Yankees Drub Brooklyn to Take 3-1 Series Lead

Pitching Battles End With 6-4 Game

By GAYLE TALBOT
BROOKLYN—(AP)—The "pitchingest" World Series of modern times came unstuck Saturday as the New York Yankees smashed out 10 hits — four of them ringing extra-basers — to subdue the Dodgers, 6 to 4, and pull within a single victory of the winners' share.

In two big innings, the fourth and fifth, the American League champions blasted two Dodger pitchers for all their runs on two singles, three doubles and a three-run triple by their "golden boy," Bobby Brown.

Then, after the home team had rallied with seven singles in an amazing sixth chapter to rout starter Ed Lopat and reduce their deficit to two runs, the Yankees sat back behind remarkable relief pitching by Allie Reynolds to clinch their 3-1 lead in the playoff.

From the time he took over from Lopat with the tying run on base and two out in the sixth when he struck out the final two Dodgers to wind up the game, Reynolds did not permit another Brook to reach first. The 10 men he faced went down as though they had been pole-axed.

Thus the sturdy righthander from Oklahoma had in 12 1-3 innings of the World Series pitching, including his brilliant 3-0 (See REYNOLDS, Page 4)

Navy's Air Arm Is Said Being Slashed

WASHINGTON — (AP)—The Navy's air arm is being slashed in half on Pentagon orders, and the whole Navy reportedly is slated to wind up on mere convoy duty, Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee charged yesterday.

Congress itself apparently intends to let naval aviation "with-er on the vine" for lack of aircraft, spurred on by advice of unsympathetic defense officials, Vinson said.

Secretary of the Navy Matthews said the Navy feels the nation's security is endangered, and that he is fighting Defense Department proposals to cut the Navy.

And a Navy air expert said the Navy's jet "Banasher" fighter plane can knock down the Air Force's prize B-36 atomic bomber any time, day or night.

"Three Banashes should positively insure the destruction of the B-36," said Capt. Fred M. Trappell, commanding officer of the Naval Air Test Center at Patuxent River, Md.

'Barbershoppers Talent Search' Slated Oct. 28

A new type of show for the local chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America was announced yesterday by B. R. Shultz, president.

The new show, "Barbershoppers Talent Search," will be held at 8 p. m., Oct. 28, at the Junior High School Auditorium. At that time Pampa school children from 8th through 12th grades will be given an opportunity to participate in the musical contest.

This came out at another stormy hearing of the Armed Services Committee, which is looking into the destruction of the Navy's war strategy.

Before the hearing concluded, volleys had been fired in all directions, hitting Secretary of Defense Johnson and Congress itself.

Trappell's high appraisal of the Banasher gave an expert's backing to Friday's testimony by flying Adm. A. W. Radford, Pacific Fleet commander.

Quartets Will Stage Show as Polio Benefit

Barbershoppers will get together Saturday night, Oct. 22, at the Junior College Auditorium at Berger for a "Parade of Quartets."

Emil J. Kucera, secretary of the Tri-City Chapter of SPEBSQSA, composed of Berger, Phillips and Bonavista, said the chorus would be made up of singers from Berger, and that quartets would be heard from Pampa, Perryton, Amarillo, Newton, Kans., Oklahoma City, Carlsbad, N.M., and from the Tri-City area.

Three winners of the show will get an all-expense-paid trip to Gunnison, Colo., next summer where they will attend a summer music clinic. The clinic, an annual affair there, obtains financial assistance from the U.S. Navy, and other services are out of sympathy with the Navy air arm.

"I have seen a reputable document indicating that decisions being made in the defense department to cut naval and Marine aviation strength about in half and that the Air Force is to be given an expanded role," Vinson said.

Membership Meeting Set

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Top o' Texas Rodeo and Horse Show Association, Inc., Friday, it was decided the annual membership meeting will be held Nov. 17.

W. E. Weathered was appointed chairman of the Nominating Committee to select 22 men from which 11 men will be elected to serve on the board for three years.

Should the Air Force of the Navy, or both, deliver the bombs in any future war?

The Navy feels it should have an important role to play in carrier and fighter planes. He urged the cooperation of all drivers in these zones.

Mrs. Willard Chapman is B & P Welfare and Safety Committee chairman.

MOVE ON TO GET CIRCUS TICKET FOR EVERY KID

Pampa Shrine Club ticket sales for the Rogers Brothers Circus to be at Recreation Park Oct. 15, are going well, it was announced yesterday.

Fifty percent of the proceeds from the advance sale of tickets will go to the care of physically handicapped and underprivileged children, it was explained. All the funds of this nature will remain in Pampa.

Under State's Attorney Phyllis Parker, daughter of Judge Parker, the prosecution presented its case. Then Defense Attorney Mary Ann Kelly and Carol Ann McLellan presented their side.

Judge Parker showed surprising agility in getting around from prosecution, defense, bench and witness box prompting and explaining each move in language understandable to the kiddies.

John L. Lewis And Operators In New Parley

PITTSBURGH — (AP)—Uncle Sam yesterday got John L. Lewis and coal operators to go back to the bargaining table and try again for a settlement of the 20-day-old mine strike.

But there was only gloom on the steel strike front as the economy-crushing shutdown of America's basic industry headed into its second week. Nothing is being done.

The first doubleheader steel-coal strike in the nation's history has idled nearly a million workers with prospects the jobless list will rise quickly. Losses in wages and industry are estimated above $250,000,000.

Innocent Women to Get Tickets

Innocent Pampa women drivers are to be given tickets by the police all week. About this same time last year the coppers handed out tickets and the women liked it.

The police have agreed to cooperate with the Pampa B & P Club in its safety contest again this year. It is one of the features of National Business Women's Week, which starts today.

School Bond Assumption and Maintenance Tax Issues Pass

Both the school bonded indebtedness assumption and maintenance tax elections were carried yesterday in light voting in the lobby of the Junior High School.

The bond assumption carried 121 to 44 and the tax issue 121 to 42.

Election Judge DeLoe Vicens reported only two mutilated ballots in the tax end of the election. This was considered a good count under the new election system of ripping off the ballot number stub and inserting it in a different box from the ballot box.

Defenses of Canton Melt Before Reds

CANTON, China — (AP)—Defenses north of Canton were melting away before the Communist advance, but the Reds appeared to be concentrating on pursuit of the Nationalist Army rather than quick capture of this capital.

Practically the whole 190-mile stretch of the Canton Railway, only 75 miles north of this doomed city, was either in Red hands or had been abandoned.

Mystery of Plane Crash Is Unsolved

Police were as much in the dark last night as they were Thursday morning over the mystery of the runaway plane that crashed into the house of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Zabel in the 600 block Doucette, narrowly missing two sleeping children.

Chief J. O. Dumas did say he believed it was the work of vandals tampering with the plane who were scared away when it accidentally started up and taxied away—or that it could have been an attempt to steal the plane.

Big Improvements Are Being Planned

The Worley Hospital is to come under the ownership of 11 local doctors, including the present owners; and it will be remodeled and improved.

It was learned yesterday that remodeling and improvement will cost an estimated $40-$50,000, and that additional equipment will be purchased at an estimated cost.

It was announced, also, that the Pampa Hospital, owned by Drs. Malcolm Brown and K. W. Pierratt, will be closed permanently at such time as Highland General Hospital opens for operation.

The Worley will have about 42 beds, the same as now, it was said. The Pampa Hospital has 30 beds.

Crop Damage May Be Heavy After Flood

Rain-choked bayous which surged through the Houston area began receding late Saturday. The threat of a disastrous flood in Texas' biggest city seemed to be receding.

The flood was bad enough, anyway. It began with heavy rains Friday.

Crop Reports To Influence Control Plan

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Harvest-time crop reports due this week may go far in driving the government toward the broadest farm production control action ever taken.

Mounting agricultural surpluses — in which Uncle Sam now has invested upwards of $4,500,000,000 by 1950 harvest — are causing government officials to search for ways of pinching back the production spigot opened wide by war and post-war demands.

Commission Has Right to Levy Taxes

AUSTIN — (AP) — Authority of the Citrus Commission to levy taxes was upheld in an opinion by the attorney general.

The opinion, however, did not deal with all phases of the new law establishing the Citrus Commission.

The opinion by Assistant Attorney General Dean J. Capp ruled that the tax levied under the Citrus Commission Act passed by the 51st Legislature does not violate the section of the Constitution requiring that taxes be levied and collected for public purposes.

It also held that the tax is not a violation of the Constitution in its delegation of the taxing authority by the Legislature to an administrative agency.

The opinion had been required by J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture.

Under the law, one-eighth of the tax levied on citrus fruit goes to the Texas College of Arts and Industries at Kingsville, one-eighth goes to the A&M Experiment Station at Weslaco, and the remaining three-fourths to the commission.

The opinion did not rule on this phase of the law, saying:

"We refrain from passing upon the nature of the tax as concerning its distribution and also as concerning its collection from the grower. These questions have not been asked and are not covered by this opinion."

The opinion said flatly the commission may impose a tax for advertising purposes.

The act creating the commission was passed as a citrus regulatory measure and the tax was set up to finance its regulatory duties and to provide funds for other functions, including advertising programs and sales campaigns.

