Kristina's next step: It won't hurt her, but might kill her

Staff Writer

"I don't want her to die - I want her

As she pondered the life - and - death decision she must make about her 4 year - old daughter's bone marrow transplant, a Pampa mother expressed her feelings about the disease which may claim her child's life.

Kristina Ennis has endured a battle of pain against acute lymphocytic leukemia since she was 18 - months old. Now she will have an operation, an operation doctors think can cure her -

or kill her

Krissy is the daughter of Derek and

Carla Ennis, the grandaughter of Barbara and Jim Flemming, and the great - grandaughter of Ruby Flemming, all Pampans

She has three sisters, Amber Dawn, 5, Candice (Kristina's twin) and

The other children really don't understand why Krissy gets so much attention; they don't understand why their mother spends so much time with Treatments for the cancer at the Amarillo Harrington Cancer Center have left little time for attention for the others in the family.

"I really haven't had much time to be with them. Kris would come home with tissue, will have the only surgery toys, and the kids would think being in the hospital is something fun.

Only Kris understands the "fun" she has known during painful treatments. The drugs involved in the child's previous chemotherapy treatments have nearly killed her twice. Sometimes she had as many as three treatments per week, administered through the spine with a long, thin needle while Kristina was fully "I can't watch them do it. It hurts her too much. The doctor has her roll up on her side like a little kitten and sticks the needle into her spine." her mother said. Another treatment the child has known is a bone marrow aspiration.

Tissue was drawn from inside the hip bone through another large needle to check for development of the disease. Again, she was fully conscious while he samples were taken, and once, it required the strength of two adults to ram the needle into her bone marrow. But the next step in Kristina's treatment won't hurt much at all; instead, it may kill her What she is scheduled to undergo sometime within the next two months is a tissue transplant at Houston's M.D.

involved in the process.

It is the procedure prior to the transplant which can kill the Kristina. Kris's cancer - producing bone marrow will be totally destroyed through radiation and chemotherapy drugs. The killing process will be done in isolation to protect her from germs. But since her immune system will also be destroyed, the smallest germ or infection can kill her. "The doctor said there is a 15 to 20 percent chance she will die." Ennis said about destroying Kristina's critical condition Saturday with head injuries sustained in a five - car pile - up east of Pampa on Thursday.

'The child is very critical," a spokesman for Northwest Texas Hospital said Saturday evening.

The spokesman would not comment on the possibility of any permanent damage from the injuries The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Just of Enid, suffered a severe concussion when the car she was riding in smashed head - on into a pickup on U.S. Highway 60 at about 7 p.m. Thursday. Her aunt, Jana Kay Vaughn Brown, 21, of 2506 Mary Ellen, was killed instantly in that wreck. Brown was driving westbound in the eastbound lane of the highway about three and one half miles east of Pampa, according to DPS trooper Johnny Carter, and struck an eastbound Ford pickup driven by Albert

Goolsby, 44, of Gilmer The two vehicles came to rest in the center of the highway, and ten minutes later, a 1981 Mercury driven by Irvin Wayne Barber, 25, of Canadian, hit the rear of

That collision was the first in a chain reaction.

Two - year - old Janella Just of Enid, Okla. was still in Barber's car traveled 300 feet and hit a 1981 Oldsmobile driven by B.C. Marlin of Porter, which in turn spun off the road and hit a legally parked 1979 Mercury whose driver had reportedly stopped to aid the victims of the first collision.

Six other people were injured in the multi - vehicle

Bobby Kell, 30, of Oklahoma City, a passenger in Barber's car, was treated and released Friday from Coronado Community Hospital with broken ribs and a compression fracture of the spine.

A hospital spokesman said Kell's spinal injury was not serious and may have been an old injury.

Barber was not injured in the wreck, according to investigators, and was booked for driving while intoxicated soon after the incident by state troopers. He is free on $1,500 bond set by Justice of the Peace

Margie Prestidge. Goolsby and his passengers, Ferlin Goolsby, 20, and Justin Goolsby, 18, and B.C. Marlin and his wife Decima were treated and released from Coronado Community

The tragedy is not over yet. Two - year - old Janella Just, of Enid, Okla. was still listed in critical condition Saturday evening at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo from head injuries she suffered when this car. driven by Jana Kaye Vaughn Brown of Pampa, collided

She's still waiting for her windows

By TOM ALLSTON State Editor

A 69 - year - old Pampa woman is still waiting for her storm windows

"He came around several times after I signed the contract," she said of the man who has disappeared with almost $2500 of her money. "One time he said the windows much as $1,000 more than it should be for the work promised, came in and they were the wrong size. Then he said he subcontracted the job, and the contractor lost the windows."

It all began in March, when the woman - a widow who lives alone - was approached by the man selling installed storm windows

"He had a book of samples, showing what was available," she told the News. "I selected what I wanted, and signed the contract.

What the salesman did not have was a local address: the contract lists the address of a woman who reportedly was the man's stepdaughter. His business card shows an Amarillo address. The contract bears only a company name and the names of several cities.

Local telephone listings no longer carry the woman named

Amarillo telephone listings no longer carry the business Of the cities named on the contract, most have no such listing. In two Southern cities, there is a company by the name shown: it has nothing to do with storm windows.

The contract has two other anamolies: one paragraph states that the contract offer may be withdrawn by the company unless signed in three days. And the price appears substantially too high — perhaps as compared to a rough estimate by a local dealer in storm

"I didn't even think about those things," she said, adding that one of her sons pointed out the suspicious features when he saw the contract later.

The man's apparent sincerity in trying to get the windows kept her from reporting the situation until she was convinced that he had left town...and until she learned that the Amarillo telephone listed on the card was no longer in

"He kept saying that he was calling the main office in Lubbock, to try to get it straightened out," she explained. 'He said that several times.'

There is no listing in Lubbock for the company. The Anarillo Better Business Bureau, contacted by the News, showed the company as "locally run, having zero emplaints "The Dallas BBB had no record of the company. (see Windows on page 2)

Kristina to Houston last week and was ready for the operation then, but doctors sent them home to give Carla more time to think about the possible consequences and to conduct more tissue - matching tests.

She must give the doctor her decision in two weeks, but the mother thinks she has little choice

'They said there was a 99 percent chance she would not stay in remission (with standard treatment). I guess she would eventually die." she said.

For that reason. Ennis feels she must go ahead with the risky transplant. Before the operation, the mother must be interviewed by a Houston medical board to see if she really understands the procedure and if she is gnotionally able to go through with it. "It's hard taking her down there to put her in for that and not know if she will ever come out," she said. It also has been difficult to explain things to a 4 - year - old. The child does not know she may die

."I told her, 'Amber's blood is healthy, -yours is sick. If we give you Amber's blood, you can be well.

"She is so proud - she tells everybody Amber's blood matches

"Amber was glad to know she is fing to be asleep because Kris told her t hurts. Amber was scared," their mother said.

She said the trip to the houston hospital made Kris feel better.

'She saw all of the kids with IVs and no hair, and it made her feel more comfortable. I told her we would be in the hospital a long time this time. I told her this would be all, no more treatments. Ennis said the news of her daughter's leukemia hurt more the second time than when it was first diagnosed. She said after the disease disappeared and went into remission for nearly two years, she thought her daughter was

But after her granmmother took her in for a routine checkup last October. while Ennis worked, the doctor called her with the bad news.

"He called me at work and said 'I think she has had a relapse.' I said, What do you mean, YOU THINK?!" she said.

"The first time I talked to her on the phone she was crying so hard, I told her, 'Don't you come over here until you stop that," grandma Barbara Flemming said.

The mother said she tries not to cry in front of Kris, but sometimes it is

'She's been stuck so many times (with IVs), sometimes they have to jab and iab and iab, until they can find a vein. It hurts her, and she cries, and I cry too," Ennis said.

She said she was not very religious

Acting on information supplied by the woman and her son, local authorities are investigating the situation, in an effort to locate the missing salesman. Until he is found or the company located, the Pampa woman has only a loan from a local bank for nearly $2,500, taken to pay for the work - a loan which must be repaid. But she has no storm windows.

Discussion of the subject now brings a lengthy pause That is hard for me. I pray. I ask before her daughter's illness.

that she doesn't have to be sick anymore." Ennis said. "I never thought she would die - I don't know why - she could. She has been so bad, you wouldn't think she would come back, but she always has "I don't want her to die. I want to be with her forever. I don't know how you cope with that - I know I couldn't," she Though the child has qualified for medicaid, her mother said she has no idea how all of Kris's medical expenses will be paid. She said the bills will probably total over $100,000

"One hospital bill alone was over $20,000," Ennis said. A fund to help pay the child's expenses to Houston for the treatments has been established at Citizen's Bank and Trust here. Pampans have donated more than $5,000 to the fund so far. Employees of the Nugget Club held a benefit dance for the child and donated all tips to the family and passed the hat amoung customers. Employees of Ingersoll - Rand kicked in more than $1,000 And Pampa auctioneer Dale Vespestand is planning an auction for the child's expenses. He asks anyone with goods to donate to call him at 665 -Kris's entire family is thrilled over the support. "Thank you does cannot even express how we feel - it's just not enough to express it," Flemming said. When we told Kris how much money people have given her to go to Houston, she just beamed," Ennis added.

OLD MOBEETIE - There's no hype, no smooth commentary, no carnival-barker bombastics...nothing to distract from what everybody came for:

Friday night the vanguard of an expected 2,000-3,000 bluegrass music lovers were on hand for the first of three days of the annual Blue Grass Old Tyme Music Festival.

On a stage erected in the shadow of the oldest jail in the Panhandle, band after bluegrass band from all over the area came to pick and sing the country's most natural music

"Jack, kick this one off for us. "I can't: I don't know it yet. "Sure you do: da - da - da - da hhh.

"Oh, that one? Yeah, I'll kick it off." Campers and tents ring the festival area. Some spectators came hundreds of miles: several hundred have arrived for

Under a pavilion next to the stage, the Mobeetie Volunteer Fire Department hawks concessions: burgers, soft drinks, nachos "with or without meat," homemade ice cream at two dips for half a dollar

The music - well, that's what it's all about: the music. Players may be teenagers or "old timers." Tunes range from the classic and traditional to modern compositions.

