Singing Commercials Not Funny to German Visitor

By BUD ANDERSON

Christal Lasaritz doesn't appreciate the singing commercials she has heard in the United States. "Christal," a student from a school who has just finished a year of schooling in Germany, said she would not have been able to understand the commercials if she had not been in Germany. There, she said, she had learned from a single broadcasting station and no commercials were shown with the program. The selection of commercials varied, she said.

Aside from that, she said, she had heard the commercials in the United States. She would like to see her September 1949 program in Germany. She first came to the country a year ago under the sponsorship of the Church of the Brethren. The U.S. government had provided transportation and food for her. She said she had been attending school in Germany and had been a year and a half in a year's training in the American school system.

Christal was a student in the Lutheran Oberlin-High School, which means simply Oberlin High School for girls, when she came to the United States. "I don't know what I was doing," she said, "I suppose I was just lucky."

According to the Rev. Paul G. West, pastor of the local Church of the Brethren, approximately 200 German boys and girls are now studying in this country.

Christal was assigned to the high school at Cushing, Okla., in a junior. Then last month she attended a Brethren camp at Camp Spring Lake at Cordell, Okla. There she met a group of boys and girls from Pampa and accepted their invitation to spend a week in Texas.

"Everybody in Germany has heard of Texas," she said. "It's so big."

Since she has been in Pampa, she has had her first watermelon at that pretty good and was to have seen her first rodeo Saturday night.

There's not anything in Germany that compares to the rodeo.

Rajah Wants Team In Major Leagues After TL Success

BEAUMONT — (AP) — The fabulous Rogers Hornsby today is like a lot of minor league managers. He wants a club in the big leagues.

But there's a big difference about Hornsby. He's had one. Not just one, but four. And one won a World Series. "If I could get back in the majors as a manager," he says, "that is the only place." Hornsby still looks like he could wham a baseball a country mile. He's white haired, but his face is youthful and he carries his stocky frame with a jaunty bearing.

Right now he's the manager of Beaumont in the Class AA Texas League, and folks in this Gulf Coast region city will tell you he's a diamond magician. Beaumont is in the first division for the first time in eight years. It came from deep in the second division and is only three and one-half games out of first place.

Shortly before Hornsby got his club to clicking, Beaumont Owner Guy Airey was talking about moving the franchise because of poor attendance. Beaumont won 10 of 11 games—bounced into the first division. There's been no more of this talk.

Hornsby plays to win. He thinks his team can win. "We don't have the best team in the league," he said. "But we have spirit and confidence." He pulled a smart stunt when he picked up Clarence Beers after Houston of the Texas League cut him loose as a free agent. The big fellow, a 28 game winner for the Buffs in 1947, has won Hornsby some close games.

He got another bargain in infielder John Cusick. It was a $2000 deal and Cusick now is the spark for Beaumont's starting nine.

Hornsby managed the Cardinals in a world's championship in 1925. He's also managed Boston and Chicago in the National League and St. Louis in the American League.

is a military necessity," Johnson said.

"If the prices on defense items are not brought under control, the American taxpayer is going to suffer seriously and unnecessarily. At the present rate, it is entirely possible that the $10,000,000,000 requested by the armed services two weeks ago may buy only $3,000,000,000 worth of fighting equipment."

This means that the taxpayers will get 30 cents on the dollar for their investment in defense. It also means that the proposed $5,000,000,000 tax increase could be eaten up entirely by inflated prices.

Johnson said that if the military price increases continue he will urge that an armed services subcommittee which he heads investigate the situation thoroughly.

The cost of basic military equipment, Johnson said, has increased enormously during the last 10 years. He gave this picture:

"When we began our preparedness program in 1939, B-17 bombers cost $300,000; today's B-36 costs more than $3,000,000. Destroyers cost $7,000,000 each in 1939, but now they cost $40,000,000. Light tanks could be produced for $27,000 in 1939, but today they cost $228,000."

At the peak of World War II in 1944, Johnson added, "we could equip an infantry division for $14,500,000—now the cost is $74,000,000." Six years ago, he said, an armored division could be outfitted for $30,000,000, as compared with $199,000,000 today.

Gotham Transit Strike Halted

NEW YORK — Striking bus drivers returned to work Saturday on 16 lines that normally carry 350,000 passengers a day. James O. Shea, shop steward of Local 100, CIO Transport Workers Union, said the men returned "pending further negotiations with the company on our grievances."

The strike began Thursday and by Saturday morning involved nearly 500 drivers. Michael J. Quill, TWU international president, called it a wildcat strike. Strikers were protesting what they called poor maintenance of their buses. They also demanded pay for the time lost during the strike.

President Will Get Exactly What He Wants by Not Asking

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON — If it were not so serious, it would be comical. Year after year President Truman asked Congress for power to slap on price controls and rationing, if needed.

"Year after year Congress coolly ignored him, except for shouts of "poor state" when he made the request.

Now, in the present serious situation arising from the Korea shooting, Mr. Truman carefully avoided asking for stand-by controls on prices and rationing.

But Congress appears certain to give him the power to use when he sees fit. In fact, it's insisting he have the unasked power.

On July 25, 1946 when Congress passed a bill that scuttled the OPA, Mr. Truman said he signed it into law with "reluctance."

Then, when OPA folded and prices began their zooming climb, Mr. Truman began to worry about a bust a-coming.

On Nov. 17, 1947 he asked Congress for stand-by power to impose price ceilings and rationing, when and if he thought necessary. Nothing happened.

He asked again on July 27, 1948. Again nothing happened. Congress happily shouted him down.

Once more he asked on Jan. 7, 1949. Again a congressional cold-shoulder. He renewed the request in February of 1949.

But in the spring of that year the economy began to show signs of sagging. It scared the country. Prices began to drop a bit.

Eventually, the economy began to recover and strode forward a bit. But after this leveling off, Mr. Truman didn't ask for the stand-by controls on prices and rationing again.

He did ask, though, as late as Jan. 6, 1950 for stand-by power to control credit. He was a little worried about the way Americans were spending their money through installment-buying.

Then this summer came the crisis in Korea and the realization that this country had to go into a big re-arming program, with the government spending far more billions than it had thought of a few months ago.

So, Mr. Truman asked Congress for higher taxes, to pay for the re-arming and cut down some of the Americans' spending power, and he asked for control over buying-on-time.

He didn't ask for controls—direct or stand-by—on prices or rationing. But suddenly prices began to shoot up.

Around the country people began to worry that unless the government had power to stop and control prices, the whole economy might end in the ashcan.

Enlarged Study in Religion Is Urged

TORONTO — (AP) — Christian education should be more than "so-called classes in religion," Dr. Gonzalo Boez Camargo of Mexico says.

Dr. Boez-Camargo, secretary for Christian literature of the committee of co-operation in Latin America, called for a "total, well-planned, well-balanced" program in the home, church, school, community and nation, he said, it should provide for all the child's stages of development and all his expanding relationships with persons, self and God.

Cotton Harvest Labor Plentiful

AUSTIN — (AP) — No shortage of labor for the cotton harvest is expected this year, the Texas Employment Commission said Saturday.

Henry LeBlanc, TEC's farm placement chief, said workers are now well ahead of the cotton harvest with surpluses building up in the Victoria, El Campo and Wharton areas.

Farmers in those areas were urged to make arrangements now with the crews for housing and work to prevent shortages from developing in a week or ten days when the crews are needed.

An animal is the perfect "machine" for harvesting grass. Pastures are converted into feed with no labor and at little cost. Agricultural experts say grass silage and good quality hay are next best to pasture in feeding value.

Blast, Fire Raze Palestine Country Club Headquarters

PALESTINE, Texas — (AP) — An explosion ripped the Meadowbrook Country Club house here Saturday and the fire that followed destroyed the big building.

No one was in the house at the time of the blast. Mrs. O. L. Miles, wife of the club grounds keeper, said she heard the blast from her home several hundred feet away. She said the explosion had knocked out her telephone.

He said he'd accept the authority if given him. But he still hasn't asked for it, not since back in 1949.

N. D. Crutchfield, a member of the club, arrived just after the blast and drove to get help. A. E. Sutton, club secretary, said escaping gas apparently caused the explosion.

The loss was only partially covered by insurance. Furnishings of the building and equipment of scores of golfers were valued at around $25,000.

Theo S. Maffitt, the architect who designed the club house, said it could not be replaced for $50,000.

Denton County's Old Maids Due Long-Deserved Tribute

DENTON — (AP) — Thanks to one's frankness, Denton County old maids are going to be honored Tuesday evening. Miss Dorothy Babb, instructor at North Texas State College here, announced recently she thought there should be an "old maid's day" and that it should be observed by giving gifts to her mouth — and on front pages of newspapers — before gifts began arriving. Elaborate garters from an exclusive Dallas store, a watermelon from a former student, a free pressing and cleaning certificate from another. But the best is yet to come.

The Denton Record-Chronicle is publishing coupons which old maids can fill out to attend a country club tea to be given Tuesday. There'll also be a stage and picture show. Also, candy, popcorn and soft drinks. All free. Even corsages. A special section in the center

Motor Vehicle Output Boosted

DETROIT — (AP) — Motor Vehicle output in the United States last week totalled 184,025 units, of the theater stage will be roped off for the old maids.

Ward's Automotive reports estimated today. The agency counted 183,294 cars and 30,731 trucks in this estimate. The previous week the factories built 145,056 cars and 25,113 trucks. In the same week last year output consisted of 118,223 cars and 21,640 trucks.

Migrant Labor Conditions Near Slavery Are Feared

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Migrant labor conditions "little if any better than slavery" are foreseen by Msgr. Thomas J. O'Dwyer of the Los Angeles Catholic archdiocese unless legislation and farm labor unions come to the defense of the itinerant worker. "Unless these workers have genuine representation," the Very Rev. O'Dwyer told the president's committee on migrant workers, "they shall continue to be a rootless and itinerant proletariat, their lot akin to that of similar workers in the Soviet Union. They shall constitute a breeding ground for Marxist agitators, out to exploit a legitimate dissatisfaction."

Father O'Dwyer recommended legislation making it unlawful for mothers to be employed in fields, assuring adequate private or public housing, and blocking any conspiracy to create labor surpluses. He also urged provision for religious services in labor camps. The committee, winding up its three-day hearing in Los Angeles, has heard widely divergent testimony on the problems of the migrant worker. A cotton grower in California's San Joaquin Valley, L. W. Frick, told the members that farmers have been "too good" to migrant labor. He recalled the depression years when, he said, "reliefers would not get off the dole to do honest labor," and said that "this is the type that is causing all our trouble, the type causing you people to be here on this investigation."

Rene Cardenas, a Redwood City, Calif., labor contractor, testified that growers often enter into collusion with unscrupulous contractors to evade public laws concerning the welfare of migrant laborers. Cardenas told the president's committee there are 2,700 unlicensed labor contractors in California and only 1,300 licensed contractors. Most of the unlicensed contractors deal in wet-backs (alien Mexicans).

Don W. McColly, director of the agricultural department of the California Chamber of Commerce, told the committee he feels that California farmers have done an outstanding job in the San Joaquin Valley. McColly expressed a fear that 1951 might see a repetition of disastrous crop losses such as occurred in 1942, because of a tight labor market. He maintained that a supplemental labor supply, such as the Mexican national, must be kept available for western farming. The president's committee goes to Ft. Collins, Colo., this week to resume its open hearings.

Spatz Thanks Air Power for Foothold

DALLAS — (AP) — Gen. Carl Spatz says chief credit for the foothold United Nations forces still have in Korea can be given American airpower. The retired chief of the U.S. Air Force came here to attend a southwestern Civil Air Patrol meeting. Spatz was asked if he favored using atomic bombs in Korea if the military situation should get worse. "No," he said, shaking his head vigorously. "There is no military target for an A-bomb in Korea and the repercussions would be too serious to warrant it."

Pampans Split Sox Series, Back Home at 8:30 Tonight

ABILENE—The Pampa Oilers wound up their road trip on a successful note here last night when they combined a heavy hitting plate attack with the masterful hurling of bespectacled Earl Doud for an easy 12-2 victory over the Abilene Blue Sox to earn a split in the four-game Abilene series.

The Oilers return home tonight for the opener of a five-day home stand against the Albuquerque Dukes beginning at 8:30. The Dukes will be here through Tuesday night before the Lubbock Hubbers move in for a crucial two-day stand Wednesday.

Last night, Doud worked beautifully for the Oilers and had a shutout going until the bottom half of the ninth inning. He whiffed eleven, walked only one and scattered seven hits effectively. The hosts managed only three extra base blows off his rightside offerings.

Leading the Oiler stickwork was Big Don Rickelson and Deck Woldt. Rickelson pumpeared four hits in five trips, including a home run, his 31st of the year, and Woldt punched three hits in four appearances, including a four-tripper in the sixth.

Oilers Divide Twin Bill With Abilene Soxers

ABILENE — After being silenced in the first game of a bargain bill, the big Pampa Oiler broke loose to pound a pair of Blue Sox hurlers for an easy 15-3 victory and earn a split in the evening's two game performance here Friday night. The Abilene Soxers used the baffling slants of Freddie Rodriguez to capture the first game, 5-3.

The Blue Sox also ruined Roy Parker's attempt at his 23rd victory in the curtain raiser. Parker and Rodriguez duelled neck-and-neck for five innings before Walt Sessi unloaded a double in the sixth inning with the bases loaded. Sessi had previously caused Parker's misery in the fifth when he homered with Stubby Greer on base to tie the count for the fourth time.

In the nightcap, extra base blows by Johnny Jeandron, Homer Matney, Mack Hyde, Dick Kasper and Deck Woldt sparked the Pampa attack. The 11-hit barrage settled around the ears of two rookies — E. H. "Willey" Moore and Glenn Jones. Jeandron hit a homer to open the fourth and Matney's triple continued the Oiler attack to produce a Pampa lead that was never threatened.

Pampa added five more runs in the sixth and stacked up four in the seventh for additional security. The Blue Sox staged a mild uprising in the last of the seventh that netted two runs off two hits, a walk, an error, and a hit batsman.

