

Falling ice chunk knocks hole in roof

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Authorities still are scratching their heads wondering how a shard of blue ice fell out of the clear blue sky, knocked a hole in Lucille Barthke's roof and shattered on her floor.

Federal Aviation Administration officials said the ice, which is 10 inches in diameter, could have originated on the underbelly of a high-flying jetliner and broke off as the plane descended.

The ice could be from a plane's lavoratory system, they say

Mrs. Barthke wishes it had been a meteor. "Why me?" she asked.

"For some reason I had looked up a few seconds before the thing hit and I noticed it falling toward the house," said Mrs. Barthke, who was planting flowers at the time

"It was distinguishable. When it crashed through my trees and into the roof. I sort of ducked because I thought it might be a meteor. It was frightening,"

That was Monday. Officials are still baffled. "It's strange enough as it is, but what if I hadn't been there when it hit? What if I had just come home and found this gigantic hole in my roof? How are you going to explain that?" she asked. "Very strange," said George Grant, the city's emergency managment office director. "Highly unusual," said National Weather Service meteorologist Bill Alexander.

FAA spokesman George Burlage said the agency is checking to see if any jetliner flying in the area developed a leak in its lavatory pumping system, which are sealed and emptied on the ground.

"Sometimes, however, there is a leak and escaping water freezes. Then, when the plane drops in altitude, the ice breaks off and falls.

It's time to make Christmas happy for some of our neighbors

By DEE DEE LARAMORE Lifestyles Editor

Donations for Christmas money to go to local foster children are sought by members of the Gray County Welfare Board and Celanese employees are gathering a fund to provide necessary items and gifts for area needy families,

"Each year the (Gray County Welfare Board) raises funds for foster children here," said the Rev. Gene Allen of Lamar Full Gospel Assembly of God Church. The welfare board provides $100 for each child to be used by the foster parents to buy clothing and shoes and other presents for Christmas. he said.

For the past five years, Celanese employees have formed a committee to collect donations of money, food and clothing for several needy families and elderly persons in Pampa, said Gil Solano, 1982 committee chairman.

Currently, 11 children from the Gray County area are in foster homes and institutions throughout the state. The children range in age from 18 months to 17 years old, Allen

Three to four families and "quite a few" elderly persons are helped each year by the Celanese committee, Solano said. With the money, food, toys and clothing donated, he said, six committee members provide necessary items, and gifts to persons found to qualify for the help through the committee's investigations.

Donations to the welfare board fund can be mailed to Allen at P.O. Box 1691, Pampa, or to Bob Carmichael at 600 N. Ward, Pampa. Or call either Allen or Carmichael and they will personally pick up the donation.

The seven - member Gray County Welfare Board is appointed by the state governor, with the approval of county commissioners. They are responsible for providing foster homes for children recommended for foster care by the Texas Department of Human Resources.

Merchants and individuals who wish to donate funds. clothing, food can call Solano at 665 - 1801, Ext. 4385 or at home at 665 - 6188. Discounts on items will also be accepted,

Inflation rate drops despite costlier fuel

By SALLY JACOBSEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Skyrocketing natural gas and home heating oil costs pushed wholesale prices up 0.6 percent in November, the government said today. The gain was up slightly from October's increase and meant that, for the year, inflation at the wholesale level is running at an annual rate of 3.7 percent. If the 11-month figure holds through December, the nation would have it smallest full-year wholesale price rise since

. 1976. Last year, wholesale prices rose 7 percent. In November, the beginning of the winter heating season in many parts of the country, the wholesale price index recorded the sharpest rises in home heating costs since the

Fuel oil costs rose 6.4 percent at wholesale, up from a rise of 1 percent in October and a decline of 1.6 percent the Natural gas prices were up 5 percent last month, a dramatic turnaround from a drop of 0.9 percent in October and a moderate gain of 2.7 percent in September. Not since February 1980 have natural gas prices risen so sharply in a single month. Indeed, the General Accounting Office said in a report released Thursday that retail natural gas customers are now paying more than twice what they did in 1978, when Congress began removing price controls. The report also said that in the last decade the producers' share of industry revenues has more than doubled, while the pipelines' share has fallen.

Gasoline costs also climbed in November, rising 1.1

percent after falling 1.3 percent in October and 0.9 percent in September. For the third straight month, food prices were down; falling 0.2 percent, the same as in October. Food prices had fallen 0.5 percent in September. Those declines reflect the

Besides the plentiful crops, economists have attributed the general slowing of prices this year to the persistent recession and a world oil surplus

Today's report said that for the 12 months ending in November, wholesale prices rose an unadjusted 3.7 percent.

In November alone, prices overall rose a seasonally adjusted 0.6 percent, compared with a 0.5 percent rise in October and a 0.1 percent drop in September.

If prices rose for 12 consecutive months at November's rate, the yearly rise would be 7.9 percent. In reporting its inflation figures, the Labor Department bases its compounded annual rate on a more precise calculation of monthly changes than the figure the department makes public for the one-month change

In all, the unadjusted Producer Price Index for finished goods, the official name for the wholesale price calculation, stood at 284.9 in November, meaning that goods costing $10 at wholesale in 1967 would have cost $28.49 last month.

The department gave this detailed breakdown of November wholesale price fluctuations:

-Energy prices overall rose 2.9 percent. If energy price changes had been excluded from the overall report, wholesale prices would have risen only 0.3 percent.

New computer is on the way

By LORI-ANN D'ANTONIO Staff Writer

In 60 days, the Gray County Appraisal District will have a new computer to help appraise property for ten taxing entities that it make up the district. The purchase of the computer was approved last week by the district's board of directors.

At the board's meeting last night, Chief Appraiser Charles Buzzard told the board he ordered the computer on Wednesday from NCR, Inc., and the computer would be here in no more than 60 days, possibly less.

The district paid five percent down, or about $2,300 on Wednesday and will pay for the rest of the $55,357 computer in stages, the first to be another $9,000 on or about January 1, Buzzard said. These would leave the district with a balance of $44,057 to pay.

When the computer arrives, information that is now fed into a computer outside the district will be processed in the district's Pampa office. The taxing entities that make up the district are the cities of Pampa, McLean and Lefors, the school districts of Pampa, McLean, Lefors, Alanreed, and Grandview - Hopkins, Gray County, and the local water district.

Buzzard said at the meeting that he hopes that by next summer, the district's new computer will be able to print tax statements (bills) for each entity as well as giving them accurate records of their appraised values.

He said all the property in Lefors and McLean has been appraised, and he and his staff are now working on outlying rural areas of Gray County. This appraisal will eliminate each city, school district and the county (for exapmle, McLean, McLean School District and Gray County) appraising the same piece of property three times, as was done in the past. Each entity taxing a particular piece of property will use the district's value, instead of coming up with three separate values, Buzzard said.

Other business conducted at the meeting dealt with the district's budget for the remainder of the year, and a the 1983 budget, which has been approved by the board and the ten taxing entities, according to Buzzard. The total budget for the year will be $300,000, he said.

The district will end 1982 with a small surplus of $2,000, Buzzard said, because a retirement plan for employees of the district will not take effect until Jan. 1, 1983 instead of Dec. 1,1982. Under the plan, seven percent of each employee's pay will be deducted from paychecks each month, and the district will contribute another seven percent out of the budget. The district has eight employees.

The $2,000 "surplus" will be added to the $7,000 already in the district's ;budget for the computer to make the 9,000 payment to NGR on or about January 1, Buzzard said.

According to a report Buzzard made at the meeting, the City of Pampa is about two months behind in its tax 🗓 payments to the district. He said the city was billed about September 1, and 3 the bill was due in October.

By LORI-ANN D'ANTONIO Staff Writer

At its regular monthly meeting Tuesday, the Gray County Airport Board discussed improvements planned for 1983 at the airport, according to Jack Hood, chairman of the airport board. Although there was no quorum and the board could not vote, they did discuss some improvements that might be made at the airport.

The improvements were included in the budget which was passed by the county commissioners last week, Hood said. Some of the improvements concerned replacing the present airport-to-aircraft contact radio. Hood said the radio currently in use is "an oldtube model," and the board intends toreplace it with a Unicom solid-state model

The board is also considering having some work done on the fence that circles the property. Hood said the fence is badly in need of repair.

Both the fence and the radio are planned in the budget, which means they will definitely be done, Hood said. One project being considered for next year is the recovering of the caretaker's house at the airport. Hood said the board is considering new sidingor a brick veneer for the house, wherecaretaker Floyd Hanson now lives.

"We've been trying to keep the house." in shape over the years," he said.

Warmer, shirt - sleeve weather to come might make for a good time at the lake. But remember, air temperature will go up - water temperature is on the way down, the superintendent said.

"The lake temperature is now 48 degrees and dropping People immersed in 40 to 45 - degree water for half an hour can drains heat from the body 20 times faster than air. An air temperature of 70 degrees feels warm. A water temperature of 70 degrees feels cold," he cautions.

To encourage safety while boating at the lake during these colder months, Higgins makes the following suggestions:

(1) Make sure a boat is in excellent mechanical condition

(2) Operate a boat safely. Avoid sharp turns or speeding.

Execution of an enigma

Former Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh. executed by firing squad in Tehran will probably remain a riddle to future historians.

On the world stage less than three years. Ghotbzadeh. 48 at the time of his death, was clearly the best educated, most Western and least parochial of the revolutionaries who brought the Ayatollah Khomeini to power in 1979.

And at first he seemed the perfect Khomeini disciple. Taking over as director general of Iran's broadcasting services after the revolution succedded earlay in 1979. Ghotbzadeh worked ot promote Khomeini's hard - line Islamic fundamentalism and faithfully mouthed Khomeini's hateful world

His reward came after the American Embassy seizure when he became foreign minister and the moderate in the middle of the hostage crisis which shook the world in 1980 and early - 1981.

