

GERMANY TO DEMAND NAVAL ARMADA EQUAL TO THAT OF ITALY OR FRANCE

BRITAIN WILL FIGHT RETURN OF COLONIES

FUTURE OF EUROPE TO BE AT STAKE IN BERLIN TALKS

(By The Associated Press.)
London naval circles heard today that Germany would demand a navy equal to that of Italy or France to complement her newly-created air and land forces.

While the diplomatic representatives of France, Italy and Great Britain prepared to journey to Paris for tomorrow's tripartite conference, the eyes of all Europe were turned to the forthcoming conference at Berlin. British foreign secretary, Simon, British foreign secretary, and Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

On the success or failure of the Berlin negotiations was expected to depend the entire policy of western European powers with regard to preservation of peace upon the continent.

London—The possibility was seen that failure of the Berlin talks would result in a system of European alliances to encircle, rearguard Germany with a "iron wall."

Paris—While diplomats went forward with their plans to seek a peaceful solution of the European crisis precipitated by Germany's rearmament, the French government made it plain that she was taking adequate precautions against the possibility of an outbreak of war.

Berlin—The official press reported to France protest against Germany's unilateral abrogation of the military clauses of the Versailles treaty by accusing the French of neglecting multitudinous opportunities for improving their relations with Berlin.

Washington—Senator Key Pittman, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, said the United States government is "not interested" in the question "whether the Hitler government has violated the Versailles treaty."

LONDON, March 22. — Great Britain is opposed to any discussion on the return of former German colonies to the Reich during conversations between Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, and Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, it was officially said today.

In reply to a question as to whether the subject of colonial restoration would come under discussion at Berlin Monday, a government spokesman said the subject was not on the agenda.

Twinkles

Ten thousand women tell us we haven't written half enough bad things about the duststorms. Just give us time, but allow us also plenty of time to tell how nice it is between the storms.

The younger generation may be pretty bad, at times but at least you can't charge it with bringing on the depression.

Nobody is satisfied with what they have. Wheeler county is warring on crows. We'd trade some of our sparrows for some of those interesting old crows.

We democrats are sort of out of practice in grafting off our turn in office—the national committee still owes half a million.

As we understand it, the Young Democrats is an organization formed to perpetuate the memory of what the republicans say FDR has carried us away from.

Musing of the moment: We heard a sermon on sin the other day which impressed us as very near the point we all had to be members. Sin is not just something we don't like. It is not what we think any certain doctrine condemns. It is not merely a deed, or the absence of the deed. It is in the heart, and a wrong attitude toward sin is a direct act. Virtue is not in the saying, but in the doing. Going to church on Sunday is no expiation for a week of driving "good bargains."

Brevitorials

DUST STORMS bring problems.

For example, what kind of a day did we have Tuesday—clear, cloudy, or partly cloudy. We did not see any clouds. Yet in terms of our weather reporting it is always cloudy when it is not clear. Actually, it was far from clear yet we doubt that there was a cloud in the sky. We'll have to report that it was a clear day but with vision obscured by a "snow" of Kansas top soil. We refuse to report anything but a clear day. We don't let this alien dust mar the reputation of our spring. . . . By the way, the folks up in

'Vision' Returns Kidnap Victim

"Andy Smith," wanderer with a gypsy troupe since he was kidnaped at the age of 8, is back home in Steubenville, O., after 20 years, because Tony Mahfood had a vision that the young man was his son, after seeing him and noting a striking resemblance to his lost boy, James. Blood tests gave support to the kindred belief and a scar added to the identification. So "Smith" now is James Mahfood, shown here, center, with the parents who never gave up hope for his return.

Hull Disapproves Treaty-Breaking

League Council Will Meet First Week In April

WASHINGTON, March 22. (AP)—The American government's disapproval of the Versailles and German-American peace treaties was inferentially expressed by Secretary Hull today in answer to questions at his press conference.

Without mentioning the German government by name or directly referring to its scrapping of treaty provisions, Hull declared that the United States and its people must always use every possible moral influence to encourage strict adherence to all treaty provisions.

Asked for an expression of this government's attitude in the European crisis resulting from Reichsfuehrer Hitler's pronouncement of Germany's intention to rearm, Hull declared the United States has always asserted that treaties must constitute the foundation on which any stable peace structure must rest.

The state department, Hull explained, realizes that the European situation is difficult of solution and that the American people are deeply concerned over possible developments.

American officials, he said, were closely following the shifting events in Europe, but the state department in its foreign relations was following its usual normal course.

GENEVA, March 22. (AP)—The League of Nations today convened an extraordinary session of the council for the first week in April to deal with the appeal of France against alleged German violations of the treaty of Versailles in the creation of a conscript army.

An official communique said the exact date of the meeting will be announced later.

The convocation was made by Foreign Minister Tewfik Aras of Turkey, acting president of the council until the regular May session to be presided over by Foreign Minister Maxim Litvinoff of Russia.

Mrs. Raymond Harrah is visiting her sister, Mrs. Era Smyth, in Chickasha, Okla.

Allred To Speak On Drive Tonight

AUSTIN, March 22. (AP)—Governor James V. Allred said today in support of the action of Texas Rangers in recent raids that he was for "absolute destruction of everything used in connection with operation of gambling establishments."

The governor had been asked at his press conference whether he approved the chopping of divans, draperies and other furnishings as well as the gaming tables. He replied that Rangers were within their legal rights in breaking up everything used in gambling houses.

Asserting that "decent citizens" want gambling houses and open saloons closed, Allred said there would be "no quarter" in the statewide campaign on such establishments.

He announced that he would speak over a statewide radio hookup from 8 to 8:30 tonight in furtherance of the law enforcement drive.

The governor said he would quote liberally from the report of the senate crime investigating committee, explaining that he wanted "the people to know of the shameful conditions that have prevailed in the communities where these raids have taken place."

Allred said a large number of sheriffs had promised their cooperation to Adjutant General Carl Nesbit. "Seventeen of them called on Nesbit in person yesterday," he said.

Gaston Foote Is Critically Hurt In Head-On Car Wreck

Lance Webb, H. D. Tucker—Are Also Injured

WICHITA FALLS, March 22. (AP)—The Rev. Gaston Foote, one of the Methodist ministers of Pampa injured early today on Highway 66 about 12 miles south of here, was in a critical condition at a hospital.

The other two ministers, Rev. Lance Webb and Rev. H. D. Tucker, were slightly hurt. Rev. Tucker received bruises and abrasions and Rev. Webb bruises.

The ministers were returning from a church conference at Fort Worth when their automobile figured in a head-on collision with a truck. Officers said Monk Harper of Memphis, Texas, was the occupant of the truck.

Rev. Foote received scalp wounds, concussion of the brain and a lung injury. Physicians said he was resting fairly well and may recover.

Mrs. Foote, accompanied by Travis Lively, chairman of the board of stewards of First Methodist church, went to Wichita Falls last night after learning of the accident.

In a telephone conversation with church officials this morning, the Rev. Webb said that the Rev. Foote was resting well, and that no alarm is felt about his condition, although he is unconscious most of the time. He said the Rev. Foote was driving when the collision occurred, and the apparent cause of the accident was a mishap to the steering gear which put the car out of control. He is in the Wichita Falls clinic hospital.

The house adjourned at noon until Monday. The senate yesterday voted to suspend activities over the week-end. The house penitentiary committee was away on a tour of the prison system while the senate finance committee inspected Texas A. & M. and state institutions at Galveston.

The house passed and sent a bill to make the dove and quail seasons in the south zone concurrent with hunting from December 1, to January 16. A new season in the white wing zone, following the Texas-Mexican railroad east from Laredo, also was ordered. The season would be from August 20 to October 31 and hunters could kill white wings and doves. Shooting would be limited to Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays with a bag limit of 15 per day.

A similar bill passed by the last legislature was vetoed by former Governor Miriam A. Ferguson.

An amendment to make the quail zone concurrent was rejected. The house adopted a resolution requesting the highway commission to use the colors of the state flag on the 1936 motor vehicle license plates with the word "centennial" stamped on them.

Representative Leonard Westfall of Aspermont said, "It might make us mad to be reminded of the people on relief with the state spending its money for a centennial."

A bill to cut the annual registration fee for pharmacists from $3 to $2 also was passed to the senate.

A resolution asking the Texas congressional delegation to carefully consider the Townsend old age pension plan was referred to the federal relations committee.

WASHINGTON, March 22. (AP)—Adequate machinery outside of NRA for enforcement of section 7-A giving workers the right of collective bargaining was advocated today by Donald R. Richberg, new head of the recovery organization.

Mrs. Willard Webb and son left this morning for New Orleans where they will take a boat to New York. They will be met there by Mrs. Charlie Cook and the party will go to Washington where Mrs. Cook now resides.

Rotarians May Build Wading Pool in Park

The Pampa Rotary club is contemplating building a wading pool in the City park if the plan adopted by the club meets with the approval of the city commission which will probably hear the proposal and study the plans in regular session Monday night.

It is proposed by the club to build a circular wading pool with the walls two-color and the shape of the Rotary emblem, a wheel. The pool would be 28 feet in diameter. The required depth of a wading pool. In the center would be a fountain or spray of some type.

At the present time Pampa does not have a wading pool. The City park is popular with old and young alike and a wading pool would make the park even more popular.

Tulia Official Visits Kiwanis

Lieut.-Gov. J. Hoyt Boles of Tulia visited the Pampa Kiwanis club today and made an interesting report on the activities of the clubs in Division 6.

The Kiwanians will be guests of the Lions club next Thursday and will not hold a meeting next Friday.

Musical numbers were given today by Miss Willie Reece Taylor, Miss Anne Sweetman, Chas. Frazee and Roger Townsend.

Visitors included Bill Lesley, secretary of the LeFors Kiwanis club and Tom Rose.

Safety Committee To Meet Tonight

Don Conley has called an important meeting of his safety committee for tonight when a list of recommendations will be drawn up for presentation to the city commission Monday night. Other members of the committee, recently appointed by the commission, are L. O. Johnson and Joe Burrow.

Study of city ordinances has been one of the major duties of the committee which has also studied the lighting and parking situation.

Asks Divorce

After moaning for "Bill" in the song that made her famous for years, Helen Morgan, above, at last will have one—a bill of divorce. Her husband, Maurice Maschke Jr., Cleveland attorney, announced she would divorce him in California because they never were able to be together.

AMARILLO, Mar. 22. (AP)—The hammer which the state alleges was used to kill the wife of Geo. S. Hamlin here, January 4 was introduced in evidence today in Hamlin's murder trial.

The hammer was exhibited during the testimony of Dr. Don P. Marsalis, Amarillo physician, over strenuous objections of defense counsel who contended that it had not been identified.

Special Prosecutor E. A. Simpson told the court that the state would prove that the hammer was the one found in the Hamlin home, that it had been identified by the defendant, and that blood stains were found on it. He said the prosecution also would prove that the hammer fitted into wounds found on Mrs. Hamlin's head.

Judge E. C. Nelson overruled defense objections to the hammer and testimony concerning it.

Dr. Marsalis testified that the hammer "likely would be a death weapon" if held in the hands of an adult male and used to strike a woman over the head.

Mrs. Hamlin, sobbed as she told of a reported conversation between Mrs. Orella Hare, mother of the slain woman, and Hamlin upon his return to Amarillo four days after the slaying.

The witness quoted the elder Mrs. Hare as saying, "Some black negro has killed our girl."

"Mother, that's bound to be the way it was," she said Hamlin replied.

The witness testified that she was at the station when Hamlin arrived. She said he told her: "Oh, just when we were ready to be so happy—I just feel like I can't stand it."