And for sure, where else can you sit in the mild Texas twilight and relive the joys of Rockytop, hear the sad tale of a lecherous fellow ripped off by Rocky Mountain Wine, or ponder the sad demise of Johnson's Old Gray Mule? 'I don't know if I can bray in A...but I guess I'll try.

The Mobeetie festival is in its third year. Sponsored by the Old Tyme Music Association — many of whom are bluegrass musicians — it draws spectators from throughout the state to Old Mobeetie.

This year's attendance might reach as high as 5,000 according to coordinator Bob Stevens of Mobeetie.

Once a thriving city with "13 or 14 saloons," according to Panhandle historian and OMA president Sallie Harris of Wheeler, the town was bypassed again and again by the railway, lost its army fort, and today consists of the old jail and a few residences, a mile south of the present town of

But once a year it swells up again, with visitors and memories and pride. And Bluegrass.

Problem: how to stop a farmer from planting crops on his land

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration and farm belt House members, trying to bolster market prices driven down by past record harvests, are locked in a dispute over how to convince farmers to curtail 1983

The nation's grain farmers are facing their third straight year of declining income because last year's record harvests built up multibillion-bushel surpluses and because the stagnant domestic and global economies have dampened demand. The House Agriculture grains subcommittee has endorsed a plan that increases price support loan rates and provides direct federal payments to wheat and corn farmers idling some of their land next year.

Non-partisan elections no better, says lawyer

DALLAS (AP) - An Austin lawyer says changing Texas' system for selecting state judges would not put better judges on the bench.

Randall "Buck" Wood told a special committee Friday the non-partisan election of judges would in most cases make things worse.

Changing from partisan to non-partisan or "merit" selection systems, Wood said, would not reduce "so-called political influences.'

He said money would probably have a greater impact on non-partisan

Wood said one complaint against the partisan system of electing judges is that it "is subject to being subverted by a person who has a popular or Court seat in 1976, with many political analysts attributing his victory to the similarity of his name to former Democratic candidates for governor and the U.S. Senate.

Yarbrough later resigned from the court and was convicted on a felony charge of perjury and sentenced to five years in prison. He has not yet started serving time.

"I believe that the only real complaint lodged against the present system are that Democrats are being beaten in Dallas and Harris counties by Republicans and that a Republican candidate for Supreme Court was beaten by a Democrat in 1980," Wood

"The Democrats do not like the situation in Dallas and Houston, and the Republicans do not like the situation statewide," said Wood.

The search for a third boy, age 9, was called off Friday after the youth apparently crossed the Rio Grande into Mexico, authorities said. The 13-year-old and a 16-year-old, who police said they believe was the triggerman, were arrested at a house in this

Medina County Sheriff Donald Campsey said Manue Alvarado, 52, was shtt and killed in a roadside park about 120 miles north of Laredo and then three youths fled in the victim's car. He said witnesses gave investigators the name of the 16-year-old Laredo youth.

The 16-year-old had a record with Laredo police, said Campsey. When authorities went to his home Friday morning, they found and arrested the 13-year-old Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, boy.

Campsey said the boy told detectives the murder weapon was hidden in the house. When police returned that afternoon, they arrested the 16-year-old boy but did not find a

"They are not good news at all," Campsey said. "They are all pretty steet-wise, especially the 13-year-old. He's the toughest 13-year-old I've ever come across.'

The youngest teen-ager, who was paroled a month ago from the Texas Youth Council where he was held on a charge of stealing a bicycle at knifepoint, tried to escape Friday by climbing out a window and then overpowering a woman guard, said Texas Ranger Al Cuellar.

The woman grabbed the teen, who hit her, ran down a hall and "tried to fly through a plate glass door" before he was overpowered, said Mauro Luna, Webb County assistant chief iuvenile probation officer.

Cuellar said Alvarado of San Antonio was en route to Monterey, Mexico, to visit his wife, who was scheduled to be discharged from a hospital Friday.

Cuellar and Campsey transported the 16-year-old back to Medina County late Friday. Cuellar said the youth would appear before a justice of the peace Friday night and would be charged as an adult with capital murder. Cuellar said the 13-year-old was left in the custody of Laredo juvenile detention officers. He said authorities would seek to send the youth back to the Texas Youth Council. where he would remain until his 18th birthday.

Under Texas law, a youth younger than 15 cannot be certified as an adult and cannot be held in juvenile detention past age 18.

Police searched for the 9-year-old on foot and in "a helicopter. The boy is the brother of the youngest teen-ager. Authorities declined to release the names of the youths.

"He probably will not be charged anyway," Campsey said. 'It looks like he did not participate in the killing." Witnesses told investigators three boys were waiting at the roadside park 30 miles south of San Antonio at about 4 a.m. when Alvarado arrived, said Campsey. "He walked into the restroom and witnesses heard two or Carter was driving on Stemmons Freeway to catch a private plane at Love Field when he was stricken, police said. He parked his car on the side of the freeway and was spotted by a patrol officer, who flagged down a fire "department vehicle to transport Carter to nearby Parkland Memorial Hospital.

A hospital spokesman, Dr. Ron Anderson, said Carter died in the emergency room

At the time of his death, Carter was publisher and board chairman of the newspaper, which was founded by his father, Amon G. Carter.

"Amon Carter Jr., and his father before him, was an institution in Fort Worth synonymous with the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and the hopes and aspirations of this city." said Executive Editor Jack B. Tinsley.

"His loss to the newspaper is irreplaceable. To a large segment of this city and Tarrant County, Amon Carter Jr. was Mr. Star-Telegram," he said.

Carter, who was born Dec. 23, 1919, began his newspaper career at age 10 as a paperboy with the Star-Telegram. He worked his way through several

In 1946, Carter was named a director and treasurer of Carter Publications Inc., which owned the Star-Telegram, as well as WBAP radio and television in Fort Worth.

Carter became publisher after his father's death on June 23, 1955. He retained the publisher's post after the newspaper and the radio stations were sold to Capital Cities Communications Inc. in 1975. He was a director of Capital Cities at the time of his death.

House Majority Leader Jim

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me
This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that. they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Some people might have thought that the election of Ronald Reagan would change the way that members of congressional armed service committees, by odd and excessively expensive coincidence, commonly spend the money they appropriate in their own home districts.

Such people have little faith in the durability of hallowed congressional traditions.

Back in 1981, when the fiscal year military construction bill was being considered, the House Armed Services Committee added $145.5 million over and above what the president requested. Of that total, $72.3 million was for projects in the

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN However one feels about the latest crisis in the Middle East, reactions to it

It is noteworthy, for example, that the hard Left in the United States has lined up behind the Palestine Liberation Organization. This was evidenced in a recent full - page advertisement in The New York Times inserted by the "Ad Hoc Committee in Defense Of the Palestinian and Lebanese People." The advertisement bitterly condemned the United States for supplying weapons to Israel.

Among the signers of the ad were veteran leftists, including the Berrigan brothers, priests who have fought draft registration; Richard Barnet, head of the notoriously leftist Institute For Policy Studies; Julian Bond, the Gerogia legislator - demonstrator;

Propaganda gambits

Noam Chomsky, the MIT professor who has compared the U.S. with Nazi Germany; William Kunstler, the radical lawyer who defends communists; and I.F. Stone, long time leftist writer and editor.

It's interesting that many of the people involved in support of the PLO also have been active in the campaign for a nuclear freeze and in opposition to the U.S. effort to preserve El Salvador from a communist takeover.

In the Middle East protest, as in the El Salvador and nuclear freeze campaigns, the basic aim is to weaken the foreign policy and strategic position of the United States.

The Palestine Liberation Organization is a terrorist gang devoted to the destruction of Israel. The PLO is more skilled at blowing up school buses than in making its case in international forums. Furthermore, the PLO is a Soviet client, beholden to Soviet aims and goals in the Middle

The agitation over the attacks on the PLO is a reminder that the hallmark of the liberal - left conscience is selective indignation. The same people who protest the bombing of West Beirut had little or nothing to say about PLO atrocities, or Soviet genocide in Afghanistan.

This type of reaction is nothing new. In the 1950s, the Left condemned France for its presence in Algeria, but saw no evil in the extinguishing of an ancient civilization on the Chinese mainland by Chinese communists.

In the early 1960s, the radical left accused European colonial powers of "imperialism" in Africa and Asia while hailing a new breed of third World tyrants as liberators.

In the early 1970s, the United States was berated for approving the counter revolution in Chile against the Marxist regime. At the same time, the Left downplayed the role of Cuba as a Soviet surrogate in Angola, Yemen and Liberal - Left protests have a long history of careful stage - management. They are artificial and designed to weaken the United States and its allies.

One is reminded of the orchestration of protests against the American bombing of Hanoi and of the privileged sanctuaries used by communist forces in Vietnam. Many U.S. campuses were plunged into chaos by the use of skillfully directed hysteria.

The Left protests are facilitated by the willingness of the electronic media to be manipulated and used as transmission belts for propaganda. That was demonstrated most strongly in the Vietnam War, when television became a prime instrument for promoting defeatism and confusion in the United States.

Television also allowed itself to be used in the recent agitation over El Salvador. CBS, in particular, never missed an opportunity to make the U.S. look bad in connection with El Salvador.

The crisis in the Falkland Islands deflected television's involvement with the nuclear freeze campaign. We haven't heard the last of that, however. The nuclear freeze groups will be back in force before the fall elections.

Truly, we live in an age of propaganda.

The Pampa City Commission is currently considering an animal control ordinance prepared by the City Attorney. Although this ordinance uses similar phrasing and occasionally quotes from the sample ordinance presented to the commission two months ago, I consider the City Attorney's proposal inadequate and unresponsive to the public need.

Among other omissions, the proposed ordinance: (1) does not prohibit inhumane treatment of animals, (2) does not define a vicious dog or provide for its humane capture, (3) does not declare habitually barking dogs a public nuisance, and (4) does not provide minimum fines for violation of the ordinance. I believe that the health and safety of the public would not be served by this proposal. The City Commission should take another look at the

Our pets were all "dumped" on us by uncaring people who never loved a dog, and we took them in. We feed, bathe, groom, and love all of them the love they return to us a hundredfold. They have had all their shots, the females have been spayed, and a multivitamin a piece each day keeps their coats in great condition. They are the next best thing to children; since we have none, our little pets are our children.

