to all of suffering humanity both in and out of the free world."

Lodge said he had gained the impression that maybe the Russian bloc delegates are usually frightened.

"Maybe you are frightened of us," Lodge said. "Maybe you are frightened of the plain people in your own country. But I know that a frightened man can be dangerous. I am sorry there is fright and I hope and believe that the time will come when fear will disappear."

The senator said he was confident that "the condition which exists in the world is not going to last much longer because the people of the free world whom you have finally aroused will, in a completely peaceful and orderly way and within a very few years, create a quiet and peaceful world."

"We hope the day will come when —"

"The oppression of religion in Russia will stop;

"The creative energies of the Russian people, that brilliant and gifted people, will be released;

"The Russian people will be able to mingle freely with people from other lands; and

"When the people of the rest of Europe will no longer live in terror of the Red army."

"My advice is: stop being afraid."

the figurine from the case and dropped it.

The second it hit the floor, two window cords snapped and dropped an open window closed with a crash," he said.

Dunninger, apparently, is receiving better reactions from mysterious forces than a fellow magician in Chicago, Claude Noble. Last March, Noble stood on a cold, windy bridge and tried to evoke the spirit — as arranged by his close friend, Clarence Darrow. Nothing happened.

The eminent Victorian British scientist, Sir Oliver Lodge, a believer in spiritualism, said flatly he would return after death. Apparently he has never made a ghostly appearance which satisfied non-believers. The same is true of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle who was converted to spiritualism after he launched Sherlock Holmes on his adventures. As late as 1937, however, his son Dennis claimed he was in "constant communication" with his father.

In 1936, Theo Hardeen, Houdini's magician brother, tried to reach Harry in a séance broadcast on the radio. Houdini's spirit did not manifest itself, but the medium announced that Sime Silverman, founder of the theatrical newspaper, Variety, had a message for Joe Lee, Houdini's manager who just happened to be present.

Houdini's wife died in 1943, after years of attempting to communicate with her husband. Shortly before her death she said she had given up trying to reach him and that she herself wouldn't try to return from the tomb even if it were possible.

and another into Pungan, about 28 miles south of the border. The latter column had moved ahead 17 miles in 24 hours.

A small advance party of the U. S. Seventh Division arrived at Wonsan by sea. The bulk of the division was expected to land shortly.

The Seventh division and the U. S. First Marine Division were part of a 50,000-man allied force that has been landing on the east coast for several days.

The Marines were having trouble.

A thousand cut-off Reds surrounded a Marine company south of Kojo Saturday and cut it to pieces.

The Reds apparently used their oldest trick to surprise the marines. Before the attack began, Marine officers reported heavy "refugee" traffic of people in civilian clothes passing between the company and its supply source.

Marine reinforcements were sent to the area. Planes set the town of Kojo afire.

A Marine battalion rushed west of Wonsan to bottle up about 2,000 Reds who were slipping north in groups of 200 to 300. Reports came of a new Red buildup. A force estimated at division strength was reported near Changjin, 24 miles north of the Changjin reservoir.

Lady Checks Hubby In the Modern Way

DAYTON, O. — (AP) — A Dayton woman is practicing the modern way to check up on husbands.

She called the Miami Valley Flying Service here and said she would like to charter a plane if —

"If you can see well from the air with a pair of field glasses — well enough, that is, to spy on things."

The flying service didn't disclose the woman's name, but said when she appeared she wanted to fly near restricted areas at nearby Wright-Patterson Air Force Base. Employees of the service hesitated and asked her for an explanation. She she: "My husband piles up a lot of mileage on his car, and I want to find out where he goes after he leaves the field and before he gets home."

She made the flight, all right, but what she found out was her secret. She wouldn't discuss what she saw through the glasses.

Woodpeckers Find Company in Plane

DALLAS, Texas — (AP) — Texas woodpeckers are finding there is no privacy atop power line poles.

One of the duties of Ed Slover is to look for woodpecker holes in poles as he flies 2,600 miles across Texas Power and Light Co. high tension lines in his single engine plane. As he risks his life almost daily at an altitude of 48 feet or less, he also looks for broken insulators, sagging wires and other indications of trouble.

Slover uses a recording device to report trouble as he flies. When he lands, the record is turned over to maintenance crews.

Tom Rose to Head Local Safety Group

Tom Rose, manager of the Rose Motor Co., late Friday morning was named, unanimously, as acting chairman of organization of a safety committee for Pampa at a meeting of representatives from civic groups, city officials, and industrial leaders held in the Cabot Co. Safety Department offices here.

The idea for organizing a safety group for Pampa was spawned in the Safety Committee of the Rotary Club and culminated, finally, in the meeting Friday with Capt. Jim Music, managing director of the Texas Safety Association.

Capt. Music informally addressed the group explaining to them the need for each city to activate and operate a safety council, or committee, in an effort to cut down traffic deaths and bank enforcement of traffic laws.

Sweet William Is Messy on TV

CHICAGO — (AP) — The Lincoln Park Zoo's pet skunk, "Sweet William," may be harmless, but you couldn't convince the Kukis, Fran and Ollie TV show staff or its audience of that.

Brought in from the zoo to visit the puppet show, William was lifted to the stage.

Then nature called.

The show's staff, some 12 persons, reacted instinctively, dispersing hurriedly while Willie placidly took possession of the stage with a national audience viewing the picture.

The skunk's keeper, who knew the animal was harmless because he was deodorized, embarrassedly picked up his charge and left.

In full view of the TV audience, the mes was mopped up and six minutes later the puppeteers returned to work.

Maurice K. Gurley Dies Here Friday

Maurice Kennedy Gurley, born April 9, 1903 in Birmingham, Ala., died at 2 p. m. Friday in a local hospital as the result of a heart attack.

Mr. Gurley, who was a machinist for Cabot, had been in the hospital less than 24 hours, following the heart attack, when he died. His home was at 324 N. Hobart. He had been a resident of Pampa for the past seven years.

Survivors include his wife, Eliza; two daughters, Mrs. Elmer D. Young and Mrs. Eugene Stamps, Pampa; one son, Charles Morris, Pampa; one brother, Wesley Davis, Lubbock; a sister, Mrs. P. P. McFarland, Bonham and two grandchildren.

Funeral services, under the direction of Duenkel - Carmichael Funeral Home, will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at the First Baptist Church with the pastor, Rev. E. Douglas Carver, officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Flowerbearers include John Hill, Wayne Harrison, Buck Love, Johnny Speck, Edwin Ammons and Orville Batson.

Cigaret Industry Wants to Double

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Claude Harrison, president of the National Association of Tobacco Distributors, says that America is now consuming 400,000,000,000 cigarettes a year. That figure is up to 2,667, roughly, for every man, woman and child — or 133 packs per year and 2 1/2 per week.

"The industry is capable of producing double that quantity, too," Harrison, of Monroe, La., said, giving assurance that there is no shortage in sight. He says the industry has $1,800,000,000 worth of tobacco in storage.

2 p. m. Monday at the First Baptist Church with the pastor, Rev. E. Douglas Carver, officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Flowerbearers include John Hill, Wayne Harrison, Buck Love, Johnny Speck, Edwin Ammons and Orville Batson.

Stage Is Set for Rotarians' Show, 'The Great Virgil'

By HENRY GORDON
Monday night the complex, the confounding and the confusing will be combined with a variety of extravagant stage settings and elaborate costumes for one of the most unusual magic shows ever to come to Pampa.

Ranked with the top mystics of the world today, "The Great Virgil" will perform in Pampa tomorrow under the auspices of the Pampa Rotary Club, the profits of the show going into the club's fund for underprivileged children and Boys' Ranch.

The stage settings, according to advance notices, have more than just a backdrop part in the magician's acts as the fast-moving show cuts up an evening entertainment in what seems to be a matter of minutes instead of the almost two hours of the performance.

Clippings, exhibited by advance public relations men for the show, declared the magician to be able to hold his audiences with ease, increasing their interest with each act of illusion.

The entire show, its theme, background and content couldn't have been more perfectly timed for Pampa — the night before Halloween.

It is one of the very few upper bracket professional shows to come to Pampa while on the road.

If letters of recommendation "make" a show, "Virgil" should go over in a big way and better way in every town he visits.

Typical of these are three he has received from Warner Bros. Studio in Hollywood, The Houston Central Lions Club and the Exchange Club of Moultrie, Ga. All three, plus others, praised the magician. These and several other letters are what led the Pampa Rotary Club to contact the mystic months ago to bring him to Pampa.

The name of Baton Rouge, La., is a literal French translation of the Indian words "Red Post", used to describe a hunting-ground boundary marker.

THE GREAT VIRGIL—Ranked with the top mystics of the nation today and billed as the "Magic Master, Supreme" appears here Monday in the Pampa Junior High School Auditorium under auspices of the Pampa Rotary Club. Directly under Virgil is Julie, billed as "The Sweetheart of Magic" whose coordination with Virgil is as dazzling as her many costumes. Proceeds of the show will be used for the Rotary's underprivileged children's and Boys' Ranch funds.

Senators, Representatives Provided With Many Extras

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON — (AP) — Many a freshman senator and representative has been amazed to discover all the "extras" to go along with his $12,500 a year official wage.

Some unofficial estimates say these extras could bring a member's congressional income to the equivalent of $75,000 a year or more, if he took full advantage of them — and that some do.

The $75,000 figure includes an estimate of the cash value of various free facilities and services.

Congress keeps no single, officially audited account against which to check the estimates. Most members content themselves with statements that the estimate is exaggerated and overlook extraordinary expenses which they have to meet.

The taxpayers keep a staff of barbers right in the capitol to make sure their senators are well shaved and shorn.

In addition, each lawmaker gets free combs and brushes, soap and towels to keep him looking spruce and scrubbed, be he senator or representative.

After a hard day's work, the well-barbered senator can relax with a free turkish bath, massage and swim, without even leaving the capitol. And in his air conditioned office suite he can sip free mineral water if he doesn't like the variety that comes out of the tap. House members have their comforts too but no free mineral water or turkish baths.

Hard cash benefits are numerous. Both House and Senate members get a tax-free expense allowance of $2,500 a year.

Each senator gets an additional $900 a year to help him maintain in his home state an office through which constituents can contact him. House members don't get that, but many of them do have free office space in their home town federal buildings instead.

The law provides $35,400 to $42,220 a year for each senator toward the cost of maintaining a staff of advisers and clerks. The total depends on the population of his state, which theoretically governs the volume of demands from his constituents.

House members get only a flat $12,500 a year for office staff. In each case, any unexpended balance must be returned to the government.

Each senator and representative is assigned an air-conditioned office suite.

In the Senate, these are some other aids the members are granted by law:

An allowance of $800 a year (raised recently from $500) to buy stationery and the right to draw more paper and envelopes free from committees on which the member serves.

For long distance telephone service through the capitol switchboard, up to 50 calls a month totaling not more than 250 minutes.

Free postage for official mail. Privileges to charge to the government all telegrams relating to official business.

A flat 20 cents a mile to travel to and from each regular session of Congress.

Additional per diem allowances for trips outside Washington on official business.

On the House side, each member is allowed a maximum of $500 to cover a year's telephone and telegraph costs. Most other benefits are about the same, but the House claims its gymnasium is better than the Senate's.

Both sides have a pension plan on which a member can retire

YOU and the SERVICE

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Q. I am in the organized reserves but I have recently had a chance to get into a business of my own. If I do, will this get me out of active duty?

A. No. You can ask for a deferment of duty on the basis of hardship, but your application will be handled on its own merits.

Q. I am a commissioned warrant officer in the Navy supply corps. I recently took a physical and was classified for unlimited duty. What are the chances of my being called to active duty?

