

Ingersoll-Rand lays off another 200

By DAVID CHRISTENSON
Staff Writer

Ingersoll - Rand Oilfield Products Co. of Pampa announced the layoff of nearly 200 salaried and hourly - wage employees today, including 147 Pampa workers.

The layoff involves a "virtual shutdown" of the company's Lubbock plant, and will affect Ingersoll's Mobilrig Division in Pampa.

Company officials said the layoff will not affect the Specialty Steel Division in Pampa.

A small special products group will continue to operate at the company's Lubbock offices, company spokesmen said.

The job reduction will take place on a seniority basis, and affects employees hired since mid - 1979.

Ingersoll employed nearly 900 workers locally before today's layoff.

Company officials blame the recent slowdown in oilfield operations and "bleak market forecasts" for the layoff.

The drilling slowdown was blamed in early June as well, when Ingersoll laid off 170 workers, 155 of which were located in Pampa and 15 of which worked at the company's Lubbock plant.

That layoff amounted to about 20 percent of the 1,000 - strong Pampa workforce.

Earlier this year, in April, the company laid off 39 workers at the Pampa plant.

Rumors of more layoffs at the company were ruffling in Pampa in the weeks since that massive cutback, but company spokesmen told The Pampa News that no further job reductions were planned.

Ray Hupp, vice - president of the company in charge of industrial relations, said only one week ago that no further job cuts were planned at the company.

He said, however, that revenue from a one million dollar revenue bond approved for the company by the Gray County Commissioners' Court would not be used for expansion, but for "regular machinery replacement" and renovation.

And on June 11, the company's president V.P. Raymond said Ingersoll would not lay off any more workers during the remainder of 1982, and in fact said workers affected by that layoff would be called back "as soon as business picks up."

Raymond said the June 2 layoffs were based on company sales projections for the remainder of the year, and the sales projection and layoffs were adjusted to balance the company's needs through December.

Reunion:

Memories of sheep, planes and scares

By CINDA ROBINSON
Lifestyle Editor

Former employees are already getting together in Pampa for the 40th anniversary of the opening of the Pampa Army Air Field (1942 - 1982) and their 10th annual reunion.

Thursday afternoon four of the former air field personnel met to exchange a couple of stories and catch up on their present status.

They were Matty Tamburrano of Houston; Quenton Nolte, president of the Pampa Army Air Field Reunion of Pampa; Jerry Dressler of Houston; and Blake Laramore of Pampa.

Matty came to Pampa as head of the photographic lab of the Pampa Army Air Field in October of 1942. He remembers Pampa as a small, quiet and very friendly town.

When he arrived with 13 others at the then new air field there were only eight other soldiers assigned to the base.

"I really didn't get to do much except work for the one year that I was assigned to this base. I had to set up the photo lab and train personnel who didn't know anything about photography," Matty said.

Jerry Dressler arrived with Matty in that first group of 13. He remembers Pampa a little differently.

"I had a good time in Pampa. The people here were very friendly, even to the point of being protective.

"One night I had been in town and I had drank a little too much. I'm not sure how I got back to the base. All I know is that the people made sure that I got on the right bus and made it back to the base," Jerry laughed.

Jerry was the base technical inspector and his job involved checking over everything on the base, including Matty's photo lab.

"Jerry didn't know anything about photo labs, but he would come into my lab with a book in his hand and start looking for anything that was in that book. He got a big kick out of finding something out of place," Matty said.

Quenton Nolte helped to open the base in Pampa before construction had even begun. His first office was located in the Tom Rose Motor building at 121 N. Ballard.

His first glimpse of Pampa was late at night after arriving on a train. He was tired and hungry and his first stop was the old Adams Hotel.

"I could see the sign of the Adam's Hotel from the train depot and headed straight for it. After getting a room I started looking for something to eat. My first meal in Pampa was at the Courthouse Cafe which was located where the Hallmark card shop is now.

"My first glimpse of town was at night, so I didn't really know where anything was. I was really surprised the next morning when they told me the air field office was right across the street from the hotel I was staying in," Quenton said.

While stationed here he was the chief clerk in the cadet detachment. After the cadets were trained at the base, Quenton would administer tests to determine their status when they left the base to be assigned to flying duties.

Quenton stayed with the air field base until it closed in September of 1945 and the headquarters were moved to Enid. He got his discharge from the service and stayed here with his wife, the former Letta Bullard.

Blake Laramore was a Pampa boy when he volunteered for the service. Part of the enlistment agreement was that he would return to the Pampa base. He was only guaranteed one night, but the one night turned into three years.

Blake arrived back in Pampa on Thanksgiving Day, 1942. He was assigned the duty of mess sergeant.

"The one thing I remember most was the six months of sheep. We had sheep every meal for six months and I can remember the smell of sheep cooking. While we were serving one meal of sheep you could smell the sheep cooking for the next meal. I still can't stand sheep to this day," he laughed.

"The yankees didn't know the difference, they thought they were eating beef," Jerry laughed.

After serving as mess sergeant, Blake was assigned to run the commissary market.

"One time we got in 1,000 pounds of bacon to sell at 31 cents a pound. That was at a time when bacon was scarce," Blake said.

After Blake was discharged from the service he stayed in Pampa and operated a grocery business and meat packing company. He is still in the food business as a distributor for World's Finest Chocolates.

"It was a Thursday afternoon and they restricted everyone to the base. We were all told to report to the hospital for physicals. It seems the Japs had found our weak spot in the bombers and they were giving everyone physicals for tail gunners.

"At 7 p.m. they cancelled the order and let us all go. It was very frightening for a while there," Quenton said.

"I remember when that happened I was stationed at Arlington and they were shipping about 500 tail gunners a week through there. And I had to take pictures of everyone of them. If you had been chosen, I would have seen you there," Matty said.

The four old buddies and their wives will get together again tonight with the rest of the group at the Coronada Inn at 7 p.m. when the first official segment of the Pampa Army Air Field Reunion 10th Reunion gets underway.

Hang on to your hat, gang, it's GROOM DAY!

By TOM ALLSTON
State Editor

GROOM - The annual Groom Day celebration is under way here, with sports events, crafts demonstrations, class reunions, parade and a big barbecue scheduled for the two - day, citywide event.

Junior high and high school division tennis tournaments began this morning at the Groom High School tennis courts. This afternoon's matches were scheduled for women's singles at 1 p.m. and women's doubles at 2 p.m. Men's singles at 3 p.m., followed by men's doubles and mixed doubles later this afternoon.

Four class reunions are scheduled tonight and one Saturday: the Classes of 1951 and 1952 will have a cookout at the home of Arnold Kuehler, and a get - together at the home of Darlene Jones; the Class of 1942 will meet at the home of Art Britten, and the Class of 1962 at the home of Mrs. Bob Newton. After Saturday's parade, the Class of 1937 will meet at the Lucky 13.

Saturday's activities kick off with the 10 kilometer and 2 mile runs, with registration starting at 6 a.m. at Groom High School, and the runs getting under way at 7:30 a.m.

At 10 a.m. the parade will begin in the downtown area. This year's parade will have a marshal, who is school superintendent Rex Peebles.

The arts and crafts fair, to be held in the high school gymnasium, will feature demonstrations in face painting, T shirts, sculpture, sewing, needlework, plaster and jewelry crafts, plus other forms or art and crafts on display.

Booths at the display will provide refreshments, with the Lions Club booth's German and Polish sausages on a bun featured.

Volleyball tournaments will be held all day Saturday at the high school.

Finals in the tennis tournament are also scheduled for Saturday afternoon.

Highlight of the event will be the barbecue, scheduled for 5 - 7 p.m. at the high school cafeteria. Wayne Kotara is in charge of preparation of the barbecue, which will go on all night tonight. Almost everyone in Groom has been involved with providing food or assistance for the feed, and the Groom Lions Club will be in charge of the serving.

Following the barbecue, at 7:30 p.m., a children's track meet will be held at the high school football field. Events are scheduled for boys and girls from age 2 up.

Groom Day has been held as the city's big annual event since 1976. Further information on Groom Day activities is available from Truman Bridges or John Eschle.

Interstate 40 loses its only traffic light

McLEAN - The fate of Interstate 40's only traffic light is yet to be decided.

With the construction of bypasses along major U.S. highways, the number of traffic controls on interstates has dwindled in recent years to almost none.

The light in McLean - reputedly the only one on the 2,000 mile - plus length of I-40 - was knocked down Saturday afternoon in a traffic accident. In the chain - reaction mishap, a car and a truck were in collision in the intersection, the truck swerved, taking out the light's support poles and bringing down the light itself, which fell on a mobile home passing through the intersection.

"The light was pretty well destroyed," Richard Crandall of the Texas Highway Department regional office in Amarillo told the News. "I understand that the only thing not destroyed was one red glass lens."

Crandall pointed out that the light is not warranted by traffic flow at the intersection with Main Street, and so the state has no obligation to maintain it. Route 66 in the other direction, he said, has a flashing beacon, "which is what is warranted."

"That light's been there 30 years or so," Crandall said. "The people of McLean apparently feel it's a good thing, so we've never told them we had to just take it down."

But, he said, it is very unlikely the state will replace the light, as it is technically unnecessary by state standards.

The McLean City Council is expected to meet early next week with Highway Department representatives to determine what course of action to take in the matter.

Until then, all that's left of I-40's only remaining stoplight is a round red piece of glass in the McLean City Warehouse. And it's a straight shot from Chicago to L.A.

Inmate accused of surgery to himself

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) - A 25-year-old prisoner used a smuggled razor blade to cut open his leg and remove a bullet that might have linked him to a 1976 murder, probably ruining the prosecution's case, officials said.

Hamby McCaskill, being held in the Escambia County Jail while serving a four-year sentence for an unrelated robbery conviction, apparently flushed the bullet down the toilet after cutting it out, Assistant State Attorney Ron Johnson said Thursday.

The prosecutor sought the bullet to determine if it could be linked to the death of Felton Robitzsch, 66, a gas station owner shot and killed during a June 25, 1976, robbery. Officials believe Robitzsch fired at - and hit - his assailant.

Officials said McCaskill apparently slashed out the bullet Wednesday, one day after a federal judge said the state could order the bullet surgically removed. X-rays had located the slug about half an inch inside McCaskill's left thigh, Johnson said.

Johnson said the bullet was a key piece of prosecution evidence, adding that McCaskill probably would not be charged for the slaying.

"There's a criminal statute that prohibits the destruction of physical evidence," Johnson said. "But, of course, that's very minimal compared to a murder charge."

McCaskill's attorney, public defender Terry Terrell, declined to comment and would not allow reporters to interview his client.

Capt. Odie Eddins, a jail supervisor, said McCaskill was in solitary confinement and guards were ordered to check on him every 15 minutes.

"If he flushed (the toilet), there's no trap in the bottom of the commode there," Eddins said.

"We don't have the manpower to watch one inmate 24 hours a day," he added. "The only restraint that I know of is we could have handcuffed him to the bars. But the federal courts would crucify us for something like that."

Authorities didn't learn McCaskill had cut out the bullet until he was taken Wednesday to a Pensacola hospital.

"They (hospital personnel) got him undressed and he had a bloody sock around his leg," Johnson said.

