

Residents come to the aid of family badly burned in flash fire

By DAVID CHRISTENSON
Staff Writer

While investigation continues into Friday's Pampa mobile home fire that burned a couple and their infant girl, a fund has been started at the First National Bank here to help the family out.

Carol Mercer and Bob Jacobs, administrative clerks for Halliburton Services here, have started the fund with $243 contributed by Halliburton employees.

James Boleman, 28, one of the victims of the fire, is a truck driver in Halliburton's cement department, and "one fantastic guy," according to Mercer.

* His family had been in town for about four months and had lived in the mobile home about two days when the gas fire struck Friday afternoon.

Boleman is a recently transferred worker from Pueblo, Colo., and is a member of the St. Vincent De Paul Catholic Church, according to Mercer.

In Galveston hospitals, his 28-year-old wife and two-month-old daughter, both named Anne, are undergoing skin-graft surgery for third degree burns both suffered when Friday's gas explosion and fire destroyed their home at 624 Roberta Street.

The infant was listed in critical but stable condition Tuesday, and was scheduled to undergo the graft treatment late Tuesday afternoon or this morning at Shriners Burn Institute in Galveston.

Anne Marie Boleman's condition was reportedly stabilized after her skin-graft operation Tuesday afternoon at John Sealy Hospital.

Mercer said surgeons were conducting the operations as quickly as possible to lessen the chances of infection.

Infection is one of the worst dangers for a burn victim, because a third-degree burn destroys the protective skin layer and leaves other tissue open to germs.

Both mother and daughter suffered second and third degree burns over about half their skin areas.

Boleman was released from John Sealy after treatment of second degree burns on large areas of his hands, a hospital spokesman said, and is now staying in Galveston.

Just as friends of the Bolemans are helping the family out financially, friends and neighbors helped out initially in the emergency.

The explosion was first reported to firemen by Larry Pyle, a neighbor of the Bolemans. An unidentified neighbor then transported them to Coronado Community Hospital.

From there, they were taken to Galveston in a plane flown by Ron Fernuik and owned by Leonard Hudson.

Fernuik and Hudson are participants in the emergency service sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Aviation Committee and local airplane operators.

Meanwhile, the investigation of the cause of the flash fire continues, conducted by the office of the city fire marshal, and by employees of Energas Co., which was supplying natural gas to the Boleman's mobile home at the time.

Jerry Norris, manager of Energas in Pampa, said the company received a customer request to turn the gas on at the Boleman's mobile home Friday morning.

An Energas employee performed a preliminary "shut in" operation there at 10:55 a.m., Norris said. This is a routine check for leaks in the gas lines.

In that test, the worker checks all appliances in the house to make sure there are none turned on, then uses a "test hand" on the meter itself to test for leakage.

Carson County judge accused of secret meetings, policies

By JEFF LANGLEY
Staff Writer

Government operations in Carson County are a well-kept secret, according to area newspaper publishers and the county judge.

The Carson County judge says he won't release copies of county budgets until they are already "approved and adopted" by commissioners, and county newspaper publishers say the judge also refuses to mail them meeting agendas, in an effort to keep secret official county business.

The latest round of what County Attorney Ed Hinshaw calls "a flap" between the Carson County newspapers and officials began about two weeks ago on August 20, when the newspaper publishers say Carson County Commissioners held a "secret meeting" to discuss a pending federal sex discrimination suit against commissioners.

Hinshaw and Judge Clarence Williams admit the meeting between Hinshaw, the judge and two commissioners took place.

But the judge says he and the two commissioners are all on an "advisory committee" to consider replacing the roof on the Square House Museum in Panhandle, and he said the three were meeting in the courthouse that Friday to discuss the roof, not as an official function of the commissioners court discussing county business.

Hinshaw says he attended the roof-session later to "individually question" commissioners and the judge about the pending EEOC complaint, filed by a female deputy sheriff.

Hinshaw says his meeting with commissioners was "an investigation" of the complaint by his office, not an official meeting of county commissioners.

Joseph Miller publishes the Panhandle Herald and the White Deer News, and his son, Phil Miller, publishes the Groom News and the Claude News.

The Millers don't buy the official explanation for the meeting of the four elected officials, and they say the newspapers' employees simply caught the local politicians holding an unannounced "secret" meeting.

"These county officials want to slip around and do things without you knowing it," Joseph Miller said.

"If they adhered to the Open Meetings Law, everything would be all right," he said.

According to Phil Miller, a source at the courthouse contacted the newspaper and informed the Millers of the unannounced meeting.

The younger Miller said he and his wife, Ila, drove from Groom to Panhandle to cover the meeting.

He said the officials had "just been served" with the EEOC complaint, and he said the officials were "surprised" when the newspaper reporters showed up to attend the session.

Miller said Hinshaw became "belligerent, pointed his finger," and snapped, "I can close any door around here anytime I want to," when Ila Miller asked about a meeting agenda, the purpose of the session, and after she asked to attend the courtroom session.

Hinshaw admits making the remark about closing courthouse doors to reporters, but he said he informed the Millers he was closing the doors as a result of his investigation of the sex complaint, an official function of his office.

"There was no secret meeting. The county does not conduct its business in secret, and I wouldn't be a part of it."

"There was a couple of ex-commissioners, a couple of commissioners, the judge and an insurance agent meeting there to discuss some of this hail damage to county buildings. I got in on the tail-end of the discussion, and then I asked questions (about the EEOC complaint) individually."

"I told them (the reporters) I'm going to shut the doors, whether it's at the courthouse or in my office downtown. I was assigned to investigate this EEOC complaint, and you don't do it in the hallways. I chose to shut the doors and ask questions," Hinshaw said.

The county attorney said the federal agency in Dallas asked him to investigate the deputy's sex complaint for possible criminal violations of state law.

Hinshaw said criminal penalties for sex discrimination can involve one year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

A female deputy in the sheriff's office filed the complaint, alleging the county pays her less than male deputies for the same work.

Phil Miller thinks the roof-meeting explanation does not hold water, and he believes local county officials simply ignore the laws about public business and information.

"It was real suspicious from the word go," Miller said about the meeting.

"There are a lot of hard-headed people in these rural counties who don't think you ought to question them. They think what they say is law — their law."

"They had just been served with the complaint, and when we found out about the meeting, they came up with that new roof story."

"He (Hinshaw) is a lawyer in this little county, and he thinks because he has a law degree, he's some kind of big dog," Miller said.

He said trying to get information about county business from Judge Williams has been a running battle for five years — the elder Miller said it's more like 20.

The Miller's say the judge refuses to mail agendas of county meetings to the newspapers, and they say the commissioners frequently fail to post an agenda at the courthouse for the legally required 72-hour period prior to the meetings.

Phil Miller said the county agenda for another meeting Monday, August 23rd was not posted the required time, and he said the newspaper tried to get a court injunction to stop the session, but the action was too late, according to Miller.

"The judge won't even let anyone see a until it's already approved," Miller said.

"I won't release them (proposed county budgets) before they've been approved — that would be stupid," the judge confirmed.

"I don't release it until it's finished. If they would print the whole thing, that would be fine. But they just want to tear it apart and pick on people," Williams said about his policy of withholding budget documents prior to official approval.

The judge said he does not mail county agendas to the newspaper offices, because "they've got a person who comes down here and picks it up. I leave it over there at the sheriff's office," Williams said.

"I could drop it in the mail, but it might be a little late. I haven't told them I wouldn't mail one," the county judge said.

But Phil Miller says the judge has refused to mail requested agendas. He said the newspaper has sought help from the Texas Attorney General's office in securing the documents.

"They're trying to hurt me, and I don't think they can get it done," Williams said about the reporters.

"It's a bunch of crap — just crap is what it is. I don't like any part of it," he added.

