Addition of at least four hospital beds, a modern clinic, and overhead caseway in prospect today for the recently renovated Worley Hospital, as a result of favorable action yesterday by the City Commission on the request for a building permit by Dr. W. Calvin Jones.

Federal Jury Finds Maragon Lied to Senate

WASHINGTON—(AP)—John Maragon, who used to have a job with the House, was convicted today of lying to Senate investigators.

A federal district court jury took one hour and 36 minutes to convict him of charges that he lied in testifying last July that:

1. He had only one bank account, in Washington, in 1945-46. The evidence showed he had another then in Texas.

2. He had severed connections with Albert Verley and Co., a Chicago importing company, when he took a temporary job with the State Department overseas in 1945.

But Maragon was cleared on one of the main counts the government brought against him—that he perjured himself in saying he negotiated no business with the government and received no money for negotiations from 1945 to until the middle of last year.

Each side blamed the other for not calling Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, presidential military aide, as a witness.

The defense charged, and the prosecution didn't deny, that government witness Milton Poland of Milwaukee was a liar.

That was when opposing lawyers were summing up the case for the jurors.

Irvin Goldstein, Maragon's attorney, protested that "the government has failed in its duty" to call Vaughan to the witness stand. Assistant U. S. Attorney Charles Murray came back that Vaughan is in the defense "stable," adding that:

"Mr. Maragon is the man to whom General Vaughan is peculiarly available, if he is available at all. If any one of us called him on the telephone, he would probably hang up."

Poland testified that he gave Maragon two checks for $500 each and paid a $168 hotel bill for expenses Maragon ran up in (See FEDERAL, Page 2)

T. R. Jordan, Local Grocer, Dies at 64

T. R. Jordan, 64, died at 9 p. m. yesterday in the Worley Hospital after an illness of several months.

Mr. Jordan was born Sept. 13, 1895 near Davis, Okla. About three and one-half years ago he moved to Pampa from Oklahoma City. Since that time he has owned and operated the Brunson Street Grocery and Market.

Mr. Jordan was a member of the Masonic Lodge No. 144 at Sulphur, Okla.

He is survived by his wife, Leila, 818 Brunson St.; three daughters, Mrs. Ardelia Dethridge, Lockney, Mrs. Fannie Lou Dodson, Duncan, Okla., and Mrs. Jimmie Ruth Slanger, Abilene; five sons, William C. and Thurmond, Oklahoma City, Roy, Davis, Okla., T. R., Jr., Pauls Valley, Okla., and John, Pensacola, Fla.; three step-children, William A. Mayo, Oklahoma City, Joyce Elaine Mayo, Pampa, and Floyd E. Mayo, Dallas.

Funeral services will be at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Calvary Baptist Church with the Rev. Collins Webb officiating. Burial will be in the Fairview Cemetery. The Masons will be in charge of graveside services and will furnish pallbearers. The Masons will meet at the Masonic Hall at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Shanghai Exodus Slated Saturday

HONG KONG—(AP)—The U. S. consulate said today the American President Liner Gen. W. H. Gordon will evacuate between 800 and 1,000 foreigners Saturday from Red China.

The Gordon left Okinawa yesterday for Taku Bar, the port of Tientsin. It is scheduled to arrive there Friday.

The consulate said the evacuation will bring out about 50 State Department personnel, the last in Communist China. It will cut in half the number of foreigners stranded in Shanghai since the Reds won that city last May.

Houston Will Greet Chilean President

HOUSTON—(AP)—President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla of Chile arrives here Friday to begin a Texas visit that will carry him from the Gulf Coast to the West Texas plains.

Included on the Houston itinerary will be Saturday inspections of a steel mill and the San Jacinto Battleground State Park.

On Sunday the president and his party of Chilean officials are to fly to Lubbock, 500 miles to the northwest.

'Blackout' Is Claimed by Probe Witness

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A mysteriously missing witness in the Owen Lattimore case turned up safe but nervous today 20 hours after he had vanished from a Washington hotel.

John J. Huber, described as a one-time FBI informer, telephoned his wife at Mt. Vernon, N.Y., at 7:30 a.m. that he had "blacked out" yesterday shortly before he had been due to appear at the Senate inquiry into charges of communism in the government.

Although there had been hints that he might have met with foul play, Mrs. Huber said he seemed to be well. She added that he had sounded nervous, tired and upset in telling her.

"I had a blackout. I am in New York. I'll be home this evening. I can't talk now."

This left up in the air the question whether he might return here today to testify before the senators.

Huber came here yesterday morning by air, with another witness, a former FBI agent. Both went to a hotel. Huber left at noon, saying he was going to get a haircut.

Hours later, he failed to respond when his name was called at an evening session of the Senate hearing. A search yielded no clues to his whereabouts.

A few minutes after Huber called his wife, he also telephoned his ex-FBI friend, Larry E. Kerley, here in Washington. Kerley said Huber told him he was in a New York restaurant at the time. Kerley added:

"He had one of these 'I don't know what happened stories.' He said he 'came to' at 4 a.m. Obviously, he was overcome with a fear complex on this thing."

"He had been promised a closed hearing—a public hearing was too much for him. He said he wanted to get some rest and would get in touch with me later."

Kerley said Huber had been upset over the prospect of a tough quizzing from Senator Tydings (D-Md.), head of the investigating committee. Kerley said Huber felt he would be more of a defendant than a witness.

The disappearance and hunt for Huber came in the midst of other developments in the inquiry.

An assertion by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) that Louis Budenz had identified as a Communist a man in a "very, very important job" in the State Department. McCarthy told the Senate late yesterday that Budenz, a former Communist, "put the finger" on the individual in secret testimony to the Senate foreign relations subcommittee investigating McCarthy's charges that Reds and fellow travelers have infested the State Department.

McCarthy also told the Senate that he had given the inquiry committee the name of a man with a police record as a homosexual who, McCarthy added, holds "an extremely sensitive position" in the Central Intelligence Agency.

Joining in a Senate row over the investigation, Republican Leader Wherry of Nebraska said the man McCarthy termed a pervert has resigned. And Wherry (See BLACKOUT, Page 2)

'SNAKE EAT SNAKE'—Yesterday a cowboy killed a rattlesnake between the house and barn on the John Sims Ranch northwest of Miami. He threw it beside a path. When he returned later a second rattler was devouring the dead one. He killed the second one. Picture above shows the two snakes—the partly devoured one with seven rattles and a button, the second had nine rattles and button. Wren Reynolds, 1132 Charles, brought the snakes to Pampa as proof of the unusual story. Shown behind the two dead snakes above are Wren Reynolds, left, and Jerry Hunter. (News Photo and Engraving)

Bell System Wage Settlement Forecast

NEW YORK—(AP)—Telephone workers and the huge Bell System appeared to be heading toward a general wage settlement today after indefinite postponement of the national phone strike set for this morning.

New talks that lasted all night and into this morning in New York City were adjourned to a later hour today without a final agreement. But confident federal mediators reported a continued progress.

Two major moves toward peace came quickly last night after the strike was postponed by Electric Communications Workers of America (CWA), and talks resumed with the Bell parent corporation, American Telephone and Telegraph Co., and its subsidiaries.

First, union long distance operators announced the essentials of a wage agreement granting pay raises up to more than $5 a week.

Second, union equipment installers already striking against a Bell subsidiary, Western Electric Co.—called off plans to picket and start jamming long distance telephones today.

The break in the seven-month fight that threatened to paralyze the nation's phone system came in a message late yesterday from Joseph A. Beirne, president of the CWA, from Washington to his leaders in New York.

"Recent developments indicate the possibility of agreement in the present Bell System dispute," he told them.

"There will be no strike Wednesday. There will be no picket lines until and unless ordered by the executive board."

The sudden change in front came without explanation, but it was believed that the possibility of direct federal intervention may have inclined the company toward new negotiations.

It was understood that Cyrus S. Ching, director of the Federal Mediation Service, had indicated that the government's next step might be to call a presidential fact-finding board to weigh the merits of the dispute.

The company is believed to have viewed this possibility with distaste.

Shamrock Chamber Secretary Re-Named

The office has been held on a temporary basis by Bob Douglas the past 12 months, during which time Hill was on leave.

Swift-Acting House Groups Approve $350 Million Hike

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today recommended the 1951 military budget be increased by $350,000,000 asked by Secretary of Defense Johnson to tighten the nation's bulwarks against Russia.

Urging the additional funds, Johnson told Congress the Russian atomic explosion had come "somewhat in advance of the date we had anticipated." He said that caused a complete reevaluation of defense plans by both the United States and the North Atlantic Pact nations.

The secretary and members of the joint chiefs of staff appeared before both Senate and House appropriations committees to review events leading to the plea for more money.

Besides the Soviet atomic explosion, Johnson spoke of the increased strain in international relations and said:

"None of this presents a happy prospect; but the cold war is not a happy circumstance." He said that caused a complete reevaluation of defense plans by both the United States and the North Atlantic Pact nations.

Panel Slashes Movie, Sports Ticket Taxes

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee voted today to cut in half from 20 percent to 10—the federal excise tax on tickets to movies and sports events.

The committee took the action in approving another $240,000,000 slash in the excise tax list. This brought the total of tentatively approved cuts to $278,000,000.

