Nazis Threaten Approach To Caucasus On 200-Mile Front

Germans Pay Heavily For Fertile Land

U. S. Air Force In China Strikes Jap Supply Lines

By RICHARD McMURRAY Associated Press War Editor
A powerful German offensive rolled forward on a 200-mile front in southern Russia toward the northern approaches of the Caucasus Saturday night, but in Egypt the revitalized British army forced the threatening Axis Afrika corps back five miles while the RAF pounded mightily at the enemy, deployed in a desert pocket 75 miles west of Alexandria.

The German advance along the west bank of the Don was made only at the most terrific cost of men and machines, but there was no denying that the Russian position was critical and that the Nazi successes approached the astonishing gains of last summer.

From Voronezh southward to Lissichansk, the fertile farm lands were soaked with the blood of Germans and Russians alike, but the elastic Russian resistance seemed to be permitting the Red army to withdraw in good order despite a German claim of 88,688 prisoners, 1,397 destroyed tanks, and a "destructively beaten army." Hitler, words but not deeds, has "destroyed" the Red army several times before.

Meanwhile, the Bern radio reported fresh encroachment by the Germans upon unoccupied France with the full aid and cooperation of Pierre Laval, Nazi-collaborating chief of the Vichy government.

If confirmed, it appeared from these reports only a matter of time before Adolf Hitler would seize the French fleet now in French continental bases and occupy the "unhappy country completely."

The Bern broadcast quoted "competent French sources" as saying the Germans had agreed to the transfer of French government offices from Vichy to Paris in return for German control of all important war installations, railways, and ports in unoccupied France.

Further, these sources were quoted as saying the bargain involved removal of the demarcation line in the conquered country.

There was no word from Vichy or Berlin on the reports.

It was not clear how the French warships would be affected but German control appeared nearer as the reports said the Nazis gained permission to establish a naval commission at Toulon, French Mediterranean base, plus the right to maintain 4,000 soldiers in a special zone near Toulon.

Elsewhere in the global war, the bronzed Texas brigadier general, Ira C. Eaker, was disclosed as chief of the bomber command of U. S. Army Air forces in Europe and it seemed likely that his growing force soon would start blasting at Germany and clearing an invasion path to strike Hitler from the rear. The stocky Texan decorated four fliers for gallantry in the first U. S. battle on German-held territory July 4.

The U. S. Air force in China struck heavily at the Linchwan base of the 30,000 Japanese in Kiangsi province while the Chinese recaptured four strategic

Fat Collection Program Will Be Started July 15

AUSTIN, July 11 (AP)—Two new salvage campaigns — fat collection on a statewide basis and tin can conservation on a localized plan — were announced for Texas today.

Governor Coke R. Stevenson, chairman of the state's national defense committee, and the Texas salvage committee jointly agreed that:

All local communities sponsor a household fat collection program and that communities within a 100-mile radius of Harris and Dallas counties begin the collection of tin cans on July 15.

Also announced was an intensification of a general scrap metal salvage drive beginning July 12.

The governor said returns from metal collection throughout the nation showed Texas jumped from 27th place in January to seventh place in June.

Housewives will be asked to save all waste cooking fats, straining the materials, removing meat scraps and other foreign matters and delivering the grease to local meat markets.

They will be paid for it.

The salvage committee suggested that local groups organize a special fat salvage advisory committee composed of meat dealers and renderers, representatives of Parent-Teacher associations and women's organizations to coordinate activities.

The tin can collection was limited to two areas because to date only these will be served by plants for shredding cans for shipment. All other communities were advised to ignore the can collection until further notice.

British Bag Twelve Nazi Transports

By EDWARD KENNEDY
CAIRO, July 11 (AP)—A German effort to rush reinforcements by air to the hard-pressed Axis desert armies was broken up today when a patrol flight of British Beaufighters pounded upon a group of big Junkers transport planes and damaged or shot down at least 12 into the sea.

In the land fighting British troops have taken 1,500 Axis prisoners, destroyed 18 enemy tanks and advanced five miles along the northern coastal railroad west of El Alamein, frontline dispatches reported.

The troop-carrying planes from bases across the Mediterranean were under escort of twin-engine Axis fighter planes, but the British said there were no RAF losses in the engagement.

The British attack ended only when the Beaufighters ran out of ammunition and low on gasoline, indicating that some of the aerial convoy might have escaped and reached the Axis bases in North Africa.

Squadron Leader C. V. Ogden gave this brief account:

"We were on patrol when we spotted the Junkers. They were only 50 feet over the sea when we engaged them and in the series of fights which followed the air was thick with shells and machine-gun bullets."

The German troops who perished in the British attack probably were specialists being rushed to reinforce Marshal Erwin Rommel's front line. It was believed here:

"The Junkers-52 is capable of carrying between 14 and 17 passengers, according to the authoritative James All the World's Aircraft. However, the huge plane could carry more troops with all passenger facilities ripped out and there have been estimates that they could transport between 40 and 60 soldiers each."

In another attack on German supply lines, RAF bombers raided Tobruk harbor, now one of the principal lines for enemy supplies. The British reported a direct hit was scored on a munitions ship in the harbor, causing explosions and a blaze which could be seen 80 miles away.

Land fighting raged throughout today in the region close to the coast and some fighting was reported in the southern sector where fierce artillery duels continued.

Most of those captured were Italian troops and the toll was for the first day of the resumed desert fight which began in the waning light of a half moon at 3:30 a. m. Friday.

Aerial fighting hit a new peak of intensity over the desert today, and the Allies were said to hold the initiative in what is described here as a limited offensive against Marshal Erwin Rommel's troops.

Allied Planes Bomb Jap Base At Linchwan

CHUNGKING, July 11 (AP)—Linchwan, base for Japan's ambitious 30,000-man drive in Kiangsi province, was bombed by Allied planes yesterday "with satisfactory results."

Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced tonight, while the resurgent Chinese ground forces reported the Japanese were being driven back steadily toward Linchwan and Nanchang.

While the Stilwell communique identified the bombers as "Allied," Brig. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, chief of air operations against the Japanese in China, declared pointedly: "There has been a definite change in policy since July 1," the date regular United States army air forces began operations in China.

4 American Aviators Decorated By Eaker

By J. WES GALLAGHER
A U. S. ARMY AIR BASE IN BRITAIN, July 11 (AP)—A Texan who learned flying tricks as a test pilot was disclosed tonight as chief of the U. S. Army bomber command in the European theater, entrusted with the task of blasting an invasion path in western Europe.

He is Brig. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, native of Llano county, Texas, and is second in command to Maj. Gen. Carl Spaatz, newly-named commander of the growing U. S. Army Air forces in Europe.

For two months now, stocky Gen. Eaker has been whipping the American bomber command into shape and his men are impatient to "get at 'em and get 'em over with." It appeared that their wish would not be long in coming true.

Thus far, they have been on only one small bombing of German-held airdromes in the Netherlands, but they've heard German aircraft in the distance and, on one night, the dull "crump, crump" of exploding bombs some miles away. Aside from that, the men have been "shaking down" in their new surroundings.

Gen. Eaker took time today to decorate four young Americans with distinguished flying crosses for gallantry in the first run in which they attacked from tree levels while roaring along at 300 miles an hour.

Huge flying fortresses zoomed skyward Saturday as Maj. Charles C. Kegelman of El Reno, Okla., Lieut. Randall Dorton of Long Beach, Calif., and Sgts. Lonnie B. Cunningham of Tupelo, Miss., and Robert Goley of Fredonia, Kas., received the decorations from their commander. They said they were "too busy to be scared" during the action for which they were honored.

Kegelman, a major at 26, brought his Boston bomber from the De Kooy airdrome in Holland after one motor was shot to pieces, the tail was riddled with bullets and a hole was torn in the body when the plane crashed on the ground.

Several hundred American airmen and ground crew personnel watched the decorations of the four fliers, the first Americans to win medals in Europe in this war.

Several hundred American airmen and ground crew personnel watched the decorations of the four fliers, the first Americans to win medals in Europe in this war.

Captain Kegelman by his heroism, his flying skill, his intimate knowledge of his equipment, and his great coolness and judgment in the action saved his aircraft and his crew." He was promoted to major Thursday.

Sergeants Cunningham and Goley continued to man their machines.

Climax Reached In Trial Of Nazi Spies

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—An exhaustive cross-examination today indicated that the prosecution apparently had reached the climax of its case against the eight Nazi saboteurs on trial for their lives before a military court.

Under the blazing electric light from which all daylight has been excluded, army officers assigned to defend the stoic prisoners cross-questioned the agent for more than four hours and still had not completed their examination when the trial recessed at 6 p. m. until Monday morning.

This agent, whose name was not given in the brief communique released by the commission, took only part of the short morning session to give his direct testimony for the prosecution; the first part of the morning session was consumed in cross-examination of an agent who had testified yesterday.

But despite the brevity of his direct testimony, the story he told was the most damaging that had yet been presented if the lengths to which the defense went to shake it are a criterion. He was the ninth witness to testify.

Texas Air Patrol To Be Couriers Over Southwest
DALLAS, July 11 (AP)—Courier service over the southwest will be established immediately by the Texas branch of the Civil Air Patrol under orders received today from the war department by D. Harold Byrd of Dallas, Texas commander of the CAP.

The order is a blanket one covering all of the 2,800 fliers and 800 planes in the CAP which are not under previous assignment to submarine patrol duty over the Gulf of Mexico, Byrd said.

The couriers will carry army and navy personnel, emergency freight and mail to and from Texas and adjoining states. Hops will range from 250 to 450 miles.

FBI Arrests 158 Nazi Aliens For Furnishing Funds To Saboteurs

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation today announced its biggest single haul of German aliens with the arrest of 158 members of a group which financed the return to Germany of one of eight submarine-borne saboteurs recently landed on American shores.

The latest to be landed in the FBI net were 130 men and 28 women—all identified as members of the German-American Vocational League—a Nazi-dominated group which paid for the passage to Germany in 1939 of Heinrich A. Heinek, a 35-year-old native of Hamburg now on trial before a military commission in Washington.

Heinek was one of the eight highly-trained Nazi saboteurs landed on Long Island and Florida beaches by a German submarine late in June and subsequently picked up by the FBI.

Already in custody were 113 German-American "fundists" swept into jail by a nationwide drive last week, and Herbert Karl Friedrich Bahr, accused Nazi spy apprehended traveling as a refugee aboard the Swedish diplomatic liner Drottning-

American Heroes Day Plans To Be Completed At Meeting Today

American Heroes Day Proclamation Issued By Mayor

In line with the nation-wide observance of American Heroes Day, July 17, Mayor Fred Thompson of Pampa today issued a proclamation designating it as an occasion for Pampans to reverently appreciate the sacrifice of those who gave the "last full measure of devotion" to the cause of America and the four freedoms, and to heroes of past wars.