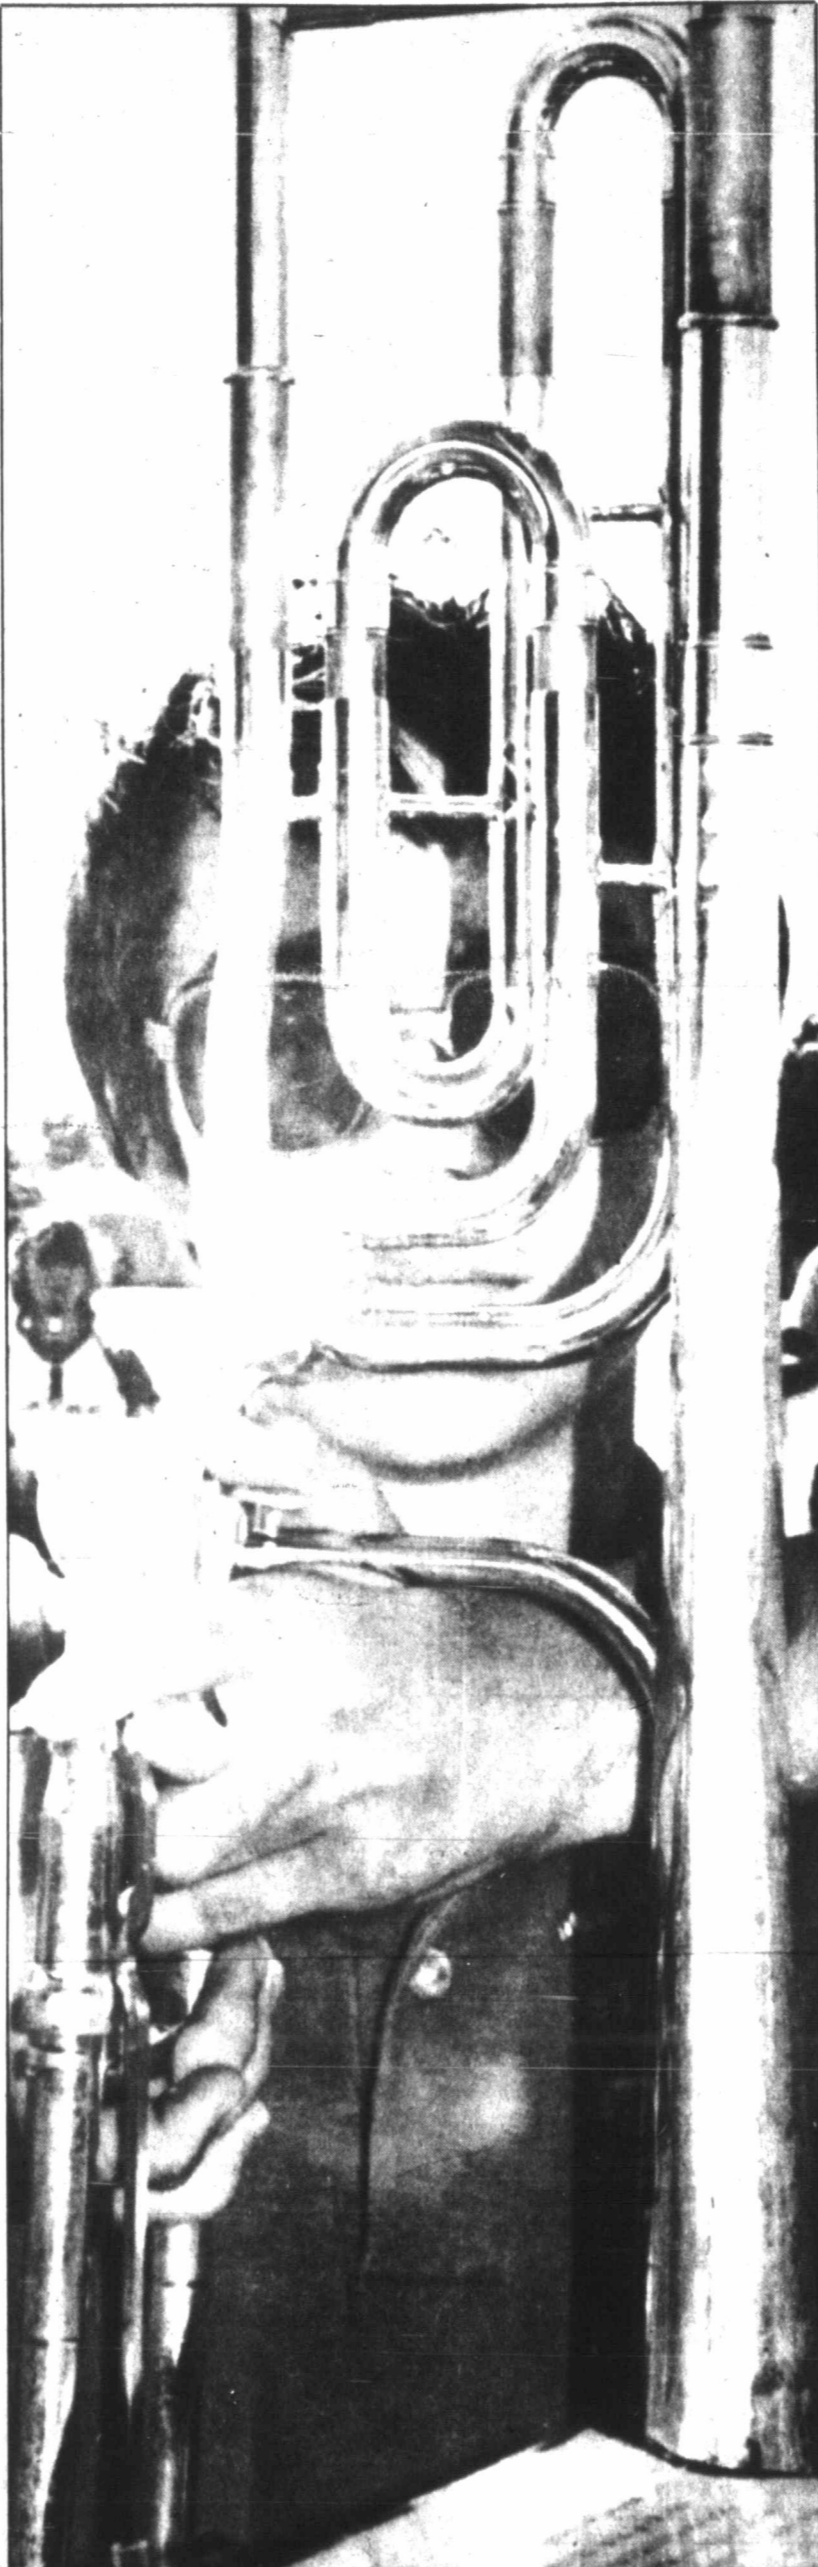

The judge said he "just came back from Greece," and is "not supposed to get upset."

"If I didn't have this condition, somebody would get their tail whipped — it just makes my blood boil. If they would just tell it like it is, there would be no problem," Williams said.

"If that's what people think about me, it's time for me to move — I'll just move. I never had anybody tell lies about me like this. You can ask all these people in Carson County about me — you just ask some of these people in the banks around here about me. Just ask Rufe Jordan about me — we went to school together," the judge said.

Williams was Carson County sheriff-tax assessor-collector from 1943 to 1955. Since 1955, he has served as county judge.

Sheriff solves string of local burglaries

By DAVID CHRISTENSON
Staff Writer

A citizen of Mexico was arraigned on three charges of burglary Tuesday after an investigation by the Gray County Sheriff's Department that netted an estimated $3,500 in stolen goods from 11 burglaries.

Gustavo Vasquez Solis, 24, a native of Chihuahua, Mexico who has been living in Pampa for two to three years at Black Apartments, 412 N. Somerville, is being held in the Gray County jail today.

His bond was set at a total of $35,000 by Justice of the Peace Margie Prestidge at about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Solis is suspected of the burglaries of three vehicles, five residences and three oilfield businesses.

At 1:40 a.m. Sunday morning, according to Sheriff Rufe Jordan, employees at Roy Waters Trucking east of Pampa reported a burglary.

The workers said they saw a yellow 1973 Ford station wagon moving around the parking area.

That car had apparently been there for some time, Jordan said, because merchandise had been taken from the business.

Later, Jordan said, county officers Rocky Ferguson and Ken Manitra spotted a car fitting that description near the Allsup's Convenience Store at 859 E. Frederic.

The officers pulled it over about 200 yards west of that business, Jordan said.

Solis, the driver, was "highly inebriated," and the deputies found a .44 caliber Ruger pistol in a holster in the car, according to Jordan.

He was booked on charges of driving while intoxicated and carrying a prohibited weapon. The gun was later identified as a pistol taken in a break-in at the Gary Lynn Kintzy residence, 412 N. Somerville.

Upon interrogation of Solis by county officer Paul Ortega and a search of his residence by county officers and Pampa police detective Michael Wooper, evidence in ten other burglaries was found.

The contraband, held by the sheriff's office, includes three television sets estimated by Jordan at $250 to $300 in value, car stereo and CB radio equipment, police radio scanners, jewelry, guns, dishes and other household goods.

Jordan said most of the pile of stolen goods has been identified, except for one television set and a vacuum cleaner.

The television set is an Admiral 19-inch color set, marked with the social security number 491-46-3011, and with a cable television attachment on the back.

The vacuum cleaner is an older model Kirby with an army-green dust bag, and no identifying marks.

Jordan said so far he knows of no attempts by Solis to sell stolen goods. He said more contraband has been recovered in the past two days.

The burglaries allegedly committed by Solis include break-ins at:

Windsor Servicing Co., 1345 S. Hobart, June 6 and June 30.

Harvester Lanes, 1401 S. Hobart, theft of a bowling ball and bag from a vehicle owned by Wayne O'Brien, June 26.

A Carlson Construction Co. trailer house on the Borger Highway, August 1.

Nelson-Sikes Pipeline Co., about a mile east of Pampa on Highway 60, August 13.

Automobile break-in at the Country House Cafe on East Frederic, August 14.

Roy Waters Trucking Co., about a mile east of Pampa, August 17.

Curtis Well Service Co., one mile north of Pampa on the Borger Highway, August 18.

The residence of Kenneth A. Smith, 2231 Duncan, August 21.

The residence of James Maule, no date available. A woman's dress was recovered that Jordan said seems to be a wedding garment.

The residence of Gary Lynn Kintzy, a neighbor of Solis, no date available. Jordan said the .44 caliber Ruger and a .22 caliber Ruger automatic pistol was taken in that break-in.

Jordan said his office and the city police are continuing the investigation of Solis' activities.

He said the burglaries do not seem to follow a pattern. "Wherever he is, if it looks all right, he just tries to enter," Jordan said.

He said despite Solis' status as an illegal alien, he will be tried in 223rd State District Court here.

A lot of burglaries have taken place in and around Pampa "in the last 90 days," Jordan said, but he does not believe they are an organized effort.

"It just comes in cycles, it seems," Jordan said.

Cuba fires another salvo in the 'radio war' against the U.S.

By GEORGE GEDDA
WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says Cuban jamming of at least five AM radio frequencies in the United States is another example of "Cuban disregard for international agreements and the rule of law."
The department declined to speculate about Cuba's motives but the broadcasts appeared to be related to an administration proposal for the establishment of a Florida-based station, Radio Marti, to broadcast to Cuba.
The Cuban broadcasts Monday night caused an outcry among the affected American stations. General Manager Abe Barron of WHO of Des Moines, Iowa, said, "This is the first firing in a radio war that the State Department has taken so lightly."
Music and both Spanish and English propaganda were heard on American stations ranging from Fort Lauderdale, Fla. to Salt Lake City, Utah.
In a statement late Tuesday, the State Department said the Cuban broadcasts were on several new frequencies, including some never mentioned by Cuba in a proposed plan that was rejected by an international broadcast conference held last fall in Rio de Janeiro.
The statement said Cuban jamming and interference has been going on for over 15 years and that Cuba attempted to stir up social unrest in the United States during the 1960's through a so-called Radio Dixie.
In New York, an informed diplomatic source said Monday's broadcast would not be repeated immediately and was meant as a "test and a warning" to demonstrate the interference the broadcasts could cause in the United States.

Two weeks ago in Havana, Cuban resident Fidel Castro said Cuba would start its own broadcasts to the United States if the Reagan administration went ahead with Radio Marti.
"We are not going to interfere, but we are going to broadcast back. I think the Americans are going to be listening to a lot of Cuban music," Castro told an Associated Press reporter during a conversation at the Central American and Caribbean games.
Castro's brother Raul added that Cuba considered it an "infamy" for the United States to name Radio Marti after Cuba's national hero Jose Marti, who fought for independence from Spain in the 19th century.
President Castro suggested a new Cuban station broadcasting to the United States might be named after Abraham Lincoln.
Radio Marti, now pending before the Senate after being approved by the House three weeks ago, would provide information to Cuban listeners not supplied by Cuba's state-controlled media.
Cuba's broadcasts Monday included transmission at 1040 on the AM dial, the slot proposed for Radio Marti.
Listeners in Texas, Missouri, Tennessee and Iowa called WHO to complain that the station's signal was being wiped out by Cuban broadcasts.
The announcers said over the radio that they were using frequencies 1380, 1160, 1040, 650, 550 and 570 kilohertz. FCC monitors found the broadcast on all but 650 kilohertz.