This is far in excess of the $190,000,000 reduction President Truman had proposed for that part of the list which the committee has considered. Mr. Truman has threatened a veto of tax-cutting legislation if his recommendations are ignored.

The committee yet may approve other slashes of around $500,000,000 in transportation and communications excises to bring the total well over $1,000,000,000, far beyond the total $658,000,000 excise cut limit Mr. Truman set.

The committee's cuts on admission excises would total about $190,000,000.

In addition to slashing the general admissions levy in half, the committee decided to exempt college sports events, as well as professional sports, from the tickets to school plays, educational and charitable shows, to county fairs, symphonies and such.

However, a 10 percent levy would be collected on the tickets to college sports events, as well as professional sports. Sports events of schools other than colleges would be exempt.

Tulsans Plan To Drill Well In Roberts

Oil exploration in the Panhandle portion of the Anadarko basin moved somewhat closer to Pampa yesterday as Helmirch and Payne, Inc., drilling contractors and oil producers from Tulsa slaked their No. 1 R. L. Flowers in east-central Roberts County.

The test, ten miles north and one mile east of Miami and approximately 25 miles northeast of Pampa, was slaked 660 feet from W and 3,300 feet from S lines of Sec. 79, Blk. C, G&M Survey.

Operators are planning to test the Mississippi non-pay formation on the Sinclair O&G Co. No. 1 Lips, Roberts County, where completed for oil in April, 1949. Contract depth is 10,000 feet.

The No. 1 Flowers, on 7,000 acre block assembled by the operator, is the sixth recent well to be slaked in Roberts County, the other five having been started by Sinclair. Sinclair actually has applied for permit to drill six wells, but the company abandoned location of the No. 5-E Lips before spudding.

The Helmirch and Payne well is approximately six miles east and 12 miles south of the Lips Ranch on which Sinclair has brought in one oil well and two gasers.

Helmirch and Payne assembled their block about 1940 with the lease obligation on a well to be started by May 6 of this year.

The company is basing the test on extensive geophysical work in the area.

Betting Official Denies Knowledge Of Any Syndicate

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Betting Commissioner James J. Carroll of St. Louis said the "Mr. Big" of the odds-making business—told senators today he knows of no organized nationwide gambling syndicate.

He testified under oath before a Senate commerce subcommittee on the so-called "betting commissions" and bookmakers operate as independent business with no feeling of any "moral wrong," and he insisted there is no connection between big-time gamblers and crime.

"I can state without any reservation," he said, "that I know of no such (gambling) syndicate, combination or organization."

"To the contrary it is my firm belief that all of the accepting and laying off of bets is conducted on a purely competitive basis and there is no relationship between operators, commissioners or by whatever name such businessmen are called."

Carroll was a witness at the committee's hearing on a bill to ban the movement of gambling information across state lines.

Quick Action On Canadian Dam Sought

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Texas legislators want federal officials to act promptly on the proposed Canadian River development in West Texas.

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Texas) and Rep. Mahon (D-Texas) asked Secretary of the Interior Chapman to see that the Reclamation Bureau promptly supply the Budget Bureau with all details of the proposed $85,000,000 program.

Johnson and Mahon said they told Chapman they want to talk with him again after he personally has discussed the project with the Budget Bureau.

The Texans said they would seek the Senate interior subcommittee to withhold any report on pending legislation for authority of the dam until they have had another meeting with Chapman.

Sharp Earthquake Hits Japan Area

TOKYO—(AP)—A short, sharp earthquake was felt in the Kobe-Osaka-Nagoya area today. There was no immediate report of damage or casualties.

An Army spokesman at Kobe said American installations there had been shaken and buildings cleared of occupants. He said the shock there was of about 20 seconds duration.

Associated Press Chief Relected

SOME PERSONS MISSED, NOSE-COUNTERS BELIEVE

Have you been counted? That is the question being borne down upon the Pampa area today by census workers, civic groups and commercial establishments.

Mrs. Jess Clay, 317 N. West, local nose-counter, said that question would also be repeated over and over between now and May 1, deadline for the decennial nose count by the U. S. government.

A number of persons have been missed in the nose-count, it was said.

Tomorrow a low-flying plane will glide over Pampa with a loud speaker encouraging people who may have been missed to contact Mrs. Clay at her home, by phone, 409 or through the mails with the certificate printed below. If uncounted persons are unable to contact Mrs. Clay by phone they are asked to call the Chamber of Commerce office, 383.

School children have also been given leaflets to take home in an effort to get possibly missed families counted.

New Figure Given on Mexican Cultivation

BERKELEY, Calif. — Intensive cultivation of Mexican soil was started 3,000 to 5,000 years ago, says Dr. Sherburne F. Cook of the University of California. Most experts have placed the time at about 2,000 years ago. Basing his estimates on soil conditions, he says Mexico's ancient population was so big and the soil so cultivated that much of the land was near ruin long before the white man arrived.

Illinois finished the 1950 Big their fourth meeting.

COLLEGE GRADUATES FACE TOUGHER TIME

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK — (AP) — The buyers' market is back for the college graduates. Businessmen will have their pick this June from a bumper crop of young job applicants. In such fields as engineering, where until recently there was a shortage, now there is a surplus of trained youth — perhaps only half of those graduated this June will find jobs waiting. It is the same in most of the professions.

The June grad is warned by the Bureau of Labor Statistics that he'll back stiff competition, may have to take lower pay than the graduates of a year or two back, may have to start lower down the ladder or find work in an allied field rather than in the one for which he prepared.

Some government officials suggest he might do better to return to college for postgraduate work — if he has any more GI aid coming — to get even more training for the increasingly competitive higher skilled fields.

The college graduates will be among about 3,700,000 newcomers to the labor market this year. The BLS says there will be less than one million openings due to death or retirement, leaving 700,000 in need of entirely new jobs. But already out of work and looking for jobs are more than four million unemployed. Compare this with the postwar low watermark of unemployment — 1.6 million in October, 1948, and you see what the newcomers are up against.

However, some believe that the surplus of job applicants will mean that standards of employment will be raised and college degrees will be required where they haven't been since the war — and all in the graduate's favor in the race for available jobs.

The new job applicants line up like this: 500,000 college graduates, a record high, 304,000 of them are men, and 230,000 are veterans; 600,000 of the 1,200,000 high school graduates who will not go on to college; and 600,000 who during 1950 are expected to drop out of college or high school and look for work.

They will find 57 1-2 million employed, as compared with the peak of 61.6 million in July, 1948. They will find considerable optimism about the general state business, but in spite of that they will find the rate of plant expansion, and therefore of new job opportunities, slowing down.

Government officials are urging that industries expand to make more jobs; many businessmen reply that taxes must be lowered to make expansion worthwhile.

The U. S. Office of Education says about 50,000 will be graduated from engineering schools this year, compared with a yearly average of 10,000 before the war. Some 10,000 will come from the law schools, and around 65,000 from the rapidly growing schools of business administration. Competition will be stiffer in these lines than in medicine, dentistry, nursing or social work.

Veteran Actor Succumbs at 63
HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Hobart Cavanaugh, 63, one of the movies' and stage's best known character actors, died early today after an operation at the Motion Picture Country Club Hospital.

Often appearing as a hen-pecked husband or a harried book-keeper, his face, if not his name, was known to millions of moviegoers. His latest screen role was in the unreleased "Stella."

Among his pictures since 1933 were "Captain Blood," "Rose of Washington Square," "Kismet," "Marge" and "Driftwood."

His theatrical career spanned a half-century, having started in vaudeville. He and Walter Catlett once were a vaudeville team and it was Catlett who phoned in Cavanaugh's death to the news papers.

Cavanaugh appeared on the legitimate stage in "Irene," "So Long, Letty," "The Show Off," and "Broadway." His most recent Broadway appearance was in the musical comedy "As the Girls Go."

A native of Virginia City, Nev., he was educated at the University of California.

The cottage where Woodrow Wilson and his bride spent their honeymoon is still popular with newlyweds at Arden, in the mountains of western North Carolina.

Police Officials' Practice Pays Off

DETROIT — (AP) — It's been a long time since Police Superintendent Edwin Morgan and Deputy Superintendent Kennedy Lawrence walked a beat.

But they keep their hand in. Instinct, and a bulging overcoat, told them all was not proper about a man ahead of them on the sidewalk yesterday.

So they moved up, one on each side, and collared the chap. Sure enough, a shoplifter. Tucked inside his coat were three boxes of men's socks. Headquarters was the next stop.

Zebra Is Worthless As Domestic Animal

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony — (AP) — You can tell a zebra by his stripes — and they mean he's lazy. Wild game authorities here say, but just can't be induced to harness the zebra.

Many physical ways resembles a horse or mule, he has proven worthless as a domestic beast. A zebra can be harnessed, they say, but just can't be induced to pull a load. He has no heart for the task and gives up without trying. Thousands of zebras are running around free in the African wilds, unwanted by humans because of this lazy streak.

Reds Harnessing Manchurian River

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — Chinese Communists say 200,000 peasants and soldiers have been put to work on a giant project to harness the floods of the Liao river in Manchuria.