Mack Hyde, big righthander, was in charge of Sox willow-wings all the way, and had it not been for his streak of wildness in the seventh, would have chalked up nothing short of a masterpiece. He was never in trouble, defensively, and added to his own cause with two hits.

Rickelson Is Star of Week With Santiago

They definitely come in pairs these weeks. Last week it was the same story, except the players are not the same! Just the same situation.

Ballooning in the "Star of the Day" competition during the week ending August 5 and inaugurating the final month of "star" contesting (the August and September voting is treated as one month since only a portion of September is involved in the playing schedule) duplicated last week's voting by turning in two "winners" as Star of the Week when players Don Rickelson of the Oilers and Pedro R. Santiago of the Lobos elected an equal number of tallies.

To support his election Rickelson closed the ballot boxes in his precinct by this climactic performance: Against Berger on July 30 Don hammered out three home runs, gathered in another hit, drove in six runs and played errorless baseball. That is "stellar" performance!

Giving proof of his star playing, Santiago rounded out a busy week and came forth with a clincher performance when he tore into the Pioneers July 31, with a triple, two singles, three RBIs and then matching his stick work with outstanding play field, one catch bordering on the sensational. That's Pedro!

Following closely with better-than-average performance for the week were Bob Zollicoffer of the Gold Sox, Jim Reynolds of the Lobos, Johnny Jeandron of the Oilers, Len Ruyle of the Gassers, and Rudy Lorna of the same!

edged Sherman-Denison, 6-5; Temple nudged Texarkana, 12-11, and Waco beat Austin, 8-1.

A home run by Hack Miller tied the score for Wichita Falls in the ninth, then moments later the Cecil McClung-doubled Carl Powis across with the winning run. A three run homer by Powis had put the Spudgers back in the ball game.

Homer by Ashley Nudges Hubbers in Battle for 2nd

LAMESA — In Bill Ashley's 17th home run of the season with one man on base in the eighth, Friday night, he helped Lamesa's Lobos to a 5-4 victory over the Lubbock Hubbers before 1,285 fans.

Jim Reynolds outpitched Bob Chodler as the Lobos, striving to strengthen their grip on second place in the WT-NM league standings, took their second straight win over the Hubbs.

Lamesa now leads Lubbock by two and one-half games in the battle for the runnerup slot.

Reynolds gained his eighth triumph of the year by fashioning the methodical 10-hit mound performance. Wiley Moore's double was the only extra-base hit given up by the lanky Arkansas righthander, who struck out nine men without issuing a walk.

Chodler suffered his 11th setback as he gave up 11 hits, including a pair of triples by Bill Capps and Ashley's game-winning home run.

Lamesa won by overcoming an early 3-0 Hubber lead.

LUBBOCK — In a game that was a foregone conclusion, the Oilers won their 11th straight game over the Blue Sox.

LAMESA: Reynolds, 10 hits, 2 runs, 2 RBIs; Ashley, 1 hit, 1 run, 1 RBI; Moore, 1 hit, 1 run, 1 RBI; Capps, 1 hit, 1 run, 1 RBI; ...

The Lubbock Hubbers overcame the runner-up Lamesa Lobos 7-6 last night in Lamesa to shove the Lobos four and one-half games behind the leading Pampa Oilers.

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO — 49 — Texan Henry Hanson galloped ahead by three strokes Saturday in the stampede of money-hungry pros for the $11,000 Tam O'Shanter pro golf meet's first prize.

The 29-year-old Dallas, whose winter home is Dallas, forged a solid third round of 66-35 71 in the "world" championship for a 54-hole count of 210. This was six under par for the regulation 36-hole tournament, trampled yesterday by some 10,000 spectators.

Entering tomorrow's final round, with second place good for $5,000, Hanson — also the halfway leader — had seven tough, stretch-driving colleagues to contend with.

Three taps behind him at 213 were Chick Harbert, the long-limbed Detroit who whipped into a challenge with 33-34-67, and Chandler Harper, the 1950 national PGA Champion from Portsmouth, Va., who posted a brace of 36's.

Harbert's 67 was the lowest of the "world" meet thus far and came from accurate approach- and bullseye putting for 9, 4, 8, and 10 foot birdies.

Grouped at 214 were these dangerous challengers: Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif., with a third round 24-56-70; Dutch Harrison, now registering from nearby St. Andrews golf club, the same as Hanson, with 22-37-69; Bobby Locke, the South African who won the Tam O'Shanter American this week, with 36-35-71; 28-year-old Dick Mayer of New Greenwich, Conn., a pro for only one year, with 34-38-72, and Clay Heatner of Charlotte, N. C., with 36-35-71.

The Cleveland Browns have 14 players who were members of the first Browns' team, formed in 1946.

DiMaggio Sent To Maglines By Yank Pilot

NEW YORK — For the first time in his major league career Joe DiMaggio, star New York Yankee outfielder, was benched Friday night.

Let's Talk Things Over With Gabby Garrison

The 1950 football season should be one of the most interesting campaigns in history. Evidence of the fact was offered Friday night when the collegiate All-Stars smashed a powerful professional Philadelphia Eagle team 17-7 in a stunning upset. The action which actually opened the 1950-51 grid year, also serves as a reminder that in this sport, an underestimation of power can be fatal. Differing from baseball, in gridiron action it is seldom that two teams square off at each other twice in one year, so one mistake can spoil a year. On the local scene, it is apparently the same old story as in past years. The Amarillo Sandies and Harvesters have already been picked as the teams to watch. The only other two members of District 1-AA have once again been excluded from all title contention, although several grim reminders of past years serve as warnings that overconfidence is as dangerous as any triple-threat halfback in the state. Remember 1947? Our Harvesters overwhelmed Plainview with a 19-0 score for over three quarters of the game, then let-up for a few minutes and lost the game, 20-19. Need I say more? But the age-old process of selecting Pampa and Amarillo as the District 1-AA favorites is becoming slightly shop-worn. Unless either Plainview or Borger turns up with a miracle team within the next twenty years, it will probably be a long time that way. Amarillo will also probably maintain their District superiority, although in more recent years, their supremacy has been well challenged. The situation, is also the same in many other districts across the state. The grid picture is the same year after year, with only one or two teams figuring in the final analysis. Some fans are getting mighty tired of being the underdog, especially when they realize that they've scarcely a chance to upset some larger school who happens to dominate their area. This, however, is not the case in our instance, since local enthusiasts get about as much fun anticipating an Amarillo defeat as the usual fan gets in winning. But, the picture is reaching an advanced stage where people are beginning to clamor for a new classification which would separate the larger schools from their smaller rivals. This, many believe, would solve the whole problem. If such a change is initiated, however, the smaller cities are going to find things quite different, in several respects. The main difference will come from the financial point of view.

Golfers Sharpen for Top o' Texas

Annual Tourney Scheduled At Pampa CC in September

Greens Gossip

By HOGAN O'SNEAD The Panhandle Men's Golf Association will hold its last meeting Sunday, August 20, at the Ross Rogers Golf Course in Amarillo. All players who can make the trip are asked to contact Johnny Austin before that time. The locals are now fourteen strokes behind Phillips in the race for the first place trophy, and should pick up some of the margin in this Amarillo gathering. Hope to see a lot of Pampa people over at Sandie town on the 20th.

RIDE 'EM JOHNNY: Johnny Austin, hard working Pampa pro, was found hard at work last week, moving the fairways at the Pampa Country Club. During the hard rains last month, the weeds and grass almost got out of hand. But, with the sun once again shining, Austin mounted his tractor and worked many long hours in preparing his course for the coming Top o' Texas tournament. (News Photo and Engraving)

Pro Eagles Up at By College Stars

Amarillo Trades Players With Lubbock Hubbers

AMARILLO — (AP) — Pete Knapp, owner of the Amarillo Gold Sox who wants it understood that "we still have not given up" in regard to his club's chances of reaching the first division, announced a series of surprise player deals here Friday night. They include the sale of Pitcher Ray Faust, an All-Star selection for the past two games whose record now is 10-16, to Lubbock and the trade of Pitcher Metz LaFollette (11-8) to the same club in exchange for third baseman Nelson Davis.

Choo Choo Justice Is Named Most Valuable of All-Stars

CHICAGO — (AP) — Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice, shifty sprinter who sparked the college football All-Stars to a spectacular 17-7 triumph over the Philadelphia Eagles, was named the most valuable All-Star player Saturday. The flashy North Carolina half-back was selected by newspapermen who covered the game last night in Soldier Field. He outdistanced his nearest rival, Eddie LeBaron, College of Pacific quarterback, by a two to one margin. Six other All-Stars, all line-men, received votes.

Meadowland Contest Is Won by Volcanic

CHICAGO — (AP) — Volcanic, one of the top turf course runners in the country, exploded a winning gallop in the $27,425 Meadowland Handicap before 19,485 fans at Washington Park yesterday. Young Jockey Is Killed in Race As Horse Falls

SAN DIEGO — (AP) — Death struck down apprentice jockey Johnny Glisson, 17, of Winnebago, S.C., yesterday at the Del Mar race track, where he started his riding career and ended it—all in less than a year. Glisson, younger brother of national riding champion G. O. G. Glisson, was fatally injured during the running of the fourth race on the same track where he rode his first winner of his career last Aug. 19. The young rider was aboard Mr. and Mrs. Jack Carava's Broxy yesterday when the horse snapped his left foreleg and fell approaching the first turn. Young Glisson was hurled to the infield, his head apparently striking the rail as he went down. He never regained consciousness and died soon after arrival at a hospital of a fracture of the skull and a fractured cervical vertebra in the neck. On Sundays during the last year he traveled to Agua Caliente, Mex., where he rapidly became the leading reinsman with 12 victories in some six days.

Aussies Suffer Net Shock As Frank Sedgman Beaten

RYE, N.Y. — (AP) — The Australians suffered a shock when their youthful Davis Cup tennis ace, Frank Sedgman, took a five set beating from Sweden's Lennart Bergelin in the opening match of the inter-zone finals Friday, but they appear not to have too much to worry about. When the challenge round opens against America on August 25 at Forest Hills, the Swedes have only one Bergelin. Torsten Johansson, the No. 2 player for Sweden, was far out of his depth when he faced John Bromwich, the "old master" in the second match yesterday and went down, 6-2, 6-3, 6-0. This, coming after Bergelin's thrilling 2-6, 6-2, 7-5, 1-6, 6-3 upset of Sedgman, cooled off the Swedes' supporters. Bromwich and Sedgman were 5-2 favorites to defeat Bergelin and Sven Davidsson in Saturday's four-man event. And if Johansson plays no better singles on today he will stand very little chance against Sedgman. Before the turn of the century the major leagues had five short-stops who threw left handed.

Paper Claims Arkansas Due H-Bomb Plant

LITTLE ROCK — (AP) — The Arkansas Gazette says in a copy-righted story that "Arkansas will get the new $200,000,000 hydrogen bomb plant."

In a story in its Saturday morning edition, the Gazette said "that was the tentative decision of Washington officialdom yesterday (Friday) when it came to the conclusion that only Arkansas has all the necessary elements for the plant."

"These are power, seclusion, large idle acreage, fuel and labor supply," the newspaper said.

The newspaper didn't specify the authority for its statement that Arkansas had been tentatively selected for the plant.

The plant has been sought by Arkansans for the mountainous northwest or north-central section of the state.

"Government leaders have been assured that more power is now available and will be available quicker and cheaper for the mammoth project in Arkansas than anywhere else."

"These assurances were delivered last week by Congressman Mills and Trimble of Arkansas to President Truman and were corroborated by C. Hamilton Moses, president of Arkansas Power and Light Company, in conferences with officials of the Department of Defense and the munitions board," the paper reported.

Trailer Plane In Test Flight

HAGERSTOWN, Md. — (AP) — A twin-engine flying tractor-trailer has passed its first test. Fairchild Aircraft's XC-120, a plane in two sections, completed a 46-minute test flight and was pronounced "satisfactory in every way."

The removable cargo compartment has a 2,700-cubic-foot capacity. It can hold up to 20,000 pounds of material. But it also can be fitted out as a hospital unit, machine shop, communications center, flying control tower or an office.

It's one of the Air Force's latest revolutions in aircraft design. Conceived by a Fairchild engineer and built at the plant here, the XC-120 has a detachable fuselage.

Old Tom Cat Gets Motherly Instinct

TYLER — (AP) — An old tom cat has ceased his nocturnal wanderings and is staying at home and mothering three orphan kittens at the Bobbie Mass home near Tyler.

The mother cat was accidentally killed three weeks ago, and the sympathetic male immediately took over duties of rearing the young ones.

Old Tom gives them catbaths daily, guides them to saucers of milk, and otherwise cares for the little ones as dutifully and tenderly as the real mother, Mass said.

Boat Races Slated On Lake at Austin; Over 100 to Enter

AUSTIN — (AP) — Little boats and big boats will churn Lake Travis waters near here next weekend in a merry chase for $1,400 in prizes and trophies.

Sponsors expect the 100-mile marathon Aug. 20 to draw 150 or more entries in seven classifications.

Boat clubs and racing associations from seven states—Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, New Mexico, Kansas, Missouri, and Colorado — are expected to send entries. Group entries are expected from Houston, Fort Arthur, Corpus Christi, San Antonio and Dallas.

L. A. (Doc) Burditt, rules and registration chairman, described the race as comparable only to the annual Albany-New York outboard marathon.

Race classifications range from the fishermen's race with 11-foot boats powered by outboard motors with a 12.4 cubic-inch piston displacement and about 7.5 horsepower to the giant 50-horsepower motors in Class F.

The race starter will drop the white flag in the opening race shortly after 10 a. m. A new race will be started every 10 minutes until all seven classes are on the 100-mile course. The course will run downlake for 30 miles, back past the starting point, on uplake for 20 miles and then back to the finish line where the race began.

Racing officials estimated it would take three to four hours to cover the course.