Ritz Club in Wichita Raided

PORT WORTH, March 22. (AP)—Three Texas Rangers slipped into town from Wichita Falls last night and raided the Ritz Rinside club for the second time in a week.

Captain Fred McDaniels, who led the group, said they found a small quantity of liquor.

With Captain, McDaniels were Rangers Sid Kelso and Dick Oidham.

The Rinside was raided Sunday morning by Captain Tom Hickman and two employees of the state comptroller's office.

E. M. Borden, pastor of Central Church of Christ, and Guy Saunders attended a church meeting at Elk City, Okla., yesterday.

REPEALISTS WIN VICTORY

WINSON'S BILL REJECTED BY THREE VOTES

FDR HAS THREATENED TO VETO NEW MONEY PACT

WASHINGTON, March 22. (AP)—The administration - opposed Patman bill for paying off the soldiers' bonus by issuing $5,000,000,000 of new money was passed today by the house and sent to the senate.

The vote was 318 to 90, more than the two-thirds required to pass the measure over a presidential veto.

President Roosevelt has threatened several times to veto the legislation if passed by congress.

Senate approval was freely predicted, but administration leaders counted on that body to refuse to pass the measure over a veto. That would require a two-thirds vote.

Before final passage, the house rejected 204 to 207 the Vinson-American Legion bill for paying the bonus but leaving up to the government the method of raising the money.

It also turned down the Tydings-Cochran-Andrews measure for making the payments in negotiable bonds.

The vote was 82 to 318 against the Tydings-Cochran-Andrews proposal.

James E. Van Zandt, the commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said "We are overjoyed and deeply grateful for the overwhelming vote."

"The Veterans of Foreign Wars, America's overseas men, have led the veterans' fight for the passage of the Patman bill in the belief that it not only will pay the adjusted service certificates immediately in cash, but will not increase in any way our national debt. The adoption of this legislation today further justified the fight we have made."

Frank N. Belgrano Jr., American Legion commander, told reporters: "The American Legion thought the Vinson bill would assure immediate, full cash payment of the soldiers' bonus. The house apparently thought otherwise."

"We have made no decision on what we will do in the senate except to work for immediate, full cash payment of the bonus."

It was pointed out that Belgrano's position left him free to work, in the senate, for the Vinson, Patman, or any other full, cash payment bill which he thought would pass.

Chairman Harrison of the senate finance committee predicted the Patman bill could not pass the senate over a veto.

While he was hopeful a compromise could be worked out, he could not say at this time if that were possible.

He planned "reasonable hearings" on the subject and to give the senate a chance at the earliest opportunity to vote on the question.

He believed the senate would not tack the Patman bill to the relief measure, as Senator Thomas (D.-Okla.) announced earlier in the day he would try to do.

HEAD OF PAMPAN INJURED IN WHEEL

A victim of a strange accident, H. W. Widener is in a critical condition in Worley hospital where he was taken about 2 o'clock this morning. His head was badly crushed and he was otherwise bruised and cut.

Widener, an employee of the Magnolia Petroleum company, gasoline division, Kingsmill, was working on a gasoline engine when the accident happened. He was leaning between spokes of the fly-wheel and working on the engine when in some unknown manner he touched the ignition switch, thus starting the motor.

Before he could pull himself entirely from the wheel, it had gained enough momentum to throw him to the floor of the engine house.

Attending physicians hold hope for Mr. Widener's recovery. Both cheek bones, both bones around the eyes, and his upper jaw were broken. His nose was broken and badly cut as were his cheeks and a portion of the head. There is no fracture of the skull, it was announced this morning.

BAND FROM SAM HOUSTON WARD SCHOOL WINS HIGHEST RANK IN PANHANDLE FESTIVAL CONTESTS

Sam Houston school band of Pampa scored highest in its class in contests of the annual Panhandle Music festival at Amarillo yesterday. It received a rating of superior, based on a grade of 90-94.

Director A. C. Cox and his young band members were complimented by the judges, who commended their work as excellent for such young players. All members are pupils of the sixth grade and under.

The band was organized only last year, and Mr. Cox is completing his first term as director. Estil Foster had charge last year.

Numbers played in the contest were Coliseum Overture, a required selection; Norma's Dream, an elective number; and Winter's Port, a march.

The Sam Houston band was the only ward school band from Pampa entered in the contests.

FDR AND AFL PRESENT UNITED FRONT AGAINST FOES OF NRA

RICHBERG IS APPOINTED TO CHAIRMANSHIP

A NEW UNDERSTANDING BETWEEN LABOR AND FDR SUGGESTED

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP)—Donald R. Richberg took command of NRA today after a series of rapid-fire developments which found President Roosevelt and the chiefs of the American Federation of Labor presenting a united front against those who would toss the blue eagle into the scrap heap.

A reorganization which placed Richberg in the post vacated by S. Clay Williams was followed by speculation as to whether there was a new approach between administration and A. F. of L. in which the administration might throw its support to the Wagner labor disputes bill.

The appointment of Richberg as acting chairman was announced late yesterday after President William Green of the A. F. of L. and other union leaders visited the White House. The appointment brought no criticism from the union chiefs, though Richberg had been a target of bitter criticism by some of them.

The reorganization increased the NRA board's membership from five to seven, adding one labor leader and one industrialist. Besides Richberg, the board now will include two men chosen from among labor leaders, two from industry and two college professors.

Though federation officials have been critical of administrative acts and interpretations under the blue eagle, they said they stood with President Roosevelt in insisting on extending NRA's life.

Pondering possible implications of the new friendliness between the labor organization and the administration, observers agreed the A. F. of L. would be delighted if Mr. Roosevelt gave his support to the pending Wagner bill.

This bill, strongly denounced by a spokesman for industry before the senate labor committee yesterday, would ban company-dominated unions, create a permanent national labor relations board with extended powers and provide for "majority rule" in collective bargaining.

As President Roosevelt announced Richberg's appointment he issued a statement saying new NRA legislation was "urgently needed to retain and to advance the industrial recovery program." The retirement of Chairman Williams, tobacco company executive, became effective today.

Philip Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers, and William P. Withrow, Pittsburgh steel manufacturer, were named to serve with Richberg.

Reorganization of the board came as the senate rejected, 43 to 33, a proposal by Senator Borah (R., Ind.) to attach an amendment to the $4,880,000,000 work relief bill which would have restored the anti-trust laws suspended under the blue eagle.

40 POUNDS TO THE ROOM
PHILLIPSBURG, Kan. (AP)—The janitor of the Agria high school decided to weigh the "sweepings" after a recent dust storm. More than 500 pounds were swept up in the eight-room structure.

BORAH ATTEMPT TO RESTORE ANTI-TRUST LAW DEFEATED

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP)—The fight over the $4,880,000,000 work relief bill provided notice to NRA today that there is strong sentiment in the senate for restoration of the anti-trust laws suspended under the blue eagle.

Some of the senators who helped yesterday to defeat an attempt by Senator Borah (R., Idaho) to restore the anti-trust laws through an amendment to the relief bill said they did so only because they thought it was not the proper time to settle the issue. They said this question should be passed upon when new NRA legislation reaches the senate.

Even so, the 43 to 33 vote against Borah's proposal was one of the greatest decisions recorded so far on amendments to the relief bill. Leaders agree that another prolonged controversy like that touched off by the anti-trust amendment might defeat their hopes of passing the big work and relief appropriation tomorrow.

The senate moved, meanwhile, toward consideration of an amendment which some members said might defeat their hopes of passing the big work and relief appropriation tomorrow.

He said his proposal was designed to "eliminate graft" in the relief administration, adding that he wanted to prevent the appointment of "outsiders" and felt senators should have the privilege of approving those to administer relief in their own states.

Farmer Slain by Constable in Raid On Whiskey Still

RUSK, March 22 (AP)—Jesse L. Jones, 33, Gould community farmer, was fatally shot late yesterday during a raid on a whiskey still by four officers.

John Rankin, Griffin constable, was arrested after the shooting and released under $750 bond. When Jones died this morning in a Jacksonville hospital, Rankin was sought by officers to be placed under a murder charge. An examining trial was planned today at Jacksonville.

Officers said Jones was shot once in the head as he fled—ignoring a command to halt, when the raiders approached. Accompanying Rankin on the raid were R. P. Watts and George Gunter, Jacksonville constables, and Deputy Sheriff Dan Lowe. Lowe was not at the still when the shooting occurred.

Botanists have determined that 80 distinct species of iris grow in Louisiana.

Dissolution of Injunction Will Be Asked by Cato

FORT WORTH, March 22 (AP)—Attorneys planned today to seek dissolution of a federal injunction preventing indictment and trial of Sheriff W. F. Cato of Garza county in state court for the slaying of Federal Narcotic Agent Spencer Stafford at Post Feb. 7.

Walter B. Scott of Fort Worth, attorney for Cato and one of the persons named in the order, said a motion to dissolve the injunction likely would be filed at once.

The court order, issued by Judge James C. Wilson, named District Attorney G. H. Nelson of Tahoka and County Attorney H. G. Smith of Garza county and several attorneys.

It enjoined them from "doing any act looking toward trial of the said W. F. Cato in any other place or jurisdiction except in the district court of the United States."

An allegation of the injunction application, made by U. S. District Attorney Clyde O. Eastus, that a move for an early trial of Cato in Garza county was an effort to defeat justice drew fire from Nelson.

He said the allegation was an attack against the integrity and sincerity of the entire county. There are taste buds up and down the barbels or "whiskers" of a catfish and similar buds over the larger part of its body and this fish can "taste" foods brought in contact with it on all sides at once, scientists have learned.

PATMAN WINS FIRST THREE BONUS VOTES

VINSON IS CONFIDENT HE'LL OVERCOME MARGIN

BY CLARENCE M. WRIGHT, Associated Press Staff Writer. WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP)—The bonus struggle surged toward a new climax in the house today as the forces behind the Vinson-American Legion bill threw every ounce of strength into a terrific effort to overturn the preliminary victory won yesterday by the Patman new currency bill.

Each side sought to line up every possible vote for the showdown. Rep. Vincent (D., Ky.) expressed himself as unperturbed over the fact that the Patman bill—which would pay the $2,000,000,000 by issuing new currency—won on three preliminary counts yesterday, the last time by an eleven vote margin.

After the tumultuous house adjourned last night, the Patmanites expressed new confidence that their bill would go over the top. On a standing vote, the Patmanites won 183 to 142. On a teller vote they were ahead 180 to 157. On a roll call, during which some members tried hard to swing colleagues to their way of thinking, the Patmanites' victory was 202 to 191.

Thus, their margin shrunk progressively from 41 to 23 to 10.

In prospect there were three more roll call votes: 1. Whether the Vinson bill should be substituted for the Patman Bill; 2. Whether the Tydings-Andrews-Cochran "compromise" bill, which would give the veterans negotiable bonds instead of cash should be substituted for the Patman bill; 3. Whether the Vinson, Patman or Tydings-Andrews-Cochran bill—whichever was finally chosen—should pass.

None questioned seriously but that the Tydings-Andrews-Cochran bill would be rejected and that some plan for immediate cash payment in full would be approved and sent to the senate. Repeated warnings that the president would veto any such bill were ignored.

But there remained considerable doubt in the minds of most observers as to whether the house would accept the Patman or the Vinson bill. Some opponents of the new currency plan renewed warnings that it might embark the United States upon disastrous inflation. Patmanites replied that the new money was needed, and that the secretary of the treasury could call in currency already outstanding if that step was needed.

There were conflicting predictions as to what would happen in the senate. Rep. Vinson and his followers said their bill was the only one that had a chance there. Rep. Patman and his supporters, among them the veterans of foreign wars, insisted their bill not only would get enough votes to pass the senate the first time but to pass a second time over any presidential veto.

