Bye bye brew

Pampa may take booze off the streets soon

By DAVID CHRISTENSON
Staff Writer

It may soon be illegal to drink alcohol in Pampa's streets.

The Pampa City Commission in its regular meeting Tuesday unanimously approved a first reading of an "open container" law for the city.

City Manager Mack Wofford said if "everything goes as we anticipate" the proposed ordinance will be approved at the next commission meeting Sept. 28 and, after its required publication in The Pampa News, would go into effect the first week of October.

The ordinance would outlaw public drinking on all public land (not private residences) inside the city limits, except for most park areas.

Carrying an open container of liquor in public would be a misdemeanor offense, punishable by a $1 to $200 fine.

As it stands, the ordinance does not apply to any park land except the largest area of Central Park, bounded by Cuyler on the west, Georgia on the north, Duncan on the east and Sunset on the south.

That park area was singled out by Police Chief J.J. Ryzman as having a high incidence of troublesome drinking activity, Wofford said.

City commissioners, however, discussed the possibility of extending the drinking ban to all park land when the ordinance was considered Tuesday morning, Wofford said.

So far that extension has not passed beyond the discussion stage, according to Wofford.

Written by City Attorney Don Lane and based on a similar ordinance in Borger, the proposal states: "It shall be unlawful for any person to drink or consume an alcoholic beverage or have in such possession an open container of an alcoholic beverage while on any of the public highways, streets, alleys, sidewalks or parking lots or the public park as defined in this Ordinance, within the corporate limits of the City of Pampa, Texas."

Such laws are "quite common, to our knowledge," Wofford said. "There's really nothing unusual about it."

Consideration of such an ordinance began among city officials about a year ago, according to Wofford, and Lane was contacted about drawing up the ordinance in June.

Complaints from businessmen, particularly in the area of "the drag," on Foster and Francis Streets, have been complaining about litter, illegal parking and vandalism for years now, Wofford said.

Wofford called the complaints, some of which reached his office, "public input, not public pressure."

But in past years, he said, "from my standpoint, the problem did not seem to be so pronounced," so no open container law was considered.

Problems on "the drag" seemed to be the main area of concern of the public complaints, according to Wofford.

However, he said, "it certainly is not an anti-drag ordinance."

Pampa city government is not trying to interfere with legal, peaceful assembly, he said.

"We're not trying to interfere with that in any way. That's not the point," he said. "I think most communities have a place where young people can congregate and meet their friends..."

Celanese cuts back on its work force

By JEFF LANGLEY
Staff Writer

One of Pampa's largest employers, Celanese Chemical Company, announced today it will lay off 11 employees, or 2.4 percent of its total labor force, effective October 15.

Industrial Relations Manager Phil Staggs said the affected employees are "professional people," the majority involved in engineering.

"We are not just casting them out," Staggs said.

He said the cut employees were informed they are out of work today. Staggs said the employees can leave their jobs immediately, but will remain on the company payroll through the 15th of next month.

In addition, the affected employees will receive severance pay, based on length of service, and will receive continued company medical coverage for three months, according to Staggs.

The administrator also said the company has hired a "consultant" to help place the laid-off workers in other jobs. Staggs said company telephones, research materials and publications will be made available to the employees in their job searches.

Besides the employees cut today, the Celanese Plant here has reduced its labor force through a retirement - incentive program offered to salaried employees six weeks ago.

Staggs said based on the "magic number of 85" an employee can retire early with full benefits, plus cash incentives, "up to an entire year's salary."

Based on the 85 number, employees aged 55 with 30 years' service were offered full retirement benefits, and Staggs illustrated an employee 60 years - old with 25 years service can also take the full - retirement offer.

Normally, in order to receive full retirement benefits, an employee would have to be 62 - years - old with at least 20 years' service.

Staggs said eligible employees have until the end of this month to make their decisions about the accelerated retirement offer.

To date, 20 eligible employees have accepted the offer, according to the administrator.

The 20 retired employees combine with the 11 workers laid off today to reduce the total plant labor force from 452 to 421.

Celanese Chemical Company is headquartered in Dallas, with plants in Pampa, Bishop, Bay City and Clear Lake, near Houston.

The chemical operations also include a research facility in Corpus Christi.

Staggs said the other chemical plants are involved in today's layoff, but he is unaware of the number of workers involved in the job cuts at the other facilities.

The chemical company is a branch of Celanese Corporation, with headquarters in New York City and operations worldwide.

The chemical division manufactures raw chemicals from petroleum products.

The raw chemicals are used in the manufacture of plastics, paints, coatings, adhesives and synthetic fibers, mainly acetate and polyester.

"We are the front end of the product," Plant

Manager Marion John said previously about operations at the Pampa plant.

He said the plant here provides its chemicals to other Celanese Corporation operations and sells them to outside customers.

The chemical branch of the corporation has been involved in a study of administrative costs since June, and today's layoffs are the result of that study.

Staggs said more job cuts at the plant here are not anticipated in the near future.

"These actions conclude the study we were involved in the past three months," he said.

"But economic conditions are uncertain, and I can't predict the future," Staggs added.

He said the layoffs at Celanese are not connected with other large oil - related industry layoffs in Pampa.

Hundreds of jobs recently cut at Pampa's Ingersoll - Rand Plant and other local facilities have pushed the unemployment rate here up around the national average of almost 10 percent.

"This isn't related to the oil field," Staggs said about the Celanese layoff.

"We are in petro - chemicals, but our products have worldwide applications," he said.

The administrator blamed the layoffs at his company on a "generally weak economy" and "the recessionary conditions of the whole U.S."

"Many of our basic industries, auto, clothing and housing, are depressed, and our products have applications in those industries," Staggs said.

Miss America's face got a lift before she did

DALLAS (AP) — Miss America 1983 Debra Sue Maffett underwent facial surgery in 1983 that improved her appearance and gave her the look that helped her to her crown Saturday, her mother said.

Miss Maffett, who competed three times for the Miss Texas title before moving to California last year, had surgery to correct a deviated septum, Nonnie Maffett told the Dallas Morning News.

Gary Jordan, executive director of the Miss Texas Pageant, said cosmetic surgery is not against the rules for the Miss America Pageant.

Jordan said the surgery to Miss Maffett following her three defeats in the Texas pageant was more extensive than her family admits.

"Debbie has had extensive cosmetic surgery since she last tried our pageant," Jordan said. "She had her nose done, her chin and I'm not sure what else."

"She looks years younger now than she did a few years ago," he said. "Her hair is softer and curlier, her makeup is more subtle, and she has the new nose and chin. It's a look she tried for in Texas but it just took her a few years and a move to another state to get it together. Now they're saying she has the perfect 'California' good looks."

Miss Maffett's mother, who still lives in the tiny Southeast Texas town of Cut and Shoot where the new Miss America was reared, said the surgery was done only on her daughter's nose.

"It sounds like sour grapes to me," she said Tuesday. "Sure, the operation changed her appearance, but it was for a deviated septum. It's a problem that runs in the family. She certainly never had anything done to her chin."

An official with the Miss America pageant said officials do not ask contestants if they have had cosmetic surgery, and there is no way to tell how widespread the procedure is among beauty queens.

Bonnie Morris, who sponsored the 25-year-old Miss Maffett when she was Miss Humble in the Texas pageant, said the surgery also improved her voice. But the improvements in Miss Maffett that led to the title also were the result of a lot of hard work, she said.

"I never saw anyone work any harder. She was almost obsessed. She was that determined," Mrs. Morris said.

Top PLO terrorist plans parley with Pope

ROME (AP) — PLO chief Yasser Arafat today blamed Israel for the killing of Lebanon's president-elect, and said the Israeli move into west Beirut broke the U.S.-negotiated agreement for withdrawal of Palestinian guerrilla fighters.

Arriving in Rome on a major diplomatic initiative that includes a long-sought meeting with Pope John Paul II, Arafat said Bashir Gemayel's assassination was "the continuation of the Israeli plan against Palestinian and Lebanese people, particularly Lebanese people."

After a brief welcoming ceremony under extraordinary security at Ciampino military airport, the Palestine Liberation Organization leader held a news conference in a waiting room packed with Arab diplomats and supporters.

Speaking in Arabic, Arafat said Gemayel's killing was "an attempt to strike at Lebanese reconciliation and to offer a justification for the continuation of the Israeli occupation of Lebanon."

Israel has claimed the PLO was tied to the Gemayel assassination.

No group claimed responsibility for the Tuesday blast, but rightist Christians and leftist Moslems allied with the PLO have been fighting in Lebanon for years and the assassination pointed to another bloodbath.

Referring to news that Israeli troops entered Moslem west Beirut hours after the Gemayel's assassination, Arafat said the move violated the agreement that led to withdrawal of PLO forces from the city two weeks ago.

"We had this agreement through the Lebanese government and through Mr. Philip Habib," he said, referring to the U.S. presidential envoy who negotiated the evacuation arrangement.

The Vatican said, meanwhile, that Gemayel's assassination prompted "deep sorrow and consternation."

"Gemayel was the president-elect of a country to which the Holy See feels very close," said deputy press spokesman the Rev. Pierfrancesco Pastore.

Ochiltree commissioners face tough questions

By SHERRILL MacLEARAN

PERRYTON (Spl.) — Ochiltree County Commissioners at their Monday meeting had to field complaints and questions about several of their recent decisions and actions.

Jerry Farney of Panhandle Implement, Perryton, complained about the county accepting a higher bid on the purchase of a tractor Sept. 7. Farney said he was concerned about the way the county's money is being spent.

That tractor was purchased for Precinct 1. Another tractor was purchased for Pct. 3 from Callahan Engine of Perryton for $25,000. The tractors are planned for identical use, pulling mowers.

