

Cattle Are Moving East

DALLAS —(AP)— The cattle industry is hitting the trail for East Texas and farmers are taking over West Texas rangelands. At least, that's what Bryan Blalock of Marshall told the Dallas Rotary Club yesterday.

To prove that cattle country is shifting east of the Trinity and agriculture almost to the Pecos, he cited these figures on cotton production from the Texas Almanac:

County	1926 Yield	1946
Anderson	24,000	761
Harrison	42,000	4,100
Dallas	85,000	12,000
Denton	46,000	6,200
Kaufman	76,000	21,000

He said the Northeast Texas area bounded roughly by Marshall, Tyler, Dallas, Gainesville and Texarkana now have 12,000 milk farmers compared to about 100 in 1926. Blalock said West Texas has become the state's main sources of cotton, wheat and grain sorghums.

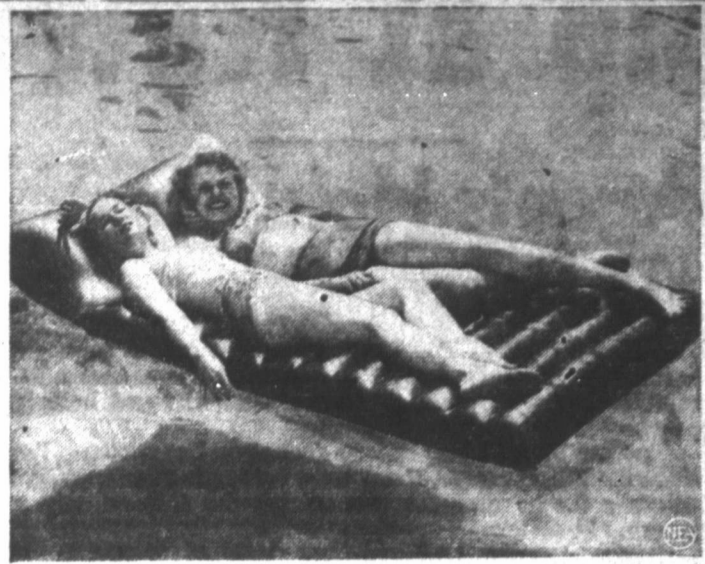

"In Lubbock the other day, I talked to a man who farms 640 acres of cotton all by himself. For several years, a shortage of field hands held up West Texas. But now, the mechanical picker has finished the job the tractor started."

Little Trace Of Movies Is Found in 2049

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD —(AP)— "Little trace of the American motion picture industry has come down to us," Dr. Adam Fission told a historians' meeting at Uganium University in the year 2049.

"And much that remains is confusing," he added.

"For instance, motion pictures appear to have been popular, with millions watching the flickering screens every night. And yet, judging from the printed records of the critics of the time, the quality of entertainment was very poor.

"There is also confusion about the so-called stars — the men and women who took leading roles in the photoplays. We have unearthed records from the studio files and 'fan' magazines, all of which indicate the stars were paragons of virtue.

"There is conflicting evidence from microfiches of the era's newspapers."

"Unlike the solar system," Dr. Fission said with a smile, "the motion picture industry seems to have revolved around the stars. They were public heroes. Each time they got married, which

'Blue Baby' Is Said 'Doing Nicely'

DALLAS —(AP)— Blue-eyed Nelda Susan Pelt was no longer a "blue baby" today.

The 10-month-old Pitkin, La., infant was "doing nicely" at Bradford Memorial Hospital for Babies after a corrective operation.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Deiford Pelt of Pitkin, who waited anxiously outside the hall during the hours-long operation. Within a few hours after the operation she began losing her purplish color.

was often, the wedding appeared to have been a kind of national festival.

"One of these events took place just 100 years ago when a star named Rita Hayworth wed an Eastern potentate. Another occurred the year before when Lana Turner also married a man from the East.

"The stars earned fantastic salaries, even more than interplanetary pilots do today. In fact," he added with irony, "more in a week than a college professor makes in a year."

Dr. Fission traced the decline of the industry:

"The motion picture was born when it started to move. It flourished when it started to talk. It died when it started to smell."

Wheat Farmers Face Sizable Losses

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator reury of Agriculture Brannan said last week wheat farmers are facing sizable losses because Congress has not passed legislation to let the government provide grain storage bins.

He said losses in the Texas-Oklahoma area where many farmers are unable to find storage for grain now being harvested, may run around 30 cents a bushel below the $1.89-a-bushel government support price.

The secretary made the statement to newsmen after leaving closed-door meeting of the House and Senate Agriculture Committees.

Legislation permitting the government's Commodity Credit Corporation to supply storage bins is deadlocked in a Senate-House controversy. The issue is whether the Senate shall have authority to approve or reject the board of directors handling the CCC program.

The House has passed a bill permitting the board to be selected by the secretary of agriculture, without Senate confirmation.

A House-Senate conference committee now is trying to break the deadlock. Brannan said the CCC is ready to proceed with a grain bin program the minute Congress completes action.

Former School Head Under Bond

BALLINGER (AP)—E. O. Larkin, former school superintendent accused of stealing several thousand board feet of lumber at San Angelo, posted $1,000 bond here Friday.

Larkin was charged here Wednesday with theft by bailee while superintendent of the Lake View School at San Angelo. Similar charges were filed against him in Abilene.

Larkin was superintendent of the suburban San Angelo school during the past year until he resigned May 24. He is accused of taking lumber from ten barracks buildings purchased by the school last fall at the Amarillo air field. Larkin came to Lakeview last year from Three Rivers, Tex., where he had been superintendent. Previous to that he was superintendent at Tuscola, Tex.

Mary Margaret Holds Party For 75,000 Fans in Stadium

HOSTESS—Mary Margaret McBride, hostess to 12,000 guests in her radio career, once was a guest herself in a musical comedy. For her one-night stand, she took lessons from Fred Waring.

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEW YORK (NEA)—"This," said Mary Margaret McBride, referring to the 75,000 people jammed into the Yankee Stadium for her 15th anniversary party, "is the most fantastic and silly thing anybody ever heard of." In a way she was right. Here were 75,000 persons—mostly women, although there was a liminary interview with the guest.

Her lack of script upset the government during the war. They wanted the head of the merchant marine, Admiral Emory S. Land, to appear on her program to boost enlistments.

A few days before the program, a thick bundle of script arrived from Washington. This, said a note, was what Admiral Land was to say.

Mary Margaret hustled to the phone and put in a call direct to the Admiral.

"Hey," she said, "can't you speak for yourself? I can get an actor to read a speech."

When he came over the air, Admiral Land was chatting like any other guest, and he liked it so well—and so did she—that he came back several times.

She can put any guest—and they've ranged from Bally Rand to someone close to the Grand Lama of Tibet with all stops in between—at ease and casually draw out whatever he or she has to say of importance.

It's a talent partly inborn and partly resulting from a successful newspapering career. She worked on papers in Cleveland and New York, then became women's editor of NEA Service. It was while she was there in 1934 that a hinge sent her into radio.

It was a hit. Mary Margaret's bing, of course. Somebody else binged. The result of that escapade was a shift in the staff of WOR, a New York radio station. The shift brought into power a man who thought that radio, then in about the same stage as television is today, needed some new ideas. One such was a women's program.

Auditions were held, and Mary Margaret, whose free-lance writing had suffered from depression, entered and won. She says she took the job thinking it would be fine research for a story on radio. She stayed with NEA for a year after her first microphone appearance.

She first appeared as "Martha Deane," and shifted over to her own name when she went with CBS in 1937 while she continued on WOR as "Martha Deane." In 1941, she switched to NBC, following a course just the opposite of several latter-day stars.

Her program was originally guestless, Mary Margaret doing a simple job of reporting on odds and ends and telling about them. But gradually the guests were worked in—the first was authoress Mrs. Will Irwin—and her fan mail showed that the innovation was a good one.

Mary Margaret's fan mail runs to astounding quantity and peculiar quality. The quantity is attested to by her turning over to the government's wartime paper drive about 3,000,000 letters. The quality is peculiar because her fans like to send her presents—simple things like crates of eggs.

She answers each letter, signing them personally, just as she insists on shaking hands with each one of the audience, numbering about 60, at her programs. She tried to shake hands with the 20,000 persons who came to her tenth anniversary party, held in Madison Square Garden, but

Concert Group Is Organized

SHAMROCK (Special)—A membership campaign for the newly organized Wheeler County Municipal Concert Association will be held next month from July 11 through 16. Mrs. H. P. Mundy and Harris Zeigler, co-chairmen of the association, announced.