Lawmaker quizzes reporters on sex

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A legislator says the questions are "dehumanizing, insulting and offensive," but he's the one asking them — quizzing state capitol reporters about their sex habits, finances and personal lives.
Democratic Assemblyman Art Agnos of San Francisco said Tuesday that replies to the 97-question survey, sent to about 100 reporters, will be used in an article he is writing this fall for California Journal magazine.

"Hopefully, it will sensitize them to what it's like to be asked such questions. They're shocking, and that's what I'm trying to do — shock the media with what they do."
Among the questions on Agnos' survey:
"Do you cheat on your spouse?"
"Have you had an extracurricular affair with a co-worker on your newspaper or TV or radio staff? May we have the name of this co-worker for confirmation and performance report?"
"Have you ever used cocaine or other hard drugs? Which Capitol reporters use cocaine?"
"Which (Capitol) reporter is most intelligent? Least intelligent?"
Agnos said every query was adapted from questions that politicians have been asked by reporters.
Asked how many responses he expected, Agnos shrugged and said, "I don't know. We'll see."

Pampa schools will offer reduced price lunches

The cafeteria division of the Pampa Independent School District has announced its policy for free or reduced-price meals for students unable to pay full price for meals served under the National School Lunch Program.
Under the policy, students whose family incomes are below qualifying levels will be eligible for either free meals, or for lunches at 40 cents and breakfasts at 30 cents.
The school district is sending application forms for the program to all students' homes in a letter to parents. Qualifications are based on family income and number of school children in the family.
Others who may qualify include some families with unusually high medical expenses, with shelter costs greater than 30 per cent of income, with special education expenses due to mental or physical condition of a child, with a disaster or casualty loss, or with foster children.
Additional copies of application forms are available at school principals' offices, and a copy of the complete policy is on file at the superintendent's office.
School principals will review applications and determine eligibility. No child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color or national origin.
If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of a principal, a hearing may be requested either orally or in writing to James Trusty, Superintendent of Schools, 321 W. Albert, 665-2376.

Sidwell asks city to make its accounting a little more accountable

By JEFF LANGLEY
Staff Writer
A former mayor of Pampa asked city commissioners Tuesday to change the city's system of accounting, "so the public can intelligently analyze your audits," and the city decided to replace a number of antiquated water lines.
E.C. Sidwell made the request during a public hearing on the city budget and federal revenue sharing funds.
"Your system is very primitive. You or the public cannot analyze a budget without detailing it and knowing what is in your funds, unencumbered and otherwise," Sidwell said.
"Knowing what is in the so-called slush fund would be an advantage to the people," Sidwell added.

He also requested a "copy of next year's budget and audit."
"You will be most welcome Mr. Sidwell," City Manager Mack Wofford said of the former mayor's request for documents.
Besides Sidwell, two other residents attended the public hearing Tuesday.
W.A. Morgan reviewed with commissioners the city's proposed spending of the revenue sharing money from Washington.
With approximately $276,000 in revenue sharing funds expected by the city during fiscal 1983, city management plans to continue replacing two-inch city water lines.
The federal dollars have been used in the replacement program since 1975.
To date, about 134,000 feet of the city's two-inch water lines have been replaced with about $1,300,000 of revenue sharing funds, according to Wofford.
The city manager said the city has 50,000 feet of the old water lines remaining to be replaced.
The city expects two more years' spending of the revenue sharing funds will complete the water line replacements.
During fiscal 1983, actually a corresponding 14-month entitlement period for the federal funding, the city estimates another 17,000 feet of the old lines will be replaced.

The next city action on the budget for fiscal 1983 will probably be a special meeting to adopt or consider the city tax rate and budget, according to Wofford.
The city manager said the special meeting will probably be called early this month.
Commissioners have previously suggested reductions in the budget, including cutting capital expenditures for city streets and reducing a city pay raise next year from 7.5 percent to six percent.
The proposed city budget totals $7,348,279.

Cries for help finally bring aid to youth trapped in well

LONGVIEW, Texas (AP) — When she heard the faint sound — like a baby crying — she stepped out onto her porch and listened again. But she couldn't see anything, and the voice stopped.
That was Sunday morning.
"I heard it Monday, off and on. But you know how a little goat would sound or holler," the woman said. Again, she shrugged it off.
On Tuesday, the desperate cries of Curtis Deckard, 16, trapped for three days in three feet of water in the bottom of an abandoned well, finally brought help.
His middle-aged neighbor, who asked not to be identified, visited a friend's house Tuesday morning and again heard the sound.
"Then I could distinguish, and I said, 'That sounds like somebody. I went closer and I could hear,'" she said.
"Help! Help! Help me, somebody!" she heard someone crying faintly.

The woman ran for help, and a short time later, about 10 a.m., firemen lowered a ladder down a 23-foot-deep, vine-covered well on a partially wooded vacant lot, about 100 yards from the woman's home, and pulled Deckard from his prison.
Police Sgt. Hal Brasier said the slender youth told his rescuers he had been "screaming his lungs out" since he fell through rotted boards covering the well about 6 p.m. Saturday in this East Texas town 125 miles east of Dallas.
"He was very, very weak," Brasier said. "But he wasn't really dehydrated because there was water out there. The ambulance units checked him out and said his pulse was fine, he just needed rest and something to eat."
The well was just wide enough to keep Deckard from bracing his back and feet against the dirt sides and inching out, Brasier said.
"You could see where he tried to do it, but he just couldn't get any higher," Brasier said.

"I tried to step on the boards and the thing broke," Deckard said as he lay on his guardian's couch Tuesday.
"He told me he couldn't really tell it was a well. There was a vine across the well and it was in a bush," said Betty Curry, Deckard's guardian.
Police and firemen had trouble finding where Deckard's pleas for help were coming from, Brasier said.
"The screams were pretty weak, and at first it sounded like it was over this way, then it sounded like it was over that way. Finally they located the well and they looked in and saw him, and he was looking up at them with very sad eyes," Brasier said.
Ms. Curry said she had been caring for Deckard since he was 7 years old, and that he divided his time between her and his mother, who also lives in Longview.
"I missed him, really, Saturday night, but I thought he was with his mother. I found out that neither my mother or his mother had seen him since Saturday evening," she said.

"We got him now and thank God he's alive," Ms. Curry said.
Deckard was taken to his mother's house and fed milk and soup.
"He had hollered so, he couldn't talk. He was just trembling and he said he crouched down in that water," Ms. Curry said. "He said when he got here he wouldn't leave no more, but he'll feel better."
Brasier called the incident "a freak accident" and said city workers would cap the well to prevent future accidents.
The neighbor who sent rescuers to the well said that after she heard Deckard's cry Tuesday, she ran to her house and called an emergency number.
"Then I got so nervous I sat right here on the porch. I was in an extremely nervous condition. That was the pitifullest sound you'd ever want to hear, just hollering, 'Help me, somebody!'"

Grand jury subpoenas Starr County ballot box

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A federal grand jury that will hear evidence gathered during an investigation into vote fraud in four South Texas counties has subpoenaed and received an absentee ballot box impounded after the May primary election, officials say.

The Texas Rangers, recently joined by the FBI, have been investigating allegations of vote buying, pressuring of voters and the presence of names of convicted felons on tally sheets in Starr, Duval, Zapata and Webb counties.

The federal grand jury was convened so the state would not have to present vote fraud cases to separate state grand juries, Texas Ranger Jack Dean of San Antonio said Tuesday.

U.S. Attorney Daniel Hedges of Houston agreed the Brownsville federal grand jury would receive evidence gathered in four counties, all located in the Southern Judicial District of Texas.

The ballot box sent to the grand jury was from Starr County, officials said. Election materials have been impounded in the other three counties, but apparently have not been turned over to the federal grand jury.

Since the investigation in South Texas began, the four U.S. attorneys in Texas, Texas Secretary of State David Dean, the FBI, Texas Department of Public Safety director Col. Jim Adams, the Rangers and officials have formed the State Task Force on Voter Fraud.

Dean has said the current investigation is most sweeping since the days of "Duke of Duval" George B. Parr.

Parr was a political kingmaker in South Texas from the 1930s until he committed suicide in 1975 while facing a five-year prison term for income tax evasion.

Vote fraud allegations were regular fare during Parr's reign.

Dog rescued

University Park Police officer Ron Henderson lifts a dog named Lonesome from a sewer line in University Park Tuesday night. Henderson tried for 6½ hours to rescue the dog that was apparently trapped for three days. The rescue finally came after public works employees used heavy equipment to cut through the sewer line and pushed Lonesome through a narrow opening into Henderson's waiting arms. (AP Laserphoto)

Insurance board approves 14.8 percent auto rate hike

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Drivers in Midland, Ector, Scurry and Howard counties will be hit hardest while some motorists in Chambers County won't be hit at all by the $262 million auto insurance rate increase granted by the State Board of Insurance.

The package approved Tuesday in a 3-0 board vote means an average statewide increase of 14.8 percent. The specific increases will vary according to type of coverage and location.

A $64 increase — highest in the state — was approved for basic coverage for a 1982 low-priced Ford, Chevrolet or Plymouth in Ector, Midland, Scurry and Howard counties. Chambers County drivers will be the only Texans facing no increase on basic coverage when the new rates take effect on Nov. 1.

The $262 million increase upset David Irons, attorney for the Texas Automobile Insurance Service Office, which wanted a $584 million hike, or 33.2 percent.

"I'm dismayed," Irons said. "I think the profit allowed in this ratemaking is grossly inadequate."

Board members Bill Daves, Durwood Manford and Lyndon Olson decided to go with the 14.8 percent package calculated by the board staff, instead of the 17.3 percent increase proposed at an Aug. 12 hearing. Staff actuary Gaylon Daniel said the recommendation was dropped to 14.8 percent when updated figures were plugged into the complex formula used to determine rates.

Irons said it would be up to the approximately 400 companies that write auto insurance in Texas to decide if there will be a court challenge of the board decision.

"I would be hesitant to say they may be in trouble (as as result of the board action)," said Irons. "But there will indeed be some companies that feel this adjusted rate is an adequate rate and others will feel the rate is grossly inadequate."

The insurance industry said the large increase it requested was needed because of inflation. Olson asked George Berry, an economist who testified for TAIISO, if consumers would think a jump in the rates would further boost inflation.

Berry, who said the "profit outlook is bleak" for companies that write auto insurance, told Olson that it is to the consumers' benefit to guarantee "profitable institutions" so "they will be in business next year."

About the increases, Berry said, "(The consumer) doesn't like it. I don't like it. But I think we have an obligation to let financial institutions earn a fair rate of return."