Farney's bid was not in the running, having been the highest, but he also pointed out that the specifications had not asked for a 130-horsepower machine.

The tractor selected for Pct. 3 is 110 HP.

Mike Catalanello of the local family service center explained to the court that the $4,000 budgeted for the center would be used to help pay rent on a larger office and that other counties in the district would be asked for assistance.

On Sept. 2, he asked the commissioners for that amount because he expected a cut in state funds. There was no cut, but the commissioners decided to let him keep the money.

Veterans Service Officer Harris Russell asked the court why he was not consulted before his office was reduced to a two-day-per-week job. At the same time he mentioned several other complaints about the operation of the county and requested that letters from the Veterans Affairs Commission be made a part of the minutes, showing the amount of monetary benefits paid to veterans in Ochiltree County for the past four years. In 1977, those benefits totalled $828,000; they increased to $1.6 million in 1981.

The commissioners decided not to take further action, but to leave the matter open for further discussion.

Later in the day the court reaffirmed its earlier decision to cut the office of Veterans Service Officer for Ochiltree County back to a 2-day-per-week job.

The court authorized the purchase of a Walker portable hoist for $1,450 for the county shop. Larry Houston, mechanic for the county, had requested the hoist and supplied commissioners with the price quoted before the selection was made.

Action on allowing for General Telephone Co. to lay 10,410 feet of buried cable along a county right-of-way in Precinct 3, south of Farnsworth, was delayed until some county roadwork at the site is completed.

Northern Natural Pipeline, on a motion by Commissioner Sell and seconded by Commissioner Wilson, was authorized to lay a pipeline across a county road in Precinct 1 in the eastern part of the county.

The commissioners voted — on a motion by Commissioner Luthi and seconded by Tevis — to authorize Judge Stone to sign an agreement with the city of Spearman for fire protection for Oct. 1, 1982, through Sept. 30, 1983, wherein Ochiltree County will pay $275 per fire call.

The county now pays $640 per call to the city of Perryton to fight fires in the county.

Troy Barclay, head of the Quo Warranto Committee citizens' group, had several questions about the recently-adopted county budget and voiced a concern about possible surplus funds in the county.

On a motion by Sell and seconded by Wilson, commissioners voted to pay bills totalling $317,457.74 for the last half of August and the first part of September.

The commissioners court voted to approve the bond and deputation of Linda Rawlings as deputy district clerk effective Sept. 16 to replace the current deputy clerk, who is resigning.

They also authorized Commissioner Johnny Luthi and Commissioner-elect Myron McCarter to draw up specifications for a new truck tractor with a minimum of 200 horsepower, with or without the trade-in of a used Ford truck. The specifications are to be returned to the court for final approval before advertising for bids.

County Agent Layton Barton reported to the court on the progress made by the expansion committee and presented a tentative drawing of the proposed livestock building. The court directed Barton to obtain estimates on a steel building and report again.

Warren Ellzey met with the court to discuss a previous verbal agreement with Ochiltree County about the rifle range at Wolf Creek Park. The court voiced no objections to this and directed County Attorney Bruce Roberson and Ellzey's attorney, R.D. Lemon, to draw up a written agreement. Ellzey has expressed concern for the safety of motorists on the new county road immediately north of the range and south of his property; the written agreement will outline the county's responsibilities regarding the rifle range.

The commissioners also scheduled a public hearing on revenue sharing and the special funds budget for 7 to 8 p.m. Sept. 27.

The county recently advertised for bids for the annex building and discovered at bid-opening time on Monday that no bids had been received. The building will now be offered for sale to the public. The county is selling the annex because the structure no longer meets the state standards for public use.

Neighbors help catch suspects

By DAVID CHRISTENSON
 Staff Writer
 Two men suspected of a Pampa burglary were nabbed shortly after the break-in Tuesday night, when neighbors tipped off police.
 Dale Glenn Collins, 21, of 325 N. Dwight, and Dale Robby Burton, 21, of 1901 N. Nelson, are being held in city jail today pending the setting of bond on burglary charges.
 At 8:52 p.m., Officer John Goes responded to the call and went to a house at 328 Tignor.
 Next-door neighbors had called the police department, saying they saw two men enter the residence through the back window.
 They said they saw them walking in the darkened house and shining flashlights, according to police.
 When Goes arrived at the scene, the men had already left, but the witnesses told him the suspects had left northward in the alley behind the house.

 The neighbors identified a blue and white Chevrolet pickup as the escape vehicle.
 Goes reported the vehicle description, and on a search of the area, Officers Steve Chance and Kenneth Hopson stopped the pickup about three blocks from the scene.
 The suspects were driving westbound on Burl Street when they were picked up.
 They offered no resistance to the arresting officers, according to Police Chief J.J. Ryzman.
 The residents of the house are listed as Dale and Tracy Ferris. The couple was in Oklahoma City on a business trip at the time of the burglary, according to Ryzman.
 A relative of the couple had been staying in the house from time to time to "keep an eye on the place," Ryzman said.
 "We're not sure what came out of the house," Ryzman said.
 Some items were found in the pickup by police, he said, but the relative was not familiar enough with the house to identify missing items, he said.

A new place to pay bills

Beginning today, Pampa customers of Southwestern Bell can pay their telephone bills at two new locations.
 First National Bank of Pampa, 100 N. Cuyler, will be accepting payment for the bills at both their lobby and motor bank locations.
 Payments will continue to be accepted at the Southwestern Bell Pampa business office at 301 N. Ballard.
 Gary Stevens, community relations manager for Southwestern Bell, said the action will make the payment process more convenient for customers.
 ordinance on the books for years, but about a year ago officials there upgraded the law to allow better enforcement of it.
 According to Panhandle police chief Jim Miller, the ordinance there has given police "a little more leverage" in crowd control.
 That rule makes it unlawful for a citizen to possess liquor with intent to drink it in public.
 "It hasn't caused us much of a problem," Miller said. "We don't try to make a big issue out of it. Of course, if they come right up to us and wave it in our faces, we enforce it then."
 The "drag" in Panhandle is between the 200 and 500 block of Main Street, and Miller said the upgraded ordinance has "cut down on the crowdsome" in that area.

 In the past, we've more or less encouraged this sort of thing."
 He called it "a tool to simply prevent one individual from infringing on the rights of another."
 "There's also a matter of public safety," Lane said, with intoxicated pedestrians wandering into traffic in that area.
 According to Chief Ryzman, public drinking-related problems in Pampa are not limited to the Foster-Francis areas.
 Problems have been reported in shopping areas and parking lots "all over town," he said.
 "But in the drag area, 'with more people you get more problems,'" he said.

Countries mourn untimely death of America's first princess

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — The death of Princess Grace brought grief today to the sunny seaside principality she helped rule and stunned American fans who never stopped loving the Oscar-winning actress even after she left them for a prince.
 The former Grace Kelly died in a Monaco hospital Tuesday at the age of 52 from a cerebral hemorrhage, about 36 hours after her car somersaulted 120 feet down a mountainside, trapping the princess inside.
 Flags flew at half staff today atop the royal palace overlooking the Mediterranean and at banks along the Boulevard des Moulins.
 "It's shocking," said Herve Fiolet, a hotel bell captain. "She was a grande dame. She had all the qualities."
 Prince Rainier was at his wife's bedside "practically without interruption," a palace spokesman said without specifying whether he was actually there when she died.
 One French report quoted witnesses as saying Rainier quietly left about 30 minutes before Grace died at 10:30 p.m. (4:30 p.m. EDT) in the hospital bearing her name.
 The youngest of the couple's three children, 17-year-old Stephanie — the only other person in the car — suffered what a medical bulletin described as severe bruising and remained "under observation" in the same hospital.
 Grace's other children, Princess Caroline, 26, and Crown Prince Albert, 24, were in Monaco, a palace official confirmed.
 A palace spokesman said it was still too early to say when funeral services would be held. "We are still in a state of shock," he said.
 The tiny principality on a rocky slice of the French Riviera immediately went into mourning when Grace's death was announced just before midnight.
 In the glittering casino that made Monaco famous in Edwardian times, roulette wheels were brought to a stop and the blackjack cards packed away. The floodlights were turned off and the doors quietly closed. Across Casino Square, the gaudy Gafe de Paris closed, as did all the restaurants, cafes, bars and nightspots. The usually lively streets were deserted.
 Across the yacht-filled harbor, the usually floodlit royal palace on the "Rock of Monaco" stood in darkness. Police allowed only official cars to drive up to the stately Grimaldi family home.
 Tributes to the champagne-haired Philadelphia native began pouring in from the stars of her Hollywood past including President Reagan and Frank Sinatra.
 Reagan praised her "character and elegance," saying in a statement from Washington that she was remembered as "a compassionate and gentle lady who had a deep and abiding affection for her adopted country and people."