The entire month of July has been designated as Retailers for Victory month, with stores over the nation selling war bonds and stamps to supply the vital needs of America's fighting men.

Object of American Heroes Day is to sell the greatest number of war bonds and stamps in any one day in history.

Whereas Friday, July 17, has been designated as American Heroes Day and set aside over the nation to honor the brave men of the country who are now fighting on every battle front to protect our freedoms and the flag we live under, and since July has been designated Retailers for Victory month among the retail merchants of the nation, now

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, THAT to these brave men, to the heroes of all wars, we, the people of Pampa, Texas, hereby dedicate American Heroes Day:

THAT we pledge on this day we shall honor our heroes of Pampa, Gray county and the Top O' Texas in the best possible way . . . by redoubling our own efforts to win the war:

THAT on this day we will buy United States War Bonds and Stamps in record-breaking numbers so that our men in the armed services will have the tools they need to finish the job;

THAT on American Heroes Day, Friday, July 17, we will show these men in the service a real parade—a parade to the bond and stamp windows which will make this the war:

Wounded Veteran Reaches Houston

HOUSTON, July 11 (AP)—A battered veteran of two World Wars came home to Houston from the Philippines today, with Jap steel in one of his 13 wounds and his left leg gone.

Sgt. Carl Brownfield, 47, is shaken and sick but he has a message. "You can tell 'em this. I've fought all over the world and I've found Texas. . . . Texas."

Texas. It seems that we Texans are fighting this war.

That's why the Australians think we're wonderful. That's why every Australian girl wants to come to Texas."

But Texas is up against a tougher problem than faced in the first World War.

It was no fun in the Philippines. The Japs got me the sixth day of the war. They are plenty tough. They are good soldiers and they play for keeps.

Sergeant Brownfield joined the army as a private in the first World War, fought in France and emerged as a private last year and was a sergeant, construction quartermaster.

Nazis Claim Capture Of 88,689 Prisoners

BERLIN (from German broadcasts), July 11.—The Germans claimed officially today they "have destructively beaten" the Russians on the Don, capturing 88,689 prisoners and huge amounts of material.

The central waterway was reached along a 220-mile front and several bridgeheads were established. A high command communique said:

The Germans said 1,397 tanks and 1,688 guns were destroyed or captured and that 540 Red planes had been shot from the skies. In Friday's fighting alone, the Trans-Ocean news agency said 49 Russian planes were destroyed and only 20 Nazi planes were lost.

The Germans repeated their claim to have captured strategic Voronezh, vital rail center 100 miles from the Don on the Voronezh river.

The indefatigable pursuit of the enemy is being continued," the communique said, stating that the number of prisoners was increasing by the hour. Kharkov and Kursk, which the Germans disclosed had been menaced, now were said to be 220 miles behind the front.

German planes bombed the Caucasian coast and ports on the Sea of Azov and hammered at the enemy and his lines of supplies.

Russian attacks in the Orel sector between Voronezh and Moscow were declared to have dwindled to weak attacks which were repulsed.

In the Rzhev sector close to Moscow, "Resistance on the whole was broken," and the trapped enemy forces were pressed closer together. Bitter close-in fighting was reported on the Volkhov front south of Leningrad.

Isolated breaches were removed by counterattacks," the communique said.

An Open Letter

When a public servant makes a pledge to his constituency and fulfills that pledge, that is, "Sincerity in trust."

Not to do so, would be breaking faith.

Obedient to his Commander and Chief, he will return to Washington from active war duty in the Pacific.

Enlarged Ration Board Meets In Two City Offices

They placed another group of "rookies" at the ration board replacement center" yesterday.

While J. A. Ashby, McLean, and Harry W. Mathews, Pampa, veteran members of the original board set up in January, met in the board's new office in the County Judge's headquarters, along with Clyde Caruth, Pampa, new member, Chairman James B. Massa, Pampa, met with three other members, all new in the city commission room.

Ashby, Mathews, and Caruth comprise the tire, tube, car, typewriter, and bicycle panel, while Carl E. Benedict, Pampa, E. L. Sitter, McLean, and C. W. Burgess, LeFors, compose the food and war price panel, with Chairman Massa as administrator for both groups.

The city commission room has been used in the past for board meetings, and was put to the same use yesterday for the tire-tube-car-typewriter-bicycle panel.

"Instructions to voters" a souvenir of Frigley's bond election, was an imprudent addition to the room in which the panel met yesterday. Placards headed in this manner were still on display around the walls of the room.

New members of the Gray County War Price and Rationing board were sworn in by County Judge Sherman White at a luncheon of the board was held at noon.

Stewardess Escapes 2 Submarine Attacks

Four more ship sinkings announced yesterday by the navy raised to 358 the unofficial Associated Press total of ships sunk in the western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor.

The rate of sinkings prompted marine underwriters to raise their charges for cargo insurance five per cent in most categories.

Strengthening of the Allied merchant fleet was indicated, however, in the lease lend agreement reached in Washington between the United States and Norway by which the United States will furnish free armament for Norway's merchant fleet now in the United Nations service, repair damage and replace ships lost in war operations.

The latest ships reported lost included two United States merchant vessels, a British merchant ship and a small Greek cargo vessel.

The British ship was sunk only a short distance from a Florida port to which she was being towed by a tug. She had been attacked first March 9 while in the harbor of a British West Indian island.

Four of her native crewmen were killed but the vessel was salvaged and brought hundreds of miles in tow until the second attack July 7 finished her.

Her entire crew of 91 Britons, West Indians and Lascar Indians was rescued by the tug which was not attacked. Also rescued was a stewardess who escaped both torpedoes without injury.

Gaily nine of a crew of 40 aboard one of the United States ships sunk May 27 in the Caribbean were rescued when their ship sank in 30 seconds after a torpedo hit. The nine spent five days and 20 hours on two life rafts.

A navy gun crew aboard the other United States ship, sunk several weeks ago in the south Atlantic, stayed with their listing

From Pampa to Pampa, from Pampa to San Diego, to paraphrase a popular song, has been the course of absentee ballots during the past week from the office of the county clerk.

A total of 90 absentee ballots have been mailed out, and 50 absentee ballots have been received, San Diego, California, and Florida, are the points most distant from Pampa to which the ballots have been sent.

Sending of the ballots to San Diego is not alone because of the Gray county men who happen to be in the armed forces; a considerable number are going to former residents employed in defense industries.

Committee Approves 6-Billion Dollar Wartime Tax Bill

By DONALD A. YOUNG

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—A record-breaking $6,250,000,000 wartime tax bill, falling heavily on both corporations and individuals, was approved finally by the house ways and means committee today.

Product of more than 18 weeks of work, the 324-page measure proposes to increase corporation taxes by $2,485,400,000, and individual income taxes by $2,958,000,000.

Huge as it is, the bill is short of the treasury's goal. Secretary Morgenthau asked the committee to raise about $8,700,000,000 in additional revenue to swell to $17,000,000,000 the federal government's prospective receipts this fiscal year.

But the committee chose to go only part way in that program, and defeated attempts to write in a five per cent retail sales tax which experts estimated would make up about $2,500,000,000.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) said that the $6,250,000,000 yield from the measure computed by treasury experts—probably was too low. He made the personal prediction that the revenue would be closer to $7,000,000,000.

"The treasury was too low last year by about $1,000,000,000 (in estimating the yield from the 1941 bill)," he commented. "My opinion is that if business continues as it now appears it will, this bill will raise about $1,000,000,000."

Rep. Cooper (D-Tenn.), speaking for Doughton, said the committee adopted a motion at its last action making all of its decisions final. But the committee will meet again early next week to check the last revision of the measure and some members said there was a remote possibility that still more changes might be made.

Cooper said that it was planned to bring the bill before the house on Thursday, with arrangements for at least three days of debate. The usual custom of forbidding any amendments except those agreed upon by the committee probably will prevail, although some members already have started protesting against what they call "this annual gag rule."

The final draft provides in general as follows:

1. Corporations—Increase in the present normal and surtax from 31 to 45 per cent and substitution of a flat 8 1/2 per cent excess profits tax rate for the present scale ranging from 35 to 60 per cent.
2. Individuals—Increase the present normal tax rate from 4 to 6 per cent and the present surtax graduated scale of 0 per cent on the first $2,000 of net income to 13 per cent. Beginning in January, 5 per cent of each person's taxable income would be deducted from paychecks or pay envelopes, with the accumulations used as a credit against 1943 taxes due in 1944.
3. Excises—Increases in excises on liquor, wine, beer, tobacco, cigars, train fares, telephone bills, freight and express shipments, race track bets.

At a stormy session in the morning, the committee abandoned its program of a 94 per cent excess profits rate, with the corporations entitled to a 14 per cent refund in bonds saleable after the war.

Reversing themselves again, the committee boosted the combined corporation normal and surtax from the previous level of 40 per cent to 45 per cent. Cooper said that these two actions added about $94,400,000 to the total of the bill.

Arthur R. Miller for Lieutenant Governor of Texas

Business-like management of state government.

Lowering of license tag rates for trucks, both farm and commercial types, in view of their huge annual contribution to the state gasoline tax funds.

Continuance of the present Texas liquor laws, in opposition to organized efforts to re-enact prohibition while thousands of our men are in the Armed Forces and without a full voice in such a decision.

All state legislation that offers full support and co-operation to America's war effort.

I am a Texas man, born and raised in Dallas County, operating my own state-wide business for fifteen years. I have a thorough knowledge of law and legislative procedure. My entire platform is based on the belief that state government is the people's business and should be run on business-like principles.

A Clumsy 'Stamp Tax'

More than a week has passed since the July 1 "deadline" for payment of the $5 federal "stamp tax" on automobiles.

It is safe to say, however, that a large percentage of motorists in Pampa and in the nation generally have failed to pay this levy.

These tardy automobile owners are not deliberate tax evaders. Some of them are careless. Others, undoubtedly, see no particular reason for being in a hurry about buying a stamp that no one seems to take seriously enough to enforce. Moreover, it's quite possible that a great many, unconsciously, are motivated by traditional American antagonism toward stamp taxes.

History-minded people have not forgotten the storm which arose in this country in 1765, over the stamp act passed by the British parliament to raise revenue for the mother country in the American colonies—a stamp act that helped bring about the revolt of the thirteen colonies.

The famous British tax, it will be recalled, was adopted to help meet the expenses of a costly war. That also is the purpose of the automobile stamp tax. And for that reason, no good citizen seriously objects to it.