The Liao drains the western plain of Manchuria, possible the highest agricultural region in that sprawling area. The river always has been cantankerous because of heavy rains on its watershed.

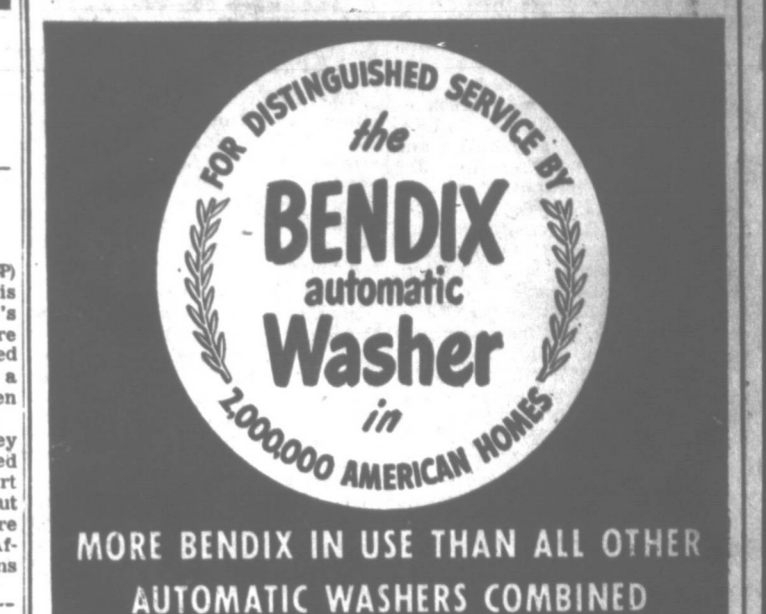

A broadcast from Peiping heard here said more than 310 miles of new dikes are being built on the west bank. About 900 miles of old dikes on the main stream and its tributaries are being repaired.

'The Pair' Starting to Find Selves in New Giant Suits

(By The Associated Press)
They snickered when the New York Giants traded away all that power to the Boston Braves for defense-minded Eddie Stanky and Alvin Dark.

They smiled knowingly when Alvin Dark returned to the Polo Grounds in a Braves' uniform and almost singlehandedly whipped his former mates with a pair of home runs. One came with the bases loaded.

They laughed as Will Marshall, Buddy Kerr and Gordon continued to star for the Braves while Stanky and Dark did nothing at bat or in the field to distinguish themselves. The laughs turned to jeers when Stanky and Dark snatched up a potential double play that cost the Giants a ball game.

All this happened during the first week of the season. But yesterday started a new week with different results.

While Gordon, Marshall and Kerr were held hitless by Joe Hatten as the lefthander pitched the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 3-0 triumph over Boston, Stanky and Dark were sparking the Giants to their first triumph of the season.

The pair reached base five times as the Giants defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 8-4. The pair also excelled in the field.

Stanky proved he was still an excellent leadoff batter by drawing a pair of walks and singling in five trips to the plate. He scored twice. Stanky now has received seven free passes and scored five times in five games.

Dark walloped a home run and double in four times at bat to boost his batting average to a lofty .421. Until yesterday the keystone combination had not driven in a run nor cracked an extra base hit.

Hatten allowed only two singles at Boston, as the Dodgers registered their fifth straight triumph following their opening day loss to the Phillies. He retired 23 men in succession before Bob-Elliott's second inning single and Connie Ryan's ninth inning walk. Sam Jones followed Ryan's walk with a single, but Hatten got Marshall to end the inning and the game.

Vic Raschi became the first New York Yankee pitcher to go the route, pitching a 6-3 victory over the Athletics in Philadelphia. It was Raschi's 12th victory over the Mackmen. The Yankees played without Tommy Henrich, who suffered a recurrence of his knee injury in batting practice.

Detroit's Tigers won their fifth game in six starts, defeating the Browns in a St. Louis night game. Virgil Trucks had a one-hit shutout for seven innings but homers by Hank Arft and Dick Kokos and a double knocked him out of the game. Art Soutaman stopped the Browns' uprising in the ninth to prevent Trucks' second victory.

Rain and wet grounds forced the postponements of the Boston Red Sox-Washington and Cleveland-Chicago games in the American League and the Chicago-Pittsburgh game in the National. Cincinnati and St. Louis were not scheduled.

Plainview Eliminates PHS From I-AA Baseball Chase

The Pampa Harvesters were eliminated from the District I-AA baseball race yesterday afternoon when the Plainview Bulldogs slapped them down for the second time this season, 9 to 6. Brian Bell, a surprise starter on the mound for Plainview, held the Harvesters to hit three safeties, all well scattered.

Meanwhile, the visitors clubbed Howard Wells and Bill Epps for 13 safeties mingled with a pair of Pampa miscues and several walks to pick up their 9 tallies.

This afternoon the Harvesters scheduled to play the Panhandle Panthers in Panhandle in a game to start at 3:30. It was an exhibition contest. The next regular district game for the Green and Gold is on April 8, when the Harvesters go to Borger. They close their district season on April 8 when Amarillo comes to Pampa.

Both clubs scored twice in the first inning yesterday, but the visitors took the lead never to relinquish it, with one in the third and two more in the fourth. Then they tied it with four more in the sixth.

A two-run Pampa rally in the seventh fell short.

Meanwhile, the Borger Bulldogs handed the Amarillo Sandies their first defeat of the season at Borger, 9-5. Friday afternoon the Sandies go to Plainview to face the Bulldogs and Jackie Houston in a game that might well decide the district crown.

DALLAS — (AP) — The Texas League is ahead of last year in attendance but only because of what Dallas has done.

For the first five home dates Dallas drew 65,276-37,166 more than for the same period last year. The major reason for this was opening the season in the big Cotton Bowl where 23,878 fans turned out to watch nine former big leaguers play to the first Tulsa batter, Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker and Dixie Dean were among those old-timers.

Pailers Drop Final to Lamesa, 11-4; Parker Goes Against Blue Sox Tonight

LAMESA — (AP) — The Lamesa Lobos capped their fourth straight win here last night before 908 chilled customers as bury right-hander John Fetzer tossed a seven-inning game and beat the Pampa Oilers 11 to 4.

The Lobos got only nine hits off George Payte, the loser, and Walt Peluso, but scored four unearned runs with the aid of three error errors. The Lobos also took advantage of eight walks.

Fetzer allowed only three hits in the first six innings and a second inning run for Pampa was unearned. Lamesa scored twice in the first on a walk, an error, a passed ball and an outfield fly.

Then added a run in the third on an error, a stolen base and Jodie Beeler's single.

The Lobos finally scored a legitimate tally in the fifth when Glen Selbo walked, stole second and again came in on Beeler's one-bagger.

Fetzer's crew clouted three runs on four hits into the sixth with the help of an error, including singles by Bill Capps, Sammy Shaw and Pedro Santiago and Roman Loyko's double.

Peluso yielded four tallies in the seventh as Lamesa tied a record. Selbo and Beeler walked, Calo singled, Shaw was hit; Fetzer twalked and Santiago banged a two-run single.

The Oilers scored a run in the seventh on singles by Joe Fortin and Jim Martin, a walk to Ernie Veasquez and a fly to right by Roy Parker.

Pampa added their final runs in the eighth on a walk to Bill Hassey, Homer Metney's double, a ground out and Joe Fortin's single.

Lamesa and Lubbock open a threegame series here Wednesday night at 8 in Lubbock. Jim Reynolds, recently purchased from Austin, will make his mound debut for the Lobos.

Tonight the Oilers move into Abilene for a three-game series with the Blue Sox of Stubby Greer. The Oilers will be hunting their second victory of the season and they will probably throw their only winning hurder, Parker, over at the Cubans, if Parker doesn't get hit from manager Grover Seitz it will be Bill Garland making his first start of the season. Seitz has been taking it easy with the veteran southpaw, letting him take his time getting ready to hit.

The Oilers will return home on Saturday night to open a two-game series with the Albuquerque Dukes. Monday Lamesa moves in for two games and on Wednesday night the Abilene Blue Sox come to Pampa for their first game. The Oilers defeated the Blue Sox in an exhibition game at Lamesa this spring.

Dukes Swamp Amarilloans Under 23 to 14 Barrage

AMARILLO — (AP) — Albuquerque's Dukes jumped on Amarillo's apparently pushover pitchers for a 23-14 victory here last night to win their second start of the young WT-NM League season.

Dick Dawson, Duke left fielder who had hit safely only once in the first five games, broke loose with two home runs and a double to drive across seven runs.

Dawson shared honors as the night's most damaging swatter with Art Cullitt who hit safely in five of seven turns and drove in four runs. Harrison and Cullitt led the first three innings but Amarillo routed Pete Schober, Albuquerque's lefthanded starter, then reliever Don Cantrell.

Bob Spence, who rescued Cantrell during an eighth-inning uprising by Amarillo, received credit for the victory.

Batters Star in Weird TL Night
The Texas League is known as a "pitcher's league" but not because of such doings as last night when 25 pitchers gave up a total of 80 base hits.

The batters made mockery of the league's reputation for fancy throwing and in just three and eight-ninths games, 25 pitchers gave up a total of 80 base hits.