Johnson said the state wanted to compare the bullet in McCaskill's leg to the weapon used by Robitzsch.

Local unemployment may hit 8 percent

By DAVID CHRISTENSON
Staff Writer

Unemployment in Pampa, before today's announcement by Ingersoll - Rand of another big layoff, was reported at six percent, but the economy of the Panhandle in general may be looking up, according to local employment agencies.

Charles Vance, manager of the local office of the Texas Employment Commission, said there has been a "slow steady increase" in unemployment in Pampa in the past two months.

He said Thursday afternoon that, although there were no large layoffs in the city's industries since Ingersoll - Rand's June cutback, there has been a general decline in employment, particularly in oilfield - related work.

Oil producers and related industries have been cutting back in Pampa bit by bit, according to Vance.

"If the next six or eight weeks follow the trend of the last six or eight weeks," Vance said, "we'll be looking at unemployment in the region of eight percent."

Today's Ingersoll - Rand layoff will make that percentage jump, perhaps approaching the eight percent figure.

That percentage, though it is very high for Pampa, is still low compared to the rest of the country.

The most recent figures put unemployment at about nine and one - half percent, Vance said.

Unemployment at the state level is listed at about seven and one - half to eight percent.

Robert Asire, president of Dunhill Personnel Service of Pampa, Inc., had good news for Panhandle people, however.

He said his agency does not concentrate on the job market in Pampa, but handles many skilled and professional jobs in the Panhandle, and the indications in these areas are positive.

"In general, the Panhandle is doing much better than it has been in the last two months," he said. "Companies are indicating that they are going to need people."

He said manufacturing firms are "still down," but there are signs of "a little bit of recovery" in oil and gas employment.

Areas of professional employment, Asire said, are on a "slight move up."

Data processing jobs, for example, are maintaining the all - time high they reached last fall in the Panhandle, Asire said.

"Confidence is up" in regional industry, according to Asire, and rumor has it that some jobs should begin to reappear in September.

Dunhill is the local branch of the national Dunhill agency, which operates Panhandle to expand their facilities this fall, bringing more jobs.

Vance said economic effects have not reached other sectors of business in Pampa yet.

There are "quite a few job openings" in retail and service work here, and "so far, no lulls" in many other areas his office handles, he said.

Analysis

about 350 offices in every state, Asire said.

Dunhill is a private agency that locates jobs for clients on a paid basis.

Nationally, he said, his company is "feeling a bottom" to the economic slump that has plagued the country in the past year.

He said the decrease in the prime lending rate seems to be inspiring some companies in industrial areas like the Skilled office jobs, food service jobs, and nurses' aide jobs are still readily available here, Vance said.

Weather

Partly cloudy through Saturday, chance of thundershowers. High today low 90s, low tonight mid 60s.

Lake Meredith search continues for Perryton drowning victim

LAKE MEREDITH — The search at Lake Meredith for the body of a Perryton man continues today after a boating accident early Thursday morning.
 Personnel of the National Park Service, Texas Parks and Wildlife and the Hutchinson County Sheriff's Department are searching for Eddie Crawford, 25, who is listed as missing at the lake.
 A helicopter search of the entire park area was conducted Thursday. Three boats dragged the lake Thursday afternoon, and officials searched the shoreline on foot and with vehicles, but efforts to find Crawford were unsuccessful.
 Crawford was fishing from a boat near the middle of the lake with Shane Arnold, 27, also of Perryton, shortly after midnight Wednesday, when the boat began taking on water.

 Arnold told authorities later that the boat started taking on water shortly after an hour of fishing near Blue East Point.
 The two men were unable to find life preservers, but still managed to stay afloat for a short time, Arnold said.
 He said he began swimming to shore, assuming Crawford was swimming alongside him, but did not see Crawford when he reached the shoreline.
 Crawford did not call for help, according to Arnold.
 Arnold walked barefoot to a home six miles from the lake, and the resident, Ken Dona, drove him to Sanford where he called park rangers at about 3:45 a.m.

 Boat and shoreline searches for Crawford began immediately by park personnel, who followed Arnold's trail to the water.
 "About ten men are searching on both land and water," a park ranger said Thursday afternoon, with the aid of one Hutchinson County sheriff's deputy.
 Officials have also been unable to find the sunken boat, park rangers said, and do not know why the boat sank.

BusNet broadcast cancelled

The cable television program scheduled this morning by the United States Chamber of Commerce was not broadcast due to legal technicalities, according to Floyd Sackett, manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.
 The program, which was to televise an anti-tax increase rally, was to have been broadcast on the national business network which is to begin operations in October.
 According to the USCC, Sackett said, opponents of the rally brought pressure to bear to stop the broadcast, based on the point that the network is not legally scheduled to begin broadcasting until the October date.
 "We'd like to apologize for the mixup," Sackett said.

Monday shooting ruling still pending

By JEFF LANGLEY
 Staff Writer
 No ruling has been made in connection with the Monday night shooting death of a 60-year-old Pampa man.
 M.L. "Jack" Robinson was found shot to death about 10:40 p.m. Sunday in his trailer house at 508 S. Gillespie.
 Police said "an acquaintance" of Robinson discovered the death when the person went to check on the victim.
 Police said a .22 caliber rifle and a spent shell were found on the floor of the trailer.
 Capt. Roy Denman declined to speculate how many times Robinson had been shot, pending completion of an official autopsy report.
 The autopsy was ordered by Justice of the Peace Margie Prestidge. Prestidge was unavailable for comment today, but according to her secretary and police, the JP has not ruled on the cause of Robinson's death.

 A report of the shooting death was not listed on the police blotter, or a public summary of police activities, at any time this week.
 Denman said he could not release certain information about the case until the official investigation is completed.
 "That's still under investigation, awaiting results of the autopsy," Denman said today.
 Services for Robinson were at 2 p.m. Thursday in Carmichael - Whitley Colonial Chapel, with Dr. Alvin Hiltbrunner, pastor of Central Baptist Church, officiating.
 Burial was in Memory Gardens Cemetery.
 Robinson was a retired welder with Skelly Oil Company.
 He is survived by one son, one daughter, four sisters, two brothers and five grandchildren.

Nation's jobless now almost 10 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate pushed closer to the 10 percent level in July, hitting a 9.8 percent rate, the highest in 41 years, the government reported today.
 The jobless rate had held nearly steady as the recession continued through the spring — rising only from 9.4 percent in April to 9.5 percent in May and June. But today's Labor Department report was filled with newly discouraging figures.
 In July, the report said, about 10.8 million Americans were officially unemployed — actively looking for jobs but not finding them — about 360,000 more than in June. About 1.5 million more have given up, the government reported last month.
 July's jobless rate for adult males, who make up the bulk of the nation's blue-collar workers, rose to 8.8 percent, a post-World War II record.

Unemployment for blacks held steady at 18.5 percent, although the jobless rate for black teen-agers declined slightly to 49.7 percent from June's 52.6 percent.
 Unemployment rates rose 0.3 percentage point to 8.7 percent for whites and to 8.4 percent for adult women of all races.

Car accident victim improved

AMARILLO — Ann Dykes, Skellytown woman injured in an auto-crash July 21, has been taken out of the intensive care unit at St. Anthony's Hospital and is listed in satisfactory condition.
 She was injured in a two-car collision east of Skellytown that killed a Pampa man, 25-year-old George Copado.

Reunion...

 Registration for the reunion will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday morning in the Coronado Inn. The business luncheon will follow at noon.
 The dedication ceremony for the historical marker will be held at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at the former Air Force base. The site is located on highway 152 at what is locally known as Moody Farms.
 Representative Foster Whaley will preside over the dedication ceremony. The public is invited to attend the ceremony.
 The reunion activities will wind down Saturday night with a banquet and dance.

Layoff...

 Ingersoll's Mobilrig plant in Pampa manufactures mobile drilling rigs, some reaching up to 15 stories in height, and the Specialty Steel Division produces quality steel for applications in oil drilling.
 The company, because of the nature of its products, is at the mercy of oil activity in the area for its business health.
 Drilling is down, oil men say, because of the general slump in the national economy, high interest rates, and a glut of foreign oil on the American market.
 Ingersoll is one of the largest employers in Pampa, and company spokesmen said the most recent layoff would be a "very painful reduction" for the company to make.

whittling knife.
 Matheny told police the robber probably suffered at least one severe cut to the abdomen in the struggle. Part of the police investigation, Carden said, involved checking out area clinics, hospitals and doctors.
 Carden said police, checking to see if the robber sought medical treatment, "covered the entire Panhandle area, the Oklahoma Panhandle and western Oklahoma," but it is possible "someone may have taken him to New Mexico or south."
 Although the man probably needed medical attention, Pampa police have received no reports from doctors outside the Panhandle.

 The victim said during the fight the younger man took Matheny's bloodied pocket knife away from him and threw it away.
 Looking for the weapon, Carden said, officers spent "probably ten or twelve man hours" on the search, but could not find the knife.
 Carden said officers were working "real late last night" on locating a suspect in the robbery, and probably will continue the search today.
 "It could break any time," he said.
 Matheny gave police a description of a 25 to 28-year-old man with long blonde hair, wearing blue coveralls at the time of the robbery.
 Upon investigation, police found a trail of blood from the scene of the robbery to the alley behind the salvage yard.
 The trail stopped at the alley, police said, and only one drop of blood was found in the alley itself.
 Police could not determine from the trail what direction the man fled.
 When they checked out local doctors, one physician told police he saw a blonde man slumped in the front seat of a tan Chevrolet driven by a blonde woman.
 The doctor said the car slowed down in front of his office as if the driver was considering a stop there, but traveled on west.
 Police today would not describe other efforts they are using to find the robber, because, as Carden said, they did not want to "spook the suspect."

Some Texas border businessmen will hold off on accepting Mexican pesos

By The Associated Press
Laredo Jewelry store owner Robert Mendez didn't know if the reports he was hearing about another devaluation of the Mexican peso were true, but he did know what he planned to do if they were. "I hope it's not true, but if it is, I'm not going to take pesos until we see what's going to happen," Mendez said.

He wasn't alone. Roque Vela of Laredo said he, too, will wait to see how the market responds before he resumes accepting pesos at the two bowling alleys and entertainment centers he runs.

Businessmen in both Laredo and El Paso, two of the largest Texas cities on the Rio Grande, both expected the situation to improve today when banks notify them of the exchange rate.

The Mexican government announced Thursday night that it would allow the peso to float to a new dollar level based on supply and demand for most transactions. In effect, the action is a devaluation.

Bankers — like retailers — were adopting a wait-and-see attitude.

"Nobody knows what the (Mexican) banks will do," said Javier Garza, executive vice president of the Laredo National Bank. "But they will probably watch each other when they open tomorrow (Friday) to determine their rates."

He said he expects the Mexican banks to change their exchange rates daily as the market changes.

Ray Keck Jr., president of the Union National Bank of Laredo, said the effect of the Mexican government's action locally will be affected greatly by the "shock factor."

"The shock factor is always something we have to consider. It is not a good reading of the situation. However, it keeps people from spending their money even if they have it," Keck said.

Garza urged caution.

"We should not push the panic button on this issue," he said. "It's serious, but it's nothing to panic over."

"The Mexican government feels the new rates will make Mexican products more competitive in the world market," Garza said.