A. No recalls have been made so far in your category.

Q. My youngest son is in the Air Force. He left home because we couldn't get along. Since then I have had a spell of bad health and have lost my job. How can I go about getting him to give me an allotment? Who should I write to about this?

A. Your son. He has to volunteer a part of his pay to get you an allotment.

Q. I have four brothers. Two were killed in the last war. Is there any way I can get out of the draft because of this?

A. No. Only sole surviving sons are being deferred.

Q. Just how flat do feet have to be to get you out of the draft? I have lost three jobs because my feet were so flat. Is that flat enough?

A. No flat answer is possible on this. It's up to the doctor who examines you.

Q. My son has had nightmares since he was 10. We have taken him to a doctor several times about this matter. Do you think the Army would take him if they knew about it?

A. Probably. But he might mention it to the doctor who gives him his pre-induction physical.

after six years. A medical staff looks after the health of both House and Senate members, and also treats emergency cases among visitors to the capitol. Special rates for treatment in government hospitals also go with the lawmaker's job.

Most congressmen contend all this is less golden than it seems. They point out that getting elected to the job costs money and that the costs of entertaining constituents and other items involved in holding the job run high. Some say they have to dig into other resources to pay additional office help.

New Part of Angola Opened by Railroad

—(AP)—The extension of the Mosamedes railway beyond Chibia to the town of Gambos or Chibema is nearing completion. Within a month the first trains are expected to run between Chibia and Gambos, thus adding nearly 60 miles to the present track and opening up a new part of Southern Angola which is suited for European colonization and cattle raising.

Pirates Squeak Past Clarendon In 7-6 Thriller

LEFORS — (Special) — The Lefors Pirates, led by Ray Dickerson, scored a 7-6 victory over the Clarendon eleven here Friday night.

The game seen-sawed the first quarter with neither team making a score.

In the second quarter Joe Martin blocked a Broncho punt on the Clarendon 40, and the ball rolled back to the 27 where Jimmy Doom recovered it for Lefors. The first play, Martin skirted end for 27 yards and pay over for the extra point and the Pirates led 7-0 at halftime.

Clarendon started its touchdown drive on its own 47-yard line. With the aid of a 15-yard penalty, Clarendon moved the ball down to the Pirate 17. With first and ten, Lefew broke through tackle for 17 yards for a touchdown. The try for extra point failed.

Ray Timmons made several weak-side runs good for 10 yardage. He scored one touchdown, but it was called back because he stepped out of bounds. Dickerson made well over half the Pirate yardage up the middle. When the game ended, the Pirates were on Clarendon's 10-yard line.

Doom played a great defensive game along with Don Stokes and Gene Jennings.

Lefors racked up 227 yards rushing and Clarendon's 100. The Pirates made 12 first downs to Clarendon's 9. Lefors fumbles 6 times to Clarendon's 1.

Steers Breeze Past Owls for 35-7 Win

Princeton Hands Cornell Eleven Defeated Slip

PRINCETON, N.J. — (AP) — Princeton's deceptive single-wing attack, revolving around Dick Kasmaler, an equally deceptive runner, struck for two touchdowns in the first half Saturday to give Cornell its first defeat of the season, 27 to 0. The Tigers won their fifth straight game of the year.

It was Kasmaler who scored two Princeton touchdowns, threw passes, and kicked mightily when the Tigers got in trouble and generally made himself a nuisance to the Cornell defense.

But it was a team victory rather than an individual triumph. Big Jack Davison, who plunged for the third score, was a constant threat on the tricky Tiger back lateral plays and a George Chandler and pass-catcher Ed Reed shared the offensive honors, but it was the Princeton line that made the big difference.

YALE LOCKS HOLY CROSS

NEW HAVEN — (AP) — Jim Ryan scored both of Yale's touchdowns as the Blue sneaked past aerial-minded Holy Cross, 14 to 13, in a spirited football tussle before 30,000 in the bowl. Chuck Maloy, the losers' quarterback and star passer, was a big threat throughout.

Alert Texas Team Cashes In on Institute's Errors

HOUSTON — (AP) — Texas methodically cashed in on two first-quarter Rice Institute mistakes Saturday and then breezed to a 35 to 7 Southwest Conference victory before a sellout crowd of 70,000.

Only twice was the defending champion Rice team able to break through the tough Longhorn line and penetrate Texas territory.

The Texas victory sets the stage for next week's all-important conference tilt at Austin, with the Steers taking on perfect record Southern Methodist, the nation's No. 1 team in this week's Associated Press poll.

Texas, with only a 14-13 loss against Oklahoma marring its record, ranked number 7. SMU went best week Rice, 42 to 21.

The Rice touchdown that came 11 seconds before the half was the only time the Owls threatened after Texas took advantage of the first quarter mistakes—a fourth down gamble that failed and a pass interception—and then ran its lead to 21-0 with a 65-yard second period touchdown drive.

Two second-half Longhorn scores resulted from a 68-yard drive and guard Don Menasco's recovery of a blocked punt in the Rice end zone after Texas had lost the ball on downs on the 2.

Rice mixed running and passing for its lone score. Reserve quarterback Harmon Carswell passed to end Bill Howton for the final 20 yards of the 68-yard march. Billy Wright converted.

Hard charging fullback Byron Townsend scored twice on short plunges for Texas, while quarterback Ben Tompkins dove over from the 2 for one score and completed a 5-yard pass play to end Ben Proctor for another.

Tompkins also made good on all five Texas extra point attempts.

It was sophomore guard Harley Sewell who blocked Sonny Wyatt's quick kick in the Rice end zone and set up the end zone recovery by Menasco in the final period.

The Rice gamble on fourth down led to the first Texas score and came on the first series of downs after a 51-yard quickkick by Lewis Levine to the Rice 23. The Texas line stopped fullback George Glauser by inches on fourth down and the Steers took over on the 33.

But it took a weird field goal attempt to get the touchdown. Texas faced a fourth down from the four and Rice tackle Paul Gioski blocked Tompkins' three-point kick attempt. End Tom Stolhandke recovered for Texas on the one. Townsend went over center on his second attempt.

Guard June Davis paved the way for the next tally by gathering in a pass by Rice's Vernon Glass and returning 20 yards to the Owl seven. The play came after a 15-yard penalty had shoved Rice back to its nine. Tompkins scored on a quarterback sneak after Townsend had moved to the two.

Outside of its touchdown, the only other time Rice moved in to Texas territory was the first time it had the ball. A pitch-out, Glass to Glauser, was good for 24 yards to the Texas 39 but the Texans held and the Owls punted out on the 16.

The Texas line permitted Rice only 90 net yards on the ground compared to 200 yards the Owls ran up against SMU.

Townsend in 21 tries, netted 55 yards as the leading ground gainer. Gilo Dawson, little Texas end and halfback with 40 in nine carries, followed by Glauser, who got 32 on 13.

Tompkins completed seven of 11 pass attempts for 122 yards. Glass had 46 yards on four completions out of seven tries but had two intercepted.

Proctor took in three of Tompkins' tosses for a net of 74 yards.

Cherry Pleased With Tompkins' Quarterbacking

HOUSTON — (AP) — Rice Coach Jess Neely sidestepped a request for a comparison of the strength of Texas and SMU.

Neely was considered something of an expert on the subject because his Owls had just lost to Texas, 35 to 7. Last week SMU whipped Rice, 42 to 21.

Texas and SMU meet next Saturday in Austin.

Neely in the Rice dressing room after Saturday's game, refused comment on the two Southwest Conference powers.

Then someone suggested they are altogether different teams, and the other Texas is brutal.

Neely then commented: "You can say that other one is slick and brutal, too."

Rice tri-captain and center Les Stonestreet was less evasive.

"I think SMU will beat Texas," he said.

"Byron Townsend is a fine football player, but he's no Kyle Rote. But, maybe I'm prejudiced because I'm from Dallas (home of SMU)."

In the noisy Texas dressing room, Blair Cherry, the Texas coach, felt that a star had been born Saturday. Cherry was the first to tell the world about it.

Cherry walked over and put his arms around Ben Tompkins, the Texas quarterback who not only passed but ran the Longhorns to victory.

"He's my baby," Cherry said as he hugged Tompkins. "He came of age. He has arrived. He makes a good coach out of me."

Cherry had no optimism to offer about his game with SMU. "SMU probably will run us out of the park," he said. "We got the breaks today and probably played over our heads. Rice was flat."

The Longhorns were jubilant.

"Hell, that 17-15 loss last year was hard to forget," said end Ben Proctor. "We were ready for them this time. We're gonna be after SMU next week."

A field goal by Froggie Williams with 10 seconds to play gave Rice that 17-15 victory over Texas last year in Austin.

Texas players were unanimous in their praise of Paul Gioski, the 250-pound Rice tackle who was injured in the third quarter.

"He's a damned good line-man," said Bud McFadin.

Neely also had praise for Tompkins.

"Tompkins had a good day and handled the ball well," he said. "There was not a great deal wrong with Texas."

Tackle Bill Wilson voiced the sentiment of the Texas squad: "Bring on SMU, we would like to play 'em right now."

Exhibits at the State Museum at Santa Fe, New Mexico, include two old stagecoaches, originals and not reproductions, both in good repair.

Vandies Glide Past Porkers In Grid Game

LITTLE ROCK — (AP) — Vanderbilt fashioned a two-touchdown lead on Arkansas' mistakes and then held on grimly to nip the Razorbacks 14-13, in a nerve-racking intersectional football game here Saturday.

The outcome averaged a 7-0 Arkansas victory over the Commodores last year.

With its vaunted aerial attack bottled up almost completely, Vanderbilt showed little offense in the first half.

But the Commodores' Ted Kirkland pounced on the ball at the Arkansas 13 when the Razorbacks' Bob Cross touched but could not hold a 75 yard quick kick from the toe of Dean Davidson.

Jim Taber crashed to the nine and Davidson went through the middle for a touchdown with a minute left in the first quarter.

Early in the third period, Arkansas' Tommy Britt dropped a punt on the Vandy 45 and Commodore captain Russ Faulknerby grabbed the ball.

On the next play Bill Wade, the nation's passing yardage leader, going into this game, lofted a long one to end Buky Curtis, who stepped into the end zone.

Gordon McCarter converted for the second time and Vandy led 14-0.

Then Arkansas junked its T attack and started operating for the first time this year from the widely spread single wingback formation. In three plays the Porkers, who had moved well between the 30 yard lines in the first half but never threatened, roared 65 yards for a touchdown. Jim Rinehart swept right end for 12 to score.

End Dick Walton broke through to block George Thomason's attempted conversion.

In the fourth quarter, Rinehart faded from the Vanderbilt 27 and hit halfback Buddy Rogers with a pass on the 18. Rogers sidestepped one Vanderbilt defender and outran another to the goal line.

There still were 10 1-2 minutes left and Arkansas pitched away at the one-point difference most of that time. But Vanderbilt rose to the occasion and held the desperate Porkers for three downs at the Commodores' 28. Arkansas' chances alighted away

Texas Is Threat To SMU Ponies

By The Associated Press

The Southwest Conference football race was shoved to a climax Saturday as Texas emerged the only unbeaten team other than Southern Methodist.

The Longhorns whipped Rice 35-7 and will face Southern Methodist at Austin next Saturday with first place riding on the result.

Baylor staged its annual major upset in knocking down the mighty Texas A&M 27-20.

In intersectional games, Texas Christian lost to Mississippi 19-7 and Arkansas was edged by Vanderbilt 14-13.

Southern Methodist did not play last week.

Bulldogs Bite Vernon, 13-0

VERNON — (Special) — The Borger Bulldogs measured Vernon here Friday night 13-0 to close out their non-conference schedule. Borger outplayed the Lions from start to finish to wrap up its grid victory.