Sinatra mourned the loss of "a gracious, wonderful woman who was a princess from the moment she was born."
 The palace had given no clue that Princess Grace was on her deathbed.
 Earlier unconfirmed reports had said she suffered two broken ribs and a fractured collarbone, but the palace insisted it was only a broken right leg.
 Her condition "worsened during the night" and all avenues of treatment had been exhausted by late Tuesday, when she died of "an intra-cerebral vascular hemorrhage," the palace said.
 Rumors had rippled through Monte Carlo earlier that Grace had slipped into a coma but the palace did not mention this.
 "It was very surprising to us," former Philadelphia city councilman Jack Kelly said of his sister's death. "I was led to believe that she was out of danger."
 The French press questioned who was at the wheel when the accident occurred — Grace, who reportedly said some years ago she did not like driving, or Stephanie, who has no license. Eighteen is the legal driving age in Monaco.
 The accident happened in French territory on the steep, 5-mile road down from the mountaintop town of La Turbie, where the Rainiers have a summer home.
 The road alternates straight, fast stretches with sharp hairpin curves. Grace's 10-year-old British Rover 3500 missed a treacherous curve and tumbled into a villa garden below.
 Villa owner Sesto Lequio, 62, said he extinguished a small fire in the car and helped Stephanie out of the driver's side. Firemen had to free her mother from beneath the twisted metal, he said. However, an investigator reported finding no evidence of a fire in the wreckage.
 French gendarmes probing the crash said the fact the car rolled several times, and that neither woman was wearing a seat belt — mandatory in France at all times — made it impossible to say immediately who was driving.
 A palace spokeswoman said Grace was driving, and that the brakes failed on the hairpin turn. The gendarmes said the car left no skid marks.
 Experts were to study the wreckage, and British Leyland, builders of the Rover line, dispatched two engineers to help.
 Born Nov. 12, 1929, the daughter of a bricklayer-turned-millionaire, Grace Patricia Kelly made 11 films before she gave up acting at the peak of her career to marry Rainier on April 18, 1956, the year after they met at the Cannes film festival.
 She won an Academy Award as best actress in 1955 for "The Country Girl," in which she starred with Bing Crosby.
 One of her last films, "The Swan" in 1956, told of a beautiful young woman who weds a crown prince.

Perryton crooks get BIG Mac attack

Burglars were busy in Perryton Monday night the same way four truck wheels vanished on Aug. 27.
 The makings for about 100 big hamburgers vanished from the Perryton Junior High School cafeteria Monday night, city police reported.
 Police said burglars apparently ransacked the cafeteria refrigerators and freezers, taking 56 pounds of raw hamburger meat, 10 pounds of cheese, 7 pounds of butter and three loaves of bread, after breaking in through a door in adjoining Central Elementary School.
 Cafeteria workers Tuesday morning discovered a trail of blood on the floor, apparently left by the raw meat, and footprints in the blood, officers said. School officials said the missing food was worth $119.67. City police are investigating.
 Also Monday night, W.F. Woodmore of Southwest 23rd Street reported his automobile stolen from his driveway. Police said the keys had been left overnight in the vehicle.
 Police are investigating a report by Jerry Butler of Perryton that someone took $900 from an envelope which fell out of his wife's purse as the couple was leaving the VFW club Monday night. Butler said he and his wife discovered the loss within minutes, returned to the club and found the envelope on the floor, empty, police said.

 A 15-year-old Perryton boy has been arrested for investigation of the Sept. 5 burglary of Perryton Motor Co., during which a 1983 Chevrolet Impala valued at $12,500, a car radio-tape player valued at $250, $540 worth of tools and keys to six new cars on the lot were reported stolen.
 Police said Tuesday that they received a report of a prowler on the car lot the night of Sept. 11 and discovered the boy there, with some of the stolen keys. He has been turned over to juvenile court authorities, who will handle the case. The stolen car was recovered shortly after the burglary on a city street, out of gas, police said.

Bell gets two weeks delay on $471.5 million rate increase

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. agreed Tuesday to delay its new increased rate schedule for two weeks after a Public Utility Commission examiner denied an effort to dismiss Bell's request for a $471.5 million rate increase.

Jacqueline Holmes said she favored a two-week recess to allow the staff to review new data submitted by Bell on a $63.8 million payment by Bell to American Telephone & Telegraph Co. Opponents say many of the AT&T projects, such as a new Manhattan office building, should not be charged to Texas customers.

Because of a tight deadline for the commission to act in the case, Ms. Holmes asked Bell to extend the effective date of its rate increase by two weeks.

Company lawyer Jon Lawrence said the Southwestern Bell would agree. "We're not admitting to any allegations they have made. We're merely agreeing to provide additional time as requested by the other parties."

Commission lawyer Sara Cristol told the examiner Bell had led the staff "on a paper chase and wasted our time" by submitting "irrelevant data.... They have intentionally misled us from the beginning."

"I don't believe it's proper at this point to dismiss the entire rate case because of problems we've had in one area," Ms. Holmes said.

She said she believed Texas telephone customers do derive "many benefits" from the AT&T projects billed to Bell.

Ms. Cristol said a two-week delay was the "very least" the staff needed to review a report on the projects. The review, she said, might change the staff's recommendation that Bell get a $307.3 million increase — $164.2 million less than the company is seeking.

The staff was joined in its unprecedented motion to dismiss the Bell case by the Texas Municipal League, Texas Retailers Association and Texas Alarm and Signal Association.

Frank Andrews of the retailers association said the refusal to dismiss the case "would be a clear signal to every utility in Texas that 'we don't have to answer thoroughly.'"

Officials mum on reports mock terrorists entered weapons plant

ATLANTA (AP) — Government officials are refusing comment on a newspaper report that trained commandos hired to test the security of the government's nuclear weapons factories penetrated the plutonium-manufacturing complex at the Savannah River Plant in South Carolina.

The Atlanta Constitution reported in its editions today that details of the commando raid were disclosed to congressmen last week at a hearing of the House Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations.

Gail Bradshaw, a spokeswoman for the Department of Energy, would not comment when asked about reports that the Savannah River Plant had been penetrated by mock raiders.

Savannah River Plant spokesman Cliff Webb also declined comment, noting that the House hearing on the raids was classified.

The Constitution said the raid on the Savannah River Plant apparently was one of a series of "threat assessments" performed by counterterrorist consultants for the U.S. Department of Energy.

The newspaper said other sites visited by the mock terrorists were the bomb parts machine shops at Rocky Flats, Colo., and the final bomb assembly plant at Amarillo, Texas.

Former Army Green Berets, retired CIA officers and veterans of big city SWAT teams were hired as special consultants by the Department of Energy for the clandestine missions, the newspaper said.

penetrated the government's plutonium-manufacturing complex at the Savannah River plant in South Carolina, and bomb parts machine shops at Rocky Flats, Colo.

The missions were disclosed to congressmen Friday at a classified hearing of the House Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations, the newspaper reported.

The Pantex plant, which assembles the parts into nuclear weapons, was also visited by the commandos, according to the newspaper.

"I would be notified if they (DOE) were going to try anything," said Turner. "What I would do with that information is up to me. I'd have to know all the details and then I'd use all my judgment."

He said he would "be a bit worried" if a mock raid were attempted in the future because guards at the plant might shoot the mock terrorists.

Pantex plant not subject of 'raid'

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — An official at the plant northeast of here where nuclear weapons are assembled says a report that the facility was penetrated by a mock commando team to test its security is untrue.

M.A. Turner, night plant supervisor at the Pantex plant, discounted Tuesday the report that mock terrorists hired by the U.S. Department of Energy succeeded in infiltrating the facility 13 miles from Amarillo.

"I don't know a thing about it," Turner said. "No one's tried to break into the plant. They'd better not try, either."

Pantex was one of three nuclear weapons facilities listed by the Atlanta Constitution as targets of mock raids by the commandos, the Atlanta Constitution reported in today's editions.

According to the newspaper, the mock raiders were hired by DOE as counterterrorist consultants, and also lingered in the lower 80s at dawn. Extremes ranged from 55 at Amarillo to 83 at Corpus Christi.

Forecasts called for scattered thundershowers and thunderstorms in the area around the cold front as it pushed southward into central sections of the state today. There was also expected to be some thundershower activity in Southeast Texas and along the coastal bend.

Skies were to be clear to partly cloudy elsewhere.

Highs were to be mostly in the upper 80s and 90s. Lows tonight will be mostly in the 60s and 70s.

Thunderstorms roam South Plains

By The Associated Press

Heavy thunderstorms accompanied by frequent lightning, gusty winds and occasionally heavy rain moved southeastward across North Texas early today.

The showers and thunderstorms, triggered by a weak cold front stretching across the western third of the state, were located along and north of a line from Vernon to Dallas to Paris.

Winds gusted to 25 mph as the storms moved through Wichita Falls during the pre-dawn hours.

Some very heavy thunderstorms roamed eastern and central sections of the South Plains east of Crosbyton and southwest of Dickens. And some thundershowers were reported from Plainville southeastward to Snyder and Guthrie.

In neighboring Oklahoma, some sections of Edmond and Oklahoma City were under water from the violent rains which struck the state Tuesday night as the cold front moved through the state.

Funnel clouds dipped out of the sky in the central and northeastern parts of Oklahoma.

Skies were clear to partly cloudy elsewhere.

Early morning temperatures were in the 50s behind the front in northern portions of the Panhandle and in the 60s and 70s over most of the rest of the state. Some readings in South Texas

Hughes estate fight goes to Nevada

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A judge must decide whether the late Howard Hughes' fortune belongs to 21 first cousins, a former actress claiming to be his wife or a Nevada woman who says she's his illegitimate daughter.

Attorneys for 21 cousins declared by a Texas court to be heirs to the industrial magnate's estate will ask Clark County District Judge John F. Mendoza to throw out the claims by Terry Moore and Clare Benedict Hudenberg.

Ms. Moore, a former Hollywood starlet, contends she is entitled to the fortune because she secretly married Hughes as they sailed aboard his private yacht toward Mexico. Ms. Moore's claim was thrown out by Texas courts.

Ms. Hudenberg, of Las Vegas, has argued she is the sole heir to the estate because she is Hughes' illegitimate daughter. Her claim also was denied by a Texas court.

Attorneys for the first cousins said they also will ask that the late Annette Gano Lummis, of Houston, was the closest surviving relative.

Hughes died in April 1976 aboard an emergency medical flight from Mexico to Houston. An extensive worldwide search failed to turn up a valid will, even though more than 40 purported documents surfaced.

