Reds Demand Position on Peace Patrol

LAKE SUCCESS — (AP) — Diplomats of seven nations met behind locked doors today (10:45 a.m. EST) to discuss Russia's demand to serve on the peace patrol set up under the United Nations' new anti-aggression program.

They were summoned by America's John Foster Dulles, who guided the plan originally outlined by Secretary of State Dean Acheson to eventual victory. Gathered with Dulles in the room sealed off by blue-uniformed guards were representatives of Britain, Canada, France, Turkey, the Philippines and Uruguay. They were co-sponsors of the program.

The plan, which puts teeth in U. N. efforts to maintain peace, was adopted overwhelmingly by the 60-nation political committee in a paragraph by paragraph vote last night.

Besides the peace patrols — to rove areas of tension and report possible threats to peace — it provides for emergency sessions of the veto-free general assembly on 24-hour notice whenever the security council is hamstrung by the Russian veto. It calls on member nations to earmark units of their armed forces for service when either the security council or the general assembly calls and asks a survey of what forces will be available.

Delegates agree it is the most important step the U. N. has taken forward since that body was formed in 1945. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky fought the plan bitterly. He said it was designed to "wipe out" the security council, where Russia has the veto, and thus was contrary to the United Nations' charter. In that document he demanded that primary responsibility for maintaining international peace and security.

When Vishinsky saw that almost all the non-Soviet world was in favor of the American proposals, he demanded that the 14-man peace patrol include representatives of the five big powers.

In this list he included Communist China, as well as Russia, the United States, Britain and France.

Dulles said the sponsors would meet to discuss this, but insisted that, if it were reported, the post would go to the Chinese representative recognized by a majority of the U. N. — that is Nationalist China.

FCC Promises Color Baffle

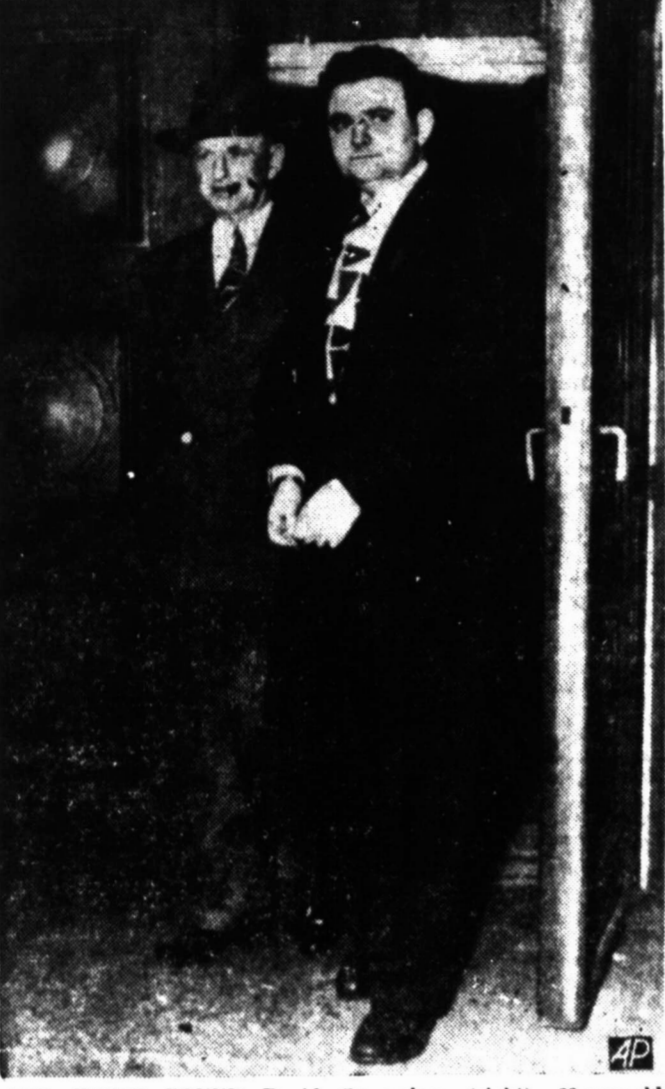

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sleeves were rolled up all around today for what looked like a knock-down, drag-out fight over color television.

The Federal Communications Commission, which has held a long aloof from the squabble over color which followed its selection one week ago of Columbia Broadcasting System's color plan as the official system, announced it will vigorously contest court challenges against its order. They have been filed in New York and Chicago by Pilot Radio Corp., Radio Corporation of America and National Broadcasting Co.

At the same time, the commission moved yesterday to get RCA's rejected color system off the airwaves during regular commercial broadcasting periods, for which CBS has been given formal licenses effective Nov. 20.

The commission notified NBC, which is affiliated with RCA, that it may continue "experimental" color broadcasts under the RCA system over Washington station WNBT and New York station WNBC, but that these broadcasts may not be handled during "normal broadcast hours" on the NBC network.

NBC and RCA had no immediate comment.

Ban Considered on 'Luxury' Building

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Despite forceful objections from the building industry, the government today considered an emergency ban on the construction of race tracks, dance halls, bowling alleys and other amusement spots.

New moving picture theaters and night clubs might also be included, but officials of the National Production Authority (NPA) said the scope of the proposed order remains to be worked out. Its aim is to save materials for munitions.

The move would be a stiff blow to the already tottering building boom. Severe limitations on private real estate credit and federal home financing were imposed Thursday, and a limitation on commercial construction credit—affecting stores and office buildings—was expected to follow.

Still another slap at credit expansion in the form of a federal reserve board order tightening bank reserve requirements, became more likely. The board Wednesday reported that a bank loans to business houses hit another record high last week.

An order requiring banks to set aside more funds in reserve would limit the bank funds available for lending. Business loans last week the board said, increased by $227,000,000 to a total of $16,142,000,000.

The proposed building ban was unveiled Wednesday to a score of leaders in the building, real estate, materials, and related industries. They fought the idea vigorously, and urged instead that the industry be allowed to undertake its own conservation campaign.

The industry group argued that the real estate credit move will freeze huge quantities of materials. Some of them estimated that residential construction will slump from this year's record of 1,300,000 homes started to a total of only 600,000 or even 400,000 in 1951.

This also will produce great savings of materials now being used up in the equipping and furnishing of new dwellings, the group said.

NBC and RCA had no immediate comment.

American Aims in Formosa Brought Back to Limelight

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The report that President Truman and Gen. Douglas MacArthur have reached agreement on the Formosa issue opened anew today the question of what exactly are American aims for the future of that strategic island.

The heart of the question is to what extent will the United States try to keep Formosa, now held by the Chinese Nationalists, from falling into the hands of the Chinese Communists?

Up to the time of the Truman-MacArthur conference on Wake Island last Sunday, there was considerable evidence that the two men did not see eye to eye. MacArthur clearly favored a determined policy to keep Formosa permanently out of Communist control. Mr. Truman favored neutralizing the island during the Korean war and thereafter settling its status peacefully through the United Nations.

The key to the reported agree-

Juvenile Court Has Busy Time

Several juveniles were in custody of the Pampa Police Dept. last night, according to H. A. Dorsett, Gray County juvenile officer. All were run-aways.

Three boys from Amarillo were released to Potter County late last night and one girl was returned to Kansas this morning. One boy is still in custody.

The only reason given by the youths was a general dissatisfaction with home life.

These partial facts may or may not express accurately the understanding" about Formosa. He demanded that the full text of the anonymous news conference notes be cabled to MacArthur, presumably for checking against his understanding. Knowland noted that the officials who gave out word of the reported Formosa agreement were not actually present at the time, since they said Mr. Truman and the general discussed the issue when they were alone.

In Tokyo, informed sources said MacArthur has not altered his views. They said Formosa was not involved in any policy discussions at Wake.

General MacArthur's view of the island's importance to American security in the Pacific was stated in his famous "suppressed" message to the Veterans of Foreign Wars meeting in Chicago Aug. 28, MacArthur withdrew (See AMERICAN, Page 3)

Rout Completed as U.N. Thunders Into Pyongyang

'When Do We Go Home' Cry Elated American Fighters

SEOUL, Korea — (AP) — United Nations forces seized the failing heart of Red Korea today.

Twin allied spearheads occupied most of the Communist capital, Pyongyang.

Reports from four Associated Press war correspondents indicated that complete conquest of the North Korean Red nerve center was only a matter of hours.

Premier Kim Il Sung and his Soviet satellite regime apparently fled to the north, possibly as far as Red Chinese Manchuria or Soviet Siberia.

An end to the bitter war that started June 25 was in sight. But top allied commanders have warned that guerrilla resistance may lie ahead.

On both the east and west coasts the allies were pressing closer to Manchuria.

In Pyongyang, nothing stood in the way of the grimy, grinning battlers of the U. S. First Cavalry and South Korean First Divisions except a few die-hard Reds.

The mechanized cavalry troopers were first into the city — as they were first in historic entries into Manila and Tokyo in World War II. They smashed in wide the eastern industrial sector from the southern outskirts at 11 a.m. Thursday (8 p.m. CST, Wednesday).

The South Korean division thrust in from the east afterward.

AP Correspondent Don Whitehead reported frightened Reds surrendered by the thousands. Some ran into the open from houses and fields, clad only in long underwear, hands above their heads.

The ancient bomb-blasted capital seemed virtually deserted by its more than 700,000 inhabitants. The two major escape roads leading northward were clogged with civilian refugees and Red soldiers.

"The Reds could not even muster a stand or fight to the death for their own capital," Whitehead reported.

"Either the Reds had lost their will to fight for the city or else the Americans moved so fast they had no chance to group the defense force."

AP Correspondent William J. Waugh, Tom Lambert and Jack MacBeth reported the Reds blew two bridges spanning the broad Taedong river which courses through the capital's center.

But the Communists neglected to blow a third the cavalry troopers and South Koreans linked up on the east sides of the bridge, shook hands and poured across.

On the opposite side, the Communists had strung banners across the streets urging the populace to "defend this city to the last."

"But there was no real defense of Pyongyang," correspondent Whitehead said.

"Once the crust of resistance was broken at Hakkyo, 13 miles south of Pyongyang, the rest was a breeze for the smiling American troops."

"They were cheerful, even though they had been driving hard for the past 30 days."

The speed of the allied advance evidently had knocked sky high any over-all Red defense plan in a slightly more than a month. (See PYONGYANG, Page 2)

Local Draft Board Sends 52 for Exams

It was a big day for the Gray County Selective Service Board today.

