

Program For Year Topic At B. P. W. Executive Board

Assembling in the home of Lillian McNutt, president, Tuesday evening for their monthly meeting, members of the executive board of Business and Professional Women's club discussed means of improving attendance as well as programs for next year.

Vera Lard, program chairman, and her committee will have charge of outlining the programs which will be announced soon.

The annual treasurer's report for the past year was given after which a letter was read from the state president, Hattilu White, who invited the club to attend a good neighbor meeting in Shamrock on July 19. All who can be asked to attend this meeting.

Chairmen reported that their committees had not been appointed yet. The regular business session will be discontinued during the months of July and August; meetings will be resumed in September. Social and board meetings will be held in July and August only.

Attending the session last night were Lillian McNutt, Lillian White, Mildred Overall, Letha Northup, Mildred Lafferty, Vada Lee Olson, Muriel Kitchens, Gypsy Coates, Audrey Fowler, Ida Mae Jones, Mabel Gee, and Vera Lard.

The Doctor's Wife Goes To War Today

Meet the doctor's wife. She's playing an increasingly important part in World War II.

With more and more of the nation's doctors being called into service with the armed forces, whole communities find themselves turning to the doctor's wife for counsel, comfort, and help.

In Arkansas, where draft rejections because of malnutrition have been abnormally high, doctors' wives are mapping a victory program for the duration—and after.

Mrs. L. G. Fincher, president of the American Medical Association auxiliary in that state, plans to make the work of her organization raising the nutritional standards of her state. She says:

"A doctor's wife always has a busy life, but now she must get busier. There are many ways in which she can serve her community, and helping people to understand the basic principles of nutrition is one of the most important."

"With the growing shortage of civilian doctors in America, it is probable that medical service for the duration of the war will narrow down to emergencies. People will have to learn how to conquer minor ailments—or better yet, how to stay well."

"Helping the community to stay well through better nutrition is a job cut out and waiting for the doctor's wife."

Starchy foods like cereals, bread, potatoes, fats like butter and cream, fresh, canned, and dried fruits, as well as many vegetables, can help to tide over your needs above the supply of sugar provided under rationing.

By ALICIA HART

Within the past few weeks a good many women have asked how to care for the permanents they got for the summer holidays. Most of them complain of dryness and a few say that their hair is unmanageable now. They want healthy, scaly and smooth coiffures.

A dry condition is fairly easy to remedy. You need hot oil shampoos of course. And brushing and you should massage your scalp with your fingertips every night before you go to bed.

Sit beside a low table, putting your elbows on it and resting your head in your hands. Then place fingertips flat against the scalp and try to move it backward and forward as well as in tiny circles. Remember, your scalp should move—not your fingers. If you are a little careful this simple treatment will not disturb your wave. And it will stimulate circulation and help the oil glands to function properly.

Use BRILLIANTINE FOR FRIZZY HAIR

If your hair is frizzy and never seems to look sleek and well-groomed, ask the operator who gives you a finger wave to apply a little brilliantine before she puts on wave-set lotion. Between shampoos, you might use a bit of it yourself. Simply pour a few drops on your hairbrush and then lightly draw your hair across the bristles before you start to arrange your coiffure.

Ask your hairdresser to brush and massage your scalp before giving you the shampoo. A good shampoo consists of washing once, rinsing, washing again, and rinsing three times. A lemon rinse is useful and perfectly simple to do. The juice of two fresh lemons is squeezed into warm water, spread well on the scalp, and followed by another lavish rinsing with clear water.

Great Britain has appointed a director of civilian hosiery to promote standardization of manufacture and economical use of raw materials, says the Department of Commerce.

Morning Brunch To Be Feature Of Garden Club

Pampa Garden club will meet in the city club rooms Friday morning at 9:15 o'clock. Instead of the regular early coffee, brunch will be served after the meeting to which each member is asked to contribute by bringing some vegetables for the combination salad and sugar for her iced tea.