Borger scored its first touchdown in the first quarter. Taking the ball on Vernon's 37, the Bulldogs drove to pay dirt. Ronnie Holcomb, 185-pound fullback, plunged over from the one to climax the drive.

Glenn Overton, Bulldog senior, passed to elongated Jim Bales, left end, for 14 yards and the final tally. Kenneth Clapp kicked the extra point.

Overton's deadly passing amassed 129 yards for the Bulldogs. Borger picked up 12 first downs to Vernon's 10.

Borger will open its District 1-A schedule against Plainview on Nov. 10. The Bulldogs have a 4-3 season record.

Underdog Baylor Clips A&M 27-20

Isbell Hurls 3 Touchdown Aerial Flips

WACO — (AP) — Underdog Baylor came from behind to defeat Texas A&M 27 to 20 here Saturday, with Larry Isbell's precision passing furnishing the needed edge.

A&M went into the game a two-to-three touchdown favorite. The Aggies rolled into a quick 13-point lead early in the game, played before a homecoming crowd of 37,000.

But Isbell's passing magic, responsible for four Baylor touchdowns, put the Bears out ahead 20 to 13 at half-time.

Numerous costly fumbles by A&M were a big help to Baylor, but the Bears outplayed the Aggies much of the way.

Bob Smith's 69-yard blazing run through the entire Baylor defense gave the Aggies a one-touchdown lead before the game was a minute old. Smith appeared to be stopped on the ground play from scrimmage, but slipped away and streaked downfield untouched. Darrow Hooper's placement was good.

The Aggie backs were shredding the Baylor line, but their second touchdown came on Dick Gardemal's pass to Glenn Lippman. It climaxed a 77-yard surge downfield led by Lippman, Bill Tidwell and Smith. Baylor's defenders were missing many apparently easy tackles. Hooper's try for point was no good.

Baylor's first scoring drive started on its 28, with Richard Parman's 30-yard scoot through the line putting the Bear passing machine into position to roll. Isbell, showing neat ball-handling, got off one to Jim Jeffrey for 15, and the touchdown heave was to James Parker. Dickerson's kick was wide.

Then the Bears tied it up, cashing in on a fumble by Lippman, recovered on the Baylor 44 by Terry Downs. Isbell passed to Parker from the Aggie 41 for the score. Dickerson's kick was good this time.

A costly fumble by Smith deep in Aggie territory helped Baylor move ahead. Johnny Curtis recovered on the Aggie six, and two plays later Isbell passed over the goal, once again to Parker. Dickerson's extra point made it Baylor 20, Aggie 13.

Isbell standing on the Aggie 30, threw over the goal line to Harold Riley for Baylor's next score. Charles Royalty's fumble, recovered by Robert Reid, had given Baylor the ball on the Aggie 45 to set up this drive.

Jim Jeffrey's fumble on the Baylor 23 set up another Aggie touchdown. A pass from Darrow Hooper to Hillhouse put the ball on Baylor's six and three plays later Bernard Lemmons rammed it over. Hooper's extra point was perfect.

VILLANOVA WNS

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Villanova whipped Georgetown Saturday, 20-14, by turning a pass interception and a fumble into touchdowns and then successfully fighting off a desperate 145-minute passing flurry.

A crowd of 5,192 saw Villanova pick up its second victory in five starts. For Georgetown, it was the fourth defeat in five tries.

Wheeler Whacked By Shamrock, 26-0

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Shamrock Irishmen maintained their undefeated record here Friday night with a 26-0 victory over the outclassed Wheeler Mustangs.

Although the Mustangs held the Irish in check much of the first half, in the second half the McCall-coached Irish exploded for three decisive touchdowns to reach the game.

Shamrock scored in the first period after Vaughn Terry intercepted Pendleton's pass on the Wheeler 25 and raced back to the 17. After one-yard on a line play, Harrall Dunnam, quarterback, passed to Terry for the counter, the play going 16 yards. Dunnam's kick failed.

The same passing combination scored the second touchdown in 12 yards.

Also in the third stanza, Kenneth Kidwell, left half, scampered 22 yards around left end to climax a 53-yard drive in five plays.

Dunnam, who had passed to end Bobby Campbell for the extra point after Terry's second touchdown, missed the kick for conversion.

Charles Francis, reserve quarterback, pitched 9 yards to Campbell for the final tally late in the fourth period. Dunnam converted to make the score Shamrock 26, Wheeler 0.

Tigers Trip Past Cyclones, 33-19, At McLean Field

MCLEAN — (Special) — The versatile L. M. Watson led the McLean Tigers past the Memphis Cyclones Friday night 33-19. Watson scored three touchdowns, threw two touchdowns passes, and kicked three extra points to lead his team to victory.

A Watson aerial to J. M. Smith put the Tigers out in front. The play covered 24 yards and Watson kicked the extra point.

Halfback Tommy Messer got Memphis back into the ball game with a 96-yard touchdown run. Ronnie Smith kicked the extra point to knot the game at 7-7. Watson traveled 21 yards for the second McLean touchdown in the first quarter. His kick was good and McLean led 14-7.

Memphis halfback Bailey Corley made it 13-14 with a TD run. The try for extra point was blocked. Watson notched another touchdown, but the extra point try was no good and McLean built its lead to 20-13.

Watson scored another TD in the fourth quarter, and the extra point try was good to make it 27-13. McLean added its final tally on a pass from Watson to Blackshire. The kick was no good.

Carl Lee flipped a pass to Smith and the Cyclone speedster traveled 79 yards to pay dirt. The kick was no good and McLean won the contest 33-19.

Sandies Smacked By Odessa, 41-0

AMARILLO — (Special) — The Sandies were ground to bits Friday night 41-0 by Coach Joe Coleman's Odessa Bronchos in Amarillo Stadium before 7,000 cheerless fans.

The Bronchos scored 21 points in the first quarter, hitting pay dirt every time they got their hands on the ball. The helpless Sandies didn't make a serious threat during the contest. They entered Odessa territory on a 44-yard line and that was the 46-yard line. It was the fourth loss of the season for the Sandies, and the 41-defeat was the worst ever suffered in Amarillo.

The Bronchos added touchdowns in the second, third and fourth quarter, and the powerful Odessa ground attack ate up 353 yards rushing, while holding the Sandies to a meek 67 yards.

Sandie Golf Team Blasts Harvesters

The Amarillo High School linksters shot their way past the Pampa golf team 25½-1½ at the Amarillo Country Club Friday afternoon. Charles Austin and John Pitts saved the Pampaers a shutout.

Results: Rex Baxter, Jr., defeated Austin, 2½-1½. Bob Fausett beat Pitts, 2-1; Jimmy Baker 3, Tommy Cox 6; Don Galin 3, Carter Burdette 0; Bobby Sander 3, John Bell 0; George Aulbach, Jr. 3, Smith 0; Richard Stroud 3, Dave Etheredge 0; Bob Yeager 3, Ronnie Mullins 0; Jimmy Russell 2, Steve Burkette 0. Baker had low gross score of the day with a 79. Austin and Cox paced Pampa High School with 83½.

George Billick, 40-year-old bowler of Old Forge, Pa., became the third man to roll seven perfect games in sanctioned league or tournament play. Billick, who had just scored his sixth 300 on March 4, 1950, produced number seven on Sept. 24 in the Luzerne (Pa.) Sunday Independent Classic league.

Wildcats Bounce Past White Deer

CANADIAN — (Special) — The Canadian Wildcats bounced past the White Deer Bucks 18-7 here Friday night in a non-conference Class B grid struggle.

The Wildcats lost six scoring chances during the contest and had two TD's called back. Clay Adcock returned a Buck punt 70 yards for a touchdown but the Wildcats were charged with clipping on the White Deer 12. Tom Schaefer scored later with a 7-yard plunge.

Bobby Fry notched the second touchdown with a 32-yard scamper. It climaxed a 73-yard drive. Ronnie Buchanan made White Deer's lone tally with a two-yard line buck. The drive started on the Canadian 25 after the Bucks recovered a Wildcat fumble.

With less than three minutes to play, Fry skipped 28 yards for Canadian's final marker.

Fishing this week was generally slow. There were several instances of good luck, but on the whole, the warm weather slowed things down again in this area.

The best catches were made in areas other than the Panhandle. From the looks of things, fishing won't really get good until we have a series of frosty nights to drive that water temperature down. In places such as Elephant Butte, where the temperature is dropping gradually, the fishing is steadily improving.

This past week at Elephant Butte the bass fishing was good. Plug fishing and trolling were the best, particularly on Sunday and Monday when the fishing was exceptionally good. Bass were taken up to 6 1-2 pounds, and many good catches were made. Crappie fishing has improved some, but it's still slow. The water is murky; the weather excellent.

Bass fishing is still slow at Caballo Lake, as are the crappie. The lake is rising. The Rio Grande trout fishing is bad, and will be until the stream carries more water.

J. A. Thurmond and his party also had good luck. They were at Possum Kingdom. They brought back a full sack of bass and reported that the bass were striking good.

The Texas Game, Fish, and Oyster Commission has released a new regulation which will affect fishermen in the following Panhandle counties: Dallam, Sherman, Hansford, Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Hartley, Moore, Hutchinson, Roberts, Hemphill, Oldham, Potter, Carson, Gray, Farmer, Wheeler, Deaf Smith, Randall, Armstrong, Donley, Collingsworth, Castro, Swisher, Briscoe, Hall, Childress, Cottle and Motley.

The regulation states that not more than 1000 minnows from the waters in this area may be taken or possessed at any one time by any one person.

The hunters have been returning all this past week from Colorado. Most of them have success stories to tell. Doctor Zachry and his party returned with their limits in deer. They hunted near Gunnison. Zachry tells me that this trip made the ninth time straight that they have gone to the same place, and they haven't missed filling up yet. One of the party had an elk permit this time and killed his elk also.

There are the usual stories of buck fever floating around after the deer hunts. One of them concerns a local dentist who missed a fine buck at 20 yards and then claimed that his shakes were the result of the cold. The strange thing about it to me was that the Doc had shot deer before.

Duck season will open Friday at noon. There are still lots of teal in the country, along with some widgeon, pintails, and a sprinkling of mallards. There are also some geese and brant down. Last Sunday while at Lake Marvin I saw a flock of between 75 and 100 brant land on the lake. Morris Pollard, the manager, told me that there have been geese on the lake every morning for the past week or more.

Lake Marvin will be open for duck shooting this year. I'll give you the days again, because I was in error the first time I gave them.

The lake will be open on Friday at noon for the first day. After that it will be open on Wednesdays and Sundays and legal holidays. The fee will be $2 a day for natural blinds and $10 for the season. If you build a blind, the cabin facilities are excellent.

Talking about geese, R. J. Link, a milk truck driver in Florida, was driving his route this past week when a goose flew through his windshield and gapped his last honk on the seat beside him. That's getting your goose dinner the easy way.

That's Rod and Gun for this week. Meet me at the same place next Sunday. I'm sure to have some wild duck hunting stories for you. See you then.

retallated on a 70-yard touch-down pass play executed by Byrd and end Bill Stribling. Byrd's aerial, a 30-yard job, was tucked away by Stribling on the TCU 30. Jimmy Lear's try for the extra point failed.

Two penalties against the Texans helped Mississippi to its second touchdown right after the second period began.

A five yard penalty gave the Rebels a first down on the TCU 40. Byrd passed a short one to Dotley, who smashed to the 20, and a personal foul moved the ball to the five. Three plays later Dotley outran the TCU secondary for the score. Lear's try at a conversion failed. Three times the Horned Frogs rolled into Ole Miss territory, only to be denied tallies by the vicious tackling and pass defense by the Mississippians.

"I wonder what kind of dates she turns down!"