The office sent 52 men to Amarillo to report for physicals early this morning.

Board officials assured that all the men would not be inducted, however.

The action was the result of a routine draft call within the Pampa area.

'Dear Joannie and Rosemarie: Korea Gives Reply To Soldier's Plea

COLLINGDALE, Pa. — (AP) — Two little girls, whose father wrote the now famous "Dear Joannie and Rosemarie" letter, have received another bit of mail they probably will cherish in the years to come.

A letter of sympathy and $50 contributed by nine Koreans was presented Wednesday to the widow of Pfc. John C. McCormick.

McCormick wrote to his daughters, Rosemarie, six, and Joannie, three, shortly before he was killed in action last Aug. 10. In the letter, which reached the children Sept. 14, he explained he was fighting so his loved ones could live in peace.

On Sept. 30, nine Koreans appeared at the Tokyo office of Newsweek Magazine and said they wanted to let Mrs. McCormick know "there are good and decent people in Korea as well as bad ones."

Explaining that they wished the $50 to go toward the children's education, the Koreans wrote:

"As your brave husband said in that letter, there are so many bad people who bring misery and destruction to humanity. However, we should like to tell you that there are a great many good and courageous people, of which Mr. McCormick was certainly an outstanding example. It is the effect of these good people and under His guidance that keeps the world going in spite of the evil done by bad people. This is but one reason for our trust in God.

"We are a group of Korean evacuees who try to be good Koreans. We deeply regret that the bad people your husband fought to his death were Koreans. As good and loyal Koreans, we are trying to do our share for the cause of human happiness and world brotherhood—the same cause for which your valiant husband laid down his life on the Korean front."

In accepting the letter from a representative of Newsweek, Mrs. McCormick said:

"I had no resentment against the Korean people for the awful death of my children's father. Free people fight because they believe something is right. The only resentment I hold is toward the Communist leader, Stalin, who has gone against the will of God."

Bell Action Cuts Phone Rate Hike

The citizens committee, in a lively session Thursday, voted almost unanimously to recommend a flat 20 percent increase irrespective of dial service, in rates for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

This was a turn-about from the 50 percent contingent upon dial installation increase the committee recommended two weeks ago.

It came as a direct result of the phone company's insistence that their latest proposal of a $7.50 business interim phone rate and $9 dial rate was final.

It was also an indirect result of strongly hinted implications that the company would go to court to secure its demands and drop dial installation here.

Committee member Herman Whately told the group he learned the majority of residents were in favor of giving the company a decent hike and retain the usual system if dial would cost what the company wants to charge. This reaction was general, other committee members declared by the public.

Attitudes of cooperation with the company on a rate boost were ruffled after City Manager Dick Pepin reported afterwards that the company indirectly hinted, strongly, on the court action.

Committee Tom Rose quickly added:

"If that is the attitude they want to assume, then I say let them go to court and see what they can get, but I doubt that they will." Offhand remarks from the floor by other committee members indicated they were ready "to test the company's water" since, to their knowledge, it would be the first time the company had taken the matter to court against any city in Texas.

Doubts on the company's going to court increased sharply when it developed their franchise expires in 1955 and Committee member Mitchell Hill asserted as he believed they wouldn't want to risk losing it since there are other phone companies operating in the state.

Pampa Probes Credit Curbs

Deliberations on where to start and how to get about softening up the stiff regulations on credit buying imposed by the amendment to Regulation "W" will be taken up by an almost capacity attendance of local and area dealers at 8 p.m. today in the Palm Room, city hall.

According to Paul Crossman, local appliance dealer who fostered the move, practically every automotive, furniture and appliance dealer in Pampa as well as others from Amarillo and Berger have signified they will attend the party.

Also attending will be Rep. Ben Guill and Atty. J. E. Thompson, the latter representing Democratic congressional nominee Walter Rogers.

A resolution, voting a strong protest on the tight regulations is expected to be drawn and sent to the U.S. Department of Commerce and Federal Reserve Bank board of governors.

The new regulations make mandatory heavier down payments on cars, radios, furniture and appliances, and leaves only 15 months to pay off balances. For automobiles, new or used, the down payment must be one-third of the price; on appliances one-quarter of the total price; and on furniture 15 percent of the total price.

Tom Rose, Jr., of the Rose Motor Co., said the regulation, to the best of his knowledge, (See CREDIT CURBS, Page 2)

High Tides Tear Florida as Storm Damage Mounting

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — High tides tore at Florida beaches and seawalls today, only a few hours after a hurricane ripped the length of the state and fizzled down to squall size as it came into Georgia.

Three Floridians died in the blow. Property and crop damage was well up in the millions of dollars.

The force of the storm tapered off steadily from the 116-mile-an-hour punch it handed Miami on Tuesday night. Still, it was the worst in years for many north and central Florida cities.

Today's battle scene was along the miles of east coast resort beaches. Navy men and civilian volunteers worked through the wreckage of seawalls and oceanfront houses.

Angry sea waters already had torn away city docks and two fish houses on Indian River at Titusville. One section of seawall at Cocoa collapsed. Many roads and bridges were washed out or were under water.

In three South Florida counties — Dade, Broward and Palm Beach — storm damage was tentatively estimated at $5,000,000 by Chief Storm Forecaster Grady Norton.

He said it would rise as more complete reports came in. News-paper estimates were as high as $8,000,000 for greater Miami alone.

Solons Plan Inquiry Into China Cargo

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Aroused by word that some American ships are hauling strategic materials to Red China, to congressional committee called today for a reckoning from three departments of the government.

Officials of the state, defense and commerce departments were called for questioning (10:30 a.m. EST) about how tightly export regulations have been drawn and enforced, especially since the Communist invasion of South Korea last June.

The inquiry by the Senate commerce subcommittee grew out of a letter written by a crewman on the American freighter Flying Cloud last August saying that the ship was carrying war useful materials from Japan to Communist China.

Senator O'Connor (D-Md), subcommittee chairman, denounced as "reprehensible" any shipments of strategic goods to the Chinese Reds since the start of the Korean war and said the inquiry had been expanded to:

1. Find out what steps have been taken by the state and commerce departments to block such shipments to Communist China.

2. Check on whether export controls are being circumvented by shipping materials from this country to another country for reshipment.

3. Determine whether government agencies are working together closely enough in designing strategic materials and administering controls to prevent loopholes.

In connection with the last point, O'Connor told newsmen the subcommittee intends to explore into any conflicts between the regulations of authorities here

Search Resumed for Downed Jet Planes; One Pilot Rescued

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The search resumed today for two of three Air Force F-86 jet fighter planes which crashed minutes apart Wednesday in wooded country 35 miles northwest of here. Cause of the triple crash remained a mystery.

Wreckage of the third craft was found near Nokesville, Va., its pilot, Luther C. Barcus, Jr., of Spring Lake, N.J., suffered a broken leg and lacerations.

He told of seeing the other two planes spinning toward the earth just before his own machine went down—a mystifying spin. It skidded a mile after touching earth.

Air Force officials were unable immediately to account for the truck triple crash. Lt. Joseph Kent, public relations officer at nearby Andrews Field, Md., said there was no collision and the planes had not been aloft long enough to run out of fuel.

"Whatever it was," he said, "the same thing must have happened to all three."

Kent declined to speculate on the possibility of sabotage. However, he said an official investigation could be expected to consider all possibilities.

Passenger Train Piles Up in N. Y.

ONEIDA, N. Y. — (AP) — A New York Central passenger train was wrecked early today in the heart of this central New York city. The locomotive fireman was killed and between 12 and 20 persons were injured.

Two of the injured were reported in critical condition.

Three coaches and the baggage car overturned.

The steam locomotive and its tender jacked up and lay on either side of the tracks with wheels toward each other, 200 feet ahead of the rest of the train. Other cars of the west bound train were derailed.

Most of the injured were reported to have been in the second coach, which overturned in the middle of the main street grade crossing.

A section of rail pierced the club car.

The train was the North Star, No. 21, enroute from New York City to Buffalo.

The wreck of the 11-car train occurred at 1:58 a.m. (EST) as it passed through this city of 10,000.

All four tracks of the railroad's main line were torn up.

Dewey Claims FDR Financed

NEWBURGH, N. Y. — (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey declared last night that wealthy Democrats had helped the late Franklin D. Roosevelt meet $200,000 in obligations to induce him to run for governor of New York in 1928.

Dewey, fighting Democratic charges of a GOP nomination "pact" in the current New York campaign, based his statement on quotations from books written by two former national chairmen of the Democratic Party.

The books are "You're The Boss" by Edward J. Flynn and "Jim Farley's Story" by James A. Farley.

Dewey said in a state-wide radio broadcast that $50,000 of the money was promised personally by John J. Raskob, one-time Democratic national chairman who died last Sunday. And Raskob promised to help in getting the rest of the $200,000, Dewey added.

Citing the books, Dewey said Roosevelt "owed money at that time (1928) to the Warm Springs Foundation, which he had intended to run as a resort," and was reluctant to run for governor.

That was the year the late Alfred E. Smith ran for president, and Democratic leaders wanted Mr. Roosevelt on the ticket to lend strength.

Dewey, who is running for reelection to run up the subject of FDR's finances, accuses Democratic charges that Joe J. Hanley, Republican lieutenant governor, was promised relief from financial obligations if he would consent to a nomination.

Dewey said he hadn't "the slightest criticism" of the 1928 Roosevelt incident, and added:

"I wish we had a Raskob in the Republican Party who would (See DEWEY, Page 2)

Mrs. Ruth Lowes Counsels Teachers in New Program

A consultant program has been adopted by the Pampa Board of Education, which is designed to coordinate work between teachers of consecutive grade levels and further the progress of the teacher.

Dr. Ruth Lowes, instructor of elementary education at West Texas State College in Canyon, has been employed by the Pampa school system as teacher consultant.

Her duties include meeting in individual conferences with teachers and group meetings with teachers from all the elementary schools and junior high school of Pampa.

In the individual conferences, Miss Lowes discusses with the teacher her own problems and how they might be met. Miss Lowes pointed out that not always are the problems straightened out completely, but the teacher is sometimes able to meet her problems with a more clear mind.

Among the hundreds of problems confronted by the teacher are methods of instruction, teaching materials, reporting the children's progress to parents, and testing methods. However, the problems are as varied as the personalities of the children," Dr. Lowes said.