The association is a non-profit, cooperative organization, similar to the one now operating in Pampa. By paying the annual dues, each member may attend all the concerts in a season without further charge, and no individual admissions will be sold at the gate.

The Wheeler County association was formed at a recent meeting attended by representatives of all the civic and social clubs of Shamrock.

In addition to the co-chairmen, the Misses Nell Adams and Mary Elizabeth Pendleton were chosen executive secretary and treasurer. Mrs. Bedford Harrison, John Kennedy and Arval Montgomery were named committee chairmen.

Regardless of your walk in life, smooth running gets you there a lot quicker.

was sensibly stopped by her staff.

Even the Daily Worker, Communist mouthpiece, has nice things to say about Mary Margaret McBride; they laud her "complete lack of mob appeal."

Crime in Texas Up 18 Percent

AUSTIN (AP)—Crime throughout the state climbed 18 percent during the first three months of this year, above the comparable period a year ago, the Texas Department of Public Safety reported yesterday. There were 23,278 crimes committed during January, February and March, compared to 19,664 for the period last year, the report said.

The biggest upswing in violence was an estimated 67.9 percent increase in rape. Murder and homicide were up 11.2 percent.

Big cities showed the lowest percentage increase, 11.3 percent, while cities of 25,000 to 50,000 population showed the highest increase, 105.1 percent. Rural areas with populations of less than 25 per square mile showed decreases.

It won't be long now until peaches are preserved in other places besides beauty parlors.

Man Injured In Explosion

GALVESTON (AP)—One man was seriously injured by an explosion that blew the end out of a brick building and shook up the Galveston waterfront last Friday night.

The blast set fire to the two-story building, which housed the Banana Supply Company. Firemen were hampered by ammonia fumes, but they brought the fire under control after a two-and-a-half hour fight.

John C. Constantine, 20, night manager of the company, was the injured man. He ran from the building with his clothes blazing and was sent to St. Mary's Hospital.

The explosion collapsed the northeast end of the building. It shattered windows in the Armour packing plant across the street. A falling loading platform smashed a parked truck.

Vacationers Advised to Act Their Age

AUSTIN — There is an old slang expression that would make a good slogan for living a longer and more comfortable life, and that is "Be your age." According to the state health officer, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, many persons injure their health and endanger their life through indulgence in exercises and vigorous sports unsuited for their age and physical condition.

"While a young man in prime physical condition may benefit from a fast game of tennis, older men and women have been known to collapse and suffer serious heart attacks following such a game. The same thing applies to golfing, swimming and other vigorous sports," Dr. Cox said.

"Persons of middle age should never participate in activities requiring violent physical exertion, and should confine their physical exercise to such bounds as their doctor prescribes," Cox asserted. The state health officer suggested that all persons of middle age be examined by their physician, before planning their summer vacation activities. A vacation can easily be more exhausting than refreshing, and in such event, more harm than benefit results from the time thus spent.

Fishing, boating, hiking in moderation, and many other light recreations can be engaged in by the older people who must avoid heart strain, and it is a wise precaution to have your doctor advise you as to what sort of vacation you should plan.

Traces Found Of Ancient Man

AUSTIN — The tooth of a man who died several thousand years ago has a story for today's dentists and is part of information yielded by current archaeological studies of future damsites, University of Texas Archaeologist Alex D. Krieger says.

Krieger recently won the Viking Medal and the accompanying $1,000 in cash, awarded annually to the archaeologist who has done the nation's most outstanding work.

Investigations in areas to be flooded following new power development similar to that along the Colorado River are being directed by the National Park Service, utilizing the services of University of Texas archaeologists in the Texas area.

Information obtained is of assistance to climatologists, physicians, dentists, and others. Dentists use collections to assess modern dental conditions and to study some of the theoretical ends of dentistry—relationship of tooth wear to tooth decay.

MOVES UP—W. Walton Butterworth, 45, career diplomat and director of the Office of Far Eastern Affairs, was appointed Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs in a major reorganization of the State Department. You Can Find Security Only By Having 'Peace of Mind'

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK — (AP) — Can you find security? How? Security used to be something that only the old folks dreamed of—and the old nations. Today the young people and the young nations want it. They feel tired even before they are tested in the crucible of effort and the changing years. They want a guarantee. And there is no guarantee. There are as many patterns in security as there are in plaid suits. And the styles change in both.

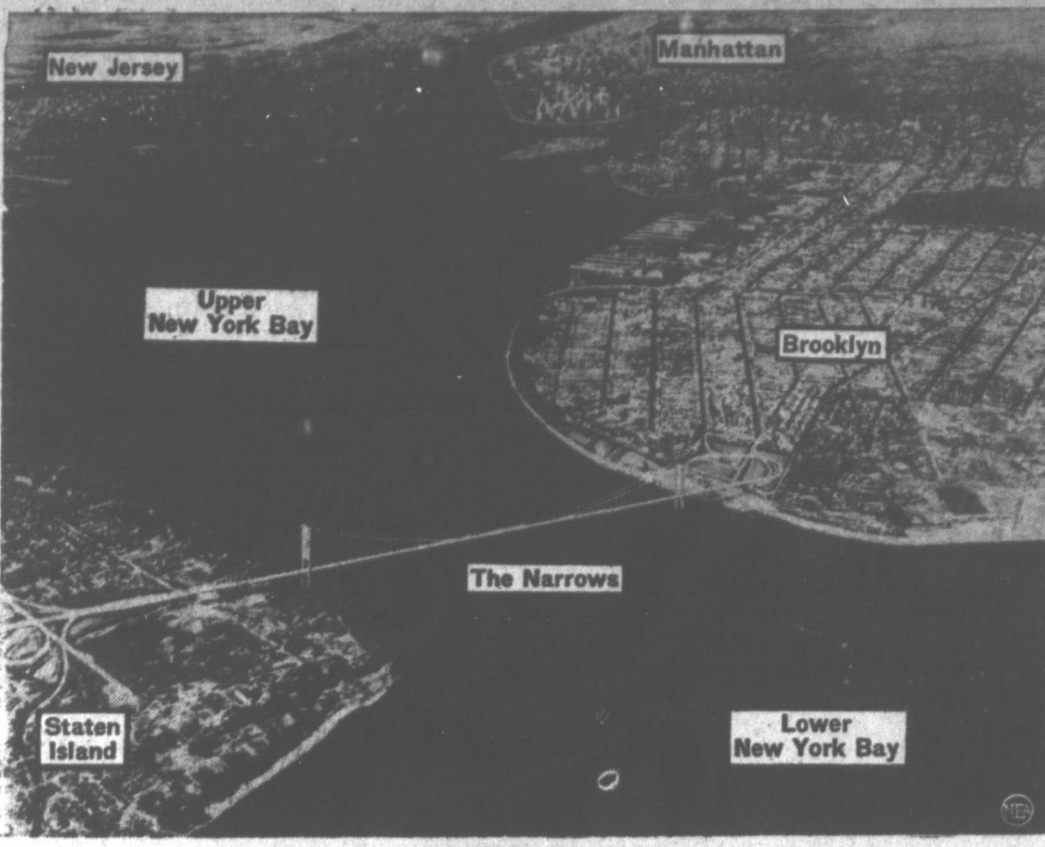

Right now the pattern of security in America is changing. Or at least the change in pattern is more clearly visible. For the present generation is markedly different in its goals from any previous generation in America. The traditional ideal of security in this country has been the security of equal opportunity. The real frontier in America was always the small farm a man could enlarge, the little business he could found and make a bigger. Security lay in the possibility of growth and expansion. You started low, aimed high. And if you missed your aim it was your own fault. Today young men follow a different pattern of security. They don't ask for opportunity so much as they do for a career insured at the start against risk.

with large corporations rather than with small business concerns they felt were more risky. It amounts to exchanging the lonely dare of individualism for the warmth of the pastured herd. But entire herds freeze in a blizzard as well as the animal that walks alone. And no man ever found security by deliberately losing himself in the herd. Is it really better to be a small frog in a big puddle that may never dry up than it is to be a big frog in a little puddle that might evaporate tomorrow? The only security lies in accepting the Lord's challenge—He who put man on earth in a celestial gamble that man could make earth and himself better. Anyone who makes himself better finds the only lasting security — peace of mind. And no one else ever does.

WTSC Summer School to Begin

CANYON, —(WTNS)— Registration for the first six weeks of summer school will be held in Burton Gymnasium at West Texas State College on Tuesday, June 7, from 8 a. m. until 4 p. m. Class will begin the following day. The first six weeks term will last through July 17. All persons who wish to enter WTSC must have a transcript of their high school or college work sent in advance or have a statement of good standing from their school.

