(Questions folks suffering from aches in legs, arms, back, shoulders; stomach disturbances, indigestion, gas pains and a general run-down condition when due to lack of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin)

By RANDY DURAND
THE QUESTION
Do you take the new product HADACOL, which everyone is talking about, for deficiencies of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin? If so, what are the results?

THE ANSWERS

Henry Puckett, 218 South College Avenue, Bluefield, Virginia: "I suffered from appetite picked stomach distress and gas. I was unable to rest at night and couldn't get any relief. But since I've been taking HADACOL, I can eat anything I want and sleep like a log. Thanks to HADACOL."

Mrs. Nora Behrns of 633 South Knight, Wichita, Kansas: "I suffered from nagging aches and pains and had trouble sleeping at night. After taking only one bottle of HADACOL, my pains went away. I started sleeping like a log. My appetite picked up and I started feeling fine. I want to tell all the people I can how HADACOL helped me."

Mr. Don Lloyd, 2705 West 35th Street, Austin, Texas: "The job of a newspaper district route man is a strenuous one, involving lifting many large bundles of newspapers. Before taking HADACOL, my pains were from aches and pains which made my duties a painful task. After several bottles of HADACOL, all pain disappeared. I feel better in every way."

Mrs. Joe Bukowski, 921 Sanborn, Oklahoma: "Before I started to take HADACOL, it was impossible for me to do my housework. I was weak, didn't sleep well and lacked an appetite. But since taking HADACOL, I now do all my housework, sleep well and have a good appetite. I'm really 100% better since taking HADACOL."

NOTE: You can get this wonderful new HADACOL at any drug store in this locality. HADACOL is so effective because it doesn't give symptomatic relief—HADACOL relieves the real cause of aches and pains in arms, legs, shoulders, back, stomach distress and a general run-down condition when due to lack of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin in your system. Costs only a small amount per day. Trial-size only $1.25. Large family or hospital-size, $3.50.

miles northeast of Pyongyang, the fallen North capital.

But a spokesman at U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said a Rok column had thrust north of Hunchong, almost another 50 miles north of Pukchong in the center of the peninsula.

This column was within 50 miles or less of the Manchuria border. The South Korean Sixth Division was pursuing the Reds up a new escape route toward Kanggye, reported to be Red Premier Kim's new army command headquarters.

Air observers said leading Rok Sixth Division elements were two miles north of Hunchong at 9:45 Monday (6:15 p. m. CST, Sunday). Heavy traffic in Red Korean vehicles and troops was seen moving north from Hunchong toward Kanggye, reported to be the new headquarters of Red Premier Kim.

The South Korean First Division crossed the Chongchon River at Kumu, north of Sunchong. A Rok First Division task force captured Tokchon, 23 miles northwest of Kumu. It probed farther north.

Another Rok First Division task force was in Anju, southwest of Kumu. On the east coast, twin Rok Capital Division columns stabbed toward the Manchuria border. One column sliced north of Cho, within 65 miles of Manchuria. The other drove along the coastal road to the outskirts of Iwon, 18 miles north of Pukchong. It was 15 miles from Chongjin, the last big Red Korean city on the road to the Soviet border.

Bypassed Red troops were reported operating south of captured Wonsan, but air observers could not locate them. Wonsan still was closed by the big Russian type minefield. Supplies were landed south of Wonsan and moved north by rail.

South Korean units captured a train Sunday with five Red tanks in good condition. The British Commonwealth brigade crossed the Chongchon River northwest of Sinanju.

at convincing world public opinion the Soviet Union is the guarantor of world peace.

Diplomats feel the Kremlin is genuinely worried by the almost unanimous world support for United Nations action in Korea. They say Moscow wants to convince the world, especially Asia, that Russia is for peace despite her support of the North Koreans — labelled as aggressors by the U. N.

One western diplomat said Russian disavowal of the North Koreans and support for the U. N. forces would be much more effective proof of peaceful intentions than submission of a glittering peace plan.

He said that if the world had faith in Russia's protestations, it would not have been necessary for the political committee to vote the veto-free General Assembly power to combat aggression. It did this last week.

While the 60-nation committee debates Vishinsky's proposals, the Big Five plan to hold a secret conference to try and reach agreement on a new U. N. secretary general.

Russia vetoed a new term for American-backed Trygve Lie in the Security Council and suggested the talks as a means of finding someone else.

The conference, who will include U. S. representative Warren R. Austin, Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb and Russia's Jacob A. Malik — plan to meet in Austin's New York office.

The scheduled to circulate the results of their conversations privately Tuesday and report them to the full 11-member council Wednesday.

An informed American source said it was doubtful if any agreement could be reached now, but the U. S. was willing to try.

Death Calls Off Birthday Party

BIG RAPIDS, Mich. — (AP) — One little girl invited another little girl to her birthday party — at a hospital.

The party will be next Tuesday. But it's too late now. Carol Lorene Park, 5, who was invited, died Saturday at Reed City Hospital. Born a blue baby, Carol succumbed to her heart defect.

The invitation came from Alice Benson, 7, who is a patient at Mecosta County Convalescent Hospital. Alice has what is feared to be an incurable spinal ailment.

Alice's nurses had suggested the invitation to Carol. They didn't know that Carol also had gone to a hospital. And they aren't going to tell Alice now what has happened.

Horace Mann Is Hit by Vandals

Vandals were at work in Pampa over the weekend, according to H. A. Doggett, juvenile officer.

Several youths broke into Horace Mann School Friday or Saturday night, by smashing a door. Apparently, the youths went to the cafeteria in look of something to destroy, as milk, eggs and orange juice were scattered about the floor.

School officials report nothing missing. No arrests have been made in connection with the case.

mittie, however, went ahead with it at this year's session with formal approval.

"We worked like Trojans to make it work," McKellar said, referring to his Senate committee.

He said the "big trouble" was that the huge bill, making appropriations of about $35,000,000, was thrown on the Senate near the end of the session.

The appropriations probably would have been considered more carefully in Senate debate, he said, if they had been broken up into separate bills which could have been passed by the House and taken up in the Senate earlier, as in the past.

But tending to offset that, McKellar said, was that the fact that his Senate committee went to work gathering information on the money needs of each department without waiting for action by the House, where all appropriation measures originate.

In the past, he said, the Senate committee has been a sort of referee or appeals court to which government officials could come if they felt their money requests had been dealt with unfairly by the House.

Religion, if it be true, is central truth; and all knowledge which is not gathered round it, and quickened and illuminated by it, is hardly worthy the name. —Channing.

decided "to sit down and wait for rescuers."

"They told me it was about midnight," Herbie Harkless said, "and I was tired and cold. Then I heard some yelling later and I knew they were coming to get us. I felt better."

One of five rescue groups, using twin safety lines to permit a safe return to the entrance, came on the little group. They were in a large chamber about 25 feet from floor to ceiling — a weird setting of stalagmites, stalactites and whirring bats.

The news that they were safe was greeted by a cheer from the hundreds gathered at the cave mouth.

Young Herbie Harkless was given some soup and put to bed immediately. His other companions stayed up a little longer to tell the tale of their adventure to a wide awake town.

"Andy," the little cocker spaniel, and the two bloodhounds used in the search, each got a bone and some sleep.

Truman had said the United States is increasing its arm and strength "because soviet policies leave us no other choice." The Americans, he added, "are going ahead in dead earnest to build up our defenses."

While the wide scope of Chiropractic is amazing the uninformed, we do NOT recommend Chiropractic as a CURE-ALL. Chiropractic is effective in those cases only where the cause is found to be defective in organic energization due to spinal misalignment (subluxation). Most all of our cases are those that had previously resisted ordinary methods of healing. Our examination is designed to eliminate those we can't help.

URITIS
A Chiropractor who declared that nerve pressure was the cause of his trouble. The pressure was traced to a twisted bony segment of the spine which the chiropractor adjusted back to normal. Immediately the heartburn subsided and little by little all other symptoms disappeared.

HEADACHES
CASE HISTORY NO. 1024. A well known radio artist whose career was threatened by persistent headaches of a pounding, throbbing nature. Medication failed to bring relief and his broadcasting activities were frequently curtailed. Hearing of an aunt who had recovered from neuritis under Chiropractic care, he decided to see what spinal adjustments would do for him. X-ray photographs were taken of the spine, and a mal-positioned vertebra was located and adjusted. Seconds after the first adjustment the headache ceased and has returned since only at infrequent intervals, each time subsiding following an adjustment.