We own our home here in Pampa, we pay taxes on it, and I feel that it is our right to care for our pets without the city telling us how many, what kind we can have, etc. It makes me wonder provisions for the pets instead of everything against them. I doubt that any of the committee members ever really loved a pet! Let all of us who have pets take better care of them, so that we will not offend the tender sensitivities of the Committee for Better Animal

Our sincere thanks to City Attorney Don Lane for his revision of the control ordinance, which finally puts the stamp of legality on our rights as pet owners in the City of Pampa.

Invasion of privacy

By ART BUCHWALD

"All right class, Journalism 105 will come to order. Today we will deal with invasion of privacy, which is one of the most important lessons you will have to learn if you wish to succeed in your profession. First, why should the media invade someone's privacy?"

"Because everybody likes to read about it, or see it on TV.

"I can see where you would arrive at that answer but it is not necessarily the correct one. We invade someone's privacy because their conduct may affect the public good. Does anyone have any examples where the press has contributed to the people's right to

"I do, sir. When Elizabeth Taylor separated from John Warner.'

'That's a good example. Why was this an important story?'

"Because John Warner was a United Sttes senator, and Miss Taylor's departure could have affected Mr. Warner's performance as a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee.'

"Correct. If Miss Taylor had separated from singer Eddie Fisher to marry actor Richard Burton, would it have been a news story? "No, sir. That would be considered gossip and no one would want to read about it." "Fine. Now let us take the case of Sophia Loren, who went to jail in Naples for not paying her taxes. Why was this newsworthy? "It showed the Italian people that no one was above the law.

"Then the idea of Miss Loren, one of the most beautiful women in the world, going to jail was not a news story in itself."

"No, sir. It only became a public matter when her taxes were involved." "Now let's deal with a hypothetical case. Someone is giving a lavish party to honor Mrs. Jackie Onassis. The hostess announces that the press will not be allowed to cover it. What do you "You try to crash it?"

"What a beastly idea, Waters. The ethical thing to do is to stand on the sidewalk and hope that someone leaving the party will talk to you. If this doesn't work, you go back to your editor and tell him you can't write anything about the party.

"Won't he get mad at me?" "He may for the moment. But in the long run he'll respect you for not going to a party where you were not invited.'

"Professor, suppose I have a hot story and the guy I'm after won't talk to me on the phone. Do I climb into his window and try to catch him unawares? "You do not. A man's home is his castle, and if he doesn't want to talk about his troubles you owe him a 'No Comment.'" "I have a question, sir. I'm planning to go into photography. Suppose ‡ see Bo Derek topless on the beach, and I have a telescopic lense. Do I shoot the "No. That would be invading her privacy. What you should do is shout to her that you have film in your camera, and ask her to cover herself up so you won't embarrass her. "Suppose I'm working in TV and am ordered to stake out the house of someone who has just been indicted for a big white - collar crime. What do I do if he refuses to be interviewed on television?"

"You turn off your cameras and report to your producer that the peron did not want to be questioned.' "Shouldn't I film his neighbors and his wife?"

"That would not be cricket, as people who are not directly involved tend to exaggerate and make things up.' "Professor, have you ever worked on a newspaper or for television?" "I can't say that I have. I much prefer to teach journalism so I can prepare students for when they go out into the real world."

U.S. and Soviets hold secret talks

United States and the Soviet Union have just concluded unpublicized talks in Moscow about the possibility of a *political solution to the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan, The New York Times reported today

Quoting administration officials in Washington, the -Times said there was no full report on the discussions, but there did not appear to be any breakthrough that would lead to withdrawal of about 100,000 Soviet troops now in Afghanistan.

Jack says Ron fabricates, but is not a liar, and Ron says Jack said it, which isn't true, but is it a lie?

Slover said he has never attacked Hightower personally.

Webster's Dictionary says he called him a liar, but Congressman Jack Hightower disagrees.

His opponent in the November general election, Amarillo Republican Ron Slover says it sounds like "liar" to him, and he thinks it amounts to a personal attack.

What the men battling for the 13th District seat to U.S. Congress were arguing semantics about is a news release issued Thursday by Hightower's campaign chairman Bob

The news release says Slover's recent statements that Hightower opposes an amendment to the constitution requiring a balanced federal budget are "deliberate distortions and complete fabrications.

Hightower was questioned about the release issued by his campaign manager. Does use of the word "fabrication" mean Slover is a liar?"

Well, some people think a word is a synonym for another word, but I don't always agree it is," the Congressman said.

"I am not going to talk about my opponent at all," Hightower said Webster says fabrication means "the invention of something calculated to deceive, a falsehood" and fabricator as "one that invents a false statement or commits forgery: liar, forger.' Slover said, "It sure sounds like it to me," when he was asked if he believed Davis' release labeled him a liar. "I think it is a personal attack. It is amazing that an incumbent would make a personal attack against a

'Doesn't fabrication mean lie?" he was asked.

"I talk about his voting record, facts - that's the difference," the challenger said.

The information released by the campaign manager Thursday also says: "Slover exhibited a remarkable lack of knowledge of the facts when he claimed Hightower was opposed to a balanced federal budget and to a proposal for such an amendment to the United States Constitution

"He is a co - sponsor of H.J.R. 350 which is a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution. Slover attended the same rally on the Capitol steps last Monday that Congressman Hightower did and Slover knows his statements are totally inaccurate," Davis said.

The release also accuses Slover of a "smear campaign" and says the Republican foe has a "continuing credibility

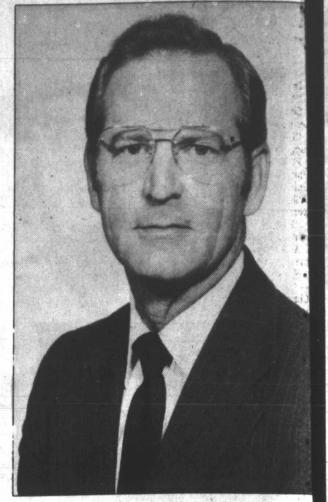

Slover said "I sure did" make the claim of Hightower's opposition to a balanced budget amendment, which would force Congress by the "law of the land" to balance the budget each year, with few provisions for deficits.

The Amarillo Republican says the first he knew of Hightower's support of the amendment was when he saw him at President Reagan's Washington rally announcing Reagan's support of the amendment.

Slover said he said "hello" to his Democratic opponent, and Hightower "nodded his head" but said nothing in reply.

Slover said his claim of Hightower's opposition to the budget amendment was broadcast in radio spots before the Washington rally.

He said Friday the radio commercials were accurate to his knowledge at the time of their broadcast.

Staff Writer

Is the Rev. Mary French the only woman pastor in town? "Yes, I'm it," she said with a smile. She smiles a lot, because she is a happy person, happy with her work and with her direction in life. "It's just the natural thing to do. I know I am where I'm supposed to be," she said.

French began June 1 as the new pastor of the Harrah United Methodist Church, 639 S. Barnes, and the Mobeetie United Methodist Church.

•She said she has had no problems being accepted in her

"I have been recognized very well as a woman in the ministry. Both churches have accepted me with open arms." And although she is one of a minority, her choice to go into the ministry was a personal one, not political.

- French is not an advocate or a critic of women's liberation "I have no hang - ups either way on that... When Jesus Christ came on this earth, he liberated women. Each person is special to the Lord," she said.

The political movement's beliefs don't apply to her own life, she said, "because my duty in this world is bringing people to the Lord."

The number of women entering the Methodist ministry has increased in the past decade, and now one - third of Methodist seminary students are women.

French said the Methodist church now encourages women to go into the field. "In fact, we had several women ordained at the last conference in June in Amarillo," she said.

For her, she said, the choice was made only ago after her children were grown, and that choice was not her own. For her, she said, the choice was made only a few years

She began her study for the work then, she said, because The Lord impressed me that it was what I was supposed to

"I can only speak as an individual, but maybe the other women in the Methodist ministry felt the same thing," she

The work comes natural to her. French is the descendant f two generations of Methodist preachers: her father, Rev. amuel A. Thomas, and her maternal grandfather, Rev.

Sisk was a "circuit rider," a preacher traveling on orseback to cowboy camps and towns in the Abilene and Plainview areas.

Thomas preached during the days when the Methodist church required a minister to move from one church to the next every four years.

He served in many churches in the Panhandle and South Plains areas, and was very active in the Northwest Texas

He also oversaw the construction of the Mobeetie Methodist Church, where his daughter now ministers. "Lots of people around here remember my dad," French

French was born in a Methodist parsonage in Dolson. The move to Pampa came easy to French, because she is familiar with this area from her childhood.

She grew up "all over," and "loved it," she said. "I couldn't wait to see what the next parsonage was like." French said she had no problem as a child when the time came to move on, because "I loved people, liked meeting people... In a way, it prepared me for the ministry of the

And her family made up for some of the separations she went through. "We were very close - knit," she said. "We

French spent her high school years in Dalhart, then married Don French, a Southwestern Public Service

Her husband's work entailed a lot of travel, but Mrs. French was accustomed to that. The couple raised three children, Linda, Gary and Karl.

When the kids left home, French first decided on a career in real estate, and trained at Amarillo Junior College to prepare for it

She still holds a real estate broker's license. "There's good money in real estate," she said, "but the Lord didn't intend She heard her call to religious service then, and went back to school, at South Plains Junior College in Levelland for her first courses toward the ministry.

After further courses at Trinity Bible Institute at Lubbock and Northern Pioneer College in Holbrook, Ariz., she completed her requirements for a pastor's license at McMurry College in Abilene.

There was little discomfort for her in any of her schooling, even though she was the only woman in her Abilene course. "I love school. I love anything to do with education, teaching or preaching," she said. She has never had an urge to teach, however, but she said "when you preach, there's a fine line between teaching and

In the weeks since she was appointed to the Harrah and Mobeetie churches, she has had plenty of opportunity for French's schedule now includes six sermons a week. On Sundays, she delivers them at 9 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. in Mobeetie, and at 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. in Pampa, plus two children's sermons for the worship services.