Why do people have to write "warmest regards" during the hot spells?

$78,000,000 BY-PASS—A sketch of the proposed world's largest suspension bridge spanning the Narrows entrance to New York's harbor is superimposed over an aerial photo of the area. The six-lane, 6540-foot crossing will connect Brooklyn and Staten Island, making it possible for traffic between New England and the midwest to bypass congested New York City. The bridge will hang on cables 42 inches in diameter supported from two towers the height of 72-story buildings and will cost an estimated $78,000,000. It will take four years to complete.

Truman Asks for Traffic System
WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman said last week the systems for examining auto drivers in many parts of the country are "scandalous." Deploping the "frightful slaughter" on the nation's streets and highways, he said that driver licensing laws in "two many cases are pitifully weak." "States and local governments," he declared, "have a duty to deny the privilege of using public highways to the irresponsible, the unfit and the chronic law breakers." Mr. Truman spoke to the President's Conference on Highway Safety which he set up three years ago to make highways safer. Earlier, the conference received a report that the President had ordered drivers of government vehicles to take the lead in accident prevention.

House Mourns Death of Bills

AUSTIN — (AP) — With deep respect and high crocodile tears the House mourned the death of two bills.

First came a memorial resolution with sympathy from the demise of the late House Bill 30. That carried a natural gas tax which Demo Tufares, the fighting representative from Wichita, Falls tried untiringly to keep alive until the House voted it down.

"I've conceded defeat. When you get a judge's decision in the ring, you can't do anything," said Tufares, a former golden gloves champ. Then with a long, sad face, Rep. Abraham Kazen Jr., of Laredo presented Rep. Eugene Williams of San Antonio a "token of our sympathy for the death of House Bill 711." That was a bill relaxing plumbers licensing regulations—knocked off the calendar by the House last week.

Williams accepted the plunger—the plumber's friend—with no comment. The "cold light" produced by some luminous animals raises the temperature less than one-thousandth of a degree Centigrade, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

It's a historic battle in which England's first outright Socialist government is fighting to retain the leadership which it wrested from the long-reigning Conservatives (Tories, some call them) in 1945. Former Prime Minister Churchill again is leading the charge of the Conservative brigade.

The London Daily Herald—organ of the Socialist Party—is angry with Mr. Churchill, accusing him of imputing that under the Socialists the Empire is being thrown away. The paper maintains that the Empire has been strengthened by the granting of independence by such acts of the present government to India, Pakistan and Burma.

This isn't the first time Churchill has attacked the Socialists along the imperial line. One of his fiercest assaults was made back in December, 1946, when Churchill charged the government with undue haste "in divesting ourselves of the great possessions of the British Crown."

It is to be noted that Churchill has not attacked the policy of granting independence to countries like India and Burma, but rather has opposed haste. On that basis let's take a look at the situation as impartial observers. I have been studying India intensively for more than a generation and have spent much time there, and this is the way the position looks to me:

India and Pakistan were out for absolute independence. So were Burma and Ceylon. They wanted action and they meant business. They were ready to rebel if necessary to secure freedom.

As things have worked out, free India has decided to play ball with Britain and is remaining a member of the Commonwealth of Nations which recognizes the British Crown as the symbol of unity. Others are expected to follow suit.

This readjustment has given fresh strength to the Commonwealth. There will be further changes, for the Empire is in process of a mighty metamorphosis. There is likely to be increasing emphasis on the Commonwealth, as further dependencies reach their time for independence.

Thus on the whole the British government would seem to have bridged its imperial difficulties exceedingly well. It's hard to see how they could have done much better under the circumstances, and they could have done a mighty lot worse.

It's very likely to be a successful marriage when the wife is a treasure and the husband a treasury.

Sheridan Starts Another Movie While Grant Rests

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD—Who's woman is the weaker sex? Disapproving the old adage is Ann Sheridan. Both she and Cary Grant were sick on the ill-starred "I Was a Male War Bride" company in Europe. He has to rest for the remainder of the year, but she goes right into another film, "Carriage Entrance."

The busy onetime "oompah girl" also is involved with a cosmetics business and Mexican property and is preparing her own production, "Second Lady." Jack Carson will have a television test. His sponsor has a new U.S. citizen, plan to visit dropped the show for radio, but her native Finland after he winds wants the "good humor man" to up his film commitments. At go on TV. Carson is dubious about getting into the new medium now, but will wait and see the test. Robert Walker is getting started on an even keel since his return from hospital treatment. The first thing he did when he got back was to answer the cards and notes of good wishes from his fans. He wrote them all in his own hand.

Jean Hagen is the new Cinderella girl. Discovered in a New York play, she was signed by MGM and quickly assigned to three pictures. Watch this gal. Bette Davis will stick to heavy drama in the future. After "Beyond the Forest," she is slated to do "Ethan Frome" and "African Queen."

Gregory Peck and his wife, Jeanne Crain, plan to visit his native Finland after he winds up his film commitments. At this reading, that will be in 1952. Dick Powell sings again! Can you wait? The onetime Warner warbler gives out with "Rose of Trales" in "Mrs. Mike," his first film singing since he turned tough guy. Claudette Colbert and the rest of the "Three Came Home" are being worn down for the Japanese prison camp film. They are supposed to get thinner as the picture progresses and have been placed on a diet. Wonder if they'll have ambulances to pick up the cast when the picture is over.

Texas City Suit Hearing Begins Again Wednesday

GALVESTON —(AP)— Testimony in the $200,000,000 Texas City disaster suit will resume Wednesday in federal court here. Judge T. M. Kennerly recessed the trial after Friday's testimony. One witness said a book listing the cargo of the S.S. Grand-camp disappeared after the disaster. It was the Grandcamp, a French ship, which caught fire, exploded and touched off a series of other fires and explosions at Texas City April 16 and 17, 1947. More than 500 persons were dead or missing after the tragedy. Survivors are suing the government.

The witness, Mucio Ramos, was a warehouse checker at Texas City. Ramos said he and his brother used the book. It disappeared, he said, from the U.S. Marine Hospital where his brother was being treated.

W. W. "Swede" Sandberg, president of the Texas City Terminal Railway, testified that considerable trouble was met in handling bags of explosive ammonium nitrate fertilizer which were loaded from the Texas City docks.

He testified later that attempts to drag the burning S.S. High Flyer into open water failed because "the ship was apparently stuck on something."

Judge Kennerly said he intends to keep the trial here through June 17.

Liberty Ships May Store Grain

WASHINGTON —(AP)—The Agriculture Department has asked the Maritime Commission to let it use a few laid up Liberty ships for emergency storage of wheat.

The grain would be part of the stocks the government is taking over under its Farm Price Support program.

John E. Tripp, department grain branch official, said plans now call for storing 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 bushels in wartime merchant ships tied up in the Hudson River at New York.

Plane Said to Fly Faster Than 1,000

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) claims the armed services have planes that fly faster than 1,000 miles an hour.

He gave the report to the Senate Armed Services Committee which promptly approved a $31,000,000 program for construction of wind tunnels to test high speed planes and guided missiles. Johnson's statements were based on testimony received from scientists and military leaders during hearings on the legislation before a subcommittee which he heads.

Teacher Gets State Check After Strike

ATLANTA —(AP)— A tired but plucky little teacher, still composed after a 53-hour sitdown strike, collected her $66.78 from the state—but she had to quit her job to get it.

Dr. Willie Melmoth Bomar, the teacher, and the state's teacher retirement system, her opponent, both claimed victory.

"I won," declared the 54-year-old Columbia University doctor of philosophy. She tucked the check in her pocketbook Wednesday and strode out of the office of J. L. Yaden, director of the retirement system.

"I won," sighed Yaden, who had borne the brunt of Dr. Bomar's strike tactics. "I followed the law."

The dark-haired spinster, author of four books and holder of three degrees, said she needed the money for medical treatment of cancer. She left immediately for Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn.

Dr. Bomar began her sitdown strike Monday morning. She spent two nights in the dark, lonely office building, locked in the women's restroom.

She demanded a refund of her $848 monthly contributions to the teacher retirement fund. She taught some Economics at Glenwood, Ga., this year. Her salary was $193.50 a month.

"They took it out of my puny little salary without consulting me. Now they want me to wait until I'm dead with old age to collect it. Well, I've got cancer. I need the money for treatment—and cancer won't wait."

Three days and two nights of negotiations with harassed officials brought a solution. The state said all along it couldn't legally refund the money until Dr. Bomar resigned as teacher. Wednesday she resigned—"under coercion," she said—and the state paid off.