SKIN DISORDERS
CASE HISTORY NO. 1569 — Five days after birth this infant developed a rash over his entire body. It failed to respond to treatment and he was under the care of specialists until he was 10 months old. The case was variously diagnosed, the final conclusion being that it was eczema. He was sent home from the hospital as incurable and in desperation the parents decided to give Chiropractic a chance. Spinal adjustments to relieve nerve pressure were begun in May and in October the skin was free from lesions and hair had commenced to grow.

INFLAMMATORY RHEU
CASE HISTORY NO. 432. A middle aged woman confined to bed for five weeks with a condition diagnosed as inflammatory Rheumatism. Right side C neck, right arm and leg were stiff and she lay in one position unable to move. Treatment with a variety of powders and drugs were effectless. In her own words "I did not think I would be able to be up again". She finally heeded the advice of a neighbor and called in a Chiropractor. After her first spinal adjustment, she was able to raise her arm and move her head without difficulty. Within a few weeks she was able to get around with normal activity and in every respect was w-

Death of O. B. Keeler, Golf Authority, Reminds McLemore

By HENRY McLEMORE

The fairways of the world never will be as green again. The flags marking the pins never will whip as gaily in the breeze.

There'll be a laughter and a sweetness lacking in the locker rooms wherever golf is played. O. B. Keeler is gone.

The world can ill afford to lose the likes of O. B. He came close to being the best rounded man I have ever known. He will be remembered chiefly as the greatest of all golf writers — as the Boswell of Bobby Jones. He was that all right, but he was much more than that. He was a gentleman in the finest sense of that word. He was gentle, he was understanding, he was kind and considerate, and if he ever did a mean or thoughtless thing, then none of his friends and acquaintances ever heard of it.

He was a master of his craft. I doubt if there was a newspaperman in the United States who was as brilliantly versatile as O. B. before illness slowed him down.

There was no story he couldn't write, and write superbly. One day he could do the Metropolitan Opera for the Atlanta Journal, and the next write an analytical piece on the weaknesses of a shortstop or a first baseman.

In his early days he was a brilliant crime and court reporter, and was one of the few men ever to be granted an honorary life membership as an A.P. reporter. He knew painting, sculpture, music, and could recite as much poetry as any man I ever knew, with the possible exception of Grantland Rice and the late Teddy Roosevelt, Jr.

O. B. was born in Illinois, but for many, many years he lived of a soft, quiet color. There were few better after-dinner speakers than he. He could recall the past, with written or spoken word, better than any man I knew. He was a stickler for facts. How many times has he read my golf leads and chided me for saying such things as "Benny Hogan burned up the course," or "Gene Sarazen scorched the greens and fairways." "Henry," he would say, "take a look out of the window. I don't see any burned up or scorched course. When a golfer burns up a course write about the fire, not the golf. It's a better story." Oh, he was a wonderful man.

A sweet, sweet, knowing man. But he isn't really gone. As long as there is such a thing as a newspaperman, O. B. will live. He was part and parcel of the business.

He was a newspaperman at the very best.

I only hope he knew how much I loved him, and how

Texas Meets Rice in Number One Game in Southwest Loop

By WILBUR MARTIN
Associated Press Staff

The University of Texas and Rice College met in the wild Southwest Conference's top game.

Two inter-sectional bills and a conference affair, figured to be a walkaway for powerful Texas A. & M. leave the stage to this "grudge" meeting at Houston.

For Rice, it's a last ditch stand to stay in the race for the title it won last year.

Rice received a fearful beating from mighty Southern Methodist last week, 42-21, while Texas came from behind to knock off Arkansas, 16-14.

Couch Jess Neely of Rice said his club came out of the game in good physical condition. He called the Mustangs, No. 3 ranking football team in the nation, "one of the finest ball clubs we've ever played."

Southern Methodist, which unleashed a thunderous ground game and relied lightly on its famous "aerial circus" as its main weapon, turning up for next week's game with Texas, 16-14.

A. & M. slaughtered Texas Christian, 42-13, with a four touchdown burst in the final quarter. It was the first conference victory for the Aggies since it beat Baylor, its opponent this week, in 1947.

Baylor used Larry Bell's passing and Buddy Parker's running to hand hapless Texas Tech its fifth straight losing, 26-12.

Battered Texas Christian journeyed to Memphis, Tenn., to meet Mississippi this week and Arkansas entertains Vanderbilt at Little Rock.

Last week's explosive action saw conference teams pile up 199 points in the four games.

Class A Football Race Tightens as Unbeaten Tumble

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK — (AP) Yale's Howard Hobson who finds the whole world is getting interested in basketball, wants every college and A.A.U. team to plan an exhibition for "National Pan-American and Olympic Basketball Day."

A Madison Square Garden doubleheader, with City College of New York, Seton Hall, St. Francis and Rhode Island competing, already has been set for Nov. 25. The purpose of this awkwardly named occasion, of course, is to get the dough to send United States teams to the Pan-American games next year and the 1952 olympics. But wouldn't it be simpler to assess the bookies a share of the "take" than to give the ones who make dough on basketball, . . . And, speaking of basketball, what's this story that Mac Kinsbrunner, former St. John's "wonder" five' player, turned down an offer to become president of the national basketball association?

Since today is when Branch Rickey is supposed to learn what's what from the Dodgers' board of directors (if, of course, we'll let Brooklyn tub thumper Harold Kotto, tell one on his boss. . . Harold was running a farm club in Albany, Ga., for Rickey back in the depression days. They had a 13-man player limit and when injuries accumulated the club Roetiger had five pitchers filling various positions and then had to sign the bus driver, a 40-year-old former semi-pro shortstop. . . Desperately he wired Rickey: "Must have help. Just had to sign the bus driver."

Branch, remembering that Harold once had played American Legion ball, wired back: "Hold yourself ready."

Bob Baker, young Pittsburgh heavyweight, will have one of the featured spots on the Cleveland News Christmas fund boxing show, Dec. 8. . . Joe Back is trying to cook up a spring practice football game between his St. Bonaventure team, and his alma matry, Notre Dame. . . some members of the "sinful seven" bear with alarm that the NCAA bigwigs would like to tighten the rules, instead of relaxing them, and give all violators the bounce. . . Another hard-to-confess story is that Auburn's football troubles stem from snubbing within the squad and coach Earl Brown didn't lose out the troublemakers soon enough. . . Russ Finsterwald, the Big Ten football official, is father of Dow, the 21-year-old Ohio U. punter who looked like one of the most promising amateurs of 1950.

QUARTERBACKS TO MEET
The Pampa Quarterback Club will meet at 8 o'clock tonight in the Palm Room at city hall. Coach Tom Tipps will give a run down of the Pampa-Lamesa game. Doughnuts and coffee will be served following the meeting. Two football films will be shown—the Lamesa-Pampa and the West Texas-McMurry game.

TICKETS GO ON SALE
Football fans can pick up their tickets to the Pampa Children's game and the Pampa-Amarillo game at the school's business office in the city hall. Tickets went on sale Monday morning.

The Harvesters play the Childrens Bobcats this Friday night in Childress. Pampa will clash with the Amarillo Sandies in Amarillo, Nov. 11.

Gulf Coast Hits Rough Grid Road This Saturday

By The Associated Press

Gulf Coast Conference teams are taking on some tough work this week. Two of them are going to try to beat the Texas college teams with the season's best records.

Trinity battles mighty West Texas State at San Antonio Saturday while Midwestern, which is clashing with Abilene Christian College at Wichita Falls, West Texas and Wichita are undefeated and untied and each has won six games.

University of Houston, also plays this week but will be meeting an inter-sectional foe—Wichita at Wichita, Kans.

North Texas State rests.

Last week found two of the four conference members winning their games. Trinity licked Austin College of the Texas Conference 26-0 and North Texas State downed Chattanooga 19-14 in an inter-sectional test. Midwestern was beaten 35-7 by East Texas State in the Lone Star Conference and University of Houston was nosed 14-13 by Hardin-Simmons of the Border Conference.

Jimmy Crowley of Midwestern leads the scorers with 36 points but Ed Mattson of Trinity has drawn within four points of him.

Nation's Unbeaten Football Teams Whittled Down to 12

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK — (AP) — The ranks of the nation's unbeaten and untied major college football teams, whittled to a mere dozen by a wave of upsets, headed for further thinning this week-end.

