Standard Type of Brakes For Derby Car Explained

Construction of a typical brake shoe for a Soap Box Derby racing car is shown here. Note the sturdy metal bar for depressing the brake, the spring for retracting it, and the piece of rubber tire firmly fastened to the wood to make contact with the pavement.

The Soap Box Derby racing car must be equipped with a standard type of brake. The brake shoe is attached to the axle by a sturdy metal bar. A spring mechanism retracts the brake when not in use. A piece of rubber tire is fastened to the shoe to make contact with the pavement.

Experience over the 13 years of the derby operation has proved that the single drag brake, operated by a foot pedal, is the safest type devised. This type is mandatory in the 1950 Soap Box Derby racing car.

City Hall Cleaner Too Big for His Job

CHICAGO — John Sadowski's trouble is that he is too big a man for his job. For years, whenever the City Hall boilers needed cleaning, he crawled inside and went to work. But three new boilers have been purchased. The doors, 12 by 16 inches, are too small for a man of Sadowski's size. 241 pounds.

Consistent scepticism by business men in the face of the current upswing can be just as costly to the nation's economy as overoptimism in the face of a downswing.

Airport Greeting Discovered to Be A Big Money Saver

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Because a big greeting was written for Miss America, Phoenix has saved itself about $2,500 a year. It was last fall when J. A. C. Mercer of Litchfield, Park, Ariz., won the beauty title at Atlantic City and her home state planned a gala reception.

Along the airport runway townspeople wrote a big "Welcome Jacque" sign she could see as the plane came in for a landing. As the reception was only a one-day affair, an inexpensive water-mixed casein base paint was used. Officials at the airport waited for it to wash away. They waited, and waited and waited. For weeks planes coming to Phoenix saw "Welcome Jacque" in big letters. Finally the greeting was obliterated with flat black paint.

But the sign had proved the less expensive paint could be used as runway markers, and the Civil Aeronautics Administration approved, said Airport Manager Walter Fulkerson. So the city, which maintains the airport, will save about $2,500 on its paint bill each year.

FUNNY BUSINESS

"Now I'm worrying about the bill I owe you, doctor!"

SNYDER

(Continued From Page One) — Hearings in hopes of having a bill to put before the Senate about July 20, Chairman George (D-Ga.) said the committee expects to complete its hearings before the end of next week.

But whether the measure will be pushed to enactment, he said, will depend on developments.

As passed by the House, the bill would slash excise taxes by $1,010,000,000 by reducing or wiping out present rates on scores of items ranging from jewelry, furs, pocketbooks and baby bottles to movie tickets and telephone bills.

To meet President Truman's demand that excise tax losses be offset by revenue increases from other sources, the bill would hike taxes on corporations, earning over $167,000 a year, plus various tax loopholes and make other tax revisions.

The revised corporate tax structure would bring in an estimated $433,000,000 a year in additional revenue, but corporations with earnings between $5,000 and $167,000 would benefit by a slight reduction in taxes.

Paratrooper Brings Jumping Title to U. S. With 123 Leaps

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. — (P) — my neck on that jump. I've got the record and I think I better quit now." It took, besides the five pilots, two Piper Cub airplanes, seven parachutes, and six parachute riggers, going full blast to keep Swetich going. Also one pack of crackers — that's all he ate from start to finish. He trained for six months to get in shape for the gruelling effort. Clyde Woodie, manager of the airport, who flew Swetich no the first jump, the record jump, and the final leap, had this to say about the short, stocky paratrooper: "He's just like an ox." Miss Mary Cook of Greensboro, N.C., Swetich's girl friend, was more enthusiastic. Her comment: "I think it's just fine. Nobody else in the world could have done it — but my sergeant." Swetich became a paratrooper in 1941 and served with both U.S. and Chinese divisions. During the war he served in the O.S.S. overseas. What will he do next? He said, "I'd like to try for a record delay." That's gung up as high as possible, bailing out, then waiting until the last possible moment to pull the rip cord. He thinks the present record for a free fall of that type is about 40,000 feet. And about this parachute jumping? "It's o.k. if you like it. I like it."

Charges on Three Major Crimes Filed Against Man, 21

WILLISTON, Fla. — (P) — Charges of three major crimes — murder, kidnaping and rape — have been filed against 21-year-old Charles Rogers, just two months out of prison for stealing a motor car. State Attorney T. E. Duncan said Rogers killed a 78-year-old woman, shot at his aunt, and kidnaped and raped a telephone operator Monday night. He was caught by a posse as he held the telephone girl as a hostage behind a downtown building. A member of the posse shot Rogers in the shoulder. Duncan reported this account: Rogers, just two months out of state prison after serving five years for auto theft, was living with a 45-year-old aunt, Mrs. Ruby Horne. He went with Mrs. Horne to the home of Mrs. Gertrude Hammond Baxley, 75, on a visit and both women scolded him for drinking. He went home and drank some more. Then he got a .22 calibre rifle and returned to the Baxley home, where he shot Mrs. Baxley through the head. Mrs. Horne fled and he missed her with two bullets. Rogers then went home to supper, got a shotgun and planned to leave town. He saw the operator in the telephone building, forced her to go with him behind the building. There he raped her and held her as hostage for more than an hour before the posse got him.

New Record Set in Polio

AUSTIN — (AP) — Texas polio set a new black mark for the week ending July 1.

A total of 124 cases were reported to the state health department, the highest weekly incidence in the history of the state. The old record of 101 cases for a single week was set Aug. 6 last year.

Thus far, 948 cases of polio from 122 counties have been reported this year. For the first six months of 1950, there were 688 cases from 100 counties.

Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, urged parents to be especially watchful for polio symptoms. Call a doctor, he said, if a child develops nausea, high fever or soreness in the muscles and joints.

China Nationalists To Pay Employees In Goods, Money

TAIPEI — (AP) — All Chinese Nationalist government employees, military personnel and school teachers soon will receive a portion of their salaries in commodities, the official Chinese news agency said yesterday.

The government said that effective in August all employees, regardless of position, will be paid in coal, rice, edible oils, salt and cloth, based on the average monthly need of individuals and families. The balance of salaries will be paid in cash.

Premier Chen Cheng explained employees will be able to maintain a stable livelihood, the government will be aided in establishing commodity prices, and it will help combat inflation.

MOW 'EM DOWN — VISALIA, Calif. — (AP) — This clerk didn't know much about farming, but he sure was resourceful. So reports Amos Jordan, a rancher, who asked a hardware store clerk for a mow-mower trap. The clerk said he was out, but suggested a mow-mower instead.

"You can cut their heads off while you mow the grass," he told the flabbergasted farmer.

Approximately 200,000 square feet of green-tinted, heat-absorbing glass windows are planned for the permanent Secretariat Building of the United Nations in New York.

When the Supreme Court was moved from the Capitol in 1927 to its own building, each Justice had his individual chair moved with him.

DOCTORS ELECT—Dr. John W. Cline, above, San Francisco surgeon and past president of the California Medical Association, is the new president-elect of the American Medical Association. Unanimously elected at a meeting in San Francisco, Dr. Cline will take office at the 1951 AMA convention at Atlantic City, N. J.

"Ya Wanna Swap?"
Theme Line at Valley Forge

By HAL BOYLE
VALLEY FORGE, Pa. — (AP) — This is the world capital of the small businessman.

Anyone who worries that the United States may be forgetting the principle of individual enterprise should come here to the second national jamboree of the Boy Scouts.

He would learn that the real hero of young America today isn't Horatio Alger. It's David Harum, the horse trader.

You probably have already read that the 47,000 Scouts gathered here are spending a big part of their time swapping. But you'd have to see the horse-trading that goes on in the encampment to believe it.

It is a strange unregulated market of barter dominated by the ancient Roman principle of "caveat emptor" — let the buyer beware.

For there is no Better Business Bureau or Securities Exchange Commission to set the standards of exchange. The only question is this: "Ya wanna swap? All right, whatcha got that I want? Here's what I've got—do ya want it or comcha?"

As is usual under a barter system the value or real identity of the merchandise offered isn't guaranteed. And it is open to real suspicion.

Where else, for example, are ordinary caterpillars being peddled off as "real genuine silkworms"? Where else are cockleburrs being offered as "positively circle-A porcupine eggs"? And finding buyers too!

There is no doubt that the most outstandingly successful business groups have been the Scouts from Oklahoma and Texas. The Oklahomans showed up with an endless supply of bulwhips. But the Texans topped the swap market with a fascinating multitude of live-horned toads.

At first the Texans got from $1.50 to $2 a toad. But right now you can buy one for four bits down to 16 cents because of a rumor. This is the rumor that has swept the camp: "The Texas Scouts have air-shipped 8,000 toads and are holding them in reserve in order to keep the prices jacked up. The last day of the jamboree they will dump them all on the market at once, and if I wait until then I can probably buy one for a dime."

The present market for horned toads is therefore bearish. Some Scouts who have run out of trading material have put signs on their tents saying: "No more swaps. Peddlers stay away. This means you."

Some Scouts who have run out of trading material have put signs on their tents saying: "No more swaps. Peddlers stay away. This means you."

KNOXVILLE, Iowa, Express: "If the government places shackles on the three largest meat packing companies it would not be long before shackles would be placed on the next ten or twenty meat packing companies and—on down the line. It would be next to impossible to socialize an industry like the meat packing business, without placing the source of the raw materials under socialistic control. You farmers in the entire nation better think about this and think hard before it is too late and not let socialism in this country go to such an extent that it cannot be stopped."

Rogers Hornsby Is Selected To Pilot Texas League Stars

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
AP Sports Editor

Hubs Dust Pioneers In Doubleheader to Regain Loop Lead

LUBBOCK (AP)—Before the largest West Texas-New Mexico League crowd of the season—3,442 paying fans—the Lubbock Hubbers dusted off the Clovis Pioneers twice, 9-2, in the opener and 6-4 in the nightcap, of a July 4 doubleheader.

Rogers Hornsby will be manager of one of the clubs in the July 21 all-star game. Beaumont went through Independence Day in fourth place, but the South All-Stars of the circuit, so, under the leadership of All-Star game, to be played at Fort Worth, Hornsby, manager of the Roughnecks, will skipper the South All-Stars.

Bobby Bragan of Fort Worth already had become manager of the North because his club, which led all the Northern teams through July 4, dropped the league as well.

The reason the league race was status quo was because in every doubleheader the clubs split, so there was no advance and no recession in any instance.

Fort Worth beat Oklahoma City 12-4 in the first game with Chris Vaneek getting his fourteenth home run of the season. The second game was a 6-4 victory over Dallas.

San Antonio beat Beaumont 6-1 in the opener, blasting out 13 hits featuring homers by Joe Lutz and Andy Anderson. Beaumont lost the nightcap 14-4 with a five-run spurge in the fourth and an eight-run blast in the fifth.

Houston beat Shreveport 3-0 in the opener with Dick Bokelman holding the Sports to four hits. Shreveport won the second 6-0 on Bob Holloman's five-hitter.

Dallas moves into Fort Worth tonight with Oklahoma City at Tulsa, Houston at Beaumont and San Antonio at Shreveport, all opening three-day stands.