Welll never know when Ghotbzadeh had his first doubts about Khomeini or the ruling Islamic Republican Party, but his star fell quickly in November 1981, when he was arrested after making a curious attack on Tehran television against the state broadcasting system. He must have known at the time he was signing his own death warrant, buy Ghotbzadeh warned viewers that Tehran's first channel (only two exist) had fallen into the hands of fascist and liars, that unauthorized persons were imposing their views on the nation.

Ghotbzadeh's political end was near. Last April he was arrested again this time charged with leading a plot to assassinate Khomeini and overthrow the government. The

No outsider will probably ever know Ghotbzadeh's thoughts as he underwent the trial and awaited

A few months later the Islamic Republic News Agency reported he had changed his pleadings to innocent on the assasination charge. guilty of the overthrow charge. Reality, however, might have been something else.

In the case of Ghotbzadeh, an epitaph that reads "he who lives by the sword, dies by sword" seems inappropriate. He was not one of Khomeini's killers and he had nothing to do with the bloody purges that followed the shah's flight in 1979

Anti - deterrence zealots

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Is it moral to refuse to attempt to deter a brutal totalitarian regime from couquering nations that want to preserve the cherished values of their civilization?

This is the question which should be put to the people who advocate unilateral nuclear disarmament on the part of Western countries. It should be put most strongly to those clergymen who are in the vanguard of the unilateral disarmament movement and who reject the West's policy of nuclear deterrence.

In Great Britain, a Church of England working party on "The church and the Bomb: Nuclear Weapons and the Christian Conscience" has come out against nuclear deterence. It has made common cause with the leftist Campaign For Nuclear Disarmament.

THOUGH I WALK THROUGH THE VALLEY OF THE SHADOW OF DEBT.
I WILL FEAR NO DEFICIT.
BECAUSE I'M THE BIGGEST

DEFICIT IN THE VALLEY.

This is not surprising for, as Ronald Butt explains in the London Times, 'two of the six members are pacifists.' One of them is described as "a left wing Quaker." The other is said by Mr. Butt to be a "very leftwing Anglican Leaving aside the composition of the Anglican group, however, one can see that the conclusion drawn is faulty. The Anglican group finds deterrence immoral because it could result in use of nuclear arms and the killing of non combatants.

There are other, more realistic voices within the Church of England. The Bishop of London, the Rt. Rev. Graham

Leonard, has said that keeping nuclear weapons is "morally acceptable." He said in a lecture that "the maintenance of a balance of power" is necessary for the preservation of peace

The anti - deterence, pro disarmament groups refuse to acknowledge that nuclear weapons in the hands of the West have maintained nuclear peace since 1945. No one with the slightest trace of realism could believe that the Soviets would scrap their nuclear weapons. They would regard Western disarmament as an invitation to aggression.

All wars are dreadful. Compare the conventional fire bombing of Dresden in World War II to the nuclear bombing of Hiroshima. War is hell, as Gen. Sherman said warfare of any kind?

Tyranny also is hell. Ask the Poles today. Consider that scores of millions of people have been killed in the Soviet Union and China. there has been a protracted holocaust inside the Soviet Union and the People's Republic of China, Vietnam, and Cambodia. Yet one rarely hears a learned cleric attack these regimes or condemn these terrors. as they condemn nuclear deterrence by the Western democracies.

The anti - deterrence clerics should be asked whether they would have urged disarmament in the face of Nazi totalitarianism. The threat to freedom and civilization is as great today as in

A new book called "The War Against The Atom" by Samuel McCracken is going to help a lot of Americans set aside irrational fears.

It reminds us that we are in much more danger from other kinds of accidents thatn from nuclear accidents.

The worst possible meltdown would kill about 3,300 people immediately and about 45,000 over a period of time.

But the much more likely collapse of a hydro - electric dam at the head of a heavily populated alley might kill five times that many!

People living on the boundary of a nuclear power plant are protected by law from any radiation in excess of five millirems a year. We are exposed to that much radiation from watching TV or a single cross - country airplane trip.

Throttling nuclear power development is forcing Americans to burn more coal; the mining and moving and using of coal kills 50,000 Americans every year.

WINTERSET, Iowa, - A scowl crosses the face of Rep. Thomas Harkin, D - Iowa, as he reads the strident letter which accuses him of telling "lies," "total lies" and "outright lies" to his constituents.

"Most voters in my district get down about this far," he says, pointing to the third of 10 separate references to his alleged dishonesty, "and they throw this thing away.

"This thing" is a letter distributed in a mass mailing to residents of Iowa's 5th Congressional District (which spans the predominantly rural southwestern quarter of the state) by the Mid -America Conservative Political Action Committee

"Harkin is lying," says the vitriolic document. "The voters in our district will.. be appalled when they learn how Harkin lied to them. Put a stop to Harkin's lies and remove him from Congress.

The letter is similar to uncounted millions flooding the mail in this election year as New Right political groups press their attack against politicians they have designated as 'ultra - liberal," unsupportive of "Christian values" or otherwise unsuitable to hold public office.

It is a sleazy practice which has unneccessarily degraded the political process and has been justifiably criticized by Republicans and Democrats, conservatives and liberals. In addition to debasing the democratic process, what do such campaigns achieve? One of their few notable accomplishments is to provide a lucrative business for their organizers.

When one Iowa newspaper, the Waterloo Courier, examined MACPAC's operations, it discovered that the organization raised more than $143,000 from the time of its formation in January, 1981, through the middle of

But only one congressional candidate received a direct contribution from MACPAC - and that $2,000 donation went to a Republican state senator in Illinois who appears on MACPAC's letterhead as one of the group's 12 directors and advisors.

Moreover, that money didn't do much to promote the conservative cause because the recipient was unceremoniously defeated in a primary contest early this year.

In addition, the Courier found that more than $22,000 of the organization's disbursements went to MACPAC Chairman Leroy D. Corey to reimburse him for his management and consulting services, travel expenses and assorted other costs he incurred. More than $6,000 in other expenditures was paid to three organizations - the American Liberty Asociation, Conservative List Exchange and Christian Voice Moral Government Fund - for the rental of -mailing lists, office expenses and business supplies.

Those three groups all share the same address - and it is identical to Corey's home address in Decatur Falls.

Corey claims that his organization is committed to defeating not only Harkin but also two other congressional candidates here in Iowa and assorted. other politicians in states stretching from Massachusetts to California.

But operational expenses and various self - dealing transactions consumed so much of MACPAC's fund that it had only slightly more than $1,750 in its treasury at mid - year, four months prior to election day.

"Leroy Corey and his group are highly overrated in this state." says a disdainful Harkin. "Their so - called power is a myth. They're little more han a nuisance.

He was the target of other right - wing 2 groups two years ago when a conservative political tide swept across the country and President Reagan carried Iowa by an overwhelming margin - but Harkin won reelection with 61 percent of the vote.

Harkin suggests that the shrill rhetoric of the extremist groups has virtually no impact in local races. where voters often are familiar with the candidates, but may have a great efect in statewide races where personal contact is less frequent.

Adds the congressman: "They've gone after me, they've leafleted.

Jaworski was Lyndon Johnson's lawyer in 1960 when several Republicans unsuccessfully filed suit trying to keep Johnson from running at the same time for the Senate and vice president with then presidential candidate John Kennedy.

And after Johnson became president, Jaworski served as counsel to the Warren Commission's investigation into the assassination of Kennedy.

He served on the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and other national and international comissions and panels, and was president of the American Bar Association.

In 1977, he accepted an offer from House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill to head an investigation into allegations of Korean influence-buying in Congress. WASHINGTON (AP) -Leon Jaworski's talents as a lawyer became known to the world after his successes as * Watergate special prosecutor - a job he initially believed might ruin him.

"For years I had been exhorting my fellow lawyers in a courtroom, though his not to shun unpopular cases. So I decided that as hard as the special prosecutor's job was going to be - and it could destroy me - I would always feel better if I took it rather than letting it go by,' Jaworski wrote in his book, "The Right and The Power."

A wealthy Texan, Jaworski was 68 years old in 1973 when he was chosen to replace Archibald Cox as special prosecutor. Cox had been fired two weeks earlier in Nixon's "Saturday Night massacre" after refusing a presidential order to drop his court battle for Oval Office chief of staff, who offered him tape recordings.

Jaworski later won the fight for the tapes and considered the victory the apex of his legal career. His arguments before the U.S. Supreme Court were his last career continued.

"You just don't argue another case after you've argued 'the United States versus Nixon' before the Supreme Court," he said.

Jaworski insisted before accepting the special prosecutor's job that the Watergate case be thoroughly investigated.

"I feel that every person criminally involved should be prosecuted. If I take this job, I'm going to work that way.' he told Gen. Alexander Haig, President Richard Nixon's the position

100th anniversary of the first electrically lighted theater

BOSTON (AP) - House lights in Boston's theater district will dim twice Saturday: once to call the audience to its seats and again in tribute to Thomas Alva Edison and the first century of electric lighting on the American stage.

On Dec. 11, 1882, Boston's Bijou Theatre opened for its first performance, Gilbert and Sullivan's "Iolanthe." But the main attraction was the 644 incandescent lamps inside, making the Bijou the first playhouse in America lighted exclusively with electricity.

"The Edison incandescent burners were a marked success," a reviewer wrote afterward in the Boston Advertiser, "affording a clean and steady light, easily manageable and of

In another ceremony, an actor portraying Edison was to place a plaque today on the outside wall of Boston's Opera House, which is next to the site of the old Bijou.

The theater site is now occupied by a parking lot and penny arcade.

Boston theater critic Eliot Norton, commissioned to research the history of the Bijou by Boston Edison Co., says Edison himself supervised the installation of the theater's electrical system, which took 11 days.

The electricity came from a power plant built down the street. Norton said legend has it that Edison, decked out in opening-night top hat and tails, rushed from the theater to help fire the power plant boiler when the Bijou's lights

Italian opera houses used candles in the 16th and 17th centuries, followed by the gaslit stages of the 19th century.