Funds Short on Public Checks

AUSTIN — (AP) — Public assistance checks went to 233,340 recipients this month still short of their full authorized grants because of insufficient funds.

The blind were sent 6,549 checks, averaging $38.97, or short 80 cents. Total was $249,236.

Aid for dependent children went to 19,540 families representing 64,909 children. Family payments averaged $43.70, reduced 14 percent.

Death Is Caused By Failing Lights

BROWNWOOD — (AP) — Daniel F. Freeland, 45, Cisco, was killed Friday when the lights on a car driven by his brother, Charlie Houston Freeland, 48, Cisco, suddenly went out and the car left the road.

The Freelands and Fred Tarver, 56, Cisco, were enroute to San Antonio where the trio hoped to find contracts for Tarver's pest-nut thrasher.

Daniel Freeland and Fred Tarver were injured but not seriously.

FIRST OF THE FINE CARS IN VALUE

BIG MOMENT- with a Double Impact

It's a big moment when any new car rolls up to your door and you start out fresh and spanking bright.

Think, then, what it's going to mean when that new car is a ROADMASTER like this one pictured here.

You'll swing wide the door and slide into a car that's truly fine — and looks it.

You'll put foot to treadle and touch off the might of a great, 152-horsepower Fireball straight-eight that's ready to master any road — or anything it meets there.

You'll have the silken magic of Dynaflo Drive to simplify your driving, ease your way. A handsome flexible steering wheel, automatic windshield washers, soft Foamtex cushions, and many other items that are "extras" elsewhere are standard equipment here.

But even while you enjoy all that, you've a still deeper satisfaction enriching your pleasure.

For here you have not only a fine car, but a sound and frugal investment as well.

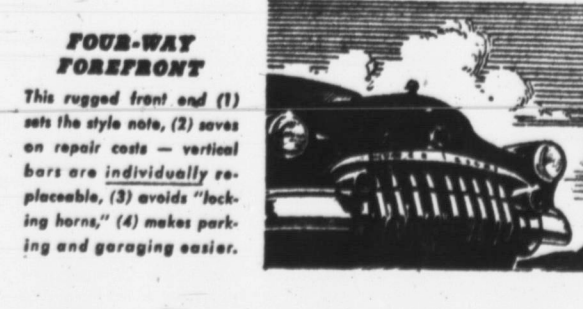

You have paid less per pound than any comparable car costs — and automotive men will tell you price per pound is the soundest measure there is of solid, thoroughgoing merit.

You've bought quality — top quality — all the fine things a fine car should provide. But you haven't spent a penny more than a fine car need cost.

And that can mean a lot. For instance —

Drop in on your Buick dealer. Try out a ROADMASTER. Match it, feature by feature and point by point, with any other fine car on the road.

Then get the price. You may well find that you can get not only a new ROADMASTER for the sum you had in mind — but maybe a new fur coat for your wife as well!

Same Song, Second Verse--

Late Thursday afternoon Pampa had another accident on the Letois highway. And once again the morbid crew of siren-chasers were right on the red light as the ambulance as it roared through town.

Fortunately only one ambulance was needed to meet the emergency. But had several runs been made necessary it would have been another terrific job for the ambulance drivers to thread their way through the traffic.

Even at that, the ambulance driver had a tough time getting back from the accident. The siren was blaring and the red light on the front of the vehicle was flashing but the siren-chasers refused to yield the right-of-way until the driver finally took the middle of the road.

Perhaps many people don't realize the courteous way that should be extended to an emergency vehicle, whether it be an ambulance, fire truck or police car. When that siren is heard or the flashing red light seen, pull off the highway or to the curb, give the right of way to the driver.

If you are sitting in town, at a stoplight, and you see or hear the emergency vehicle coming, make a right-hand turn to get out of the way if necessary. It may cause you to go around the block, but it may also save you from being in an accident.

The emergency vehicles don't use their flashing lights and wailing sirens unless there is real emergency. But that wailing siren doesn't mean that every Tom, Dick and Harry should jump in his car and start getting in on the chase.

The most dangerous thing a driver can do to himself is to start chasing the ambulance. The high speed necessary for the emergency vehicle tends to affect the driver and cause him to drive more recklessly than usual.

So once again, let us make this plea to the morbid populace that chases the ambulance, fire engines and squad cars.

Washington.....by Peter Edson

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — With centage, if a poll were taken to predict soon, the heat will be on again to get a Universal Military Training bill through Congress.

As the planter, Congress understands now, the peacetime draft idea will be changed. And with the 18-year-old boys' issue being shoved to the front, it's important to know what it involves.

The new legislation that has been drafted to put UMT into effect is designed to overcome most of the objections that have been raised to it in the past.

It starts off with the declaration that every man in the United States over the age of 17 is obligated to undergo military training to protect it in time of emergency.

A National Security Training Corps would be created. Each trainee would be paid $30 a month, plus transportation, food, clothing, equipment and medical care. Dependency allowances would also be paid at the rate of $50 a month for one dependent, $65 a month for two or more dependents.

On reaching the age of 17, every U. S. male would be required to register with his local Selective Service Board. These local boards could grant deferments. If a registrant was in high school, he could be deferred until his graduation. But no deferments could be granted beyond age 28.

Other deferments could be granted for extreme hardship, physical or mental disability. Each registrant would be given a choice of taking Army, Navy or Air Force training within quotas. Conscientious objectors would be given optional non-combatant training. No one would be allowed to furnish a substitute nor buy an exemption from training.

Fair Enough - Pegler

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — The New York Herald Tribune's partiality to books favoring persons accused of being Communists or of following the Communist line continues to fascinate several of us anti-Communist specialists. I refer immediately to the H-T's nip-ups over Owen Lattimore's defense called "ordeal by slander" but the others have been hollered up in recent years while books exposing and opposing political perfidy and the Roosevelt party and the Marxists have been either ignored or hollered down.

Lattimore's book is a self-serving outcry by a man who seems to me to be seriously compromised by facts outside the scope of the Senate investigation. I reject all the material adduced by Senator McCarthy. I still can't dismiss the facts that Lattimore bought an interest in a house in Vermont from Bill Stevenson, the so-called explorer, who is cited so many times in the report.

Un-American Activities and sold to a man and woman who were described by McCarthy on the Senate floor as persons who had been official candidates of the Communist party for public office. And all this happened in a healthy in which a classic cell of some of the most notorious Communists in the country has been turned up.

I am loath to convict anyone of guilt by association offhand. Yet I have bought and sold property and I am confident that none of the persons that I dealt with ever was perjured by any of the committees or ever ran for office as a Communist. I don't say that I haven't been able to report, often verbally, and I have had a right to wonder how the level of Lattimore's case. I keep asking myself why the H-T didn't try to work some of the good reporters who used to be typical H-T men and women to get the real story on Lattimore.

Why leave it to book reviewers with political commitments and motives to decide arbitrarily that Lattimore got a raw deal when real reporters might come in with facts?

I refer back to a Supply review of a book by Mark Gayn which dominated page 2 of the H-T's Sunday book layout on Nov. 28, 1948. Mark Gayn is one of those who were punched in the Americas case which touched off Senator Joe McCarthy's explosive attack on the Communist Party. Lattimore, Gayn was not indicted. He was employed at the time by Marshall Field's Chicago Sun, which was a pale pink version of Field's New York Times called Field's Sun. Through an old friend of the Communist Party, Lattimore, Gayn was invited with a "left-wing bias" to pinch in the Americas case which involved the theft of secret government documents. Field's New York lawyer, Louis Weiss, was down to Washington to get some facts for Mr. Gayn that Lattimore is all right. A lawyer has a right to practice law, even a lawyer who is the brother of Carol Weiss King, the lawyer for Harry Truman.

Is Dr. Koch Right?

By DAVID BAXTER

(PART 2) Continuing our story of Mrs. Mary Hall, who was supposed to die of cancer in a month but underwent Koch therapy and is alive today to tell about it, she recounts:

"On Jan. 28, 1950, I returned for another examination by fluoroscopy and radiographs. The X-ray plates revealed that the center of the cancer mass was gone with only the shell still visible. The doctors were evidently amazed. They prodded, pinched and probed. 'Does this hurt?' 'Does that cause pain?'"

"No it doesn't. Should it?' I inquired soothingly. Oct. 4, 1949 a blood count of 34 minutes was found as a result of hemorrhages caused by cancer of the stomach. Oct. 25, 1949, one day after the administration of Koch Glycolide, my blood count was recorded at 67. Nov. 25, 1949, one month later, my blood count was recorded at 50. Jan. 31, 1950 I was discharged with a clean bill of health. The doctor's words were, 'Well, I suppose we'll have to let you go.' As I had supposed, he knew all along about Koch therapy but lacked faith and did not prescribe it. . . . We are eternally grateful to Dr. Koch. . . . In dispensing the Koch treatment, the Christian Medical Research League is the position of selling five dollar gold pieces for twenty-five cents."

It is to be noted that in almost every cure effected by the treatment, the doctor who gave it wanted his name withheld. The reason for that was that Dr. Koch happened to be a devout member of the Christian Medical Research League, a national organization of laymen's national group. He was—and is—a strong individualist and refused to play ball with the recently deposed Dr. Morris Fishbein, whose iron handed policies in the American Medical Association made him a feared man. His enmity could ruin the career of any medical man who defied him—and he almost certainly would afford to do so.

"Fishbein called 'Medical Mussolini' is one of the best on the market. Furthermore, public acceptance of Koch therapy would quickly put an end to the rich racket of shaking the frightened middle class over with fear for money to find a cure. With Fishbein's undying hatred turned on Koch, no doctor who valued his standing in the American Medical Association could afford to associate with Koch or administer the treatment. A few who tried it were ruthlessly persecuted, as I have evidence of.

Dr. William J. Hal, Research Director of the Dow Chemical Co., which employs some of the country's outstanding scientists, says 'Dr. Koch is a modern Pasteur,' while the late Dr. Albert L. Wahl conducted intensive research to cure his dying sister of lymphosarcoma. And this, remember, after he had bitterly forbidden the use of such therapy for her. Why? Because the A.M.A. had told him it was quackery. Dr. Wahl became one of Koch's fiercest champions.

Cus Zach of Enlewood, N. J., says the A.M.A. told him the therapy consisted only of distilled water. Koch is a great medical man and Dr. Wahl comes right along and gives it the lie. Then, A.M.A. literature also says patients have died of the treatment. Ever hear of anyone dying from distilled water? Zach says he didn't know who to believe but he was dying of Hodgkin's disease one of the deadliest forms of cancer, so he decided to find out whether the therapy was 'distilled water, deadly poison or hokus pokus.' In spite of the denunciations of Walter Winchell, who raises money for the 'approved' Damon Runyon Cancer Research Foundation, Zach took the 'shot' and diet and says he's completely recovered now. He remarks that while it cost the average cancer patient $6000 to die, it cost him $100 to get well.

One anti-Koch committee reported that of 56 cancer patients of Koch of whom it was able to obtain data, 21 died. So far as I know, the doctor has never claimed to have a cure-all. But if 21 died, what happened to the remaining 35? If they didn't die, what cured them? Another A.M.A.-Fishbein apologist complains that Koch was only a year out of medical college when he made his first cure. Well, wasn't Edison a mere outcast when he invented the electric light? Most of these arguments don't seem to hold much water. I've looked over hundreds of them, pro and con, and I still come up with one conclusion—many people have been cured of diseases ranging from cancer to L.b. by the use of Koch therapy. If it's distilled water, then distilled water cures gets results.

Says Mrs. Fred Bates of Belleview, Florida: 'I learned of the Koch Treatment and my boy of 13 is well on the road to recovery from the dread disease Leukemia. Dr. Balder of Tampa treated Tommy. It has been my pleasure to circulate copies of literature among persons who were given up to die. Some have taken the Koch treatment and are recovering. Mr. Bates and I will be forever thankful.'

You just can't laugh off stuff like that. And you can't laugh off the fact that over 3000 doctors in the U. S. and Canada are now users of the treatment. They must not think Koch is a quack. His speech before the Quebec College of Physicians and Surgeons doesn't sound like it, either. Dr. Wendell

RUSSIAN PROPAGANDA

news behind the news

Once each week this veteran Washington correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray-Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

By RAY TUCKER WASHINGTON — "Why don't you put pussyfooting at United Nations meetings," asks C. F. of Charlotte, N. C., "and name Russia as the aggressor in Korea? Why preserve the fiction that it is merely a struggle between two Korean factions. . . . Action has said it is a civil war, and we have no right to intervene."

Answer: Our delegate to the United Nations, Warren Austin, has come pretty close to this in his speech assisting the invaders. The sturdy Vermontor has chafed under the restrictions imposed upon him by President Truman and Secretary Acheson. He realizes that Malik is winning the publicity battle by constantly accusing our role in Korea as "imperialistic."

AFRAID — However, the White House and State are hesitant to single out Moscow for sole responsibility, although Messrs. Truman and Acheson have said as much in private and public remarks. Diplomatically, however, to attribute the attack on South Korea to the Soviet would be tantamount to declaring that a state of war exists. Mr. Truman has refused to regard our intervention as "police action."

Washington's public admission of the facts would, under U.N.'s charter, lead to a demand for Russia's expulsion from the international body, and a resort to sanctions as a penalty for her aggression.

Although U.N. members have shown a willingness to join us in the localized warfare, they would undoubtedly refuse to engage in coercive measures against the Kremlin. They are afraid of national retaliation.

C.F.'s proposal would also shut the door to a possible settlement of the Korean controversy by compromise, inside or outside the U.N. Washington's viewpoint is that "while there's life in the U.N., there is hope."

SKIRMISH — "Will Korea settle anything, even if we drive the invaders back behind the 38th parallel?" is the blunt but significant question from T.M. of Charleston, S.C.

Answer: Yes and no. Idealistically and diplomatically, an American or, if you please, a United Nations triumph will show that the non-Communist nations are willing to fight against Russian aggression that violates its peaceful pledges. It will uphold the lofty principles on which the U.N. was founded.