Called to duty

During the rest of the week, she spends several hours of "concentrated study and prayer" preparing each sermon, a few hours each day visiting prospective members and hospital patients, counsels church members, works on new church projects, and attends meetings. Saturday's her day off.

Needless to say, she has little time to visit her husband, who works as a line supervisor out of Lubbock for Southwestern Public Service.

French said he is "very delighted and very supportive" of her new career, and does manage to see her occasionally.

"He comes up on the weekends on his motorcycle." she

She said she is unusual because she has two parsonages, one in Pampa and one in Mobeetie. She divides her week between the two, about half - and - half.

Her heavy work schedule has paid off. Since she has been pastoring the two churches, the Harrah congregation has tripled in size and the Mobeetie church has more than

Her most important priority now is reaching younger adults and children, she said. French has built up congregations from a wide range of age groups, but, she said, more needs to be done.

Under French's guidance, a movement has begun in both churches for more community involvement.

She said she is looking for the "special needs" of the community of each church, and planning church activities to serve those needs.

"When the church is involved, the members get involved... that's what it takes." she said.

Her main work, she said, will be "first and always preaching the Gospel," she said.

She said she has never been held back from doing the Lord's work because she is a woman.

In fact, she said she may have an advantage over some ministers because of her experience as a wife and mother, particularly in counseling work.

"I think the Lord has given a woman a kind of discernment - maybe that sixth sense, you could say."

Her own plans, she said, are to "serve the Lord as long as

Dismantling an organized crime family in Cleveland

By-BRIAN TUCKER Associated Press Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) - For years the Cleveland mob tried to kill a brash racketeer named Danny Greene, whose gambling, narcotics and prostitution enterprises on Cleveland's west side were cutting into organized crime profits.

Greene finally died in a car bomb blast in 1977, but his death was the beginning of the end for a long-time Cleveland crime family, the FBI now says. Six men face up to 20 years in prison after their convictions earlier this month on federal racketeering charges stemming from the murder.

The day before the convictions were returned, seven other men authorities say are tied to the family's drug operation were named in a 74-count

Between the convictions and these indictments (if they also result in convictions), we have virtually taken out the entire leadership of an organized crime family, from top to bottom," said Joseph Griffin, special agent-in-charge of the Cleveland FBI office.

For the government, the big prize was the conviction of James "Jack White" Licavoli, 77, who FBI agents say is the head of Cleveland's organized crime family.

Also convicted on July 8 were labor leader Anthony Liberatore, John P. Calandra and Ronald Carabbia - each described by the FBI as a "capo regima," or captain in the family. Convicted, too, were Kenneth Ciarcia and Pasquale "Butchie"

Until then, Licavoli had never been convicted of a major crime in a career that the FBI says started during Prohibition when he was a member of the Detroit's Purple Gang, a group of bootleggers and FBI officials gave the following account of the Greene slaying.

The family wanted Greene "taken out," and after several unsuccessful attempts, hired Ray Ferritto. a hit man from Erie, Pa. Ferritto traveled to the Cleveland area for meetings with Licavoli, Calandra, Carabbia, Cisternino, and others.

Ferritto and Carabbia carried out the job successfully on Oct. 6, 1977, but the family, taking no chances, also brought in Louis "Little Tony" Aratari and Ronald "Vic" Guiles as a backup team They were to shoot Greene if they had the chance and five other men were convicted last case (AP Laserphoto)

James T. Licavoli, the man the week of racketeering. He is followed by government claims led organized crime defense attorneys (left behind Licavoli's back) Ralph Sperli and Angelo Lonardo, who defended other men charged in the

Along with hot temperatures, mid summer in Texas may bring special lawn problems - drought, weeds, insects and disease

These lawn problems can cause concerns for homeowners unless accurate diagnosis and proper treatment takes place before they become severe

Dry spots, thin turf and weeds can result from improper watering, fertilizing and mowing practices. follow recommended cultural practices before applying a chemical to correct lawn

Drought stress most often occurs in mid - summer and shows up as wilted, discolored turf. Adjust watering schedules to wet the soil to a depth of four to six inches, and water only when grass shows symptoms of moisture

Also, raise mowing heights one - half inch to improve drought tolerance in mid - summer

Lack of nitrogen or iron often creates a lawn problem. Grass with a nitrogen deficience may have a pale color and be heavily infested with weeds. A light application of a nitrogen fertilizer will improve the lawn's appearance.

Grass leaves that have yellow stripes parallel to the leaf margins may be deficient in iron. An application of iron sulfate or iron chelate at six ounces per 1,000 square fee will usually solve this problem.

Leaf spot diseases are generally a problem when lawns are under stress and increase with high temperatures, drought, heavy shade and close mowing. While proper mowing and watering will reduce these problems. fungicides may be required to prevent serious damage.

White grubs feed heavily on lawns during mid - summer, and their damage resembles drought injury. If turf does not respond to applications of water, suspect white grubs. White grubs can be controlled with insecticides.

Homeowners in Gray County will need to treat during the first half of August. Timing of application is critical for adequate control.

White grubs in excessive numbers can heavily damage lawns. Check for white grubs by cutting a square foot section of sod with a shovel and examining the roots and soil to a depth

Diazinon or Dursban pre adequate control and should be use recommended rates given on chemical container label. The granu. form is easier to apply and to wash in the soil than liquid or spray formulations. After using granules, drag the grass with a tow sack or water hose to knock them down to the soil. Then apply enough water to soak the granules into the soil. Apply diazinon sprays at the rate of 25 gallons of water, including the insecticide, per 1,000 square feet to wash the insecticide into the soil. Wetting the lawn before spraying also helps. Always keep children and pets off the treated lawn until the grass is

The key to white grub control in home lawns is proper timing of chemical applications and getting the insecticide through the grass to the root zone where grubs are feeding.

Dismantling an organized crime family in Cleveland

By-BRIAN TUCKER

Associated Press Writer CLEVELAND (AP) - For years the Cleveland mob tried to kill a brash racketeer named Danny Greene, whose gambling, narcotics and prostitution enterprises on Cleveland's west side were cutting into organized crime profits.

Greene finally died in a car bomb blast in 1977, but his death was the beginning of the end for a long-time Cleveland crime family, the FBI now says. Six men face up to 20 years in prison after their convictions earlier this month on federal racketeering charges stemming from the murder.

The day before the convictions were returned, seven other men authorities say are tied to the family's drug operation were named in a 74-count federal indictment.

"Between the convictions and these indictments (if they also result in convictions), we have virtually taken out the entire leadership of an organized crime family, from top to bottom," said Joseph Griffin, special agent-in-charge of the Cleveland FBI office.

For the government, the big prize was the conviction of James "Jack White" Licavoli, 77, who FBI agents say is the head of Cleveland's organized crime family.

Also convicted on July 8 were labor leader Anthony Liberatore, John P. Calandra and Ronald Carabbia - each described by the FBI as a "capo regima," or captain in the family. Convicted, too, were Kenneth Ciarcia and Pasquale "Butchie"

Until then, Licavoli had never been convicted of a major crime in a career that the FBI says started during Prohibition when he was a member of the Detroit's Purple Gang, a group of bootleggers and

FBI officials gave the following account of the

The family wanted Greene "taken out," and after several unsuccessful attempts, hired Ray Ferritto, a hit man from Erie, Pa. Ferritto traveled to the Cleveland area for meetings with Licavoli, Calandra, Carabbia, Cisternino, and others.

Ferritto and Carabbia carried out the job successfully on Oct. 6, 1977, but the family, taking no chances, also brought in Louis "Little Tony" Aratari and Ronald "Vic" Guiles as a backup team. They were to shoot Greene if they had the chance

James T. Licavoli, the man the government claims led organized crime activity in Cleveland, walks back to court during his recent 10 - week trial. Licavoli and five other men were convicted last

WASHINGTON (AP) - Farm-state House members, following the lead of their Senate counterparts, are ignoring Agriculture Secretary John Block's call for authority to cut federal dairy price supports by more than 8 percent next

But while the Senate Agriculture Committee agreed last week only to continue the current price support freeze for three more years, a House subcommittee is calling for sweeping change in the 33-year-old dairy

The Agriculture dairy subcommittee voted 12-1 Thursday in favor of an industry-backed proposal that would transfer control of the dairy program to an independent national board. The proposal would effectively impose production quotas on the nation's dairymen and penalties against those who exceed them.

Supporters of the plan, drafted by the National Milk Producers Federation, claim its the surest and fastest way to rein in the federal dairy program that has been costing taxpayers about $2

Under the program, the government buys up excess milk from processors, removing it from the commercial market so that the milk remaining will bring a price at or near the support level. Overproduction, prompted by excessive escalation in the price support during the late 1970s, forced the government last year to buy 10 percent of the nation's milk, more than 13 billion pounds.

The government currently has more than 15 billion pounds of milk equivalent in storage. While it is trying to reduce the surplus through free distribution to the poor of cheese, butter and nonfat dried milk, officials say the stockpile is growing faster than it can be given away.

Even with the price support freeze, milk production is continuing to increase.

Slaybaugh won both the discus and shot put in the District 3-5A meet his senior year and qualified for the state meet as a junior in the discus. But since Slaybaugh is built more like a sprinter than a weightman, Harvester track coach Wendall Palmer felt he was better qualified for the decathlon.

New SWC commissioner plans to keep 'low profile' in job

Associated Press Writer DALLAS (AP) - Fred Jacoby, who will leave his job as commissioner of the Mid-American Conference to become commissioner of the Southwest Conference. indicated Friday he plans to keep a low profile in his new position. "My feeling is that the commissioner works in the background ... the student athletes are really what the conference is run for,' Jacoby said at a news conference announcing his appointment

Jacoby is to take over his new duties no later than Nov. 1. He succeeds Cliff Speegle, who plans to retire Feb. 1 after nine years in the job.

Jacoby, MAC commissioner for the past 11 years, pledged to build on the SWC's "strength and great potential."

"I feel like in joining the Southwest Conference, it's a unique opportunity to join one of the outstanding, premier conferences in the country,' Jacoby said.