ISLAND OF ESCAPE

By Hugh Lawrence Nelson

THE STORY: Four new arrivals on Spence Island have complicated Henry George Harding's attempt to establish a colony free from the influences of the outside world. Hereafter, Harding had been putting four lonely women, selected through a matrimonial club, to tests to determine who would become his bride. Now Fred Sillwell, a movie producer; George Bascombe, his aide; Nellie Stark and Nona McGuire, actresses, have been shipwrecked here. Harding has just informed the new arrivals that they are expected to follow "Spence Island rules of conduct."

LILLY WARREN complained, "We would get a bunch of company when it's my turn to do the housework and cooking! Anyway I'm glad the two men got settled in that shed near the barn. And say, Bea, did you notice how grumpy Fred Sillwell is?"

"How could anyone miss it?"

"He's not used to going without liquor. That's all his him."

"It might be one thing all him," Bea corrected.

"He's not always like that. He can be gay and jolly as the next one. But he needs whiskey."

"You knew him in Los Angeles?"

"I knew of him," Lilly admitted wearily. "I know he has the reputation of being a good spender. As a matter of fact I may have been in the same night club where he was throwing a party—back in the days when I used to step out."

"You knew Nona McGuire, too?"

"That one? No. I never knew her."

"All right. What are you leading up to?"

"I'm just trying to figure out a way to make things more pleasant. Maybe it won't be long before Henry gets the radio fixed, but I don't see why things shouldn't be as pleasant as possible meanwhile. And you're in charge of supplies this week."

"I get it. You want me to steal some whiskey?"

"Why not? You can do it without anybody noticing. I'll see he gets it and he doesn't even have to know you had anything to do with it."

"Harding would miss it eventually. Besides I don't even know where it's stored."

"I do," Lilly said. "And you could take a bottle or so out of a bottom case. It wouldn't be missed for a long time so nobody'd know you took it."

"So that's what you and Nona McGuire were talking about this morning?"

"You don't miss much," Lilly grumbled. "But it's the truth. She was telling me how irritable Fred gets."

"I'd like to help you out, Lilly," Bea said. "But why should I stick my neck out for Sillwell?"

Mrs. Warren eyed her speculatively. "It could mean something—but never mind. I can handle it myself. At least I suppose I can count on you not to blab?"

"That's something a school-teacher learns early in life," Miss Cosgrove said.

At dinner that evening Sillwell's glumness was replaced by a vivacity which told of both accomplishment and not too strict rationing. Bea Cosgrove was not positive it was an improvement.

THE third morning after the wreck of the Gullwing, Bea and George Bascombe walked along the trail to Fisher's Beach. George stumbled over a rock. "As if it wasn't bad enough, being stuck on this dirtpile with a bunch of freaks, but to lose all my glasses!"

"Thanks," Bea said.

"Present company always excluded," he grumbled. "But when you think of the six spare pair of spectacles I had, you'd think I might have put one spare in my pocket!"

"You're lucky to be alive," she pointed out.

George Bascombe snorted. "Just after I got out of the water, fell the solid beach sand, I'd have agreed with you. Now I'm fed, rested and fairly comfortable. I can entertain doubts. Have you ever considered the life of a parasite?"

"Are you talking about your past or present life?" Bea asked. "Now be careful. We're coming to the steep part of the trail."

The steep part! My toes are already pushed through the front end of these borrowed shoes. Let's stop here. The others salvaged all the loose wreckage from the Gullwing yesterday. And no glasses!

"Harding thought that little blow last night might have broken up your boat."

"I suppose that guy never makes mistakes?" Bascombe asked.

"Yes," Bea Cosgrove said. "You put some feeling into that word."

WATCH where you're going!"

Bea snapped. "Now, down this way—and there's the beach." A moment later she added, "And for your edification, it is now covered with wreckage."

"All right. You win! He wins! You're both wonderful and clever. Now if you'll just find a green case!"

George Bascombe walked slowly up and down the beach, in and out of the timbers and boxes, bent over so his eyes were within a few feet of the ground.

But Bea found a small green case, opened it, took out an unbroken pair of thick-lensed glasses and handed them to him. "Try those on for size."

He took them eagerly, slipped them on. He snatched them off, polished them on the tail of his shirt and gave a great sigh of relief as the nose piece fit into the deep groove on the cartilage of his nose.

"My savior! He kissed her. 'I'm a new man!'"

Bea laughed. "The old one was quieter."

George stepped back a pace and stared at her. "My wonder girl! And a beauty! You're beautiful when you laugh. You're not a bit like I imagined. And they told me you were a schoolteacher!"

"I don't think I'd like to be something you imagined," Miss Cosgrove said. "Shall we get to work and see what we can salvage?"

ENGLISH GIRL SAYS AMERICA 'WONDERFUL'

SPENNYMOOR, England—(AP)—America is a wonderful country. Here is Ada Fishburn's hands-across-the-sea on that.

And Ada says anybody who tells you she ever said otherwise is talking through his hat.

Ada, who is 24, works in a lamp factory here.

Starting in earnest she traced jobs for a month with Mary Uglanitz, who works in a factory run by the same firm at Bayonne, N. J.

When Ada came home, still thrilled from the great adventure, she and Mary were guests at a London reception on April 11. There were British reporters. They asked Ada what she thought of America and Americans.

Ada says she told them both the country and its people scored high marks with her:

"I told the press it was very hard leaving all my friends in the U. S. A., because they'd treated me like a queen," says Ada.

"I said I'd never been homesick, and that I was quite at home wherever I went, and that I just loved the shorter hours at the Bayonne factory."

"I said there was no class distinction in the factory where I worked."

"I told them that the Americans hadn't spoiled me and that I would have to get used to working the longer hours again at my firm and to standing an hour in the queue to go to the movies in Spenny Moor."

"I told them I had been given a new hair-do—The American New Look!—and while the change seemed strange at first, I just loved it."

Ada says she was astonished and hurt to find that her remarks were interpreted in a story carried by the Associated Press to mean that she could hardly wait to get home and that her hair-do nearly made her cry.

"Briefly," Ada said, "my true impression of America is that it is a very wonderful country where I made lasting friendships, where everyone was kind to me, most generous above all, and sincere."

Police Hold Youth

James C. Harvey, 39, of 220 E. 1st, was being held yesterday by City Police in connection with the theft of money and checks from the cash register of The Pampa News.

The theft was committed shortly before 7 p. m. Thursday when $100.54 in checks, $24 in bills and $12.84 in silver were taken from the register's drawer. The machine was unlocked and did not seem prying to get into it.

The theft was discovered by Horace McBea, The News' chief accountant, Friday morning.

Chief of Police Louise Allen broke the case by Friday afternoon, and apprehended Harvey in The News' building at 5:30 the same day.

Harvey, an employee of The News, admitted to Allen that he had taken the money from the register and then led police to where he had it hidden in his house. Most of the money, and all of the checks were recovered. The checks were crumpled up and hidden between a board and the wall of the Harvey home. The money was in a jar, hidden in the garage.

The case was turned over to District Attorney Tom Braly Saturday for further disposition.

Chandler said Reid originally planned to make the trip by train but that he and his wife later decided to drive to Austin for the weekend.

Labor Law to Provide Lots Of Reading

By JAMES MARLOW
 WASHINGTON—(P)—If you're interested in labor, you'd better polish your eyeglasses and get ready for an awful lot of heavy reading.

The Senate, at last, will tackle tomorrow the job of trying to write a new labor law.

And once that starts there'll be a flood of words out of Washington on the Senate arguments, which may take weeks.

Since there can be no new labor law at all unless both houses approve a bill, once the Senate finishes, it will be the turn of the House.

That will take more time, maybe a week or 10 days. And that will mean another torrent of news.

On the eve of the big arguments I don't think there's a man alive who can predict the outcome precisely.

One thing seems sure: neither President Truman nor organized labor will get from Congress the kind of new labor law they wanted.

Both wanted Congress to wipe out the Taft-Hartley law, which Congress passed in 1947 when the Republicans were in control.

And in its place they wanted Congress to restore the old Wagner Act, with just a few minor changes.

The Wagner Act, passed in 1935 when the Democrats were in control of Congress, put restrictions on management but none on labor. (The T-H Act replaced the Wagner Act, put some restrictions on management and put more restrictions on labor than ever before.)

In fact Mr. Truman had promised now that his Democrats controlled Congress that T-H would be wiped out and the Wagner Act brought back.

It didn't work out that way and it doesn't look as if it has a chance of working out that way.

A number of Mr. Truman's own Democrats won't go along with his thinking on what the new labor law should be. And most of the Republicans are against his ideas, too.

