioning performance by the Louis of the two Jersey Joe Walcott fights.

"Joe isn't in as bad shape as he has been reported," said Marshall Miles, his manager. He's also in the right frame of mind and we feel that he will be able to give a good account of himself.

"I thought he looked real good when he was in here two weeks ago," said Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club. Norris announced Louis' comeback decision yesterday after a phone conversation with the ex-champ.

"The champ and I have been friends for years," said Ezzard Charles, the NAB-recognized heavyweight king whom Louis will fight. "I never had a particular desire to box Louis, but always wanted to be undisputed champion."

"I say I am the heavyweight champion now and whenever I fight I'll be in there to hold the title and fight to the best of my ability. I won't say I can take Louis, but I never enter a match without confidence. I welcome the opportunity." Abe Greene, National Boxing Association commissioner, said he was "sorry to see Louis coming back because I still remember him as the superb fighter he was."

Jollin' Joe Drops to .407; Bright Still Leading Hitter

The Pampa Oilers widened the gap in the West Texas-New Mexico League last week, increasing their command to two and one-half games over the runner-up Lamesa Lobos, and, in doing so, their leading hitter, Joe Fortin, dropped fifteen percentage points but still maintained his second spot among the circuit willow-swingers.

Fortin dropped to .407 this week in averages compiled through July 24, as the leading hitter, Harry Bright of Clovis, retained his lead with .449. Fortin's slump in the circuit was a three game slump, in which he went hitless in eleven tries, one of the longest sieves of zeros in the sluggers' career.

Crawford Howard, new Amarillo Gold Sox pilot, continued to lead Fortin by scant margins in the total number of hits and RBIs, although the Amarillo skipper has played in two more games than the Pampaan. Howard has 156 hits, Fortin, 154; Howard has 119 runs batted in; Fortin, 117.

In overall team batting, the Oilers dropped to fourth with a .317 showing. Berger still kept his slugging lead with a .331 total average, Albuquerque followed with .320, and Amarillo was in third with .319.

Australians Win Over Mexican Stars in Zone Net Tests

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Australia's Jack Bromwich and Frank Sedgman swept the North American zone Davis Cup eliminations yesterday and appeared the combination to meet the defending United States championship team in the challenge round at Forest Hills.

Before they have a little business to take care of in the form of Lennart Bergelin and Sven Davidson of Sweden, who beat Denmark at Buenos Aires, yesterday for the European zone championship. But Australia will be a prohibitive favorite to take care of the Swedes.

Australia won the American zone title 3-0 as Bromwich and Sedgman beat Mexico's Gustavo Palafox and Armando Vega in straight sets—6-4, 7-5, 6-2. The Aussie stars had won their singles events from Vega and Palafox yesterday.

Bergelin and Davidson also won in straight sets and took a 3-0 lead in the best-of-five series. They downed Kurt Nielson and Torben Ulrich 6-2, 6-2, 6-2. They had won the singles yesterday.

Yanks, Indians Keep Pace By Vanquishing Loop Foes

Detroit's faltering Tigers came within a whisker of falling out of first place in the gruelling American League pennant race yesterday.

Trailing Philadelphia 4-0 after the runner-up Yankees had whipped the Chicago White Sox, 11-4, the Tigers battled back to pull abreast, then uncorked a four-run eighth inning to beat the Athletics, 8-5.

Once again, it was the middle of the Bengal line-up that provided the scoring punch. Big George Kell, Vic Wertz and Johnny Groth all pounded out three hits apiece, scored a total of four runs, and batted in five tallies.

Cleveland's rampaging Indians also kept close to the league leaders—only a game and a half back—by vanquishing the Boston Red Sox for the second straight time, 4-1. Pitcher Bob Lemon rationed seven hits, and belted a home run himself in reaching his eighth straight triumph. He now has a record of sixteen wins and only four losses, the best hurling record in the league.

Fair Enough - Pegler

By WESTBROOK PEGLER
NEW YORK — Now that American Communists are commonly understood to be traitors there is a rush of yellow characters who are serving Stalin among us, to a religion. This is the howler by the short-cut process of jamming the enemy without admitting that they were never his pals. They now profess loyalty to the United States without recanting their previous guilty commitments and associations of expressing repentance. This is a massive act of tempt by venal cowards, who never had the courage to be outright Communists, to establish innocence whereas the only process that we should allow them, and then only conditionally, is the process of confession and apostasy.

Some conspicuous sneaks among this very element sneaked at the general Communist and fellow-travelers who did make atonement the hard way by public confession, such as explaining why they were in the office, and contrition. But now that their tin has come they try to presume on public goodwill in pretending that they never were there.

But they were there and those local Americans who kept cases on the ground, together with the terrible snafu in which the demagogue of the United States may have been sealed can come up with chapters and verses on many a page. It is all in the records of the committee on Un-American Activities whose work at least is coming to be recognized as a great patriotic service by men who, for the most part, were not misled by the Roosevelt administration.

It is now fashionable to try to explain and excuse participation in the foulest crime that loyal citizens know. The Washington Post was out early with this line and now the magazine called Look has published a similar line written by Arthur Schlesinger Jr. of Harvard. His attitude seems to be "yes and no" and on the other hand, Alger Hiss, Nathan Witt and Leo Prosser, and Edward F. Bremer, a judge of Harvard, now of the Supreme Court, who indicted Hiss on the government and later had the gall to testify that among men Hiss was regarded as a man of good character.

Schlesinger writes that he personally never accepted the myth about the Soviet Union and communism, but would have us believe, on his say so, that in the dark days of the great depression, a capitalist United States lay stricken and apparently helpless, the casualty of a broken down economic machine which could not cope with the problems of want and unemployment.

The United States was not the victim of a broken down economic machine that had broken down in fact, it had continued to work, though with declining deterioration, in spite of all the sabotage that was committed by Communist traitors in and around the Roosevelt government.

WASHINGTON — Too many readers to list have been moved by our tragic reverses in Korea to ask where all the billions spent on national defense since V-J Day have gone. They cannot understand why our men are so poorly equipped, why our tanks, anti-tank guns, artillery, planes, land mines and rockets are so antiquated.

THE GREAT INDIVIDUAL A PAPER ECONOMY

According to LIFE magazine's survey, the American people gambled away about $30 billion last year on horse and dog races, slot machines, numbers rackets, lotteries, sports pools and the like. The gambling industry, headed by a bunch of unscrupulous, strong-armed thugs, made bigger profits than the hundred largest U. S. manufacturing companies combined!

Whether we realize it or not, there has been a momentous upheaval in our thinking concerning money in our own lifetime. Our old-fashioned "thinking" is the wrong word — perhaps we should use the word "attitude" for it is doubtful that there has been much thinking going on along this line.

This acceptance of an irredeemable paper currency illustrates more significantly perhaps than any other phase of our activity in recent years the trend of the people to surrender to government. And we can be quite sure that once the control of our economy has been surrendered to our government, control of all other phases of our lives soon goes along with it.

It is historical that people have considered their money as a private possession, as representing the toil of their backs and the sweat of their brows, as something they had earned and therefore as something over which no one else should have any control.

In spite of all the lessons that history had taught us along these lines, we surrendered control of our money to our government in the United States in 1933. All our gold, the tangible value back of our money, was confiscated by the government just as if the people had no right to it whatsoever.

What the people of the United States should know, if they do not already know it, is that they have lost control of their government by surrendering their right to control their money supply. We can be quite sure that politicians of any party will always spend whatever amounts of money they can get their hands on, because spending money means patronage.

According to LIFE magazine's survey, the American people gambled away about $30 billion last year on horse and dog races, slot machines, numbers rackets, lotteries, sports pools and the like. The gambling industry, headed by a bunch of unscrupulous, strong-armed thugs, made bigger profits than the hundred largest U. S. manufacturing companies combined!

This colossal waste strikes me as an appalling commentary on the wisdom and virtue of a people who are presuming to lead "free world" to "a better way of life." Just picture what that $30 billion might have accomplished if it had been invested in industry, education, in science, in medicine? And then remember that 50 million Americans have become such slaves to a passion of "something for nothing" that they actually throw it away. It's no good blaming the big-shot who waxes fat and pompous on these gigantic rackets. Their affluence and power has been financed by 50 million American suckers. Frankly, I would rather throw my dollar down the sewer than donate it to the Frankie Costello!

But gambling produces a lot worse results than Costello. It also makes crooks of our police forces and local politicians. As Life states: "In any city where gambling exists the odds are 1000 to one that the police department knows the addresses and names of every joint in town. The joints stay open is always just one thing: graft, paid either to the police, the city officials or the political machine, and in some cases, all three." Boss Hague's machine in New Jersey used to collect a million dollars a year in kickbacks from the gamblers, and through favors and graft, dominated not only Hudson County but sometimes the whole state! That's just one pretty example of the "free and pure democracy" we are supposedly selling to "backyard wards." The recent Kansas-City murders have merely spotlighted again the powerful and insidious tie-up between underworld gamblers and political machines.

What can decent people do about this menace? It is estimated that most disgusted citizens think the answer is to "legalize" it. On this point, LIFE is not very encouraging. It writes: "Gambling has been ignored, outlawed, legalized... It has been taxed, licensed and made a government monopoly. No other problem has inspired so many solutions, none of which has had more than a temporary success. In fact, history seems to show a kind of cycle, repeated over and over again: 1) under open gambling, so many people eventually begin playing and losing that the whole social structure is threatened; 2) all gambling is outlawed; 3) the law proves to be unenforceable and a source of corruption; 4) a few types of gambling are legalized; this proves to be an unworkable compromise; 5) finally all types are permitted and the cycle starts once again."

I have no faith in "legalized morality," and I venture to predict that gambling will remain a social evil, laws or no laws, just so long as people support it. Minnesota is today considered the cleanest state in this regard, and the answer is simple—it is supported wholeheartedly by a solid block of 200,000 Lutherans who are rigidly opposed to gambling in all its forms! As for "legalized..."

Hoarding Too Expensive a Game

From President Truman on down, we've had repeated warnings that foolish hoarding of food and other necessities will lead only one way — to rationing and price control.

As everyone recognizes, it isn't the occasional hoarder alone who accounts for this rush to stock up in fear of an uninduced shortage. In times like these, there are always some merchants and speculators who give something an extra shove in their selfish desire to reap rich returns while the getting is good.

Most people, of course, are too sensible not to indulge in hoarding, especially when there is so little excuse for it as to show. And most businessmen won't stop to encourage such practices, either. In fact, some high-minded firms have taken up the cry against them.

A striking example of this comes from Macy's, the huge New York department store. Its appeal for sanity was set forth in full page ads in the New York newspapers. Macy's message makes a perfect editorial on the subject. Some excerpts:

"So far as we are concerned, it is important to realize that our country is not in a state of emergency. We have plenty of food, clothing, and other necessities. Hoarding is a waste of money and a source of inconvenience for everyone."

"The struggle in Korea may well last for a long time. But you're right, it won't be a long time before we'll be hoarding again. Let's all do our part to keep the economy from sliding into a state of emergency. Let's all do our part to keep the economy from sliding into a state of emergency."

ing" it, Nevada is an example of this solution, and I doubt strongly if Nevada would win any prizes for "moral superiority." As LIFE also points out: "If gambling were legalized all over the U. S. tomorrow, the same men who now run the illegal empire would probably continue to run the show inside the law, because they are the only people with the know-how."

No—so long as 50 million Americans want to throw away $30 billion a year, they will find a way to do it legally or illegally, and the toll in poverty and crime will go on. It would be enlightening to know how many working people, and those on relief, whom our politicians claim cannot afford "the necessities of life," can still afford the slot machines and the bookies' fees!