The perfect records of Cornell and Princeton will be matched in the Ivy League headliner at Princeton, and one is bound to be sullied.

Northwestern and surprising Miami of Florida will risk unblemished marks against dangerous rivals.

The Northwestern Wildcats, with four in a row, will take their Big Ten campaign to Wisconsin, where they will play a Badger team that was unbeaten until spilled by Michigan Saturday, 26-13.

Miami, the rugged little David that felled giant-killer Purdue, will go against a winless Pittsburgh that has yet to explode its full might.

Other clean records, including those of top-ranking Army and Oklahoma, appear safe enough for the time being. The list includes Kentucky, California, Southern Methodist, Wyoming, Wichita and Loyola of Los Angeles.

Wisconsin, Washington, Stanford, Rice and Vanderbilt were the powers who fell for the first time Saturday as the sport was rocked again by upsets from coast to coast.

Wisconsin bowed to a twice-beaten Michigan team on the rebound from its loss to Army in New York.

Illinois put skids under the highly rated Washington Huskies, who came east to absorb a 20-13 lashing. Bowl-minded Stanford was trapped by Red Sanders' high-charged UCLA eleven at Los Angeles, 21-7.

The Rice Owls, defending Southwest Conference champions, ran stout Southern Methodist's powerized Mustangs and succumbed, 42-21. Vanderbilt got started against Florida, 31-27.

Just to give the topsyturvy season a further confusing complexion, the once all-conquering Notre Dame lost its second game of the season, battered Navy rose up to smite Southern California, North Carolina State whipped Maryland and little Leigh stunned Dartmouth.

Bobby Robertson, a fleet Negro halfback, led the attack that gave Indiana its first victory since 1906 over Notre Dame, 20-7, and handed the Irish their second setback in five seasons.

Navy's forces rallied from three straight defeats to whip Southern Cal, 27-14. N. C. State's victory margin over Maryland, ranked eighth nationally, was 16-13. Leigh remained unbeaten by slapping favored Dartmouth, 16-14.

Border Conference Teams Have Ground Attack Also

PHOENIX, Ariz. — (AP) — Ability of Border Conference football teams to gain on the ground as well as through the air was demonstrated Saturday.

The week before, aerial attack had been the outstanding feature.

Wilford (Whizzer) White of Arizona State College at Tempe, the nation's leading ground gainer of the previous week, tore through Texas State's team in the night game at Tempe to add 214 yards in 18 carries to his previous total of 647. The Tempe Sun Devils swamped Utah in the non-conference tilt, 28-0.

Again the longest run was put on by Ed Wolgast of the University of Arizona. It was his 81-yard touchdown dash in the fourth period of the game against Colorado, Colorado won, 28-25.

Bobby Close of Texas Tech turned in the biggest thrill of the Tech-Eaylor game with a 76-yard touchdown run in the first period of that game. Tech fell before Baylor, 26-12.

Texas Western scored an easy 48-13 win over New Mexico University. This week the Miners have a chance to tie the leading West Texas State Buffaloes. The Miners meet the Red Raiders of Texas Tech at Lubbock. If the Miners win they, too, will have a 4-0 conference record for West Texas State, which now has the record, plays out of the conference against Trinity U.

Last Saturday the Buffaloes also played a non-conference tilt, defeating Sam Houston at Canyon 39-18.

The only other inter-conference battle this week finds the New Mexico Aggies at Tempe. The Aggies downed New Mexico Military Institute at Las Cruces, 27-7, Saturday.

Hardin-Simmons has a rest this week. The Cowboys defeated Houston University Friday, 14-13.

Arizona State College at Flagstaff, idle last week, entertains Highlands University Saturday.

The University of Arizona will be host to Denver Saturday.

City Conference Tests Each Other This Grid Week

By The Associated Press

It's all out in the championship race this week in the City Conference of Texas schoolboy football. Of the 13 games on the schedule all are conference affairs except one.

The feature battle of the state is that which matches Thomas Jefferson (San Antonio) with Harlandale (San Antonio). It's the clash of two of four unbeaten teams in the San Antonio district conference race.

Brackenridge and Alamo Heights are the others.

Jefferson is the defending state city conference champion.

Crozier Tech, which won its first conference test in the Dallas district, plays Adamson this week.

Favored Sunset opens the conference race against North Dallas.

In the Fort Worth District North Side and Paschal, two of the unbeaten leaders, play Fort Worth Tech and Amon Carter-Riverside. The other leader—Arlington Heights—rests.

In the Houston district, Lamar, the last undefeated, untied team in the state, takes on Jeff Davis in a conference test.

Sooners Nip Texans

MUSKOGEE, Okla. — (AP) — The annual Oklahoma-Texas professional golf cup matches were won yesterday by the Oklahoma team, 21-17.

The Texas squad won the best-ball matches Saturday, 7-6, but the Sooners won the individual matches yesterday, 15-10.

Low scorer for the day was Joe Durium of Lawton, who shot a 5-under par 65. Chuck Klein, San Antonio, was next with a 66.

Texas-Rice Game Has Produced 3 Bowl Champions

AUSTIN — (Special) — If history repeats itself for a fourth straight time, an eventual bowl champion will be determined Saturday afternoon, when the University of Texas invades Rice Institute's fabulous new stadium.

This lively series has produced a bowl winner for the past five seasons, but only in the last four did the victor move on to post-season success. From this rivalry that dates back to 1914 have emerged two Cotton Bowl, one Sugar Bowl and two Orange Bowl Champions in the past five years.

Rice holds a 3-2 edge in victories over that span, but Texas claims the same margin on bowl participation, because the Longhorns went on to a 40-27 conquest of Missouri in the 1946 Cotton Bowl game after being upset in the regular season by the Owls, 6-7.

The Blue - and - Gray of the bayou country made it three in a row over the Longhorns in 1946 with an 18-13 decision. Rice wound up in a tie with Arkansas for the Southwest Conference championship that season and went to the Orange Bowl and defeated Tennessee, 8-0, while the Forkers were playing host in the Cotton Bowl.

Texas' most troublesome league rival for the past decades, Rice won 11 of 17 meetings between 1930 and 1947. Then the Longhorns broke the spell, winning 12-0 the first year Blair Cherry was at the helm. That '47 Texas team finished up a stirring season by bowling over Alabama, 27-7, in the Sugar Bowl.

Cherry's charges repeated over the Owls in 1948, 20-7, on a last-quarter rush, and ten weeks later the Longhorns upset Georgia, 41-28, in an Orange Bowl battle that broke all scoring records for that day.

Rice registered its first victory over a Cherry-coached team last year and followed up with a 27-13 triumph over North Carolina in the Cotton Bowl. That 17-15 decision over Texas was snatched in the final seconds on a rickety drive by the Owls.

It was typical of the finishes that championship Rice teams have made against the Longhorns. The Owls have won three SWC titles and tied for another and on each of those occasions they engaged Texas in a tell-tale contest. Here's how the Birds won the first two:

Trailing in the final minutes of the 1934 game, the Owls rallied for a 20-9 victory over Texas and went on to edge the Longhorns for the title by half-a-game.

In 1937 the Birds moved to the pennant on a bit of neat fielding of a forward pass by Frank (First Bounce) Steen late in the game. Rice won, 14-7.

Prior to 1930 the Owls had won only two of 14 meetings with the Longhorns, and in the all-time rivalry Texas has won 22, and 14 decisions have gone to Rice. Never have they battled to a draw.

Rice lost most of the manpower it fielded here last year, but two of the Owl heroes of that October afternoon will be back on the scene in Houston Saturday. They are Vernon Glass, who replaced Tobin Rote at quarterback in time to salvage victory, and Bill Burkhalter, who got his chance that day when his rival for the position suffered a broken collar bone early in the game. Burkhalter set up the Owls' first touchdown, scored the next, then caught a pass that set the stage for Williams' field goal.

Texas has some new faces in key positions, but most of the linemen who outplayed the touted Rice forwards for 45 minutes last year have returned for this meeting.

SWINDELL IS OUT
Harold Swindell, center and captain of the Amarillo Sandies, is out for the season. The gridster had his spleen removed in an operation following the Amarillo-Lubbock game. The spleen was ruptured in the second quarter of the 20-0 loss to the West-erners.