Republicans also have put up candidates for three spots on the state supreme court and the vacancy on the court of criminal appeals. They have one candidate for district judge, Arthur Hadaway of Fort Worth in the 67th district.

Ben Guill Said Republican's White Hope for Gaining Seat

By TIM PARKER
Associated Press Staff

Texas Republicans figure they have an outside chance to make a dent in Democratic armor in the Nov. 7 general election now only nine days away.

This time they have figured the angles. And where the prospects looked best, they have concentrated strength.

The GOP already has a Texan in the U. S. Congress, for the first time in more than two decades. He is Ben Guill of Pampa, of the 18th (Panhandle) District. Guill has that intangible but very real advantage of being the "in" man, to whom voters traditionally give some favor over the "outs." He is working that advantage, and all others, to the hilt. He hopes to win his way back into office.

Republicans believe the Fort Worth and Dallas areas offer the best prospects of ending their 16-year drought of seats in the Texas House of Representatives. Dallas County Republicans nominated only one candidate this year and are concentrating on the one race alone. Their candidate is Edward T. Dickers, young business man. The reason: The Democratic nominee, Walter J. Reid, does not have strong support from his own party. Republicans figure Reid, 68-year-old police officer, can be beaten.

In Tarrant (Forth Worth) County, Republicans put up a candidate for all five legislative seats — the only big-city county where that happened.

Texas hasn't had a Republican state senator in 35 years. Not a Republican was nominated this year.

Most GOP candidates for other state offices haven't been making statewide campaigns. Most active is the Republican candidate for governor, Dallas lawyer Ralph Currie.

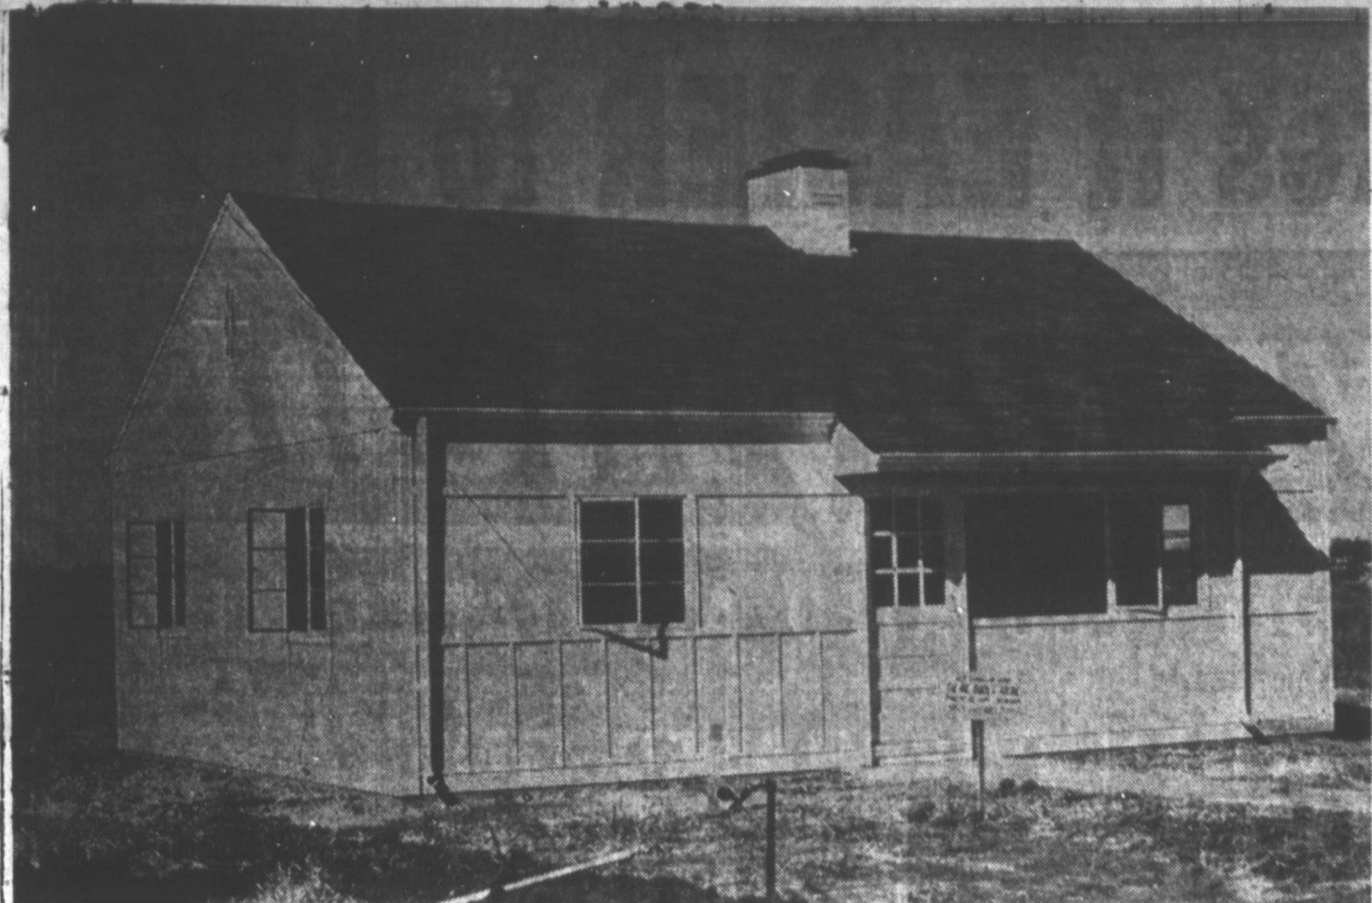

The vote is expected to be light — probably very light. Not only is it a non-presidential year. Bob Johnson, head of the Texas Election Bureau, believes no more than 475,000 votes will be cast, although there are about 1,662,000 eligible voters in Texas.

The white hope of the Republicans is Ben Guill, the 41-year-old Pampa man who lives only a block away from his Democratic opponent for Congress, Walter Rogers.

Guill has been putting up a real fight, and it's been getting notice. In speeches, statements and telegrams to newspapers the World War II Navy veteran (he won a Purple Heart) has carried his story to the people.

Guill won the office in a May 6 special election called after Rep. Eugene Worley of Shamrock was appointed to a federal court. It was a top-man-wins affair. Guill, the only Republican running, was top man with more than 8,000 votes. The Democratic vote was split among ten candidates — but totaled 28,000.

Rogers, 42-year-old lawyer and former district attorney, ran fourth in the special election. He's been campaigning ever since. He ran second to Mrs. Altavene Clark of Amarillo in the July 22 first Democratic primary. Republicans hoped Mrs. Clark

GUNNISON HOME—According to its builders and local agents, the Gunnison "Champion" home, on display today, and the remainder of the week at 129 Tignor, is the answer to the "age-old" problem of low cost homebuilding. This packaged unit, received in Pampa on Wednesday will be fully complete, furnished and ready for public inspection this afternoon. Approximately 250 man hours are required to ready the two-bedroom unit for occupancy. Empire Homes, authorized local agents, state this type of dwelling is designed with the most scientific of construction detail, its cost is within the reach of all income brackets, and the ease with which it is assembled and readied for occupancy materially reduces prospective occupants' waiting time before occupancy. Saturday — Out of Doors

Troop 5 will camp overnight at Camp Sullivan.

Girl Scout and Brownie troops have window displays in various stores in town this week in observance of Girl Scout Week, showing troop activities.

Troop 28 has a display at Pampa Office Supply; Brownie Troop 2, J. C. Penney Co.; Brownie troop 9, Friendly Men; and Brownie Troop 35, White's Auto. Troop 26 had a display during the first of the month at Pampa Hardware.

Troop 35

Officers for the next six weeks were elected at the regular meeting at Woodrow Wilson Cafeteria. Sharon Westmoreland was elected president; Zoy Ann Coromis, vice president; Pala Joe McKinzie, secretary; Charleta Baker, treasurer; Carol Sexton, song leader and Kay Culver, pianist.

A short talk on the United Nations was heard by the group and a discussion and vote on the church to be attended by the troop Sunday was held. Leaders are Mrs. John Sexton and Mrs. J. R. Adkisson.

Troop 15

This Brownie Troop chose as their activity for their last meeting, felt purses for their weekly dues. Jocelyn Morgan was elected representative for the United Nations Program held Tuesday. The troop voted to attend the Presbyterian Church Sunday. Those attending were Ann Hybee, Nona Nelson, Ann Hofsess, Mildred Radcliff, Sharron Malone, Carolyn Long, Betty Lou Stephens, Jocelyn Morgan, Karen Cappa, Glenda Finkelstein, Sheila Nelson and Jan Whittle. Leaders are Mrs. E. J. Radcliff, Mrs. Omar Bybee and Mrs. Myles Morgan.

Troop 3

Mrs. Arnold Jones, beauty expert from Dallas, talked to this troop about good grooming, beauty aids and hair styling with regard to facial shapes. They were told the most important factor in a beautiful complexion was frequent use of soap and water.

Officers were elected during the business session. Barbara Bullard was elected president; Jovan-

Formal Attire Doesn't Hinder Wedding Plan

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. —(AP)— Justice of the Peace Edward A. Fabert is not one to hinder the path of true love. John P. Brown, 21, an airman at Chanute Field near here, and Shirley Colleen Simpkins, 19, of Rose Hill, Iowa, called Fabert to ask him to marry them immediately.

Fabert was dressed up in his tuxedo preparing to leave for an engagement. He waited and married the couple in his formal attire.

John English, vice-president, JoAnn Keese, secretary, Johnna Baxter, reporter and Adrena Chisum, parliamentarian.

Each girl received her World pin, which signifies that they are affiliated with the Girl Scouts and Girl Guides of other nations. They also received membership cards. Leaders are Mrs. C. B. Chisum and Mrs. Archie Bullard.

A sextet from Horace Mann School, directed by Miss Evelyn Clayton, gave a performance for the girls of this troop at their last meeting. The group also taught the Brownies songs and one folk dance. Mrs. Stierl Malone furnished refreshments. The remainder of the meeting was spent in making plate favors for the hospital. Leaders are Mrs. Elmer Radcliff, Mrs. Omar Bybee and Mrs. Myles Morgan.

Employment Hits Record In September

AUSTIN — (AP) — Non-farm employment in Texas in September hit a new record high with 2,434,000 workers on the job.

It was the third consecutive month in which job records were broken. The Texas Employment Commission said expanding industrial activity, reopening of schools and a general gain in fall trade was responsible. Many workers were busy manufacturing or repairing military equipment.

Dallas led the employment gain with a net of 4,800 new workers. San Antonio was second with 3,200.

All but one of the 17 major labor market areas showed substantial gains in September. This was Galveston-Texas City, where trade and services employment receded as the tourist season waned, and as a periodic trough was reached in the ship repair industry.

Houston — Baytown showed a 2,600 net increase in employment. Others were:

Fort Worth area, net gain of 1,800; Texarkana, 1,050; Corpus Christi, 900; El Paso and Amarillo, 600 each; Beaumont-Port Arthur 500; Waco, 450; Wichita Falls, 400; Lubbock 350; Austin, 200; San Angelo, Abilene and Longview-Kilgore-Gladewater, 150 each.

Beetles Threaten Timber In Colo., May Be Stopped

DENVER — (AP) — The beetle armies that have threatened destruction of alpine mighty spruce forests of Colorado may be stopped by 1951, and the menace removed entirely by 1952.

This cheering report came from officials of the U. S. Forest Service, after a summer campaign against warlike and insect hordes that already have killed 400,000 acres of trees in seven national forests.

"Another year of that kind of work can bring the epidemic so far under control that we'll have only mopping-up operations left for 1952," declared A. L. Nelson, assistant chief of timber management.

