Man admits mutilation slayings

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - A man arrested while sleeping in a car in Kansas is charged with murdering his Fort Worth roommate and says he killed that man and four other people, including an . 11-year-old child, authorities said.

The slain roommate was decapitated and sexually mutilated. The throats of the other four were slashed

Larry Keith Robison told detectives Wednesday "that he committed the murders," but he has not given a signed statement to police. Deputy Police Chief Jack Bicknell said.

Robison, who turned 25 today, was charged Wednesday in the death of 31-year-old Ricky Lee Bryant, whose nude body was found Tuesday in a bedroom of Bryant's secluded cottage near Lake Worth. Bryant's parents said Robison was living at the cottage while looking for a job.

The other four victims were discovered in the house next door when police went there to question neighbors about Bryant's death, police said

Bicknell said Robison knew all of the victims but gave no motive for the slayings. Robison gave his oral statement to detectives while being flown back to Fort Worth after waiving extradition from · Wichita, Kan., Bicknell said.

A chartered plane carrying Robison and Fort Worth detectives arrived at Meacham Field about 6:50 p.m. Robison, walking barefoot to a car, gestured to news photographers as if he were firing

Wichita police said Robison was taken into custody at daybreak - about 12 hours after the five bodies were found in Fort Worth - because a gun was spotted on the floor of the station wagon he was sleeping in behind a Wichita church. Wichita is about 425 miles from Fort Worth.

Wichita police said they called Fort Worth police after finding on Robison some identification papers belonging to two of the people killed in Fort Worth. Texas authorities issued a "probable cause" murder warrant for the arrest of Robison in connection with Bryant's death. The other four victims were identified as Georgia Reed, 34, a masseuse; her son, Scott, who would have turned 12 today; her mother, Earline H. Barker, 55; and Bruce M. Gardner, 33.

An autopsy on Bryant was begun Wednesday but Tarrant County medical examiner's office officials said results would not be released until the other four autopsies are finished.

Medical Examiner Nizam Peerwani has said that the victims may have been shot or strangled as well as stabbed repeatedly

Spent .22-caliber cartridges were found in both of the cottages, police said. Bicknell said the gun found with Robison was a .22-caliber pistol

Bicknell said Robison told Fort Worth detectives that he had been heading for Kansas City, Mo., where he has a girlfriend. But Wichita police Capt. Mike Hill said that Robison earlier had told Wichita police that "he was going to Chicago and needed a place to rest."

Hill said the car Robison was in belonged to one of the victims, Gardner. Billfolds belonging to Gardner and Bryant were among the items found in the car. Hill said.

"There is other evidence that implicates him in that incident. It is enough for the warrant," the Robison initially was held on a charge of possession of the firearm found in Gardner's car, but that charge was dropped later Wednesday to expedite extradition, Hill said.

Court records show Robison was convicted in Fort Worth in 1977 on a theft charge; three snakes, an aquarium and a pet supplies were stolen from a pet store. He also was arrested on a burglary complaint later but that charge was dismissed last Robison, who had worked as a carpenter, had lived in Haltom City, a Fort Worth suburb, with his common-law wife, Tina Blosser, and their young daughter, Melissa Dawn Robison, last year and part of this year. Ms. Blosser now lives in Kansas City with the child.

Bryant's father, Donald Bryant, said his son had known Robison for about eight months and that Robison was staying at the cottage while looking for work. The father said he had not met Robison until

PERRYTON - If you die in Perryton, you'd better take a shovel with you, because Ochiltree County may be without grave - opening services beginning Sunday, Aug. 15. Perryton funeral director Richard Funeral Home, has informed county commissioners that as of that date he plans to discontinue the service. which he has provided for the past several years. "The cemetery is county - owned, and I believe opening graves there is the county's responsibility," Boxwell told the News today

"It's a unique situation here," he explained. "In most counties, there are several cemeteries, and they are city - owned or have a cemetery association to handle the opening of graves. Ochiltree Cemetery is the only cemetery in this county, and there is no association to take care of grave - opening here. Ochiltree commissioners disagree with Boxwell, and several meetings between the funeral director and commissioners have not brought any accord on the question, apparently.

"We voted unanimously that we don't think it's our responsibility,' commissioner Donald Sell said. explaining the commissioners' position. "The district attorney has checked into the situation: he says there is precedent in the courts: when a cemetery lot is purchased it ceases to be the county's property.

Boxwell has provided the equipment and labor to open graves, and has offered to reimburse the county for costs of the operation from burial fees, as he has financed his own grave - opening services, he said.

But the commissioners feel. Sell said, that the fees would not be ample . the expenses involved.

"There's about 60 graves (a year) involved," Sell said, "and that's not enough to justify our buying a backhoe and hiring someone.'

"But he has informed us by letter that he's going to stop the service,' Sell added, "and we've answered that it's not our responsibility. That's where it stands now.

Public to be heard tonight on budget

By JEFF LANGLEY Staff Writer

The public hearing on the Pampa school board's plan to raise property taxes, while spending $10,173,366 for next year's budget, is being held at 5 p.m. tonight in the Carver Educational

The board has proposed raising the effective tax rate 7.9 percent.

The effective tax rate is the rate which would generate the same amount of revenue received this year.

The percentage increase in the effective rate means the board wants to set a tax rate which is 7.9 percent higher than the rate necessary to generate the same amount of revenue levied this year.

However, the proposal represents only a three percent increase in the actual tax rate, from 62 cents per $100 valuation, up to 63.9 cents per $100.

The actual tax rate calculation is lower than the effective tax rate calculation because the total assessed value of property within the school district has increased.

In other words, with increased total property values, the actual tax rate could be lowered and still generate the same total tax levy, according to information released by the State Property Tax Board.

With that understanding, the school board can lower the actual tax rate below the current 62 cents per $100. while raising the same amount of taxes levied to fund the current year's budget. The tax increase proposed by the board will raise taxes on a $30,000 home about $6 per year. The board wants the rate increase to fund the next fiscal year's budget which begins September 1st.

Included in the proposed budget released during consideration of the tax rate at the board meeting August 3rd are salary increases for both administrators and teachers.

Superintendent James Trusty said during the last board meeting the budget will fund a 14 percent salary hike for Pampa teachers during the coming year.

Also included in the preliminary school district spending plan are expenditures of more than $300,000 for high school sports, according to the budget figures.