The incompletable game was at Tulsa to Dallas; Oklahoma City the ninth to allow the Oilers and Oklahoma City to catch a train. On May 28 they'll resume the game and Tulsa will be ahead, 1-0.

In other games, San Antonio spotted Houston a seven-run first inning and came back to win, 8-7; Fort Worth came from behind to defeat Dallas, 7-3, and Beaumont knocked off Shreveport, 7-4.

A shift in sites tonight sends Tulsa to Dallas Oklahoma City to Fort Worth; Houston to San Antonio and Shreveport to Beaumont.

Out of the orgy of base hits and runs last night came a one unique feat. Bob Carson of Tulsa made the first and second outs in the same inning — the third. He led off as a pinch-hitter and seven runs later came up again. The first time he struck out. The second time he popped out.

Blue Sockers Top Hubbers

ABILENE — (AP) — The Blue Sox would have been happy with a 1-0 shutout, but the Lubbock Hubbers had to go and score a run in the eighth so Abilene was compelled to retaliate with three in the eighth for a 4-1 win over the Hubbers in the West Texas-New Mexico League series opener last night.

Pitchers Marshal Epperson of Lubbock and Rene Vega of Abilene had themselves quite a duel. Both went the route, Epperson gave up only three scratch singles to the Blue Sox, and Vega was nicked for five, three of which were of the scratch variety.

Abilene used only two of its hits to score its victory, but both went the route, Epperson gave up only three scratch singles to the Blue Sox, and Vega was nicked for five, three of which were of the scratch variety.

The game moved swiftly, despite low temperature weather which held the attendance down to 681 cash customers, until the eighth when Vega walked a hit batsman and an error to good advantage. The Blue Sox registered in the second inning — and there was no more scoring until the eighth — when Walter Seasi walked, moved to second on Gene Sullivan's error at short which filled the sacks with two out.

Texas Virgin Territory For Boxing Says Jack Kearns

DALLAS — (AP) — Texas, says Jack Kearns who managed Jack Dempsey in boxing's richest era, is just the place for the next million dollar gate. The ageless handler of champions — he has had seven under his wing — adds that you can expect a world's heavyweight or light heavyweight title fight in this state in the near future. In Dallas where one of his current champions, Joey Maxim, the light heavyweight king, is to fight an exhibition to night against Texas' Jack Marshall, Kearns declared that there were any number of rich Texans who were willing to underwrite such a boxing show no matter what the cost. "Texas has the money and the sports followers," he said. "It almost had the Freddie Mills-Maxim light heavyweight championship fight. The money had been put up and it would have been held at San Antonio but for a real spectacle. I think Jack Solomon, the London promoter, is just the man to put it on here." Kearns added that he expected Maxim to be one of the participants. "He will be the heavyweight champion," Kearns said. "He already is the logical contender. He fought Ezzard Charles, who is the NBA champion but isn't recognized in New York and several other states, three times and got the referee's nod each time. The judges, however, gave the fight to Charles." "You ask if Texas could support a heavyweight championship fight," he continued. "Well, take Shelby, Mont., where Dempsey met Tommy Gibbons in 1923. It was a town of only about 1500. But we drew $800,000." Kearns managed Dempsey for 11 years and says he made $5,000,000. "I spent it, too," he grinned. Now 59, Kearns is in the automobile business in Chicago but finds time to manage a fighter now and then. Kearns did not name the Texans he said were willing to back a championship fight but said they were several. One of them put up $100,000 for the Maxim

Boxing should move into the West, he said. "Chicago and New York and the rest of the East have seen everything. This is virgin territory. Texans will fight for a real spectacle. ## Footballers! Here's a Tip on How to Get To Play on the North-South All-Star Team

AUSTIN — Wanta play in the North-South All-Star Football Game next summer, son? Well here are a few tips compiled from the data on the 1950 all-stars — you can figure your percentages. First, you must be a senior. Your best chance is to be an all-star at any position on the Class AA or Class A finalist. The odds favor this select few because only the Class AA and A finalist may have more than one player on the all-star list. Otherwise your best chance is to be an outstanding player on a Class AA team. The distribution by classes this year was as follows: Class AA — 30; Class A — 12; City Conference — 8; Class B — 6. On the basis of past records your chances are better if you are playing for one of the following schools: Wichita Falls (20); Waco (20); Lubbock (19); Austin (17); Corpus Christi (17); Highland Park (17). Figures in parenthesis indicate the number of boys each has sent to the all-star game in 17 years. Now consider your chances by the formation your coach uses and the position you play in it. This applies particularly to backs and centers. Much will depend on whether the singiewing or T-formation coach is in charge of your squad in any given year. Let's take a look at South's personnel: It will operate from the single wing this year and does not have any T quarterbacks on the list. The best chance for a T back seems to be fullback and next best is left halfback. Four fullbacks and three left halfbacks received the coveted invitations. Two right halfbacks complete the list of South backs until you consider Don Hart of Houston who played as much guard as blocking back. The South selectors had to have at least one bona fide blocking back for Munn's single wing — and they're pretty scarce in the T country. Hart could fill that need. With these selectors the best defensive position for a back to be seen was either linebacker or safety. Five linebackers, three safeties, one left half and one right half are on the South squad. The North committee, which was selecting material for Bud Wilkinson's T, included only two single wing stars and both were left halfbacks. The T left halfbacks also looked the best to them as they selected four. The other backfield positions had two each. Defensively safeties attracted most attention since they selected six. Defensive fullbacks and left halfbacks have two each; and so some safeties are going to have to be converted to left halfbacks. Then you also find some jokers in the deck too. Take the case of Gall (Cotton) Mills of Fort Arthur. He was certainly one of the four best backs in the entire state — yet there will be 20 backs in the all-star game, and Mills is not one of them. Port Arthur was eliminated in the semifinals. Mills played on the same team with Darrell LaFite and the South squad was more sorely in need of good linemen than backs — so Mills could not get an invitation. To make it worse for Mills, he was the only member of the official all-star team not selected. Duane Nutt, Corsicana's great passer; James Duncan, Marshall's fine center; and Joe Brock of Lubbock also ran into the one-player-per-team limit too. In the ball snapping department the formation makes some difference. The outstanding center was J. T. Seaholm of Austin. Fortunately for Biggie Munn, Seaholm is a single wing center. The other two have T experience. Two of the North centers are from T teams and one is a single wing.

The North has only three single wing linemen while the South has six. About all a lineman has to do is be big, rough, and tough anyway. The range in size was from 180 to 245, South's guards and tackles average 240 to 212 to the North's 198.7. Now son, figure your odds for 1951 knowing that the North will have the single wing next year while the 1951 T coach will lead heir to the South.

Babe Ruth struck out 30 times in World Series games and drew 33 bases on balls. Bohne's single snapped a Temple losing streak that had stretched to five games and extended to three Gainesville's current losing streak. Veteran Jodie Phipps notched his second victory of the season as Texarkana watched an early six-run lead melt away, then win in the ninth on Clark's free pass. Pepper Martin stole home as Greenville edged Waco, 7-6, in ten innings and rookie hurler Everett Neal limited Austin to four hits as Wichita Falls won.

Shaughnessy Put in Ground Rule Year Too Late to Save Cup
By FRANK SHAUGHNESSY International League President
Managing Montreal in 1935 "I could have kicked myself because I did not have the ground rule that a ball hit over the front of the scoreboard would be a home run. The ground rule went into effect in 1936, at it should have been, because the face of the scoreboard marked the limit of the playing field. But it was too late to win the '35 Governors' Cup. The Royals had won the international League pennant the first series for the Governors' Cup. Leading Syracuse three games to two in the final series, we could have taken it all before a packed Sunday crowd in Montreal. In the ninth inning, the score tied, my center fielder, Gus Dugas, hit a line drive over the scoreboard that bounded off the screen back onto the top of the scoreboard, then dropped to the playing field. Dugas was held to two bases by the rule then in effect. In 99 cases out of 100, the ball would have stayed up on the scoreboard, gone for a home run and we would have won the series, four games to two. Syracuse scored a run in the 10th to beat us, tying the series. The next day, Harry Taylor, the Chiefs' first baseman, hit a home run to catch us in the ninth. Again they won out in the 10th, taking the Governors' Cup. Had I, as manager, corrected the ground rule so that Gus Dugas would not have been denied a legitimate home run, Montreal would have won the 1936 play-offs as well as the league race. If that wasn't my biggest boner in baseball, it was certainly my most disappointing day.

Ferry Owner's Tale Captures Bureau Heart

WASHINGTON — (AP) — They won't tell you his name at U. S. Customs Bureau. They won't even name the river where he was bucking ice the day his daughter was wed.

But they liked his story. And when it came time to set his fine for operating a ferry without a license, they made it a "nominal" one.

In the words of the old ferry master who got into trouble last fall by the bureau, "the picture goes back to September 1949."

A highway bridge burned. Traffic was detoured over ferries. The Army built a pontoon bridge and "we trimmed our business."

Then along about January 1, the pontoon bridge was "washed out" by ice and the ferries took over again.

"This was a difficult operation for athletes foot use T-4-L because in one hour."

You get results toward healthy, happy feet with T-4-L, you feel the healing qualities start to work. Ask any druggist for this study, proven medicine. It penetrates quickly to reach imbedded infection. Now just 40c at Perkins Drug.