PAGEANT magazine, in a recent article on gambling, cited the case of an honest cop who did his best to clean up his city. Appointed Chief of Police by a "reform government" he did a first-rate job, only to find himself the target of "respectable" groups who wanted "exceptions made in their case". The reform movement soon died out, and "Joe" went back to being just a cop on a beat! Rather sadly, he said:

"I get a laugh when I hear teachers talk about education making kids into good citizens. How can you tell these kids crime doesn't pay or that gambling is wrong when they see the crooks running the place and getting rich—and the churches and businessmen's clubs running gambling?" Joe would seem to be asking the $30 billion dollar question! Who wants to answer him?

and patronage means votes and votes are the lifeblood of politicians.
By taking control of the money supply out of the hands of the people, government is enabled to pay no attention to the national debt—the debt load piles higher and higher on the backs of the people. Government is enabled to pay no attention to a balanced budget—it can spend as much money as it wishes, without regard to income or who will eventually, if ever, pay the bill. In other words, government is enabled to grant unlimited "favors" to unlimited numbers of persons—and thereby perpetuate itself in office.
It looks good while it lasts—but an economy built on paper is just as substantial as a house built on sand—they are both doomed to destruction.

Socialist Doctors Rap Bevin for Not Using Their Service

LONDON — (AP) — Britain's socialist doctors have scolded Foreign Secretary Bevin for not having his operations under the socialized medicine scheme.
"He is not the only person prominent in the Labor movement who has gone outside the national health service," the socialist medical association's journal, Medicine Today and Tomorrow, complained in an editorial.
Bevin was operated on for hemorrhoids in mid-April in the Manor House Hospital. He had a second, similar operation early in June in the London Clinic. Neither is a health service hospital.
This meant that he paid directly for his hospital rooms and all other medical costs. Anyone in Britain may have an operation, free medical attention and free hospital service under the Labor government's health scheme by choosing health service hospitals and doctors. Most hospitals and doctors are under the service, but a small minority of Britons choose to have medical attention on a private basis.
The journal said "there can be neither reason nor excuse" for Bevin's choice of the London Clinic, although it noted that "for the Manor House Hospital there may be some justification since his union (transport and general workers union of which he was secretary) has always supported that institution."

Classification Plan Temporarily Dropped

PORT NECHES, Texas — (AP) — Job classification will be ignored when 500 members of the Oil Workers International Union return to work Monday at the Texas Company asphalt plant.
The workers have been on strike since April 4.
"We must get the plant back into full operating condition as quickly as possible," a union leader said.
Regardless of what they do during the reopening period, the men will receive the same pay rates as before the strike. After a week, all will return to their former jobs.
No large-scale commercial fryer operation should be undertaken without sufficient experience.

Wheat Sales Under Agreement May Be Short of Quota

WASHINGTON — (AP) — United States sales of wheat under the first year's operation of the international wheat agreement will fall short of the country's quota by about 30 percent.
The Agriculture Department reported that, with but a week to go, first year sales totaled 163,367,000 bushels. The U. S. quota for the year ending Aug. 1 is 235,858,000 bushels.
Thus sales under the agreement may fall about 70,000,000 bushels short of the country's quota.
The agreement was put into effect a year ago as a program designed to help stabilize world prices and supplies of the grain. Participating in the program are 37 importing countries and four exporting countries.
This deficit in exports is not as disappointing as it might have been had the Korean war not been started. As a consequence, the United States has a larger reserve of wheat for emergency use than it would have had if the quota had been shipped.
Australia and France are the only two exporting countries selling their quotas. Canada may miss its quota of 205,103,000 bushels by about 20,000,000 bushels.
Chickens weighing from two and one-half to three and one-half pounds are known as "fryers."

'Bed-Check Charlie' Back To Pester Soldiers in Korea

By DON WHITEHEAD
WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN KOREA — (AP) — Old "Bed-Check Charlie" is back again at the fighting front and in the rear area.

The veterans of World War II will remember Charlie. He was the enemy pilot who always came snooping around after dark as if to see that everybody was tucked into his blanket or foxholes.
When Bed-Check Charlie wore a German uniform, he patrolled North Africa, Sicily, Italy and then kept late hours across Europe. He would come droning over in the darkness and you would lie there and wonder if he were looking for you this time with a stick of bombs.
Well, Bed-Check Charlie was back again the other night — this time in the uniform of a North Korean Red, I suppose.
He slipped through the American night air patrols and came over at least 500 feet to drop a fire bomb in our area.
He probably returned home north of the 38th parallel and reported: "We slaughtered 'em, boss. There was a great explosion and flames shot into the air for hundreds of feet. I must have hit an ammunition dump."
Actually, old Bed-Check put his bomb smack in the middle of an empty courtyard. The most damage he did was to interrupt the snores of correspondents and get a South Korean fire department out of bed.
It was a puny effort, but it made me thankful once again that the American flyboys rule the air almost completely over Korea.
Bed-Check Charlie wouldn't dare stick his nose out during the day. Not with those jet Shooting Stars and F-51s roaring through the skies, giving the fighting troops magnificent air support.
In the last war, every truck and jeep driver had to keep one eye on the road and the other rolled upward looking for enemy planes. You never knew when a Messerschmitt would come roaring down with his guns hammering steel at moving columns.
But our convoys travel the road with complete freedom. And the G. I. up front knows that those planes overhead are there to protect him. It's a wonderful feeling to have that sense of security from above.
Every soldier who fought in Europe knows the uneasiness of having enemy planes roaming the skies — even the Bed Check Charlies who came along at night. As long as they were up there they were a nuisance.
I remember an American officer saying in Normandy: "I wish they'd come on down and drop their bombs. At least we would know it was over, but as long as they stay up there, everybody's nervous and jumpy."

Patients Enroute To West Coast On Big C-97s

HONOLULU — (AP) — Sixty-three military patients arrived here Friday night in a C-97 stratofreighter enroute to the mainland.
The flight set a record for air evacuation of patients from the Orient. With the big stratofreighters on the Tokyo to Honolulu run now, more patients can be handled faster.
Maj. Donald Ferguson, Military here for rest.

Air Transport Service squadron commander, said the C-97s were added to the run because of the increased need.
Ferguson, of Detroit, said the C-47 can carry 70 patients from Japan to the west coast in three days. The Douglas Skymaster C-54 normally carries 28 patients and requires five days.
In the C-97 group, 42 were litter cases and 37 were combat wounded. Most of the wounds were from shrapnel or small arms fire.
The patients will remain briefly at Tripler General Hospital here for rest.

Will There Be A Derby Day For Me Dad?

Sure, son, there'll be a derby for you. As long as people get a thrill out of seeing a youngster get ahead, there'll be a Soap Box Derby.

You see, there's a spirit of competition that's a part of the very soul of this great country. That's why we have baseball games and football games, spelling bees and derbies. Every single person feels that he has a chance in the race, whether he's playing in some sport... running for President... or starting a new business of his own.

Now, of course, that's the way it ought to be. The spirit of friendly competition is one of the things that has made our country great. But in some parts of the world, there are people who feel that individual competition is a bad thing. They'd rather have you doing exercises on a big field with thousands of other little boys... just one part in a great big machine.

Why, even in our own country there are people who'd like to do away with Soap Box Derbies, World Series, elections and everything else that means a race. They try to make everyone equal by holding back the people with unusual talents... by making everyone conform to a pattern. They don't like the idea of competition because they're not big enough to win a race—or lose.

Yes, son, there'll be Soap Box Derbies for you to race in just as long as the people of America keep the spirit of competition alive. And as long as one boy can win honor and glory by the work of his hands and the use of his imagination, the future of our country is safe.

Scout Swimming Meet Scheduled

The southern district, Adobe Walls Area Council of the Boy Scouts will hold its second annual swim meet at Marion Air Park Pool, Wellington, Aug. 4 and 5. James W. Sullivan, district chairman, announced Saturday.

Water events will be held in two divisions; one for Boy Scouts and one for Explorers.

Swimming events will be the 40-yard free style, the 40-yard back-stroke, the 40-yard side stroke, the 40-yard breast stroke, the 80-yard stunt relay and the 160-yard medley relay.

Diving in both divisions will be limited to the plain front dive, swan dive and jack-knife.

Saturday morning the Scouts and Explorers will compete in various Scout skills including fire building and water boiling, fire-men's carry relay, log chopping and a "tin can relay."

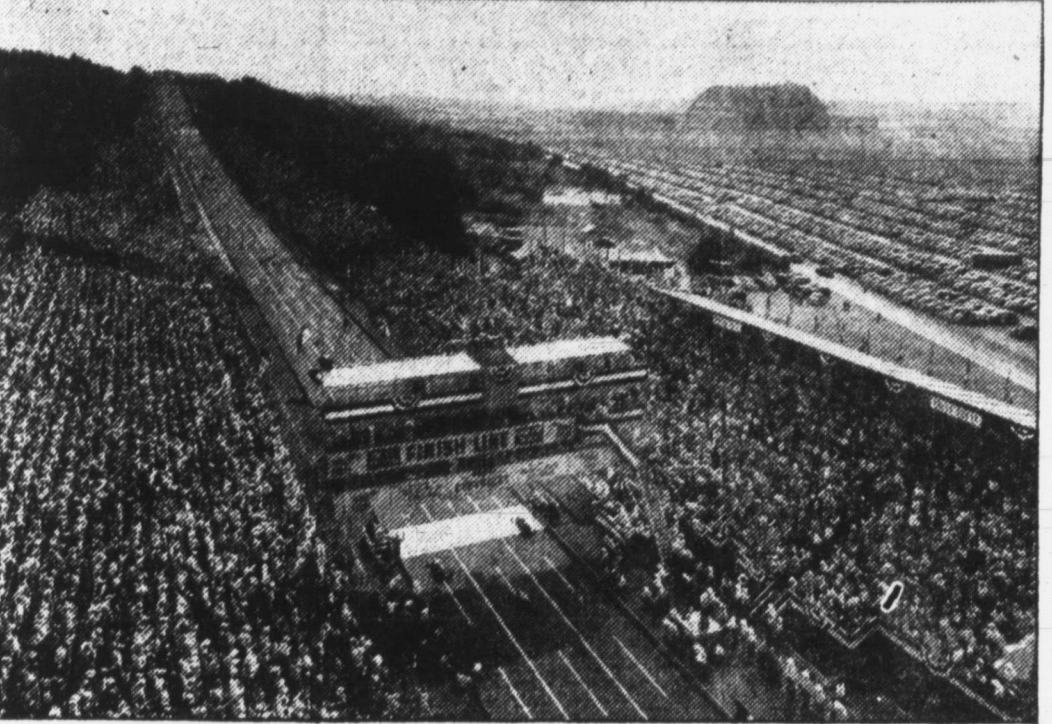

John Lee, manager of the Wellington pool, will be the chief judge.

Expected to attend are troop and Explorer post members from Clarendon, Mobeetie, Wheeler, Shamrock, Estelline, Hedley, Memphis, Dodson and Wellington.

To rent, sell, or buy it pays to use the little WANT ADS. Remember the magic want ad number is 666.

STUFFIN'—Friday night the contestants in the local race were feted and feasted on cake, ice cream and pop by the Culbertson Chevrolet Co., co-sponsors of the derby, along with The Pampa News, the Pampa Lions Club and Chevrolet Division of General Motors.

The big race for American youth, the All-American Soap Box Derby enacted annually at Derby Downs, Akron, O., is shown here as more than 50,000 spectators gather from all points of the compass for this thrilling spectacle.

Army to Use Live Bullets For Training

WASHINGTON — (AP) — To toughen its soldiers for battlefield conditions, the Army said yesterday it has intensified its training with realistic combat exercises — including use of live ammunition in machine guns.

In such training courses, used in World War II but banned since, troops crawl under barbed wire while machine gun fire streaks low over them.

The Army's announcement said its experience showed accidents were "not excessive" in such training during the last war. It added that the number of lives saved as a result of realistic training far outweighed the hazards.

Commenting on the announcement, Gen. Mark W. Clark, chief of Army field sources and a veteran of World War II battles, said it is imperative to prepare American soldiers psychologically to meet battlefield conditions.