The city - school tax office, which must legally relinquish a major portion of its duties, property appraisals, to a central appraisal office next year, also plans a total budget increase of nearly

Israel attacks in force in the heaviest fighting yet in war

Israeli jets attacked west Beirut today in the heaviest strikes of the 9-week-old war, and Lebanese Prime Minister Shafik Wazzan suspended talks with U.S. presidential envoy Philip C. Habib on evacuating the PLO, charging Israel was determined to

'wipe out the Lebanese capital anvwav. "I have told Philip Habib that I cannot carry on in these talks while these thousands of tons of explosives are wreaking mass destruction in my city, my capital. I did not break up the talks. But I have told him I cannot carry on and hold him as well as the United States responsible for the consequences. Prime Minister Menachem Begin told his Parliament in Jerusalem although "a great deal of progress" had been made in talks to get the Palestine Liberation Organization out of Lebanon that U.N. and French participation in a MIAMI (Spl.) - The Miami school board has hired four new teachers for the 1982 - 3 school year, it has been announced.

New Miami teachers are Melinda Mount, second grade; Elizabeth Johnson, junior high English and high school speech; Marilyn Pletcher, Spanish and social studies, and Marian Lottman, librarian.

in other action, the board approved the appraisal district budget, purchased a new piano for the school music department, announced plans to purchase three lots near the school for future expansion, and announced a policy change on test exemptions.

Under the change, only seniors will be exempt from nine - week tests and semester finals.

On Monday, Aug. 16 the board will hold a special budget meeting to approve the school budget, and set the new tax rate.

the main obstacle to a final settlement. Gunships, tanks and artillery joined in the jet strikes, which continued without letup after more than eight hours, and the chief spokesman for the invasion command said all preparations have been completed for a final assault into the PLO enclave if one

There were also mounting fears that Israeli and Syrian forces would clash anew to the north and east of the Lebanese capital.

The PLO said the warplanes dropped 2,000-pound bombs on Palestinian camps and divebombed densely populated districts, where it said no Palestinians live PLO spokesman Bassam Abu Sharif said at least 250 people were killed or wounded in Verdun and Aish Bakkar alone

Lebanese police said Israeli jets divebombed areas surrounding the Soviet Embassy compound and oceanside residential neighborhoods.

Police had no precise figures but reported "dozens upon dozens of casualties." Col. Yehiel Ben-Zvi, chief spokesman for the Israeli command in suburban Baabda reported one Israeli killed and 31 wounded, most of them in the museum area near the race track, where tanks battles raged.

"We have finished a very intensive buildup in and around Beirut as part of a large operation...if and when we have to attack," he said in response to questions from reporters about the meaning of Israel's movement of troops and armor north of Beirut into Lebanon's Christian heartland.

Meanwhile, Lebanese press reports said the Israelis and Syrians have reinforced their positions in the eastern Bekaa Valley and in some areas were only 200 yards apart. The dispatches said the Syrians also had reintroduced surface-to-air missiles in the Bekaa in defiance of the Israelis.

U.S. officials indicated Wednesday there was room for compromise over the peacekeepers in Beirut, the last major obstacle to a PLO withdrawal. The other major stumbling block where the guerrillas will go after they leave Beirut - appeared solved after Syria and other Arab nations offered to

However, Israel has said it won't ease the military pressure until the withdrawal actually starts, and the fourth straight day of air raids on the battered city began at sunrise.

The Tel Aviv command said Israel soldiers seized several buildings from which the guerrillas were firing on Israeli positions near the National Museum crossing on the Green Line that bisects Beirut into Moslem and Christian sectors.

The pro-Israel Voice of Free Lebanon radio station said the Israelis seized seven buildings in the area. But the PLO denied any buildings had been captured and said it repulsed several Israeli tank thrusts across the Green

Search continues for four men in deputy's death

UVALDE, Texas (AP) - The search for four men wanted in connection with the beating death of a 34-year-old sheriff's deputy concentrated today on communities within a 100-mile radius of this South Texas city, authorities said.

Capital murder charges were filed Wednesday against Armando Espinosa of Uvalde, who remained jailed here, said County Judge Jerry White.

A charge of attempted capital murder against Espinosa was upgraded after Clyde Hobbs died of severe head injuries at 10

Espinosa, 30, was arrested late Monday night after Hobbs was discovered badly beaten and lying beside his patrol car south of here. Bond had been set at $250,000 on the attempted

Four felony murder warrants were issued after Hobbs' death from severe head injuries at San Antonio Community

The four people sought were believed to be relatives of Espinosa's who were Eagle Pass residents, officials said. About 50 representatives of the Texas Rangers, state Department of Public Safety and area police and sheriff's offices combed the rugged terrain south of here in a three-day search using helicopters and roadblocks. No trace of the four men has yet been found, deputies said. 'We feel they (suspects) have probably moved out" of the Uvalde area, said Uvalde County sheriff's deputy David McCutchen. "But we don't know yet. We are still trying to determine that."

Sheriff's officers lifted county-wide roadblocks Wednesday, McCutchen said.

The four men, in their 20s, were believed to have fled on foot from their car, said Alfredo Menchaca, a special investigator for the Zavala County sheriff's office.

But McCutchen said that the men probably found other transportation later.

One of the men being sought was said to have a tattoo on the inside of his right arm, running from his wrist to his elbow, a Zavala County sheriff's dispatcher in Crystal City said.

Officers said Hobbs was beaten with a lug wrench about 9 p.m. Monday when he stopped a car to see if it contained stolen merchandise. Hobbs was found beside his car on U.S. 83 three miles south of Uvalde.

Harrelson admits he bugged fellow prisoner

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Charles V. Harrelson, who contends the government violated his rights by tape-recording his jailhouse conversations, admits that 22 years ago he helped authorities elecronically eavesdrop on one of his cellmates in California.

Harrelson, charged with killing U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr., made the admission Wednesday under questioning by Assistant U.S. Attorney Ray Jahn.

Harrelson has repeatedly charged that government agents used "gestapo tactics" in investigating Wood's death and on Dec. 10, 1980, angrily ripped apart eavesdropping apparatus in the Harris County Jail at Houston. Jahn introduced a transcript of testimony Harrelson gave in the 1960 murder trial of John Balhovich and asked Harrelson whether he taped Balhovich's conversations while the two were cellmates at the Orange County Jail in Santa Anna.

"I did appear and I did testify, but I did not record. I had a transmitter in the cell," Harrelson replied. In exchange for cooperating with California authorities, Harrelson said one robbery charge against him was dismissed and he received five years probation on another one. Balhovich was sentenced to death for killing a witness in an armed robbery case at the end of the trial. But Harrelson said conviction was overturned on appeal, Harrelson's testimony was barred in the second trial, and Balhovich received life the in response to Jahn's questions. Harrelson also said he bore no grudges against John Lee Spinelli, the convict who testified earlier in a pretrial hearing that he spent 58 days last year recording Harrelson's conversations at the Harris County Jail. "He was doing what I guess he thought he had to do." Harrelson replied.

Harrelson spent 7% hours on the stand over two days, more than one hour of that in closed session, before U.S. District Judge William S. Sessions recessed court at 6:20 p.m. Wednesday. Sessions said he would continue an effort to complete the

For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

You're the president of the United States and the economy has gone sour. Unemployment is climbing, inflation is at a post - war high, a huge budget deficit has Wall Street nervous, speculators are playing games with the dollar and the recession has gotten deadly serious.