"the ferryman wrote, "climaxed by the blizzard of the century" January 13.

He was continually on the job, he said, because the "thermometer" persisted in sticking and "a shut down in zero weather would be disastrous, 30 miles from nowhere."

Then there was the paper work resulting from "crew" doubled, with the consequent W-1 social security, unemployment, medical aid etc.

But that's not all, he said. His daughter chose Friday 13, for her wedding day. "For weeks I practiced that slow cadence step to the tune of Mendelssohn. I did not want to disgrace my daughter."

All these things, the ferry master explained, caused "a lapse of memory due to extenuating circumstances, and not willful evasion of marine law — operating the said barge without a valid marine document."

English-Speaking Theater Forms in Nude-Loving Paris

By DAVID S. BOYER
NEA Staff Correspondent
PARIS — (NEA) — Paris' justifiably famous entertainment policy — the nuder the better — has a more discreet addition this summer.

And, furthermore, American tourists will be able to understand every word of it. The legitimate American theater has invaded the Paris stage.

It all began nearly a year ago when producer-playwright George Vosonov slipped out from behind the Iron Curtain and came to Paris from Prague. He had originated and directed Czechoslovakia's top-ranking legitimate theatre, the "V. and W."

In Paris, he and his American wife, Anne Gerlette, established ACT, the American Club Theatre. Miss Gerlette had been director of the New York players.

Today, ACT is rehearsing Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," which will open in time for summer tourist audiences. It will be presented deep in the heart of Montmartre, right next door to a cabaret that specializes in semi-nude floor shows and torchy singers. The current, pre-tourist-season fare is a pair of one-act plays by Norman Corwin and Jean-Paul Sartre.

Half a hundred professional American actors in Paris have auditioned for ACT. Half of them have caught on. Others couldn't stay because ACT, still operating in debt, can't pay salaries. The company is looking to the 1950 tourist invasion to make it solvent. Then, they hope, there will be pay checks.

Typical cast member is Rex Regent, who keeps himself in francs by being master of ceremonies on a Maurice Chevalier radio show, "This Is Paris," beamed to the States.

Rex, who is the "son" of the famed "Georgia Wilson and Son" acting team, put it this way: "I've had grease paint on since I was four years old. When ACT started using grease paint, I smelled it... and here I am."

American actors wind up in Europe in many ways. George Quick of Waco, Texas, came over with the Barter Theater of Virginia, on the invitation of the Danish government, to play

Two Mineral Wells Projects Approved

JAMIE SCHMITT of Pittsburgh came to play in French films, does ACT parts on the side. Varvara Fioeff, daughter of French stage star Ludmilla and of actor-producer Georges Pitoeff, left an American tour to act again in French. She met the Americans in ACT, and went back to English.

A dozen others have similar stories. It begins to appear that Broadway has come abroad.

Secret Battle for Submarine Superiority Becomes Hardest Fought Phase of Cold War

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The most intense and secretive battle of the Cold War is being fought underwater. The recent announcement of the 505-hour, 5200-mile submerged voyage of the U. S. sub "Puffer," from Hong Kong to Pearl Harbor, focused attention on the importance of the sub race.

It's mostly a research struggle to develop better submarines and better anti-submarine measures. Many military experts believe that there are bigger stakes in the sub rivalry than in the atomic and H-bomb race.

Here's the status of the situation today, as well as it can be evaluated outside the cloak of super-secrecy which both nations have thrown around it.

Russia has more, and possibly better, submarines than the U. S. Some experts say the Reds have 270 now, and are building more rapidly. Most liberal estimate is that she will have 1000 of various types by 1951, most of them equipped with the snorkel, an underwater breathing device.

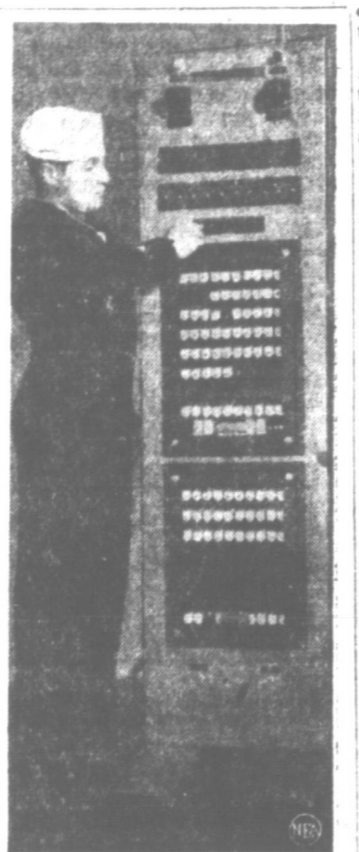

The U. S. Navy has 72 operating subs of various types. Twenty-one are streamlined very fast "cruisers," 19 of which have snorkels. Under construction are six Fast Attack Class subs, probably better than anything the Russians have now, and three very small anti-sub subs, 195 feet long and adaptable to mass production.

Russia's advantage of greater numbers is extremely important, the experts claim. An adequate defense against them would commit thousands of surface ships, involving millions of men. When unopposed by adequate defenses, a few hundred submarines are fully capable of changing the outcome of a war.

Behind the snorkel-equipped Puffer's voyage was the Navy's desire to serve notice on the Russians that America is still very much in the offensive sub race, too.

It is likely that the U. S. has the edge in anti-sub warfare, which is a sort of game within a game — trying to keep one's defenses ahead of one's own offense.

Anti-sub warfare in the Cold War is partly a struggle of nerves. The appearances of what are fairly well established as Russinian subs off the West Coast and the Navy's recent announcements of some hot anti-sub developments are part of this.

FINGERTIP CONTROL—Coast Guardsman Robert V. Dors of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., shows with the flip of a finger how one man at a shore station can operate by remote control the various navigational aids on the Coast Guard's crewless Experimental Lightship 99.

At the end of World War II, although it came too late to turn the tide, the Nazis' snorkel had made U. S. airplanes almost useless in anti-sub operations. The snorkel's edge was its ability to shut a sub from air and sea radar detection.

Now, however, the airplane is very much back in the anti-sub picture. Recently the Navy announced that its Lockheed P2V-4 Neptune "can find formerly radarproof snorkel submarines at any depth and destroy them without help from surface vessels."

The plane is loaded with secret electronics gear and can drop "sonobuoys" which detect subs under the sea and transmit their exact location to the airplane with a small radio. The existence of this plane materially changes the underwater defense picture.

According to Adm. C. B. Monson, the Navy's top sub expert, the major underwater problem now is the fact that our subs, and presumably the Russian subs, can carry torpedoes which have ranges greater than the range of our sonar detection gear. A sub can fire at a ship before the ship's sonar can reveal its presence.

Monson says that there are several research projects under way aimed at licking this advantage of the long-range torpedo. He says, "I feel certain that a solution lies just ahead." All kinds of fantastic projects are included in Monson's optimistic prediction, including one which would detect the exhaust gases of a snorkel with radar.

The three small anti-sub subs which the Navy is now building are the most radical and newest long-range developments in the field. Very fast, they are equipped with many kinds of detection gear. They are extremely quiet, greatly hampering the enemy's detection of them. Being capable of mass production, they might make a basic change in the sub picture in case of war.

Intercollegiate Rodeo Scheduled At Texas Tech

LUBBOCK — Shades of the old West will reappear around the Texas Tech campus soon when the first annual Tech Intercollegiate rodeo is held May 4, 5 and 6.

Bronc busting, calf roping, steer riding and all the other contests typical of a cow-country rodeo are scheduled for the three-day event. Most of the contestants will be Tech students, but invitations have been sent to 31 colleges and universities in the west and southwest.

Jack Buchanan, Big Spring senior in agriculture, is "riding herd" on the show. Polly Cook, graduate student from Post, will reign as queen.

Tech Honorary Aggies Request Affiliation

LUBBOCK — Texas Technological College's "Honorary Aggie" club has petitioned the National Honorary Agriculture Society for a campus charter. Dr. Don A. Marshall has announced.

Dr. Marshall, associate professor of agricultural economics, said a chapter of Alpha Zeta will be established at Tech if the application is approved by the national group at their meeting in Washington April 27-29.

Idaho Chemurgist Makes Dill Pickle Better, So Pickle-Packers Beat Path to His Door

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — "All I can say about our business," Ernest S. Koke will tell you, "is that it stinks."

And that comes from the man who has made the dill pickle what it is today.

Koke's business is odors and tastes, and it may "stink" nose-wise, but you can bet your bottom nostril that it doesn't stink profit-wise. Chances are, any cosmetic item a lady buys today gets its odor from Koke's fabulous farm near Twin Falls, Ida. It's also probable that many of the delicious flavors you've tasted recently in various prepared foods came from the same place.

Koke's accomplishments show what happens when a high-priced chemical engineer decides there's more money in farming. The result is probably the first 100 percent "chemurgic" farm in the U.S.

Chemurgy generally means the use of chemistry to find new uses for farm products. Koke revealed the scope and nature of his farm for the National Farm Chemurgic Council in Washington.

Production of oil of dill weed was his first big accomplishment in chemurgy. Back in 1931, while an organic chemist in a steel plant, he somehow became interested in the way the big pickle companies were flavoring their dills. He was surprised to find that they still did it by putting sprigs of the dill plant in the brine.