The chairman of the selection committee, George Johnson of the University of Houston, said Jacoby was chosen for his "background, knowledge of the issues, experience as a commissioner. We also found him innovative and

Johnson said Jacoby, 54, was the committee's first choice for the job. "Initially, my job is to try to become acquainted with the different conference processes," Jacoby said. He said another goal is to streamline the operation of the conference office and look into the lucrative area of a cable television package for the nine schools that make up the Southwest Conference.

"In the next few years. we're moving into a different era and time than when Cliff (Speegle) and Howard

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) - Dallas Cowboys head coach Tom Landry said Friday he was pleased with the crop of rookies and free agents he has seen thus far in training camp here.

"We have potential here," Landry said. "I don't know if there is an Everson Walls or a Mike Downs in this group, but so far I like what I've seen, particularily from our top five draft choices.

Walls and Downs were rookies last year who became defensive starters.

NFL players eye own game

WASHINGTON (AP) -

The National Football League Players Association is exploring the possibility of staging its own all-star games on cable television if the owners lock out the players

"We feel that, legally, the minute the players are locked out they can go to work where they please because the owners are refusing to pay them," said a union source, who requested anonymity.

He said if the union gets a cable contract, there would be a game-of-the-week with the players representing the

The comments came Friday after two days of negotiating between representatives of the association and the NFL Management Council.

The negotiations opened Thursday in the wake of a report that a majority of the NFL owners support locking out the players union just before the Sept.12 start of the regular season unless contract negotiations improve dramatically.

The Washington Post said a league-wide lockout is becoming increasingly more appealing to the owners, who leverage of calling a strike once the season begins.

In another development, however, the union threatened to take a "job action," possibly a strike, during the current training-camp period to prove to management that the union is unified.

two-stroke lead Saturday in the storm-delayed completion of the second round of the $350,000 Anheuser-Busch Golf Classic.

Peete, who has not made a bogey for the tournament, completed 36 holes in 134, eight shots under par.

He was among the 90 players who were stranded on the Kingsmill Golf Club course Friday by a series of thunderstorms which disrupted play and reduced the tournament format from 72 holes to 54

The tournament will be completed with a single round Sunday. The full tournament purse will be paid even though the sponsors had the option of reducing it by 25 percent.

"That's great," Peete said. "I thank the sponsors for coming up with the idea."

Bill Rogers, one of the men tied for second at 136, was less enthusiastic about the shorter tournament format.

"You're geared from the word go for a 72-hole tournament," Rogers said. "It's a different feeling, a little weird, knowing it's only

"But it's nice to know that I'm going into the third round with a good chance of winning the tournament. With a good round, I can put some pressure on the guy in front. "Calvin hasn't had a bogey yet? That's unbelieveable on this golf course. He might be

Rogers, the 1981 Player of the Year, had a second-round 70 and was tied at 136 with Rik Massengale, who finished off with a 68.

Tied at 137 were Hal Sutton and Payne Stewart, a winner last week in the Quad Cities Open. Sutton had a 69,

The group at 138 included Lee Elder, who finished off a 66 before the rains came Friday, David Edwards, Dan Pohl and Doug Black. Edwards shot a 70, Pohl and Black 66.

Defending champion John Mahaffey could do no better than a par 71 and was at 139. First-round leader Bruce Lietzke blew to a 74 and was six strokes off the pace at 140.

Peete, who didn't join the tour until the relatively advanced age of 33, has won twice in the last three seasons and is noted among his peers as one of the game's more accurate players.

But he had some difficulties this hot, humid day.

"This was a little more exciting. I had it in some unusual places — the high grass," Peete said.

He managed to avoid a bogey, however, but had to sink a 25-footer to save par on the eighth hole.

He scored from 18 feet on the next hole and got his other two birdies on approach shots that left him within three feet of the flag.

Bruised visions

Mr. Ray Leonard eyes his future

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (NEA)

What Sugar Ray Leonard remembers most are the exotic visions.

It was Tuesday morning, May 11, 1982, and Ray was still in a hospital bed at Johns Hopkins, two days after surgery to repair a detached retina that threatened not only to end his career as a world champion boxer, but also to destroy the sight in his left eye. He was conscious of the pressure of the white swath of bandages against his orb. And anxious. To know if he could still see with it.

the room, whose door was open, were his wife, Juanita; his son, Little Ray; his mother, Getha; and others.

His head propped against a pillow, Leonard reached up with his left hand and cautiously placed his thumb under the bottom edge of the bandage and lifted up. His lids fluttered open. The result startled him.

"It was split level like a TV screen," he recalls. "The bottom half was like paradise. It was like a forest, with greenery and birds. In the top half, I could see the people waiting to come into my room.

"I think I went through a slight trance."

Something similar, without the visions, had hap-pened a couple of days before, when Sugar Ray was in the recovery room after the operation.

As he revived from the anesthesia, he noticed that he had a patch over his left eye. He reached up to touch

Juanita cautioned him, "Don't touch the patch." "But I need an operation," Ray responded. (He remembers being in a trance-like state then, too.) "You've already had it," said Juanita.

The reality of his situation now absorbs Sugar Ray Leonard. It has been two months since the surgery, perhaps the most introspec-tive period of his life. Certainly, it has been the first time since he reached national prominence in the 1976 Olympic Games that Sugar Ray has managed to tion of the paths his life has taken and where he wants to

There was the early acclaim and adulation, coupled with the realization that he had to find a way of supporting his young mate and baby boy. Followed by the decision to turn professional (instead of his earlier ambition to go to college) in February 1977.

There were 25 fights in 34 months — intensive training and campaigning that left him little time for himself. It was climaxed by the winning of the world welterweight title, over Wilfred Benitez, on Nov. 30, 1979. Then the demands on a celebrity — appearances, business decisions, extensive traveling. And still the fight-ing with such as Roberto Duran and Thomas Hearns.

Enough money came in, and would come in, so that he would never have to worry financially again, or work again, if he so wished. Pride of performance, the seeking of popular acceptance, the wanting to be liked and appreciated now motivated

To the welterweight title, Leonard added the world junior middleweight crown, over Ayub Kalule. There is no doubt he had his sight on Marvin Hagler's middleweight champion-

Now all this has been shoved into a closet. "I've not thought about boxing," says Leonard. "I've thought about my eyes.' He says: "When I first had the symptoms, I knew my career was in jeopardy. I saw the spots, and they didn't disappear after the prescribed eye drops. There's not supposed to ever be anything wrong with me. They usually call me the bionic man.

Leonard doesn't think his eye injury necessarily origi-nated while boxing. "It could have happened from basketball," he says. "I play a lot and I've had fingers. poked in my eye. It didn't have to be from the Hearns

AUSTIN - Cotton farmers now will be able to hang on for one more year, because of the disaster relief that Agriculture Secretary John Block decided to give out recently.

The relief should be in the neighborhood of 201/2 cents a pound times 75 percent of last year's cotton crop.

Disaster relief could not have been more appropriate than it was this year. The weather has created what is probably the worst weeather disaster we have ever had. Close to 2 million acres of crops were destroyed. This represents about two thirds of the cotton that was to be grown in our district this year. The value of this crop is close to $400 million.

The U.S.D.A. also should approve some money for soil conservation practices. We don't have any specifics on this yet. Considering the late date, the only practice that would interest most farmers in our area probably would be to plant a

While the bulk of the disaster aid will not be available to farmers until the end of the year, some money may be released earlier

The disaster relief money is completely federal, but it shows the value of cooperation between state and federal officials. Both U.S. Senators from Texas have been trying to put pressure on the U.S.D.A. to release some aid. Congressmen Jack Hightower, Charles Stenholm and Kent Hance also worked hard on the project, as did the Governor.

In fact, we doubt if any of this money would be available had it not been for the hard work of all these elected officials. We called the Governor and Secretary Block on June 25, trying to get the ball rolling. We also met with a task force sent by Block late in July. We truly appreciate all the help and cooperation we got from the Governor and the task force sent by the

There may be some low interest loan money available to the farmers hit by this weather crisis. We anticipate the interest rate for these loans will be near eight percent.

We hope this disaster relief helps every farmer in our district. We tried to cooperate with the federal government in obtaining this relief, and we hope we helped.

One idea we had for the future is a state plan for crop insurance. A small number of other states already have started state crop insurance plans to promote agriculture, and an agricultural state like Texas certainly should consider joining them. First, though, we would like to hear what you think about the idea. Please write Senator Bill sarpalius, P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

Wednesday Texas Gov. Bill Clements will unveil Tuesday a proposed national energy policy he says would be the nation's first. When the Republican announced his plans last week, Clements said the Reagan administration's energy policies were "in limbo."

At least 15 governors and 400 to 500 others including aides and government officials are expected, said Russ McKinney, spokesman for South Carolina Gov. Dick Riley, chairman of the association this year.

"This is the first time that it's being held in the summer," McKinney said.

The states' chief executives, who usually meet in the fall, wanted to get together before the National Governors Conference Aug. 8 in Afton, Okla., McKinney said.

In past years, he said, the conclaves had been made up of equal parts work and play. This meeting, which McKinney termed "more of a straight work program," the ratio will be 7-3.

speakers, a departure from past years when presidents spoke to the group.

Also appearing before the governors will be William A. Klopman, chairman of Burlington Industries; Alex H. Massad, executive vice president of Mobil Oil Corp.; and Rita M. La Velle, assistant administrator for solid waste and emergency response of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The governors will also hold private powwows. "I've heard Governor Riley say that one of the main things he gets out of these meetings is to see and hear how other governor's handle their problems," McKinney said.

Education, one of Riley's chief interests, will be a focus of the conference. "I think the governors, rightfully so, see that education is the key to the future," said McKinney.

Tuesday morning's schedule is entirely devoted to the topic. Among the issues McKinney expects are the relationship state and federal governments share in education, education and the New Federalism, funding cuts, leveling off of school enrollments and education and the change in the Southern economy.

The governors will consider at least 16 resolutions on issues ranging from the insanity defense to the 1992 World's Fair, according to Lois Segal, secretary for the association.

Lifesty

Jackie Bichsel has discovered the perfect way to beat the summer heat by sliding into a wrap - styled maillot swim suit and floating the afternoon away.