"Everything depends, of course, on whether Congress will let us have the money to keep going."

The forest service used up a $2,000,000 appropriation this year to spray 784,000 trees. Nelson figures it'll need that much more money next summer.

"But it's a cheap price to pay to win this fight," he said. "If we don't succeed, one-third of all the timber in Colorado will be dead by 1953. And the beetles won't stop in Colorado, either. They're across the border in Wyoming now."

The insect that in recent years has become the most destructive in the history of western forests is the Engelmann beetle, so named because it feeds only on the Engelmann spruce. More than three-fifths of Colorado's trees are Engelmann spruce.

A cyclone struck the western slope of Colorado in 1939, flattening many thousands of trees. In the trunks of these fallen giants, the beetle hordes began to build up. Before that storm, the beetles never had been much of a menace, because they were few in number and fed only on old, overmature trees.

Because of the war manpower shortage, forest service crews had been cut to the bone, and before the sudden, alarming growth of the beetle population was first noticed in 1945, the insects had wiped out the White River spruce forest and taken a terrific toll of trees in six other national forests in western Colorado.

By 1949, the small, brown, hard-shelled beetles had killed four billion board feet of timber, enough to build 400,000 five-room frame houses — one for every family in Atlanta, Kansas City, Dallas and Seattle.

The tragedy, when it became fully known, was emphasized by the knowledge that the dead forests will not rise again in our time. Growing seasons are short in the frosty altitudes of the Rockies, and it takes an Engelmann spruce 150 years to reach saw-log size.

Firemen Are Given Preliminary Report

ROCK FALLS, Ill. —(AP)— It was early morning when the telephone rang in the local fire station.

"My stove blew up; my house is on fire," the caller said. "Maybe I won't need you — I'll call again if I do."

The unidentified caller — true to his word — phoned back 15 minutes later and told the alerted firemen that the blaze was out.

Margaret Truman Likes Television

NEW YORK — (AP) — Margaret Truman says television is "a wonderful medium," and she sometimes keeps a date waiting while she watches a show. Miss Truman told newsmen she is a rabid television fan. One of her favorite programs, Kukla, Fran and Ollie, a puppet show is "just like Alice in Wonderland," she said, and added: "If I have a date, he just has to sit down and watch." Miss Truman, who is currently busy with a concert tour, a phonograph record contract and with her musical studies, recalled that her father dropped up to inspect her Hotel Carlyle apartment last Tuesday after he had addressed the United Nations here. The President, she said, tried out her piano although she was out of the city giving a concert. "He said it was all right but that it needed tuning," she said. "I knew it needed tuning, but I was away on tour and didn't need it." Since then, Miss Truman said, she has had it tuned. Singapore to Build Tuberculosis Center SINGAPORE — (AP) — The Singapore Anti-Tuberculosis Association plans to build a $500,000 modern, well-equipped treatment center to combat the disease. The two-story building will be designed on the lines of the world famous TB center in Copenhagen with a few alterations to suit local conditions.

Mechanical Artificial Respirator Developed

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — (AP) — A mechanical artificial respirator has been developed for victims of drowning, electric shock, poisonous or suffocating gases, heart attacks, and others whose breathing has suddenly stopped. The new device, called a "Pneolator," delivers oxygen to the victim's lungs at a pre-set pressure. It automatically shuts off when the proper amount of oxygen has reached the lungs, according to the firm which developed the apparatus — Mine Safety Appliances Co. The Navajo Indians still use moist earth as mortar for their eight-sided log homes. Called "hogans," these always face the east.

Wedgeworth Calls Managers Meeting

E. O. Wedgeworth, president of the West Texas Managers Assn., has called a board of directors meeting for Nov. 2, at Brownwood. Purpose of the meeting will be to appoint committees and arrange a program of work for the year. The board will also make plans for the 1951 convention to be held in the new Berger Hotel in Berger, sometime next spring. Definite dates of the convention will be set at the meeting. Joe Cooley who will be host manager for the 1951 convention is expected to attend Thursday's meeting. Members of the board, other than Wedgeworth, include W. E. Cantrell, vice president, Dalhart; Delbert Downing, secretary-treasurer, Midland; Joe T. Ogden, Brady; Roger Wheeler, Del Rio; Lee W. Starr, Stamford; H. J. Tanner, Eastland; Leon Rogers, Electra. And, Ray Hedges, Brownwood; Rex Baxter, Amarillo; Clifford Farmer, Memphis and Paul Counts, Fort Stockton.

Pilot Association Sponsors Breakfast

A pilot breakfast, sponsored by the Pampa Pilots Assn., is scheduled for 10 a.m. today at the Pampa County Club. Pilots from all over the area have been invited to attend the breakfast. Gene Fatheree, president of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce is to extend greetings to the visitors. George Cree, Jr., and Ed Mlynt are to conduct a joint discussion of the organization of Pampa's Civil Air Patrol. Earl McConnell is scheduled to show films having to do with present day aviation trends. Coy Palmer, manager of Radio Station KPON, and Pete Welborn are to be on the program for special entertainment numbers. E. O. Wedgeworth, manager of the local chamber of commerce is to be master of ceremonies for the program. Free transportation, to carry the fliers from the airport to the Country Club and back again, has been arranged by the association.

EMORY, Ga. — (AP) — Need some tongue-twisting exercises? Try Associate Professor George Neely's roll call as a starter. Neely, who teaches English to foreign students at Emory University, struggles from Tawing-wang Duiwabodhi, through Shigemitsu Kuriyama, to Klaus Zelle, as he checks attendance of the 28 foreign students from 14 countries. It's not all one-sided however, for while the students perfect their English the professor is learning a few foreign words in exchange. Students claim he can now say "pop quiz" in Japanese, Siamese, Swedish, and Portuguese. Officers will be held at a banquet to be scheduled at a later date.

Youngster Finds She's Target for a Target

NEW YORK — (AP) — Little Judith Frank was accidentally hit by a large sleeve — a 20-foot target sleeve towed by a U.S. Marine plane. Nine-year-old Judy was aboard a cabin cruiser in Jamaica Bay, just off Long Island. The plane was coming in from a target practice run. The target sleeve was flowing behind. A mechanical release operated by the plane's pilot is supposed to cut the towline to permit the target to float down on the field as the plane lands. This time it didn't work. Others aboard the small boat saw the sleeve coming and ducked to safety. Judy didn't. She was sideswiped and suffered lacerations and scratches of the face, hand and head.

Palaver de Pampa

BEST PART OF Madame Autumn's regime is that it's also apple season, and they've never seemed so tasty as this year—

THERE'S A FRIEND of ours who's new here that couldn't believe those big, shiny apples in our fruit bowl

THERE'RE STILL SEVEN days in a week, but most of us just can't get around to visit that absentee in last week's Sunday school class

IN THE RELATIONSHIP of our women's organizations there's a note of unity for which we should be proud

ANOTHER LOG to add to the fire that Pampa is slightly mad about football—tickets are selling like wildfire to the December football banquet

THIS IS ABOUT the time of year that word starts coming home about the accomplishments of our collegiates away in school

PAMPA PANORAMA: The roses are still blooming in scattered spots about town, and we're wondering when we're going to get that first frost

"You can't tell me from a ghost 'Cause I'm here and then I ain't. Yep, speaking is what I like most. And I got two false faces—devil and saint! I watch you puzzle with witch's delight And then I'm off on a broomstick, out of sight!

G. W. Culbertsons Celebrate Their Golden Wedding

By CLAUDE EVERLY

WHITE DEER — (Special) —Mr. and Mrs. George W. Culbertson celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, Sunday, Oct. 22, with a dinner for their children and other close relatives

Seven of their eight children were present and served as hosts and hostesses: Mrs. P. H. Caylor, Pampa; Mrs. A. W. Koble, Rogers, Ark.

The receptions rooms were decorated with large bouquets of yellow roses and chrysanthemums, and the refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of yellow roses and candles

More than 80 persons called during the afternoon, out of town guests, in addition to those named, were Mrs. J. J. Crutchfield, W. H. Brady, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Morrison, A. G. Seitz, Mr. and Mrs. Bob McCoy, and Mrs. Ethel Pauley, Pampa

George Culbertson, a native Texan, and Marie George, a native of Tennessee, were married on Monday, Oct. 22, 1900, at Wichita Falls, in the Methodist parsonage

WENT TO THE CIRCUS They all went to the circus, and afterward Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Culbertson drove 15 miles to the home of his sister to spend the night. The next day they went back to Wichita Falls to buy their furniture

Mrs. Culbertson's marriage had dashed the hopes of several young men in the community. Before George arrived on the scene, she had had a great number of beaux, but had finally become engaged to one of them. She and Mr. Culbertson's sister were good friends and often did their sewing together. One evening when they were spending the night together, Mr. Culbertson, with another young man, came to visit his sister. After the callers had gone, Mrs. Culbertson, to her own surprise, thought to herself, "I might marry one of those fellows."

During those 45 years on the farm their crops were never halting out, and they had only three crop failures. Some of those years, however, were lean ones, as they recall. Mr. Culbertson had borrowed money from his brothers to get married on, and in those three years he had a month cash payment from a farm which they owned in partnership with a brother looked "mighty big" and paid most of the grocery bill

'Christian Influence in Modern Literature' Topic of Tyler Speech

"The Christian Influence in Modern Literature" was the Rev. Henry H. Tyler's subject as he spoke to El Progresso Club Tuesday in the home of Mrs. D. V. Burton.

He named "The Gauntlet" as a book that first set the pattern and gives a highly entertaining, but somewhat shallow understanding of the ministers and their problems.

In addition to modern fiction, the speaker discussed two other types of modern literature, those that deal with the world of the New Testament, Lloyd Douglas' "The Robe" and "The Big Fisherman"; and the popular, appealing books written by preachers that deal with people and their problems. These include Norman Vincent Peale's "The Art of Living," Harry Fosdick's "On Being a Real Person," and Peter Marshall's "Mr. Jones, Meet the Master."

Mrs. Grundy Morrison read a paper on "Women of the Bible." This program was the beginning of the club's study of "Pampano" and this week gave its attention to "Church Avenue."

'Constitution Of United States' 20th Century Topic

"The Constitution of the United States" was the theme of a meeting of the Twentieth Century Club, Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Ray J. Hagan, 1208 Christine.

Mrs. Vineyard opened the program with a quotation from William Pitt regarding the constitution: "It will be the wonder of the future generations and a model of all future constitutions."

After four months of hard work the constitution was adopted Sept. 17, 1947.

Mrs. Roy McKernan gave personal glimpses of the men who drafted the constitution of the United States. "It is a good time and a good place," Mrs. McKernan said, "on this United Nations Day for us to give thanks for our forefathers who gave us our constitution. Surely they were guided by divine power."

MR. AND MRS. CULBERTSON Helbert-Smith Vows Said in Texarkana

CULBERTSONS

(Continued from Page 13) daughter wanted to unite with a church. Mrs. Culbertson said they should all go together, and she, too, became a Methodist, and thereby that church received a devoted worker, for she has held every office open to women in that church and has been one of its most faithful and efficient members. She is also a devoted member of the Eastern Star, having served as worthy matron of the White Deer chapter, and can be depended upon to participate in every worthwhile civic project.

Mr. Culbertson was the youngest boy in a family of eight children; Mrs. Culbertson was the next to the youngest child in a family of eight, and they have reared eight children. They also have seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

"We have our ups and downs, as every family has," said Mrs. Culbertson, "but George has never drunk or smoked, and has always been a good provider."

Mrs. Culbertson, as he looked at a picture of his Maggie at 16, remarked "She was the picture of Wichita County," and to judge from the fervor with which he said it, he still thinks so!

And Mary Lived Happily Ever After

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Once upon a time there was a nice office worker named Mary. Mary lived a very average girl's existence.