Even Southwest Never Saw An Offense Like Russell's

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
AP Newsfeature
DALLAS — Who is this H. N. (Rusty) Russell, whose offensive football is driving opponents of Southern Methodist University nuts?

He's the coach who showed that the Southwest Conference, noted for its passing, was just in its infancy until now. The conference as a pass-happy, tricky running circuit has stepped to full stature with the coming of the gangling, freckled touchdown-getter of the Methodists.

Russell has been known for more than two decades as one of the finest coaches in the game. But his fame didn't get outside Texas until he went to Southern Methodist.

For 23 years he was a high school coach. Then for five he was assistant to Matty Bell at SMU. This year he stepped up as head coach when Bell retired to the job of athletic director.

When Southern Methodist shot down Ohio State this season by scoring four touchdowns in the last 20 minutes, folks started checking up to see who Russell is and how he got that way.

Russell is the kind of fellow you'd expect to see sitting in the general store with his feet on a table "gassing" with the boys. In fact, he's been known, by his own admission, as "a country yep who didn't know how to line up the players but scattered them all over the field."

The multitude of unorthodox plays flashed by Russell long ago earned him the title of "country boy."

But all this stuff which makes Russell very difficult to scout — or to beat — was actually born of necessity.

Russell, a native of Fredonia, Tex., played football at Howard Payne College of Brownwood, where he was an all-Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association end. He started coaching at Granger, Tex., High School, was at Temple High School for four years, then moved to Masonic Home at Fort Worth.

At Masonic Home he put the razzle into dazze and had one of the greatest coaching records in Texas history. Masonic Home always had few students. There were times when Russell could count his football substitutes on one hand. But the Masons, who became known as "the Mighty Mites", wrote flaming history in Texas schoolboy football. In 18 years at Masonic Home, Russell's teams won 126 games, lost 27, tied nine and had three undefeated seasons against the best in high school football.

"I believe my experience at Masonic Home was the greatest thing I ever got in my coaching career," says Russell. "Since I had little material and my boys were small, I knew I had to do something new in order to compete with the other schools. So it was a period of experimentation. I tried everything."

"And I got to know how to evaluate a boy's ability. There just wasn't any question of picking and choosing. I couldn't be dissatisfied with my right tackle's play and replace him. He was the right tackle and I had to make the best of it. So I worked and worked to make him into what I wanted. I learned how to handle boys, how to get the fullest measure of ability out of them."

Russell went to big Highland Park High School of Dallas in 1942. The first day, when 75 young huskies came out to practice, Russell murmured rapturously: "The millennium is here!" He admits he had to do considerable adjusting of his coaching to handle this new and magnificent situation. He had a team in the State high school finals in 1944. Then Southern Methodist called him. He became offensive coach of the Methodists.

Russell still uses at SMU the plays that made little Masonic Home the giant-killer of Texas

Sul Ross Leads Lone Star Loop With 2 Victories

By The Associated Press
East Texas State makes its start this week in the Lone Star Conference football race. The Lions look more and more like the team to beat for the championship.

Last week they locked Midwestern, a Gulf Coast Conference power, 35-27 and are feeling their oats.

Poss for the Lions in their conference opener will be Sam Houston State, which lost its only title game, 9-0, to Sul Ross. The game will be at Commerce Saturday.

Sul Ross is the conference leader at this time with two wins in two starts. Stephen F. Austin has won its only conference game played, downing Southwest Texas State 21-14 last week. It was Southwest Texas' second defeat and eliminated the Bobcats from the title running.

In other games this week Sul Ross plays Texas A. & I. of the Texas Conference at Kingsville, Southwest Texas engages Howard Payne of the Texas Conference at Brownwood and Stephen F. Austin goes inter-sectional, clashing with Southwestern Louisiana Institute at Lafayette, La. Last week Sul Ross skunked University of Corpus Christi, an independent, 13-0, and Sam Houston was walloped by West Texas State of the Border Conference 39-18.

Jack Kyle of Sam Houston leads the conference scorers with 52 points.

Ample Closets Aid To Mother; Build Some of Panelwood

Sufficient closet space is an important link in the chain of easy, efficient housekeeping technique. Any homemaker finds it disheartening to have too few closets, tiny closets or ones without adequate shelves. In many respects, these storage areas are the most important places in the home, from her viewpoint.

The remedy for inadequate closets, fortunately, is simple. Take, for example, the room without a closet. One cure is to build separate ones for husband and wife. They might be constructed on either side of a double window, or in separate corners. They can be built of Masonite Panelwood, a dry wall material which doesn't splinter or crack and which can be painted, varnished or papered, as desired.

One family built a large wardrobe against an inside wall. It was partitioned to provide separate storage for the husband and wife. Instead of conventional doors, this family purchased a beautiful, factory-finished sliding door. This type, which is made of durable Masonite hardboard, simply takes no room at all.

If a home has too few closets, additional ones readily can be built in such locations as the basement, the back porch, on the wall next to the basement stairs, and under the staircase. An alternative to the old-fashioned closet, for many storage purposes, is a shelf-closet to be used exclusively for garments and other items that do not need to be hung up.

Families with children will find separate first-floor closets, one for each youngster, most helpful. It will give each a sense of ownership and teach orderliness. Perhaps the entrance hall or porch is large enough for the installation of such a series, which could be quite narrow and probably a maximum of six feet in height. Sliding doors answer the cramped space problem.

Every closet needs plenty of shelves. With some strips of lumber as a framework and with Masonite hardboard as the surface, such shelves can be constructed by anyone who can handle a saw and hammer.

Colorado contains 43 mountain peaks which are more than 14,000 feet above sea level.

Charm Plus Efficiency

Charm of design and efficiency of layout give this ranch house great appeal. Vertical siding, shingle siding and brick combine to add exterior interest, and a low stone fence ties the house into its setting. Another attractive exterior feature is the fluted semi-transparent glass flanking the doorway of the covered entrance porch. House has large bedrooms, 14 sliding-door closets plus storage closet. A cross hall services all rooms. Sliding window wall enables dining-room and porch to be thrown together. Exit from kitchen to rear terrace for servicing terrace. For breakfast and snacks, there is a breakfast bar and serving shelf-bar between 15'2"x9'9" kitchen and 11'4"x10' dining-room. 18'15"x4" living-room has a fireplace, and front-rear views made possible by picture windows. House will be up to 15 degrees cooler in summer, 1/2 fuel savings effected in winter, if walls and roof areas are insulated with mineral wool. Wall between house and attached garage should be insulated for fire protection.

Natural Gas Becoming More Popular; Utilities Pressed

Gas utilities in America will serve 1,150,000 more house heating customers during the coming heating season than they did last winter. This means about 200,000 more new gas users than the companies had anticipated earlier this year. Added to customers now heating their homes with gas, this coming season's total is expected to reach 9,400,000.

Indications are that more than 40 percent of all dwellings being supplied with utility gas service are expected to heat their homes with gas this winter.

This sharp increase in household gas customers is attributed to the heavy rise in new home construction as well as the added availability of gas resources. During the past 12 months several new pipelines, or extensions of previously existing lines, were completed.

Gas companies indicated that about one-half the anticipated gas house heating additions were to be installed in new dwelling units; the other one-half representing conversions from other types of fuel. In northern areas of the country most of the new heating installations will be central heating. For the South and Southwest space heaters and wall or floor furnaces are planned for the majority of heating installations.

This heavy addition of gas house-heating is putting a strain on needed installation equipment, already in tight supply. Some restrictions have already been placed on use of gas for heating purposes. In one central state five companies which serve more than a million customers have requested of the state's Public Utilities Commission that restrictions be placed on further installations of gas house-heating equipment.

As a conservation measure, therefore, alert householders will take precautions to get the utmost efficiency from their gas fuel.

Fuel savings in a completely winterized house can amount to 5 1/2 percent according to the National Bureau of Standards, which found that full-thickness mineral wool insulation saves 35 percent and that storm sash and weatherstrip add another 16 1/2 percent saving. All heat-leaking cracks in exterior walls should be sealed; and the heating plant adjusted to top efficiency.

There is still time before coldest weather arrives to winterize the home. The Construction Research Bureau explains that winterizing is not prohibitive in cost; can be easily financed by FHA three-year home modernization loan; that resulting fuel savings usually pay for the work within a few heating seasons.

Storm-sash should fit tightly. In addition to weatherstrip on window or door, it is sometimes also necessary to install it where the storm-sash joins the frame.