But, unless Moscow enters into the struggle on a large scale, which is extremely doubtful, it will not demonstrate that the U.S. and the U.N. are strong enough to check outbreaks elsewhere, or a general Soviet onslaught against Western Europe, the Balkans, the Middle East or Asia.

In a sense, it will be an empty victory. For Korea is relatively unimportant in the approaching struggle between Russia and the free nations. It is only a minor test and skirmish. And, unless we can back up our guarantees and principles with superior might, the U.N. declarations of international good will are not worth the paper they are written on.

That is a pessimistic answer. But its virtue is that it is realistic.

EXEMPTION — Many World War II veterans have written to ask whether there is any possibility that, despite their relatively advanced ages (27 to 35) and their possession of dependent children, they might be exempted from military service. G. Hendricks of Bakersfield, California, states: 'I have personally treated hundreds of cases of allergy and infection, as well as numerous cases of tumor and cancer with the Koch treatment and I consider this treatment the outstanding medical discovery of the age.'

Could it be that a greater than Pasteur is here?

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Exclusively Yours: Reason for the doctors, disorganized exit of Warner's Breakthrough location company from Fort Ord was War Department orders. Picture-making and the training of soldiers aren't a ham-and-eggs combination. . . . After all these years, Jimmy Cagney gets the Mae Clarke act himself in "Kiss Tomorrow Goodbye." Barbara Payton hurls a pot of hot coffee and a four-course breakfast at him.

Scottish fans forced Bud Abbott and Lou Costello to break all those fancy resolutions about discarding their old "Who's on first?" standby. It's back in the act at a Glasgow theater. . . . Ginger Rogers' "Illegal Bride" may become "Love, Western Style." Is there anything that isn't going western these days? Clifton Webb? Yup, even Clifton Webb, western as an angel impersonating a cowpuncher in the fantasy, "For Heaven's Sake."

Snappy comeback dept.: Bob Hope, when told Wade Crosby, a character actor, would play a key role in "The Lemon Drop Kid." "This should be a pleasant change." This Crosby is an actor. . . . White and tight sweater her first day at RKO. . . . "When I come to work at Jane Russell's studio, I'm not gonna wear a Mother Hubbard, bub."

William Prince is playing Christian in "Cyano de Bergerac" before rejoining Katherine Hepburn as her Orlando in "As You Like It." I asked Prince about Katie. "Great gal," he said. "She insisted on curling my hair every night before the show."

Katie, I reminded him, has curled hair before. "Yes," he grinned back on the same thought train, "but not with irons."

Faculty faces at the Pasadena Community Playhouse are still glowing over Jose Ferrer's address to the graduating thespians. He told 'em they should get sideline jobs because "you can't make a living acting in the theater." Reaction from the graduates: "They applauded me," said Jose. "I had to take three bows. Usually I take only one."

Jimmy Cagney says he'll put his makeup box in storage around 1957 and enter Connecticut Agricultural College for some Luther Burbank book learning. He told me on the set of "The West Point Story."

"My son, who is almost 11, has decided on agriculture as a career. So I've gotten my college entrance credits together and will go to school with him."

The Ida Lupino-Howard Duff romance is still on, but Duff is now telling pals that he will never marry. That means Ida and any future Avas who may come along. . . . Now it's Wanda Hendrix and Neils Larson—Wanda has gained 12 pounds since her divorce from Audie Murphy. She explains it: "Ballet lessons, diet and a new mental attitude."

Estelita Rodriguez will get the Lupe Velez treatment at Republic. Screen writer Charles Roberts, who ground out Lupe's films at RKO for 13 years, is scripting, "Cuban Fireball" for the peppercorn.

BARBARA BRAVE Barbara Stanwyck is braver than Robert Taylor. The lions that are leaping at Bob in "Gog Wadai" are harmless milk-lappers compared to the big Hollywood cats who arched their backs when Barbara showed up at the Bar of Music flanked by Ginger Rogers' ever-loving Greg.

Explaining Greg on her arm, Stanwyck told me: "Now let's get it all straightened out. Ginger knows all about it. She's working and went to Lsd early. Taylor's in Italy. We all met at dinner and came here. Now let's not make a Hollywood scandal."

Teacher—How old is your grandmother? Pupil—I don't know, but we had her her quite a while.

Ann—Can you explain radio to me, Arthur? Arthur—Well, if you had a very thin dog, reaching from New York to Chicago, and you tied on its tail in New York, it would bark in Chicago. That's telegraphy; and radio is precisely the same only without the dog.

Joe—Thankful! What have I to be thankful for? I can't eat coconuts.

Moe—Then, may I live, he thanked you aren't one of the corduroys.

Judge—What brought you here? Defendant—Two policemen.

Judge—Drunk? Defendant—Yeah. Both of them.

Mother—Did you mail my letter for me, Johnny? Johnny—Yes, Mother, and here's your three cents back.

Mother—How in the world did you mail a letter without a stamp? Johnny—Oh, it was easy. I just slipped it in the box when no one was looking.

Mugs—Yes, I'm living out in the country now. It certainly has its inconveniences.

Mugs—What do you miss most? Mugs—The last train home at night.

Man—Why should I move along? You're letting that fellow over there stay.

Policeman—Well, he's entitled to it, he fire.

Mugs—I was sorry for your wife in church this morning when she had a nose-bleed, but she was wearing a new spinning hat.

Army Denying Casualty Total
Is Concealed

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Army, denying that it has or will conceal from the public the extent of U. S. casualties in Korea, acknowledges that it has given Congress figures larger than those made public at the time.

"Flash figures" which included reports of casualties not confirmed were recently given to a congressional committee, the Army said in a statement. That total was higher than the number of officially confirmed casualties which had been made public, the Army said.

Any reports which include unconfirmed casualties are not made public, the Army said, because it does not want to cause unnecessary anxiety among soldiers' relatives and because it does not want the enemy to get useful information.

The Army issued the explanation, it said, because "there has been much discussion about casualties in Korea."

Senator Bridges (R-NH) said in a speech in his home state last week that casualty figures were "being concealed." He said the nation would be shocked when the truth about U. S. losses was known.

Secret testimony reporting totals of confirmed and unconfirmed casualties was given to a congressional appropriations committee, the Army said, because it wanted Congress to have the latest possible information.

Any such "flash figures," it added, are necessarily larger than the totals which since they include only confirmed casualties have been made public.

"The Army will continue its policy of furnishing to the public as promptly as available the names of casualties when confirmed lists are received by the department of the Army and the next of kin have been notified," the statement said.

"Nothing so far has been hidden from the public and nothing will be hidden from the public in this regard."

The last casualty summary the Army supplied was through Aug. 6. That figure of 2,616 included 153 killed, 1,890 wounded and 873 missing.

Mother, Daughter
Seeking Divorces
From Same Man

NEVADA, Mo. — (AP) — A 20-year-old woman will try again to have annulled her marriage to a man from whom her mother received a divorce.

Mrs. Helen Sexton was granted a divorce from Leo E. Sexton in circuit court Friday. At the same time a petition for annulment filed by Mrs. Sexton's daughter by another marriage, Marge Ann, was dismissed. Attorney for Marge Ann said annulment proceedings would be started again Monday in another circuit.

Both women had borne Sexton a child. The older woman was married to Sexton in 1938 at Stevens, S. D., and they have an 11-year-old daughter, Marge Ann, married Sexton in 1948 at Grantsburg, Wis., and of that union a son, now two years old, was born. The petitions of both mother and daughter alleged that Sexton seduced Marge Ann in June, 1948, and "to cover up his wrong doing, married this 17-year-old girl without first having divorced her mother."

Sexton is a middle-aged part-time laborer and farmer living about 25 miles east of here.

California Orange
Booster to Florida

LAKELAND, Fla. — (AP) — A man who helped make "Sunkist" a proud name for California citrus will turn his talents to Florida this season.

He is Don Francisco, a vice president of the J. Walter Thompson advertising agency of New York.

The Florida Citrus Commission awarded its big advertising contract for the 1950-51 season to the Thompson firm, which promptly said Francisco would handle the commission account.

The commission approved a tentative advertising budget of $2,000,000.

Meat, Milk Strikes Averted in Mexico

MEXICO CITY — (AP) — City officials yesterday headed off at least for two months—strikes which threatened to leave the city without meat or milk.

Dairy employees had threatened to strike today to support a demand for a minimum wage of eight pesos (92 cents U.S.) per day, compared to the present five-peso minimum. Slaughterhouse employees had threatened to strike Aug. 19 to force the management to guarantee a certain amount of work daily.

Municipal officials persuaded both groups to continue working for 60 days while negotiations continue.

Father Is Accused Of Fatal Slapping

NEW YORK — (AP) — A 25-year-old father has been accused of fatally slapping his infant daughter because her crying disturbed him as he watched a television show.

The father, Walter Dorn, was held without bail on homicide charges in felony court pending a hearing Aug. 25.

The child, Deborah, nine months old, was found dead in her crib by her mother, Bernice Dorn, 21, after she returned from her job as a telephone operator. An autopsy disclosed the baby died of a fractured skull.

Assistant District Attorney Harold Birn said Dorn admitted he slapped the child.

Sobbed Mrs. Dorn, "He's always been a good father and a good husband. He's innocent, no matter what anybody says. God moves in strange ways. It might be all for the best."

Cows Replacing

COMMERCE — (AP) — It seems that cows are replacing people in Northeast Texas.

R. A. Rix, head of the agriculture department at East Texas State College, reports that 23 out of 28 Northeast Texas counties lost population between 1940 and 1950 and he believes one reason is that the area has become a livestock raising area instead of a cotton growing section.

Livestock takes less work and fewer farm hands.

Life Savings Sell Cheaply

CHICAGO — (AP) — Adam J. Zabor, a hard working vegetable peeler in a North Side grill, is looking for a customer who paid $3.06 for an order of food Thursday night.

Zabor's life savings of $938 were in the cardboard box in which the order was placed by Zabor's boss.

Zabor, 55, by his simple style of living had saved $938 for the "rainy day" of sickness or old age. His bank was an ordinary cardboard box. In the cranny between the platts in the bottom of the box, Zabor carefully stowed his hoard.

Each night after work Zabor carried the box to his home, and brought it back to the grill with him each day.

On Thursday a well dressed man, about 30, placed a "carry out" order. Owner John Dimas was unable to find any paper bags in which to place the order. But he found an old square cardboard box on a kitchen shelf and placed the food in it.

Ten minutes later Zabor, flushed with excitement, asked Dimas if he had taken the cardboard box. The puzzled owner confirmed Zabor's fears.

"It had my money in it! My savings; $938"; the stricken man moaned.

Zabor and Dimas are hunting the customer — appealing to him in a newspaper advertisement to contact them.

"Important for personal reasons," their ad reads.

Lady Mendl Leaves $1,000,000 Estate

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Lady Elsie De Wolfe Mendl, famed socialite and hostess to the world's celebrities, left an estimated $1,000,000 estate, mostly in stocks and bonds, when she died at age 92 last July 12.

Her will, filed for probate, bequeathed $350,000 to her friend and secretary of 28 years, Mrs. Hilda West Douglas. A charitable organization, the Elsie De Wolfe Foundation, Inc., will receive $100,000.

The remainder of the estate after payment of bequests, will be placed in trust to provide a $10,000 yearly income for her husband, Sir Charles Mendl, 79. Income in excess of that will go to Mrs. Douglas. Upon their deaths, the principal will go to the foundation.

Lady Mendl, a former actress who became a leader of international society, died in Versailles, France, but was a legal resident of Los Angeles County.

Frost May Be Vital Factor In Food Supplies, Prices

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Jack Frost may have a lot to say about next year's supplies and prices of meats, dairy and poultry products.

Current production prospects for feed grains—the raw material for livestock product foods—are quite favorable. But an early frost, the Agriculture Department notes could change all this.

Unusually cool, rainy weather in some heavy corn producing areas during July kept this grain from developing as it should. Consequently, the later planted corn would be subject to damage from freezing weather.

Insects, such as the corn borer and grasshoppers, also pose a serious threat to the crop in some areas, the department reported.

Corn production prospects made virtually no change during July. Forecast at 3,188,000,000 bushels, such a crop would be a little smaller than last year's 3,377,000,000 bushels. But it would be sharply above a production goal of 2,627,000,000 bushels set by the department before the international situation raised needs.

A big reserve of corn from last year assures ample supplies for the current rate of livestock production. But any material cut in size of this year's crop could be expected to influence next year's livestock operations. High feed grain prices could well prevent a desired expansion in some lines.

Nuevo Laredo Plan Presented

MEXICO CITY (AP)—President Miguel Aleman has forwarded to Finance Minister Ramon Beteta for study and action a list of proposed construction works in and near the border city of Nuevo Laredo.

The list was brought to the president by Jesus Vidales Marroquin, head of Nuevo Laredo's municipal improvement board.

The projects include: construction of El Jardin Dam, to irrigate 75,000 acres of land; bridges and culverts on the Anahuac highway; highway to the new Falcon Dam; improvements to the civil hospital; construction of a manual training school and six other schools, and a new customs building.

Reforestation Hits New High in South

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Reforestation reached an all-time record peak in the South during the post winter and spring tree planting season, the Southern Pine Association said.

A survey of forest nurseries operated by 12 states showed total seedling distribution amounted to 212,749,317—an increase of more than 50,000,000 over the previous season.

This commodity has been in the news spotlight because of speculative trading in futures markets, where prices have skyrocketed since the 1949 crop was harvested and sold by farmers. Soybeans are an important source of food fats.

The total volume of crop production this year is expected to be relatively large. The department said that if current prospects are borne out, the volume would be 24 percent above the 1923-32 average and not far below the war and post-war average.

Included would be record crops of soybeans and sugar beets, a near-record crop of grain sorghums, well-above average outputs of corn, oats, rice, sugarcane, cherries and hops, and slightly above average harvests of hay, potatoes, tobacco and apples.

Tourist Guides Seek To Retain Licenses

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A temporary injunction has been granted to keep the government tourist commission from canceling licenses of some hundred tourist guides.