She got up at the last possible minute in the morning, raced to the office, stopping to grab a doughnut and a cup of coffee en route. At noon she went out to lunch, frequently including a cocktail and a rich dessert, and when she was finished she window-shopped. In the afternoon she worked, but was a little tired from the cocktail and rich dessert and vaguely discontented with life on account of the window shopping.

When work was finished, Mary stopped off with her friends for a cocktail or cup of coffee, and then did some hurried marketing and then went home and had her dinner. Later, she visited, went to a movie, listened to the radio or even had dates.

However, one fine day Mary read an article in a newspaper about how she had better make a better life for herself, so she clipped out the article and went all out for the New Life.

She started getting up at seven o'clock, inaugurating the day with two glasses of water and some exercises on the bedroom floor. Then she showered, and took a long time getting her clothes and face on right. She had breakfast of fruit, wheat germ and cereal and black coffee. Then she walked briskly to work, and in the course of her work took time out frequently to check her posture, facial expressions, speech and attitudes. At lunch time she ate a little collation she'd prepared at home and for the other half-hour rested with her feet elevated, did things called "restricted posture routines," and some facial and eye routines, finally freshening herself up and returning to her work.

During the afternoon she wasn't fighting boredom and fatigue but even found time to keep on checking her posture, facial expressions, speech, attitudes and conversation. She went straight home from the office, "practiced relaxation" and read current events or a good novel. Or she planned future menus.

Then she rested with her feet elevated, did posture routines again and also face, lip, tongue and jaw exercises.

After all this she settled down to a dinner of salad, broiled meat, two vegetables and a glass of milk. From 7 p.m. until she went to bed on the stroke of 11, Mary groomed herself and her clothes. She washed and ironed. She rubbed oil all over her self.

Shower Honors Miss Helen Kiser

Feting Miss Helen Kiser, bride-elect of William R. Hogge, Amarillo, a miscellaneous shower was given Sunday in Holy Souls Parish Hall by Mrs. E. J. Dunigan, Jr., Mrs. R. E. McKernan, Mrs. J. W. Garman and Mrs. Tom O'Rourke, Jr.

Mrs. J. R. Hogge, Mrs. R. J. Kiser, the honoree and the hostesses wore white baby mum corsages tied with ice blue ribbon.

The tea table, covered with a linen cloth, was centered with a large bouquet of white dahlias. Misses Jean Chisholm and Harriett Kribbes poured from the silver services at each end of the table.

A short skit, written by Mrs. M. F. Roche, was presented by Mrs. V. L. Jamieson. Participating in it were Misses C. L. Sullivan, R. E. McKernan, E. E. McNutt, M. F. Roche, A. B. Zann, Johnny Schwind, R. J. Kiser, and Misses Jean Chisholm and Harriett Kribbes.

The gifts, which had been unwrapped before the guests arrived were displayed on a long table covered with a white cloth and trimmed with runners of ivory.

Mrs. W. T. Braly registered the 60 guests.

The engaged couple will be married at 9 a.m. Nov. 25 in Holy Souls Catholic church, the Rev. Otto M. Meyer officiating.

Robert Beall, McLean, Weds in Salt Lake City

MCLEAN — (Special) — Mrs. W. T. Wilson announces the recent marriage of her son, Robert W. Beall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Beall of Park City, Utah, to Miss Margaret Lyle Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin G. Miller of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Spencer W. Kimball pronounced the double-ring ceremony in the temple of the Latter Day Saints of Salt Lake City.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served in the Park City home of the bridegroom's parents.

The bridegroom and his parents were former residents of McLean. The couple will make their home in Salt Lake City, while Mr. Beall completes his studies in civil engineering at the University of Utah.

She set her hair, manicured her fingers, mended and wound up by soaking in a hot tub for 20 minutes. Then she went to bed.

After six months of this routine, Mary was the handsomest hermit that ever worked in a business office. Her employers thought she was a pearl and visitors to the office invariably remarked about what a well-groomed girl that was sitting over in the corner, sitting up very straight. The other girls in the office, with whom she used to have luncheon with a rich dessert or an after-work cocktail, soon gave up talking to Mary. They said she never seemed to be thinking about what she said, but just how she said it.

Finally Mary didn't have any chums any more and her new way of life completely precluded a chance of making any. One fine day Mary was resting with her feet elevated, doing her jaw, tongue and lip exercises and she suddenly heard herself saying: "I will never eat another mouthful of wheat germ cereal."

The next day she had two cocktails and two rich desserts for lunch, kept her feet on the floor all day and went to a double feature movie with a boy in the wholesale department. A month later they were married and now they both get up at the last possible minute, eat nothing but doughnuts for breakfast and haven't checked their posture for months. They are both getting overweight and they don't know much about the good current novels. But they are extremely happy. She rubbed oil all over her self.

Lefors Art, Civic Has Program on Topic 'Australia'

Mrs. Bob Brown was hostess Tuesday to the Lefors Art and Civic Club.

The program was on "Australia" and the roll call was answered by naming a plant, animal or resource of Australia. Mrs. Ray Boyd was program leader. Mrs. Bud Cumberledge spoke on "The People and Their Works" and Mrs. LeRoy Spence spoke on "The Land and Its Resources."

Mrs. Earl Atkinson, president, directed the business session. The club voted to help the Junior Art and Civic Club in sponsoring the Brownies.

Those present were Misses Maurice Upham, Howard Archer, R. H. Barion, Wayne Koscheski, J. C. Carter, Ray Boyd, Jennie Callan, Marion Brown, Bud Cumberledge, Earl Atkinson, Bill Watson, LeRoy Spence, R. L. Jordan, Bill Smith, Mac Winter, Mary Harlan, a guest, Mrs. Mark Diehl, and the hostess.

Birthday Party Fetes Faith Christine Macina

KELLEYSVILLE — (Special) — Faith Christine Macina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Macina of the Pakan community, was honored at a birthday dinner given in the home of Mrs. John Cullers, with her mother as co-hostess.

The guest of honor was presented with an orchid corsage from Mrs. Susie Langebach.

A birthday cake topped with 3 candles was on the dinner table which was covered with a yellow cloth, centered with a display of mums in autumn colors of yellow and bronze.

Dinner guests were Misses Martha Turnbow, Reita Boston, Barbara Golson, and Ila Carol Bledsoe, all of Shamrock.

A ceremony read in Clovis, N.M. on Oct. 9 united in marriage Naida Graham and J. R. Sparkman. The Rev. B. F. Madrox, pastor of the First Baptist Church, performed the wedding rites in his study at 11:30 a.m.

Mrs. Graham wore a plum colored suit with gray accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds. She has been associated with Highland General Hospital and Mr. Sparkman operates a grocery store in Lefors.

Mr. and Mrs. Sparkman went to New Mexico and Central Texas on a wedding trip and are now at home in Lefors.

Gambler Is Selling Bullet Proof Auto

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Today's transportation special: bullet proof Cadillac. At the ridiculous low price of $16,500 no family need be without one. Why walk? See Mickey Cohen, gambler.

Cohen, often the target of gangland bullets, is selling his custom built armored car because the California Highway Patrol denied him the special permit he needs to operate it.

Bullet proof cars, the patrol ruled, are for use only by money-carrying express firms and the like, not gamblers.

Burton Chalmers, who armored the car and is acting as agent for its sale, says it is even superior to the models used by President Truman.

WINDOW WHIMSY

Have you been wishing you could give your living room windows a new treatment without a lot of work and expense? Draperies can use up precious space in a small living room and make furniture placement difficult.

For a novel, easy-to-keep-clean plan that will make your windows look world's larger, try putting wallpaper panels about twelve or fourteen inches wide up each side from the floor to the top of the window. Then cover a scalloped—or straight-edged valance box with the wallpaper, and you have a striking effect for almost any type room.

Choose the wallpaper with the colors and the patterns of your room in mind. Bold geometrics for Modern; Colonial or Medallion patterns for Early American or French Provincial.

WE, THE WOMEN

By RUTH MILLET
NEA Staff Writer

SHARE THOUGHTS

What does a wife mean when she says, "My husband never really talks to me any more." Judging from the letters I receive from wives who make that lonely complaint, the wives feel that their husbands no longer share their ideas and plans and hopes. The only kind of conversation they have concern the details of daily living. There is no real exchange of ideas.

When a man stops sharing his ideas, his hopes and fears, his new found convictions with his wife he is actually shutting her out of his life, even though he continues to spend all of his leisure time with her.

For when two persons fall in love, that is one of the greatest wonders, the finding of someone they can really talk to about things that matter most, confident that they will be understood and not criticized or laughed at.

It is a fundamental part of courtship and of early marriage. Women rightly feel that it should last as a permanent foundation for marriage.

WHY DOESN'T IT LAST?

Why so many men feel they don't need to keep on with this sharing of ideas after they have been married a while is hard to say.

Perhaps they come to depend on business associates and men friends for this kind of companionship, and so don't need to find it at home.

But women need it from their husbands. And the woman who says, "My husband never really talks to me any more," is a lonely woman who feels that she has been cheated.

In a way she has. For a woman can't really share a man's life if she isn't allowed to share his thoughts or the things that are really important to him.

Tyler Lions Sell Pencils Despite Court's Opinion

TYLER — (AP) — The Tyler Lions Club is going ahead with its sale of a pencil and chance on a new car for a dollar, believing "public opinion has overruled the effect" of the state lottery law.

The Lions started selling pencils as soon as they got word that the Sixth Court of Civil Appeals in Texarkana had dissolved an injunction against the sale. Proceeds are to be used to buy glasses for underprivileged children.

A district judge, in issuing the temporary injunction, had called the Lions' plan a lottery. The appeals court agreed.

But the three-judge court said a court of equity could not restrain the commission of a crime. Justice I. N. Williams, who wrote the opinion, said dissolution of the injunction would allow the Lions to resume selling the pencils and automobile chances. But he said that any member who did so faced possible criminal charges and was subject to indictment under the state gambling and lottery laws.

"Technically it may be a violation of the law," said Olin D. Pittman, president of the club, "but we believe public opinion has overruled the effect of the law."

He said the club will give away the auto as originally planned at its annual Halloween carnival Oct. 31.

Guill Forecasts U.S. Budget To Rise to $90,000,000,000

Rep. Ben Guill, Pampa, congressman from the 18th U.S. Congressional District, spoke Thursday and Friday to the Lions and Kiwanis clubs, respectively.

Guill stated, in a speech on the national budget of the United States, that the budget for 1951 probably will total at least $90,000,000,000 by the time all defense measures are written into it. He said that in July of this year, the 1951 budget was set at $40,000,000,000 and had already increased to about $60,000,000,000 and is still going up.

The representative remarked that it was his belief that when Congress convenes again in November after election time, that the law-making body will be asked to raise taxes again.

Guill, who has favored all-out controls since he became active in national politics, stated that "as much as I dislike all-out controls, I think if we had put them into effect some months ago, we would not have the inflation we have now."

The Republican representative from the Texas Panhandle gave an example Regulation which curbs credit privileges. He said all-out controls might have stopped this type of control.

Guill told both groups that the regulation will affect the relations between management and labor to such an extent that it will be necessary for those two groups to "sit down and talk it over."

"One thing lacking in the United States today," Guill remarked, "is the faith of labor and management in each other. We have set back and let it be a crime to make any money in this country," he emphasized, "and it's time we pulled our heads out of the sand and talked it over."

The representative made the statement that every 19-year-old youth will have to serve in the armed forces, and that there is a good chance that the 18-year-olds will be called in too.

"Did you know," he questioned, "that every trained man in our armed forces was committed in the Korean war? That reserves were picked up off the streets and committed to war in less than three weeks—men who had not been in combat for five years?"