It's getting hot now

The people of the Panhandle thought summer had passed them by, but, just when you thought it was safe to go outside - summer heat.

One of the best ways to handle a hot - summer afternoon is to put on as little as possible and dunk yourself in a body of water.

But don't be caught in an old rag of a suit. There's no excuse when the new swimwear fashions are composed of vibrant colors, figure enhancing styles and affordable prices.

The new maillots come in easy care fabrics made of polyester, cotton and spandex. Sleek lines are accentuated in nylon suits and stretch knits of nylon and spandex.

The maillot has never experienced as much widespread popularity as it has during the summer '82 in a wide variety of styles. There are pull - on styles with bandeau tops; halter - style tops with deep "V" plunge fronts; blouson designs with bandeau style tops; shirred designs in bandeau and deep "V" styling; and the sensous wrap design.

'Anything goes' as far as colors and prints. Red. blue, fuchsia, turquoise blue, purple and pink are all popular hues seen in the new swimwear. Prints involve island prints in ferns and flowers, stripes, polka - dots and rainbow stripes.

A fun new accessory that adds a special touch to the new maillots is belting. These include fabric tie belts; elastic belts with metallic fasteners; and scarves tied in bows or square knots.

But maillots don't cover all of the swimwear fashion scene. There is one design in swimwear that is still with us, and probably always will be as long as their are sun worshippers with the figure to wear

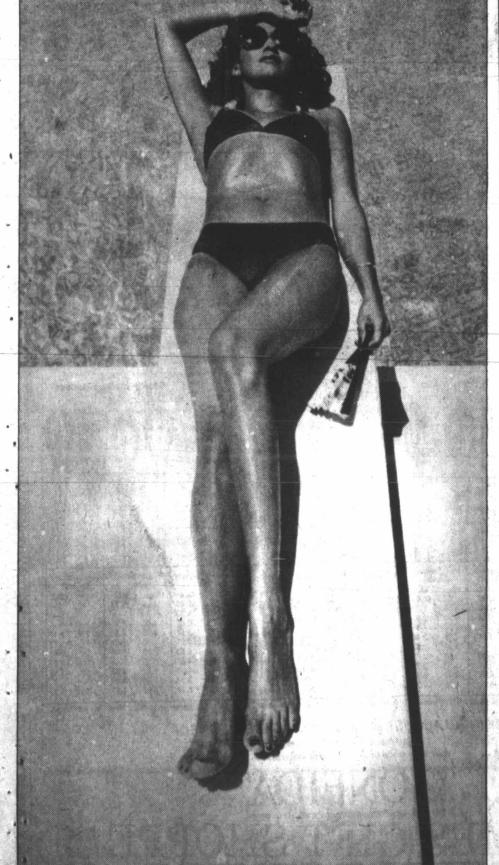

Bikinis are made for an attractive figure, regardless of age. Bikini wearers can still find an assortment of styles and colors to wear when soaking up the rays.

Regardless of style, swimwear does its part to "keep America beautiful" because, with the revealing and figure conscious styling, nobody wants to be caught in their cellulite.

Kathy Hargrove models the unbeatable bikini made in the classic design and sporting rainbow stripes.

Irene Williams soaks up the sun in a classic sun worshipper design, the bikini.

How to avoid Murphy's law

By DONNA BRAUCHI County Extension Agent

To quote Murphy's Law - "Anything that can go wrong, will go wrong" - and probably at the worst possible time. Although modern appliances have an excellent longevity record with few service problems, when something does go wrong, you want it taken care of fast! That's why after - the - sale services could be one of the top considerations when making a purchase

A service call can be expensive, and many times it is not really needed because the problem can be simply corrected by the consummer. Here are some simple ways the consumer can check an appliance to predetermine whether service is

If the refrigerator unit will not run, check the following: (1) Is a fuse blown or circuit breaker tripped off? (2) Is the cord securely plugged in? (3) Is the outlet controlled by a wall switch which is turned off? (4) Check the outlet by plugging in a small lamp or appliance to see if it is working.

If the refrigerator doesn't seem cold enough (perhaps the ice cream is too soft), check the following: (1) Is the temperature control set properly? Check the use and care instructions. Allow 24 hours for temerature to stabilize before making an control changes. (2) Is the condenser free of dust, lint or other obstruction? The condenser should be cleaned with a bottle brush or crevice tool of your vacuum every two to three

If the electric range will not operate, check the following: (1) Check the fuse and circuit breaker. (2) Is the oven selector knob truned to a setting which operates immediately such as bake or broil? Many times consumers set the oven for "time baked" and forget to change the setting. (3) Are surface units plugged in all the way? Remove the unit and plug it in again

If the surface unit control knobs on the electric range won't turn, check the following: (1) Is the control knob pushed in before turning? For safety reasons, control knobs must be pushed in, then turned. (2) Has the knob been removed for cleaning and the spring not replaced? DISHWASHER

If your dishload doesn't seem clean enough, check the following: (1) Is the water at least 140 F. in the dishwasher? (2) Are the racks loaded properly so that spray arms turn freely and large items do not block water to door dispensers? (3) Is enough detergent used for water hardness and soil level? (4) Is the detergent fresh and dry? "Sand" like particles on glasses and upper rack items indicate old detergent. Has the filter screen and removable pump guard been cleaned?

A quick check of the appliance by the consumer can correct many simple problems and help eliminate costly and unnecessary service calls. If a problem still exists - then that's the time to call an expert! THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

When a man hasn't a good reason for doing a thing, he has a good reason for letting it alone.

"DEAR LOUISE: My husband and I are long past retirement age but are in good health and can see and hear real well. We'd like to stay home most of the time but we take a lot of trips to get away from the kids and grandkids because hey take advantage of us all the time. We love them and want to do some of their work but not all of it.

"Both generations of them send for Grandpa to do all their nome repairs and they ask me to sew their clothes because I do a good job and save them money. They never pay us a cent, hever even offer to. I love to sew but not every minute, day and

"Any idea how we can see the kids sometimes but not let them work us so hard? D. E."

DEAR D. E.: Many gradparents love to help their children and grandchildren, in moderation. But your family has been presuming on the relationship.

I think you are going to have to hurt their feeling temporarily. But if they drop you for a while, they should ventually realize that your position is valid and accept it. You're going to have to tell them right out that too much is far too much Tell them you need to add to your income (Doesn't everybody?) and you must sew for money. Tell them you don't have time to do their free jobs. Sew when you want to, for people who will pay you - which you can do because amstresses are always in demand.

Suggest that your husband do carpenter work if he wants to for pay. He should find plenty of work.

long enough. If they demand that you let them continue that practice, rear back and say "Neigh!"

'DEAR LOUISE: My husband, pretend his initials are F. G., and I used to get along fine and have a wonderful time together. But not any more. Here's why.

We're both over 70 and planned to retire. We have a small income from pensions and savings so we could relax and grow gardens and have friends in for dinner sometimes.

"But all of a sudden he said he plans to work a good many more years. I like to work too but not for him, the way I am

"He insists on keeping his small business but on a reduced basis, I guess you might say. He let his clerk - bookkeeper go and talked me into coming down and helping him run the store. He said we could do it okay together, keep busy, add to our income, stay active, healthy and all. It sounded good so I tried

"But I'd never worked for him and didn't realize it could make us fight each other. I'd always worked in ladies' ready to - wear places and had fun visiting with customers and helping them buy things that suited them. I didn't have any responsibility except to be a good clerk. I loved that job and could have kept on working there but quit because F. G. wanted me to.

Well, I soon learned that my old job was completely different from my new one. I didn't know a thing about F. G.'s work and didn't catch on right away. He got mad and said I shouldn't make the mistakes I did. He yelled about my "We'd never quarrelled much, but now we argue every day at the store. And of course we carry the quarrel home and go on arguing. Lots of times it's so late at night that we fight that we don't get much sleep.

"What would you do if you were in my position? F. G.'s

DEAR F. G.'s W: Since you prefer going back to selling ladies' apparel, do it.

Your salary should be about the same as the wages F. G. would pay to the clerk he could hire. You could put your money

With a clerk (perhaps his former one if she is still available) he would be happy in his business and you would enjoy the type into your joint account and thus come out about even on cast

Since you can't resolve your disagreements in your present situation, part company at work - and get back to happy

4-Hers to sparkle in Panhandle district fashion revue

Nine 4 - H champions from Gray County will model apparel they've created when the Panhandle Extension District holds its annual 4 - H Fashion Show, Thursday, July 29, at the Texas A & M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center in Amarillo.

Members from 4 - H clubs in 20 counties will compete for honors and the right to represent the district in state competition next September in Corpus Christi, Deana Finck, County Extension agent, said.

Representing Gray County will be: Senior Division: Beverly Payne, Daytime Tailored; Shelly

Cochran, Daytime Non - Tailored; Sena Brainard, Active Sportswear. Junior Division: Sherri McDonald, Daytime Non - Tailored; and Heather Kludt, Active Sportswear.

These entrants already have won in county competition.

Contestants are judged on their sewing and construction skills, as well as overall appearance.

They will model their creations in a public fashion revue at 7 p. m. July 29 in the auditorium of the Extension and Research Center, 6500 Amarillo Blvd., West, Amarillo.

Each contestant will compete in one of four clothing categories: daytime tailored, daytime non - tailored, active sportswear, and evening and specialty wear. Special awards will be presented the senior exhibiting the best cotton garment or ensemble and the one modeling the best wool or mohair

Seniors, beginners and intermediate contestants will be judged in separate groups and compete for awards in their own skill classification. Only the senior winners advance to the

IZABEL LAM "A SEASON OF ATTITUDE AND OPTION"

The focal point of the IZABEL LAM fall collection for 1982 is "American Style" -American style that not only describes the clothes, but the way they are worn, and the women who wear them. Izabel understands that more is expected now of clothes than "fashion statements." Hers is not fashion that succeeds or fails on the length of a hemline or the width of a shoulder - it succeeds because it gives a woman what is needed and in the most attractive way possible. She knows the needs of her customers - what is going to work, and what is not.