These Machines Replaced

By These Human Beings

STILL GROWING

A year and a half ago, the President of the United States called upon industry to find ways and means to absorb all idle labor possible.

The Duncan Coffee Company conceived a plan which called for the replacement of certain machine operations in the labeling and wrapping of cans and packages of coffee, by the use of human hands.

Three such machines were then in use in the Duncan plant. The operation of these machines was discontinued and men and women were employed for these operations. It required twenty odd persons to wrap or label the volume of packages being produced. Yet human hands never touched the coffees in the packages.

The public was informed of the new arrangement which increased the packing cost somewhat. But the public approved the effort to help solve the problem, and the increased volume of business absorbed the larger packing cost.

During the year and a half the experiment has been tried, the volume of business has steadily increased so that now it is necessary to use the 67 persons shown in the above illustration, in actual packing. This represents an increase in plant pay roll of 212%. Other additions to office and sales force have also been necessary.

Under the N.R.A. the company has gone from one shift of employees working 51 hours a week, in 1933, to two shifts working 40 hours a week in 1935.

The consumption of Admiration and Bright & Early Coffees continues to grow throughout Texas. Admiration, the rich, winery blend of the finest coffees, makes new friends daily because it tastes better. Bright & Early Coffee, a lighter blend, costs a few cents less.

Youth Stabs His Father; Charges Not To Be Filed

MORTON, March 22 (AP)—Sheriff J. S. Crockett said today a 24-year-old youth arrested yesterday for allegedly stabbing his father, W. A. Wells, about 45, a farmer living 11 miles northwest of here, had been released.

Wells, treated at a Lubbock hospital, was released and returned to his home. Sheriff Crockett said no charges would be filed.

COPPER WIRE STOLEN

DALLAS, March 22 (AP)—Thieves went up into the air last night, making off with about 5,000 feet of copper wire pilfered from telegraph poles over a mile-long stretch along the Santa Fe railroad near here. Six main trunk lines of the Western Union Telegraph company, connecting Dallas and other Texas points with St. Louis, remained inoperative until this morning after they went "out" about 8:30 p. m.

In a cracker-eating contest at Bell Buckle, Tenn., Virgil Evans and Cecil Penn tied for first place by consuming 150 each.

CHARLES CURTIS THINKING HARD ABOUT POLITICS

To Be on Battle-line For Republicans Next Year

BY KIRKE T. SIMPSON,
Associated Press Staff Writer.
WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP)—Seventy-five years may seem old, yet to look at former Vice President Charles Curtis, who turned that corner January 25, it appears no more than ripened middle life. He is as hale and hearty as most men half his years.

Nor have two years' meditative contemplation of might-have-beens in the quiet of the Washington law office into which he stepped from the vice presidency brought him many regrets.

"Oh, I might have done things a bit differently here or there had I known then what I know now; and results might have been different," he said with a twinkle in the dark, unreadable eyes that reflect his Indian blood. "But that's another story. We'll not go into that."

Mr. Curtis—and he prefers "Mister" to "senator" or "Mr. Vice President"—laid down definite rules of conduct when he stepped out of that next-to-the-highest office.

One was that he would not again seek office. Another was not to talk political issues—until campaign time.

He expects to be in the forefront of the republican battle line in '36 and relishes the prospect. Until then or until the making of party policy for that campaign is in hand, the former vice president is mum; but he is doing a lot of thinking.

That the Kansan is watching keenly the republican organization drive in the central west now getting headlines is an obvious fact. He turns to it again and again as he chats.

Experience has taught him the values of political organization. And his only regrets about the surge of party activity in the central west is that it did not come two years ago.

His physical fitness Mr. Curtis ascribes to life long habits. He has never been a drinker or smoker and his greatest diversion, aside from watching the horses run, is walking.

CAPITOL CHATTER

BY CHARLES E. SIMONS

AUSTIN, March 20 (AP)—With the regular session of the legislature more than half over and final action lacking on virtually all of Gov. James V. Allred's recovery program it is little wonder that administration floor leaders are becoming apprehensive.

They have visions of the governor's tax reform program, utilities regulation, racing repeal and a score of other subjects being strangled in arguments over the appropriation bills and minor measures in the final days of the session.

The situation is fraught with greatest danger to the tax revision campaign of the governor. Thus far only two major tax bills have been reported from the house revenue and taxation committee although the committee has followed the suggestion of a special senate tax inquiry committee and recommended passage of bills to strengthen collection of levies on cigars, gasoline, and beer.

The committee gave a favorable report to a chain store tax bill and voted against the governor's proposal to increase the sulphur tax from 75 cents to $2 a ton. The sulphur tax was printed on minority report by an overwhelming majority despite an observation by Gov. Allred, regarded by many as indiscreet, on the action of the committee in refusing it a favorable vote.

The governor was quoted as criticizing the committee and pointing out that only one administration supporter in the speakership race between Rep. Bob Calvert and Coke Stevenson was on the committee.

Opponents of the proposed increase in the sulphur tax levy were quick to charge it was another attempt by the executive to invade the legislative precincts and dictate the course the house should pursue. They combed over the old breach resulting from Allred's interference in the speakership contest in Calvert's behalf and claimed it was an insinuation that Speaker Stevenson had stacked the committee against Allred's measures.

Governor Allred, in the opinion of some observers, was guilty of a further indiscretion in his overtures to smooth the ruffled feelings of some of the committeemen. He invited members to the executive office to talk it over but the invitation was not extended to five committeemen.

This gave Rep. Joe Caldwell Jr. Asherton an opportunity to make a speech on personal privilege in the house in which he demanded a public apology from Allred and brought up the old Allred-Stevenson controversy. Caldwell was one of the committee members not invited to the talk it over in conference.

The furor over the statement attributed to the governor suggest to many that the situation may become tense when the revenue raising bills come up for discussion.

HARDING SISTER DIES
MARION, O., March 22 (AP)—Mrs. Abigail Harding Lewis, 89, sister to the late President Warren G. Harding, died at her home here today. Although she had been in ill health for several years, her death came unexpectedly from a heart attack. Mrs. Lewis was a teacher in the Marion public schools prior to her marriage in 1924 to Ralph T. Lewis, Marion real estate dealer.

FRANCE WOULD REGROUP ALLIES TO CURB NAZIS
Franco-Italian Pact On Africa Voted 555 to 9

(Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press.)
PARIS, March 22.—Pierre Laval, foreign minister, told the chamber of deputies today that France seeks to regroup the allies to curb Germany.

His statement was answered by the deputies approving the Franco-Italian African accord by the unusually top-heavy vote of 555 to 9. (The accord, signed January 9, in Rome by Laval and Premier Mussolini, exchanged certain colonial territories in Africa, provided for a purely lateral accord on central European questions, and included a consultative pact.)

"France is strong and will not give up," Laval told the deputies. "France is not the whole deck but it is the principal card in the game."

Laval, with Premier Laval and most of the other cabinet members present, turned the ratification of the treaty into a kind of Franco-Italian fiesta to celebrate the end of "fifteen years of misunderstanding."

Deputy Franklin-Bouillon sharply attacked the government's settlement as "too generous" but Laval defended it with the assertion that nothing important had been surrendered.

Laval called Mussolini "his friend" and said cooperation between the two countries was necessary for peace, but Franklin-Bouillon reproached the government for allowing the country to think that "England had failed to keep her word," saying that the truth was that the declaration of London, entered into by France, "legalized German aviation" and England was merely seeking to get Germany back into the League of Nations.

"The French note to Berlin, said Franklin-Bouillon, 'makes that return to the league impossible,' adding, 'the restoration of conscription is Germany's declaration of war to the civilized world.'"

Said Laval: "Nothing in the Rome accord infringes the sovereignty of the territorial independence of Ethiopia which is guaranteed by the Franco-Italian treaty."

By BYRON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

Those who leaped to the conclusion that the supreme court's gold decision settled everything in favor of the administration appear to be revising their opinions.

The suit brought by Robert Taft, challenging the right of the government to call its liberty bonds ahead of maturity and substitute lower interest obligations, has been causing lawyers some thought.

Mr. Taft may not win, but he has put his finger on a declaration of the highest court which is not likely to be forgotten by those who oppose the administration's gold policy. It is the court's plain statement that the government has no constitutional right to repudiate a promise to pay in gold.

Out of this part of the decision arise the serious concerns of government attorneys, the demand in some quarters for new legislation, and the apprehension on the part of some that at some time the non-repudiation ruling may arise to plague or wreck monetary plans.

It would seem that a central issue here still in dispute.

A War Debt Idea

More may be heard within the next few months about the war debts. The Roosevelt administration is studying quietly what, if anything, can be done.

A plan advanced by a group of Chicago attorneys is attracting some attention in Washington. It proposes that the combined total of the debts be scaled down from about $10,500,000,000 to about $3,500,000,000, and that payment be made over a 12-year period at the rate of something less than $300,000,000 a year.

To enable Europe to save the money necessary to make a beginning, a five-year holiday on armaments is proposed. It is argued this would mean further compensation for the United States, too, because what we now spend on armaments could go into savings.

The authorship of the plan is attributed to Salmon O. Levinson, who had much to do with laying the groundwork for the Kellogg-Briand anti-war pact.

Nothing approaching acceptance of this proposal is yet apparent in Washington, but it will remain under study along with other suggestions.

Looking to the 1936 presidential campaign, some administration strategists are taking encouragement from what happened in 1924.

They base their reasoning on a belief that next year will see a three-way contest, with Mr. Roosevelt and the republican nominee bidding for the right-wing and middle-ground support against a third-party left-winger.

In '24 the republican nominee, Calvin Coolidge, was opposed by John W. Davis, democrat, and Robert M. LaFollette, progressive.

The republicans stressed the possibility of an electoral college deadlock, throwing the election into the house of representatives, and argued that in that event no one could tell what might happen.

Adopting "Coolidge or Chaos" as their slogan, they urged all opposed to extreme radicalism to help forestall a deadlock by voting for the right-wing candidate having the best chance of election, Mr. Coolidge. For that reason or some other, he easily got his majority.

Chisholm Trail Rider Succumbs

ABLENE, March 22 (AP)—Joseph S. McComb, 78, who rode the old Chisholm trail four years starting in 1871, and then hunted buffalo in West Texas, was dead today.

The veteran trail rider and hunter died here yesterday.

It was estimated that he and his associates killed and sold hides of over 15,000 buffaloes. McComb said he killed 1,000 buffalo bulls in one season near the site of Big Spring.

Four Muscovites Are Executed to Stop Crime Wave

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., March 22 (AP)—Four young Muscovites, three of whom were under 20 years of age, were executed today for murder and robbery after a swift exemplary trial intended to put an end to a crime wave in the Red capital.

S. Petroff, 18, N. Tiotin, 19, and P. Dobrovolsky, 20, were shot to death after being convicted of the murder of a 73-year-old kindergarten teacher.

S. Fedoroff was the fourth to be executed. He and his companions were alleged to have established a crime club in which they mapped out plans of lawlessness.

Stories in STAMPS

The FATHERS of the CONFEDERATION

JULY 1, 1867 marks the actual beginning of the Dominion of Canada, for on that day representatives of Upper and Lower Canada, united by one legislature but divided on racial lines, organized the first federal union in the British Empire. Only four provinces entered the union then—Upper Canada as Ontario, Lower Canada as Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. The other provinces came in later and Newfoundland still remains apart.

Signaling the fiftieth anniversary of this historic event, Canada issued a commemorative three-cent stamp in 1917 illustrating the meeting of the "Fathers of the Confederation." In 1927 another commemorative issue included a set of five designs, one repeating the issue of 1917.