But wouldn't it have been better to have adopted some other means of collection than the clumsy, inconvenient and somewhat distasteful stamp plan?

Wouldn't it have been simpler, more practical and far more efficient to have asked the motor vehicle departments of the various states to collect the federal tax along with the state license fees? The motorist who didn't pay the tax couldn't get his state license tags. And without tags, he couldn't drive.

Such a plan would be more convenient for the motorist, would involve little extra work, would eliminate much bookkeeping and would guarantee payment for every car on the highway.

The plan is so absurdly simple that it must have occurred to tax officials. Perhaps there are technical reasons standing in the way of collection of a federal tax by the state. If so, the average citizen will have difficulty understanding why such technicalities can't be set aside in the case of a war measure.

Maybe the very simplicity of the plan explains why it was not adopted. Tax officials seem to shy away from simplicity.

Second Front

Washington and London very properly are making an intense secret of what was meant by the agreement with Moscow to open up a second European front this year. We haven't been told, and if we had, we should let Hitler and Hirohito guess.

It is fair to mention, however, as a brake upon those who would rush too fast, that for every soldier at the front in this war 20 tons of equipment must be transported from source to battleground. That is eight times the figure for World War I, which pressed us hard on the shipping front.

ALL ON THE CURF
 (New York Sun)

As a relief from doleful grumbling over sugar and gasoline rationing hearken to the tale being told of the adventures of a man who may be called Widgeo. The trouble began when he went to his tailor to order a suit with cuffs on the trousers. The tailor explained the law, but softened when Widgeo offered him five tubes of toothpaste tubes. Widgeo got a promise of cuffs. The tailor, who had tossed his last shaving-cream tube into a box of scrap metal for the Boy Scouts, hurried to the drug store with one of the tubes he had from Widgeo. There he heard a service station man lamenting because a succession of flunkies had used the family's allotment of sugar. The tailor at once offered to exchange ten pounds of sugar and an old tire for five gallons of gasoline, and this was accepted.

On the following day when the tailor drove up to the gas station with the sugar and the tire he was told that the last ten gallons had been run out for a previous customer who, at that moment, was getting free air. This customer was Widgeo. The tailor went over to him and threatened to rescind the promise of trouser cuffs unless he siphoned out and sold half the ten gallons. Widgeo agreed on condition that the tailor return one of the empty toothpaste tubes; for Widgeo's wife had six half-filled tubes of his shaving cream for a dentifrice, and poor Widgeo wore a three-days beard. The tailor got his five gallons, but the gas station man is still drinking unsweetened coffee.

THE SECOND FRONT IS IN THE PACIFIC
 (Chicago Tribune)

The people who are talking and working for a second front on the continent of Europe are, some of them consciously and some unconsciously, one-sided Americans.

The second front is already in existence. It is in the Pacific. Along that front the Japanese occupy positions in the American Aleutian Islands. They occupy the American islands of Wake and Guam. They occupy the outposts of Australia. It will be folly to regard those points as the limits of Japanese aggression. The Japanese do not so regard them. They are still pushing forward and in the light of what they have done since Dec. 7, the losses they have suffered recently at the hands of American airmen over the Pacific are a small price to pay.

The war in the Pacific continues active. The Japanese scored the early knockouts by making the greatest imperial conquests in the shortest time ever recorded in history. Of late we have been winning strategically defensive battles in knockout fashion. The vast area of the Pacific battlefield and the nature of the most effective weapon in that area, the air arm, argue against a stalemate. There is no place to dig in. Whenever there is a meeting, there is likely to be a knockout, until eventually one side knocks the other out for keeps. Unless we fight to win in the Pacific, we are going to lose. There can be no fighting to a draw.

It is not necessary to minimize the menace of Hitler in order to make clear the menace of the Japanese. Those apostles of disunity who are playing the "communist" game or the "British game" in this

LABOR UNIONS LEAD TO INFLATION AND PRICE CEILINGS

When one analyzes why we have inflation and price ceilings, it is not hard to find the cause. When the people come to believe that a group of men have the right to restrict other people from learning and having a right to help establish the value of necessities and, by so doing, are able to take a much larger fraction of the total production than they actually produce in comparison with other workers compelled to buy the necessities they have monopolized, then one of the ways of counterbalancing and reducing this injustice is to have more artificial credit issued; that is, more of things that we use and call money.

When labor unions get such large wages (paper money, which is only orders for things), then the way to minimize this exploitation of their fellow-workers is to issue more credit money so that their wages (orders for things) do not get them as much of the comforts of life as they would if the currency were not diluted or inflated.

And, of course, the more unions that are organized and grab an undue proportion of the total production, the more they pinch and exploit workers outside of the union, the more they pinch the farmers, the white-collared, professional workers and the elderly people who are living on the savings of the past invested in the form of loans.

That was what happened in 1929. Labor unions and manufacturers, due to the pressure of such short-sighted people as the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America of the Methodist church, had so inflated the wages of the pressure group workers, as compared with the wages of the farmer, that the farmer was prostrate. He was disheartened, and discouraged. He was in reality working three or four or five or six or seven hours to get the product of one hour of the man whose wages had been established by pressure. The city man had permitted enough workers to enter the union at these blackmail wages, so that they could only work part time. Thus, their production was down. Thus everybody suffered.

Then the New Deal stepped in and tried to correct this without doing it the natural way by a free market. They changed the price of gold and began to borrow money from the banks, putting more credit money in circulation.

And besides this they so interfered with the prospects of profits by discriminatory laws against the risk investor and thus so restricted the initiative of private enterprise that full employment did not return.

And the more money we borrowed, the more we had to borrow. Then the war came on and we borrowed more. But the war only hastened the condition that would have come without the war: namely inflation either in prices or rationing.

So the real first cause in most every case of inflation in this country and in every other country is artificial wages. Of course, a bad banking system will also cause inflation until the people wake up and realize that prices are out of proportion in some lines to the true value of the service. Then there is a period of depression until these things are adjusted.

But it is the labor union laws passed by the present administration that prevented the adjustment being made and all people going back to work.

There would be no need of all the extra tax to take care of unemployed if labor unions would permit parity labor prices. Then all workers would go to work and there would be no unemployed.

All such devices are used by no choice of Director Eddie Sutherland and his aides. In time of peace it would have been a cinch to charter a ship and shoot the picture at sea with some assistance from the navy. Today, realism comes higher and harder. They've even had to build their own guns.

The five-inch deck gun is made of wood parts of a bread-mixing machine, a pipe from an oil well, some pumps and the base from an old sawmill. A perfect outward replica of the navy five-incher, it aims, loads, fires and even recoils—with the aid of compressed air. Of course, nothing comes out except smoke and noise. It cost about $8,000, mostly in planning and labor, but should make a lot of money. Metro already has arranged to rent it.

The machine guns mounted in the circular concrete shields on deck are RKO adaptations of the Vickers. The explosive jets of flame from the muzzle are oxyacetylene gas ignited by a hidden spark plug.

I watched a scene in which the two shields were supposed to be sprayed by the guns of a low-diving enemy plane. Pat O'Brien and Desi Arnaz were in one, and two omniscient lines of bullet marks, deeply pitted in the wall of their open-top pillbox, showed the effect of the spray and stop just below the edge.

DYNAMITE DOES IT

This bullet-spattering effect was produced internally. Tiny pieces of dynamite had been embedded in the wall of the shield. The charges, called "squibs," could be detonated in rapid succession. When they were, all of us behind the camera were stung by bits of cement.

For the next scene, Max Baer was to be fatally wounded at the other gun, so dynamite squibs had to be exploded inside the round shelter. Baer, wearing a short-sleeved shirt and no coat, didn't like the idea of being so close. Director Sutherland gave him no comfort. "If you hadn't been so anxious to show off your muscles you wouldn't get stung so bad," he taunted.

They rehearsed it (without the dynamite) until Baer complained, "I've hit the canvas more times than I did in the film with Joe Louis!" Then they filmed it. Max put on his fiercest fighting face, and when enemy bullets found him he didn't flinch as the flying bits of cement stung like birdshot.

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

HOLLYWOOD, July 11—Talk about shooting fish in a bucket! you ought to see the way they're shooting this sea-war picture, "The Navy Comes Through."

Or maybe they'll title it "Battle Stations." Anyway, the story about a navy gun crew on a freighter bound for England takes place on a forestation of ship built on a sound stage, and the ocean is represented by a curtain on which horizon and clouds are projected.

When they want a wave, they wheel in an enormous shoot-the-chutes. Tons of water are released down the spillway to hit an upturn at the bottom and surge over the bow. When enemy planes attack and waterpots from the bombs are required, dynamite is set off at the bottoms of water-filled metal drums. These ponderous mortars, out of the camera's sight, blow clouds of spray up past the ship's rail.

BUT THE NAVY'S BUSY

Today's War Analysis

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Wide World War Analyst

Hitler's mass offensive in Russia is so perilously close to cutting the Caucasus off from those of the North and East, that the time seems ripe for action elsewhere by both Axis and Allies to complement, or counter the German successes.

The danger of a German breakthrough from the Don to the Volga on a wide front is very real. Stalingrad, great industrial center of the sea, the Caucasus and the Volga, perhaps started that his forces were within 80 miles of the city. To the southeast is the Caspian sea. Should the Nazis drive through to the sea they would cut off the great oil field of the Caucasus and isolate a great mass of the Red army. Marshal Timoshenko's rail communications with the North have been broken. The right flank of his line on the upper Don stands threatened also with isolation from its southern wing. Presumably he must look eastward, beyond the Volga, for supplies and reinforcements for his left flank upon which defense of the Caucasus rests.

Therefore, the moment for which Japan has been waiting, to strike at Siberia, may be at hand. There seems little doubt that Red reinforcements are being sent northward from the Siberian defense area, must be in motion southward to bolster the tottering front in the Ukraine.

Chungking accounts have insisted for weeks that heavy Japanese forces were being mustered northward for use in July against Siberia. An attack there, integrated with the German offensive in Southwestern Russia, has been repeatedly mentioned in the press. It is there that the first "second front" of the 1942 campaign might develop on Japanese initiative to aid Russian peril before Anglo-American preparations are complete for whatever attack from the West may be in the making.

To support that view it can be argued that Hitler's Japanese accomplice despite the trouncing received at American hands at Midway, has laid a protective ground work in the Western Aleutians for an attack on Siberia. The Japanese footholds on the extreme Northwestern tip of American territory, which these fog-bound islands represent, could to some extent impede American aid for Russia.

American Aleutian bases could help materially in shutting Japanese forces to Siberia to bolster Russian defenses if they are attacked or to strike back by air at Japan. Nipponese outposts there (for which a heavy price in lost war-craft has been paid) stand athwart that land-sea bridge. They do not necessarily make it unusable, however. Presumably they could be bypassed at need. They do impose a definite obstacle, however, and one difficult to remove completely.