Inaccessible spaces in existing houses are insulated quickly by blowing mineral wool under air pressure into the empty spaces and installing bats or blankets of the fireproof material where there is space for a man to work.

Increased Window Area Becomes More Popular in U. S.

By HENRY M. WINGATE
Windows are an integral part of the house both structurally and architecturally. Preference today is for a vastly greater amount of window area; with location, number, size and type being determined by the house design.

The most commonly used window is double-hung, the upper and lower sections sliding up and down. Movement is controlled by springs, gears, ratchets or other mechanical counter-balances which are rapidly taking the place of the old-style weights attached to a rope or chain moving over a pulley in the casing.

Casement window, widely used in period-style houses, are usually hinged at the side and swing in or out. A fairly new window treatment is the projected type in which horizontal sections are pivoted on a center axis for opening. This type and casements provide 100 percent ventilation when open. A double-hung window is only 50 percent effective for ventilation because only half the total window area can be opened.

Fixed sash windows with no provision for opening are generally used where a broad, unobstructed view is desired, and for this reason are called picture windows. Today nearly every new home has one.

Improvements in the glass-making art include the development of nonbreakable panes, numerous kinds of glass block, and a window pane that seals dead air between two sheets of glass, thus eliminating the need for storm sash.

Many new homes use opaque glass to admit a maximum amount of light yet still afford privacy. This is especially useful on sides of a home having an unattractive outside view.

Prospective Home Buyers Reassured
HOUSTON — (AP) — Prospective home buyers have been advised not to become too alarmed over the new government credit restrictions.

"Neither the government representatives nor the home builders know what they are talking about as yet," Thomas P. Coogan, Miami, Fla., president of the National Association of Home Builders, says.

"We are all on a trial and error basis," he told the NAHB board of directors. "We have a backlog of about six months of home building and it may take six months to fully evaluate the curb."

A Federal Reserve Bank board consultant also advised prospective buyers the controls will be changed if they do not work or prove too severe.

"The Federal Reserve Board and housing agency as yet do not know the full extent of the curb," he said, "but we are going to find out. We want everybody that needs a home to have one, consistent with the war effort. Certain controls obviously were necessary and the way we are doing it is about the only way."

Water Snakes Help Announcer on Show
SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — The television announcer was discussing whether animals, fish and reptiles, if they all lived to maturity, would some day push man off the earth.

Picking up the cue, 50 baby water snakes on the "Science in Action" TV show squirmed out of their display tray and went crawling about the floor.

The cameras were hastily switched to a commercial. The last snake was recovered three hours after the program went off the air.

PAINT FAULTS — Learn how to avoid these common types of paint failure.

Care, Facts Can Help When Painting Quality Is Sought

By BOB SCHARFF
Written for NEA Service
Paint failures can generally be attributed to the facts that painting was done on a damp surface, the quality of the paint was not applied properly. Here are a few common types of paint failures and their remedies:

Scaling and Blistering: This is the result of paint being applied to a wood surface that is damp or wet. To avoid this type of failure, make sure the wood is reasonably dry.

Peeling and Blistering: This is caused by moisture getting into the wood from plumbing leaks, lack of caulking or defective flashing that permits water to leak behind the wood. Excessive dampness of the inside air, which causes water to condense on cooler wooden surfaces, will have a similar effect.

To correct peeling and blistering, the paint must be removed completely from the affected areas, the wood allowed to dry, and the surface repainted. Naturally any structural defects should be corrected before repainting.

Alligatoring and Cracking: This is the splitting and cracking of the top coat of paint so the surface is broken up into numerous small areas. This is due to the application of the final coat before the previous coat is completely dry or to an error in mixing, causing the undercoat not to dry hard. Do not attempt to repaint over a surface in this condition. The old paint must be removed and a new job done.

Bleeding: When paint is applied over an untreated knot or sap-filled grain in the wood, the sap will seep through the paint and cause an unsightly spot or streak. To prevent this, a coat of shellac must be applied over the knot or grain to seal it before painting.

Wrinkling: When this defect shows up the painting surface looks something like leather. It comes from too heavy a coat of paint, improper brushing, or it may be the use of the combination of oil and pigment in the finish coat. If the texture is not

Home Designed by U.S. Steel Displayed in Pampa Oct. 29

First of brand new models of five different distinctive elevations. U. S. Steel homes to be erected in Littleton Addition will be located at 220 Tignor Street. This was announced today by Frank Rapetine, 848 West Foster, who is the local dealer for Gunnison Homes, Inc., home-manufacturing subsidiary of the United States Steel Corp. These homes were designed for people of modest means.

The new home is called Champion No. 1 and is a 5-room dwelling, including two bedrooms, large utility room, living room, kitchen and bath. Scheduled for arrival here today, it will be under roof and ready for public showing Sunday, Oct. 29th. The newest model of Gunnison Homes is designed to take advantage of maximum FHA and VA mortgage financing and will cost $6200.00 including the lot. Mr. Rapetine stated today that the Veterans Administration has approved 16 of these houses in Littleton Addition and that the latest increases in down payments do not apply.

Features of this new home to be erected here include: streamlined kitchen with double compartment sink and ample cabinet space in enameled steel, ample closets, forced air heat with Morrison 75,000 BTU input furnace, and complete insulation in walls and ceiling.

A variety of exterior colors is available and the exterior finish is a paint especially developed for Gunnison Homes by a leading paint manufacturer. Fluted white pilasters enhance the front of the home. Purchaser has choice of damp weather or applying over a paint surface that has never really dried. Sticky paint can sometimes be hardened by wiping with turpentine. If this fails, remove the defective paint and start over.

Chalking: This is the normal disappearance of the gloss and surface, through the disintegration of the oil under the effect of sunlight. The chalking surface, if brushed clean, provides an excellent surface on which to apply a new coat of paint.

South Korean Cost Over 146 Million
WASHINGTON — (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur has put the cost of Korean civilian relief at $146,500,000 for the remainder of the fiscal year ending next June 30.

His estimate was received by the Army Department, which has taken over from the Economic Cooperation Administration (ECA) the relief job in war-damaged South Korea.

MacArthur said 610,000 tons of food, 220,000 tons of industrial material and equipment, and 16,000 tons of medical supplies will be needed.

ECA, the Marshall Plan agency, had authorized $21,767,688 for Korean relief and rehabilitation as of Sept. 15. Other United Nations members have offered supplies to aid the South Koreans.

CHRISTMAS PRESENT

Dear Grace Friend:
I have a girl friend whose husband I've never met. When I send Christmas gifts to Mary and the babies would it be proper to include a small remembrance for her husband?
Also will you please tell me which is the correct initial when only one is to be used, in having an article monogrammed for a man?
E.M.B.

Dear E.M.B.:
It would be quite proper for you to send a small gift to your friend's husband in your Christmas package to the whole family if you wish. However there is no reason why you should if you would rather not. It is correct to send gifts to your friend and the children as you have never met the husband.
In initialing an article, use the initial of the last name.
WEDDING PRESENT
Dear Grace Friend:
I would like to send a wedding present to a young man who has been a friend of mine for many years. He is to marry a girl in another town whom I have never met.
Would it be correct under the circumstances to send the gift to him?
Pat

Never send a wedding present to the bridegroom. Whether you know the bride or not, you should send the gift to her.
However, if you are going to the wedding you may take your gift to the church or the home the day of the wedding.

Othella Denman Addresses Regional Conference of Delta Kappa Gamma

Addressing the regional conference of Delta Kappa Gamma Saturday, Miss Othella Denman, state second vice-president, quoted from an article, "The Educated Man" by Barzun as follows: "Modern society is not geared to produce, receive or respect the educated man—One's intellect or learned profession or habit of self-cultivation is something to hide or live down—and this is true even though more and more people are being schooled and college and 'educated' than ever before."
"Yet," said Miss Denman, "we Delta Kappa Gammass adopted 'Teacher Improvement' as our regional theme. Should we, in the face of Barzun's statements concerning such practices, further invite today's popular 'so what' questioning by attempting to become educated by pursuing such topics? People already think teachers are funny enough—uneducated. They just want us to be bigger and better entertainers."