El Paso bankers and businessmen, who expressed surprise at the action by the Mexican government, said the trading value of the peso would be settled today when the banks open.

"When I left this afternoon at 5 p.m., it was trading at 49.5 pesos to the dollar," Clinton "Bud" Luckett, vice president of the international department for State National Bank of El Paso, said Thursday.

Charles W. "Lucky" Leverett, president of the El Paso Downtown Development Association, said downtown business has not recovered entirely from the last time the Mexican government let the peso float Feb. 17.

After Feb. 17, the peso began trading at a steady rate of 27 to 28 to a dollar and gradually lost at the rate of about four cents a day to the point where it was trading at 49.5 to the dollar Thursday.

"I would say we lost maybe 40 to 50 percent of our business Downtown" after the Feb. 17 action, Leverett said.

"It was starting to come back a little bit. But the first shock is always the toughest, and this is quite a blow. I expect we will lose a lot of what we gained again."

Court denies institute's bid for Hughes estate

HOUSTON (AP) — A state appeals court rejected the claim of a Florida medical institute trying to have two "lost wills" of Howard Hughes declared valid.

A Nevada court earlier refused to probate the two wills, a decision later upheld by the Nevada Supreme Court.

The 14th Texas Court of Civil Appeals on Wednesday supported a probate judge's ruling that last year denied the Howard Hughes Medical Institute a share in the late billionaire's estate, worth as much as $2 billion.

The private medical research organization, housed at the University of Miami, has 15 days to seek a rehearing.

Hughes died in April 1976 aboard a medical jet flying from Acapulco, Mexico, to Houston. A worldwide search failed to produce a valid will, even though more than 40 purported documents surfaced.

In November 1981, a probate court in Houston declared an aunt and 21 cousins the heirs to Hughes' fortune.

Several appeals are still pending, and the question of whether Texas or California has the right to tax the estate still must be decided by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Attorneys for the medical institute argued that two wills were drafted by Hughes but later lost.

They said one will, drawn May 30, 1925, left most of Hughes' wealth to the Howard Hughes Medical Research Laboratories, which was to be established after his death.

The medical institute failed to submit the original will, instead producing a photocopy unsigned by Hughes or two witnesses.

Attorneys for the institute argued it was the "substitute" beneficiary named in the document, but the three-judge panel disagreed.

The 1925 will "specifically provides for the creation of a corporation in Harris County, Texas, to conduct a laboratory devoted to the discovery and development of ways, means, antitoxins and specifics for the prevention and curing of the most serious diseases," the justices said.

The other "lost will," supposedly executed sometime between 1953 and 1963, specifically named the principal beneficiary, institute attorneys said.

A former Hughes executive, John T. Pettit, had testified that in 1963 one of Hughes' lawyers showed him a document that was identified as the tycoon's will.

Watt ordered not to lease Fort Chaffee oil acreage

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — The U.S. Secretary of the Interior has been ordered not to lease 33,000 acres at Fort Chaffee for oil and gas exploration at $1 per acre to a Texas firm.

U.S. District Judge H. Franklin Waters issued a temporary restraining order Thursday prohibiting James Watt from reinstating the leases to Texas Oil and Gas Corp. until a hearing Monday.

The hearing is to be before Waters or U.S. Magistrate Ned Stewart, at Fort Smith or Fayetteville.

Arkla Exploration Co. of Shreveport, La., filed a lawsuit Wednesday in federal court at Fort Smith asking that the leases not be granted until it could be decided whether they should be subject to competitive bidding. The U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington ordered Watt on June 11 to reinstate the leases to the Texas firm at $1 per acre.

Former Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus had canceled the leases in 1979 after U.S. Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., protested.

About 24,000 acres at Fort Chaffee have been leased competitively to 15 companies at an average of $1.739 per acre. If the Texas Oil leases were awarded competitively at that average price, they would be worth $75.3 million, said Jim Guy Tucker of Little Rock, an attorney representing Arkla.

Arkla asked for a hearing Monday because of the possibility that Watt might reinstate the leases and issue drilling permits.

"I think it's a good solution and a fair one that doesn't hurt anybody," Tucker said of the order. Waters signed it Thursday after almost four hours of conferences.

Tom Walsh, a legislative assistant to Bumpers, said the senator supported Arkla's position because of the amount of money the leases might be worth to the state and western Arkansas. State law divides the lease money among the federal and state governments and the counties that surround Fort Chaffee — Logan, Crawford, Sebastian and Franklin.

"We're just 100,000 percent behind Arkla in this case," Walsh said.

Andrus issued the leases in 1979 under a federal law allowing non-competitive bidding for oil and gas leases on land where no oil and gas has been discovered and which has not been proved to be productive.

Bumpers protested the low price and Andrus canceled the leases, saying they had been awarded through an administrative error that he had the power to correct.

Texas Oil and Gas filed a federal lawsuit saying that Andrus had abused his power. The U.S. Court of Appeals ruled in its favor, ordering the leases reinstated. Because the disputed leases are for land adjacent to land for which leases were awarded competitively, Arkla alleges that the disputed leases should be competitive as well.

Chaffee, a military reservation, sends lease money to the U.S. Treasury, which sends half back to the state. Of the state's share, 25 percent goes to the four surrounding counties, which divide it among school districts, road departments and county and city governments.

Wood hearing enters fifth day

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Defense attorneys in the Judge John H. Wood Jr. murder case are questioning FBI agents who electronically eavesdropped on thousands of conversations of inmates at a federal prison.

Lawyer Warren Burnett complained Thursday that his client, Elizabeth Chagra, was "a prisoner of the candor of the executive branch of government" in determining whether the wiretapping and electronic bugging was done in accordance with the law.

Burnett was expected to complete his cross-examination of FBI supervisor Gary Hart today, the fifth day of a pretrial hearing in the case.

Hart testified Thursday that agents monitored more than 10,000 inmate conversations at the Leavenworth, Kan., penitentiary during a four-month period of 1980-81 in the massive investigation of Wood's death.

These included 321 telephone conversations and 21 visiting room conversations involving inmate Jamie "Jimmy" Chagra, who is charged with paying $250,000 for a hitman to kill Wood, Hart testified.

Prosecutors and defense attorneys have indicated the first break in the investigation of Wood's assassination here on May 29, 1979, came during Chagra's recorded conversations with his brother Joseph, an El Paso attorney, in November 1980.

Burnett and other defense attorneys contend FBI agents violated the attorney-client privilege of the Chagra brothers, and the husband-wife privilege of Jimmy Chagra and his wife, Elizabeth, during the court-ordered electronic eavesdropping from October 1980 until January 1981.

In the course of listening to the telephone conversations, Hart said agents "heard at least in part" a total of 10,085 inmate calls from pay telephones in two cell blocks at Leavenworth after a federal judge in Kansas authorized the eavesdropping.

He said agents, trained to recognize Chagra's voice, would listen to the first 15 to 30 seconds to determine if it were Chagra making the call.

Because of past practices of inmates making calls for other prisoners, Hart said that agents at times would make 10-second spot checks to be sure Chagra was not on the phone.

Hart repeatedly testified that all possible steps were taken by the monitoring agents to ensure that the rights of the Chagras were not violated during the eavesdropping through a process he termed "minimization," switching off the recording device when privileged communications were in progress.

Defense attorneys have moved to bar the tapes from the trial of the case set for Sept. 28.

During this hearing, U.S. District Judge William S. Sessions is scheduled to rule motions to disqualify himself as judge, suppress the tapes, move the trial from San Antonio on a change of venue, and try the defendants separately. The judge has said he will not rule on any of the motions until the end of the hearing, expected sometime next week.

Jimmy Chagra is accused of hiring Charles V. Harrelson to shoot Wood to prevent the judge from presiding over Chagra's 1979 narcotics trial. After Wood was killed, Sessions presided and sentenced Jimmy Chagra to 30 years in prison without parole.

Joe Chagra and Elizabeth Chagra are accused of joining in the plot to kill Wood, and Harrelson's wife, Jo Ann, is charged with perjury and conspiracy to obstruct justice.

A surprise government move to declare the marriages of Jimmy and Elizabeth Chagra and Charles and Jo Ann Harrelson bigamous was expected to be argued next week. Prosecutors charged that the Charles Harrelson and Elizabeth Chagra never dissolved previous common-law marriages, therefore their current marriages are null and void and marital privilege does not apply.

Attorney Oscar Goodman, representing Jimmy Chagra, Thursday asked Sessions to appoint an attorney to represent the couple's three young children on the bigamy allegation.

Lubbock pastor was Arkansas samaritan

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — A 3-year-old boy may owe his life to a Lubbock pastor who says he pulled the child from a wrecked, burning camper on an Arkansas mountain road Sunday.

Arkansas state police did not know the name of the man credited with saving Paul Miller of Cove, Ark. — the only survivor of a head-on car-truck accident that killed seven people, including the boy's parents and grandparents, an 11-year-old girl.

The Rev. B.A. Hyatt, who also is a nursing home administrator, told the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal he was the rescuer and said he "some way had the supernatural strength" to save the child.

The newspaper said it learned of Hyatt's act when the preacher wrote to thank the staff for running an article about the accident.

Hyatt said he and his family came across the accident on U.S. Highway 71, 10 miles north of Mountainburg, Ark., on their way home from a funeral.

The camper, with four adults and two children inside, had just begun to burn after turning over in a ditch. Lying in the highway was the driver of the car, a woman, "alive but terribly mangled," Hyatt said. He pulled the child away from the flaming wreckage; his son and some bystanders righted the truck and extracted the two women, Hyatt said. Flames engulfed the wreckage before the two men could be pulled out, he said.

"I some way had supernatural strength and didn't realize I was so beat, but when it was over I was totally drained, physically and emotionally," said Hyatt, a 54-year-old Assembly of God minister.

"Traffic was backed up for a good mile either way. It seemed like every time we needed somebody to help, they were there, and when we didn't need anybody, they stayed out of the way. An off-duty policeman was there to help with the traffic and he said he had never seen anything like it."

The fire spread rapidly through the truck, Hyatt said, "getting larger by the second" and growing too hot for the two men pinned inside to be rescued.

Deputy injured when inmates attempt escape

DENTON, Texas (AP) — Two Denton County jail inmates, accused of stabbing a jailer in an escape attempt, have been charged with attempted capital murder and ordered held without bond, authorities said.

The jail guard, Larry F. Hale, 30, was stabbed when he opened a door to the two inmates' cell, Sheriff's Sgt. Randy Kaisner said.

Hale was listed in satisfactory condition Thursday at Flow Memorial Hospital. He had been stabbed in the chest and kicked in the groin, hospital officials said.

Norman Pearson, 19, of Dallas, and Gary Wayne Tipps, 17, of Valley View were arraigned before state District Judge John Narsutis Thursday evening.

Hale was stabbed with what deputies believe was a spoke from a jail exercise bicycle, Sheriff's Department Sgt. Randy Kaisner said.

The two prisoners were caught in the jail corridor after Hale called for help over the intercom system, Kaisner said.

Pearson was in jail on a charge of false imprisonment, Kaisner said.

Tipps recently had been sentenced to seven years on an aggravated rape conviction, 15 on an aggravated robbery conviction and was being held on 10 additional felony charges, Kaisner said.