What do you do? Closely examining the situation percent inflation rate, an $18 billion budget deficit and mortgage rates at 7.5 percent - President Richard Nixon asked for television prime on August 15, 1971 to announce without warning wage, price and rent controls and a startling plan to Nixon's actions of 11 years ago demonstrate that economics is a tricky science and that bold government actions to control inflation, devaluation, unemployment, interest rates or you name - it don't necesarily lead to success. The problem in 1971 was the dollar's effective devaluation in the world's currency markets and a pathetic balance of payments in foreign trade. Gold prices were freed up and one problem was licked, but then worse turmoil began when the producing nations began to realize oil was worth more than $8 per barrel.

percent inflation and unemployment in 1971 look pale in comparison with president Reagan's concern over 10 percent unemployment and inflation as high as 17 percent at one stage just two years ago. Now, of course, the dollar is strong instead of weak, but that too has posed dilemmas for the White House. Reagan, instead of taking the bold interventionist approach, has attempted to get the economy well again by reducing the regulatory yoke, lessening the tax load, giving incentives to the supply side of the economy, and letting interest rates find their natural

Will Reagan be reelected?

By OSCAR COOLEY

When Ronald Reagan was elected president by a substantial majority in November 1980, the American people were sick and tired of the welfare state promoted by his predecessors. It had led them into a recession featured by inflation and fantastic interest rates. They wanted a change.

Reagan offered to give it to them. The mistake, he said, was the assumption that prosperity depended on the rate of spending and therefore the government should spend more. This caused taxes to rise and government borrowing toincrease. The later bid up the interest rate. It also increased the money in circulation, which resulted in all prices rising (inflation). All this enlarged the role of government and reduced that of the private sector and of the people themselves. He promised to reverse

Immediately after his inauguration, Reagan asked Congress to cut taxes 10 percent a year for three years. He also slashed government spending for everything except arms. Making this exception because of the threat of Soviet Russia, which had broken the arms equality agreement.

Congress rebelled at the extent of the tax cut, holding that it would benefit the rich mainly and also that it was unsound to cut tax rates when the government is already running at a

(The fact that really worried the members of Congress was that Reagan's tax cuts would reduce the government's cash available for them to spend to get reelected.)

Thus, the new president annoyed the politicians at the outset. They began to see that he really aimed to eliminate the welfare state which had come to be a source of goodies to be parceled out to every class. And so the word went out that thpresident was a toady of the rich - wasn't he cutting mainly their tax rates? - and a grinder of the faces of the poor - wasn't he taking away the

The media took up the cry and Reagan was painted as an ogre. His stock began to fall. The recession intensified - and it fell still more. The leader who won in 1980 had been so

Ronald Reagan is the lindliest of men. He has a ready smile and unfailing good ummor. He has only sympathy and goodwill for both the poor and the rich. He would grind nobody's face. The old folks may rest assured their SS benefits will keep on

He happens to believe in the American people and in their ability to do for themselves. Isn't that how this country was built? They do not want to be supported by the government. They believe in democracy, not welfare statism. Reagan's belief in the people explains why he would cut back the size and paternalism of government. His chief mistake has been the extent to which he believed Congress would cooperate with him.

Will the gimme - gimme crowd prevail and bring back the welfare state of the 1970's? Or will the Reagan supporters be emboldened and reassert themselves? Will Reagan be reelected in November, 1984?

We were sitting around - my friend

Not all the revelations in the Woodward & Bernstein version of Nixon's last 100 days are unsympathetic to him. For example, one thing that struck me was an item that the former President was a wine buff and preferred a very expensive Chateau Margaux. When he went cruising on his yacht Sequoia, he instructed his stewards to serve the Margaux wrapped in a towel to obscure the label, while they served his guests on board a cheap vintage Bordeaux.

Some might think that Mr. Nixon was being petty, but anyone who knows the pleasure of a great wine like Chateau Margaux can appreciate why the former President wouldn't want to waste it on the people he invited aboard the Sequoia.

I have always felt the same way about my good wine. Several years ago, I was given a gift by Baron Philippe Rothschild - a case of Chateau Mouton Rothschild 1955. The nectar at that time sold for about $40 a bottle. (The rule of any newspaper syndicate is that I cannot accept any gift that I can't eat or drink in 24 hours. Since I figured I could drink a case in 24 hours if I really tried, I never bothered to return it.)

But I didn't drink it. I stashed it away in the cellar, carefully placing each bottle on its side with the labels face up so I could go down at night and stare at my treasure.

The trouble with having a case of rare wine is that you don't know anybody worthy of serving it to.

Every time someone came to the house for dinner, I would greet him at the door and mentally say to myself, "This bum wouldn't know a Chateau Mouton Rothschild from a bottle of Manishewitz."

As the years went by my wine became more valuable, but harder to open. My biggest fear was that if I served a bottle of it and my guests made no comment, I would go berserk and scream at them, "Do you fools realize you're drinking an $80 bottle of wine?" My second fear was that there would be some guests who would recognize it for what it was, and become so enthused I'd have to open a second bottle which would deplete my

Once I was working on a television show with an important Hollywood producer and writer in my home. My wife, fixed us a sandwich lunch. When we walked into the dining room. I discovered to my horror that she had opened one of the bottles of Mouton

Without thinking, I screamed at her, 'How could you open a bottle of Mouton Rothschild for these bums?'

The TV show went down the drain. I did open a bottle for my daughter's 18th birthday, and another when a French friend from Paris visited me. So that left me with nine bottles to count before I went to sleep.

Then the Vietnam war riots started and all discipline broke down in our house. Our children had turned rebellious and nobody was talking to anybody. Strangers in blue jeans with beards and clenched fists kept walking in and out of the house. I forgot all about my wine cellar.

But one day in 1973, I went up to the attic to find a suitcase. I took a flashlight and as I was shining it around, I saw a pile of glass in the corner of the attic. I went over to it. There were nine empty bottles with Chateau Mouton Rothschild labels lying on the floor. Apparently, during one of my absences, the flower children had had a wine party in the attic.

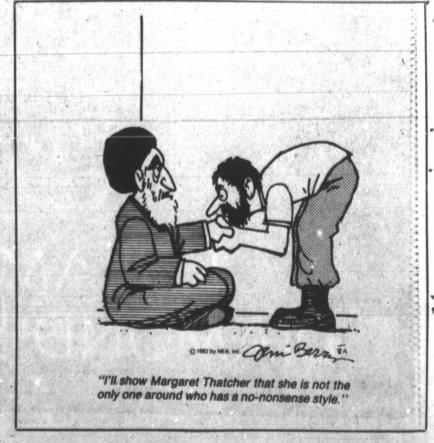

I let out a scream and my wife rushed pstairs. She found me on my knees sobbing and pounding on the floor. "What have I done? What has happened?"