Next Six Months To Show Shortages

WASHINGTON, July 11. (AP)—Shortages in many lines of goods and merchandise are already pinching the civilian population, the War Production Board said today. Actually, the citizens at home haven't seen anything yet.

In the next six months, huge peace time inventories of consumer items will be completely exhausted, it added. Then, the people will really feel the impact of economic change-over which permits only the production of war materials, plus an absolute minimum of civilian essentials.

"The people must be fed, clothed and transported to and from their work, if their work is essential," WPA said in its first economic communique since Pearl Harbor. "Health services must be maintained and, as far as possible, our educational system must be kept going as usual."

But, apart from providing these essentials, all of our materials and all of our labor, both of hand and brain, must be for the production of supplies and instruments of war."

WORRIES NOT ENDED

Maybe it has fizzled. Approval of the sale of WEBR to the Buffalo Courier-Express would seem to indicate that it had. But it might be revived as a post-war reform movement.

It has been repeatedly stated at FCC that Order 79 was never intended to have any application to stations now owned by newspapers—that the order would apply only to future applications from newspapers wanting radio outlets. A lot of newspapers now owning radio stations fell for this bait.

What they have overlooked, however, is the Federal Communications act of 1934 which specifically limits a federal radio station license to three years and provides that applications for the renewal shall be governed by the same considerations which affect the granting of original licenses.

In other words, you can't interpret the law two ways—one way for newspapers now holding licenses and another way for newspapers wanting a new license. And FCC still has the power to drag out Order 79 and try to enforce it in some not so sweet bye and bye.

Behind The News In Washington

By PETER EDSON

The Federal Communications Commission's great investigation into newspaper ownership of radio stations has just kicked itself in the pants.

Hearings on this question, you'll recall, got going just a year ago with much ballyhoo and uproar. It had the newspaper and radio industries both scared half stiff. FCC had just completed a study of the control and newspaper participation in news and other broadcasting of the 30-odd licensed radio stations. FCC's survey disclosed that a third of the radio stations had newspaper tie-ups, and for some mysterious reason which no one has ever satisfactorily explained, this was thought by a majority of the commission to be dangerous and against the public interest.

What the newspaper and radio industries both feared was that the FCC was simply paving the way and justifying itself to issue an order which would ban newspapers from having anything to do with radio, not only in established short wave and standard commercial broadcasting, but also in the new FM-frequency modulation system. Such an order would obviously have implications for government-owned radio and a power of censorship which would have killed any hope of a free-speech radio.

The device by which the FCC has just performed the neat trick of kicking its pet investigation in the britches is a memorandum opinion granting the Buffalo Evening News permission to sell control and capital stock of one of its two radio stations, WEBR, 75 per cent to the Buffalo Courier-Express and 25 per cent to the Buffalo Courier-Express. The News retains control of its second station, WBBN.

Now this looks like a perfectly routine approval on transfer of ownership over a radio station. You have to dig into it deeper to see why it does to the FCC groundwork for any new restrictions on newspaper ownership and control of radio.

DISORDERLY ORDERS

The WEBR application really put the FCC on the spot, because of two previous FCC orders. The first order, No. 79, promulgated before the FCC newspaper-radio investigation got going a year ago, in effect froze all newspaper applications to acquire new radio stations, until policy on this question could be determined. This second order, No. 84, provided that no individual or group could own or operate more than one standard broadcasting station, if the two stations would serve substantially the same area.

Order No. 84 was suspended by the FCC on appeal and protest of the broadcasting chains, but the commission reserved the right to put it back into effect on six months' notice.

With these two orders therefore hanging over the heads of radio and newspaper industries, up comes the application from the Buffalo Evening News to sell WEBR, one of its two stations. The option to reinstate Order No. 84 was obviously an indication that the FCC policy was against any single interest controlling or operating more than one radio station serving any given area.

That was why the Buffalo Evening News was willing to sell one of its stations. And in line with its policy, FCC could do nothing but grant the application.

But in authorizing sale of station WEBR to the Buffalo Courier-Express, the FCC was in effect approving the purchase of a radio outlet by a newspaper, in violation of FCC order No. 79. Having established a precedent by this action, the question is how the FCC can justify refusing the applications of other newspapers to acquire radio stations.

At the Federal Communications commission, it is explained that while hearings on newspaper ownership of radio were suspended in February, the case has not been completed. There are gaps in the testimony and one or two members of additional hearings would be required to do the job. One member of the FCC staff has been making a digest of the testimony, but with a war on, he has other things to do. The report on the hearings may not be printed because of the paper shortage, and the Budget bureau wanting every unnecessary item of expense eliminated. In fact, there seems to be a total lack of interest at FCC in doing anything more about the newspaper-radio investigation.

SOMEBODY crossed us up in a city-bond election Friday. I said there wouldn't be more than ten votes against it. . . . There were 12. . . . Who doo-dat? . . . We guess 12 persons out of nearly 50 could make a mistake, so we'll call the vote unanimous and Pampa patriotic stand for the war effort remains at 1,000 per cent. . . . This is, of course, if we go over the top on American Heroes Day next Friday for our July war bond quote. . . . Pampa's merchant are doing such a magnificent job of promoting and selling bonds and stamps during July Victory for Retailer month that they deserve a special tribute for the tribute they are paying to the heroes in the armed forces.

Going away on a vacation this summer? . . . If so, you'd better make your vacation book along if you plan to be gone for a week or two in one spot. . . . According to the Office of Price Administration, each person eating 12 or more meals a week in any one hotel, or resort, must have over his ration book to the manager, who will be required by his local rationing board to accompany sugar purchases by proportional number of guest books. . . . Incidentally, that also applies to Girl Scout and Boy Scout camps. . . . Directors of these camps have been advised they can obtain sugar only through the use of sugar-ration books for campers.

MAIL from home is considered the No. 1 morale factor among men in the armed forces. As evidence we offer the findings of John P. McKnight, Wide World correspondent. Based on a two weeks' survey of men in the Caribbean area, he offers the following factors in keeping Uncle Sam's soldiers happy:

1. Letters from home.
2. Sports.
3. Letters from home.
4. Music—recorded or radio—amusing.
5. Letters from home.
6. Books and magazines, preferably new.
7. Movies from home.
8. Movies they haven't seen before they left the states.

The first question of the men as they come in from submarines, from guard duty, from slashing through the jungles in forced marches is always the same, he says—"Any mail for me?"

Here's a good Sunday thought: "One cool judgment is worth a thousand hasty councils. The thing to do is to supply light and not heat. At any rate, if it is heat it ought to be white heat and not sputter because sputtering heat is apt to spread the fire. There ought, if there is any heat at all, to be that warmth of the heart which makes every man thrust aside his own personal feelings, and we are the only interest, and take thought of the welfare and benefit of others.—Woodrow Wilson."

NOW that the United States and Great Britain again are fighting in a common cause, there is renewed interest in the statement made by Mark Twain in London in 1900 or announcing his intent to return to the United States. Here it is: "After nine years' residence abroad I am convinced that England is the best friend we have in Europe and for the world that the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes should wave together."

As a war on, he has other things to do. The report on the hearings may not be printed because of the paper shortage, and the Budget bureau wanting every unnecessary item of expense eliminated. In fact, there seems to be a total lack of interest at FCC in doing anything more about the newspaper-radio investigation.

Oana Has Best Earned Run Average In Texas League

DALLAS, July 11 (AP)—Big Hank Oana, the pitcher, won himself two pitching victories this week and that shored the Fort Worth hurler right up with the top men of the Texas League race.

But Hank's win is not to be measured only in wins and losses. He boasts one of the lowest earned run averages this league ever saw—0.81 in 7 1/2 innings. The record is 1.16, set last year by Howard Pollet of Houston.

The way the big Hawaiian is going he would be out in front in victories, too, if he had started pitching earlier. Almost two months of the season were gone before Manager Rogers Hornsby sent Hank in as a relief hurler. Yet Oana has won six games against two losses, allowed 46 hits and 11 runs, only seven earned runs.

League averages released today extend only through last Wednesday's games and do not take in Oana's Thursday night four-inning, 5-2 decision over San Antonio.

Those averages had Clifford Chambers of Tulsa with a perfect pitching record of two victories and no losses and with ten pitchers boasting ten or more victories. Earl Caldwell of Fort Worth had twelve; George Klein of Houston, Doyle Lade of Shreveport and Stutz Overmire of Beaumont each boasted eleven, and Joe Berry of Tulsa, Paul Spear of Shreveport and Gordon Matzberger of Dallas ten each.

The batting race was still a battle between Hood Evers and Dick Wakefield of Beaumont, the former with .361 and Wakefield with .352. Beaumont retained the lead in club batting with .279.

Overlooked in the betting, Fad, owned by R. W. McIlvain, a Chicago oil executive, showed her flying heels a half dozen lengths in front of Hal Price Headley's Askmenow, one of four fillies the Lexington, Ky. turfman sent out in an attempt to triumph. Miss Barbara, entry of Louis B. Mayer, motion picture producer, was third, and Who Me, another Headley race was fourth, in a field of 13.

Fad returned $50,000, $20,000 and $9.60.

A crowd of 35,000 witnessed the upset. The spectators were convinced it would be a two-horse race between the Calumet farm's heretofore undefeated Easy Legs and Miss Barbara. Easy Legs, winner of three straight races, closed at odds of 6-5. And finished eleventh.

Surratt and Mohrlock Led Oilers At Plate, On Mound

The West Texas-New Mexico baseball league disbanded for the duration of the war last week with Ray Surratt of the Pampa Oilers one of the top hitters in the league and Andy Mohrlock of the Oilers one of the best pitchers. Surratt finished the season with a batting average of .376 while Mohrlock had a record of 10 wins against two losses, according to records kept here. No league figures have been received.

Surratt joined the Oilers after nearly a month with Clovis. He hit successfully in every game but eight after joining the team. Mohrlock was another import, being bought from Lamasa in a cash deal. He was sold to the St. Louis Cardinals a week before the league disbanded, and is now in Decatur, Ill.

Another slugging Oiler is also playing in higher company. Joe Isaacs being with the Dallas Rebels. On Thursday night Isaacs batted two hits on four trips to the plate, scored once, and drove in two runs. On Friday night he scored the winning run in the 10th inning after he had batted two hits on five trips to the plate. Isaacs was third in the Oiler batting department with an average of .350. In between Isaacs and Surratt was Marshall Brown with a .359 average.

Apache Sets New Record In Empire City Handicap

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Shut Out declined the issue in the rich Empire City Handicap today because of an off-track and maybe it was lucky he stayed home.

