"Be awake and aware of the problems of your day", Rev. Donald Hungerford asked of the Borden County senior class during Baccalaureate Services last Sunday. "As you grow older, be able to tell your children and grandchildren -- "I was a part of the times of my lifetime", urged Rev. Hungerford. Mrs. Judith Holladay was present from Stanton, Texas to present Special Music. She sang "This Is My Country" and "All The While". Mr. McLeroy, Superintendent, introduced Rev. Hungerford, who gave a farewell talk to the honored students. The Benediction was given by Mr. Ben Jarrett and Recessional was played by Mrs. Shirley Kountz.

Senate

Passes Meat

Import Bill

T. A. Cunningham, president of the Independent Cattlemen's Association, said today that cattlemen across the nation should be encouraged by the Senate's passage of Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's meat import revision legislation.

Bentsen's bill passed the Senate Friday, May 5, by a voice vote.

Bentsen's bill revised the 1964 law by using a counter-cyclical approach. The proposed legislation would reduce imports when domestic production is high and increase imported meat when domestic suppliers report low production figures.

Cunningham said that an uphill battle remains because the Carter Administration is opposed to the import revision bill.

U. I. L. Changes

Six-player girls' high school basketball in Texas is going by the way side.

By a vote of 549-369, superintendents of schools participating in girls' basketball have decreed that the half-court, three-on-three game played statewide by Texas girls since 1942 be changed to full-court, five-on-five beginning next season.

The controversial issue was one of eight propositions voted on by UIL-member schools in a referendum. The results were released to coaches at a Saturday morning meeting held in conjunction with the girls' state track meet in Austin.

With Texas' vote to go the full-court basketball game as played by the boys, only four states - Iowa, Tennessee, Arkansas and Oklahoma - remain with the six-player style for girls.

Out of Texas' five classifications of schools, only Class A voted against the five-player style, 106-74. Class B schools voted 127-122 for the change.

AA 119-76, AAA 68-41 and AAAA 161-24. Although A voted to retain the old style, its schools will have to go along with the majority.

Ballot No. 1 passed by a vote of 775 to 114 allowing these additions to the football plans. In schools where junior high consists of the 9th grade, football practice will begin no earlier than the second Monday prior to the first Thursday in September. Practice is to be conducted without contact equipment. Equipment allowed is shoes, socks and shorts. Jr. High cannot work out prior to the first day of school and cannot play a scrimmage or a game until the second Thursday in September."

Ballot No. 4 passed 835 to 156 pertaining to eligibility in League contests. He/she must have been in attendance at the school to which he/she changes for one year if: (1) his/her parents reside outside the school district; or (2) his/her parents reside outside the school attendance zone in

Jere's Jottings

It's graduation day-not just for the seniors at Borden County High School, but for each student and teacher in the system. Each one is graduating-moving on to a new level. Even those who may have been retained will be graduating to a more mature level.

For the seniors who have spent their school years in the Gail system, graduation day will be a happy-sad day. It's traditional to be happy the last day of school-to giggle and hug-to toss your dog eared notebook into the air-to recklessly empty the contents of your locker into the hall, revealing an assortment of forgotten treasures. It is also traditional to be sad-to weep and wail and hug-to entone thru out the day, "This is the last time I'll-", to wear your jersey for the last time-to bid farewell to teachers and coaches who have helped mold your character, some you'll never see again.

The time of graduation is also one of anxiety for seniors. They have been secure with the blue and red blanket of Gail School wrapped around them. Now there are decisions they alone must make. Some will go from Gail School to colleges-others will begin an adult life of working. Those choosing college face an entirely different environment. They will go from a rural way of life to an urban one. The loss of privacy and quietness will be the most noticeable. No longer can they go to the barn when situations or relationships get too messy. But consideration for the other person will be learned.

Graduation is a time for reflection. Some will reflect upon the advantages of having gone to Gail School-that you were bussed across the creek to the only school in the district-that the smallness of your numbers enabled you to have personal attention from your teachers-that the smallness of your numbers necessitated parent participation. Some will reflect upon, "School days, school days, dear old Golden Rule days". You'll miss those school days but the rule days will stay with you. You are fortunate to have been in a system free to have rules with the freedom to enforce them.

For the little kids, the end of school is a happy-sad time too. Happy, happy that the summer days will be less structured. They'll play house and in a week, will be playing school. They'll swim, go bare-foot and eat watermelon. Sad too-they'll miss their home room teacher and think they'll never love another as well. They'll miss the daily companionship of friends-some they won't see til school starts again. Sad too cause they may never see the big kids again-they'll stand around and look sideways at the seniors, learning all they can of their mannerisms. This summer they'll "pretend" to be big kids-wishing to be a senior too soon.

Graduation day for the teachers is happy-sad too. Happy to see the accomplishments of the students which they have facilitated. Happy that they are free to teach in a small, rural system without the fetters of bureaucratic bigness. Sad that some will not return to Gail School for reasons not fully understood.

Yes, graduation day is a happy-sad time for all. A time to be cherished-a time to learn from and a time to launch from.

What's Hap-Nin Around Town

A minor accident occurred Saturday evening just east of Gail. A lady from Mexico and her small child were apparently in route from Dallas to El Paso by way of Seminole when she fell asleep at the wheel and ran off the road and through a fence. There were no serious injuries and only minor damage to the gas tank of the car. It was haphazardly patched and the lady was sent on her way.