A review of the types of flower arrangements studied thus far this year will be the basis for the program. In addition to the workshop demonstration, each member will assist in arranging the flowers at her own table at which brunch will be served. Members are to take flowers for this arrangement.

The plans of the committee are that the meeting will be dismissed promptly at 11 o'clock.

Ice Cream Social To Be Held Tonight At Presbyterian Church

Presbyterians are urged not to eat dessert at home tonight but to attend the ice cream supper at the church. Homemade cake and ice cream will be served beginning at 8 o'clock.

The entertainment feature of the evening will be a motion picture film, "The Old and New at Chihuahua," a picture dealing with the efforts of the church among the Spanish-Americans living in the Sangre De Cristo mountains of New Mexico.

Members and friends of the church are invited to attend.

Outdoor Social Entertains Low Junior B. T. U.

Members and sponsors of low junior B.T.U. of First Baptist church met on the church lawn for an outdoor social Tuesday evening.

Red Cross Chapter Of Canadian Ships Knitted Garments

CANADIAN, July 8—Mrs. E. H. Snyder, chairman of sewing for the Red Cross, and Mrs. John Isaacs, substituting for Mrs. John H. Jones, chairman of knitting, last Saturday sorted, labeled, and packed the garments knitted for the Red Cross in recent months.

Tom Abraham, Hemphill county chairman of Red Cross work, packed for shipping and dispatched the two boxes.

Included were 49 pairs of socks, 23 helmets, and 44 sweaters. Sufficient yarn is on hand to knit about as many garments which are to be shipped late in the summer.

Mrs. Jones is spending the school vacation period on her ranch west of Canadian and was unable to be in town to attend to the packing of the knitted garments.

Bridal Shower Given As Courtesy To Mrs. Stroud

MIAMI, July 8—Mrs. Ogden Stroud, formerly Miss Iona Gill, was named honoree at a party given for her at the home of Mrs. Ben Talley. Hostesses were Mrs. Holt Barber of White Deer, and Mrs. Pedro Dial of Shamrock.

Mrs. Talley presided at the guest book. The dining table was attractive in lace with a centerpiece of pink and white sweetpeas. Here the guests were served punch and cookies by Mrs. Barber and Mrs. Dial.

The large array of gifts was presented the honoree by Mrs. Barber. Numerous vases of garden flowers enhanced the beauty of the entertaining rooms.

Mrs. Stroud will be remembered as Miss Iona Gill and was married May 25 to Sgt. Ogden Herbert Stroud at Boise, Idaho. Mrs. Stroud is temporarily at home in Miami waiting to join her husband who is now in the air corps officers' training school. Both Mr. and Mrs. Stroud formerly taught in the LePors school.

Bridge Tourney Planned By Ester Club After Lunch

When members of Ester club gathered in the home of Mrs. Emory Noblitt Tuesday for a covered dish luncheon, plans were made for a bridge tournament to be held July 16 in the home of Mrs. Jess Clay.

The committee named to complete arrangements for the event includes Mmes. Jim King, Frances Hall, Ruby Wylie, and V. J. Castka.

Mrs. Arlene Neighbors and Mrs. C. A. Forsyth were co-hostesses at the luncheon which honored Mrs. Ruby Foster of Albuquerque, N. M., sister of Mrs. Noblitt. Other visitors attending were C. A. Forsyth, Frances Brown of Shamrock, and Mrs. C. E. Cary.

After a poem, "A Woman," was read by Mrs. J. W. Crisler, a stunt was conducted which netted $150 for the club.

Rebekah lodge will go to Skellytown tonight to install new officers since the local hall has been damaged by fire.

Attending the luncheon were Mmes. Hattie Day, Arlene Neighbors, Bobbie Brummett, Fredella Potter, Emma Louvier, J. W. Crisler, Ruby Wylie, C. A. Forsyth, Frances Hall, V. J. Castka, Jess Clay, and Tressie Hall, president, who presided at the meeting.