Stressing progress and improvement in the teaching profession, the speaker asked "Are we content to be in our profession, our religion, our relations with others? Are you any better Christian, do you have any more faith than you did when you first joined the church? Do you understand yourself better than you used to? Are you aware of your talents, or do you bury them? Are you a contributing member or do you just enjoy belonging?"
Miss Denman cautioned against a teacher giving her whole time to her profession. Admitting that it is a most demanding profession, she said a part of a teacher's time must belong to herself.
Concluding, the speaker said "I know I have added nothing new or startling to your storehouse of knowledge today, but if you understand yourself better than you did, a slight charge by listening, I am happy."

Mrs. L. K. Stout and Mrs. W. R. Ewing presided at silver coffee services at either end of the serving table at the morning coffee given by Beta Delta for visiting chapters of Delta Kappa Gamma at a regional conference in Pampa Saturday. Other Panhandle chapters represented were Gamma Theta, Gamma Xi and Pi.

The conference opened at 9 a.m. with registration followed by the coffee, which was in the high school home economics living room. A lace cloth covered the table and the centerpiece was formed of autumn leaves and fruit on a mirror reflector. Other tables held bouquets of dahlias.
An initiation ceremony followed the coffee. Miss Margaret Elliott of the state teachers selective recruitment committee, was in charge of the initiation, and was assisted by Mrs. William A. Bennink, Beta Delta; Mrs. Perry Gault, Beta Delta; Mrs. Ruth Shewbert, president of Gamma Xi; Miss Mae Simmons, president of Pi, and Miss Mary Dean Dozier, president of Beta Delta. Miss Lucille Parker of McLean Chapter, was initiated into Beta Delta Chapter.
A presidents' conference, preceded by a dinner, was held in the home of Mrs. L. K. Stout, immediate past president of Beta Delta, Friday evening. Present were Othella Denman, state second vice president, of Waco; Mae Simmons, president of Pi, Canyon; Rubye Bennett, first vice president of Pi, Amarillo; Margaret A. Elliott; Mrs. R. E. Darnell, president of Gamma Theta, Borger; Helen Bibebe, vice president of Gamma Theta, Phillips; Christine Holmes, vice president of Gamma Xi; Ruth Shewbert, president of Gamma Xi, Dalhart.
From the local chapter, Beta Delta, were Mary Dean Dozier,

More clothing was requested for an overseas shipment in November.

Mrs. E. M. Hickey, a new member of the parish was introduced by Mrs. A. D. McNamara. A pot luck supper was planned to take the place of the November council meeting. The supper will be for the newcomers of the parish at 8 p. p. Nov. 15.
Miss Ellen Keough spoke to the group on "Human Rights," and after a resume of what constitutes human rights, outlined what the U. N. has done to preserve these rights. She said the burden of protecting such rights will fall to the United States, and that it cannot shirk or lose sight of the objective. She said it is the layman's duty to carry the light of the world

WE, THE WOMEN.

By RUTH MILLET
NEA Staff Writer

"Every once in a while when I get tired of the house, worn out with all the demands that start with 'Mom, will you do such-and-such,' and get to feeling more like a housekeeper than anything else, I call Jim up and say: 'How about a date tonight?'"
"Then we get a sitter in and just the two of us go out for the kind of an evening we used to have when we were first married, leaving all our worries and problems at home, getting away from the church to the state. The meeting was adjourned with a prayer by the Rev. Otto Meyer.

from seeming so middle-aged and humdrum."
If husbands were wise they would take the initiative in the matter of occasional 'dates' with their wives, since it is gratifying to a wife's ego to have her husband plan an evening for just the two of them.
But since few husbands do think to plan a date with their wives now and then, a wife would be smart to do what this wife does, call her husband up now and again and say, "How about a date tonight?"
Couples not only need to get away from home now and then, but to get away from the routine evenings that most married couples fall into; either having the Joneses over for the evening or going over to their house or all going out together.

They need to get off by themselves in a gay, carefree state of mind — just a couple out for a good time.
If they try to have that kind of good time with another couple or two pretty soon the men are ship.

"We" Becomes Harry in Address

In listening to President Truman's speech last Tuesday night one could not help but be struck by the manner in which it was determined to take over the affairs of the American people...

Over and over he told his audience "we" are prepared to do this, "we" have decided on that, "we" are continuing to build armed forces, "we" seek a full partnership with the people of Asia, etc., etc.

In other words the destiny of the American people no longer lies with them and their elected representatives in the two branches of the Congress...

This is a lot different than the humble little man who took over the presidency upon the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

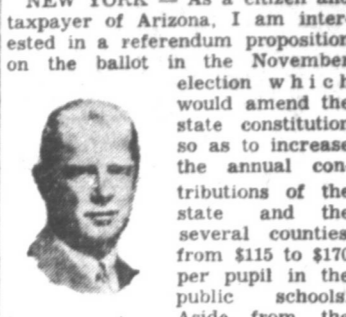

There are probably few who will quarrel with his statement that "if the Soviet Union really wants peace it must prove it not by glittering promises and false propaganda..."

The Soviet Union has proclaimed time and again that there can be no peace in the world until capitalist freedom has been wiped out...

In his "get tough with Russia" portion of the address, the President went on at some length on what the Russians must do if there is to be peace but failed to tell us what "we" are going to do in case Russia doesn't fall in with his schemes.

Fair Enough-Pegler

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — As a citizen and taxpayer of Arizona, I am interested in a referendum proposition on the ballot on the November election which would amend the state constitution so as to increase the annual contributions of the state and the several counties from $115 to $170 per pupil in the public schools.

Aside from the overbearing rapacity of the schoolteachers' union and the teaching racket as a whole, this proposal is bad because it puts an appropriation into the constitution, subject to change only by further amendment.

The school bills in Arizona already are a dangerous menace to the titles of all persons who own homes, especially in the cities. They are subject to no regulation whatever.

I am informed by the Arizona School Protective Association, with headquarters in Phoenix, that this amendment was sponsored by the Arizona Education Association, composed of and supported by school teachers of Arizona.

The organizations which have made a racket of the "education" issue have the unfair advantage of a spiritually moving false pretense that they are primarily interested in the children.

Thoughtful parents in Scarsdale, N. Y., of late have been trying to expose the root out teachers who are thought to be indoctrinating their children in communism.

While there was no doubt about that one-ticket outcome, the Berlin Fair should give any fast Berliner who visited it pause for thought.

In 10 spacious exhibition halls, a visitor could see what was "Made in Germany" today. To give a brief resume, here are some of the products: radios and electrical products; chemicals, plastics and rubber; leather, textile and other products; office equipment and furniture; printing machinery; porcelain and glass; toys and handicrafts; optical goods, precision and surgical instruments; hardware and plumbing; farm machinery, machine tools and heavy iron and steel products.

SOLONS (??)

By DAVID BAXTER

Two news headings this week (locally) were very amusing. One of them stated, "U. N. Association approves flag stand of Solons," referring to refusal of the mayor and council of Santa Ana to haul down the United Nations flag which is being flown in the council chamber.

You remember that last Saturday I raised the point of whether or not I should suggest to Mayor Mandy and his council that the U. N. flag be flown. It's unlikely that these men thought up the idea all by themselves.

Now just what is this American Association for the United Nations (A. A. U. N.)? That name has fooled a lot of people, who supposed it had some official connection with the United Nations.

That is where the teachers and the higher echelons of "education" get their hold. They are always pressing for more compulsion against parents to increase their own power over children's minds and character.

Time was, long ago, when children were popularly supposed to hate their teachers. The psychology was expressed in the couplet: "No more pencils, no more books; no more teachers' cross-eyed looks."

Bid For A Smile

A couple of long-faced housing contractors were having a cup of coffee at an Edmondton "Take a Plumber for instance," moaned one, "why only six months ago you could get the plumbing installed in an average five-room bungalow for $100. That's right," nodded the other gloomily "and today it'll cost you $120 anyway."

These items could hardly be considered as competitive with U. S. made pianos, either as to quality or to style, except possibly the pianos, which are standard design.

George C. Marshall House, the main American exhibit was an interesting and educational showing of photographs, books, pamphlets and movies. But perhaps the best sight to an American's eyes at the Berlin Fair was one simple U. S. exhibit. It was an American-made ranch-type rambler house in white shingles and green roof.

A Lot of Predictions Have Gone Wrong

news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Labor's top chiefs now concede that the defeat of Senator Robert A. Taft will not contribute anything to repeal of the law which was sponsored on Capitol Hill.

Even with the Ohioan out of the legislative picture, the next Congress will be more pro-Taft-Hartley than any of the precedents.