This resulted in a pickle that varied greatly in taste, depending on how dry, old or healthy the dill weed happened to be. The dill flavor also differed according to the soil the dill grew in. It was affected still further by a half dozen other factors of growth. Koke grew dill weed under perfectly controlled conditions, extracted the pure dill oil from the plant and used that to provide a consistent flavor for the pickles. Now all the big companies use this method of flavoring their dills, and only throw in a spring of actual dill weed for looks.

With this success under his belt, Koke decided to devote all his time to chemurgic farming. He greatly extended his father's acreage in Idaho, where he made his first dill experiments, and began widening his horizon.

Today Koke is one of the biggest producers of natural essential oils and aromatic chemicals in the country. A weedy plant called coriander, which grows in great quantities, is the source of the oil that goes into many expensive perfumes and cosmetics.

He also raises plants which produce the anise and fennel-hoof flavor of candy, as well as caraway, parsley, sage, savory and garlic, and a product called wormwood which goes into liniment.

In the course of producing those products, he has turned up some highly valuable aids to general farming. For instance, he has developed a special spray mixture which kills weeds yet spares fern-type plants, such as dill and carrots. This method of weeding carrots is used all over the country.

It is Koke's contention that, through hundreds of small chemurgic projects around the country, the farm surplus problem which now plagues agriculture could be licked. Chemurgy, he says, could find a new use for the surplus food and put thousands of acres of land into producing industrial products instead of food.

Those Who Know
Comedy Best—Agree!

Tokyo Morals Fall; Boys Kissing Girls

COLUMBUS, Ohio — (NEA) — A Tokyo professor, now studying at Ohio State University here, is beginning to be afraid that there's more to this freedom business than meets the eye. It can be downright immoral.

Japanese boys and girls, Senjiro Hosokawa thinks, are copying behavior patterns from the American GI's on occupation duty. And, he adds politely, there are a few of the boys who are not what he calls perfect examples of propriety. Some of them don't even ask a girl's parents first, when they want a date.

"You people," says the 35-year-old professor at Tokyo Teachers' College, "should be more discreet in your introduction of your way of life. In your eagerness to democratize our country, freedom has been misinterpreted."

The serious-faced Hosokawa fears that pretty soon Japanese marriages will be arranged by the parties involved, and the nation's moral structure may suffer other similar signs of breaking down.

"I sometimes feel very sorry for American girls who have to search out their ideal husbands for themselves without the advice of their parents," is the way he expresses it.

"My own marriage was arranged by my teacher." (The Hosokawas have two children, but Hosokawa had no statistics about his teacher's offspring.) "Parents and teachers are more objective in making a marriage."

Among other signs of a moral collapse cited by Hosokawa are co-educational schools, and boys and girls mingling in dance halls and at the movies. All in all, it's a very serious thing to a very serious young Japanese.

Perhaps the worst thing the Americans brought to Japan — excluding the atom bomb, of course — was the kiss. It seems that each GI brought his private osculatory Marshall Plan with him to Japan. Before the war, kissing was a shocking thing in Japan.

Now, there's a different kind of shock in a Nipponese kiss.

Black Bear Gives Birth to Triplets

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. — (AP) — The Sherman Park zoo here is astonished.

One of its guests, a black bear has given birth to triplets.

Triplet births in the black bear family, says conservation officer Alex McLane, are "most unusual."

The mother bear hasn't permitted the newcomers outside her cave yet. The zoo says the cubs probably weighed only about nine ounces at birth — infant bears are very small — but ought to be up around 90 pounds come fall.

MARSHALL, Mich. — (AP) — Michigan invoked its "Kathy Fiscus" law yesterday.

For leaving an open well on his property Starr Walbeck was ordered in court to pay a fine and costs of $31.90 or go to jail for 30 days.

He also was ordered to cover the well within 24 hours.

Michigan's Legislature passed the law last year after three-year-old Kathy Fiscus fell into an open well in California and lost her life despite heroic rescue efforts.

Britons Do Right About Old Nell

LONDON — (AP) — "Nell Gwynn" by Sir Peter Lely in the National Portrait Gallery may not be Nell after all, and it may not be by Sir Peter. Officials of the solid old government institution pondered this horrid possibility and began searching yellowed catalogues to find out where they stood.

The picture has hung there 39 years with a discreet label setting out that it shows the actress of Charles II's day who "attracted the favor of the king and had apartments in Whitehall," then his palace. But one gallery functionary admitted the identification may be a mistake.

"There are numerous portraits said to be of Nell Gwynn, but all differ," he said. "This one bears no resemblance to any."

POSTMASTER: General Donaldson, on the plea that economy is necessary to keep within his budget, has ordered a radical reduction in mail service to the public.

There will be only one daily residential delivery in cities, instead of two Saturday deliveries to business houses which will be curtailed, and smaller post offices will be closed on Saturday where possible.

By these economies, which in the instance of householders, the most numerous of all recipients of postal service, amount to curtailing their service in half, Mr. Donaldson hopes to eliminate 13,000 postal employees by July 1.

This is not the first time that the Post Office Department has tried to punish the public because Congress refused to give it all the money it asked.

Mr. Hoover's Commission criticized the Post Office Department as one of the most inefficient in the government. It has not changed its fundamental plan of operation since 1927.

Mr. Hoover's Commission reported, the department should be taken out of politics and run as a business instead of a government bureau.

Mr. Truman sent a reorganization plan containing an excessively watered down version of the Hoover recommendations to Congress last year, and it became effective when Congress failed to veto it.

Mr. Hoover reported, the commission said, it could run at a profit instead of piling up annual deficits.

Red Attack on Plane Sign Of Increased Nervousness?

By JOHN FISHER

The attack on the U. S. Navy plane, which Moscow says was in the vicinity of Latvia, is considered evidence of the Russian dread lest we find out what is going on in the Baltic No Man's Land.

Soviet leaders not only are afraid that we shall pry into such military secrets as the Estonian rocket range, the Dago forts, the Porkkala naval base and the Latvian submarine pens.

They also fear forced landings and other contacts will reveal the genocide which is slowly killing off the Latvian people.

The sight of a single American plane presumed to be a harbinger of hope, would arouse the captives to a wave of resistance against their barbaric masters.

Perhaps, after this example of Russian unwillingness to be obstructed by the outside world, will believe the stories of Baltic refugees — frequently told in this column — of how the Soviet Union is engaged in the piecemeal murder of Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania.

It was grim irony that Foreign Minister Vishinsky should have presented the Kremlin's formal protest against our alleged responsibility for the betrayal and extermination of Latvia. His charge is but a cloak to cover his past sins.

On Oct. 5, 1939, at a state dinner in Moscow, concluding a mutual defense pact between the Soviet Union and Latvia, Stalin told the Latvian minister that he, himself, was a descendant of a tiny nation (Georgia) and thus had his little neighbor's interest at heart.

"I give my Bolshevik word of honor," he declared, "that the Soviet Union will adhere to its promises."

This is how that sacred pledge was kept. From that day on the double-crossing Russians commenced to absorb Latvia, first by quartering 30,000 Red troops "as a protection against Hitler."

Finally on June 14, 1940, Soviet armed forces opened fire on the peaceful Latvian people and the march of conquest began.

LAST SONG OF FREEDOM As the news of the Soviet invasion was flashed on the radio, a chorus of 14,000 was assembled at a national festival before an audience of 80,000.

The tense conductor led the throng in the national anthem. There was hardly a dry eye in the crowd as the last song of freedom was sung ere the proud little republic vanished into the blackness of slavery.

On the heels of the soldiers came the then Assistant Foreign Commissar Vishinsky. When Latvian cabinet officers tried to see him to protest the Russian action, he to his suite and sent out word that he was fatigued and sick.

"FAIR DEAL" QUANDARY

By Dr. Alfred P. Hasko

Speaking to a convention of Wholesale Grocers of the United States recently, U. S. Attorney-General McGrath gave an interesting example of "Fair Deal" morality, although it was not so intended.

What is "sauce for the goose" is not "sauce for the gander."

Said Mr. McGrath: "The Justice Department seeks to protect the right of the American consumer to purchase his food in an open market at prices established by free competition among sellers."

He went on, with increasing earnestness: "We seek also to protect the right of every American business man to enter that market and succeed or fail on his own merits, unhampered by restraints or monopolies."

At the conclusion of his address, Mr. McGrath invited questions from his audience. At one of the tables there had been some discussion of potato prices and the six hundred million dollars the Government price-fixing program is said to have cost the taxpayers.

One of the men stood up, with a quizzical look on his face. "I think, Mr. McGrath," he said, "that some of us are a little puzzled. Does your statement of intention about free markets and unrestricted competition as the proper means of determining prices, apply also to agricultural products, such as things we buy, and on which the Government maintains fixed prices?"

The Attorney-General's face reddened as the audience applauded the question. "I am not necessarily in favor of fixed agricultural prices," he snapped. "You'll have to take that up with the Congress of the United States."

Surprisingly, a general laugh from the audience followed Mr. McGrath's rejoinder. What was there about his answer that amused the wholesale grocers, men who have to buy agricultural products on which the Federal Government by request and approval of McGrath's boss, Harry Truman, maintains fixed prices and does not permit competition to determine those prices?