His terrific tee shots took him to a ridiculously easy 8 and 7 victory in yesterday's second round, but it was the small size of his medal count that boosted him to 32 for Seneca course's trying hills.

Ken Towns, Frisco policeman and defending champion, scored a methodical 2 and 1 decision over Jack Russell of Memphis, going just two over par in the effort.

Dukes 1st to Win Series From Pampa Since May 23

The Pampa Oilers are not in first place in the West Texas-New Mexico League now, but they've got a chance to go back into the lead tonight.

After splitting a doubleheader with the Albuquerque Dukes last night while the Lubbock Hubbers wrested the circuit command from them, with a clean sweep of a twin bill from Clovis, the Oilers move to the H. City for the first of a three game series, set to begin at 8:30 tonight.

Bill Garmon, who has won two and lost one, will toss for the Hubbers, against Lefty Bill Garland for the Oilers.

Roy Parker was edged with both a win and a loss, trying to pull the first iron man's stunt of the year in the league. He pitched good ball in both games, but he was badly in the afterpiece.

While Lefty All Carr limited the Oilers to eight scattered hits, he allowed the Dukes to their victory, the second over the Oilers in two nights. On the previous evening, the Dukes outscored their hosts, 16-13.

Parker was practically untouched in the opener of the bargain bill, allowing but ten hits, all spaced effectively, walking only one, and whiffing five. After relieving starter Mack Hyde in the last encounter the Pampa pitcher allowed eight hits, walked five and whiffed only four.

The Oilers jumped to an early lead, allowing but ten hits, all spaced effectively, walking only one, and whiffing five. After relieving starter Mack Hyde in the last encounter the Pampa pitcher allowed eight hits, walked five and whiffed only four.

Pampans Lose Inaugural to Dukes in Rain

The Oilers and the Dukes opened their three-game Oiler Park firing Monday night when they battled one-hour and thirty-five minutes in a steady drizzle before the Dukes finally emerged as 16-15 victors in a game that was allowed to go the full nine innings despite the heavy mist.

The entire game was elongated into three hours and five minutes with both teams going into evident efforts to let the rains halt the contest. The playing conditions were miserable, but Oiler's Welch, Simon and Crain refused to stop the action.

Phillies, Tigers in Series For Championship?—Maybe!

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Phillies and Tigers to clash in the 1950 World Series—that's what the signpost says.

If tradition is to be upheld, then the second place Philadelphia club in the National League and the first place Detroit team in the American should win the flags.

For years baseball men have believed the legend that the teams in first place on Independence Day were almost certain to meet in the World Series. That is only a half-truth.

Data for the past 15 years show that 13 of the American League pace-setters on that significant July 4 marker have gone on to win pennants. In the National League, only seven have fulfilled this legend.

Of the eight trailing clubs to win in the National, five rose from the runnerup spot to overtake the leaders. So it appears that the second place Phils and the front-running St. Louis Cardinals, stand almost as good a chance of winning the pennant.

Here's the race today following yesterday's bargain hits: Detroit leads New York by four games in the American with Cleveland five games behind and Boston six and a half. St. Louis tops Philadelphia by a game and a half in the National. Boston trails by two and a half and Brooklyn by four.

Of the seven holiday doubleheaders played (rain washed out the Athletics-Red Sox twin-bill in Boston), only the Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds won both games. The Cards whipped the Chicago Cubs, 4-1 and 4-3, to pick up a full game on the Phils.

The Reds pulled two and a half games away from the last place Pittsburgh by smacking the Pirates twice, 8-4 and 5-4. In a pair of swiftness, the Phils trampled the Braves, 14-5 in the opener, but Boston came back to win the second, 12-9. The New York Giants shaded the Dodgers, 5-4, in the first game, but dropped the second, 5-3.

Detroit lost a half game off its lead when it divided a doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox while the Yankees gained a victory and a tie against Washington. After bowing, 4-1, the Tigers struggled to a 10-9 victory. The Yankees won the opener, 16-9, then saw the second game halted by darkness after nine innings with the score deadlocked at 3-3.

The St. Louis Browns whipped Cleveland, 8-3 after the Indians won the opener, 8-7. Yesterday's fireworks included three grand-slam homers. That tied a record for most grand slams in one day. Ken Wood of the Browns hit one as did Andy Seminick of the Phillies and Sid Gordon of the Braves. It was Gordon's fourth home run—with the bases full this season, tying a record held by seven others.

Gordon's base-clearer came in the ninth inning of the second game of relief ace Jim Konstanty to enable the Braves to overcome a 9-8 deficit. Brooklyn's Don Newcombe failed for the fourth straight time as the Giants batted him out of the box with a three-run eighth inning to win the opener. Don Mueller's pinch-hit single drove in the tying and winning runs. A fine relief job by Erv Palica helped the Dodgers snap a six-game losing streak in the second.

Bill Wight pitched a five-hitter for his eighth triumph as the White Sox downed the Tigers in the first game. A four-run first and a six-run fifth provided Detroit with all its runs in the second game. Johnny Groth's triple drove in two big runs. Don Johnson, who played first base only because Joe DiMaggio was forced back to the outfield to fill in for the ailing Hank Bauer, smacked two hits in each game for the Yankees. He batted in two for the Yankees. Joe Page was shelved off the mound in Washington's fourth game.

PRETTY PICTURE—Nancy Chaffee prepares to make a snapshot on courts of the Huntington Tennis Club, London. The U.S. Women's Indoor titleholder is competing in the Wimbledon Championships, ending July 8.

Matney Honored By Oilers, Fans Between Games

Homer Matney, ex-Oiler outfielder, was showered with gifts by both fans and players, on what was designated as Homer Matney night in Oiler Park last night.

Between games of the Albuquerque Duke-Pampa Oiler doubleheader, Matney was awarded the gifts and contributions by Jim Arnold, Oiler business manager, acting as master of ceremonies. Roy Parker, Joe Fortin, and Virgil Richardson, who knuckled home runs in the first game, gave Matney the money given them by the fans for their efforts.

Roger Peckinpah, former New York Yankee holds the World Series record for most assists by a shortstop in a game—nine in 1921.

Lobos Win Twin Bill From Gold Sox With Plenty of Fireworks

LAMESA (AP)—Lamesa's Lobos provided plenty of fireworks for an Independence Day crowd of 2,000 fans here last night, taking both ends of a doubleheader from the Amarillo Gold Sox, 7-3 and 9-4.

Bo Dempsey supplied the winning runs in both contests with a pair of homers, pounding his fifth with one aboard in the sixth inning of the opener and poling a grand slam smash in the fifth inning of the nightcap.

Ed Arthur went the distance in the first game, pitching a six-hitter for his seventh win of the campaign, while Ellis Ross came on in relief of Jim Reynolds in the fifth inning of the nightcap to gain his 13th triumph of the season.

The opener was a battle of home runs. Each team cloaked three four-masters, which accounted for all the scoring. Tom Caliento homered for the Sox in the second inning with the bases empty. The visitors added two more in the third when Chick Howard rammed a round-tripper behind Doug Lewis's angle.

Let's Talk Things Over With Gabby Garrison

Umpires, umpires, umpires!!! Everybody's having trouble with umpires.

At least we know that we aren't at all alone in our troublesome dealings with the West Texas-New Mexico League officials. Cries have recently been lifted from all over this area in protest to Milton E. Price, president of the league, concerning the circuit umpiring. Much has been said, but little real action has been taken.

Most recent gripe we have, and it's not an excuse, is the playing of the ball game in Oiler Park on July 3 in the drizzle of rain that began at ten minutes until 10 o'clock, in the fifth inning and lasted throughout the entire game. Many will probably say that I'm merely bitter because we lost it. But actually, I think the game should have been stopped at least at the end of the fifth, and at that time, the Dukes led, 12-9.

Whenever weather conditions endanger the safety of the ball players, then the contest should be stopped. The rain Monday night not only created hazardous conditions on the base paths, but caused the ball to be wet and slippery, making the pitchers throw wild several times. The batters were continually ducking wild pitches, and one of Ramon Salgado's deliveries slipped from his hand, striking the dirt in front of home and hitting Jim Martin, who was playing with a broken nose anyway, in the mask.

But the umpires—Simon, the league chief again, Crain, a name I wouldn't halt the game. And they even tossed Grover Seitz out when he went out to talk to Earl Douie, erratic pitcher, in the fifth. Umpire Welch thought Seitz was stalling and refused him the right to talk things over with Douie. An argument naturally ensued and Seitz was ejected.

Wasn't Welch thought Douie wasn't in enough trouble to cause a conference. He had only given up three hits and three runs in that inning and had the bases loaded when Grover went out to talk to him. If that isn't enough to call a manager out to speak to a hurler, let me calm him down, then we would like to know what is.

But then, during the remainder of the game, the Dukes, after regaining the lead (incidentally, they went on to get eight runs in the fifth) stalling came in. Manager Herschel Martin came in from centerfield to speak to his pitchers twice, and once, Earl Harriman called time out and left his second base slot and went clear out into centerfield to talk to Martin about something that was never made known... and the umpires said nothing.

It looks to me like a plain case of being childish. The umpires appeared to want to exercise their authority a little, and so they did by saying nothing to the Dukes and showing Seitz that they could "get away with murder."

But, it has been that way all over the league. Following is an article taken from the Lamesa Daily Reporter, written by Marvin Veal in his column "Sports Reports." The writing deals with a series of incidents that was capped by a performance made in the Lamesa-Pampa game of June 28, by Umpire Bill Frank, a familiar "villain" to Oiler fans. Veal writes:

"Bring on the seeing-eye dogs for the umpire."

That was the chant that was chanted by some 1,800 baseball fans as they watched Umpire Bill Frank play his best game of the season against the Lobos last night.

Frank, whose voice booms strike calls like a howitzer sounding off, had Lamesas howling mad.

No doubt part of the Lamesas' anger was a holdover from the Amarillo game in which Frank ejected Jodie Beeler and Eulis Rosson from the game. This was the game in which Rosson stated that he did not say one word to Frank when a third strike was called on Frank Calo.

But they also had good reason in last night's game.

Bulla Thinks New Score Will Win British Open Golf Title

Vega's Homer Gives Blue Sox Split in Pair With Gassers

By GLENN WILLIAM.

TROON, Scotland—(AP)—Johnny Bulla figures it will take a new record score to win the British Open Golf Championship—and he aims to set it.

The 72-hole title grind began this morning with the first of four rounds of 183 or better for two days' trials.

Bulla, a Pittsburgh pro, led them with a four-under-par 140 over two courses.

His steady golf made him the talk of the tournament. Bookmakers were regretting they pegged him at 25-1, making him a long shot.

Unusually clear weather with light, gusty breezes has prevailed here for the two qualifying days. "If it stays like this," Bulla said, "I think it probably will take 279 or 280 to win and that's what I'm aiming at."

The record for the British opens is 283 set in 1932 by Gene Sarazen on another course. It has been tied four times since. The Open has been played on this course only once before—in 1923. It took 285 to win.

Zocke blew up yesterday and shot a four-over-par 74 on the Troon course. He bobbed his little white cap and said grumpily, "I ought to be safe here."