According to Norton, early theatrical experiments with electric light included arc lights at the Paris Opera of 1846 and some stage lights at theaters in San Francisco and Chicago in 1879.

The first all-electric theater was London's Savoy, which used the new tool in October 1881, one year before the Bijou introduced the innovation to the

UAW and automaker wrap up the final issues on new pacts

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. (AP) - United Auto Workers Monday. leaders expect easy ratification of proposed contracts with Chrysler Corp. that would give union members their first pay raise for a year and put striking Canadians back on the job before Christmas.

The two sides announced Thursday they had reached tentative agreement on an immediate pay raise and quarterly cost-of-living adjustments for UAW members in both

"I'm sure the membership will ratify it without any problem," said Ken Gerard, president of the Canadian UAW bargaining committee.

UAW President Douglas A. Fraser said he was optimistic that U.S. workers also would ratify their pact, which he said the union's Chrysler bargaining committee voted unanimously to recommend.

The two sides were meeting again today to work out a few remaining non-economic items, such as absenteeism penalties. But Fraser said he was optimistic there would be no

The Canadian ratification votes were slated for Saturday and Sunday and 10,000 strikers were expected back at plants countries.

"It's nice to know you're working again at Christmas time said Richard Cousins, a striking worker at the Windsor, Ontario, car assembly plant.

U.S. ratification votes will not be held until after U.S. local* union officials meet Saturday, Fraser said.

Neither Fraser nor the company would disclose details of the new contracts, but the Detroit Free Press today quoted a union official as saying U.S. workers will get 75 cents more an

The Toronto Globe and Mail reported, without identifying its sources, that Canadian workers would get a 75-cent hourly wage increase plus a 25-cent immediate boost in the cost-of-living allowance. There also would be a regular quarterly COLA adjustment, beginning with a 15-cent boost next week, the newspaper said.

UAW officials said Canadian workers wanted at least a $1-an-hour boost, and U.S. workers wanted at least 50 cents an hour. The union earlier this week rejected Chrysler's initial offer of a 30-cent immediate pay raise for workers in both

Social Security reformers begin final meeting in nation's capital

WASHINGTON (AP) - The National Commission on Social Security Reform is facing what may be its last hurrah, the goal of forging a rescue plan for the ailing retirement program apparently beyond its grasp

On the eve of today's final scheduled meeting, Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., chairman of the House aging committee, accused the White House and Republican leaders of letting the commission reach a stalemate.

Republican economist Alan Greenspan, the commission chairman, was working behind the scenes trying to muster a large majority of the 15-member panel to back a compromise plan of tax hikes and cuts in the growth of benefits.

The start of today's meeting was delayed from the morning until the afternoon to allow more time for backroom

But several members agreed the panel's work appeared dead in the water, and that it was likely to go no further than it did last month when the members informally agreed that: -Social Security faces a shortfall of $150 billion to $200 billion over the next seven years.

—The system's cost-of-living formula needs to be changed so that benefit hikes don't grow faster tgan workers' wages.

-It needs a fail-safe mechanism to reduce benefits or raise revenues in an emergency.

-Coverage should be required for new federal workers and all non-profit employees.

Pepper and four other liberal Democrats last month proposed speeding up the payroll tax hikes scheduled between now and 1990; offsetting that with a new income tax credit for workers: delaying the July 1983 cost-of-living hike by three months; extending coverage to new federal workers, and, if need be, slightly raising the payroll tax or reducing benefits in 2020 and beyond

Pepper, chairman of the House aging committee, complained that neither the White House nor Republican lawmakers on the panel have made any counter-offer.

"It would seem to be appropriate that somebody speaking for the administration in power should offer us a proposal." Pepper said in a telephone interview. "They're trying to throw the onus on the Democrats. They want to wait until we hold hearings (in the House next year), and they want to sit back and shoot at our proposal."

The panel is facing a Dec. 31 deadline to complete its report. Alexander B. Trowbridge, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, who suggested a compromise earlier this week involving a mix of payroll tax hikes, a six-month delay in the cost-of-living hike, and a one-year increase in the retirement age by the year 2010, said Thursday there was still an outside chance the panel could reach a compromise. "We haven't finished the month of December

Jury rules hospital not responsible for shooting spree

DALLAS (AP) - A Dallas psychiatric hospital could not have prevented a discharged patient from killing his mother during a shooting rampage in his El Paso home, a jury has ruled.

The family of Ronald Love, 24, had sued the Timberlawn Psychiatric Hospital for $2 million, claiming Timberlawn and its doctors were negligent in not preventing Love's April 1979

Timberlawn officials said their treatment of Love was at a standard accepted throughout the mental health profession. State District Judge Sid Fitzwater had instructed jurors that method and administered it properly, they could not find the doctors negligent merely because the treatment did not work.

The state district court panel, after nearly four days of deliberations, ruled in favor of the defendants. The jury began deliberating the case Monday morning and ruled in favor of the hospital at 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

The suit named as defendants the hospital, a psychiatrist, a psychologist and a psychiatric social worker. The Love family contended the defendants should have supervised Love more closely after his release from the hospital.

Seige over, the tear gas gone, monument reclaimed by tourists

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Washington Monument is reopening for tourists, its interior free of tear gas used during the siege of a nuclear protester who died threatening to detonate a bomb at its base.

The 555-foot-high white landmark, visited by upwards of 30,000 people a day, had been closed since Wednesday morning, when Norman D. Mayer drove a large van to its base and announced he was prepared to detonate 1,000 pounds of dynamite.

Almost 12 hours after he demanded "a national dialogue on the nuclear weapons question," the 66-year-old lone-wolf protester was mortally wounded by police gunfire.

Authorities said Thursday they found four wounds on Mayer's body but no dynamite in the overturned van about 100 yards from the monument.

The monument remained closed to visitors Thursday to allow the clearing out of tear gas fired inside by police. who thought an accomplice had taken refuge there as Mayer attempted to drive the van away.

A U.S. Park Police team inched its way up the monument's stairs for three hours but found the tall spire empty when it reached the top early Thursday. Authorities said Thursday that

Mayer died of a bullet wound to the head. They said the autopsy also showed that he was shot once in the face and twice in the right arm. Lynn H. Herring, chief of the park police, said his snipers had been given specific instructions.

"The truck was the target, not the man," Herring said. "You have to realize that a sniper, no matter how good he is, is operating in a night-time

My understanding is that the fatal blow was the result of a fragment of one of the shots fired.

He said snipers opened fire only because Mayer was moving the van.

"There was no doubt in anyone's mind that he was leaving the area." Herring Officials reasoned that it would be better for dynamite to explode at the cordoned-off monument grounds than elsewhere in the nation's capital. Kentucky state police say that Mayer attempted without success last May to buy a truckload of dynamite in Hazard,

Reagan spending time leading world

By EVANS WITT Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — What is Ronald Reagan up to these days with unemployment rising, the long-anticipated recovery still just an anticipation, and Congress getting testy?

Being a world leader, that's what.

that domestic problems are just unbelievably difficult to solve. Reagan has his economic program pretty much in place, but it hasn't yet produced the recovery he hoped. About all Reagan can do now is direct his troops to keep fighting in the trenches on Capitol Hill to cut social spending more and to protect defense outlays and the tax cuts.

Such in-fighting doesn't excite people much, doesn't have many political benefits and doesn't get the incumbent on the evening news doing positive, interesting things.

But international relations: now there is something that can make a president look very, well, very presidential.

And Reagan has been looking very presidential lately. He just got back from a trip to Brazil, Colombia and Costa Rica, where he was pictured with the leaders of other nations, denouncing drug traffickers, attacking communist-inspired guerrilla movements and handing out a $1.2 billion loan to tide

Some consumers are pushing weight around

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) - The popular view is that the consumer is still timid and searching for his lost confidence. But an examination of the evidence suggests instead that at least some consumers might be pushing their weight around.

Today, any consumer reluctance to part with a nickel is interpreted as cautiousness, timidity, insecurity, a view that could rest on the mistaken view that any American able to make a telephone call ought to be placing an order.

But rather than being listless and frightened, it seems that many potential buyers have chosen not to buy, and with just as much enthusiasm and vigor as they once chose to buy up a storm. An illustration:

During the 1970s, when prices were rising, many people advanced their buying schedules in order to avoid future high prices. Their behavior was described as robust, enthusiastic and confident.

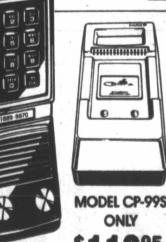

..During the 1980s, when some - albeit not many prices are falling, some people are delaying purchases so as to obtain future lower prices. Their behavior is called timid, cautious, and indicative of a lack of confidence.

'Little Detroit' fuels used-car boom

By Tom Tiede

FOREST CITY, N.C. (NEA) — Chrysler is reeling from the burdens of a strike, Ford and Chevrolet are trying to get rid of last year's models, and then there is John DeLorean. Despite the dilemmas, however, one does not have to look far to find a bright note in the automobile industry.

Only 600 miles, actually. That's the road distance from Detroit, Mich., the new car capital of the nation, where sales have been rocked by terrible times, to Forest City, N.C., the old car capital, where Buicks and Mercuries are still in demand, and where, in fact, the vehicular business has never been better.

Well, all right, the term capital may be stretching it a bit, and Lee Iacocca wouldn't be caught dead here in a LeBaron, but the town is still something of an industry phenomenon. It is a place where used cars are born again. It has been auto reconditioning.

Put another way, merchants in Forest City recycle jalopies. They buy old cars from other states for the purpose of repair. They rub out the rust, they smooth over the dents, they patch the upholstery, and add paint, then they sell them to what's become a growing line of customers.

There's nothing novel about the process, of course. It's done in every middlesex town and village in the land. Yet more of it may be done here, and in the environs, than anywhere else. One of every four adults in Forest City is said to be connected to the auto body trade.