Deputy Sheriff's Sgt. Randy Kaisner said.

I, Dennis Dehn, join Earl Davis and J.K.W. in thanking the many clients, who have supported me in the past 25 years at Radio Station KPND.

I am no longer associated with KPND, and wish the new management success.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

U.S. military fairing well without GI bill

Citing the conventional wisdom that educational benefits are good for both the armed services and the nation, many congressmen are now trying to revive plans for a new GI Bill this summer.

They're certainly right about the value of educational benefits. More than 18 million Americans, instead of returning to farm and factory after they left the service, received a college education courtesy of the beneficence of the first three GI bills. This helped the nation by raising the educational level of the populace. And the armed services were strengthened by the quality young men who enlisted because they saw the service as a way to help them pursue their educations.

Two years ago, it looked certain that a new GI Bill would be adopted. Then, the military services were complaining loudly that the all-volunteer Army was suffering because of inability to attract enough high-quality, well-educated recruits. Reports of high numbers of high school dropouts and disciplinary problems in the service made the idea of increasing incentives look especially attractive. Candidate Reagan said during the presidential campaign that, if elected, he would ask Congress to reinstate the GI Bill.

But since then, the military recruiting picture has brightened considerably. Partly because the services are offering higher pay and partly because of the scarcity of jobs nationwide, the military services have all provide educational benefits — is already being filled by the Veterans' Educational Assistance Program. Although VEAP is not as generous as the GI Bill, it still is an attractive incentive that will help draw recruits into the service.

If and when the services again have difficulty attracting enough high-quality recruits, it will be time for Congress to consider expanding VEAP or adopting a new GI Bill. But for now, they must disregard their nostalgia and devote their energy to higher-priority but less-glamorous budget needs. As Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., put it, the GI Bill "would be great to have, but we can't be that generous when we're cutting the budget."

They have faith in U.S.

Foreigners expressed their confidence in free enterprise by sharply increasing the funds they invested in the United States last year.

They invested $19.2 billion in 875 U.S. businesses, primarily by acquiring a substantial interest in existing firms and in some by establishment, the U.S. Commerce Department has reported. During 1980, new foreign investment totaled $12.2 billion.

Last year big deals dominated as 29 acquisitions involved outlays of at least $100 million each and accounted for $13.3 billion of the $19.2 total investment. Foreign investors and their U.S. affiliates paid about $16.7 billion for establishing 554 new businesses.

The acquired businesses employ 394,000 workers and have assets of $71.6 billion. These firms accounted for less than 1 percent of the total U.S. working force.

The top three foreign investors in the United States are The Netherlands, Britain and Canada. Together they account for nearly two-thirds of the land, natural resources and manufacturing, service and other industries under foreign control in the United States. The West Germans are moving up fast; half of their total foreign investment money is going into U.S. operations.

The world will keep knocking with bullish optimism on Uncle Sam's door for they know the United States continues to be the best place in the world for people from other lands to invest their money.

A disillusioned Watergate tot

When Michigan liberal William M. Brodhead first came to Congress as one of the large class of Democrat "Watergate Babies" in 1974, he was filled with excitement and expectation.

"I kept saying, 'I can't believe I get paid for this, it's so much fun,'" he recalled. "I didn't want there to be one unemployed person in my district; I didn't want there to be one handicapped child without an opportunity for educational access. I wanted to do everything."

A few days ago, Brodhead stayed home from work, watched as his wife sent their two youngest sons off to school, and then went to the kitchen and reached for a piece of common newsprint to write his resignation from Congress effective at the end of this year.

Friends and foes alike in the House were astounded. Brodhead was not only a shoo-in for reelection this November from his Northwest Detroit district, but he was seen as a probable future governor of Michigan. What had happened?

In Brodhead's case, it was not just the familiar story of the dedicated, burned out overachiever who had finally had enough, although that was part of it. ("As my colleagues were asking me, 'How can you work 70, 80, 90 hours a week and go five years with one 5 percent pay raise? How can you be under this constant, growing pressure from lobbyists and special-interest groups?'" )

Beyond that, it was Brodhead's complete disillusionment with politics, a feared loss of perspective and personal integrity, and a growing feeling that few of the people surrounding him really cared for the good of the country.

Brodhead, who yearly got perfect or near-perfect liberal ratings from the American Democratic Action and the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education, said the feeling had grown in him especially during the past two years that Congress is a "nut house."

The story of idealists coming face to face with reality and discovering government can't create Utopia is an old one, and Brodhead is not the first to discover hypocrisy and compromise dominate politics, but he's an interesting convert.

A voice for freedom

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN
"When the communists come in, the corn stops growing."
Dr. Karel Hujer, Guerry professor emeritus of physics and astronomy at the University of Tennessee - Chattanooga, told me this Czechoslovak proverb as he showed me mementoes of the homeland he left long ago.

Dr. Hujer, who is in his eighties, is an extraordinary scholar and human being. There's hardly a place in the world he hasn't visited. In 1934, for example, he spent time in the home of the Indian poet Tagore, after a 25-day voyage from England.

His journey in life began in a small city in Czechoslovakia, then part of the Austro-Hungarian Empire. He speaks of the hardship experienced as a boy in World War I, walking at night through the forest with a sack of rye on his back, carrying it to a mill in the darkness so the grain wouldn't be confiscated. After World War I, he eked out a meager living in Paris. He recalls that he had a great treasure, a quarter of a pound of coffee which he put in hot water a grain at a time.

The year 1938 brought him to San Pedro, California, where he heard the news that Hitler had invaded his country. He decided to settle in the United States, where he has had a distinguished academic career. He continues to prepare papers for international conferences on astronomy.

Like so many other refugees from totalitarianism, Prof. Hujer has an especially keen awareness of the liberties enjoyed by Americans. He is dismayed at the lack of understanding of the grim reality of life in the Soviet empire. He has seen it with his own eyes in recent times and in his travels across the USSR on the Trans-Siberian Express during Stalin's time. He has written of the great famine of 1933, "planned and deliberate, not due to any natural catastrophe like the failure of grain but an administrative famine brought on by forced collectivization and deportation of uncounted thousands of peasants, owners of the land, carted in cattle cars to an oblivion in Siberia." He reminds us that "only recently did the world obtain some shadow of the indescribable barbarism and tragedy in exiled Russian author Alexander

Solzhenitsyn's epic work, The Gulag Archipelago."

Prof. Hujer's knowledge of the contemporary Soviet empire is very up-to-date, for he is in close touch with scientists in Central and Eastern Europe. His writings also appear in a Czech language journal in Chicago which publishes current information on life in captive Czechoslovakia, a subject that receives skimpy coverage in the major metropolitan media.

If there is any tragedy in the life of Prof. Hujer and other refugees from totalitarianism, it is that the American people don't pay sufficient attention to the story the refugees have to tell.

The network news shows are awash with "foreign policy analysts" who have obtained their alleged expertise from books, not from bitter experience under totalitarian rule, analysts who know little or nothing of the human suffering and political and cultural deprivation that exists in the unfree world of Central and Eastern Europe.

After a long lifetime of scholarly achievement, Karel Hujer's dedication to the cause of freedom and emancipation of the captive peoples of Europe burns as brightly as when he came to these shores.

The graduates

By DON GRAFF
You can tell a lot about a society by the values it places upon its members.

And you can tell a lot about that from the salaries offered those members who have reached the end of the educational line and are beginning professional careers.

The College Placement Council is out with its mid-year report on the subject, and it contains no surprises. Technologists again are commanding the fattest paychecks.

Petroleum engineers, at an average $30,468 per year, are receiving the most in their first jobs, followed by chemical engineers at $27,072. The figures for the two specialties are up 14.3 percent and 11.1 percent respectively over the previous year, gains that take on added interest when compared with an inflation rate that, as measured by the Consumer Price Index, trailed at 8.9 percent for the year.

By PAUL HARVEY

Tight money is bitter medicine

By PAUL HARVEY

Of course more Americans would build houses and buy cars if interest rates were lower. But should they?

With almost everybody pinched one way or another by high interest rates, my words would be much more palatable if they were directed at condemning (cq) the Federal Reserve Board.

But Americans were buying 3 million new houses every year and 13 million new cars every year — and a lot of other stuff — on borrowed money.

And our federal government has been similarly extravagant. Bidding against one another we drove prices higher and higher until our currency was threatened with collapse.

The Fed had no option but to take away our credit cards until we re-learn self-discipline.

The 16 1/4 percent prime rate may go as low as 14 percent by the end of this year but almost nobody expects to see it lower than that.

There was a wry cartoon in the Wall Street Journal the other day. Two men are seated at a bar and one is saying to the other, "Don't think of yourself as unemployed; think of yourself as a fighter against inflation."

Truth in jest. With an election of significance just weeks away, the critics of tight money will charge President Reagan with "fighting inflation with more hurtful recession."

Beginning salaries in the sciences are less but still comfortable. Degrees in physical and earth science specialties are worth the most, an average $23,760. Computer science is the runner-up at $22,896 but this year drew the most job offers in the field.

Moving on to business majors, newly qualified accountants are being paid the most but, at an average $18,540, far less than the technically qualified.

The College Placement Council surveys salary trends three times a year — in January, March and July. Its findings are based on offers tendered by company recruiters to four-year graduates at selected colleges and universities — 161 institutions in this case.

While the salary figures may be largely good news, less so is another aspect of the economy reflected in the survey. The number of offers has declined significantly from last year, by more than 15 percent, reflecting the impact of the recession. Even in the technical skills, the job market has contracted after six years of steady expansion with the demand generally exceeding the supply of graduates.

Missing from the survey are specifics on salaries for liberal arts graduates. The council does not collect data on this group in detail because, it explains, the bulk of graduates obtain jobs — at least the lucky ones do — after leaving school. The figures for them are necessarily less complete and dependable.

But information available elsewhere indicates that jobs are far fewer and starting salaries much more niggardly. A similar study, the Endicott Report, conducted by Northwestern University at the end of 1981, projected similar salary levels for this year's graduates in technological and business fields. A bachelor's degree in liberal arts, however, could be expected to be worth $15,924 — if a job could be found.

The unequal opportunities characterizing today's professional job market are of interest and concern not only to this year's graduates. They also raise problems for the institutions that produced them.

An unwelcome consequence of the strong demand for engineering and scientific personnel is the difficulty many schools and departments are encountering in their own staffing. The lure of high salaries in industry is emptying classrooms of the teachers essential to training the next professional generation. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Berry's World

"No, my dear, a 'cluster bomb' is NOT like when Johnny Carson tells a series of jokes which don't get laughs."

Today in History

Today is Friday, August 6, the 218th day of 1982. There are 147 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On August 6, 1945, the United States dropped an atomic bomb on Hiroshima, Japan, marking the first wartime use of nuclear weapons.

On this date: In 1808, Napoleon Bonaparte ordered the dissolution of the Holy Roman Empire.

In 1825, Bolivia gained its independence from Peru.

In 1914, Serbia and Montenegro declared war on Germany at the outset of World War I.

In 1978, Pope Paul VI died at age 80. Ten years ago: North Vietnamese forces seized five villages near the South Vietnamese city of Hue, in what appeared to be the first move in an attack on the city itself.

