Committee Raises Armed Forces Fund

WASHINGTON (AP)—Reflecting the world's jitters, the House Appropriations Committee yesterday raised the armed forces budget to a peacetime record $15,909,116,800.

The bill's accent was on aerial might. The Navy and Army trailed the Air Force in sharing the gigantic appropriation.

Rep. George Mahon of Colorado City, Tex., chairman of the subcommittee that conducted hearings on the defense budget, summed up his conclusions this way:

"There seems to be no road for us to follow except the road of anxiety and sacrifice.

"We have no other course open to us with so many ominous signs on the horizon of our world. We would be faithless to our trust if we failed to prepare for trouble and thereby seek to avoid it.

"If war comes soon, we are appropriating too little. If we have miscalculated the dangers, if the threat of war is just a deceptive mirage on the horizon, we are appropriating too much.

General Omar N. Bradley, Army chief of staff, gave some reassurance when he told the committee he does not expect war to break out within the year for which the appropriation is made.

And Air Secretary Symington said he doesn't think a "possible aggressor" will have the atomic bomb before 1952.

New cash in the bill amounts to $13,272,815,900, an increase of almost three billion dollars over what the services were given this year.

In addition there is $2,636,301,000 in new contract authority. Here's how the services fared in the big bill:

Army: $4,481,834,200 in cash, including 290 million dollars to liquidate previous contract authorization. The President asked a total of $5,138,352,000.

Navy: $5,018,873,600, including $3,584,327,600 cash, $643,546,000 in contract authority and 791 million dollars to liquidate previous contracts. The President requested a total of $6,018,302,000.

Air Force: $6,215,709,000 consisting of $3,347,954,000 cash, $1,992,755,000 in contract authority and 875 million dollars cash to liquidate previous contracts. The President wanted a total of $8,428,887,000.

The biggest increase over the President's figure was for the Air Force fund for buying planes and training men. The total boost for this purpose was 206 million dollars in cash and 642 million dollars in contract authority.

The new Air Force money is supposed to provide 58 full-strength air groups instead of the 48 contemplated by the President.

Crews Continue Desperate Attempts to Rescue Child

3-Year-Old Falls In Abandoned Well

SAN MARINO, Calif. (AP)—Desperate attempts to save three-year-old Kathy Fiscus from death far underground in an abandoned well slowed to a rate of about five feet an hour late Saturday.

Rotary drills and other digging equipment struck hard rock between 70 and 80 feet down and the going was tough for the working crew of 50 men.

But blonde little Kathy was down at least 94 feet and Raymond A. Hill, supervising the operations, declined to estimate when she could be reached.

There were no signs of life from the 14-inch pipe 24 hours after the child slipped into its weed-covered mouth in a vacant lot near her home.

Machinist O. A. Kelly, working feverishly in one of two rescue shafts sunk on either side of the well pipe, reported that he saw a motionless arm and a dress about 27 feet below him after cutting a "window" in the pipe at about the 57-foot level.

Kelly used mirrors to shine the sun's rays down the pipe.

Hope was still held out for the child by the Fiscus family physician and by the mother, Mrs. Alice Fiscus, who told reporters: "Our physician has been so hopeful that I feel Kathy cannot be anything but all right."

The child's father, David H. Fiscus, asked how he felt about the chances of finding Kathy alive, said: "Let's not discuss it please, please don't."

Tears came to his eyes as he waved the reporter away. The family spent most of the day in a sedan parked about 50 yards from the scene. They leafed through telegrams from friends and well-wishers as they prayed and hoped.

Engineers have driven two shafts parallel to the abandoned pipeline that imprisons little Kathy.

The first, started shortly after she fell into the abandoned water well, was abandoned a few hours later at 70 feet. It was three feet in diameter.

The second, 30 feet across at the mouth, was abandoned at 57 feet because of the danger of cave-ins and stability of the big clam shovels to operate efficiently beyond that point.

This was the shaft from which Kelly sighted the arm and dress. But officials deemed it too dangerous to dig deeper there. So rotary drilling was resumed in the original rescue shaft.

(It was disclosed last night that by a strange coincidence David H. Fiscus, father of 3-year-old Kathy who fell down an old water well in a vacant lot here, is a member of the rescue party.)

In fact he just returned from this mission to Sacramento, the state capital, Friday a few hours before Kathy fell down an old well in a vacant lot here.

(Fiscus is chairman of the Pollution Committee of the California Association, American Water Works Association. He is employed as manager of the San Gabriel Valley System of the California Water and Telephone Co.)

As digging neared the 100-foot mark in the narrower shaft, plans were made to lower a 24-inch corrugated pipe in five sections, each 20 feet long. The bottom section

Water Well Has Proved Predictions

The city's new water well south of town has vindicated the predictions of the city's consulting engineers.

The well, that went on a 24-hour test at midnight Thursday night, was accepted yesterday morning on the basis of a steadily maintained capacity of 732 gallons of pure water per minute with a 45-foot draw down.

The well at one time was delivering 70 gallons per minute, but the pump motor broke down and was not capable of pumping faster than 732 gallons after it was repaired.

The "draw down" was explained by one of the city's engineers who was supervising the test, as a ratio between the pump's capacity to draw water and the reservoir's capacity to replenish the well.

The static level of the water in the well bore is approximately 67 feet. If, through pumping, the level is brought below 50 feet—a 50-foot "draw down"—the pump begins sucking air. When it begins sucking air the pump is taking water out of the well faster than the reservoir can replenish it.

When the test was completed at midnight Friday, the well was being pumped at the rate of 732 gallons per minute with a 45-foot draw down that had remained at that level several hours within the maximum capacity of the well to produce.

Water from the new well, three miles south of town on the Clearwater highway, will now be sent to the State Board of Health at (See WATER, Page 14)

WEST IS CHARGED WITH AGGRESSIVE INTENTIONS

Andrei Gromyko

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko accused the Western Powers yesterday of developing Italy's former North African colonies as bases for aggression against the Soviet Union.

Gromyko told the U. N. Assembly's 58-nation Political Committee that Libya, on North Africa's Mediterranean coast, is "riddled with a network of Anglo-American air and naval bases."

Making his first major public speech since his appointment as Russia's chief deputy foreign minister, Gromyko indirectly attacked the recently signed North Atlantic Treaty.

"The United Kingdom, United States and France," he declared, "seek to keep their hold on the former Italian colonies at all costs with a view to using the territory for bases for aggressive plans which lately found expression in forming military blocs whose spear point is directed against the Soviet Union."

The thorny problem of disposing of the African empire that Mussolini lost in the war was referred to the Assembly after the United States, Britain, Russia and France failed to reach an agreement on the subject among themselves. The Italian peace treaty had given the Big Four a year to settle the matter.

The House turned swiftly yesterday toward the issue of providing Europe a second installment of Marshall Plan aid with approval strongly indicated.

Less than 24 hours after the Senate passed its $5,580,000,000 authorization bill by a smashing 70 to 7 vote, the House began debating its slightly different measure. It provides $5,380,000,000 for direct assistance, plus certain guarantees for American investors abroad.

From the very start, power behind the plan was evident, although Rep. Marcanonio (AL-NY) attacked it as "insanity."

High School Choir Wins Top Honors

Pampa High School's 82-member A Cappella Choir returned to the Interscholastic Music Contest at Canyon Friday with top honors.

Under the direction of Kenneth W. Baumgardner, the choir was awarded first division in the AA-1 conference.

Other participating choirs in the conference were Amarillo's A Cappella and Acolan choirs, and the A Cappella choirs of Lubbock and Borger.

The Senior Girls' Sextette, composed of Arvilla Patterson, Nanette Campbell, Johnnie Sue Hart, Barbara Blair, Betty Joyce Scott and June Ann Fahlte were awarded second division in the contest. Also, the High School Boys' Quartet, composed of Dag Thut, Dick Oden, Jack McPeak and Bob Brown received the same rating.

Meanwhile the 55 Junior High School students who took part in the vocal and orchestra competition festival phase of the contest were awarded second division rating Miss Eloise Lane, Junior High music instructor, directed the mixed chorus.

Besides Baumgardner and Miss Lane, other adults accompanying the students were: Jack Edmondson, Junior High principal; Mrs. Clifton McNeely, Kenneth Walters and Miss Eva Jo Reid.

SHAMROCK—Wm. C. McCreaw of Dallas, state commander of the American Legion, will dedicate the Shamrock Legion post's new home in a public ceremony at 11 a. m. today.

The dedication will highlight the concluding sessions of a two-day convention of the Legion's 18th District, headed by Charlie C. Gibson of Amarillo, district commander.

The new home of the DeShazo-George post, one-half mile south of Shamrock, on Highway 63, cost an estimated $65,000. The post was organized on Oct. 3, 1919.

Marshall Aid Is Debated By House

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House turned swiftly yesterday toward the issue of providing Europe a second installment of Marshall Plan aid with approval strongly indicated.

Patrol Nabs Youth With Liquor Load

A 16-year-old Gatesville Returnatory parolee fared better there yesterday after he was picked up Friday with a load of whiskey and beer in his car by State Highway Patrolmen from the McLean area.

He is Billy Fennell, 16, of Shamrock, sent to the boy's school last year from Childress County on a burglary conviction and was released at Christmas on parole after serving about one month.

Juvenile Officer H. A. Doggett said the boy was stopped by the patrolman on suspicion. When checked he had no driver's license and was found to be illegally transporting several cases of whiskey and beer. Fennell was turned over to Doggett by the patrolmen Friday night and held in the County Jail until Saturday morning when he was brought before County Attorney John Stuber for further questioning.

The youth told authorities that he was once with Bobby Craig, Amarillo hijacker and burglar who is also remembered by Pampa Police for shooting at Patrolman J. E. Manning when he stole a Pampa police car sometime ago.

Studer was told by Childress officials late Saturday morning to hold Fennell and they would come for him sometime this week.

Fire Destroys All but Motor

A grease and a car fire brought firemen out Friday and yesterday, Fire Chief Ernest Winborne said yesterday.

About 4 p. m. Friday firemen went to Jack Vaughn's Phillips 66 Service Station, 501 S. Cuyler, to extinguish a grease fire. Someone evidently had dropped a match near the grease rack, Winborne said. No damage was done.

Jack L. Bowers' 1938 Oldsmobile coupe was burned inside and out at 10:30 a. m. yesterday. After firemen arrived where the car was burning, about one-fourth mile east on Kingsmill, the car was destroyed except for the motor and front tires, which the firemen saved.

HELD IN SMALL BROTHER'S DEATH—John Packauski, 18, was taken into space from his jail cell at Ebersburg, Pa., where he was being held in connection with the stabbing death of his two-year-old brother. Cambria County Detective John Castel said Packauski signed a statement saying he stabbed the child to death "because he wouldn't quit crying." Castel said the youth would be charged with murder. BUILDING IGNORES BUSINESS RECESSION

By MAC ROY RASOR
AUSTIN — (AP) Texas business time construction apparently was ignoring the so-called business recession until — possibly — last week.
Builders last month hammered up one of their biggest months in the state's history and ended 1949's first quarter at an unprecedented peak.
The Texas Contractor, trade publication, reported $95,858,039 worth of jobs put under contract in March. It brought the quarter total to $254,246,039, highest in history.
Residential construction led all categories, both for the month and for the quarter. In March, it totaled $41,273,645. For the quarter it was $121,379,045.
Then came the first week of April. Building slipped to the lowest weekly figure of the year, $9,501,999, about half of last week's figure. Residential construction, at $4,561,850, was off about two million dollars from last week.
The Contractor's editor, Hanford Reed, said the dip wasn't necessarily significant. There have been weekly dips before — right in the middle of upward surges.
The week also brought a dip in Texas automobile insurance rates, but that decline resulted from safer driving more than economic factors. Owners will have to rough up about 15 to 25 percent less for premiums after May 1.
Meanwhile, University of Texas Bureau of Business Research still wasn't certain that the current business decline is a major one.
Dr. John R. Stockton, bureau statistician, noted that the overall business graph line has been declining since last August. February statistics which have just been completed, continued the trend.

Federal Aid to Public Schools Seen Necessary

FORT WORTH — (AP) — Even California, New York and other "rich" states will be unable to operate schools without federal assistance when U. S. classrooms are increased by an expected five to six million pupils in the next few years.
That warning was sounded here by Dr. Worth McClure of Washington, D. C., executive secretary of the American Association of School Administrators. He was here to attend a meeting of state, county and city school officials from 10 Midwestern and Southwestern states.

Pact Leaves Problem of Using Force

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
Having signed the 12-nation Atlantic defensive pact we immediately come up against the uncomfortable but unavoidable question of how it is to be implemented if there is aggression.
We have part of our answer in blunt Army Day addresses by high brass from our military establishment. With a unanimity which could only be inspired, they made it crystal clear that American troops must be stationed in Europe so long as the cold war lasts.

Does that shock you? Well, it shouldn't, though it certainly is a disturbing thought. There's no use building a handsome automobile body if you don't put an engine in it. An Atlantic Alliance without backing would be just so many senseless words which would have the hollow sound of hammering on an empty rain barrel.
Secretary of the Army Royal and other high military officials, warned that America can't afford to let European ground forces bear the brunt of any lightning attack on the Continent. The secretary said the Atlantic Pact nations are banking on an American army overseas, and also on U. S. equipment for their own fighting forces. (The supply of equipment is said to be one of Washington's immediate objectives.)

As a matter of fact, since we must maintain a big standing army anyway, there is no special hardship involved in having some of it stationed in Europe. Actually it would be a valuable peace-time assignment for our men educationally. And, of course, their presence would be calculated to lessen the chances of war.
The East and West may be able to solve some of their differences. As I reached this point in our column the following news dispatch was laid on my desk from Berlin:
High Russian officers came to an American Army Day reception for the first time since Berlin was divided in two. Such high Russian officials had not attended any such Allied gathering since they imposed the blockade on Berlin and walked out of the four-power councils.

Truman Requests Entertainment For Armed Forces

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman said that the communities must revive wartime entertainment and services for the nation's biggest and youngest peacetime armed force.
He declared that "individual civilians, as well as the military authorities, must face this obligation."
His statement was issued after he received a report on the problem from the President's Committee on Religion and Welfare in the Armed Forces.
The committee suggested calling a meeting in Washington to launch a nation-wide program of community services such as dances, sports, recreation and religious services.

By GRACIE ALLEN If there's one thing that always gets me mad, it's that government office that's always talking about prices. Now they're clapping their hands because they say some prices are flurrying downward.

There is $58,000,000 worth of U. S. Marshall Plan aid still unutilized. The Economic Cooperation Administration has asked Congress for authority to stretch this aid to June 30.

What the United States can do to relieve or save this situation is open to question. As secretary of state, General Marshall told Congress a year ago that further aid to China would be wasted.

For some reason or other, China has not been included in the so-called bipartisan foreign policy program. The principal reason Republicans have favored more aid to China is that the Democrats have been against it.

LOOKING AHEAD By GEORGE S. BENSON President, Planning College, Kemp, Arkansas

IS BIGNESS BAD? Many critics of our American system use big business as a special target for their attacks.

Big business is nothing but a natural dislike for bigness in business. It also shows their shrewdness in using the propaganda weapon to destroy our system.

Business that really well-meaning Americans are somewhat uninformed as to big business, they play on misconceptions to create hostility.

Business grows up, and eventually turn our entire economy into state socialism. The only way a company can get this approval is by giving the consumer his dollar's worth.

That alarming statement holds true even if the money is spent on our latest models of planes, tanks, anti-aircraft, machine guns, Garand rifles, bombs, bullets, mines, shoes, uniforms and other forms of equipment.

Another unfortunate fact, admitted by our military experts at private sessions of committees on Capitol Hill, is that hardly any of our postwar designs of these weapons are now in the stage of large-scale production.

LEFTOVERS — On the other hand, shipment of World War II leftovers of the kind with which we supplied Canada and South American countries under West-Hemispheric defense pacts, would not be too many for the proposed force.

MISSING — These are minimum figures for the army based on World War II prices, and present-day costs would probably be at least twenty percent higher.

ATTACK — Thus, although the first year's taken and psychological shipments may be drawn from surplus, real rearming must consist eventually of new and costly equipment that will run into figures ranging from fifteen to twenty billion dollars.

National Whirligig news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER WASHINGTON — The $1,500,000 worth of American equipment mentioned as the cost of the first year's reinforcement of our Western European allies under the North Atlantic Pact would build nothing more than a flimsy picket fence against the onslaught of Red armor and aerial squadrons, according to the official price sheets of the Army and Air Force.

That alarming statement holds true even if the money is spent on our latest models of planes, tanks, anti-aircraft, machine guns, Garand rifles, bombs, bullets, mines, shoes, uniforms and other forms of equipment.