Indeed, the town smells like lacquer spray, and it resounds with the ringing of hammers on metal. There are 81 auto repair shops list-83 used car dealers. The general estimate is that 3,000 cars are refurbished here each week, or 150,000 each year.

And the estimate is rising. Because the used car business is on a roll. Locals say that high prices have forced many Americans out of the new car market, and the alternative is the old car lot. Most new cars today sell for more than $7,500; reconditioned cars usually cost about half of that.

In fact, the used car business may be the best it's been since the years follow-ing World War II. And that's when Forest City got into the trade originally. Detroit could not manufacture enough cars to meet the postwar demand then, and so flivvers were used to fill the vacuum.

The story is that young men in Forest City were quick to see the potential profit. And one of them was an energetic pioneer named Terry Watkins. He began to buy used cars in Washington, D.C., which he recondi tioned himself; then he peddled them for profits of anywhere from $5 to $50.

Today Watkins has become a used car million aire. And he's not the only one here. Some of the richest men in town have grease under their nails, and they are happy to say why: The $5 to $50 profits of the '40s have grown some, dealers can now make $500 to $1,000 on secondhand-car sales.

Alas, they sometimes do it by cutting corners. That is, a few of them cheat. The federal government has accused several Forest City dealers of turning back the odometers on the cars they sell, and others cover up body damage with fiberglass and plastic rather than sheet metal and welding.

Customers have complained too about local dealers who paint over the rust on their cars. Or plug up serious oil leaks with temporary sealants. "There are coming out of this town."

There are also a lot of good and dependable vechicles coming from Little Detroit. And the merchants believe it's because the town is, in effect, a large used car assembly line. Most dealers do not repair the cars them-selves anymore; they farm them out to specialists who work in sequence.

There are specialists here who take care of seat covers or sunroofs, for example. And others work exclusively on window glass or electric wiring. There is even one fellow whose job it is to beautify blackwall tires; he has a portable machine that paints thin white stripes on the rubber.

Dealers say the special-ists are so good they have developed national reputa-tions. People now come here from coast to coast to look for old cars. And the residents believe that if the town really wanted to push, it could double the number of automobiles that it sells to the world. Not that many people in Little Detroit seem to want the growth. They claim that 150,000 cars a year is at least enough.

Dear Abby

Double-dealing fiance won't throw in his hand

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm nearly 30 and want to get married. I met Junior in 1972, got engaged in 1973 and set a wedding date, but five weeks before the wedding Junior canceled out. He said he wasn't ready. We went together for six more years and it was one excuse after another. We work for the same company but at different locations. Junior travels for the company. One day he came to see me and a front tooth was missing! (He said he walked into a door.)

Later, company records passed through my hands and I discovered his tooth had been knocked out by a girl named Gloria who works in his office. (They were playing ball.) I went to see her to find out what my competition looked like. She was a pretty, young widow.

I told her I was engaged to Junior, and she said so was she. She had a ring, but it wasn't as big as mine. They had been engaged for three years!

Gloria broke her engagement to Junior and so did I. Now he's been camping on my doorstep saying that he loves me and wants to marry me. He's begging me to set another date. He even cried. He's the only man I've ever loved. What should I do?

DEAR FOOL: If you want a husband who can't be trusted out of your sight, marry Junior.

DEAR ABBY: John (made-up name) is my husband of six years. I am John's second wife. He has a 25-year-old daughter who was married four years ago. I will call her Sue. Sue's marriage ended in divorce. At the time of her wedding, John wanted very much to walk his daughter down the aisle, but Sue did not allow him that pleasure. He was invited to attend as a guest and sat on the side-

Now Sue is getting married again. This wedding is going to be another biggie. Sue has informed her father that the reception she is planning will cost around $5,000 and John asked Sue, "Am I to have the pleasure of walking you down the aisle this time?" Sue replied, "If you pay for the reception, you will.'

John wants more than anything in the world to walk his daughter down the aisle so he has agreed to the deal. I think this kind of trade-off is the pits. How would you

JOHN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: What's to handle? If John is willing to pay for the pleasure of walking his daughter down the aisle, and she is willing to sell it, it's a fair exchange for both.

DEAR ABBY: This is the first time I've ever written to you, but after your column on the sexual abuse (rape) of a child, I had to write and tell you what it meant to me.

My 11-year-old daughter, who always reads "Dear Abby," came to me and said, "Daddy has been doing that to me and my brother every time you are gone." (He is their stepfather.)

I questioned my son, who is 6, and he said it was true. I nearly went into shock. I went straight to my husband and asked if what the children said was true, and he said, 'Yes, I couldn't help it - you are always sick.

I called the police and had him arrested, but he denied everything, including his confession to me! I can't understand it. He's walking around free on bail, and we are living in hell.

Please keep campaigning on this subject, Abby. I never dreamed it would happen in our family, but it did ARKANSAS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: There is no reason for you to be 'living in hell." If you feel that your husband is a threat to you and your children, take legal steps at once to ensure your protection.

Collection features women writers

By JUDYTH RIGLER

HER WORK: Stories by Texas Women, edited and with an Introduction by Lou Halsell Rodenberger (Bryan, Texas: Shearer Publishing Co., 335 pgs.).

In the late 1820s when Mary Austin Holley was writing TEXAS, the book which attracted hundreds of settlers to the new territory and resulted in her being named "Lady Ambassador for Texas," she must have felt some isolation from others of her gender, something like the exquisitely painful differentness the young Australian girl in "My Brillian Career" endured. "Scribblers," as the females who wrote verses and travel narratives were branded, were tolerated, even humored, so long as the writing did not interfere with their REAL responsibilities.

Were she alive today, Mary Austin Holley could only shake her head in wonder (and envy, probably) at the acceptance (relatively speaking, of course) of the woman writer and the impact she has made on the modern world.

A regional anthology of such writing is worthwhile, if for no other reason than its revelation in sheer numbers of those whose work evolved out of a given area — in this case, Texas. Thirty women are represented here, all still living and working, all calling Texas home for an important part of their lives, even though some have moved on.

The stories in this collection come from little magazines. other collections, and the few periodicals still publishing short fiction. A couple represent the debut of "unknowns" in the world of fiction. Indeed, the editor's choice of writers strikes a pleasant balance between veteran and rookie, household name

A decision to arrange stories in alphabetical order according to author names precluded any "stacking" tricks. Most of the pieces are fiction; a notable exception is Jo Brans' "A Divorce Made in Heaven," in which she reconstructs the dissolution of her marriage to writer Bill Porterfield with the affection, humor and insight gained through the perspective of time.

Among those representing the writer of fiction about "modern" women are Shelby Hearon, Beverly Lowry, Kathryn Marshall, Carolyn Osborn and Pat Carr. But equally provocative portrayals are seen in the more traditional Western woman character described by Elithe Hamilton Kirkland (author of "Love Is A Wild Assault"), Jane Gilmore Rushing and Melba Christopher.

Speaking of those women who were recognized for their writing by the mid - 1950s, Rodenberger says:

'Then as now, none of these professionals who cleared the way sought worn old trails beaten out by folklorists, historians, and naturalists — trails leading to the production of what often becomes labeled 'Texana'. They tracked no ghosts, but exercised choices that Texas spaces offer - the opportunity to reflect freely on life as they saw and felt it - as women, as residents of a region if it served their purpose, but most often as human beings demonstrating sensitivity to the puzzle that life is wherever their protagonists hang their

Although a few of the stories take place outside Texas, a Texas setting often contributes to the mood of the tales, reflecting regional attitudes and prejudices and lending an even tone to the collection. Dismissing the arguments of McMurtry and those like him who would have writers move away from the rural focus of the past, Rodenberger in her foreword defends the need for it:

"What is relevant ... to the Texas writer's environment is space - both external and internal - room to move around and space to think freely, should a body want to. Women writers have sensed that all along. Some have left Texas when they felt the need, feeling stultified perhaps by the commonly held notion that Texas writers are novelists of the cowboy or collectors of folk tales - both worthy pursuits, but only part of the Texas literary picture. But they retain ties if it serves their creative vision, and they continue to write of whatever life they know best in terms of what is significant about that life. Most have had no bones to pick, no adolescent rejection of home ties to rationalize, no prejudices to defend. Their business is to observe human life with a clear cool gaze and to interpret that life with grace and wit.'

Of the women represented here, almost half have published novels of national merit; others have produced collection of short fiction. There are also playwrights and poets among the contributors. HER WORK has little of the stridency associated with other women's anthologies; affectionate portraits of men, though far less numerous than the femal introspective pieces, establish an admirable balance.

"Character" would seem to be the single most important focus of these stories. HER WORK is filled with people worthy

It seems foolish to quote from any of the fine pieces offered in HER WORK, but perhaps one lifting will give a flavor of the whole - from Annette Sanford's "Living," the story of a long love and the feelings of a man when his partner in life dies

"If he could have caught a - hold of time. If every now and then he could have held it still with his thumb on its throat, just to feel it quiver, to watch that blue black vein fill up along its temple and see its heart jump scared and foolish beneath skin thin as any tree frog's. There'd be a sweetness in that. One melons couldn't give.

Lou Halsell Rodenberger, who lives in Bryan, teaches at Blinn College and writes on Southwestern life and literature. She and Shearer Publishing have done a fine job of bringing together HER WORK.

Toys with color, action, sound appeal most

By JOY STILLEY

AP Newsfeatures Writer NEW YORK (AP) - Gloria Caranica's job could be considered child's play.

She is a toy designer who delights in creating playthings that not only amuse and entertain, but are also educational and help children develop their physical and mental skills.

'A child learns from everything he touches, experiencing the things of the world. Everything is new to him," she said in an interview.

Ms. Caranica, who has a degree in industrial design from Pratt Institute, started out designing electrical appliances and, later, personal leather goods. Then, by chance she got into toy design. It "hit a spark." and 20 years later she's still full of enthusiasm.