It's been years, but I still haven't gotten over it. Every once in a while I'll break down and say, "If I had only put the Blue Nun in the wine rack, I would be a rich man today."

So when I read about Mr. Nixon trying to protect his Chateau Margaux from his heathen guests, my heart went out to him. He could have shared it with them, but as he told John Dean, "It would have been wrong.

Reagan may take battle to people

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan is likely to make a televised address to the nation, perhaps before a House-Senate session on Capitol Hill, seeking support for passage of a $98.9 billion tax increase bill.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said there is a good possibility - but no final decision - that Reagan will speak to Americans about the tax hike late this week or early next.

Meanwhile, Reagan was resuming his arm-twisting sessions with congressmen today as he lobbies for passage of the tax bill he says is vital to his economic recovery program.

Reagan set aside time to see congressmen during three White House meetings. For days, Reagan has been working to convince rebellious House conservatives to support the tax bill.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., has invited Reagan to use Capitol Hill as his forum in making an appeal to the public on behalf of tax increase bill.

White House aides say, however; there is a far better chance that Reagan will address the nation about the legislation from the Oval Office, rather than from Capitol Hill.

Administration sources told the Washington Post Reagan has reached a definite decision to make the public appeal and will probably deliver it during prime time Monday from the

At a celebration of Billings' 100th birthday, Reagan said he would have to be a magician to fix the economy quickly after "40 years of fiscal irresponsibility."

Blockade ready for Trident sub

PORT LUDLOW, Wash. (AP) - Demonstrators camping near the shore of Hood Canal were ready to float a blockade powered by sails and oars today to protest the arrival of the 560-foot Trident nuclear submarine USS Ohio.

A newspaper report quoting unidentified sources close to the Navy said the submarine, designed to fire nuclear missles, would enter Hood Canal and dock at its new homeport in Bangor at 10 a.m. PDT today. The sub was expected to pass by the protesters at the mouth of the canal several hours earlier. About 100 protesters camped at Jefferson County Park overnight, preparing to use two sailboats, 20 small rowboats and two small motorized boats to block the submarine. However, dozens of Coast Guard boats are in the area to ring the sub after it surfaces and prevent the blockade.

The Coast Guard has established a 1,000-yard floating restricted zone around the ship. Violation of the zone by protesters could bring up to 10 years in prison and a $10,000

Demonstrators expect to be arrested, said Morna McLeod, a demonstrations coordinator.

Fresh clothes for any arrested blockaders were sent ahead to Seattle "so they won't have to appear in court in wet suits," Ms. McLeod said Wednesday.

The Bremerton Sun, which serves Kitsap County, where Bangor is located, quoted an unidentfied "high-ranking official close to the Navy" as saying the Ohio would dock at Bangor today The Ohio is expected to travel through Hood Canal on the surface because it would be risky to bring the $1.2 billion vessel through the Hood Canal Bridge opening submerged, said Vice Adm. William P. Lawrence, commander of the U.S.

The USS Ohio, commissioned last November, is the first of the new generation of Trident class submarines. The first of 10 Trident submarines that will make the Bangor naval base their home port, it will take on 24 Trident I missiles, becoming the most powerful single weapon in the U.S. arsenal.

Bell System breakup back to drawing board

WASHINGTON (AP) - The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and the Justice Department say they will hold talks to adjust the proposed break-up of the Bell System to meet the demands of a federal judge.

the two sides can modify their agreement, U.S. District Judge Harold H. Greene said he will proceed with the antitrust settlement. The proposed corporate reorganization ls the largest in history. But Greene, who described the overall AT&T divestiture plan as "plainly in the public interest," said he would resume the company's antitrust trial promptly if the two parties don't make the changes he wants within 15 days. The trial in the 1974 antitrust suit was suspended in January when AT&T and federal prosecutors announced they had reached a settlement in which AT&T would give up ownership of its 22 wholly owned Bell System companies

In exchange the telecommunications giant would be given the right to enter new, unregulated businesses like data processing and the government would drop its suit against the

While the Bell companies represent about two-thirds of AT&T's assets - or more than $80 billion - the settlement would leave the company its lucrative long-distance, equipment, manufacturing and research operations.

Greene said he approved of the settlement, but would insist on major changes to bolster the Bell System companies to help them avoid major rate increases.

"This opinion reflects clear concern for consumers, for the health of the local operating companies, and for the First Amendment," said Rep. Timothy E. Wirth, D-Colo., who tried unsuccessfully to get Congress tm enact some of the same restrictions set out by Greene.

Both AT&T Chairman Charles L. Brown and the Justice Department said they would discuss the modifications.

The modifications include changes designed to guarantee the financial health of the Bell System companies after they lose Ma Bell's umbrella. For example, Greene said he could not accept the idea of transferring the printed Yellow Pages operation to AT&T. Those advertising directories, with their roughly $2 billion in annual revenues, should remain with the local companies to help hold down local rates, Greene wrote.

The judge also said he saw no reason to prohibit the Bell companies from marketing telephone equipment to

Auto insurance rate hike asked

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The State Board of Insurance today planned to listen to conflicting testimony on how much to increase automobile insurance rates.

The board staff has proposed a 17.3 percent average statewide increase, adding up to $306 million in additional

However, the insurance industry announced Wednesday it wants a 33.2 percent increase.

A Texas Automobile Insurance Service Office release said the big increase is justified by a "marked increase in both the number of claims and the average costs of those claims."

TAISO said accidents jumped 6.2 percent in 1981 up to a total of 792,763. The organization also reported 10.8 percent increase in the number of traffic injuries and a 6.3 percent hike in These statistics mirror the dismal picture for both insureds and insurers alike," the release said.

"The member companies of TAISO believe that their recommendation is both fair and realistic in that it takes into account the most recent automobile loss experience, the consideration of future losses, and the legitimate needs of the Texas automobile insurance industry," according to the PARIS (AP) - French Jewish leaders rejected Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin's call for a vigilante defense against the current wave of anti-Semitic attacks in France.

"We cannot take justice into our own hands," Alain de Rothschild told 3,000 people who gathered Wednesday evening to protest international terrorism at a memorial to the 125,000 French Jews deported to Nazi death camps during World War II.

"The creation of self-defense militias would only create violence and counter-violence," said Rothschild, who protested French government support for the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Rothschild echoed France's chief rabbi, Rene-Samuel Sirat, who told 3,500 people at a memorial service for the six dead in an attack on a Jewish restaurant: "The sole responsibility of protecting the lives and property of Jews rests with the state and the police.

The attack on the restaurant Monday by at least four terrorists was one of five anti-Semitic attacks in Paris in the past 10 days. Begin on Tuesday said French Jews should mobilize to defend themselves if the French government did not take "the necessary measures to prevent the neo-Nazi phenomenon of the murder of the Jews.'