The whole field plays one round today and one tomorrow, cutting down to a maximum of 40 low-stretch scores for Friday's 36-hole stretch run.

Three other Americans will be in there shooting—Frank Stranahan, the Toledo, Ohio, amateur who holds the British Amateur title; amateur Jim McHale of Philadelphia and Art Clarke of Huntington, West Va., who spends his summers in England.

Stranahan shot a 69 over the Loch Green course to lead all amateurs in the tournament with 143. McHale shot 144 and Clarke had 147, finishing with a 69.

ABILENE—(AP)—Borger and Abilene divided holiday doubleheader honors here last night, Jim Cain coming up with a three-hitter to defeat the Blue Sox 5-2 in the nightcap after Rene Vega's home run had won the opener for Abilene 2-1.

Lefty Bob McChesney, the rookie baseball-hotshot prospect who's turned pro football this month, looked good indeed in hanging up his sixth victory in his first game. He let the Borger down with four hits and was in control in all but the fourth inning when Borger got his long score by dent of two doubles by Mickey Burnett and Eddie Carnett.

Vega hit his homer with Walt Sess on in the last of the seventh after two outs.

Cain was impressive with his control pitching to limit Abilene to three hits in the second game. Except for three consecutive walks to catcher Art Bowland, who scored after two of them, Cain probably would have won a shutout.

Rene Vega, who has been shinning at shortstop and at bat since replacing manager Stubby Greer at that spot, drove Bowland home with the first run, and Al Duarte double in the fourth to score Bowland and the other. Cain walked Bowland again in the sixth, but Duarte hit into a double play to end that threat.

The Gassers tied the score in the third when Rudy Lorna walked Nim Free and Ted Clawitter and Cain moved them up with a perfect sacrifice, the walkee scoring on a single by Les Crook and a double by Mickey Burnett.

Two walks to Free and Clawitter, and singles by Burnett and Perry accounted for the winning runs in the fifth. Borger added another in the seventh when Free doubled, scored on Burnett's double.

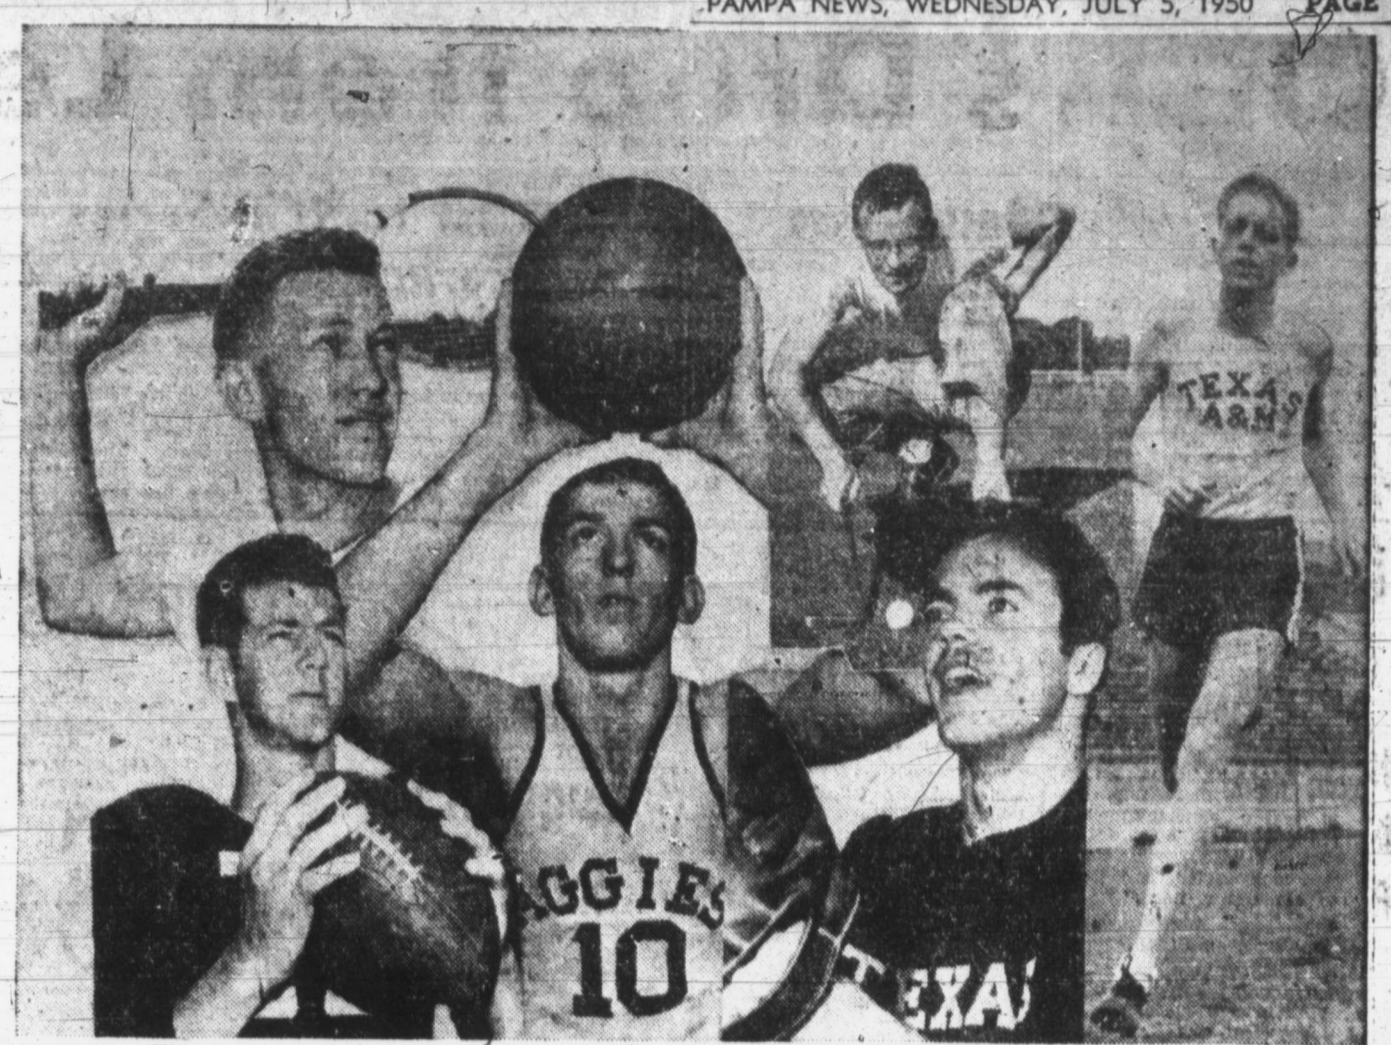

Lees Building Lead in British Tourney As Bulla Fires 140

TROON, Scotland—(AP)—Johnny Bulla, the former airplane pilot from Pittsburgh, zoomed to a three over par 73 this morning in the first round of the British Open golf tourney.

That was five strokes off the early lead, posted by Arthur Lees, a British professional.

Bulla, handsome, curly-haired American who twice has been a runner-up in this tourney, won the medal honors in two days of qualifying prior to today's start. His score then was 70-70-140.

Only remarkable recovery shots kept him in the running today.

Drobney Established Favorite In All-England Tennis Tourney

WIMBLEDON, England—(AP)—Jaroslav Drobney, left-handed, tennis player with a sizzling service, was the new favorite today to win the all-England men's singles championship.

The wise boys were loosening their money on the self-exiled Czech, who now enters international lawn tennis events as an Egyptian.

Drobney, they figured before today's quarter-final matches, had the greatest incentive. If he wins the tournament, he is expected to turn professional with Bobby Riggs' American circuit.

Drobney has not lost a set in any of his matches.

By now, the American girls should know the cup well enough to call it Whitley.

After all these years, you'd think they'd retire the cup and begin playing for the saucer.

Remember the old days when you'd make sure who was going to pitch before going to a ball game? You wanted to see one particular hurler in action.

These days, you don't have to worry about details—just go

Pampan's Horse Sets New Record With 1:54 Time

RUIDOSO, N.M.—(AP)—Dizzy Castle, owned by L. W. Hollis of Pampa, raced a mile and one-sixteenth in 1:54 here yesterday to set a new record at the Hollywood Park race track.

The long shot paid $24.60, $7.80, $4.10.

Bernie Cregor, second baseman for the Omaha Cardinals, recently came to bat twice in the same inning against Colorado Springs—and was hit by the pitcher both times.

Mangrum Tops Sam Snead in Golf Tourney

DETROIT—(AP)—Lloyd Mangrum won $2,600 top prize money in the Motor City Open golf tournament yesterday, but may have touched off a minor feud with Sammy Snead.

The Chicagoan nosed out Snead by one stroke, coming from behind in the final nine holes of the 72-hole play to win with 275.

Snead, No. 1 money winner among the nation's golf pros this year, blew a three-stroke lead on that final nine, climaxing his day by missing a four-foot putt for a birdie on the 18th hole that would have given him a tie with Mangrum and sent the match into a sudden death playoff. He had to settle for a par.

Mangrum reportedly irked Snead when he went to the locker room after the match and jokingly congratulated Sam on missing the putt.

One pro said the locker room incident "simply resulted from a joking remark that missed fire."

Women Reach Peak at 40, Actor Charles Coburn Says

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — After observing the opposite sex for most of his 73 years, Charles Coburn concludes that "a woman doesn't reach her peak until she's at least 40."

The famed actor with the monocle and the putting lip delivered the opinion at his spacious and moment-filled home.

"Put any woman past 40 in a room full of debutantes," he proposed. "In a few minutes, you will see that she has monopolized the attention and has the men in her control."

"Why? Because she has learned to make the man seem the center of importance. Younger girls feel that they must be the focus of attention. They don't realize until later in life that men do not like that."

Coburn warmed up to his subject and spoke in the soft tones of his native Georgia.

"A woman past 40 may have lost some of her youthfulness, but she has gained an inner beauty which is more important. She is better educated. She knows more about culture and can converse with more charm. She can cook better. She knows how to comfort a man."

A man, he added, doesn't reach maturity until 50.

"After all, women are always more advanced than their men. Women are closer to life, they understand it better. For it is the woman who gives life, the man is merely an incident or an accident in the birth of a child."

"A girl of 12 or 14 is always more advanced than a boy of the same age. In fact, it starts earlier. A girl baby may be bored in a room full of women. But let a man enter the room and she will start preening her feathers."

The actor admitted that life began at 40 for him.

"When my wife died," he recalled, "I was terribly depressed. I had an offer to come to Hollywood and I took it, even though I had no desire to do movies. But I found the work fascinating and I have never been happier."

Besides a heavy film schedule, he devotes time to his trotting horses and to actors' clubs. He also has a varied social life. He interrupted our chat to make dates with a producer for a night baseball game and with Glenn Ford and Eleanor Powell for the opera at Hollywood Bowl.

(Editor's Note: This is another in a series of articles by two Pampa youths who are bound for Yellowstone National Park in Isabel, a 1950 Model A Ford.)

By ROBERT DIXON and KENNETH WILLIAMS

DRIVING TOWARD EVANSTON, WYOMING — We have been traveling for the last two days so not much has happened. We have come all from Grand Junction, Colorado, to Evanston, Wyoming which is a goodly little ways for Isabel.