"These battle courses, have been reinstated," he said, "because experience has shown that this type of training increases the ability of non-battle-tested troops to adapt themselves readily to actual battlefield conditions."

The Army said this training experience accustoms troops to the sound of artillery firing overhead and in close support of their action. The training also includes:

- A city and village fighting course where troops learn the techniques of street fighting;
- Preparation to meet guerrilla and infiltration tactics which the North Korean Communists have used with great effectiveness.

Army Knew Korea Raid Was Real Thing, Spokesman Says

WASHINGTON — (AP) — An Army spokesman said yesterday that within a few hours after the Korean Communists made the initial attack of the present conflict, it was decided that this was "the real thing."

He made this statement to reporters when questioned about a press dispatch from Japan saying the Communist attack had been misinterpreted at the outset as another border raid.

The Army spokesman commented: "I don't believe the initial attack was considered another border raid. At the first news no one jumped to hasty conclusions, because there had been previous border raids. But it was decided very quickly that it was the real thing. I think this decision was reached within a matter of a few hours."

Asked about a press report that earlier signs of a Korean Communist attack had been evaluated improperly, the spokesman said he knew nothing about it. Senators reported on June 26 that top military and diplomatic officials were advised as long as a year ago that North Korea was massing troops and tanks on the border.

They said that testimony was given in a closed committee hearing by Rear Admiral Roscoe H. Hillenkoetter, chief of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Hillenkoetter's reported testimony was much in line with comments the admiral made to reporters at the White House as he headed for the committee session.

He said then that an attack had been expected "for about a year," then added: "The capabilities were there for a year, anyway. You can't predict the timing."

The World Health Organization's definition of health is "a state of complete physical, social and mental well-being, not just the absence of disease or infirmity."

Few Things Matter For Tired Old Man

CLEARWATER, Fla. — (AP) — A rocking chair and a newspaper on a shady porch. That's all an old man has to look forward to, says Charlie Gifford, and even those simple things don't matter anymore. Gifford was sentenced to death Friday for murder. He heard circuit Judge John U. Bird pronounce the sentence, then said in a soft, tired voice, "that's all right with me." Gifford's age has been given from 69 to 72. He was convicted last week for slaying State Rep. Charles J. Schuh, Jr. The state contended Gifford shot Schuh because of a long resentment that Schuh had represented Mrs. Gifford in an attempt to have him declared legally insane in 1947. At his murder trial, Gifford pleaded insanity. Now for the tired little old man, few things matter and nothing matters very much.

School Awards Two Contracts

KINGSVILLE — (AP) — Construction contracts have been awarded by the Texas A. & I. college board of directors. The board awarded a contract for $158,760 for an engineering building to Hill and Combes of San Antonio. A contract for $228,400 for an athletic field was awarded to Harwell and Harwell of San Antonio. Both contracts are subject to final adjustments. Maj. John W. Powell, first man to explore the Grand Canyon by boat, explored the legend that the Colorado River disappeared under ground at various places.

Board Reinstates Miner Who Tried To 'Obey' Lewis

WASHINGTON — (AP) — An Illinois coal miner who lost his job after he tried to carry out John L. Lewis' order to return to work during last winter's coal strike has been ordered reinstated by the National Labor Relations Board. The miner, Lloyd H. Sidener of Canton, Ill., was fired by the United Electric Coal Companies upon union demand. He was also fined $50,000 by United Mine workers Local 7455. Sidener was president of the local union at the time. The NLRB held that the company, the local and a sub-district of the UMW had violated the Taft-Hartley Law in their treatment of Sidener. The unions and the company were ordered jointly to pay Sidener all the wages he had lost. The unions were directed not to force the United Electric or any other company to discriminate against their employes.

British Plane Shot Down by Americans

TOKYO — (AP) — A British carrier plane was shot down Friday by American B-29s but the pilot was rescued. An Air Force spokesman said the plane, a British Seafire, encountered a B-29 flight and was not recognized. The incident occurred off Korea's west coast.

Guard Association Cancels Gathering

HOUSTON — (AP) — The National Guard Association has cancelled its 72nd annual convention. Maj. Gen. H. Miller Ainsworth, Luling, announced the cancellation after conferring with Maj. Gen. E. A. Walst, St. Paul, Minn., national president. Ainsworth, commander of the Texas Guard's 36th division, said the world situation, "specifically the developments in Korea," brought about the cancellation. Guardsmen from over the nation were to have opened the convention here Sept. 27.

State Library Chief Resigns Over Conflict

AUSTIN — (AP) — State Librarian Francis Henshaw resigned yesterday in a policy conflict with the library's governing board. Henshaw called it a "conflict on policies and procedures," especially in the matter of keeping state records. Henshaw would not comment further.

Mrs. Herbert Gambrell of Dallas is chairman of the state library and historical commission. Henshaw notified her of his resignation by telegram.

Henshaw has been state librarian for the past four and half years. He came here from Berkshire Athenian, the public library at Pittsfield, Mass., and from a teaching position at Columbia University. He has accepted a position with the Library of Congress.

Henshaw's resignation becomes effective Sept. 20. He actually leaves Aug. 16 on vacation.

His resignation follows a recent survey of the state library and records system by Dr. Philip Brooks, chief archivist of the war records division of the Library of Congress. It was understood that Henshaw and the commission were at odds over recommendations made in the survey, which has not yet been made public.

Hobo King Urges Followers Fight

CHICAGO — (AP) — The plea has gone out to the nation's hoboes to "keep off the road" and help win the war in Korea.

Ben (Hobo) Benson, king emeritus of America's Wanderers said the Hobo Fellowship Union of America has voted to urge hoboes eligible for active duty to "help America once more to fight aggression and particularly the Communist ideology."

"You can't be a hobo in Russia or North Korea, or any of the other Russian satellites," Benson said.

The union's resolutions will be voted on at the national convention.

New President of Peru Takes Over

LIMA, Peru — (AP) — Brig. Gen. Manuel Odría was inaugurated as president of Peru Friday.

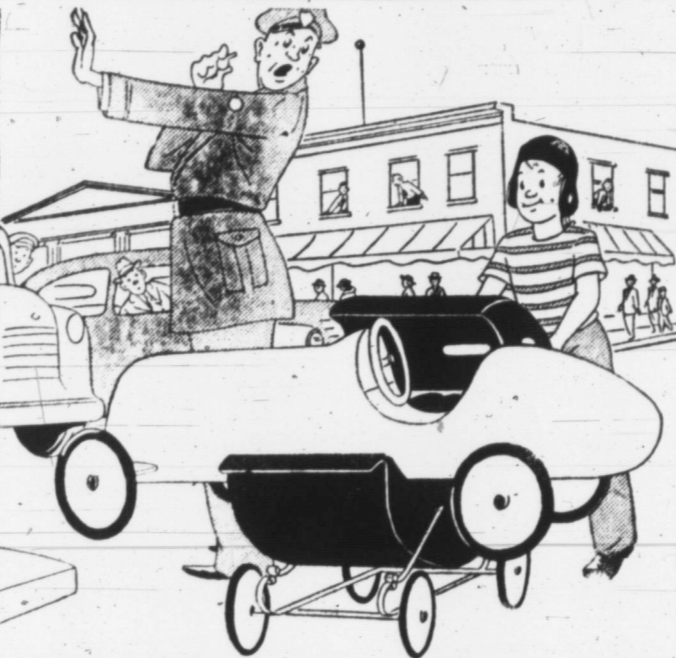

Odría, who was elected without opposition for a six-year term on July 2, takes over from Brig. Gen. Zenon Noriega, president of the military junta which has governed Peru since the ousting of president Jose Luis Bustamante Rivero in October, 1948.

Odría led the army revolt which toppled Bustamante's regime.

Korea Correspondents Urged To Use Greater 'Discretion'

TOKYO — (AP) — General MacArthur's public information officer yesterday strongly urged war correspondents to use "discretion" in their reports to avoid injuring the morale of soldiers and the prestige of the United States.

Col. M. P. Echols said U.S. embassies in Paris and Rome had advised headquarters that news accounts are hurting the American position in the eyes of foreign readers.

"These stories from Korea of American soldiers running down the road sobbing and crying are creating a terrible impression abroad," Echols said. "We have got to have the support of those people and such writing is damaging our position."

Echols added: "That sort of stuff gives people in other countries the impression that the Chinese like Genghis Khan II is on the loose again and that we can't hold them."

Such reports are not fair to American troops as a whole. "I'm just asking you to give those kids a break."

Echols did not identify the correspondents or stories. Neither did he suggest any change in the present system whereby correspondents operate without censorship.

He said he hoped newsmen would ask themselves two questions: "Does this give information to the enemy?" and "Is this hurting our own country?"

A correspondent then asked why headquarters did not impose censorship. Echols replied: "That's impossible."

Pressed to explain, he said "this thing's being reported on a global scale and you couldn't properly censor it." Echols did not amplify the remark.

He said there had been some actual breaches of security as well as "undesirable" reports. As an example, Echols said an agency (Reuters) had reported that American troops were brought from Okinawa to the south coast of Korea. Other correspondents then reported the same news.

"Why was it necessary to tell the enemy where those troops came from?" Echols asked. "Why wasn't it enough to report their arrival?"

The correspondents disagreed on whether censorship would be preferable to the present system.

Mule Defies Rules In Birth of Colt

OAKDALE, La. — (AP) — Mules are not supposed to have colts but 19-year-old Katy has one.

Katy's owners, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Clark, were startled when their big, dumb-looking work animal turned up with an offspring.

The colt is a bushy-tailed female. It has a long head, long, large-jointed legs and tiny black hooves.

The Clarks believe it was sired by a wild horse in the woods surrounding their farm in the Cypress community.

Mules are foaled by mares bred to asses and generally are sterile hybrids.

Congress Votes $5,000 Payment In Man's Death

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Congress has voted to pay $5,000 to the Arizona parents of a U. S. livestock inspector killed by a mob in Mexico.

The House passed and sent to the White House a Senate-approved bill to pay the money to Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Proctor of Tucson, Ariz.

The House judiciary committee said the Proctors' son, Robert L. Proctor, died Jan. 31, 1949, from injuries inflicted upon him as he entered San Pedro El Alto, Tamascalcingo.

Proctor was working with the Mexican-American Affairs Commission.

Proctor and his party, the committee's report said, were attacked by a large group of Mexicans "who apparently opposed the methods employed by the commission" in the program.

Texas Medical Center Chief Dies of Cancer

HOUSTON — (AP) — Dr. Ernst William Bertner, 60, president of the $100,000,000 Texas Medical Center since it was established in 1945, died here Friday of cancer.

He died of a disease he had fought for years. Doctor Bertner had been ill for about two years.

During his illness he had allowed himself to become a "guinea pig" for various cancer experiments. He eagerly tried out every new medical development that offered some hope of a cure for the malady.

Almost to his last breath, Doctor Bertner planned and conferred to further the development of the big medical center.

Doctor Bertner is credited with bringing the Baylor University college of medicine from Dallas to Houston to form a nucleus for the medical center.

Born in Colorado, he studied at New Mexico Military Institute, and received his medical degree from the University of Texas school of medicine at Galveston. He interned in New York City and took up practice here until he enlisted in the British army medical corps in World War I.

Following the war he did post-graduate work at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore before returning here to resume his practice.

He was a former vice-president of the American Cancer Society. Doctor Bertner is survived by his wife, the former Miss Julia Williams, of St. Louis, Mo.

pulling back of the American line in Korea under intense Communist pressure galled many a young United States soldier.

But it galled none more than war. As chief of staff for Gen. George Patton, Gay coordinated the two-star commander of the first cavalry division, which took the heaviest blows.

Excursion Service Sought by Braniff

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Braniff Airways urged the Civil Aeronautics Board yesterday to permit it to establish a four-cent-a-mile excursion round trip passenger fare between several Texas points to develop additional traffic.