Another unfortunate fact, admitted by our military experts at private sessions of committees on Capitol Hill, is that hardly any of our postwar designs of these weapons are now in the stage of large-scale production.

Lawyer Testifies To House Group

WASHINGTON — (P) — A Texas attorney says he told Southern Minerals Corporation it would risk "the burden of federal regulation" if it sold its field in the Richard King Field of Texas to Tennessee Gas Transmission Co.

The courts have ruled, Hayden W. Head told a House Interstate Commerce subcommittee, that a sale of gas by a producing company to a pipeline company carrying gas into other states makes the producing firm a "natural gas company" subject to regulation by the Federal Power Commission even though the companies are in no way affiliated.

Head is from Corpus Christi and Austin, Tex. Tennessee Gas and Transmission Co. owns and operates a pipeline from South Texas to Virginia. It buys natural gas in South Texas and transports it and sells it in other states to distributing companies, he said.

The subcommittee is hearing testimony on bills which would prohibit the Federal Power Commission from taking jurisdiction over local production and gathering of natural gas by independent companies.

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Note Book

By HAL BOYLE NEW YORK — (P) — The last thing I would want to be in this town is a pigeon.

This is because the last living thing in New York City will probably be a pigeon.

As a simple matter of survival, I don't see how people really can afford, much longer to meet the stress and strains of Manhattan life without planting a few feathers here and there east and west of their arm pits.

It is just that they need wings now to get around.

A broken electric circuit halts the subway. Sleet stops the buses. A labor dispute ties up the taxis.

How can New Yorkers go to business except by growing feathers and flapping their arms? After all, they lost the ability to walk long ago.

Anybody who can't grow feathers will just have to fall by the way. Sooner or later a man without feathers will be as rare here as a sparrow with fur.

And look for the money a man could save! What woman, when sprouting feathers was fashionable, would want to deck herself in outworn mink? None at all.

The big problem is that if people are forced to live like pigeons to survive, what can the pigeons do? Live like people?

Certainly no pigeon with a sense of dignity is going to stoop to competing with human beings. If humans grow feathers and fly, the pigeons are going to douse themselves with hair tonic and learn how to walk — people-toed, as the Broadway joke goes.

But pigeons are here to stay, though the concrete skyscrapers fall, and the steel bowers of Wall Street bend to earth. Pigeons are more sensible than people.

People make lack of housing. Pigeons never do. The more chaotic the human race becomes, the more war destroys its fine buildings, well — the more rubble crannies there are for a fastidious pigeon to lay her eggs in.

You can pay, bribe or annoy practically anybody into trying to muscle down anybody else. But there isn't enough popcorn in the world to hire one flock of pigeons to exterminate another flock.

In the tumult of their wings beats a pattern of peace. And thoughtful people are still trying to catch up with the pigeons.

Utopia.....by James Thrasher

The Army has just got around to releasing the four-month-old story of a young Russian flyer who landed a stolen Soviet Air Force plane on a Japanese airfield and announced to American authorities that he was fed up with communism.

He wanted to become an American citizen, and it is likely that he was telling the truth. The Army has had its eye on the young man since November.

And it would scarcely seem necessary for the Soviet government to deliver its agents into the hands of the American military, anyway. So let us take young Sgt. Vladimir Barashkov at his word.

He is not the first Russian deserter to find refuge with the American Army. His escape, like that of the two flyers who landed in the American zone of Austria, was merely one of the more spectacular means of getting out. To us his motive is much more interesting than his mode of travel.

Writer Gives ABC on Plans For Germany

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON — (AP) — Here's an ABC on the agreement to set up a new German government, which will split Germany in half.
The agreement was made by the United States, Britain and France. This is how it came about:
When Germany collapsed in 1945, the U. S., Britain, France and Russia agreed to divide Germany into four parts, or zones.
Each of the four powers would occupy one zone with its troops. And each of the four would run its own zone absolutely.
The four were supposed to work together to get Germany back on its feet economically and politically.
It didn't work out. Instead of working together economically, the zones were working separately, with trade barriers between them.
The U. S. and Britain decided to treat their two zones as one, economically. France finally joined them. Russia wouldn't take part at all.
But the political bust-up was worse. For Russia and the three Western Powers couldn't agree on the kind of government Germany should have.
The Russians wanted a strong, highly centralized government. Such a government could hold all Germany in a tight grip, control education and information and even have a secret police.
The Western Powers wanted a not-too-centralized government for all Germany, made up of 16 separate states, each with its own legislature and keeping strong powers, although there's to be one Congress, or Parliament, for all.
The Russians and the Western Powers couldn't agree. So early last year the Western Powers set in motion the machinery for creating — in their zones of Germany — the kind of government they wanted.
But there were a number of details on which the U. S., Britain and France couldn't agree. This week they've agreed. They'll let the new German gov-

MIT Professor Denies He Is Red at Trial

NEW YORK — (AP) — Prof. Dirk J. Struik, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, says a government witness at a communist conspiracy trial "put words in my mouth I never said."
The professor, one of the nation's top mathematicians, made the statement after he was named as a lecturer at secret Communist meetings by Herbert A. Philbrick, undercover contact man for the FBI.
Philbrick testified that Struik attended meetings of a secret party professional group which was taught it was essential to overturn the U. S. government by force and set up a workers' dictatorship.
Struik said he is "not a Communist" but a "Marxist in the broadest sense." He added:
"Never at any time nor in any form have I ever advocated the overthrow of the government."
Philbrick, 30-year-old Boston advertising man who fed information to the FBI for nine years while an undercover member of the party, testified for the third day in the trial of 11 top Communists.

Scrapping 'Parity' System Will Not Agree With Farmers

By OVID A. MARTIN
AP Farm Reporter
WASHINGTON — (AP) — Many farmers are expected to look upon the administration's new farm program as revolutionary because it would scrap the "parity" system of determining so-called farm prices.
Many farmers as well as their leaders look upon this system as the backbone of all farm-aid laws. Many regard it as economic gospel.
As the name implies, the parity system is designed to keep farmers on an economic par with other segments of the economy.
It was written into law in 1933, in the first year of the Roosevelt New Deal, a year when agriculture was in the midst of perhaps its worst depression.
In brief, the parity system says that a farm product should bring a return which would give much more recent period than that used in the parity system. Roughly the proposed standards would be designed to give individual farm products about as much purchasing power as they averaged during the first ten of the last 12 years. This base period would move forward one year each year of farm program operation.

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan said the proposed change from parity prices to minimum price standards would tend to reflect advancements in agricultural knowledge, facilities and skills.
How would the price standards of the Brannan plan compare with the parity prices?
There would not be a great difference. The Brannan standards for cotton, corn and wheat would be about 90 percent of the parity prices. But for livestock products, they would run somewhat above parity prices.
Toothpicks of gold and silver were widely used by the Romans, who also brushed their teeth with a substance known as "dentifricium."

Mother Dies in Desperate Effort To Save Children

DENISON — (AP) — A desperate effort by a mother to save her children from a train bearing down on them caused her death Friday. One of the children also was killed. One was injured, as was her sister.
The tragedy occurred this way, reports indicated:
The automobile of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas T. Ramey stalled on a railroad track. The Rameys got out to push.
Mrs. Ramey looked up to see a freight bearing down on the car. She ran around the car and tried to pull her children from the automobile. The train struck and she was carried about 150 feet down the track and was killed.
Also killed was her son, Jerry Lee, 2. Injured were a daughter, Shari Gale, 8 months, and Mrs. Ramey's sister, Inez Windle, 13.
The husband escaped injury. The Ramey family lived here and the Windle girl lived near Achille, Okla.

Program of Songs Is Presented

A quartet from Amarillo, sponsored by the Blackburn-Shaw Funeral Home of that city, presented a program of songs at Friday's luncheon meeting of the Pampa Kiwanis Club at the First Methodist Church.
The group was introduced by "Pinky" Sims, member of the club and operator of the Blackburn-Shaw-Sims Funeral Home here.
In the quartet are Paul Ellis, Wendell Heiny, Dwight Elliott, and Ed Armstrong.
They sang "Climbing Up the Mountain, Chillum," a Negro spiritual; "Woman in the Shoe," a nursery song arranged for close-harmony; and the folksy "Seeing Nellie Home."
The program was arranged by the Attendance Committee, chairman Clarence Qualls.

Palmer Holds Masters Lead As They Move Into Finals

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
 AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Johnny Palmer was in front at the three-quarter pole but it still was anybody's race in the 19th Masters Golf Tournament Saturday. Palmer shot a steady 70 for a 54-hole total of 214. That gave him a one-stroke margin over Sammy Snead.

Three others, Jim Ferrier, Johnny Bulla and Jim Turnesa, had even par 216 totals and one. Clayton Heafner, a 217. These figures left them all in excellent positions for the sprint to the finish today.

Snead and Ferrier made up more ground than that in one round Saturday with a pair of five-under-par 67's, the best scores of the tournament. At the same time Herman Keiser, one of the 36-hole leaders, fell far back and Byron Nelson faded away from his threatening position.

Joe Kirkwood, Jr., has not hit the tournament trail and came here virtually without preparation. All he did was shoot rounds of 72-72-70 over the 6,900 yard, par 72 Augusta National course in his first Masters and his first rounds of golf since early January.

It was Palmer's steadiness rather than spectacular play that carried him into the lead Saturday. After rounds of 73 and 71 he was in serious trouble only once. His approach dropped back into a sand trap at the seventh hole and he barely got it out, losing a stroke to par. He had three birdies on the round.

Snead and Ferrier took care of the spectacular part. Followed by a large part of the crowd of about 6,000. Slamming Sammy didn't outride Palmer often, but he outbit him with his irons. Snead consistently put his approaches close enough to putt for birdies and he made six of them. Snead, reputedly a poor putter, needed only one putt on each of the first five greens and three-putted only once. That was on the tenth hole, the only one on which he was over par.

Pampa Bowlers Hold Class B Doubles Lead

EL PASO — (AP) — Texas women bowlers took time out from their state tournament Friday night to arrange sites for coming tournaments and elect officers.

The next state tournament will be next November in Beaumont. The 1950 tournament, also set for November, will be held in Amarillo.

Ruth Dorris of Amarillo was named president of the Texas Women's Bowling Association. Other officers: Ellen McGregor, Dallas, first vice president for two year term; Mildred Turney, Beaumont, second vice president for one-year term; Willie Ray Long, Fort Worth, treasurer, for two year term; Rae Fisk, Corpus Christi, sergeant at arms. Helen Ezet of San Antonio is serving the first year of her three-year term as secretary.

Harvesters Place Second In 1-AA Meet

The Pampa Harvester track team finished second behind the Golden Sandies of Amarillo yesterday at Canyon. Lone consolation was that the Harvesters wrote two new records in the 1-AA books.

In the high hurdles lanky Derral Davis broke the record with a rapid 15.1, breaking the existing 16.0 mark. Bob Hinkley also placed for the Green and Gold in this event.

Max Robbins also set a new hurdles mark. He ran the lows in 23.5, knocking about half a second off the previous district mark.

Davis also finished second in the high jump with a leap of 5 foot 10 inches.

Siebert of Amarillo heaved the shot slightly over 144 feet to win that event. Lon English placed fourth.

Dannie Roche came in third in the mile run. Harold Cox and Wesley Kieth took second and third respectively in the 220-yard dash. The Pampa sprint relay team came in second in that event.

Play at Vernon This Afternoon At 2:30 o'Clock

The Pampa Oilers blasted out a 16-6 victory over Southwestern University of Weatherford yesterday afternoon before the storm broke. The Oilers took advantage of two big innings to garner 13 of their runs, opening with 5 in the first and closing with 8 in the seventh.

The collegians, meanwhile, were held to three hits in the final seven innings, after getting three singles, good for five runs in the first two frames off of Buster Hall. Hall's wildness got him in the most trouble, plus a mental lapse or two.

The Bulldogs got a run in the first on two walks and a single and an error. They picked up 4 more in the second inning. A single, a dropped fly ball, two walks and a mental lapse on the part of the Oilers accounted for three runs before a man was retired.

The next batter singled, driving in the fourth run of the inning. Hall hit a batsman before a long fly ball to right field. Lockwood replaced Hall on the mound and did a very fine job for the next four innings. He allowed but two hits and struck out three. A rookie, John Tackie, made his first appearance on the mound, threw the final three frames, giving up two hits mixed with a walk, good for a run in the last inning.

The big seventh inning for the Oilers, when they tallied eight runs, was started off by Al Perillard, rookie pitcher who is playing the outfield. He got his second single of the day. The Oilers then walked Tackie, fanned, but Ridgeway slashed a single to right field, driving across two runners. Velasquez and Parker followed with singles and Richardson was safe on an error on a double-play ball. Teyems followed with a single through the box and Perillard got his second hit of the inning. Brawley followed with a double to end the scoring for the Oilers.

Today the Oilers are slated to play at Vernon, game time 2:30. Tomorrow afternoon Paul Dean and his Clovis Pioneers will come to town to play the locals at 2 o'clock. Wednesday afternoon the Oilers are slated to play at Vernon, game time 2:30. Vernon comes to Pampa, and then the Oilers hit the road. They open the Clovis Friday, Lubbock Saturday and at Berger on Easter Sunday. Amarillo comes to town for a game the next Monday, unattended, in a series of games. Then on the 20th, the Oilers open the season against the Berger Gasers at Pampa.

Greens Gossip

Well, I saw something new this week. All of you ladies know just exactly what being a golf widow means—staying at home with the kids while the old man goes out and gets in a round of golf. I saw just the opposite the other day, only the husband did not stay home. Fred Tinsley brought the baby carriage and baby to the golf course and they both watch his attractive wife, Juanita, sweat that little white pellet for 9 holes. I say it's a solution to a problem. What do you think about it Fred?

Saw Nell Harris and Myrtle Prigmore going around Friday, and I understand that both of these ladies hit the ball very well.

The Ladies Golf Association is really coming along fine with all the beginners working like beavers. Lois Watkins, Joe McMurry and Rachel Brumley still believe that the little white golf ball is afraid of being hit and unobliquely moves away every time they take a swing at it. Complicated game, isn't it ladies?

I saw a man step up to putt on No. 18 green last Thursday. He made the putt, bent over to retrieve the ball from the cup and his new teeth fell out. I'm positive that player was Johnny Forman.

F. McCinnis has been doing a lot of work on his swing, tightening the grip and slowing down his backswing. It has him off his game somewhat, but he will smooth it out in a few days.

The High School golf team has been working faithfully the past few days. They think they are hitting the ball badly, but this writer can see them improving steadily. A couple of Junior High boys are going to make it tough for them though. Isn't that right Tommy Cox and Charles Austin?

Gentlemen, be sure and post your scores at the pro-shop. The Pampa Country Club golfers go to Ross Rogers in Amarillo on April 24 and Johnny Austin needs those scores in order to figure your handicap. Speaking of John, read where he got an expensive lesson over at Amarillo the past week.

Saw three of the Pampa Oiler baseball team walking around the course Friday afternoon with Warmup. They were using the walk to get their legs in shape, I guess.

Rule of the week: In match play, when the flag, unattended, is struck from any distance there is no penalty. When attended, loss of hole.

Kasaboski Team Trims Sandow's

Once again the villainous three won the six-man tag match at the Sportatorium Friday night. But their three opponents weren't as docile as usual. The team of Sandow - Detton-Pappenheim applied some methods not conforming to the rules in order to win, but still weren't able to defeat the team of Kasaboski-Sharman-Nenoff.

The winning fall saw Kasaboski, then Sharman, and finally Nenoff, using an arm stomp on Billy Sandow to take the third fall in 15 minutes. They won the first fall in the same manner, only it was Kasaboski alone who was stomping Billy, when Sandow gave up after 7 minutes.

The middle fall went to the Sandow team after 13 minutes. They worked Kasaboski into their corner, where all three worked him over, with Pappenheim applying a knee lock and toe twist, reminiscent of Eddie Gideon, that made Kasaboski give up. After the Sandow team left the ring the remaining members of the Kasaboski team had several head words because Kasaboski thought his partners should have come to his aid when he was taking the beating.

Two preliminary 20-minute warmup events started off the night's action. In the first of these, Billy Sandow and Steve Nenoff went the full time without either gaining a fall. Nenoff, a Bulgarian, sports a handlebar mustache, cleanly shaven head and hairy body. He could truly pass for the ape-man. Sandow had the mustache puffing and spitting like a steam engine, but was unable to pin the agile Bulgarian.

In the second warmup Glen Detton lost to Hy Sharman in 15 minutes when Sharman applied a double crab hold. Sharman used his usual rough methods, and at one time threw Detton out of the ring.

Referee for the night was Homer Anderson.

In a tag match at Amarillo Thursday night the team of Alex Kasaboski and Rod Fenton defeated Dory Funk and Buck Weaver in a rough bout.