Here are average increases (actual dollar and percentage) approved by the board. The rates shown are based on standard coverage for a 1982 low-priced Ford, Chevrolet or Plymouth that is not used for business but is driven to and from work, and is not driven by a male under 25 or a female under 21:

- Dallas, $39, 10.2
- Tarrant, $40, 10.9
- Bexar, $33, 9.3
- El Paso, $37, 9.9
- Jefferson, $40, 9.9
- Orange, $40, 9.9
- Denton, $41, 11.7
- Collin, $31, 9.2
- Grayson, $14, 4.3
- Potter, Randall, $27, 7.6

Hearing begins today on Bell's newest rate increase

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The sixth almost-annual Southwestern Bell rate increase hearing opened today with company officials testifying they have done all they could to keep costs down, but still need $4.60 more per month from residential customers.

"We are once again faced with the pressure of inflation and the increasing demands for telephone service which cause our expenses to continue their upward spiral," said Southwestern Bell Vice President Paul Roth in prefiled testimony.

This time around the company wants $471.5 million in increased Texas rates, the largest-ever request submitted to the Public Utility Commission. PUC staff members will argue for a $304.5 million increase for the telephone company.

However, the Texas Municipal League, representing several cities served by Southwestern Bell, says only a $217.9 million hike is needed.

Southwestern Bell has asked for a rate increase every year since 1976, except for 1978. The telephone company filed the first-ever rate case at PUC after the commission was created in 1975.

No increase was requested in long distance rates, where Southwestern Bell faces increasing competition. TML and General Telephone, two of the approximately 20 intervenors in the case, have asked PUC to raise the Southwestern Bell long distance tolls.

The package proposed by Southwestern Bell includes a decrease from 10 to three in the number of no-charge directory assistance calls per month.

The hearing is expected to last up to eight weeks and two PUC hearing examiners have been assigned to the case. One examiner will determine how much of an increase is warranted and the other will decide which services will pay for the increase.

PUC's three members will study the hearing examiners' report and rule in the fall.

Suit filed over 'marijuana trap'

HOUSTON (AP) — Three Kentucky motorists, and a Texas tire store owner are suing the San Jacinto County sheriff's department, trying to stop what they call a "marijuana arrest trap" along U.S. Highway 59.

The suit, filed Tuesday by the American Civil Liberties Union, seeks unspecified damages for the four motorists, who were arrested last November while traveling through the county about 70 miles north of Houston.

"Sheriff's deputies were stopping motorists on Highway 59 for no reason other than the hope that they may be found to possess marijuana, a weapon or some other contraband," the lawsuit said.

J.E. Foley, Jeffrey Foley and Patsy DeBord, all of Jamestown, Ky., said they were arrested on a marijuana possession charge. Kip Carr, of Baytown, Texas, said he was arrested for carrying a broom stick in his car.

All four paid bail bond fees and towing charges, but said the criminal charges were not filed by the sheriff's department. They said deputies had no cause to stop their cars.

Their suit asked that the county be barred from continuing its "marijuana arrest trap."

Policewoman honored for rape prevention seminar

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — An Amarillo policewoman who has taught 8,600 women in the past two years how to protect themselves against rapists has been named Officer of the Year by the International Association of Women Police.

Dianne Bosch, a five-year veteran of the Amarillo Police Department, will be presented the award later in the year at Chattanooga, Tenn. She was one of 1,000 women nominated from throughout the United States, Canada, Great Britain and several other nations.

Ms. Bosch organized and produced the "Women Against Rape" seminar and presented it 32 times in the past two years to women throughout the Texas Panhandle area. Her presentation includes information on rape and rapists and a segment on self-defense.

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Pilots don't need plum

Airline pilots, who make up to $100,000 a year, have a well-heeled and influential labor union. This elite group is pushing a little piece of sweetheart legislation through Congress, with the apparent blessing of the White House.

Some see it as a pay-off for the pilots because they kept flying last year when the air controllers struck.

The proposal, tacked onto a routine aviation insurance bill (HR 5930) in a conference committee, would require airlines to pay expensive benefits to employees affected by mergers and acquisitions. Pilots would get up to 60 percent of their high salaries for up to five years if they are furloughed.

No such federal protection is given to any other workers in the private sector. The pilots don't need this little political plum at the expense of the traveling public.

Reagan soars - for now

By ROBERT WALTERS
WASHINGTON (NEA) — What apparently has just occurred to both the nation's economy and President Reagan's popularity is the political equivalent of a breathtaking maneuver regularly performed by stunt pilots at air shows.

After gaining altitude, the pilot forces the plane into a terrifyingly steep dive. Just as the aircraft appears to be irrevocably destined to plunge to the ground, it dramatically levels off and surges skyward again.

During the past year, the president's "economic recovery program" often had the appearance of a plane plummeting to its doom. The innocent victims of the presumably imminent crash included countless Republican candidates in the November's elections.

Now that plane has miraculously (if only temporarily) turned its nose up again, possibly requiring a drastic revision of the conventional wisdom that holds that the Republicans probably will suffer a net loss of 15 to 20 seats in the upcoming elections for the House of Representatives.

Interest rates are dropping precipitously. The major commercial banks' "prime rate" fell 3 percentage points, from 16.5 percent to 13.5 percent, in the month between July 2nd and Aug. 20. That rate now is a full 7 percentage points below where it stood one year ago.

The stock market, in a truly dazzling performance, staged a rally of unprecedented proportions in only six business days, beginning on Friday Aug. 13 when the Dow Jones Industrial Average stood at a dismal 776.92 as the market opened. When the market closed on Friday Aug. 20, the index stood at 869.29, representing a phenomenal increase of more than 92 points. More than 500 millions shares of stock, a record-breaking total, were traded during the period.

Business failures, climbing almost steadily since last autumn and peaking at a post-Depression record high of 65.9 per 1,000 in June, dropped sharply to 53.3 per 1,000 in July.

Personal income increased 1.0 percent in July compared with the previous month, the largest gain achieved in almost a year. New housing starts surged in July to a level unmatched since the spring of 1981 and 33.7 percent higher than in June.

Reagan enhanced his prestige when he gained a hard-fought battle in his campaign to secure congressional approval of a tax bill providing the revenues necessary to reduce the huge deficits forecast for future fiscal years.

For the frosting on the president's cake, he scored a significant foreign policy coup when his personal emissary, Phillip C. Habib, negotiated a disengagement of military forces in Beirut, thus defusing a potentially explosive situation.

Reagan's problems have hardly disappeared, however. There is, for example, the special irony in the fact that the economic forecast widely credited with touching off the frenzied stock market rally and accelerating the decline of interest rates actually very pessimistic about the prospects for recovery from the country's deep recession.

"The present decline in interest rates will continue" because of "generally poor economic prospects," predicted Henry Kaufman, chief economist for the investment firm of Salomon Brothers. "A smart recovery in economic activity in the second half of this year is not likely to materialize."

The improvements in personal income, housing starts and business failure rates represented only modest advances following months of dismal performance. Unemployment still hovers near the very unhealthy level of 10 percent.

The president's congressional success in the struggle over the tax bill may come at a very high price to him — the alienation of the hard-core conservatives who long have been his most fervent and loyal political supporters.

For the moment, however, Reagan looks very good. He has repeatedly appealed for time to allow his economic program to take effect, voters (many of whom have suffered) generally have been patient — and now there are the first signs of at least a modest payoff.

The timing of that payoff is especially important because the crucial mid-term elections are only slightly more than two months away — and momentum and appearance invariably overwhelm substance and content in the political forum.

The EPA, GM deal benefits everyone

Sometimes everyone is better off when the rules are bent a little. But some environmental groups, legislators and others can't seem to realize that.

They seem so stubbornly sure that the Environmental Protection Agency is in business' pocket (if not on its payroll) that when they found out that the EPA had agreed to back off its efforts to force General Motors to recall 695,000 high-polluting cars, they cried, "sell-out."

A closer look shows that the deal is a success that will benefit the environment and consumers alike.

The problem with a recall, which EPA rules required, would have been that GM was unable to pinpoint the exact reason why the 1979 Pontiac, Oldsmobile and Buick cars were failing to meet the federal emission standards. The only way to reduce the pollution would have been to alter the cars' ignition timing, which would have reduced the gasoline mileage. Quite accurately, GM pointed out that very few customers would have brought their cars in to be fixed if they thought it was going to cost them more money at the gas pumps.

And even had all of them brought their cars in, only 5,700 tons of the pollutant nitrogen oxide would have been eliminated from the environment. Under the deal, in which GM has agreed to manufacture 2.3 million cars in the next two years under emission standards far stricter than required by the government, at least 12,000 tons of the pollutant will be removed.

Moreover, GM estimated the cost of the recall at $12 million, a sum that would have been passed on to consumers in higher auto price tags. The cost of complying with the more stringent standards under the deal will be far less.

Perhaps by bending the rules and striking a deal with GM, the EPA did a favor to the automaker. But, as an EPA spokesman said, "It may very well be that we are being easy on them — but at the same time, we will make air quality better." Not only that, but they are doing it at less cost and less trouble to the consumer.

Inflexible rules must not be allowed to stand in the way of the ultimate goal: Clean air.

Our federal courts need true reform

The advisory council for Appellate Justice, a prestigious legal panel, recommended eight years ago that a new National Court of Appeals be created and interposed between the 12 existing federal circuit courts of appeals and the U.S. Supreme Court. Initial, powerful support promised early implementation of the plan.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and some of his associate justices vigorously supported what they envisioned as a necessary new shield against the mounting backlog of cases piling in from the lower courts. They found influential fellow advocates in the Senate and the judicial system.

But the idea of a new National Court of Appeals, while still afloat, is dead in the water. From the first, too many persons who counted in Washington and in the legal profession shared the doubts of the late Associate Justice William O. Douglas, who denounced the new appellate layer at the time as a "court-packing" scheme that would hinder rather than help the federal court system.

U.S. Attorney General William French Smith fired a salvo recently which may have sunk the idea. In an important address before a gathering of federal judges and lawyers from the nine western states, Smith said a new appellate court level would "increase the burden on the Supreme Court and create more litigation," and "diminish the prestige of the existing courts of appeals." The attorney general suggested the federal courts look to judicial restraint as their remedy for burgeoning case loads.

That makes sense. In fulfillment of Parkinson's First Law on bureaucracy, the case loads would expand proportionately to over-run the new appellate court calendar.