Thus the fight on Mr. Taft has become almost a life-or-death struggle for the American Federation of Labor, the Congress of Industrial Organizations and the United Mine Workers.

REVERSES — The Taft-Ferguson contest assumes almost the importance of a presidential election for the Republicans.

DEFEAT — Representative Graham Barden of North Carolina has replaced the late John L. Lewis, who was the idol of the CIO, as chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee.

CHORE — President Truman has instructed National Defense Secretary George C. Marshall to forge military management details at the Pentagon and to concentrate on the organization of an international, anti-Russian police force under the aegis and auspices of the United Nations.

When the gas mains or the light wires or the water system is in private hands, you have gas, and light, and water. And the gas company and the electric company and the water company provide the bonds—they pay their way in taxes, and you don't worry about shortages or more local bonds and debt, even if your home town is growing by leaps and bounds.

Thoughts

But thou, son of man, hear what I say unto thee; Be thou rebellious like that rebellious house: open thy mouth, and eat that I give thee. —Ezekiel 3:8.

I sought Thee at a distance, and did not know that Thou wast near. I sought Thee abroad, and behold, Thou wast within me. —Psalm 139:1-2.

KING'S COMMENTS

By Dr. Wallace K. Watt

CONTROLS START WITH INVENTORIES

A few weeks ago, President Truman asked Congress to authorize "stand-by controls" over industry. Presumably these were to be exercised only in case of an emergency developed. To describe anything which has yet come to pass in field as an "emergency" requires a most poetic imagination.

The order forbids any concern or plant affected to "receive or accept delivery" of any of the materials listed if its "inventory of that material is, or by such receipt would become, more than a practical minimum working inventory."

Secretary of Commerce Sawyer and Administrator Harrison have the reputation of being intelligent, reasonable men. Presumably this order is issued with the intent and desire to facilitate the production of war material, and in the belief that it will not interfere with any legitimate transaction.

To do the job reasonable well would certainly require the full time of at least ten thousand assistants. Just where can Mr. Harrison pick up ten thousand experts—each of whom it is capable of deciding for every one of the hundred or so firms under his jurisdiction just what constitutes "a practical minimum working inventory?"

It will be General Marshall's assignment to sell this idea to the British, French, Dutch, etc., and to work out a specific formula for building an army of at least fifty divisions — 750,000 men—to stop the Russians on the Rhine.

Formula — Mr. Truman and his judges, and he has informed the Anglo-French spokesmen, that neither Congress nor the American people will continue to spend billions or to draft manpower for the Truman-Acheson-Marshall demand that Western Germans be permitted to raise at least ten divisions for the proposed, international army.

It will be General Marshall's assignment to sell this idea to the British, French, Dutch, etc., and to work out a specific formula for building an army of at least fifty divisions — 750,000 men—to stop the Russians on the Rhine.

My, Grace—ious!

Dear Sir: I guess there's nothing the folks in the Panhandle like more than a poor loser. Walter Rogers is perhaps the poorest loser we have ever had in politics.

It's funny, he's lost so many elections you'd think he'd get used to it by this time. I heard him open his campaign last night (Oct. 13). As usual he subjected his audience to a trade of abuse against Ben Guill and against anyone who is supporting Ben Guill. What crime has Ben Guill committed? The inexcusable of winning an election in which Walter Rogers ran a poor fourth.

Now it all begins again, mud and abuse, false implications and slanderous insinuations. I'll wager a pretty penny that Walter Rogers will lose this race with just as bad grace as he lost all his other races.

Shows that the effects of such speculation are usually evanescent, for, to obtain a profit, the speculator must sell; and selling presses the market price as much as buying raises it.

Because of the enormous difficulties which would be involved in an effort were made to enforce this inventory limitation order on manufacturers and dealers generally, the probabilities are that, in practice, the order will be used mainly as a club for dealing with persons or firms commonly believed to be accumulating very large stocks of one or more of the 32 materials covered by the order.

Prophecy is a difficult art. Hence most forecasts prove incorrect, but, on the basis of past experience, it seems reasonably safe to wager that, if the present Administrator holds his position for a year, no informed person will envy Mr. Harrison his job. Want to bet against this proposition?

Hear the word of the Lord, ye children of Israel: for the Lord hath a controversy with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth, nor mercy, nor knowledge of God in the land. —Hosea 4:1.

Southard Is Tops in Oil Field Electrics

PROBABLY the first view of the entire oilfield electrification crew and equipment of the Electric Supply Company is this Pampa News photo of "Suds" Southard and his crack crew of industrial electronics experts.

Electric Supply Company Prepared for Largest Oil Electrification Projects

Electric Supply proves to be one of those rare combinations of high-quality equipment and better-than-average work that fills the bill for electrification of oil field installations.

The genial major-domo of the Electric Supply Company, "Suds" Southard has attained a position of enviable note in the considerations of local oilfield operators, with the operation of his Electric Supply Company in oilfield electrification projects. Although young in years, he has managed to garner a large quota of experience and "know-how" that set him forth as a leader in his field.

There is more than meets the eye to the business of oilfield electrification. The name of Electric Supply implies considerably more than is generally accepted for such a tag on any local business.

To get the picture of "Electric Supply," it is necessary for "Suds" Southard to do the telling and supply the details. "Suds" is extremely proud of his organization and the work it does.

Electric Supply Company had a very small beginning. In 1941, with a minimum of equipment, after several struggling years as an electrician with local industrial firm, "Suds" organized his project as an oilfield electrifier. Through dint of continuous effort and perseverance, the experience began to pile up and more jobs came through to the infant company.

Now, after nine years of pretty hard work and rapid growth, "Suds" has accumulated equipment, rolling stock and material placing him in the top brackets of oilfield electrifiers.

In order to do the exacting work required in the field, it is necessary that a contractor be a rare combination of a public utility service and erection unit and an electronics specialist.

The Electric Supply Company is well equipped to handle any size job contracting it. Southard has three large units for his jobs consisting of a hole digger truck, truck with line crew body, and a flatbed unit for hauling poles and heavy equipment. In addition, his work requires three medium trucks for various lighter-purpose uses.

Put these units together, add a crew of eight skilled men, toss in a large supply of hard-to-get materials for construction and wiring, and you'll have a graphic picture of a hard hitting, highly efficient crew of electricians. Quite a step for a man who came from a small town as a trucker in 1935 and learned the electronic field well enough to head a company of such high repute as Electric Supply Company.

In 1945, Southard added a retail appliance unit to his organization. Therein can be found such outstanding appliance units as Sunbeam and Universal, in small appliances, refrigerators and other modern kitchen units.

In addition to all of the foregoing activities, Southard still finds time to do commercial wiring of office buildings and factories. In fact, there is little that this outstanding Pampa firm isn't equipped to do in the electronics field.

Used Cars Still Good Investment

With the excitement caused by complications in foreign climates, some people were inclined to rush the market and cause a bit of a false condition surrounding the automobile market. Be that as it may, there are still exceptionally good buys in cars to be had. If you are on the list for a new car and expect delivery to be delayed for a short time, don't despair. They'll be on their way very soon.

Meanwhile, the fly-boy, Wes Lewis, is sporting some exceptional values in used cars out at his West Wilks lot. If you are a habitue of the used car field, you could save a lot of time by taking some time off to let Wes show you some swell transportation. Don't forget, the lot is on West Wilks, it belongs to that popular Studebaker dealer, Wes Lewis.

That Jewel among wholesale distribution companies is knocking at the local market doors with some fine party-snack merchandise. His advertisements have been "hawking" a variety of items that do a good job of whetting the appetite of the reader.

Take a quick run down the line of the little grace-notes in food that every successful party needs to embellish the "old plate lunch or the party buffet: Old London Cheese sandwiches are destined to become as popular as the venerable Jewel Potato Chip. Jewel is resplendent with "Waffle Chips, Potato Chips and a long line of kindred articles. Even that relish from the hide of the hog, "cracklins," is available through Thompson Wholesale Distributing Company dealers.

Cretney Has Gala Opening

If there was any doubt about the fact that Cretney was serious when a big "whing-bing" was advertised for last week, there is no reason to retain any at this time. L.G. Close and his crew did everything up in grand style. The Cretney establishment climbed more than one notch in attaining the cognomen of "modern-super-drug-store." Seems that everything can be bought in the local branch of Cretney. At least, everything but pointers and doodles was in evidence during the formal ceremonies of last week. Chances are Close could have provided the doodles, had he been pressed so to do.