"It was love at first sight. I new that was the area I wanted to stay in," said Ms. Caranica, 50, who is now manager of product design for Fisher-Price Toys in East Aurora, N.Y. "It's exciting to design interesting but simple and easyto-handle toys to attract and challenge the child.

THE PUZZLE PALACE. By James Bamford. Houghton Mifflin. 465 Pages. $16.95.

Some 20 miles south of Washington, inside Fort George G. Meade, is a city devoted to electronic eavesdropping - the headquarters-operations complex of the National Security According to author James Bamford, the NSA, and not the CIA, is America's most supersecret agency.

The NSA complex, dubbed the "Puzzle Palace," is surrounded by a 10-foot-high fence topped with barbed wire. Inside is another fence of high-voltage electrified wire, inside of which is yet another tall fence. In addition, armed guards are on patrol with attack dogs. In a remarkable job of research considering the secrecy involved, Bamford has taken the first book-length view of NSA's codebreaking and codemaking operations. He has produced an eye-opener.

Some of his information is based on documents obtained through the Freedom of Information Act. The NSA reportedly tried to get them back, claiming they were released in error and have been reclassified, but apparently no attempt was made to suppress the book.

Bamford traces the NSA's tangled origins and the interservice battles to control the agency, its mission of Signals Intelligence, (cryptologists defecting to Russia), and its controversial monitoring of communications of friend and foe alike.

Gena on Genealogy

By GENA WALLS

Pampans interested in genealogy are attempting to establish a genealogy section in Lovett Memorial Library. Do you have any material that you would like to donate to the library? Family newsletters, books, magazines, and similar publications would be appreciated. All material received will become the property of the library to be used for reference while in the library and can not be taken from the building. A "Donated by..." tag will be placed in each item and all contributions are tax deductible.

Pampa's library has a microfilm reader available; however, since President Reagan cut back federal spending, we can no longer get microfilm on interlibrary loan. Films can be purchased from the United States Archives or from the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormans) in Utah. These films usually cost $15 to $20 and take three to six weeks for delivery. The most important and most useful to the majority of people are the census films but remember other county records such as Will Books and

Where to Write for Vital Records: Births, Deaths, Marriages and Divorces" lists the vital records offices for each state, the fees required and instructions necessary to obtain certified copies of these records. If you plan to use the information to join an organization based on ancestors, a certified copy might be necessary; however, if you are compiling the family history for your personal information, a xerox copy might be enough and usually less expensive than certified copy. You should designate in your letter that you do not need the certification.

By Robert J. Wagman

WASHINGTON (NEA) A recent study of the banking industry says that many of the nation's largest banks are in the worst financial condition - and the news has sent shock waves throughout the banking community.

The study, conducted by The Holt Investment Advisory, an authoritative financial newsletter, says that while the banking industry itself is sound, the same cannot be said of individual banks. And it notes that the larger the bank, the worse its financial condition is likely to be.

In its research, the newsletter exhaustively examined the financial condition of the nation's 14,000 federally chartered banks. Instead of relying on data published in the banks' annual reports, Holt obtained the quarterly bankdata computer tape com-piled by the Federal Reserve and analyzed the information using comparisons far more complex than simple balance-sheet ratios.

Six key ratios were applied to each of the 14,000 banks: equity as a percent age of total assets; the percentage of loan portfolio made up of loans to commercial and industrial companies, foreign governments, and construction and land-development companies (the three categories in the most trouble today); the dollar amount of loans to foreign governments as a percentage of assets; and purchased liabilities as a percentage of total liabili-

Keith Jurow, an associate of newsletter publisher T.J. Holt, would not reveal the weight given to each ratio. However, he noted that "the biggest weight was given the equity-to-assets ratio.

The Holt team found that the system as a whole is sound, since "most commercial banks are enjoying good current earnings" and "the bulk of their loans have short maturities and carry market-sensitive interest

But the most surprising finding of the Holt study was that, in general, the larger the bank, the worse its financial condition.

Holt has refined the data to lists of the "100 best" and '100 worst" banks in terms of financial condition. Of those that Holt considers worst, 57 have assets of more than $1 billion. Of the 100 considered best, only 21 have assets of more than $300 million.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - A federal appeals court has thrown out a student assignment plan for Denison elementary schools, saying a federal judge was mistaken in deciding that it does not matter whether a school board tried to impose racial segregation.

The plan ordered Denison's primary schools to be rearranged so that the percentage of blacks enrolled at any one school would not be less than 6 nor more than 17

Don Bluth sees future of animation

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) -A few years ago, I went to a small animated film studio to watch while a handful of artists began putting together an animated motion picture. The man in charge said he thought maybe the future of animated films hinged on the success or failure of that venture.

Fade out. Fade in, the same studio today. The picture was finished and came out. Maybe you saw it. It was called "The Secret of NIMH" and a lot of people saw it and liked it. The man in charge — his name is Don Bluth — still thinks perhaps the future of animated films hinges on his efforts.

"Now that 'NIMH' has been out a while," Bluth says, "I have two feelings

"First. I think it was a very good picture. It had a lot of critical acclaim. We had a lot of good letters from people who saw it, par-ents who thanked us for making a picture they could take their children to see.

"But, on the other hand, I feel the ads went awry. And there was not enough promotion. MGM/United Artists did no promotion even though they have all the merchandising rights.'

Despite that, he says, the picture will make money. And he hopes MGM/UA, who have the rights to the picture for 15 years, will bring it back, but this time with more promotion and a advertising better campaign

Bluth is a little - maybe a lot — disappointed in some aspects of MGM/UA's "The Secret of NIMH" is doing very well in Europe, and, over there, the album of music from it is a big seller too. But that album hasn't even been released here. "I'm not sure," Bluth says, "whether that was just short-sighted on their part, or whether there may be some mischief under it all." Still, Bluth figures the critical success of the picture, and its moderate financial success, is enough to warrant future animated films. And, in fact, he and his company are going ahead — full drawing

They are starting two new animated features and they hope to begin a program of overlapping — when the first one is about halfway finished, they will begin the second, so there will be one refeased about every six months The first one to begin production will be called "East of the Sun, West of the Moon.

new and larger quarters.
"I think," Bluth says, "that once we have created a demand for animated features, other companies will go into it too. We may need to make one or two more, before that demand is there, but I am very optimistic that we will create it sooner or later." Bluth's plans for the future are very big. Among other grand ideas he and his colleagues have is for an animated trilogy, a musical in the "Fantasia" mold. And they are also contemplating a combination action/animation film.

The wonder of the present

By George R. Plagenz

travel by private bus.

Bad times - and these are bad times - wouldn't seem so terrible if we knew things were going to get better soon. But in the present recession nobody will tell us that with any assurance. Not every economist is as pessimistic as the one who said recently, "Some unemployed people in their 50s may never work again." But even those who can muster some optimism about the future are hedging their bets on when we can expect a recovery.

If, however, we can for the moment keep from thinking of the uncertain - even bleak - future, we may be able to find something in the present for which to be thankful.

In her book, "Gift from the Sea," written shortly after the end of World War II, Anne Morrow Lindbergh says, "Since the war, Europe has been forced into a new appreciation of

The good past is so far away and the future so perilous that the present has a chance to expand into a glorious eter-

"Europeans are enjoying the present moment even if it means merely a walk in the country on Sunday or sipping a cup of black coffee at a sidewalk cafe.

The present moment is God's greatest gift to us. If we miss the wonder and enjoyment of it, a certain luminous quality will be absent from our lives, something that abundance, success or achievement of our goals cannot bring.

Happiness comes from an appreciation and a savoring of moments in our life which we can later recall with pleasure. Here is poet Kenneth Rexroth re-living such a moment in his past:

I enter the ring of firelight, bringing you A string of trout for our dinner As we eat by the whispering lake, I say, "Many years from now we will Remember this night and talk of it. Many years have gone by since then, and Many years again. I remember That night as though it was last night.

We are most truly thankful when we have such moments in our lives to remember, moments which come to life "as though it was last night" that we experienced them.

Most of us have had more than our share of the good things which have been passed around in this world. We are thankful for them but yet we have to admit they have not brought us the happiness we seek. This is often because we live such problem-oriented, future-oriented lives. Our preoccupation with our troubles and our fretful concern over the future - what we will be doing an hour or a week or a month from now - keeps us from enjoying the present moment and from "the recollection in tranquility" of the magic moments in our past.

Still it is true that trouble and worry lose their hold on us and on our attention in the measure that we experience the miracle of the present moment or can recall from our vesterdays those moments that have the quality of a "golden eternity" about them.

I think of those who have loved me, Of all the mountains I have climbed Of all the seas I have swum in. The evil of the world sinks. My own sin and trouble fall away Like Christian's burden...

True thanksgiving includes gratitude for a moment at the breakfast table with a pot of coffee, corn muffins and marmalade or "a walk in the country on Sunday" as much as for good fortune, good health and a bountiful table on

DENVER (AP) - The leader of Reform Judaism urges American Jews "to affirm our own identity, integrity and value as Jews" independent of the state of Israel, but at the same time to "deepen our solidarity" with the Jewish state.

Rabbi Alexander M. Schindler, president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, told its board of directors that many American Jews have been "plugged into Israel as if it were a kidney machine, a scientific marvel that keeps them

'Calling for a "restoration of some balance," he said "we will not survive if all we are about is Israel. And Israel will not survive if the Jews of the world become pale, peripheral extensions of its essence."

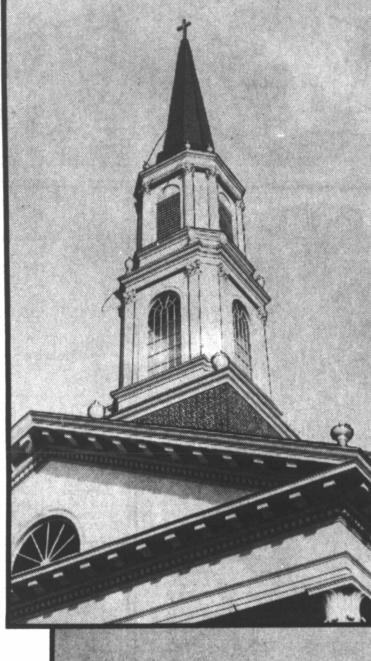

He said there is a "greater Israel which sustained our Jewishness throughout the many centuries of the dispersion" and which "we must also nuture if we are to survive."