Major changes are needed in the federal court system. The Supreme Court is being swamped; cases brought before it have grown from 1,200 in 1951 to some 5,000 cases last year. The case load for the term just completed is up almost 20 percent from the previous year. And the Supreme Court now accepts only 3 percent of the petitions it receives, compared with 20 percent a half century ago.

There are multiple reasons for the escalating case load, beginning with a proliferation of regulatory agencies that spew out thousands of regulations — the raw stuff of lawsuits. Moreover, liberal activists on federal benches have promulgated a widespread public belief that the courts can solve all the social, racial, educational, and economic issues of the land.

Fortunately, a reform readily at hand would take care of a large portion of the case load problem, which arises mostly from the criminal appeals filed by persons convicted in state courts. Burger last year urged Congress simply to limit the power of federal judges to set aside state court criminal convictions except in instances of manifest miscarriages of justice. This relatively simple reduction of the case load, certainly, is preferable to an expensive expansion of the federal courts.

The attorney general's cogent arguments against a new National Court of Appeals is a timely contribution to the dialogue on this subject. For, even as he attacked the proposed court reorganization, he added momentum for overdue case load reform.

The offshore challenge

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN
Americans are so accustomed to think of their country as the leading industrial nation that they don't discern what is taking place elsewhere in the world. Newly industrializing countries in the Third World are confident that they will be manufacturing centers of the future. They also believe that they will be able to take over the American domestic market.

A recent article in World Business Weekly described what is happening. Japanese companies believe in the advantages of relocating manufacturing operations in the low-cost, newly industrializing nations. They are planning for the day when most heavy industrial products, in their view, will be made in the Third World. The Third World countries are getting the most modern plants, which use very low-cost labor available in these poor nations.

Mitsubishi, one of the giant Japanese firms, has invested heavily in Singapore, according to World Business, with the goal of launching exports drives aimed at the United States and Western Europe. Hitachi, another Japanese company, which is involved in an industrial espionage case in the U.S., has 15 plants in less developed countries. The Japanese steelmakers, by the way, believe that much of the competition from less developed countries will be at the expense of U.S. and European firms.

World Business points out that by 1985 there will be an additional 32 million tons of steel coming from Brazil, Mexico, South Korea, Taiwan and the OPEC nations of Algeria, Nigeria, Saudi Arabia and Venezuela.

It is not only in steel that Japan is making use of plants in the less developed countries. Asahi Chemical Industry Co. has 14 plants outside Japan.

The U.S. government has no plans to deal with this threat. The Congress has not begun to think in terms of a global economic struggle. Yet that is the reality.

All the countries that are expanding heavy industries are doing so to sell goods in the United States and, in the process, squeeze out American companies. If they are successful, American industry a decade hence will be only a fraction the size it is today. And millions more Americans will be without employment. It is a very grim prospect, and most Americans are blind to the reality. If American companies move their operations offshore, in order to compete, unemployment in the United States will increase just that much more.

Ironically, Japan and the less developed countries have been able to industrialize to this degree because the United States has footed the bill for their defense over a long period of years. It also has contributed colossal amounts to the World Bank and other international lending agencies, which have financed the industrial explosion in the less developed countries. The American people already are paying the price for this mad policy of financing international competitors.

The U.S. government could signal to the world that it won't allow its domestic markets to be conquered. The question is whether the government has the vision and the will to do this.

Tax cheaters overtax TV

By PAUL HARVEY
In much of the rest of the world, "taxes" are a joke; most people thumb their noses at the tax collector. It's getting that way in the United States. The Internal Revenue Service (IRS), from its samplings, expects to lose a hundred billion dollars this year to tax cheaters.

The government response is to hire more tax collectors. Presently you pay 15,000 tax collectors annual salaries of $11,500 to $12,850 a year and they are able to audit only one return in a hundred.

When the IRS does get tough, close businesses, seize bank accounts, confiscate cars — often the cost of prosecution is greater than the sum recovered.

Further, some 18½ million Americans — individuals and corporations — do not pay their taxes in time. Stalling on tax payments they continue to collect interest on that money or to invest it otherwise.

Each commissioner of Internal Revenue — after he is out of office — criticizes our tax system as cumbersome, costly and unworkable.

But Congress has never been able to rally more than token support for a tax reform that would be ultimately efficient, effective and simple: Deduct from everybody's income from whatever source 25 percent. No exemptions no loopholes, no exceptions.

Imagine what it would do for our economy if all of the people presently engaged in computing and collecting taxes — bureaucrats, accountants, lawyers — were set free to perform more productive service!

It could happen if our federal income tax law were reduced to a single sentence: "Everybody gives back to government 25 percent of his total income each year."

With an updated computer system, the Internal Revenue Service could be automated. Robots could keep up honest, each year comparing each person's total income with his total deducted taxes.

Taxpayers could divert all those annual hours now wasted recording receipts and computing taxes and filing complicated returns — all that time could be salvaged for better purposes.

Congress last Christmas did as much for itself, relieved itself of any federal income tax burden.

With enough agitation by the electorate, in an election year, we might get enough of those fellows to simplify our tax situation, as well.

Houston Todd of Billings, Mont., wrote the other day to offer a quick-fix. He says cut the withholding tax and make all Americans pay all taxes in a lump sum...on Election Day!

Weinberger arrives in Beirut as last PLO guerrillas leave

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — As the last Palestine Liberation Organization guerrillas prepared to leave here today for Syria, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger arrived to thank the U.S. Marines who helped safeguard their departure.

The defense secretary flew in by helicopter and met immediately with U.S. presidential envoy Philip C. Habib at the residence of U.S. Ambassador Robert Dillon, five miles east of the city. There were no details on their talks.

Weinberger was to meet later today with Lebanese President Elias Sarkis.

Beirut newspapers reported that Weinberger's talks with Sarkis and Lebanon's president-elect Bashir Gemayel were expected to focus on strengthening the Lebanese army and on a process to bring about an Israeli and Syrian withdrawal from Lebanon in the wake of the PLO evacuation.

The defense secretary was expected to lunch with U.S. Marines, who arrived here last week to join French and Italian troops in a peacekeeping force to oversee the withdrawal.

Weinberger said Tuesday the 800 American soldiers could be withdrawn "very soon after" the pullout is completed.

Massive barrages of machine gun fire thundered in west Beirut in tribute to the last departing contingent of 700 PLO guerrillas set to sail today to the Syrian port of Tartus, three days ahead of schedule.

Lebanon's state radio said Arafat's top security chief Salah Khalet, code-named Abu Iyad, and chief of staff, Brig. Gen. Saad Sayel, also known as Abu Walid, were among the last batch of evacuees.

PLO chief Yasser Arafat was due in Greece today aboard the Greek cruise ship Atlantis for the first stop on his journey into exile. Arafat is expected to "stay up to 24 hours in Greece and leave by air," Greek government spokesman Dimitri Maroudas said.

Arafat, who left Beirut Monday, has not said where he will go from Greece, but government sources in Athens say he is headed to Tunis, Tunisia, where he will begin establishing a new PLO base.

The last contingent of 700 PLO guerrillas was to sail today for Syria, three days ahead of the schedule set in the U.S.-sponsored evacuation plan.

On Tuesday, the Syrian army completed a two-day withdrawal of its 3,000-man 85th Brigade.

PLO chief arrives in Greece

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — A pistol-packing Yasser Arafat, taking his first step into exile from Lebanon, arrived here today to a low key welcome from a Greek government anxious not to upstage an overlapping visit by French President Francois Mitterrand.

Evacuated from Beirut because of Israel's Lebanese invasion, the chief of the Palestine Liberation Organization and 60 aides arrived at 12:30 p.m. (5:30 a.m. EDT) aboard the flag-decorated Greek cruise liner Atlantis at the secluded little Flisvos yacht marina 4 miles west of the Greek capital. Security was tight with hundreds of police in the marina.

Prime Minister Andreas Papandreu met the ship along with four ministers but he is expected to bow out of the official lunch at an Athens seaside hotel. Instead, the host is Deputy Foreign Minister Carolos Papoulias.

A crowd of about 500 Palestinians and Greeks were on hand to welcome Arafat after waiting hours under a hot sun. They chanted "Victory to the PLO" and "Welcome to the PLO fighters." Posters prominently displayed read "Out with Zionist imperialism from Greece." Arafat came down the gangplank alone dressed in a light green tunic, with a pistol on his hip. He and Papandreu embraced followed by Arafat's brother Fathi Arafat, who heads the PLO Red Crescent.

Arafat praised Papandreu describing him as "a friend of my people and my nation and I'm very happy this is my first stop."

Papandreu in a brief welcoming address said "we feel it is a great honor that Yasser Arafat and his collaborators chose to land here. In their sacred struggle they will always find us on their side. We are certain that with such a fate and such a passion, that soon the Palestinian people will be victorious."

Before entering a limousine for the drive to the hotel, a television reporter asked Arafat, "Are you defeated?" He replied: "If you are defeated, I am defeated. I am with the people and no people can be defeated."

He condemned "the savage barbaric invasion" of Lebanon by the Israelis and said they were committing "genocide."

Government spokesman said Arafat and Papandreu are to confer, but after five hours the official visit would be considered over and Arafat's program would slip into secrecy.

Press Minister Dimitri Maroudas said the PLO chairman could stay up to 24 hours.

'Lost dog rapist' faces new charges

DENVER (AP) — James Henry Ginn Jr., suspected of being Los Angeles' "lost dog rapist" and Denver's "baby sitter rapist," faces additional criminal charges of sexual assault and burglary in Denver, authorities said.

