Palestine Will Not Take Money

A LITTLE item in yesterday's edition of The News said that Palestine, Texas, had rejected a federal government appropriation for a housing project in that community.

"We felt." said a spokesman, "that in a time of prosperity there was plenty of incentive for private enterprise to fulfill housing needs without resorting to federal help."

It is heartening to see communities relying upon their own initiative and enterprise, rather than turning to easy money from Washington.

IF OUR TREND toward nationalization is ever thwarted, it will be by the initiative of the people -it certainly will not come from the federal government.

It won't come from the federal government, because that would mean less influence the bureaucrats could hold over the people -who perpetuate government offices and jobs.

Plans Made For Averting Depression

NEW YORK - (A) - How can the nation stave off or cushion another depression? How guard against the wholesale loss of jobs when business slackens? Some think labor can do it by forcing companies to guarantee an annual wage, rather than to hire or fire men from day to day as new orders wax or wane.

Some think government can do it by managing the supply of money and credit so that the country never actually deflatesunless the bubble bursts. And some think industry can do it, by setting up reserves in the fat years to keep plants running in the lean years, thus keeping many on the payroll who otherwise would go on relief. Gen. Robert E. Wood, chairman

Sears, Roebuck and Co. of Chicago, thinks the United States will be able for a number of years to stave off the threat of recessions or depressions by juggling the money supply. He is no advocate of such a policy, but he hinks that is what we are in

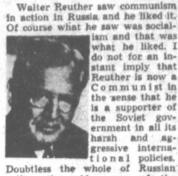

The part that industry itself could play is stressed by Joseph L. Snider, professor of business economics in the Harvard Rusimess School, in the forthcoming issue of "The Controller," ficial publication of the Controllers Institute of America.

Businessmen retain extra funds for expansion, Snider says, but 'fail to establish funds which will insure continuance at all times of a healthy level of operations." In the past business reaction to the threat of depression, he notes, was to lower wages, reduce the number of employes, cut overhead, put off upkeep, pare stocks and even let on sales efforts. But he thinks all this is self defeating in the long run — "one company's expense is another company's or individual's income." And he suggests that stabilization reserves would stop this sort of cost cutting from snowballing into a depression.

Ten percent of all male deaths and 14 percent of all female deaths are caused by cancer.

tional policies. Doubtless the whole of Russian policy, the wider area of the Russian European program did not operate upon his mind. But the pure socialism which he saw in one sector of that Red world filled him with enthusiasm. He is older now and he is ambitions. He is still a Socialist, But he is a National Socialist Planner, And this does not include any immediate nationalization of the automobile industry. His union wants the government to build and operate some steel plants, which would be a fair beginning on the Fabian model. But an industry like the automobile industry, thus far, is to be assigned to the State planned area of the economy rather than the State owned part.

Reuther, as I have already explained, and his advisers believe that there is only one way to avoid the succession of "booms and busts" for the automobile industry and that is by Planning. Planning means submitting the entire industry to a Socialist Planned Econ-

One large question rises to confront us at this point. How many people will be willing to invest money in an industry run on this plan and crushed under taxes like those which bleed white the British auto manufacturer? How many executives would be willing to operate under such a regime? Of course the most informed Socialist students know that this sort of operation is impossible and that it will be only a matter of time when the State would be called on to take the next step and take over the industry outright,

Yet this is the pattern for American industry, aside from those basic enterprises that will be taken over outright. A pamphlet issued by David Dubinsky's International Ladies Garment Workers Union de-clares that "The history of the IL GWU has demonstrated that the workers can be entrusted with the task of running industry in the interest not only of the working class but of society in general far better than the present masters of industry who, blinded by profit, would rush on to suicidal death." The program of the Socialist Planners is to transfer the more basic industries to the State as proprietor, to commit the remainder. planning by management and labor under State chairmanship and supervision and to make the State responsible for the continuous operation of the entire system and for the security and welfare of every

It is these Socialist Planners who are now in control of the American labor unions and, as I have indicated in a preceding chapter, we find the leaders of these unions part of the political engine known as Americans for Democratic Action which is expected to sit at the center of this Fabian revolution, guide its destinies and bring all the elecialized medicine and public housing. The housing industry for lowa confiscatory tax system and by the building unions and their "conscious withdrawal of efficiency," the job is now declared to be one for the State. It is a simple matter to Mr. Walter Reuther, who is dangerous because he is an effective speaker and a good political organizer, and also because all the great problems seem simple to him. He demands now nothing less than twenty million houses for workers in the next ten years. It is merely necessary to convert the aircraft plants to assembly line manufacture of houses, which will sell for $6000. This huge number of houses would result in new communities requiring new shops, new roads, new movie theatres, etc. The houses would cost 120 billion dollars: the community improvements anmanaged and financed by the government, because it is "too big a job for private industry." It is all so simple. One part of this trick not explained is how Mr. Reuther would bypass the power of the building construction labor unions with a plan like this, which disenses with their services.