Five years ago: A bomb exploded in a store in Salisbury, Rhodesia, in what was described as the worst act of urban terrorism in five years of guerrilla warfare.

One year ago: Following a seven-week players' strike, major league baseball owners approved a plan to divide the season into two halves.

Today's birthdays: Comedienne Lucille Ball is 71. Actor Robert Mitchum is 65.

Thought for today: Leave discontent alone, and she will shut her mouth and let you sing. — James Whitcomb Riley, U.S. poet (1849-1916).

Republican spending plan goes to House

Bedside meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The final $12.6-billion installment of a Republican plan to reduce the federal deficit is headed for a potentially hostile House of Representatives after winning swift approval in the Senate.

The GOP bill's key provision — containing $5 billion of the overall savings — is a 4-percent cap in annual cost-of-living increases for federal retirees through 1985.

The House rejected that proposal on an earlier 236-160 vote, a roll call that Republican leaders concede will be difficult to turn around only 90 days before the congressional elections.

The 73-23 Senate vote Thursday marked the second time in less than two weeks Republicans won approval for legislation to reduce the deficit.

House and Senate negotiators are at work drafting a compromise on the other bill, a measure to raise taxes by $99 billion over three years and cut spending for Medicare, Medicaid and welfare programs by $17.5 billion more.

Republicans and President Reagan hope that, taken together, the two measures will cut the deficit, bring down interest rates and help the economy toward a stronger recovery.

The cap on federal pensions would apply to about three million former civil service, military, Coast Guard, foreign service and Public Health Service personnel. Officials estimate that without the 4-percent cap, the retirees would otherwise receive pension increases of 6.6 percent next year, 7.2 percent in 1984 and 6.6 percent in 1985.

The measure also includes a $2.5-billion reduction in food stamps and another $1.5 billion in cuts in dairy price supports. Efforts by Sens. Paula Hawkins, R-Fla., and S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., to cut more deeply from the dairy program were turned back.

It was the first official indication the Senate was ready to vote on relief for victims of the recession. In other congressional business Thursday:

—A study by the Congressional Budget Office warned that if the balanced-budget amendment is added to the Constitution too quickly, the result could be unprecedented tax increases and cuts in government services.

—Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., introduced a resolution aimed at blocking any congressional veto of a Federal Trade Commission rule requiring undertakers to provide customers with itemized price lists.

—Administration proposals to trim education grants for needy college students and require many aid applicants to report their parents' income ran into sharp criticism at a hearing by the House subcommittee on postsecondary education.

—John A. Volpe, chairman of the President's Commission on Drunk Driving, told a Senate subcommittee that there should be stricter enforcement of state and local laws against drinking drivers and more data on accidents involving drug users.

U.S. urges Israeli pullback from Beirut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, hoping to create a buffer zone between fighting forces in west Beirut, is calling on Israel to surrender areas of the war-torn city that were seized from Palestinian guerrillas earlier this week.

It is virtually impossible to maintain a cease-fire while the fighting forces are so close together, a State Department official said Thursday.

The administration wants Israel to refrain from further attacks on west Beirut for about two weeks to see if Palestine Liberation Organization fighters can be removed peacefully from the city. The Washington Post said in today's editions.

That time period is the breathing space U.S. special negotiator Philip Habib needs to determine if the PLO will follow through with its promise to leave Lebanon, the paper quoted unnamed officials as saying.

There was no immediate response from the Israeli government to the new request. But Israeli Ambassador Moshe Arens, in an interview with the Associated Press on Thursday, said negotiators are "miles away" from a settlement for evacuating PLO guerrillas from west Beirut.

Reagan says the nuclear freeze rejection sends signal to Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says the House of Representative's dramatic rejection of a nuclear weapons freeze proposal "signals to the Soviet Union" America's support for his arms control policy.

In a blow to the nuclear freeze movement, the House voted 204-202 against the resolution Thursday night.

Then it proceeded to approve 273-125 a White House-backed substitute that makes no mention of a freeze but instead supports U.S.-Soviet negotiations now under way in Geneva to reduce strategic arms.

Reagan said the House action "provides strong support for our negotiators" in Geneva. He said it "signals to the Soviet Union the American people's determination to seek peace through arms control agreements that will effectively reduce the nuclear arsenals of both sides."

It was adopted after nine hours of emotional debate on the House floor, capped by shouts from freeze supporters and opponents watching the see-saw vote.

The voting on the non-binding resolution came a day before the 37th anniversary of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima, an attack noted by numerous speakers.

Although it was the first major national loss for the grassroots freeze movement, its leaders said they were not disheartened.

"We are disappointed," said Randy Kehler, national coordinator of the freeze campaign, told a Capitol news conference. But he said the close margin "demonstrates the great progress which the freeze campaign has made."

"The real vote, however, will come this fall," Kehler added. One American voter in four will have a chance to express opinions on the freeze since referenda are expected to be on the ballots of seven states and a number of cities.

Energy chiefs promise more energy testing

MERCURY, Nev. (AP) — Energy Secretary James Edwards, attending the detonation of an atomic warhead below the Nevada desert, says the Reagan administration plans more such tests because "I want to come out No. 1, not No. 2" in a nuclear war.

Edwards and about 30 reporters witnessed the detonation Thursday of the warhead on closed-circuit TV from a concrete bunker 10 miles from the blast site. He called the test "exciting."

The blast came off with a muffled boom 2,100 feet underground, rattling tall buildings 80 miles away in Las Vegas.

The test came a day before the 37th anniversary of America's atomic attack on Hiroshima, Japan, which left an estimated 151,000 dead.

The warhead that was tested was in the upper range of the 20 to 150 kiloton category. The Hiroshima blast, on Aug. 6, 1945, was 17 kilotons. A kiloton carries the force of 1,000 tons of TNT.

In Japan today, Hiroshima Mayor Takeshi Araki strongly protested the Nevada test, calling its timing "especially offensive" to the residents of his city.

Araki asked that the United States "not forget Hiroshima," and that it "respond to world opinion calling for the elimination of nuclear weapons, immediately stop nuclear testing, and take a leading role in the complete halt to the arms race including approving of the nuclear weapons freeze proposal, and President Reagan said the move sends signals to the Soviet Union" America's support for his arms control policy. In a blow to the nuclear freeze movement, the House voted 204-202 against the resolution Thursday night.

Feds may abandon efforts to save California condor

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The federal government may abandon its program to save the endangered California condor now that the state Fish and Game Commission has voted to sharply limit human handling of the giant vultures, a federal biologist says.

The project "is less secure, less firm than it was before," John G. Rogers Jr. of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service said after Thursday's vote.

The commission voted to allow federal biologists to take from condor nests only one egg, one chick and one adolescent female, and prohibited any trapping of adult birds.

But the key decision was to all but scuttle federal plans to attach miniature solar-powered radio transmitters to some of the fewer than 30 remaining condors to track them.

Most commissioners seemed to agree with Charles Fullerton, director of the state Fish and Game Department, who said, "We think the wild population out there should be left alone as much as possible."

Steven G. Herman of Evergreen State College in Olympia, Wash., head of a scientific advisory committee on the condor, said the tagging was unlikely to produce enough information to justify any risk to an endangered species, and "We feel strongly that healthy wild adult condors should be exempted from the hazards of trapping and marking."

The federal biologists, however, argued that radio tagging should help them understand why condors are disappearing.

Rogers, acting director of the service's Patuxent Wildlife Research Center in Laurel, Md., said the decision "is going to compromise a program that we thought was minimal to begin with. They have essentially abrogated the three-year program that was agreed to."

He stopped short of threatening to end the Condor Recovery Project, but said, "We'll wait to see something in writing...and then we'll say, 'Is there anything here that might make it not worthwhile?'"

The federal agency has spent an estimated $25 million on the decades-old project of captive breeding and field study, but the state commission must approve any handling of the birds that once ruled the Western skies but have now dwindled. They nest in the mountains about 100 miles north of Los Angeles.

Biologist Brian J. Walton of the University of California-Santa Cruz warned of "forgetting the urgency in this. This is probably the world's rarest bird that's been studied to any extent."

Rogers had been hoping to expand the project. The commission reluctantly agreed last year to allow the radio-tagging of two adult birds and the capture of three others for the core of a captive flock to produce offspring that would be returned to the nesting area.

But the team, which also includes members of the National Audubon Society, has been unable to catch any.

New church begins here

A new church, the Victory Faith Fellowship, has started in Pampa at the meeting hall at 523 W. Foster. Rev. Ronnie Brascum, pastor of the church, said it will hold services at 10:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. each Sunday and at 7:30 every Friday evening. Brascum said the church will hold revival services August 15-20, on 7:30 each day, with the Rev. Ken Willard of Liberal, Kan. presiding over the services. Special singing will be featured in the revival services. The Fellowship held its first service last Sunday. Brascum characterized the church as a "praise and word of faith" church, and said it is "more or less independent" of any larger organized church. He said the church "teaches and believes miracles are for today and that God's Word works."

Christian artist will be guest at Women's Aglo

Jannie Linney, a Christian artist, will be the guest of the Women's Aglo Fellowship on Thursday, August 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the Senior Citizens' Center. Linney is an artist, housewife, mother and grandmother from Stanton, Texas, who became a Christian in 1971. At that time, she offered to give up art for her faith, but was inspired to become a Christian artist. Linney will talk about her experiences and her art at the meeting.

ELDERS C.J. KESSLER AND E.L. PATNODE

Mormon missionaries here

Two missionaries of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormons) will be staying in Pampa for four to five months for missionary work here. Elder C.J. Kessler and Elder E.L. Patnode will be going door-to-door for the next few months to introduce Pampans to the church and to teach and discuss their beliefs. Kessler is from San Jose, Calif. and Patnode is from Lancaster, Calif. They are working under the Texas - Dallas Missions division of the church. The two full-time missionaries perform their work at their own expense, saving money from jobs for several months to pay for their 18 months in the mission field. Kessler and Patnode said they are together on a budget of $225 a month here. Before coming here, Kessler performed his work in the Hurst - Bedford area, and Patnode was missionary for the Garland area. After their work in Pampa, they will be assigned to another Texas city. The missionaries said Pampa's own Mormon congregation, located at the corner of Kentucky and Sloan, has 250 members and is "still growing." Nationwide, Mormons number five million.

Uncle Sam's low-cost vacations

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
If your spirit says it's ready for a vacation, but your budget says it's not ready for the price, it may be time to look at the National Park System for a low-cost, close-to-home summer holiday.

Most Americans tend to think of national parks in terms of remote wilderness regions. But the park system actually includes 333 recreational areas, many of which you can reach without a lot of expensive driving or time away from home. There are 48 full-fledged national parks included in the system; other places maintained by the park system range from historic houses and monuments to small, natural areas suitable for a single day's outing.

Admission to most of the national park sites is free; only 62 areas have an entrance fee, ranging from 50 cents to $3. The entrance charge does not include user fees for things like campsites; nor does it include fees imposed by concessionaires for food, equipment, etc.

Duncan Morrow, a park service spokesman, said there were almost 238.5 million visits to the national park system in 1981 and this year's total is running about 4 percent ahead of last year's.