In medal play, within 20 yards of the hole, whether or not the ball lies in a hazard, the ball may not strike or be stopped by the flag stick without adding a two-stroke penalty.

Aggie Trackmen Thump Longhorns

COLLEGE STATION — (AP) — The Texas Aggies ran away from the University of Texas, 47-12, in a dual track and field meet here Saturday.

The Longhorns won only three first places as the improving Aggies turned in their top performance of the season.

Texas A.M. made clean sweeps (first and second places) in six of the 16 events, in addition to capturing both of the relays.

Texas competed without its dash stars, John Robertson and Charley Parker, and the Aggies and Speed the Sparrow, sidelined with injuries.

Olympia Gallops Home Easily

NEW YORK — (AP) — Fred W. Hooper's Olympia and jockey Eddie Arcaro sailed around Jamaica race track Saturday to capture the $26,250 Experimental Handicap No. 2 and demonstrate what they hope to repeat May 7 in the Kentucky Derby.

Olympia galloped home a seven lengths victor over Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Model Cadet. Alfred Vanderbilt's Stone Age was third.

The timer caught the bay son of Helopola-Miss Dolphin in a smart 1:44 2-5 for the mile and one-sixteenth route — an even record.

Golf Tourney Today At Shamrock Club

SHAMROCK — (Special) — A Blind Score Tournament, postponed last Sunday because of the cold, damp weather, will be held at the City Golf Club Sunday afternoon, April 10, today.

Time of the tourney has been set at 1:30, so as not to interfere with activities of the 18th District Legion Convention.

The contest is open to the public and designed to give everyone equal chance at winning the prize.

The winner will be determined like this: Numbered slips of paper from 70 to 140 will be placed in a container and such contestant will draw a slip, sealed so that he cannot determine the number he has drawn. The person shooting the score to correspond with the number he drew, will win the prize.

The Blind Score Tournament is the first of a series planned for this season to be played on the beautiful grass greens of the City Golf Course.

Invite Shamrock Star To Schoolboy Classic

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Wayne Martin, Shamrock's all-star baseball player, has been chosen to play in the Texas Schoolboy All-Star Gridiron Classics at Beaumont.

The game between the grid stars of the Northern and Southern sections of the state will climax a meeting of the Texas High School Coaches Association to be held in conjunction with a coaching school. The school will be held August 1-5, with the game scheduled for the final day.

Few baseball club boys are invited to take part, and it is a distinct honor that one of Coach Scott McCall's players should be chosen.

Wayne was placed on every all-star team named last season, first the all-district club, then the regional eleven and finally the all-state line-up.

Cubs-Bums May Deal

DALLAS — (AP) — Manager Charlie Grimm is expected to make a wholesale slash of the Chicago Cubs roster this week-end.

He and General Manager Jim Gallagher are scheduled to take the Cubs "B" squad to Greenville, Tex., after Saturday's matinee with the Dallas Eagles. They will look over the "B's" playing Greenville of the B.I.G. State League before making the cut.

Pitchers Don Carlson and Ed Kowalski and outfielder Jim Kirby are regarded as cinches to be returned to the minors.

There also is talk between the Cubs and Brooklyn Dodgers in trading outfielder Cliff Abernethy of the Cubs part of a trade for a Brooklyn reserve infielder.

Right ball this year. Shreveport, Beaumont, Houston, Fort Worth, San Antonio and Oklahoma City will play all night games except Sunday while Dallas and Tulsa will play night ball on Sunday, too.

Shamrock Kids, Inc. Starts Ball Season

SHAMROCK — (Special) — It's time for Kids, Inc. activities to be resumed. Bill Rushing this week reminded young baseball hopefuls.

Rushing, who last year managed a softball team, is organizing a baseball club. Boys through 14 years of age are eligible to work out for the team.

Boys who are interested in playing on the club are asked to report at the North Ward school building after school hours Monday, April 11. All candidates should have their gloves with them.

Henderson Wins

LUBBOCK — (AP) — Bill Henderson, 134-pound Texas Tech student, won his 15th professional fight Friday night when Paul Guerrero of Cuernavaca, Mexico, failed to appear for the sixth round of a scheduled ten-rounder.

Guerrero had suffered a broken nose.

ination last summer and hope to do so again. However, Masur is brushing with competition from Ira Glass, a recalled farm hand, at second, and Reynolds is trying to hold on again at short in a battle with Bob Wilkins, up from Charleston of the South Atlantic, and one of five 300 batters in that league last summer.

Third base is up for grabs between A. B. Cross and Bob Belford, who were called in after satisfactory 1948 seasons in smaller leagues.

Center field is wide open and the scrap seems to have narrowed to Lewis Davis, 312 last season at Richmond of the Piedmont, and Moe Santamauro, a former Fort Worth player purchased from Anniston of the Southeastern where he hit .330 last year.

Also in the picture is the giant Jim Fortin, a fabulous fellow who last season hit .379 with Pampa of the West Texas-New Mexico League, clouting 34 homers and batting in 183 runs.

Center became vacant when Jim Kirby was drafted by the Chicago Cubs.

Although Shreveport lost two of its top pitching hands when the Cubs bought Warren Hacker and recalled Hank Wyse, four members of last year's staff still remain around and they have been bulwarked by a flock of freshman elbows with impressive records.

Holdovers include Howard Auman (13-11), Vern Williamson
(9-8), Garth Mann (10-4) and Dee Sanders (9-7).

Impressive in the spring exhibitions have been Gerald (Red) Fahrt, who comes up from Vernon of the Longhorn League with a 218 record; Ayon Driggers,
20-6, with Pampa of the West Texas-New Mexico League; Hugh Sooter, 11-5, with Anniston of the Southeastern; Fred Bacev-ski, who won 18 while working for Anniston, Kilgore and Shreveport; Leroy (Stumpy) Jones, 17-6 with Kilgore; Willis Chamness, 19-10 with Kilgore, and Bob Cleary, 18-9, with Charleston of the South Atlantic.

The Sports, as they now measure up, look reasonably safe for the first division and may climb
a notch from their fourth-place 1948 finish on their experience.

WARREN'S WARM UP

By Warren Masur—News Sports Editor

QUESTION: Which team won the WT-NM League all-star game last year?

SEITZ-SEEING: The Pampa Oilers, without a doubt, have the most colorful manager in the league, and one of the most colorful in all baseball. Anywhere that the team goes the cry goes out to Grover. He is a true showman.
But more than that, he is a fine manager and ideal coach for the youngsters he handles.

His coaching isn't strictly confined to the pitching and batting angle. Sure, that's the main responsibilities of a manager. He's got to get his boys to batting and throwing correctly to win a penname. But Grover doesn't stop there.

He constantly tries to make the boys look like ballplayers of big league calibre. There are lots of little things that he has to tell them about to do that. Things like polishing their shoes, their stance at the plate and on the mound, keeping their uniforms neat, their pants legs pulled up rather than hanging down around their ankles, carrying their uniforms in suitcases when they are on the road, not wearing their caps other than on the field, in order to show off. And there are many more things that could be listed. All of these are intended to help the boy get to the top in major league baseball.

Also involved in his teachings is the problem of getting the young, inexperienced players to train properly. Most of them don't realize the great benefit that running has to the ball-player. A player is only as good as his legs. When they give out, he is through. Weak legs will keep an infielder from moving as swiftly and shifflly as he should,
and will make a pitcher tire and lose his stuff faster than anything. Therefore, Grover requires all pitchers to run and walk as much as possible to get in shape.
A pitcher cannot throw himself into shape. Just as a car doesn't give top performance with a flat tire, a pitcher isn't at his best with weak underpinning.

Most of the players respect Grover for what he is trying to do for them. As one Amarillo fan stated at the game last Tuesday, "Even if Grover had nine dead men he'd have a hustling ball club."

ANSWER: The Southern All-
Star team defeated the North
8-6. Grover Seitz, Pampa pilot, led the South team.

Kennedy of the Cleveland Indians has one of the best throw-

HOLMANSVILLE, N. J.—Most folks raise birds because they're tame. The state of New Jersey is breeding some because they stay wild.

The birds are bamboo partridge, a native of Asia, with a price tag of $25 a pair.

Why wild? The state plans to liberate them on gunning preserves. While the hunters are expected to shoot them eventually, the birds aren't supposed to cooperate.

Edward E. Roth, superintendent of the state quail farm, said it is the first time he knows of that an effort has been made to use the bamboo partridge as a game bird.

There are only four pair at the farm, and they enjoy exclusive quarters. "We can't put them with the quail until we're sure they have no disease," says Roth.
The birds weigh 10 to 11
ounces, little more than quail.
They look something like a ruffed grouse, and both sexes are colored similarly.

The four pair are expected to produce about 30 eggs a year each, which will be hatched in incubators.

Lester G. MacNamara, New Jersey game management superintendent, got the idea of using bamboo partridge as game birds in 1932. The game conservation institute raised some at its Clinton farm, but the birds were sold to breeders.

IT SEEMS SAFE to say that there is no material possession which speaks more eloquently of the man who owns it than a Cadillac car.
Wherever it is driven, it offers authentic testimony as to its owner's good taste—his concern for the safety and comfort of his family and friends—and his general standing in the field of endeavor in which he has chosen to make his contribution to the world's affairs.
Indeed, if a complete list were published of those who own and drive this distinguished car—it would be obvious that it has become a hall-mark of achievement in almost every walk of life.
That this should have happened is entirely logical—for Cadillac cars have been built, for almost half a century, to the most uncompromising standards of excellence. As a result, Cadillac stands alone in all the things that make a motor car a distinction to possess and a pleasure to utilize.
The 1949 Cadillac is the grandest of them all,

It's Ladies' Day in Berlin Dentistry

The dental classes at the Free University of Berlin are overcrowded these days—with women. The influx of women in dentistry makes every day a ladies' day in classrooms such as this. Here, Professor Ulrich Fehr gives his students—all of them women but one—a lesson in filling cavities. The university was established by the western powers to accommodate students barred from the Soviet-sector University of Berlin because their parents weren't workers. Scouts Start Camping Trips

Fourteen Brownie and Girl Scouts are starting their summer camping this weekend, Mrs. K. E. Thornton, executive, said yesterday.

New Brownie Scouts spent yesterday at Lake McClellan hiking, searching for bugs, birds and various types of plant life. Troop leaders, Miss Jean A. n Essex, Mrs. Louis Johnson and Mrs. Roy Petty accompanied the girls.

The Brownies going to Lake McClellan were Sandra Petty, Sandra Tidwell, Dorothee Pat Crocker, Jeanne Bullard, Venita Ann Crocker, Daylene Fletcher, Kathlene Martin, Javita Riddle and Flo Lita Brooks.

Five eighth-grade Girl Scouts will return from Camp Sullivan at 3:30 p. m. today. They went to camp at 10:30 a. m. yesterday and spent the night. Leaders accompanying the girls were Mrs. W. F. Wilson, Mrs. Sug Cobb and Mrs. Thornton.

Scouts making the trip were Sally Cobb, Katherine Mathieu, Connie Kelley, Sue Toepfer and Barbara Barnes.

An estimated 1,686,670 major crimes occurred in 1948, the F.B.I. reports.

Happiness Is in Sight

Blind since birth, 5-year-old Bonnie Lee Kirchen, of Grand Ledge, Mich., started saving the red "ten-open" strips from cigaret packs ages when she heard a false rumor that a tobacco company would give her a seeing-eye dog if she collected 40,000 of them. When Michigan residents heard of her plight they donated a puppy. When Bonnie is 12, they will give her a real seeing-eye dog. But until then, Bonnie is having a wonderful time with her playful pup.

Crackdown Ordered on Exports

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Official suspicion that a drive is on to slip strategic materials to nations behind the iron curtain has touched off a crackdown on export control violations.

In Houston, Tex., Friday the government seized a $150,000, 1,300,000-pound load of carbon black that had made what officials called a "mysterious" round-about trip from Texas to Mexico and back — ostensibly enroute to Rotterdam, Holland. Carbon black is used in the making of rubber, and for other industrial purposes, and is one of the items on the government's list of goods denied Russia.

Officials indicated that further investigations are underway now in other parts of the country, dealing with other materials. The Commerce Department's Office of International Trade (OIT) has revoked some licenses for export of certain goods to Marshall Plan nations because of suspicions or discoveries that they were to be moved on to the Soviet bloc. The Houston seizure was the largest ever made for violation of current export laws. It came after a week of investigation by both the Commerce Department and the Customs Bureau.

Officials said the carbon black readily cleared for export friendly nations because a shortage no longer exists in this nation, was ordered from a Tex firm for delivery to Mexico. The shipment went through Laredo, Tex., port of entry, instead of continuing to Mexican capital, it was sent the port of Tampico, on the Gulf of Mexico, and put on board vessel Andijk for Rotterdam. The Andijk touched at Fion to pick up other goods, was then that the carbon black cargo, described as "exceptionally light," was seized in the hold that its ultimate destination, a Soviet bloc nation. Violators of the export can be tried in federal court. The penalty can be two years prison or a $10,000 fine or both. Customs Agent Alvin H. Sch of Houston said.

Blunt Political Advice Given Texas Democrats

By DAVE CHEAVENS
CORPUS CHRISTI — (AP) — Texas Democrats who dropped $25,000 into the party's war chest at a dinner here Friday went home with some blunt political advice from several speakers.

U.S. Attorney General Tom Clark told them not to heed "scare talk" about a depression from "provokers of panic," but to note rising employment and the highest corporate profits in history.

County Judge M. J. Raymond of Laredo, who called himself one of the "little Democrats" that do the party legwork, offered these ideas:

Out out the squabbling and jockeying for personal advantage; settle differences quietly, present a united front like Democrats do in South Texas. 2. Don't make Attorney General Clark "the goal" in the tidelands fight, "just because he happens to be the chief counsel for the United States government" in an issue that the courts or Congress will settle anyway.

Woodville J. Rogers of San Antonio, of the original Texas Truman Democrats, also said he was "sick and tired" of hearing

Ousted in Bulgaria

Clark criticized by Democrats for representing the federal government in the tidelands row. He said Clark was just doing his duty.

"I want to see Texas retain its title to the tidelands but I want the attorney general of the United States to do his duty," said Rogers.

Clark was the honor guest and chief speaker at the second Texas Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner. The third and last will be held in West Texas. The $25 a plate dinners are to raise money for the 1952 Congressional elections.

The Corpus Christi function was an all-South Texas show. An honored guest at the head table was white-haired Mrs. Artie Parr, widow of the late political chief. Also at the head table and active in organizing the dinner was George B. Parr of San Diego.

Clark made no direct reference to the tidelands issue in his speech. He did say this — whenever he hears vilification of himself he is reminded of the ditty that goes, "to those who talk and talk this motto should appeal: the steam that blows the whistle never turns the wheel."

Clark, a Texan, has frequently been the target of criticism for pressing the federal government's claim to the tidelands of Texas and other coastal states.

Raymond made his appeal to end bickering in introducing National Committeeman Wright Morrow of Houston. He urged "all good Democrats to let bygones be bygones, and in the good old American way, have enough sportsmanship to get behind the duly elected committeeman."

Morrow's removal as national committeeman on charges of party disloyalty was urged by the September convention, which recommended Byron Skelton of Temple for the post. Skelton has not been recognized by the national committee.

Man Fined $50 for Reckless Driving
Johnnie David Korts, 707 N. West, Friday San Justice Court was fined $50 and costs for reckless driving by Judge D. R. Henry.

The charge rose out of a collision on 2nd Barren at midnight Wednesday when Korts' car and another car driven by Leo Gilleland, 700 N. West, sideswiped. Damage at first was estimated at $20 to each car, but later estimates raised the figure to over $100 on the Gilleland car. There were no injuries.

WAR NOT EXPECTED
VATICAN CITY — (AP) — The Vatican does not expect war this year, Monsignor Sergio Pignedoli said. He is secretary of the Central Committee for the celebration of Holy Year planned for 1950.

Deputy Premier Traicho Kostov, above, Bulgaria's No. 2 Communist, was ousted from his post in a growing Communist Party purge of members who refused to take orders from Moscow, according to an official Sofia report. The announcement indicated a widening split in Communist ranks throughout southeast Europe dating from the Cominform's expulsion of Tito for "deviationist" conduct a year ago.

Possible Method Of Forecasting Cancer Is Found

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Discovery of a possible method of forecasting cancer of the womb from one to two years before it develops was disclosed by a Canadian doctor.

Cancer of the womb is one of the most frequent of all malignancies. It kills approximately 26,000 women annually in the United States alone.

Dr. J. Ernest Ayre of Montreal's Royal Victoria Hospital and McGill University said his new technique has been successful in forecasting womb cancers in nine women.