So the Trumanites will have the job of trying to get the best deal they can out of whatever happens in the Senate and House.

But there is so much divided thinking, among Republicans and Democrats alike, that the new law may be written on the floor through amendments offered while the argument is going on.

BIG FOUR

"The foreign ministers, with Secretary of State Dean Acheson in the chair, continued in closed session today the discussion of the proposals of the United States and the U.S.S.R. relative to Berlin. The next meeting will be June 6 (Monday)."

Experienced observers interpreted the plan for the Monday meeting in itself as meaning some progress.

A French spokesman said the meeting was "less satisfactory" than Friday. He said, "We discussed for a longer time today what we discussed yesterday."

This meant it was concerned with the voting procedure and powers of a revived allied Kommandatura, or governing body.

Acheson has proposed a limitation of the veto in the Kommandatura and has favored shedding a large share of routine administrative responsibility upon a German city government.

Western informants said the "area of agreement" between Russia and the West consisted of this: Both sides accept the broad principles that the Kommandatura should be revived and that new city-wide elections should be held to choose an all-Berlin government.

Acheson, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Schuman were also reported exploring a hint dropped by Vishinsky a few days ago that he would consider giving more power to such a government.

There were signs of activity—without definite signs of progress—on another front of negotiation, the treaty for Austria.

The deputy foreign ministers who have been handling this question submitted their findings to their ministers yesterday.

DALLAS TRIPLETS

DALLAS—(P)—Mr. and Mrs. John L. Lancione named their triplet daughters: Sharlene, Mariene and Darlene.

The triplets, born prematurely Thursday at Methodist Hospital, were doing well in their incubators. The mother was doing well, too.

GOP

Taft, it is known, regards the compromise as less of a vote-getter than the one defeated in the House a month ago, despite the fact it had the backing of Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.).

The Taft substitute would keep 22 of what he calls the "best features" of the Taft-Hartley Law. The proposed amendments to the administration bill would retain only four of the 22 provisions in Taft's list.

Backers of the program Douglas is for are known to believe they probably will lose votes of about 12 to 14 of the Senate's 54 Democrats. That means they will have to pick up 6 to 8 Republicans to put their bill across.

With three Republicans co-sponsoring the amendments, from 3 to 5 GOP converts still are needed, the Democrats figure.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, served notice that "labor will never be satisfied with anything else" except outright repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act. He said this Congress "has a clear mandate from the people" for such action.

Green, writing in the AFL Political League's new publication, The League Reporter, said "we expect action—now."

"If we don't get action within a reasonable time," he added, "we will call upon every working man and woman in America to go to the polls in 1950 to defeat those members of Congress who failed to respond to the will of the American people."

ANNIVERSARY SPEECHES

WASHINGTON—(P)—President Truman and Gen. George C. Marshall will speak here tonight on the second anniversary of Marshall's speech at Harvard which led to the economic recovery plan for Western Europe.

LICENSE EATEN

VANCOUVER, B. C.—(P)—Mrs. Constance McLeod told a court her husband tore a piece out of the middle of their marriage license and ate it. Then he "threatened to make me eat the rest of it."

She got a divorce.

THE DRILLER'S LOG
 By BUD ANDERSON

The "intent" has been filed, and the Pampa Daily News No. 1 Anderson is spudding. In newspaper parlance, we might say this is Volume 1, No. 1, or this is the first in a column, being written by Bud Anderson. As far as I am concerned it will be a long time before the "completion" is filed.

At any rate, this is the beginning for me, I suppose that the hardest part of any project is the beginning. There is much territory to cover and an unlimited amount to learn. It's just plain hard.

I have always heard the best way to learn is to ask questions, so when I first hit the town about two weeks ago, that's what I started doing and I'll say right here that it has been one of the most pleasant two weeks I have spent anywhere, anytime. Mostly because of the men—yes, and the women—I have met and asked questions of. None could want better cooperation.

There's Fred Neslage of the West Texas Represing Assocation. He has given me the basic on gas injection, plus quite a bit on the oil industry around Pampa in general. This was in addition to all the dope I received from Martin Ludeman in the same office and their able secretary, Jean Anderson. Then there's Doc Schwartz. I met Doc last Thursday and, believe me, he is going to make a good teacher.

Also on my rounds Thursday I met and talked to Dan Gribson over at the Texas Company, and I really believe him when he tells me he wants to help. I had already met H. P. Dover over there and also S. R. Lenning and had rather lengthy and enlightening talks with both of them. They were a real help.

I don't want to forget the men over at the Railroad Commission. One of the first oil men I met in this town was Jim McClintock. You might say that he got me started on my rounds. He's one that I'm going to make a point

J. M. Huber Files Ochiltree Intent

Anadarko is becoming more densely populated as the J. M. Huber Corp., of Borger, filed an intent to drill in Ochiltree County, six and one-half miles south of Farnsworth. This makes a total of eight deep wells in this area.

The Huber well will be the Pazourek No. 1 and is located 1988 feet from south and 1980 feet from east lines Section 8 Blkck J. T. This is five miles southeast of Waca.

According to Huber officials contacted in Borger, the Pazourek No. 1 will spud June 15 or 16. Approximately 10,000 acres have been assembled by the corporation since last November. There will be room for about 300 wells in the Huber block if production is made, according to R. C. Allen, who helped assemble the Huber holdings.

There were four "intents" filed for Gray County, two for Hutchinson County, two also for Potter County, and one piece for Carson, Ochiltree, Hansford, and Sherman Counties.

'Oil Industry Drowning,' Warren Cautions; Imports, Production Must Be Curtailed

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is an article by Guy I. Warren, president of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association, discussing the problem of petroleum imports and their effect from the viewpoint of the independent operator and owner of royalty in Texas.

A bitter battle for world oil markets is shaping up. Once again world production capacity exceeds world demand. The question is, with no limit on production abroad, is there any way to prevent the petroleum industry from being drowned in its own oil?

Due largely to the artificial stimulus of millions of ECA gift dollars, oil production abroad has been built up to a point that is capable of providing a great deal more oil than normal consumption conditions warrant. Immediate postwar demands, born of war shortages, were so great that, until now, no rate of production was too high. Now that the gap is almost filled, production must begin to level off.

Through their conservation agencies, the states already are prepared to cope with overproduction on a state level. In the interest of waste prevention, state conservation laws prohibit the production of oil in excess of demand. However, no way exists for preventing excessive foreign oil from being imported into America and flooding the market.

As a consequence, domestic oil producers already are finding themselves in the position of having to fight to retain the right to supply this nation's oil needs. And so far they haven't fared so well.

Imports from foreign companies, American-owned, continue to run at the all-time peak level of well over a half million barrels daily. Meanwhile, state conservation agencies have been forced to make drastic cutbacks in domestic production, with Texas alone suffering a reduction in allowances of 800,000 barrels per day.

SORE SPOT
 Particularly in the Middle East, production is growing by leaps and bounds. Prior to 1948, movements from this area were a negligible factor in the world supply. In 1948, however, oil produced there accounted for 37 percent of the total imports to America, and were nearly 30 percent of all imports by the end of the year, or 133,500 barrels daily.

The potentialities of this area are yet unrealized, but it is agreed generally that there exists in the Middle East enough oil to supply a large part of world demand. Unless the rate at which this region is being developed is made to conform to demand conditions, there will result a world oil surplus great enough to destroy the American oil industry. This would leave the world dependent very largely upon a single source for war's number one essential commodity—a condition that does not cheer those who concern themselves with this nation's security.

INDUSTRY AFPECTED
 When production without regard for demand exists anywhere in the world, it poses a threat to industry everywhere. Through our ECA dollars, we are encouraging the development abroad of a production capacity that will surely exceed demand in normal times. When the excess supply is built up, its producers will cease even to pay lip service to the principle of letting foreign produced oil supply foreign markets and domestic oil supply domestic markets. They will fight for any market that exists, without regard for the importance to America of maintaining a healthy home industry.

If American producers lose the United States market, or a sizable part of it, exploration and development of reserves in this country gradually would come to a halt. This could lead only to the situation that has developed in England (See OIL, Page 29)

Oil Average Drops; Texas Is Unchanged

NEW YORK — (AP) — Daily average crude oil production declined 6,900 barrels in the week ended May 28, the American Petroleum Institute reported today.

At 4,897,000 barrels, daily production compared with 5,451,650 a year ago.

There were no changes in any district in Texas oil production. District 10, the Texas Panhandle, followed the rest of the state and also remained unchanged at 88,750. The industry was estimated to have operated at 83.5 percent of potential in running to stills 5,297,000 barrels of crude daily. Daily average the previous week was 5,307,000 barrels, indicating operations at 83.7 per cent of capacity. Runs were 5,715,000 barrels a day a year ago.