The park service has been trying to promote some of the lesser-known areas in its system and Morrow says it has had some success, but he admits: "Obviously, there's only one place in the world where you can see 'Old Faithful,'" he said. The geyser is in Yellowstone National Park which spreads over parts of Wyoming, Montana and Idaho.

You can cut costs at national parks with special passes.

The Golden Eagle Passport costs $10 and is an annual entrance permit to all parks, monuments and recreation areas administered by the federal government. It is good only for the calendar year in which it is issued. The passport admits the holder, plus anyone accompanying him or her in a single, private, non-commercial vehicle. In places where entry is not by car, the passport admits the holder and immediate family group — parents, children and spouse. It covers entrance fees only. You can get it through the mail or in person from the headquarters offices of either the National Park Service, Room 1013, U.S. Department of the Interior, 18th and C Sts. N.W., Washington, D.C., 20240, or the Forest Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C., 20250, or from regional offices of either agency.

The Golden Age Passport is free and is available to people 62 and over. It covers admission fees and entitles the holder to a 50 percent discount on user fees charged by the federal government. You do not have to renew it annually. You must get a Golden Age Passport in person and must show proof of age. The passports are available at most federally operated recreational areas, as well as park and forest service offices.

The Golden Access Passport is similar to the Golden Age Passport, but is available to anyone who is eligible to receive disability assistance from any federal program. You do not actually have to be receiving benefits to qualify; you simply must be eligible for those benefits. Like the Golden Age Passport, the Golden Access Passport does not have to be renewed.

Smoke alarm might save children's lives

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Last week a man here in Dayton lost his wife and three children in a fire. The fire chief said a smoke alarm might have saved them.

It hit me hard, Abby, because I lost my three daughters in a fire, wrote to you, and you printed my letter. Please run it again. My three daughters are gone, and that man's three sons plus his wife are gone, but if a rerun of my letter can save one life, it will be worth the space.

By the way, Abby, I'm getting along just great. Thank you very much.

VIRGINIA IN DAYTON

DEAR VIRGINIA: Here's your letter — it's worth the space:

(Aug. 30, 1981)

DEAR ABBY: Last Memorial Day our house caught fire. Our three daughters were asleep upstairs, and my husband and I were asleep in the downstairs bedroom. The fire spread so fast and the smoke was so thick we weren't able to get the children. Melinda, 5, was dead on the scene; Suzanne, 2, was dead on arrival at the hospital; and Tonya, 7, was in a coma for two days. She died without coming out of it.

My husband and I still can't believe our little girls are gone. Maybe if we had had a smoke alarm we would still have our children.

While Tonya was in a coma, we were expecting the worst, so we willed her kidneys to the organ bank so that two children who needed a kidney could have them. That gave us some comfort.

Please print this. It's too late for us, but it may save some other parents from having to go through what we went through.

STILL GRIEVING IN DAYTON

DEAR ABBY: I am a sort of unofficial "office manager" by virtue of the fact that I have seniority. (I've been here for 21 years.) There are six girls in this office. Our boss is really the office manager, but he leaves a lot of the details to me.

We recently hired a new secretary. She is a nice person and came well-recommended, but she comes to work at 8 a.m. (like the rest of us), fixes coffee for herself (we have a coffeemaker with cream and sugar here, compliments of the office), but she also brings cottage cheese and bagels, and sometimes hard-boiled eggs and fruit, and she has her breakfast here. She is rarely finished before 8:45 because she brings the morning paper with her to read while she eats.

Do you think she's out of line? She's paid to work from 8 to 4. No location or names, please.

UNOFFICIAL OFFICE MANAGER

DEAR UNOFFICIAL: She's paid to work from 8 to 4, so at 8 she should start working — not eating.

***

DEAR ABBY: "No reunions," said the person who had no desire to go back and see the classmates who snubbed him (her?) in high school. I know exactly how that person feels.

I was lonely and miserable in high school, too, but I lost some weight, bought some sensational clothes, borrowed a Mercedes and went to my 25th reunion.

All the cute, popular girls who had snubbed me when I didn't have a friend (or a date) showed up looking old and faded. I was the belle of the ball! You should have seen the men line up to dance with the attractive, sultry brunette I had become.

Revenge is sweet. I say, "Don't get mad. Get even!"

Love is not eating the cauliflower

By ERMA BOMBECK

Young people are still trying to figure out what makes marriage work.

Early marriage didn't seem to provide any guarantees. Neither did the late ones. Living together was supposed to take away the surprises, the shocks and disappointments. However, when co-habiting couples legalized their relationship, 40 percent of these marriages ended in divorce.

I haven't the foggiest notion what makes marriages work. I've seen extravaganzas blessed by the church hierarchy and 18 pounds of crab dip, and the hangers lasted longer than the marriage.

I've seen an alcoholic old enough to be the pregnant bride's father get married on their lunch hour and live happily ever after.

Parents of teenagers talk about it a lot. The closest we can come is maybe this is what happens when the Me Generation Meets Marriage... and each expects more than the other can possibly give.

My reader mail is very revealing. I hear a lot from single parents who are raising children alone. They confide why they believe their marriage went down the tubes. They complain of an insensitive husband who expected her to pick up after him, a lack of understanding that she is a person with feelings, and personal habits that got bigger every day.

I also hear from older people. "I have a dear husband who changes his undershirt and shorts every day. However, he takes them off wrong side out. He hears me, but he has sudden deafness when I bring this up. I decided to find out how many pieces of underwear I had turned right side out in our 46 years of married life. It comes out to 33,488."

Or another one. "I think the true measure of love is how much one is willing to give up of himself to make another person happy. Both Skip and I love the cauliflower that comes in the pickle jar. Skip doesn't know this because I have always left it for him. That's love."

And finally, "I read your comments on snoring. A few years ago my wife had a stroke and I almost lost her. You don't know how often I wake up and smile knowing that she's snoring beside me."

These observations are pretty simplistic... but maybe it's a start.

Cure for the common cold

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli scientists say they have developed a device which generates a stream of moist, hot air that is breathed in by a cold sufferer and has shown a success rate of 85 percent in tests in clearing up headaches, runny noses, muscular aches and other common cold symptoms.

Developed from an idea at the Weizmann Institute, it has also demonstrated effectiveness against allergies for up to two weeks with no harmful side effects.

CLAY WILKINS

Air Field Reunion Banquet to be held Saturday evening

After two days of activities a banquet on Saturday, August 7, will mark the end of the 40th anniversary and 10th annual reunion of the Pampa Army Air Field. The banquet will be held in the Coronado Inn at 7 p.m. Guest speaker for the evening will be C. A. (Clay) Wilkins.

Mr. Wilkins was selected to fill the position of Executive Director of the Texas Aeronautics Commission in May of 1980.

Before coming to the Aeronautics Commission, Clay had served five years in the State Comptroller's Office and three years in the Texas Governor's Office.

He served twenty years in the Air Force as a fighter pilot and was awarded eleven air medals and the Distinguished Flying Cross.

He holds a commercial pilot license, an instrument rating and has over 7000 hours of flying time. Two thousand hours of this time is in civil aviation.

He is a former Commissioner of the Texas Civil Air Patrol Commission and he currently is serving as the Southwest Regional Vice-President of the National Association of State Aviation Officials. Also, Mr. Wilkins is a member of the Advisory Committee for the Center for Aeronautical Research, at the University of Texas; a member of the Advisory Committee, Texas Transportation Institute at Texas A & M University and he is active in the National Aeronautics Association.

SPEAKING OF SOAPS

by Mary Ann Cooper

Stuart Damon does a cameo appearance in "Young Doctors In Love" as G.H.'s Alan.

Part of this summer's movie fare includes a soap opera spoof entitled "Young Doctors In Love." The whole idea of a soap opera spoof is amusing but this effort lacks something in the translation of that idea. For those of us who love our soaps, "Young Doctors In Love" bears little resemblance to what really happens on the afternoon dial. It is, instead, a non-stop parade of gags, skits, and visual humor in the tradition of "Airplane." There are some truly funny moments but most of the humor is the kind of bathroom humor you might expect to find in a hospital farce.

Larkin Malloy who plays Sky on EON is recovering from serious injuries as a result of a traffic accident. Edge of Night fans can send their best wishes for Larkin's speedy recovery to Larkin on EDGE OF NIGHT, ABC-TV, 1330 Ave.

of the Americas, N.Y., N.Y. 10019. Meanwhile the part of Sky will be played by James Horan.
Now a look at what's been happening and what will happen on all afternoon dramas.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE -- Marco's screenplay will be based on an old unsolved murder mystery. Though this is supposed to be a secret, the first draft of his screenplay disappears along with all the old news files on the murder. Bo is searching for his Ralston family relatives. Kat begins legal steps to regain custody of Mary. The Ralston family seems to resent Bo for some unknown reason.
THIS WEEK: Jenny feels the weight of the world on her shoulders. Marco searches for more information on the unsolved murder.

SEARCH FOR TOMORROW -- Travis and Liza are saved by someone who looks like Rusty's twin. Martin reluctantly agrees to let Sunny help him fleece the crooked gamblers that fledged him. Brian tries to tell Suzi that he really loves her but she only remembers the time he rejected her when he was blind. Dane does some checking on the identity of the mysterious man who saved the lives of Travis and Liza.
THIS WEEK: Travis looks for answers. Martin makes up a game plan while Stephanie thinks up her own games to play.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS -- Lorie fights her feelings for Victor as she continues research on her expose on Victor. Jack feels smothered by Patty.

Paul receives criticism from family and friends as he secretly infiltrates the underworld.
CAPITOL -- Jordy gets drunk again and tries to get to Elizabeth. Thomas is afraid that Elizabeth will lose interest in him because he is disabled. Julie starts to realize that one day she will have to choose sides between her brother and her husband.

GUIDING LIGHT -- Nola is caught in the pit and has to be rescued by Quint. As he climbs over the pit he sees the Golden and Temple and realizes his search is over. Tremors around the area indicate that there is about to be a volcanic eruption and all must flee the island. Quint and Nola and company no sooner make it to safety when the area they left behind explodes.
THIS WEEK: Nola still resents Quint for believing Helena over her. Mike looks into Quint's background.

GENERAL HOSPITAL -- A lab technician is hit over the head and his critical message erased when he tries to tell Jackie there is no oil on the land Luke is thinking of investing in. An autopsy reveals that Buster was murdered. Ramsey believes that he was murdered by a professional hit woman. Monica and Alan decide to stick together to combat Susan's law suit against Alan. Lila makes a secret deal with the Corsauts as a surprise for Edward. Tiffany forsakes a trip to New York with the Senator to be with Noah.
THIS WEEK: Holly begins to regret her part in the scam. Noah and Tiffany make love.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES -- Roman is shocked when the wife he believed died in a boating accident shows up with their child. Ann, Roman's wife, says she was picked up by a white slaver's yacht and forced to do their bidding as they held her infant daughter hostage. Stefano threatens Liz to keep her in line but Tony thinks he's the one pulling Liz's strings. Melissa and Oliver are afraid that Eugene will guess that Melissa is hiding Oliver. Kayla loses patience with David and breaks off with him.