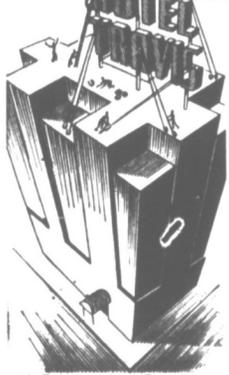

Ayre said that opens up the possibility of tracking the development of such cancers in all victims and attacking them at the earliest, and most curable, stage.

The technique is based on Ayre's discovery of a new type of human cell — one which he says he and his colleagues believe to be a forerunner of an actual cancer cell. It has a peculiar nucleus, or central part, that makes it different from both a normal cell and a cancer cell.

"It is a signal that cancer will develop there in one to two years. Another one to two years would usually pass before the cancer was visually or clinically apparent."

Ayre related his findings at a private meeting of doctors of the National Cancer Institute and later told them to a reporter.

New Gas Pipelines Cook Many Beans

NEW YORK — (AP) — Texas burns "waste" gas in flaming torches above its oil fields. But more and more of its abundant natural gas is to be piped East, to cook the beans in Brooklyn, maybe to bake the beans in Boston.

Pipeline companies are pushing plans how to bring more natural gas to the industrial Midwest and East. It is part of the battle between coal, oil, electricity and gas to power and heat the nation. Cities along the way are fighting for as big a share of the gas as possible.

Many in the Midwest oppose gas companies entering the coal and oil dominated East, before the Midwest's industries and homes are completely served with natural gas.

For years natural gas has been piped from Texas to Los Angeles. It has been burned in Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Detroit and Pittsburgh. Last year it reached Philadelphia. Plans are now completed to bring it to the New York area by next year. One company talks of piping it to Boston.

First-time visitors to the Texas oil fields are started to see burning gas shooting into the air above the wells. Oilmen explain there is no market there for the escaping gas and it must be burned as it bursts from the earth pushing the oil up with it.

But other wells produce chiefly natural gas, and these are tied by an intricate network of pipelines, totalling 250,000 miles, in to most sections of the nation.

Here are the plans of four pipeline companies for bringing more of this natural gas to serve the industrial Midwest and East's growing need for cheap fuel.

Texas GI With 'The Miseries' Interviewed by U.S. Officials

By A. I. GOLDBERG
PRAQUE, Czechoslovakia — (AP) — A Texas GI with "the miseries" and his Kentucky sidekick are languishing in a Czechoslovak prison, wondering how they landed there, the embassy reported Wednesday. They were convicted of spy charges.

The two strays, AWOL from their consular unit in Germany, wandered across the Czechoslovak border last December and got caught up in a web of international suspicion. Their wanderings were ill-timed. Across the border some Czechoslovaks had been arrested by Americans on spy charges.

Tuesday, for the first time, U. S. officials were allowed to see the two men — Clarence Hill of Pampa, Texas, and George Jones of Owensboro, Ky. There had been a half dozen notes and several oral protests to the Czech Foreign Office on their behalf.

Hill, who drew a 12-year prison sentence, was reported worried mostly about his family affairs at home. Jones got a ten-year sentence, mostly because he had wanted to go wherever his Army buddy went.

The embassy said the two men seemed in good health and did not seem to have been maltreated. The men complained that while they got enough to eat, they didn't like what they got. A Czech Foreign Office attaché, a Ministry of Justice official, the warden of Bory Prison near Pilsen and an interpreter stood guard while Capt. Donald Mac Namara, assistant U. S. military attaché, and Consul Carrol C. Parry questioned the men in separate, brief interviews.

The U. S. ambassador, Joseph E. Jacobs, said that as a result of what the men said he has asked Czechoslovak authorities for more details, especially about the secret trial at which the men were sentenced March 28 in Prague.

Both men were in uniform when they crossed the border about midnight Dec. 8. They slept in a rail switching building near the border. Police found them there — asleep — five hours later and arrested them. Neither man knows the Czech language and they were hazy

Student Draws Crowd With Threat to Jump

ABILENE — (AP) — Jerry Powell, student at Hardin-Simmons University, climbed to 7th top of Abilene Hall and shouted: "I'm going to jump."

In the next seven minutes, a crowd of about 500 gathered, attracted by his shouts. A member of the Abilene police force loudly urged him not to make the leap. Some other students slipped up to the roof to grab him.

But by this time, Powell had the crowd he wanted. He changed his tune altogether, and began shouting the praises of a scheduled college play.

Little Known About Foot, Mouth Disease

MEXICO CITY — (AP) — A little is known about the foot and mouth disease that "none will say vaccination is the solution of the problem," says the joint Mexico-American Commission.

The commission conducts the fight against the disease in Mexico. In a formal statement yesterday it also said that vaccination of infected animals is promising.

(U. S. Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said in a hearing he had a wire from General Harry Johnson, head of American operations, reporting satisfactory progress in the drive to stamp out the disease.)

New Orleans was the nation's fourth largest city and second as a port to New York in 1840.

Navy Expert To Speak at Club Here

Rear Admiral Ellis M. Zacharias, retired from the U. S. Navy in 1946, will be the first guest speaker at the Top o' Texas Knife and Fork Club April 19, at the High School, Roy S. Bourland, president, announced.

Zacharias was commissioned to execute the assignment of psychological warfare against Japan during World War II because of a quarter-century of Naval intelligence experience and expert knowledge of the Japanese.

He commanded the cruiser Salt Lake City on its famous Tokyo-bound bombing mission to Shangri-La. Later, he commanded the battleship New Mexico which engaged in many Pacific operations.

Author of the book, "Secret Missions," Zacharias was decorated three times with the Legion of Merit.

"Secret Missions: Past and Future Security," will be the topic of his talk at the Knife and Fork Club. Having acquired expert knowledge of the Japanese gained as a student in Tokyo in 1920, he was enabled to forecast with pin-point accuracy the actions of Japan, as events proved.

He prophesied the Japs would open hostilities with an air attack on the American fleet without any declaration of war on a weekend and probably on a Sunday morning by launching planes from carriers.

The Top o' Texas Knife and Fork Club, organized here March 27, is one of an international organization of supper clubs whose principal purpose is to provide a forum for outstanding authorities in cultural, scientific and political fields.

RICHEST RACE — (AP) — The Little Brown Jug, premier pacesetter classic for three-year-olds, raced annually at Delaware, O., will be worth more than $50,000 in 1949 for the first time in the four-year history of the event. Fifty-six horses are eligible for the race on Sept. 22.

Bill Would Give States Tidelands

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The states' claims to the oil-rich tidelands were staked out anew, setting off another round in a multi-billion dollar scrap.

Thirty-one senators joined late Friday in introducing a bill that would give the states title to the nation's submerged coastal lands.

Senator Tobey (R-NH) promptly spoke up for those who contend the federal government owns the property. He said they will do their best to kill the bill "in the interest of the people of the United States."

Opponents of the measure, even if they lose in Congress, know they can look to President Truman for a veto. He has vetoed such a bill once before and has promised to do so again if necessary.

In his state of the union message to Congress last January Mr. Truman said:

"We must adopt a program for the planned use of petroleum reserves under the sea which are — and must remain — vested in the federal government."

Senator McCarran (D-Nev), chairman of the Judiciary Committee, said in offering the bill that it fully protects the federal government's "national defense" rights in the tidelands, and added:

"Private development of oil in these lands is no longer an issue. The federal control bill recommended by interested federal agencies would validate existing leases and authorize future leasing to private concerns just as the states now are doing."

"The only difference is that the states are receiving far greater lease revenues than the federal government now receives on similar leases."

Tobey contended the bill would nullify a 1947 Supreme Court decision which he said gave the federal government title to the tidelands.

The case involved the submerged lands off the California coast.

Vice President Barkley took the view that the tidelands already are part of the "public domain" and referred the bill to the Senate Interior and Public Lands Committee.

McCarran offered no objection but Senator Connally (D-Texas), one of the sponsors of the bill, contended it should go to the Judiciary Committee, which last year approved a similar bill.

Senior Play Given

CANADIAN — (Special) — The Senior class play "Romantic Ricky" was presented in the Canadian High School Auditorium Thursday night, under the direction of Mrs. Wm. Karr, Miss Rita Austin and Larry Sanders. The three-act play had a cast of fourteen. Herbert Williams played the leading part of Rickey Brown.

Heavy, Heavy—Guess Again

Mary Toohill is not a lady weightlifter. What she's holding over her head is the world's lightest solid weighing only eight pounds. It's a big chunk of the new plastic foam developed by Westinghouse scientists as an insulating material. It's made by baking a molasses-like resin until it expands to 100 times its original volume. Even lighter than some gases, the new material weighs from 10 to 20 times less than fluffy old merizeau.

Lions Vote to Sponsor Troop

CANADIAN — (Special) — Financing a Boy Scout troop is a small matter compared to furnishing the necessary leadership. Paul Beisenherz of Pampa told the Canadian Lions Club at its luncheon meeting Friday.

The area Scout executive told the group that Canadian's proximity to Camp Ki-O-Wah at Lake Marvin makes it the hub of the Adobe Walls Council area during the camping season and that Canadian has plenty of "material" for at least two good Boy Scout troops. He warned the men that the sponsorship of a Scout Troop entails much effort and responsibility.

The Lions voted to accept the sponsorship of a troop, but selection of leaders and committee could not be done in the limited time of the luncheon meeting.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Census Bureau reported that the number of persons employed full time — 38 hours or more — increased by 313,000 in March from the previous month. The total was 1,596,000 below March, 1948, however. The number of full-time workers last March was listed as 45,734,000.

White Deer Wins Contest Third Year

WHITE DEER — (Special) — Presenting "The Wasp," based on an incident of the Russian revolution, the White Deer speech students won first place in the district one-act play contest of the Intercollegiate League here Wednesday night.

Members of the cast were Dickie Ingram as Lieut. Sergetch; Tom Horn as General Gretcheff; and Ramona Hightower as Irma Korevna. The director was Wendell Cain.

The only other entry was a comedy, "Rock Dust," presented by the Claude High School. Horn and Miss Hightower from White Deer and Dick Doyle from Claude were named on the all-star cast.

Rating it as "superior," Jennings Flathers, speech teacher in the Amarillo High School, who served as critic judge, said that "The Wasp" was a well-chosen play with a timely message; the costumes were exceptionally good; the tempo, good; and the diction, excellent.

Miss Gertrude Golladay presided at the contest and Supt. Ray Vineyard of White Deer presented the awards.

This is the third year in succession that the White Deer entry has won the district title.

Two weeks ago, "The Wasp," with Walter Staats as the lieutenant and Roberta Corder as Irma Korevna, was presented at the drama festival in Goodwell, Okla., and was the only one of the six plays rated superior.

Other entries were from Amarillo, Guymon, Seminole, Classen and Capitol Hill High School of Oklahoma City. Horn and Miss Corder received "superior" ratings in that contest.

Clark Explains His Position in Tidelands Suits

HOUSTON — (AP) — Attorney General Tom Clark said what ever Congress does about ownership of the tidelands "will be quite satisfactory to me."

The native Texan said that in filing of suits for federal ownership of the submerged lands he was carrying out of his duty as attorney for the 48 states and the President.

Clark has a petition pending before the Supreme Court seeking permission to file suit against Louisiana and Texas for recognition of the federal government's paramount rights to the offshore lands of the two states.

Such rights were upheld by the court in 1946 when Clark filed a similar suit against California.

Clark was in Houston for a non-political address last night before the statewide Delta Tau Delta fraternity founder's day banquet. He came here from Corpus Christi where he spoke Friday at a Jackson-Jefferson Day dinner.

The federal official told reporters he believes the Democrats will retain control of Congress in 1950 but that the election's outcome will depend on actions of the current Democratic Congress.

You can't go out and tell the people "this is my program" and then not enact it," he said. "I am one who thinks this Congress will adopt the Democratic program, in a general way."

He said this will include some form of civil rights legislation but not establishment of a Fair Employment Practices Commission.

A Tragedy of Old Age

As flames consume her frame house, 78-year-old Ida Walters hobbles to safety after saving only an empty suitcase, a lamp and a portable radio. The building, 10 miles west of Kalamazoo, Mich., was completely destroyed by the blaze.

RESCUE

(Continued From Page 1) already has a three-foot oval hole cut in it to make it possible for a workman started tunneling toward the well holding Kathy captive. After the sections have been bolted together, the workman will be lowered by rope to the bottom of the shaft. From there, using drill and shovel, he will dig through to the well pipe. A power saw will be used to cut through to the girl. Dr. Robert J. McCulloch, the physician, said that shock and unconsciousness might be sufficient to preclude struggling and fear in the mind of the child and sustain her until such time as rescuers get to her. No sound had been heard from the child since she answered her mother with faint cries shortly after tumbling into the 14-inch pipe at 4:46 p. m. Friday. Rescue workers have been unable to determine whether she is still alive. At noon yesterday construction engineer Don Metz said a hole had been drilled into the side of the old pipe at a depth of 57 feet and that a worker, shining a flashlight, believed he sighted a portion of a dress. A casing, large enough to accommodate a man, was being inserted in the shaft. It was planned to carry the hole to 100 feet and then dig toward the girl's pipe prison and cut another hole in it at the lower depth. Rescuers said there is a slight drift in the pipe at the 100-foot depth and it is believed she may be at that point. Metz said the object which appeared to be a dress was sighted at the 95-foot level by looking through the hole which was cut with electric saws. Engineers said the work was exceedingly dangerous because the rescue shaft was dug without supporting timbers. Police estimated that approximately 5,000 persons were at the scene. Engineer Metz said he believed "there's a better than an even chance that she's still alive if there's not water where she is, and we know there's very little water above the 200-foot level." However, a doctor, who declined use of his name, said he believed "the longest she could have continued to breath would be four hours." Fire Chief Jimmy Bolz said he believed there is a chance the girl may be alive. Kathy tumbled down the shaft while running after her sister, and her cousin, Gus Lyon, 5. When the other children noticed Kathy was missing they started looking for her and Gus almost fell into the pipe himself. They heard faint screams from below. Shortly after the child fell into the hole her mother shouted: "Can you hear me, Kathy?" and received a faint "yes" for an answer. The mother and others kept calling. "Kathy—Kathy—are you standing up?" "Yes, I am," she sobbed. Later they called: "Are you lying down?" "Yes, I am," was the faint reply. "I could hear Kathy crying," said Gus, the cousin. "But it was dark down that hole and I couldn't see anything." Through the night weary men dug relentlessly under the flare of 50 floodlights. Fire Chief Bolz said his rescue squad had been pumping warm air into the casing since 5:30 o'clock Friday. Engineer Metz said he was sure he saw the girl Friday evening with the aid of searchlights. Later he couldn't see her and expressed the belief that she had slipped lower in the pipe which goes to a depth of 230 feet.

JES' ER

(Continued From Page 1) tive action would place schools in a very bad position for the next school year. Superintendents must know soon what kind of school program to plan for in order to hire teachers and work out budgets, they said. Rep. Floyd Bradshaw of Weatherford, himself a teacher, has opposed that part of Taylor's bill eliminating the elective office of state superintendent, but does not favor delay. "I'm for the general principles of these bills, and I think we should keep working on them to produce the best legislation we can. If we put them off, we will be hurting the schools," he said. The Gilmer-Aikin scrap was the main show in the House this past week. It could drag on for several more weeks on Wednesdays and Thursdays—the days the House considers Senate measures—departmental, higher education, eleemosynary, and judicial may be shoved into the act soon. Those are bills which must be acted on before the session can end. With the money problems and Gilmer-Aikin issue yet to be worked out it became apparent that time will run out on other highly controversial legislation.

Texas GIs Reach Brig, Not Home

SEATTLE (AP)—Two GIs from Texas who didn't like their outfit and took a sudden yearning to get back to home on the range ended up in the brig. Horace A. Toler, 18, of Amarillo, and Pablo Villagram, 22, of El Paso, went aboard the Army transport Gen. M. M. Patrick at Yokohama as visitors fourteen days ago. They decided to stow away and head for home. They said they were lonesome. Friday they slipped over the transport's side as she anchored. But at 2:30 a. m., crewmen heard them shout for help and threw them lines. The tide, they explained, was carrying them away. The two soldiers were attached to the 124th Infantry, Tokyo.

April Is Titled Decisive Month

NEW YORK — April is the month that will shape the U.S. policy in foreign and domestic affairs, Business Week predicts. "The consequences of the April decisions will fix your tax bill for years to come, will outline your labor contracts," says the publication. "They can even determine whether the world has peace or war." The magazine calls attention to President Truman's refusal to fill any out-of-town engagements during the month.

Taft Has New Labor Bill Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators Taft (R-Ohio) and Ives (R-NY), working on a new five-part labor bill, have tentatively agreed on a "national emergency" procedure that would authorize injunctions, plant seizure, and special sessions of Congress in some labor disputes. The two influential senators have also agreed on the abolishment of the office of general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, now held by Robert N. Denham. That office was created by the Taft-Hartley Act. They would continue the present ban on closed shop but would permit the making of "preferential hiring" contracts. Both bills are banned by the Taft-Hartley Act. In a closed shop, only union men can be hired. "preferential hiring" means the employer must hire union men if they are available.