Of course, like our pundits in Americans for Democratic Action, these labor men shy away from the vord socialism. In the case of some of them it is downright ignorance. Others understand fully that they are deceiving the people. Recently a group of these Socialist Planners published a book outlining their doctrines and their hopes. These correspond precisely with British Socialism. But they have celled the book "Saving American Capitalism." Philip Murray indignantly denied the charge of a business man that his program was "naked-ly socialistic." "We want the free enterprise system to really work for all Americans," he insisted. The error in the business man's critic-ism was that it is "nakedly" socialistic. It is far from naked. It is all dressed up in the most colorful capitalistic silks and laces. Secretary of Labor Tobin has just assured us we have nothing to fear on the score of socialism. They are all trying to save capitalism. Can he really believe the if he does, is he sufficiently informed to nold a cabinet portfolio?

The history of British politics from 1905 on is filled with the as-surances of men like Lloyd George, Herbert Asquith, Lord Grey and numerous confused labor leaders that England was in no danger of going Socialist. The reader may recall the reference in a previous chapter to the comforting words of Asquith and Grey, that "we could sleep more safely in our beds" and that "I regard the advent of a Labor government with no apprehension at all" at the very moment when they were installing Socialist Ramsay MacDonald as Prime Minister. The meaning of all this is that, as in Britain, Fabian Socialists, known here as Socialist Planners, have, as part of their plan, got almost complete possession of the apparatus of the American labor unions. Up to now they have been able to draw along with them to the polls the rank and file of their members. The promise of so many benefits and graces at the hands of the State has been, of course, a powerful inducement to their mempers to follow their lead. How far they will be able to march the millions of American labor union members behind the Red flag of socialism when the full road is revealed remains to be seen.

Certainly no intelligent effort has been made to counteract this powerful drive with an educational program designed to answer the opaganda of the union Socialist indoctrination machine. There is no evidence that the American workman favors socialism. The test will come when the present artificial boom expires and the nation sinks down, as is inevitable, into a depression. Will the American workman at that point blame the men who have misled him? Or will he harken to the cry that will than go up that the new and deeper troubles are only a final proof that we must have more rather than less socialism?

All He's Got

When a fellow's feelin' low and counts his troubles by the score, and his bank account discloses that he have a score and his bank account discloses that he hasn't much in store, then he wishes for a fortune that would satisfy his urge, to provide his wife and kids a lot of dough with which to splurge. As an adequate provider, he is sure he's not so hot, but while not providin' much, he's sure providin' all he's got.

Now he has to pay the grocer and be ready with the rent, and it's then the balance in the bank begins its quick descent. And a payment here, another there, soon has him on the ropes, and he's reached the stage where nothin' much is left except his hopes. That's the time he needs remindin', when his world has gone to pot, that while not providin' much, he's sure providin' all he's got.

For the thing that sure will test a man's ability to live, isn't what the guy can buy but what he'd really like to give. So his loved ones gathered 'round him, while they can't be livin' high, know the kind of generosity that money doesn't buy. And it's then they should remind him that they're happy with their lot, for they know their good provider is providin' all he's got.

JOLSON SINGS AGAIN

THE STORY: Alice Pine, recently engaged as literary secretary to the popular writer Muriel Halleck, is aware of a strange tension between Muriel and her husband Brent, an artist. Affee enanot understand why Brent seems discountented and traculent. One day, when Alice on an afternoon of plays got at the club near the village of Tolliver, she meets Molly Tremapne, one of the local women. They see Brent from a distance and Mrs. Tremapne does not conceal the fast that ahe thinks Brent came back from the war with "some kind of a complex." She also reveals that Brent chums around with Chuck Wismer, whom she describes as "worth-less." Thinking over the envernation later. Alice decides the less she knows of the private lives of the Haliceks the better. But she has found an interest in their adopted son, four-year-old Rick.

Dozen Rescued by Pilot-Bus Drvier

PINCONING, Mich. - (AP) Bus driver Calvin Carstens doubles as a flier, for which he has the grateful thanks of a dozen ice fishermen.

The 29-year-old pilot went to the rescue in his light plane when a great ice floe started carrying 12 fishermen out into cold Saginaw Bay. Seven times Carstens faced gusty winds as he flew out over a 75-foot gap and brought the men back to safety. Carstens, veteran of 51 B-17 missions in Europe, reported the take-offs and landings were "not too bad." The ice was only six inches thick.

Custodians of Tomorrow's World

Whether it will be one world or many small ones . . . a world of plenty or privation . . . and whether it will be led by wise men, humane and principled, depends upon the guidance . . . the education . . . the ideals instilled in our youth today. On their young shoulders will fall the mantle of leadership. This week we pay tribute to the Boy Scouts of America-citizens of work-and pledge our continued support to an organization which has produced and will continue to give us men who are leaders . . . IN THE HOME ... THE COMMUNITY ... THE NATION ... THE WORLD.