The questioner was heard quietly to remark to a neighbor at his table: "I guess it would not be polite to ask Mr. McGrath whether that means that he and Mr. Truman do not agree with the Congress — or whether he is just speaking for himself and not for the administration as a whole."

At that moment another man stood up. "I want to ask Mr. McGrath whether his opposition to monopoly and in favor of competitive markets also applies to labor monopolies."

There was utter quiet as Mr. McGrath replied: "If you imply that the anti-trust laws apply to labor I do not agree with you — but the answer to your question is the same; take it up with Congress."

This time the audience did not laugh.

Of course, the Attorney-General, obeying his oath of office, should enforce the anti-trust laws. And it is well that they be enforced, against all monopoly. But there is something incongruous about a situation in which one public official voices righteous indignation against monopoly and price-fixing and insists on free, competitive markets to determine prices, while his superior asks Congress to pass laws which prevent competition from fixing the prices of the agricultural products, and insists even on using taxpayers' money to hold up the prices which those taxpayers have to pay finally for those products as food.

Mr. McGrath is an earnest and apparently able young man. Too bad he cannot work under a single standard of morality — or that subsidy-hungry hands do not wait for his insistence on monopoly prices and relieve the administration of the quandary in which it finds itself.

WASHINGTON — The grand military alliance consisting of the 12 member nations in the North Atlantic Pact threatened to collapse on the same nationalistic rock that wrecked organization of an international army for peace under auspices of the United Nations.

Not even the danger of a speedy Russian conquest of Western Europe under a piecemeal defense is enough to force them to bury their differences.

Naturally, Defense Secretary Johnson and General Omar N. Bradley have delivered "progress" reports on their recent conferences with the military and diplomatic representatives of our proposed allies.

But the off-the-record reaction of foreign spokesmen here and overseas suggest that the anti-Tom-McGrath-Macoff blueprint for years.

REALITY — As of today, there is every sign that a World War III, save for improvement of weapons and possible introduction of A-H bombs, will be waged on almost the same pattern as the recent conflict.

The tragic reality, in the opinion of the more hard-headed experts at the Pentagon and along "diplomatic row" here, is that the Reds will be able to seize Western Europe, the Balkans and Italy, the Middle East and China.

Britain will again remain the allies' "stationary aircraft carrier" whence the Western powers will hope to launch a victorious counterattack. Other peripheral outposts, under this grand prospect, would be North Africa, India and Japan.

SPECIALIZED — Incidentally, most military experts in the North Atlantic Pact countries agree with General Bradley's program of "collective and specialized defense," with each nation contributing the forces and weapons — ground, air and naval — that it is best fitted to provide. They realize the need of an integrated system.

But the political leaders, the cabinet officials and diplomats oppose. They insist that their ministries would fall overnight if they agreed to such a setup. It would favor too much of the Hitler thrust that "the United States and England will fight to the last Frenchman."

FORCES — Clearly, under General Bradley's "overall" arrangement, the United States would furnish naval forces, since we have the only allied fleet. We would also concentrate on production of heavy bombers for retaliatory action against enemy troop movements, submarines, jets and rocket fields, and A-H bomb centers.

Besides a lesser naval role, Britain's major contribution would be fast and powerful fighter planes so essential to preventing an invasion by air or water.

These assignments do not mean that the U. S. and England would not furnish a proportionate share of ground troops, which would eventually become the bulk of the allied army, as in World War II. But in the early stages the Anglo-American task would be control of the skies and the sea lanes.

SURVIVAL — It so happens that France, The Netherlands and Holland have overseas possessions which require maintenance of a merchant marine and auxiliary naval ships.

All three countries are now rebuilding commercial and fleet facilities. They do not want to become dependent on foreign powers for carrying or protecting their overseas trade. They must think in terms of survival in peace time as well as during war.

The American Congress has helped to aggravate fears that the hard, dirty battling on the ground, as well as the casualties, would be inflicted on the French, the Belgians, the Dutch, etc.

KING'S COMMENTS

By Dr. Willford I. King

Nationally Recognized Economist, Economics Professor Emeritus, New York University

UNEMPLOYMENT MARKERS EXPAND OUTPUT After several flukes, our nation's unemployment markers are at last getting results. United States Census Bureau estimates show that, since October 1948, when only 1,642,000 persons were recorded as unemployed, the number classified has jumped to 4,684,000 — an increase of 184%.

—quite an accomplishment. In December last, factory employment was nearly 17% below a full employment level, and there is little to indicate that 1950 has brought any decline in that percentage. It is expected that, in June, some 1,700,000 students now in school will start looking for jobs. One Labor Department occupation analyst says: "It's going to be the tightest job picture since the late 1930's."

Massachusetts and Rhode Island have already doled out to the idle most of the unemployment reserves which they accumulated during nearly a decade of unusually full employment. Who can legitimately demand credit for these accomplishments?

Well-supported claims to such distinction can certainly be advanced by a number of worthy candidates. John L. Lewis may, indeed, assert that, by pushing up the prices of coal, and hence lessening the volume of this commodity which can be marketed, he had reduced materially the number of men needed in the coal industry. Unfortunately, however, his claim for top credit is somewhat clouded by the fact that a few workers displaced from the coal mines may have found employment in the petroleum industry — a field which has benefited from contraction in the use of coal.

No such smudge mars the escutcheon of handsome Maurice J. Tobin, Secretary of Labor. He probably, more than any other man, deserves credit for getting Congress to raise the minimum wage rate for workers in hundreds of industries to at least 75 cents per hour. And, by skillful manipulation, he has forced the rate in a number of fields far above the 75 cent level. Hollace Ramsdell, writing in the C.I.O. News of January 22, 1950, estimated that the new law going into operation two days later would affect directly and immediately 1,500,000 workers.

Hence it appears that Secretary Tobin may justly contend that he is directly responsible for relieving from tireless toil a goodly fraction of the 1,463,000 persons who were employed when the new law went into effect but who are now idle.

However, his claim to the honors will doubtless be challenged vigorously by the Labor Commissioners of our 48 States, two Territories, and the District of Columbia. They can point with pride to the fact that, during the past twelve months, they have generously spent some $1,825,000,000 of the taxpayers' money, in order to overcome the natural propensity of men and women who have lost their jobs to go to work for other employers. And one must overlook the fact that during the same period, the officials of the Federal Veterans' Administration have cooperated splendidly by paying G.I.'s some $352,000,000 to keep them from acquiring the degrading habit of working for a living.

Granting the outstanding merits of all the contenders just mentioned, is however, not to belittle in any way the claims of the great labor-monopoly triumvirate — William Green, Philip Murray, and Walter Reuther. Being well versed in economics, they have called to their aid one of the immutable laws of supply and demand — a law which states that raising the price of any service or material good lessens the volume of that article which can be sold. How this works out in practice is shown by the following data for December 1949. In that month, all the people of the nation had available for spending gross receipts of about $22,600,000,000. Normally, this amount of new spending power results in manufacturers' gross sales amounting to about $19,000,000,000. Out of gross receipts from such a volume of sales, factory wage workers normally draw in wages about $2,932,000,000. Careful statistical investigation shows that this amount of money would pay the nation's entire force of factory workers an average rate of $1.35 per hour for 40 hours per week.

But to hold one's job as a top labor leader, one must be a skillful politician, and every labor leader knows that the way to keep his followers loyal is to get for them higher wage rates or bigger pensions. So, by December 1949, the factory workers' average pay, including pensions, had been boosted to nearly $1.47 per hour, or 11 cents more than the figure which would permit everyone to have a job. And the rate is still being pushed up.

The inevitable result is to make it impossible for a great army of factory workers to find employment. Then, ironically enough, labor leaders urge their unions to demand higher wage rates in order to increase purchasing power! This prescription was tried in 1906-7, the average hourly pay being forced up from $7 to 65 cents. As a result, the total pay of factory workers dropped from $10.50 billions in 1937 to $8.08 billions in 1938 — but the workers gained a lot of leisure!

Who, today, deserves the praise for turning the most workers into idlers? The question is not as easy one to answer. But, after all, isn't there enough glory to go around? Why not give to each of the above-mentioned claimants a medal inscribed "Unemployment-Maker Excelentissimo"?

Our Defense Secretary, Louis Johnson, was queried in London Sunday on all this, with special reference to how he felt about giving military information, much of it secret, to a man like Strachey.

His dealings, Mr. Johnson replied a bit loftily, were "on my level," with Shinwell; and "how Shinwell distributes information within the British Government is his and the British Government's business."

It doesn't seem as simple as all that to us. U. S. military secrets are the property of the American people, paid for out of our taxes. Strachey may have reform, but also he may not. So we don't see how our Defense Department can justifiably take any chances. This could be a few keeps.

The 1950 U. S. Open Golf championship is the 50th such event since 1895 — there were no tournaments during the war years.

Miss Matthews' Engagement Told At Tea, Canadian

CANADIAN — (Special) — More than a hundred guests attended a tea Saturday afternoon at the Paul Bryant home, 722 Purcell. The occasion was to honor Miss Bobbyetta Matthews and to announce her engagement to Hudson Waddell of Odessa. Hostesses were Mrs. Jack King and Mrs. Paul Bryant.