LUCK IS PLUCK
(With One Letter Missing)

There is no luck in the fact that the PAMPA DAILY NEWS has a larger circulation in the City of Pampa than there are homes in the city.

People buy newspapers to get the news of the day, particularly home town news. They want to know what their friends and neighbors are doing... who's going where... who's engaged to be married... who's in trouble... how many new babies... and so on down the list of home town happenings

Circulating more papers than there are homes in the city is something of an achievement. It doesn't happen very often, but it happens all the time with the PAMPA DAILY NEWS.

All of which proves that the local merchant can reach every home in Pampa every day of the week (except Saturday) by advertising in the PAMPA DAILY NEWS. No other advertising medium gives so complete a coverage at a cost so small.

SALLY was only kidding, of course, but I was not feeling like playing games with my head buzzing the way it did. I looked up at the calendar again.

"Is that calendar right?" I asked. "Have I really been out cold since the day before yesterday?"

"Not unconscious all of the time," Sally said, pushing me back to the pillows again. "The past 12 hours you've been in a good, natural sleep. But you've got to be quiet. The doctor might let you sit up a little while tomorrow if you're a good little boy."

Everything came back to me then with a rush. I had to get up. I had to see Grace Muchmore. I fought the blanket off my feet. Sally began pushing me flat again. I got my arms around her neck somehow to pull myself up, but Sally seemed to misunderstand.

The whole deal was mixed up and I had lipstick on my face when someone tapped on the door a few seconds later.

Sally jumped back and I sank back into the pillows to recruit my strength. A moment later, Sally opened the door. Roger Blissen and Betsy Sharpe were outside.

"How's Doc now?" Betsy whispered. "Is he conscious yet?"

"Oh my yes," Sally answered brightly. "I'd say he was almost normal. You needn't worry about him." There was a giggle in her voice as she added: "He could almost go on television as a wrestler. He'll talk to you for about five minutes. I think I'd better send the doctor and see if he should have a sedative. But don't talk too long."

Betsy and Roger tiptoed to my bedside, hand in hand, and looking dazed and serious.

"Dad acting like undertaker's assistants," I said crossly. "And don't you believe I was smooching with Stuff Starched, Sally either! I was only trying to get out of bed and she was trying to keep me in it."

Betsy giggled. "Where did you get that lipstick smear, Doc?" Then without waiting for me to repeat my alibi, she said: "We've been so worried about you, Doc!"

"Sweet of you, honey," I told her, wiping my face.

But I had other problems. "Listen," I said, "I've got to get out of her, but fast."

"Relax, Doc," Roger grinned at me. "You've got to spend some time being grateful you didn't break your neck. And give Sally a break. How can she be a ministering angel if you won't cooperate?"

I DIDN'T pay any attention to him. "Look in that closet, Betsy. Can you find my pants? Then hand them here."

She obeyed and as I swung my legs over the edge of the high hospital bed I heard the swishing uniform and the tapping heels in the hall outside. I lay back down and sank the sheet up to my chin. "You two do as I say and don't ask questions!" I hissed at Betsy and Roger. Betsy hid my pants.

Sally came in, smiling at me archly. "Doctor will be in to see you," she said. "If you'll promise to be a good boy, I'll ask him if you can sit up for 10 whole minutes!"

"You're sure good to me," I said. "Right now, how about a drink of water?"

"Of course." She turned to a vacuum carafe that I hadn't noticed.

I shook my head starting the bees to humming again. "Oh, no, Nurse! I never drink cold water. Just step into the bathroom there and let the tap run until the water is really hot."

All three of them stared at me as if I had gone dotty, but Sally took the glass and went into the bathroom. When I heard the sound of the water running, I blissed at Roger, "Slam the door Lock M!"

Roger looked, undecided, at Betsy and she looked, bewildered, at me. So I clutched the sheet and split hospital gown around me the best I could, climbed out of the bed and slammed the door myself. Then I turned the key in the lock and threw the key out of the window. I had to get away.

"Turn your back, Betsy," I ordered, "I'm not decent."

I put on my pants and tucked the tails of the gown inside. Roger couldn't find but one shoe and we couldn't hurry to search for it. By that time Sally was making a lot of noise inside the bathroom. And I was dizzy and felt like I might fall flat on my face any minute. I was afraid too that Roger and Betsy might get balky about hoping me get out of the hospital if I gave them any time to think about it.

LUCKY for me the room was on the ground floor. We dodged out a side door as an orderly came running down the hall. Sally was sounding off like a steam calliope in a parade by that time.

After I sat down in Roger's little car for a minute, my head cleared some and the bees tumbled down their buzzing. "Fix the house," I said. "Take me up to Grace Muchmore's. I've got to see her."

Then I saw that Roger and Betsy were staring at me with their mouths ajar. "Step on it!" I yelled at them. "Or Stuff Starched Sally will have us back in our little bed again!"

Betsy's voice shook a little when she answered me. "Mrs. Muchmore died this morning, Doc. It was very sudden. Doctor James hasn't found out yet what caused her death. Poor Aunt Myra is prostrated. She didn't even know Mrs. Muchmore was sick—in fact, nobody did."

It hit me right between the eyes. Grace Muchmore had been a good old girl, even if she was a bit on the hoity-toity side. And she'd died because my shoe lace broke.

"We'd better go up to the house anyway," I decided. "There'll be somebody I can talk to... maybe a maid."

Little Girl Has Double Trouble

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. — (AP) — "My house is going to burn down and I've swallowed a penny."

Six-year-old Rosalie Maloney thus announced double trouble for her mother the other night.

Mrs. Mary Maloney found a small blaze near a hay barn at the home and telephoned a fireman. They snuffed the flames with a few buckets of water and learned from Thomas Patrick Maloney, 8, that he had been playing with matches near the barn and had started the blaze.

Police then took Rosalie and her mother to a hospital where the child was found in no danger and sent home for later examination by the family physician.

Evelyn Causes Trouble for Barber Stone

OKLAHOMA CITY — (AP) — Barber Bert Stone told a district court a postcard he received a year ago contained only a short message — but big enough to get him in a jam with his wife.

He filed suit for $10,000 damages against Hall's Clothing Inc. and Evelyn Williams, one of its credit department employees.

The card said: "Dear Bert: Call me today. Ph. 2-7648. Evelyn."

Carmon C. Harris, Stone's attorney, said Stone wasn't at home when the postman delivered the card — but Mrs. Stone was.

"When Stone returned home, he found his wife pretty upset," Harris told a reporter.

Harris said Stone later learned it came from a clothing store and gave his wife that explanation.

"She looked up the clothing store telephone number and it wasn't the same," Harris continued. "That didn't help much."

He said the number on the card is an unlisted number at the store's credit department. The lawyer said Evelyn answers the phone.

Evelyn was described as the happily married mother of a daughter.

Stone charged that the postcard implied he "was carrying on a clandestine love affair with a woman named Evelyn."

The plaintiff said the card embarrassed him and reflected on his marital fidelity.

Benson said it was surprising the number of people who call Evelyn after receiving one of the cards — after other efforts to reach them failed.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Watch Odds in Battle for Pile

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The theory involved in the play of the hand described in my last article is so important that I intend to devote this article to it.

You may recall that player A mended three aces at his first turn to play. One of the opponents promptly froze the discard pile and followed up that play by discarding a couple of aces.

This particular play was sound canasta strategy. He and his partner each held eleven cards. The opponents eleven and eight respectively. Therefore, the odds favored his side in the battle for the discard pile and he was willing to start an all out fight for it.

Then player A's partner entered into the spirit of battle. He also threw away a couple of aces. Then he followed by throwing away the pile. After all, if we lose it now, we still will be able to go out before we come to any great harm.

Once his partner discarded his aces poor A was in an impossible situation. He could still play for out but his chances of going out quickly would not be good. Furthermore, the discard pile had increased greatly in both size and value. Eventually A came to the conclusion that he had better go along with the fight. Hence, A discarded his wild cards also.

This last series of plays was correct canasta strategy. The discard pile had grown to a point where the side that got it would surely win a very big hand. Player A knew that the odds were against his side getting it but he did feel that it was necessary to fight for it to the bitter end.

If you recall the last article, he did fight for it to the bitter end. However, he ran out of safe discards eventually and had to give it away.