After spending yesterday a little way from Grand Junction we hit the desert. And we mean the desert! We had forgotten to fill our water cans at Grand Junction and we hit the desert with hardly a drop to our name. The only water we had was just enough to put into the radiator. Not that Izzy got hot, but she erupted every few minutes. We finally got so desperate we had to buy some gas in order to get a radiator full of water. Sure did get thirsty there for a while.

Believe you me, if you ever plan to cross the desert do it at night, if it is at all possible. If you hit it during the day like us, you will literally cook.

All the way across the miniature Hades we kept seeing signs telling us not to miss the roadside "geyser." We didn't. The roadside "geyser" is located at Price, Utah. The first thing we noticed about the "geyser" is that it didn't live up to advance publicity. It didn't shoot up 45 feet as the signs had said. It was a miniature of what we will see in Yellowstone. The geyser erupts about every fifteen minutes and it starts with a big bubble over the hole that the water shoots out of. It was the biggest bubble we ever saw; it was as big as one a bubble dancer uses (we think).

From the geyser we drove on into Price, Utah. Here we got extravagant again and got a Hallelujah! We just hit Wyoming! It's just about 350 miles to Yellowstone.

The road from Price into Utah is a little bit better than the road into Price. Not so much to see some interesting things. Price has a population of over seven thousand people. And some pretty high prices in the cafes.

We had to eat hamburgers for supper because everything else was too steep.

This morning we got up and went oil hunting. The supply we got in Colorado Springs was a about to run out. We didn't have to go too far to find Izzy's miracle medicine. After going to about four filling stations we finally struck oil at the Wayne Motor Company in Price. We got about four gallons of the kickapoo joy juice.

Hallelujah! We just hit Wyoming! It's just about 350 miles to Yellowstone.

The road from Price into Utah is a little bit better than the road into Price. Not so much to see some interesting things. Price has a population of over seven thousand people. And some pretty high prices in the cafes.

mountains and alongside some rivers. They are not as pretty as the ones in Colorado though.

Just a little way before you come into Provo, we hit our first four-lane highway. It is a lot better traveling on a four-lane highway than it is the other kind but we didn't get to Provo it long, for just outside of Provo we once again hit the two-lane highway.

From Provo it was a series of bumpy roads and small towns until we hit Evanston.

Tomorrow we hope to get into striking distance of Yellowstone because we are just now in Evanston, Wyo. When we get to Yellowstone we hope once again to see some interesting things through Isabel's windshield.

Explosion Rocks British Vessel

BIRKENHEAD, Eng. — (AP) — An explosion rocked the 10,000-ton British ship Cheshire in the Mersey River today and 40 men were reported injured.

The blast occurred while the Bibby Line vessel was being fumigated.

Six of the 40 taken to hospitals were believed to be in a serious condition.

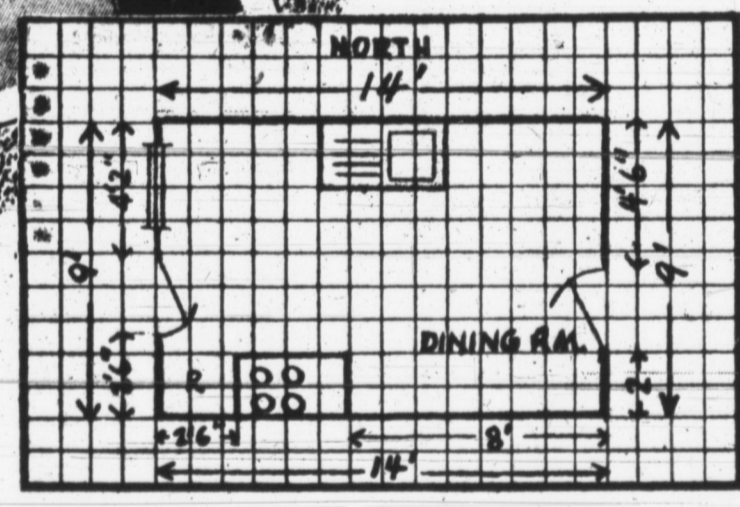

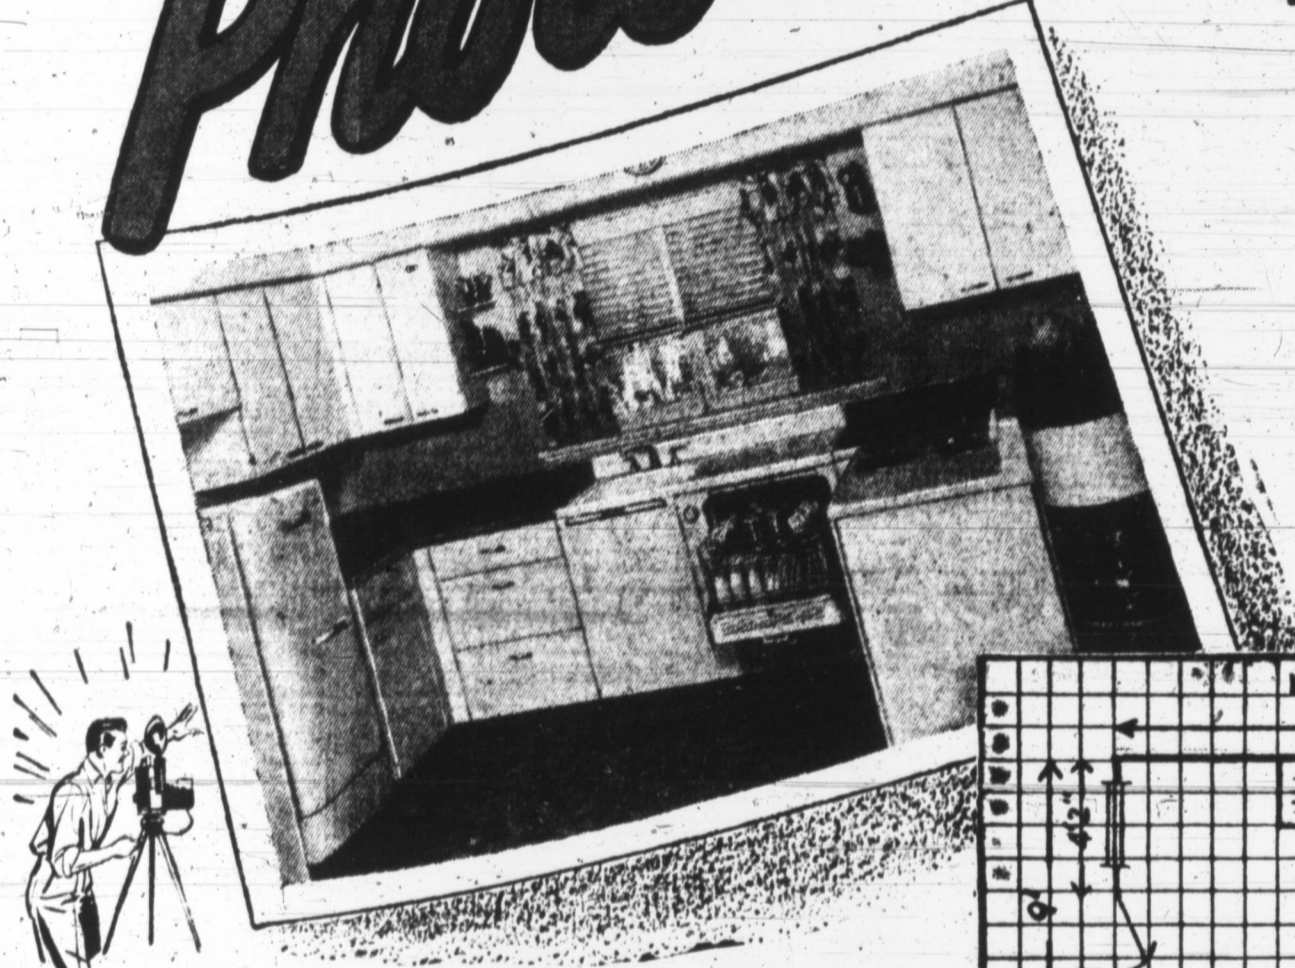

Many of the men were affected by the fumigating gas. Firemen in gas helmets searched the bow of the ship for further victims.

Malaria-Plagued Sardinia Liveable Now Through DDT

ROME (NEA)—A million Italians, four times as many as lived in Italy's pre-war African colonies, are scheduled to be resettled in Sardinia as a sequel to the cleanup of the island's deadly mosquitoes recently completed with Marshall Plan funds.

Helicopters supplied by the Economic Cooperation Administration sprayed DDT into inaccessible gorges and swamps in the final assault on the stubborn insects that had hampered development of the island for 3,200 years.

Sardinia, a rich and beautiful island about the size of Vermont, was a pest-hole, according to Phoenician accounts of 1200 B.C. Ancient Roman emperors confidently sent political enemies there to die.

The island remained unpopulated and more backward even than Italy's southern provinces because until 1946 malaria had grown worse year by year. In 1938 the railroads stopped running on the island for days because all the train crews were down with malaria. Fertile valleys, silver mines, and rich coal deposits were only partially developed.

As soon as Italy was liberated in World War II, the Rockefeller Foundation at the Army's request began to spray houses with DDT. In 1946 work began on Sardinia.

The Foundation in 1947 sent a young Canadian-born physician, Dr. John A. Logan, who had fought malaria during the war in the Amazon Valley with the Army. He felt so confident of success that he soon brought his wife and two small children to the island.

Dr. Logan learned the native language—a strange dialect to make sure that "the last mosquito was dead."

In 1950 Sardinia, for the first year since the time of Christ, is a safe place to live. With Marshall Plan aid, roads are being restored, aqueducts, bridges, hospitals and houses built, plumbing and sewage systems planned. These are making work for the many unemployed on the island, and communism is losing its last toe-hold among the Sardinians.

Lisbon Court Releases Five Held As Reds

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—A court has released four men and a woman—all political opponents of Premier Dr. Antonio de Oliveira Salazar—after nearly 11 months in prison because they criticized the government in pamphlets.

The defendants were arrested at Mozambique, in Portuguese East Africa last September, and brought here to Caxais Prison shortly afterward.

But the public prosecutor announced at a hearing yesterday he had no evidence that the five either belonged to the Communist Party, is charged, or had attempted to discredit the country.

The court chief justice ruled that a recent amnesty grant protected them from having written criticisms of the government, and he was convinced they were not Communists. He ordered their release.

GOLDEN AMATEUR
NEW YORK (AP)—The golden anniversary edition of the U.S. amateur golf championship will be staged this year at the Minneapolis Golf Club, Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 21-26. The championship will be entirely a match play, after the original entry list is trimmed to 210 by sectional qualifying rounds of 36 holes at stroke play. Former USGA and British amateur champions, the 1949 Canadian amateur champion and winners of the USGA amateur public links and junior amateur championships are exempt from sectional qualifying.

Charles R. Coe, of Oklahoma City, Okla., won the championship last year at the Oak Hill Country Club, Rochester, N.Y.