The tax was not to exceed three cents per standard packed box or bag of one and three-fifths bushels or the equivalent in canned citrus.

YOU AUTO SEE TEXAS

By HOWARD KING

Texas is a treasure chest of early-day, pioneer or ante-bellum homes—the type that people travel to Mississippi, Louisiana and Virginia to see. In many ways they are more interesting for few, if any, have been "doctored up" for the tourists and most of them are well kept. Descendants of the original builders live in many of them.

Roughly speaking, they are of five types of architecture: colonial, Victorian, plantation, ranch style and Louisiana. Beautiful examples of giant pillared colonial homes are "Woodlawn," the Governor Pease home; the Governor's Mansion at Austin; and the "Le Grande House" at Tyler. The first two were designed by Hugh Cook and built from 1851 by 1853. Both were the homes of Governor Pease.

To reach Woodlawn, drive out West 24th Street in Austin. It is a huge red brick with white columns, and is surrounded by giant oaks. Lamps on the entrance posts of the driveway are from the first Capitol, which burned in 1835. R. Niles Graham, grandson of Governor Pease, and his wife live there.

The Governor's Mansion is across the street from the Capitol building. It is a huge white house with six massive columns. It is furnished in ante-bellum style. Of special interest to visitors are the beautiful winding stairs, the Green Room, the Sam Houston Room, the huge clock once used by Napoleon, and the coffee table made from a Civil War drum.

The Le Grande House at Tyler is quite a sensation. More than you ever dreamed of. It is just like stepping into a fine home before the Civil War. Everything seems to have been preserved and it is as bright and shiny as a jewelry store. It is right in town about three blocks west of the Blackstone Hotel.

Partially hidden from the street by giant trees; its massive columns glisten in the sunlight. The back of the house is as grand and handsome as the front and opens out onto a six-acre garden. The home is owned by the City of Tyler and is maintained as a museum open to the public. Two charming ladies are present to show visitors through and to describe the house and its history.

The Le Grande House was built in 1859 by Captain Gallatin Smith, a bachelor who was killed in the Civil War. It was first called "Bonnie Castle" and was later the home of Dr. W. J. Goodman whose brass name plate is still in place. In the house is the "pharmacy" and surgical instruments of Dr. Goodman, all carefully preserved.

The front consists of a circular portico two stories high, with great round columns. At the second-floor level is a balcony enclosed by a turned wooden balustrade. The back is similar to the front and the balcony runs the width of the house. Under the north veranda is the service hall and kitchen, and under the south veranda is a portico.

A central hall runs the length of the house and a circular stair leads to the second floor. Beautiful parlor with giant mirrors and crystal chandeliers are on each side of the hall. The ceilings are 18 feet high and the walls are finished in ivory. The windows are hung with rich brocade from gold cornices. Furnishings are as interesting as the architecture. In the completely furnished house are choice simple and Victorian pieces as well as complete sets of period furniture. There is a lovely set of Le Moge china imported from England as well as a large cut-glass bowl used to bathe the baby. Cases contain bridal dresses, shoes and accessories from four generations.

The extensive grounds are planted in rare shrubs and flowers and in the hothouse are lovely camellias, one of which is 85 years old. In the yard there is a fig tree planted in 1880. The entire place reflects the culture of the time.

Among the Victorian or rococo houses none is a better example than the Mary Key home located on the corner of South Bolivar and Crockett Streets, just south of the square in Marshall. This house actually was the Governor's Mansion when the capital of Missouri was located there during the Civil War. This may sound like a "Believe It or Not" but it is true. Governor Claiborne F. Jackson and Staff lived here. The Capitol of Missouri is just across the street.

Another beautiful example of this highly decorative type of house is the old Ab. Mulkey Mansion located diagonally across the street from the courthouse at Corsicana. Ab. Mulkey was a famous Texas evangelist of another day.

An outstanding example of the plantation style home is "Liendo" at Hempstead. Built in 1853 by Leonard W. Groce, it was at first headquarters for a great plantation in slavery days but later became famous as the home of Elisabeth Ney, the internationally famous sculptress, who is buried on the grounds. She cremated her baby in the fireplace of the downstairs east parlor.

Surrounded by huge oaks, some of which are 800 years old, this great, two-story house would be a show place anywhere. Furnishings with its high ceilings, hand-painted cornices and hand-sawed floors is a perfect example of an early home on a great plantation. W. C. Compton and his sister live at Liendo and guests who desire to see the house are admitted for a small fee. To reach it drive three and a half miles south from Hempstead on U. S. Highway 290 and turn left at the roadside park. It is about three miles back in the woods, over a winding road.

A good example of early-day Texas ranch house (a real one) is "Whitehall" built in 1840 by Joseph H. Polley who owned a great cattle empire extending from Austin to the Gulf. This old house of native stone with its separate log kitchen, both in excellent condition, is a short distance from La Vernia, 30 miles east of San Antonio on U. S. Highway 57.

One of the finest examples of the Louisiana style home is that of Colonel Wm. T. Scott, built in 1834, six miles east of Marshall at old Scottville, on the old Shreveport road. The house has its original furnishings, slave cabins, private cemetery, stone chapel with stained glass windows, private park and a large summer camp meeting ground with about twenty well kept buildings.

The Sterling Clack Robertson home with its private cemetery and slave cabins at Salado is well worth seeing. Sterling Clack Robertson III and family live in the house. It looks like new, so well has it been kept. Turn west at the cattle guard just south of the Stage Coach Hotel in Salado and go a short distance into the woods.

At 3110 Bonnie View Road in Oak Cliff, Dallas, is the colonial Barry Miller mansion "Miller or" (meaning Miller Hill) built in 1855 and the log cabin built in 1846, used as the home before the mansion was constructed. This is the home of Mrs. Barry Miller, wife of a

Texas DAV Contest Set

Disabled American Veterans of Texas will sponsor a statewide essay contest for eleventh and twelfth grade high school students on the subject "Why Not Hire the Handicapped Worker?" Earl D. Whitley, Department of Texas Disabled American Veterans commander, announced last week.

Whitley said the DAV had solicited the cooperation of the State Board of Education; Veterans Employment Service; Vocational Rehabilitation Division; and the Texas Employment Commission. He expressed the hope that all high schools will cooperate with these agencies and encourage students to enter the contest which opened Oct. 1 and will run through Jan. 31, 1950. "Such a contest furnishes the best possible means of developing an intelligent understanding of the problems encountered by our handicapped people on a continuing basis," Whitley added. He pointed out that it is also significant because through such a plan students, teachers and parents can be educated with respect to the facts on employability and reliability of handicapped workers. "Over the years," the DAV department commander said, "handicapped workers have proved themselves to be adaptable, productive, careful, regular, reliable, and capable." Additional background material, rules and information on the contest are available at the nearest local office of the Texas Employment Commission; Veterans Employment Service; State Board of Education; Vocational Rehabilitation Division; or DAV Chapter. Material is also being furnished to some 1200 high schools in the state, Whitley said.

Civil Service and Pension Plan for County Employees Among Changes

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Ten proposed changes in the Texas Constitution are to be voted on at the polls Nov. 8. Two of them are discussed in the following article, the fifth and last in a series.)

By MAC ROY RASOR
Associated Press Staff

AUSTIN — (AP) — Proposed civil service and pensions for county employees face their first hurdle at the polls Nov. 8.

If they pass that test, there will still be local election barriers to be met in each county.

The proposals are embodied in two proposed Constitutional amendments.

No. 1 on the ballot is a plan to authorize the Legislature to local government another step away from home.

The pension proposal covers both disability and retirement.

"For (against) the Constitutional amendment authorizing a statewide system for retirement and disability pensions for appointive county officials and employees.

It would apply to all counties, irrespective of population.

Again the Legislature could provide the system only if it met an approving vote from the people in the respective counties.

Friends see in the proposal extending to county employees two of the inducements often offered by private business and by some other units of governments. Poes argue again that a state system infringes on county affairs.

If approved, the system would be administered by the same body set up to handle the statewide-municipal retirement system.

Someone to Love

By IRENE LONNEN ERNHART

Copyright, 1949, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Although Ted Dunsen has married Jenny, he still is unable to forget being flitted by Liz Casanova. Jenny finds her struggle for happiness difficult when Ted takes her to live with his family. There are quarrels and they finally move to a trailer camp while Ted is finishing his college education. Jenny discovers that she is going to have a model which has given them money to live on. Then Ted meets an old friend from State University, Rick Morris. Rick is quite taken with Jenny and Jenny hopes that Rick comes often to see them—Rick is good for Ted and for her, too.

JENNY and Rick had a lot of fun in the super-market. He insisted on paying for the groceries, because of so many extravagant items he'd selected himself, mushrooms, some terribly expensive cheese and a bottle of wine.

When Ted returned from his last class Rick, with one of Jenny's ruffled aprons tied around his middle, was in the kitchenette cooking dinner.

Ted was in an extra good humor. He and Rick sampled the wine and had a high time kidding each other.

They had just finished the dessert and lit cigarettes when Rick said to Ted, out of a clear sky, "Say, you know Liz Casanova?"

"Yes."