"Fiddler" Frank Herridge was admitted to the hospital Saturday with a knee injury.

The seniors reported having a fabulous time in Colorado this past week. They all came back with sunburns, and reported two serious injuries. Snooks Ogden fell while ice skating and had to have 5 stitches in her head, and Lesa Hensley is reported to have sun burned the cornea of her eye and will have to see a specialist.

Shirley Newton was admitted to the Hospital at Post Friday. Tests are being run at this time.

K. T. Reddell is home from the hospital after a lengthy stay.

Dorothy Browne left Thursday for South Fork, Colorado. She will be working at Fun Valley, a summer resort, till October. Dorothy will be missed but we all hope to see her back for the Gail Jr. Rodeo.

Heard James McLeroy celebrated his 39th Birthday Sunday. Say James, you are really holding up well for 39.

Joe and Yvonne Brozo and girls will be moving to Slaton Thursday. They report that their stay here has been a very enjoyable period in their lives and they request all their friends to visit them in Slaton.

Don Hare was the victim of a one truck - deer-in-the-road accident last Tuesday. The County truck received extensive damage, but Don was apparently uninjured.

Sunday, being Mother's Day and Baccalaureate both, found most of Borden County picnicking or having family reunions.

We would like to take this opportunity to say "Farewell" to our seniors and to wish them well in their new endeavours.

Dear Friends,
I want to thank you for supporting me in the Democratic Primary. My wife, Nancy, and I really appreciate the help and encouragement so many have given us during the Campaign. We ask your continued help and friendship in the weeks and months to come.

I would appreciate your vote on June 3 — either personally or by absentee ballot.

Thanks again for your help.

Your County Agent Says

by Randy Upshaw, CEA

Vernon, Texas -- It is almost time for Rolling Plains and High Plains ranchers to be thinking about mesquite brush control with aerially-sprayed herbicides.

To determine if the right conditions exist to provide a good kill, it is necessary to take a look at weather conditions beginning last fall. Herbicides used to control mesquite are growth-regulating chemicals that must be translocated from the leaves to the stems and roots to be most effective. Translocation of the herbicide is strongly influenced by growing conditions at the time of the herbicide application. These conditions vary from year to year. Mesquite growth appears to be closely related to climatic conditions which precede the spraying date.

Charlie Fisher, Cecil Meadors and Dr. Pete Jacoby, brush control researchers with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station have recently compared research results from tests on herbicide control of mesquite conducted since 1929 with rainfall records prior to spraying.

They found that highest kills of mesquite occurred when monthly rainfall exceeded the long term average on each of the six months prior to spraying.

Mesquite sprayed with 2, 4, 5-T at the one-half pound per acre rate averaged 77 percent root kill on six ranch locations when rainfall exceeded the long term average on each of the six months prior to spraying.

With a decrease in the number of months when rainfall exceeded the average there was a corresponding decrease in mesquite control. When only 4 months of rainfall that was above average, mesquite kill averaged 42 percent root kill on 12 ranch tests.

The researchers reported that only three months of above average rainfall lowered kills to an average of 34 %. However, when average amount of rainfall is received, mesquite root kill averaged 25 percent. This would be the average control of mesquite from 2, 4, 5-T if average rainfall was received in each of the six months prior to spraying.

Thus, the study shows that average results in mesquite control by aerial spraying of herbicide occurred when monthly rainfall is average or slightly above average for at least three months preceding application of herbicide. Highest plant kills occurred when monthly rainfall exceeded the average for six months prior to spraying, while poorest results occurred following conditions when only two or less months exceeded the long term average prior to spraying.

Time of application of the herbicide is important to obtain the maximum kill that current growth conditions will allow. Mesquite should not be sprayed until the leaves have fully extended and have turned from the light green to the dark green color. Another factor that should be checked is soil temperature. Best kill of mesquite is usually obtained when the soil temperature at eighteen inches of depth at time of spraying is 75 degrees F. or above. If possible, spraying should be delayed for ten to twenty-one days after a significant rainfall to allow new growth to mature. To obtain maximum root kill of mesquite, check growth conditions of the mesquite and soil temperature before spraying.

The three registered and effective herbicides for control of mesquite in Texas using aerial broadcast spray are 2, 4, 5-T, picloram and 2, 4, 5-T mixture (Tordon 225); and dicamba and 2, 4, 5-T mixture (Banvel 2 plus 2).

"There's nothing else like it."
"Fly control with IGR costs about a cent-and-a-half per day for a cow. Total cost, including minerals, is about 3 cents per head daily."

"With IGR Minerals, around-the-clock horn-fly control on 100 cows costs about $1.50 per day."

"Compare the cost of roundup, spray, weight loss and spraying time for 100 cows each 10 days to the $15 it'll cost to control flies with IGR."

"Even if you spray every 10 days, new horn flies keep hatching out of the untreated manure. It's a never-ending cycle."

"With IGR, you don't have to worry about when to spray or that a rain will wash off the spray."

"Spraying for horn flies temporarily removes the symptom. It isn't a 'cure'. Feeding IGR relieves the symptom by providing the 'cure'."

"It Works."
"No need to worry about horn flies all season. That's peace of mind."

"IGR isn't a poison. It is a totally new concept in the control of horn flies without harming beneficial insects, wildlife or the environment."

"The active ingredient 'tricks' the horn-fly pupa into remaining a pupa until it dies without poison."