Judge Ignacio Soto Gordoa granted the order while he studies the case.

Santiago Ramirez, spokesman for the guides, said the tourist commission threatened to cancel the licenses because the guides had not taken examinations in history, languages, archaeology and music.

She sauntered down Broadway Saturday, entered a liquor store and smashed $100 worth of bottled whiskey. The she highballed farther down the main stem, dashed into a woman's dress shop and hid under a plik negligee.

The shop owner scolded and shook a finger at Susie, who countered with a nip of the extended finger.

A man ran in and grabbed Susie—a nine-months-old rhesus,

Don't forget that you can use his cuff links if your favorite long sleeved blouse happens to have cuffs. Wish I could figure out a way to make his sports jackets fit, but I guess we'll just have to buy at least one tailored, tweed jacket—it's a must on the fashion list!

NOTICE HOW workmen are building at Baker grade school. Surely are going to be a lot of new classrooms when September rolls around again, and that, by the way, won't be too long now. I see Woodrow Wilson is getting some repair work done, and course up at school they've been painting off and on all summer. Some of the teachers in our school system have been in school at West Texas (Mrs. Marjorie Galt and Herman Jones, to name two), Coach Tipps has studied at Sul Ross. We'll be welcoming these home soon; in fact, some of the schools will be out next week.

DON'T YOU THINK that the Bill Frasers have "brought their kiddos up right?" Really, both Linda and Nicky are darling girls and what gets me is that they are at home in boots and jeans astride a horse or in a ballroom where you see them poised and polished in a prom dress. Last year's Christmas picture of the girls and two boys was one of the most perfect family groups I've ever seen... four very nice smiles.

PANORAMICALLY: Saw somebody having a lot of fun demonstrating a new square dance step to Frank Leder the other afternoon... anyone, you get left behind if you can't talk square dance language with ease. Surely were a lot of dances during the rodeo... even one of the high school sororities sponsored one, which shows how much this craze has caught on... the old and young alike have taken it up... Saw young Price Doster and Harold Rinehart coming from the post office... fast friends as well as business associates... Mrs. Earle Scheig is the friendliest person... so is he... Saw the Paul Carmichaels rodeoing... The Bert Arneys are sporting over travel folders... The Jim Triplehorn's children are awfully cute and friendly little tikes... The grapevine tells me that the Lynn Boyds are thinking about building a new home... And the word is out-of-the-bag that Cary Nation, over at the Railroad Commission, one of the city's most eligible bachelors, has set the date for Aug. 29... but he won't reveal the name of the bride-to-be... one of my close friends informs me of some vandalism that has taken place at the Fairview Cemetery... some people have no scruples whatsoever.

I COULD "WADE" across the Atlantic, and search low and high, get everyone in a panic, and still not find a nicer guy. He's always ready to buy or sell, or talk with a friend on the street. He's pretty busy so far as I can tell, but always friendly to meet.

WHAT IS THE WORLD coming to? Read where a prominent U. S. educator advised that every man, woman and child be taught the use of firearms and how to engage in civil defense and guerrilla warfare. Maybe he's right up to a certain point... but children should be excluded in this training program—they should be set up as instructors in commando tactics! Seems lately there's nothing our kiddoes know better than a fast game of war. They slither on the ground like snakes and zig-zag to dodge the enemy's cap-gun fire. They tear through my old towels and choose the ones with the prettiest applique work to fashion bandages for their wounds; or they dig atomic shelters in a bed of my pet roses! Yes, I think the educator is wrong. Our children today don't have to be taught about war. Most of the six- to eight-year-olds cut teeth on toy guns, and instead of bedtime stories at night they were read letters from their soldier dad. They've even earned the title "war babies." Movies, magazines and toy manufacturers have encouraged kids to want guns as soon as they're old enough to say "pow-wow!" It all kinda makes you long for a different picture of youth—the picture of a freckled-faced lad in patched overalls headed for a creek with a fishin' pole slung over his shoulder.

THIS HAS BEEN the weddingest weekend. Seems like everyone who decided not to marry in June set the date for August. And this weekend had its share of the August weddings. On Friday the Frank Sileots' daughter was married at the Central Baptist, and on the same day (only at different hours) the C. W. Moots' daughter and the Dr. Campbells' daughter shared the spotlight at the First Christian. Betty Kerr, the lovely daughter of the S. W. Kerrs, was married Saturday, and the Hilburn-Mackie wedding took place on the same day. My! I can almost smell those orange blossoms!

NOTICE THAT a friend of ours has announced that she's in the interior decorating business, and I've heard she's so good at that sort of thing that I wonder she hasn't done this long ago. (Haven't got out to see your own lovely decor, Mrs. B., but I'm going to put on a disguise and come knocking at your door sometime.) On decorating, there's a darling little place here with all sorts of luscious fabrics for drapes, slipcovers, etc. The shop itself is a "reconverted" structure that developed into a quaint little place after a minimum of time and paint. Some people just seem to have a flair for color and novelty, but I fear I'm just not one of these, so it's nice to have experts right here among us.

REALLY, I was soooooo flattered to learn that there was a new movie out entitled "PEGGY," but then I got to thinking that this other "PEGGY" could have nothing to do with me, because after all, who in Hollywood has ever heard of PEG O' PAMPA.

By MARY ANNE DUKE

PICKLE-MAKING TIME—Many calls have come to the agent's office concerning the making of cucumber pickles and relishes. One of the main problems is how to keep pickles from shriveling. This is a real problem and one over which we sometimes have little or no control. The variety of cucumbers, the conditions under which they grow and the size when pulled from the vine all have to do with shriveling. Some are hollow, especially if permitted to grow too large before they are pulled from the vine. Too strong a vinegar solution can also cause shriveling. A 40-50 grain (or 4-5 percent acetic acid) vinegar should be used. Nothing less than a 40 grain or 4 percent acetic acid vinegar should be used or pickles will likely spoil.

For sugar pickles, add the sugar gradually in order that the water content of the cucumber can be driven out gradually. Replacing the water with sugar too abruptly will certainly cause the pickles to shrivel.

Here are several pickle and relish recipes frequently requested:

BREAD AND BUTTER PICKLES—25 large cucumbers, 12 onions (white medium), 1-2 cup salt, 1 pint vinegar, 2 cups sugar, 2 tablespoon mustard seed (white), 2 tablespoon ginger, 2 tablespoon turmeric.

Let unpeeled cucumbers stand in water overnight. Then slice cucumbers and onions and place in pan with the salt (no water). Let stand one hour, then rinse off salt, add vinegar, sugar, mustard seed, ginger, and turmeric powder. Boil all ingredients until peel turns yellow (about 40 minutes). Pack pickles solid in sterilized jars. Seal and allow to stand 10 days before using.

DELICIOUS PICKLES—Wash cucumbers, pack into sterilized jars. Solution (sufficient for 3 gallons of pickles in glass jars): 1 gallon vinegar, 1 cup salt, 1 cup sugar, 1-2 pound mustard, dry (work into paste with little of the vinegar).

Heat solution and pour over cucumbers in jars and seal.

PEPPER ONION RELISH—1-2 cup sweet red pepper or pimiento (chopped), 1-2 cup sweet green pepper (chopped), 1 cu ground onions, 2 cus ground cabbage, 1-4 cup sugar, 1 cup vinegar, 1 teaspoon salt.

Wash the vegetables. Remove seed and white membrane from peppers. Cut the core out of the cabbage. Peel onions and cut into fourths. Grind the cabbage and measure 2 cupsful. Grind the red and green peppers separately and measure. Lastly, grind the onions and measure. Place all ground vegetables into a stew pan, add vinegar, sugar, and salt. Bring slowly to the boiling point. Cook for ten minutes. Pour into hot clean sterile jars. Seal immediately—makes 1 1/2 pints.

Miss Naneen Campbell Becomes Bride of D. M. Warren, Jr. In Candlelight Ceremony Read in First Christian Church

In a formal wedding service, read by candlelight at 8 o'clock Friday evening, in the First Christian Church of Pampa, Miss Naneen Campbell, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Campbell, became the bride of David M. Warren, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. David M. Warren of Panhandle.

J. P. Crenshaw, minister of the Francis Avenue Church of Christ, officiated at the double-ring ceremony, as the bridal pair stood before an improvised altar of white gladioli, chrysanthemum and aster arrangements. The aisle was marked with tall white tapered tied with wide satin ribbons and clusters of orange blossoms. In the upper pulpit were numerous candelabra holding lighted candles, with the backdrop of fern and white blossoms. Outlining the altar steps was the white archway with its arrangements of flowers and greenery.

Roman Homen and Johnny Campbell, brother of the bride, who served as ushers, laid the aisle canvas, then lighted the aisle candles.

Tracy Cary, organist, played pre-nuptial selections, including "At Dawning," "Choir de Lune," and "O Promise Me." Marvin Sparks, Panhandle, then sang "Because," accompanied by Mr. Cary.

Miss Campbell, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white Venetian lace and over it she wore a white satin coat fashioned with a scalloped cathedral-length train. The Queen Anne collar terminated at the beginning of the satin covered buttons, and the sleeves of the coat came to points at the wrists. Carrying out the wedding traditions, the bride carried a white lace handkerchief belonging to her mother, and which she had carried at her own wedding. Her "something blue" belonged to her sister, Mrs. C. C. Fenoglio, Jr., of Rankin, and she carried a white Bible belonging to her sister-in-law, Mrs. John Campbell of Pampa, which was also used at her wedding. "Something new" was a strand of knotted cultured pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. On the Bible she carried a bouquet of white stephanotis and baby roses with a shower of white satin streamers tied in love knots. Entering the bouquet was a white orchid.

Miss Suzanne Harbaugh, Canadian, attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a pale orchid net over taffeta floor-length dress, which was fashioned with a full skirt and fitted bodice. A net flare-back short jacket with three-quarter length sleeves was worn over the dress. Miss Harbaugh carried a bouquet of dark orchid gladiolus, asters, and baby mums fashioned in a horseshoe arrangement.

Miss Jane Burr, Houston, and Miss Joan Clay, of Pampa, were attired in identical dresses to Miss Harbaugh's only in a darker shade of orchid.

Miss Barbara Hopper, Bartlesville, Okla., and Miss Pat Miller, of Pampa, wore dresses in a shade darker than Miss Burr's and Miss Clay's, and Miss Arvilla Patterson and Miss Estelle Wheeler, both of Pampa, were dressed in the deepest shade of which was served with cookies and mints, also in the chosen colors of the bride-elect. Mrs. Estelle Wheeler poured punch, W. S. Dixon, George F. Friauf, E. C. Sidwell, D. E. Robinson, Roscoe Pirtle, James Hopkins and Homer Doggett.

The garden was gaily decorated with baskets and vases of flowers on card tables, and on the mantel over the fireplace.

The guests held a contest, "The Love Story of the Flowers," with Mrs. Purviance giving the correct answers.

Miss Carolyn Ford and Miss Dorothy Cramer presented the gifts to the honoree in a wheelbarrow painted in her chosen colors.

FARM HOME—This picture of the Robert Montgomery farm home north of Pampa shows the new trend toward broad, unbroken lawns now being effected by farmers and ranchers in the Panhandle. The windbreak at right makes an excellent protection from summer sand storms and winter snow and cold wind. In addition, the trees give the yard a homey and comfortable look and, in a few years, will provide adequate shade from the hot summer sun.

A GIRL AND HER PETS—Lou Ann Taylor, 8, plays with her dogs on the wide, green lawn at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Taylor, Jr., who live north of Pampa. The Taylors believe in having lots of shrubs and trees, not only for the sake of beauty, but also for the protection of their house during the cold winter months. To enhance the beauty of the lawn, the Taylors plan to move the clothesline to the rear of the house.

Cotton Marketing Experiment Made

BATON ROUGE — (AP) — Marketing of South Louisiana cotton on a grade and staple basis starts this week as an experiment.

Only about ten percent of the South Louisiana cotton crop at present is being classified, compared with 60 to 75 percent of the North Louisiana crop, declared Louis Fontenot, Jr., executive secretary of the Louisiana Market Commission.

without batting an eyelash and simply drew from the stock. Then he discarded his deuce thereby freeing the discard pile. This sensational play was the one really good one made by Lou up to that point. His other plays were brilliant but no guarantee went with them. This was almost guaranteed.

It was a cinch that another six spot would be discarded to Lou soon. Probably the very next round. If not, Lou had one black three for his next discard. Of course, Lou's partner might lose the discard pile, but with only nine cards and should be able to play safe.

Sure enough. The six was discarded at the next round. Lou put down his two remaining sixes and joker-ace-ace, took the discard pile which was finally of worthwhile size and was off to a big winning hand.

Mystery Still Shrouds Man Who Assassinated Trotsky

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ

10 years since Leon Trotsky was assassinated still leave the veil of mystery around his cryptic killer.

Jacques Mornard, if that is his name, is serving a 20-year sentence for the crime. But police are not sure of his name, of his nationality, of the source of the money which enables him to live in a comfortable suite of cells in the federal penitentiary. They have not even established definitely a motive for the killing.

Mornard, now 46, has said he was "disillusioned" with Trotsky and that is why he killed the Russian revolutionary with a mountaineer's axe. Later he said he killed in self-defense. But the 60-year-old Trotsky said before he died that Mornard was a Russian secret police agent. Trotsky had predicted when he sought refuge in Mexico that Soviet secret police would try to kill him.

Trotsky, exiled from Russia after he broke with Stalin, took refuge here. His fourth international, anti-Stalin communism, attracted adherents. Enemies tried to kill him. He lived through a machinegun attack on the house he rented from the Mexican painter Diego Rivera. One of his secretary-guards was abducted and killed.

Mornard had professed great admiration for Trotsky. On the afternoon of Aug. 20, 1940, Mornard obtained an interview. He said he wanted to show him a manuscript. A few minutes later the armed "secretaries" heard a scuffle.

Trotsky, blood streaming down his face, stumbled out of his office. Behind him was Mornard, the mountain axe he had brought with him under his coat.