Sermon, 11 a. m.
Young people's and junior services, 7 p. m.

The Bible study is now in progress. The Rev. J. H. King, general superintendent of the P. H. conference, will be speaking at 10:30 a. m. and 8 p. m. daily through March, on the book of Zechariah.

His lectures are an inspiration to all. He is having good attendance and great interest is being shown. You are cordially invited to come and enjoy these studies with us.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

John S. Muller, minister.
E. Kingsmill, N. and Starkweather.

If you like the old hymns come to our service Sunday night, 11 o'clock. Old hymns that have been requested will be sung. You can request a hymn and it will be sung as soon as other requests made ahead of yours have been sung.

The adult and young people's choir will unite to sing the anthem: "Sundown."

The minister will preach on the subject: "Jonah, the Runaway." The service will start at 7:30 p. m.

The morning church worship which always includes the observance of the Lord's supper will begin at 11 o'clock. The subject of the minister's sermon will be "Out of the Depths." The choir will sing the anthem, "Come Unto Me," by Reed.

On Sunday, April 14, our spring series of special evangelistic meetings will begin. J. R. Holmes of Fort Worth will do the preaching and Mr. and Mrs. Owen Walker of Muncie, Ind., will have charge of the music. The meetings will continue for three weeks.

SURVEY SHOWS MANY CITIES OF TEXAS FACE FINANCIAL CRISIS

AUSTIN, March 22. — A broad survey has disclosed that many cities in Texas are facing a financial crisis resulting from diminishing income, the bureau of municipal research of the University of Texas reports.

A published study by Lyndon E. Abbott, assistant in the bureau, ascribed the reduction in income of the cities at the present time as due mainly to the decline of general property tax payments.

While pointing out an accurate picture of delinquency was difficult to obtain, Abbott said that "delinquency in general is serious enough to menace the stability of local government and endanger the safety of private property."

Causes of the spread of delinquency in ad valorem taxes he classified under two heads, first, the nature of the property tax, and second, the methods of collection.

"Property tax values have not increased in proportion to the revenues which the government has derived from property," Abbott said.

"Authorities are generally agreed that real property standards more than offset the tax burden and that it should no longer be the basic source of public income."

"Premature subdivision of land with costly improvements has caused the collapse of real estate development in many localities, and considerable proportion of the total delinquency. This evil can be remedied by intelligent and controlled subdivision."

"Moreover, intangibles are not rendered because the absence of laws permitting classification of taxes as either property or non-property taxes. Delinquency, common enough before 1929, was brought to unusual proportions by the economic depression."

Among the conclusions, based on the survey of 58 Texas cities, were the following:

"That the office of tax collector should be combined with that of city treasurer; that the office of treasurer-collector should be organized as a bureau in the department of finance; that assessments should not be levied on the collecting officer; that equitable and adequate assessment was the first essential of a good tax collecting system; that the tax collector should be appointed, paid a salary, and his office combined with that of secretary in smaller towns."

The survey showed that in 62 percent of the cities studied the collecting officer also held the office of city secretary and in three percent he also was city manager. This dual office holding was found in all cities below 7,000 population but not in any cities above 16,000.

Gaunt and travel worn, an Irish setter belonging to C. P. Rogers of Concordia, Kas., left the farm where he had been placed several months previously and returned to his master.

EVERYMAN'S BIBLE CLASS

Lessons from the last week of our Lord's earthly ministry. The questions that were asked on Tuesday will be our subject. The class has never had a finer spirited meeting than ours Sunday, and the officers continually invite the visitors to return and welcome any man in town without a Bible class.

Favored Denver Pigs Lose To K.C. Cagers In Tourney

TULSANS WILL PLAY IN SEMI-FINALS THIS EVENING

DENVER, March 22. (AP)—Three Missouri valley contenders and "Chipper Charley" Hyatt's roving team from movie land had complete control of the National A. U. basketball tournament today after the ouster of the Denver A. C. by the revived champion Tulsa Oilers and the startling downfall of the odds-on favored Denver Pigs.

Southern Kansas State Lines of Kansas City, a team shorn of the Missouri Valley league title, pulled the giant-killer act in eliminating the highly rated Pigs, 30 to 28.

It was a rallying upset victory comparable to the miraculous third round triumph the Tulsans scored the previous night to stay in the tournament and defend the championship they won in 1933 and 1934.

The Oilers downed the other hometown quintet, 36 to 27, in a comparatively easy fashion through the semi-finals tonight Tulsa is matched with the Oilers.

The other semi-final brings together the Universal Pictures troupe of Hollywood and the madcap, hustling McPherson, (Kan.), Globe Refinery team that wrestled the Missouri valley title away from Kansas City in a two-out-of-three play-off series.

Universal, winner of the recent valley invitation tournament at Kansas City, went almost unchallenged until the last through a 44-36 quarter final victory over the Hutchinson, (Kan.), Western-Transit Rens. McPherson swamped Italian A. C. of Seattle, only unseated team that progressed that far, 51-26.

Allison Loses In Plainview Cage Tourney

PLAINVIEW, Mar. 22. (AP)—Eight teams contending for the Texas A. U. girls' basketball title today earned their way into quarter-final play slated for tonight.

Pairing for tonight's competition: Emory vs. Ropesville. Blue Ridge vs. Irene. Stratford vs. Winsboro and Shallowater vs. Plainview.

Second round scores: Plainview 33, Channing 29. Winsboro 51, Abernathy 32. Emory 61, Bedias 31. Stratford 41, Quittaque 25. Irene 23, Allison 20. Ropesville 61, Hereford 22. Dimmitt 43, McLean 28. Happy 44, Celeste 19 (consolation fight).

Any father would be proud to have a son like Robin Lee, the 15-year-old youngster who is the new national figure-skating champion. But the lad's father, A. Robert Lee, has special cause for pride when Robin came through at New Haven to dethrone Roger F. Turner, seven times national title-holder.

Robin and his father are more than just father and son—they are and always have been—pals. When the boy's mother died nine years ago the senior Lee undertook the dual responsibility of bringing up his son and continuing his work as a figure-skating instructor in St. Paul.

His friends advised him against the undertaking but Lee gave no heed to their words. He would not give up the close companionship nor intrust the boy to strange hands. He felt they needed each other.

National Champ At 12 When his methods were criticized, he stuck to his guns. Instructing Robin in the fine points of figure skating came about naturally for it permitted the father to keep his boy close to him while fulfilling his duties at the rink. Robin would go to the rink after school and watch his father put the pupils through their paces, all the while picking up valuable pointers.

Six years ago the boy started to skate under his father's instruction and in two years had mastered the sport sufficiently to win the men's senior figure-skating title of Minnesota.

The youngster's rapid rise proved the soundness of his father's methods. In 1932, at the age of 12, Robin won the national junior championship. Last year at Philadelphia he finished a close second to Roger F. Turner, the defending title-holder. He continued to improve and this year turned the tables on Turner.

Two years ago his father reluctantly consented to his going to New York City as a protégé of W. Hunt Hall. Robin became a member of the Skating Club of New York and continued his schooling at Erasmus Hall high school in Brooklyn.

He's Not Spoiled Early one morning before the national championship meet, I met the little fellow hurrying to the ice club rink for a practice session. He stopped for a moment to explain, in answer to my question about his chances in the "nationals," that he felt he was steadily improving and was working hard to make a good showing at New Haven. Not the least bit boastful, it was evident that he was a real contender.

A normal boy, his interests are those of most boys of his age.

TRACK-FIELD TEAM DEFEATS MIAMI 85-14

MEET UNCOVERS SOME POTENTIAL STARS FOR SEASON

Harvester track and field prospects had their first opportunity to show their stuff yesterday afternoon when Coach Ellis Locke of Miami brought a few of his thrill-chasers down to work out with the Pampa speedsters. The Pampans won 85-14.

Several of the Harvesters showed that they will be dangerous by the opening of the season. They broke no records during yesterday's competition but showed much promise.

"Deacon" Ayer revealed himself as a potential track star. He placed second in the half-mile and it was the first time he ever tied. He tied for first in the high jump and it was the second time he had ever attempted to leap over the bar. His form was excellent, and was surprisingly good because it usually takes weeks to acquire as good form as "Deacon" displayed yesterday.

The hurdles and pole vault events were not called. Carl Smith led the way in points with 124. He was followed by Hays with 114 points. Hays took first place in the 100-yard dash and in the 220-yard dash and took his place in the winning relay team.

Carl Smith made a good showing in the broad jump, took second place in the discus and ran a place in the winning relay team. Bill Dunaway hurled the javelin well and Moose Hartman, out for the first time this season in track suit, took first place in the shot put and discus. Other events were closely contested but the time was slow in each.

Stiff workouts will be in order the rest of the season. The district meet, with winners from 11 counties eligible to compete, will be staged here April 5 and 6.

Summary of events—100-yd dash: Hays, Haner, Elkins, Pampa, Time 11.4. 220-yd dash: Hays, Pampa; Drake, Pampa; McGuire, Miami, Time 25.4. 440-yd dash: Haner, Smith, Mackie, Pampa, Time 59.4.

Half mile: Morrison, Miami; Ayer, Pampa; Branch, Miami, Time 2:23. Mile: Boyington, Pampa; Pierce, Miami; Miller, Miami, Time 5:36. Relay: Pampa (Hays, Smith, Dunaway, Drake).

Broad jump: Smith, Stewart, Ayer, Pampa; Distance 21 feet. Discus: Hartman, Smith, Haner, Pampa; Distance 101.6. Javelin: Dunaway, J. R. Green, Stephenson, all Pampa; Distance 150.

High jump: Ayer, Scott, Stephenson and Oliver all Pampa, tied. Height 5 feet, 4 inches. Shot put: Hartman, J. R. Green, Stokes, Green, all Pampa; Distance 41.

AMERICAN PEOPLE BECOMING SENSIBLE, WALLACE BELIEVES

Five Times as Many People Able to Grasp Problems In Foreign Trade Tangle.

(Editor's note: A little more than a year ago Secretary Wallace wrote a pamphlet entitled "America Must Choose." In it he pictured the nation standing at the crossroads, and said it should make up its mind whether to take the path of isolation, internationalism or "balanced middle course." Wallace's view of the situation today is presented in the following interview.)

BY STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH, Associated Press Staff Writer. (Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 22. (AP)—The American people, in the opinion of Secretary Wallace, are nearer a sensible decision on the foreign trade question than they were a year ago. He asserted that sober talk across from fences, in crossroads stores and town meetings had brought a fivefold increase in the number of persons who grasp the problem. Unrest prevailing in Europe, he added, should tend to unify thought in this country.

But the point has not yet been reached, Wallace said, where the nation can make a rational choice among a policy of nationalism, a greatly broadened world trade, or a planned middle course.

"We must be about 30 times more ready to choose than we are now before that future course can be plotted," he declared.

"The problem is one of educating the country away from the debtor, high-tariff, laissez-faire attitude which has prevailed for many years to a rational understanding of the creditor position of the United States and the resulting necessity of making our thinking conform to the changed situation."

"That is a task which cannot be finished in a year's time." While the country is making up its mind what its foreign trade policy shall be, the secretary said, internal adjustments in agricultural production must continue because of reduced foreign demand for American farm products.

In his booklet, "America Must Choose," Wallace suggested a year ago that a "clean-cut program of planned international trade or barter" would be less likely to get the United States into war "than the attempts to function internationally as sellers, yet nationally as buyers."

Wallace described himself today as "still an optimist" in his belief that the country will make a definite choice between the foreign trade courses which are open.

"Public opinion changes very slowly but it can be altered," he commented. Copper identified as coming from the region around Lake Superior has been found in prehistoric Indian mounds in Louisiana.