Total heavy fuel oil output was 8,144,000 barrels, against 8,354,000 the previous week and 9,500, barrels a year ago. Light fuel production was estimated at 5,943,000 barrels, compared with 6,177,000 the previous week and 7,084,000 barrels a year ago.

Total gasoline production was estimated at 18,324,000 barrels against 18,230,000 the previous week.

The institute announced revision of its figures on inventories of gasoline, light fuel oil, and heavy fuel oils for the period April through May 21.

Gasoline stocks for the week ended May 28 declined 138,000 barrels from the previous week revised total to 120,661,000 barrels. Light fuel oil stocks climbed 1,620,000 barrels to 55,971,000 and heavy fuel oil inventories were up 284,000 barrels to 63,788,000 barrels.

Weekly Oil
1949 Oil Statements Slow; Standard Down 30 Percent
 By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON, — (AP) —Oil company financial statements this year probably will not be as healthy as those which impressed most 1948 stockholders.

Current stockholders, in many cases, are being advised company incomes can be expected to tumble unless market conditions suddenly improve.

Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) raised its warning this week. The company's annual stockholders meeting was advised company earnings the first half of 1949 probably will be 30 percent lower than the same period last year.

Chairman of the Board F. W. Abrams gave these reasons:

1. Supply and demand again are coming into balance, with resulting increased competition and downward adjustments in products price.
2. Reduced demand for products has necessitated curtailed production and refining operations.

Abrams predicted production and refining operations will climb later in the year but he added that curtailment of capital expenditures now is being emphasized.

Examination of American Petroleum Institute reports for the weeks ending May 28, 1949, and May 29, 1948, bear out Abrams' explanation of anticipated income declines.

The comparison shows two definite trends:

1. All 1949 production and refining operations, with the exception of gasoline production, are well below 1948.
2. Refined products stocks far exceed those of a year ago.

Domestic refiners' API reports, on May 28 were operating at 83.5 percent of capacity. A year earlier the figure was 97.9 percent.

Many oil men, particularly the independents, say these figures are reflecting downward trends in production and operations result primarily from increased foreign crude oil imports.

The chairman of the national petroleum council this week called upon the industry to accept with good faith the Commission's unanimously approved imports policy — foreign oil should be used only to supplement domestic production.

Walter S. Hallanan, president of Plymouth Oil Company, said imports in recent months have been beyond this point.

The result, Hallanan said, has been curtailed drilling and exploratory work, seriously impaired revenues of many states and communities, and many small independent producers and refiners being forced out of business.

The Independent Petroleum Association of America, in a recent report, says imports continue to climb.

Russell B. Brown, IPAA general counsel, places imports for the four weeks ending May 21 at a daily average of 434,000 barrels, compared to 417,000 the preceding four weeks.

First quarter crude imports were totaled this week by the U. S. Bureau of Mines at 51,417,000 barrels, an increase of 11,860,000 barrels or 46.5 percent over the 1948 period.

Hallanan says such imports in reality have supplanted domestic production and forced crippling cutbacks in output.

The comparison of the weekly API reports shows that nine states were producing more crude on last week than a year ago. Fourteen were producing less oil.

Wheeler Club Officers Named

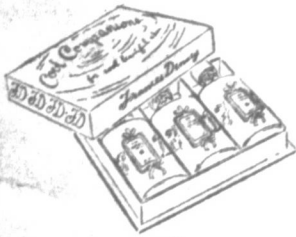

WHEELER — (Special) — Mrs. Lowell Pendleton was installed as president of the Thursday Review Club at a formal dinner in the High School Cafeteria Thursday evening. Mrs. R. J. Holt, Jr., gave the welcoming address and presented each incoming officer with a flower as symbol of her duties. Other officers were: vice president, Mrs. Ray Ford; secretary, Mrs. Carroll Pettit; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. A. Goad, Jr.; reporter, Miss Vondel Starkley; and parliamentarian, Mrs. Karl Barnes. Mrs. Holt also introduced two guests, the Misses Genevieve Morton and Ruth Merrill. The Good Neighbors Home Demonstration Club of Briscoe held its regular meeting Thursday. Mrs. Emma Hastings gave a demonstration on "Adjusting Patterns to Fit the Individual." After the meeting, the hostess, Mrs. Milton Farnsworth, served refreshments to the six members and three guests attending. Now is the time when happy-go-lucky people go out on the golf course and drive themselves mad.

Hail Damages Wheeler Orchards

WHEELER — (Special) — According to prominent orchardists, Thursday's heavy hail did not damage fruit crops too badly. M. L. Clark, who has a 65-acre orchard east of town, said his grapes were pretty badly damaged, as the twigs broken by the hail caused the vines to bleed. He said he will have plenty of early and late peaches, however, even though some of them may be a little speckled by the hailstones. Lee Black, whose orchard north of town is noted for its peaches and apples, said a lot of fruit was knocked off the trees, but that he will still have a successful crop this year. including apricots. Apricots are hard to raise around Wheeler because late freezes usually kill the crop. Wheat men in the county have not been so fortunate, however; many fields near Wheeler will be an almost total loss after the excessive rain and hail of the past few weeks. The 25 minutes it takes to cover a roll call of the U. S. House of Representatives is cut sharply when there's a double-header in town.

Fireman 'Illegally Suspended' by City

DALLAS — (AP) — Overruling a Grayson County district court, the Fifth Court of Civil Appeals ordered the city of Sherman to reinstate a fireman to city service. The appeals court directed the defendant to pay the plaintiff, Jimmie Arnold, a salary retroactive to Aug. 25, date of his suspension by the city. The court found that Arnold had been "illegally suspended" and that the suspension had not been upheld by a Civil Service Commission at a hearing Sept. 17. In a district court suit the city of Sherman had been upheld.

SHAKEDOWN VICTIM—Donald Philbrick, eight-year-old youngster, tells Cleveland detectives about the shakedown racket the "big" boys practice in his school room.

Junior Helps Police Crack Junior Shakedown in School

CLEVELAND — (NEA) — When you're just an eight-year-old boy and a couple of toughs in your class at school demand protection money, it scares you a little. From the movies, you know this is a "shakedown." Only, this isn't like the movies at all. This is the sort of thing that supposedly happens only to grown-ups, and you don't know how to handle it.

You don't like to tell your dad that these kids are bigger, stronger than you. You don't want to give away that nickel a day. You don't want to get beat up for not paying it.

So you stay away from school. That's how it was with Donald Philbrick, eight, a student in the third grade at St. Clair School, Cleveland.

But things look a lot brighter now. That's because Donald is helping police break up a juvenile "shakedown" racket at his school, a situation that began with the visit of two juvenile bureau policemen to Donald's home.

Their visit came after Donald balked at attending classes, and after a truant officer talked with the boy's father.

The truant officer thought Donald might be a victim of a "protection" plot, which flared recently at the school. The father had a man-to-man talk with Donald, and the lad's story came tumbling out:

"There are these two bigger boys in my room. When teacher leaves the room for a minute they come over and say I better give them a nickel or they'll beat me up."

It first happened on a Monday, the boy told his dad. He bought another five cents' worth of protection two days later, gave up a nickel Thursday, had no more money to pay on Friday. The two boys, he told his dad, promised him a beating on the following Monday if he didn't pay his way out of it. So he didn't go to school.

His father, who has some strong feeling about juveniles in the shakedown racket, didn't compel his son to go to school. Instead, he called police, and Donald repeated his story to the Juvenile Bureau. He promised gladly to help break up the racket.

"We get a lot of these reports of the protection racket in schools," said Capt. Arthur Roth, head of the bureau. "It comes in spells, though. It's cropping up again, now that school is almost out. What causes it? The movies would be my guess."

Eight Percent of Auto Deaths Are People at Work

NEW YORK — On-the-job motor vehicle accidents claim the lives of about 2,800 men yearly, the statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company report.

These occupational fatalities make up 8 percent of all motor vehicle deaths, and about 15 percent of all fatal accidents on the job, the statisticians point out.

A study of industrial life insurance death claim records for the past three years shows that three-fifths of those killed in occupational motor vehicle accidents were driving at the time, another fifth were riding in the vehicle, and an almost equal proportion were non-riders. Of the 363 deaths in the study, 267 were from truck accidents, 38 from passenger car, and 15 from taxicab accidents.

Eleven of those killed were professional automobile racing drivers, most of them in midwest racers, and six were firemen on their way to or returning from fires.