Trotsky died next day in a hospital. But before his death he whispered to his lawyer that Mornard "most likely" was sent by the Russian secret police, then known as the OGPU.

Mornard denied this, told a variety of stories. He had lived in Mexico City under the name of Frank Jackson. He gave no evidence this was his real name. Then he changed his story. He said he was a Jacques Mornard, born in Iran, the son of a Belgian diplomat. But Belgian diplomats who talked to him said his French did not have a Belgian accent.

At one time police said he had been identified as Salvador Turkoff, a Russian member of a band of immigrant smugglers which operated in San Antonio, Texas.

A panel of psychiatrists, after questioning Mornard for a week, turned in a 1,332-page report to the court. It said he had a mental fixation compelling him to strike other persons, was badly educated, otherwise normal, but not intelligent.

The man has given no evidence Mornard is his real name. But police have not been able to disprove his story. Nor do they know where he gets the money which he has spent freely during the last 10 years. Mornard draws it from a bank account through his lawyer. Mornard says he established the account when he first came to Mexico.

His trial continued for three years, Mornard remaining in the penitentiary all the time. Finally on April 16, 1945, he was sentenced to 19 1/2 years for the assault and six months more for carrying a pistol.

Mornard told his self defense story of the killing during the trial. He said when he showed his manuscript to Trotsky, the co-founder of the Soviet state told him he didn't know how to write. Mornard said he was angered and grabbed Trotsky's sleeve. Then, he said, Trotsky bit his hand and tried to draw a pistol. At that point, Mornard said, he hit Trotsky with the mountain axe.

But a letter found in his pocket of his sentence — he will be eligible for parole. There has been nothing to indicate he will be released within the next five years — or even, in view of what may await him outside the jail, that he wants to be released.

Mornard is now eligible for a presidential pardon available to prisoners whose conduct throughout their sentence has been good. This may be given after half a sentence has been served, and Mornard's sentence counts from the day of his arrest. After another five years — three fourths and similar occasions.

Firecrackers in China are used not only on holidays, but during weddings, funerals, anniversaries, and similar occasions.

Now that he has taken up canasta seriously and is playing as much canasta as bridge, Larceny Lou is really enjoying the game.

His luck has been excellent and his larcenous plays have been succeeding with monotonous regularity. So far his tricky plays have really been bringing home the bacon.

For instance, here is one that worked wonderfully:

Both sides needed ninety. Lou was the first player and picked up his hand: Joker, deuce, ace, ace, 10, 9, 6, 6, 6, 5, 3. The three spot was black. He was the first player and the up card was a King. Lou drew a second five and promptly started his larcenous campaign. It would have been good conservative play to meld joker-ace-ace and play for a normal good hand, but Lou was after bigger fish. He disdainfully melded and discarded one of his three sixes.

At his next play the dealer drew from the stock and discarded one of his sixes. Right here is where Lou really showed his genius. He passed up the six

The next player threw a six and Lou's partner a nine. The dealer now took the discard pile with joker-deuce-nine-nine from his hand and threw back the king. This left the dealer with only nine cards. Two of them were the sixes he had taken from the discard pile.

Lou drew another six and discarded it without ever putting it in his hand. This was a typical Lou play. He wanted to convey the definite impression that the one denomination he was not interested in was sixes.

At his next play the dealer drew from the stock and discarded one of his sixes. Right here is where Lou really showed his genius. He passed up the six

Grace Friend

SEEKS FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend: You have been giving a lot of sound advice and solving a number of problems. Perhaps you can help me too. I am a divorcee in my thirties with two children and I work in an office which is more or less isolated as far as women are concerned so consequently I have not been able to meet any single women with whom I could go out occasionally in the evening for dinner or a show. I have a car so transportation isn't a problem. The children and I go out at least once a week but I would like the companionship of an adult woman occasionally. Perhaps there is someone else isolated as I am and would like to get acquainted. Sincerely, J. A. E.

Dear Mrs. E.: Why don't you check with your married friends as to when their husbands will be away from home in the evening and arrange to go with them for a dinner or a show. I should think any of the women would be happy to have something to do when their husbands are out at night. And nowadays almost all men are out occasionally, to a lodge meeting or to a sports event, or to a business meeting of some kind.

★ WE, THE WOMEN

By RUTH MILLETT

HAPPY OLD COUPLE CAN INFLUENCE YOUNG

Every young married couple, it seems to me, would benefit greatly from knowing well some elderly couple who have managed to stay happy, alert and in love through the years. It's the best reminder possible that whether a couple winds up their later years bravely facing what is ahead together the way they started out depends on how much love, mutual respect and joyful companionship they put into their marriage while it is young.

I met such an elderly couple the other day. The wife now is bedridden. But she's no object of pity. Her husband's loving concern for her all the little thoughtful things he does to make her comfortable, the way he smiles at her and teases her like a young man in love, the way she laughs at his little jokes, takes pride in the things he is doing that she can no longer do with him — shows that she is a woman loved. It doesn't matter if her hair is snow white and she has to be lifted from her bed to a wheel chair to enjoy the flowers her husband tends so well, because she has always loved flowers.

STILL A BEAUTY

"She's walked hundred of miles with me on hunting trips," her husband said, giving her a proud smile. And then when he showed me his den, there was on his desk a recent photograph of his wife next to a picture of her taken on her wedding day.

From the way he held each picture for a moment and studied it, it was evident that he found his wife as beautiful as a white-haired woman as she had been as a black-haired, smiling bride.

Young couples today need to know such older couples. They are a wonderful lesson in what marriage can be and mean through the years. From a happy, old couple any young husband and wife could learn more about living than from all the "How to" books ever written by the experts. For the only real experts on living are those who have made a success of their own lives.

CANDLELIGHT

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was dressed in a gown of white organza over white tulle, fashioned with fitted basque waist and full skirt. Embroidered daisies outlined the yoke of nylon net. Her veil of nylon illusion was caught in a head of net and pearls. She wore net mitts and carried a white Bible topped with a white bird. For something old and borrowed, she wore a 100-year-old cameo belonging to her sister.

Miss Bobbie McClendon, Abilene, was her sister's maid of honor. Her dress of peach organza was fashioned after the bridal gown, with lace daisies bordering the low neckline. She wore matching mitts and carried a cascade of daisies. Miss Harriett Nickols, Orlando, Okla., and Mrs. Owen Hanks, Abilene, were bridesmaids. Their dresses were also similar to the bride's in style. Miss Nickols wore yellow and Mrs. Hanks wore green. Both carried matching cascades of daisies. The wedding lights were dressed in blue with pink carnations around the candles.

The bride's mother wore a rose crepe dress with lace trim and black accessories. Mrs. Lockhart wore navy crepe with pink and navy accessories. Both wore gardenia corsages.

At the reception, given at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. McClendon and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Lockhart assisted in receiving.

Arrangements of white gladioli decorated the home and the lace-laid table was appointed in crystal and centered with a three-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple.

Mrs. Carl Mullins served the cake with Sue Bradshaw leading punch. Presiding at the bride's book was Miss Derah Brannen. All three wore corsages of red carnations.

Guests were present from Pampa, Hamlin, Quanah, Snyder, Fort Worth, Canyon, Amarillo, Dimmitt, Lubbock, Stamford, Rota, Coleman and Orlando, Okla.

The bride was graduated from Pampa High School in 1947 and attended West Texas State College, Canyon. The bridegroom is a 1942 graduate of Hamlin High School and attended Draughon's Business College, Abilene. He served three years in the Army Air Corps. He is associated with the Bride-Lina Oil Company.

For the wedding trip the bride wore a dress of navy eyelet over pastel blue nylon and used blue accessories.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Hard Luck Traced To Bad Sacrificed Bid

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
"That was the unluckiest hand I've seen in a year," said Hard Luck Joe. "The dummy was absolutely useless to me!"
"I suppose you think you're useful to me," North replied bitterly. "I'd be glad to trade you in for a used stick of chewing gum."
"Now, now," said East cheerfully. "Nice children don't fight. If Joe says he was unlucky, I'm willing to believe him."
It was all very well for East to be so cheerful. He had just collected a penalty of 900 points from Joe, and he was perfectly willing to humor him.
The play had been very simple. West opened the six of spades, and East won with the king. East returned a low trump, hoping to make it possible to lead spades later on by getting rid of dummy's trump. Joe, playing the South hand, won a trump finesse with the queen.
Joe might have done better if he had then left the trumps alone, but instead he hopefully laid down the ace of trumps. This assured East two trump tricks eventually.
The rest of the hand was a nightmare for Joe. He led the queen of clubs, and West took the king of clubs and got out with a spade. Joe ruffed and led his other club, but East took the ace and returned a heart. Joe lost a heart finesse and ruffed the spade return.
He next led a trump, hoping for some sort of lucky break in hearts or clubs, but there was no luck about the hand. East took his two trumps and exited with a spade. Joe therefore had to lead the hearts from his own hand, giving another trick to West.
In all, South lost seven tricks. He was therefore down five, for a loss of 900 points.
Joe was quite wrong, of course, when he said that the hand was unlucky. As usual, he had brought misfortune on his own head. He should have let the opponents play the hand at four spades instead of trying to fight them singlehanded.
Sacrifice bids are very fine, provided that you use them with a great deal of discretion. In the first place, it is wise to be sure that your opponents can make their own bid. There is nothing so exasperating as sacrificing against an unmakeable bid.
In this case, of course, East would have made four spades, but the point is that South had no reason to be sure of that fact. East would have made his opening bid without his ace of clubs. Put that ace in the North hand (in exchange for a low club), and East would have no game at spades. How could South tell that this was not the case?
In the second place, a sensible sacrifice bid gives the opponents fewer points in penalties than they could make by playing the hand themselves. There's no trick at all to overbidding in such a way as to give the opponents a fortune on every hand. Any beginner can bid up to seven no-trump on every hand. The wise player bids just enough to steal the hand at a good price. In this case Joe gave up 900 points to stop a game that was worth about half of that figure.

An additional point that Joe overlooked was that nobody had gagged his partner. If North had a fine fit with diamonds (in which case there would have been a good chance to make a sensible sacrifice), he would have bid five diamonds. Since North failed to do so, Joe should have known that he wasn't going to find a miraculously useful dummy.

Contempt Citations Privately-Owned War Dogs Are Voted in House Won't Be Called by Army

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The House Friday voted contempt of Congress citations against 11 witnesses who defied the un-American activities committee by refusing to answer questions about communism.
The entire proceeding took only about an hour.
This brought to 56 the two-day total of citations which will be referred to the Justice Department for court action. Conviction for contempt of Congress carries a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.
Four of those cited were identified by the committee as scientists who worked on the wartime atomic bomb project. Another was Philip Bart, general manager of Communist Daily Worker newspaper.
Several others are officials of the United Electrical Workers, which the CIO kicked out for following the Communist party line.
Thirty-nine of those cited were witnesses before the committee last April when it investigated communism in Hawaii.
The scientists cited were Giovanni Rossi Lomanitz, David Joseph Bohm and Irving David Fox, identified by the committee as wartime workers in the University of California radiation laboratory, and Clarence Hickey, a chemist who worked on a University of Chicago phase of the atom bomb project.
"We have all the dogs we need now," he said.
The Army's own dogs have had a good many families since the war, he explained, and the regular canine corps now totals around 500.
These dogs are trained at Fort Riley, Kan. Trained dogs are stationed in Germany and Okinawa, and a number of sledge dogs are on duty in Alaska.
No dogs have been sent to Korea, the Army said. They will be dispatched there if requested by General MacArthur's headquarters, but the dogs — like U. S. troops — might have difficulty telling a South Korean from a North Korean Communist.

U.S. Polio Cases Up 1,000 in Week

WASHINGTON — (AP) — For the first time since last October, there were more than 1,000 new cases of poliomyelitis in the nation last week.
The public health service reported 1,186 new cases during the week ending Aug. 5, compared with 970 the week before. The total was less than for the same week in 1946, 1948 and 1949, however.
The cumulative total of new cases since the year's low point last March is 6,171 cases, well below the 9,810 total for the corresponding period a year ago, the highest on record.

Cancer Test Uses Balloon

CHICAGO — (AP) — A balloon test for cancer of the stomach has been devised by a group of Cornell University doctors.
They described the process in the Journal of the American Medical Association, terming it "encouraging" for detecting the condition.
A rubber balloon covered with short pieces of braided silk and attached to the end of a tube is swallowed, then inflated with air. Loose cells from the stomach lining cling to this balloon "brush."
The apparatus is deflated and withdrawn and the cells are removed by washing in a special solution.
Finally the cells are examined under microscope by means of the smear test in wide use in detecting cancer of the cervix women.

Familiar Trailer Gets Whimsical

DALLAS — (AP) — Irvin Gann looked out the window of his moving car and saw an unattended pickup trailer racing alongside.
It looked familiar. It should have. Gann had bought the trailer a few minutes before and was towing it home.
The trailer raced toward a new car parked 20 yards down the street. Gann, with visions of heavy damage suits spurring him, jammed on his brakes and gave chase on foot.
A few feet from the shiny car the trailer whimsically swerved into a driveway.
Gann sat down on the curb, mopped his brow, and said "whew."

Deep Oil Test In Mississippi Being Checked

WASHINGTON — The interior department heard last week of one of the deepest oil tests yet drilled in Mississippi and immediately assigned one of its field geologists to investigate.

George Vason of the P. & H. Co., whose Wiggins, Miss., oil farm is the site of the test, was here to tell the department about it. He said no oil has been produced but that the drills have penetrated 800 feet to the Smackover limestone formation, the big producing stratum in Arkansas and Northern Louisiana and that he plans to carry the test still deeper.

Interior department records show that the two deepest tests yet drilled in the country went down 29,521 feet and 18,734 feet. The 20,000-foot hole was drilled in Wyoming, the other in California. The records show that neither producer any oil.

Watson H. Monroe, head of the department's Eastern field investigation section, told a reporter that cores taken from the Mississippi test should provide valuable information in connection with the continuing quest for long-range oil reserves.