Car Tags Along For Free Ride

BOSTON (AP)—Jacob Garfinkle of Stoneham was sure his car had lost much of its zip during a two-mile drive. He was about to enter a garage to find out about the sudden loss of power when he looked behind him. There, tightly hooked to his rear bumper was a driverless automobile.

He told police he apparently drove away from a parking space with the stowaway automobile securely hitched to his.

Blaze Big Job, But Bull Bigger

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—The fence was flimsy. The bull was big. Fire Chief Tom Pollard made a decision. He let the fire burn.

Children with firecrackers started the blaze in a hollow tree in a pasture at the edge of the city yesterday.

Chief Pollard and his firefighters were called. They started rolling on the hose. Then Cork Daniel, a red-haired fireman, saw the bull coming. "He was big," Daniel said.

Only a flimsy fence separated the animal and the new bright red fire truck.

"Let's get out of here," Chief Pollard shouted.

The fire in the tree still was smoldering early today.

The Car that puts your Best Foot forward

We think you'll agree that the whole story of an automobile isn't told in its power, its room, its styling, even in its ride.

And don't overlook this: That graceful sweep of chrome along the fender—found on no other car made today—is a mighty eye-catching note of distinction.

Those four Ventiports, too, cause many a head to turn—they mark you unmistakably as the owner of the biggest and best Buick built—a car as fine and rich as any man has need for.

There are a lot of good, solid, dollars-and-cents reasons for making ROADMASTER your choice over any other car:

Its size. The commanding performance of its 152-hp Fireball valve-in-head straight-eight engine. Dynaflo Drive standard. A ride that's quite matchless in its gentle softness. Distinguished styling from bold, protective front end to gleaming "double bubble" taillight.

But if you're ready for a car that's more than just an automobile—if you want one that puts your best foot forward in any company—that's the real reason for seeing your Buick dealer quickly—to talk turkey about a ROADMASTER.

HADACOL GREAT TO BUILD UP WEAK, RUN-DOWN PEOPLE AFTER BEING OPERATED ON!

Helps Convalescents Get Back Strength and Feel Better Where Systems Lack Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin
MANY DOCTORS RECOMMEND IT!

Mr. Francis Burnham, 414 East Monroe Street, Jacksonville 2, Florida, who had such deficiencies: "I had read about your HADACOL and heard about it on the radio, but I was afraid to try it because I have recently undergone an operation. But after taking one trial bottle I just can't help but want to pass it on to others. I had to rush home from work and get in bed as soon as possible for fear I wouldn't get enough rest, but still the next day I was tired, worn out and sleepy. My stomach was nervous and upset. And I couldn't eat a thing that didn't give me indigestion. Now I go to work and feel more like getting out in the amusement world when I've finished my day's work. Thanks to HADACOL." (Why don't you try HADACOL.)

C. B. Sutherland, Route 1, Box 62, Callahan, Florida, whose system was so deficient: "I just got my fifth bottle of your HADACOL and I can say it's done me more good than any medicine I ever took. I am 62 years old and have had five operations and had been doing very well until around July, 1949. I quit eating and could not do any kind of light work. Then I started to take HADACOL and now I eat anything and I work all day. Thanks to HADACOL. (I am a retired railroad storekeeper.)"

Ada Shepard, 24 Main Street, North Vernon, Indiana, whose system lacked these elements: "I'm fifty-five years old and have had three operations a few years apart. I work in the Regal Rug Factory and am the head of the Arm Department and on my feet all day. For such a long time I was so tired and run-down I could hardly get up and go to work. I could not sleep nights and was just as nervous as I could be. I kept hearing about HADACOL, so I decided to try it. I've just finished my first bottle, but I feel like a new person. My whole life seems different, so I can truthfully and highly recommend HADACOL."

Mrs. A. C. Myrick, General Delivery, Fairhope, Alabama, who had such deficiencies: "Right after my operation I heard about HADACOL. I've taken about six bottles of HADACOL and I feel fine. I am 44 years old and I feel so good since I started taking your HADACOL. I must say HADACOL is truly a wonderful product, and I intend to keep it in my home." (Note: HADACOL is not only a wonderful "builder-upper" for folks convalescing after operations, but also for people whom serious illness has left weak, run-down, because their systems lack Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin.)

Gives You That Wonderful HADACOL Feeling!

If you are weakened, run-down or in a nervous condition after an operation or while convalescing from a serious illness because your system is lacking in Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin—start taking HADACOL at once.

This wonderful HADACOL product not only supplies deficient systems with more than their daily needs of important Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin but also helpful amounts of precious Calcium, Phosphorus and Manganese—elements you must have to maintain good health and to keep physically fit.

HADACOL is simply wonderful to relieve stomach distress, nervous disorders, insomnia, constipation, aches and pains of neuritis due to such deficiencies.

TEEN TALK

AP Newsfeatures
If you can't get out in the woods to picnic under a pine tree, you should plan a picnic—even if it is only under the backyard elm. It's the picnic—and of course the food—that makes the picnic, so what difference does it make where you go to enjoy it? If the only trees you know are the ones in the local park, plan your picnic for that spot.

The girls of course should bring the food, but let the boys contribute to the cost, unless of course they supply the beverage or car or foot or other expenses connected with the party.

That picnic you really can surpass in fun with the food. Instead of packing picnic food in the car, you can bring along some chicken or some hamburger for a picnic. If you take the chicken, you can season it with a hot tomato relish. Then all you do is put each chicken wrapped in foil over the wire. If it should fall into the fire, you can't be anything because the foil will burn. Also bring along potato chips wrapped in aluminum foil. These can be cooked over a fire in the tin.

And bring a new track with handkerchiefs. Take your handkerchiefs, wrap it around a necktie, for a picnic. If you have a picnic, you will have a picnic. If you have a picnic, you will have a picnic.

If you decide to make lemonade, take along one or two fresh lemons or lemons to add to the lemonade. After it has been diluted, that way you will get a naturally tangy flavor.

Perhaps you will not succeed in bringing the picnic to the picnic. If you start to the picnic, or hamburger cooked in the conventional way, it is not what they want, but by a new recipe. A delicious hamburger of hot dog mix can be made by mixing catfish and English mustard, then adding a few strips of tartar sauce. Your gang will love it. Hot dogs are good also with ketchup and mustard combined.

If you take sandwiches on the picnic, don't use gooey fillings such as tomatoes which make the sandwiches soggy. Hard boiled eggs or whole tomatoes—if they can be kept cold—make tasty additions to the picnic lunch.

For a group that is interested in horses, popular picnics today are held in the vicinity of the stables where equestrians can sport their new riding clothes. Usually riding academies have a picnic area nearby where a group can picnic for lunch when they show down to a gallop.

One thing about a picnic to keep in mind, no matter where you have it, is that the place should be left just as clean as when you found it.

And don't forget to put out your picnic. Here are a few you made one.

Packaged gingerbread or chocolate cream can be stored with sweetened whipped cream, piled one on top of the other, and then refrigerated for about six hours. Cut through the stack of cookies and cream diagonally and serve as desert slices.

Sun Fashion Spotlights Your Feet: Pedicures Make Them 'Show Worthy'

This summer's lacework shoes and barefoot styles make pedicures as important as manures for tip-toe beauty.

By ALICIA HART
NKA Staff Writer

There are emerging from hiding and summer's here. Boldly revealing the ankles at beach or pool, they are also peeking forth on more formal occasions, thanks to this season's open-work shoes and beaver hosiery.

This is less than welcome news to those of us who have neglected our feet all winter, showing them aside with quick nail trims and hasty pedicures. Now is the time to look presentable in dance slippers and afternoon shoes as well as barefoot beach sandals.

Toes should be filed with a coarse board into modified almond shapes, never than they are long. Never let the nails extend beyond the ends of your toes if you want to preserve your stockings.

Starches which have grown scraggly during their unattended months should be eased back into place with your thumbs. Both toenails and thumbs should be lubricated with a rich cream before beginning this process.

Clearse your feet with a disinfectant solution which you can mix yourself. This is made by adding three drops of ammonia to one teaspoonful of peroxide. A good tool for swabbing under the nails is an orange stick with a bit of cotton-twisted around one end.

Next, scrub the toenails with soap and water. A cold rinse and a thorough drying finish the cleaning routine and you are ready to add nail polish for color and a touch of glamor.

Between pedicures, massage your feet with a lubricating cream to help keep the skin smooth. When your feet perspire, apply a cooling, refreshing astringent.

To keep your feet fresh and dainty throughout the summer, take a habit of dusting both your feet and the inside of your shoes with scented powder before slipping into your hose each morning.

If you have a spare shelf keep your picnic supplies together and handy—a basket, vacuum bottle or jug, paper cups and plates, paper napkins, saltshakers and pepper, sandwich bags of waxed paper, a roll of aluminum foil and one of waxed paper for wrapping picnic foods. You might also add a few grocery supplies.

Grace Friend

SEVENTEEN AND IN LOVE
Dear Grace Friend:

I have been reading your column for quite a while and I have always thought your advice was both frank and intelligent.

Well I never thought I would need advice in my love life—but I do now—I really do.

I am 17—You probably think this is pretty young to be having love troubles—but well, you see, all my life I have always been sure of myself where boys were concerned. I've had my share of dates but never once have I fallen in love. I have always gone with boys just to be going somewhere and while I have always liked the fellow I went out with I never really cared for one fellow.

But I finally met that right guy. We went together for two wonderful months and we had so much in common. But all at once he just wrote me off his list—disappeared with no explanations whatever.

I haven't seen him for three weeks now and as he lives in a different town, I'll probably never see him again if one of us doesn't do something about it.

I have been taught since I was a little girl never to run after a boy. Perhaps I have carried this to an extreme for I never once told this fellow how I felt about him. I always felt the boy should make the first step. Although we both admitted that we liked each other—it never went any further.

Before he went with me he had gone steady with a girl for quite a while before the thing broke up. I still think he likes me—either that or I was certainly taken for a ride.

What do you think, Miss Friend? Should I do something about him—or just let things go?

Joan

Dear Joan:
It wouldn't do any harm if you two had been quite friendly to write your friend a note and invite him to some affair at your home or that of a friend. Make your note casual but let him know that you would prefer to have him for your escort.

That will let him know that you enjoy his company and would like to see more of him.

If he fails to accept your invitation, you had better try to forget him.

You are quite young and your heart will heal and there will be many more girls in your life so don't grieve about him.

★ WE, THE WOMEN
By ELITE
MILLET
NKA Staff Writer

Why is it that one woman can move to a new town and in a short time become a real part of the community, while another housewife can move to a new place and years later still feel that she doesn't belong and that home is somewhere else?

Here are some of the more important reasons for the difference.

One woman makes up her mind immediately that wherever she lives is home. The other refuses to stop thinking of home as being the place she has left.

One woman makes an effort to become a part of the community by immediately becoming an active church member, letting it be known that she is willing to work in P.T.A. and other community projects. The other hangs back and years later is often part in whatever is going on.

One woman is interested enough in other people to remember their names, their interests, and the step from stranger to acquaintance. The other is often accomplished in a hurry for her. The other can meet the same person several times without recognition. She blames it on a poor memory for names, but what it actually is, of course, is a lack of interest in other people.