"I heard she's getting a divorce already from that Courtney fellow she married last spring."

No one said anything for a second or two. Rick looked from one to the other of them. "Did I say something wrong?"

"No," Ted said. He rose and began hunting for an ash tray.

"The ash tray is right behind you, on the desk," Rick said quietly. "And now tell me what's wrong with my mentioning Liz."

Jenny said, turning the water on in the sink for the dishes, "Ted was engaged to Liz last spring, and she jilted him, and then I caught him sort of on the rebound." She ducked down then to get the soap

"I didn't know you and Liz were engaged last spring," Rick said as they got in the car.

"We were supposed to be married as soon as I got home from that hospital in New York," Ted said. "She and Courtney eloped the day before I got back."

"Lucky?" Ted said. "To marry Jenny you mean?"

"And to have escaped marrying Liz. She's no good. She'll be married to half a dozen fellows before she's through. You'd better get her off your mind and be happy with Jenny. She's a swell kid."

Jenny was all finished with the dishes when he got home.

"There's nothing to apologize for, Jenny." He looked down at her, seeing the tremble sweetness of her lips, the softness of her eyes, dark-circled in her thin face. He ought to be ashamed for even thinking of Liz when Jenny was so sweet.

"I guess it's just nerves that makes me fly off the handle so."

"Sure." Ted got out his books and notebooks and sat down at his desk to study. He couldn't get Liz out of his mind.

Aware suddenly that Jenny had been saying something to him, he looked up. "What was that, Jenny?"

"You mean you didn't hear a word I said?"

He shook his head. Her brown eyes were stormy again.

"I said your mother phoned and wanted to talk to you today. They told me at the office. She wouldn't talk to me, but she left her number."

"Maybe I'd better go call her."

AT the trailer camp office he found the slip with the phone number on it in his mail slot.

Ma's querulous voice came loudly and reproachfully over the phone.

"We figured you was pretty busy, but like I told Harriet today, looked like you didn't care when become of us. We ain't seen hide nor hair of you for weeks and weeks."

"I've been thinkin' I must look you up."

"I know Jenny's probably doin' everything she can to keep you away from us, but it looks like—"

"Look Ma, if you phoned me to pick a quarrel let's break it off right now. I've been meaning to come around and see you. We sold the shack that belonged to Jenny's father and got $500 for it. I could let you have some money if you're hard up. Jenny wouldn't care if you really needed it."

"No, thanks. Joe's got a good job with a friend of his. He says soon as he can he's goin' to get us a nice place again. Joe'll take care of his old mother even if you don't think enough of her to come around."

"I been busy with school, and Jenny's had to quit work. We'll be over to see you though soon, maybe tomorrow night."

"You don't need to bring her to see me!" Ma said firmly.

He walked back to the trailer slowly, feeling a miserable sense of guilt.

U.S. Holds One Of Highest Rates For Accidents

CHICAGO — The United States may have the highest standard of living in the world, but it also has one of the world's highest accidental death rates.

The U. S. rate in 1948 was 67.1 deaths per 100,000 population, as compared to a world-wide postwar average death rate of 48.9, according to the 1949 edition of "Accident Facts," statistical yearbook of the National Safety Council.

Only three countries topped the accidental death rate of the United States — Iceland, Egypt and Austria. Those countries had rates of 71.5, 83.8 and 85.9 respectively in 1946.

Mauritius, a British island near Madagascar, had the lowest reported postwar accidental death rate of 25.9 in 1947.

All the Animals Attend Church

HEREFORD, England — (AP) — Forty horses went to church here Sunday.

So did hundreds of dogs and cats, guinea pigs, rabbits, goldfish, along with a goose, a cock, a grass snake, a canary, a calf, a goat and a tortoise.

Once a year the Very Rev. Hedley Burrows, dean of Hereford, has a service for pets and their owners, dedicated to St. Francis of Assisi, patron saint of animals.

"I think the service was a marvelous success," said the vicar of Holy Trinity, the Rev. Leonard Stoll. "It will help people to realize their responsibilities toward dumb animals."

The animals got the spirit of the ceremony. No dogs chased cats. No cats ate mice. The cats left the goldfish unmolested. Only a goose named Egbert disgraced his owner. Egbert waddled out just as the service began.

Wichita Falls Coyotes Edge Harvesters, 14-6

Spirited Green and Gold Eleven in Near Upset Win

Many a Panhandle oil well has gone dry since Pampa football fans have had a scrapper and gamer Harvesters football team than that which fell victim to the powerful Wichita Falls Coyotes Friday night. The 14-6 loss was the first of the season for the green and inexperienced eleven that doesn't know the meaning of the word "quit."

A crowd of 12,000 fans who witnessed the game was stunned as the Harvesters, rated 35-point underdogs by one Wichita Falls paper, marched 45 yards to a touchdown the first time they got their hands on the ball, and then held the lead until two minutes remained in the half.

The Harvesters ran into an experienced powerful team that had everything. All clicked perfectly for the Coyotes and they started march after march down the field, ripping the Harvesters line to shreds. But the Green and Gold athletes would not give up and fought valiantly to stop the drives before they reached paydirt.

But the Pampans could do little on their own offense. Jimmy Hayes was the only one who had any measure of success, scoring the lone Harvesters score and making several other nice runs.

Giving the Harvesters headaches were three hard-running Coyotes. Billy Bookout and Bill Waggoner lived up to all press releases when they dashed, twisted and bullied their way to steady gains. When they were resting the powerful and hard-hitting Tommy Fields was smashing and hurling the Harvesters line.

Oklahoma Defeats Texas Longhorns, 20-14

Final Score Is Carbon of 1948 Battle

DALLAS — (AP) — Oklahoma gouged out a 20-14 victory over Texas Saturday in a rough forty-fourth renewal of this storied inter-sectional football game.

Gauged is right because the Texas line as wide open as the Lone Star prairie while Leon Heath, George Thomas and Darrell Royal scooted through for great chunks of yardage.

No team with more power ever showed its wares in the big Cotton Bowl. It was for the edification of 76,347 fans — the largest crowd ever to see a gridiron battle in Southwestern history.

Texas fought back and although outplayed could have won or tied but for a dropped pass and several fumbles of drives that carried deep into Sooner territory.

Oklahoma spotted Texas a touchdown and then roared back like the national No. 3 rating it but was overtaken and forced out of bounds on the 37. As the game ended the Harvesters had moved to the Coyotes 22.

Reynolds Puts Out Brook Fire in 7th

For five innings, the crafty Lopat permitted only three Brooks to reach base.

Reynolds pitched with near-perfect control. His curves were hitting the corners. But everything happened to him at once in the sixth.

Reese led off with a single into short center. Billy Cox hit for Miksis and laid down a swinging roller to the left of the hill which Lopat bobbled. It went for a hit, and brought up the young Dodger centerfielder, Duke Snider, who has been one of the biggest batting busts of the series.

Starting from there, the next five Brooklynians — Jackie Robinson, Gil Hodges, Luis Olmo, Roy Campanella, and Gene Hermanski — sprayed base hits into every section of Ebbets Field. The final two, by Campanella and Hermanski, carried plenty of authority, and it was all too evident that Lopat was through.

The seven singles in the inning tied another World Series mark. It was not so difficult to realize that if Snider had simply struck out early in the stanza, the Dodgers would have scored at least one more run during their

Army Shell-Shocks Michigan; Baylor Bears Stun Arkansas

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (AP) — A beautifully poised Army team snapped mighty Michigan's 25-game winning streak Saturday as it whipped the Wolverines, 21-7, in one of the big upsets of the year.

Michigan, a 10-point favorite in pre-game betting, fell behind, 7-0, in the first 10 minutes of play and never was able to hit its stride thereafter.

Army, in winning its 14th game without a defeat, maintained its first over Michigan which has lost all three of its Army games.

Midway through the final period Jimmy Hayes got away for a 43-yard gallop down the sideline but was overtaken and forced out of bounds on the 37. As the game ended the Harvesters had moved to the Coyotes 22.

This was the first loss of the season for the surprising Harvesters. They played brilliant ball, and nearly upset the second-ranked club in the state. Next weekend they will meet the Lubbock Westerners at Lubbock. The Westerners have been rated the top schoolboy eleven in the state by most observers.

Navy Back on Victory Trail

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — (AP) — A hard-hitting Navy football team came back along the comeback trail Saturday by bouncing Duke out of the unbeaten class, 28 to 14.

The Middies broke the bruising game wide open with three second half touchdowns in mid-summer heat.

Bob Zastrow, Navy's sensational Sophomore quarterback, threw passes for three of the scores which brought the second straight victory to a team which before last week hadn't won in 15 games.

Watson Leads McLean to Win

PERRYTON — (Special) — The McLean Tigers, led by their star backfield ace L. M. Watson, Friday defeated the Perryton Rangers here Friday night 20-13. Watson was the hero as he raced 53 yards in the fourth period to score the winning marker.

Watson also scored the other two Tiger touchdowns. He went over the 29-yard line in the first period to knot the count at 6-6 after the Rangers had struck first when Earl Olmsted went over from the 10.