(Continued From Page 1) Rep. Lawrence H. Smith (R-Wis), announced he will try to cut the dollars in the face of administrative demands for the whole sum. Saturday was reserved for talk. The voting probably will start next week. There seems little likelihood that restrictive amendments will be adopted. The bill authorizes the European Recovery Program to continue to July 1, 1950. Separate legislation is required to vote the money to finance it. Chairman Kee (D-W. Va.) of the Foreign Affairs Committee led off the arguments for the bill. He pictured America in the path of "a giant octopus driving toward the sea, tentacles outstretched." He said "this power that came down from the north" poses an even worse catastrophe for Europe than World War II. Kee shouted that it is to America's national interest to contain this power which he said is "rattling the chains of human slavery." Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio), a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, said that communism has made the European Recovery Plan more expensive and also "more imperative for our own security." Another of the committee members, Rep. Fulton (R-Pa.), said the projected 15 months extension of the aid program will give an opportunity to see what can be done about a federation of Europe. "I don't think we are coming to bankruptcy," Fulton said. "I don't think we are coming to war with Russia, because I think time is playing in our favor."

The bill provides for 4,753,100 officers and men, of whom 1,644,300 would be in regular service, 399,500 in National Guard units and 2,709,300 in reserve units. There would be 677 Air Corps regulars, 527,800 Navy and Air Corps regulars. Navy funds in the bill contemplate maintenance of a fleet of 731 ships including the battleship Missouri, 8 heavy carriers, 11 escort and light carriers, 18 cruisers, 170 destroyers and destroyer escorts, 80 submarines, 99 mine craft and patrol craft, 84 amphibious craft and 260 auxiliary vessels.

He added that during the past three years many strides have been made in combating the dreaded disease of cancer. "When these people solicit your help, the only pay they receive is the knowledge they are doing a humanitarian deed," he added. "I think the people of Pampa and Gray County are fortunate in having people like these to devote so much time and effort to help their community." Appealing for additional volunteer workers, Martin said that cancer is no respecter of persons and "when you contribute you may be helping yourself."

WATER

(Continued From Page 1) Austin for analysis and approval. Several water has been analyzed several times already and found to be considerably softer and with much less salt and mineral content than that from the city's present wells on S. Hobart, just south of the Santa Fe tracks. The water at the new wells tests about 85 parts of salt per million parts of water, almost one-tenth the salt content from the existing wells which test about 300 parts of salt per million. The total mineral content counts about 400 parts per million as compared with about 1,100 parts per million from the present wells in the city's system. This means that water from the new well is no more than two-thirds as hard as the water now being used. "It is very good water for West Texas," Wayland Merriman, member of the firm of Merriman and Roberts, the city's consulting engineers, said. The Layne Texas Company, drilling contractor, developed the well for 100 hours to bring it to maximum capacity before putting it on test. According to contract, the Layne company was to guarantee a 600-gallon well, with a reduced payment if it tested between 500 and 600 gallons, and merely will be guaranteed to produce over 600 gallons to a maximum of 800 gallons per minute. This well is the first of three authorized in the $550,000 bond issue passed last September to expand the city's water and sewage disposal systems.

Purpose of the courses is to train teachers in driver education so schools may offer driver training as part of their high school curriculum. The May 23-27 session is for college teachers who, upon completion of the certified course, will be qualified to instruct high school teachers. The May 30-June 3 course is for high school teachers who will return to their schools to train young people in correct driving methods. In addition to class instruction by Norman Key, educational consultant for the American Automobile Association; and C. J. Alderson, member of the university's physical and health education staff, for the short courses, there will be special practice sessions at a driving range in a city park. Special housing arrangements have been made for students in

WELL, if I had a million dollars, I'd know today where to invest it. I'd buy up any leases available anywhere in the Northeast Panhandle, I believe. It seems people are getting so excited over this oilfield news that anything can happen. I heard one person say there was so much jostling and pushing around that Bob Hope could find some good joke material around here. For instance, people driving in Pampa sometimes have to go around by White Deer to get from one side of town to the other. It would be interesting to know how many automobiles there are in and around Pampa: the number runs into the thousands, we are quite certain. Most of them have something to do with oil.

LUBBOCK receives a delegation of attractive women when the 7th District of Federated Women met there on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Among those attending from Pampa were Misses Raymond Harnah, Ed Weis, L. G. Langston, Jake Garman, John Ketter, Jack Merchant, Gene Fatheree and Fred Thompson. Quite an array of spring bonnets and striking ensembles was in evidence while in Lubbock, Beulah Merchant visited in the home of the Steve Mathewes family.

SAW Ann and Bill Heskew all "decked out" on their way to the Country Club for the regular dance session Thursday. Just wondered if Iva Lee and Dwight Upham, who are fast becoming professionals at the art of square dancing, were among those present.

PANORAMA—After hearing the dedication over the radio to the Dr. Kelleys (the song, "That Little Boy of Mine") I'm sure it will be all right to announce that the Dr. Frank Kelleys are storking! No formal dedication, but nevertheless, am happy to say the John Bowenses are also in that pink and blue stage. DeLea Vicars, C. A. Huff, Gene Fatheree and Marvin Harris were among the fortunate ones having tickets for the baseball game (Cleveland Indians and New York Giants) that was to come off at Lubbock April 5. It seems it did not work out for all of them to attend, though. Two popular members of the city's younger set, Greta Miller and Phoebe Carter, took to the airways for an exciting trip to Albuquerque last weekend. Lema Jane Butcher was on hand on their arrival to show them the "land of enchantment," another even younger, young lady, Miss Carol Henry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Henry, went via the clouds to California for a short vacation. Happy landings. Heard Louise McCreey was off to Villa Platte, La., to visit Al and Irene Smith (the third) who were once residents (and popular ones) of this city.

SEEN ABOUT TOWN: Mr. and Mrs. Noel Reynolds and son, who they in from Arizona. (The land of never-never sunshine) for a few days' visiting with friends and relatives. Charlie Woolley, Com Paulsen, Fred Hendricks and Horace Pickett doctoring their spring fever with a trip to Eosum Kingdom. Jeannette Dowley, noticeably absent from her station in the Combe-Worley Building, enjoying a few days vacation—working at home. Phoebe Osborne, coming to be one of the city's leading pianists, was recognized as such when she entertained this past week for the Musical Arts Club in Plainview. Down but not out: Vic Jones, in the Pampa Hospital. Mrs. Bob Klingler convalescing after a recent operation. Missed at the City Hall—Clara Mae Hyde, recuperating after surgery. Tommy Stone, popular-employee of The Texas Company Land Department, was honored at a "going away" party Friday night. (We told you last week about the Land Department being moved to Amarillo.) New home-builders are Mr. and Mrs. Rex Barton and Dr. J. F. Elder. It seems all of Pampa was on hand at the new McLellan store opening. Adults were as happy over their complimentary yardsticks as children were over the colored balloons. Whole-sale redecorating has been on Mrs. R. L. Edmondson's agenda for the past several weeks. With completion of the decoration of the newly purchased home, she now tackles rejuvenation of a newly acquired apartment house on Dunbar.

BERNICE LARSH, who is counsellor at a summer camp for boys and girls at Montezuma, New Mexico, is busy making preparations for her two-month stay there. Mothers of Pampa children, who are fortunate enough to attend this "Western Life" camp, are putting woolen blankets into bedrolls, instead of mothballs.

FINALE—Get set, you taxpayers. Audrey Jones and Roy McMillen are beating the bushes for your renditions. Proud Mama and Papa D. C. Collier and four-week-old daughter, Mary, were seen out taking advantage of the bright sunshine of recent days. Also seen among the younger (and I mean younger—weeks) ones was small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Griffin, and granddaughter of the Reno Stinsons. A pretty day will find proud Grandmother Ralph Thomas out with her daughter and new son, who are visiting her for a few days. Recent entertainment which had small attendance and deserved more was the band concert April 7. Those present reported an excellent time and music of the best.

I'VE HEREBY WORKED through over 800 words now, and I don't have a million yet (dollars, I'm talking about); so I'll close now, go out in the oilfields (oh, yeah!) and see how other people are getting rich. Oh, well. The old saying that you can't take it with you still goes.

Now I'm going. PEG-O' PAMPA

Emily Lancaster Marries Bill Washington at Home

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Washington

Miss Emily Lancaster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Reynolds, 420 N. Crest, became the bride of Bill Washington, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Washington, Sr., 344 N. Banks, in a single ring ceremony in the bride's home at 7 p.m. Friday, March 18. The Rev. H. H. Tyler, minister of First Christian Church, officiated.

The candlelight service took place against a background of gladioli in two tall baskets, flanked by two candelabra holding white candles.

Candlelighters were Donna and Clara Washington, sisters of the groom. They were dressed alike in grey skirts and white blouses, and wore pink carnation corsages. Miss Ola Mae Smith, maid of honor, was dressed in a grey gabardine swing-back suit with grey accessories, and wore a white carnation corsage. James Washington, Jr., brother of the groom, was best man. The bride was given in marriage by Lester Reynolds.

The bride was attired in a navy blue gabardine suit with white accessories. She carried a white Bible, topped with a white orchid and white streamers. Mrs. Lester Reynolds, mother of the bride, wore brown moire taffeta with brown accessories, and a corsage of split white carnations. Mrs. James Washington, mother of the groom, wore a black dress with black accessories, and also wore a corsage of split white carnations. A reception was held, following the ceremony, at the home of the bride's parents. Tall blue and white candles in crystal holders decorated the lace covered table. A three-tiered wedding cake was the centerpiece. A blue and white color scheme was carried out with blue and white rose-shaped mints and blue napkins with "Emily and Bill" engraved in silver. Cake and punch were served by twin aunts of the bride, Mrs. Bob Childers and Mrs. R. E. Zell.

The couple went to Amarillo and different places in West Texas on their weekend wedding trip. They are now at home at 619 N. West.

The bride attended schools in Texas, Louisiana, and Illinois, and graduated from Pampa High School in 1948. She is now employed by the Bell Telephone Company.

The bridegroom attended school in Pampa, served in the U. S. Army during 1946-47, and spent one year on overseas duty in Japan. He is now employed by the Cabot Company.

Nuptial vows were exchanged at 6:30 p.m. at the Lela Methodist Church with the Rev. A. N. Motes officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The couple will make their home in Shamrock. Only the immediate members of the two families attended the wedding.

Sybil Weaver Weds D. L. Cox

McLEAN — (Special) — Miss Sybil G. Weaver, daughter of Mrs. Alma V. Weaver, McLean, became the bride of Douglas L. Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Cox, Waco, Tex., on Saturday afternoon, March 26, in the Calvary Baptist Church at Waco.

The double ring service was read by Mac Barte, associate minister of the Church of Christ, before an altar decorated with white snapdragons, baby's breath, and baskets of white gladioli and stock flowers, flanked on both sides by white candelabra.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Edwin Denham sang several numbers, accompanied on the organ by Mary Margaret Witte. The traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Wayman Ristole, Abilene, and bridesmaids, Miss Bennie Williams and Miss Lois Richards, Temple, wore dresses of blending pastel shades of pink and lavender crepe. Their accessories were navy and white.

They wore corsages of pink and yellow mixed flowers. Sam Ernest Dean, Waco, served as best man. Alva Walsh and D. Y. McDaniel were ushers. Honorary ushers were Paul C. Wilson and William Taylor of Waco.

The bride wore a powder blue dress with navy accessories. Her bridal bouquet was made of white iris around a center orchid.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given by the bride's mother at the Morris Tea Room. Cake and punch were served to 75 guests. Miss Mark K. Beedy presided at the bride's book. Miss Jeannette Johnson served the wedding cake. Presiding at the punch bowl were Miss Elizabeth Riddlehover and Miss Janis Harris.

Mrs. Cox graduated from McLean High School in 1943. She attended West Texas State College at Canyon, Abilene Christian College, and nurses school at John Sealy Hospital at Galveston.

The groom is a graduate of Waco High School. He attended Baylor University at Waco, and is now a Senior at Abilene Christian College, where he is majoring in chemistry.

The couple made a short wedding trip to Austin. They are now at home in Abilene.

AMARYLLIS ROLATER BECOMES BRIDE OF JAMES R. TINDALL

SHAMROCK — (Special) — In a candlelight ceremony solemnized March 25 in the First Baptist Church of Stillwater, Okla., Miss Amaryllis Rolater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther G. Rolater of Seminole, Okla., became the bride of James R. Tindall, son of Mr. and J. M. Tindall of Shamrock.

Against a background of palms and fern, white snapdragons and gladioli, with white cathedral tapers in wrought-iron candelabra, vows were exchanged in the double ring ceremony, with the Rev. C. DeWitt Matthews officiating. Family pews were marked with white satin bows.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Harold Campbell, organist, accompanied Mrs. Guy Morrison, Jr., who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." The organist also played traditional wedding marches, and during the ceremony played "I Love You Truly," "Claire de Lune," "Liebestraum," "O Promise Me," "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," and "Fala."

Mrs. James O. Sandlin of Wewoka, Okla., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her dress of ice blue satin was styled with a wide berth accenting the high-necked yoke of marquisette, a molded bodice and flowing skirt. Her halo and mitts were of matching material. She carried a Colonial bouquet of fuchsia carnations tied with matching satin ribbon.

Mrs. Russell Thomas of Wewoka, Okla., sister of the bride, Miss Kathleen Tindall, Shamrock, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. John B. Terry, Jr., Perry, Okla., and Miss Rebecca McComb, Tulsa, Okla., were bridesmaids.

Donna Smith of Mooringsport, La., cousin of the bride, lighted the candles. Bridesmaids wore dresses of Alice blue satin, fashioned in the mode of the gown worn by the matron of honor. They wore matching halos and mitts. They carried Colonial bouquets, identical to that carried by the matron of honor.

J. M. Tindall of Shamrock, served as best man for his son. Ushers were Bill Sims, Shamrock; Francis Cooper, Arkansas City, Kan.; Jim Critchfield, Gary and William White, all of Stillwater, Okla.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in a princess dress of white bridal satin, designed with a high round neckline and a deep yoke of marquisette. Chantilly lace formed a deep ruffle around the yoke. Emphasis was placed on the back with tiny covered buttons extending from the neckline down the tightly molded bodice. The sleeves, coming to a point over the hands, were also fastened with tiny covered buttons. The skirt extended to the floor in deep folds of lace

Her headdress was a Juliet cap of satin with a lattice design of seed pearls and silver beads. Framing her face were mock orange blossoms which held in place her finger-tip veil of double illusion.

She carried a Colonial bouquet arranged with a white orchid encircled by gardenias and showered with streamers of knotted satin ribbon.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Rolater chose a floor-length mauve gown of pure silk shantung, styled with a self-fringed girdle. She wore a matching hat and avocado green accessories. Mrs. Tindall, mother of the bridegroom, was formally attired in a dress of grey silk crepe accented with pink accessories. Corsages of pink camellias were worn by the mothers. Mrs. Charles H. Mathis, of Mooringsport, La., grandmother of the bride, wore grey, and Mrs. John H. Walker of Wellington, grandmother of the bridegroom, wore navy. Their corsages were of blue iris.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the Kappa Delta chapter house.

Assisting with the reception were Mrs. Richard L. Bakken, Oklahoma City, and Miss Norma Rasmussen of Coyle, who served the wedding cake. Misses Joan Hall and Charlee Miller presided at the punch bowls. During the reception Miss Catherine Derbin played musical selections. Mrs. Hazel Hollingsworth registered the guests.

For traveling, the bride chose a three-piece sharkskin suit in sablemist with an off-the-face hat and harmonizing accessories. She wore the white orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Tindall is a graduate of Wewoka High School where she was a member of the KKKK club. At present she is a student at Oklahoma A. and M. College and will receive her Bachelor of Arts Degree in May. She is a member of the Kappa Delta Sorority and has served as secretary and chairman of that organization. She is also a member of the Players Club, Radio Club and WWA.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Shamrock High School. He received his Bachelor of Science Degree from Oklahoma A. and M. College with the January class of 1949. He is a member of Sigma Chi of which he served as president for two years. He is also a member of Alpha Kappa Psi, Board of Publications, and the Inter-fraternity council. He was elected to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities," and he is now a special student at Oklahoma A. and M. College.

After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Tindall will be at home temporarily at 301 Lewis, Stillwater, Okla.

Foundation Gives Funds for X-Ray

GALVESTON — Sealy and Smith Foundation of Galveston has given the University of Texas Medical Branch John Sealy Hospital $22,000 for installing X-ray equipment in its special surgical unit.