Following four separate hearings last year, Gregory ruled Hughes left no parents, wives, sisters or brothers and declared the 21 first cousins the heirs to the estate.

Attorneys said the Nevada hearing was necessary because Hughes had property in the state which was not controlled by Summa Corp., the umbrella company formed to oversee Hughes' empire.

Under Nevada law, the property will be awarded to Hughes' closest surviving relative. Distribution of property controlled by Summa will be governed either by a court in Texas or California, according to which state is ruled Hughes' domicile.

An agreement was drafted by Mrs. Lummis and the 21 first cousins shortly after Hughes' death, designating how the estate would be divided. Before her death three years ago, Mrs. Lummis said her share of the estate would be divided between her children, who are also included in the settlement agreement.

Hundreds of desperate job-seekers stand in line to apply for work

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — Brenda Jenner is desperate for work.

She came before dawn to stand in line and compete for a job that pays only slightly more than minimum wage. So did at least 499 other people.

It was a sign of the times for the jobless in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, where unemployment is the highest in 20 years, climbing from 4 percent in July 1979 to 7.8 percent now.

People started coming at 3 a.m. Monday to apply for 400 jobs at the Marriott Hotel opening Oct. 24 near the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport.

"You would not have had that type of response here two or three years ago," said Don Johnstone, an economist with the Texas Employment Commission in Dallas. "A few years ago there were enough jobs so people could pick and choose a little more. Now people have to accept what they can find."

Mrs. Jenner, 21, an accountant from Arlington, stood with her two children, aged 20 months and 8 months. Mrs. Jenner had to quit her last job when Matthew, her youngest son, was hospitalized.

"They shut the telephone off," she said. "They're on the verge of shutting our electricity off. Matthew just got out of the hospital. There are a lot of unpaid bills piling up."

Unskilled work at the hotel pays $3.90 an hour, 55 cents above the minimum wage. Wages vary for skilled positions.

"The chances of finding a job here aren't very good unless they have some unique skill," Johnstone said. "If they're looking for factory or construction work, they would either find nothing or something well below what they'd be used to."

Hotel management had decided to interview no more than 500 people a day during the week-long open application period. The first people in line showed up before dawn Monday, and the 500th was in place by 9:45 a.m.

"I was out here at midnight last night, and a couple of people were already here sleeping in their car in the far lot," said Bob Croop, personnel director at the hotel.

Elie Taylor and his wife Alice waited, too.

"I just got out of the Army and I really need a job," Taylor said. "I've been looking for three months and haven't found a job yet. I'll take anything. I just want work."

Gordon Ross, 39, lost his job as a Braniff ticket reservation clerk when the airline suspended operations May 12 and filed for protection in federal bankruptcy court.

Blown gas well forces evacuations

LIVINGSTON, Texas (AP) — Oil well firefighter Red Adair and his crew will try today to cap a natural gas well that blew out and forced at least 1,000 people to leave their homes to escape toxic fumes, authorities say.

There were no injuries and no fire, said Polk County Dispatcher Blanche Reeves. However, she said, low clouds kept the fumes close to the ground, making the situation "very dangerous."

The blowout occurred Tuesday afternoon as a crew drilled near Farm-to-Market Road 3126, about six miles south of this East Texas community, authorities said.

"It's just fumes so far, no fire," said Livingston police dispatcher Helen Roberts. She said authorities had to evacuate residents from "one house, (where) the rig is almost in its yard, and we also had to evacuate campers from our state park here" as well as other residents of nearby homes.

Adair and his crew had arrived at the site Tuesday evening, but they decided to wait until morning to attempt to shut off the leak, she said.

Sheriff's deputies, firefighters, police and Texas Department of Public Safety troopers were ordered to evacuate residents living within a one-mile radius of the well, Ms. Reeves said.

Most of the residents were evacuated from five subdivisions near Lake Livingston State Park, she said. Many spent Tuesday night with friends, while others stayed at Camp Choyah, a church facility that was used as a shelter, said Sheriff's Dispatcher Gary Wright.

The well is owned by Reading and Black Petroleum Co. of Houston

Encephalitis is confirmed

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Health officials are trying to determine whether two more people have St. Louis encephalitis, a mosquito-borne disease that is potentially fatal.

Christi Reed of the Texas Health Department confirmed Tuesday that so far this year three people have had the disease.

Businesses suffering from peso problems

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A wad of dollars in one hand, Gabriel Samuel leaned against the counter of his imports store and looked out at the nearly empty street.

"There were no customers to buy the audio equipment, watches or small appliances that fill shelves to the ceiling of his tiny store."

"If this continues, within a month or two, the businesses on this street are going to be closing," he said. "We cannot pay our bills."

Samuel and the other merchants on Stanton Street are in trouble, and it's a situation about which they can do nothing. Their business, or lack of it, depends on decisions made in Mexico City and the bank towers that dominate the El Paso skyline.

Since the Aug. 5 devaluation of the Mexican peso, businesses on Stanton Street and other streets near the Rio Grande have been empty of the Mexican shoppers that are their lifeblood.

"It was very sudden," Samuel said. "Our business dropped 90 or 95 percent overnight."

When the peso was allowed to float on international money markets, it dropped in value from about 49 to the dollar to as much as 135 to the dollar along the border. Mexicans found their buying power north of the border cut by more than half.

Then, Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo announced the nationalization of privately owned banks and strict controls on taking money out of the country. The announced controls include searches at the border that weren't being enforced Monday, but the threat has kept Mexicans from shopping in El Paso.

Stores such as Samuel's are hardest hit because they deal in items considered luxuries in Mexico.

"The last things people are going to buy are luxuries like TVs and radios," said Tony Diaz, manager of Pan-American Exports.

Diaz's store, which sells audio equipment, jewelry and cosmetics wholesale and retail, may be faring better than any other store on Stanton Street. But it's because of its wholesale operations in liquor and cigarettes, not retail sales.

"Fortunately for us, people are going to drink no matter what the financial situation is," he said.

Diaz blames confusion over the financial situation for the downturn and believes that if the border searches aren't enforced, business could improve as Mexicans get accustomed to the peso's new value.

But many businesses in South El Paso can't wait that long.

Samuel, for example, is closing one of his two Suky Imports stores and consolidating in the one nearer the border. The four young men who work for him at the main store are rotating their jobs, each working one day a week because Samuel can't afford all of them.

The problem is compounded by the varying rates of exchange for the peso. When Mexico's newly nationalized banks reopened, an artificial rate of 70 pesos to the dollar was set by the government. But banks in El Paso continued to use a rate of between 80 or 90 to the dollar and some banks wouldn't accept pesos.

"The problem is getting rid of the pesos once you have them," Diaz said. "Who wants millions of pesos?"

Samuel found a way to exchange pesos and build business, but it can't work very often. One day last week, he began buying pesos for 77 to the dollar while selling his goods at a rate of 75 to the dollar.

"When I put up a sign saying 77 to the dollar, I had more than 100 people in a line outside my door (to exchange their money)," he said. "I sold everything with a loss of two pesos. I figured it out at the end of the day and I had lost about $90. Naturally, it paid to lose $90 to make business."

"Today, I tell them 90 to the dollar and they take off," he said.

Jorge Montelongo, vice president of International Furniture, said the confusion over exchange rates is hurting business.

Bad hole inspired Weiskopf

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — Tom Weiskopf says his triple bogey on the first hole of play in the final round of the Jerry Ford Invitational golf tournament gave him a goal. He had shot a 5-under-par 66 during the opening 18 holes on Monday. "I thought seven or eight under would win, so it gave me an incentive," Weiskopf said Tuesday after shooting a 1-under-par 70 for a winning total of 136. The victory was good for $25,500, which included the winner's check and his share of the pro-amateur cash for team play. Defending champion Tom Purtzer and Fuzzy Zoeller came in with 137s to tie for second in the tournament, played on the Singletree and Vail golf courses. Each won $10,000. Miller Barber, the reigning U.S. Open senior champion, shot Tuesday's best round, a 67, to place third and collect a $7,000 check. The tournament was marked by two days of foul weather that included rain, sleet and cold weather. "The last time I played in snow was when I was in college," said Weiskopf, a graduate of Ohio State, "when I was crazy, or else when we made a bet in a bar. But I've been rained out in Hawaii, and I'd like to defend the weather here."

Boros recalls early career

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Julius Boros thought back over the years and came up with a memory from 1949, a year before he turned pro. "I was an accountant (for an insurance firm), and the man I was working for had just bought a golf course down here (in this resort village in the Carolina sand hill country)," he said. "He brought me down here to go over the books and while I was here I entered the North and South Open. "I was still an amateur, at the ripe old age of 29, and I was still playing for $2.50 on the weekends. So I entered the North and South Open and I tied for second, with Sam Snead, behind Toney Penna. A bunch of the guys, Vic Chezzi and others, talked to me and tried to convince me to turn pro. So I did." His first tournament, he said, was at Merion near Philadelphia in 1950 and he won $219, "the biggest payday I ever knew." It was the start of a career starting at age 30, which put Boros in the World Golf Hall of Fame. He and Kathy Whitworth were inducted as the 41st and 42nd members Tuesday night. The placid Boros, 62, won the first of his 18 tour titles in the 1952 U. S. Open in Dallas. He won the American national championship again 11 years later, beating Arnold Palmer in a playoff at The Country Club. At the age of 48, in 1968, he acquired his third major title in the PGA National Championship in sweltering heat in San Antonio. Boros, now a frequent competitor on the seniors tour, was golf's leading money winner in 1952 and 1955. "Unbelievable... unquestionably the highlight of

Houston golfers win fall title

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Houston's Billy Ray Brown and John Slaughter paced the Cougars to an easy 37-stroke victory Tuesday as Houston repeated as Southwest Conference fall golf champions. Houston finished the two-day tournament with 877. Texas A&M was second at 914 and Arkansas finished third at 923. Brown shot an even-par 72 in stroke play at the Fianna Hills Country Club on Tuesday. Slaughter was a stroke back at 73. The pair compiled the lowest overall score of 290, 2-over-par in team competition. The Cougars had six of the best 14 individual scores for the day. Behind Arkansas was Texas at 925, Texas Christian at 926, Rice 942, Texas Tech 944 and Baylor 977.