Johnny King raced around end to give the Rangers a 12-6 lead in the third period. But Watson climaxed an 83-yard Tiger march by crashing over from the three then personally adding the extra point.

WARREN'S WARMUP

QUESTION: How many of the present Dodgers in the World Series were with the pennant winners of 1947?

ALTHOUGH THE HARVESTERS MET THEIR first defeat of the season Friday night they also played their finest game of the year.

It was an extremely hot night in Wichita Falls. Perhaps the heat was affecting me, or maybe it was working on the officials, but I didn't think that the first

The intentional safety that the Harvesters took in the second period was a bit of strategy designed to save a touchdown.

The loss should boost the Harvesters stock in the schoolboy ratings. Their play was brilliant and spirited all the way, and even after the clock had moved to where the case was hopeless, they didn't give up.

CALL THAT SIGNAL AGAIN HOUSTON — (P) — Movies of last week's football game between the University of Houston and Wichita show the Wichita coach receiving a swift kick in the seat of his pants.

Delivering the boot to Coach Jim Trimble was Leo Van Haverbeck, Houston center. The play, by popular demand, had to be rerun three times.

Loss Dethrones Michigan On Weekend of Upsets

NEW YORK — (P) — Michigan was toppled off its college football throne Saturday by an Army team that suddenly regained its health at the opening whistle and belted out a 21 to 7 conquest that is certain to juggle national ratings.

While Michigan's winning streak was stopped at 25, those of Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Navy, Minnesota, California and Tulane went on.

Casey at the Bat . . . . . No. 2 Stengel, at Bat, Doffed Cap to Literally Give Incredible Brooklyn Fans the Bird

NEW YORK — (NEA) — While Charles Dillon Stengel, whose remarkable patchwork job saw the Yankees follow Stengel and Irish Meusel, who went around together until they spotted the snooper. The next night, Stengel went one way, Meusel the other, and Manager McGraw promptly received a report.

While playing with the Dodgers, Casey Stengel persuaded Manager Wilbert Robinson to catch a ball dropped from an airplane flying over the field during an exhibition game. Uncle Robby agreed, and Stengel went along with the pilot to drop the ball.

The incredible Brooklyn fans climbed aboard Stengel, their old favorite, when he returned to Ebbets Field with the Pirates. While in the outfield, Stengel saw a sparrow knock itself out flying into the fence. When the side was retired, Ol' Casey picked up the bird, revived it in the dugout, and put it in his cap when he went to bat.

There, with thousands razzing him, Casey Stengel bowed, doffed his cap, and literally gave the crowd the bird. Stengel took advantage of funny situations as a kid. There was a manhole in the outfield he peered for Montgomery of the Southern Association in 1912.

When it came, to the astonishment of the crowd, the outfielder disappeared. Even more astounding was young Stengel's hands emerging from the manhole to make the catch.

John J. McGraw had detectives tail some of the Giants. One sleuth followed Stengel and Irish Meusel, who went around together until they spotted the snooper. The next night, Stengel went one way, Meusel the other, and Manager McGraw promptly received a report.

Casey Stengel had hit upon the perfect after-dinner speech. There are millions of 'em, as Jimmy Durante would say.

NEXT: Stengel the tactician.

Casey at the Bat . . . . . No. 2 Stengel, at Bat, Doffed Cap to Literally Give Incredible Brooklyn Fans the Bird

It was great to be young Casey Stengel and a Giant... Bad to be boss of the Bums and the broken Braves... And now it's great to be old and a World Series Yankee.

Life of Socialism Compared With That of Free Enterprise

A nationally known economist, writing in the October American Magazine, says the time has come for every American to study closely legislation pending in Washington and let his congressman know his stand on the issue of socialism versus free enterprise.

In an article entitled "U. S. at the Crossroads," Willford I. King, professor emeritus of economics at New York University, discusses what might be expected under socialism compared to life under our system of free enterprise. He writes with the authority of one who frequently has served as economic adviser to large industrial concerns and to various departments and bureaus of the national government.

"We stand at a crossroads in our history, and the time has come when average Americans everywhere must tell their lawmakers what they want," says Prof. King. "The issue involved is a fundamental one, and its outcome is certain to affect the way of life of every American, regardless of his occupation or financial status.

"The great majority of Americans would undoubtedly vote against any outright brand of socialism which was labeled as such. Yet millions of these same people are demanding legislation which, if enacted, will lead us into socialism. They want to retain free enterprise, they say, but they also want high minimum wages, unemployment insurance, higher social-security benefits for the aged. They want farm subsidies, federal control of public utilities and natural resources, federal aid for education. They want free medical care for all, low-cost housing built at government expense, a pension for every veteran of World War II, heavy financial depression."

Expert Sees Need For Cut in Cost of Cotton Farming

AUSTIN — What fabric will the well-dressed Texan be wearing in the immediate future? That, says Dr. A. B. Cox, University of Texas professor and internationally known authority on cotton marketing, may depend on what cotton farmers can do to cut production costs.

Rayon, nylon, and related fabric sources made steadily increasing inroads on the cotton supply for linear yard material in 1946, '47, and '48 because the federal government has pegged the loan value on cotton so high that manufacturers are buying competing raw materials because they are cheaper, Dr. Cox believes.

The federal loan value on average grade, or 16-18 middling, cotton in the bale is 29 1/4 cents a pound. The staple price of rayon, cotton's chief competitor, is 32 cents a pound.

The factor that makes rayon cheaper than cotton for the manufacturer, and ultimately the consumer, is the waste cotton in a bale that must be separated from the good staple and discarded, says Dr. Cox. The cost of that clean-up process more than surpasses the difference in basic cotton and rayon prices, he points out. Rayon staples come to the manufacturer clean and ready to use.

The answer cotton farmers and manufacturers must give to rising competition is a slash in growing and staple production costs, through development and use of mechanical pickers, better soil fertilization, and other soil-saving practices, so the loan value will drop, Dr. Cox declares.

The university market analyst claims the introduction this fall of year-round suits of rayon and rayon-wool blends, and the success of nylon in the women's hose and underwear field are visible indications that manufacturers are taking the two fabrics more seriously.

Statistics from a textile manufacturers' trade journal, show that rayon and related staples have increased in use for textile fabrics from 20 percent of the total linear yards of cotton produced in 1946 to 21 percent in 1947, then to 24 percent in 1948. In 1939, the ratio was only 17 percent.

Nylon, a newcomer to the fabric field, has shown a slight increase in similar comparative statistics. Nylon's linear-yard production was six-tenths of one percent of the comparative cotton production for 1946. In 1947 and 1948, the ratio rose to seven-tenths of one percent. There was no linear-yard output of nylon in 1939.

The use of wool in linear-yard fabrics has not varied much in the last 40 years, Dr. Cox reports. The statistics show that wool output was four percent of the total output of cotton, rayon, and related fabrics in 1946, '47, and '48, and also in 1939.

Utah once was known as the state of Deseret. Taken from the Book of Mormon, the name meant "land of the honey bee."

Other areas along the coast had recorded medium to light rains. Alice, however, had a downpour of more than four inches.

Rain fell Saturday at Dallas, Lubbock, Bryan, Tyler and Austin. The Weather Bureau said showers were general from Austin eastward, but no rain was reported in the West.

The rain kept temperatures down to the upper seventies and low eighties in East Texas. Several West Texas points had temperatures in the low eighties.

Residents of the Houston section had seen enough wild weather to last them a long time. A hurricane swept up from the coast Monday night and hit Houston early Tuesday. Then a freak tornado skipped destructively through the east side of the city just ahead of the rain Friday.

Freighter Loaded With Arms Sought

BOGOTA, Colombia — (AP) — The newspaper El Tiempo said it had learned from reliable sources that the Colombian Navy and Air Force are trying to find a freighter which is reportedly loaded with arms and ammunition and heading for Colombia's Atlantic coast.

According to the newspaper, the search began in the first days of the week. It said the ship, under American flag, sailed from Havana about five days ago and presumably is trying to unload its cargo in some isolated spot distant from any harbor.

TRIAL

Estes, Kent Madeira, Jackie Kiser, Don Millsap and Johnny Ayres.

During the argument by counsel, Ballif Bynum lost his prisoner. The rough and ready defendant started passing the candy box around the room — possibly with an eye for bribery among the jurors. He got as far as the third row of spectators when Officer Bynum, at the risk of his life, hauled the prisoner back to the dock.

When the Court read the charge, States Attorney Phyllis Parker chirped, "but suppose they can't spell 'guilty' then what?"

Her daddy got a bright idea. The jury would select as foreman the first one to spell 'guilty' correctly.

Although Johnny Ayres didn't act as foreman he was the first — the jury admitted it — to spell 'guilty' correctly.

Freddie had a fair trial. Had he been found not guilty the kids wouldn't have seen the jail.

Freddie was found guilty. Handcuffed, he was taken up to the main cell block with half of his classmates. The other half, and teacher, came up later.

Freddie wasted no time in making himself at home and was a ready to keep on playing, but Deputy Jordan figured it was a better — and more economical — to get the third graders back to school after he let each of them take a run around the paddy.

It was fun, but it was also something the kids will remember.

Three Men Walk in, 'Clean Out House'

BOSTON — (AP) — The three men who told six-year-old Martha Murray they were going to "clean" her house were right—they did.