Refugees Not Guilty

Columbia university has sponsored a study, suggested by Mrs. Roosevelt, to determine whether refugees who fled to this country from the Nazis have been displacing Americans from employment.

A fourth of the 150,000 who came here beginning in 1933 settled in New York City. Another fourth remained in "up-state" New York. The rest are scattered all over the country in small numbers.

"We had a beauty at one of the gates a few days ago," reported one organizer. "The men greeted her with low whistles and stood in line to meet her. Some of them came back a second time."

Plan Vacations

The Office of Defense Transportation is pleading with both employers and workers to plan their vacations so as to place a minimum of strain upon the over-burdened railroads, particularly by avoiding weekend beginnings and endings.

This would seem to be about as little as those who will take vacations can do to help relieve a dangerous bottleneck. Yet there has appeared to be little response to the suggestion. How about some cooperation?

The Imperial Sugar refinery at Sugarland, Tex., has shut down for two weeks because it hasn't any room left in its warehouses to store its product.

MacLEISH FAVORS FREE CRITICISM, BUT NOT BY CRITICS (The Christian Century)

Mr. MacLeish emerged from the Library of Congress and the Office of Facts and Figures and came to Chicago the other evening to voice the administration's resentment against its critics.

Mr. MacLeish is not at his best in prose—nor, for that matter, in facts and figures. Criticism of the government is, he says, a grand old American tradition, the citizen's cherished privilege and sacred duty.

When it comes from outside this sympathetic circle, when it is made "on the assumption that the government is one thing and the people another, that the President is one thing and the other way who elected the President another..."

"I speak the pass-word primal. I give the sign of democracy. By God I will accept nothing which all cannot have their counterpart of on the same terms."

THE FOOLISHNESS OF PRICE CEILINGS

It is amazing the number of people who actually believe that putting a price ceiling on goods and services will benefit the poor. The only reason for putting a price ceiling on things is because they are relatively scarce, compared with the amount of credit money we have established in the country.

The Administration is putting price ceilings on for only one reason and that reason is to delay the day that the workers become aware of fact that all this waste and extravagance of the government will eventually make every worker do without many things he should have. We, of course, can use up what wealth is produced at the present price levels. This causes the ordinary worker to think that he is not paying the bill for this terrific government waste.

But this price-fixing is only delaying the day of reckoning. After the goods that are already produced are consumed there will be no more produced if the prices are above the cost of production. Then the voters will begin to realize that the Administration, instead of being a real friend of the working man, has done more to impoverish him than any other leadership that has ever existed in the United States.

WE NEED A NEW WORD—"MAJORITY-ITIS"

We need to coin a new word in this country, to express what most people seem to think democracy means; namely, a bare majority. We have become obsessed with the idea that the bare majority have a right to do anything they want to with the minority. This practice can best be described by the word "majority-itis".

We are so afflicted with "majority-itis" that the bare majority can determine how much we must pay for a hair cut, how much we must pay for a bottle of milk, how much we dare pay for our dry cleaning, or shoe repairing, and innumerable things that the government has placed a price ceiling on.

Isn't it strange that the majority has decided we must not pay less for certain things and for other things we must not pay more than an arbitrary price? We have come to the conclusion, evidently, that the people are too plain dumb to voluntarily exchange services.

But the question arises, if they are too plain dumb to do that, how can they have judgment and vision enough to know how to vote for people who will know the relative value of the hundreds of thousands of different things and services, if they could even find such people?

If democracy really meant a bare majority, as the New Dealers and socialists would contend, then the word should have been "majority-ocracy" instead of democracy.