Meanwhile in New York, Rabbi Gilbert Klaperman, president of the Rabbinical Council of America, representing Orthodox Judaism, urged Jews to stand by Israel which, he said, is being vilified by "anti-Israel propagandists."

NEW YORK (AP) — A new X-rated video arcade game was condemned by the Episcopal Church's executive council as prurient, lascivious and pornographic." Local churches were urged to work to prevent its sale.

The council heard a report that the game, called "Custer's Revenge," in whic naked male figure ravishes an Indian woman figure, is to be marketed by American Multiple Industries of Northridge, Calif., as the first of a number of X-rated games that may find their way into arcades across the

Pointer To Heaven

Did you ever stop to wonder why so many churches have steeples? The answer is simple — a steeple has meaning - it is a finger pointing to Heaven. The steeple is the architect's way of showing what is important about life, and that is life's relation to God. The steeple also symbolizes the role of the Church as showing men the way to eternal life. Eternal life is not just an extra tacked on to the end of life, but those who know God, and thereby really know themselves aright, share now in the eternal, or heavenly, kind of life, for theirs is the Kingdom of God. If you would live, look for the nearest steeple, and go there to find the meaning of life.

WARSAW, Poland (AP) - Despite official reports of improved industrial production, Poland's economy has shown few signs of recovery one year after the imposition of martial law.

Economic stagnation, except for increased coal production, is in fact seen by some Western observers as a major factor in the political decision to lift or suspend martial law, possibly by the end of this month.

"Poland's economy is very much Western-oriented," a Polish journalist who specializes in economic matters said. "It needs new Western credits and spare parts. That is one reason for lifting martial law."

Communist Party leaders and government officials have said repeatedly that Western economic credit sanctions imposed after the crackdown began Dec. 13, 1981, will be overcome through greater assistance from the Soviet Union.

Their claim that Poland will solve its economic crisis, with or without Western help, is based on new projections that the country will suffer only a 1 percent to 2 percent decline in production this year. A 14 percent drop had been predicted last December.

"But the situation really wasn't much better this year than last," one Western economic observer said. "The industries still aren't producing enough consumer goods, supplies in the stores are shrinking, there is too much money in circulation and the post-December 1981 reforms haven't begun to work."

Officials battling to institute self-financing and self-management, a means of decentralizing the economy, note that martial law has already had positive results in production figures for most industries.

Coal mining, the lifeblood of the economy and a major generator of the hard currency income needed to help other industries, has climbed from a disastrous 163 million tons in 1981 to an estimated 190 million tons this year.

Both Polish and Western analysts say this increase, attributed to the reinstitution of the Saturday workday, has raised sagging figures in other industries and allowed Poland to project a minimum decline in overall production this year.

Western diplomats discount the increase, noting that despite the rise in coal production, improvement per man-hour has lagged.

"There's been no real change over last year," one Western diplomat commented. "This is an astounding fact when you take such a key industry as coal production and listen to the authorities blame strikes last year for the 1981 figures.

"In fact, when you look at man-hours, production could probably be lower," the diplomat said. "Surely, there is no sector in the economy that shows a real improvement ... in production per is central to the debate over martial law's impact on the economy.

State officials say that "militarization." or enforcing strict work discipline in mines, ports and many factories was responsible for "peaceful work" and improved

Some Western diplomats, however, argued that martial law had a negative effect on the economy because, as one said, "It clearly can bring no improvement, or solutions to any of the problems that were the root of last year's unrest."

Although there have been improvements in food availability, prices are now 300 percent to 400 percent higher than a year ago, and many of the conditions that sparked labor unrest and led to the creation of Solidarity still exist.

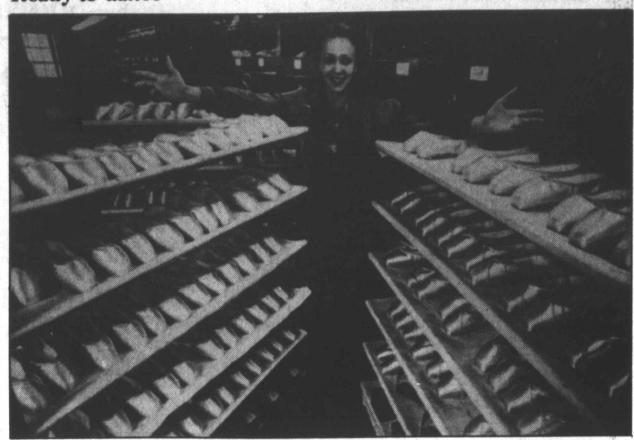

Meat is still in short supply, rationed at 5.5 pounds per month for every man, women and child. Other items, such as gasoline and shoes, have recently been added to the ration list

Food stores, though brimming with macaroni, canned goods and other products that were unavailable last year, have a limited selection.

"It is better now, if having something to buy is better than nothing," one Polish housewife grumbled. "Last year we had shelves loaded with jars of pickles. This year, we have ten kinds of compote, cake mix and - pickles."

Consumer goods are still difficult to

Timber products important export

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Timber products, ranging from hardwoods selected from small farm woodlots to huge logs of Douglas fir cut from vast Western forests, are becoming increasingly important as U.S. exports.

In all, the total value of timber products exported last year was about $7.9 billion, says the Agriculture Department.

Japan is the leading export market for softwood logs and lumber, pulp chips, wood pulp, and paper and board products. Western Europe is a leading market for wood pulp, paper and board products, and smaller amounts of lumber and plywood.

The USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service says that exports of solid wood products alone are worth about $3 billion a year to the forest industry. And sales are expected to at least double by the end of the decade.

Fifteen trade associations representing forest products are participating in foreign market development projects, according to an article in the current issue of Foreign Agriculture, a monthly magazine published by the agency.

Last year, it said, the largest share of solid wood exports was comprised of softwood logs - more than $1 billion in value. The remaining $2 billion consisted mostly of softwood lumber and plywood, hardwood logs and lumber, and veneer.

Japan took $1.28 billion worth of solid wood products in 1981, including $823 million worth of softwood logs.

There is potential for increasing the U.S. share of the $25 billion Japanese market for wood products, particularly the processed products - lumber, plywood, veneer and particle board,' the report said.

But before this can be done, some "significant trade barriers" must be

Jim Vanderbilt of Amarillo said he thought Brook's execution would open the gate for others.

"I believe that a couple will be executed soon," said Vanderbilt, a former policeman convicted of killing the daughter of a former state representative.

Some of the inmates most concerned - such as James Autry, who is scheduled to die next week - refused to talk to reporters.

Autry, 28, has been ordered to die Dec. 17 for his capital murder conviction in the April 1980 death of a Port Arthur convenience store clerk. Autry's attorney, Charles

Carver, said he will ask a federal court in the Eastern District of Texas, possibly on Friday, to stay the execution on grounds that a potential defense witness was 'not offered immunity for his testimony Autry's conviction was

Pampa wins thriller on Nelson's shot

LAWTON (Okla.)-Mike Nelson's turnaround jumper with 0:22 left in the game gave the Pampa Harvesters a 42-41 win over Dallas W.T. White in a . of the second quarter, but Dallas knotted the score first-round thriller Thursday night in the Bi-State at halftime at 22-all.

Pampa, now 5-2 overall, will meet Wichita Falls Hirshi at 7 p.m. tonight in the winner's bracket.

The lead changed hands four times in the final three minutes before Nelson hit the winning shot. Robert Clark's desperation 15-footer for Dallas was off the mark with two seconds to go to give the Harvesters the victory over the Class 5A club

The score was tied six times in the first quarter before Pampa broke on top, 14-12. Pampa led most Nelson gave Pampa its biggest lead at eight (36-28) when he hit two foul shots with less than a minute left in the third quarter. But Dallas battled back and went ahead (39-38) at the 3:00 mark in the final period on Jeff Lucas' basket. With Dallas ahead, 41-40, both Nelson and Pampa forward Phil Jeffrey missed foul shots with 0:53 to go. However, Clark lost the ball out of bounds with 0:39 remaining to give the ball back to Pampa for the winning shot.

Pampa enjoyed a good shooting night, hitting 19 of 33 attempts for 57.5 percent. Dallas downed a cold 36.2 percent (17-52) from the floor.

Nelson, who is averaging 25 points per game, was held to only a field goal the first half, but he hit six of nine attempts from the floor after intermission to Jeffrey, a 6-6 senior, scoring from in close added 12 points for the Harvesters. Coyle Winborn and Terry Ferguson had six points each while Paul Prentice had two.

Clark paced the losers with 17 points.

HONOLULU (AP) - Major shortstop Julio Franco, league baseball teams started the final day of their annual winter meetings headed for a record low in trades, despite a flurry of activity that saw Philadelphia trade away Manny Trillo and the New York Yankees sign free agent Steve Kemp.

A total of 11 trades were made during the 1979 meetings in Toronto. This year, though, only five deals had been made through Thursday.

The day's activity began when the Yankees announced the signing of Kemp to a reported $5.5-million, plus incentives, contract. That move triggered the few trades that were made. The Phillies put together a 5-for-1 deal with the Cleveland Indians that, in addition to Trillo, included highly regarded rookie amount of cash to Toronto for right-handed reliever Dale Murray and outfielder-catcher Tom Dodd.

Perryton boys, Panhandle girls win tourney games

SANFORD-FRITCH-Perryton coasted to a 62-37 win over Panhandle in the first round of the Sanford-Fritch Basketball Tournament Thursday night

Lane Schollenbarger and Damon Palmer led Perryton with 12 points apiece. Jody Wood and Todd Lamberson had nine and eight points respectively for Panhandle. The Rangers led at halftime, 38-16.