He continued, "did you know that about one regiment of trained men remained in the U.S. to protect our shores and train new recruits?"

Guill said he was afraid that when Congress convenes after the November elections that it would be asked to draft the 18-year-olds. He said we would have to either take that group or those who served in the last war and have married and are raising a family.

"Let's keep our personal problems out of Washington," Guill stated. "Let's stop depending on Uncle Sam to settle our little differences," he concluded, "in this time of stress when every moment is needed for the betterment of our nation."

Storm Knocks Out Utilities And Henry Has His Troubles

By HENRY McLEMORE

A hurricane is an unpleasant thing to go through, to say the least, but one every once in a while is good for the soul. Honestly, I have a feeling that the one we had recently in Florida was sent by the Lord to let Floridians know that life can't all be sunshine, lolling on the beach, picking oranges in your own backyard, and watching sheriff's convicts with gamblers.

When a wind hits gale force, and then keeps on picking up speed until it becomes a hurricane, it gives men and women a new sense of values. Right quick too.

When a man's house starts tilting so that the piano plays tag with him in the living room, he is very likely to worry about his own skin, and the skins, of those he cares about, and not about his shares in Consolidated Solids, or his alma mater's ranking in the national football standings.

When winds reach a spirited gallop of 100 m.p.m., or better, and start doing the things they do at such a speed, a man realizes how dependent he is on a lot of people he ordinarily doesn't think much about.

Last night I dreamed a about linemen, electricians, plumbers, roofers, sheet metal workers, paint and glass company workers, and rubbish removers. I wished them all well in my dreams because I had need of every one of them.

How long since you've stayed in a house without electricity? Oh, it's terrible. For modern man the hardship is comparable to anything suffered by the pioneers of covered wagon days.

In fact, I believe I'd rather be shot at by red Indians than grope around a house with a candle that was constantly being blown out, or when it wasn't out dripped hot tallow all over me.

With the power off the stove wouldn't work, the refrigerator stopped refrigerating, the telephone was deader than Alexander Graham Bell, and I couldn't turn on the radio to try to get the cheerful news that somebody was worse off than I was.

There was no such thing as running over to a neighbor's and stealing a flashlight or a lantern, for to poke your head out of doors was to risk being blown to the outskirts of Kookuk.

I have barked two or three times since I got up this morning, and I'll tell you why. When we had burned up every left-over Christmas candle in the place we decided to eat. It was as dark as a chimney sweep's ears but I managed to open a can of corned beef hash, which we ate cold, covered with ketchup.

This morning the can of corned beef hash was still on the pantry shelf, but an empty can of dog food was on the sink.

With the storm still going on it was impossible to go to bed because any second it might have been necessary to put on our water wings and head for dry land. So I decided to read by the light of book matches.

This calls for a lot of doing.

Q: How does ebony compare with white oak in weight?
A: Ebony weighs a little bit more when the identical sizes are used for comparison purposes. It weighs 80 pounds per cubic foot when dry.

Q: Do the French and Spanish capitalize the names of the months?
A: No.

Q: How does the Mexican boundary of the United States compare with that of Canada?
A: The Mexican boundary is approximately 2013 miles. The length of the northern boundary, excluding Alaska, is 3987 miles.

I could have slapped the faces of those who told me they got by with very little trouble. Is that human nature, or is that just me?

Burmese Love Calls Are Given Priority

RANGOON — (AP) — Members of Burma's Parliament claim that Burmese telephone operators devote more time to "love calls" than to subscribers' calls. One MP said idly - inclined operators resorted to the trick of telling subscribers the required number was "engaged." Actually they were attempting to become "engaged" themselves. Postal employees came in for their share of wrath as well. Dishonesty and slackness were charged. MPs said letters from abroad were misappropriated while parcels "never reached addressees."

VET HOME—The W. R. Hartman home, 2915 Duncan, which held the first session of a weekend open house on Saturday presents a challenge to the modern home-builder. Mr. Hartman, a paraplegic veteran of World War II, has acquired a dwelling that defies comparison. Throughout the length and breadth of this structure are to be found the most ingenious devices the builders could contrive for this unique home. From ramp-type walks and drives, to extra-wide door, an abundance of light from all sides, shoulder-high mirrors and other conveniences, the home embodies all that "Goob" Hartman has dreamed of for his permanent home. No. 1 Shimbun Alley Home For Korea Correspondents

By BILL ROSS
 TOKYO — (AP) — Most news of the Korean war is covered by the traffic that flows in and out of the five-story building at No. 1 Shimbun Alley. This hotel caught in the crush of a city is the location of the Tokyo American Legion convention. Correspondents' Club. It isn't a pretentious club and definitely was not intended to accommodate the nearly 300 correspondents who called it home. But in Tokyo it was the only place reporters really felt at home.

Rarely did newsmen have an opportunity to spend more than a couple of days. They would fly in from Korea after two weeks or more at the front to take a quick breather and to write copy.

The correspondents slept dormitory-style except for a dozen or so "old Japan hands" who were permanent club residents. The tiny bar operated virtually around the clock until weary correspondents — back from Korea for an honest to goodness rest — complained to the executive committee about the post-midnight noise.

A heavy-eyed investigating committee of three groped down the stairs to the bar and found 43 persons — all non-members of the club and all non-reporters. After the first few weeks of the war, you could almost always see a correspondent with an arm or leg in a cast resting in the lounge. There were other battered and beaten reminders of the toll the Korean war inflicted on newsmen who covered it.

But perhaps the grimmest memories were stirred by the mail boxes, with ever increasing stacks of letters and packages addressed to those correspondents who would never return to the club — to those who lost their lives on the embattled peninsula or en route there.

BIG BATTLE
 HOUSTON — (AP) — The Rice-Santa Clara football contest, which dedicated the new O'w stadium here this season, was the only regular-season game in the country that pitted two undefeated major bowl teams. Rice won the Cotton Bowl crown from North Carolina, 27-13, in Dallas Jan. 2, while Santa Clara upset Kentucky, 21-13 in the Miami Orange Bowl. Rice beat the Broncos here, 27-7.

Studer Ranch Is Broken Up For Game Experimentation

By ED FOSS

This week will mark the end of an era for the J. C. Studer and Sons Ranch. The Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission will assume title to 5,000 acres of the ranch near Canadian, to be used for game experimentation purposes.

The Studer and Sons Ranch has produced. There are many old timers who will be sorry to see a landmark in the Texas Panhandle: a concrete example of what hard work and ambition that the game commission could get no better piece of land for its purposes.

It was in 1886 when J. C. Studer came to Texas from Kiowa, Kan. He left the railroad, where he had been working as a blacksmith, and bought the original ranch track from a man who wished to get out of the business. He acquired the adjoining land through grazing privileges. The railroad hadn't reached that far, so supplies were brought in by wagon from Dodge City, Kan.

From the very first, the Studer and Sons Ranch has been engaged in the raising of cattle. The ranch was once the home of the famous Hereford bull, Anvil Bocaldo. The Studer brand is an anvil and was chosen because Studer got his start as a blacksmith. Anvil Bocaldo's original name was Clancy, but it was decided to change this name to Onvil Bocaldo because of the brand and another famous bull named Bocaldo.

In 1889, Studer built the original ranch house which still stands today. The house has since been stuccoed, but the same cottonwood frame has lasted all these years and is still in use. Before the town of Canadian was founded, a town grew up on the ranch. This town was called Clear Creek and had a population of approximately 24 citizens. There was also a public school on the Studer land for many years. When the railroad came through that part of the country, the town of Canadian was founded and the residents of Clear Creek moved there. Later on the school was also moved.

In 1919 Mr. Studer started an annual rodeo as a hobby. Around the arena he built a grandstand which would hold about 5,000 spectators. This rodeo was held annually until 1940 and was the forerunner of the Canadian rodeo. At this time the famous Will Rogers was working as a cowboy on the adjoining ranch, but he never competed in the Studer rodeo.

In the same year in which he started the rodeos, Studer built the first of the three lakes which are on the ranch. This lake was opened up as a public beach and operated as such from 1919 to 1925. Individual bathing houses were built, and people came from miles around to swim in the Studer lake. Since there was so little swimming in the country, most of the swimmers didn't own their own swimming suits. About 96 percent of the customers rented them.

The state will take two of the lakes when they move in. These lakes have been stocked a very year since each was built. Needless to say, they are now both excellent bass lakes.

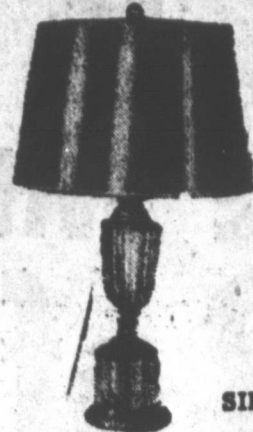

The Game Commission will use the land for experimentation in quail, prairie chicken, deer, turkey, and fish studies. The ranch abounds in all types of wild life and should be ideally suited for its intended purpose.

John Studer, Gray County attorney, has estimated the game population to be as follows: 200 deer, 300 turkey, 150 coveys of quail, and countless prairie chickens.

"I had to do something—she's a slowpoke when she crosses the track!"

HE CAME TO KILL

by ADELINE McELFRESH

Copyright 1950 by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Youthful Leena Thorne dislikes the atmosphere of Thorne Hill, where her grand, matriarchal great aunt, Margaret Thorne, rules with an iron hand. Under "Aunt Maggie's" thumb are her younger sister Agatha, who is 74, her nephew Jasper, and Jasper's discontented wife Sondra. The tension of the place seems to increase on the eve of a visit from Peter, Jasper's brother. Leena goes to meet Peter and as she chats briefly with Deputy Sheriff Mart Preston the train pulls in and a polished man steps off and asks Leena if she "by any chance" had come from "deah-deah Aunt Margaret's."

LEANA tried not to show her surprise. Peter Thorne was too good-looking, too immaculate just to have finished a long train trip, too—English. He couldn't be Jasper's brother! He was more of a match for Sondra.

And certainly he bore no resemblance to the wizened little woman who was "deah-deah Aunt Margaret."

Leena introduced herself.

"Ah, yes," he said expansively. "Roger's daughter. Of course. How is poor old Rog these days?"

It was an insult the way he said it, coupled with the wise, wry smile that said so many things. Leena felt her Irish rising.

She said hastily, "Pops is fine, thank you."

"Still—ah—newspapering?"

"That's rather a strange way to put it," Leena retorted. Realizing that they had not moved from the spot where she had been standing when Peter first spoke, and that Martin Preston still was watching from the doorway, she suggested, "The car's this way, Peter. Have you luggage?"

"I checked it through. Will you see if it's come, please?"

He thrust baggage checks into her hand and stroled off toward the car. Leena stared after him.

"Your mouth's open."

Too astounded to be angry—even with Mart Preston—Leena stammered, "Well, of all the—"

"Ah—ah," warned the tall young deputy sheriff. "Little girls mustn't cuss."

"I wasn't, but—Ye gods! Who does he think he is?"

Martin Preston's laugh started deep and ran. "One of the best on, youngster," he said. "I'll help you with the gentleman's bags."

SONDRA THORNE, Jasper's wife, met them at the door.

"Well, Peter," was her greeting. "So you've come home."

"So you've come home."

"Only for a little while, Sondra, old girl. A very little while. You don't begrudge me that, surely?"

His voice taunted her, the cold blue-gray eyes turned to granite as they met hers. But the amused smile did not flicker on Sondra's lips. Peter Thorne's sister-in-law was very, very sure of herself. Leena thought—and wondered what, besides their mutual hatred of old Miss Maggie, was between them.

"Of course I don't," Sondra spoke now in the tone Leena privately referred to as "purting."