Yes, we are afflicted most seriously, most critically with "majority-itis".

crats in Washington be similarly revered and identified with the people? There are no bureaucrats, says Mr. MacLeish. His proof: (a) Many of the heads of bureaus left more lucrative positions in private life. (b) They work long hours and the lights burn late in their offices. A dictionary must certainly be accessible to the librarian of the Library of Congress. If he will look up the words "bureaucrat" and "bureaucracy" he will find that his defense is not relevant to the charge. What his total discourse on the citizen's right to criticize comes to is that anyone may freely criticize the conduct of public affairs unless he thinks there is something seriously wrong.

ALUMINUM HAS A RIVAL

The scrap aluminum drive of last year did not bring in as much metal as was expected, but things have happened so fast since Pearl Harbor that aluminum may become unnecessary so far as airplane construction is concerned.

Northrop Aircraft, Inc., has perfected a new welding process called "hellarc," which employs magnesium in an alloy which is one-third lighter than aluminum. This process is expected to revolutionize airplane construction, and the details are made available to all airplane manufacturers in the United States.

In constructing a pursuit ship under present methods, 35,000 individual rivets are necessary, and for a large bomber, 150,000 are required. The new method does away with riveting and produces a smooth, streamlined surface like that of a fine automobile body. Aluminum construction requires riveting, so the advantage of magnesium is obvious.

MacLEISH FAVORS FREE CRITICISM, BUT NOT BY CRITICS (The Christian Century)

Mr. MacLeish emerged from the Library of Congress and the Office of Facts and Figures and came to Chicago the other evening to voice the administration's resentment against its critics.

Mr. MacLeish is not at his best in prose—nor, for that matter, in facts and figures. Criticism of the government is, he says, a grand old American tradition, the citizen's cherished privilege and sacred duty.

When it comes from outside this sympathetic circle, when it is made "on the assumption that the government is one thing and the people another, that the President is one thing and the other way who elected the President another..."

GRAY COUNTY'S JULY BOND QUOTA $164,300

The above map of Texas shows the War Bond quotas, by counties, for the month of July, 1942. Total War Bond quota for the state is $33,677,000. With the National quota total placed at a billion dollars, the nation goes into high gear in its support of the War financing and to give our fighting forces adequate implements of war which will bring ultimate Victory. American Soldiers, Sailors, Marines and Airmen are on every front. They are giving 100 percent for their country. What are we doing here on the home front? Are we lending at least ten percent of income to help them? It's very little. But to fight this war successfully our country needs a billion dollars in War Bonds every month from us—the People. Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

HOLLYWOOD, July 8 — Behind the screen: Clark Gable's enlistment, plus the certainty that some other stars over draft age will be in service soon, brought a huddle of movie and government officials on a plan for Hollywood to borrow stars in uniform for occasional and patriotically worthy pictures.

The arrangement has been working well in Britain. Players who are given picture-making furloughs personally receive only their regular army or navy pay. Their studios turn over their usual movie salaries to war relief organizations.

Paramount may film a version of Irving Berlin's big army show opening on Broadway July 4 with an all-soldier cast. The company features a $250,000 cash offer for the movie rights, and all profits will go to Army Emergency Relief. The picture can't be made, though, unless the studio can borrow several actors in uniform.

MILLION DOLLAR BABY Incidentally, Gable wasn't Movietown's highest paid actor in 1941. His $357,500 earnings was nosed out by Jimmy Cagney's $362,500. And Cagney's "Yankee Doodle Dandy" will be the biggest money-earning picture of 1942. It's an understatement to say that Rita Hayworth looks like a million dollars. As top feminine star of the new season, she is slated for four $1,000,000 movies.

After a year of censor trouble, Howard Hughes' "The Outlaw" will be released in August. The audience will get their first glimpse of Jane Russell, already a celebrity in glamor stills, as an actress. Andy Devine has lost 40 pounds and is a frail 230. Olivia de Havilland took off 30 pounds and is as slim as when she started in movies. But Rita Hayworth and Lou Costello will play themselves in a film autobiography.