Vertical meetings, which are meetings of the teachers of all grades, one through seven, in a particular course, are held with Dr. Lowes. In these, the teachers discuss and sometimes attempt to organize a course of study. The purpose of this course of study is to benefit the student by making the process of transferring from one school or one grade level easier.

Meeting with teachers from all the schools that teach in one grade, Dr. Lowes discusses another type of course of study, which is, basically, a guide for the coordination of the various courses. These serve as tentative plans and are revised according to the needs of both the teacher and the student, during the year.

Dr. Lowes comes to Pampa once weekly for these conferences and meetings. Her duties also include

'Yanks' Not Good Name For Troops Woman Claims

WASHINGTON — (P) — A lady in Cache, Okla., thinks news-writers and newscasters should stop calling the U. S. troops fighting in Korea "Yanks."

Miss Juanita Adams, who says she's a researcher of history, and politics, wrote the Associated Press she thinks the word "Yankee" has a shady past.

She says it started with the Indians. They were trying to say "English," or its French equivalent, "Anglois." By the time the Indians got through with it, it came out "Yankee."

When the colonies were breaking away from Britain, the English called the colonials "Yankees" in derision. And so from the start, Miss Adams says, "Yankee" was a bad name.

Miss Adams seems to have a point at that.

Her version of the birth and early hard times of "Yankee" agrees with the Encyclopedia Britannica.

But that odd word worrier, H. L. Mencken of Baltimore, has a different idea.

In his book, "The American Language," Mencken says "Yankee" comes from the Dutch. It's a corruption of "Jan" and "Kees." Or John Cheese, as an Englishman is John Bull.

But he, too agrees that "Yankee" came up the hard way.

It was applied to early New Englanders, as a sign they had more cunning than they had scruples. Mencken says the New Englanders didn't mind it.

But during the Civil War "Yankee" bobbed up again. The southerners hurled it at the northerners, but there's no evidence anyone was wounded by it. One researcher in the word wilds of Arkansas came out with the information that at least some of the natives used it as a verb. "To yankee" meant "to cheat."

Although "Yanks" was used back in the 1700's, the word got its biggest push from George M. Cohen's World War I song, "Over There," in which "The Yanks Are Coming."

All right. We rule out Yanks. What do we call the troops then?

Miss Adams says "Americans." But there has been some objection to that because a native of Canada or Honduras is an American, too.

United States? United Statesians?

See what we're up against, Miss Adams?

COLD WON'T BREED—Damp and rocky shores of Isle of Roan looked like an ideal place to catch a cold, but after three months, a dozen experimenters got into their boat and went back to Scotland with only one good cold among all of them.

British Cold Experiment Turns Up Barely a Sneeze

By NEA Service

ISLE OF ROAN, Scotland — (NEA)—On a bleak little island off the northern coast of Scotland, a dozen volunteers have just spent three months trying to catch a cold.

They worked hard at it, too. Germ-carrying visitors handled their eating utensils, clothing, and other articles in daily use. The 12 "guinea pigs" were coughed at by the germ-carriers in a room with sealed skylight, door and chimney.

And, when it came time to go home, only one of the 12 had a real cold. Three had mild reactions. The other eight said they "never felt better in their lives."

The experiment was arranged by the Common Cold Research Unit at Salisbury in cooperation with the British Ministry of Health and the Medical Research Council. The Isle of Roan was picked in the expectation that life under such rugged conditions would make the volunteers more vulnerable.

To judge the natural cold process a bit, two parties of germ-carrying students from Aberdeen University were brought to the island to see if they would inflict their colds on the volunteers.

Despite the scarcity of colds on Isle of Roan after three months, the researchers said they obtained definite leads which may produce new ideas as to the way a person catches cold.

One other discovery was made by F. M. Betteridge, a former police superintendent who acted as camp commandant. While the volunteers sat around waiting for germs, Betteridge and his wife studied wild life on the island.

They found that rabbits, rats, and mice do not breed on Roan. The same thing seems to hold true for colds.

Harpo Marx Plans to Talk

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — For the first time in 25 years, Harpo Marx is going to speak before an audience.
 Harpo is the mute, wild-wigged character who chased blondes in filmdom's most famous brother act. Now that the Marxes have gone their separate ways professionally, Harpo is embarking on a concert tour. And he says he's going to talk.
 "I thought I'd do it this way," he said in a spacious Beverly Hills home. "I would be playing the harp and one of the strings would break. I'd say 'damn.' That would break the silence and then I'd talk to the audience and explain why I never spoke."
 The story begins a quarter-century ago when the Marx Brothers were touring vaudeville. They were doing a 25-minute sketch and Harpo had two comedy bits. One was in pantomime, which drew a lot of laughs, and the other was dialogue, which didn't. So the brothers decided to lengthen the pantomime routine and cut out the other. Harpo never spoke again.
 The brothers are still firm about doing no more pictures together, except a final one based on their own lives. It will be taken from Kyle Christion's book about the boys.

Court Unimpressed By Driver's Wife

NORTHWICH, England — (AP) — James Trafford, charged with driving through a red light, told magistrates court it just could not have happened.
 "I had with me my wife whom I consider to be the finest back seat driver in the world. Nothing can appear on the road without her telling me — a dog, a cat, a light, or anything," he declared.
 The court, unimpressed, fined Trafford $2.80.

THREE-LANE TREADMILL — Day and night, these trucks will roll back and forth on a mile-long road in Maryland to see how much damage trucks do to highways.

Big Trucks Roll Day, Night To Check Damage to Roads

By NFA Service
LA PLATA, Md. — (NEA) — The most deliberate beating ever given to a highway is being pounded out by a fleet of heavily loaded trucks lumbering along day and night, back and forth over a mile-long strip of road in Southern Maryland.
 So far the highway has survived better than the drivers. Two seasoned truck jockeys quit after one week of their monotonous grind to nowhere.

But when the test ends in mid-December, some highway officials think the three-lane stretch of concrete road may be ready to give up, too. At least it will provide engineers with the answers to the big puzzle of the highways: Do big trucks really break up our roads? If so, what load weight does the serious damage? And how fast does the break-up occur?
 Eleven states and the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads are sharing the costs of the test, which grew out of a suggestion by the Maryland State Roads Commission.
 Although only eight trucks are being used, their operation has been scheduled to pound out the equivalent of 20 years of normal wear in six months.
 The trucks roll day and night, rain or shine, seven days a week.

On an average of once every minute, every slab of concrete in the test strip gets a multi-ton jolt. Drivers work eight-hour shifts — and they have no pleasure traffic to worry about. The road is a section of U. S. Route 301 between La Plata and the Potomac, and it has been closed off to the public.

To measure what the repeated jolts do to the road, a corps of technicians from the Highway Research Board has set up instruments that produce charts, graphs and pictures of the beating the road is taking.

The trucks operate in pairs, each pair being loaded with a different, but carefully measured weight. Lightest load is 18,000 pounds, the heaviest 44,800. Each pair has its own section of the test road, and thus engineers can compare from day to day the rate of damage under the lighter and heavier loads.

Before the test ends, the trucks will have rolled up a total of half a million miles on their concrete treadmill.

Some officials familiar with the test think the road may break up before December. Others aren't so sure. Whatever they find out, however, will be actual fact rather than theory in a question that has kept highway officials and

Christmas Comes Sept. 15 For Retired Little Marine

By STAN SWINTON
WITH THE U. S. FIRST MARINE DIVISION IN KOREA — (AP) — From now on Christmas comes Sept. 15 for peanuts.
 Peanuts is a United States Marine — well, sort of a Marine. The difference between him and the other leathernecks is Peanuts is only five years old. A wide-eyed Korean.

Peanuts got into the Marine Corps in an odd way on Sept. 15. The place was a foxhole in the battle for Seoul. For each foot of blooded ground the devildogs were fighting hard.

Dawn came that morning and in his foxhole PFC Luke Troclair of Lake Charles, La., opened a can of C rations for breakfast. Suddenly a head popped over the edge of the foxhole.

Troclair grabbed his gun. But he saw quickly that the pair of big eyes staring into the foxhole were fixed on the food. A hungry kid.

That was Peanuts. He didn't know his real name and neither did anybody else. Peanuts just remember that shells had killed his mother and father. And he was all alone.

Troclair gave Peanuts a can of beans as an enlistment bonus. Peanuts was a Marine from there on.

He was a little under age — twelve years or so — but nobody had a book of regulations around. So Peanuts was in.

After the battle, the Marines decided to uniform Peanuts. S-Sgt. Emil M. Shutzack of Pittsburgh, Pa., and others hustled up a pair of dungarees. After they were cut down, Peanuts could have stood guard outside the White House and an inspecting officer couldn't have given his attire a single demerit.

The Marines had fun giving Peanuts candy and teaching him English. The Marines' own wives and kids seemed a little nearer with a kid around.

Then came orders for the Marines to move on. They remembered another war with the adopted kids and the heartbreaking moments when it came time to part.

The Marines didn't want it to happen, especially to Peanuts. Farewells like that are hard for everybody.

So they forgot the fatigue of battle for a while and thought about Peanuts' future.

A hat was passed. Nobody had much money. There's no place to spend it on a battlefield. Each Marine gave what he had. Then they tossed in the outfit's beer money for good measure.

The case of Peanuts was talked over with the sisters at Inchon's Star of the Sea Orphanage.

The Marines turned over enough money to take care of Peanuts for the rest of his life.

Then they told the sisters that from now on Christmas for Peanuts would come on Sept. 15 — the day they found him out there on the battlefield, a frightened, hungry waif. On that date the men of the outfit agreed to send Peanuts Christmas gifts.

They explained it all to Peanuts. He blinked a few times but he didn't cry. Marines don't cry.

They took him to the orphanage.

New Jersey Birds Bell City's Cats

CRENSHILL, N. J. — (AP) — Once upon a time, all the mice got together and decided to hang a bell on the cat.

The bell would tinkle when the cat crept up on them and they would be forewarned.

All the mice thought this was a great idea. They applauded and whistled and stamped their feet and cheered.

Then a mouse asked "who will put the bell on the cat?" Nobody answered.

But in Crenskill, the old fairy tale has come true for the mice. Cats have to wear not one bell, but three.

Of course, the ordinance is designed to protect birds, not mice. And it has stirred up a medium-sized controversy between cat lovers and bird lovers.

The bird lovers claim, the household cats cause tremendous carnage among song birds.