Within the IZABEL LAM fall collection are clothes with character - STRONG, BOLD, CASUAL! From earth-toned plaids to Venetian-paisley prints to soft touches of IZABEL LAM'S fall statement could easily be summed up as, "Dressed, but relaxed. Casual is the base, yet within that framework is option and contrast. A style which keeps on going with an accent on ease.

Overall, the look is soft, uncomplicated, casual - but everything has strength and character! ASSERTIVE SWEATERS...KEY COVERINGS...TEXTURE BALANCE AND DASH...COLOR IMPACT...Clothes that give more options and "prove out" in the way American Style lives

Dear Abby Ignore ex-daughter-in-law By Abigail Van Buren

TEAR ABBY: What is the proper way to introduce one's ex-daughter-in-law? My husband, his mother and I were recently at a function when my husband's ex-wife (I'll call her Marge) walked in. My mother-in-law greeted Marge warmly, put her arm around her shoulder and proceeded to introduce her to everyone as "my daughter-in-law." My husband said nothing at the time, but I could see that he was annoyed. I said nothing either, but I was steamed! My husband and I have been married for seven years. Occasionally we run into Marge at weddings, funerals, etc., and if my mother-in-law is there too, she always falls all over Marge, referring to her as "my daughter-in-law." My husband has reminded his mother that Marge is no longer her daughter in law and to please quit introducing her that way, but his request has fallen on deaf ears. What do you make of this, and how should we handle this irritating and awkward situation?

DEAR STEAMED: You don't say how long your husband and Marge were married, but if it was a number of years, your mother-in-law may still have some strong emotional ties with her former daughterin-law.

In any case, whether she's forgetful, insensitive or just plain spiteful, you can best handle the situation by ignoring it.

DEAR ABBY: I have read your column for years, and now I need help with a personal problem. I am an 85-year-old widow, but my friends say I look 65. My husband and I lived in this town 61 years and had a host of friends. Since his death 14 years ago, when I have gone out, his male friends have been greeting me with a kiss!

Last Sunday, three of his friends kissed me on the cheek in the dining room of the country club with 200 people looking on! I am sure that each kiss was only a friendly gesture, but I do not like such a display of affection in How can I put a stop to it without hurting the feelings of good friends?

LOVE SANS KISSES IN VIRGINIA

DEAR LOVE: Rejoice! To reject such well-intentioned gestures of affection would surely offend the kissers. What's wrong with letting the entire country club know that you are still considered a warm and kissable friend?

DEAR ABBY: "On the Spot," a 60-year-old college student, resented being asked to write an essay on the first time he made love. He said, "To tell you the truth, I can hardly remember, so it wouldn't have been very good anyway.

That reminded me of my own father, who died at 84. When he was 83, he was asked by a longtime crony if he could remember the first time he made love. My dad's reply: "I'm so old, I can't remember the last time.

DEAR POLLY — When I deep fry anything in melted vegetable shortening or corn oil, so much foam forms on top that I can't see what I'm frying. Is there anything I can add to avoid this problem? — LYDIA

DEAR LYDIA — Hot oil does tend to foam up when you first place food in it, but it usually calms down as the food begins to cook. Excess moisture is what causes the oil to foam. Moisture also causes spattering, and both these occurry nees are not only inconvenient but dangerous. Therefore, be sure all food is as dry as possible before putting it into the oil. Potatoes for french frying, for example, should be well blotted on paper towels until all excess moisture has been removed. Foods that are dipped into batter should also be as dry as possible before coating them. (If they're not dry, the batter tends to slide off.) Putting too much food at one time into the oil can also cause excessive foaming. It's important, too, to carefully remove any stray bits of food, crumbs, or batter between batches to keep the oil as clean as possible during the frying session. Following these procedures, especially putting only a small quantity of food into the fryer at one time, should make your deep fat frying easier — and neater! — POLLY

Peeking at Pampa

Not too long ago six happy Pampans returned from an extensive tour. Ermalee and Glenn Sanders, Pauline and Marshall Gardner, Ada Parsons and Betty Wright reportedly had a marvelous time visiting Knoxville, Nashville, Chattanooga and Gatlinburg, Tennessee, as well as Ashville, North Carolina and Hot Springs, Arkansas. They spent a day at the World's Fair in Knoxville and especially admired the Chinese exhibit of vases, hand - embroidered linens, prints and other beautiful objects.

Of special interst to the six from Pampa was the city of Chattanooga. They loved the old train station where the "Choo · Choo", of musical fame, used to arrive. The town refused to let the old train die and so preserved it in a luxury tourist park. Travellers may stay in the rooms on the train if they want to. The old station has been transformed into a beautiful dining room, where guests order meals by the names of towns where the train used to stop. The Pampa group ordered "Omaha" and said it was delicious.

Only one night on the trip brought the Pampans a traumatic experience. Long after retirement, one night, a fire alarm in the hotel where they were staying began to blast, frightening all the occupants sending them into hallways half - dressed. screaming, dodging firemen running up and down the halls. Betty and Ada stopped to dress. Betty grabbed her suitcase and Ada did likewise. They ran down the four flights of stairs

It turned out to be false alarm with nobody knowing who set it off. Glenn carried the ladies' luggage back up the stairs, saying he was glad he didn't bring the Sanders' suitcases down from the 15th floor. Then everybody tried to get back to sleep. Another P. H. S. Class Reunion was held rece tly, celebrating the 20th anniversary of the class of 1962. Surely nobody can beat their percentage of attendance. They reported "almost 100 percent". That's praiseworthy indeed.

The behind - the - scenes workers for the event were Roselle Baggerman Collingsworth, Gail Culpepper Schultz, Sue Maxey Atkinson, Wilma Carlile Miller, and Carolyn Jones

They came from many parts of the country, Sandra Welchel Brown, Beverly Stephens Roberts, Donna Walsh Stephens, Dennis Mills, Jim Crinklaw, John Arthur, John Yates, Wilma Miller, Gary and Gail Culpepper Schultz, Ruth Ann Guthrie Storms, LaNell Thornton, all came from near Dallas.

From the Houston area were Sherry Kotara Batson, Linda Zmotomy Sommers, Myke Ashby, James Webb, Lynn Houston and Jimm Farr. Some came from long distances, such as the two classmates from faraway Saudi Arabia — Lloyd Balch and Jimmie Taylor. Dr. Eddie Marshall, psychiatrist, was at the reunion also

Others attending were Nora Wells Clevenger of Lawton, Ok; Kent and Linda Worley Mitchell of Kermit; Larry and Judy Gordon of Havenhill, Maryland; Dwight Mackie, a geophysicist, of Colorado; Diane Tidwell Garrett of Midland. Amarilloans were May Ray Bailey McCormick, Sue Maxey Atkinson, Linda Meech Adkins (Dora's daughter), Randy Haralson, Linda Brown Seitz and Sandra Denton

From Oklahoma City came Bettie Lou McWilliams Patterson, Robbie Robinson. Gary Punches and Carol Jean Wilson Kotara. Pampans present, besides the core committee, were Corky Godfrey, Judy Essary Golden and Judy Buckingham Coble.

Cameras clicked as countless pictures of classmates were snapped. Several members of the group were members of the Girl Scout Troop led by Margaret (Mrs. Joe) Wells, who had

Oh, yes, there were two more present - Carolyn Jones Watkins of Forth Worth and Susan Quible of Abilene.

The day was spent visitng, picnicking, enjoying a sumptuous barbecue dinner and dancing to the music of the 50s in St. Matthews Parish Hall.

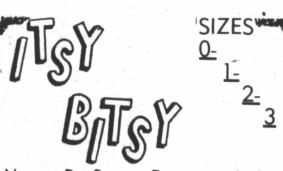

They gave a lot of prizes. Johnny Hatcher and Donna Walsh Stephens were voted the least changed. Those having the most children (five each) were Ruth Ann Guthrie Storms, Billy. Hughes and Gerrell Owens. "Older but better" prize went to LaNell Riley Thornton, Larry Satterwhite and Vicki Taylor Willis. The only grandmother in the group was Judy Buckingham Coble. (By the way, she's a welder for Celanese.) Bet you Pampans who lived here in 1962 - and a lot of you did, I know - will remember these 1962 graduates when they lived here. Aren't reunions fun? Look for me next Sunday. PAM.

anning takes toll on skin

Our skin takes a beating. We scrape it, scratch it, cut it and bruise it accidentally and regularly. Worse yet, some of us even try to bake it.

The main problem with trying to get the perfect tan is that the sun damages the skin, according to the Texas Medical

Some damage may be immediate - burning, blistering, skin rashes or eruptions, and eye injury. Later damage can include skin that sags and wrinkles prematurely. Finally, excessive exposure to the sun increases a person's chances of developing

The sun affects each person's skin differently. The main factor is the amount of melanin - a naturally occurring skin pigment - that the individual's sytem produces. Darker skin indicates larger amounts of melanin. These people tan quicker and easier than those with fair skin.

Most dermatologists believe the risk of developing skincancer from ultraviolet radiation - from the sun, sunlamps or

Barbara Feldon back on stage

Director Colin Higgins and star Dolly Parton talk over scene during break in filming "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas." The screen version of the smash theater production is the "big, old - fashioned Hollywood movie" Higgins said he always wanted to make. (AP Laserphoto)

Former film student directs Dolly Parton

Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - The task of making a movie based on the raucous musical, "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas," fell into the capable hands of onetime film student Colin Higgins.

That was two years ago. The results of his labors will be judged this month by the nation's reviewers and audiences. Their verdicts will be closely monitored by MCA-Universal. which has a $26 million investment in the Burt Reynolds-Dolly Parton movie.

Outrage may be heard, especially from Miss Parton's fans in the Bible 'The movie gets an R rating on the basis of the title alone, and I think it's right that parents should be alerted.' Higgins said. "There is a sense of naughtiness to the movie, but I think it's done in good taste. There is very little nudity...It's not a salacious film, by any means.' Higgins, who wrote "Harold and Maude" as his master's thesis at the University of California in Los Angeles, came on the "Whorehouse" project as a kind of troubleshooter.

'Tommy Tune and Peter Masterson (who had helped create the stage version) had been fired, and there was a script by Masterson and Larry King." Higgins recalled. "There were some basic problems. The leads in the play were a 65-year-old sheriff and a 50-year-old madam whose love relationship took place 20 years earlier. That wouldn't work with Dolly Parton and Burt Reynolds.