L. A. Person, Braniff manager of schedules and tariffs, told CAB Examiner Paul Pfeiffer that the airline wants to put such a rate into effect between Brownsville and Corpus Christi, Galveston, Houston and San Antonio and between Laredo and Galveston, Houston and San Antonio.

If CAB should restrict the period in which the proposed fare would be effective, Person said Braniff would prefer to offer the excursion round trip rates from mid-November to mid-April each year.

He proposed a 30-day time limit on use of such fares by a passenger.

Eastern Airlines, competing with Braniff between Brownsville and Corpus Christi and between Brownsville and Houston, has filed a complaint against the proposed rate, contending Braniff proposes a 32 percent reduction in fare between points involved.

Between 1926 and 1941, the New York Yankees played in seven World Series and lost only three games.

veteran as he meticulously plotted on a big command post map a slow and stubborn withdrawal.

It wasn't the fact that he faced between two and three enemy divisions on his front that worried him so much as the fact the American forces have been spread so thin that flank protection is difficult.

Gay said he felt "the whole situation is summed up by refugees."

Thousands cross the American line daily and amidst this mass of terror-stricken humanity are armed North Korean guerrillas seeking to get through in order to disrupt United States positions from the rear. So far no way has been found to cope with this situation.

"The American soldier—thank God—doesn't want to kill people ruthlessly," said Gay soberly.

"But we must find a means to hold these refugees in place. They are endangering our men's lives."

Hunting bandits is nothing new to the general, although he never took part in a "police action" on this scale before.

"I once commanded a troop in the old seventh cavalry when we were chasing bandits along the Mexican border," he said. He was a lieutenant then and later served in France during the first world war.

He is anxious to open an offensive as soon as the American battle line has formed.

"Marshal Foch once made the statement that there comes a time in every battle when both commanders think they have lost—and he who attacks wins," said Gay. "I am going to attack."

"There is a report going around here that I promised the bazooka men a bottle of whiskey for each enemy tank they knock out," Gay said with a grin. "That isn't true. I promised them a bottle of champagne for each one."

"And I hope it costs me $500."

Boycott Milk Sells for Dime

GAINESVILLE, Texas — (AP) — Grocery shoppers were surprised yesterday to see a price of 10 cents a quart posted on pasteurized milk which had been selling for 21 cents a quart.

J. O. Woodman of Fort Worth, general manager of the North Texas Milk Producers Association, said the 10-cent milk was being produced by nine dairy farmers of Cooke County. He said it was pasteurized in a "cooperative plant" at Decatur.

Woodman said the nine dairymen were members of the association which had been selling milk to Crystal Dairy Products Co. here but quit when Crystal stopped purchasing milk from four of the producers.

"It appears essential that, along with higher taxes and credit restrictions, should go price control and wage control and perhaps rationing—at least on a standby basis."

The president said at a news conference Thursday that there is no need for such controls at this time. He added that if a need develops, the controls would be invoked all at the same time as part of a mobilization program.

Presidential Secretary CHARLES ROSS said Saturday that the president is aware of the growing demand in Congress for broader curbs than he has recommended.

Ross added that the situation undoubtedly will be discussed in that light when congressional leaders confer with Mr. Truman Monday morning.

The division of more than 40,000 men from more than 5,000 Texas cities has completed its annual two-week summer encampment.

Some units left here for home Saturday but the big move is Sunday.

Major Gen. Albert Sidney Johnson of Dallas said he was pleased with the showing his men made during their two weeks of training. A team of Army inspectors said the division made an excellent showing.

offices in the Combs-Worley building.

Rogers faces Mrs. Altavene Clark, of Washington and Amarillo in the Democratic runoff for Congress. Winner of that battle will go into the finals against Congressman Ben Guill, Republican, in November for the full two-year term. Guill won the House seat, vacated by the resignation of Eugene Worley to accept federal judgeship, in the May 6 special election.

Meanwhile, neither Rogers nor Mrs. Clark could count on LeRoy LaMaster to publicly ask his followers to support them in their coming Aug. 26 runoff battle for Democratic nomination to Congress.

The question was on many lips, and in many minds until a letter from LaMaster declared: "I do not intend to take a stand in the runoff as I feel that the two candidates are well known throughout the district and that the voters are capable of making their own selections on this basis."

The statement was included in a "thank you" letter to The News from LaMaster for the support Gray County voters afforded him in the July 22 primary. LaMaster gave credit to his "friends" for backing him in the primary, that sent Rogers and Clark to the runoffs.

Rogers made his statement of thanks via the telephone while he was preparing the first of his runoff campaign speeches.

Said Rogers: "I am deeply grateful to the voters of the district for the support they gave me in the July primary, especially to my friends and neighbors in Gray County, and surrounding counties, for the trust they placed in me by their strong vote. I feel sure it is indicative of a trend that we must send men to Washington who are determined to cut back the patronage and pork barrels that are slowly but surely crippling our economy. It shows, too, that the people are sick of increasing socialism and want men who are not afraid to stand on their own feet and protect their rights in Congress."

Mrs. Altavene Clark also sent out "thank you" notices to the press for the votes that put her in the runoff.

Only J. Blake Timmons, low man in the four-way race, had not sent any "thank you" notices to his supporters through the local press or radio.

Four anti-riot noise bombs were exploded by the gendarmes before the crowd began to disperse. The bombs are light explosives intended to frighten but not to injure. By 9 p.m. Brussels was still in a stage of siege. Saturday night's crowd was far larger than the morning gathering had been and seemed in an angrier mood.

Violence was reported at several other places in the country. At Lessines a stationmaster reported a saboteur had been killed while trying to plant a bomb. Demonstrators smashed store windows and marched with an effigy of the king at Genet. They threw

Guill Asks Replies To Questionnaires

Representative Ben Guill, Pampa, Texas' only Republican congressman, is urging all of his constituents who received the questionnaires he sent from Washington to fill them out and return them to him at the soonest possible moment.

Guill is trying to get a cross-section of the Panhandle's feeling toward certain measures and the sooner it can be established, the sooner he can represent the Panhandle as it wants to be represented, he said.

The questionnaire, which contains 13 current questions, should be mailed to Congressman Ben Guill, Room 104, House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

200-mile curving front without regard for losses.

General MacArthur's war summary said the Reds were placing new pressure and made "slight gains" southward in two drives about fifty miles inland from the east coast.

On the east coast, American and South Korean troops moved ahead for a slight gain, but the Korean Communists clung to Yongdok, 80 miles north of Pusan.

Warships pounded the Yongdok area with five and eight inch gunfire.

To the south, North Koreans made little progress eastward toward Pusan. MacArthur's war summary said Red columns had advanced ten miles east of Hadong to a point some 65 miles west of Pusan.

The North Koreans also moved into Kochang on the southwest front, 75 miles northwest of Pusan.

General "Hap" Gay reported his first cavalry foot troopers were "pretty intact" although some men were "tired from moving around."

First cavalry troops have made three withdrawals since landing two weeks ago.

Guerrillas continued to give major trouble. More than 300 in one band skirted the south side of the cavalry positions. They were wiped out.

Fahle-Brookmole Wedding Vows Are Exchanged By Candlelight in Pampa Presbyterian Church

The First Presbyterian Church in Pampa was the setting for a wedding service uniting in marriage Miss Junice Ann Fahle and Royce F. Brookmole at 8:30 Wednesday evening, July 26. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Fahle, 600 N. Gray, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Brookmole of Lubbock.

Dr. Douglas E. Nelson read the double-ring ceremony by candlelight against a background of palms, baskets of white gladioli and tall candelabra holding lighted tapers. Mrs. H. A. Yoder, organist, played nuptial selections preceding the ceremony, and for processional and recessional she played traditional wedding marches, Neely Jo Ellis, vocalist, sang "One Alone" from "The Desert Song" (Sigmund Romberg) before the ceremony, and "The Lord's Prayer" at the close of the service.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. As she entered on his arm she was dressed in a formal bridal gown of frosted white organdy. The sweetheart neckline was outlined by illusion and white beaded, and the long sleeves ended in points at the wrists. Ruffles of organdy trimmed the cathedral train, and the finger-tip length veil fell from a small cloche made of white satin covered in seed pearls. She carried a white satin Bible on which rested her bridal bouquet of stephanotis and a white orchid tied with white satin streamers of love knots.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Leona Hale and Miss Carol Sloan. Mrs. Hale wore a gown of white organdy with white tulle and carried a bouquet of white gladioli tied with orchid ribbon streamers. Miss Sloan's dress was of white organdy over Nile green taffeta. Her bouquet of white gladioli was tied with Nile green satin streamers.

Mrs. Wayne L. Fahle, sister-in-law of the bride, and matron of honor, wore a dress of the same pattern as those of the bridesmaids. It was pink and her white gladioli bouquet was tied with pink satin streamers.

Best man was George T. Canon, son of Dr. and Mrs. G. E. Canon, Lubbock, a student at Texas Christian University. Ushers were Wayne L. Fahle, brother of the bride, and Stewart Nickols of Rapid City, S. D.

Mrs. Fahle, the bride's mother, wore a dress in pastel green and white sheer with white accessories and a white gardenia corsage. Mrs. Brookmole, the bridegroom's mother, was dressed in dusty rose crepe with white accessories. She also wore white gardenias.

Mr. Brookmole is a 1949 graduate of Pampa High School. She was valedictorian of her senior class, and during high school was a member of the A Cappella Choir, senior girls' sextet, national honor society, and of the Quill and Scroll. She was editor of the high school annual and the Harvester. She is a past secretary, vice president and president of the Sub Deb Club. She attended Texas Technological College, Lubbock, where she was a member of the Texas Rodeo Association, Book Reviewers and Alpha Lambda Delta, honorary scholastic freshman society for Mr. Brookmole is a 1949 graduate of the Lubbock High School. He later attended Texas Tech, where he was a member of the Silver Key. He is now associated with the Bell Creamery Company in Lubbock.

Following the ceremony the wedding guests were received at the home of the bride's parents, Miss Joan Clay registered the guests, Miss Arvilla Patterson acted punch and Mrs. Marvin McNeil served the cake. After August 1 Mr. and Mrs. Brookmole will be at home at 2803 Akron, Lubbock. For the wedding trip to Colorado Springs and Denver the navy suit and velvet hat. Pinned

What's Cookin' In Gray County HD Club Work

DEMONSTRATORS VISITED—The Gus Green family has one of the prettiest gardens the agent has seen. Thus, in spite of the fact that the garden has caught three baits and some high wind, we're looking forward to seeing the colored pictures taken of this freshly cultivated garden.

By the way, Mrs. Green bakes mighty good honest-to-goodness butter cakes. We sampled a big slice while visiting.

The whole Green family — which includes Mr. and Mrs. Green and their three children — are all at work remodeling their home. The basement playroom is a favorite spot, and you wouldn't wonder after seeing the playroom. The Greens are having a lot of fun together as they do this remodeling job.

The Roland Dauer family south of Pampa also have a splendid garden; lots of yellow squash, green beans and leaf lettuce, with prospects for good cucumbers and tomatoes. A row of flowers adds much to the beauty of the garden, and the means cut flowers for the home.

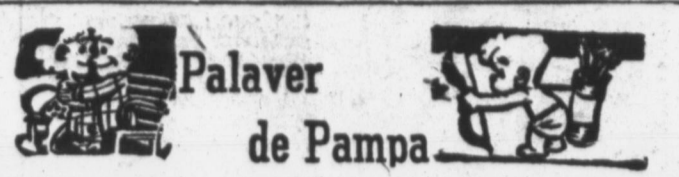

4-H CLUB NEWS — Because of illness, Betty Joyce Greer of McLean will be unable to go to the 4-H district camp. The club girls scheduled to make the trip July 31 and August 1-3 are: Johnnie Mae Dauer, Shirley Keel, Jaquelin Robertson and Billie Mae Osborne. These girls have earned the trip by doing outstanding club work, which means keeping records of all work done.