Because Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons sent his "comeback kid," Apache, out to the wars, and the ball son of Alcazar not only grabbed off the $20,100 winner's bankroll, but romped to a new track record doing it.

Having his first outing since he finished ninth in the Preakness in early May, Apache took over the lead after half a mile and just buck-jumped the rest of the way under Jimm Stout's easy ride to hit the wire in 1:56 flat for the mile and three sixteenths that lopped three fifths of a second off the mark Tola Rosa set up only a week ago in upsetting Whirlaway.

With Shut Out scratched because of footing regarded only as "good," Apache and stablemate Vagrancy, from Banker William Woodard's barn, went off as favorites in the field of seven. Apache, whose daddy is in the army now—serving the re-moat service—was 5-for-2 in the betting and won like a 1 to 5 shot as he galloped home three lengths in front of Joseph M. Roebing's Lochivar before a crowd of 21,462. Warren Wright's Col. Teddy, coming from last place, wound up third another three lengths farther back. Vagrancy finished fourth.

The titmouse is a bird.

CROWNS UP AND CROWNS TO THE FORE is the big, new hat style, and here's Sally Victor's representative bloused crown—like a sawed-off stovepipe. It's raspberry-color suede.

Task Will Be Easier If You Appear For Job 'In Character'

NEW YORK—First-job hunting ought to be quite an adventure this summer.

No thought of overwearing lines of experienced competitors—not when you know that war has multiplied the demands for typical pre-war career women like secretaries, nurses, child-care specialists, and has caused women's colleges to be deluged with demands for women in once-masculine fields such as chemistry, pharmacy, medicine, statistics.

There is some excitement now, to jobs that once might have seemed terribly tame—for instance, jobs in some of the airplane production plants where now every sixth woman is college trained.

PROPER COSTUME BUILDS CONFIDENCE. Moreover, and not least consideration by any kind of figuring, your job-hunting costume is more comfortable and confidence-building, as well as better looking, than your pre-war sister's.

For all these reasons, it would be well to give that get-up some thought before you strike out.

Now, more than ever, you need to be in character. In this respect the personnel man or woman is more knowing than formerly, and the competition is keener. You not only need to look fresh, neat, competent, as any would-be working woman would—you need to show by your dress the qualities your specific desired-job requires.

Say you want to be a government gal... a secretary, or junior trainee in aircraft communications, a field representative for the OPA. The personnel experts, consequently, are going to do a better job of looking for reliability, maturity, and good integration of personality, and they're going to look for these in your clothes as well as in your facial expression.

"REAL" HAT IS A NECESSITY. Grooming will show these qualities, from your smart new low-and-wide-heeled shoes to your crisp hat. Snoods, bows, hand-twisted turbans are only for a girl with enough dressmaking talent to be trying out for something in the fashion business. So—better wear a real hat with your practical-but-pretty summer suit-dress.

Both should flatter you. With light brown or honey hair, for instance, you might want a toast-colored hat of crocheted straw, to match your toast-linen jacket, your brown-and-white checked gingham collar, cuffs, and pleated skirt. White gloves—that are snowy white.

That is the safest type of job-hunting costume for a girl seeking any kind of a job in any industry. However, if the business job you want requires someone with a lot of get-up-and-go, or someone with originality and the capacity to do her own creative thinking, then let your costume show those qualities.

They'd be well flattered, too, if you're looking for a magazine job, a merchandising job, a really worthwhile job in social work, child care, or for any technicians' work from apprentice bacteriologist to pharmacist.

Choose something bright and spirited—a leaf-green shirtwaist printed with white hearts and arrows, a separate green shantung cardigan jacket, very new and pert, with under-collar neckline; and a fall-forecast beret of matching green or crisp navy felt.

If you seek a theatrical job, try a sweeping black velvet picture hat, if you have copper-colored hair, a black sophisticated suit, and black gloves.

BUY VICTORY BONDS. More than 125,000,000 American farmers have lost their best topsoil through erosion according to estimates.

Flower Arranging Studied By Garden Club At Meeting

Continuing its study on flower arranging, the Pampa Garden club discussed and criticized arrangements at its meeting Friday morning in the city club rooms.

Mrs. R. R. House directed a demonstration in which Mrs. Luther Wilson showed an arrangement illustrating profuse informal balance; Mrs. House, wild flowers; Mrs. H. J. Davis, informal balance; Mrs. W. T. Hendricks, vertical line; Mrs. Perry Gault, horizontal line; Mrs. Paul Jones, radiating line; Mrs. Johnny Hankins, circular; and Mrs. H. E. Schwartz, erect semi-circular.

Following the program, brunch was served at card tables with Mrs. L. J. Zachary, chairman of the hospitality committee for the day, in charge. Vegetables were brought by members for the combination salad and the committee served fried fish and crackers. The group at each card table arranged a centerpiece of flowers which suited the luncheon cloth on that particular table. Mrs. Paul Tabor, Mrs. R. T. McNeill, and Mrs. H. W. Morrow judged the arrangements.

During the business session at which Mrs. Bob McCoy, president, presided, Mrs. H. W. Morrow spoke of the canning project of the club. Seeds were purchased by the club in the spring and planted by the members in the garden.

Here's an economy sandwich filling: left-over ham, minced and mixed with cream cheese and chopped green peppers and a little mayonnaise. Spread on graham bread; add crisp lettuce.

Sweet pickle juice is a mayonnaise stretch—adds a subtle sweet, yet tart flavor to salads. Most salad combinations take to it nicely, especially cole slaw.

The "something old" which Miss Alice Marie McConnell wore at her wedding yesterday afternoon when she became the bride of Stanley Gordon of Dumas, formerly of Pampa, was a 100-year-old ring which belonged to her maternal great grandmother.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Gilliland, 215 North Somerville street, and Mr. Gordon is the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Gordon of Lindsey, Oklahoma.

The home of the bride's parents was the scene of the single ring ceremony which was solemnized at 3 o'clock with the Rev. James Todd of Panhandle officiating.

Following the ceremony, an informal reception was held in the Gilliland home. White tapers lighted the table which was centered with an arrangement of peonies and pink sweet peas. The bride cut the first piece of the three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, and Mrs. D. B. Jameson served the cake while Mrs. Harry Gordon, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, poured punch.

Immediately after the reception, the couple left on a short wedding trip. They will be at home in Dumas upon their return.

Mrs. Gordon, who was born and reared here, was graduated from Pampa High school where she was a member of the pep squad and typing and shorthand teams. She has been popular in the social activities of the younger set. She is employed at the Chemical Construction company in Dumas where she will continue her work.

Mr. Gordon was graduated from a New Orleans high school where he belonged to the Athletic club and was a member of the school football team. Mr. Gordon is employed by the Chemical Construction company at Dumas, also.

The guest list for the wedding and reception included Mr. and Mrs. Bob Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wehrung and daughter, Wanda Leigh, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Jameson and children, Junior and Nancy;

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Anderson, Mrs. James Todd, Mrs. G. A. Hall of Tulsa, grandmother of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Glasgow of Perryton, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bishop of Amarillo, Mrs. Beulah Dyer of Canyon, Mrs. Paul Rusk of Amarillo, Mrs. May Boone of Amarillo, Mrs. Walter Lotfus of Parsons, Kansas, Mrs. Harlan Platt of Pennsylvania, Floyd McConnell, Mrs. Githa McConnell, Mrs. J. C. McConnell, Mrs. Harry Gordon, Mrs. J. Gordon of Lindsey, Oklahoma, mother of the bridegroom; Miss Cleo Phillips, and Miss Evelyn Moorehead.

V Notes RED CROSS VOLUNTEERS

By MRS. FRED ROBERTS
Mrs. Hel Wagner, who has been chairman of production of the local Red Cross chapter since January of this year, has tendered her resignation to the board to take effect immediately because she and Mr. Wagner are leaving Pampa. The whole community will feel keenly the loss of Mrs. Wagner. Right now the Red Cross feels that all the organizations that will be affected by her going, the Red Cross will suffer the most.

War relief production in Pampa took on a new impetus when Mrs. Wagner became a part of it—first as the writer of this column and then as production chairman. Not only did the volume increase but because nothing short of the best satisfies her, the quality of workmanship increased, too. To the end that Pampa's production should be of the greatest benefit to those it helped, she gave unstintingly of her time and energy. Only those closely associated with her know that day after day she worked into the early hours of the morning recording the work of that day and making plans for the next.

And her plans were always good. Mrs. J. B. White, executive secretary, says that somehow Mrs. Wagner always knew the best thing to do and the best way to do it. The Pampa chapter is grateful that it has had the opportunity to learn from her.

Mrs. F. E. Leech has offered to teach women to knit in her home and will start a Red Cross class next Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. The class will continue for four consecutive weeks. If you feel that you could not learn so easily in the busy production room, do take advantage of this opportunity to learn under a thorough and patient teacher. The address is 1128 Christine. Bring a pair of needles and a ball of your own yarn.

the merchants and tailors who gave their wool clips to the Red Cross and the Boy Scouts who collected them.

The cutting is going along nicely. We are putting every afternoon from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Jack Merchant, who has done such a wonderful piece of work for the Red Cross at the Cabot-Kingsmill plant, has just moved to Pampa. She taught a group of women out there to knit and by now every one of them has knit garments for the Red Cross. What's more—the garments are all just practically perfect. Mrs. Merchant gave out the yarn, supervised the check-ups, and kept the records so that the women would not have to make the trip into Pampa.

Aid to Russia totals $3,500,000. This amount is to be doubled within a short time, announces Chairman Norman H. Davis. Approximately 500,000 garments valued at $1,200,000 are included. Shoes for women and children, blankets and soap are major items.

In response received through the United Red Cross the Red Crescent societies, the American Red Cross sent 2,625,000 pounds of laundry and toilet soap and will soon dispatch 100 tons of surgical soap, Mr. Davis said.

Among drugs sent were one million of Red Cross the Red Crescent sulfapyridine tablets, four million milligram quinine, as well as one thousand pairs of surgical supplies ranging from one million hypodermic needles to X-ray equipment valued at $27,000. It included such items as 200,000 hot water bags, 235,000 pairs of surgical gloves, 20,000 tourniquets, 60,000 syringes, 850,000 forceps, 100,000 rolls of adhesive plaster and 36,000 two- and three-inch bandages.

First work that American Red Cross relief supplies were being distributed to Allied war prisoners and civilian internees in Hongkong and Shanghai is received by Chairman Davis in a cable from the International Red Cross committee in Geneva. Arrangements have been made for the distribution of 2,000 tons of American Red Cross cracked wheat, farina, oats, and a substantial amount of medical supplies to Allied prisoners and internees in Hongkong.