Major league baseball roundup

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota rookie first baseman Kent Hrbek returned to the lineup Tuesday and picked up a timely hit that helped the Twins whip the Texas Rangers 3-2 behind pitcher Jack O'Connor's four-hitter. Gary Ward's RBI double in the sixth inning capped a decisive two-run Twins rally, which knocked out Texas starter Jon Matlack, 7-7. Trailing 2-1, rookie Ray Smith led off the Minnesota sixth with a single. Two outs later, Matlack hit Tom Brunansky with a pitch. Hrbek followed with a single that tied the score. Ward then drove home the go-ahead run with his second double of the game. Texas took a 2-0 lead in the third when Mike Richard singled and moved to second on a sacrifice bunt. Pete O'Brien doubled with two out for the first run. Buddy Bell then followed with an RBI single. Elsewhere in the American League, Kansas City downed Seattle 5-2, Milwaukee beat

Detroit 5-3 but lost a half game in the AL East race to Baltimore, who swept the Yankees 5-4 and 5-3. The California Angels pasted the Chicago White Sox 7-0, Boston remained 4½ out with a 12-1 wipeout of Cleveland, and the Oakland-Toronto game was rained out. ROYALS 5, MARINERS 2 Pitcher Bill Castro won his first game as a starter in seven years, holding the Seattle Mariners to two runs and five hits in 51-3 innings as KC won 5-2. That victory kept the American League West-leading Royals a game ahead of the Angels. ANGELS 7, WHITE SOX 0 Doug DeCinces was the offensive star with three hits for the surging Angels, but Kison was the key to the victory. "When I got to the ballpark Monday, I was told that I might start Tuesday," Kison said. "But I actually didn't learn for sure until Tuesday morning." ORIOLES 5-5, YANKEES 4-3 Cal Ripken Jr. belted his first major-league grand slam homer to lift the Orioles over New York in the nightcap after Baltimore overcame a 4-0 deficit to take the opener with the help of homers by Benny Ayala and Dan Ford. Tippy Martinez saved both games, giving him three saves in as many nights. BREWERS 6, TIGERS 3 Don Money, who spends much of his time riding the Milwaukee bench, made the best of a starting opportunity with a homer and triple, driving in three runs. "This was a big game," Money said. "The Orioles have been playing excellent ball and we've only been playing 50-50." RED SOX 12, INDIANS 1 Glenn Hoffman and Carney Lansford both homered in the sixth inning to lead a 13-hit attack and John Tudor, who lost a five-hit complete game 2-0 last week to Cleveland, got some revenge with the victory, striking out eight Indians. In Tuesday's National League action, Fernando

Valenzuela was razor-sharp — and really cutting it for Los Angeles, pitching the Dodgers to a 1-0 victory over the San Diego Padres. Valenzuela's control was perfect — he didn't walk a batter while striking out six and giving up but six hits. The performance boosted the Dodgers' lead in the National League West to 1½ games over the Atlanta Braves, 4-0 losers to the Houston Astros. In other NL action, St. Louis beat Philadelphia 2-0, Montreal whipped New York 3-1, Pittsburgh walloped Chicago 15-5 and San Francisco nipped Cincinnati 2-1. ASTROS 4, BRAVES 0 Mike LaCoss gave up just two hits over seven innings for Houston over Atlanta. Both hits off LaCoss, 5-6, came in the second inning, one of only two scoring threats by the Braves. LaCoss struck out three and walked two before Frank LaCorte relieved and posted his fifth save. Houston took a 2-0 lead in the fifth with the aid of a two-out error by Atlanta shortstop Rafael Ramirez that allowed two unearned runs to score. Cruz's home run, his ninth, was a solo shot in the sixth and the Astros added a run in the ninth on a sacrifice fly by Doran. CARDINALS 2, PHILLIES 0 Darrell Porter's two-run homer in the fourth inning and the combined five-hit pitching of John Stuper and Bruce Sutter carried St. Louis over Philadelphia and sent the Cardinals back into first place in the NL East by a half-game. The Phillies had taken over the lead Monday night behind Steve Carlton's 20th victory of the season. Stuper, 7-6, was knocked out in the eighth before Sutter came on to shut off the Phillies and post his league-leading 32nd save. EXPOS 3, METS 1 Al Oliver drove in two runs with a pair of singles and Charlie Lea limited New York to six hits in 6 1-3 innings as Montreal defeated the Mets for the Expos' fourth straight victory.

News has new assistant sports editor

The Pampa News today gained a brand new Assistant Sports Editor: Shawn David Strate, 6 pounds, 9 ounces and 20 inches long, was born at 2:26 a.m. to L.D. and Lois Strate. The new assistant to the News' sports editor is the first addition to the Strates' staff. Mom and baby are reported doing fine. The father has the day off and may survive.

Coach Bart Starr sits in the NFL's hot seat

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Bart Starr sits on the hottest seat in the National Football League. Last Sunday, the former all-star quarterback must have felt his pants scorching as the Green Bay Packers fell behind the Los Angeles Rams 23-0 in the first half.

Boos resounded through the Milwaukee County Stadium, Crestfallen, discouraged, angry at themselves, the Packers trudged into the locker room.

Did Coach Bart Starr, the favorite pupil of the legendary Vince Lombardi, borrow a page from the old master's book to snap the disheartened players out of their doldrums?

"I remember we had almost a similar situation in 1965 when I was quarterbacking the team," Starr said. "We were playing the Lions in Detroit and we had a miserable first half, behind 21-3."

"Going into the locker room, we didn't know what to expect. We all knew Coach Lombardi to be tough, hard-nosed and abrasive but also we respected him as a man of deep sensitivity. Surprisingly, he was the calmest person I've ever seen. He didn't berate any of us. He quietly pointed out our errors and then, with a slap on the shoulder, told us to go and play the kind of football we were capable of."

The Packers rallied, won the game 31-21 and qualified for the playoffs. Modesty prevented Starr from giving the details. He passed for three touchdowns and rushed four yards for another in one of the flashiest quarterback performances the game has seen.

Last Sunday, the situation was somewhat the same but the roles were changed. Starr had assumed the mantle of his old coach. Calling signals and directing the attack — Starr's former job — was a 12-year veteran out of Kansas State, Lynn Dickey.

Dickey, who had fumbled twice and thrown two interceptions in the error-pocked opening half, engineered the fierce, almost flawless comeback, throwing three touchdown passes, two in the space of 17 seconds, for a 35-21 victory over a Los Angeles team that had been tabbed as having Super Bowl potential.

What happened? Was the remarkable turn-around done with mirrors? Not at all. Starr just remembered 1965 and a man named Lombardi.

"Basically, I've never been one for punching blackboards," Starr said. "It was easy to see that the guys were down enough on themselves. They didn't need somebody to give them a harangue or a corny speech."

"I listened to our offensive coordinator (Bob Schnelker) talk to the offensive guys and the defensive coach (John Meyer) go over details with his bunch. Both did a good job. There wasn't much for me to say except to go out there and play ball."

Muffed pass to hurt Billy Joe

DALLAS (AP) — When tight end Billy Joe DuPree dropped a sure touchdown pass in the end zone Monday night against the Pittsburgh Steelers, his starting job may have gone with it. Dallas Coach Tom Landry announced Tuesday that four-year veteran Doug Cosbie had replaced the 10-year veteran DuPree as the starter.

When Cosbie opens Sunday against St. Louis, it will end DuPree's string of 135 consecutive starting assignments.

"This is no big deal but you ought to reward a player who has been performing for you all year," said Landry.

He added, "I'm not trying to downplay Billy Joe. He has been a big factor on this team and will continue to be."

Cosbie caught 5 passes for 102 yards and a touchdown in the 36-28 loss to the Steelers.

Landry said he thinks Dallas may have been suffering from the big head in the Pittsburgh ambush.

"I think we had an inflated opinion of ourselves by what had been written in all the buildups," said Landry. "We should have more humility today than yesterday. If we don't we're going to go down quick."

"We're suffering like John McEnroe trying to beat Ivan Lendl in tennis," Landry said. "He can't beat Lendl and we can't beat the Steelers regardless of the kind of team they bring in."

Landry said the most damaging mistake of the game was Danny White's blocked punt in the third quarter.

The Cowboys were leading 14-13 at the time and it led to the go-ahead touchdown.

"Danny said he wanted to run and it was not the right decision," Landry said. "He threw two interceptions right after that. We didn't talk about it. He knows it was an error. Danny made a lot of big plays for us. It was just a matter of bad judgment."

Pampa has 7th grade grid program

Pampa's football program has been updated this year to include a seventh-grade squad.

"They've played intramural ball before but this will be the first time the seventh grade goes competitively since the middle school was consolidated eight or nine years ago," said middle school coach Pete Erwin.

Pampa seventh-grade opens a five-game schedule Sept. 30 at Canadian, starting at 5 p.m.

"We won't be competing for a district title this first year," Erwin said.

There will be about 90 youngsters suited up for the seventh-grade team and about 60 for the eighth-grade, which opens the season Thursday at 4:30 p.m. against Hereford LaPlata at the middle school field.