"The problem was solved by dropping their ages and establishing an ongoing relationship between the two."

The musical score had to be overhauled, the director-writer added. since many of the songs had been delivered on the stage by subsidiary characters. Also, there was no duet between the two leads. Miss Parton provided one, as well as new numbers

Higgins, 40, had the advantage of having directed Miss Parton in her movie debut, "9 To 5."

"I had never seen her perform before we did the movie, and I went to see her at the Universal Amphitheater," Higgins said. "I was delighted with her ad libs... Then I went back the next night, and she said the same lines they weren't ad libs after all. I figured if she could fool me into the illusion that she was ad libbing, she was an actress.

"The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas" was filmed on locations in and around Halletsville, Texas, with additional scenes shot outside the governor's mansion and inside the capitol at Austin.

Higgins found Halletsville more photogenic than LaGrange, site of the infamous Chicken Ranch, which provided inspiration for the musical.

"The Chicken Ranch itself is a one-story bungalow which had been built onto, sheds on sheds," Higgins said. "We chose a beautiful mansion that had been built near Pfluger ville by a ship's carpenter 60 years ago.

Burke keeps an eye on the Phantoms

BY-LEAH M. NELSON SAN DIEGO - Rickey surke, a native of Pampa, l'exas, is a "freelancer" of he '80s, with no aspirations of selling his work to a Rather, the 22 - year - old Vauy man earns that title as n aviation fire control echnician assigned to Navy Fighter Squadron Twenty One (VF - 21), based at the Naval Air Station, Miramar, north of San Diego.

The squadron adopted 'Freelancer' as a nickname in 1944, and quickly began an impressive naval aviation Burke, the son of Glydle Burke of 1104 Sirroco in Pampa, is an electronic specialist responsible for the upkeep of weapons control systems on the squadron's 12 - 4 Phantom supersonic jets.

He has much the same esponsibility as the 'Freelancer' fire control technician of World War II. when the fighter group first won fame with air strikes in the Pacific.

Burke is the night shift upervise" for the squadron's re control shop. "I'm sponsible for five men. We maintain the radars and missile systems on the ircraft

"I'm also a night check duty inspector," says Burke. After a job is completed, I done correctly."

Burke says his job is challenging

Troubleshooting is my biggest headache because the electronics gear is sensitive to high temperatures or excessive bumps and jolts, he explains. "If a component malfunctions while the aircrew is flying, when I fry to duplicate the problem on the ground, it's sometimes' another story. It's my responsibility to find the problem and fix it."

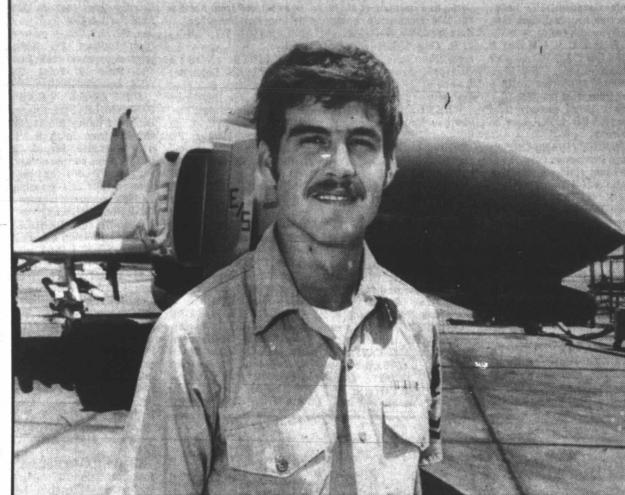

Burke attended Pampa Senior High School before joining the Navy to travel in May 1979.

He recently returned from a western Pacific deployment aboard the aircraft carrier USS Coral Sea where he visited ports in the Philippines, Japan, Thailand, Hong Kong and Singapore.

The squadron's mission of searching out and destroying enemy aircraft makes it paramount that VF - 21 remain combat ready at all times. Burke feels he plays an important part of that

"My job is important to the squadron's mission because I help maintain the missile and radar systems that make the F - 4 Phantom capable. Without us, this squadron wouldn't be able to fight.'

Throughout the squadron's history, combat readiness and success have been evident.

Flying the propeller driven F - 6 Hellcat in World War II, VF - 21 made numerous air strikes in the Pacific and were members of the first aircraft carrier group to strike Tokyo Bay. During the Vietnam conflict, the squadron's aircraft were the first to shoot down an enemy Mig - 17 A three - yar Navy veteran, Burke is not firmly decided about his future.

"I just reenlisted in the Navy because I want to get more on job experience," he says. "But, it was an easy decision because I like the Navy. I've learned a lot, traveled and met a lot of interesting people.

At 45, Carla Wallenda carries on the family tradition with absolutely no fear of flying

By JEFF BARNARD Associated Press Writer

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (AP) - Hanging by an ankle on a swaying pole 110 feet above the ground, Carla Wallenda doesn't think about the fall that claimed the life of her high-wire-walking father.

"I non't feel it's dangerous because I know what I'm doing." Miss Wallenda said. "Once my spotlight fuse blew out and I was up there hanging in the dark and all I could think of was my husband would be mad at me because I left the Crockpot on.

As the spoke, she speared another porkchop from a frying pan and put it in the Crockpot to keep warm as she stood in the kitchen of the trailer where she lives while performing away from her Sarasota, Fla., home. A pet skunk, two dogs and a monkey sniffed her feet as she prepared dinner for her husband, Mike Morgan, and 14-year-old daughter, Valarie.

Outside stood the 110-foot pole where she would climb that night to entertain the crowds on the midway at Billy Burr's orama in a week-long stint at Pawtucket's Narragansett

She is the daughter of Karl Wallenda, the circus legend killed four years ago at the age of 73 when high winds blew him from a high wire stretched between two high-rise hotels in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

As a girl she sat in a chair balanced atop the seven-man pyramid invented by her father as the crowning achievement of the Great Wallendas.

She rode in the precarious perch from 1950 to 1961. She was out on her own when the pyramid fell in January 1962. Her cousin Dieta was killed and her brother Mario paralyzed in the 30-foot fall during a Shrine Circus in Detroit.

"Dieta only had three steps to go to get to the safety pedestal when he said 'I can't hold it' and they fell," she said. Despite the tragedies which have hit her family, Miss Wallenda says she has no fear of flying.

'My grandmother was a performer all her life and she died of old age at 96. I had an uncle who was run over by a drunk driver when he was very young, so ... This is our way of life. Tragedy to me is like some of those coal miners who go into the mines for generations and generations and face that danger.'

She reached into a cupboard for a week-old newspaper clipping showing her son Enrico, 27, walking a tightrop stretched over a tiger pit at the Columbus, Ohio, Zoo.

"My four kids are the eighth generation and they're all dedicated to aerial work," she said.

"The seven-man pyramid has never been duplicated. I heard of an act in South America that is supposed to do one, but it's not the same as my father's with the chair on the

The surviving Wallendas put the pyramid together for a television documentary a year later, but the act was never again a family standard, she said.

"I'm sure it could be done again, but it would take an awful lot of time and money and the way the economy is, the average fair couldn't pay for it," she said.

She no longer appears under the bigtops of the Shrine Circus or the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus where her mother was performing a few months after Miss Wallenda was born.

At 45, her hands are rough and strong from a lifetime in the

"I have pictures of when I was 6 weeks old and they were carrying me across the wire," she said.

Her copper hair bounces atop her 5-foot-2 frame and her blue eyes flash when she turns on the smile which has become a reflex drilled into her by her father.

With the big circuses in the United States often leaning toward European acts, Miss Wallenda takes her swaypole to speedways, fairs and carnivals around the Northeast and over the winter appeared in Jamaica and Mexico City.

"I actually like this kind of work better than the bigtops because of the contact with the people," she said. "After I come down the wire in the 'Slide for Life' I talk to the crowd. One woman asked me what food I eat and another wanted to know what kind of deodorant I use.

"My father always preached it into us that whether the crowd is 10 people or 10,000, they paid their price and you always do your best."

Originally from Los Angeles, Sister Jean first came to Tanzania in 1968. She now speaks fluent Swahili. shares a house with several Tanzanians from the art center, and considers Tanzania her permanent Sister Jean, a social worker and nutritionist, had discovered through her work in child welfare clinics the tremendous problem of poverty among urban youths with limited education and employment possibilities.

An accomplished artist herself, she also was concerned with preserving and popularizing Tanzanian customs and folklore, which are being lost in the urban environment.

"I found the local art work was being made mainly by expatriates and sold as Tanzanian art," Sister Jean recalled. "Tourists and others could not find works by real Tanzanian craftspeople.

So in 1972, she and several Tanzanian youths pooled their meager resources and opened a small artists' collective run on a shoestring.

Nyumba ya Sanaa grew quickly. Today it employs 65 people, has an annual gross income of $2 million and has held exhibitions in a dozen countries, including the artistic performances. The gallery currently produces a vast array of sophisticated arts and crafts, and is rapidly gaining an international reputation.

In their works, artists combine traditional Tanzanian art forms with contemporary styles and techniques.

For the first time, several Makonde artists, who traditionally carve three-dimensional ebony and ivory sculptures, have begun translating the figures into designs for batiks, fabrics, prints, paintings' and calabash carvings.

Whenever possible, the artists and artisans use local materials. The jewelry, for example, incorporates meerschaum — a mineral found only in Tanzania and Turkey - as well as ivory, ebony, seeds, bones, amber and ostrich eggs.

Two years ago, the gallery began a hand-operated paper mill - believed to be the only one of its kind on the African continent. Tanzania has no paper plant, and with an acute foreign exchange shortage here, importing fine-grade paper has been virtually impossible.

All major decisions at the art center are made through general meetings and a workers' council.

"We've tried to open up the whole group to decision-making, especially regarding money," sister Jean explained.

"Wages and bonuses are based on the evaluation of a person's performance by the entire collective.'

In the beginning the artists preferred to be paid in the customary way - by the piece. But now they all receive monthly salaries, medical benefits and yearly wage increase based on their