Constance Ferguson Presents Students In Ballet Recital

Completing a one-month workshop in ballet, Miss Constance Ferguson, accompanied by Miss Pauline Stewart at the piano, presented her students in a miniature Russian ballet in garden concert Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock in the yard of Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Sawyer, 321 N. Gray.

Following the dancing program the hostesses served punch and cookies. Approximately 175 guests, as many men as women, attended the performance. The program attracted the attention of car and pedestrian traffic from the street.

The program, interspersed with ballet piano numbers, offered a fitting setting to the occasion. Miss Stewart played Orpheus Overture by Chopin, Prelude pour le piano by Debussy, Polonaise in A by Chopin, and Waltz in D Flat by Chopin.

A synopsis of the presentation would reveal "Hungarian Rhapsody," a peasant dance arranged to Liszt music, danced by Zita Ann Kennedy, Joan Sawyer, Elizabeth Reynolds, Margaret Sullins, Edwina Lee Emerson, Virginia Mc-Kenna, and Mrs. R. Sawyer; and "The Fairy Carnival by Tschalkowsky, in which the red elf sneaks upon the scene and finding itself adopted by the fairy, is carried off by the fairy's magic wand.

It was about as phoney a philosophy as the courtesy instituted in Germany—where the populace obeys the outward forms of courtesy—or else.

In times as difficult as these there is a real need for people to get on with each other and make each other feel as good as possible. But there shouldn't be any wholesale adoption of that "How interesting do tell me more" palaver that was tried out by the gullible such a short while ago.

There should, however, be a conscious effort to show appreciation whenever it is felt, instead of deliberately hiding it, or being too diffident to express it.

If you think Mrs. Jones, whose only son is in the service and who is taking it with her chin up, is a fine woman, then there is certainly some way you can let her know it—without laying it on thick.

If you admire the way a young wife whose husband is in Australia is looking out for her children and wearing a smile instead of a long face—it certainly couldn't hurt her to know someone appreciates the effort she is making.

KEEP CHIN UP WITH HONEST PRAISE
If you think a woman who is doing a man's job is pretty much all right, she ought to know about it. The job might seem easier if she knows other people admire her for lacking a job that is both new and difficult, when she could have gone on doing nothing very important or worthwhile.

There's no reason why you should feel silly if you let a young man know you appreciate his risking his life for you.

There's a great need now for expressed admiration and appreciation. But it has to be real. And it shouldn't be done for any cheap motive.

We're having tough going and our words of honest praise should be given for the sole purpose of helping the other fellow keep his chin up. The army would call it keeping up each other's morale.

Judy Garland Looks Back On 'Long' Career

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Miss Judy Garland, practically out of her teens, was moved today to look back down the long corridor of the years and reminisce.

She had ample urging. Her new movie, "Mo and My Gal," is a yarn about vaudeville when there was a Palace and all vaudevillians dreamed of playing it. Judy herself is a veteran vaudevillian of the later days when all of them dreamed of playing Gramman's Chinese—and wowing the movies.

Judy was two years old when the Gumm Sisters initiated a new member in their song-and-dance act. She was 13 when, with the other Gumm married and retired, and Judy carrying on alone, she was picked up by the movies.

Her first picture was that famous short of Metro's—the one in which two little girls named Garland and Durbin showed off their voices, after which Miss Durbin was dropped and Miss Garland kept on the payroll in a small way. Then Miss Garland was loaned to 20th to play a raucous little girl in pitfalls for "Pigskin Parade," thus beginning her own pictorial parade.

Miss Garland in due course attended the preview, and cried for three days.

"I'd always imagined that anybody in pictures automatically became glamorous," she recalled, looking very glumly in a 1917 evening gown and hair-do for the picture. "But I wasn't."

So she cried for three days, one day more than she cried when a reviewer covering the Gumm act described Judy as a feather-lunged singer who sang "Stormy Weather" and inspired in the listener a fervent hope that the thunder would drown her out.

Then there was the time the Gumm, motoring from stand to stand, settled down at the Chicago Century of Progress exposition and, by dint of warbling and stepping and hoarding the proceeds for weeks, bought a complete new set of costumes; four outfits for each of the three girls, four "changes" for their mother-accompanist. They headed west for Hollywood and the Chinese, their new wardrobe in a trunk strapped to the rear bumper somewhere outside St. Joseph, Mo., that trunk—not the other one containing "junk"—was lifted. The act got to Hollywood and bought four sweater-and-skirt sets.

But Judy is a glam-glam now. In this picture she has 11 costumes, nine evening gowns, eight suits and five coats. She has 19 different hair-do's, fun, Judy?

"Of course I like it. But why did I complain before? It used to be I could run into the wardrobe department, try on a gingham frock, and that was that. Now it's hours of fittings. And two hours earlier in make-up. And I have to guard against picking up new freckles, and I can't bowling or broken finger nails for me until the picture's over. I guess I never really appreciated those pictorial parts."

RALPH BELLAMY has an unusual romantic role opposite Irene Dunne in "Lady in a Jam." Patricia Knowles, Eugene Pallette and others are in the cast of the comedy production, produced and directed by Gregory La Cava.

In "Lady in a Jam" Miss Dunne portrays an irresponsible New York heiress who goes broke and who then proceeds to go West, to the badlands of Arizona, to work an abandoned gold mine in a ghost town. At the LaNora today, tomorrow, and Tuesday.

Sunday Morning
San Diego, California.

Dear Mr. and Mrs.

I was certainly tickled to get your letter. It seems to remind me that I am not here for nothing but that I really do have something and someone to fight and work for. It makes living this kind of life much easier.

Mother and, my sister, have been out here for the past week and I certainly was glad to see them. I was very lucky because my superior gave me five days off and I spent every minute of the time with them. I hated to see them leave, of course, but it is just one of those things that can't be helped.

We are still having blackouts and air raid alarms and they are beginning to become an every night event. I don't mind them a bit though because when the real thing does come along we will certainly be ready for it and that is what really matters. I am enjoying my life here much more than anyone would think because I have a very pleasant job and enjoy doing my work. In a way it continues my salesmanship experience and that is what interests me most because I want to learn it and everything else because who knows, I might be able to use it to a great advantage someday. I am the agent for Defense Bonds and Stamps for the Marine Corps here. It really is quite a large job but it is interesting and the time I spend working on it passes very fast. I do this besides my regular duties as Recreation Clerk so you can see that I have quite a full day. I was very lucky and got my picture in the Marine Corps paper and that is considered quite an honor because every Marine in every country in the world reads and likes our paper.

I am glad that Pampa has the opportunity to have a Bomber Plant because it will certainly help everyone out. Who knows, I might be sent there someday for my duties because I took an examination for Bombardier in the Air Corps and passed it with flying colors. I have no idea when I will be transferred for instruction but I am just waiting a chance to get into the fighting and help my buddies finish those YELLOW PEOPLE quick. Mother tried to talk me out of it because she thinks that it is too dangerous but I think that I will find better opportunities there and do more for my country. I think that a fellow has his time set and if he is going to die there isn't much that he can do about it. I hope my time isn't hovering near but if it is, I can take it and never be sorry. Enough of that I guess.

Gosh, I was sorry to hear about Mrs. 's husband being in training but he is really a smart man and can do world of good for his country. I was glad to hear how brave she was taking it because that is the most important thing in the world. If the people we know and love will be brave and loyal, all of us will come out of this war better men and women and really have a great country to live in. Tell her hello for me and that I will give her a coke every morning when I come back to Pampa. I hope she remembers the guy who used to make her a Coke the first thing every morning because I don't want any of my friends ever to forget me.

I sure do miss all of you and wish I could see you and tell you how much you all mean to me. Maybe sometime I can let everyone know how I feel.

Write me my dear ones when you have time and I will answer right back. I enjoy your letters so much and they make me feel so good. Tell and all of the other good friends of mine hello and that I miss them a lot. Bye now and remember I think of you often.

Lots of Love
JACK

P. S. This pay raise was certainly swell. The people in our country can never realize how much we appreciate it. I am buying Defense Bonds with mine. I sold $3,000 in bonds to men that are going through training here—all in two weeks. I know that is a small amount but every little bit helps and it makes me feel good to do it.

Moody begins his campaign week at Bonham, Gainesville, Denton and Sherman Monday, and will speak during the week at Brownwood, San Angelo, Abilene, Eastland and Cameron.
Alfred concentrates on North and East Texas, starting Monday at Texarkana, New Boston, and Atlanta. Later he will campaign at Henderson, Waco, Palestine, Dallas, Greenville, Chimer.

Moody told a crowd at McKinney Saturday that "By his statements in the campaign Senator O'Daniel has shown utter inability to understand or comprehend the responsibilities of the office he holds in this time of world tragedy."
Moody said that if elected to the senate "Every issue that comes before me for a vote I shall view in its relation to the winning of the war and the securing of a lasting peace."

O'Daniel, speaking at Ranger Saturday, praised President Roosevelt for what he said was leadership that would win the war.
Referring to his opponents, O'Daniel predicted the "common people will now turn down."

He criticized what he termed "little fellows" in Washington for the sugar rationing program and declared that they would ration anything people liked.
"So don't let them know what you like," the senator added.

Street Department Trying To Catch Up

There is a shortage of labor, long hours for those employed, and no hop-skip-and-jump method of performing the work of the department.

These were the reasons advanced yesterday by City Manager Steve Matthews as to why Pampans should be patient if the streets in front of their homes, the weeds in vacant lots, could not be worked as soon as they would like.

"We are working as fast as we can," said the city manager, "but we are taking the work as we come to it, in order, and not jumping all over town."

All of the city's equipment is in use 3 1/2 hours overtime daily, from 9 in the morning to 8:30 at night. Reason for the overtime is that the street department is trying to catch up with the loss time sustained in its work due to the rains, which the city manager estimated that slowed the department's work down by six weeks.

There are only eight men employed in the street department, whereas the number is ordinarily twice that. Physically fit men to work in the department can't be obtained.

The city manager's reference to equipment not being jumped all over town was in reference to the use of mowing machines. Meanwhile, he said he wanted Pampans to continue to call his office so they could be billed for the use of the mowers when these were available.

On oiling of streets, the city manager said the city would get to this as soon as possible.

The two tractor mowers of the city are in use, one in Wilcox addition, one in the east part of town.

Other equipment of the department includes an oil truck, three flat bed trucks, and a Caterpillar tractor.

There are only eight Pampa men now working on a WPA project here which consists of putting down the base on Fisher and Twiford, and on Hobart between Francis and Kingsmill. It is hoped to have the road base completed by next week.

More than 400 sawmills were operating in East Texas in 1940, according to the Texas Forest Service. Eleven of the sawmills produced hardwood lumber; the rest cut pine.