Simone Veil, a Jewish survivor of the Auschwitz death camp and the former president of the European Parliament, also opposed Begin's proposal. She said Jews must not fall into the terrorists' trap and answer violence with violence.

A previously unknown group called the Iraqi Islamic Action Organization said it set off the car bomb. Its members were believed to be Shiite Moslems opposed to Iraqi President Saddam Hussein's regime, which is dominated by Sunni Moslems.

Textbook battles are continuing

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) -After three days of hearings, State Textbook Committee members have been putting a little more bite in their questioning of protesters who want to eliminate schoolbooks from public school shopping lists for various partisan reasons. The hearings continue today, the fourth of five days of testimony.

At Wednesday's hearing, the committee was told by the Texas Daughters of the American Revolution that some of the schoolbooks promote violence and teach 'socialist" beliefs.

Mrs. Billy C. Hutcheson of Fort Worth also complained much emphasis on rights instead of duties.

"Where in the text do you find that people should obey the laws?" she asked. "Always, what are your

One member of the committee, which hands anonymous, written questions to a hearing examiner, asked Mrs. Hutcheson, "Are you saying that students are not American citizens?"

Another committee member insisted Mrs. Autcheson document her claim that yoga, suggested as an activity by one health book, is a religious practice.

Mrs. Hutc eson said her group found one civics book to "promote violence" because it included as an example of authority, "Speeches designed to get people to destroy property may not be given on school grounds."

Why bring it up?" Mrs. Hutcheson asked the committee. "If you tell a child not to put a bean up his nose, the first thing he'll do is put a bean up his nose, and it'll swell and then you'll have problems," Mrs. Hutcheson

Mrs. Hutcheson found a health book objectionable because it told junior high students, "As a resident of this planet, you have a part to play in keeping its resources safe for yourself and others."

She also objected to a health book she said used the World Health Organization definition of "health," by including mental well-being

"... to make seventh graders responsible for keeping the planet safe for himself and others is too much - plus being , a - socialist-humanist belief not so identified."

The WHO definition of "health" was "reportedly written by a Soviet spy," Mrs. Hutcheson said.

The annual Texas hearings draw national attention, since the volume of books bought by the state's public schools can affect publishers' marketing plans.

When going gets tough, Reagan does it himself

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan is said to leave many matters to subordinates. But when something truly matters to him, he goes all out.

And he's been doing just that for more than a week in his quest to convince Congress to pass a bill to increase taxes by $98.9 billion

This time around, the president went so far as to delay for at least a week the vacation he was to have begun Aug. 11. So instead of riding his beloved horses at his ranch near Santa Barbara, Calif., the president remains in the nation's capital, ushering in group after group of Republican congressmen in his

In the past week, Reagan has summoned perhaps 150 Republican congressmen to the White House for some low-key arm twisting. Every day several new waves of congressmen meet with the president and listen to him and his aides explain the tax bill. Some of them emerge saying their minds have been changed.

The Reagan style doesn't stop with congressmen, however. He also has met with business leaders who support the bill, such as Chrysler Corp. Chairman Lee Iacocca. And he placed his former political director, Lyn Nofziger; in charge of conducting the lobbying effort even though Nofziger opposed the tax bill a week ago. It was Reagan who convinced Nofziger to change his mind.

The president also may make a nationally broadcast address to the nation on the topic, the same thing he did last July during the White House offensive to win passage of a bill to cut taxes by 25 percent over 33 months.

If he follows the same script he used last year. Reagan will ask constituents to deluge their congressmen with so many telegrams and telephone calls that Congress will be afraid the ignore the message from back

Whether he can pull this one off remains to be seen. But he has yet suffer a major loss on economic issues.

By most accounts, Reagan's lobbying manner is low-key. The congressmen sa afterward that the president and his aides listen to their questions and provide answers. There are indications that a bit of old-fashioned horse trading also enters the

Though most of his sessions with congressmen have been closed to the press, the White House did allow reporters and cameras in briefly during one of three meetings Tuesday.

Build your own house and save

By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst PLEASANTVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Donald Mow, an architect, has a system he claims can cut 25 percent or more from the price of the house his client builds

Even in this affluent community and others in Westchester County, roughly 15 to 45 miles north of midtown Manhattan, Mow says tremendous savings are possible.

For $75,000, that is, clients can own a house that might have cost their neighbor $100,000. To say it another way, for $75,000 clients can build a house that might have a market value of $100,000 or so.

The house might also be better suited to their tastes and needs than any they might purchase. Better fitted to the lot also. And, since they will have built it, they need never wonder what went into

The implications would seem to be huge. As now offered, the system generally requires Mow's periodic assistance, but he has written and is perfecting a manual that should permit use in any other area.

His records show he built his own house for $76,200 a year ago in nearby Briarcliff Manor, one of at least 80 he has put up and more than 100 he has designed. He paid retail prices for materials. The house and lot appear to have a market value of about $180,000.

Nothing unusual about that, says Mow, a graduate of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and, at age 48, the recent recipient of a master's degree in business administration from Pace

His technique would seem to be an important development in the battle against rising housing costs, which already have priced millions of people out of the market. But it requires effort on the client's part.

Mow makes his clients the general contractor.

Mow maintains you needn't know how wood is jointed or pipes fitted. "But it is necessary to know the function of various components of a house, and how each subcontractor is fitted into the whole system.'

And so, in words and schematic drawings, he takes clients through the financing, blueprints, land search, feasibility analysis, insurance, excavation, framing, finished carpentry, plumbing, heating, electricity, drywall, insulation, exterior walls and landscaping.

More inmates does not mean less crime

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Taking criminals off the streets and locking them in state prisons does not reduce Texas' crime rate, according to the special master appointed to monitor state compliance with a prison reform order.

Vincent Nathan on Wednesday told the Blue Ribbon Commission on Criminal Justice that Texas "could double the number of people in the Texas Department of Corrections without expecting any significant reduction in the rate of increase of crime in Texas.

The commission was appointed by Gov. Bill Clements to study the state's entire criminal justice system. Chairman Bruce Lipshy of Dallas said the commission would report back to Clements in November.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice, who issued the prison reform order, appointed Nathan to oversee state compliance with the order. Nathan told the commission that the growth in the crime rate has been equal with the increase in state population. The prison population in Texas' overcrowded penitentiaries is growing at a three-times larger rate, he said.

Bill Turner, the San Francisco lawyer who represented inmates in the lawsuit, agreed that packing inmates into prisons does not cut crime. He said crime is a result of a variety of factors, most of which are out of the hands of the criminal justice system.

"I don't think you can affect those factors." Turner told the commission. "I think you probably have to take as given what the crime rate is. There's not much you can do about it. It's

The Fort Worth native added, "Increasing the number of people incarcerated does not reduce the crime rate. You can't provide absolute safety to the public - even if you had a police state you can't do it. Texas will be no safer if three or four

Peyser made his comments at a House Government Operations subcommittee where IRS Commissioner Roscoe Egger and Selective Service Director Thomas Turnage defended the joint agency plan as necessary.