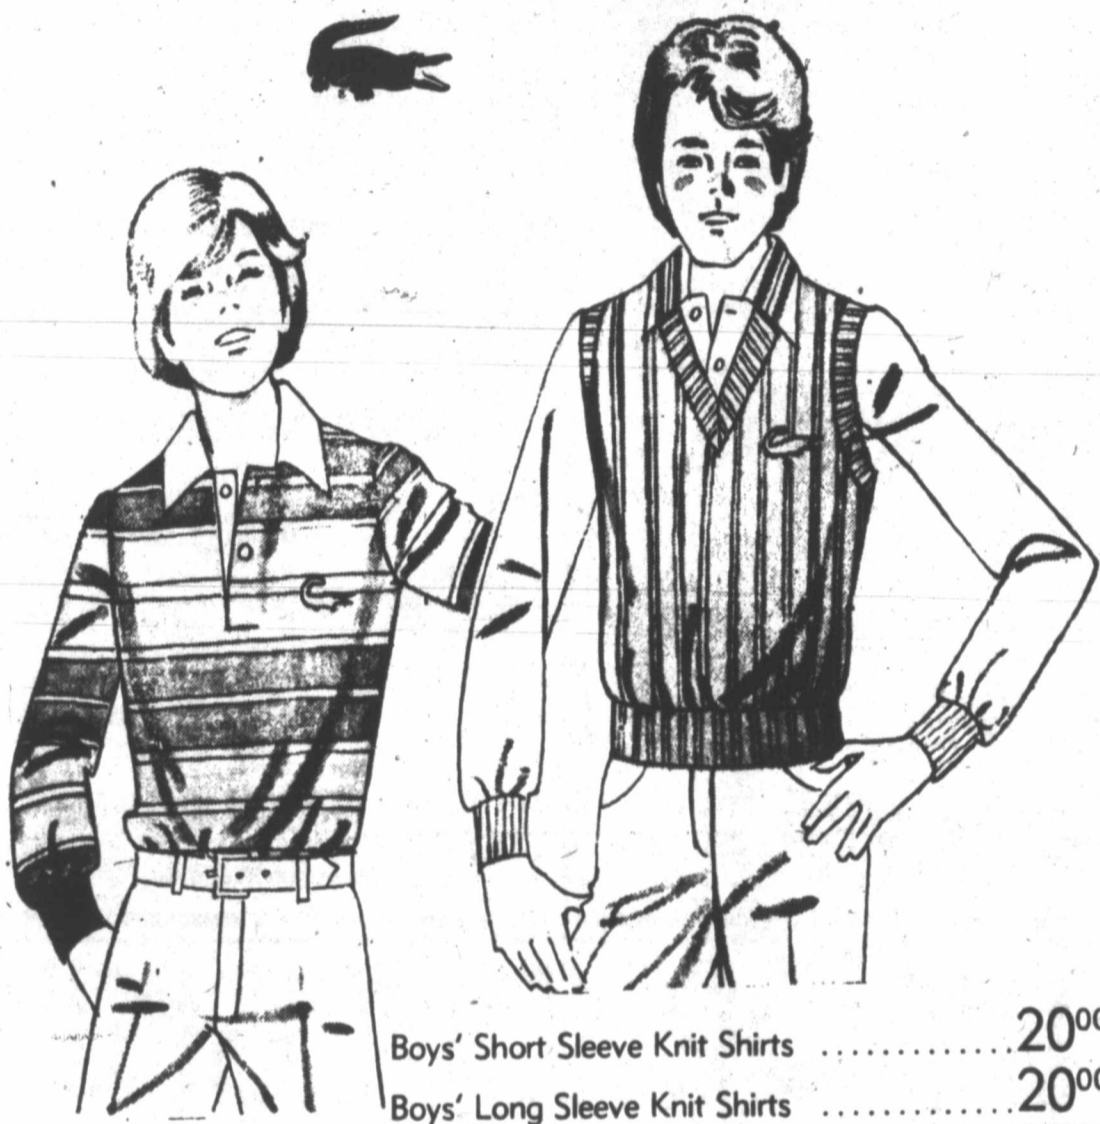

The Denver district attorney's office brought the additional charges against Ginn on Monday in connection with a 1979 incident involving a 13-year-old girl and two children she was babysitting at a southeast Denver home.

It was the fourth set of charges filed against Ginn by the district attorney's office since last Wednesday. The other charges stem from three other attacks between 1978 and 1981. Ginn is being held on $20 million bond in the Denver County Jail, where he is in protective c after allegedly being threatened by other inmates, authorities said.

The 42-year-old suspect was arrested in Denver on Aug. 18 on an unlawful flight warrant. He faces charges of kidnapping, child molestation and sodomy in Los Angeles; Carlsbad, Calif.; and Albuquerque, N.M. Police say Ginn is a suspect in similar cases in Kansas City, Mo., and Corpus Christi, Texas.

Panhellenic to host program on fashions

Jo Anne S. Arasim, curator of textiles at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum in Canyon, will present a program on "Fashions - Now and Then" at the annual officer installation brunch of Pampa Panhellenic Saturday, Sept. 11, 9:30 a.m., Pampa Club, Coronado Inn.

Members of Panhellenic college sororities who are not affiliated with the Pampa chapter are cordially invited to attend. The brunch is $5 and the membership dues, payable at that time, are $3. Reservations should be made with Darlene Birkes, Panhellenic president, at 665 - 2913, or Carol Fields, vice president, 665 - 2635. Deadline is Sept. 7.

Miss Arasim will do a comparison of fashions styles from the 1850s to the present. She will display examples of past fashions and show how they have re-appeared with modifications. The program will be entertaining with audience participation.

In keeping with the brunch theme "Turning Back the Pages," the Panhellenic will honor past presidents as a part of this fall's 80th anniversary celebration of Gray County.

Betty Henderson will install the new officers for 1982 - 1983. They are Carol Fields, president; Margaret Spearman, vice-president; Linda Allred, secretary; and Janyth Bowers, treasurer. Dorothy Neslage will do the invocation. The Gray County 80th Anniversary Heritage Cookbook will be available.

Miss Arasim has served as museum director - curator of Anthropology at the Wilderness Park Museum in El Paso and worked with the Texas Historical Commission in Austin. She was a research assistant at the University of Denver and at

JO ANNE S. ARASIM

Michigan State. She is associated with the American Association of Museums and the Midwest, Michigan, and Texas Association of Museums. She is an honor graduate of Michigan State and has done graduate work at the University of Denver and Michigan State and undergraduate study at the University of Alaska.

Dear Abby

Weekend compatibility may not last a lifetime

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: You recently advised "S. and J.," two senior citizens, to "follow their hearts" and get married against the wishes of their married children who suggested they live together first. ("S. and J." rejected that idea, saying they would be ashamed for their grandchildren.)

Having recently helped my father obtain a very painful and costly divorce from the woman he married three years after my mother died, I vote for living together first.

"S. and J." said they had taken several weekend trips together so they know they are "compatible." That's all well and good, but weekend vacations do not provide the same test for total compatibility as living together. Couples who are truly serious about no hanky-panky before marriage could devise their own code of ethics during their trial living-together arrangement.

DIVORCE DISASTER IN DALLAS

DEAR DISASTER: When senior citizens marry, they would be well-advised to seek advice and counsel from their attorneys concerning a prenuptial agreement. A divorce at any age is no picnic, but it's considerably more bearable when neither party gets soaked.

DEAR ABBY: What would you do if you were in my place? I'm 41, divorced, have a 9-month-old baby, and I'm living at home with retired parents. No job and no money.

I love my daughter, but I don't think I can raise her because I am neither emotionally nor financially able to. I want her to have a good life, so I've been thinking about letting her be adopted.

My parents are dead set against it. How can I make the right decision? My parents say if I give her up, I'll regret it, but I don't know what kind of life she would have with me. I need your advice.

DEAR B: You need more help than I can give you in a letter. I urge you to talk to your clergyman if you have one. If you don't, please get professional counseling from your local social services or mental health clinic. Yours must be a well-thought-out solution you can live with. God bless you for wanting to do what is best for your daughter.

DEAR ABBY: We have sent this same letter to your sister, Ann, in an attempt to reach as many people as possible.

We are writing in behalf of a growing number of families who have lost husbands, wives or children in the armed services under unusual circumstances.

The loss is tragic enough, but the inhuman way the government treats the families by withholding or covering up the facts of the death, and even by putting pressure on those still in the service who have knowledge of what actually happened to the deceased, needs to be brought to light, now.

We lost a son in May 1981 from the U.S.S. Norton Sound, and after the Navy dragged out the investigation for four months, we were told that it was a tragic accident. Our own investigation has revealed that our son was murdered onboard the ship and his body was dumped at sea.

The organization we have just formed is called "Citizens Against Military Injustice," 26 N. Onondaga Road, Mason, Mich. 48854. We are asking your help in reaching other families who want to join in the fight for justice. Together we hope to be able to get someone in Congress to help us. Thank you for space in your column.

Preparing for the Super Bowl of rock parties

By YARDENA ARAR
Associated Press Writer
SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — A million soft drinks, 600,000 hot dogs, 1,800 portable toilets, 3,200 water fountains and faucets, two convenience stores and a temporary exit ramp off Interstate 15. This party has been a year in the planning.

If organizers of the $12.5 million US Festival haven't anticipated every need of the 250,000 people expected at the three-day rock concert, they've probably come a lot closer than any other outdoor festival promoters.

The Labor Day Weekend music celebration, which begins Friday, is the brainchild of 31-year-old computer wizard Steve Wozniak, who became a multimillionaire with the creation of the Apple II computer system.

For $37.50 each, participants will hear such groups as the Talking Heads, Fleetwood Mac, the Kinks, Police, Santana and the B-52s.

"The timing is so right," Wozniak says. "We're talking a kind of Super Bowl of rock concerts. I decided that I wanted to do it, and the time was now."

Wozniak and a crew of about 30 — who have been living at the site since June 1 — have rebuilt a concert site at Glen Helen Regional Park, north of San Bernardino about 50 miles east of Los Angeles.

"We probably removed about 340,000 cubic yards of earth," said festival site planner and developer Craig Tosher. Since ground was broken June 7, up to 60 construction workers have put in 12 miles of road and cleared 280 acres of vegetation for parking lots and campgrounds.

The concert amphitheater, now an appealing 57-acre bowl completely covered with grass, was just a sloping dirt field when it was sprayed five weeks ago with 12,000 pounds of pulp, fertilizer and a special mix of eight different kinds of grass seed.

Some 20 miles of irrigation pipe kept the amphitheater and other park areas green and moist for a six-week growing season, Tosher said.

To help avoid traffic jams, permission was obtained from the U.S. Department of Transportation to build a special temporary ramp feeding into the park from Interstate 15. That ramp and another entrance will feed cars into 350 acres of lined parking lots, while a third entrance will funnel campers and recreational vehicles into a 150-acre campground.

There are no water or power hookups for campers, who are advised to bring warm clothes, sleeping bags and ground covers, but at least some of the comforts of home will be available. The camping area is dotted with circular cement water outlets, each with two faucets and two drinking fountains; there are banks of portable toilets and even a 24-hour convenience store.

Although the park's small lakes will be off-limits, two large "cooling areas" each feature open air showers capable of spraying 5,000 people at a time.

A temporary hospital and several first-aid centers will be installed, and a security force of more than 1,000 — including some 300 uniformed officers — has been hired.

"We're encouraging people who are coming for all three days to bring some of their own food," said Dr. Priscilla Llaich, the festival's public relations director. But she advises anyone who doesn't want to go the brown bag route to bring $15 to $20 to keep themselves stocked with a dizzying variety of food and drink on sale at 87 concession stands located throughout the site.