"We're going to try and get another schedule where we can split up into three teams," Erwin added. "It will be like an A and B team. We'll have the bigger boys playing on the A team and smaller boys on the B to try and avoid injuries and mismatches."

"I'm expecting great things from both groups. Both should have great size and we'll have enough to two-plateau. When a coach doesn't have to worry about having players go both ways, it gives him more time to work on fundamentals."

Pampa eighth grade will be going after a third consecutive district championship.

"They say that third one is hard to win, but we're going after it," Erwin said.

Pampa eighth graders posted a 6-0-1 record a year ago and defeated Borger, 19-0, to clinch the district title.

7th Grade Schedule
Sept. 30-Canadian, 5 p.m. there; Oct. 5-Canyon White, 4:30 p.m. here; 12-Canyon Purple, 4:30 p.m. there; 19-Dumas, 4:30 p.m. home; 26-Borger, 4 p.m. there.

8th Grade Schedule

I Hate to Cook!

A taste of original Pampa cooking

BY CINDA ROBINSON
Lifestyles Editor

Looks like I will have to give up my usual space this week where I normally ramble on and on about my inadequacies as a cook.

Instead I have some terrific letters to share from some of Pampa's own bold and deliberate cooks.

My special thanks to FRAN GLISON and VALLIE SHOTWELL for sending their recipes for German Chocolate Cake. I have decided to try both recipes as soon as the weather cools down a little more (and that may be sooner than we anticipate).

As soon as I will report both versions of my favorite cake I will try to all of those interested which cake my family preferred, (mine will be the deciding vote, decision of the judges will be final) then I will share that recipe in this column.

Doesn't that sound exciting and very official.

My request of the week is for a particular Brownie recipe that tastes more like fudge than Brownies.

Louise Fletcher, the lady and chief of the Pampa News, shared some Brownies with me last week. They were possibly the best dessert I have ever eaten. The Brownies were given to Louise by a friend and she said they were made from a mix with chocolate pieces in the batter.

I really want this recipe and I won't wait for cool weather to make it either. Unfortunately, all of my past experiences with Brownies, by scratch or by mix, have been a disaster. My husband will testify to that.

The last time we had Brownies in our house my husband, Ed, made them. They were quite an improvement over my attempts.

Please send your recipes and stories to Cinda Robinson, Lifestyles Editor, The Pampa News, P.O. Drawer 2198, Pampa, Texas 79065.

My first letter comes from CARLA SIMS and it sounds excellent and looks easy. Carla writes:

Since you are hard up for letters, I'm sending a recipe that my family likes. It's good, tastes Italian, but doesn't take a bunch of ingredients that you wouldn't ordinarily have on your pantry shelf. Any credit for this recipe should go to a Texas Cowbelle somewhere.

AMERICAN LASAGNA

Brown 1 pound hamburger in a large skillet. Drain.
Add: 1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1/4 tsp. garlic salt
a pinch of oregano (if you like)
1 can tomatoe sauce
Rinse can with water and add to meat to make it juicy.

Simmer for at least 5 minutes while you cook:
3 cups curly egg noodles. Drain and add some oleo; 1 cup sour cream; 1 cup creamed cottage cheese, if you like it, otherwise leave it out - it tastes just as good. Add two - thirds cup chopped onions.

Place 1/2 of the noodle mixture in a greased baking dish. Cover with meat.

Top with remaining noodle mixture and sprinkle 1 cup grated cheese over casserole.

Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Serves at least six.

This recipe tastes better if it's made ahead to let the flavors blend. I found this out waiting for my husband to get home from work. - CARLA SIMS

My second letter comes from JULIA CLARK. Julia sounds to me like a fun sort of person. Julia writes:

This is one chance I can't pass up. I'm AFRAID to cook! Somehow, between being the oldest of six children and a 4-H member for 5 years, I managed to learn enough to feed three children until they grew old enough to say, "Mom, can I make my own sandwich?" You bet, honey, just clean up afterwards! Two are in college and the "baby" is a high school senior, all decent cooks and taller than I. Not bad, huh?

Now, I have this fantastic husband. He can do EVERYTHING. When he says, "Love, this Rigatoni needs more oregano." I dump more in.

Damion is a chef, among his other talents. His more memorable dishes were Green Rice and Purple Chicken... the kids will never let him forget that one!

Really, Damion can cook (he's Italian and French Canadian), and that is why, after driving trucks and other "glamorous" occupations, I am AFRAID to try my hand at being a stay-at-home wife and cook! Damion has encouraged me to experiment and "at least try".

FROM THE GARDEN VEGETABLE PAN CASSEROLE

Cut up and brown four strips of bacon, set bacon aside.

1 tablespoon olive oil
1 tablespoon bacon drippings dash of garlic (to taste)

In this mixture chop and saute:
1/2 onion (size depends on what you have)
1 small green pepper

1 large handful of mushrooms (or whatever is left from the package you bought last week for beef stroganoff)

Spices: (approximate, because I dumped into the small hollow of my left hand)

1 tsp. tarragon,
1 tsp. oregano
1 tsp. sweet basil

Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
Wash and cut into chunks:

5 small tomatoes
4 large summer (scalloped edge) squash
Add to pan and simmer until it looks right.

When the above mixture is cooked down, about 15 minutes, add a cup of freshly grated cheddar cheese, 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese, 6 chopped black and green olives and bacon.

Continue simmering until cheese is melted and husband is out of tub. I served it with boiled, parsleyed rice.

Charles Cooley of the Pampa Lions Club congratulates Matt McDaniel, 10, who last year discovered a kidney problem through the kidney screening program sponsored by the Lions Club and the Gray County Kidney Foundation. The Gray County Kidney Foundation of Pampa will conduct their annual house-to-house campaign during the month of September. Workers will be visiting residential and various businesses to collect money for the Kidney Foundation. Chairman of this year's fund raising campaign will be Georgia Mack Mrs. Mack reported that the Kidney Foundation has been very active this past year in Pampa. In April of this year, 1,831 elementary students were tested in the urinalysis test in the public school system. Out of the 1,831 students tested, approximately 120 students showed a chemical indication of a medical disorder. (Staff Photo by Bruce Lee Smith)

The blueberry season is upon us. It is beginning to roll, starting with berries from North Carolina, then from New Jersey and the Midwest, with the crop peaking on the West Coast in late August.

Take advantage of this special fruit while it is at the height of the season to make desserts, jams, preserves or to eat fresh, with or without cream or ice cream.

A blueberry crunch with a graham cracker crust has about 299 calories a serving.

- BLUEBERRY CRUNCH
- 1 3/4 cups graham cracker crumbs
 - 1/3 cup butter or margarine, softened
 - 1/4 cup sugar
 - 4 cups fresh blueberries, washed and drained
 - 3 tablespoons corn starch
 - 1/4 cup water or fruit juice
 - 2/3 cup sugar
 - 1 teaspoon nutmeg
 - 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
 - 1 1/2 tablespoons butter
 - 4 egg whites, room temperature
 - 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
 - 1/4 cup sugar
 - 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract

Blend cracker crumbs, butter and sugar. Press firmly against bottom and up sides of well-greased 9-by-9-by-2 inch square pan. Bake in a 325-degree oven for 5 minutes. Cool. Mix corn starch with water or fruit juice. Toss blueberries with sugar and spices. Gently fold into corn starch mixture. Let stand for 15 minutes before putting into crumb crust. Whip egg whites until frothy. Add cream of tartar.

Whip until egg whites are stiff but not dry. Beat in sugar, 1 teaspoon at a time. Do not overbeat. Beat in vanilla. Pour blueberry mixture evenly over crumb crust. Dot with small pieces of butter. Cover with topping. Bake in a 325-degree oven for 40 minutes. Cool on wire rack. Cut into squares. This kitchen-tested recipe makes nine 3-inch-by-3-inch squares. (Dry-pack fresh blueberries can be used in this recipe.)

Bake sale fare - Brownies

JON VIE BROWNIES
 Revised version of one of my recipes for which I get requests.

- 1/2 cup butter, at room temperature
- 1 cup white sugar
- 1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
- 1-3rd cup dark corn syrup
- 3 large eggs
- 3 squares (3 ounces) unsweetened chocolate,

melted
 1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
 1 cup coarsely broken walnuts

Line the bottom of a 9-inch square cake pan with wax paper; using unsalted butter, grease the paper; lightly butter the sides of the pan. In a medium mixing bowl with a wooden spoon thoroughly beat together the butter, sugars and corn syrup. Stir in the eggs, one at a time, then the chocolate and finally the flour just until combined; do not beat. Stir in the nuts. Turn into the prepared pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven 35 minutes — a cake tester inserted in the center will not come out clean. Let stand on a wire rack 10 minutes. Loosen edges with a small metal spatula. Turn out on rack; remove paper; with another rack turn right-side-up. Cool completely. Cut into squares.

Cool and special Chicken Salad

- 4 cups cut-up (1 1/2-inch pieces) cooked chicken, packed down
- 1 1/2 cups finely diced celery
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice

- 1 cup mayonnaise
- Salt and white pepper to taste
- Salad greens
- Fresh pineapple spears

In a large mixing bowl, toss together the chicken and celery; sprinkle with the lemon juice and toss. Stir in the mayonnaise, salt and pepper; chill.

Let's talk.

Information about your changing telephone service from Gary Stevens, Community Relations Manager.

We're Changing Today, Preparing for Tomorrow

As you probably know, there's been a lot of talk in recent months about the "break-up" of the Bell System. But "reorganization" is probably a more appropriate word. It's something many of the larger and more successful corporations have been going through lately. Technological, economic and social changes make it necessary for businesses to change, too.