5 Places Named For Registering Golfers Of City

Local Business Firms To Enter Golfers In Matches

Five places for registering golfers and firms desiring to enter golfers in the coming inter-city tournament between Pampa and Amarillo were named at a meeting of the tournament committee of the country club last night.

Twenty local firms have already signified their intention of entering men in the big event which will be staged over the Country club course March 31. Other firms are urged to have their names on the list by noon Saturday so that the names can be carried in The NEWS on Sunday.

Registration headquarters will be at Fichter's Drug, 354 N. Pampa. Erig Nels, 1 and 2, Brown and Wise Barber shop, and the Country club office. Players should give their average score of 18 holes when registering so that they can be matched with a player of the same caliber from Amarillo.

The deadline for both sets of names will be Wednesday night. Walter Sikes of Amarillo will be here Thursday morning and will match the players with Del Love, representing Pampa.

Every golfer in Pampa and surrounding territory who can wield a golf club should register to play in the biggest golf event of the year. Those without clubs may be able to rent a set at the club house. Amarillo expects to bring 150 golfers and their families to Pampa. The Country club will be headquarters and there is a prospect of 1,000 persons playing and attending the matches as spectators.

There will be need of many more caddies. Boys wishing to act as caddies are asked to register with Mr. Love at the clubhouse.

GYPSIES RELEASED DENTON, March 22. (AP)—Eight gypsies arrested at Pilot Point late yesterday and brought here for questioning in connection with the slaying of D. B. Wood near Bennington, Okla., Wednesday, were released today. Sheriff Williams of Durant, Okla., and other officers came here to question the band, including two men, four women and two children.

364 See Yanks But Tribesmen Attract 6,467

ST. PETERSBURG Fla. (AP)—The Braves are making history.

Since the beginning of the training camp season they have played before some 25,000 cash customers—which means that for the first time in tribal history they are certain of having their training expenses paid before the regular season gets underway.

Another crowd was looked for at Waterfront park today as the Tribesmen meet their American league brethren, the Red Sox.

Ebbe Ruth voiced his notice that his old teammates—the Yanks—drew 364 paid admissions at Tampa against the Reds Wednesday and less than 550 at St. Petersburg yesterday, while the Tribe drew 6,467 to Waterfront park and 3,120 to Lakeland.

A bill introduced in the legislature of the territory of Alaska proposed a fine of from $250 to $1,000 or a year in federal jail upon any public official who employed or voted for the employment of any relative.

BRIEFS FROM TRAINING CAMPS

By The Associated Press.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 22.—Fred "Dixie" Walker, who was listed among the Yankees' dollar-a-year men because of the all-time action last season, has passed his first test successfully. He played left field against the Reds yesterday, covered ground well and had no trouble with his throwing.

TAMPA, Fla., March 22.—Now that they've found out what it usually means, six of the Giants' rookies aren't so pleased about being assigned to places in the reporters' car on the club's over-night trips. This assignment is usually taken as an indication they will be the first to draw their releases. The six are John Leonard, Al Cucinella, Joe Martin, Joe Malay, Jim Asbell, and Chester Klarnner.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 22.—Despite the ability of Al Lopez behind the bat it looks as if the Dodgers might have trouble keeping Gordon (Elmp) Phelps out of action this season. Adding to his previous batting feats, the 230-pound catcher knocked the longest homer ever hit out of Conrad Pank at Deland in yesterday's game against Minneapolis. The ball cleared the 40-foot center field wall 381 feet from the plate.

PORT MEYERS, Fla., March 22.—The Philadelphia Athletics will break camp today after a final brief workout on their training camp field.

They will leave for St. Augustine, the first of their barnstorming tour leading homeward.

NEW YORK, March 22. (AP)—A slacking in trade velocity this week was noted in the weekly business review issued today by Dun & Bradstreet.

The reaction was attributed to adverse weather conditions, some recession in the rate of general industrial activity, weakness in commodity quotations and further postponement of decisions on political matters affecting business.

"With few exceptions, however, the retardation was not pronounced," the report said. "And was more in the nature of a period of relaxation, after the steady climb since last October, to regain sufficient strength to take advantage of the normal spring rise, which is about to start."

"The spread between distribution and production is being narrowed steadily, as is being of Easter merchandise, which is off to a good start, with the peak of seasonal purchases not to be reached until well after the conclusion of that event."

"Businessmen are replacing the watchful attitude of political developments by a more definite dependence on their own aggressiveness to hasten the attainment of their objectives."

"The development of individual courage doubtless will hasten the pace of recovery during the next few months."

THIEF REPORTED Frank Dillard reported to officers of the sheriff's department this morning that a quantity of oilfield equipment had been stolen from his headquarters south of Pampa yesterday. Tracks were found where a truck had been driven close to where the missing items had been located.

CHICAGO SOX ARE HOPEFUL OF RE-BIRTH

1934 STRIKEOUT KING OF TEXAS LEAGUE IN LINEUP

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN Associated Press Sports Writer

PASADENA, Calif., March 22. (AP)—Tenants of the American league cellar in 1934 and off and on for several other seasons, the Chicago White Sox expect to pull themselves out by their own boot straps. Youthful enthusiasm, built about a quartet of veterans, may turn the trick this season.

Vernon Kennedy, Penn relay dethroner champion in 1927, and the strikeout king of the Texas league for 1934 along with two fellow Texas leaguers, Joe Vance and John Whitehead, have been called in to give the club a lift.

Of course Dykes is banking on Earnshaw, Ted Lyons, Leslie Tietje, Whitlow Wyatt, Sam Jones and Lee Stine for the major share of mound duty but he feels that the young talent, guided by the sterling judgment of Sewell back of the plate, will turn in a surprising number of victories.

Sewell, obtained from Washington will have the veteran Harold (Muddy) Ruel and Mervyn Sheas as assistants in the catching assignment.

There will be little or no change in the infield. Dykes plans to do most of the work at third, with Marty Hopkins, another former Texas, as his understudy. Luke Appling, one of the best short stops in the circuit is back, with Minter Hayes at second and Zeke Bonura, the home run hitter, at first. Dykes also picked up Glenn Wright, a veteran infielder, in the winter market and plans to make considerable use of him.

While the White Sox do not shape up as the best baseball club in the circuit by several degrees, Dykes feels it is enough improved over last season to move a step or two out of eighth place and promises it will give the leaders a lot of worry.

Seaside Character Pumps Arm of His Majesty, the King

EASTBOURNE, Sussex, Eng., March 22. (AP)—A hearty, be-whiskered seaside character is "Dusty" Matthews, who doesn't often meet up with the King of England.

He spotted his majesty taking a morning stroll along the waterfront. The king and queen are here on a holiday.

"I'm pleased to meet you, captain. I knew your mum and dad," said Dusty pumping the monarch's arm in a lanky hand-shake. Whereupon he started up a brisk conversation. They chatted quite awhile "about the sea," said Dusty afterward, unaware there was anything odd about his salutation. Matthews is 66.

BRADDOCK AND ART LASKY TO MEET TONIGHT

ANOTHER ELIMINATION FIGHT WILL BE IN GARDEN

NEW YORK, Mar. 22. (AP)—Madison Square Garden's latest heavyweight elimination tournament will move another faltering step toward tonight with Art Lasky and Jimmy Braddock earnestly endeavoring to eliminate one another in a 15-round bout.

Coincidentally with the arrival from abroad of Joe Jacobs, American manager of Max Schmeling, there were rumors that Schmeling, on the strength of his technical knockout victories over Walter Neusel and Steve Hama, already is matched with Max Baer for a title fight in June.

These rumors proved not a little disquieting to the tournament competitors.

If a Baer-Schmeling battle already is arranged, the ultimate survivors of the Garden tournament might discover that not only had he eliminated all his rivals but himself had been eliminated.

Jimmy Johnston, Garden boxing impresario, insists, however, that the Garden hasn't decided yet who Baer will fight and that the tournament will proceed as scheduled.

Primo Camera, who eliminated Ray Impellitteri last week, is supposed to meet the winner of tonight's fight before the indoor season winds up. After that, Johnston says, the Garden hopes to persuade Jacobs to toss Schmeling in there against the tournament survivor.

Close observers of boxing believe Johnston is a little too optimistic if he really thinks he can get Schmeling for anything short of a title match.

THE COST OF NATIONALISM

How long must we suffer the abysmal illiteracy of nationalism? What further evidence is needed than that overwhelmingly amassed on every side to prove that continued strangulation of international trade is plunging the South and the nation ever deeper into the dungeon of economic despair? The cotton restriction program, after its sordid history under both the Federal Farm Board and the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, stands today bereft of justification.

In the first place, it has failed in its program of increasing prices. Statistics show conclusively that the rise in cotton prices has been due almost entirely to the decline in value of the dollar, but even without regard to devaluation, cotton prices have nowhere remotely approved the confident predictions of those who supported the Bankhead bill. A year ago when the Bankhead law was promulgated, fifteen-cent cotton was enthusiastically promised by fall. Even with the help of a disastrous drought, which reduced production below the limits prescribed by the law which was to produce fifteen-cent cotton, the price of cotton never approximated fifteen cents; and today—after a year of drought and compulsory restriction—the price of cotton is no higher than it was a year ago, when neither the drought nor compulsory restriction had occurred. In the second place, the AAA has failed in its program of reducing supply. Unable to control production in other cotton growing countries, the AAA has merely withdrawn American cotton and permitted the substitution of foreign cotton in the markets of the world. In the third place, the restriction program has given rise to experiments in cotton substitutes and the perfection of fibers which otherwise might never have been perfected to compete with cotton. In the fourth place, the processing tax has added to the price of cotton goods and has proved a barrier to the domestic consumption of cotton. In the fifth place, the restriction program, with its government loans, has priced American cotton out of the world market and has continued to depress cotton exports in a period when exports of other leading commodities are showing a tendency to increase. And, in the sixth place, decreased cotton production has meant decreased cotton labor. Thousands of farmers have been displaced from their homes in the cotton fields and have migrated to the cities to become a part of that "floating element" of labor competing with those already employed in industry, or to become a heavy burden on relief rolls and a consequent heavy burden on the national debt and the people who must ultimately bear it. From every standpoint, the abysmal illiteracy of economic nationalism manifested in the cotton restriction program stands indicted as a policy inimical to the welfare of the south and of the nation. And most ominous of all portents is that the government, after two years of a program admitted as an expedient when it was devised, as yet has no permanent program to supplant it. How much longer must we wait? How much longer will it be before the government can no longer escape the only solution of a return to an ordered world?—Texas Weekly.

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—In case you don't think history still repeats herself—

One year ago it was being reported in this column that the National Labor Board stood demoralized and impotent because the White House wouldn't support it, the NRA was flouting it, employers were defying it, and it couldn't get its decisions enforced.

The chairman and staff were saying they would have to wait for a new law before the board could be effective in handling labor disputes and enforcing NIRA's section 7-a, concerning collective bargaining.

The same dispatch might as well be reprinted verbatim today. Chairman Francis Biddle and his National Labor Relations Board, armed with a new labor disputes act, are here in place of Chairman Wagner and the old NLRB. But although the characters have changed the plot remains the same.

Because it can't get its decisions obeyed or enforced and because Roosevelt has interfered with its jurisdiction and failed to give it any public support, the NLRB feels utterly hogtied except insofar as it can work to promote Wagner's strong labor disputes act now before congress.

Some things have happened lately which indicate to insiders aware of them that Roosevelt may soon support at least some of the Wagner bill, which gives NLRB permanent and independent status, makes 7-a a national law applicable to all industries, outlaws company-supported company unions, prescribes "majority rule" for collective bargaining relations, and confers direct subpoena and enforcement powers, final jurisdiction over all collective bargaining cases, and right to hear appeals from decisions of all other labor boards.