The tea table presented a "study-in-shell-pink." Bobbyetta's chosen color. Covering the table was a pink linen cloth draped with silk illusion, held in place by bows of the illusion and large wedding bands. The center piece was an electric-tiered-revolving mirror. On the top tier was placed a miniature bride in pink tulle and illusion, the remainder of the mirror displaying tiny engagement rings (one for each guest). Instead of a diamond, there was a small heart, inside of which were the words "June 7 — Bobbyetta and Hudson." On either side of the centerpiece stood tall pink tapers in silver candleabra. Individual pink cakes topped with pink rose buds and pink rose bud mints were served from silver trays.

Grandmother of the bride-to-be, Mrs. Dan Curb, poured, and Mrs. Jack King served. Mrs. James Read, aunt of the honoree, and her sister, Nan Matthews, provided appropriate music throughout the afternoon, and Mrs. Jimmie Dan Matthews attended at the guest book. Those receiving the guests with the honored guest were her mother, Mrs. R. N. Matthews and Mrs. Paul Bryant.

Out of town guests attending were Mrs. Dan Curb, Oklahoma City; Mrs. James Read of Altus, Oklahoma; Mrs. Haskell Holland, and Mrs. Ralph Shearer, both of Perryton; Mrs. Grady Harris, Mobeetie, and Mrs. Coleman Jackson, Austin.

Horace Mann P-TA Plans Social Events For Month of May

Plans for the annual pre-school Mothers' Tea, to be held at the regular Parent-Teacher Association meeting in May were made Thursday at a meeting of the executive committee of the Horace Mann P-TA.

Mrs. A. A. McElrath was named chairman, with Mrs. T. J. Hill and Mrs. Huey Laycock on her committee. The committee has extended an invitation to every mother who has a child in Horace Mann for the first year. Tentative plans were also made for the annual teachers' banquet to be held at the end of the school term.

Mrs. A. A. McElrath opened the meeting with prayer and Mrs. L. J. Zachry presided over the business session.

The next meeting of the group will be held May 11.

Women of Moose Plan 'Family Night' Social

Plans for "family night" were discussed by Women of the Moose at a meeting held in the Moose Home recently. The social will be Thursday evening, and will include entertainment and food for all. Also, pictures will be shown of "Mooseheart," the children's home, and of "Moose Haven," the home for old people.

The predominant age among persons arrested in the U. S. in 1949 was 21.

THE DATE PROBLEM

Dear Mrs. Friend:
 What can I do to get the attention of this girl who is in my history class at the High School?
 She is just the kind of a girl you would dream about with blonde hair and blue eyes and cute clothes. Of course she is popular as the dickens and she never even sees me.

I guess I am not the type girls go for as I have never dated. To tell the truth I never wanted to before although my mother made me go to dancing school for a year and you had to dance whether you liked to or not. I never liked it very well but at least I learned and now I am glad Mother made me as I want to ask this blonde to go to the school dance.

But how?

Dear Mrs. Friend, can you tell me how to get her attention and make her want to go with me. Even if I thought she saw me I would be glad but she is always surrounded with guys who are on the track team or something. All I am outstanding in is my studies and girls don't seem to care about that.

Yours truly,
 Bill

I guess there's nothing for you to do but walk right up to your pretty blonde and ask her if you may take her to the dance.

If you want to start off more slowly, why not ask her if you may walk her home from school (Do boys still do that?) or perhaps drive her if you have a car. If she accepts then you can ask her to go to the dance with you. You just have to push right in to the circle surrounding her and make her see you. Hanging back will never get you anywhere.

If you are good at your studies you may get a chance to offer to help her with some problem which comes up in class as she probably is aware that you are a good student.

Remember, the worse that can happen if you ask her for a date is that she may refuse you. Even then you will have had the practice of asking and next time you want to date a girl you will find it much easier to approach the question.

TO DRINK OR NOT

Dear Mrs. Friend:
 I am planning to give a party to which I am going to invite people who don't drink at all and people who don't consider a party a party without a cocktail. How can I handle this situation?

M. M.

Dear M. M.:

Serve both alcoholic and non-alcoholic drinks and let your guests choose. In this day few people pay attention to what others are drinking or feel that it is any of their business.

GLOVES NOT NECESSARY
 Dear Mrs. Friend:
 I am to be married soon and am planning a large church wedding. I will wear a long sleeved satin wedding gown and my mother thinks that to be proper I must wear gloves with it.

I feel that they would be a nuisance.

What is the correct thing? Should the bridegroom wear them?

A. M. A., Anaheim

Although there was a day when gloves were considered a must for brides the rule has relaxed considerably and nowadays she does as she wishes.

A bridegroom, however, is still supposed to carry them even though he leaves them in the vestry for the ceremony.

The Pampa Daily News Women's Activities

PAMPA NEWS, WEDNESDAY APRIL 26, 1950 PAGE 9

District Federation of Women's Clubs in Memphis This Weekend

More than 400 club women are expected to be in Memphis April 27-29 for the 29th annual convention of Seventh District Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

Delegates will begin registering at 8 a.m. Friday in the First Baptist Church, headquarters for the three-day convention.

Mrs. James A. Allen of Childress, district president, will head the delegation of prominent district and state visitors.

Among state officials who will attend the convention are Mrs. J. Howard Hodge of Midland, state president; Mrs. J. W. Walker of Plainview, editor of the "Texas Clubwoman"; and Mrs. T. A. Hicks of Wichita Falls, state chairman of the Council of International Clubs.

Mrs. Hodge will give an address Friday morning at 10:30 on "Our Great American Heritage." Mrs. Hicks will also speak Friday at 12 o'clock on "Scattering Sunshine in Europe."

Pre-convention activities will include the annual board dinner which will be held at 7:30 Thursday evening in the Masonic Dining Hall. Mrs. R. S. Greene of Memphis is in charge of arrangements and the dinner is a courtesy of the Lions and Rotary clubs of Memphis.

The principal speaker at Friday afternoon's session will be Miss Amelia Anthony, founder and director of Girlstown, U.S.A. She will speak on "Girlstown U.S.A." at 2:15 p.m. Following her address club reports will be featured. Highlighting the social activities will be a fan tea at the Memphis Country Club at 4:30 Friday afternoon. Mrs. Claud Johnson of Memphis is serving as general chairman assisted by members of the City Federated Clubs of Memphis.

Mrs. Walker of Plainview will speak on "Our Texas Clubwoman" at 10:45 Saturday morning and at 11:30 Altavene Clark, congressional candidate from the 18th District, will give an address on "Women in Legislation."

Mrs. D. L. C. Kinard of Memphis, immediate past president of seventh district, is serving as general chairman of convention plans assisted by Mrs. C. C. Hodges, president of the City Federation.

Mrs. Allen Hodges of Littlefield, district program chairman, is in charge of program arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Earl Hill of Memphis and Mrs. Stanton M. Filds of Amarillo.

In addition to Mrs. Allen, president, other directors of the seventh district board include Mrs. O. M. McGinty of Spur, first vice president; Mrs. A. E. Boyd of Plainview, second vice president; Mrs. Bill Ross of Childress, recording secretary and treasurer; Mrs. J. H. Jernigan of Childress and Mrs. Raymond W. Harrah of Pampa, appointed members; Mrs. D. L. C. Kinard of Memphis, honorary member; and Mrs. Wesley Izzard of Amarillo, parliamentarian.

Several representatives from Pampa will attend the conference.

Lura Jean Dunn Is Bride of Jack Deger

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Miss Lura Jean Dunn, daughter of Mrs. Vera B. Dunn of Shamrock, became the bride of Jack Deger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Deger of Lutie, April 7.

The wedding was solemnized at the parsonage of the First Baptist Church, with the Rev. Edward C. Derr, pastor, officiating in the double-ring service.

Mrs. Ed Burton was matron of honor and Joe Deger, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

The bride wore a street-length dress of ice blue pique fashioned with a low neckline, short sleeves and fitted bodice. Her navy-of-the-face hat was trimmed with pink flowers. She carried out the tradition of wearing something old, new, borrowed and blue. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Mrs. Deger is a graduate of the Shamrock High School and is now employed with the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. The bridegroom is a graduate of the Samnorwood High School and now has farming interests. The couple will make their home in Shamrock.

What's RIGHT?

You are a high school or college girl applying for work during the summer months.

WRONG WAY: When applying for the job wear the type of clothes you wear to school. Go hatless, wearing loafers, sweater and skirt, etc.

RIGHT WAY: Dress like a business girl, if you want to land a job.

WE, THE WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT VERA Staff Writer

A working mother who is holding down a job through necessity, tells me that she often feels guilty because she can't give more time to her children.

She shouldn't feel guilty at all, but proud that she can earn the pay check that is necessary to the family's welfare.

With a little help from her husband she can even see to it that the children take pride in her job, too, instead of feeling that they are being cheated because their mother doesn't stay at home every day.

And there is this for the working mother to remember: It isn't so much the quantity of time and attention you spend on your children as the quality.

Some mothers who stay home all day long and think they are doing everything for their children actually don't do much to make them happy and secure because the quality of their companionship isn't high.