The cat fanciers don't like the ordinance, mainly because it also entails a $2-per-year license fee for all pet felines.

The measure, passed here by the borough council last April, is based on one adopted in nearby Tenafly, N. J., 10 years ago.

Why three bells? The reasoning is that cats, being pretty clever when it comes to catching birds or mice, would learn how to move around without tinkling if they just had one bell around their necks.

"But with three bells, a cat's got its paws full," a borough official said.

In a recent league bowling game in Grand Ledge, Mich., Willard Hodge picked up three pins on every first ball he threw, and converted the spare each time.

Wally Triplett, fleet Detroit Lions halfback, sprinted 64 yards for a touchdown the first time he carried the ball in a pro game.

'Hoboes' Capture Irish Streets

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Hoboes invaded and captured the town of Shamrock Tuesday. From all corners they came, parading, riding up and down the streets in cars, yelling and investing the main sections of the town, including Main street. Fortunately, it was only the high school seniors, celebrating their annual Hobo Day. And a hobo-ish day it was, with the most fantastic costumes, false noses, fake glasses, patches and all the paraphernalia which characterizes the famous "knights of the road."

 The senior class, 60 strong, made a wild sight in the halls of the high school as they had their fun.
 The situation rapidly is returning to normal, after the melee.

Washington Didn't—But Hank Did Sleep in Damascus Hotel

By HENRY McLEMORE

If I had ever been flattered before in my life, and therefore knew how to look flattered, I'd look flattered today.

As it is, I am doing the best I know how after a letter written in Damascus on July 16th finally caught up with me.

It is from Ralph S. Scott, who gives his address as 2131 O Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., and without the permission of the Cudahy Packing Co. July Garland, or Cole Bros., Circus, I am going to print it.

"Dear Mr. McLemore: We have the distinction of occupying Room 14 in the Hotel Omayad here in Damascus. At first we objected to the noise, but were told that it was the only room in the hotel with bath, and that Henry McLemore had slept here.

"Being a long-time McLemore reader the place glowed with a new significance, and we gratefully accepted the room. I recalled that you had written about the noise to be heard from this room, but you're a master of understatement.

"You should have been here during the feast of Ramadan. It was incredible—the entire Moslem population gathered out front at 4 a.m. to celebrate, and that has been going on for four days. My wife—she reminds me of Jean—said, 'Well, Henry may have stretched here, but he never slept here.'

"That gave me an inspiration to continue Room 14 as a tourist attraction. By bribe and persuasion the night clerk, who is also a reader of yours, agreed to have the transom over the door lettered 'Henry McLemore Slept Here.'

"Sure enough, the next day the lettering appeared in fine gilt letters. But it was neatly done in Arabic. So, my dear McLemore, I am afraid that a great historic fact is forever lost to the Christian world. Happy travels, etc. . . ."

So you see, folks, why I am a bit set up today. My name is in letters over a door of the Omayad, one of the most charming hotels on the edge of the Syrian desert.

Wonder if Hyeem shared Room 14 with Mr. and Mrs. Scott? Hyeem is a dog of wondrous colour and mixture, and was left there several years ago by a man who then occupied No. 14. The dog still considers it his room, and was there to greet us when we moved in. He spent his nights under my bed, and his days on the balcony, looking down on the ever-fascinating goings-on of Damascus.

Top Military Leaders See No End Now to Mobilization

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Now that this country with its allies is winning in Korea, are you thinking: "as soon as we mop up there, we'll get back to normal here?"

It's not what the top men in government are thinking. You hear none of that talk here. And there's no evidence to support that. On the contrary.

The top men here are looking for a long pull, building up defense, maybe imposing new and even tougher government controls.

When he reached Hawaii last week President Truman made it clear he wants no let-down. He had some more to say on that in his speech Tuesday.

He indicated, though, that he fears some members of Congress, once the Korean shooting is over, will want to cut down defense spending.

Of course, the less the government spent on defense, the less need there'd be for government controls over things like materials, credit-buying, or wages and prices. And taxes wouldn't have to go higher.

But one of the men most responsible for planning the government's program, W. Stuart Symington, has made it clear he looks for more government controls, not less, and tougher ones.

Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board, is one of the president's right-hand men, one of his closest advisers. The president put him in charge of the defense program, or, rather, the production program.

He was interviewed by U.S. News and World Report, a weekly magazine, on his views about the future. They are not soft. They hold out no hope for an early end to controls or re-arranging.

He wants higher taxes and stiffer curbs on credit to reduce the danger of inflation which follows when people have plenty of money to spend and the goods on which they can spend it get scarcer.

(The government gave a good illustration of its thinking last week. It imposed controls on credit buying on Sept. 18. Even though now victory in Korea seems certain, the government revised those Sept. 18 controls and made them stiffer.

(And just a couple of days before that it slapped controls on

Texas Doctor in Washington Still Has Interest in State

WASHINGTON — (Special) — A Texas physician who came here nearly half a century ago is still actively interested in the Lone Star state.

It was in 1899 that Dr. Oscar Wilkinson and his bride, then residents of El Paso, stopped by Washington en route home from a honeymoon tour of Europe.

Two years later they came back to Washington.

He set up office in their home, at a location picked with a prophetic eye to the future. You'll find him there today in the same office, at 1108 L street, northwest, near the very heart of the medical center of the city. Their residence now is a little farther out.

But, let the charming and lively Mrs. Wilkinson tell their story.

"We had seen the capitals of Europe," she recalled in an interview, "so we thought we surely ought to see our own nation's capital before getting back to El Paso."

"It was about dark when we reached the city. I was so tired when we got to our room in the Raleigh Hotel I just simply refused my husband's suggestion that we go out and do some sightseeing."

"Well, he went out alone, but came back a while later all enthused and told me I had to come right then and see the sights. So, at 10 o'clock at night, we stepped into a carriage and the horses went clippity off to take us by the White House, the Washington Monument and the Capitol."

"We were thrilled. And when my husband discovered the next day that he could have access to the library and records of the Surgeon General for research and study, we made up our minds. We knew we would come back later and make this our home."

Originally from Mississippi, Dr. Wilkinson had gone to El Paso to begin practice. About the same time, around 1895, the girl he later was to marry also arrived.

Village Council Has Trouble With Fines

CRYSTAL BEACH, Oct. 18 (AP) — Crystal Beach police have been fining a lot of motorists for over-parking, but the village council says it hasn't seen any of the money.

The discrepancies were discovered when the village clerk sent letters to 173 violators demanding payment of their fines. They produced receipts showing they'd already paid up.

Normal practice is for the village's three-man police force to collect the fines and turn them over to the clerk. The council plans to discuss this apparent deviation from the normal very soon.

Facts About Pampa Told In Newly-Completed Book

The new brochure for the city of Pampa has been completed and the first copies of it were put on display at the chamber of commerce banquet Tuesday night.

The new 16-page pamphlet which emblazons Pampa at its best has been nearly a year in the making. It is divided into nine sections, aptly titled, pictured and edited. The nine division titles are: Pampa At a Glance, Transportation, Wholesale and Retail, Education and Culture, Agriculture and Retail, Education and Culture, Agriculture and Animal Husbandry, Churches — Homes — Parks — Playgrounds, Industry — Manufacturing and Raw Materials, Recreation, and Pampa — "Heart of America's Industrial Future."

Included in the brochure are 77 pictures of various Pampa-area businesses, buildings, industries, playgrounds, churches, schools, etc.

The brochure is encased in a canary gold cover with special layout work on the front and back drawn by Chuck Tooker of Pampa. On the front cover of Pampa's major industries are shown in one complete picture, while the back cover depicts the Pampa geographic location, complete with all highways, plus weather statistics.

The informative booklets will be sent to various other communities and to industrialists with an eye toward promoting further industry for Pampa.

The chamber of commerce committee which gathered and assembled the material for the brochure was headed by Howard Vineyard.

U.N. Flag Flies At Equal Height With 'Old Glory'

A statement concerning the proper way of displaying the United Nations flag has been made by M. L. Wilson, director of the U.S. Extension Service. Wilson made the statement in correction of a statement made Oct. 12 concerning the flag.

Wilson stated that if the UN flag and Old Glory are flown together, both flags must be of the same size, or the UN flag may be larger. Both flags must be flown at the same height. If both flags are to be flown outdoors, two flagpoles of equal height must be provided, one for each flag.

The same rules hold true for flags displayed indoors. They must be of the same size and placed in the same position, Wilson said.

Wilson's statement was made through J. D. Pruitt, associate director of the Texas Extension Service.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Lou Sticks His Neck Out

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NFA Service

Larceny Lou was getting worried. It was the first hand of the game and the dealer had turned a joker, thereby freezing the discard pile from the start. Play had proceeded for several rounds. No one had been able to take the discard pile, which by this time looked rather like a Christmas tree. All the black threes had been discarded as had most of the wild cards and thirty of the thirty two kings, queens, sixes and fours.

The original up card had been a five spot and that was the only card of any other rank that had appeared on the table up to then. Lou's hand was Joker-ace-jack-10-10-10-9-8-7. The joker was the only safe discard he had left, and he did not have much chance to get the pile himself.

To make matters worse his partner had just drawn and was going through a bad case of frozen pack ague. Lou knew that something new was about to land on the table and he did not like the prospect. Finally his partner got around to playing and to Lou's great delight his selection was a ten spot.

This pleased Lou for several reasons. First of all he was pretty sure that it would be safe. He guessed that his partner had broken three or maybe four tens and since Lou held four tens himself he did not think anyone else could have a pair. Also Lou knew that his partner would stay out of trouble as long as his tens held out and that he, Lou, would be safe and went through his own attack of the shakes. Eventually he selected his discard. It was a nine!

Any ordinary player would have been reaching for that nine almost before it hit the table. Not so, our Lou. Without batting an eye he drew from the stock and the player who had thrown the nine sighed with relief.

This amazing play is typical of the way Lou plays all games. The discard pile was big enough to please any normal human being but Lou had seen a chance for a little larceny. He was sure that he would be safe for the rest of the hand and knew his partner would be safe for at least two more rounds. He also was confident that another nine would be discarded to him quickly.

The play worked. The next

Rotarians Show Progress Picture

A 27 minute sound film, "24 Hours of Progress" was shown Rotarians Wednesday at noon during the weekly club meeting in the Palm Room, city hall.