One woman is prompt about returning any hospitality that is offered to her. The other has good intentions—but it takes a long time to get around to following up an invitation with one of her own.

One woman is vitally interested in her new town and everything that affects it. The other is interested mainly in how it is inferior to the place she left.

One woman has her life so arranged that she can offer hospitality on the spur of the moment. The other is waiting for the most chance opportunities for getting better acquainted with people she meets. The other has to know days in advance if she is to have guests.

These are some of the reasons why one woman can fit herself into a new environment in short order—and another woman remains an outsider for a long, long time.

Pressure Cookers Discussed by Bell HD Club

There is no pressure cooker taste and something is wrong if your food has a taste other than the natural flavor," said Mrs. Charles Warminski at a recent Bell Home Demonstration Club meeting at which members studied the pressure cooker method of cooking. "It is very important to steam the foods in the container before processing time is counted," she continued. "Use enamel lids as they won't rust or turn foods. Cook pressure canned, nonacid food 20 minutes after opening before eating."

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Carl Smith, and was called to order by the president, Mrs. Emmett Osborne. Roll call was answered with "my pet peeve."

Refreshments were served to Mrs. David Collis, Grace Morris, Ernest McKnight, Lloyd Collis, D. W. Swain, Tom Anderson, Walter Noel, G. Dueterhaus, Emmet Osborne, and Charles Warminski.

The water bath method of canning was demonstrated for Bell HD members in the home of Mrs. Nolan Cole by the home demonstration agent, Mrs. Mary Anne Duke.

Mrs. H. C. Dueterhaus explained the proper method of storing canned goods. The open kettle method of canning fruits is outdated, she said, and the new method, which gives better quality, more food value, and helps fruits keep better, is the water bath method.

Mrs. Walter Noel was elected THDA delegate to council. Others present were Mrs. Ernest McKnight, Henry Urbanczyk, Carl Smith, Emmet Osborne, D. W. Swain, David Collis, Tom Anderson, Charles Warminski, and Grace Morris.

The bridegroom is engaged in farming and ranching with his father, east of Groom, where the newlyweds will make their home.

The young couple left on a wedding trip to New Mexico and Colorado immediately after the ceremony.

One of the most unusual bridge events of the year is the annual Intercollegiate Tournament. This year 151 colleges in 42 states competed in the early rounds of this tournament. Students from 16 colleges won their way to the Chicago finals, held in April. More than 1200 college students had a chance in the early rounds to show their skill with this hand. A very large number bid and played it correctly. At most tables, the opening lead was the queen of diamonds. South took this first trick he received a nice round zero. The correct play is to allow West to hold the first trick with the queen of diamonds. South wins the diamond continuation (no shift would do any good) and enters dummy with a club to take the trump finesse. West takes his king of spades and gets out, easily by returning a spade or club. Having lost a diamond and a spade, South must make sure to

UPSTAIRS Bill Jarvis met Joe Coulter. Bill pulled the telegram out of his pocket and Coulter read it in silence. Bill had already read the message: "LLOYD AND I MARRIED TODAY. VERY HAPPY. PLEASE BILL NO REGRETS OR HARD FEELINGS. BEV."

Coulter handed the paper back. "About the same as the one we got a moment ago, Bill. I hope it wasn't a case of—of rebound."

Bill was remembering Bev's silence after the picnic, her feverish bridge playing. Perhaps she had felt as frustrated and trapped as Bill had. This morning Bev had wanted to write an admission from him, possibly to save face, or make the way easier for herself, or both of them.

"It's just a hunch," said Bill, "but I think that she is just as she says—very happy."

A few minutes later Bill had escaped to his room and was at the phone. "Hildy," he said, "I've got to see you. Right away. Meet me on that little wooden dock in 15 minutes."

"Are you mad? I'm packing and I'm not dressed. Besides, you know how I feel about—"

"But," Bill shook a reeling head, "I still don't see..."

There was a notable pause. Then, "M-married? Bill, if this is a gag, I'll murder you."

"But," Mrs. Fasker was saying, "I've told nobody else. You can tell Hildy, if you like. But let it stop there! Certainly I wouldn't want that nice Coulter man to find out."

"I murder good on wooden docks. Make it 10 minutes."

"Mrs. Fasker," he said swiftly, "tomorrow I'll tell you just how well I..."

He rang off and bounded downstairs. On the side verandah sat Mrs. Fasker, alone.

"Let her wait," advised Mrs. Fasker, "because you'll probably be doing the waiting for the rest of your natural life. But I just wanted to say, it couldn't happen to a nicer guy." She grinned up at him. "Now beat it, young Bill! You're making me nervous."

She looked at him pityingly. "Bill, you're a neophyte in these matters. Certainly I heard, Caroline Marr was in on the plot. She and Bev are thick as molasses. But Caroline couldn't keep it to herself. She told Muriel Graydon, and a couple of others, in confidence. And Muriel and a couple of others told me, in confidence."

"Good gosh," said Bill. "Mrs. Fasker's eyes were penetrating: 'I want to know just how you feel about it. Because I like you. And I like Hildy Sands. I like you for each other too. All right, Bill Jarvis. Come clean!'"

Suddenly Bill was aware of a load lifted from his mind. He had no notion why, if she'd fallen for Lloyd, Bev had let him come up here. But, probably because the invitation was of long standing, and its cancellation would have been difficult to explain to the elder Coulters.

"Now," Mrs. Fasker was saying, "I've told nobody else. You can tell Hildy, if you like. But let it stop there! Certainly I wouldn't want that nice Coulter man to find out."

"Don't worry!"

JUST then light footsteps sounded from the front of the verandah. Bill jerked erect; craned his neck. Something like a tall slim wraith slipped down the steps toward the lake.

"Mrs. Fasker," he said swiftly, "tomorrow I'll tell you just how well I..."

"Her old hand suffered. 'I know. Well, go on! Go on!'"

"But as he sprang away, she called: 'Bill!'"

"Let her wait," advised Mrs. Fasker, "because you'll probably be doing the waiting for the rest of your natural life. But I just wanted to say, it couldn't happen to a nicer guy." She grinned up at him. "Now beat it, young Bill! You're making me nervous."

lose only one heart trick. After drawing three rounds of trumps, declarer runs all of the clubs, ending in dummy. He then leads the jack of hearts and lets it ride for a finesse.

"The permanent Secretariat Building of the United Nations, now being erected on New York's east side, will be 39 stories high and have about 20 acres of floor space."

West can win with the queen of hearts, but is then helpless. If he returns a heart, dummy will win a trick with the ten. If West returns his only remaining suit (diamonds), dummy can ruff while South discards his remaining low heart.

But he turned out to be an urbane gentleman from Washington, D. C., who, until two years ago, was a member of the staff of David Lawrence's organization there.

The reason South gets a zero for winning the first trick is that this allows the opponents to upset the declarer. For example, suppose South wins the ace of diamonds at the first trick and goes to dummy with a club to take the trump finesse. West wins a trick with the ten, if West returns his only remaining suit (diamonds), dummy can ruff while South discards his remaining low heart.

He gave up that job and came to Texas. "to take things easy." He is working harder than ever—what with the usual tasks of a

If South takes his ace of hearts, he must eventually give up two tricks in that suit. If he plays low, West wins with the queen of hearts and returns a spade or a club. Thereafter West waits patiently to take the setting trick with his king of hearts.

Although carbon dioxide makes up only a tiny fraction of the earth's atmosphere, one scientist estimates there are about 2,200,000,000,000 tons of it, equal to some 600,000,000,000 tons of pure carbon.

"Now ain't that something?" he wrote in protest as he pointed out that Palo Pinto, nee Golconda, has always been the county seat of Palo Pinto County. The historic old village with its fine new courthouse is one of the most picturesque in Texas. It is an unincorporated village. But Palo Pintoans are loyal to it as the seat of government of the county. Several years ago, Mineral Wells attempted to have the county seat moved, but the county voters decreed otherwise.

Death Penalty Given Two in Romania Trial

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia — (AP) — The Prague official radio said today that a military court in Bucharest, Romania, has sentenced to death.

Five others received sentences last night ranging from seven to 20 years imprisonment at hard labor. The lightest sentence, the radio said, went to Nicolai Popescu, former chauffeur in the Roman Catholic Apostolic Nunciature (Vatican Embassy) in Bucharest.

Vasile Ciobanu, a former pilot for one-time King Mihai, and Nicolai Valasan, former official of the Romanian merchant fleet, were sentenced to death.

In previous reports of the case, Czechoslovakia press and radio agencies have said that Bishop Gerald P. O'Hara of Scranton, Pa., and Savannah, Ga., had engaged Popescu to spy for him. Bishop O'Hara is the Papal Nuncio (ambassador).

During the trial the defendants were accused of sending reports on Romanian industry and military strength to espionage centers for western powers and the Vatican.

country weekly, plus keeping the AP from moving the county seat out from under him.

He likes the people: "I'm one of 'em," he says, adding, "And I'm publisher of my own paper and not the hired hand. There's hard work and minuscule income but it's a great life."

The Palo Pinto Star is reputed to be the oldest paper of continuous publication in Texas, west of Fort Worth, and just celebrated its 74th birthday. It's the oldest business institution in the county. The George Washington hand press on which the paper was printed for more than 50 years still is used as a proof press in the shop.

And as we say goodbye to beautiful Palo Pinto, gateway to the hills of West Texas, we are reminded again that—Palo Pinto is the county seat of Palo Pinto County. Mineral Wells is not.

TOKYO — (AP) — First Lieut. Jack B. Eno, 28, Lansing, Mich., was blown back to life during a bomber mission last week.

Returning from a strike in Korea, Eno discovered one of his bombs stuck in the bomb bay of Japanese fishing boats, and later, his B-29. He could not shake it by a jolt which returned him loose. When his gasoline ran to his base, he suffered only minor

Soviet Monitor Gives Diplomats Bad 15 Minutes

LONDON — (AP) — The Soviet monitor gave international experts a bad 15 minutes last night.

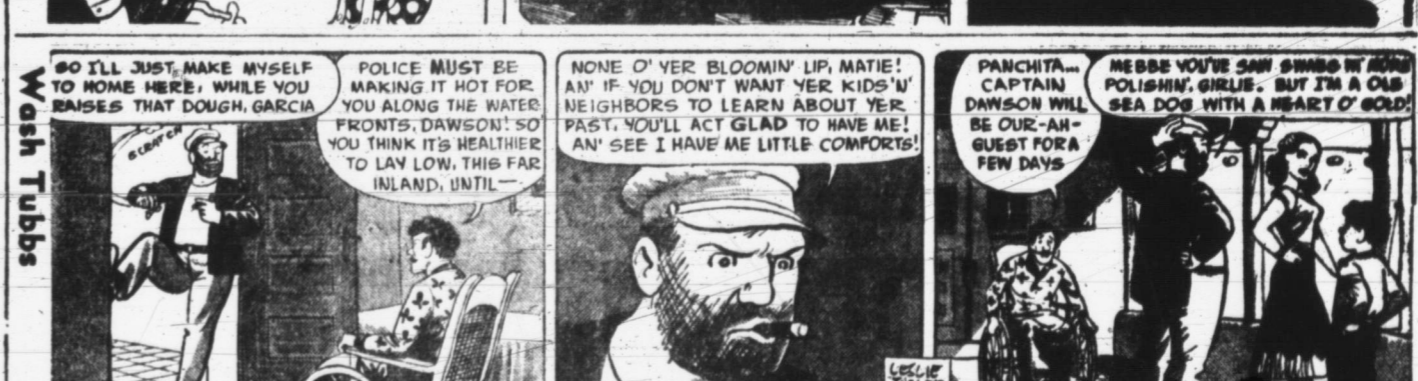

First he released a Tass dispatch from New York saying that politburo member Georgi M. Malenkov had written U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie that the Soviet Union would not attend the Geneva 11th session of the United Nations.