BETTER BAKING CONTEST POSTPONED — The county better baking contest was postponed because the district contest was postponed. The date for the county contest will be reset as soon as word is received stating the dates for the district contest.

ALL-DAY 4-H CLUB MEETINGS — A lot of good work has been accomplished at the all-day 4-H Club meetings. The work included understanding how to keep 4-H records; preparation and service of a family breakfast; washing sweaters and starting another clothing project. All-day meetings have been held at McLean Jr. High School, at the home of Johnnie Mae Dauer and in the home of Patsy Price. Others will be held at Hopkins Community House, Alameda School and at the Grandview School.

The home demonstration agent will be out of the office July 31 until August 3 attending the district 4-H Club camp. The secretary, Patty Willett, will be back from her vacation and will be in the office. She'll be glad to help in any way she can.

All that is best in the civilization of to-day, is the fruit of Christ's appearance among men.

DON'T FORGET that today is Derby Day! See you out past the Drs. Overton and Hicks at 1:30. Peg has a special interest in this race, so be watching for me across the finish line.

EVERY WEEK I must say a little bit about the Top o' Texas Rodeo and Horse Show — it's getting close to those five big dates: Aug. 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12. W. D. Price has sent invitations to quarter horse breeders in surrounding states and that should be one of the main attractions of the show. Really, I wouldn't mind carrying home one of those grand champion trophies myself, but I don't have a quarter of a horse to show — a whole one either, for that matter.

NOTICE THAT AMARILLO is staging its annual city tennis tournament, and that reminds me to wonder why we don't have a similar tourney here. Don't we have adequate city courts? Next year maybe we can get some organization interested in sponsoring a thing of this sort — the city park court is surrounded by a nice grass embankment for spectators. A few years ago when a professional net star was here, a few benches were moved in at the high school courts and that was fine, too. L. N. Atchison could get this organized — he's a net enthusiast from way back — in fact, has his own court. And he's also a fast table tennis player — that's all by way of recommendation.

GOOD THINGS MUST always come to an end — or so it seems — and one of the things our youth of today misses most is the old-fashioned porch swing. What's becoming of it? Frankly, there are a lot of us who couldn't have got through a courtship without that monument to romance — the swing. There's something very romantic about the wooden swing, but I guess it's outdated — I can't very well picture one hanging on some of the new narrow porches or hanging in a breezeway. Notice the D. E. Bradfords are clinging to their swing and I always want to stop when they're on the porch these summer evenings. The M. C. Stapletons have a sort of steel type swing that rocks ever so gently, and the H. C. Wilsons have a modern version of the swing — a nice glider upholstered in a bright fabric. Anyway, there's not a sun tan cot, a steamer chair or any lawn furniture (to my way of thinking) that takes the place of the porch swing.

DON'T KNOW WHY everyone is worrying about not having sugar in coffee or sheets on beds — I'm worrying more about not having a man at the head of our table. Most of the reserves we know are wondering if their tailor-made suits will still fit and are worrying because they've let a little sister wear out a good jacket or shirt. You know, just before the end of the last war, a teen-ager just wasn't in fashion unless she had at least one discarded army shirt to wear on wiener roasts! Be nice to think those uniforms would have no further use except for wiener roasts where the most serious accident is a splash of mustard down the front.

PAMPA PANORAMA: Like the Henry Lahe place of business more all the time... gray exterior with yellow trim... You know, there's some people who make you feel good when you see them, and Myrtle is one of these... All I can learn on the sly is that the Chester Thompasons neighbors are planning a tour of Canada... don't know whether it's the Guy Farringtons or not, but they do live next door, I think... anyway, it's a lead and maybe somebody will let me know who is going and when... Mrs. Walter Purviance has a fine back yard for entertaining... The political candidates I saw this week were as friendly as they were before we went to the polls... winners and losers alike... guess that proves we had some genuinely fine folks on the ticket... Glydene Swindle, David Shelton Exchange Vows in Home Ceremony

In an informal double-ring ceremony, Miss Glydene Swindle became the bride of David Shelton. The Rev. Collins Webb, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, read the service at 4 p.m. Saturday, July 22, in the home of Mrs. Mildred Lafferty, 922 East Francis.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Swindle, 516 Hughes, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Shelton. For the exchange of vows the wedding party stood before a large mirror which was flanked by tall baskets of pink gladioli. The bride wore a street length dress of pale blue imported voile with lace inserts in the same shade on the cap sleeves and full flared skirt. She wore a pink hat trimmed with pink veiling and roses and shoes in pastel shades. She carried a bridal bouquet of pink carnations, white stephanotis and pink satin streamers on a white testament. She carried out the tradition of "something old, new, borrowed and blue," and wore a real six-pence in one shoe. Mrs. Bob Shoulders served her sister as matron of honor. She was dressed in a rose crepe frock trimmed in self-color lace. Her accessories were white and she wore a corsage of white carnations. Bob Shoulders was best man. Mrs. Swindle, mother of the bride, wore black crepe with white and pink satin streamers on a white testament.

Miss Shirley Joyce Moore and Gene Alvin Howell Marry by Candlelight in Presbyterian Church

In a double-ring ceremony read by candlelight, Miss Shirley Joyce Moore and Gene Alvin Howell exchanged wedding vows in the First Presbyterian Church in Pampa at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, July 22. Dr. Douglas E. Nelson, pastor, read the service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Edwin Moore, 121 North Wynne, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rubeen S. Howell, 720 West Buckler. The white satin-draped altar, setting for the ceremony, held an arrangement of white gladioli, and in the background were woodwardia ferns and kentia palms, against which a fan-shaped arrangement of white gladioli was flanked by seven-branched candelabra, graduated in height, holding burning white tapers. Baskets of white gladioli stood at either side of the position taken by the wedding party during the ceremony. The aisle by which the bridal party entered the sanctuary was lighted with candles on each pew and decorated with salal foliage and white satin bows.

Showers, Luncheon Honor Brides-Elect As Chosen Wedding Dates Approach

A come-and-go bridal shower in the home of Mrs. John Killian, 522 N. Starkweather, honored Miss Frances Silcott, bride-elect of Earl Edwards, Jr. Hostesses were Mrs. Killian, Mrs. J. S. Silcott, Mrs. Jimmy Silcott, Mrs. Hugh Peoples and Mrs. Ray Young.

The Silcott-Edwards ceremony will be performed at 7:30 on the evening of August 11, in the Central Baptist Church.

Blue and white gladioli centered the lace-covered table, and blue iced cakes were served with punch. White napkins lettered in blue "Frances and Earl" further carried out the chosen colors of the bride-elect.

White carnation corsages tied with blue ribbon were worn by Miss Silcott, her mother, Mrs. Frank Silcott, her grandmother, Mrs. Frankie Silcott of Panhandle, and the hostesses. Approximately 60 guests registered in the bride's book, presided over by Mrs. Paul Willis. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Calvin Jones, Sayre, Okla., and Mrs. Frankie Silcott of Panhandle. COUNTRY CLUB LUNCHEON — Bride-elect JoAnn Hill Haw, who has set her marriage to Charles H. Ware of Amarillo on Sept. 7, was favored with an engagement luncheon at the Pampa Country Club at 12:30 Friday. Hostesses were Mrs. J. W. Garman, Jr., Mrs. J. W. Garman, III and Mrs. John M. H. Garman.

In the foyer, where white gladioli were arranged on the table, before a mirror, the guest of honor, the bride-elect, stood in line. Others in the line were Mrs. Arthur H. Ware, mother of the bridegroom-to-be, and to Mrs. Morris. The hostesses also wore white carnation corsages.

Tables were arranged in a U-shape, and the centerpiece on the main table was of blue and white asters and carnations centered with a white plastic-foam engagement ring. Matching floral arrangements also were placed on the side tables. Mrs. Clyde Vanderburg presided at the guest register. The guest list included Mrs. Arthur H. Ware, Mrs. Neal Ware, Mrs. Florida Ware Vaughn, Amarillo; Mrs. Todd Cone, Mrs. Robert Duket, Mrs. Guy LeMond, Mrs. Clyde Vanderburg, Mrs. Travis Lively, Jr., Mrs. Bill Bridges, Mrs. Raymond Harrah,

SERIES OF SHOWERS — A series of showers have been given recently complimenting Miss Nancy Campbell. Miss Campbell and Dave Warren will be married August 11 in the First Christian Church of Pampa. First of the series was a miscellaneous shower, hosted by Mrs. Leslie H. Hart and Mrs. E. E. McNutt and given in the garden of the McNutt home, 1240 Christian. At the guest register was Mrs. John Campbell, sister-in-law of the honoree, with Miss Campbell's sister, Mrs. Marcella Dickerson, at the gift table.

White carnation corsages were received by the honoree, by Mrs. A. E. Moyer, Mrs. D. M. Warren, mother of the bridegroom-to-be, and Mrs. W. L. Campbell, mother of the bride-elect.

Green tinted punch was served with small cakes tied in orchid frosting. Napkins were light orchid lettered "Dave and Nancy" in deeper orchid. At a kitchen shower, hosted by several girls who will be members of Miss Campbell's bridal party, the guest of honor was presented a "corsage" fashioned of a "chore girl," plastic measuring spoons and clothespins.

Misses Donna Beagle and Joan Clay, dressed in white chef's costume, presented the gifts to the honoree. Approximately 30 of Miss Campbell's young friends were present.

The Country Club Ballroom was scene of the most recent of party, the guest of honor was presented a "corsage" fashioned of a "chore girl," plastic measuring spoons and clothespins. Misses Donna Beagle and Joan Clay, dressed in white chef's costume, presented the gifts to the honoree. Approximately 30 of Miss Campbell's young friends were present.

Mrs. G. L. Damer, organist, played Schubert's "Serenade," "Because" and "Ave Maria." Entering on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride was dressed in a gown of Chantilly lace and marquisette. The rounded neckline was edged in lace-meditations, and the lace cascade waist was pointed both on front and back, with the lace extending into a train.

She wore full length lace mitts and her three-quarter length triple-veil was made of French illusion. Each tier was hand scalloped. The veil fell from a seed pearl tiara studded with rhinestones. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis tied with white satin and accented with maline. For something old and borrowed she carried a handmade point lace handkerchief borrowed from Mrs. Joe Lewis.

Miss Mary Kuehl, maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Misses Fat Ellis, Linda Fraser and Jean Hendricks, and Mrs. Tom Howell, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, wore identically fashioned dresses of nylon net over matching tulle in pastel shades. They also wore little shoulder caps and matching mitts. The dresses were in orchid, baby blue, pink yellow and lime green. Their head dresses were of net and flower and were in colors to match their dresses.

The maid of honor carried a present bouquet of the bride's and buds of lavender gladioli, and the bridesmaids' bouquets were colonial in style, with gladioli bouquets accenting the colors of the gowns.

The flower girl, little SueAnn Thompson, was dressed in a long pink dress, and on her head she wore a tatra of pink net and flowers.

Mrs. Moore, mother of the bride, wore a dress of ice blue lace over matching taffeta with pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother was dressed in gray crepe with which she wore matching accessories and pink roses.

All gowns worn by the members of the bridal party, including that worn by Mrs. Moore, were made by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. J. D. Kinnison.

Tom Howell, the bridegroom's brother, of Norman, Okla., was best man. Ushers were Tommy Brown, Robert Montgomery, Joe Glaxner and Wesley Keith.

Assisting at the reception which followed the ceremony were Mrs. Joe Lewis, Mrs. Guy Farrington, brother of Norman, Okla., and Misses Mary and Katherine Mathieu. Miss Nell Stinson, a guest who came from her home in Memphis, Tenn., by plane to attend the wedding, presided at the guest register. Mrs. Ray Robbins served the cake and Miss Ruth Mathieu (See MOORE-HOWELL, Page 13)

Grandmother, Co-ed, Novelist, Titles All Fit Lorene O. Locke of Miami

By MARY FORRESTER
If, as somebody once said, enthusiasm is a large part of success, then the Panhandle is soon to produce another novelist. Mrs. Lorene O. Locke of Miami, who has had her writing on a paying basis in a small way for several years, is now planning to settle down to her typewriter in earnest.