The picture was in line with "Oil Progress Week" and showed many uses to which petroleum is put through various refined products. It depicted a 24-hour flight from the West Coast to the East Coast as the passengers on the plane were never away from oil or its by-products at any time.

Fred Neslage, president of Rotary, urged members to work on their ticket sales to "The Great Virgin" show to be held in Pampa Oct. 30. The show is being sponsored by the Rotary to build up its funds for future civic activities.

It rather wish the play had failed as I do not approve of it. Lou's right hand opponent might have drawn safe cards the rest of the hand. Or maybe Lou's partner had held only two tens and the next player held the last two. Then Lou would have been dead.

Finally, the gain was not enough. The extra four cards Lou got, could not be worth the risk.

Air Force's Forms Give Man Reprieve

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — (AP) — Lieut. Edgar M. Gober, a reserve bombardier-navigator, was ordered to active duty effective Nov. 2. He filled out the Air

His orders were amended yesterday, Gober said, to give him 60 more days — time enough to become a papa.

Former Pampan Regains Partial Vocal Cord Use

Wess Carr, former announcer for Radio Station KPDN has regained partial use of his voice following a recent operation on his right vocal cord at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

Carr developed a tumor on the cord that silenced him for almost a year. The operation was performed by Dr. J. O. Witcher, Amarillo.

According to the report received by The News, the operation was successful, but it leaves the cord in a weakened condition, forcing him out of the professional speaking and singing field. Carr is now attending West Texas Barber College and expects to graduate on Jan. 1, 1951.

The information was received from Mrs. Alma B. Gordon, Lebanon, Pa., who used to sing with Carr in the St. John's Reformed Church choir there.

Truman Talk Gives Business An Idea of What Is Coming

By SAM DAWSON
 NEW YORK — (AP) — The president's warning that the United States will fight wherever in the world the Reds try new aggression gives businessmen — and consumers — a new idea today of what may be expected. To back up such a policy, businessmen say, American military might will have to be built up beyond anything yet asked of Congress. The crisis will mean taxes beyond anything yet proposed — or the alternative of government borrowing and further upward pressure on prices. Industrialists believe a defense program large enough to insure against Red aggression anywhere would also mean further, and much more substantial cutbacks in civilian goods. Steps already taken in this direction are bringing waits to meet both military demands and civilian needs. Executives of railroad, air, bus, steamship, truck and inland waterway lines say transportation can keep up with military needs without any return to travel priorities. The Wool Bureau, Inc., through its chairman, F. Eugene Ackerman, thinks there will be enough wool for both military and civilian needs next year. But Ackerman says that can be done only by using up almost the last of the wool stocks left over from the last war. Postwar wool consumption continues to run ahead of wool production. John W. Boatwright, general manager of the Distribution Economics Department of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) says military aviation needs may mean "a moderate reduction" in the quality of automobile fuel. But he says rationing is not needed. A top official of the agriculture department told the milk industries foundation meeting there is no need for control of prices or distribution of farm commodities, other than in the export market.

THE STORY: A wave of dog poisonings causes high feeling in the small town where Doc Fortson, who tells the story, runs the leading pharmacy. Evidence points to Roger Blensen, a postman who is afraid of dogs, but Doc doesn't think Roger is guilty. There one morning as Doc starts off to work he sees Roger talking to Tom Carson, blind insurance man. Suddenly Tom's seeing-eye dog staggers into a fall and soon late convictions on the sidewalk.

MISS MYRA SHARPE stood rigidly with the back of her hand pressed over her mouth. She was so tense that her angular figure looked more skinny than ever. Roger Blensen stood as if rooted to the ground. He was shaking so badly his mail sack joggled as it hung from his shoulder. Tom Carson was frantically feeling for his seeing eye dog. "What's the matter with Greta, Miss Myra? Tell me, Roger, what happened?" he pleaded. "Doc, is that you? Can't you help her? Do something."

out he said, "Tom believes I poisoned his dog? And what'd Miss Myra say about me being not responsible?" I tossed a small package addressed to Mrs. Muchmore from one hand to the other, wondering what to say to him. Finally I pitched the package into the mail bag and let him have the whole works. It seemed to me that it was time Roger knew what he was up against. I told him that the whole town believed he was systematically poisoning dogs, that he was not responsible for his actions because he'd had that head injury. As always, Roger, the one concerned, was the last one to hear the talk. I never saw anyone get thunderstruck, but Roger looked the way I imagine thunderstruck people do. He hadn't heard any of it, not even about the poisoning of Miss Simpson's pug or Dr. Frenstis' bird dogs, or even Jimmy Joe's Spunky.

TOM turned away from Roger contemptuously. "Miss Myra? I'll put Greta on your porch until I can send for her." "Oh no, I don't want—I mean, wouldn't it be better to carry her around to the grass in the shade?" Miss Myra asked. "All right, I'll carry her. You go ahead then and show me where to lay her." Tom stooped to pick up the big limp body of his dog and followed the sound of Miss Myra's footsteps.

ROGER shouldered the mail bag when he got everything picked up and moved off on his route from force of habit. I trotted along beside him for a ways. "So the town thinks I'm poisoning dogs because they nearly drove me crazy on my route? No, I forgot, I'm already crazy!" Roger's laugh was bitter. "Just a candid maniac!" It seemed like a good time to find out if he knew why he was so afraid of dogs. I told him what I'd read about the smell of fear. Roger hadn't heard about that, but he knew why he was afraid. He pulled back his shirt collar to show me the scars on his throat. The white scars were faint and barely visible so I knew they'd been there a long time. "When I was just a little kid," Roger said soberly, "a big dog nearly tore my throat out. Naturally, I was scared within an inch of my life. And I never got over it. I think now that if my mother had given me a cute fluffy puppy to play with I'd have forgotten the whole thing. But she didn't, and fool that I am, I didn't think about dogs being an occupational hazard for a mailman."

Freight Train in the Sky Helping to Win Korea War

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — (AP) — A freight train in the sky over the North Pacific is helping to win the United Nations' battle in Korea. That's the best way to describe the military air transport service operation which is setting all-time airlift records in the war of supply. It's a train that never stops rolling, a continuous supply line that depends on the guts of its pilots and the urgency of the job to be done. With a battlefront halfway around the world there can be no waiting for the weather, no foul-up of communications or shuffling of priorities. The job is not easy. Cargo planes on the Alaska leg of the northern route arrive at Elmendorf AFB here and then head into the world's worst weather. For 900 miles along the volcanic Aleutian archipelago they buck fog, sleet, icing conditions, high winds and endless mist. The last stop is Shemya, a bleak installation carved out of a mountain top during the last war. Ahead is the unfriendly Pacific, Japan, Korea, and the U. S. S. R. Pilots on the route report increased radio interference by Russian jamming stations, "nuisance value" music and static that has been going on for the past two years. Off Japan their aerial route passes within 150 miles of Soviet Kamchatka. Birdmen of many lands and many uniforms pilot the big four-engine transports. The planes bear scores of insignia, representing many branches of service, several great commercial airlines, and the transport forces of several countries. They converge on Elmendorf Air Force Base in an almost steady stream through the day and night.

New Home Brings Air Corps Summons

ATLANTA — (AP) — The young man, William E. Smith, had waited a long time for his new house, but it was completed at last. He moved in, took care of a few odds and ends and as his final chore drilled through the brick front of his home to install a letter box. He finished just in time for the postman to leave the first letter at the new address. It was a call to 1st Lieut. William E. Smith, a Marine reserve pilot, to report at the end of the month for extended active duty. The Mount Rushmore memorial carvings of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, and Teddy Roosevelt, in the Black Hills of South Dakota, are expected to last several hundred thousand years.

Polio Strikes Down 70 Texans for Week

AUSTIN — (AP) — Polio struck down 70 more Texans last week, the state health department has reported.

There were 64 new cases the previous week, but state health officer George W. Cox reiterated his view that polio is slowing up.

Only two counties reported cases for the first time. They were Hardin and Montague, with one each.

The total number of cases since Jan. 1 stands at 2,439. The same period last year had 2,010.

YOU and the SERVICE

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

Q. My son is in the Naval Reserve. He is married and in college. His father was killed in World War I. Can he get a deferment from active duty?

A. Yes, on the basis of his being in college only, however.

Q. I was in the Army during World War II and a prisoner of war for many months in Germany. If I get called to active duty will I be excused from combat?

A. The fact that you were a prisoner of war will not prevent you from getting into combat if you are placed on active duty.

Q. I have been in the Army Reserve Corps for one year. This fall I am starting college and will take ROTC. Will I be deferred if I get a call to active duty?

A. Probably, on the basis of going to college and taking ROTC.

Q. I am a 60-year-old widow.

My son who has helped contribute to my support has just received notice that he will be drafted. How much allotment will I receive?

A. If your son agrees to have it done the Army will take $40 a month from his pay, to which the government will add $45. That means you receive $85 a month.

Q. My son just graduated from a pre-med course. He was drafted. Will they let him out to finish med school?

A. Probably not.

Q. Can a Navy man be frozen in his enlistment in October, 1951?

A. If an emergency exists in October, 1951, it is likely that enlistments will have been frozen for a specified time. At the present time, enlistments have been frozen for one year from the date of expiration of enlistments occurring on or after July 28, 1950, and prior to July 9, 1951, unless reenlistment or extension is voluntarily made.

Margaret Truman Sees No Romance In Her Life Yet

PROVIDENCE, R. I. — (AP) — There is no romance in the life of Margaret Truman — for the present at least.

The president's daughter chuckled when a woman reporter put the question.

"Not at the moment," she replied, "but things can change."

Asked if she found much pro or anti-Truman feeling on her tour, Margaret replied: "I don't think so, not much. I think the politicians have rather given up using me. I won't be used in any way. I am here as a concert singer."

FORD MOTOR COMPANY'S New Automatic Drive Makes its Bow in the new 1951 MERCURY

"Smoother, simpler, more efficient!" —that's how engineers hail this amazing new automatic drive that's coming soon in the new 1951 MERCURY.

MAYBE you've read about it. Surely you've heard about it. It's the amazing new automatic transmission developed by Ford Motor Company. Now you're going to see it, thrill to it, for the first time in any car, in the new 1951 Mercury.

Called Merc-O-Matic

Merc-O-Matic is the name. And of this you can be sure: there'll be nothing like it on the road! The thrilling new 1951 Mercury will be making a debut in our showrooms in a very few days. And once you see it, we think you'll agree:

For "the drive of your life," it's the new 1951 Mercury with Merc-O-Matic Drive!