Senator Wagner changed his vote from for to against the McCarran "prevailing wage" amendment to the work-relief bill. One hears reports of a "deal", the idea being that Roosevelt promised to support the NLRB bill in return.

Wagner did see the president shortly before the vote. Roosevelt did tell him something which Wagner later privately admitted had made him "optimistic."

But neither Roosevelt nor Wagner will tell what it was and the insiders have to guess whether F. D. tossed Bob a glittering generality or something more tangible.

Meanwhile, Secretary of Labor Perkins and President Bill Green of the A. F. of L. had made a deal of their own. Miss Perkins told Green she would support the Wagner bill if he in turn would support her proposal to keep NLRB under the jurisdiction of the Department of Labor—which Wagner and Biddle oppose.

Inasmuch as Green is really opposed to the Perkins idea, many in the labor crowd are snickering at him and suggesting that he traded something for nothing.

Miss Perkins, they say, was bound to support the bill in her testimony before congressional committees, since she had committed herself on it last year.

These several circumstances have encouraged certain pro-labor folks who until recently were sure the Wagner bill would be killed—and that Roosevelt wanted it killed.

There's at least a chance that Roosevelt is changing position as a result of demands for some movement toward the "left."

We always thought that, at least with the men, pink slips that revealed figures were popular.

Dusting The Covers Of Texas History

For THE TEXAS CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION OF 1936

Christmas day was a cheerless one for those families in Texas with absent fathers, husbands, and brothers. Simple thanksgiving was given for their bravery, but many hearts ached at the sight of vacant chairs.

The men were with Colonel Fisher in Mier, fighting fiercely for their lives and their goal. For two days the Texans tried their strength against General Ampudia's forces, and finally surrendered December 25. Ten of their number had been killed, 48 were wounded, and the rest were taken prisoners. The Mexicans lost nearly 700.

General Ampudia supervised the marching order of his Texan prisoners. They were being sent to Mexico City, where they could tell President Santa Anna of their noble plans for subduing the Mexican nation.

The story of the Mier prisoners is one that every Texan knows. The cruel treatment they received and the hardships they endured will never be forgotten. At Saltillo the "supreme government of Mexico" ordered the immediate execution of every tenth man; seventeen were to die. Survivors of that awful fate have written the most fascinating stories of all in the history of our state. It was decided that the men were to draw beans from a huge vessel; those who drew a black bean were to be executed; the ones drawing white beans were to be free. Commissioned officers were to draw first. The soldiers were lined up alphabetically. "Big Foot" Wallace, present at the drawing of the beans, describes in his "Adventures" how nonchalant and brave the men were. Only one officer drew a black bean. As each man drew, he handed his bean to the Mexican official in charge. The white ones were lined up on a stone wall, and the black ones were slipped into a Mexican officer's coat pocket.

Those who drew black beans were exceedingly brave. "Well, boys, the jig is up," the unfortunate ones would say. Or, "They have taken in my sign at last." Thus Big Foot Wallace reported the proceedings.

The seventeen men who were to die were led apart from the others, and without a gulch, faced the Mexican firing squad. Ten minutes after the drawing a loud volley of shots was heard, and the Texan prisoners knew that seventeen noble lives had been ended.

Many stories have been written of the Mier expedition. It will be forever engraved in the hearts of true Texans, and it is in honor of these men that the Texas Centennial celebrations will be held in 1936. Their names shall live forever!

criticize the house and the governor. Those familiar with the legislative makeup have been waiting for something to set off the fireworks and believe it has been found in the tax situation. That it would engulf the governor in controversy with at least a certain bloc in the house is apparent. Allred has made certain definite taxation recommendations to the legislature and has let it be known that he expects them to be acted upon.

After Governor Allred was attacked for criticizing personnel of the committee after the sulphur tax report he called several members of the group into a conference and explained his statement. It was noted that he excluded five from the conference and that those five were most vocal in their complaints against the house and the governor.

It is expected that much more will be heard of the affair before the legislature packs for home.

Rep. Jesse T. Roach of Commerce is preparing to make a strong bid for promotion to the senate in event Senator Wallace Hugston of McKinney resigns to accept a position with the National Housing Administration. Roach broadcast his intention to seek Hugston's place as soon as he was advised the federal office had been tendered his colleague and immediately started preparations to dive into a hot campaign for the senate.

Former Senator Joe Moore of Greenville, who dropped from the legislative picture when he was defeated in the last primary election for the democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, also is regarded as a candidate for Hugston's place.

CAPITOL CHATTER

BY CHARLES E. SIMONS

AUSTIN, March 22. (AP)—The locked-for rupture in serenity of legislative proceedings may come from the break between the house of representatives and its revenue and taxation committee.

The breach and its inception when the house refused the recommendation of the committee on the sulphur tax increase bill and voted more than two to one to print it on minority report. The committee had voted it out with a 14 to 4 adverse report.

Governor James V. Allred's criticism of the committee's sulphur tax recommendation added momentum to the ill feeling which reached a climax when the house rejected two of the committee's reports in one day, including one on an administration favored chain store tax.

Highly indignant the committee expressed its irritation at a meeting in which it passed out five important tax bills without discussion and virtually without discussion. Members took turns moving that bills be reported favorably and took advantage of the opportunity to

Wheeler Horse Wins Prize in Livestock Show

FORT WORTH, March 22 (AP)—Judging was completed in four livestock divisions—draft horses, Jersey females, Holstein and Aberdeen Angus—at the Southwestern Exposition and Pat Stock show today.

C. E. Griffin of Big Cabin, Okla., swept through the Holstein classes. His Mount Riga Sir Hazel was the senior and grand champion bull; his Queen Jewel Inka was senior and grand champion female, and his Mount Riga Plebe Felicia was junior champion female.

W. L. Stangel, head of the animal husbandry department at Texas Technological college and judge of the Aberdeen Angus division, awarded the senior and grand champion ship to Erica of St. Albans, owned by S. C. Fullerton of Miami, Okla. The junior champion was Blackcap Revolution owned by Elliott Brown, Rose Hill, Iowa; Fullerton's Barbara of Rosemere was declared the senior and grand champion female, and Brown's Evening Erica 15th was declared the junior champion female.

The senior grand champion Jersey female was Nobby Born Nobility, owned by the Lawn Farm company of Denison which also exhibited the junior champion female, You'll Do Show Born Nobility. In the draft horse division President, owned by W. S. Whitney, Wheeler, Texas, was the grand champion and also first prize stallion foaled before January 1, 1932. P. H. Lawson & Son, Roanoke, Tex., exhibited the second prize winner in this class.

Texas A. & M. college exhibited the first prize stallion foaled since January 1, 1934, and the first prize mare foaled since January 1, 1933. Junior champion stallion was Moreno, owned by Texas A. & M. college. The college also exhibited the senior and grand champion mare, Durham's Laura, and the junior champion mare, Norma.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

BY ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD. — The Grace Moores, Irene Dunnes, Jeannette MacDonald and Mary Ellis of the screen have to work twice as hard to get their voices out as the Lawrence Tibbetts and Nelson Eddy.

It is the recording instruments that prove the point with their delicate measurements of sound vibrations—but let Douglas Shearer, the recording director, explain it: "Nelson Eddy's voice," he says, "registered plus twenty-four decibels, the decibel being the unit for measuring sound in recording. Jeannette MacDonald's voice registered plus thirty-six points higher. The energy in producing sound is doubled for every six points.

Double Energy
This is why good sopranos are so scarce. They have to expend twice the energy the male singers do to get the same effect on the ear. It means that they must have twice the physical energy, twice the nervous and physical endurance. I don't mean in the matter of muscle, or athletic prowess, but in stamina and ability to force the vocal cords to double duty.

A baritone voice, he explains, creates sound vibrations that are "slower and wider," while the soprano voice is composed of faster and shorter vibrations. Thus twice the energy must be put into them to vibrate the human ear drum with the same intensity of longer and slower male vibration does.

Rogers' Edits Weekly
"Life Begins at Forty" has Will Rogers in the ingratiating role of editor of a village weekly, which is filled with the kind of humor which characterizes his films. The title of course is taken from the Walter Pitkin book, and the idea therein propounded is developed incidentally to the plot. That concerns a youth (Richard Cromley) who has been to jail, convicted of bank robbery, and who is befriended by Rogers. The banker (George Barbier) doesn't like Dick, and the feud goes so far as to take Rogers' paper from him. The editor with Dick starts a rival sheet on an old hand press—but that is not all he starts. He finishes, after several climaxes of hilarious comedy, with his old paper back, Dick's name cleared, and the girl (Rochelle Hudson) in Dick's arms.

ASKS REHEARING
AUSTIN, March 21 (AP)—Joe Palmer filed a motion today for rehearing of his appeal from the death verdict assessed for the murder of Major Crowson, Texas prison guard, in a bank early in 1934 allegedly engineered by the notorious Clyde Barrow. The court of criminal appeals probably will act on the motion within a few weeks. The opinion affirming the extreme penalty was handed down March 6.

More than 5,000 factories are now operating in the Shanghai, China region.

International Sunday School Lesson

By DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: Peter Describes the Christian Life.

Scripture lesson: Peter 3:8-18.

8. Finally, be ye all like-minded, compassionate, loving as brethren, tenderhearted, humbled in mind, 9. Not rendering evil for evil, or reviling for reviling; but contrariwise blessing; for hereunto were ye called, that ye should inherit a blessing.

10. For, He that would love life, And see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile;

11. And let him turn away from evil, and do good; let him seek peace, and pursue it.

12. For the eyes of the Lord are upon the righteous, and his ears unto their supplication; but the face of the Lord is upon them that do evil.

13. And who is he that will harm you, if ye be zealous of that which is good?

14. But even if ye should suffer for righteousness' sake, blessed are ye; and fear not their fear, neither be troubled.

15. But sanctify in your hearts Christ as Lord: being ready always to give answer to every man that asketh you a reason concerning the hope that is in you, yet with meekness and fear:

16. Having a good conscience; that, wherein ye are spoken against, they may be put to shame who revile your good manner of life in Christ.

17. For it is better, if the will of God should so will, that ye suffer for well-doing than for evil-doing.

18. Because Christ also suffered for sins once, the righteous for the unrighteous, that he might bring us to God; being put to death in the flesh, but made alive in the spirit.

Golden Text: Sanctify in your hearts Christ as Lord—1 Peter 3:15.

Introduction
Today's lesson concludes the regular studies in the life and letters of Simon Peter. For some weeks now we have followed with absorbing interest the unfolding of this great life; we have sympathized with him in his weaknesses, we have smiled at him in his rashness, we have wept with him in his hard days, we have rejoiced in his high moment of triumph, and since Pentecost we have marveled at his powerful witness for Christ. We are glad that in this last lesson Peter gives us his estimate of the Christian life. We are not forgetting that Peter wrote under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit; we are remembering, also that Peter is at once a monument to the power of the Holy Spirit and a willing instrument in his hands.

Harmony
"All of one mind." ("like-minded" v. 1). In union there is strength; and the little church of those days was weak. The church will always have too much to do fighting the forces of selfishness and sin to have any time or strength to carry on internecine warfare. And it is such a divinely complicated affair that its perfect functioning depends upon the perfect working together of all its parts. It must have that vigorous health of all its members and organs.

Sympathy, v. 8
Recurring again to the conditions under which the letter was written we would be having need of "compassion one of another," and of pity, and of courtesy. We have phrased from the epistle to the Hebrews a title for our Lord that has become very precious, "Sympathizing Great High Priest." This grace indeed so distinguished Christ that it must be one of the Christian's graces.