Martha greeted her mother, Mrs. Margaret Murray, on return from a shopping trip with this inquiry: "Mummy, why are we having our house cleaned out?"

"Pressed further, the child explained that the men had entered and told her they were going to "clean out the place."

Mrs. Murray discovered $126 in cash and a $26 radio missing from the apartment.

Communists Confer On 'Independence'

BERLIN — (AP) — Russian and German Communists conferred secretly on a timetable for awarding "independence" to the new Soviet satellite republic in Eastern Germany.

Withdrawal of occupation troops from the Soviet sector of Berlin is expected to take place within 14 days. Such a move would set the stage for a possible declaration later by Russia that no soldiers of any foreign power should occupy Berlin.

Anti-Communist leaders in West Berlin and Western Germany also were conferring, consolidating their protests against the Russian-sponsored "German democratic republic."

Tourists Have Tried Everything But Trojan Horse

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — (P) — So far no tourist has used a Trojan horse to get within film studio walls. But they've tried about everything else.
 Take it from Bob Callender. He guards the gate that leads through the Publicity Department and into MGM studios.
 "Everybody wants to get into the plant," he says. "I get well-dressed men who look as though they have the highest Dun and Bradstreet ratings in the country. And men with tattered coats and holes in their soles."
 Getting inside a movie studio is almost as hard as peering into the Kremlin — if you don't have industry. That's why the theme a friend or relation within the song of Callender's job is "No. No. 1,000 Times No."

 "People think I make up the rules," he remarked. "They think they can wheedle or bribe me and gain entrance.
 The question he hears most often is "may we see the studio?" Next comes "How about a screen test?"
 "I pass the buck on that one," said Callender. "I send them next door to the Casting Department. They can hear the 'no' there."
 Seeds of job seekers drop in. They prefer acting jobs, but nowadays they'll take anything. They seem to think if they can land any studio position, stardom will inevitably result.
 "During the war, we had to replace our messenger boys with girls," Callender recalled. "The reception room overflowed with young applicants. When we asked

11-Year-Old Girl Publishes Magazine in Basement

By BERT GOLDRATH
KALAMAZOO, Mich. — (NEA) — When Printer Francis Edgecombe gave his young daughter, Barbara, a printing press and a box of type a few years ago, his only idea was that it might help her learn to spell.
 Instead, the press has turned Barbara, now 11, into probably the youngest national magazine publisher in the country.
 The basement of the Edgecombe home in Kalamazoo is the editorial office and printing plant of her brainchild, the "American Children's Magazine," issued once a month, a nickel per copy.
 Publisher Barbara says her five-by-seven, eight-page magazine has a top circulation of 400 and a monthly income of as much as $25. She's also advertising salesman, circulation manager (and sometimes delivery boy), printer, pressman, artist and proofreader.
 If they were interested in acting, the answer was always "yes."
 The word got around that the studio didn't want its messengers to be budding actresses, so the girls — wearing inch-thick makeup — began murmuring "dear, no, we want to be stenographers."
 Naturally, healthy games are important to messengers, so Callender always asked applicants: "How are your legs?" one girl misundertood. She lifted her skirt and glided around the room like a powers model.
 And janitor, too: Barbara has to battle her father for more space in the family workshop, and just the other day had to suspend publication while she helped unravel the turmoil caused when the family furnace was switched to gas.
 "It makes me furious," said Barbara. "I'll bet other national magazines never have this problem."
 Almost everything in the magazine — recipes, poems, cartoons, stories and articles — is turned out by Barbara. Sometimes there's a stray contribution from one of the neighborhood children, and Barbara Gallup, 14, has joined the staff as safety editor.
 Organized in January, Barbara Edgecombe started out with two other girls as her staff. After several issues, chicken pox, homework and summer vacations took their toll, Barbara continued single-handed until the safety editor signed up.
 The blonde bobby-soxer is an expert at the disappearing art of setting type by hand, but she keeps her deadlines pretty elastic; the ads have to be sold first. Revenue from that source runs as much as $3 an issue, but the big income comes from circulation.
 Hot off the press — which Publisher Barbara runs by hand — the magazine is sent out to readers in Kalamazoo, other nearby Michigan cities, and a dozen other states.

First of all—she looks serene...
 ... for she knows she is driving the world's most distinguished motor car—a car so regal in its bearing and so sumptuous in its appointments that it is the accepted standard for the whole automotive world.

She looks confident, too...
 ... for she knows she is driving a mechanical masterpiece—a car that is as dependable and safe as human ingenuity and craftsmanship can make it.

She looks rested and at ease...
 ... for there is no strain at all to her driving. The big motor moves the car as if by automatic propulsion—steering is virtually a response to her wish—and the brake pedal calls for little more than the weight of a foot.

And, finally, she looks—as we said—so lovely...
 ... for here is the perfect background for a lady. If she has chosen the model and the color and upholstery with care—as the fullest complement to her personality—she is the spotlighted high-light in a gorgeous picture!

This message, of course, is addressed to a man—to a man with a lovely lady whom he delights to see at her best—and whom he wants surrounded, wherever she drives, with every safeguard an automobile can provide.

Come in, Sir—and see us. You are looking, as you surely know, for a Cadillac!

He was introduced by Joe Fischer, club member. The program was sponsored by the club's Business Standards & Public Affairs Committee.

Shape of the Earth Being Surveyed From Kansas Rock

ROBINSON'S ROCK—From the dot within the triangle on the plaque on this rock in a Kansas pasture, a new determination of the earth's exact size is being made.

LUCAS, Kans.—(NEA) — An unimposing rock that rises about six inches above the surface of Frank Robinson's pasture 12 miles northwest of here is the center of a project as big as the world itself.

Affixed to the rock is a small bronze plaque. On the plaque is a tiny triangle. Inside the triangle is a dot. And that dot is being used by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey to measure the size and shape of the earth.

The current project is the second phase of the job. Last year, astronomical calculations were made by geodetic survey officials.

This year they are making gravity checks, centering around the rock on Robinson's farm. The scientists will tie the two studies together and get a new determination of the earth's exact size.

Robinson's rock has been used before. For about 50 years, it has been the basis of every triangle drawn by surveyors over the whole United States. All buildings surveyed, from the White House to the barn on Old MacDonald's farm, are down on charts as being a certain distance from the rock.

When the marker was first put in place, in 1891, it was just one of many points of reference established across the nation. But it soon became the principal one, when Geodetic Survey officials decided it was the most nearly accurate of them all.

A plumb line at this point, they found, was least likely to be affected by forces other than gravity. More than any of the others, it would show the earth's natural gravity. Its accuracy was attrib-

Four Divorces Granted Here

District Judge Lewis M. Goodrich granted four divorces and two adoptions in 51st District Court Friday.

Granted decrees were:
A. L. McClesney from Walter Z. McClesney on charges of abandonment. They were married in December, 1942 and separated in June, 1944.
Annie A. Rickman from D. C. Rickman on cruelty grounds. They were married in May, 1949 and separated in September, 1949.
Fern Lane from Earl Lane on charges of cruelty. They were married in February, 1913 and separated in September, 1948.
Dorothy Nell Amberg from Albert S. Amberg on cruelty charges. They were married in December, 1947 and separated in December, 1948.

Naturalized citizens of the United States are entitled to all privileges except that of becoming president.

States, Canada and Mexico accorded it recognition as the basis of the survey, 1890. So, for all intents and purposes, it became the geodetic center of the whole North American continent.

Gradually, it extended its sphere of geodetic influence around the world. More and more nations adopted it as the point of reference for surveys, until now a maze of triangles, linking most of the earth's surface, are based on the dot in the triangle on the plaque on the rock on the farm in Kansas.

Now a must for tourists, it has gradually been chipped away by souvenir-hunters and the onslaught of plains winters. But it hasn't been moved, and the rock has now tackled its biggest job as scientists use it to measure beyond the borders of the United States.

FRED MacMURRAY and MAUREEN O'HARA watch an exciting football play in 20th Century-Fox's "FATHER WAS A FULLBACK."

Once again this year Pampa and the LaNora Theater have the nation's cinema spotlight focused on them, with the announcement today by Manager Paul W. West that a 3-day All-American Premiere engagement of "Father Was a Fullback," starring Fred MacMurray, Maureen O'Hara, Betty Lynn, Rudy Vallee, Thelma Ritter and Natalie Wood, will be shown here beginning Sunday.

The film will play in a saturation playoff in every leading theater throughout the country by Dec. 4, but the Southwest was chosen by the producers, 20th Century-Fox, as the kickoff territory—this making it an actual premiere for moviegoers here and another "first in the nation" for this city.

A neat package of entertainment for the family and all ages, this is a picture more a first class comedy than a sports item, as the title might imply, Manager West said.

"It's a picture you can be mighty proud to bring the entire family to see, and I'm mighty proud to be able to offer it at this time," the manager said.

On the same program with "Father Was a Fullback" are Screened Science, Pluto Color Cartoon and Latest News of the World.

The group met at the school house, armed with gifts and "makings" for a party, and motored to the Tolbert home.

After the gifts were displayed, tables were set up and "42" was played.