What is Merc-O-Matic Drive? It's a completely new, completely automatic drive developed under the direction of Ford Motor Company and Borg-Warner transmission engineers, and made to order for Mercury's great, V-type, 8-cylinder engine. It's s-m-o-o-t-h-e-r, simpler, more efficient!

Makes every driver an expert

Naturally, there's no clutch or gearshift. But there the resemblance to other drives ends. For this new Merc-O-Matic Drive is different. Even the easier-to-read indicator panel is different. The drive selector is so arranged that a person accustomed to a standard shift will feel perfectly at home. And if you're familiar with other drives, you'll notice immediately the big difference in the way this new 1951 Mercury with Merc-O-Matic performs.

There's no "mushiness." With Merc-O-Matic Drive you get instant, certain response. You start in one smooth sweep of power. No tugging as gears change. There's a "down-shift" for extra hill-climbing and passing power; just press the accelerator smartly to the floor. And Merc-O-Matic is cool operating — no uncomfortable heat in the passenger compartment.

There's no "runaway" downhill. You are in control all the time with the engine's compression at work to save your brakes.

There's no stalling in traffic. Park on a hill if you like. You're safe. Merc-O-Matic Drive locks when in parking position.

Yes, Merc-O-Matic is going to make you forget all you ever knew about automatic transmissions. This is it—the easy, sure, safe, s-m-o-o-t-h-e-r "drive of your life." And—it's extremely thrifty.

Dozens of New Features in 1951 Mercury

But Merc-O-Matic is only part of the great new Mercury for 1951. There's a new look from end to end... beautiful new styling... rich, new fabrics and colors to make Mercury for 1951 one of the smartest cars on the road.

New safety, too—the new rear window alone gives you more than 1,000 square inches of safe viewing area. Greater comfort in a new, improved ventilating system which brings you just the amount of fresh air you want, when you want it, and where you want it.

It's the plus car of the year—plus on beauty, plus on comfort, plus on safety, plus on economy—plus on everything but price!

All that and the great new Merc-O-Matic Drive, too. Yes, you'll want to see these new Mercurys. So watch Mercury showrooms for the new 1951 Mercury with Merc-O-Matic for "the drive of your life"—for "the buy of your life."

"It has always been the first aim of Mercury and its dealers to bring you each year a better car, better in every way that engineering, research, and experience can achieve.

"For 1951 we are proud to present the great new Ford Motor Company automatic transmission—Merc-O-Matic Drive—developed by what we regard as the greatest team of engineers in the country today. We think this automatic drive is as efficient and as reliable as the automobile industry knows how to build today.

"We sincerely believe that the new 1951 Mercury, with its Merc-O-Matic Drive, its new style and comfort, will be the greatest of all Mercurys."

Texas-N.Y. Pipeline Ready to Cross Hudson; Will Reach Every U.S. Industrial Center by '54

HEADING FOR THE RIVER — Other end of the gas pipeline you see here at Edgewater, N. J., is in Corpus Christi, Texas. Soon it will reach across the river to New York, in the background.

By NEA Service

EDGEWATER, N. J. — (NEA) — Down the rocky sides of the Palisades snakes a 26-inch pipeline. One end dips into the Hudson River at Edgewater, across from Manhattan; the other is 1,840 miles away at Corpus Christi, Texas.

Sometimes in December, the pipeline will have stretched another 4,000 feet. Buried 30 feet under the muck of the Hudson, it will be ready to carry natural gas to New York.

It is a milestone that marks the coming of age of natural gas, a cheap fuel that for years went up in smoke and flames in the oil fields because there was no way to make use of it.

Every gusher that is brought in has millions of cubic feet of the gas. Residents near the fields got the benefits of the low-cost fuel but they could use only a small part of it. Uncounted millions of dollars worth had to be burned off. World War II and the oil shortage helped change the picture. To carry oil that was being lost in torpedoed tankers, the government built the Big and Little Inch pipelines. At war's end, they were

Polish Girl Vexed By Interference From Youth Group

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A Polish girl's complaint that her Communist youth organization interferes with her private life is supplying ammunition to the "Voice of America."

Officials said the State Department's overseas radio has been broadcasting in a score of languages a letter written by E. Jankowska of Warsaw. It was published by the newspaper Standard Miodoch under the heading "My Private Life Does Not Concern Anyone."

Miss Jankowska identified herself as a faithful member of the ZMP — the union of Polish youths. She was quoted as saying she proposed to continue to use makeup even though the ZMP decreed members must wear butler's uniforms, straight hair, and shun paint and powder. "That is all very well at 40, but I have no intention of turning into an Asiatic," her letter said. "I do not like the stomp of boots on my soul."

Today, there are 282,000 miles of pipelines in service, and when New York is linked to the network, only New England and the Pacific Northwest will be without natural gas. According to W. Paul Jones, the nation's top gas appliance manufacturer, by the end of 1950 the pipelines will account for 20 percent of the nation's total fuel energy.

The pipeline system is being expanded at the rate of seven to nine thousand miles a year at more than $600,000 annually.

Police Get 'Hot-Rods' To Catch 'Hot-Rods'

Rice Institute Has Plenty To Brag About in Stadium

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD

Associated Press Staff

A fellow we know went into the new Rice Institute stadium when it was empty and climbed all the way to the top.

Then he turned and looked down, and the steepness of the incline — intensified by the fact that the stadium was not filled with humanity — gave him quite a fright.

The steepness of the 70,000-seat stadium is just one feature which helps make it ideal for the sports fan. The structure is replaced inclined at a straight 30-degree angle. This one incline gradually from 25 to 35 degrees. The flatter base with steeper upper incline makes it much easier to see over the wild "bit of the woman" in front of you.

The new stadium, situated on the Rice campus, is the last word so far as the spectator is concerned. Consider these improvements:

1. The supports of the upper deck are completely clear of the lower stands. There are no columns anywhere to obstruct the view.

2. There's no track surrounding the field. As a result, spectators in the first row are within 35 feet of the sidelines, compared to 85 feet at the old stadium.

3. The bench-type seats are made of redwood and do not splinter. Each seat is 18 inches wide and 12 inches deep, compared with the seats in the old stadium which were 14 inches wide and 10 inches deep.

4. Walking space beneath the spectators' feet on each row is sloped one inch instead of one-half inch to greatly improve drainage throughout the stadium. (It DO rain in Houston).

5. There are only 14 seats on each side of an aisle in a section. Thus the maximum persons to be disturbed by someone passing down a full row is 13.

6. All tickets have an aisle number, indicating the aisle closest to your seat.

7. Fans may go in at any one of four entrances at each corner of the stadium to get to some specific entrance. After passing through the gates, spectators walk a short way along a ramp with a very minute incline. This puts them onto a fine, wide concourse that runs completely around the field. You can watch action on the field from the concourse.

8. The playing field is down in a man-made bowl, 25 feet below the actual ground surface. So spectators enter the stadium from the main concourse at the 44th row level. This means that more than half the fans walk down to their seats. And the farthest a person must walk up to reach his seat is 35 rows to the top row of the upper deck.

9. In case you can afford such luxuries, the more than 2,000 box seats in the stadium have opera type adjustable seats.

Yep, it's quite a stadium. The night it was opened, an official of Santa Clara University got out on the field and admitted California has nothing like it.

Greater praise hath no man than that!

Optician Prefers British Women's Orbs

LONDON — (AP) — O. D. Rasmussen, who has been gazing into women's eyes the world over for years, says women of Britain's upper middle class have the most beautiful orbs in the world.

Writing in Vision, a magazine of the Association of Optical Practitioners, optician Rasmussen sizes up women's eyes this way:

French — Their eyes have a certain hardness.

German — Too staring.

American — "Too intelligent."

Russian — "Not intelligence enough."

OLD WARDEN

LONDON — (AP) — Edwin Bell, 74, has joined Britain's Civil Defense Corps and begun a refresher course showing air raid wardens how to deal with atom bombs.

He's getting ready for his third war. He was senior air raid warden at suburban Wimbledon during the Nazi blitz and headed a group of volunteer wardens in London during the Zeppelin raids in World War I.

Stuffed Peppers
A Thrifty Dish

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Bright peppers, parboiled and stuffed with chicken, fish, meat, cheese, together with rice, bread-crumbs or noodles, are delicious baskets of economy.

Here's a thrifty recipe from the Department of Agriculture food experts.

You can combine several current plentiful in preparing stuffed peppers for 4 servings. Use 4 medium-sized green peppers, 2 tablespoons fat, 1-4 cup chopped celery, 1 cup cooked rice, 1-2 cup grated cheese, 1-4 teaspoon salt, crumbs mixed with melted fat. Clean peppers and boil 5 minutes in salted water, drain. Heat fat and cook celery in it until tender. Mix with rice and cheese, add salt. Fill peppers with rice mixture, top with crumbs. Place peppers in a half inch of hot water in a baking dish. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees F.) oven until peppers are tender and crumbs browned — about 30 minutes.

Jam makes breakfast seem better. Use this low cost jam recipe and everyone will be happier in the morning.

IDAHO PRUNE JAM
(Makes about 4 half-pint jars)

Four cups prunes, 3 cups sugar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1-4 cup very thinly sliced lemon. Wash prunes, pit, and cut into quarters. Mix with sugar, lemon juice, and sliced lemon. Bring to a boil and simmer until thick. Pour into hot sterilized jars. Want a few budget menus? They help to keep food costs down, you know.

Creamed tuna fish, buttered noodles, snap beans, pickled beet salad, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

Savory hamburgers, mashed potatoes, buttered carrots, molded vegetable salad, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, tapioca with fruit sauce, coffee, milk.

Braised lamb, sauteed eggplant and tomato slices, cole slaw, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, vanilla pudding with blackberries, coffee, milk.

Wool Jersey for Sewing, Sussing

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Wool jersey, a fabric favorite the moment the air turns cool and crisp, appears this fall in a new, washable version. And it's shown in fashion-favored colors: coffee brown, mantle red, cathedral blue, dove sand, lantern yellow and forest spruce.

This new sanforlan wool jersey takes to warm water and mild soap the way a dowerger takes to grand opera. In sewing with it, it's best to use a slightly longer machine stitch and to double-stitch all main seams. And always allow a new garment to hang overnight before hemming it. This is to avoid any slight variation in the hemline.

A sleeveless jumper (left) in mothers to come to the party, too.