Men May Enlist In Amphibian Engineers

A new type of service is open to Gray county men in Uncle Sam's army—the engineer amphibian command, for which the eighth corps area has a quota of 351 men.

Information on the branch can be obtained from the U. S. army recruiting station, located in the Pampa post office.

The greatest demand is for automotive mechanics, construction men and experienced seamen. Sixty signalmen are needed. Among others, 45 men who can qualify as master mechanics, 40 men as automotive mechanics, 40 men as diesel engine mechanics, 15 men as needed radio operators and 14 cooks.

Other lines include tractor mechanics, engine specialists, automobile servicemen, and carburetor specialists. Men experienced as seamen are very much in demand, such as boatswain, coxswain, deckhands, fishermen, first mates, and motorboat operators.

Construction supervisors, electricians, painters, plumbers, draftsmen, sheet metal workers, riggers, welders, blacksmiths and ship carpenters are also needed.

Men between 18 and 45 years of age may be enlisted, and former service men up to 65 years of age may be re-enlisted on passing physical tests and having proof of their professional or trade experience.

This is a new activity and there are many opportunities for advancement for men who can prove ability in the undertakings pertaining to the engineer amphibian command. Accepted men will be dispatched without delay from reception centers to Camp Edwards, Mass.

SERIAL STORY
MURDER IN FERRY COMMAND
 BY A. W. O'BRIEN

THE STORY: Clyde Dawson, Canadian Intelligence Department agent, is operating against the U. S. F. Ferry Command in New-Foundland. One of the spies has been hanged for murder. Pursuing a crew, Dawson narrowly escapes murder aboard a train. Then, on a boat to Canada, he finds a box containing one of the hanged man's hands in his stateroom.

A CLEVER TRAP
CHAPTER IV

IT all seemed like a chapter out of "Dracula"—or a cheap horror movie. But the awful thing lying in the box was undeniably the right hand chopped off Lemoy Statter's body. The stump indicated a clean hard blow, as with a sharp ax.

Using a towel, Dawson picked the hand out of the box and turned it around slowly. There was something odd in its shape that suggested... that's it... the fingers had been straightened out. Statter was hanged by his hands, but he had clenched during the terrible drop. Rigor mortis had almost cemented the man's hands in that shape.

Just what purpose lay behind this ghastly act? Why had the hand been hacked off Statter's body in the first place? It must have been done within the last 36 hours because Dawson, after ordering Statter's body kept in refrigeration pending further investigation, had finally released it for burial only two mornings ago.

The captain inspected his credentials and Dawson explained what he wanted, without mentioning the hand episode. In two minutes the pursuer had brought the long sheets in on which are compiled all data on the passengers.

"As I understand it, sir," the pursuer repeated, "you are seeking a man who came from St. John's on the same train. There are many, of course, but you want to weed them down to the most likely prospects. That should be fairly easy because there are only 123 passengers aboard, and 42 are Canadian or American military, naval and air force men. Each section has one officer in charge who can tell about his men."

"Good," exclaimed Dawson. "Let's start from there!"

One by one the officers were asked to report and each vouched for his men personally. That cut the number of prospects to 81.

Bit by bit, they eliminated many others.

"That brings us down to 15," calculated Dawson. "Now I have reason to suspect that the party I seek would, like Garbo, want to be alone because of certain items of baggage and odd jobs he may want to do aboard. How many of the 15 have separate cabins?"

The pursuer checked over the list carefully. "Only four—and here they are, sir."

"That's swell," he said at length. "Now we'll have to exercise caution in the morning because false arrest is still a serious offense in Canada. Mr. Pursuer, you will do the Intelligence Department a great favor if you ask one trusted room steward to inspect all four cabins with utmost care in the morning as soon as their occupants leave to pass immigration at North Sydney, and report anything they see or find, no matter how slight, to me. For instance, I am particularly interested in any pieces of brown wrapping paper or cord. Meanwhile, I'll have the immigration officials hold up the men under some pretext. And you realize, of course, the need for utmost secrecy?"

Both captain and pursuer nodded.

It was almost 5 a. m. before Dawson returned to his cabin. But he didn't sleep. Switching off the lights and slipping his revolver into a bathing pocket, he climbed into an upper bunk.

Dawson must have dozed because some noise awakened him, followed by the cabin lights being turned on. Automatically his hand closed on his revolver, but he laughed outright as his room steward entered with a cup of steaming coffee, looking in frank amazement at the unoccupied bunk and the cabin's lone occupant lying dressed in an upper one.

"Don't get the wrong idea, steward," he said, climbing down to the floor. "I didn't have one too many last night and I'm not eccentric... I just find it healthier to sleep in uppers at times."

Dawson was in the captain's cabin when the Canadian immigration men came aboard at the Cape Breton Island port in Nova Scotia. He knew both and gave them the names of the four men he wanted delayed under "any pretext." They agreed.

The pursuer entered with a steward who was carrying several towels badly smeared with what looked like black ink.

"Here's the only curious item we have found, Mr. Dawson—in Cabin 14 on A Deck the passenger seemed to have had an unusual amount of trouble with his fountain pen. Either that or he spilled a full bottle of very thick ink. His name is Paul Dexel with address..."

The investigator hit the table with his fist. "Never mind, I know all that... you've solved a riddle for me." Tossing a bill on the table he hurried down to the cabin and reopened the parcel containing Lemoy Statter's hand. Turning it palm up he studiously inspected the fingertips under the glare of a small searchlight.

"That's it!" he muttered in satisfied manner. "Every fingertip has minute traces of ink. The hand was taken off to secure Statter's fingerprints for some identification purpose. The man who entered the cemetery vault found that the hands were too rigidly clenched to get good prints. So rather than risk detection he simply chopped off one hand and took it with him to straighten out the fingers."

A steward entered with a note from one of the immigration men: "Dawson—you had better get going on whatever you plan. One of the four you asked to be delayed is raising hell and I can't lie much longer. His name is Paul Dexel."

Dawson found his man in the lounge loudly berating the immigration official. Dexel was about 5 feet 11 inches, athletic in build and blond. He appeared to be in his mid-thirties.

"Fardon me, Mr. Dexel," Dawson interrupted, "I'm a Dominion Government Intelligence officer and the delay is my fault. A slight irregularity has been noted in your passport and I must bring you up to our local bureau for questioning."

Dexel was already wearing his hat and coat. The two walked down the gangplank, through the shed and out to the street.

Suddenly, Dawson's straining ears noted a change in the rhythm of the steps behind. Wheeling away like a flash, he pivoted on his right foot and grabbed Dexel's right wrist in his own right hand—a knife glistened in the sun. Swinging around, weight balanced on right, Dawson took advantage of the attacker's forward lurch and threw him by bringing down his own left arm on Dexel's right shoulder. Switching quickly he slashed with his right fist, squarely on the other's downturned jaw. Dexel rolled over on one side into the snow as Dawson's handcuffs clicked.

"That's elementary jiu-jitsu, friend," panted Dawson. "Now, if you don't mind, Mr. Ghoul Dexel, I'll toss you in clinic and have you investigated by another agent while I buzz off to Chicago. Somehow, I've got a hunch you don't want me to be there!"

Grand Jurors To Meet Tomorrow

Grand Jurors for the June term of 31st district court here will reconvene tomorrow as the seventh week opens. The week beginning July 20 is non-jury; as the final week, July 27, civil jury, is the case this week.

Members of the grand jury had been scheduled to report back on June 29, but due to harvest the call was postponed until tomorrow.

Last week was the first term in which a panel of petit jurors was used during the entire week. Heard was the case of Otis L. Young vs. Safety Casualty company, in which the jury found for the defendant and judgment was the plaintiff take nothing.

Other judgments filed recently include four divorce decrees: Virgil Randall vs. Ella Mae Randall; Margaret Wilcoxson vs. Richard Garland Wilcoxson; Lois Derooy East vs. Clarence W. Bouch; Nora Noel vs. E. C. Noel, plaintiff to have possession of lot 3, block 1, Smith addition, Pampa.

New Cases Filed

New cases filed include: Ivy E. Duncan vs. board of insurance commissioners, appeal from a board decision of June 22, when the board cancelled plaintiff's license to transact a recording insurance agency business; and Homer E. Lett vs. Panhandle & Santa Fe Railway company.

In the latter case the plaintiff, whose residence is given as Hockley county, is asking $2,000 damages. Action is based on an accident occurring at 11 p. m. July 12, 1940, when plaintiff was injured when his car was struck by a Santa Fe train south of the Danziger plant.

Dawson turned into a narrow path through the snow. He could hear Dexel's steps behind him as they turned around the back of a building which was obscured from the street by a billboard.

Suddenly, Dawson's straining ears noted a change in the rhythm of the steps behind. Wheeling away like a flash, he pivoted on his right foot and grabbed Dexel's right wrist in his own right hand—a knife glistened in the sun. Swinging around, weight balanced on right, Dawson took advantage of the attacker's forward lurch and threw him by bringing down his own left arm on Dexel's right shoulder. Switching quickly he slashed with his right fist, squarely on the other's downturned jaw. Dexel rolled over on one side into the snow as Dawson's handcuffs clicked.

Petit Jury List

Petit jurors for the week, due to report tomorrow, are: From Pampa—K. Coombes, Jack W. Reed, U. H. Hall, H. C. Hewitt, C. D. Griggs, J. M. Boucher, Edgar J. Haddock, O. R. Cree, W. H. Davis, Frank Foster, J. C. Cox, B. O. Lilly, F. H. Brownie, Fred C. Fischer, W. D. Kelley, J. C. Richey, Frank Bailey, J. T. Boyd, P. M. Menador, Alanreed, R. M. Gibson, J. A. Darnell, W. H. Davis, H. C. Wetzel, McLean, L. N. Mitchell, George Van Huss, W. E. Bogan, Jess Roberts, T. T. Griffith, Bob Thomas, C. O. Goodwin, Ernest Dowell, T. W. Cobb, Cecil Back, W. Boyd, John B. Rice, Joe Hindman, Roger Powers, M. R. Patterson, W. J. Hannier, LeFors—S. P. Pierce, J. C. Trusty, E. J. Pafford, Oad Gatlin and T. W. Gordon, both of Laketon; Frank Bailey, Miami.

Heavy Rains Good For Consumers But Bad For The City

Everytime it rains it makes it blue skies for Pampa water consumers but more or less stormy weather for the revenue of the Pampa water department.

It's considerable more than pennies from heaven to the heavy to Pampa water users has been about $2,000 or $3,000 a month during the past two summers, according to Oran J. Payne, city water superintendent.