Confidence in the Lord, vs. 13, 14
"Who is he that will harm you?" v. 13. In these verses we have an affirmation of one of the great articles of faith of the Old Testament and that with the strong sanction of our Lord has become also the Christian's, that he who has the right and God on his side need indeed so distinguished Christ that it must be one of the Christian's graces.

Zeal, v. 13
"Followers of that which is good," is better translated, as in the R. V., "zealous of that which is good," or as by Goodspeed, "eager to do what is right" (it is the word that Paul uses in Acts 22:3, "Zealous toward God"). Apathy, moderation, lukewarmness are dangerous for the Christian. The zealous Christian, even if he sometimes slips, is likely to stay with Christ to the end; witness Peter himself.

Christ in the Heart, v. 15

The keystone word in these specifications of the Christian life would seem to be "Sanctify the Lord God in your hearts." The better Greek texts have "the Lord Christ. Mrs. Montgomery has, "consecrate Christ in your hearts." Or we might say, "enthrone Christ in your hearts."

When that has been done how natural and easy it is to follow all these other specifications. How unreasonable fear becomes! How ready one is with a defense, a vindication, an apology, of his belief! But you should always do this, the writer interjects, not in "a noisy, boasting way, but gently and respectfully" (Mrs. Montgomery).

Long Life and Good Days, v. 10
"He that would love life, And see good days," v. 10.

The proper enjoyment of life is worthy. It is wrong not to love life in a noble sense. One may well wish to see good days. The Bible justifies the high hope of happy days. Every true aspiration is kindled and stimulated by the Bible. There is a story of Dr. Samuel Johnson who on his deathbed was visited by a young gentleman to whom he gave this splendid advice: "Young man, attend to the voice of one who has possessed a certain degree of fame in the world, and who is about to appear before his Maker. Read the Bible every day of your life!"

The Way of a Happy Life
If one wishes to enjoy life and to see happy days there are some very positive things he must do. First, he must hold his tongue, for deceitful lips and an evil tongue cause misery and wretchedness rather than enjoyment.

Second, he must turn away from evil, for any sort of sin is certain to destroy happiness, both of the sinner and of others.

Third, he must do good as the sure counteraction of gloom and discord, for nobody can do better than to do right.

Finally, he must seek peace as a definite goal and as a happy state of mind.

Personal Responsibility, v. 12
Before each individual there is either mercy or justice. First of all, there is mercy, for the eyes of the Lord are upon the righteous and his ears are attentive to their entreaty. But also there is justice for the face of the Lord is set against wrongdoers. The Bible distinctly teaches individual accountability to God.

It is said that Daniel Webster, whose intellectual and moral endowment no one has ever questioned, was once asked what was the greatest thought that ever occupied his mind. And he is said to have replied: "The fact of my personal accountability to God."

Comfort in Bereavement
Dr. W. M. Taylor once made this statement: "I had just a few weeks before buried a beloved daughter, the light of the household, the darling of all in it, and had gone to attend a meeting of Synod, where an honored minister, who had been through the same trial oftener than once before came up to me and took me by the hand, and said to me, with a reference to my sorrow, 'By these things men live.' That was all; but each successive year since then has given a new verification of his words."

Rotarians Attend Lion's Luncheon
Pampa Rotarians were guests of Lions yesterday in a program presented by the former.

In the absence of President H. H. Hicks of the Lions club, Vice President Clyde Fatherson opened the meeting. Vice President Philip Pond responded for the Rotarians in behalf of President R. Earl O'Keefe, who could not be present.

Rotarian Travis Lively directed a fellowship program in which the name and vocation of every one present was given. Dr. Ed Connor made a talk on the value of civic club membership.

The "wildcat" siren which for 35 years gave the alarm when youths escaped from Kansas reformatory has been replaced and made into a flower pot which was presented to the wife of Superintendent Noah Wiggins.

A tube inserted through his abdomen by an operation when he was only a day old is serving Robert Earl Linsig, born Feb. 16 in New York City, in place of the esophagus without which he was born. His mother, Mrs. Florence Linsig, who is shown holding him, is encouraged by doctors to hope he will live and be made a normal child through an operation.

About New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK.—To illustrate the mad impulsiveness with which business is carried on in New York this chronicle of Jack Trepel, the florist, is adequate. But it is not burlesque. It is the norman prodigy of many who live in this unaccountable city. A frantic telephone call (all calls in Manhattan are frantic) came to Trepel from a patron who ordered a corsage of orchids for immediate delivery aboard the liner Santa Lucia. Accustomed to last-minute sale deliveries, Trepel glanced at a sailing schedule. "But the Santa Lucia leaves in 12 minutes," he expostulated.

Get a cab, get a police escort, but deliver those orchids.

Trepel thrust the corsage into the hands of a messenger and bade him godspeed. But the Santa Lucia was out in the river and beyond the Statue of Liberty when the messenger dived to a panting halt on the very edge of the pier. Cognizant of this, as the boy had telephoned him, Trepel got immediately into touch with his patron. "What," he shrieked, "missed the boat! Get a cutter, get a government launch—wait, I know! Get a plane at Floyd Bennett field and drop those orchids on deck!" Two hours later a plane circled over the deck of the Santa Lucia, hovered momentarily, and dropped the corsage. She was 60 miles at sea. The orchids themselves cost $40, but Trepel doesn't know what the plane will cost. He is waiting for a statement now so that he may make the bad news along to his client.

From time to time Hollywood producers have accused Erich Von Stroheim of directorial madness because he insists upon so much detail in his pictures. They declare that detail on the grand scale detracts from the central theme, but the director believes it makes for greater appreciation and understanding.

Von Stroheim's appetite for detail is in keeping with the almost fanatical adherence to realism that has brought so much tragedy to his career. Now he is taking it out in writing. For years, he insisted that he wanted to write; through literature alone, he feels, may the artist do exactly as he chooses without having to answer to a dozen money masters. His new book is a novel, Paprika. Maybe, as Antonette Spitzer suggests, Von Stroheim should have been writing all the while.

It is, happily, a fact that most well-prepared food in New York now is seasoned with wines, and being one of those gluttonous fellows who would rather eat than do anything else, I am compelled to mention the savory goodness of roast duck, as prepared by the chef at the French Casino.

Duck, especially wild duck, is always a joy however it may be prepared—baked, broiled, stewed, roasted, even fried. But I invite now your attention to roast duck, garnished with cherries, over the breast of which spiced wine has dripped for an hour. I don't know how the chef does it, or just precisely what effect the wine has on the fowl, but I can tell you what the whole of it does to me. It sets me drooling so unreservedly that I am about to bring this to a close and barge over for a second helping.

CAVALRYMAN OF 50 YEARS AGO RECALLS CUSTER'S LAST FIGHT

DEL RIO, March 22. (AP)—Col. John H. Brandt of Los Angeles, a member of the famous fifth United States cavalry 50 years ago, attend the 80th anniversary celebration at Fort Clark Monday, March 3.

Col. Brandt served between 1885 and 1890, and saw service against hostile Indians in Kansas, Nebraska and Wyoming.

The colonel bears the title by courtesy and is active and alert despite his 71 years.

In an address he pointed out that when he was in the service the men received $13 a month and the posts were without amusement or entertainment other than that devised by the men themselves.

He declared that in the five years he was in the fifth cavalry only 11 months were spent in Garrison, the rest of his enlistment being spent in the field against the Indians.

Col. Brandt proudly pointed to the fact that during the years the cavalry battled the Indians, the years when the organization was known as "the little army of the big west," no war debt was incurred and left to future generations as has been the case in all other wars.

In 1925 and 1926 Col. Brandt served as commander of the National Indian War Veterans. On the shoulders of his dark blue tunic, glistening with polished buttons and medals, he wears the gold letters "NWV" signification of the organization. In addition he is a life member of the Fifth Cavalry Veterans association.

Col. Brandt, standing by the old garrison at Fort Clark, recalled experiences he had undergone during his service in the Indian wars.

"I asked an Indian whom I knew as a survivor of the band that wiped out Custer how long the engagement lasted," Brandt stated. "We talked in sign language and he signaled for me to take out my watch. He gathered up a handful of sand and let it trickle through his fingers as a measure of time. He repeated this until 35 minutes had elapsed.

"In 1885 I stood parade with 'Comanche,' Custer's horse. Today that horse, a clay bank, is stuffed and mounted at the University of Kansas in Lawrence.

"I was not in any outstanding engagement during my enlistment but saw plenty of service. The only time in my life that I was thoroughly mad was when I was turned down when I tried to enlist during the world war," the colonel stated.

Brandt had not been in this section of Texas until he came to the celebration at Fort Clark where the fifth cavalry was transferred in 1921.

Wednesday Colonel Brandt returned to California. "It's a long way to have to come to such a celebration," he declared, "but was well worth it."

Montana Rides Again

Chapter 43
ACTION

They worked with Juan-Silva silently, wiped the red from the lips of the dead man and drew him back in his chair so that his head was at a balance, supported against the high back of the chair.

"Now," said Montana, and he strode on past the fountain, to the door of that farther room out of which the voice of great-throated Estrada was making a steady rumbled.

Then he thrust the door open, and saw the general walking back and forth. The major and Jack Lascar were sprawling in chairs out of which they leaped at the sight of the Kid.

He smiled back at them, a very slow smile of a genuine amusement, the way how Pascual suddenly produced from Alvarez the gleaming green eye of the last emerald.

"Go, for God's sake!" said Major Alvarez. "Or are we to stay forever in this hell-hole."

With a frown of military courage Estrada strode straight for the door as one resolved.

"The general is coming," called the Kid, over his shoulder, and as Estrada crossed the threshold he quickly closed the door behind him.

Turning, he heard a soft breathing in the air. That was all.

So they bore the general into the middle of the room.

By that time his two guns were in the hands of Montana, and the weight of the revolvers seemed to clothe the Kid with a new strength.

Perhaps it was mere chance that made the friar deposit Estrada in the chair opposite to the death grin of Juan-Silva. But the sight of that hideous grimace turned the governor rigid.

He offered no resistance as the Kid tore his uniform coat open and reached inside it. There, in a soft coating of camels, he felt the hardness of metal, and knew that his guess had been right. He gave one glance inside the leather and saw the green of the emeralds. That was enough. He flashed the gold and the green at Rubriz and then dropped it into his pocket.

Brother Pascual and the outlaw, in the meantime, had bound the general to the chair he sat in.

Mateo Rubriz, standing back from the bound and gagged general, folded his arms and they rose almost to his chin with the greatness of the breath he drew. But then, gradually relaxing, he was heard to mutter: "San Juan de Capistrano, keep my hands from him. Save this dog meat for the dogs!"

"Now—Mateo—now, Pascual—we have the other pair. Here we have guns. And there are only two. You first, Mateo."

Mateo looked at his friend sideways, with a grin wider than that of a snarling cat. Then he went to the door, with Montana at his heels, and threw it open. The long-sleeved Pascual was right behind them.

They went over the threshold with their guns before them, walking gingerly, as men must do unless they wish to disturb their aim.

There was not a word spoken. Then the two put their hands above their heads. They said nothing as the cords were fastened about their wrists. Then Pascual took them out of the room to the table where the dead man and the living prisoner already waited.

"They were bound into chairs."

"Search them, first—search every inch of them," said the Kid.

"They searched, quickly, using the flat of the hand carefully to feel whatever lay in pockets. And that was how Pascual suddenly produced from Alvarez the gleaming green eye of the last emerald.

He held it up. The Kid was already speaking.

"We have one passport, and only one. That's the word of Juan-Silva. He'll never write again, and the best we can do is to take him with us. Pascual, take that scarf on his neck—wrap it around his skinny neck and see if that will keep his mouth closed."