Later the monitor said it was all an erroneous translation. Tass, he explained, had reported that Soviet U.N. Delegate Jakob Malik had written Lie that Russia would not attend the economic and social council meeting in Geneva.

Since January the Russians have boycotted all U.N. meetings attended by representatives of the Chinese Nationalists.

The Assyrians and Babylonians made clay wall tiles and decorated them with colored glazes as early as the 9th century B.C.

Transit Strike Hits Buffalo, Niagara Falls

BUFFALO, N.Y. — (AP) — A strike by 1,700 bus drivers and mechanics today halted public transportation for approximately 800,000 residents of the Buffalo-Niagara Falls area. At 2 a.m., an official of the Niagara Frontier Transit Corp. announced: "The strike is in." Officials of Local 342 of the AFL Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees were not available for comment. The union seeks a 32-cent hourly increase in the present rate of $1.38 an hour. Holiday pay and other fringe issues also are in dispute. The company originally offered a boost of three cents an hour.

This was increased during negotiations to seven cents. The company also offered several improvements in working conditions. However, union officials charged that the company proposals had "too many strings attached." The transit company holds the local franchises in Buffalo, the nation's 14th largest city with a population of 876,000, and in Niagara Falls, which has nearly 80,000 residents. It also serves much of the suburban area for the two cities, which are 27 miles apart. The firm took over the franchises June 1 from the bankrupt International Railway Company. Only three days ago, the company retired the last of Buffalo's trolley cars, completing a 100 percent changeover to bus operation. MORGAN CITY, La., Review: "While basic material prices are rising and advances are being announced for numerous finished products at the manufacturer and distributor levels, the retail merchant generally is doing business at the old prices. Study Trucks' Effect on Roads

The nation's governors believe big trucks are seriously damaging U. S. highways. They blame "deliberate overloading" for much of the harm.

At the recent governors' conference they got support for their views from Thomas MacDonald, U. S. Public Roads commissioner. He has long charged the trucking industry with consciously violating state laws limiting truck loads.

This whole issue is confused by the conflicting claims of truckers and highway engineers. The Association of State Highway Officials recommends 18,000 pounds per axle as the safe weight for ordinary highway pavements.

But the truckers say the recommended limit is too low. They argue that poor engineering, weathering and other factors have more to do with highway damage than overloading.

They declare further that they will abide by the findings of impartial tests bearing on the effect of heavy truck loading.

Highway Bureau conducting a series of such tests. Bureau officials insist they are strictly down the middle and have no wish to favor one side or the other in this dispute.

Yet, if they do not rate them satisfactory, it would seem fair from the public's standpoint that they devote their energies to arranging for suitable experiments.

And it would seem proper, too, that the state highway departments be made before lobbying in state after state for higher weight limits. Evidence is definite that truckers have already been successful in such a campaign in many states. It is hard to see how these activities with their expressed willingness to accept scientific, impartial findings on weight limits. What if sound tests show that 18,000 pounds per axle is a wise ceiling?

Furthermore, there can be no justification for any deliberate flouting of weight limits, which a governor after governor has charged.

No one anywhere is questioning the role of the truck in the U. S. transportation economy. No one wants to ride off the road on the waves of the big truck.

The average American who probably drives a car, and almost certainly pays some of the taxes that build U. S. highways, naturally would like to be sure that his roads are not abused. He would like to see that the highway laws of the 48 states reflect the scientific facts about highway damage.

Until those facts can be determined, all legislative action relating to weight limits ought to be suspended. This is MacDonald's advice to the governors, and also the urging of the Council of State Governments. Let's hope the truckers can join to create a united front of all parties concerned with highway safety and maintenance.

GORDO, Ala. Pickens Progressive Age: "Public ownership or control of enterprise, public operation of a profession such as medicine, public financing housing for able bodied citizens, any enforced distribution of wealth which denies property rights; these are all standards of socialism in any socialist textbook."

Washington.....by Peter Edson

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (NEA)—Illinois has had a long tradition of open gambling. Also, it is the manufacturing center for most of the coin-machine industry, to give the state a polite name. This in spite of the fact that for over 50 years slot machines have been illegal.

The whole issue is confused by the conflicting claims of truckers and highway engineers. The Association of State Highway Officials recommends 18,000 pounds per axle as the safe weight for ordinary highway pavements.

Just where the corruption went in past state administrations, Governor Stevenson says he doesn't know. But that it went to local or state law enforcement officials seems obvious.

BEN GUILL Reports to the PEOPLE

FROM WASHINGTON, D.C. ...

The Bill H. R. 8969 as reported by the House Committee on Agriculture contains mostly cotton and wheat growing counties for the information of those who will be vitally interested.

To the cotton growers the following report is given: It looks as if the cotton acreage allotment for 1951 will be the same as it was for 1950. I make this statement because of a reported estimate from the Department of Agriculture. The estimated carry-over as of August 1, 1950 will be seven million bales and the estimated harvest is 10 million bales. This total of 17 million bales is within the limit of 17 million bales.

To give you some idea of how they arrived at this figure I quote the following figures: By using the domestic and export consumption and adding 50 percent of this total the department arrives at the marketing quota figure.

The Bill H. R. 8969 is not a perfect bill nor did the subcommittee on cotton report it as such, but after six months of conference, discussion, arguments, and sometimes heatedly, the subcommittee reported this bill to the full committee on June 28th and it was unanimously approved. I personally attended several of the subcommittee meetings and listened to the many pro's and con's and on every problem, and even though I was not a member of the subcommittee nor a member of the Agriculture Committee at that time I was allowed to ask some questions and present some of the problems of my district. My main suggestion was that I felt that the state committee and the county committee should have unlimited discretion within their respective states and the counties. This bill gives to the state and the county more home rule than any cotton bill ever written has given.

The state committee is allowed to retain as much as 40 percent of the total acreage in the state for adjustments in county allotments for trends, for abnormal conditions, for incomplete or inaccurate basic county cotton data, and upon proper showing by the county committee, that they have inequitable county allotments.

For new farms, small farms, and for farms adversely affected by abnormal conditions affecting plantings, (for example, drought), and for adjustments by the county committee, who do not have enough revenue to sufficiently provide for equitable farm allotments.

The county committee can withhold 15 percent of their county allotment for distribution for the same reasons as given to the state and I repeat this: they can obtain from the state additional acreage if their 15 percent reserve is insufficient to provide equitable farm allotments.

Now this bill sets up a three year temporary program for the years 1951, 1952, and 1953. At the end of the three years the cotton allotment will start on a straight history basis. This is fundamentally the rule of the Cotton Bill and today I am sending you to all of the P.M.A. county committees copies of H.R. 8969 for their study.

Texas, as well as the other states, will get the proportional share of the national allotment and, as I have stated, it will probably be the same allotment that we got in 1950. It is up to the state committee and the county committee to iron out their own local problems and I think it a wonderful idea to deal with these problems at home rather than be told what to do by bureaucrats in Washington.

But here the governor makes a distinction. "I said that if I were elected governor, there would be no line between the police force and the state police. I did not say there would be no local ties, which are a local responsibility."

Governor Stevenson offers this explanation not as an alibi, but as a statement of his policy. He does not believe that enforcement of anti-gambling laws should be carried out at the state government level. He believes it should be done by city and county officers.

At this end, the attorney general has called in local sheriffs and police officials of places where gambling was known to exist. These local officials have been lectured on their responsibility, and in some cases even threatened, where co-operation has been negative or sporadic.

In a few cases where there has been no action at all, the Illinois State Police has been ordered to make raids. But this the governor says he does not like to do. The state police force numbers only 500 officers. There are seldom more than 200 on duty at any one time. And to muster 100 of them for a gambling raid in any one locality weakens the regular patrolling of a state 400 miles long.

Before even these emergency raids could be conducted, it was necessary to completely reorganize the state police force. Heretofore, this force has been a political plum. When a state administration was changed from one party to another, it has been customary to fire the whole state police force and recruit a new one.

This has now been changed. By agreement with the Republicans, half of their old state police force was fired and replaced by Democrats. And hereafter, appointments to the force will be made on a merit basis only, regardless of political affiliations.

This taking of the state police out of politics is offered to the cities and counties as an example of good government and as a first step toward getting more honest law enforcement in Illinois.

LIQUOR LICENSES: In a few cases, the state has tried to suspend liquor licenses in establishments which permitted gambling. But this movement has been tied up by court decisions. No decision as to whether the state would completely take over the anti-gambling drive.

"Christianity Versus The Welfare State" Since many ministers think I unduly criticize their acts, and since I believe there is nothing more needed than Christian ethics and I have the highest respect for any preacher who really teaches Christianity based on the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule, I want to quote further from Merwin K. Hart's article in the June Economic Council Letter under the heading "Christianity Versus the Welfare State".

Under the sub-head of "Communism a Religion" he observes as follows: "The Welfare State sinks to an even lower ethical level than either Socialism or Communism. In advocating coercion to bring about equality in distribution, the Communist proposes to be bound by a rule; he does not represent that he can create an earthly Utopia by improvisations as he goes along. He says that the rules were prescribed by men greater than himself—by Marx and Lenin—and that he has a duty to live up to their 'inspired' rules. This acknowledgment of something higher than his own mind enables the Communist to proclaim a supra-national religion. This of course involves slavery—but little more than does the Welfare State."

"The leader in the Welfare State makes the false representation that he and his associates have superior minds and know how to establish distributive justice on a better basis than that made through freedom of contract. They have no rules, no guiding principle. They, out of their superior intellects—and lack of practical experience—will prescribe specific remedies. Every such remedy denies freedom of contract, and most of the remedies create special privileges.

"The man who has freedom of contract is a slave to the extent of his deprivation. A man who must labor to sustain a special privilege for another man is also a slave.

"The leaders in the Welfare State, through their perversion of the power to tax, usurp the power to impose this slavery. John Marshall said a tax is 'an exaction for the support of government.' This is the meaning of the word as used in our Constitution. When the Welfare State exacts money for use in business enterprises of its own, or exacts money from some in order to give it to others, the purpose is not to support government.

"Congress is given the power to lay and collect taxes to pay the Debts and provide for the common Defense and general Welfare of the United States. To give the proceeds to groups, as with 'Social Security,' or to sections of the country, as with TVA's, is not a provision for general welfare, but for a particular welfare. No provision in the Constitution authorizes such measures.