The proposal calls for the IRS to send letters to thousands of teen-age men, warning them to register for the draft

Peyser predicted, "We'll hear a lot of criticism after these letters go out this week" from people worried about the use of the IRS for non-tax matters.

"It was only a few short years ago the Nixon administration attempted to use tax returns to advance its own political and policy interests," Peyser said. "The Congress would not stand for that kind of activity then and it won't stand for it now."

The American Civil Liberties Union opposed the use of the IRS data, calling it "a significant invasion of privacy. 'You're opening the door here to IRS in a non-tax, non-financial way," said David Landau of the ACLU. "There are lots of people who would like to get into IRS files.'

But Turnage said, "In our law and order society, my failure" to do everything possible to make sure young men register "would lead to an erosion of confidence" that laws will be

Fiction preferred over fact

Every mother wants to believe that her child has no reason to lie

Every mother wants to believe stretch marks tan, too.

Frankly, I have never understood the mother who delcares, "MY child does not lie. He has no reason to.

Actually, he has six or seven hundred reasons to . . . or at least he thinks he does . All of them have to do with fear of screwing up and getting punished for it. Maybe parents just aren't looking for the telltale signs of lying. When you have forbidden your child to go swimming unchaperoned while you are at work and you come home and his eyes are pink from chlorine, his hair is wet, his chest is red and his fingers shriveled from being in the water for four hours and he says he's been reading "Introduction to Math Eqations" all afternoon, there's a possibility he's lying.

When you discover your child throwing a sheet over a new bicycle in the garage and you hear police sirens in the neighborhood and you ask him where he got the bike and he says, "I found it,' I'd ask a few questions.

I've discovered every time you ask a child what he is doing and he says, "Nothing," he is lying through his teeth.

Of course there are the obvious lies like, 'Did you wash your face?'' Then you see a 21 - inc tongue lick a path across the entire face and chest as he says, "Yes."

The obvious reason children become so unprincipled is that the rules for telling the truth are so flexible.

This is the way it works. You cannot take a cookie and say you didn't. That's lying.

When a cookie, however, tastes like the bottom of a hamster cage, you can't tell the truth. You have to say it tastes wonderful. That's being merciful.

Some of the most memorable fiction I've ever encountered has come from the mouths of my children. Now that they're older the truth is just beginning to surface on things I never suspected. Like how they once chased one another around the front yard with a steak knife and how a baby - sitter once drank a quart of gin on New Year's eve.

I hate to admit it publicly, but I appreciate their "mercy." I don't think I could have handled the truth.

Moms lead in one-parent families

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) - As more and more Americans divorce or separate, the number of children living with only one parent has climbed to one in five, the Census Bureau says. And in almost all those cases, the children stay with their mother.

The bureau said Sunday that 20.1 percent of children under age 18 live with one parent. That's about 12.6 million chidren - one out of every five - an increase of 53.9 percent from

The study said about 90 percent of the children in one-parent families lived with their mothers.

The number living with fathers grew 61 percent between 1970 and 1981, from 748,000 to 1.2 million, the bureau said. But their proportion remained small. In fact, more children lived with other relatives (1.9 million) than lived with their father only (1.2 million)

Divorce was listed as the primary reason children lived with one parent, while some resided with a parent who was separated, widowed or divorced.

The study "Marital Status and Living Arrangements: March 1981" also reported

-The divorce ratio grew from 47 to 109 divorced persons per 1,000 married persons with spouse present between 1970 and 1981. -Twenty-two percent of women aged 25 to 29 in 1981 had never married, double the percent in 1970.

-And the median age at first marriage for both men and women has increased by 18 months since 1970. In 1981, the median age at first marriage was 22.3 years for women and 24.8 for men.

Overall, the report said Americans had a rate of 109 divorced persons for every 1,000 married ones in 1981. The rate was 47 per 1,000 in 1970 and 35 per 1,000 in 1960.

The divorce figure was calculated on the status of people when the survey was taken. Those who divorce and then remarry are counted among the married, not the

The bureau said women had a higher divorce ratio than men, 129 per 1,000 versus 88 per 1,000, "reflecting the fact that men are more likely to remarry and to do so more quickly after divorce than women."

The study showed that the divorce rate among blacks has skyrocketed, growing from 62 divorced persons per 1,000 married in 1960 to 233 today.

The number of unmarried people living together also continued to rise sharply.

Memories and music main course for reunion banquet

By CINDA ROBINSON Lifestyle Editor

The two - day Pampa Army Air Field 10th annual reunion drew to a close last Saturday evening with a banquet in the Starlite room of the Coronado Inn.

The group celebrated the 40th anniversary of the old Advanced Twin - Engine Pilot Training School that was once located east of Pampa on highway 152. Over 110 reunioneers enjoyed a steak dinner and danced to the music of the 40's performed by the Mandenvile Band. During the evening ceremonies, the group honored long time Pampa resident, Dr. M. C. Overton, Jr., in appreciation for and recognition of distinguished service, loyalty and untiring devotion to his country during World War II.

Dr. Overton entered the Navy from Pampa, April 9, 1942. He was stationed at San Diego for three months before he went to sea. He had been assigned to the Fleet Surgeon's Staff which was stationed at Espirito Santos, Hebrides Island.

He was sent to the Guadacanal to establish a hospital site at the time of the invasion.

When the USS Pickney was commissioned he was the Chief of Surgery. The gray ship was a 600 bed hospital, heavily armed with cruiser hull. She would land the first troops then standby to take the injured aboard, to be transferred to New Zealand. His last year of service was as administrator and Chief of Surgery at the Navy Dive Bomber Base, Beeville, Texas. He was discharged from active duty on January 22,

Dr. Overton has been a practicing physician over fifty years, forty - seven of which were in Pampa. He has two sons who are physicians, Dr. Marvin C. Overton, III, Neuro - surgeon, Ft. Worth; and Dr. Todd H. Overton, Gynecologist, Amarillo.

Pampa's highly respected doctor was inducted into the Pampa Army Airfield Reunion Association as an honorary

Another special honor was issued to Nina Spoonemore, organizer of the reunions for the last ten years. She was made a lifetime member of the Pampa Army Airfield Reunion Association and presented with an engraved silver turine.

Clay Wilkins, executive director of the Texas Aeronutics Commission, saluted the flying men of World War II as his childhood heros.

Mr. Wilkins told the group that aeronautics affects everyone. He reported that there are presently over 200,000 airplanes in the state of Texas alone and that over 10 billion dollars was spent on aviation in Texas last year.

He told them the bad news was that Texas is sadly behind in the training of pilots, air plane mechanics, and qualified air field personnel. He felt this was the direct result of apathy in politicians on the state and national level.