THIS IS THE tardy end of a beautiful year... It's the time when you certainly get fooled... The weather is deceptive, for it's not just what it seems to be... We're enjoying a sort of Indian Summer, and then one of these mornings we'll wake up to find it gone... It will be cold enough for fire, and you'll hover over it... These are fine times: you get up in the morning, and there's a zip in the air to greet you... The moon is bright enough these nights to understand that young couples like it... That old moon is no fool... (Nor are the young-uns.)

WELL, we had to lose a game sometime... and it's better to get beaten by Wichita than by some less capable team... Maybe that's the dark just before the light.

STYLE-wise wives: Mrs. John Garman with a new hair-do (accent on bangs) and smart gold-rimmed glasses... I especially liked her earrings—they are different, what with the little rectangular mirrors... Mrs. Jack Plummer in a grey corduroy two-piece affair... battlefield jacket and skirt... Mrs. Charles Gilson greeting the fall season in a taupe corduroy suit... Mrs. F. E. Evans in her characteristic style, so petite and neat... Mrs. Fred Tinsley exclaiming what the well-dressed woman wears in sports clothes.

PATTER—I don't know which sparkles more, Dorothy Loewen's eyes or the new ring on her finger... I couldn't find out who the very fortunate fellow is, but someone says he's in the Army, stationed in Pennsylvania... Mrs. Bill Ragdale excited over a visit from her folks from South Dakota... they will be looking for some good quarter horses to take back with them... Happy home-owner is Rosemary Tinsley who has recently purchased the Lash Langston house at 524 Lefors... the Langstons have moved to Wichita, Kans... A proud threesome is composed of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pattillo and little daughter... they have a new home on Hamilton... A group of sweet girls and good bowing sports are Candy Kelley, Mary Crocker, Beverly Candler, Jo Ann Neal and Gail Crump, who are on the Toggery Bowling Team... they're anticipating new uniforms of two-tone gray—and they'll make a snappy looking set... Isn't Patricia Manning a nice person! I like the way she looks right into your eyes when she's talking to (or with) you... a familiar face is going to be greatly missed in the City Tax Office, come tomorrow... Ruby Williams, the pleasant little personality who has been there for several years, is quitting... The Jack Bentons are thinking up names for a new baby... Mrs. J. A. Poole is a person that I've always admired... quite proud of her age (may I tell)?... and it's past three score and ten... she maintains that sweet disposition.

ONE of Pampa's three-year-olds returned from the Amarillo fair chock-full of chatter... it seemed that in the swine show "Diamond Lady," a brand new mama, was showing off her lusty three-week-old litter... They were as cunning pigs as you've ever seen, and everyone was tussling with all his might to reserve a place at the sumptuous table that their mother had set for them... When the little girl returned home, her grandmother asked her what they were doing: "Oh, they were eating a great big horse!"... I and mine attended one day... I had been hearing about the great controversy over the renaming of the "Bull Barn" at the fair grounds... Now this quonset hut affair has the lacy name of Fair Park Pavilion, and from what I heard everyone in Amarillo is pleased with the new name... I was disappointed... This building looked like a "bull barn" and had the proper olfactory characteristics... Why do the fine people of the Panhandle want to take on the color and atmosphere of far-away places?... This is the land of wheat, oil and cows... and as long as we have these "cows," we need these barns... I for one, am so disappointed.

PANORAMA—I'd like to have a cup of coffee with Helen and Ruth Huff, as they have just returned from a nine-week tour of England... I imagine they have some interesting stories... are you a housewife who is fortunate enough to have E. L. Waters for your milkman? In this home, he is indispensable, for his cheery "good morning" starts the day off right for all of us, a sort of water-cooler Mabel Davis; firstest with the latest in a gold and blue fall plaid with matching navy tam... Thelma Davidson, dumpy school-marm, tailored—yet so feminine... Ruby Johnson, wearing her most becoming colors—red and black... Popular Ruby McMahon is back to town for a few days... Ruby has been working in Oklahoma City for the past year or so, and Pampans have missed that pleasant sales ability of hers... Earl McCormick driving a new red Ford convertible... do the M. C. Stapletons have two Studebakers?... Everyone is talking about the exceptionally good food at the O.E. Cafe across from Junior High... haven't tried it myself... some took the low road and some took the high road—but most Pampans left town over the weekend; the Dr. George Snells headed toward Colorado Springs... Vic Joyner, Bill Henderson and J. B. Watson watched Pampa's defeat we mentioned above... Dr. E. S. Williams headed toward Dallas... waving their pennants, VaRue Dyson, Lil Kelley, Jean Chisholm, Lena Hood, Georgia Crutchfield, Lewis Sprinkle, Dr. R. M. Hampton, Joe Mitchell and others cheered for Texas in Dallas yesterday.

Formal Party Marks First Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Morris, 809 Starkweather, were married one year ago, celebrated their first anniversary with a formal party in the Jid Tascosa in the Herring Hotel, Amarillo.

He interviewed the couple, then called a couple married much longer to the stage and had the two pairs hold a kissing contest. The hotel manager contributed a bottle of champagne to the celebration.

Mr. Morris presented his wife with a diamond bracelet and she gave him a set of luggage. Mrs. Morris also wore another anniversary gift, an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Morris is the former Mrs. Irma Frances Crall. The Morrises were married in Pampa.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Lyman, Mr. and Mrs. Don Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Louise Hooper, Mrs. Vena Reilly, Earl Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Gowdy, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Udahsen, Mrs. Helen De Napoli of Boston and Miss Vivian Cardell and John Sektet of Amarillo.

Men are often capable of greater things than they perform. They are sent into the world with bills of credit, and seldom draw to their full extent.

Leader of 'Just Below Knee' Movement Does Not Feel Victorious

By MARY FORRESTER

Back in 1947—when the world was an atom of eternity younger than it is today—two major issues faced the people of America. When two or more persons got together, one (or both) of these questions was certain to come up for discussion—should the United States adopt the Marshall Plan? and should American women adopt long skirts? They were both discussed with equal violence by both sexes, and the chips fell far and wide. Both have been answered now—the first in a clear and decisive manner, and the second in an indefinite yes—and no—manner.

About the time that women friends of long standing had stopped speaking to each other, and the men who admittedly liked to see the curve of a lady's limb, had already spotted the windiest corner in town, a new name appeared on the fashion horizon. She was Mrs. Warren J. Woodard of Dallas, now of Pampa.

Like the scientists who finally decided to do something about the weather, Mrs. Woodard decided that it was time someone did something about the skirt question. She spoke her mind clearly on the matter, advocating the "just below the knee" length as the most practical and most flattering length for a woman's skirt, thereby starting a snowball rolling that astonished her and the rest of the nation.

Chatting informally in Pampa this week, Mrs. Woodard said "I didn't intend to start a movement—I merely voiced my opinion of the matter, and found that a lot of others agreed with me."

The upshot of "voicing her opinion" was that women all over the country recognized a champion of their cause, and hailed Mrs. Woodard as a leader. "Just Below the Knee" clubs sprang up, first in Dallas, where women paraded in short skirts, bringing attention to the skirt movement, and to the instigator, Mrs. Woodard. In a short time—the stories were flashed over the nation by means of wire services, and carried in most of the newspapers

Shamrock Couple Takes Vows in Single-Ring Home Wedding Rites

SHAMROCK—(Special)—Announcement has been made of the marriage of Mrs. Jimmie Wray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Purkey of Shamrock, and Harris B. Zeigler, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Zeigler, also of Shamrock.

Wedding vows were exchanged at the parsonage of the First Methodist Church, with the pastor, the Rev. S. M. Dunnam, reading the single-ring service.

Attending the bride was Mrs. Richard Harvey, sister of the bridegroom. Mr. Harvey served the bridegroom as best man.

The bride wore a street length dress of teal blue crepe, designed with three-quarter length sleeves, a jewelry neckline and a French draped skirt. The fly drape in the back of the skirt extended through the wide brown belt at the left side. Her shoes and bag were brown and she wore a winter pink profile hat made of feathers, and pink suede gloves. Her corsage was a brown orchid. She carried out the tradition of "something old, new, borrowed and blue."

Mrs. Harvey wore a black faille suit with black accessories, and a corsage of calla gladioli.

A reception was held for the wedding party at the Richard Harvey home immediately following the ceremony. The wedding cake, topped with miniature bride and groom, was served from a lace covered table, centered with a bouquet of flowers.

Members of the party then went to Amarillo, where they were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Allen.

The bride is a graduate of the Shamrock High School, and attended Watson's Business College at Plainview. She was employed by the government in Dallas before coming to Shamrock, where she has been in the office of Hill and Brown for the past year and a half.

Mr. Zeigler is a graduate of the Shamrock High School and attended North Texas A and M at Arlington before entering service. He was in the Navy from 1942 until 1946 and was in the Southwest Pacific war theater. He is associated with his father in business.

Mr. and Mrs. Zeigler made a trip to Ruidoso, El Paso and other points. They are now at home at 618 South Madden Street.

the skirt length still holds, and that it is the length she wears. Of the plunging neckline, she said "I think it is disgraceful and demoralizing."