"The friar obeyed. And as he twisted the scarf's length strongly around the neck of Juan-Silva, the pressure of the upper layers of the cloth forced the jaws to close.

"I am going out into the patio, there, to be the coachman," said Montana. "There's no weight to Juan-Silva. You can seem to be merely walking beside him, and you can hold him up. Pascual—draw that end of the scarf down his back under his cloak. Now if you keep a hand on that, his head will be raised. Not too much. He always walked with it bent forward."

"Support him—one of you on each side. I'll back the carriage to the door. When you hear the wheels, open the door and come straight out with the dead man between you—quickly, too, so that the swing of his legs may look like walking. I'll try to keep the eyes of the people yonder. One chance in ten, brothers—our only chance!"

A black pang of desperation struck through the brain of Montana. But he gathered himself for half a second, and then stepped out into the white blaze of the patio. There was a pair of guards on the farther side of the open space, in the shadow of the wall. They were smoking their cigarettes, idly. And the heads of the leaders were held, now, by a mere house mouse.

The Kid sprang up lightly into the driver's place and gathered the reins, singing out, "Let their heads go, boy!"

One of the guards, calmly, deliberately, raised his rifle to his shoulder.

"El Keed!" he called out. "Get down from that place!"

The Kid merely tossed him a phrase across his shoulder.

"Why do you think Juan-Silva has been taking me out with him every day? Because he wants a real coachman, Amigo?"

With that he swung the leaders, and backed the wheelers with a strong pull. The carriage lurched well back to the main door of the house from which he had just stepped.

He heard one guard saying, "Put down your gun, fool! I have seen Juan-Silva making him a friend. Look! Here's the senior himself."

Tomorrow, the three friends begin a mad dash for freedom.

SCHOOLS OF COUNTY AND OF PANHANDLE REGION CLOSE AS TEACHERS ATTEND CONFERENCE

Gray county schools, including those at Pampa, were closed today while teachers attended the Northwest Texas Conference for Education at Canyon.

CANYON, March 22.—All roads led to Canyon today as the Northwest Texas Conference for Education opened its first general session with Mrs. M. A. Taylor of Bonham and Dr. J. A. Hill of the West Texas State Teachers college delivering the first addresses of the two-day program.

Schools throughout the Panhandle closed today that superintendents and teachers may join with representatives of service and study clubs in considering Texas' problems of education.

Supt. C. H. Dillehay of Hereford as president of the conference presided at its opening meetings.

The array of speakers secured for the meeting includes Dr. T. D. Brooks of Texas A. & M. college, Dr. Earle U. Rugg of Colorado State Teachers college, Dr. Fred C. Ayer of the University of Texas, Hon. Tom Garrard, member of the state Board of Education, Supt. H. D. Pillers of Wichita Falls, and K. E. Oberholzer of Lubbock, Dr. Harry Scott of the Rice Institute, Dr. Bradford Knapp of Texas Technological college, and Dr. Harris M. Cook of the West Texas State Teachers college.

Leaders in city and rural education from every section of north-west Texas will take part in the section programs of the conference. The final meeting will adjourn at noon tomorrow. It is expected that the attendance for the two days will reach at least 2,000 people.

LOW VIOLATIONS EBB

All has been quiet in police circles this week. There have been few arrests made by the officers. No reports of losses by theft have been received at the police station and only one minor burglary has been investigated. Officers are concentrating on traffic and violations have been lessening daily. The overtime parking law is still in effect. Chief A. C. Hurd reminds car owners and round are made every two hours.

Of the 3,000,000 orchard heaters in use in California, 2,900,000 are still burning.

Medical Board Chairman Faces Narcotic Charge

PORT WORTH, March 22. (AP)—Dr. I. A. Withers, chairman of the Texas Board of Medical Examiners, today faced charges of violating federal narcotic laws.

He was released under $10,000 bond yesterday after being accused by complaint of conspiring with J. C. Milner and E. P. Gibson, Fort Worth druggist, over a period of 15 months to "write prescriptions for large amounts" of a drug to enable "addicts" to satisfy their habits.

The other men were free under $5,000 bond each.

Dr. Withers declared the action was the result of a misunderstanding of the part he played in helping stamp out the drug traffic in Fort Worth.

He said that he was asked by the federal government to help in enforcement of the narcotic laws. Two new narcotic agents, unknown to dope peddlers, were sent here at his suggestion, he said. One of them was Spencer Stafford, who was killed during a narcotic investigation at Fort Texas, Feb. 7.

Dr. Withers said that, at direction of the agent in charge, he supplied narcotics in small amounts to informers who aided the agents.

GAS WASTAGE ACT REPORTED UNANIMOUSLY

WOULD PRORATE GAS PRODUCTION IN PANHANDLE

AUSTIN, March 22. (AP)—The Texas senate was idle today but the house hoped to maintain a quorum to clear the long calendar of bills to which there was little opposition.

Senate activities were halted by the departure of its finance committee for an inspection trip to A. & M. college, Prairie View Normal for negroes, and state institutions at Galveston. The penitentiary committee of the house was inspecting the state's prison properties, making it difficult for that body to muster and keep a quorum.

Action in the immediate future on a bill to re-enact the oil proration market demand statute appeared certain in the house. There were only three opposing votes as Representative Sidney Latham of Longview succeeded in placing the bill at the top of the calendar. Latham said he probably would bring it up Monday.

"The peace and harmony between the heretofore divergent factions in the oil industry is almost appalling," Latham said. "All are agreed on this bill." He expressed the opinion that failure to pass the proposal would bring federal control of the oil industry or a serious threat of it.

The house passed a bill designed to reduce the number of candidates for the legislature in the larger counties through increasing the filing fee from $1 to $50. Approximately 60 persons were candidates for representative in a special Dallas county election last Saturday.

The house oil and gas committee voted in unanimous favor on a bill intended to halt the wastage of more than one billion cubic feet of gas a day in the Panhandle and at the same time to prorate gas production so that all landowners might have an outlet. The bill was amended to permit the railroad commission to determine the method of proration and to allow the use of sweet as well as sour gas for manufacture of carbon black.

Advocates of the Centennial appropriation bill were given a setback in their efforts to have it advanced on the senate calendar but Senator Claud Westerfield of Dallas said later that an agreement had been reached for an early setting. The motion to advance was caught in cross currents of dissension over judges salaries and repeal of horse race betting.

By a vote of 16 to 8 with two pairs, the senate engrossed a judiciary appropriations bill which would increase judges' salaries 12 1/2 per cent, or restore about half the cut given two years ago. The economy bloc refused, however, to suspend the constitutional rule and permit the bill to be placed on final passage. It probably will come up for a final vote Monday or Wednesday. The house had voted for no salary increases to judges.

Strikers Cheer At Jail Threats

DALLAS, March 22 (AP)—Spring weather may rout several hundred relief clients from their encampment in the city hall where they have camped the last six days demanding increased rations.

Physicians said that there was great danger of lung and respiratory infections spreading among such a crowd.

The sixth day of the "strike" against cuts in food and wage grants found the white strikers diminishing.

Negroes, jamming the balcony of the auditorium were in the majority. Jail threats failed to bring anything but cheers from the strikers, the assembly voting that they would welcome jail and its "three squares."

GIVE IT A TRY
MOCKSVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Reavis took 50 years to discover they couldn't get along together.

"Fifty years of married life is all I could bear," said Reavis, 75, in superior court.

The couple have been married 52 years. Grounds for the divorce was two years' separation. It was uncontested and a jury granted an absolute decree.

POLITICS at Random

BY BYRON PRICE,
Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington.

Within the year republican aspirants for the presidency will be testing out their respective strength in many states, but today the party outlook remains almost as indistinct as it was a year ago.

If any candidate is sitting up even the beginnings of a campaign organization, he is doing it so silently that his rivals have been unable to find it out.

In congress the several republican blocs continue to travel their several ways, and a unified party policy seems about as remote as ever.

Republican national headquarters in Washington is listening and waiting, saying little. What it is concerned about immediately is money to pay its rent and keep its skeleton organization together.

No one professes to know how long National Chairman Fletcher will stay in office, and no formidable candidate to succeed him has appeared on the horizon.

Altogether, it would be difficult to imagine a situation of greater party uncertainty. Few politicians expect anything exciting to happen for some months to come.

The Letter Deluge.
It appears that the country no longer takes Washington for granted. Letter-writing among the voters is distinctly on the increase.

Of course many of the letters deluging congress are devoted to specific issues and obviously are part of organized campaigns on the part of special groups.

It is the other kind, however, which are causing comment—the kind which obviously are not inspired, which do not hold up one single issue as all-important but speak generally of the state of the Union and what should be done about it.

"At no previous time since this administration began," said one senator recently, "have so many people in my state taken the time to sit down and write out—in long-hand—their ideas about the basic trend of national affairs."

This began long before both sides more or less appealed to the country in the work-relief deadlock. In the abstract it has represented one of the most notable political surprises of 1935.

Whatever it may mean, it prevents members of congress from forgetting that they will be on the spot in 1936.

Brain Trust Nnhappy
Many of the brain-trusters in Washington are growing more and more discouraged as they think over what recently has happened to them.

One of them is openly suggesting that the school of young liberals brought to Washington by Mr. Roosevelt has been employed chiefly to give "face" to policies which really have not turned out to be liberal after all.

The dissenters are convinced that the administration is turning further and further to the right, taking greater pains every day to please business and keep undisturbed many of the old relationships which the brain-trusters want to destroy.

Of course right wingers refuse to agree that any such thing is happening. But whether they have real ground for it or not, the young professors and lawyers who wrote much of last session's legislation, and now find themselves on the legislative sidelines, are about the most unhappy group in Washington.

WORK FAST
POCATELLA, Ida. (AP)—Engineers building a bridge across the Fort-Neur river near here, became alarmed when waters of the stream suddenly began to rise.

Investigation showed beavers had taken advantage of a temporary structure erected below the new bridge, built a dam, and the "slappers" had used the bridge supports as anchors.

Jordan and a posse of 15 arrested the six, the only adult males in the band. The men said they had come from Fort Smith, Ark., but officers reported their stories were conflicting.

Meanwhile in Oklahoma City, county authorities held two gypsies arrested six miles east of the state capitol late Thursday. It was reported they had come from the south.

B. D. Wood, 27, died of a fractured skull, the result of a beating given him when he and Otto Pamplin, companion, visited a gypsy camp near Bennington, Okla., Wednesday.

DENTON, March 22. (AP)—Eight gypsies were held here today for questioning in connection with the slaying of B. D. Wood near Bennington, Oklahoma, Wednesday.

Two women, four women and two children, arrested near Pilot Point late yesterday, were brought here and questioned by Sheriff Williams

THREE TOWNS HOLD GYPSIES FOR SLAYING

CONFLICTING STORIES TOLD BY ARRESTED GYPSY MEN

MUSKOGEE, Okla., March 22. (AP)—Eight gypsies were held here today for questioning in connection with the slaying of B. D. Wood near Bennington, Oklahoma, Wednesday.

Two women, four women and two children, arrested near Pilot Point late yesterday, were brought here and questioned by Sheriff Williams of Durant, Okla., and the county attorney and other officers.

The suspects said they had never been in Oklahoma and said they had come here from Arkansas.

McKINNEY, March 22. (AP)—Four officers today guarded a Gypsy camp near Frisco, 16 miles west of here, in an attempt to arrest a suspect in the slaying of B. D. Wood near Bennington, Okla., Wednesday.

Two officers from Durant, Okla., and two Gellin county officers went to the camp when it was learned two automobiles, occupied by about 10 men, left the camp.

The officers said there were no men in the camp today but that they would wait for their return.