Mrs. Locke not only has enthusiasm and determination, she has a new purpose—a new channel in which to guide her talents—born of a recently completed course in creative writing at the University of Alabama. The writer's ability that formerly found an outlet in short articles and corresponding for newspapers (Pampa News, Fort Worth Star-Telegram and Amarillo News) will now be molded into something which she considers more important—possibly novels.

Mrs. Locke, an active member of the Panhandle Penwomen's Club and its second vice president, was guest speaker at the club's last meeting in Amarillo. She told her fellow penwomen about her school days in Alabama and explained her reasons for wanting to go, and in particular, her reasons for choosing the University of Alabama.

Her reason for wanting to go to school was simple, she wanted to learn. But her reason for choosing that particular school were more involved—several years ago she read a short story about Hudson Strode and his work at the University of Alabama. She said she decided to study under him if it ever became possible. Recently her husband, W. P. Locke, Miami merchant, retired from business life, and Mrs. Locke decided the time had come for the trip to Alabama. Mr. Locke, being a typical American husband, went along peacefully. He vacationed while his wife went to college.

Mrs. Locke actually took her creative writing course under Edward Kimbrough, co-author of Strode and one of his former pupils, who is himself a successful novelist. His books that have been published are "From Hell to Breakfast," "Night Eyes," and "The Secret Pilgrim." His fourth novel, "Mimosa Beach," has been accepted by Rhinehart and will soon be published. Kimbrough has won a year's scholarship to study for a doctorate at the Sorbonne in Paris and has a leave of absence from the university. He left this month for Paris.

Among the statements quoted from Kimbrough by Mrs. Locke was this significant one: "You must look at the world through your own window and not the common window in the waiting room of humanity." And another: "An honest book has its shape imposed by its own truth. It only echoes to print."

Regarding trends in writing today, Mrs. Locke said "I feel that there is a lack of maturity in today's novel; acceptance of perversion shows an adolescent attitude of the writers."

She added a bright note by saying that many creative writers are now getting away from the overworked sex angle and are getting back to fundamentals. "Writers must find a deeper truth and maturity," she stated, and quoted an editor who said that among today's readers there is a greater demand for books with a religious trend. "Today," Mrs. Locke concluded, "we need something to help."

As to her future plans, Mrs. Locke told enthusiastically of a non-fiction novel which she has well under way. She said it concerns paying business. That it has grown out of hobbies. However, her latest plan is to write children's books. In this venture the writer will have plenty of help and inspiration, for in spite of her enthusiasm and youthful appearance, she is the grandmother of five small children.

MRS. LORENE O. LOCKE

BETROTHED—Mrs. Nell Kinsey, 722 North Gray, is announcing the engagement and coming marriage of her daughter, Ann, and Leon Waugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Waugh of Borner. The wedding date is still unnamed, but will be sometime in August.

ENGAGEMENT TOLD—Mr. and Mrs. Amos Harris announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Elsie, to Raymond Christenson of LeRoy, Kans. The wedding is planned for August 28, in the local Church of the Brethren.

The white damask-laid table was centered with an arrangement of orchid stasias, daisies, and white napkins were lettered "Dave and Naneen" in orchid. Punch in a deep shade of orchid was served from bowls at either end of the table.
Mrs. Doug Mills registered the guests and Mrs. Leslie H. Hart presided at the table of gifts.
Gardenia corsages were presented to Miss Campbell, to Mrs. A. E. Meyer, Los Angeles, grandmother of Miss Campbell's fiancé, to his mother, Mrs. D. M. Warren, Mrs. Doug Mills, Mrs. D. L. Mills and Mrs. D. L. Hale, Jr.

For the wedding trip to Colorado Springs Mrs. Howell wore a linen suit with a white skirt and navy jacket. Her accessories were navy and white and she wore a corsage fashioned of stephanotis.

Mankind will be God-governed in proportion as God's government becomes apparent, the Golden Rule utilized, and the rights of man and the liberty of conscience held sacred.

★ WE, THE WOMEN BY RUTH MILLETT NEA Staff Writer

NOVEL SOLUTION
Writes a wife: "In the 20 years that we have been married my husband has had three affairs that I know about. He has never, I am sure, been aware that I knew—but each one cost him plenty because I figured that if he was spending money on another woman the least I could do was to spend money on myself, which I did—extravagantly."
Well, that's a novel way of meeting an old and sordid problem, but maybe it has its merits. Certainly it's better than for a wife to make the mistake of pulling out of a marriage without anything and leaving the other woman free to move into her place.
And it is better for all concerned than for the wife to go to pieces and think her life is ended simply because one man has betrayed her trust in him.
If there are children—it probably even beats creating scenes, threatening divorce, and similar carrying on.

Mrs. Jack Ledwig, organist, played the processional and recessional, and nuptial selections were sung by Mrs. Frank Dove, Mrs. Jack Ledwig, Miss Florence Ledwig and Miss Carey Britten.

Arrangements of gladioli decorated the altar.
Given in marriage by her brother, Arnold, the bride wore a gown of white satin with an oval neckline and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. Her fingertip veil fell from a satin headdress. She carried a bouquet of white carnations.
Attending her sister as maid of honor, Miss Dorothy Kuehler was attired in a dress of rose taffeta. She carried a bouquet of white carnations.
Norbert Kuehler served as best man with Leo Britten as usher. Willard Smith and Ernest Weller served the Mass.
Mrs. Kuehler, mother of the bride, wore a gray silk dress and a white carnation corsage.
Mrs. Sinclair is a graduate of Groom High School and is now employed at St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo. Mr. Sinclair attended schools in Tulsa, Okla., served in the Air Corps and is now employed by the Amarillo Bus Company.
Out-of-town guests were Sister Catherine Elizabeth of St. Anthony's Hospital, Mrs. Margaret Adelman, Mrs. Fern Mask, Mrs. Neva Short, Miss Billie Reid, Mrs. Genevieve Britten and Miss Pauline Britten, all of Amarillo.

Miss Kuehler Is Bride of Tillman Sinclair
GROOM—Miss Ethelreda Kuehler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Kuehler of Groom, became the bride of Tillman Sinclair in a double-ring ceremony read July 22 in St. Mary's Church of Groom. The Rev. Andrew Quante officiated.

Influence of 20's Bows to Hourglass In Paris Showing

PARIS, July 30.—(AP)—Christian Dior opened the fall fashion showings last week by introducing a shapely silhouette which emphasizes big hips, an ample bust and an hourglass waist.
Everything reminiscent of the 1920s has been swept away and even hemlines tend to be slightly longer, particularly for topcoats.
He spotlights the bust with drapery and plumps up the hips with padding, pocket flaps or kangaroo pouched drapery.
He plasters many dresses with large plain pearl buttons and number of outside pockets.
Dior skirts are either very narrow or fabulously full. He evokes a 1930 look with narrow ones that fit tight to the knees then flare out into godets or bunches of pleats.
Suit jackets are very long with tight, often belted waists, high button fastenings and small turn-down collars. The bottom portions protrude bulbously, often as much as six inches away from the hips.
Dior introduces detachable corsets that fit the midriff and bust like a breastplate. He makes them in white satin to top strapless sheath dresses of black grosgrain, and in shell pink satin atop white ones.
Dior has designed "elephant ear" sleeves cut about two feet wide. Used on loose topcoats they make the wearer look like a bat in flight.
He stiffens full length, three-quarter and hip length flared coats and jackets with buckram and often lines them completely in beaver or mink fur. Many are belted tightly to the waist. Fold-down collars on coats and jackets develop into long stoles ends that dangle to hem level. On belted numbers they are threaded through the belt to form loose panels.

'Anticipatory' Buying Jumps

NEW YORK — (AP) — Continued "anticipatory buying" despite assurances of surpluses in many consumers' items was reported by Dun and Bradstreet in its weekly retail trade review.

Total retail dollar volume in the week ended Wednesday was estimated at from five to nine percent above a year ago.

Unlike Friday's Federal Reserve Board report that covered only department store sales, Dun and Bradstreet's estimates are for all retail stores.

Regional estimates varied from last year's levels by the following percentages: Southwest up six to ten.

Dun and Bradstreet noted a marked rise in the volume of house furnishings, many of the sales being in large appliances. Shoppers also bought floor coverings, furniture, draperies, and television sets. In some sections, the demand for lamps, housewares and small electrical appliances rose substantially.

Industry Adjusting For War Output

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK — (AP) — The twin uncertainties of taxes and controls are dampening business planning. But already industry is taking the first steps toward adjusting to its new role — increased production for war use — while still meeting civilian needs. It has been a busy, busy week.

Thousands of workers around the country are putting the fishing rod back in the closet. Vacations are being cancelled in many plants.

Shipbuilders are getting orders to shake the mothballs out of the vessels built in the last war which have been put away for an emergency.

The plastic wrappings are being stripped from B-29s and the big bombers are being made air-worthy again.

Commercial airlines have given up part of their fleets for the Pacific airlift.

The United States has chartered all available tramp cargo surface ships. And the shipping industry moves toward full speed again.

A boom in rail freight car building is taking shape. Rail chiefs are meeting in Chicago to plan it. Perhaps 300,000 more cars in the next three years will be built. There are 1.7 million of them now.

The oil industry has worked out a plan to build up production of aviation gasoline without cutting the quantity or quality of gas available for the family car. Special aviation-type gasoline which has been going into auto premium gasoline will now flow entirely to the military.

But oil refiners will share their other high grade gasoline stocks for blending, so that the makers of the special alkylate the big planes need will not be put at a competitive disadvantage in the auto gasoline market. That is an example of "voluntary industrial allocation."

Steel leaders have been assuring the public that military orders — when received — can be met without too much diversion from civilian channels.

Automotive Output Increases in Week

DETROIT — (AP) — Motor vehicle output in the United States last week reached 185,363 units, Ward's Automotive Reports said.

The estimate includes 187,064 cars and 28,299 trucks. It compares with 182,052 cars and 25,442 trucks assembled the previous week, and 113,800 cars and 22,707 trucks built in the like week a year ago.

Ward's attributed last week's increase to higher scheduling by Kaiser-Frazer, Nash, Chevrolet, Buick and Ford truck. It noted, however, that Studebaker and Plymouth operations were hindered by work stoppages.

LITTLE DOC

By Walt Coburn

Copyright 1950 by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Dr. John Sand, a recent arrival in Wolf Point, Mont., has won three friends. Dusty is a cowboy whose wounded arm was treated on the night of his arrival. Kit Carson is Dusty's girl, who works for Doc as his nurse. Old Dad is a shepherd who has been treating. Doc might after a heavy day of treating men and animals. Doc kisses Kit and the act is observed by Tond, an unscrupulous character who had been beaten up by Doc in a fight and who also hates Dusty. Kit realizes that Tond will see that Dusty hears about it and Dusty might turn against Doc.

IT must have been somewhere around midnight when Little Doc blinked his eyes open and kept blinking them against the flare of a lighted match held in the cupped hand of a tall man standing over his cot with a six-shooter in his other hand. The fellow had a black silk handkerchief pulled up across the lower part of his face and above the mask were a pair of silvered eyes, the color of gunmetal.

"Put on your duds and fetch your doctor's bag. We're goin' fer a horseback ride."

The match burned itself out, leaving them in darkness.

"You don't need that gun," said Little Doc. "Put it away and light the lamp." "He didn't like the ugly sound of the man's voice.

"Don't waste time stallin' around. We ain't got all night."

"I'm trying to hurry it. Quit trying to scare me."

Little Doc dressed quickly.