Now that skirts are again being lifted, Mrs. Woodard has a chance to say "I told you so," but she says she doesn't feel very triumphant. "After all," she said "anything that takes two years to win isn't much of a victory."

She voiced her opinion of fashion in Pampa in this way: "I went to the style show and was simply delighted with the styles. You couldn't find better fashions in any city in the nation."

She gave as the reason for her rebellion in 1947 the opinion that the long skirt movement was the idea of designers and manufacturers rather than of the wearers. She said she thought it was a poor time to start such a move, with the war so recently over and materials still scarce.

Proposed Changes in Social Security Program Would Benefit the Disabled

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON — (AP) — The bill to change the social security program, just passed by the House and due for Senate action next year, would give help to a whole new group of people who can't get it under the present law.

They are:

1. Those who are covered by the law but become totally and permanently disabled before reaching 65 when they would have been eligible for an old age pension.
2. Those who are not covered by the law, and therefore not entitled to a pension at any age, but who are now or become disabled.

The government would give money to help them, too. This plan is called assistance and would cost the government about 66 million dollars a year.

Here's a further explanation of what the present law does and how the bill, if it became law, would make changes:

Old age assistance—Every state has a program for making cash payments to people over 65 who live at home and are in need.

(This is not to be confused with the old age insurance program.)

Under the present law the government gives states and local governments money to add to the money which they give needy old people. The government now is footing about 55 percent of the bill at a cost of about 800 million dollars a year. If the bill became

Pollination By Bees Seen Gaining Use

COLLEGE STATION — Beekeeping is now entering upon a period of change so profound as to be described as revolutionary, said Dr. F. L. Thomas, professor in the Entomology Department, Texas A&M College.

Dr. Thomas addressed the annual meeting of the Texas Beekeepers' Association on the campus. He said that the main changes in the bee industry were coming about primarily through the utilization of bees as pollination agents on legumes and using honey as a byproduct. Dr. Thomas estimated that beekeepers and legume farmers could realize between 15 and 20 times as much through the pollination services rendered by the bees as they could from the sale of honey. He said that the main problem facing the beekeepers was to convince the legume farmers that honeybees could render such a valuable pollination service.

A systematized pollinating system would double the normal yield of legume seed, it was pointed out.

Dr. Thomas presented a share-the-profit plan to the group and emphasized the point that several beekeepers should cooperate in developing the program into a community-wide system.

The main points of Dr. Thomas' share-the-profit are as follows:

The beekeepers should offer to sell a valuable service, pollination.

Beekeepers should provide enough strong colonies to insure complete pollination as possible.

If the beekeepers fail to provide sufficient pollination services, then he receives none of the legume crop yield.

When a large crop is produced, the grower calculates what that yield is above his normal yield. This additional yield will be called a "preliminary profit."

If the beekeeper makes an additional profit from the sale of his honey, then this additional profit is called preliminary profit, also.

When an increased profit is made by the legume raiser but the beekeeper makes less than a normal crop, the legume grower makes up loss to beekeeper, deducting this amount from the preliminary profit. The remaining profit is divided again on the basis of capital investment.

If the beekeeper makes an increased profit but the legume grower doesn't realize a normal return, the preliminary profit is divided on the basis of capital investment.

Higher production of legume seed may be expected when colonies of bees are scattered in small groups and are within one-half mile of the legume that needs insect pollination.

law, the cost to the government would go up about another 75 million.

The needy blind—The federal government and the states—except Missouri, Pennsylvania and Nevada which have their own program—chip in to help needy blind people. About 70,000 needy blind people are receiving this help. The combined average payment to them is $46.

The federal contribution in this program is about 45 percent—or $16,500,000 a year.

Under the bill federal help would be increased about $1,900,000.

Aid to dependent children—They're children who—with one or both parents dead, or disabled, or separated—are living with one parent or a relative.

The combined government-state payments to families for such dependent children average $72.73, with about three children per family.

The government contribution to this program is about 42 percent—or around 200 million dollars a year. If the bill became law, the cost to the government would go up another 106 million.

Child welfare services—Every state has a program for child care such as protecting those in danger of becoming delinquents. The government contributes $3,500,000 to this. The bill would double this.

American Housewives Divided On Government Pension Matter

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK — (AP) — Do American housewives want government handouts?

Well—yes and no. The girls are as divided on this question as on any other.

A few days ago I wrote a piece pointing out that legislatures have sadly overlooked the most important figure in our civilization—the housewife.

They fret about the problems of the businessman, set limits to the stint of the laboring man, and vote cash on the barrel head to protect the farmer against rainy days. But for the woman with the mop they have voted no 40-hour week, no cash subsidies, no benefit payments, no bonuses for raising the nation's chief crop—children.

Well, should Congress and President Truman set up a new cabinet post—secretary of the home? Should housewives get pensions?

Scores of ladies dropped their dust cloths, sat down and wrote me how they felt. And their answer as to whether the government owed them anything boiled down to this:

1—"Yes, of course."
2—"No, naturally."
One mother wrote objecting "to the prevailing sense of values which excludes from economic consideration the work of the home woman." He idea was that mothers mold the character of future citizens, and should be paid in some way by the state for this important function.

Pilchus of Chicago Heights, Ill., said flatly: "We'd be sure to lose not only our independence to clean house how and when we please, what to cook, when to spank, what to say to the better half, but we'd have to pay some jerk 5 percent for telling us off."

"The woman who has children and a home never mopes or is frustrated. We're too busy. We don't want any special recognition. We reap our rewards as we go along."
Yes, ma'am!!!! Who brought the subject up anyway?

Burt Lancaster Proceeds With Circus Movie

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Burt Lancaster is proceeding with plans for a circus film in the face of competition from Cecil B. DeMille.

Lancaster appears unperturbed by the fact that the veteran director has been traveling with the Ringling Bros.-Barnum and Bailey Circus and plans an epic of life under the big top.

"We aren't competing with him," says the actor, a former circus star, "he's competing with us. He couldn't possibly get the background we gained through personal experience."

Lancaster has arranged a role in the film for his former aerial partner, Nick Craval. The actor took a couple of writers with him when he toured the circus this year. He plans the production for sometime next year and hopes that it will do for the circus "what 'Red Shoes' did for ballet."

Burt's acrobatic training comes in handy in his current film, "The Hawk and the Arrow." It's a 12th-Century action yarn—his first costume picture — "and I jump from cliffs and buildings, ride bareback and fight." He also adds to the current "beef-cake" trend by baring much of his manly chest.

John L. Sullivan Will Head U.S. Brotherhood Week

DALLAS — John L. Sullivan, former secretary of the Navy, has been named general chairman of Brotherhood Week to be observed nationally February 19, 26 under the sponsorship of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, T. E. Braniff of Dallas, one of the three national co-chairmen, announced today.

The National Conference of Christians and Jews was organized in 1928 to promote goodwill and understanding among Protestants, Catholics and Jews, and the annual Brotherhood Week observances held during the week of George Washington's birthday, are a nationwide dramatization of the year-round educational program conducted by the conference.

"The dignity of man is on trial throughout the world," Sullivan said in accepting the appointment, "and the fate of our civilization will depend upon the outcome. It will survive only if the ideal of man's inalienable rights is acknowledged, respected and strengthened."

Sullivan has a distinguished record of public service. He holds the Medal for Merit awarded by President Truman and the Treasury Department's Distinguished Service Award and Silver Medal. As chairman of Brotherhood Week, he succeeds an array of distinguished Americans including Harold E. Stassen, John G. Winant, Robert P. Patterson and Nelson A. Rockefeller.

In directing the program of the national observance, he will work with the three national co-chairmen of the conference, Braniff, president of Braniff Airways; Charles E. Wilson, president of General Electric Co.; and Roger W. Straus, chairman, American Smelting and Refining Co.

The program in the Southwest will be under the direction of Hastings Harrison, national vice president and Southwestern director of the Conference.

Conference of Texas Industry Scheduled Later This Month

The twenty-seventh annual Conference of Texas Industry will be held in Mineral Wells, on October 20-21, Ed. C. Burris, executive vice president of the Texas Manufacturers Association, announced. Headquarters of the conference will be the Baker Hotel.

The general theme of the conference, which is sponsored by the Texas Manufacturers Association, is "Putting the Props under Prosperity."

Industrialists and businessmen who gather for the conference will hear speakers examine the parts business, organizations, education, agriculture and government can play in keeping the national economy on a high level.

The Texas Manufacturers Association, founded in 1922 in San Antonio and reorganized and moved to Houston in 1946, has a membership of 2,000, composed of large and small businesses. Its chief objective is the maintenance of a "favorable climate for business in Texas."

The Association has made every effort to assure speakers who will offer practical and constructive analyses, Burris said.

He disclosed that two of the addresses will be made by Hugh P. Bigler, of Birmingham, Ala., and D. I. Johnston, of Oklahoma City.

Bigler, executive vice president of the Connors Steel Company of Birmingham, is president of the Associated Industries of Alabama. His background in industry ranges from early jobs as a carpenter and machinist through various engineering and research posts until he became managing director of the Rail Steel Bar Association, a group of 15 American and Canadian steel mills, in 1926. He joined the Connors Steel Company in 1941. During the war, he served as chairman of the WPB Technical Advisory Committee on Reinforcement Steel. He is a director of the National Association of Manufacturers, the American Concrete Institute, the Jefferson County Community Chest, and the Highway Research Board of the National Research Council.