In the girls' division, Panhandle held off a Perryton comeback for a 49-46 win.

Perryton closed the gap in the fourth quarter after trailing by 17 at halftime.

Alison Kotara, a 5-7 senior, led the winners with 17 points while Karen Strawn added 13.

Stacy Blasingame led Perryton with 16 points and Lacrecia Schickedanz had 12.

Eagles seek revenge against Giants tied with five other teams in

AP Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Eagles, virtually out of the National Football Conference playoff race, will be looking for revenge Saturday when they visit the team that started their downfall - the New York Giants

The Eagles, 1-4 this year, were 9-2 last season when the Giants beat them 20-10. administering a physical beating from which the Eagles haven't recovered. They are 2-9 since, including (2-3) another loss to the Giants in the playoffs. In the other game, the San Diego Chargers are at San Francisco

The game between the Chargers, 3-2 and the 49ers, 2-3 will include a personal duel between San Francisco's Joe Montana and San Diego's Dan Fouts. Montana, without a running attack, will be seeking his fifth straight 300-yard passing game, which would break a record he shares with Fouts.

In Sunday games, Pittsburgh (4-1) is at Buffalo (3-2); Washington (4-1) at St. Louis (3-2); Miami (4-1) at New England (2-3); the Los Angeles Raiders (4-1) at Kansas City (1-4); Tampa Bay (2-3) at the New York Jets (4-1); New Orleans (3-2) at Atlanta (3-2); Chicago (2-3) at Seattle (2-3); Denver (1-4) at the Los Angeles Rams (1-4); Detroit (2-3) at Green Bay (4-1); Cleveland (2-3) at Cincinnati (4-1), and Baltimore (0-5) at Minnesota

The Dallas Cowboys (4-1) are at Houston (1-4) on

The Giants, 2-3, have won their last two games and are the race for an NFC playoff spot. The Eagles, in the Super Bowl two years ago, are 0-3 since the strike ended. After their 23-20 loss to St. Louis last week, owner Leonard Tose stormed into the locker room and suggested the team vote to go back on strike.

The major problem is the Eagle defense, last in the NFC and last against the rush. "I think all we really need is a win," says Vermeil.

To exploit that defense, The Giants will depend on the backfield tandem of rookie Butch Woolfolk and newly-signed Rob Carpenter, who rushed for 161 yards in the playoff game against the Eagles last year. Woolfolk rushed for 62 yards last Sunday and caught six passes for 102 yards, including a spinning one-hander for the 40-yard touchdown that beat Houston 17-14.

Bill Ring will replace Earl Cooper at fullback for the 49ers, who have the odd distinction of leading the NFC in total offense with a rushing attack that's dead last - of their 1,864 total yards, only 329 are on the ground.

"We're missing the big plays running the ball," says

Coach Bill Walsh San Diego, second in the AFC in offense, is also pass-oriented, although Chuck Muncie and James Brooks make their attack better balanced. Fouts has thrown for 1,427 yards in five

at state meet

Jody Denman of the Pampa Dust Devils placed seventh in all-around at the Class 4 State Gymnastics Championship held last weekend in Houston.

Miss Denman, competing in the 12-14 age division, had her chances spoiled for winning the title when she fell from the bars. Miss Denman was in second place in the standings when the mishap occurred.

"I think it shows what kind of gymnast Jody is after taking a fall and still placing in all-around," Coach Fred Hughes said.

Miss Denman placed second in beam and fourth in vault.

Laura Gilbert of Pampa placed 15th in all-around competition.

There were 120 gymnasts from across the state entered in the meet.

Bullets end Nuggets' 100-point streak

Washington Coach Gene Shue promised his players steak dinners if they held Denver, the National Basketball Association's highest-scoring team, to fewer than 100 points.

Shue will have to live up to his halftime promise as the Bullets became the first team in nearly two years to accomplish the feat, stopping Denver 98-90 Thursday night.

The only other NBA game saw

Portland defeat Golden State 107-97. The Nuggets had scored at least 100 points in the previous 136 games — a league record — following a 98-97 loss to Houston on Jan. 18, 1981. But their problem Thursday night was hitting only 37 of 87 shots from the floor.

"Ever since Gene has been here, the College Basketball Roundup emphasis has been on defense," said Washington forward Greg Ballard, who had 16 points. "Being the team to break the streak gives us a great deal of satisfaction because we work on our defense so hard."

Washington's 59-41 halftime lead and chance at snapping the Denver streak seemed to fade in the third quarter. when the Nuggets outscored the Bullets, 36-16, to take a 77-75 lead. Dan Issel's 14 points led a 22-4 spurt at the end of the period to erase Washington's 71-55 lead.

"When we came out in the third quarter, we had no intensity," noted Shue. "They (the Nuggets) were due to

The Bullets, 10-10, then played solid defense in the final period, limiting Denver to 13 points while pulling away Jeff Ruland's three-point play with 11:09 remaining gave Washington the lead for good, 80-79, and consecutive baskets by Don Collins and Ruland ;who had a team-high of 23 - gave the Bullets an 88-83 advantage. Denver, which dropped to 8-12, could not cut the gap below three points the rest of the

"We went back to doing the things we did in the first quarter," said Ballard. "Aggressive defense and a lot of hustle.

No one in the Denver locker room appreared to be too concerned over the ending of the streak. Issel, who led his team along with Alex English with 24 points, said, "The streak doesn't mean anything to me, and I doubt it means anything to anyone here."

Freshman leads Notre Dame to victory

By The Associated Press Digger Phelps feels he must get in his

The Notre Dame basketball coach gave 6-foot-9 freshman Tim Kempton a pep talk after Tuesday night's loss to Indiana. Kempton responded with a career-high 26 points in leading the Irish to a 92-70 victory over Fairfield

Thursday night at South Bend, Ind. "I liked getting on him," said Phelps, whose young club raised its record to 3-3 in dealing Fairfield its first loss in five starts. "That's what I like to do. He really takes it well and responds. He's tough and he's going to be a good player." Notre Dame led 37-30 at halftime when Kempton had 15 of his points.

"We did a good job of getting the ball inside to Kempton and (Ken) Barlow," said Phelps. "I think they were 12 for 14 in the first half. That's the type of team we want to be.

The Irish got 16 points from John Paxson, 15 from Barlow and 11 from Bill Varner, while freshmen Tony George led Fairfield with 20 points.

In the only college basketball game involving the Top Twenty, No. 19 Nevada-Las Vegas beat Nevada-Reno 85-75. Sidney Green scored 23 points and grabbed 18 rebounds for the winning Rebels, while freshman Eldridge Hudson added 16 points and 15 rebounds and Eric Booker scored 15 points and had 11 rebounds.

Northwestern ran its record to 5-0 behind Art Aaron's 29 points — 12 of 17 from the field - in a 75-58 thumping of Northern Illinois, 1-2, which was led by Tom Dillon's 19 points.

Baylor, 6-0 and off to its best start since 1945, defeated Texas-Arlington 74-65 as David Glover hit 19 points and Daryl Baucham added 18. Danny Johnson's 23 points led the 4-3 Mavericks.

California-Irvine, 4-0, beat Loyola of Los Angeles 85-73 behind 17 points apiece from Tod Murphy and Jud Beardsley. Loyola, which got 20 points from Forrest McKenzie, fell to 1-3.

Willie Scott scored 15 points in pacing Bradley (2-2) to a 67-47 triumph over St. Louis (2-4). Scott also led the Bradley defense which forced the Billikens into 21 turnovers.

Tulane scored the game's first 20 points, shot 68 percent from the field and 16 for 16 from the free throw line to clobber Nicholls State 104-48. The Green Wave got 20 points from Paul Thompson and 17 from John Williams in raising its record to 3-3. Nicholls State is 1-1

Connecticut, 3-2, behind Norman Bailey's 21 points and Karl Hobbs' 20, handed winless Massachusetts its third straight setback, 86-74. Donald Russell. 21 points, and Joseph Hempel, 20, paced the Minutemen.