The unit, directed by Dr. Truman G. Blocker, Jr., is devoted to plastic and maxillo-facial surgery and neuro-surgery. It includes operating rooms, laboratories, clinics and staff offices and was erected from surplus war buildings at a cost of $40,000, also donated by Sealy and Smith Foundation.

More than 12,000 American nationals now are studying abroad. More than 26,000 foreign students are enrolled in colleges and universities in the United States. Amazingly, only 24 Americans are studying abroad under the student exchange program sponsored by Uncle Sam. Sixteen of them are abroad under the Fulbright Act. Eighteen, including two Texans, are studying in Latin-American countries under another student-exchange agreement.

Electronic Clay-Drying Method Found

AUSTIN — A surplus radio from a B-24 bomber has helped University of Texas research scientists develop an electronic clay-drying process which may revolutionize industrial drying of clay products.

David Harrell, Jr., research scientist in the University's ceramic research laboratory, has devised what he claims is a practical and economically feasible method for drying clay products with electricity in 35 minutes rather than the week now required.

Drying is one of the most important parts of clay product manufacturing and the speed and economy with which it can be done affects production cost and the final price, Harrell explains.

He has wound copper wire around a porcelain form which is connected with a B-24 radio transmitter thereby inducing voltage into the ceramic product.

The product is dried by the current passing through it.

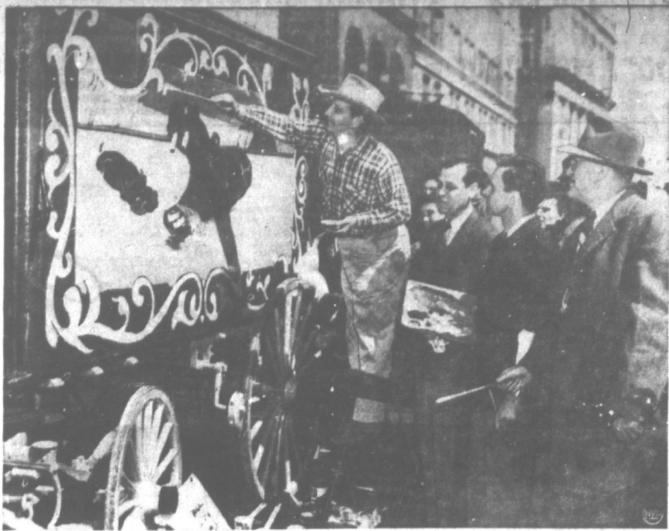

Harrell says industry will have to decide whether the cost of the process will merit the speed it offers. He says a combination of gas and electronic drying—about 10 minutes by electricity, and 20 minutes with gas—should be cheap enough to warrant the industrialist's consideration.

Electricity is more expensive than gas, and the margin of profit on the product being produced will probably determine for each manufacturer whether he installs the quick-drying electronic system, Harrell predicts.

Electronic drying has been considered by researchers for a number of years, but Harrell's process simplifies previous methods. He says his system would be added to present manufacturing set-ups as an additional conveyor belt on which the product dries as it moves.

He reported results of his research at a recent meeting of the Ceramics Society of the Southwest.

In the early spring more than 20,000,000 young tomato plants raised in southern Georgia are shipped by air and rail express to widely scattered regions throughout the United States for replanting, according to Railway Express.

About a million bucks worth of nationally known art talent is being used to decorate antique circus wagons and calliopes in Bridgeport, Conn. The town is getting ready for its five-day Barnum Festival in June, when it will take on a big-top air to honor its most illustrious son, P. T. Barnum. Here, Harold Von Schmidt, national magazine cover artist, paints hippopotamuses on a wagon. Among other famed illustrators contributing their talents are Steve Dohonos and Alden McWilliams.

Song Service Set at Wheeler

WHEELER — (Special) — According to Rev. E. M. Litton, pastor of the Church of Christ, a protracted meeting will begin today with preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. There will be a singing convention held at the church, beginning at 3 p. m. today conducted by Wilkin Bacon, who will lead the song service during the series of meetings.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend all of these services.

Rev. Smith, pastor of the Baptist Church, reports that the collection last Sunday was over $1200. The sum was placed in the building fund, which now amounts to more than $12,000. Some tentative plans have been made for a building program for the Baptist Church, but nothing is definite as yet.

At the M. E. Church a National Youth Day program will be given today at the morning service. In keeping with plans of the Northwest Methodist Conference, all Methodist churches are observing this day. The youth of the church will have charge of the service and are presenting their youth program, with Francis Porter presiding.

The singing school conducted at the Church of Christ in Wheeler, by Wilkin Bacon of Dallas closed Friday night. The school, which opened March 21, was held free of charge, and has been well attended by local people and others from neighboring communities such as Briscoe, Alison, Washita, Twitty and Kelton.

The Methodist Men's Club met Thursday with 37 members present and an out-of-town speaker, Rev. Martin of the McCullough Methodist Church of Pampa, making the principal address.

The club was organized re-president, and is affiliated with the National Methodist Men's Association. The meeting Thursday was the first regular meeting of the Club, and 10 new members were added. One of the highlights recently, with C. J. Van Zant as was a chicken fry by Joe Rogers and W. F. McNeill, who cooked and served 20 young fryers.

Mason Still Doesn't Like Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — After living here several months, James Mason finds Hollywood filled with frustrations, "but not uninhabitable."

The free-talking Briton was booed by Hollywoodians last year for panning the town without having seen it. He had penned a magazine article lambasting the movie capital in rugged terms.

Later he came to Hollywood and has been earning a fabulous salary. So I sought him out on "The Blank Wall" set to see if his ideas about the town had changed. They hadn't.

"I wrote that article on hearsay," Mason declared. "Since coming here, I found that most of the things I had heard were true. But I think that Hollywood is not uninhabitable because of them."

Mason's objections to Hollywood include:

"Because the money-dealers run things, the creative artist has little freedom."

Concerning this, Mason was recently talking to a gifted writer-director. "How can you do the things you want to do and still work for the big studios?" Mason asked.

"Why," answered the filmmaker, "when we play golf, we like to have bunkers and sand traps for hazards. It wouldn't be any fun to drive down a smooth fairway. It's the same thing in making pictures. The studios provide the hazards."

But Mason appears to be settling in Hollywood. He has bought a house and reports that some of his land can be subdivided in 1950.

From a money view, there's little reason why Mason shouldn't remain here. He admitted to earning $50,000 for a day and a half of acting on "Madame Bovary," plus a half-day's narration. The way I figure that's about $69 a minute.

BUDGET CHARGE LAY-AWAY

POP Goes the QUEEN

By Bob Wade and Bill Miller

XII

AGAINST a moldering bulkhead, far forward, was a row of squat chests. "There!" he ordered. "Hurry—open them up!" The four people moved cautiously toward the ironbound boxes. Barselou and John Henry wrestled with the first chest of the row, prying at the lid.

"Together," grunted Barselou. The two men panted in unison and forced it open. They stared into the black depths. John Henry lifted his head first and looked at the man in the pirate costume.

"False alarm," he said. "It's empty."

"Don't lie!" Trim rasped.

Trim bounded forward and drove the other two aside with the gun. A moment later, he raised a face that was pale and contorted with rage. Barselou still gazed at the opened chest as if hypnotized.

"Get back!" Trim commanded, panic in his words. His lower jaw hung open and his wet tongue moved back and forth over his ugly teeth. Slip and the two men backed up. Their captor's brown eyes flicked between them and the treasure chests as he went down the row kicking at the stony ironbound tops. Most of the lids flew back instantly, banging against the bulkhead. A red dust arose and sunbeams danced on flakes of rust.

At the last chest, Trim uttered a howl and dipped his free hand within it. He pulled out a fistful of round black objects like withered marbles and held them close to his face, staring uncomprehendingly. Then he pivoted and hurled the tiny wrinkled balls spitefully at Barselou.

"There's your fabulous riches!" he shrieked. "There's the Queen's jewels!" He capered around madly, his joints jerking as though marionette strings guided him. His high cracked voice screamed at Barselou until his gasps of spent breath stopped the flow.

THE withered black globules lay patternless on the sandy timbers. Sin remembered something she'd read. Pearls, exposed to the elements over a long period of time, deteriorate and become valueless.

"I don't understand," Barselou said dully.

"Maybe you can understand this," Trim panted, waving his arms. "Somebody bent you to the gold, the emeralds, all the treasure. Somebody maybe a century ago. Can you get that through your thick head? Somebody else found the galleon first! Anglin knew! Anglin was double-crossing us both!"

John Henry laughed. He couldn't restrain it even in the face of Trim's fury. Barselou's search. Trim's involved intrigue—all had been for nothing. Two men had died for a chest of worthless pearls. Anglin had known and he had profited most from the Queen. But Anglin hadn't been clever enough.

Sin laughed too. She tried to hold back the mirth. "It's another Spoonerism," she giggled, caught up in the frenzy that charged the air.

"What?" said John Henry.

"Spooners," she repeated, her shoulders shaking. "You know—the man who always got his words twisted?"

"What about him?"

She giggled harder than ever. Her words trailed up hysterically. "Somebody asked him if he sang and Mr. Spooner said, 'I know only two tunes—God Save the Weasel and Pop Goes the Queen.' She just popped!"

And Sin went off into gales of laughter.

"Stop it! Stop it!" yelled Trim. He thrust his revolver almost in Sin's face. Her peal of laughter became a tangled sob. "Get over against the wall—all of you!" commanded the little man. Checks of light were dancing oddly in his eyes. He blinked softly. "This is high tragedy. I will not accept the role of clown."

Sin and John Henry backed up silently. Barselou mechanically. "There. Right there," barked Trim as three backs touched the side of the galleon. The trio stood on a wide curb of wood that surrounded the entire deck—the gun platform. Behind them, the rectangular cannon ports revealed the rock face of the cliff, blind and gray.

SOMETHING hard bobbed against Sin's neck and she ducked. From a beam that ran the length of the ship's side, several rusty iron chains dangled. Each chain terminated in a wide iron cuff. The ship's irons, designed for lazy or mutinous seamen of His Majesty's Navy.

Trim was addressing Barselou. "Snap those chains around their wrists. If you please."

John Henry looked around desperately. Sin licked her trembling lips and asked, "What are you going to do, Mr. Trim? Please—"

"An old pirate custom, Mrs. Conover." A wrinkled hand pulled the cocked hat lower over spangled flickering eyes. "No prisoners. By the time you're found you'll be indistinguishable from the other skeletons here."

"No—you can't!" Sin choked. She almost fell to her knees but John Henry held her to him.

The threatening pistol motioned at Barselou. The big man reached for the dangling chains. The muscles in his face were working now, but his eyeballs were transparent, far away, as though he were pondering some weighty problem.

Conover struggled but the expressionless gambler was inexorable. Machine-like, Barselou forced John Henry's wrists into the iron circlets.

Sin submitted limply. The pair stood side by side on the gun platform, their wrists held at ear level by the ancient cuffs anchored to chains from the beam above.

Barselou wheeled slowly and said, "What next?" He looked at the man with the gun disinterestedly.

Bill May End Good Neighbor Commission

AUSTIN — (AP) — A bill to abolish the Texas Good Neighbor Commission was sent to a House subcommittee despite protests that it was time for "a showdown on this thing."

A major portion of the House State Affairs Committee agreed that it should not pass on the bill until it hears the report of an investigating committee on the Felix Longoria reburial incident.

Other committee members contended that the reburial of Longoria, Latin-American soldier killed on Luzon, had nothing to do with the bill.

After an hour-long session of heated debate and questioning, the committee decided by voice vote to send the bill to a subcommittee for two weeks.

Reps. Louis J. Ivey of El Paso, Carleton Moore of Houston, and W. R. Chambers of May were named to the subcommittee. Ivey in Arlington National Cemetery during the hearing that they were against the bill. Chambers spoke for the bill.

"The only thing good about the Good Neighbor Commission is its name," Rep. J. F. Gray, author of the bill, told the committee. He said it was "a stumbling block" to good neighbor relations with Mexico.

Gray charged that the commission made erroneous statements in connection with the Longoria incident. Longoria was reburied in Arlington National Cemetery after members of his family accused a Three Rivers funeral director of refusing the use of his chapel.

Gray aimed much of his criticism of the commission on its executive secretary, Thomas Sutherland.

Gray said Sutherland received $4,140 annually from the state, but outside interests — "individuals, or corporations" — supplemented the salary until he received about $7,200 a year.

Later R. E. (Bob) Smith of Houston, chairman of the commission testified that he and the five other members of the commission personally gave $50 each per month toward Sutherland's salary and that of a clerical secretary.

Gray said the commission charged that publicity of the Longoria incident had caused negotiations between Mexico and

Truman Says ERP Goal to Be Realized

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman predicted in a message to British Prime Minister Attlee that the recovery goal of the Marshall Plan will be "fully realized."

His message was in reply to one from Mr. Attlee on April 3, first anniversary of the European Recovery Act.

The President said the first-year record of the European countries has been one of "tireless hard work" and of "great accomplishment in industry, in agriculture, in trade."

Text of the message: "I am confident that I speak not only for myself but for the people of the United States in expressing appreciation for your message on this first anniversary of the signing of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1948.

"The record of the countries participating in the European Recovery Program during the past year is one of great accomplishment in industry, in agriculture, in trade. It is a record of tireless hard work.

"It is also, I believe, a record of achievement through cooperation. The organization for European economic cooperation so recently established by the countries working together toward full recovery has demonstrated to us all the meaning of true international action.

"We in the United States are confident that the progress toward true recovery which has been so marked during this first year will continue and that the high goals which have been set will be fully realized."

The United States on a farm labor contract to be broken off. He displayed a letter from the State Department which he quoted as follows: "The negotiations were not delayed, interrupted or stopped by the incident."

Bob Rich, superintendent of schools at Mathis, accused the commission of announcing about a year ago that the Mathis schools lost accreditation because Latin-American students were being segregated in the school. "The State Department of Education just warned us," Rich said, "we still haven't lost our accreditation."

Smith contended that the fact that students are no longer segregated in Mathis schools was a good sign that the commission did some good.

House Member Seeks to Erase Name From Three Rivers Probe

AUSTIN — (AP) — A member of the investigating group which decided there was no racial discrimination in arranging reburial services for Felix Longoria has asked that the report be withdrawn.

Rep. Byron Tinsley of Greenville sent the request to Speaker Durwood Mansford.

"In view of new evidence which I am now personally investigating I respectfully request that the majority report of the committee be withdrawn and additional study made," Tinsley wired from Greenville, Texas, where the House committee held a three-day public hearing in March.

"If the majority of the committee is unwilling to do this," Tinsley said, "I request that my name be withdrawn from the majority report and I be given the privilege of making a separate report to the Legislature."

Tinsley was one of four members of the committee who signed a report saying "there was no discrimination on the part of a Three Rivers undertaker relative to the proposed reburial" of the Latin-American soldier.

The fifth member of the committee, Rep. Frank Oltorf of Marlin, said in a minority report that he believed the testimony indicated there was discrimination.

T. W. Kennedy, Jr., owner of a Three Rivers funeral home was one of 19 witnesses questioned in the Three Rivers hearing. He said he "discouraged" the use of his chapel for the reburial rites because he had heard of trouble between the soldier's widow and his parents.

The widow, Mrs. Beatrice Longoria, and other witnesses quoted Kennedy as saying he could not let them use the chapel because "the whites might object."

Longoria was reburied Feb. 16 in Arlington National Cemetery.

Dog Bites Officer; Owner Gets Ticket

FORT WORTH — (AP) — This was broadcast over the Fort Worth police radio: "KQAN to Officer A. W. Kohles. Investigate a dog in the 4400 block of Bonita Drive. Dog has just bitten a passer-by." Several minutes later: "Officer Kohles to KQAN. Located dog. Dog just bit me, also. The dog's owner got a ticket. Kohles got hospital treatment."

New TB Drug Not Cure-All

TYLER — (AP) — The new miracle drug, streptomycin, is not a cure-all for tuberculosis of the genito-urinary tract, Dr. Vincent Vermooten of Dallas told delegates at the 39th annual meeting of the Texas Tuberculosis Association in Tyler.

He said the drug does have value in treating certain TB infections in the genito-urinary tract if the disease is caught early and if it is used with surgery and standard treatments.

Dr. John Marietta of Dallas said streptomycin is the greatest single advance in treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis in recent years. He said it is most effective when used with surgery and that more case history study must be done to determine its actual value.

Other speakers were Dr. Daniel E. Jenkins, Houston, and Dr. John A. Wiggins, Jr., of Fort Worth.

Dr. Konrad Birkhaug, New York State Department of Health, spoke on the controversial subject of immunization against TB. He cited studies in Norway, Sweden and Great Britain which indicate that immunization is effective in lowering the TB rate.

Rayburn Says Day of Cheap Government Has Vanished

WASHINGTON — (AP) — House Speaker Sam Rayburn said "no living man will ever see cheap government in this country again."