Even after attempts over the years by Congress, the FCC and the courts to effect sweeping changes in the telecommunications industry, there are still many uncertainties about the future.

As employees of Southwestern Bell, however, we face the future with confidence that we will be able to serve you even better. After all, we have the technical background and the spirit-of-service traditions acquired over 100 years.

Many Factors Influence Local Service Charges

Questions I hear most often are: What will happen to my local rates? Is it true they're going to skyrocket?

Rates are not going to skyrocket, but they will go up. Local rates will rise because of many factors, among them inflation and changes in accounting and financial procedures. In addition, Southwestern Bell has been subsidizing local telephone service with its profits from long distance and other services. In the future, local service will have to pay more of its own cost.

Prevent Phone Troubles In Your Own Backyard

I've been asked by our repair technicians to remind you to be on the lookout for buried telephone lines and cables when you dig, whether it's preparing for a garden, planting a shrub, putting up a fence, or digging a ditch.

It was only a few years ago that we started moving our cable and wire from overhead to underground so service would be protected from ice, wind and rain. But as more and more goes underground, the greater the problem with people literally cutting off their own service, usually with a ditch-digging machine or a shovel.

If you think there may be a cable or phone lines underground in the area where you want to dig, but you don't know for sure, just dial "O" and ask for "Enterprise 9800." We'll tell you what to do, maybe even send a telephone person out at no cost to you, to show you where a cable runs through the area.

Sharing Makes Community A Nicer Place for All

A final note...it's time to think about United Way pledges. Like me, Southwestern Bell employees statewide believe in the organization.

The United Way sponsors more than 60 agencies which bring people together—caring and sharing. So, give what you can...your time or a donation...to make our community the best it can be.

Remember, if you have something to talk about, don't hesitate to drop me a line. Here's my address:

Nutritious Peanut Butter Chip Cookie Bars

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Not many of us can resist a good cookie. Those that have nutritional value and taste good rate 10 on any scale. Youngsters, for example, do need some sugar in their diets, as well as bulk. These peanut butter cookies will make a good addition to a child's lunchbox.

PEANUT BLONDIES
1 cup butter or margarine

- 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1/4 cup orange juice
- 1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 cups quick-cooking oats
- 2 cups (12-ounce package) peanut butter chips

Cream together butter and sugars; blend in eggs and juice. Mix together flour, soda and salt; add with oats and 1 cup chips to creamed mixture. Spread over bottom of greased 9-by-13-inch baking pan. Sprinkle remaining 1 cup chips on top.
Bake in 350-degree oven 30 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cook on rack. Cut into bars. This kitchen-tested recipe makes approximately 36 bars.

(NOTE: This recipe may be baked in two 9-inch square pans, about 25 minutes.)
PEANUT BUTTER CHIP CEREAL BARS
2 cups (12-ounce package) peanut butter chips
1/3 cup honey
3 tablespoons butter or margarine

4 cups crispy rice cereal or ring-shaped toasted oat cereal
1/3 cup dry roasted sunflower seeds
1/3 cup chopped dried apricots
1/3 cup raisins
Grease a 13-by-9-inch baking pan. In a small saucepan, combine 1 cup peanut butter chips, honey and butter; stir over low heat until mixture is smooth. Remove pan from heat; set aside.

In a large bowl, combine remaining peanut butter chips, cereal, seeds and fruits. Add peanut butter mixture; mix well. Turn into prepared pan; press evenly in pan. Cool until firm. Cut into bars. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 32 bars.

Dear Abby Wife's nagging may be deafening noise

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am considering leaving my husband after 47 years of marriage. It may sound foolish to you, but I just can't live with him any longer because he refuses to wear his hearing aid! He got one three years ago and says there's nothing wrong with it — that he can hear just fine without it.

Abby, he can't hear just fine without it. I have to repeat everything I say two and three times. (I have a strong voice and I don't mumble.) I know he hasn't heard me correctly half the time by his responses.

He's retired, and there are lots of things he could do with his time besides sit around and read. He doesn't exercise the way he should, he smokes too much, and I have to beg him to be a little more sociable — even with old friends. I hate to nag him but I love him — that's why I keep after him to stay active, keep fit, and try to be better company for me and other people. His health is fine, but he acts like an old man. Help me, Abby. I can't go on like this.

MISERABLE

DEAR MISERABLE: The problem may not be your husband's hearing, but your nagging. I know you "love" him and keep after him for his own good, but his refusal to wear the hearing aid could be his way of tuning you out.

Please be more understanding and less demanding. Quit nagging him, and accept the fact that one of the most precious rights a person has is the right to be left alone.

DEAR ABBY: I am a divorced grandmother living on a fixed income. After my divorce, I left my friends and moved from Rhode Island to Southern California hoping to see more of my married daughter and her children. Judy (not her real name) is my only child and her children are my only grandchildren.

Shortly after I arrived, Judy made it clear that she did not want to be bothered with me. She said she'd see me on my birthday and Christmas, and the rest of the time she prefers to be with her friends.

I am not comfortable with these terms, but I have little choice. I've tried to tell Judy how I feel, but she doesn't seem to care.

What should I do?

SNUBBED IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR SNUBBED: There must be more to this than meets the nose. (It smells.) There are some unanswered questions: Did Judy encourage you to leave your friends and move out West? Or did you make that choice knowing your daughter didn't want to be bothered with you?

Would you be satisfied to remain in California on Judy's terms? (You can't force her to see any more of you than she desires.)

My heart aches for you, but if you want to remain in California, get busy and make new friends. Or go back East where you have old ones. The choice is yours.

DEAR ABBY: When I read in your column that a transvestite stole women's clothing because he was too embarrassed to buy feminine apparel from a salesperson, my heart ached for him.

I am a transvestite, and I have no trouble buying whatever I want, but there are a few rules to follow: Go shopping when the stores are not crowded. You'll find the clerks happy to wait on you. They'll even let you try things on. I've bought everything from lingerie to shoes to dresses with no problem. I even bought a bridal gown and went back for two fittings!

Be neat, clean, discreet, inconspicuous and quiet. Never go shopping to "look" — go only when you are in a position to buy, and you will be greeted with courtesy and open arms.

BLUEBERRY TURNOVERS
The biscuit dough used for these is rich.
Biscuit Dough, recipe follows
2 tablespoons butter, soft
1 cup fresh blueberries
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon flour
Roll out biscuit dough to 1/4-inch thickness; with a pastry wheel, trim to a 16- by 12-inch rectangle; cut into 12 four-inch squares. Shape tag ends of dough into 2 four-inch squares. Spread squares with butter. Mix together the blueberries, sugar and flour; place a generous tablespoonful to the side of each square. Fold over squares to make triangles; press edges with fork tines to seal. On a buttered cookie sheet, bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until lightly browned — about 20 minutes. Sprinkle generously with confectioners' sugar and serve at once. Makes 14.
Biscuit Dough: Stir together 2 cups all-purpose flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt and 2 tablespoons sugar. With a pastry blender, cut in one 1/2-pound stick butter until blended; with a fork gradually stir in enough milk (about 1/2 cup) to form a dough.

Astro-Graph
by bernice bede osol

This coming year your most successful ventures are apt to be those in which partners are involved. It's possible you may have as many as three enterprises going on at one time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're likely to get what you go after today, but if your motives are selfish you could leave ill feelings in your wake. Let your finer qualities prevail. Predictions of what's in store for you in the seasons following your birthday and where to look for your luck and opportunities are in your Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Think in terms of what it may eventually cost you before making serious commitments today. If the price is too high, you'd better back off.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Usually competition and challenge bring out your better qualities, but today you might overreact to obstacles which could easily be brushed aside.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Timing is very important today concerning your major objectives. Don't let your impulsiveness prompt you to move before you are ready.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Try not to make too many changes today in projects which are running smoothly.

Instead of bettering your position, you might slip backward. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your image could suffer today if you make promises. Then try to alter the terms. Stand on your word once you make an agreement.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be sure to read carefully all the instructions if you are working with unfamiliar equipment or materials today. Haste invites mistakes.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be extremely tactful in one-to-one relationships today. If you get off on the wrong foot, you may find it too difficult to backtrack.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) You'll perform well today, provided you're not subjected to too much supervision. When ideas are imposed upon you, there's a good chance you'll rebel.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's important to first set the proper example today if you hope to influence others. Be more demonstrative than verbal.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Unless you keep a tight rein on business and financial matters today, there is a possibility potentially gainful situations could suffer reversals.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Unfortunately, not everyone today will be impressed by your way of doing things. Try to see the values in the suggestions others offer.

Sperm bank operator building future on tiny foundation Ready for shipping

By LAURINDA KEYS
Associated Press Writer
ESCONDIDO, Calif. (AP) — Billions of sperm from some of the world's top scientists are frozen in a lead caudron and stored in a tiny, underground laboratory on a San Diego County ranch.

"You don't need much room for sperm," says Robert K. Graham, the wealthy 76-year-old optometrist who hopes to produce a generation of smarter people long after he's dead.

But the man who spends nearly $100,000 a year of his own money to gather and disseminate the sperm of highly intelligent men says he's "not totally happy" with the operation of his Repository for Germinal Choice.

Joyce Kowalski, the mother of the sperm bank's first baby, lost custody of two children by a former marriage because her current husband, Jack, was accused of abusing them.

The mother of the second baby was a 40-year-old unmarried psychologist. Afton Blake gave birth to a boy Aug. 24, although on her application "she listed the name of her husband," said Graham. "I don't know if it was a tragic misunderstanding, or what."