Vason said he started drilling in the fall of 1946 and at 17,000 feet geologists told him it would be a waste of time and money to go deeper. But deeper he went—and into the Smackover lime formation.

He said that at Smackover, Ark., the Smackover stratum is only about 15 feet thick—and about 7,000 feet below the surface. It is located in the Gulf of Mexico.

Vason told a reporter he came here to offer the government a free look at the cores from his deep holes. He said 120 cores, each of which is 27 feet long, have been recovered.

Employees of the Senate interior committee already have started work on preliminary plans for the general fuels investigation proposed by Senator Myers (D-Pa.). One of the purposes is to determine the feasibility of a national fuels policy.

The interior and rules committees have approved Myers' idea and voted $20,000 for the investigation. Senate approval is expected in the near future.

Arthur Sandusky of Sandusky, Wyo., interior committee aide, is making the preliminary arrangements. A lawyer, he spent nearly three years on the war crimes commission staff, doing in the prosecution of the war.

Senator Myers told the interior committee that the study should work out a basis of comparison among the several energy sources.

He said he thought this could be done only by a thorough study of the entire fuel picture in terms of the trends in fuel tastes up to the present time and by an estimate of the direction these trends will take in the future.

Senator Elmer Thomas (D-Okla.) at least temporarily blocked a resolution by Senator Ferguson (D-Mich.) for an investigation of gasoline prices. Thomas objected to the committee's proposal under parliamentary procedure requiring unanimous consent of the Senate.

Thomas said "the oil companies at home asked me to object to it because they think I don't have enough controls and reports to make out for the government now."

Panhandle Oil Activity Increases As Potentials Hit 1,185 Barrels

PAGE 18 PAMPA NEWS, SUNDAY, AUGUST 13, 1950

Operators Complete 15 New Oilers; Stake One Wildcat

With 1,185 barrels of new oil brought in last week, the Panhandle field hit its highest point since the week ended April 28.

Operators brought in 15 new oil wells last week, staked 18 and plugged one. This compares to eight oil completions, 10 new locations, six dry holes and 16 gas completions reported for the week ended August 4. No gas wells were reported finished this past week.

One wildcat location was staked last week in Ochiltree County. This is the Walter Duncan No. 1 W. E. Brunstetter 13 miles SW of Ochiltree, scheduled for 9,000 feet.

Current oil production is 25,746 barrels of oil. Gas remains unchanged at 1,182,680 MCF.

Texas' Suggestion On Tidelands Set

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas is ready to suggest changes to a proposed interim tidelands control bill now before the Senate interior and insular affairs committee.

Attorney General Price Daniel left for Washington Saturday to testify against parts of the bill proposed by Senator Joseph O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.).

Daniel said he, Governor Allan Shivers, and Texas Land Commissioner Bascom Giles are in agreement individual states should maintain operations of the tidelands until the Supreme Court and Congress make final settlement of the title controversy.

O'Mahoney's bill would turn management of the tidelands over to the department of interior for a three-year period.

Daniel said such a plan is "highly objectionable and prejudicial to the rights of Texas."

Texas, Daniel said, already has a proposed oil well in the gulf which would endanger navigation. For years they have passed on permits which first were cleared by the states.

The Supreme Court decided last June that the federal government, not Texas or Louisiana, has paramount rights and full power over the so-called tidelands.

After that decision, the spokesman said the engineers studied the matter and held that permits must be cleared by the federal government.

The Texas official also plans to advise the Senate committee tidelands states obtain much larger sums of money for leases and rentals than does the federal government.

Texas has received an average of $20 an acre for its tidelands leases, he said, compared to only 25 cents per acre received from similar lands by the federal government.

Bills designed to recognize both federal and state ownership of the tidelands are pending in Congress but have made little progress this year.

O'Mahoney offered his interim suggestion after the Supreme Court on June 5 recognized the federal government's paramount rights to the tidelands of Texas and Louisiana. The court took similar action on California's submerged lands in 1947.

Texas and Louisiana have filed petitions for rehearings.

Army Evades Coast Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army engineers have sidestepped a dispute over whether a state or the federal government has the power to control oil development in lands under the marginal seas.

A spokesman for the engineers said the engineers have advised they would be navigation hazards.

Under the law, the Army engineers must decide whether a proposed oil well in the gulf would endanger navigation. For years they have passed on permits which first were cleared by the states.

The Supreme Court decided last June that the federal government, not Texas or Louisiana, has paramount rights and full power over the so-called tidelands.

After that decision, the spokesman said the engineers studied the matter and held that permits must be cleared by the federal government.

The Louisiana state mineral board protested.

Meanwhile, Louisiana members of Congress said they plan to oppose the O'Mahoney resolution to give the interior department authority to supervise oil development and leasing in the off-shore lands.

The resolution introduced by Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) will be considered by the Senate interior committee tomorrow.

The resolution would impound the revenue from the oil properties until the question of ownership finally is decided.

Oklahoma Finals Rise During Week

TULSA (AP)—Completions of tests last week but observers said it would be only a matter of time until war shortages caught up with Oklahoma oil field exploration.

There were scattered reports that initial tests were being delayed by slow delivery of drill pipe and heavy equipment.

Finals total 12 in a Tulsa World survey, including 61 others, four gas wells and 62 dry holes. Other data: average daily initial output of crude, 7,313 barrels; of gas, 9,763,000 cubic feet; and 456,645 feet drilled.

First reports were down but slightly, to 103 in 26 counties from 109 last week. Stephens County again led with 12 new tests.

The Strano Indians of Bolivia cannot count about three and a half million dollars, including 11 million "yesterday" and "tomorrow."

Gasoline Refineries Pushed To Capacity as Demand Rises

HOUSTON (AP)—A record gasoline demand is pushing the nation's oil refineries to near peak production.

Heavy gasoline consumption at 80 is adding oil states in recovering a portion of losses lost during the heavy crude oil production cutbacks of 1948 and early 1949.

Domestic refineries last week processed 5,944,000 barrels of crude oil daily. It was the second all time high established since July 8.

At the same time, crude production is within striking distance of its record 3,772,000 barrel daily output of December 1948. August increases in allowable boosted current production to 5,640,500 as of last Saturday a week ago.

This is an increase of 936,500 barrels daily since cutbacks sent output to a postwar low of 4,702,800 in July of last year.

Gasoline production last week totaled 19,743,000 barrels. Storage stocks dropped another 3,711,000 to 108,895,000 barrels, only 454,000 below the year earlier total.

This means gasoline demand since April 1 has taken all of weekly production averaging in excess of 19,000,000 barrels and reduced stocks by 27,000,000 barrels.

Heavy military demand for motor fuels has contributed to the gasoline boom since the outbreak of fighting in Korea, but civilian consumption already was skyrocketing.

Motor fuel tax receipts in Texas as the current fiscal year are $10,000,000 above 1949.

Gross receipts from the tax the first 11 months of the fiscal year ending Sept. 1 totaled a record $94,799,306, compared to $84,269,014 the same period last year.

The Texas tax is 4-cents per gallon on gasoline and 6-cents on other liquid fuels.

The motor fuels tax increase offsets the current slump in the Cities Service Names Assistant

James W. McColl was appointed assistant to H. Ben Cox, superintendent of the land department, according to an announcement by R. L. Kidd, vice president and manager of land and geological division of Cities Service Oil Co. (Del.).

McColl, who has been a member of the legal department of Cities Service since 1946, was formerly employed as a land manager in the Illinois oil fields and worked in the Bartlesville office of the land department before he was called to war service in 1941.

During World War II, McColl served overseas in the Sixth Army and rose to the rank of major.

Commercial Jets Get U. S. Backing

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has okayed the idea of using government money to help develop jet airplanes for commercial use.

It passed and sent to the House yesterday a bill to authorize the spending of up to $12,500,000 a year on testing and improving new type aircraft, including jets.

A commission survey among private aircraft manufacturers the 21 member oil producing would finance design and building of the planes. Government funds could be used for testing jets of crude daily on Aug. 1 and to make minor changes.

Thompson Predicts Quiet Meeting for Oil, Gas Proration

AUSTIN (AP)—A quiet statewide oil proration hearing this week was forecast by Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson.

Nominations of major purchasers for September crude oil are about on the level with present production and stocks are increasing at the rate of about one million barrels a week, Thompson said.

He described the stock increase as "highly desirable."

A 10 percent increase in demand for gasoline above last year has been met without difficulty, the commissioner noted.

"I see no possible reason for gasoline rationing and there should be no shortage of heating oil if refiners continue to build up the supply between now and winter," he said.

The statewide hearing for evidence on which to base September crude oil allowances is scheduled for Aug. 17.

HOUSTON (AP)—The Lubrizol Corp. of Cleveland has started building a $1,000,000 plant here to make chemical agents to add to lubricating oil.

The plant will be on a 30-acre tract east of the Shell refinery.

Storage for New Output Major Industry Problem

By CHARLES HASLET

WASHINGTON (AP)—The oil industry, preparing to meet increasing demands for its products, is concerned with storage facilities as well as steel supplies.

An industry spokesman, who declined use of his name, said here last week that "one of the greatest needs of the industry" is a resurvey of the oil storage situation.

He said the last report on available storage facilities was made in 1948. It showed total tankage at storage terminals was 416,727,000 barrels.

"The question," he said, "is what has happened since that report. Some of that tankage may have been moved or abandoned and some new tankage has been provided. The defense establishment is vitally interested in storage."

Two committees are at work to determine the industry's steel needs in preparation for possible government controls and allocation of steel.

One of the committees was named by the National Petroleum Council, an industry group which advises with government agencies. The other was set up by the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

Most of the oil legislation now pending in Congress probably is dead for this session, according to industry representatives here.

This legislation includes bills to curb oil imports, to direct the Federal Trade Commission to investigate production, refining and distribution, and to prohibit producers, refiners and marketers from operating tankers and barges.

There is a possibility, they say, that action may be taken on a bill by Senator Myers (D-Pa.) for a fuels policy study. The Senate interior committee approved the bill after cutting expense funds from 100,000 to $20,000. The measure now is in the rules committee.

Chairman O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) of the interior committee is trying for early action on his bill to give the secretary of the interior interim jurisdiction over

Tense Quiet Prevails Between Lines Along Naktong River

(Editor's note: Columnist-War Correspondent Hal Boyle wrote the following as the first of two columns he planned to explain what patrolling along the Naktong River is like for an American soldier. Before he got to write the second, Boyle suddenly shifted himself from the Naktong to Pohang, where the fighting was hottest. Hal is on a roving assignment in the war zone and may get time later to write the planned second column on Naktong patrols.)

It is quite possible that you could ride or walk for miles along either side of the river battle-front and never be challenged or even know an army was near.

You probably would notice, however, an uneasy stillness in the air. And of course there is also the possibility you might be ambushed at once, cut in half by machinegun fire or blown up by a mortar shell. And it could happen so quickly you would get to Heaven without even knowing just who or what put you on the escalator.

By HAL BOYLE

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN KOREA—(AP)—On the Naktong River front there are two stretches of no-man's land.

At night strange lights soar across the river as the blind artillery batteries seek each other's throats in growling thunder.

One is on the allied eastern side where the Reds have been holding defensive positions.

The other is on the western side where the Reds have been trying to mass enough armor and men to cross the river in power and win the war by driving the United Nations troops backward to the sea.

And it is then, usually, that the river armies put out their sensitive feelers—small groups of men on patrol who wade or swim the waters or creep along with silent oars to test the enemy defense position.

Thus on both sides of the river there is a kind of small twilight zone that doesn't wholly belong to either.

In it you may find for against foe—playing a small but deadly game of hide-and-seek. They are the men on patrol duty trying to find out what the enemy is up to.

It is a duel in the dark no-man's-land between adventurous men seeking to snatch sleepy prisoners and bring them back alive to pick their frightened brains for what they know or will tell.

People who have never been to war tend to picture a defensive river line as a current of water flowing between banks solidly lined with troops; with tanks firing volley after volley at each other in continuous carnage. But it isn't that way at all. If it were, the two opposing armies might just about wipe each other out in course of a busy morning.

For all their weight of metal armies don't like to commit themselves too soon. They like to know what the other one is up to before they decide what they will do themselves.

This nocturnal hunting of man against man is in some ways the most exciting activity along the Naktong River line. It takes a soldier who has wisdom, caution and almost endless stamina, as well as enterprise and the bright quality of bravery. For one able scout may save a regiment.

So each stays back from the river's edge and hides as much as it can to keep its secrets.

Friends of the Bryan community leader disclosed they have arranged for her portrait to be painted by Seymour Stone, well known artist.

Senate Group Ends Hearing On Quota Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate agriculture committee Friday wound up its hearing on the 1951 cotton quota bill after being urged to approve the House-passed measure with a few changes.

Charles R. Spivey, a Scott, Miss., grower representing the Delta Council of his state, said continuation of farm planting allotments is necessary to provide an adequate historical basis on which to assign quotas when conditions might necessitate sharp cuts in production.

Previous witnesses had suggested no production controls at all might be in order for next year, in view of the international situation.

A spokesman for cotton growers in the Texas Gulf coastal bend areas urged the committee to retain a provision of the House-passed bill which is applicable only to Texas. It would result in a shift of approximately 400,000 acres in allocations from four congressional districts in west and southern Texas to the 17 other districts in the state.

Dallas Theater Director Says Problem Simple

NEW YORK (AP)—Margo Jones, noted director of Theater '30, Dallas theater-in-the-round, says that transferring a play to an orthodox legitimate stage presents no great problems except in approach.

Miss Jones is now on Broadway, casting her forthcoming production of a new play, "Southern Exposure," which she has previously presented on a smaller stage at her theater-in-the-round in Dallas.

"In Dallas, the play was done on a small central stage surrounded on four sides by a large audience," she explained. "When we open the Broadway production on Sept. 26 at the Biltmore Theater I must take in consideration that the play is being done on a larger stage, and is being seen from only one side of the stage. So my only problem is directing it for New York audiences to adjust movements of the characters in the play."