"It's just that I doubt that anyone could have a sane, legitimate reason for coming back here. Especially you, Peter."

Leena's eyes flew to Peter's face in time to catch the fury he masked so swiftly; then she glanced back to Sondra.

But Sondra had turned toward the stairs.

"Ask Jones to bring in Peter's things, won't you, Leena?" she flung over her shoulder. "And do go tell Jasper his brother has arrived."

Leena swallowed her sprouting fear.

"You'll find your aunt in her

Sondra Thorne, Jasper's wife, met them at the door. "Well, Peter," was her greeting. "So you've come home."

room," she told Peter Thorne. "She'll want to see you at once, I imagine."

Peter Thorne actually smiled. "I doubt that, cousin, but I shall be back here, as the saying goes."

Leena said airily, "I'm immune to tall handsome men who feel sorry for themselves."

"Indeed? And do it?"

"You must. Why else would a rising young lawyer be soored on the world?"

"Of all the impudent—" For a split second, Peter Thorne's accent slipped, revealing a broad Hoosier twang that more than repaid Leena for antagonizing another of the Thorne clan. Then he recaptured it and added, "Undoubtedly I will see you later, Cousin Leena."

"Undoubtedly, Miss Maggie relies on me quite a bit."

Conscious of Peter Thorne's puzzled eyes following her, Leena went in search of Jasper and old Arthur Jones, who had been the Thorne's man-of-all-work for so many years he had forgotten just when he did come to Thorne Hill.

JASPER was in his study at the rear of the long east wing of the rambling old house. He looked up from his typewriter when she paused in the open door.

"Oh," he said. "He's come, has he?"

"Yes."

"And Sondra has met him, I suppose?" Without giving Leena time to reply, he said, "I knew she would. She can't forget that she could have been Mrs. Peter ejected from the track without cause and his wife insisted she was pushed down a flight of cement steps. Officers testified the man parked his automobile in a restricted zone and became belligerent when he was asked to move it.

The puppet show gained favor in England after the Puritans banned live acting in 1642.

Halloween Carnival Set for Shamrock

SHAMROCK — (Special) Shamrock High School will be the scene of the annual Halloween carnival here Tuesday night. Portions of the junior high will also be used, but there will be no festivities at any of the ward schools.

Entertainment will get underway at 6:30 p.m. with a dinner served at the high school by the home economics girls under the supervision of Miss Borth, vocational home economics instructor.

All types of entertainment, suitable for all ages, have been arranged, and booths with food and soft drinks will be handy at many points as the various groups vie for votes for their queen candidate and for other class plans.

Queens will race until the final moment, and at 9:30 p.m., in the high school gymnasium, the winner will be crowned. Candidates are Louan Howard, senior; Glenda Thompson, junior; Ila Carol Bledsoe, sophomore; and Katherine Kidwell, freshman.

Queens will be accompanied for the coronation by 25 princesses and escorts, one for each grade in the Shamrock system.

The ideals of primitive Christianity are high, even at our door. Truth is not lost in the mists of remoteness or the barbarisms of spiritless codes.

Sondra Thorne, Jasper's wife, met them at the door. "Well, Peter," was her greeting. "So you've come home."

"So you've come home."

"Only for a little while, Sondra, old girl. A very little while. You don't begrudge me that, surely?"

His voice taunted her, the cold blue-gray eyes turned to granite as they met hers. But the amused smile did not flicker on Sondra's lips. Peter Thorne's sister-in-law was very, very sure of herself. Leena thought—and wondered what, besides their mutual hatred of old Miss Maggie, was between them.

"Of course I don't," Sondra spoke now in the tone Leena privately referred to as "purting."

"It's just that I doubt that anyone could have a sane, legitimate reason for coming back here. Especially you, Peter."

Leena's eyes flew to Peter's face in time to catch the fury he masked so swiftly; then she glanced back to Sondra.

But Sondra had turned toward the stairs.

"Ask Jones to bring in Peter's things, won't you, Leena?" she flung over her shoulder. "And do go tell Jasper his brother has arrived."

Leena swallowed her sprouting fear.

"You'll find your aunt in her

Snow White Staged By Shamrock Band

SHAMROCK — (Special) — "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," a New York stage play, will be presented on the stage of the Clark Auditorium in Shamrock at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Only one performance is slated, under the sponsorship of the Shamrock band.

Real dwarfs will be in the production which has performed in metropolitan centers and is now on tour.

There will be very beautiful costumes and scenery of fairylend beauty," reports Band Director Ray Showalter.

This is the second program sponsored by the Irish band. In the fourth week of school they sponsored a circus.

ROME OPENS 'WHITE WAY' FOR SIGHTSEER—Floodlights installed at the ancient Roman Colosseum permit visitors to the city to view the famous landmark at night.

HOW STATES VOTED IN '48—Newschart above, based on statistics compiled by the American Heritage Foundation, gives the 1948 voting record of all 48 states. Percentages are calculated by taking the number of those who voted against the potential voting population. Grand prize goes to Utah, where 74.6 per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls; dance cap goes on Alabama, where only 13.74 per cent voted.

MOO-O-O MUSIC—In Fennville, Mich., farmer Aml Miller uses a bugle to call in his cows for milking. Miller says his musically inclined bovines respond to any instrument, to the extent of swaying and occasionally executing a tricky, four-footed dance step. Their favorite song is probably the "Cow Cow Boogie."

'MAO DAY' IN PEKING—A bunch of the Reds were whoopin' it up for Mao Tse-Tung when this striking photo was made in Peking. The photo—with caption material from an official Communist China source—shows workers carrying hundreds of pictures of the Red China leader in the recent National Day Parade in Peking. The procession celebrated the first anniversary of the founding of "The People's Republic of China." (Eastfoto from NEA-Acme Telephoto.)

THE FIELD HITS THE TURN—The 38 horses in the 2 1/4-mile Cesarewitch Stakes take the turn at Newmarket, England. The race was won by King George's filly, Above Board.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Don't Forget Your Partner

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
A simple little matter like keeping score shouldn't bother canasta players, but judging by my mail it does. Here are a few questions and answers.

Q—At the start of the last hand my side had a score of 4860 and the opponents 4240. They went out and also gained points on us the next hand. When we totaled the score we had 5390 and they had 5200. They claim that they won the game since they went out and outscored us on the last hand. Are they right?
A—They could not be more wrong. The laws of canasta clearly provide that if both sides score the 5000 point mark the side with the greater number of points wins the game.

Q—The other night we played four games against another couple. We won the first three by small scores and they slaughtered us in the last game. As a result we lost points on the evening. Shouldn't there be a bonus awarded to the side that wins the game?
A—The laws commission believes that canasta is a game of points and that the addition of a game bonus would not improve the game. Of course, you were out of luck on this particular occasion but the chances are that the next time you play you may reverse the procedure and win the big game.

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—The Women:
It's plenty OK with Jane Russell if Howard Hughes and Louis B. Mayer get together on a co-starring picture for her with Clark Gable.

"I've read that Clark wants to do a picture with me and I'm thrilled," she told me on the set of "Macao." "Just any time Clark beckons, I'll come running."

Bob Mitchell, co-starring with Jane for the second time, came over and gazed sardonically at her.

"You know what?" he asked. "You exude ectoplasm."

Jane grinned. "You're a doll." Jane says she's Sadie Thompson with a good heart in this one.

"She's more than a dull female. I remember when I had to walk like a stuffed corpse. John Farrow let me relax in 'His Kind of Woman' and now Von Sternberg is howling because I'm not leaning enough. That means relaxing. Seems like slowly but surely they're letting me be myself."

Diana Lynn carries around a 55-pound chimpanzee in Uta "Best Time for Bonzo" and is surprising even hubby John Lindsay with her muscle power.

"I hope the schedule on this picture isn't too long," Diana confided. "That chimp's a growing boy."

But kinks about Bonzo's scene-stealing, though.

"Chimps and kids steal pictures and I was a child actress. I guess it's one of those 'sins of the fathers' things."

LUPINO-DUFF DUET

Ida Lupino and Howard Duff, who met during the making of "Woman in Hiding," want to do another picture together.

"Only nobody's asked us to yet," Duff said from a restaurant booth he was sharing with Ida.

Ida smiled. "Maybe I'm telling tales out of school, but Howard would like to be a director."

"That's right," said Howard. "I asked him if he had a hankering to be directed by Ida.

"Why not?"

Ida laughed and muttered something about Claire Trevor. The idea of directing a show buff movie queen, she told me, had given her the shakes when she started work on "Mother of a Champion."

"I was never so nervous in my life. Going up to her and asking if she'd mind doing this or that, I'll say this, though. She's going to be the most sex-appealing mother ever on the screen."

Mercedes McCambridge as MORGAN. Mercedes McCambridge probably will play the role of Helen Morgan when Sam Goldwyn gets around to filming "Billion Dollar Baby."

"Mr. Goldwyn saw me in 'The Scarf—I sing 'Summer Rain' in it—and he thinks it's just great. He keeps saying, 'Oh, my goodness! It was wonderful!'

Mercedes starts out as a woman of 25 and ends up as 45 and the richest woman in San Francisco in MGM's "Inside Straight."

"It's a wonderful part," she sighed. "In one scene I play a hand of poker for $3,000,000."

Blonde, busy Pat Williams, who was met Marie Wilson's understudy, gets her first screen kiss from Peter Lawford in "An American in Paris." She whispered:

"I was scared stiff, but Peter was very helpful, if you know what I mean."

MGM, according to Pat, isn't planning to make a Marie Wilson out of her.

"How could there be another one?" she asks.

Albee Canfield who wrote "What Makes Clark Gable Tick" for a national magazine, has been an unhappy young lady ever since the yarn's publication. She wails:

"You read the story and there's nothing in it about what makes Gable tick. The editors cut out that part, all 10 pages of it."

What makes Gable tick, according to Albee, is his "correct" marriages, his respect for publicity man Howard Strickling's advice and his knowledge that he can play only one type of role.

Word around town is that Peggy Castle's performance as Betty Davis' daughter in a "Story of a Divorce" will make her U.S.

Texan Makes Wager With St. Louis Cops

ST. LOUIS — (AP) — Somewhere in Texas a wage ing football fan will be surprised to know he placed a $1,000 bet on this Saturday's games with St. Louis Police, not a St. Louis bookmaker.

Members of the squad took over the phones and reported they took $10,000 worth of bets in two hours. One of the wagers was $1,000 "across the boards" from Texas. America's first handmade pressed glass was made in the early 1860's at Cape Cod's Sandwich factory.

Steel Executives Discuss Price Hike, Other Problems

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK — (AP) — Steel executives are talking about raising the price of steel—basic to a multitude of things you use every day. But that's only one of their problems today. They are also negotiating on increasingly sharper prodding of top men in Washington. All of these things are coming to a head at once, and apparently the decision will come soon. Steelmen are straining their mills at the greatest rate in history to turn out the largest tonnage ever. But shortages are still reported. Gray market prices are said to be three times mill prices on some short items. Studebaker closed down for five days, saying it couldn't get enough steel. And military orders for steel will not hit the mills in volume before the first of the year—when allocations for civilian use will be cut further. Directors of the second largest company, Bethlehem Steel, meet Thursday. They probably will discuss what to do about dividends, what to do about prices, what to do about wages. Directors of the largest company, U.S. Steel, meet a week from today, and may discuss the same problems. Both may also tackle the twin problems of expansion: how the industry is to finance its promised 9.4 million ton expansion by the end of 1952; and whether it can meet the demands of some in the government for still greater expansion.

Fifteen Businesses Fail During August

AUSTIN — (AP) — Fifteen business failures were reported in Texas in September. That was five more failures than in August but six less than in September a year ago. University of Texas Bureau Business Research has reported. Read The News Classified Ad