THIS WEEK: Chris becomes suspicious. Marlena reminds Roman of his obligations.
AS THE WORLD TURNS -- John and Ariel are married but not many people are there to witness it. Gunner and Barbara are in Europe and James is furious. Mr. Big is captured and Tom and Margot finally tie the knot. Betsy is becoming very interested in Steve and Maggie thinks about telling Kim about this.

THIS WEEK: Nick doesn't trust Stan. Bob pushes for Miranda's early release.
TEXAS -- Ashley tells TJ that she will divorce Justin. George reveals that Grant was the foreman on the jury that found George's sister guilty of murder. George vows secretly to destroy Grant. Justin vows to get custody of Gregory. TJ tries to establish a relationship with Gregory. TJ urges Ashley to tell Gregory that they are his real parents.
THIS WEEK: Ruby goes to work at World Oil. Reena supports Justin's choice.

ANOTHER WORLD -- When Steve goes into shock Rachel has to give him a transfusion to save his life. Cecile hires Alma to be Maggie's governess. The crew quits because the drilling has caused another crash at the accident site. Cecile accepts a date with Cass and then breaks it to go out with Vic. On the movie set, the sound equipment is sabotaged and a day's shooting is lost. Brian makes the decision to stop drilling and tear down the building which means that Steve may die before the crew can reach him.
THIS WEEK: Sandy and Jamie try to rescue Rachel and Steve. Blaine tries to get Elena's help.

EDGE OF NIGHT -- Pietro goes to Chad's studio and holds Chad hostage. Jody agrees to go to Eden if Pietro will let Chad go. Just then Gavin comes in and saves the day. Sky goofs when he gives Val a bracelet with Raven's initials on it. Later, he takes it back and presents her with a brand new necklace of her very own. Pietro escapes from the hospital and the police as well. Calvin arrests Dee Dee's brother Troy for carrying a concealed weapon. Raven suggests to Derek that they console each other. Star announces to Calvin that the baby she's carrying is not his.
THIS WEEK: Jody's dream prompts her to help the people of Eden. Dee Dee lashes out at Calvin.
RYAN'S HOPE -- Maeve and Johnny continue to squabble over Siobhan and Joe. Maeve finds a dancing partner at an old haunt and together they win a dance contest. They plan to enter another contest together and Johnny is not too happy about it. Mitch Bronsky, Johnny's old boxing student returns and they have a pleasant reunion. Amanda Kirkland comes to town looking for her father Hollis. Pat seems very interested in her. Jane and Ox are very much in love.
THIS WEEK: Maeve continues her dancing. Amanda has a party.

THE DOCTORS -- Billy attacks Natalie. An orderly caring for Mona comes down with a fever. Billy and Natalie exchanged the option papers for the take necklace. Mona tells Billy she never wants to see him again. Natalie collapses and must be rushed to the hospital.
THIS WEEK: Matt and Maggie have second thoughts. Jeff feels neglected.

Martha Davis finds stardom with Motels

By JAMES SIMON
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Martha Davis' two teen-age daughters no longer ask when she'll come home for good and give up her dream of becoming a rock star.
"They certainly had their doubts, and then all of a sudden they started hearing our songs on the way home from school and realized we had succeeded," said Ms. Davis of the Motels, as the group's third album, "All Four One," steadily moves up the charts on the strength of the Top 10 single, "Only the Lonely."
"They've had to go through it all with me," she said. "For years, nothing would happen, and when we got to year eight Maria would say, 'Are you sure it's worth it, Mom?' I think she now realizes it was."
The 31-year-old singer was a divorced teen-age mother with two children when she started her musical career in 1971. She has never tried to hide her domestic situation from her fans — many of whom are the same age as her children.
It was a relentless desire to perform that convinced Ms. Davis to start a band with a girlfriend in Los Angeles 11 years ago, even though she was receiving no child support from the man she married at age 15.
The band evolved into the Motels, a six-piece group whose newly found popularity comes after years of scattered success and internal personal conflict.
Many longtime Motels fans first attracted by the band's rough-edged, guitar-oriented sound, seem upset with the more polished and commercial songs on the new album, which was produced by Val Garay of "Bette Davis Eyes" fame.
"People have said that we've sold out, that we're too slick," Ms. Davis says. "But I can't think of anything worse than working hard on every album and having it ignored by people."
With the success, the dark, mysterious figure that Ms. Davis once cut on stage has given way to a more engaging bandleader pose. Her swirling dark hair still serves as a Motels trademark, but her once icy stares at the audience have been replaced by smiles, and the extra pounds she's added have lessened her old image as a down-and-out street vamp.
However, the lyrics on the new tunes are again true to her personal situation, as they have been since the band's debut album in 1979 when Ms. Davis vowed she would sell her soul for "Total Control" over her man.
Hidden behind the mesmerizing beat of "Mission of Mercy" is an autobiographical tale of children worried about their mother and hoping their long-lost father will eventually return: "Mama hasn't been sleepin' well at all; As she lies stretched out in the hall; Waiting for him to call."
"Rock'n'roll tours aren't the best atmosphere to raise a couple of kids in," Ms. Davis says with a laugh.
But she says the hit album — now lodged in the nation's Top 20 — will finally give her enough money to occasionally take 15-year-old Maria and 14-year-old Tricia out on the road to see what their mother does for a living.

Why Bob Geldof is reluctant actor

LONDON (NEA) — "Pink Floyd The Wall" won't be everybody's cup of cinema, but it is certain to be one of the most discussed movies of this year. And, for Bob Geldof, it is going to open up a bunch of new horizons. The only thing is — does he want any?

Bob Geldof is a totally Irish young man. But he may not be typically Irish. He is very strong-minded and condemns the I.R.A. — the Irish Republican Army — as "a bunch of murdering terrorists." He says they are not the romantic revolutionaries the American Irish believe them to be.

"In fact," he says, "your Irish in America have a lot of wrong ideas about Ireland totally. The most exciting thing about our St. Patrick's Day parade in Dublin these days is when the high school bands from America come over to march.

"We Dubliners go down to watch the parade so we can laugh at their funny lime green uniforms. We never wear green — oh, maybe we'll stick a sprig of clover in our lapels, but that's all."

He's been very happy doing what he's been doing for the past six years — being the lead singer of the internationally famous Irish rock group, the Boomtown Rats. He has turned actor to star in "Pink Floyd The Wall."
The film is Alan Parker's curious experiment in cinema-making, in which he used the Pink Floyd rock album, "The Wall," as his inspiration. Pink Floyd's music is very much in evidence throughout the movie.
But Bob Geldof doesn't like Pink Floyd's music.
"Oh, they are very nice people," Geldof says, "when you meet them personally. But I don't like their music — it is entirely different from our music. And I'm sure they don't like our band any more than I like their band."

BOB GELDOF is the star of "Pink Floyd The Wall." Alan Parker's new film which is inspired by the rock music of Pink Floyd. Prior to this movie, says Geldof, who is a musician, "I had done no acting of any sort."

There is no Vancouver in Ireland. He had gone to Canada out of sheer restlessness and wanderlust and got the job because he could write and knew music. But he was forced to leave Canada hurriedly when they discovered he was there illegally.
Back in Dublin, he and five of his school chums started playing music. At first, it was largely for their own amusement. But somebody heard them and offered them a job in a local club. They had no name, so the club owner arbitrarily gave them one.
"I didn't like the name, whatever it was," Geldof says. "During the intermission I went outside to where our name was on a blackboard, erased it, and wrote down 'Boomtown Rats.' I had read the name in some book, and I liked the sound."
The band became very successful, playing all over the world.

Does television rule the election outcome?

NEW YORK (NEA) — George Bush had the media and the momentum on his side in 1980. He was not elected president of the United States.
John Connally had $12 million with which to advertise himself wherever and whenever he chose. He was not elected president of the United States in 1980.
Jimmy Carter was the incumbent. He had the power to schedule prime-time news conferences and engineer as much free publicity as a candidate should need. He was not re-elected in 1980.

cramped CBS office. "I'm refuting the lesson learned from it — that the media determines who is going to win, that politics has turned into simply marketing candidates like soap. The power of the media is ridiculously inflated. It does not supersede the basic political process."
Greenfield believes that an honest-to-goodness, old-fashioned political campaign was going on in 1980.

On Election Day 1980, the professional pollsters labeled it too close to call.
Ronald Reagan won by a landslide.
Jeff Greenfield, media consultant, author and CBS News political analyst, points to these facts as the basis for the somewhat startling conclusion he arrives at in his new book, "The Real Campaign: The Media Battle for the White House" (Summit Books).
"Television and the media," Greenfield writes, "made almost no difference in the 1980 presidential election."
Greenfield's is a most unfashionable argument. Ever since Joe McGinnis wrote his landmark best-selling account of Richard Nixon's 1968 campaign, "The Selling of the President," conventional wisdom has been that the media is the campaign. Coming from such a savvy, well-respected observer of the political scene as Greenfield, the theory is also quite controversial.

"I had done no acting of any sort," he says, "except for the usual Gilbert and Sullivan operettas at school. So the idea of acting meant nothing to me. I turned down the offers that came — often, I had no choice, because they conflicted with our schedule with the band."
But this was different. Alan Parker was a big name director, and the word was going to be something special. Still when Parker asked him to audition, Geldof wasn't keen to do it, but the others in his band pushed him into accepting.
"I really don't know where Alan Parker found me or saw me," Geldof says. "But I went to the audition and I got the job."

"I'm not refuting the McGinnis book," argues Greenfield from his

NL roundup

Dodgers rally to slip by Braves

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

Rick Monday has been around long enough to know that you stick around until the very end of a baseball game. Otherwise, you might miss a spectacular comeback.

"I was never one to leave the park early," said Monday. "In this game you can't take anything for granted."

The Atlanta Braves will attest to that after blowing Thursday night's game with the Dodgers on shoddy fielding. Los Angeles moved within 4½ games of the first-place Braves with a 3-2, 10-inning triumph greatly aided by three Atlanta errors.

The key miscue came with two out in the bottom of the ninth and Pedro Guerrero on second base as the tying run Pinch-hitter Monday's sharp grounder went through the legs of Braves second baseman Jerry Royster to tie the game.

"That's my specialty — game-ending plays," said Royster. "I didn't get down on it. It was a simple play. I messed it up. It was the biggest bonehead play since I've been in the majors."

"I was upset when I hit the ball," said Monday. "It was hit hard but right where he was standing. But it was hooking and spinning."

Atlanta, which has lost five games to the Dodgers in the last week, jumped ahead 2-0 on Claudell Washington's long homer off Fernando Valenzuela in the fifth. A throwing error by catcher Bruce Benedict on a steal by Steve Sax helped LA to its first run.

The winning run came on Ron Cey's bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the 10th. Sax led off with a bloop single which Washington bobbled in right field as Sax advanced to second. He was sacrificed to third by Ken Landreaux and, after two intentional walks, Cey won it.

Valenzuela was knocked out of the game in the sixth when struck on the left knee by a line drive off the bat of Bob Horner. Valenzuela sustained a bruise on his knee but wasn't expected to miss a start.

Elsewhere, Cincinnati took San Diego 4-2. San Francisco beat Houston 5-2. Montreal topped Philadelphia 2. Chicago whipped New York 5-1 and St. Louis beat Pittsburgh 7-3.