WRONG: Go to the party and stay.

RIGHT: Drop your child off at the party and ask the mother who is giving it, if you do not already know, when you should call for your child.

washable wool jersey lends itself to theater parties and to dates in town. It can be accessorized, for example, with black velvet belt, hat and shoes, with short white gloves and a pearl choker. Made to NEA Pattern Number 3201, in sizes 11 to 18, it can also be worn with a favorite blouse for daytime.

Separates (right) in this same jersey, can mix or match with other separates in a wardrobe. The blouse, made to NEA Pattern Number 38619 in sizes 11 to 18, has softly rolled collar and three-quarter sleeves with split, turned back cuffs.

The skirt is from NEA Pattern Number 8343 in sizes 12 to 42. It has soft, unpressed pleats and a tapered waistband which fastens with a single self-covered button.

WE, THE WOMEN

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

"My wife and I are the meanest parents in the neighborhood," I recently heard a man say ruefully.

He added by way of explanation: "We insist on our children doing a few small jobs about the house and yard. They have to do their chores before they can go out to play, and apparently we are the only parents in our neighborhood who demand anything at all of their children in the way of work."

Any parent who today clings to the old-fashioned but still sound notion that a child should accept a little responsibility for helping with yard and household chores probably can sympathize with this man. For today, in the so-called "better" neighborhoods few children are expected to do anything but what beckons at the moment.

Mama hires a yard man to come once a week to mow the lawn, while husky junior goes to the movies, reads comic books, or sits in front of his own or a neighbor's television set.

Sis doesn't even clean up her own room, though she has plenty of energy for anything the gang thinks up. Also, she doesn't hesitate to use Mom as a chauffeur for the gang.

So the parent who tries to see to it that his children shoulder a little responsibility and do a little work along with having fun is at a disadvantage. Because the neighbors' kids don't have any chores to do, one's own children are likely to feel put upon. It's no wonder that Mama and Papa get to feeling like the neighborhood's meanest parents.

A WISE STATEMENT

Perhaps they can console themselves with the attitude I once heard another father express.

"I want my children to love me," he said, "but more important, I want to do what I think is right for them, whether it makes them love me more or less at the time."

That man's children grew up not only to love him — but to have deep respect for him as a person and as a parent.

Happiness consists, not in possessing much, but in being content with what we possess. He who wants little always has it. —Zimmermann

Observing Mexican Farmer Sets Example in Brushland 20-30 Kicks Off Membership Drive

VILLA ACUNA, Mexico —(AP)— A Mexican farmer who learned to admire U.S. farming methods has taken a piece of brushy wasteland on the Mexican-U. S. border and turned it into a thriving example for his farming countrymen.

Mexican farms all too often have low production as measured by U.S. standards. But Manuel Garza Gonzalez has proved that given a little know-how, Mexican farms and farmers can produce crops measuring up to the best.

Garza Gonzalez bought his 90 acres 10 years ago. "It had a fine crop of brush and many persons laughed at my folly," he recently told C. A. Price of the Texas A&M College Extension Service.

In the succeeding decade, Price writes in The Extensioner, official Extension Service publication, clearly cultivated fields have replaced the brush. Tractors pull plows and excellent building store crops, protect machinery and shelter livestock.

Garza Gonzalez' success has been based on rebuilding the soil, crop rotation, use of fertilizer and selection of pure seed. The best pattern of farming for the soil and climate has been pretty well determined by Garza Gonzalez. It centers around registered pigs. He probably is the only member in Mexico of the American Berkshire Association.

Following in approximate importance are grapes, other fruit, hybrid corn, alfalfa, small grains, poultry, honey and cows.

The land must be fertilized with a high percentage of super phosphate.

Last year, for instance, this modern farmer grew oats chest high, while a neighbor to whom he had given seed produced a "hoot high" crop. Garza Gonzalez used superphosphate but his neighbor did not.

Garza Gonzalez is reticent about his program to help neighbors. But local farmers are known to have received gifts of young boars from his crop to improve their swine. However, most of his pigs are sold to breeders in central and southern Mexican states.

His orchard contains about 2,500 trees and his vineyard about 7,000 plants. Some grape strains were imported from France and Italy. He sells the grapes for eating in the United States. He also is experimenting with good results with olive trees.

Irrigation comes from a nearby creek, supplemented by a well and storage tank. The creek is not a reliable source of water in some seasons.

His alfalfa project is of special interest locally because of a strong market for the hay in the surrounding area. With a preparation of 200 pounds an acre of 47 percent superphosphate, Garza Gonzalez has obtained heavy yields from a minimum of six cuttings per season.

With this model farmer as a leader, a local agricultural association has been formed with 15 members who are seeking to learn better methods of farming.

Helping with know-how is H. W. Monzingo, Val Verde County, Texas, agricultural agent, who lives in nearby Del Rio, Texas.

Garza Gonzalez was born in Durango state, Mexico, but when a boy he lived in Pennsylvania.

Ulcers Declined When Style Left Women Corsetless

PALM SPRINGS — (AP) — Old-fashioned corsets went out of style and peptic ulcers among women declined, says a medical expert.

Using the year 1900 as a turning point, Dr. Andrew C. Ivy said that before the turn of the century there were about three times as many peptic ulcers among women as among men.

Today, since the stiff stays and tight lacings have been tossed out the style window, the ratio is reversed.

Dr. Ivy, vice president of the University of Illinois, added that the beneficial effect of more comfortable foundations for the ladies was accompanied by a general change of life and increased tensions among men.

Pampa Travels to Lamesa; Guerillas Go to Plainview

Reapers Play Lefors Team There Tonite

All three of Pampa's football teams hit the road this week. The Harvesters meet Lamesa Friday night at Lamesa. The Guerillas play the Plainview B eleven tonite at Plainview, and the Reapers travel to Lefors for a game at Shaw Field with Lefors Junior High School at 7:45 tonight.

The Harvesters will be without their star quarterback, DeWey Cudney tomorrow night. However, Cudney will be on hand to handle the try for extra point.

Coach Tom Tippis and his gridsters left at 11:30 this morning for Lamesa, and they will spend the night there.

Sid Mills worked out at the quarterback slot Wednesday along with Harold Smith. This will be the first starting assignment for the second string. Quarterback Dale Gantz is still troubled by an injured ankle, and Jerry Walters can't shake off an injury suffered in the Wichita Falls game. Walters will be ready to play on defense, however.

Coach Duane Lyon and his Guerillas will be after their second win of the season. They have won one while dropping three.

Coach Marvin Bowman's undefeated Reapers will depend on their eighth graders to carry them past Lefors tonight. Coach Bowman said his ninth grader would see little action tonight.

Dean Brothers Lease Lubbock Baseball Club

LUBBOCK — (AP) — Paul and Jerome (Duzzy) Dean have leased the Lubbock Hubbers of the Class C West Texas-New Mexico League, C. L. Lindsey, Lubbock real estate man, announced.

Lindsey handled both the recent trade of the baseball property for an Oklahoma City tourist resort and the leasing of the team to the Deans only as a third party, he said.

He said the lease to the Deans is for five years at $12,000 a year with a down payment of $2,000.

Paul, field manager of the Clovis team on the West Texas-New Mexico League the past two seasons, is expected to become field manager of the Lubbock team, which his wife is expected to become general manager. The brothers sold their interest in Clovis this fall.

At Oklahoma City, P. B. Odum, Sr., and Jr., owners of the Lubbock club, said however, that the club was leased to the Deans for a figure in excess of $12,500 yearly on a one-year contract. The Deans could not be contacted in Oklahoma City.

Hoople Switches Grid System for Accuracy

The Old Blue
EGAD, readers! Although my batting average of .675 tops all football prognosticators on the face of the earth, your peerless forecasters is ever on the alert for something better, so I have switched systems.

You know, of course, that I have been using Dr. Zlobotny's laws of interstellar contrapuntalism. The laws do not always work in murky weather. One of the notable recent failures was that of the Purdue upset over Notre Dame, which Dr. Zlobotny's processes did not discern.

The new system is Dr. Etienne Nussbaum's hypothesis of alphabetical averages. Dr. Nussbaum's exhaustive studies are based on the frequencies of accidental alphabetical arrangement as viewed in soup. Between you and me it's amazing, colossal!

Thus, this week I am able to give you several guests not picked by other seers. Columbia to defeat Penn, for instance. Also, Indiana to beat Notre Dame, and Iowa to host Purdue.

I also look for Yale to clout Cornell!

Count on Hoople every time to make changes when the finger of progress clearly points the way!

Razorback Cagers Must Start Late With Workouts

PAYETTEVILLE — (AP) — Arkansas will get a late start in basketball but the giants of the Ozarks appear capable of taking care of themselves and more.

By a Southwest Conference ruling, the Razorbacks have to wait until Nov. 1 to open practice, whereas other schools of the conference started Oct. 16. The ruling was a penalty for violation of conference regulations in permitting some of the Arkansas freshman cagers to play in an AAU tournament last season.

"While we can't start practice until the first," coach Presley Askew said, "the boys will be keeping in shape by playing tennis and participating in intramural sports. Beginning the first, we'll try to make up for lost time. We'll practice three and a half to four hours a day, seven days a week."

Askew has five lettermen back from the team which shared the championship with Baylor last season, plus the highly touted Billy (Toog) Hester and other capable hands.

SW Football Teams Prepare For Saturday

By WILBUR MARTIN
AP Sports Writer
Neither rain nor latest NCAB statistics dampened spirits of Southwest Conference coaches as they sent squads zipping through mid-week workouts.

It rained at College Station and Houston yesterday and Texas A&M and Rice Institute romped through practice not a bit discouraged. This might have been prompted by the fact that the teams each plays Saturday is expected to pass, pass and if it rains Saturday there may not be too effective passing, passing.

Rice entertains Southern Methodist in a battle of undefeated, untied teams. Southern Methodist is the passing team in the nation, having chunked 128 forwards, completed 70 for 1,063 yards and nine touchdowns.

Texas A&M meets Texas Christian, a team expected to use the one offensive weapon A&M has had trouble defending — the pass.

There was an air of optimism at most schools, with Texas University Coach Sam Houston and his assistants expressing pleasure at the way the Longhorns drilled for Saturday's game with Arkansas.

Arkansas Coach Otis Douglas seemed most pleased with his offense than at any other time this season.

Cherry said halfback Gib Dawson, injured in the Oklahoma game last week, would see only limited service against the Razorbacks.