Addressing the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, Rayburn said the country now has "fixed charges" amounting to 32 billion dollars a year, including funds to aid foreign recovery.

That amount, he said, does not include a cent for civil works such as navigation and flood control improvement.

He cautioned the congress, therefore, that "you can look forward to a budget of 40 billion dollars or more for a good many years."

Senator McClellan (D-Ark), president of the organization, said it is "national stupidity" to retard a program of developing the nation's water resources.

Senator Chavez (D-NM) said "there is now a definite need" for construction of additional waterways projects in this country.

Chavez and Senator Butler (R-Neb), former chairman of the Senate Interior Affairs Committee, also were among speakers before the congress.

The New Mexico senator, chairman of the Senate Public Works Committee, told the group in his prepared address:

"It is now three years since the last comprehensive flood control and rivers and harbors bill was enacted by Congress.

He said further authorizations are needed "to increase the appropriations ceilings for comprehensive basin development programs; and to authorize numer-

Barkley Finds Senators Multiply Like Rabbits

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON — (AP) — It must be magic.

Vice President Barkley looks out over the Senate. Not enough senators there. He orders the bells rung. All over the Capitol Senate bells ring.

Senators come skating in and sit down. Barkley tells the clerk to call the roll.

There are 96 members of the Senate but when the clerk gets through he says only 49 of them are present.

Barkley announces there are 49 senators present. Then the magic starts.

The next day the Congressional Record comes out and says that when the roll was called 89 senators were present. And it quotes Barkley as saying 89 were present.

This burns Barkley up. He knows what he said. He said only 49 were present.

So he gives the Senate a large piece of his mind, dead serious. He says:

"The record shows that 89 senators answered to their names, and that the chair (meaning Barkley) had said that 89 senators had answered to their names."

"That was not true. The chair did not say there were 89 senators who answered to their names because it was not true, and the chair authorized nobody to change the record to make the chair say there were 89 senators present when there were only 49 senators present."

But a senator can come in later and get somebody like the clerk to mark him down as present when he wasn't present.

And that's what must have happened because Barkley goes on and tells the Senate:

"The chair realized that the habit has grown up of placing the names of senators on the roll call and the clerks at the desk tell the chair that sometimes the sheet is kept at the desk two or three hours after the roll call in order that senators who come in later may have their names recorded."

But no more, Barkley says —

ous new projects which have been investigated and recommended by the (Army) engineers subsequent to passage of the last comprehensive bills."

TULSA, Okla., — (AP) — A $50,000 alienation of affections suit was filed in federal court yesterday by a pipe line construction foreman against his former boss.

Vinson is seeking a divorce from his wife in Craig County District Court at Vinita where the couple made their home during Vinson's employment with Smith.

FORT WORTH HAS GALA RECEPTION FOR FLYERS

AM C. BARNARD — (AP) — A quiet for the non-really put it on night for Capt. brought the sincere thanks of a warm, friendly city. As he told the airman: "Your gallant flight has been written into time — and with it has been written the fact that the flight started in Fort Worth and ended in Fort Worth. Fort Worth will not forget that — nor will it let anyone else forget it."

It was a plushy, top-drawer affair, sponsored by Fort Worth's hard-hitting Chamber of Commerce. Menus cost a dollar each to produce. The swank hotel ballroom was full of flags, flowers and beautiful gowns and the soft music of a smooth orchestra tantalized the air. The young fliers lolled happily at the head table. At a reserved front table were their wives — the guests of Fort Worth. Each wife wore a gardenia corsage.

"We surely appreciate all this," said Lt. Earl L. Rigor of Corvallis, Ore. "This is the first time our wives have had a chance to see us in action."

"I'm getting more of a kick out of this than I did out of making the big trip," said Staff Sgt. Robert R. McLeroy of Alvarado, Tex. "And my dad — W. R. McLeroy of Alvarado — is out there in the audience, getting a bigger kick out of it than I am."

"This is Texas," Capt. James H. Morris of San Antonio said blissfully.

Carter presented the world fliers and Air Force officials present with expensive, leather-bound scrolls, conferring lifetime citizenship in Fort Worth; fine wallets; and 14-karat gold medals commemorating the epic flight. In addition he promised them broad-brimmed Western hats: "Just be careful where you leave those hats, boys."

Lt. Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, chief of the Strategic Air Command and boss of the nation's global bomber training, said: "Of us gratitude for the honor you have shown Captain Gallagher and his crew will never be forgotten. In return we'll give you an Air Force that will give you the security we all desire so much."

And Gallagher said: "Whenever we come back to Fort Worth, it'll always look as good to us as it did after 94 hours and one minute."

Earlier the fliers had been paraded through the city and had attended the presentation of a bronze plaque at Carswell Air Base, marking the spot where the flight began Feb. 26 and ended March 2.

A reporter asked Carter: "when the Army launches its first rocket to the moon, do you suppose they'll launch it from Fort Worth?"

"If they don't," Carter replied briskly, "they'll be missing an opportunity."

Economist Can't Hardly Write Such Good English

By JAMES MARLOW — (AP) — Some of the people who keep giving me trouble are President Truman's Council of Economic Advisers, a three-man outfit which issues reports every now and then on the state of the nation.

I always read the reports, and go to sleep, and wake up, and try them again, and I keep on writing pieces about how I can't understand them, but they won't listen and they keep on sending out the reports.

The chief of the council, Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, said a lot of things on Tuesday and a lot of other people besides me must have had some trouble with his prose because Mr. Truman later came to the rescue and said Dr. Nourse was quoted out of context in reports on his talk.

Seems Dr. Nourse was speaking of three things: the money we have to spend on our armed forces; the money we have to spend on Marshall Plan help for Europe; and the money we have to spend arming our Allies under the Atlantic Pact.

The question was: do we have to add the Atlantic Pact money to the money for the other two, or what do we do?

I think Dr. Nourse had an answer for this, but I'm not quoting him out of context: "In the somewhat technical terms of the economist and the business manager, we have turned to horizontal integration of the defense function to effect operative economies."

"Under this integration we expect to buy better security at the same cost or even, in due time, at lower cost than would otherwise be required."

"That is, we are now giving tangible expression to the belief that joint security is the truest and most economic pattern of security under our present development of air-borne atomic power and political enlightenment."

"Rework the whole operational and financial plan so as to gain maximum security with minimum strain on our economy. The problem needs to be handled with un sentimental business efficiency."

Women Experiment on Husbands While Taking Home Nursing Course

"Ah honey, hold still. I have to take your temperature just now," many of the Pampa housewives taking the Red Cross home nursing course told their husbands during the past week.

Twenty-four Pampa women are taking the 12-hour course — some in the morning and the others at night. The morning classes taught by Mrs. Joe Stephens, will meet in the Red Cross office from 9 to 11 a. m. tomorrow through Thursday.

The evening classes, under the direction of the national Red Cross representative, will be concluded this week. Instead of meeting every other night as scheduled, they will meet tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

During the first class of instruction the women were told how to recognize the symptoms of illnesses and how to clean and read thermometers. They were told to take their husbands' or their own temperatures every four hours as their next class assignment.

Whether or not some of the husbands were put to bed because of their wives' faulty readings, it is not known. However, the majority of the women reported they had a hard time getting their husbands to cooperate.

Also during the early lessons the women learned to make beds with a person in it. Before the course has been completed, the women will learn how to care for persons with communicable diseases, how to meet emergencies in the home and many other home nursing operations.

The women taking the course include Misses E. J. Folsom, Frankie Rodgers, J. C. Fulmer, J. R. Blakemore, Jim McCluskey, C. C. Gillis, O. E. Roberts, A. F. Boles, M. L. Wells, D. Z. Demos Told To Win 1950 Contests

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Democratic plans to capture the 1950 elections were spurred by the promise of a million-dollar watch and a Presidential order that they "must be won."

Addressing a rousing buffet dinner rally Friday night in Washington's Mayflower Hotel, President Truman kindled Democratic hopes for another victory in next year's Congressional contests.

Speaking before the cheers of the men and women who arranged this year's profitable Jefferson-Jackson Day dinners, the President declared:

"I am exceedingly happy that you have been able to arrange a situation which will give the party a financial background with which to win in 1950, because that election must be won. It is important."

"We have a program which we expect to put over. That program is progressing successfully and, after the next session of Congress we can go to the country and say what we have done and what we hope to do and what we want when we elect the Congress in 1950."

The one million dollar war chest to finance the 1950 campaign, was promised by Senator J. Howard McGrath, Democratic national chairman, and William M. Boyle, Jr., executive vice chairman.

They told the audience of a little more than 300 that the party is approaching a "pay-as-you-go" basis and that it is in the midst of a financial drive which should give it a million dollars to "face the foe" in 1950.

McGrath said the party should net between $200,000 and $300,000 from this year's Jefferson-Jackson Day dinners which the party was called to celebrate.

There oughta be a law!

When you pick up a copy of a newspaper you restate your belief in fair play. You express your willingness to let the other fellow get a hearing for his opinion. For opinion is as much a part of the newspaper as fact. Not just the editor's opinion but the opinions of business men and labor leaders, farmers and housewives, public officials and candidates for office — everyone whose opinions make news.

Some men and women think you should not have this freedom. They believe you should read only one set of opinions — theirs. They think there should be a law limiting what a newspaper can print.

Those whose freedom these self-constituted leaders are aiming to limit are not so much the editors and publishers of newspapers as the readers. They claim that newspapers have too much freedom but what they mean is that you are too free. They don't talk about thought control but that is what they have in mind. They don't trust you with the knowledge of what is going on in the world — even what is happening in your own government.

They know that if they can control what you read, they can control what you know. And when they control what you know, they can control your mind. Under the claim of knowing what is good for you, they want to take over your thinking. Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin used the same technique.

Of course, the newspaper isn't your only source of information. But if the attack on the newspaper is successful, you can be sure that the magazines and books and the radio won't be overlooked. The newspaper happens to be the first target because it is the main source of your information regarding the events and trends about which these men and women want to keep you in ignorance. Once the newspaper is muzzled, the others will be easy.

If you think your right to know isn't in danger, take the time to read the proposals that are being offered. Apply these recommended press regulations to this newspaper and to the other publications you read including the ones published by your lodge or union or church.

You may agree that you should get less information than you now get and that some super-commission should decide what you should read. But if you don't agree — if you want to protect your right and that of the members of your lodge and union and church to read freely — you will not be taken in by the high sounding resolutions and other adroit devices now being used as the first step towards control. You will refuse to give them your support. You will speak out against them and against those who ask you to help put public knowledge and public opinion in chains.

Your right to know is the key to all your liberties

Newfoundlanders Are Now Canadians

Newfoundland was discovered and claimed for Henry VII by John Cabot in 1497, before any other British overseas dominions. Its strategic position at the gateway of the St. Lawrence gulf gave it importance from early colonial days. Newfoundland's strategic value today is immeasurably increased by its location outside trans-Atlantic and trans-pacific flight routes. The U. S. maintains military and air bases there under 99-year lease. Gander is the airport for all trans-Atlantic air passengers.

LABRADOR Area, 112,400 square miles; population, 4850—about .04 person to the square mile.

LABRADOR was given to Newfoundland in 1927 by England's privy council.

NEWFOUNDLAND Area, 42,734 square miles; population, 313,000 at 7.3 persons per square mile.

On March 31, Newfoundland's historic role as Britain's "senior colony" ends and the island, plus its continental possession, Labrador, becomes Canada's tenth province. As such, it will have full local self-government and its own legislature for local matters. As part of the Dominion, Newfoundland will now be represented in the Canadian Parliament at Ottawa by six senators and seven members of the House of Commons. It is understood that President Truman has been asked to recognize Canadian sovereignty over the three air bases leased by the U. S. in the famous wartime "destroyers-for-bases" deal with Great Britain.

contest to find the U.S. cowboy who had the hardest winter. "Those fellows in California have more brass than a foundry," Dr. J. B. Heath, president of the association, said. "They are blowing up that little snow they had with so much hot air that it looks like a blizzard." Heath, tall, booted, physician and cattleman, said scores of letters have been received from genuine weather-beaten cowpokes in the Midwest. "We're going to give some pore old cowboy who fought snowdrifts all winter a real sunny vacation," he added. "We're going to fly him to Texas and see that he gets around the state. We'll feed him, parade him and pamper him and make him honor guest at our annual barbecue June 2." The doctor said the sidewalk cattlemen "are breaking out all over in goosebumps from reading about those Midwest snowstorms." "One Montana cowboy wrote from a hospital. He's on the road to recovery after freezing both legs while hunting calves in a blizzard. An Oklahoma cowpoke, 89 years old, wrote that he still rides his horse and has never had a haircut. I believe the business about the haircut. His picture showed him with hair clear down to his knees." Entrants are requested to write Heath, describing their expe-

Snyder Predicts Prosperity Era

CHICAGO — (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Snyder predicted America may be entering "one of the greatest periods of business development in our history."

Painting a rosy picture of the current economic situation, Snyder said in an address for the Executive Club of Chicago that confidence in the future is important. He said the new era will be "one of unprecedented opportunity." A current shift from a seller's to a buyer's market is "both helpful and healthy," he continued. He said the United States is entering this new period with a "financial and economic strength unexampled in our history." The financial soundness of the government itself, he said, "is beyond question." He said that individuals now hold over $47,500,000,000 in savings bonds, almost five billion dollars more than at the end of December, 1945. He reviewed America's industrial development in the past 30 years and said the impetus given our economy by such things as electricity and automobiles will be far exceeded by atomic energy.

Writer Tells of Favorite Dish Of Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Want to know about Hollywood's favorite dish? And I don't mean Betty Grable.

I'm speaking of the Caesar salad, also known by Dicoico, California, Golden West and other aliases. Some say it was born in an eatery named Caesar's in Tijuana, Mexico. At the risk of being picketed by the Home Economics Dept., I offer directions for the salad. We'll make it for two servings, since you'd better not try it on company the first time out. Have these things ready: Romaine lettuce, broken into bite size and chilled. Garlic oil — drop a cut-up clove of garlic into a small jar of salad oil and let it mellow indefinitely. Croutons — cut a couple of bread slices (French is best) into small cubes, douse with the garlic oil and brown in oven. Now drop these things on the lettuce: A couple of slashes of the garlic oil. Ditto or plain salad oil and of vinegar (wine vinegar preferred). Sprinkles of salt, coarse pepper and mustard flour. A few drops of Worcestershire sauce. Juice of half a lemon. Three or four strips of anchovies, chopped fine. Sprinkles of parmesan cheese (crumbled roquefort or blue cheese, too, if desired). A one-minute egg — this holds the dressing together. Croutons. Toss it well and serve just before eating.

Agreement Among Western Allies Furthers Move Toward Peace

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Agreement at long last among America, Britain and France for the establishment of a German federal republic — comprising their three zones — is a further notable move towards peace and rehabilitation for Western Europe. This momentous development contemplates the removal of allied military control over Western Germany as soon as the proposed republic is established. Allied civilian authority will be substituted and will become mainly supervisory. A defeated, war-torn, dismembered and embittered Reich has constituted a growing menace to European recovery. Only a decade ago Germany was the keystone of continental economy. Europe cannot be put on its feet until that keystone is restored economically. Unfortunately the Soviet zone of Germany remains outside the proposed republic because of the failure of the four powers to agree. However, the three-power agreement leaves the way open for Russian participation, and U. S. Secretary of State Acheson said that it provides a basis for increased hope that the Western powers and Russia may solve their differences.

Should Russia not see fit to unite the Eastern zone with its sister states, the new government would lack a rich area which includes the once proud metropolis of Berlin — hub of communications for the whole continent. Still the three Western zones could be constructed into a pro-

And you can have all that—with just a little attention to some simple things to shake the winter out of its bones.

For instance—the rusty sludge that has accumulated in your radiator should be cleaned out. Transmission and rear end may be low on lubrication, and should be checked. Crankcase oil should be changed to a summer grade.

The underside of your car has taken a lot of splashing on wet roads. Some of the chassis grease has been washed out, some of it fouled with mud and grit.

So it's time to drain out the dregs of winter. Time for a little of the knowing, loving care every Buick gets at the hands of our Buick-trained men, armed with Buick-developed tools, Buick-established methods, Buick-engineered parts.

It doesn't take long, doesn't cost much. But it goes a long way toward making old Buicks step out again like lively spring colts. How about stopping in—this week—to see about a spring rejuvenation for your faithful Buick?

Check your car— Check accidents!

Driving is twice the fun when you have complete confidence in your car—when you know that tires, brakes, steering, lights and the like won't let you down.

Altogether, there are 10 points to be checked for safety on any car. Bring your Buick in to us for a thorough going-over before setting off on your spring sojourn. We'll take the worry and fuss off your hands—so you can be carefree at the wheel.