That may not sound like many stands, but food and beverage concession director Andrew Harris points out that the 51 booths in the concert area alone will have 300 service lines.

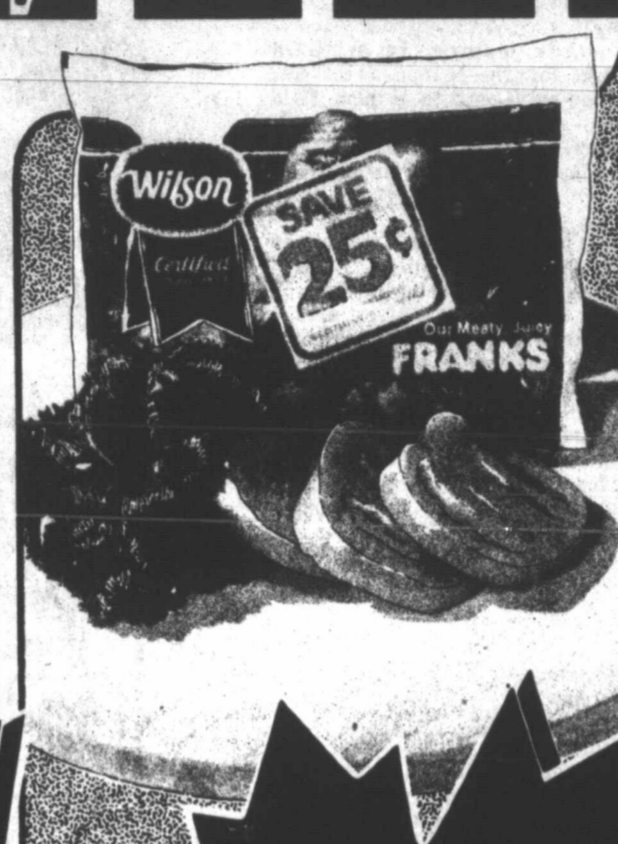

"This is not your typical stadium fare," Harris says. Indeed, not a single hamburger will be on sale. But there will be all those hotdogs, not to mention 50,000 freshly baked 10-inch french rolls and 25,000 sandwiches (Italian cold cut, roast beef, ham and swiss, tuna) being trucked in each day.

Astro-Graph by bernice bede osol

You could do quite well this coming year in ventures or enterprises where you are able to use your imagination and artistic abilities. Find the right outlets for your talents.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You could jeopardize a relationship today and also hurt your image if you fail to share something to which another is entitled. Predictions of what's in store for you in the seasons following your birthday and where to look for your luck and opportunities are in your Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be a giver today if you're involved with persons who are equally as generous as yourself! However, pull in the reins a bit if your companions are only takers.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your best breaks today are more likely to come from the efforts of others than from those which you expend yourself. Try not to scatter your shots.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Success will be denied you today if your efforts are too half-hearted. Once you decide to do something keep persisting, regardless of the obstacles.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't enter into any type of business arrangement today which requires partners if you have any doubts about what your cohorts can contribute.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Companions or associates who are not in complete harmony with your aims today could set back, rather than advance, your cause.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Difficult tasks can be accomplished successfully today if you allow yourself adequate time to perform them. Where you rush too much, you could fall flat.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) There's a possibility that today you will be more tolerant and considerate of casual acquaintances than you will be of persons with whom you have strong emotional bonds.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Of course it's essential to look out for your own interests today, but try not to hurt someone else in order to get what you want.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be wary of tendencies today to take too seriously things which should be fun, and to treat too lightly those which should be taken seriously.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll have an awareness of your financial limitations today, yet you could yield to extravagant impulses and defeat your purpose. Strive to be prudent.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Others will hold you to your word today regarding commitments to them, so if you say you're going to do something you had better mean it.

Pampa spikers defeated by Perryton

PERRYTON—Pampa dropped a volleyball match to Perryton, 16-14, 13-15 and 5-15, Tuesday night.

"We played great the first two games, but I guess we got too tired to handle that third game," Pampa coach Roxie Johnson said.

"We are improving though. We're working the ball around better and we're getting our spikes and sets down."

Johnson commended the backcourt play of Lisa Crayton, Sharon Simmons and Teresa Perkins and the frontline spikes and dinks of Keva Richardson and Dionne Simmons. "Leslie Albus helped us out on the serving and blocking and Terri Carter did a good job of setting," she added.

Pampa also dropped the junior varsity match, 15-6 and 15-4.

Pampa freshmen opened their season last night with a 15-8, 15-8 victory over Perryton.

After two consecutive losses, Pampa came back to defeat Lubbock Estacado, 15-3 and 15-9, last weekend in the Amarillo Tournament.

"We started to play together as a team instead of individuals in that last match," Coach Roxie Johnson said.

—Some well-placed spikes by Dionne Simmons helped Pampa overwhelm Lubbock.

Pampa fell to Midland Lee, 15-13 and 15-8, and El Paso Irving, 15-13 and 15-11, in the first two matches.

Tourney planned to benefit leukemia victim

The City of Pampa Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring a men's open slow pitch softball tournament to benefit Kristina Ennis, a four-year-old Pampa girl suffering from Leukemia.

The double-elimination tournament will be held Sept. 10-12 at Hobart Park. Entry deadline is Sept. 7 and entry fee is $50. Donations will be accepted in excess of the entry fee and will be contributed to the Ennis fund.

Checks can be made payable to the City of Pampa-Softball, and mailed to the City of Pampa, Parks and Recreation, P.O. Box 2499, Pampa, Tex. 79065.

Teams must furnish red stitched restricted flight playable softballs. Rosters must be turned in 20 minutes prior to the team's first game.

Tournament brackets will be available the afternoon of Sept. 8 in the Parks and Recreation Office at City Hall. More information can be obtained by calling 665-8481.

Dove hunting season begins today in Lake Merdith area

Hunting season begins at the Lake Merdith recreation area with the opening of dove hunting today.

A new hunting brochure is available at lake headquarters. This leaflet contains new information regarding boundaries, rules and regulations, safety, camping and other miscellaneous items.

Final signup scheduled for volleyball leagues

Final registration in the Pampa Soccer Association will be held Saturday at the Pampa Mall.

The registration is for all leagues, from 4 years old to adult, and includes a $20 fee. The fee includes both the fall and spring seasons and equipment, such as socks, jerseys, shorts, shin guards and soccer balls at the registration.

The first games are scheduled Sept. 18. Private sessions begins around Sept. 6.

All coaches, assistants, flagmen and referees also need to register. There will be a referees' clinic from 7 p.m.

to 10 p.m. Sept. 10 and all day Sept. 11.

Upset King

Billy Jean King disputes a call, seems to sag in disbelief, then turns and wipes her eyes during her opening-round match Tuesday in the U.S. Open Tennis Championships. The 38-year-old matriarch of tennis started fast against

Susan Mascarin, 18, of Grosse Pointe Shores, Mich., then watched her game come apart after losing, 6-3, 6-2, after an upset on the first day. (AP Laserphoto)

King ousted by Mascarin in tennis open

NEW YORK (AP) — Before 18-year-old Susan Mascarin took the court for her first-round match against Billy Jean King in the U.S. Open tennis championships, she got a little advice from her coach, Owen Davidson. "He said not to look at her," said Mascarin. "She's very intimidating. I think she can outstare me."

So Mascarin tried hard not to think about King, a tennis legend who won her first U.S. Open crown, a doubles title, in 1964, the year Susan was born. It was not an easy task. "When she's serving, it's kind of hard not to look at her. I tried to look at the ball, but she got in the way."

Still the teen-ager from Grosse Pointe Shores, Mich., overcame the center court jitters and the 12th-seeded King's stare for an impressive 6-3, 6-2 victory and the first upset of the 101st U.S. Open tournament.

Other first day winners included No. 11 seed Mats Wilander of Sweden, another precocious 18-year-old, who defeated Bill Scanlon 6-4, 6-3, 6-1; third-seeded Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia, who beat Ramesh Krishnan of India

6-4, 7-6, 6-1; and No. 4 seed Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, who outlasted Chris Dunk 6-7, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

In women's play, Chris Evert Lloyd, seeded No. 2, got started with an easy 6-1, 6-0 victory over Pilar Vasquez.

Martina Navratilova and John McEnroe, the tournament's top seeds, both swing into action tonight. Navratilova faces Laura DuPont and McEnroe goes against Tim Gullickson in center court matches.

Evert Lloyd won the first five games against Vasquez before dropping one and was in total control of her match. Earlier, Lendl and Wilander both scored straight set victories although both struggled at times.

Lendl beat Krishnan 6-4 in the first set but then needed a tie-breaker to take the second 7-6. He completed the sweep by winning the last set 6-1.

The turning point came when Krishnan double-faulted on the final point of the second-set tie-breaker.

Wilander, surprise winner of the French Open, also had his problems in his first match.

White keeps right on punting along

DALLAS (AP) — The worst-kept secret in the Dallas Cowboys' pre-season training camp became public Tuesday: Danny White is going to be Coach Tom Landry's punter again.

Punters Tom Striegel of Southern Illinois and David Finzer of DePauw were among 10 rookies placed on waivers Tuesday.

"They were just too inconsistent," Landry said. "It's difficult to find a kicker coming out of college. You almost have to find one like we did our placekicker (Rafael Septien). You have to have experience to kick in the National Football League."

In six years of punting in the NFL, White has kicked the ball 454 times for a 40.3 yard average. Last year, he averaged 40.8.

"White will be our punter, although we may look at some others," Landry said.

Asked if he was afraid White could get hurt, Landry said, "No. If I did, I wouldn't have him kick. The possibility of him getting hurt is slim.

"He has a greater chance getting hurt trying to pass. Of course, if he does get injured, then somebody could always say they told me so," Landry said.

White said he prefers to punt.

"I enjoy doing it," he said. "It's something else I can do to help the team."

Other rookies cut were guards Harris Burnett of Cal-Fullerton, Rich Burnett of Wyoming, and Todd Eckerson of North Carolina State, defensive tackle Joe Gary of UCLA, wide receiver Pete Harvey of North Texas, placekicker Greg Porter of TCU, defensive end Bill Purifoy of Tulsa, and tight end George Thompson of Albany State.

The Cowboys, 2-1 in the preseason, meet the Houston Oilers, also 2-1, Saturday night in the National Football League pre-season finale for both teams.

Rangers snap losing streak with victory over Royals

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Tommy John is a very good pitcher, but the California Angels may have missed a bet by not acquiring Charlie Hough for their pennant drive instead.

If the Angels want to beat out the Kansas City Royals in the American League West, they couldn't find a better weapon than the Texas Rangers' knuckleballer.