Johnston, a member of the Oklahoma City law firm of Keaton, Wells, Johnston & Lytle, is a regional vice president of the National Association of Manufacturers, representing the states of Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma. He has been general counsel of the Associated Industries of Oklahoma for several years.

He will speak on "The Organization's Responsibility in Putting the Props under Prosperity."

Early indications are that there will be a large attendance at the

Panhandle Potentials Take Sharp Rise As Operators Bring in 1,227 Barrels

The past week was a busy one for oilmen in the state. From the looks of things, other busy weeks are in store.

In addition to an increase in crude production, which sparked a national rise, by the way, conventions began popping up declaring open season on everything from excessive imports to refining shale.

The independents, in their meeting last Sunday and Monday, managed to draft a resolution against the reappointment of Leland Olds to the Federal Power Commission. This resolution arose from a battle between the oilmen and Olds when the FPC attempted to gain control of the production and disposition of gas.

The FPC failed, but Mr. Olds earned the hearty dislike of oilmen, just the same.

Now the oilmen want to see that nothing like this happens again. They oppose his reappointment under any circumstances.

The independents also named themselves a new president to succeed Fred W. Shield of San Antonio. The new head is J. Ed. Warren, oilman from Midland.

Then, of course, the oft-spoken-of import problem was thrashed about. As planned, it turned out to be the major issue.

Plans were drafted in committee for the fight against the major importers, but nothing drastic was proposed. Basic idea behind the plan is the education of top Washington officials and the American public.

If that doesn't work, IPAA heads insist legislation will have to be tacked on to the Trade Agreements Act.

Domestic production is being placed in an embarrassing position as winter draws nearer. At present, storage tanks are filled and there is little room for additional production, for the time being.

But, there are strong indications that demand for refined oil products is going to rise sharply when cold weather first hits the Mid-West. The rise is likely to be so sharp, in fact, that storage tanks will be drained faster than crude can be produced to fill them.

The ensuing shortage of fuel would be a very strong argument for increased foreign production and imports. This would make it doubly difficult for any legislation to be passed limiting imports.

In another phase of the oil industry, the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers (Petroleum Branch) ended its fall meeting in San Antonio Friday. The last day was devoted to technical papers on lowered oil production.

Next year's meeting will be held in New Orleans.

A rough idea of the reason why the U. S. is uppermost in the minds of those with oil to sell makes itself apparent by a look at the distribution of motor vehicles. In the U. S., there are 41,000,000 cars, trucks and buses. There are 88,000,000 registered for the whole world. In all of Europe there are 10,000,000. In the U. S., there is one motor vehicle to 3.5 persons; in Europe it is one to 58.

Vacations are still being trickled out.

Walter Dean, Humble production chief, began a month's leave last Monday. He headed for Dallas. E. D. Scott, Humble rousta-bout, and T. M. Klasy, pumper, are taking three weeks; Scott to Possum Kingdom and Lauby to the Gulf Coast.

Word has been received in Pampa that Ralph Moore, Humble chief clerk, is recovering in good shape, from major surgery at Mayo Clinic in Pittsburgh.

Carson, Gray Counties Report Three Above-Average Completions for Week

The Panhandle's potential crude oil production was boosted some 1,227 barrels last week as operators completed 15 new wells in Carson, Hutchinson and Gray Counties. This is a rousing 1,024-barrel rise over the previous week when operators in the area completed only six wells.

There were three better-than average wells finished last week. Cabot completed its Ware No. 25 in Carson County for 135 barrels. In Gray County, Gulf completed its Saunders Tr No. 14 for 156 barrels and Dancier completed its Powell "A" No. 39 for 211 barrels.

Carson reported one completion; Gray reported six and Hutchinson filed eight.

No Synthetics For U.S. Yet

SAN ANTONIO — (AP) — The U. S. will not need synthetic fuels from coal and oil shale before 1961, an oil executive declared.

A. L. Soliday said Thursday that synthetic fuels will appear only when petroleum can no longer meet the needs of the nation's motorists, industries and armed forces and when they can compete economically with petroleum products.

The executive vice president of Standard Oil & Gas Co., Tulsa, spoke at the fall meeting of the petroleum branch, American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers.

IPAA Leader States Olds Not Wanted

MIDLAND — (AP) — The President of the Independent Petroleum Association of America took exception to a statement that the "people want" Leland Olds confirmed as member of the Federal Power Commission.

J. E. Warren, Midland oil man, referred to press reports that Democratic chairman William M. Boxley, Jr., had called on national Democratic committeemen and others to solicit Congressional support of Olds because the "people want Olds confirmed."

"I believe this is far from the truth," Warren said. "I believe the people would be allowed to speak for themselves."

Warren said his association was on record as vigorously opposed to nomination of Olds as a member of the commission.

Independents to Concentrate Efforts on Cutting Imports

By MAX E. SKELTON

HOUSTON — (AP) — There is a definite plan behind the promise of independent oilmen to use all their energies in fighting foreign oil imports.

It is an individualized campaign among Washington officials—congressmen and administrators—and among American petroleum consumers.

The strategy is an admitted adoption of tactics used by the major importers.

A resolution adopted last week at the twentieth annual convention of the Independent Petroleum Association of America did not outline the new plan of attack. It merely pledged continuation of the fight and expressed a belief that the only effective curb on imports is in the hands of Congress.

CPAA officials explained, however, convincing arguments must be presented to each congressman before curtailment legislation can be passed without fear of presidential veto.

It is here the independents feel their previous attacks on imports have been unsuccessful.

Major importers, they believe, have sold Washington on a need of imports and have caused consumers to believe imports will lead to cheaper service station gasoline.

"While the importers were doing this, we were falling down on our job," one IPAA official said. "We now must shift Washington on the fallacy of shutting down domestic wells in favor of importing oil. We must sell consumers on the fallacy of a growing belief imports will bring lower prices."

Fred W. Shield, who retired last week as IPAA president, said the campaign to "sell" individuals must be carried into the state and interior departments.

Officials of these departments, he said, now suggest government subsidy of the domestic oil industry may be the answer to objections to imports.

"When we talk to these officials," he said, "they reply that if imports are hurting us we should set a price and let the government pay."

The IPAA Fort Worth convention declined to take immediate action on a proposal to seek a congressional inquiry "into numerous pernicious political activities of importing companies."

The proposal, submitted by Charles S. Hill, Denver, Colo., was referred for further study to the association's committee on imports.

A resolution was adopted charging the European Cooperation Administration has gone beyond its "basic objective" in rehabilitating war-torn oil installations.

It was charged ECA now plans to permit use of its funds for expansion of oil producing and refining companies by both foreign interests and American companies.

"The result would be subsidizing a large surplus of foreign oil that would seek a market in the United States, which already is adequately supplied by domestic oil," the resolution stated.

It continued:

"It is one thing to provide essential oil requirements for recovery in foreign areas. It is another to establish by subsidy an unnecessarily expanded source of competition in the world market."

Cities Service Brings Largest Producer to West Seminole Area

Cities Service Oil Co. (Del.) has provided the West Seminole field of Gaines County, Texas, with its biggest producer. Company's Whitaker B No. 2, at the north edge of the field, was completed for a Commission potential of 869 barrels of oil daily. Producing from the San Andres, the well is bottomed at 5,180 feet.

Another commercial producer was reported by Cities Service and Sinclair-Prairie on the 108,000-acre SMS ranch of Throckmorton County, Texas. Swenson 172 No. 1 was finished for a 70-barrel potential. The wildcat is four miles southeast of the first discovery on the ranch, the company's Swenson 100 No. 1, and is producing from the Caddo line.

Another good producer for the Jenik pool of Rooks county, Kansas, has been reported by Cities Service Oil Co. (Del.) in the completion of Sandton No. 4. A 3,000 barrel producer, the well was finished at a total depth of 3,559 feet in Arbuckle lime.

A gas well completion for Kansas is the company's Rhinesa No. 1 in Seward county. The well was finished for an open flow of 18,600,000 cubic feet of gas a day. The well is bottomed at 5,180 feet.

Competing with more than 300 contesting companies in six of the seven departments of the contest, Continental won two first place awards in two departments and in close runner-up positions in the other sections of the contest. Continental won first in marketing and production again this year, thus repeating in receiving the two first place awards for four out of five years.

Continental's other awards included second in exploration, which includes geological, geophysical and land operations, third in pipe line and fifth in manufacturing. In the manufacturing section there was but an .88 so evident frequency difference between Continental's fifth place standing of 2.89 and the first place winner's standing of 2.68.

CROSSING THE BAR Sunset and evening star, And one clear call for me, And may there be no moaning of the bar When I put out to sea.

But such a tide as moving seems asleep, Too full for sound or foam. When that which drew from out the boundless deep Turns again home.

MRS. ADA ARNOLD Words are inadequate to express our sincere thanks for all the many kind deeds extended to our loved one, Mrs. Ada Arnold, and all of us during her long illness and at the time of her death.