The most common types of accidents causing death among drivers were vehicles turning over when the driver lost control and collisions with other motor vehicles. Many drivers also were killed in collisions of their vehicles with railroad trains, or such fixed objects as trees, pillars, bridge abutments, and fences. Falls from moving trucks of men riding in the body of the truck and accidents in which men at work on the roadway were run down also took relatively heavy tolls.

"The situation points to the need for a broadening of present street and highway safety programs," the statisticians advise. "Much remains to be done to protect workers exposed to the automobile hazard. Increased efforts are called for, especially among employers operating only small fleets of vehicles."

DRESSED FOR D-DAY—Dressed in her American flag dress which she wears every June 6, to celebrate D-Day, Danielle Patrix, 10, sits before the paratrooper mural in her father's bar in St. Marie-du-Mont in Normandy. Danielle's father, Paul, had the mural painted in tribute to the GI's who liberated the French town on D-Day in 1944 and appropriately re-named his establishment "Bar of June 6th."

Symptoms of Cancer Not Well Known

HOUSTON — Although Texas rate cancer as one of the most dangerous diseases they know, more than half of them do not know any cancer symptoms. J. Louis Neff, executive director of the Texas Division of the American Cancer Society, said here in discussing the 1949 educational and membership drive of the society.

"Not only is the public to a large extent uninformed concerning cancer danger signals, but three out of 10 people of the general American population give incorrect or misleading symptoms," Neff added.

"This is a dangerous situation and one which makes the American Cancer Society's fight to control cancer in Texas much more difficult. We have found that those who most frequently give wrong symptoms for the disease heard those incorrect symptoms from equally uninformed persons. These Texans are playing directly into the hands of cancer quacks and are often delaying cancer treatment until it is too late for recovery."

The executive director pointed out that Texans can learn accurate information from their family doctor, from cancer information centers now being set up about the state by county units of the American Cancer Society, and by news stories such as this, published by local newspapers in the interest of public health.

Neff listed the following as the only true and accurate early symptoms of cancer:

- (1) Any sore that does not heal, particularly about the tongue, mouth or lip.
- (2) A painless lump or thickening, especially on the breast, lip or tongue.
- (3) Irregular bleeding or discharge from any body opening.
- (4) A wart, mole, or birthmark that suddenly starts to grow or change color.
- (5) Persistent indigestion suddenly appearing in middle life.
- (6) Any change in the normal bowel habit, if persistent.
- (7) Persistent hoarseness, unexplained cough, or difficulty in swallowing.

Shamrock Plans Blood Bank Unit

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Plans are underway to locate a blood bank in Shamrock. It would serve the entire state-line area and making it a reality will require almost the cooperation of all residents of this area.

Bob Douglas, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said this week that the blood bank unit will be furnished by the Red Cross and the American Medical Association if local residents will have their blood typed and pledge their cooperation.

Only Four Poisonous Snakes Live in Texas

AUSTIN — Don't kill that snake; it may be a friend of yours, warns university of Texas Zoologist W. Frank Blair.

An authority on Texas wildlife, Dr. Blair says there are only four poisonous snakes among the many that live in the state, but most people kill every snake they see regardless of its species. He points out that the coral rattlesnake, water moccasin and copperhead are the four poisonous types, but for everyone of them, there are 10 non-poisonous snakes that help mankind by eating harmful insects.

Pampa News, Sunday, June 5, 1949

His advice is: learn to recognize the poisonous types and kill them, but let the others Class.

Sirger, More Complete Tool Chest Is Prize

The Gulf Oil Company again this year will award a tool chest for the best-constructed car in the All-American Soap Box Derby. D. Harvey, acting superintendent of the Production Department, Tampa headquarters, says the prize this year is a new, type cabinet chest, manufactured by Shell. The chest is a special design, for use as a tool chest for the races in over 100 cities in United States. Derby is sponsored here by the Pampa Daily News, the Lions Club, and Culbertson Chevrolet in cooperation with the Gulf Division of General Motors. The tool chest contains a complete set of knives, blades, wrenches, punches, routers and other specially designed hobby tools. It is ideal for scale modeling and wood finishing and many types of work with plastic, and paper. The chest is larger and more completely equipped than the simple one offered by the company last year. Local sponsors, Shell will furnish service lifts, lubricants and attendants for the 24 event on the Old Miami way north of the city four miles.

DRILLERS LOG

(Continued From Page 17) doing it wrong. And by the way, don't forget that we have telephones in the News office, and you can get hold of me six days a week at 696.

The deep wells are moving steadily down this week. Gulf-Porter has reached and passed, by now, 12,832 feet. This is by far the deepest of the Anadarko wells. Gulf-Harbaugh in Ochiltree County is at 5,736 feet and the Gulf-Collar in Hanford County is down and past 8,248 feet. Gulf-Gammerstetter, also in Hanford County, is approaching the 6,000-foot mark with the latest report set at 6,960 feet. Gulf-Stump in Ochiltree is at 6,540 feet. Gulf-Wamble is the only well showing no progress this week. Our reports say they are awaiting cement but they might be fishing. The well is still at 3,902 feet.

Honolulu-Ponder in Deaf Smith County is at 6,985 this week. Back up to the Anadarko, Sinclair-Lipps No. 2 has moved on down to 4,100 feet. The Humble No. 1 Roach, located in Donley County, is at 4,093. Here's a little more on the Bay-Parks in Cimarron County. This well is flowing at 108 barrels a day through a 1 1/2 inch choke. It was perforated at 4,791 feet and at 4,806 feet.

We're adding a new one to our list this week. Sarden Valley No. 1 McKeever in Childress County spotted May 1 and the latest reports show it is now drilling at 1,310 feet. The well is located 330 feet from S and W lines of Section 428, Block H, W & HN Survey.

According to the Canadian Record, rumor was running that Sinclair-Lipps No. 1 was shutting down. Officials of Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. (formerly Sinclair-Prairie) flatly deny the rumor. This well is flowing a steady barrels a day and casing pressure is higher. Reports are, however, that preparations are being made to re-acidize the well in an effort to increase production.

Interest seems to be increasing among oil companies in the Anadarko Basin. J. M. Huber Corp. announced a new location in Ochiltree County six and one half miles south of Farnsworth. The corporation has a 10,000 acre block under lease in the district. The new test will be the No. 1 Pazourek, located in Section 16, Block JT. According to Huber officials, drilling will begin about June 15 or 16.

I ran across an interesting observation this last week passed on to me by Dan Gribbon, The Texas Company's district superintendent. Ever since the Panhandle field was opened early in the 1920's, oil men have been searching for deeper oil pay. There have been hopes too, of finding deeper gas. Both, finally, have come through. They came in at just about the same time and not too far apart. The gas came in in the southeast corner of Sherman County while the deep oil, of course, was found in the extreme north part of Roberts County near the Ochiltree County line.

Speaking of Dan Gribbon, he and his wife took a trip to Houston and Austin this last week to attend the graduation ceremonies at the St. Edwards University High School. Their son, Bill, who was 18, June 1, was graduated from this school.

No new reports to speak of yet on the R. L. Glazner well four and one half miles northwest of Alanreed. We'll pick these up this week.

Kiwanis Club Hears Program on Safety

A talk and film on safety were the subjects of Friday's Kiwanis program at the First Methodist Church. Assistant Chief of Police J. O. Dumas told the Kiwanians that most traffic accidents are caused when people fail to think about driving. "It's easy to let the other fellow do the stopping," he said in respect to intersections.

Traffic laws are based on "good common sense," he explained, but all people at one time or another violate them.

Wesley Lewis, of Lewis Motor Co., projected a movie on safety. The program was introduced by L. N. Atchison.

Jack Nimmo said the Junior Chamber of Commerce, of which he is a member, is still collecting fishing tackle and equipment to donate to boys at Boy's Ranch. He said there are 114 boys there, but they have only one fishing rod and reel among them.

He said donations should be turned over to Frank Fata, Don Foster, or to him.

Methodist Men Plan Fried Chicken Supper

Storage Space Offered Wheat Farmers Is Still Not Enough

By The Associated Press
 Promises of storage space for Texas wheat have brought smiles instead of grins of relief to the faces of Panhandle farmers. They say it was mighty nice of the War Assets Administration to offer the Pantex ordnance plant and maybe the world's biggest dirigible hangar for storage—but there's just not enough space in either place to help a lot. Some grain men figure this year's crop will beat the record of 124,370,000 bushels set in 1947. The igloos and buildings of the sprawling Pantex plant will hold an estimated five million to seven million bushels. There was no estimate of the storage capacity of the dirigible hangar, located at Hitchcock, about 20 miles west of Galveston. It's a 500 by 1,000-foot building with a 187-foot ceiling. It would take a lot of wheat to fill it up. But grain men at Amarillo said Friday all the wheat you could jam into the Pantex plant and the hangar would hardly make a dent in the harvest. Grain elevators at Dallas and Fort Worth have stopped taking new orders for storage. And the Panhandle wheat harvest is still a week to 10 days off.