British Carrier Sabotage Hinted

LONDON (AP)—The admiralty disclosed Saturday that files have been found jammed in a boiler of the 23,000-ton aircraft carrier Illustrious.

It said intelligence officers are investigating while the ship undergoes repairs at Devonport.

This is the third time this year naval intelligence has been called on to investigate incidents on the carrier. Once signal flares were found in the boiler room and another time water was discovered in the supply of aviation gasoline.

There have been other recent cases of damage to warships. Loose bolts were found strewn in the gearbox of the destroyer Cavendish, and sand was found in the bearings of the submarine Tallyho while she was being refitted at Devonport.

Court Refuses To Let Woman Release Baby

CHICAGO (AP)—An expectant mother was refused a court order Friday under which she would give up custody of the unborn child to her estranged husband.

Mrs. Marion Hiller, 26, who expects her child late this month, told Superior Judge Rudolph Desort she feared she would be unable to support the baby and a son, 4, by a previous marriage.

Her husband, George O. Hiller, 25, accused of cruelty in her pending "separation" maintenance suit, had applied her proposal.

"I never heard of such a proposal," Judge Desort said, "and I won't enter the order. Mrs. Hiller might change her mind after the child is born and she has had a chance to see it. She must be given every opportunity to reflect."

Since Aug. 3 six Red newspapers have been suspended by the western allies.

Longshoremen Slap Bridges

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — Harry Bridges ended a week in jail Saturday amid reports that his strength is waning in the CIO longshoremen's union he heads.

The San Francisco Examiner said that Bridges' own Local 10 of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, (ILWU) twice repudiated their president Friday night.

The paper said a local meeting voted 2,082 to 887 for a resolution calling on Bridges to resign either the union leadership or presidency of the Maritime Federation of the World, a n.d. 1,963 to 982 to dissolve "fraternal affiliation" with the maritime federation.

The resolutions also called for support of U. S. policy in Korea by ILWU headquarters, the paper said.

The Maritime Federation is a part of the assertedly Communist-dominated World Federation of Trade Unions.

Union leaders either were unavailable or refused to comment on the report.

The first clear indication of Bridges' strength in the union probably will come this week when 300 ILWU delegates gather at Coos Bay, Ore., Monday for a three-day caucus.

Bridges has been in jail as a Communist-perjurer since his $25,000 bail pending appeal was revoked a week ago.

Solnik was manager of the store for about four years and has been promoted to manager of an Amarillo store.

The new manager here has been a resident of Pampa for 15 years and has been employed at Bentley's for almost five years.

She has worked during these years in the sales department and served as assistant manager during the past year.

Paul Aleskin, supervisor of the Berger and Pampa stores was in Pampa last week assist. Mrs. Hutchins in her new duties.

University Research Center Called Ready for Total War

AUSTIN — (AP) — If total war comes, the University of Texas research program is ready for it. J. Neils Thompson, director of the research center, said the program could be geared quickly to full war needs.

In a report to the U. S. office of education, he noted that the off-campus center already has five laboratories in eight buildings doing research — some of it secret — for the Navy, Air Force, Atomic Energy Commission and other federal agencies.

Thompson also released a brochure detailing assets at the research center which would expedite expansion. Principally they are:

Availability of electric power from generators of the Lower Colorado River Authority; the research center's own railroad spur leading to the main line of the Missouri Pacific Railroad; excellent rail and air transportation facilities in and near Austin, including Bergstrom Air Force Base for accommodation of scientific personnel or equipment arriving in military planes; the center's own water and sewage disposal systems; its large supply of heavy machine tools; the availability of approximately 353 acres of land for construction of additional buildings on the 393.5-acre tract, and the research center's security system, including a nine-foot-high chain link fence, and an around-the-clock patrol of the premises by a staff of competent guards.

The brochure has been forwarded to proper authorities in Washington, Thompson said.

The trend toward growing more grass is just beginning to spread across the country. Yet nearly 200 years ago George Washington wrote: "My countrymen have too little knowledge of the profits of grassland."

Texas Woman Killed By Stray Rifle Shot

CORSICANA — (AP) — Funeral services will be held today for a Navarro County woman who was struck fatally by what officers said appeared to be a stray .22 long-rifle bullet.

L. B. Strange of Oak Grove found his wife, about 60, lying near death on the path to a near-by garden Friday. Justice of the Peace Melvin Penny said a stray bullet apparently struck her in the left side.

Atom Secrets Theft Suspect Attempts Suicide in Prison

LONDON — (AP) — A man charged with stealing a briefcase full of British atomic secrets was held in a hospital Saturday after he slashed his wrists in his jail cell.

His condition was described as "not serious," but a preliminary hearing on the theft charge, scheduled for Saturday, was postponed pending his recovery. He is William Ralph Wakeham, 35.

The briefcase full of atomic secrets was stolen earlier this week from Frank M. Greenless, an official of the supply ministry's atomic energy production division at the new British atomic plant in Risley, Lancashire.

Greenless left the briefcase and a suitcase in his train compartment at Euston station for three minutes. When he returned they were gone. The baggage was recovered and Greenless reported after an examination of his papers that all the secrets were intact.

Children's Benefactor Provides for Future

REVERE, Mass. — (AP) — Children lost in this beach city are assured of lollipops at the metropolitan district commission police station.

William C. Mulvenney, who has kept the station supplied with the candy sticks for years, died Thursday night.

Friday, Police Capt. Thomas B. Dawley was notified that Mulvenney had willed $1,000 in his care to keep lost children supplied in candy while waiting for their folks to claim them.

Truck Crash Kills Man; Another Sought

BRENNHAM, Texas — (AP) — Two trucks collided on a narrow bridge north of here on Highway 38 Friday, causing the death of one of the drivers, James William Rimmer, 25, of Lubbock.

Rimmer's truck struck a tree after the crash, throwing forward his load of structural steel. The steel sheared off the truck's cab and buried Rimmer. The wreck caught fire and it was an hour before Rimmer's body could be removed.

Sheriff T. H. Dippel issued a pickup order for the driver of the second truck.

Common Law Wife Shares in Estate

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Miss Nancy Davis has convinced a court that despite the lack of a formal marriage to Texas oil heir Edwin A. McKanna she was his spiritual mate.

The court Friday awarded her a widow's share of his $370,000 estate, a $750 a month family allowance for six months from McKanna's death April 25 and continued use of the family home in Pasadena.

In his will McKanna left her $10,000 cash and $200 monthly for life and left the bulk of the estate to Boys Town, Neb., which contested Miss Davis' claim.

The former San Antonio secretary testified she and McKanna entered into a common law marriage in Austin in 1946 and didn't feel the need of a formalized ceremony.

War Taught Auto Industry Short Cuts, Nothing Radical

DETROIT — (AP) — World War II taught the auto industry some manufacturing short cuts but it added little to the mechanical advancement of the motorcar.

The importance of the war-developed production techniques, however, cannot be over estimated. But for them we might be paying a minimum of $2,500 for the lowest price automobiles.

Many automotive engineers probably will challenge the assertion that the war added little to today's car. They will emphasize that the postwar automobile is far superior to the vehicle built before 1945. Nobody will deny this. It is true, though, that virtually all the mechanical developments of today's cars were blueprinted long before the last war.

The engineers themselves will say they worked for years on today's high compression engines. They will tell you, too, that the newer type of automatic transmissions were in the experimental stage before Pearl Harbor.

The power plants and additional automatic gear shifting devices are the major advances apparent in the postwar auto.

Many persons can recall the war-time predictions about the car of the postwar era. Some predictions verged on the fantastic. Soon after the war, it was suggested, the automobile would be a 100 percent push-button job.

There were going to be front wheel drives and rear engine cars. There was going to be a car with a swinging rear axle to facilitate turns. A lot of experimental work was done with these ideas but they haven't materialized in any car currently in volume production.

Neither has anything else basically different from the models that were in production before the war. And nothing radically different is in prospect in the foreseeable future.

FUNNY FACE

By James Gunn
Copyright 1950 by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Jack Lanning and Ellie Lane, old friends of mine, were married 22 years ago and were vaudeville success as a comic dance team. Ellie was funny faced and had a natural heart for comedy. Jack was handsome but not much of an actor. Ellie was sensitive about her looks and Jack continued to call her "Funny Face," she at last left him and got a divorce because she couldn't "take it" as the ugly wife of a handsome man. Finding their daughter Janet with a nurse, Ellie rose to succeed as a Broadway comedienne and later went to Hollywood where she rose to fame as a comic supporting actress. She had lost all trace of Jack, and so had I, when she met a cameraman, Ben Malone, comfortably home, who asked her to marry him after they became good friends.

heard. She went into the dark room and sat on the edge of the bed. The girl's face was in the pillow and she was trying to control her sobbing. Ellie touched her shoulder gently and looked ahead into the darkness. "Are you crying because I'm going to marry Ben, Janet? Is that it?"

"No," There was a smearing noise—Janet was trying to wipe her nose.

"Then what is it?" There was no answer. "Please, Janet, what is it?"

"Because Daddy's dead."

A THREAD of ice wrapped around Ellie's spine. Janet had not spoken of her father since she was a few questions straight-forwardly, but she had not known that Janet ever thought about Jack, or how she pictured him.

It was a moment before Ellie had control of herself. "Daddy isn't dead. What makes you think so?"

"Because you're going to be married."

"But I'm divorced. You know about that." Several of Janet's friends had divorced parents. "I can get married any time."

"You're different. You wouldn't marry anybody unless you thought Daddy was dead." Janet turned over, earnestly. "But I want you to do it, I like Ben. I wasn't crying about that, honestly."

Janet slept and Ellie stared at the ceiling of the next day she told Ben what had happened.

"I shouldn't have asked you."

"Oh, Ben, that wasn't what I meant." She had thought over what she wanted to say, but she spoke slowly; she was trying very hard to be honest with Ben and with herself. "I wanted to marry you—I'm sure I did. But something went wrong. I didn't know what it was until last night. Janet's never seen her father since she could remember, but I suppose in some way she knew how I felt about him. Maybe she even felt that way herself, children can do that. And marrying again—without even knowing where he is—it's so final, like closing a door." She looked at him pleadingly. "I know it's silly. Jack's probably married and settled down. He may even be dead, though I just can't believe that. I don't want to see him—I just have to know."

It was Ben who found the detective agency and gave them the information. Then for three months they waited. In the meantime they went on as they had before. Ben never mentioned marriage or showed a sign of impatience. Ellie began to wish she had married Ben at once, that she had not started the search.

In the end the agency gave up. They had traced Jack to his last known job. He had been master of ceremonies at a fourth-rate night club in Long Beach, and from there, three years before, he had disappeared. Ellie remembered driving by the place once on her way to a party. Jack had been within 50 miles of her and had never tried to look her up.

When Ben gave her that news he tried to soften it. Ellie said only: "There was no reason for him to reach me. He has his life and I have mine. I was the one who wanted it that way." Her face was set.

Stolen Sugar Sold By Three Children

NEW YORK — (AP) — Three children rang neighbors' doorbells Friday trying to sell two-pound bags of sugar for 25 cents each.

A housewife called police. The children, eight, ten and 11 years old, led authorities to the alleged sources of the sugar—Mrs. Mary H. Somers, 19-year-old mother of a two-year-old son, and her sister, Evangeline Harpist, 38.

Police said the two women got the three neighborhood children to peddle the sugar.

The sisters were arrested and charged with stealing about 30 pounds of sugar from an East Side restaurant which has been closed for the summer.

The children were not identified and no charges were placed against them. The women were booked on burglary charges.

Scout Troop's Deed Is Revealed

Members of Troop 80 of the local Boy Scout organization fulfilled their "Good Deed" Every Day" motto Wednesday afternoon, when they went of their own free will, to the rodeo arena and removed all broken glass and trash that had collected during the Tuesday night performance.

The troop is sponsored by the First Methodist Church. Claudie Gallman is scoutmaster.

"HOW WE DOIN'?"—South Koreans in a village close to the fighting front scan the latest bulletins, anxious to learn how the war is going.

Prices Up on Wide Variety of Materials

By SAM DAWSON
 NEW YORK — (AP) — More price hikes dot the business scene today. They are scattered through all the processes from raw materials to finished products: hides and shoes; cotton and print cloth; carpet wool and rugs.
 Raw silk, tin, lumber, used cars, baking equipment, paints, cocoa — one by one they line up in the inflationary swirl powered by the Korean war. Retail prices of many makes of shoes have gone up by 50 cents to $1.50. A new list of shoe makers join the parade today. Cattle hide prices have risen 35 percent and calskins 20 percent since June 25, the Tanners Council of America, Inc., reports. Shoe managers say that leather accounts for about half of their costs.
 Tin prices Wednesday advanced to an 11-month high of $1.01 1/2 a pound. This was a climb of 25 cents since the start of the war.
 Rising tin prices are one of the reasons fruit and vegetable canners are predicting that this season's pack will command higher prices.

 Prices of house paint trim and some inside paints were raised by 10 to 25 cents a gallon by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. Cocoa beans which sold for 25 cents a pound in January now bring 39 cents at wholesale. Coating for chocolates and candy bars has gone up to 10 to 12 cents a pound in two months.
 Baking equipment, other than ovens, is being raised by 5 to 10 percent on the price listings of the American Machine & Foundry Co.
 Lumber price rises in the Pacific Northwest are due to civilian demand, not military orders, trade sources say. Since June 25 lumber mills have raised prices about $3 a thousand feet on framing lumber, and as much as $45 a thousand feet on better lumber for interior cabinet work. Demand continues to run ahead of supply.
 The Korean war has brought a 50 percent price increase in raw silk from Japan. Before the outbreak silk was selling just under $3 a pound. The price is now more than $4.30 a pound for the best grades. The grade blames speculators in Japan.
 Carpet wool prices in the 12 months before the Korean war doubled. But it continues to climb.
 The largest lake in South America is Lake Titicaca in Peru, 12,600 feet above sea-level.