"Since these socialist measures are not within the legislative powers herein granted, Congress was specifically forbidden by the Tenth Amendment to enact them. And each Member of Congress is bound by his oath of office not to vote for them. Therefore, an act of Congress of the Welfare State which first calls for amendment of the Constitution. But under their code of ethics, theft of liberties and property and return to slavery can be accomplished by stealth, and without Constitutional amendment!"

HELPLESS — The United States at the moment about twelve well trained and equipped divisions, although they are pinned He to describe the respective functions of the two institutions as to separate them in a manner which forbids Socialism? It seems clear to us the prohibition was specific.

"Consider the conditions in Palestine during Christ's time. Egypt with its dying civilization was on one side. The Greeks and Persians had corrupted the civilizations which had once existed among the neighboring peoples of Asia Minor. The Doctor Says

WRITTEN FOR NEA BY EDWIN J. JORDAN, MD.

There are over two billion people inhabiting the world and all of them must eat to live. Without food people will starve. If they do not have enough food or the right kinds of food, including minerals and vitamins, they cannot stay healthy. Consequently, as human beings not only must we strive to have enough food for everyone, but also to have it so distributed that if there is enough everyone will get his, or her, share.

Today we hear much about farm surpluses in the United States, but at the same time, there are millions of people in various parts of the world who are not getting enough to eat and who are not getting the right kinds of food. This is a problem of distribution.

About 150 years ago, an Englishman by the name of Malthus prophesied that so many people were coming into the world that in a comparatively short time the food which could be grown on the land would not be sufficient to support them, and that large numbers would die of starvation. At that time the population of Europe was about 187,000,000 and is now about 550,000,000. 150 years before Malthus the population of the world and in 1949 about 2,000,000,000.

Of course, Malthus was proved wrong at least so far. The reason he was wrong is that he could not guess that the world would be so successful in producing more food on the land and finding new lands for food production. This does not mean, however, that the world can go on supporting more and more people indefinitely.

Is the end of our ability to feed the peoples of the earth getting close? This has been the subject of many learned discussions but the answer is difficult. NEED PROPER FOOD

In order to maintain good health enough food containing the right kinds of minerals, vitamins, and other necessities must be available. If this is not the case as is already true in some parts of the world, there will be starvation.

What can be done about this is a matter of debate, but it is a fact that there is some point of population growth at which the land will no longer be able to supply everything that is needed to keep people well-nourished. Everyone should be vitally interested in this important question.

Dr. Jordan will answer questions from his readers in a special column once a week. Watch for it.

The Materialism of Socialism "Since government pertains exclusively to human conduct, correct reasoning about its functions leads first to the question: What is man?"

"The Socialist says man is created by chance and is a mere aggregate of material substances. Therefore his behavior is determined by physical desires and economic motives. This is the so-called economic interpretation of history.

"The Christian says man is a creature of God and a living, immortal soul. Although physical desires and economic motives play a part in determining his behavior, yet the Christian ideal is that spiritual forces ought to control.

"Conclusions drawn from these different premises will necessarily differ. Nevertheless, in our Christian civilization much of the popular writing and teaching about government has for a long time been based upon the materialistic, Marxian conception of the nature of man, hence, among most Western peoples the prevailing faith is in the State.

"Whether the Christian churches must take the blame for the prevalence of this faith is beside the point. They will suffer the consequences. For the men who have spread this faith, and who duped the so-called 'Christian Socialists,' do not regard the Church as a necessary institution. They will destroy the Church wherever it impedes their Welfare State.

"The Socialist graduated income tax, originally proposed in the Communist Manifesto, and adopted by Constitutional Amendment 37 years ago, will prove in time to be an instrument that will destroy the churches.

"To compare the teachings of Christ with modern Socialism let us ask first whether He prescribed the respective roles of Church and State. He recognized the necessity of both institutions. But did

Nobody believes that any decision reached within the next few days will be final or definite.

CHALLENGE — Not even the most partisan Republican makes the inquiry quoted above for purposes of political gain. In fact, despite understandable jibes that the Truman-Acheson "wait and see" policy in the Far East helped to contribute to the present difficulty, there is a moratorium on partisan squabbling pending immediate developments. After that, political bedlam will break loose on the floor of House and Senate.

It is Mr. Truman's own friends who recognize that the United States swift and complete demobilization since the end of World War II is now in no position to make good its challenge against Moscow on such a remote battleground as the vast area stretching from Korea to Burma.

HELPLESS — The United States at the moment about twelve well trained and equipped divisions, although they are pinned He to describe the respective functions of the two institutions as to separate them in a manner which forbids Socialism? It seems clear to us the prohibition was specific.

Valuable Information

By THURMAN SENNING, Director of Research, Southern States Industrial Council, Nashville, Tennessee

The Bureau of Census, Department of Commerce of the United States of America, gets out a voluminous annual Statistical Abstract of the United States, etc. This is a marvelous source of information in fact, it contains information that is probably not available anywhere else in the world.

For instance, the Abstract for 1949, lately published, shows that in 1940 there were 544 asses and burros in the Virgin Islands. It is interesting to note, too, that the ass and burro population of the Virgin Islands seems to have reached a static position, as there were 523 asses and burros there in 1930—an increase of only 21 asses and burros in ten years.

This record of the asses and burros in the Virgin Islands does not stack up nearly so well as the record in the chicken population in Alaska, which nearly doubled during those ten years, increasing 10,979 in 1930 to 18,374 in 1940. The table does not classify these chickens as between roosters and hens, but from the record it is assumed is a proportionate share of each.

Sticking to the insular possessions of the United States for one more fact, it is a little distressing to note that the production of taro in Hawaii dropped from 11,951 tons in 1930 to 5,790 tons in 1940. There is no way of telling what accounts for this decline, whether people are eating more sweet potatoes than formerly or less acres planted or what. It will be very interesting to get an official up-to-date report (perhaps the figures for 1950 will be available in the 1950 Abstract) and find out what is happening in the taro field. If the farmers in Hawaii have got on to the fact that price support can be obtained from the Department of Agriculture for a product whether it is in demand or not, production has no doubt greatly increased by now.

Getting back to the mainland, we find that this 1949 Abstract tells us that in 1939 there were 201 livey stables in the United States. The average number of employees in these livey stables for the year was 360, full-time and part-time. A footnote tells us, however, that "employees and pay roll include paid executives of corporations but not number and compensation of proprietors of unincorporated businesses."

Anyone making a study of the livey stable business in the United States should make careful note of this fact. These footnotes are very helpful.

In letting us in on the amounts and kinds of materials used in making ethyl alcohol and other distilled spirits, except brandy, another table tells us that in 1940 in addition to molasses and grains and ethyl sulphate and pineapple juice, 13,801,000 gallons of "other materials" were used. Another footnote tells us that "other materials" means "diamond, sulphite liquor, manioc meal, maguery juice, maple sirup, elder, corn sirup, potatoes, crude alcohol mixture, cellulose pulp, and chemical mixtures, etc." The "etc." probably means vanilla extract and battery acid, though the table doesn't say. No wonder the stuff has such a kick to it! It is a little disappointing, though, not to have the exact proportions of each of these materials. For instance, if we know just how much maguery juice is used, we might find that the spirits could be improved by using just a little more or a little less.

These, my fellow Americans, are just bare peeps into the Mark character actress Florence Bates down as the likeliest contender for the starring role in the film biography of Marie Dressler. She says:

"Yes, there is a staid interest in the Zie Atkins play about Marie ('Evening Star')... I didn't know Marie and I don't pretend to be another Marie. She can't be replaced. She was a combination of talent, force, heart, brains and guts. Real gutsy."

Chill-Willis looked like a mule for "Francis and the Wizard of the West." Dallas has a switch—a horse talks like a cowboy. Gary eludes the villains by neighing like a horse as he pushes through underbrush. Gary Sheepshead tried a couple of neighs, but the sound was unmistakably a gargle. They hired a horse to impersonate Cooper impersonating a horse.

A big cowboy star is blushing after landing on the cutting room floor at a major studio. For a gag finish to a comedy picture, he was hired to ride in and rescue the hero from a lynching party, then crack, "I guess I'm in the wrong picture" and gallop off.

The scene got howls from studio heads but laid an egg with nary a laugh at seven sneak previews. Audiences in major theaters just didn't recognize the cowboy star. The picture will be released with a different finish.

Ronald Colman is Hollywood's absent-minded professor just before his air show, "Halls of Ivy," hit the mike. Mrs. C. tested him out the other day five minutes before airtime. "Ronnie," said Bonita, "I feel faint and I don't think I'll go on this time."

Colman beamed back: "Fine, Bonita, but let's talk about it after we do the show."

HOUSTON — A news item from Jackson, Miss., says: "An 80-year-old man, who came here 15 years ago to reduce his weight from 335 to 175 pounds by picking cotton, has just been admitted to practice law in the state supreme court."

Of course, we've all read how Abraham Lincoln became a lawyer by splitting rails and walking 10 miles to borrow a book — but this is the first man I've heard of who did it by taking off weights and picking cotton.

Anyway, it's very encouraging to men who are unhappy as bus drivers, bartenders, plumbers or shoe clerks — all they've got to do is pick cotton in Mississippi and when they've reduced 60 pounds and are 80 years old they'll be lawyers.

Newsboy Makes Deliveries Via Air in Montana's Mountains

PAPER BOY WITH WINGS: Sometimes Al Newby feels like Santa.

BOZEMAN, Mont. (NEA)—Al Newby completed 2,000 miles of house-to-house newspaper deliveries the other day in less than six months.

Newby is probably the only carrier working for an American newspaper who hasn't any use for the familiar newsboy's sack. That's because he's the nation's only house-to-house carrier who covers his route by air.

When Newby signed on for his unique job on the circulation staff of the Bozeman Daily Chronicle, it looked like it would be just a winter-time proposition.

Located 4,750 feet high in the Rockies, heavy snowfalls frequently prevented delivery of papers to readers on outlying roads. The Chronicle decided to experiment with an aerial 110-mile tour along the base of the mountains.

Newby's first flight was last January. He carried an aerial map marked with each subscriber's address. Papers were delivered in special red mushin socks with a six-foot tail, so readers could find them in the snow.

Newby's daily flights were popular with subscribers that they are being continued on a year-round basis. This summer, he's using a waxed waterproof wrapper instead of the mushin sock. But he still feels somewhat like a Santa Claus when he sees entire families standing outside to watch him drop the paper, and ranchers' children racing to see if they can catch the Chronicle before it hits the ground.

Tam o' Shanter Club Is Raided; Owner Arrested

CHICAGO (AP)—The plush suburban Tam O'Shanter Country Club was raided last night by police who seized 27 slot machines and arrested the club owner and president, George S. May.

May, promoter of the annual Tam O'Shanter golf tournament, richest in the country, was charged with being a keeper of gaming devices. He posted $500 bond for appearance July 10 in the Morton Grove village court.

The raiders, from the office of Cook County State's Attorney John S. Boyle, also hit six other spots in a broad Independence Day sweep.

Boyle's police swarmed into Tam O'Shanter while 2,500 club members and guests were watching a fireworks display.

Boyle had warned 35 private clubs in the county that "slot machines are just as illegal in private clubs as in public places."

Unification must go beyond the co-ordination of military activities to include the unification of political, industrial and civil strength of the nation.