The harvest is 10 percent wound up in the North Texas counties of Wichita, Archer and Clay. It should end there June 15 to June 20, if the weather stays good. The harvest is 20 to 25 percent complete in Knox, Haskell, and Throckmorton counties. It is 20 to 25 percent finished in Baylor, Wilbarger and Foard. Only five percent of the grain in Young County has been combined. It's estimated the harvest there will end around June 20. Harvesting is underway at a few scattered points on the South Plains. The heavy work is expected to begin in about two weeks. Meanwhile, farmers already were dickering for space at the Pantex ordnance plant. WAA said the plant definitely meets the COC's standards. Perry Burrus Mills officials at Dallas stopped taking orders last night as nearly 100 trucks stretched out from the elevators. The drivers had headed for Dallas after getting the full-up sign from several Fort Worth terminals. Drivers said wheat trucks were 300 deep at Fort Worth yesterday. A rain in the Wichita Falls area Thursday night promises to slow up the harvest that has caused a deluge at grain elevators there. An official estimate at Amarillo showed 47.7 percent of storage facilities there are occupied by last year's crop. An Amarillo elevator man said very little wheat is being moved out to make room for the new harvest.

A&M Holds Two Services

COLLEGE STATION — (AP) — Twin baccalaureate services were held yesterday for the largest graduating class in Texas A&M College history. The 1,218 candidates for degrees plus hundreds of visiting parents, wives and friends were too much for the school's assembly hall to hold at one time. Graduates of the schools of arts and sciences and agriculture met in the assembly hall to hear a baccalaureate sermon by the Rev. Albert P. Shirkey of St. Paul's Methodist Church in Houston. Engineering and veterinary medicine students and candidates for Master's Degrees heard the Rev. Joseph J. Copeland, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., in Denton. Their service was in Guion Hall. At 1 p.m., Maj. Gen. Lewis Pick, chief of Army Engineers, presented reserve officers' commissions to 173 ROTC students. Maj. Gen. Robert W. Harper, commanding general of the Air Forces Training Command, Barksdale Field, La., presented commissions to 72 Air ROTC trainees.

LUNCH TIME — THE Shetland colt shown above takes time out from romping at 1345 S. Hobart for a short snack. J. E. Hayes, owner of the dam, Dolly, says this little girl is the smallest colt born in his 15 years of raising Shetlands. The colt weighed 14 1/2 pounds when this picture was taken. She was less than a day old. Shetland colts, says Hayes, usually weigh 35 pounds, sometimes 18 to 20, and are considered small at that. This one is about the height of an average man's knees. His mother weighs less than 200 pounds, is hip-high. A News reporter suggests Raindrop for the baby's name since she came during a month of much rainfall.

Britain May Be Heading for an Economic Decline

LONDON — (AP) — Is Britain heading for an economic decline? There were signs yesterday that she may be. These included:
 1. A tumbling stock market. The Financial Times industrial ordinary index had dropped from 121.3 at the beginning of the year to 108.7, which is only 2.5 above the postwar low reached in 1947.
 2. Sharp drops in government securities. Prices have moved downward every day since a week ago Thursday and the Financial Times index of government securities prices has fallen from 113.45 to 112.9.
 3. The purchasing power of the pound at home has tumbled to only about one-third of what it was in 1914, when a gold sovereign (then around 45) was a week's wages.
 4. Persistent — though always denied — rumors that the pound must be devalued in order to sell British goods in dollar markets.

THE CRISIS—While his motherless daughter, Cathy, prays and his protector, Captain Easy, sleeps, Gig Wilty faces the problem that haunts a most newly reformed alcoholic.

Les Turner's 'Wash Tubbs' Redeems A Drunkard, Unique Story Wins Praise

By ERNEST LYNN
 CLEVELAND — (NEA) — On the comic pages of some 600 daily newspapers all over the United States, including The Pampa News, a seemingly hopeless drunkard named Gig Wilty finally won his long fight to redeem himself, a fight that ended in his rehabilitation as a member of Alcoholics Anonymous.

This was the wind-up of one of the most unusual continuities in comic strip history. A brainchild of "Wash Tubbs" artist Leslie Turner, the Gig Wilty story prompted unprecedented letters of praise all the way from Waterville, Me., to San Diego, Calif.

Gig Wilty was no old-timer on the comic pages. He came to life in the "Wash Tubbs" sequence that began last January, and as this plight as a skidding drunkard began to unfold in The Pampa News, there was some apprehension among editors. For 25 years, the cartoon has been a top favorite among the comics issued by NEA Service, and while "Captain Easy" has overshadowed the title character in recent years, it has been mostly a comedy-adventure strip.

But the letters that began to roll in from readers soon dispelled any doubt over the place of such a story on pages normally reserved for high adventure, mystery and gags.

From Portland, Ore., a member of AA, wrote: "I know of at least five hopeless alcoholics you have saved through your comic strip in the Oregon Journal."

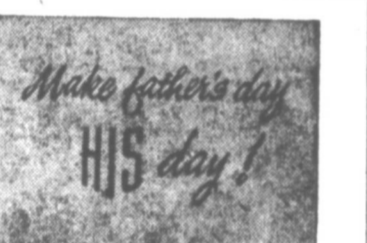

From New York, the Alcoholics Foundation reported numerous inquiries about the sequence as it appeared in the World-Telegram, and added: "We feel that it is far-reaching in its effects and has great possibilities."

An AA member in Canton, O., wrote: "Gig Wilty may go way beyond your original design for him as a comic strip character. His name may become synonymous with Alcoholics Anonymous and his experience may influence hundreds, if not thousands, of alcoholically sick people to take heed and heart and inspire them to seek their physical, mental, social and moral rehabilitation. You rightly deserve an Oscar for producing the most interesting and educational comic strip in the newspapers today."

A minister in Butte, Mont., wrote Turner that "I am going to pray right along that God will use your pictures to help a lot of men who need restored courage and a new lease on life."

The only woman member of AA in a small Oklahoma town ended her letter of praise to Turner with the question: Are YOU, too, a member?"

Cartoonist Turner is no AA himself, although he has met a number of people around his home in Orlando, Fla., who are. Last winter, as he listened to

Rites Held for Shamrock Youth

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Funeral services were conducted from the First Methodist Church here Thursday afternoon for David Charles Schlegel, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bennie A. Schlegel of southwest of Shamrock. David Charles died at 6:30 a. m. Wednesday in St. Anthony's Hospital, Oklahoma City, one day before he was to undergo his third operation for a brain tumor.

He had been ill since September, 1948, and had been in the hospital the past five weeks.

The Rev. R. L. Young, pastor of the Lutheran Church of Pampa, was in charge of the services. Pallbearers were: Dan Macina, James Kohls, Lyle Jahnik and Michael Mertel.

Surviving, in addition to the parents, are two brothers, Norbert Bennie, and Raymond Alvin, both of Shamrock; and three grand-children, Mr. and Mrs. A. Schlegel, Shamrock; H. J. Cobb, Norman, Texas; and one great-grandmother, Mrs. S. M. Cobb, Huntsville.

Caperton Named Civic Club Head

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Jim Caperton, pioneer resident of Shamrock, was elected president of the Shamrock Boosters Club at its meeting this week. He succeeds Glynn Bell.

Other officers elected were: Burl Golsen, first vice president; Ben Parks, second vice president; and Johnnie Mundy, secretary.

Boddy Risinger, treasurer.

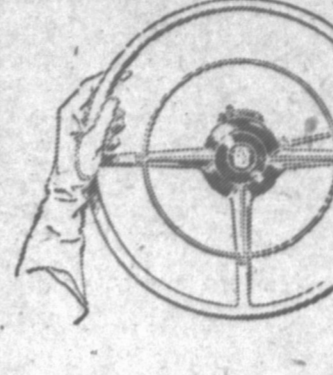

The new Boosters Club has been active in Shamrock and Wheeler County civic affairs for more than a quarter of a century. For a number of years, he served on the City Council, and was president of that group when the water system was installed. His hard work and leadership were instrumental in putting over that major project about 24 years ago.

Caperton was also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Shamrock Independent School District for a number of years and at present is a trustee of the First Methodist Church.