The evening was brought to a close with dancing exchanging stories and reminiscing.

Couple is plagued by guilt

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for printing the letter from "Learned Too Late." We also learned too late. We didn't lose our child, but our child lost an eye while standing up in a car that came to a sudden stop. He was thrown against an open metal ashtray on the dashboard and cut his little eye so badly it couldn't be saved. Had that child been buckled into a seat belt as he should have been, it never would have happened. We will always feel a terrible sense of guilt because it was our fault, not his

EDITOR'S NOTE - Each year, more than 2 million packages of nuclear materials are transported across the nation by highway, rail and air. Associated Press Writer Richard T. Pienciak recently accompanied a shipment of low-level radioactive waste on a seven-state journey.

BARNWELL, S.C. (AP) - Norman Duvall tooled his 22-wheeler off Interstate 95 and past the local dairy, the Masonic Temple and the Chamber of Commerce headquarters.

A kid on the street pumped his arm in the universal request of truckers. Duvall obliged with a yank of his air

Inside the Barnwell city limits, Tractor No. 42 went past a school, the county health department building, a sleeping turtle and the empty Seven Pines Baptist Church softball field.

At the Zippy Mart convenience store. Duvall blew his horn at his wife, Gail, working inside the store.

The 896-mile trip ended with a right turn on to Osborn Road, home of a 300-acre burial ground operated by Duvall's employer, Chem-Nuclear Systems Inc

Located five miles northwest of Barnwell in Red Oak Township, the dump sits adjacent to the Department of Energy's Savannah River nuclear weapons production plant, a government high-level burial ground and a completed but never operated nuclear fuel reprocessing facility.

Duvall started the journey in Buchanan, N.Y., at the Indian Point 3 nuclear power plant, owned by the Power Authority of the State of New

A security guard opens the electric fence around the controlled portion of the property and Duvall drops the trailer carrying the load in the yard.

Duvall goes over to a storage box and gets a radiation counter to survey the truck cab, wheels to roof. Next comes a human radiation survey, head to toe.

Duvall says he can "almost taste the beer" waiting for him at home as he deposits a thick packet of permits, bill of lading and forms at the office. "Homeward bound," says a smiling Duvall as he heads out the yard.

Duvall, 37, a bearded, good-humored guy who spent eight years in the Army, has been hauling nuclear materials for nine years. "I guess we're becoming part of the landscape," he says.

He is extremely careful about his driving, his appearance and his behavior. There is no drinking on the road and no stopping at motels of questionable repute.

Like all Chem-Nuclear drivers. Duvall had five years of heavy hauling experience before even applying for the job. Then he took a four-week training course, passed 15 hours of testing and underwent a security check. His driving record was carefully scrutinized.

Drivers for Chem-Nuclear, which operates the dump for the state of South Carolina, logged about 31/2 million miles last year without an accident or traffic citation, according to company vice president Leroy B. Hebbard Jr.

When you get up in the morning, you can look forward to a full day," Duvall says. He drives about 120,000 miles per year, and is on the road about 220 days a

Last August Duvall and his wife took a trip together to the Millstone nuclear plants in Connecticut. "To her, it's just another load of freight," Duvall says. "She knows we're careful and safe, as safe as reasonably possible."

But driving truckloads of nuclear waste is no easy task, even for $30,000-$35,000 a year and a $35-a-day expense account.

There are long hours; federal and state regulations and restrictions, including those of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and the Department of Transportation, and the need for familiarity with special permits and emergency telephone

By PHYLLIS MENSING

Associated Press Writer GRAND FORKS, N.D. (AP) - With a dozen students and a couple of donated airplanes, the University of North Dakota aviation department got off the ground 13 years ago by offering students the chance to combine love of flying with down-to-earth business savvy. Today, the university's aviation students number 750 and its fleet includes 60 airplanes. And this fall, it will become the first school in the country to offer a four-year airway science program developed by the Federal Aviation Administration to upgrade the aviation industry. In the future, a pilot per se will be a dime a dozen. What you've got to do is fly an airplane and have other skills, too, says John Odegard, former crop duster, former certified public accountant and now chairman of the school's aviation

Odegard chaired a special FAA task force that developed the curriculum, a major goal of FAA Administrator J. Lynn

"General aviation aircraft and hours flown will nearly double in the next two decades," Helms said in a recent letter to the national Higher Education Commission. "There will be significant changes in the technology which will require a very

FAA officials say that except for some engineering schools, there are few places where a person can learn about aviation as a career. Flying was viewed by some educators as too glamorous and too expensive to be a part of a college

Odegard disagreed.

Today, the department has a $6 million budget and some 200 employees, including 90 flight instructors. The bulk of that budget comes from student fees and research contracts, and students go on to everything from airport management, airline marketing and weather research.

When President Reagan fired striking air traffic controllers last year, the university was the only four-year school with a curriculum designed to train 30 to 50 new controllers each year. That curriculum helped it win a $4 million federal grant for a three-story aerospace and atmospheric studies center, to be finished late next year.

The university had been planning the aviation building for some time, but didn't have funding for it. "The strike gave us an opportunity to get it," Odegard said. "When opportunity knocks, you'd better open the door.

That philosophy has guided the 40-year-old Odegard throughout his career.

Born in Minot, Odegard came to the University of North Dakota after serving as a crop duster, a corporate pilot, a certified public account and a financial representative for Boeing. While working on his advanced degree, he helped rejuvenate the school's flying club and offered to teach a course in aviation.

Odegard had the support of Tom Clifford, former dean of the business college and now the school's president.

A department won state approval with the condition that it be self-supporting, and in 1969 UND became the first school in the country to offer a college business degree in aviation

The following year, Odegard talked the city of Grand Forks into buying a portable air traffic control tower and won FAA approval to train students there. He also lured people from the airplane industry into the classroom.

"It sounds like a mutual admiration society, but the people ve attracted got caught up in his drive," said Don Smith, a former plant manager for Lockheed who is now director of academic programs for the department.

"Traditionally, an accountant is a person who sits in a corner with a calculator," Smith said. "John has that background, but he has the personality of an entrepreneur and

Baylor got his fastball on a 3-2 pitch and drove it into the left field stands for his sixth career grand slam and 18th homer of the year, powering the Angels to a 6-3 victory Wednesday night over the Twins

In other AL games, Texas defeated Milwaukee 6-3, Toronto edged Boston 4-3, Detroit outlasted New York 3-2 in 12 innings, Chicago stopped Baltimore 4-1, Kansas City blanked Cleveland 8-0 and Seattle toppled Oakland 7-4. Mariners 7, Left-hander Floyd Bannister scattered five hits to lead Seattle past Oakland. Bannister, 11-7, raised his American League-leading strikeout total to 141 by fanning six and walking four before Bill Caudill came on in the ninth to get his 20th save.