Baylor, which plays Texas Tech in a non-conference game, still has a flock of injured players and there aren't too many smiles around the athletic department.

Southern Methodist drilled on offense and defense yesterday and Coach H. N. Russell said he didn't think his No. 1 quarterback Rusty, Jr., or guard Charley Chambers would see action against Texas Tech.

Those statistics from the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau show SMU fourth in total offense with 1,776 yards gained in four games. Texas A&M is 1,136 yards in four games.

Baylor tops the conference in pass offense. The Bears have allowed only 49 yards per game, or a total of 196 yards. They are 150 fifth in the nation in punting with 29 ticks for an average of 41.6 yards.

Individually, Gilbert Bartosh of Texas Christian ranks 16th in total offense. He's gained 594 yards. Right behind him comes SMU's Kyle Rote, who has picked up 568 yards.

A&M's Bob Smith is seventh rushing with 447 yards on 76 carries.

Fred Benners of SMU ranks eighth in passing. He's attempted 87 and completed 47 for 554 yards and five touchdowns.

Larry Isbell of Baylor is the nation's ninth ranking punter. He's done all of the Bears booting.

When Steve Van Buren entered Louisiana State U. he wouldn't wear socks and objected to shoes. His kid brother, Ebert, recently was tabbed the best dressed LSU athlete.

Penn's Reds Bagnell has carried or thrown the ball on 52 percent of his team's plays for 73 percent of the yardage gained.

National amateur golf champ Sammy Uzzetta still is looking for a job. Maybe after he spends a few days in the leisurely atmosphere of Pinehurst, N.C., at the north and south tournament, he'll forget the whole idea of heavy work with an underdog toward the end of World War Two. There are some who say he's still just a subway circuit fighter.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLETON, JR.
NEW YORK — (AP) — Two years ago the Chicago Cubs were putting up a heck of a fight to establish a Class A farm at Springfield, Mo., in the Western Association. . . They carried it right up to boss George Trautman to get an okay to switch from Hutchinson, Kas., to Springfield. . . They loaned the local folks $25,000 to build a ball park and finally got what they wanted.

Now the Cubs have dropped the franchise, even though the town still owes them $21,500, and they're having no luck in getting another major league club to take over. . . Cub Farm Director Jack Sheehan says no more outright ownership farms in that league, but maybe a working agreement.

The situation is more or less the same at Enid, Okla., where the Giants pulled out to enter into a working agreement with Muskogee. . . The answer? We dunno except that Springfield drew 28,000 fans this season and 70,000 for softball games. . . Maybe this "gentleman farming" business is getting too expensive for millionaires.

At least a dozen times during every practice scrimmage staged by the Muhlenberg College soccer team, captain John Rollo, Jr., will interrupt proceedings to dash to the sidelines and check with the coach. . . No, he isn't seeking advice. . . He's checking the humidity. . . The coach in this case is a baby coach containing 11-month-old John Rollo 3rd. . . Mrs. R., a registered nurse, is working on a case; baby sitters are scarce in Allentown, Pa., so the only way pop Rollo can get to practice is to take the infant along and park him on the sidelines.

When Steve Van Buren entered Louisiana State U. he wouldn't wear socks and objected to shoes. His kid brother, Ebert, recently was tabbed the best dressed LSU athlete.

Texas Loop to Play 161 Games in 1951

DALLAS — (AP) — Texas League clubs next baseball season will play 161 games with 19 players. . . The new schedule was adopted at the fall meeting of the Class AA league's directors yesterday. . . The player limit was set at 19, a reduction of one. The club salary limit of $10,000 a month was left the same.

The 1951 season will open April 10 and close Sept. 9. There is no difference in the length from last year when 154 games were played. The additional seven games will be in doubleheaders.

Opening day next season will have Dallas at Tulsa, Fort Worth at Oklahoma City, Houston at Beaumont, and San Antonio at Shreveport.

When the clubs change stands, April 12 Shreveport will be at San Antonio, Beaumont at Houston, Oklahoma City at Dallas, and Tulsa at Fort Worth.

The all-star game was awarded to Houston. The directors decided to alternate the game as to north and south and awarded it to Houston in 1951, Beaumont in 1952, Shreveport in 1953, Fort Worth in 1954, Beaumont in 1955, Dallas in 1956, San Antonio in 1957 and Tulsa in 1958.

It was decided to cut the player limit back to 18 because the clubs considered nine pitchers too many to be carried. For instance, it was pointed out, one pitcher was used in only six innings all last season.

R. W. Burnett, Dallas owner, had said he would object to trimming the player limit and also said he would ask the club salary limit be abolished all together.

Burnett explained he found general sentiment for the player cut and for the salary limit and he felt he should go along. He indicated he might bring up the matter of the salary limit at the National Association of Baseball Leagues meeting in December.

The directors did away with the rule that called for playing out a game halted by a time limit. Under this rule, used last year, if a game was halted in the eighth inning to allow one club to catch a train, the game had to be played out the next time the clubs met. The purpose of the rule was to prevent stalling, but the league heads decided it had more bad features than good ones.

Television and radio problems were discussed, but no action was taken.

Today, the matter of four clubs training in the Rio Grande Valley next spring is to be discussed. Houston and San Antonio have already decided to hold spring training in the Valley and are seeking two other clubs to do the same so that a round robin exhibition schedule can be arranged. Beaumont and Oklahoma City indicated they might train in the Valley.

FOOTBALL FORECASTS FOR GAMES PLAYED OCTOBER 20 AND 21

BENNERS & ROTE TO LEAD

S.M.U. PAST RICE

By Pitts Smith
SMU and RICE match for high stakes in a crucial Southwest Conference game. This should be a scoring fiesta between two of the hottest backfields in the country. Kyle Rote and Fred Benners will have to be at their best to win this one.

Coach Harry Stittler's long uphill struggle will be climaxed by a decisive Texas A&M win over T. C. U. This will be the Aggies first Conference victory in three years with more to come before anybody's champ is decided. Gil Bartosh and John Morton will make the Frags dangerous all the way.

Card of Thanks

"There's an open gate at the end of the road
Through which each must go
And there in a light we cannot see
Our Father claims His own;
Beyond the gate our loved one
Finds happiness and rest
And there in a light we cannot see
That a loving God knows best."

MRS. MARY LOUISA JACKSON
We take this moment to express our sincere appreciation to our many friends and neighbors for the many kindnesses, messages of love, and floral offerings.

We wish to acknowledge the comforting message of Douglas E. Carter and also Virgil Mott of the First Baptist Church. We also thank Duane-Carmichael for the lovely service.

Father Frank Fast Becoming A Legend in Korean Foxholes

By HAL BOYLE
WITH U.S. SECOND DIVISION, Korea — (AP) — When his boys go on patrol, Father Frank quietly picks up his rifle and goes with them.

When they are wounded, he helps carry them out of danger. And when death reaches out to take them, he gives them the last rites of his church. He has done that for more than 100 men in less than nine weeks and each time it has left him with a more sore heart. For they were no longer strangers to him but close friends.

"I would rather be with them in the foxholes," he said. I think Father Frank is the best loved chaplain I have ever met. He is a unique chaplain in a unique war. He doesn't want to be thought of as a hero. But he is — by American soldiers who don't want themselves thought of as heroes either although they are.

His name is Francis Leo Woods and he is 46-year-old Catholic missionary priest who came to Korea from Ireland 15 years ago. Five years ago American occupation troops rescued him from starving at the hands of Japanese captors. He feels the Americans kept him from an even worse fate by landing here and rolling back the Communist North Koreans. "Twice they saved my life — and I wanted to do something in return," he said. He looked up an old friend — Lt. Col. James W. Edwards of 5602 Goodwin St., Dallas, who had been here in 1945. Colonel Edwards said he would like to accept the priest's offer to serve as chaplain with his battalion but explained in embarrassment he couldn't offer him any Army rank or pay because Father Frank wasn't an American citizen.

"I want neither rank nor pay," Father Frank answered quietly. Since then the stocky, ruddy-faced priest has become the most popular figure in the Second Infantry division. His advice is as eagerly sought by his regimental commanders as by the newest recruit.

"I think my lack of rank has been a help in my work," said Father Frank. He sleeps in the battalion commander's tent, eats with the enlisted men. Both officers and men like him for his shy kindness and the comfort he gives in their personal problems as much as for his personal bravery.

Recently the battalion gave him a captured motorcycle for his own use. He was so proud of it that they then presented him with two captured Russian-made trucks for his mission school.

When I met Father Frank the battalion was in a rest area and he sat under a tree with some officers. They were joking about his frontline patrols and the years he spent as a boy in the Irish Republican Army before he studied for the priesthood.

"I noticed you clean your rifle every day," laughed Lt. James D. Currie of Lonestville, Pa., a young platoon leader who had just received a battlefield promotion.

"Ah, yes, I clean it," said Father Frank in his rich brogue, "but I never shot a man in my life — I never had the wish to."

Because he speaks Korean fluently he is the battalion's best interrogator. The officers made Father Frank tell about one night attack by the enemy in force.

"The next morning there were six or seven bodies and one wounded Korean lying by a rice paddy," he recalled. "I called to him in his own tongue to put up his hands. He hesitated and I told him again. Finally enemy soldiers began standing up all

ROYAL PAIR—Rodeo queen Bette Sherwood holds a champion Hereford bull to be displayed at the 1950 Grand National Livestock Exposition, Horse Show and Rodeo to be held in San Francisco, Oct. 27 to Nov. 5. Bette will reign as beauty queen of the event.

Smithsonian Cleans Six-Ton Skeleton

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Six tons of fossil bones of a giant ground sloth extinct since about the end of the Ice Age are being cleaned and repaired at the Smithsonian Institution. Announcing this, the Smithsonian reconstruct a complete skeleton said experts will attempt to of the sloth for display in Washington and will return the rest of the fossil bone collection to Panama, where it was dug up. The sloth, of about the bulk of an elephant, once ranged from Argentina to the Southern United States, the Smithsonian said, but until the recent expedition to western Panama no complete remains had been recovered outside Argentina.

The animal, called Megatherium, walked on the sides of its feet, the Smithsonian said, "and must have been an awkward, slow-moving creature."

FORCED WRITING
Victor Hugo often forced himself to write by having a servant take away all his clothes for several hours, to keep him from becoming impatient to leave his work.

"And by coming here he saved Christianity in this land."