Less than a month before the birth of her 8-pound, 10½-ounce son, Miss Blake said in an interview that she decided to use the sperm bank because she was approaching 40 and was "not in a relationship."

There are an estimated 10,000 artificial inseminations — from donors other than husbands — in the United States each year, says Dr.

Capone of about 20 commercial sperm banks in the United States.

"But that's just a guess," he said, "because this is a type of population that is difficult to study statistically. They don't want publicity or public exposure."

The Repository for Germinal Choice is designed for "childless women married to men who are infertile," Graham said. "We give them a choice of the finest germinal material."

But when the Kowalskis' background became known, Graham said, the repository stopped accepting applications for sperm shipments until a form was developed "that our lawyers were satisfied with."

"The big difference in the new form is that it's 20 pages, as opposed to one page. It seeks much more detailed information," said Paul Smith, a spokesman for Graham. A copy of a marriage license is now required.

There have been 200 applicants since the project started in 1979, Graham said. About 10 women are now pregnant.

Graham says the mothers-to-be are not screened as carefully as the donors who are promised anonymity although some general information is given to recipients. Miss Blake said she was told the father of her baby was a computer scientist and a gifted musician.

But if a man calls to offer sperm, "I tell him to let me know when he's won a Nobel Prize," Graham said. "The ones I want, I already know about."

Most never reply to his letters, Graham said, although three Nobel Prize winners, all scientists, have donated sperm. Only one of them, William B. Shockley, winner of the 1956 prize for physics, has publicly acknowledged making a contribution. Shockley is a proponent of the controversial theory that Caucasians are genetically superior to blacks.

"One donor can fertilize 100 recipients, so we can afford to be 100 times more critical with the donor. And the youngsters will be shaped by the donor's genes, at least 50 percent," Graham said.

"Even if we had (sperm from Albert) Einstein, it would be rash to expect we'd be producing Einsteins," he said. "The chances of that are one in millions. But we would probably be producing some good people."

"I may never see the eventual results of this current activity," he said. "Anybody born today isn't going to make a dent for 25 years at least."

Prospective parents sign an agreement to answer any questions the repository staff asks them about their child's development. "We need to follow the results so we can prove that what we're doing is worthwhile," he said.

Graham, who made a fortune inventing the shatterproof plastic eyeglass lens, set up the Foundation for the Education of Man with a few other contributors, which he wouldn't name. "I'm mostly it," he said. The foundation provides funds to the repository, and more than half the annual budget is the medical director's salary, he said.

Dukakis turns tables on King; in other state primaries the incumbents survive

By The Associated Press
 Former Gov. Michael S. Dukakis of Massachusetts turned the tables on Gov. Edward J. King with a Democratic primary victory and veteran Sen. Howard Cannon of Nevada narrowly defeated a conservative challenger, while Wisconsin voters overwhelmingly endorsed a nuclear freeze.
 Cannon trailed Rep. Jim Santini in the Democratic primary until votes began flowing in early today from the senator's home base of Clark County, which includes Las Vegas, the largest city in the state.
 With 90 percent of the precincts counted, Cannon had 47,998 votes to 44,702 for Santini.
 Cannon quickly appealed to Democrats to unite against his Republican opponent in the fall campaign.
 "I hope now we can get together and go on to win in November," said the 70-year-old senator. "We Democrats in Nevada have always had a lot of fights and gotten together to lick our wounds."
 In Massachusetts, Dukakis characterized his victory over King as "a defeat for Reaganomics." A conservative Democrat who beat Dukakis in a primary upset four years ago, King often supported President Reagan's domestic policies. The governor conceded defeat shortly after midnight.

Except for Dukakis' victory, it was a good night for incumbents. Of the eight governors who sought renomination, the only loser was King and every member of Congress who sought renomination in the 12 primary states emerged victorious.
 In addition to Cannon, Sen. Robert Stafford, R-Vt., and Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., fought off challenges in Tuesday's primaries — Stafford from his political right, Zablocki from his left.
 Cannon's challenge also came from his right. Santini, the state's only congressman, was among the conservative Democrats who often supported President Reagan in House votes. He called Cannon a part of the congressional "old boy" network he blamed for the nation's economic problems. He also questioned how the 70-year-old Cannon became a millionaire during 24 years service in Congress.
 Cannon countered by criticizing Santini's backing of President Reagan's economic policies.
 In Wisconsin, a resolution calling for a mutual and verifiable "nuclear weapons moratorium and reduction" was winning approval by a margin of 565,882 to 180,504, with 91 percent of the vote counted.
 After initially indicating opposition to the Wisconsin resolution, the Reagan administration backed off and announced it would take no position because it considered the wording ambiguous.

It was the first statewide referendum on the nuclear freeze. Eight other states will have similar proposals on their ballots on Nov. 2.
 Primary election results from 12 states and the District of Columbia nearly completed the political lineup for the 1982 elections. Hawaii holds a primary on Saturday and New York next week. Runoffs are scheduled for Thursday in Oklahoma, Sept. 28 in Alabama and Oct. 5 in Florida.
 The Republican nominee against Dukakis in Massachusetts will be John Winthrop Sears, a former Boston city councilman.
 With 84 percent of the precincts counted, Dukakis had 521,190 votes and King had 452,919.
 In Vermont, Stafford, 69, a 10-year Senate veteran, defeated two conservatives who said he was spending more time traveling around the world than he was tending to state concerns.
 But the challenge fell short as the chairman of the Senate Environment and Public Works committee polled 45 percent of the vote to 34 percent for Stewart Ledbetter and 19 percent for John McLaughry, a former Reagan White House aide.
 In Wisconsin, Zablocki, the chairman of the House Foreign Affairs committee, defeated Lynn Adelman with unexpected ease.

Israeli troops move into West Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli troops moved into Moslem west Beirut early today, hours after a massive bomb killed Israeli-backed President-elect Bashir Gemayel and at least 26 senior aides, threatening to ignite a new round of sectarian bloodletting in this strife-torn nation.
 The troops entered west Beirut "to prevent fighting and secure peace," the Israeli military command said in Tel Aviv. It gave no details of the operation, but said no fighting was reported. Earlier at dawn, Israeli jets thundered over the capital, jolting residents awake.
 The military moves underlined Israeli concerns following the death of Gemayel on Tuesday.
 Besides the 27 known dead, a Lebanese government statement said at least 60 others were wounded in the blast that ripped through the east Beirut headquarters of Gemayel's rightist Phalange Party. The explosion collapsed the top two stories of the building into the first floor.
 No group claimed responsibility for the blast, which came nine days before the 34-year-old Maronite Christian leader was to take office.
 His corpse was dug out of the rubble nearly seven hours after the explosion at 4:10 p.m. 10 a.m. EDT, the government statement said.
 "The body was badly distorted," said a police spokesman who requested anonymity. He said party aides were only able to identify Gemayel because of his wedding ring.

 "This terrible crime that took the life of the president-elect is a link in the conspiracy against Lebanon that we have been working to end," Premier Shafik Wazzan told reporters earlier today, officially confirming the death. First reports had said Gemayel survived the tremendous blast.
 Wazzan, a Moslem, did not elaborate on the "conspiracy," but Lebanon has been torn by years of fighting between right-wing Christians and an alliance of Moslem leftists and Palestinian guerrillas.
 The premier announced seven days of national mourning. A statement from the presidential palace said the funeral would be held later today in the mountain village of Bikfaya, Gemayel's hometown.
 Gemayel promised close ties with the United States, reconciliation between Moslems and Christians and the eviction of all foreign forces from Lebanon.
 He had strongly supported Israel's June 6 invasion to rout Palestine Liberation Organization fighters from their west Beirut stronghold. The guerrillas were dispersed to eight Arab states two weeks ago under a U.S.-negotiated agreement. Gemayel reportedly was under heavy Israeli pressure to sign a peace treaty with the Jewish state.

 His violent death raised fears that Lebanon's population of 3 million, roughly split between Moslems and Christians, would plunge back into the civil war that ravaged the nation in 1975-76. His death also damaged Israel's hopes of making an early peace with Lebanon.
 Witnesses said earlier that Gemayel's body was found in rubble of the three-story party headquarters on Saissine Square in Christian-controlled east Beirut about five hours after the blast. The president-elect had been preparing to address 400 followers when the bomb exploded. Police said the bomb contained about 600 pounds of explosives.
 The witnesses said the body was identified by relatives who had frantically searched hospitals following initial reports that he survived the blast.
 Israeli troops and Christian militiamen with automatic weapons ringed the building to hold back crowds. Three Israeli tanks patrolled nearby.
 Wazzan made the official announcement of the death at 3 a.m. today, more than 11 hours after the explosion. He gave no reason for the delay.
 "With great pain I received this terrible news that has shaken all feelings and caused our souls to fill with sorrow and pain," Wazzan said.

Things quiet on Wall Street

NEW YORK (AP) — Things are quiet again down on "the street," Wall Street and LaSalle and State and Montgomery and all those other streets where brokers buy and sell the shares of American industry for whatever price they can get.
 It was probably time for a breather anyway, since the 16-day, 148-point gain in the Dow Jones industrial average into early September added more than $100 billion to the value of shares on the New York Stock Exchange.
 To be specific, at the end of August the value of all Big Board shares was $1,106,000,000,000 — that's one trillion, 106 billion — or $113 billion more than the $993 billion value of shares at the end of July.

 It takes time to count that kind of money, and time too to add up the many million dollars in commissions — a figure hard to estimate now that commissions are negotiated rather than fixed.
 It also takes a while to dream of yachts again, which brokers thought had sailed beyond the horizon of their hopes. And, as if anybody need be reminded, it takes time to spend that money.
 It is understandable then, relatively speaking, why you can hear a penny drop on Wall Street of late.