Oakland's Rickey Henderson, who walked in the fifth inning, swiped second and third to bring his stolen base total to 107, 11 shy of Lou Brock's record of 118. Blue Jays 4, Red Sox 3

Reliever Mark Clear walked pinch-hitter Hosken Powell with the bases loaded in the bottom of the seventh inning to force in the winning run as Toronto edged Boston. The Red Sox had taken a 3-2 lead in the top of the seventh the same way - on a bases-loaded walk.

Giants hottest team in baseball

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer It's getting-even time for Reggie

Smith "The Giants will not be intimidated by anyone," said the San Francisco outfielder on the eve of an important four-game series with the Los Angeles

Smith, of course, was a member of the Dodgers for many years and remembers that the Giants used to be virtual pushovers for them.

When I first came here, it was a matter of the Dodgers knowing they could beat the Giants," Smith said. 'But there's been an attitude change.'

A big part of that has been helped by the Giants' recent play, which is the hottest in baseball. The Giants have posted the major league's best record since June 27, 28-13.

Counting Wednesday's 8-6, 12-inning victory over Atlanta, the Giants have won 10 straight and moved right into the thick of the National League West

The surge has left the fourth-place Giants four games behind division-leading Los Angeles and they hope to make up more ground as they started their big series today with the Dodgers, who lost 2-1 to Cincinnati Wednesday night. The Braves, meanwhile, remained a half-game behind the Dodgers in second place.

The Giants' victory, by the way, gave them their longest winning streak since they reeled off 12 in a row April 30-May

Smith, one of the hottest hitters in the Giants' hot streak, came through with a two-run homer in the 12th inning to win Wednesday's game. Smith's game-winning blast was his 12th homer of the year, and his eighth game-winning RBI. He has hit safely in 13 of his last 14 games with five homers and 11 RBI over that span.

The loss was the ninth straight for the Braves, who had dropped out of first place Tuesday night after spending virtually all season on top.

In other NL action, it was Philadelphia 4, Pittsburgh 1; Montreal 3, Chicago 0, and Houston 3, San Diego 0. Rain washed out the St. Louis-New York game. Reds 2, Dodgers 1

Cesar Cedeno doubled home two runs in the first inning and Bob Shirley and Brad Lesley made them stand up with a combined seven-hitter as Cincinnati edged Los Angeles to snap the Dodgers' eight-game winning streak. Shirley, 4-9, worked into the eighth inning, scattering six hits, one of which was Ron Cey's 16th home run with one out in the second, while walking three and striking out two. Shirley also benefited from the Reds' defense that cut down two Dodgers at the plate. Lesley pitched the final 11-3 innings for his second save.

Phillies 4, Pirates 1 Garry Maddox drove in three runs with a pair of singles to lead Philadelphia over Pittsburgh for the Phillies' third victory in their four-game series with the Pirates. The Phillies scored the winning runs in a three-run eighth inning. Bo Diaz's groundout got one run home before Maddox capped the rally with a two-run single off Kent Tekulve, who relieved Pirate starter Rick Rhoden Sid Monge pitched the eighth inning and picked up his fifth victory without a loss. Ron Reed finished up for the Phillies, gaining his seventh save. Expos 3, Cubs 0 Gary Carter hit a solo home run and Charlie Lea and two relievers combined on a four-hitter as Montreal stopped Chicago's six-game winning Lea, 9-6, allowed only three hits before getting relief help one out in the eighth from Woodie Fryman. Jeff Reardon bailed Fryman out of a jam in the ninth, posting his 17th save. Lea walked three and struck out six while improving his lifetime record against Chicago to 4-0.

The Expos scored their first run in the second off Chicago starter Alan Ripley, 4-5, on Carter's 22nd homer of the season and first since July 27.

Montreal made it 2-0 in the fourth on Doug Flynn's RBI single and added another run in the eighth on a run-scoring base hit by Al Olive.

Astros 3, Padres 0

Nolan Ryan fired the eighth one-hitter of his career and singled in a run, and Dickie Thon extended his hitting streak to 20 games as Houston blanked San Diego to complete a three-game sweep.

Ryan retired the first 13 Padres before Terry Kennedy grounded a clean single to center with one out in the fifth inning. The Padres managed only five other baserunners, three of them on walks

Ryan, 12-9, struck out six in boosting his season total to 172. The victory total is his highest in three seasons as an Astro and the shutout was the 49th of his career.

Eric Show, 9-4, allowed all three Astro runs on eight hits over six innings, including Thon's leadoff double that led to the Astros' first run in the opening inning. Ryan aided his own cause with an RBI single in the second.

Clemson faces long odds in repeating as national champs

ATLANTA (AP) — Coach Danny Ford of Clemson knows it's difficult to successfully defend college football's national championship.

"It took us from the time this program was born until 1981 to win it, but, I can't say it is impossible," said Ford. "Everyone thought it was impossible for us to win it a first time, but we did."

Repeating as national champs has been done only only eight times in 46 years, and few expect the Tigers to turn the trick. But the Atlantic Coast Conference will offer a legitimate contender - Coach Dick Crum's North Carolina Tar Heels, featuring one of the nation's top running backs, Kelvin Bryant.

North Carolina and Clemson are solidly entrenched as the top two teams in the ACC, and loom as the league's only threats to crack the Top 20 rankings.

The Southeastern Conference, which claimed three national titles in succession before Clemson rose to the top, may be geared for another Alabama-Georgia title fight, but several others loom as challengers primarily Florida, and possibly Auburn and Mississippi State.

The battle for supremacy among the South's 10 Division I-A independents should feature Miami of Florida, which faces a tough schedule,

Walker, the 222-pound junior, already holds the NCAA rushing records for a freshman and a sophomore, having amassed 3,507 yards in two seasons. He holds 15 school, eight SEC and six NCAA records. Walker finished third in the Heisman Trophy voting after his freshman season and second last vear

Since going to the wishbone offense, Bryant has steered Alabama to eight SEC titles in the last 11 years, tying Georgia for the title last year. The Crimson Tide will add a new wrinkle to the offense this year, going to the I and double wing to take advantage of quarterback Walter Lewis' passing to wide receivers Jesse Bendross and Joey Jones. The move also is expected to help running back Linnie Patrick.

"I know that it sounds a little crazy to abandon something that has been as good to us as the wishbone has, but that's not really the case," Bryant said. "What we're doing is adding the I, not abandoning the

Despite a knee injury that forced him to miss four games, North Carolina's Bryant scored 18 touchdowns and rushed for 1,015 yards. The Tar Heels also have an excellent quarterback in Rod Elkins, who passed for 994 yards last year, most of that before being slowed by a mid-season ankle injury.

Ford must make wholesale changes in a depleted offensive line, but the Clemson defense should be strong again and Homer Jordan gives stability at quarterback, returning for his third season as a starter.