"You can't throw a better knuckleball than he did tonight," said Kansas City Manager Dick Howser after Hough stopped the Royals 6-0 with a three-hitter Tuesday night. "Give him credit."

The loss snapped the Royals' seven-game winning streak and combined with California's 11-0 victory over Detroit, sliced their lead over the second-place Angels to 1½ games.

Hough, a 34-year-old right-hander, has a so-so 12-11 record this season, but against Kansas City he's 3-1 with four complete games and a 1.84 earned run average in 39 innings.

"The thing about the Royals is that they're very aggressive," said Hough. "If I throw right and they swing, I'm going to get a lot of one- and two-pitch outs."

"That's fewer pitches I have to throw and worry about getting over the plate."

Both Hough and the Royals agreed that his knuckler, which he threw 95 percent of the time, was more effective than it's been any time this season.

"I think so, as far as consistently getting the ball over the plate for nine innings," said Hough, who notched his second shutout and ninth complete game of the year.

Ryan throws smoke as Astros blank Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — His speed was awe-inspiring, his deliveries overpowering and his name, naturally, was Nolan Ryan.

Only Ryan, says Houston Astros catcher Alan Ashby, can stand on the mound and turn a baseball into a weapon of such sheer authority.

"He continually surprises me. I cannot see how any human being can have that much ability," Ashby said after Ryan posted his 18th career two-hitter with a 4-0 victory over New York that sent the reeling Mets to their 15th straight defeat.

Ryan was on his way to a career sixth no-hitter before Ron Hodges drilled a sharp single to left center on an 0-1 count with none out in the eighth inning. Bob Bailor singled in the ninth for the Mets' other hit.

"I made the pitch too good to Hodges. It was a fastball a little outside," said Ryan, who struck out nine for an even 200 this season. He is only 59 strikeouts away from all time-leader Walter Johnson's career total of 3,508.

Ryan's five no-hitters are more than any other pitcher in history. Sandy Koufax threw four no-hitters. Ryan also has seven one-hitters.

The faltering Mets, meanwhile, set this season's longest stretch for losing with their 15th straight defeat. The Minnesota Twins had also lost 14 in a row this year.

The 15th consecutive loss tied the second worst drought in Mets history. They lost 17 in a row in 1963.

Ryan said he wasn't downcast over losing his no-hit bid, though he admitted the possibility occurred to him.

"New York is the place to pitch a no-hitter because reporters make a hero of you here," he said. "When Jose Cruz made a great catch on Rusty Staub's liner in the seventh, I thought I was on my way to getting it. A play like that inspires a pitcher. You can't hurl a no-hitter unless you have that kind of support."

Pipeline proceeds despite ban

US poised to penalize British pipeline supplier

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is ready to impose penalties on a British company that plans to ship pipeline equipment manufactured with U.S. technology to the Soviet Union.

A Soviet freighter in the port of Glasgow, Scotland began Tuesday to load 500 crates of turbine parts produced by the John Brown Engineering Co. of Glasgow. The parts are intended for use in the trans-Siberian natural gas pipeline to Western Europe.

State Department spokesman John Hughes said here that "measured" and "appropriate" punitive action will be taken by the Commerce Department against John Brown as soon as a legal determination is made that the parts have been shipped, even though the exact nature of the penalty remains to be determined.

In California, White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said no decision has been made about what action would be taken against the British firm.

He said Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige and Secretary of State George Shultz in Washington talked with national security adviser William P. Clark in Santa Barbara by telephone Tuesday.

The State Department said the form of the penalty will be similar to the temporary denial orders issued last week against two French firms — Dresser France and Cruessot-Loire — after they obeyed French government orders to ship compressors to the Soviet Union for use on the pipeline.

The two companies were temporarily banned from buying U.S. products and technology.

The Washington Post and Los Angeles Times reported today that the administration will impose only limited sanctions on the John Brown company. The New York Times said senior administration officials recommended to Reagan that the sanctions should be softened and should be the same for all nations defying the embargo. CBS News said the sanctions would be less severe against John Brown, and that the sanctions against the French companies would be lessened.

John Brown has been told by British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher to ignore the American ban.

In Glasgow, port officials said loading of the turbines, including parts made by the General Electric Corp., is expected to take four days.

President Reagan wants pipeline construction stopped or slowed to bring pressure to bear on the Soviets because of their support for martial law in Poland, to prevent Western Europe from becoming overly dependent on Soviet energy, and to deprive the Soviets of the $10 billion in hard Western currency the pipeline is expected to earn annually.

But in another story published Wednesday, the Washington Post said a secret assessment prepared by the CIA concluded that the Soviets can meet their gas delivery commitments to Europe despite administration efforts.

150,000 students hit by teachers strikes in five states

By JOHN DANISZEWSKI
Associated Press Writer

Six thousand teachers in Pennsylvania, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio and Montana stayed off the job, affecting nearly 150,000 students, but Philadelphia educators ratified a contract to head off a repeat of last year's bitter strike, which lasted 50 days.

Teachers in Michigan struck five districts, including the 31,000-pupil Flint system. The walkouts involved 2,600 teachers and closed school doors today to 48,000 students.

In Ohio, two school systems kept classes open for 4,000 students despite strikes. Up to 49,000 children in Illinois were threatened by strikes in the Chicago suburbs and East St. Louis.

"Little progress," Pennsylvania mediator Hyman Richman said of a week-old strike keeping 12,000 handicapped pupils in the Pittsburgh area from classes. The walkout by 755 teachers, counselors and psychologists of the Allegheny Intermediate Unit also affected 28,000 private schools receiving auxiliary services from the unit.

About 450 teachers in five other western Pennsylvania districts also remained on strike, keeping 9,000 students from classes.

More talks were scheduled tonight in the strike by 500 teachers in Butte, Mont., canceling classes again today for about 6,800 pupils.

"The children are the ones who will profit the most," said Philadelphia Federation of Teacher leader John Murray, after his 21,000-member union OK'd a tentative pact that had snaggled earlier Tuesday over differences on holiday pay, early retirement and a pending lawsuit.

Appeals court upholds Texas narcotics conviction

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court has upheld the Texas narcotics conviction of a man who contended he was an undercover agent for the New Mexico State Police.

Ted Allan Johnston was convicted May 14, 1981, in El Paso on a marijuana conspiracy charge. Johnston appealed his conviction to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which Tuesday led the conviction stand.

"Probably the most difficult single problem with this case is the question of whether Johnston was operating in conjunction with the New Mexico police," the opinion said.

The defense contended Johnston was a "CI," the Drug Enforcement Agency term for a "confidential informant" or "cooperating individual," and that his indictment, trial and conviction was tantamount to entrapment.

The opinion said the court also was puzzled by the logic used by jury members, who acquitted several other defendants.

In upholding the conviction, the appeals court said it was "left with the firm and abiding conviction that, while Johnston did not have a perfect trial, he did have a fair trial."

Johnston was sentenced to three years in prison, with the first six months to be served and the remainder suspended for five years probation under supervision.

China holds first congress in five years

PEKING (AP) — China's Communist Partyem AIN Deng Xiaoping today opened the first party congress in five years and said it would propel the country along on its own course of modernization.

Red ceremonial flags flew in the vast central Tiananmen Square around the Great Hall and inside, banners proclaimed: "Long live the great Communist Party of China," and "Strive to create a new situation in all fields of socialist construction."

About 200 spectators gathered outside. Deng, 78, who holds the real power in both the party and the government, opened the meeting early today and told the 1,545 delegates that the nation's three major tasks in the 1980s are socialist modernization, striving for the return of Taiwan and combating hegemonism and safeguarding world peace.

"China's affairs should be run in our own way by our own efforts," Deng said. "While we value friendship and cooperation with other countries and people, we value more-our own independence and sovereign rights."

"No foreign country can expect China to be a vassal, nor expect China to swallow any bitter fruit to the detriment of China's interests," Deng declared.

He apparently referred to U.S. arms sales to the Nationalist Chinese regime on Taiwan, which China considers to be one of its provinces, and revised Japanese history textbooks which gloss over Japanese atrocities in China from 1937-1945.

Deng said the 12th Party Congress would adopt a new party constitution and elect a new Central Committee, a Central Advisory Commission and Central Discipline Inspection Commission.

For the rest of the century, he said China must do four things:

- Restructure the administration and economic set-up and make China's leaders more revolutionary, younger, better educated and professionally competent.
- Build a socialist, spiritual civilization.
- Strike at criminal activities and economic corruption.
- Rectify the party work style.

The speech was reported by the official Xinhua news agency.

Baldrige says jump in indicators point to recovery

By LORRAINE CICHOWSKI
AP Business Writer

Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige joined private economists in hailing the government's latest report on key economic indicators as pointing to "solid economic improvement" in the coming months.

The upward-looking report came Tuesday, and the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks responded by cracking the 900-point barrier for the first time in more than a year.

The Dow advanced 8.01 points to 901.31, its highest close since 901.83 on Aug. 25, 1981. Nearly four stocks gained in price for every one that lost on the New York Stock Exchange.

Economists said the Commerce Department's report that the Index of Leading Indicators jumped 1.3 percent in July indicates that overall national economic activity should increase substantially by the end of the year. It was the fourth consecutive monthly increase.

"I believe the leading index and the recent sharp drop in interest rates are paving the way for solid economic improvement," Baldrige said.

Jerry Jasinowski, chief economist for the National Association of Manufacturers, called the report "encouraging evidence that economic recovery is about to get under way."

The index includes statistics from 10 separate categories and is intended to forecast future economic trends.

The Commerce Department also reported orders for manufactured goods rose 2 percent in July, the third straight monthly gain and the biggest increase since the end of 1980. Orders rose $3.1 billion to a seasonally adjusted $160.2 billion.

Although the 2 percent gain over June's orders was the largest percentage increase since December 1980, total orders still were 7 percent below the level in July 1981, before the recession began.

The Conference Board, a research group supported by business, reported meanwhile that plans for spending on plants and equipment plunged 22 percent in the second quarter from the previous three months.

The board said capital appropriations, which are authorizations to spend money in the future on new plant and equipment, fell to a seasonally adjusted $20 billion.

Actual capital spending by the 1,000 largest manufacturers fell 2 percent from the first quarter to $26.3 billion.

Lora Collins, an analyst for the Conference Board, said it was not surprising that manufacturers' spending expectations are weak.

"There has been virtually no net economic growth for three years, and manufacturing capacity utilization is under 70 percent, the lowest since early 1975," she said.

In other economic news: —About 3.4 million American youths were out of work in July, over 500,000 more than a year ago.