"My boy's in the operating room. I'll have to light the lamp to pick out what I need to put in it. Is it a knife or gunshot wound?" he asked.

"The feller's been shot. Fetch plenty of chloroform to put him to sleep."

"Clean wound? Or is the bullet still in him?" Doc pulled on his coat.

"It's still in him. Don't be too curious with them questions."

"I'm not curious about you or the wounded man. I just need the proper tools for the job."

Little Doc lit the lamp and carried it with him into the operating room and set it down.

The man warned: "I got my eye on you. Don't try to slip a gun into that bag along with your tools."

"I don't own a gun. But I'd like to leave a note for my nurse—instructions for her to follow while I'm gone. When do I get back?"

"Tomorrow. Next day. Mebby next month. Mebby you ain't comin' back. You ain't puttin' nothin' in writin'. If you do, you're askin' for a gun-whuppin', Doc. Stuff what you need in your bag and let's get goin'."

THE tall man had a saddled horse waiting outside. The stirrups were too long but the man said he would shorten them, once they got clear of town.

He took a black silk handkerchief and blindfolded Little Doc, then led his horse. Little Doc had to hang onto the saddle horn with both hands. He heard Shep growl softly as they rode past the shed where Old Dad, the shepherd, had his bed.

"You keep a dog, Doc?"

"I feed every dog that comes to the back door."

"I don't like dogs. They bark."

"Most burglars don't like dogs."

"I ain't no burglar."

"My mistake. I thought you were when I woke up."

"I don't want your money. Nothin' you got, except your know-how. Only you, because you're a doctor." The man chuckled harshly. "We got a job fer you."

Company Releases Accused Workers

MILWAUKEE — (AP) — Two of the eight men forced off the job by fellow workers at the Seaman Body Plant here for alleged pro-Communist leaning are no longer regarded as employees, the company said yesterday.

Five others agreed Wednesday to take 30-day leaves of absence. The eighth, Roy M. Webb, 55, was in poor condition at a hospital with a broken back received when several workers threw him out of the plant Tuesday.

An official of the Nash-Kelvinator subsidiary said Emil Church and John Chaplock, Jr., were automatically off the payroll since they had not reported for work for three days. The official said this three-day rule was in accordance with a long-standing agreement with Local 75 of the CIO United Auto Workers.

Webb, Church and Chaplock signed the so-called Stockholm peace petition as members of the Milwaukee labor peace committee. The other five men, including two of Webb's sons, were listed by the union as supporters of the three signers.

Sunray Planning Modernization

TULSA — Sunray Oil Corp. will rebuild and modernize its Santa Maria, Calif., refinery, portions of which were destroyed by fire in late June, according to announcement here.

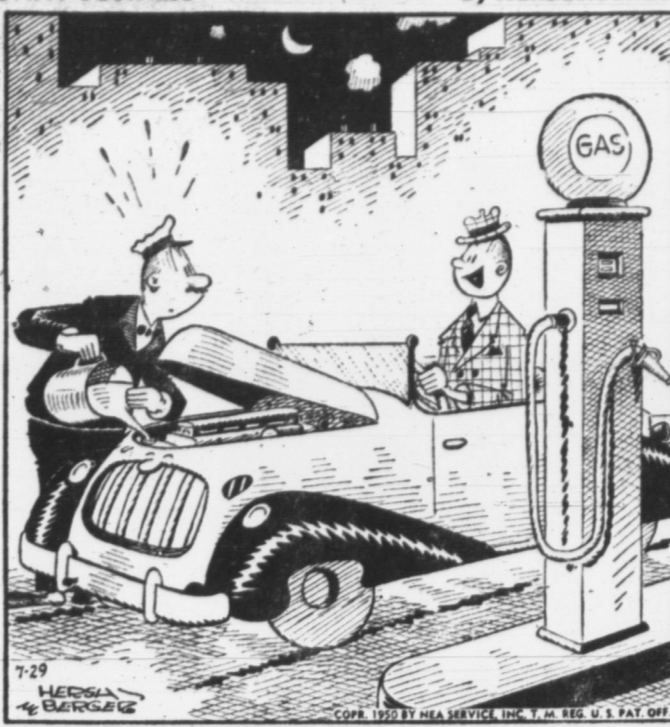

Engineering studies are being made to determine the extent of improvements required to make the plant one of the most modern petroleum asphalt plants on the West Coast. The natural gasoline plant section of the refinery was not appreciably damaged by the fire, but the topping plant along with tanks, pumps, and miscellaneous equipment will be rebuilt. The refinery visbreaker unit was partially destroyed and it will be replaced along with necessary auxiliary equipment.

The plant, with refining capacity of 7,500 barrels of crude oil daily, should be completed in approximately 90 days.

Nobody Likes a Sourpuss, Happy Gloria de Haven Says

By GLORIA YARBROUGH (For Bob Thomas)

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — "If you want to be popular, you've gotta be happy and gay." This from Gloria De Haven, who should know.

Gloria is one of the most sought-after girls in Hollywood, a community loaded with beautiful females. Her date list includes cinematic's most eligible and desirable males.

Just back from a personal appearance in New York, Gloria said she dated Joe Di Maggio there. She arranged their meeting because she is a fan of his. "Nobody likes a sourpuss," she went on. "A sparkling personality is the best asset a girl can have." I was sure that this was one girl who practiced what she preached, for Miss De Haven fairly sparkled.

"Everybody likes people who can smile easily and can bring them a little happiness. That doesn't mean you have to be a comedian. It just means being understanding and having a sense of humor."

"There is nothing more striking than to be around someone who is continually burdened with problems, and who never talks of anything else."

"Of course, everyone likes to have someone they can tell their troubles to once in a while," she smiled. "But is it folly to go around crying on everybody's shoulder?"

"The same thing goes for men," she added. "I don't care about the physical appearance of a man. His personality is much more important to me."

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Query From Canasta Fan

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"I am 79 years old and enjoy Canasta very much," writes a New York correspondent.

"I'll bet I am not your oldest fan, however, I have seen some people playing the game, and they seem to be twice as old as I am!"

In a game the other night the opponent at my right picked up the last card of the stock pile and discarded an eight. It happened that I had a meld of six eights on the table. I wanted to pick up that eight to complete my canasta. The discard pile was fairly large, and I thought that I was entitled to that also.

"My opponent claimed that her discard ended the hand and that I was not allowed to take the discard pile."

"Who is right in this matter?"

I am sorry to say that my young correspondent was perfectly right. She was entitled to pick up the eight to complete her canasta, and she was also entitled to the rest of the discard pile.

When a player draws the last card of the stock, the hand does not necessarily come to an end. It is discarded without having melded out, the next player has a chance at that discard. If you can take that discard with cards that you have on the table you are compelled to take the discard (and the rest of the discard pile). If you can take that discard only by means of cards that you hold in your hand, you may decide whether or not to take it. (This will be the case if the deck is frozen or if you are given a chance to make a completely new meld.)

There is one exception to this rule. If the player who draws the last card of the stock finds that the last card is a red three, he may meld, but is not permitted to discard. After he has finished melding the hand comes to an end then and there.

Q — Are you allowed to put your red three on the table before your first turn to play?

A — There is no penalty for doing so. It is confusing, and sometimes causes players to forget to draw enough cards. The proper procedure is to wait until your turn to play. Then you put down all the red threes you have in your hand.

Your next step is to draw from the stock pile to replace those red threes. When your hand once more contains 11 cards, you are a free agent. Your hand has been replenished and you are at liberty to draw either from the discard pile (assuming you can make the initial meld legally) or from the stock pile.

Q — Are you compelled to ask your partner's permission to meld outside of the Declaration of Intent when you are in a position to do so?

A — No. You are allowed to meld out without asking anyone's permission. If you wish copperplate engraving from the to hear your partner's opinion in original.

Q — What is the origin of the expression "Skid Road" or "Skid Row"?

A. The term originated in the woods country of the Pacific Northwest. A Skid Road is a road on which logs go down to water. Euphemistically, it is a road not a row — on which human beings go down to oblivion.

Q — How long can camels go without water?

A. The one-humped camels of Arabia and northern Africa can live from five to seven days without a drink. The two-humped camels of Central Asia can manage from three to four days with no water. The water is carried inside the stomach, where there are special pouches.

Q — Is the covered bridge of American origin?

A. No. The first in this country was built in Pennsylvania in 1771, but the oldest in the world is in Switzerland.

Q — Do buffalo still roam wild in the United States?

A. In House Rock Valley, Ariz., is the only remaining herd of wild buffalo in the United States. The herd is protected by the state.

Q — How large a crew has the President's yacht, the U. S. S. Williamsburg?

A. It carries a crew of 115 enlisted men and eight officers.

Q — What is the tradition concerning New Year's Day visitors in England?

A. The first New Year's Day visitor in an English home traditionally enters by the front door and leaves by the back door.

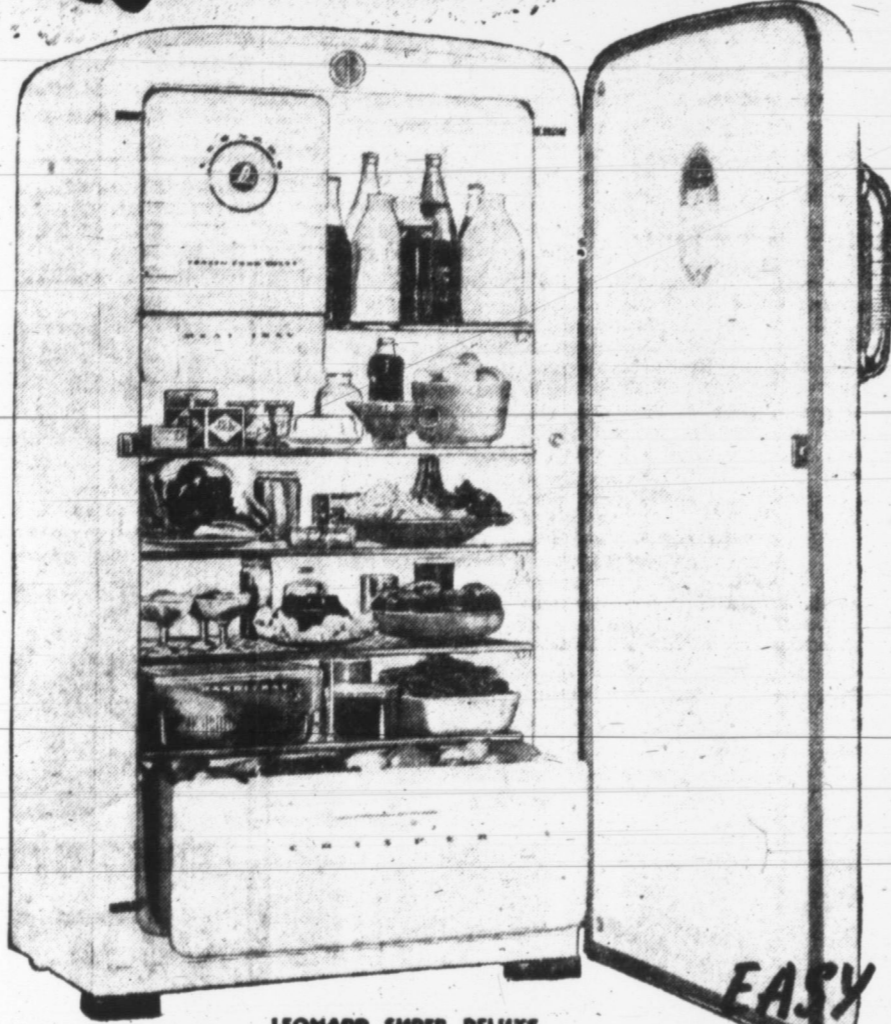

Q — What is the lowest point reached by a railroad in the United States?

A. It is near Salton, Calif., where a railroad, in crossing the Salton "sink" and the Imperial Valley, reaches a depth of 199.2 feet below sea level.