Reds 4, Padres 2

Tom Seaver had gone five weeks without a victory, so he called on his old prey from San Diego. Seaver, 5-11, allowed one run on four hits over six innings to earn his first victory since June 26.

"I felt good for five innings. I had some pop on the ball but I didn't want to irritate the inflammation in my shoulder," said Seaver, who won for the 18th time in 21 decisions at San Diego Stadium. He is 32-7 lifetime against the Padres.

Johnny Bench hit a solo home run and Wayne Krenchicki added a two-run pinch-hit single for Cincinnati.

Expos 9, Phillies 2

Joel Youngblood kept busy running around for the second straight day with three hits, three RBI, a stolen base and an excellent fielding play in right for the Expos. Youngblood joined Montreal Wednesday night and collected a single after knocking in two runs for the New York Mets in an afternoon game in Chicago. Midway through that game, he was told he'd been dealt to Montreal and to head to Philadelphia.

The pace was slightly less hectic for Youngblood on Thursday, though he had to go some to keep up with teammates Tim Lincecum (5-for-6, three runs-scored and two stolen bases) and Tim Wallach, who belted his first major-league grand slam.

Giants 5, Astros 2

San Francisco's star rookies, pitcher Bill Laskey, centerfielder Chili Davis and third baseman Tom O'Malley, were the main men for the Giants. Laskey pitched seven shutout innings. Davis had three hits and O'Malley chipped in with two.

Laskey, 10-8, allowed seven hits, struck out two and walked none before yielding to relievers Al Holland and Greg Minton, who recorded his 19th save.

Cubs 5, Mets 1

Randy Martz was reached for singles by Ron Hodges in the second and eighth innings and nothing more. At one point, he retired 17 straight Mets. Jay Johnstone slammed a two-run homer for Chicago in the third inning after Bill Buckner's single to snap a 1-1 tie.

"I've never had a two-hitter before," said Martz. "I don't know if I pitched that great. They helped a lot by swinging at a lot of first pitches."

Cardinals 7, Pirates 3

Ken Oberkell rapped a pair of two-run doubles and Steve Mura hurled a four-hitter in the rain-shortened contest.

"I'm going to suggest to my general manager and tell him I want to put in a protest. It looked like they were just trying to get the five innings in," said Pirates Manager Chuck Tanner. "We didn't get the chance to come back. I just think we got jobbed."

The game was called in the bottom of the fifth after a two-hour, two-minute rain delay. Tanner said he considered the rainfall, accompanied by lightning, to be hazardous to players of both teams as early as the top of the fifth. But the action continued through that half-inning, making it a complete contest.

U.S. leads Curtis Cup

DENVER (AP) — The first hole can be an important one, particularly in an international match-play competition as prestigious as the Curtis Cup.

It often can set the trend for the entire match, as it did on Thursday, when the United States, led by two-time U.S. women's amateur champion Juli Inkster, roared to a commanding 7½-1½ lead over a team from Britain and Ireland in the 22nd Curtis Cup.

The first hole at Denver Country Club belonged to the United States. In all nine matches Thursday, the U.S. golfers went 1-up on the par-4, 379-yard hole. In eight of those matches, the British opened with bogeys. In the other, they got a par but were beaten by a birdie.

"If you win the first hole it gives you a great deal of confidence," said Belle Robertson, a veteran of five previous Curtis Cups for the British team.

Minnesota spoils Tiant's Major League return

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer In his return to the major leagues, old Luis Tiant ran into the young Minnesota Twins, who haven't been showing much respect for their elders lately. The 41-year-old Tiant, purchased by California earlier in the week from the Mexican League, saw his return to the majors spoiled Thursday when the Twins tagged him for four runs and five hits in 3-1/3 innings — including a three-run homer by Ron Washington — and defeated the Angels 8-6. "I wasn't as sharp as I could have been," said Tiant. "But I have no excuses. When you make a mistake, you have to pay for it." In other American League games, the Baltimore Orioles trimmed the Kansas City Royals 5-1, the Detroit Tigers swept a doubleheader from the Toronto Blue Jays 5-2 and 7-4 and the Texas Rangers trounced the New York Yankees 7-2. Tiant, who last pitched in the majors with the Pittsburgh Pirates a year ago, started out like a late entry for Comeback Player of the Year, striking out five of the first nine Twins he faced. But with Tim Laudner, who singled, and Bobby Mitchell, who walked, on base with two out in the third inning,

Washington homered to give the Twins a 3-1 lead. The Twins made it 4-1 in the fourth when Gary Gaetti doubled and scored on the first of two RBI singles by Mickey Hatcher, which chased Tiant. Minnesota had one final jab at the ancient right-hander. "I really got fired up for Tiant," said 22-year-old rookie Kent Hrbek, who got a single before Tiant left. "I remember meeting him in Minneapolis when I was 8 years old." Orioles 5, Royals 1 Jim Palmer held Kansas City hitless for five innings and finished with a three-hitter for his seventh consecutive victory as Baltimore snapped a six-game losing streak to the Royals. However, Kansas City held on to first place in the AL West, one percentage point ahead of the Angels. The third-place Orioles are 3 1/2 games out in the AL East. Palmer shut Kansas City out until the seventh inning when George Brett homered. Al Bumbry provided the first Oriole run when he hit a leadoff homer off Vida Blue in the bottom of the first inning. The Orioles chased Blue in the fourth when they scored three runs, two on Rich Dauer's bases-loaded single. Rangers 7, Yankees 2 Dave Hostetler homered and drove in four runs for Texas while knuckleballer Charlie Hough scattered eight hits over seven innings in beating the Yankees for the third time this season. Hostetler, who drove in four runs with a pair of homers against New York last Sunday, slugged a two-run homer, his 17th, in the first inning off winless Doyle Alexander, the Rangers added a run in the second on an RBI single by Mike Richardt and Hostetler's two-run single in the third chased the Yankee starter. Tigers 5-7, Blue Jays 2-4 Jerry Turner drove in three runs with a homer and single in the second game after the Tigers won the opener behind Jerry Ujdur's seven-hit pitching.

Gold Sox win Texas League baseball roundup

By The Associated Press Rob Deer doubled home the winning run in the eighth inning as the Shreveport Captains edged the Arkansas Travelers, 4-3, in Texas League baseball action. In other games Thursday night, Jackson slipped past Tulsa, 4-3. Midland beat San Antonio, 8-4, and Amarillo whipped El Paso, 12-8. Deer's double down the third base line drove home Kelvin Torve from second base. Jim Adduci's 19th homer of the year gave the Travelers a 7-0 lead in the first inning and the lead moved to 2-0 when Tom Nieto singled home Bill Lyons in the second inning. Shreveport grabbed a 3-2 lead in the fifth inning on a hit batsman, a single by Randy Kutcher, a walk, a double by Torve and an infield ground out. Arkansas moved into a 3-3 tie in the sixth when Don Moore's triple drove home Adduci, who had singled. Bob Gendron, 2-0, was the winning pitcher. The loser was Tom Thurberg, 3-6. Terry Blocker's sacrifice fly drove home the winning run in the seventh inning as the Jackson Mets edged the Tulsa Drillers, 4-3. Ron Reynolds slugged a three-run homer in the first inning to give Jackson a 3-0 lead. Tulsa tied the game in the fourth when Tommy Dunbar singled. Jerry Neufang doubled, the Mets made an error and Shake Moore had a two-run double. Rick Poe doubled for Jackson in the seventh.

Floyd takes first-round lead in PGA tourney

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — The round of Ray Floyd's life was just one swing short of perfection. Floyd hit the ball 63 times Thursday to take the first-round lead of the 64th PGA Championship and there's just one stroke he wants back. "I blocked a drive on the third hole and missed the fairway," he said of his record-shattering 7-under-par round. "I would say that was the only ball I hit that was not a good shot."

Floyd parred the hole anyway on a 102-degree day during which he beat Jack Nicklaus by 11 shots, Tom Watson by nine and runners-up Bob Gilder and Greg Norman, who had a 66s, by three strokes. Nine straight 3's highlighted Floyd's round over the steamy Southern Hills Country Club in which he played the sixth through 15th holes in 30 shots. "It's the best round I've played anywhere and something I will remember forever," Floyd said. "I might not ever shoot a score like that the rest of my career."

Floyd broke his own competitive course record of 65 and tied the best 18-hole record in PGA history set by Bruce Crampton in 1975. It was the lowest first round ever in the PGA, shaving Bobby Nichols' 1964 record by a shot. Golfing millionaire Floyd one-putted nine times over the tricky bent grass greens. After routinely parring the first six holes, Floyd exploded on his historic round with a 16-foot birdie putt on the 383-yard No. 7. Floyd, the 1969 PGA champion, saved par out of a bunker on the eighth green and holed a 10-footer for birdie on No. 9, going out in 2-under 33. He tied the PGA nine-hole record on the backside with a 5-under-par 30. However, Fred Couples later broke the mark with a 29 by making birdies on the last six holes. Floyd was in a 1:36 p.m. CDT pairing today with Gary Player and Hale Irwin. Floyd has won the Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic and the Memorial Tournament in 1982. He's fourth on the money list at $226,000.

The lifetime winner of $1.7 million, Floyd owns two major titles in his 15 victories, the aforementioned PGA title and the 1976 Masters. "That 63 by Floyd was just incredible," said Couples. At 3-under-par 67 with Couples were Rex Caldwell and Nick Faldo. Vance Heathorn, Mark Pfeil, David Graham, Jim Simons and John Jackson were at 68. Watson, trying to add the PGA to his current U.S. and British Open titles, needed 39 putts for his 72.

Smith leads Boston 5 tourney

DANVERS, Mass. (AP) — Former New Zealand champion M.J. Smith figures a two-week vacation from golf was just what she needed. As far as 1981 U.S. Open champion Pat Bradley was concerned, a homecoming without fanfare was in order. And veteran Hollis Stacy said there was nothing exciting about her round. Smith, 30 and winless in nine years since joining the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, fired a 4-under par 68 Thursday for the first-round lead in the $175,000 Boston Five Classic. Bradley and Stacy just missed catching Smith as late-afternoon finishers in the opening of the 72-hole test at the 6,008-yard Radisson Ferncroft Country Club. Bradley, who grew up in Westford just a few miles from here, and Stacy each shot 69. That put them one stroke ahead of Muffin Spencer-Devlin, former New England champion Jane Blalock, Vivian Brownlee, Judy Clark, Kathy Postlewait and Joyce Kazmierski. Seven players were tied at 71. Then came an 11-way traffic jam at par 72, with Sandra Haynie, needing less than $5,000 to take the lead in 1982 prize money, and reigning LPGA champion Jan Stephenson in the group. Bunched at 73 were recently crowned U.S. Open champ Janet Alex and million-dollar winners Kathy Whitworth and JoAnne Carner. Smith, who plans to apply for U.S. residency, credited a vacation in Atlanta for a rare round without a single bogey. "Other than a clinic, I haven't played any golf for two weeks," she said.

"Laying off probably helped. I spent two weeks shopping, visiting some bars, rowing — just doing things you don't get to do on the tour." Bradley, cheered on by her family in a bid for her first LPGA victory since the U.S. Open last year, noted the difference in returning home. "I came in here almost unnoticed this week," she said. "Last year I came here directly from winning the U.S. Open. You couldn't have written a better script."