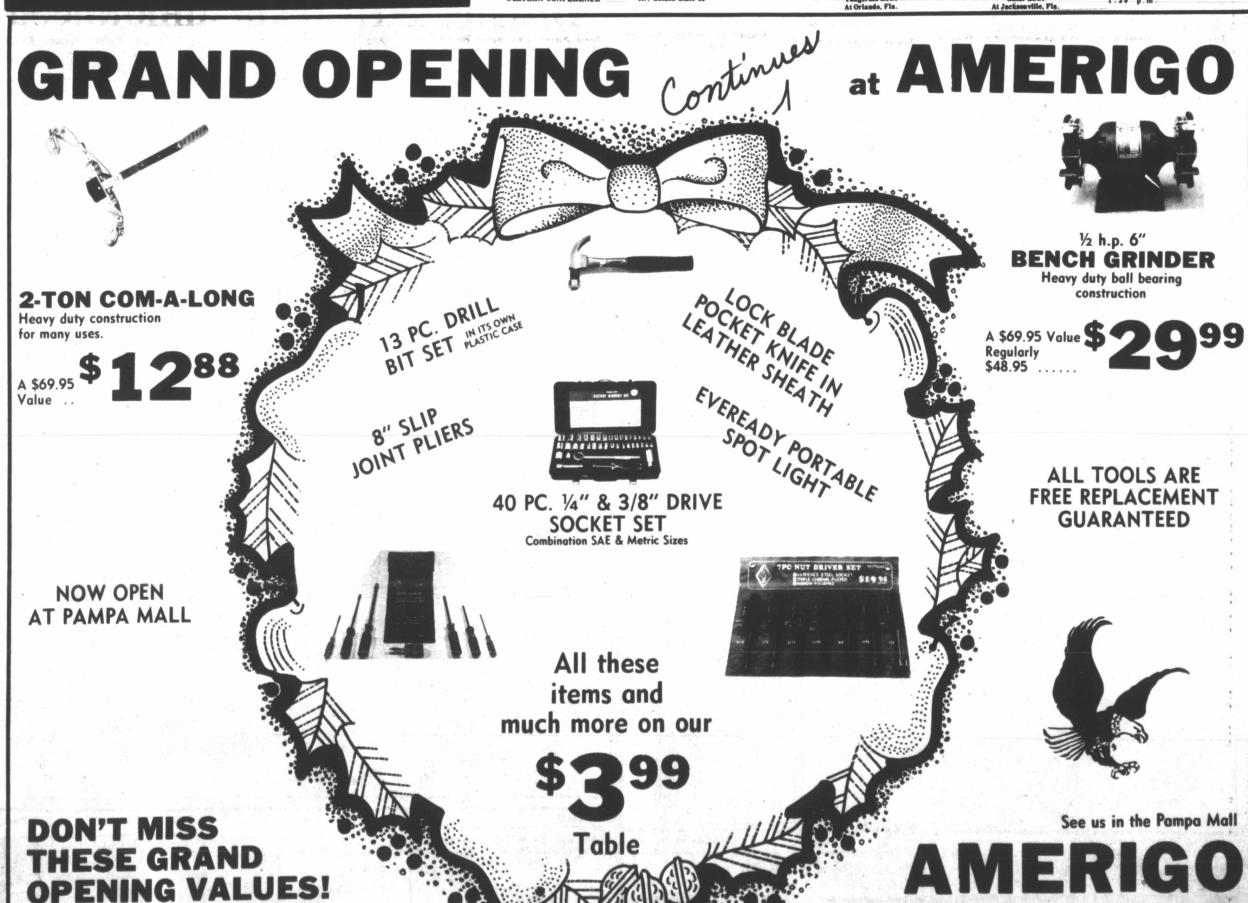

In West Coast games, Southern California got 18 points from senior guard Jacque Hill and downed San Jose State 72-54, Washington beat Pacific 70-53, and San Diego State beat San NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - It took a Christmas reunion three years ago to persuade Tompall and the Glaser Brothers to get back together as one of the dominant singing groups in country music.

The award-winning trio, which had been together for about 20 years, broke up in 1973 to pursue separate careers. At the time, it was the end of the harmonizing music which had earned the brothers the Record World Magazine's accolade of country music group of the decade for the 1960s.

The breakup terminated a steady stream of Grammy nominations (they were finalists eight times). The Country Music Association, which named them vocal group of the year in 1970, would have to look elsewhere.

"We all went home for Christmas in 1979." Jim Glaser recalled about events leading up to their recording reunion. "It was the first time we had all been together (since the breakup).

But, he said, "A comeback is at least as hard as just starting."

Perhaps it was the spirit of the season, but for whatever reason, the three found they could still make good music together.

"Chuck (Glaser) found us a song ('Maria Consuela') which we recorded," he said. "And we found that record labels were interested in us." So the Glasers, who began singing together in the mid-1950s, are back and picking up where they left off. In the summer of 1981, their redo of the Kris Kristofferon song, "Lovin' Her Was Easier (Than Anything I'll Ever Do Again)," reached No. 2 on the country music charts. This year they were a finalist for the CMA's vocal group of the year, losing the honor to Alabama. They also have country music trade press.

Their current album is appropriately called, "After All These Years." It is a varied selection of material with touches of folk and Latin balladry and backing from their own road

The three were raised on the family farm in Spaulding, Neb. Under the guidance of their father, a guitarist, they first performed at fairs. Their first national exposure came when they appeared on the Arthur Godfrey Talent Scout" television show in 1957.

In 1976, the 49-year-old Tompall collaborated with Waylon Jennings, Willie Nelson and Jessi Colter on the album, "Wanted! The Outlaws," which sold more than 2 million copies.

In 1969, the brothers opened a recording studio, which rapidly became a haven for some of the brightest young talent in Nashville.

BOOK OF HAPPINESS COUPONS

LAURA MALONE's mother, MRS. JOAN MALONE, adds the finishing touches to her lovely daughter's bridal veil. Her own bridal veil was used to trim Laura's traditional

Once they get through the ceremony and get all the thank-you notes out of the way. Chris Rich and Nancy Frangione has some down to earth plans for the couple's future. "I'm looking for a nice big ranch where we can raise sheep and have babies. I'm toying with the idea of giving up performing for a couple of years after we get married so Nan and I can have some restful vears in the beginning. Fans of "Another World may not want to see Sandy and Cecile leave the serial | for the quiet respite Chris has planned

Now that the wedding is over and the guests have all gone home, LAURA MALONE (Blaine) has begun the most dreaded chore of all new brides: THANK YOU NOTES ... What to say and how to say it for a gift that is the wrong size or the wrong color is a problem shared by brides everywhere. Laura tells us that she was lucky in that she truly loved everything she and Val were given. 'When I can steal a moment, I love just looking around at all the silver and crystal, but I must admit I'm not used to it being there yet." Her favorite gift came from the crew of ANOTHER WORLD, a Reid Barton silver bowl. "They are truly special guys." Her one disappointment came when a toaster didn't "pop. up" among their wedding presents. "Consequently, we haven't eaten toast for some time." Married life seems to agree with Laura, but she laments over the lack of free time to spend with Val. Fortunately for the newlyweds, a Holiday Hiatus is in the offing, and Laura and Val plan to spend it. making up for the honeymoon they never got. am just so happy with my new life and my new husband ... I'd be even happier if I had someone to write 'thank you' notes for me

DAYS OF OUR LIVES --Chris becomes Kayla's lover and Neil becomes Marie's lover. Liz uses her pregnancy to manipulate Tony. She knows that as long as Stefano thinks she is carrying Tony's child she won't be pushed around. Tony continues to bother Renee but she tells him to leave her alone. Abe catches Roman making contact with his spy associates and mistakenly thinks he's cor-

THIS WEEK: Liz gets what she wants but is upset. Don comes to the rescue.

GENERAL HOSPITAL --Luke tries to raise money to get Holly out of jail. Scotty makes a major contribution to look good in front of Laura. Scotty specifies that Luke not be told where the money came from. When Luke does find out he is torn between his love for Holly and his hatred for Scotty, but his love wins out. Heather tricks Susan into making her guardian of Jason's money and Alice signs as a witness not realizing what she is doing. Susan drives wrecklessly when she spots Scotty embracing Laura.

THIS WEEK: Tiffany argues with Noah about Bobbie. Leslie tries to be a peacemaker.

RYAN'S HOPE -- Delia blackmails Kirkland into giving her the air rights to the Crystal Palace. She knows that Kirkland is the father of Kim. He tells her if she ever tells anyone about his relationship to Kim he will destroy her and the Crystal Palace forever. Johnny is very upset with Siobhan not realizing she is on an undercover assignment. Joe asks Maeve if she knows anything about Siobhan's activities.

THIS WEEK: Siobhan has second thoughts. Joe goes searching for the truth. ANOTHER WORLD --lason saves Steve from Checkers and Jason gets killed but not before lason shoots and kills Ilsa. Rachel is very relieved to hear that Steve is all right. To prove his loyalty to Cecile, Sandy agrees to go away with her and Maggie for a few days. Mac and Sandy have another con frontation when he asks for time off to be with Cecile. Blaine tells Sandy she is moving in with Larry and Clarice to make their cover-up seem more real. THIS WEEK: Elena is upset with Cecile. Julie is keeping close tabs on Stacey and Jamie. THE GUIDING LIGHT --Amanda breaks off with Mark. Mike and Henry realize the file on Sean is missing and realize that Vanessa must have taken it. Nola tells Mrs. Renfield that Rebecca can speak but she can't reach Quint to teil him. Kelly asks Mike to draw up separation papers. Lewis Oil gives Alan its proxy vote.

THIS WEEK: Maureen's past life experiences come to the surface. Nola confronts Rebecca.

TEXAS -- Elena cuts short a date with Dan to be with Billy Joe. Judith still remembers nothing of the shooting. Lurlene asks Reena to be her bridesmaid. TJ starts the process to set aside Gregory's adoption. Gregory decides to look for his mother himself. Paige, pretending to be drunk takes the birth certificate.

THIS WEEK: TI and Justin clash. Brett becomes more aware of Rikki's career

ONE LIFE TO LIVE -- Asa is fed up with Mimi's demands but he sends her $3000. worth of roses and a note telling her she can have half of his production company. Marco tells Mimi to marry Asa and take him for all she can. Bo cautions her to be careful. Larry and Karen break up after she tells him about Steve. Steve barges in Jenny's house where Karen has been staying and grabs Karen. Jenny enters and screams at him to leave. Vicki cautions Larry not to be so harsh with Karen. THIS WEEK: Ed gives Karen some friendly advice. Clint keeps an eye on Steve's activities.

ALL MY CHILDREN --Daisy starts to play hard to get with Palmer because she fears the new baby will get all his money and attention. She asks Chuck to set her up with a widower. Silver and Kent kiss on a promise to share. dinner at her apartment. Jenny gives Ray the moneyshe got from hocking the bracelet. Ray gives George the money with instructions to bomb the Martin house. Langley accuses Opal of tormenting him. THIS WEEK: Carrie and Chuck have an argument... about Donna. Kent and ... Silver have a stolen moment together. ANOTHER LIFE -- Babs calls lone and later Webster, but doesn't reveal her whereabouts. Webster tells her to let him know if she needs money. Webster asks Vince to see what he can do to check on Miriam's whereabouts. Miriam notices some loose boards where a cat had been entering and leaving. She is trying to squeeze through the opening when she hears someone unlocking the door.

THIS WEEK: Terry and Dave have a quiet evening together. Peter feels insecure.

AS THE WORLD TURNS --Ariel presses Maggie to have the court declare John legally dead. Maggie questions her haste. Margo learns that two hunters at the Bridge Inn have identified James as the man they saw with a rifle the day John claimed lames shot at him.