This saving is attributed to the heavy rains that made mud of the dust in the so-called dust bowl, thereby cutting down on the amount of water from city taps needed to water gardens, flowers, clean the car, or wash the family dog.

"If it hadn't rained recently," said Superintendent Payne, "we would be consuming between two million and two and one-half millions gallons of water a day. As it is the figure is around 1,500,000 gallons a day."

He then cited figures on rainfall, taken at monthly intervals: March 15-April 15, 1.77-inches; April 15-May 15—2.48; May 15-June 15—4.90.

On the favorable side of the ledger for water department revenue however, is the excellent repair of meters. The department is now replacing 30 meters a month and has replaced all the incorrect meters in town. In the past year, 1,300 meters have been repaired and have replaced old meters.

"This makes it fair alike for everyone. Use of the meters has a tendency to offset the loss of revenue of the department occasioned by the heavy rains.

It's almost impossible to get water meters now. City officials say the city is fortunate to have a meter repair shop of its own.

Price of meters has jumped from $8 to $12 each—and brass used in their construction has caused Uncle Sam to put domestic use meters into the "for the duration" class.

FBI May Take Hand In Controlling Vice

DALLAS, July 11 (AP)—A group of FBI officials of North Texas was told at a meeting here today by A. P. Kitchin, chief of the Dallas FBI office, that the May act giving the government wide powers to shut down vice was expected to be invoked in this district soon.

"The act states that until May 15, 1945, it shall be unlawful to engage in prostitution, or to aid or abet this form of vice, whether in vehicle, conveyance, place, structure or building, within reasonable distance of any camp or post," Kitchin said.

Law enforcement men present were asked for suggestions as to means of eliminating all such activities in the areas which will be designated as reasonable by the secretaries of war and navy.

"Figures show that of the first 1,000,000 men examined for the army, 60,000 were afflicted with syphilis, indicating the scope of the problem even in civilian life," Kitchin said. He added that, naturally, each such camp or base set up had its quota of camp followers.

Four Locations And Four Completions In Panhandle

One of the state's deepest wildcat tests will be plugged and abandoned. It is the Stanolind Oil & Gas company's Hopping test in Lamb county which was drilled to a total depth of 9,624 feet. Application to plug was received at the Pampa office of the Texas Railroad commission Friday.

Drilling has been resumed after two weeks shutdown on the Humble Oil & Refining company's wildcat in Hall county and the hole is nearing the 3,000 foot mark.

The Pure Oil company's wildcat test in Dallam county is drilling ahead below 3,400 feet.

Completions and locations held even in the Panhandle field last week with four locations being staked and three oil wells and one gas well tested and given open flow potentials. Three new oil wells, two in Hutchinson and one in Carson, added 594 barrels to the field potential. The gas well was tested for 12,800,000 cubic feet. To date this year a total of 176 new oil and gas wells have been tested and given open flow potentials.

Two of the new locations were in Carson county with one each in Gray and Hutchinson. All the locations were in oil territory.

Completions by counties follow:

In Carson County
Skelly Oil Co., NNo. 148 Schafer ranch, section 196, block 3, I&GN survey, was given a potential of 396 barrels.

In Hutchinson County
Skelly Oil Co., No. 148, Schafer section 24, block 4, Williams subdivision, gauged 23 barrels.
Phillips Petroleum Co., No. 70 J. A. Whittenburg, section 57, block 46, H&TC survey, tested 175 barrels.

In Wheeler County
Pendleton and Vaughn No. 1 McDowell, section 55, block 23, H&GN survey, tested 12,800,000 cubic feet.

Intentions to Drill
Buchta, Riley & Battle, Lewis No. 3, 990 feet from the north and 330 feet from the west lines SW 1/4 of section 115, block 4, I&GN survey, Carson county.
Skelly Oil Co., Schafer ranch No. 152, 440 feet from the east and 440 feet from the south lines of NE 1/4 of section 196, block 3, I&GN survey, Carson county.
Cree & Hoover, trustee, M. Davidson No. 3, 330 feet from the east and 990 feet from the south lines E/2 of NE 1/4 of section 86, block B-2, H&GN survey, Gray county.
Holt Bros., Whittenburg No. 3, 330 feet from the west and 330 feet from the north lines N/2 of section 15, block 202, L. Patillo survey, Hutchinson county.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—The stock market today ended its second best week of the year with leaders generally maintaining a fairly steady course.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 37.3 but on the week showed a net advance of 1.4 points, widest upturn since early January. At today's finish the composite was up 5.2 points from the year's bottom and only 1.5 under the 1942 peak established in the first month.

The day's turnover totaled 153,650 shares compared with 113,290 two weeks ago. The market resumed last Saturday for Independence Day.

In the brief session modest improvement was retained by Great Northern, Consolidated Edison, Dow Chemical, Allied Chemical, Standard Oil (NJ), Johnson & Johnson, and U. S. Rubber and Union Carbide.

Minor losses were suffered by U. S. American Telephone, Texas Co., Anaconda Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Santa Fe, Sears Roebuck, U. S. Rubber and Union Carbide.

Bonds were slightly mixed. At Chicago wheat dropped 3/4 to 1 cent a bushel, corn was up 1/2 to 3/4, and hogs steady. Cotton was about 25 to 30 cents a bale.

Edging forward in the curb were Gulf Oil, Bosch Aircraft, American Cyanamid and Hecla Mining. Declines were recorded for Electric Bond & Share, Glen Alden Coal and N. J. Zinc. Transfers here aggregated 26,815 shares against 28,665 in the previous two-hour session.

The big board put on a good rally Monday in the face of indefinite war returns. A seasonal re-investment influence received the main credit. There was a small set-back Tuesday, with offerings negligible. A slight revival of inflation psychology apparently spurred bidders Wednesday when the averages made their best gain since Jan. 2. The climb continued Thursday with volume mounting to nearly 800,000 shares, largest since last December. Light profit taking halted the drive Friday.

CHICAGO, July 11 (AP)—Government forecast of large 1942 wheat, rye and oats crops depressed prices of these cereals today but corn rose almost a cent inasmuch as the outlook for harvest of that grain is not as good.

Wheat closed 1/4 cent lower than yesterday, July 11 1/4, September 11 1/2 3/4; corn 1/2 cent higher, July 87 3/4, September 89 3/4; oats 3/4 cent down; rye 3/4 cent off and soybeans 1/2 cent higher.

Cards and letters are coming in like a terrific "deluge" to KPDN's Save-A-Nickel Club. Upon receipt of a postcard or letter from you, President Ray Monday, who originated the club, will play your request number. It's a full two hour period of popular tunes, and word has been received that clubs all over the Panhandle are selecting the 2 o'clock time for their regular meetings, and dancing to or just enjoying the music on this popular program. Members of the Save-A-Nickel Club will soon be able to purchase war bonds and stamps direct from KPDN. It has not been ascertained just when this service will begin, but you'll be able to hear more about it in a few days on the "Save-A-Nickel Club." Incidentally, a one-day record for mail pull was set last week when club members responded with 78 cards and letters.

A distinguished actor and his son, Henry Hull and Private Shelley Hull, United States Army, join in Howard Vincent O'Brien's touching farewell to his soldier son, "So Long, Son," on the Treasury Star Parade to be heard on Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock over KPDN. Originally published in the Chicago Daily News, O'Brien's open letter to his departing son was reprinted in the Reader's Digest, and has been widely republished elsewhere as a cross section of the feelings of American fathers as their sons go off to war. Music on the program will be conducted by Al Goodman.

Hal Blyemiller has been turning in a good job since he took over the m. c. spot on the Our Town Forum of the air, a program heard every evening at 7:15. In addition to proving an adept commentator on events in which the public is interested, Blyemiller has earned a word of praise for the deft manner in which he handles guests on this period. One interesting program of the past week on the Forum was a detailed sketch of the City Bond Election, participated in by Dan Williams, Sherman White, Mitchell Hill and Garnet Reeves. This program presented a complete picture of the city bond election. Several interesting programs are being arranged for next week, including a 15-minute presentation about American Heroes Day.

Major league scores of the day and major league gossip about stars of the day are presented on the evening sportscast, heard daily at 6:30. Tune in at 6:30 for sports news of the day.

If you like to hear stories of terror and unearthly adventure, then listen to "The Voice of the Demon of Darkness," heard each Saturday night at 7:45. It's a studio program from KPDN that we are sure you'll enjoy.

Another program, recently started at KPDN, is "Just Readings," aired each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 4 p. m. Announcer Harry Wahlberg does a fine job of bringing you "Just Readings," so don't miss it.

A new member of the KPDN staff is Ted Shriner of Hobart, Oklahoma. Ted replaces George Fenter at the transmitter. . . . Fenter was called to Uncle Sam's Army.

The "baby" of the staff of KPDN is the "bundle-from-heaven" that arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Mills. Don is on the sales staff of the station. Don says the baby has not been named as yet. But it's a boy!

Old Time Square Dance Music . . . Western Ballads . . . Songs that you and your folks sang years ago . . . Yes, that's what you'll hear on the Jeff Guthrie program, heard each evening over KPDN, Monday thru Friday at 7:30 p. m. If you like fiddle band music, tune in on this program.

Amazing Crime Wave Outlined By Youths
WICHITA FALLS, July 11 (AP)—Three 14-year-old Wichita Falls boys told authorities an amazing story today of their plan to build and operate a short wave station, modeled along lines of regular police radio transmitting and two-way patrol car equipment, to guide and guard them in activities of fun and crime.

Partially assembled transmission equipment was seized. One of the group, who has experimented in the field of radio and chemistry, related the projected building of walkie talkies the group could carry around to hear their station and communicate with it.

Several hundred dollars worth of electrical and radio equipment was recovered by police, who were attempting to trace ownership.

Theft investigation of the trio began after they had been questioned in an arson case, one of the group admitting to Wichita Falls and state officers he had ignited a neighboring residence whose owner objected to the erection of a radio antenna proximate to his property.

The other two, he said, were to ignite the house a day later but he was "afraid they would bungie the job."

Authorities said the trio ran short of money to build their radio station and resorted to stealing and trading to get the necessary equipment. One outdoor display company reported the loss of $1,250 worth of timing switches, flashers and transformers within the last 12 months, most of it in a seven-day period.

Fire Zone Ordinance To Be Enforced Here

When you plan to make alterations and repairs in property you own which is in the fire zone, the best rule is to first consult the city building inspector to see if your plans conform to city ordinance 1957.

Painting and papering are exempt, as are patching roofs or replacing windows; but anytime there is an addition, a change in design, moving of a partition, the alteration should have the city's approval.

Reason for this is that strict rules cover the fire zone and the city is checked by the national board of underwriters on its enforcement of the ordinance. If the ordinance is