Q — Have any facemasks been produced to meld outside of the Declaration of Intent when you are in a position to do so?

A. In the 1820s the only one was made. It was taken by a body's permission. If you wish copperplate engraving from the to hear your partner's opinion in original.

Soldiers Behind Korea Lines On Sharp Watch for Snipers

By WILLIAM R. MOORE
AN AMERICAN COMMAND POST IN KOREA — This is a disorderly war.
 The soldier behind the lines keeps getting mixed up in the shooting.
 In this revolving, leap-frogging conflict, North Korean Reds made end runs around U.S. positions to strike at American artillery. The enemy twists back American flank positions suddenly with mass assaults. Sneak attacks by infiltrating Reds over a widening area keep the boys at the rear on the alert.
 At least once a divisional command post, normally near a rear installation, has been in front of its fighting troops.
 Keeping artillery behind the infantry troops that normally protect the guns has kept commanders humping in several fast moving situations.
 Soldiers at supply dumps, normally spaced in "safe" areas, have learned to be as alert as front-line troops for the bands of North Korean soldiers or white-garbed guerrillas that swarm out of the hills with no warning until a machinegun sputters or a mortar shell screams and crashes.
 When I left such a dump before noon Wednesday, soldiers were whanging away with rifles and machineguns at what they believed was a sniper on a mountain-side.
 No point between the dump and the real front 15 miles away was considered entirely free of snipers.
 Soldiers aboard all military vehicles on this dusty road scan the mountains on both sides.
 On the first lap of a trip back from a forward command post, a fellow passenger was Cpl. L. A. Gonsauls, 21, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., who came from the front early Wednesday when "mortar shells were flying all around us."
 "For a while I and two others in the outpost thought the others pulled out without us, but pretty soon a lieutenant came along and picked us up," said Gonsauls, who seemed to feel he had a close call.
 The last lap of the trip was by courtesy of two military policemen who already had learned that hunting snipers was a more important part of their duties than directing traffic.
 In the first phase of the fighting, snipers seldom appeared very far in front of the Red columns and usually were believed to be

 Mrs. DeShiro was married when she was 15. DeShiro is a tile worker.
 The war picture will probably change the attitude of the next session, McIlhenny said. He said there probably will be a reshaping of tax laws.

Wheeler Kiwanians Present Program At Pampa Meeting

The Wheeler Kiwanis Club presented State Rep. Grainger McIlhenny as guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Pampa Kiwanis Club Friday.
 McIlhenny recounted several bills which were passed at the last session of the state legislature, and made one or two predictions as to what might be taken up at the next session. He stated that the issues taken up by the law-making body will depend on what the people of Texas want them to take up.
 He pointed out that at the last session, a youth development council was set up to reclaim children that would otherwise go to the reformatory. A budget committee and legal council was appointed to take some of the work off the legislature.
 The war picture will probably change the attitude of the next session, McIlhenny said. He said there probably will be a reshaping of tax laws.
 Included among the Wheeler visitors were Homer Moss, first president of the Wheeler Kiwanis, and Harry Wolford, present head. Also attending were Clyde Mer rit, Thomas Daugherty, and Dr. H. E. Nichols.

 A piano solo was played by Mrs. May Foreman Carr.
 Herman Whitley, president, announced a directors meeting for next Thursday night, and requested that all directors and members who need to make up a meeting attended the session.
 E. L. Henderson, chairman of the inter-club relations committee, was in charge of the program.

France Plans Hike In Air Force Size

PARIS — (AP) — The National Assembly has okayed plans to step France's air force up to 2,500 war planes and 1,500 general service.
 The plan, scheduled to take effect in five years, is expected to cost $110,000,000.
 Defense Minister Jules M. said France is not calling up reserves now, but hinted it might do so later.

Old No Trump Lead Rule Is Ineffective

By OSWALD JACOBY
 Written for NEA Service
 It isn't always easy to pick the most effective opening lead against a no trump contract. It is especially difficult when your partner has not bid anything that would give you a clue to his hand.

Many years ago this was a far simpler matter. You invariably led the fourth highest card in your longest and strongest suit. If such a lead turned out badly, nobody blamed you for it. It was considered bad luck, like having rain on a picnic.
 The hand shown today illustrates how far we have traveled since those hide-bound days. When it was played in a recent duplicate tournament, almost all of the pairs that held the North-South cards reached a contract of six no trump.
 This was a reasonable enough contract. If the spades break normally, four spade tricks can be won. The hand will then depend on developing five tricks in the two red suits. This should not be very difficult.

At a few tables, West happened to be an old-fashioned player. He could see that his strongest suit was hearts. He therefore automatically selected the fourth-highest card in that suit as his opening lead.
 When the three of hearts was the opening lead, South had no trouble. He led the opening lead right up to his hand, tested the spades, and then went after the diamonds. Since almost any way of playing the diamonds would produce three tricks, the slam was easily made. The opening lead gave declarer a trick that he couldn't win by himself; and this was just the little bit of help needed for the success of the contract.

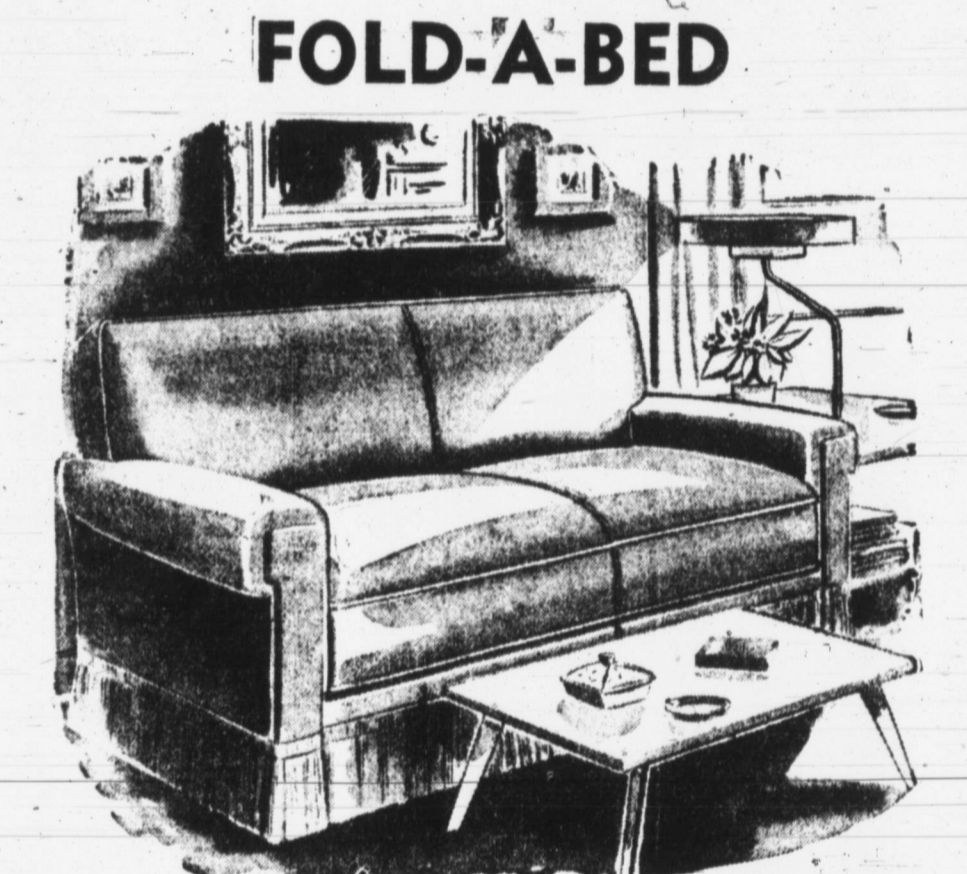

When the West player belonged to the more modern school of thought, the result was quite different. The reasoning of the opening leader went something like this: "No long suit has been mentioned, so it looks as though the slam will depend on high cards. Hence there is no need to hurry about setting up defensive tricks. The best course is to make a safe lead and let declarer take all his own guesses."
 On the basis of this reasoning, the safest opening lead was selected — the ten of clubs.
 Against this opening lead, the South player was practically helpless. True, he might have made his contract by a very abnormal play if he could have seen where all the cards were. Since nobody enjoyed this advantage, the contract was always defeated when the ten of clubs was opened.
 In all these cases declarer won the opening lead with the ace of clubs, cashed the king and ace of spades, and finessed the queen of diamonds. Diamonds were continued, and declarer eventually found himself taking the heart finesse for his 12th trick. When that lost to West's queen, the slam was defeated.

Incidentally, if you're wondering by what abnormal play South might have made his contract, here it is. South wins the opening club and takes another club. He takes the king and ace of spades, and leads the jack of diamonds from dummy. (This is normally the wrong way of tackling the diamonds.)
 East must cover with the king of diamonds, and South takes the queen of diamonds and gives West his ten of diamonds. West must then lead a heart or spade, giving declarer a free finesse. South eventually gets back to dummy to make the nine of diamonds. He wins three clubs, three diamonds, and six tricks in the major suits.
Boston Meat Prices Hit 2-Dollar Mark
 BOSTON — (AP) — Steak at $2 a pound and stew beef at $1.75. Those prices were spotted in the Boston market district yesterday and dealers said it's the public's fault.
 They said shoppers want the more expensive steaks and chops and are willing to pay high prices.
 Buyer resistance could bring those prices down, some dealers said.
 One marketman said club sirloin was $2 a pound and tenderloin was $1.75. Sirloin had sold here at $1.50 for about a month.

B-50 Combat Crews To Train in Texas
 SAN ANTONIO — (AP) — Training of B-50 combat crews will be started at Randolph Air Force Base within the next few days, it was announced.
 The first B-50s arrived yesterday and preparations for the transition training will start at once.
 The bombers arriving over the weekend are bringing cadres of trained crewmen and mechanics to prepare for opening of the school.
 It is expected that the training of crews for the B-50, an improved and more powerful version of the B-29, will be conducted at Randolph several weeks and then moved to Mather AFB, Calif.

Union Official Assails Use of Cheap Labor

DALLAS — (AP) — A labor union official says that "wetback" farm labor sets up unfair competition for American workers.

"You can't create purchasing power in this country by bringing in wetbacks, paying them the wages and then letting them take those wages back to Mexico," J. L. Rhodes, southern director of the American Federation of Labor organization told the closing session of the 11th annual Cotton Research Congress.

11 Red Cross Workers Serve In Korean War

Dr. Douglas Nelson, chairman of the Pampa chapter of the American Red Cross, has received announcement from Gen. George C. Marshall, Red Cross president, that 11 workers including three women, are now on duty with American troops in Korea.

Two more field directors are enroute to the battle zone with combat units. The three women are hospital workers.

Six Strikers Face Charges In Bealings

CASPER, Wyo. — (AP) — Six striking Texas Company workmen were charged yesterday with assault and battery after allegedly beating two company employees and a rate operator near the strike plant.

Deputy County Attorney Albin Stewart filed the charges against J. E. Perkins, J. P. Hancock, Will Hume, Harold L. Eads, W. K. Montgomery and Paul V. Gilbert.

Hollywood's 'Fight Night' Draws Admired, Admirers

By BOB MYERS
(For BOB THOMAS)
HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — The old days are being revived at the famed Hollywood Legion Stadium, a boxing arena where for nearly 30 years movie stars have gathered to be seen and fans flocked into the place to see them.

It has been that way since 1921, when the late grand old character actor, Theodore Roberts, led a drive to build a fight center for the famous folk of Flickerville. And on each Friday night, Hollywood's habitual "fight night at the Legion," the good people cram into the spick and span club — the admired and the admirers — and enjoy a mutual pleasure against a backdrop of sweating boxers and thudding fists.

About two years ago movie star patronage began falling off; probably because the management for some puzzling reason elected to favor others with prominent ring-side seats.