Area Reports Completions

The big news on oil completions this past week was the story on the Sinclair-Lipps well in Roberts County. This being the first of the deep-test wells to produce in the Panhandle Area, and the first indication of what is to be expected from the Andarko Basin made it of extreme importance to this area. (For more details on the development of this well see the following page.)

Six other new oil wells were reported as completed in the Panhandle Area during the past week according to a report issued yesterday by officials of the Railroad Commission.

Completion through the week were divided evenly among the three counties, Carson, Gray, and Hutchinson, each reporting two completions.

Three new gas wells were also reported as completed, and two wells were reported plugged.

Skelton Reviews Texas Oil News

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON —(AP)— American automobile owners think in terms of comfort, performance and appearance — not economy.

That is a problem J. M. Crawford, vice president of General Motors Corporation, says the automobile and petroleum industries must overcome through cooperation in engine and gasoline research.

Engines and gasoline turning out more miles per gallon, Crawford feels, will increase an automobile's economy efficiency whether its owner is particularly interested or not.

Crawford discussed the problem at the American Petroleum Institute's Division of Refining meeting here this week.

Both industries, Crawford said, know how to get more miles per gallon but the solutions are expensive and do not conserve fuel.

"That is the major aim of the automobile industry," he said.

Chester F. Smith, vice president of Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) and API's vice president for refining, agreed.

After warning that refiners must improve the quality of gasoline and lubricating oils, Smith said:

"From the standpoint of the motorist, the performance gain of his car, which may increase from 20 to 40 percent, must not be wiped out by an excessive increase in the cost of his fuel.

"Anti-knock quality must be improved, therefore, without too large an increase in investment and operating cost, if there is to be an overall conservation gain."

Barring a basic change in engine design, he said, anti-knock qualities of motor gasoline probably will continue upward in order to give motorists the inherent economy and performance of already developed higher compression engines.

On other motor fuels problems, Smith observed:

1. Current increases in aviation gasoline demands for high octane will continue to increase but at a slower rate.

2. New specifications for jet engine fuels indicate manufacturing problems will be simpler.

Until a few weeks ago, he said, the industry had been concerned about refining large quantities of jet fuels. New specifications, however, involve what essentially is a very low octane gasoline, he said.

"As much or more gasoline will have to be produced this summer than last, in spite of the current high stocks," he said.

Gasoline stocks dropped slightly for the week ending April 2, totaling 127,769,000 barrels, 18,000 less than the all-time record set the previous week.

Production of gasoline actually increased during the week so the stocks decline must be credited to increased summer demand.

Crude production took another drop, falling 58,000 barrels to a daily average of 5,972,400 barrels. This is approximately 600,000 barrels below a peak average set last December.

Texas' fourth consecutive slash in crude production allowances became effective April 1 and was responsible for the latest nationwide decline.

Roberts County Well Marks New Economic Era

Oil Boom Recalls Early 1926 Panhandle Activity

The hundreds of thousands of dollars Sinclair-Prairie Oil had invested in the belief that there was deep oil in the upper Panhandle apparently paid off this week.

The Sinclair-Lipps well, located on the Lipps Ranch which is a land holding of some 60,000 acres, came in with 517 barrels over a 24-hour test period. Although the specific gravity of the crude is not yet known (but is believed to be about 38, which would be better-than-average grade) it has proven to some extent, according to oilmen, the existence of a vast formation of oil and gas in the Texas Panhandle in the Anadarko Basin, which runs into Oklahoma where it has been worth millions of dollars.

The Pampa News and other Panhandle newspapers received simultaneously Friday this official announcement from the Sinclair headquarters in Amarillo:

"Sinclair-Prairie Oil Company's No. 1 Lipps perforated Mississippi lime from 8,900 to 8,970 feet with 420 shots. The well was acidized with 1,000 gallons of mud acid and 4,000 gallons of regular acid and flowed 517 barrels during the last 24 hours of which 5 1/2 percent was acid and wash water.

That was all. But it was proving to be the Second Chapter of the economic history (in oil and gas) of the Texas Panhandle. The well, some 30 miles north of Pampa, just on the north side of the Canadian River, is the talk of oilmen throughout the country today. Although an Amarillo oil editor has begun talking of a field unparalleled in the nation, oilmen around Pampa hesitate to tag it that big; but they say it might indicate a big pay on a vast scale. There is sufficient depth.

There is much leasing activity in Roberts, Hansford, Ochiltree and Lipscomb Counties; and there has been for months.

There has been a predominant belief among oilmen for some time that the field, which runs toward Elk City, Okla., where has been found a deep pay, might extend in length for a hundred miles, with a width of 50 miles.

The new oil boom brings back to life for many pioneer residents the days of Pampa around 1926, when the first Panhandle oil was found. Although the present strike, on first appearance, does not compare to some of the early-day discoveries, it does prove that there is more oil here than residents had believed a few years ago.

On May 15, 1927, Gulf's No. 1, known as the Saunders (in what is known as the South Pampa field, now) came in with 2,100 barrels of 42 gravity crude in a 12-hour test. This was the same gravity crude as that found in the original Panhandle well, the Bowers well — only a few miles from the Saunders. At that time the field was known as the Wilcox field. H. F. Wilcox, main spring in the production, predicted in April, 1926, that there was great production yet to be found in what he called the "Pampa field." He said his engineers assured him that there were 20,500,000 barrels of oil recoverable under his block alone. The Panhandle field extended toward Borger in May, 1927, when the No. 2 Cockrell in the south-east part of Hutchinson Co. came in flowing 1,500 barrels of 41 gravity oil. Pay was found at 2,422-25.

In that same month, the field was extended southward from Pampa when the Blackwell-McGee No. 1 Bowers, Section 42, Block B-2, struck heavy production at 3,036 feet with 42 gravity oil. The well, on the J. M. Hopkins land, flowed 65 barrels and made nine million feet of gas from granite wash.

On May 6, 1927, the field went further westward when the J. A. McConnell well, being drilled by Prairie Oil & Gas Co., came in at 2,300 barrels and flowed steadily at 1,800 barrels a day. It was in Carson County.

These were the events that made Pampa into a city whose assessed valuation in the spring of 1926 was $1,500,000; whereas a year before it had been only $730,000. The town grew from a settlement of 1,500 people to 7,000 in those hectic months.

"Chapter Two" in the history of this Panhandle country now begins.

Texas Farmers Get More for Crops

AUSTIN — (AP) — Texas farmers got a little more for their crops in mid-March than they did a month earlier, but it still was less than a year ago.

The all-commodity index rose about one-half of one percent during March, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reported. But it still was one percent under mid-March, 1948.

Steel Mills Make Whopping Profits

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Whopping profits were chalked up by steel mills in 1948. But company officials said not all that glittered was gold.

Now that all major producers have turned in annual reports for last year, figures show 1948 was a record breaker for many companies.

Five large steel producers reported total net income at $337,757,744 in 1948, compared to $288,427,311 for the previous year. They were the U. S. Steel Corp., Bethlehem Steel Corp., Republic Steel Corp., Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp., and National Steel Corp.

For the same five companies, which make the lion's share of American steel, combined earnings per share rose from more than $42 to about $55.

Steel company board chairmen said big earnings did not tell the whole story. They contended increased costs of on-the-books expansion programs and other factors would take the fat out of the profit statements.

Crude Oil Supply Said in Balance

COLUMBUS, O. — (AP) — Rawleigh Warner, chairman of the board of the Pure Oil Company, told its stockholders the supply of crude oil "is very nearly in balance with the demand."

"This," he explained, "is due in part to decreased production allowances, in accordance with state regulations at the present time, our production has been curtailed substantially."

The stockholders selected five directors: Beman G. Dawes of Columbus, James A. Elkins of Houston, Texas, and Sewell L. Avery, Robert W. McVain and James E. Otis, all of Chicago.

When Pliny visited India 1,900 years ago he reported to Rome that he saw grasshoppers three feet long with legs strong enough to use as saws.

SINCLAIR-LIPPS well, Roberts County, which came in as a producer this past week, is shown here in the first aerial photograph published of the tester. The News ran the picture three weeks ago.

Geologists Had Eyes on Panhandle Even in 1916

It was in 1901 that Charles N. Gould of Oklahoma City, an engineer with the U. S. Geological Survey, saw the possibilities of Panhandle oil. He made the prediction that oil would be found here while mapping water supplies.

In the summer of 1916, Gould was employed to make an oil survey in parts of Oklahoma, for a group in which there were several Amarillo men. Gould advised them of his having seen a geological uplift in the Panhandle, and he was employed to make an extensive survey of this area. He located and defined an uplift approximately 90 miles long, with an upfold which showed possibilities of having oil and gas. He picked out a high dome 26 miles north of Amarillo for the first test, on lands then owned mainly by R. B. Masterson and Lee Bivens of Amarillo.

Practically all of the largest producing companies of the mid-continent field sent scouts and geologists to this territory, and they carefully checked all operations. Finally, such companies as Gulf Production Company and

The Texas Company selected the second largest dome, about 40 miles east, as being the area most likely to produce oil. This dome is located in Hutchinson and Carson Counties, and the Gulf Production Co. drilled the first well on the Burk Burnett Ranch, Section 118, Block 5, I&GN Survey, Carson County.

This Gulf No. 1 Burnett developed 120 million feet of gas, and when drilled deeper got a little oil, but was later made a gasser — one of the largest in the world. Gulf drilled a second three miles further east and a mile south, where oil was struck at 3,054 feet. This discovery had an initial production of about 800 barrels; but eventually was rated at 200.

The next commercial well was the McGee-McIlroy test, located about five miles northeast of the discovery well. It picked up the first sand at 2,875 feet with about 150 barrels of production. From there drilling was made northward, until the present site

Lecturer Described Panhandle Boom Days Following 1927 Tour

Had you ever thought what the boom days of the Panhandle were like? The following article was written by a lecturer (whose name is not available) and published in the April 30, 1927, issue of the Dearborn (Mich.) Independent:

It was 3 o'clock in the morning. A cold, gray wintry horizon loomed in the east. That high plateau of the Texas Panhandle was no summer resort as I climbed into a veteran auto to negotiate the truck-rutted roads between Clarendon and Pampa.

I had lectured in Clarendon College the night before and nobody listened to my lecture. Why? Because they were all talking and dreaming, and thinking about oil.

It was as if gold had been discovered the night before I arrived. Even the students of that Panhandle college smelled of oil. I, too, became imbued with the spirit of the crowd and left the lecture hall, and hired a man to take me across country to Pampa and then to Borger. We traveled from 3 o'clock in the morning until 8 to make those 90 miles from Clarendon to Pampa. The sun was supposed to come up about 7 o'clock but it did not arrive. Instead, a cold, gray morning began to creep across the plateau, which is 5,000 feet in altitude, and with it a cold driving rain.

But when the light finally bulged its way out of the east, in spite of the rain, it looked like some strange scene from the "Arabian Nights." All about us were tall, gaunt derricks, the heavy odor of oil and gas, great lumbering wagons and trucks lurching and plunging through mud to the beds, 10,000 men working frantically in the rain, steam belching from leaking boilers, and frantic atmosphere of an advancing army.

I have been through battles in France. I have seen great armies advancing overnight, roads being built across swamps by American engineers, the feverish activity of the zone of advance before a battle; but I have never witnessed anything like that surging tidal-wave of men, horses, automobiles and rain in the Texas oil day. Chains did not seem to make any difference. The drivers took too many chances, and in no case did I see anybody help anybody else out of his mudhole. I saw five or six women drivers stuck, but they climbed out in their top-boots and "rolled their own." Not a single man paid the slightest attention. If a woman comes to the Panhandle, she must take care of herself. It is like the Yukon gold strike, with no chivalry and no mercy shown. You go there to look after yourself.

In March, 1926, Pampa had about 1,200 people. In December of that year it had a population of 10,000. Building permits jumped to $728,000 in those nine months. There have been 30 hotels built in Pampa and in six months.

One oil company spent two million dollars in developments in nine months. Two hundred and sixty-one wells were being drilled when I was at Pampa; and 95 percent of them were good wells. Some of them were running from 200 to 3,000 barrels. Sixty-eight wells were drilled in six weeks. I know of a man who sold a friend an automobile 10 years ago and he happened to live in the Panhandle. This friend gave in security five acres of land. The automobile man, who lives in Kansas City, took this land feeling that he could not do better and now he is worth $10,000,000.

I know of another man who bought 3,000 acres in the Panhandle to erect a sanitarium. That was before the war. He bought it right out on the prairie where cattle by the thousands were grazing when he looked it over. Then came the war, and he never completed his sanitarium. He felt that he had a lot of useless cattle land on his hand, but the boom came along. Overnight he was worth $15,000,000.

Then I went to Borger, which is 30 miles from Pampa, and in the second newest oil town in the Panhandle. A year ago where Borger now stands there was nothing but grazing land trampled over by thousands of cattle. The day I was there Borger staged a $200,000 fire which nearly wiped out the new city. Within a month after the fire there were no signs that it had occurred.

A monument was erected by the Mormons at Salt Lake City for the gulls which answered their prayers for an end to a grasshopper scourge.

Skellytown Class Feted at Banquet

SKELLYTOWN — (Special) — Members of the Skellytown eighth grade graduating class were honor guests at a banquet given by the W.M.B. of the First Baptist Church this week. Willis Aubert, president of the BYPU, was toastmaster for the evening. The Rev. M. O. Evans welcomed the class and Carroll Kalka gave the response. Margaret Moran, accompanied by Billy Joyce Adams, sang "Easter Parade."

The Rev. E. W. Milner of the First Baptist Church of Phillips, was the guest speaker.

Those serving were Linda Burba, Joan Estes, Barbara Hutcheson, and Gwendolyn and Roberta Sparks.

Other guests and visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Vineyard of White Deer, superintendent of the school; teachers Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gibson and Mrs. Brownie Osborne, and Principal D. V. Biggers.

Glazier Sportmen Hold Pie Supper

GLAZIER — (Special) — The Glazier Sportmen's Club collected more than $83 for the club fund from a pie supper Tuesday night. More than 40 persons were present at the meeting.

Miss Clark of Canadian and Miss Willie Bullin visited Mr. and Mrs. Homer Jamison Sunday.

Miss Pauline Hand of Canadian visited Miss Margaret Wright Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Howard and children were in Twitty Monday.

Patman Seeks End Of Buying Controls

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rep. Patman (D-Tex.), chairman of the House Small Business Committee, urged removal of all federal controls on installment buying.

In a letter to Thomas E. McCabe, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, he said that it is time to completely abolish all buying regulations.

Chancellor An Apostle Of Austerity

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps, who has won the sobriquet of the "Iron Chancellor" because of his insistence of national austerity, has a conscience like the Rock of Gibraltar—impervious to storms.

Again this doughty guardian of John Bull's purse strings, has dared to face a critical House of Commons and present a budget which means an even higher cost of living, with only minor tax relief. Thus the long-suffering British public which has been reeling with belt tightened across its lean stomach since early in the war, must continue to grin and bear it.

The strain has been so tough that even the left wing of Cripps' own Socialist Party has been clamoring for easement. But Cripps, austere of men as well as of thought, has clung to the course that has been chosen as the only possible route to a balanced national budget. He hopes to achieve this by 1952 when the Marshall Plan relief is due to terminate.

A gauge of the government's daring may be had in the fact that Britain is due for a general election next year. At that time the nation will pass judgment on England's first outright Socialist regime and decide whether it is to continue in power or be scrapped.

The government reports improvement in the general economic position. Production is said to be well above the pre-war level, and business is reported improving.

The taxation in Britain is tough. The average worker pays about fifteen percent if single and ten if married. Above that bracket the standard, roughly speaking, is around 45 percent, though it hits the sky with very big incomes. Thus the tax is slanted in the direction of higher incomes rather than those of working folk.

For many years, going far back of the Socialist regime, taxation has been so levied as to make it increasingly difficult for the individual to salvage more than 5,000 pounds sterling (normally $25,000) per year. As a result Cripps stated last December that the number of net incomes over that sum in the whole country was estimated at 250, whereas before the war there were 11,000.

Three Freed of Assault Charge

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Three men from the Southwest were freed of charges they robbed two Philadelphia doctors. The physicians said they made a mistake when they identified them as their assailants.

The three—Kermit C. Harris, 32; his brother Henry, 37, both of Eufala, Okla.; and John J. Lemington, 40, Graham, Tex.—waived a jury trial.

Judge Thomas Bluet heard testimony from Drs. Irvin Rosenberg and Stanley Boc and then acquitted the three men.

Dr. Rosenberg said Kermit Harris bore a "remarkable resemblance" to Benjamin Lingo of Camden, N. J., who is being held on charges of robbing the doctors. Detectives say Lingo admitted that he and his son were the thieves.

The Southwesterners had been in custody since March 18.