A fancy new dressing room was fitted up for Ginger Rogers when she started "Once Upon a Honeymoon" at RKO. Like most California structures this one is so flimsy that when somebody sneezes hundreds of others holler "Gezundheit!" Miss Rogers doesn't sneeze, though; she plays a phonograph, mostly Wagnerian stuff with thunderous bases that make the place tremble.

WINCE AT WASTE The U.S. office has asked studios to eliminate practically all scenes of destruction such as automobile wrecks and even food wasting such as pie throwing. Such things aren't in the mood of national economy. It makes no special difference that movie pies are inedible, or that no actual destruction is likely to be involved in a wreck shot. The public just doesn't like 'em. For instance, patrons will wince more than they'll laugh at a scene in "Girl Trouble" when Don Ameche hauls off with an ancient blunderbuss and flattens four new tires on a car.

Hollywood needs a strike conciliator in the title department. Three new productions are called "Fu Manchu Strikes Again," "King of the Royal Mounted Strikes Again," and "Sherlock Holmes Strikes Back."

Today's War Analysis

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Wide World War Analyst

As the Nazi Napoleon begins to make the weight of his great offensive felt, a lot of folks are beginning to take refuge in the remark that, after all, the Allies can remark the Caucasus, the Middle East and Egypt and still win the war.

That's a terribly dangerous idea to be nursing. There is, of course, a modicum of truth in the assertion, but it represents the rankest kind of wishful thinking—and it's an invitation to complacency.

I'm not one of those little faith who believe that the Allies are doomed to defeat in this vast theater which strategically is one of the most important of the whole world war. Our peril is very great and we certainly shall lose this territory unless we make a mighty effort and fortune favors us. But we definitely have a chance to hold our ground as things now stand.

Should Hitler gain his objectives, however, the Allies would be barred from the grim alternatives of losing the war or seeing it protracted for many long years, with no man able to foresee the end.

The contingency which would offer deviation from that black prospect would be the successful establishment of a powerful Allied front in western Europe before Hitler was able to capitalize the vast resources and strategic advantages which he would have gained by his conquest.

While present indications are that the Allies aren't yet ready for a land invasion of western Europe, still it strikes me that they might be impelled to jump to it suddenly if Hitler's present offensives, either against Egypt or against the Russians, should jeopardize the whole Middle Eastern set-up. In any event, one would expect the United States and Britain to inaugurate a terrific bombing offensive against German cities with all forces available in an effort to force withdrawal of German strength from the Russian front.

This whole picture grows out of the premise so often discussed in the columns of this paper, that Hitler can't break through to fresh resources he will be beaten. If he can reach those resources he can repair his war-machine, and his chances of winning the war will be good.

We have to probe a bit deeper than that, however, to get the full force of his position. Should he gain his present objectives, he not only would acquire resources but he would cut the Allies off from them in that theater. Russia would be badly ham-strung if she lost her grain fields and oil wells in the Caucasus.

More Texans Needed In 302nd Regiment

Send us more Texans!

This was the plea the army recruiting office received Thursday morning from Lt. Col. C. M. Johnson, former Dallas business man, who is now commanding officer of the 3rd Battalion, 302nd Ordnance Regiment, in training in North Carolina.

The unit, made up entirely of men from Texas, now have from 50 to 60 vacancies. Lt. Col. Johnson has sent 1st Lt. F. D. Mitchell from the 3rd Battalion to Dallas for more recruits. His office will be in the Burt Building where he will interview applicants in person and review applications sent in by mail.

Mechanics and machinists are needed. They may apply at the local recruiting office, but they must state specifically that they are applying for the 3rd Battalion, 302nd Ordnance Regiment, or they will be sent elsewhere.

The applicants will be enlisted as privates, sent to Camp Wolters for induction, and later sent to Camp Sutton, near Charlotte, N. C., for transfer to the 3rd Battalion. They will receive non-commissioned ratings depending on their experience and abilities.

Along with the call for mechanics and machinists came an appeal from another unit in North Carolina, the 4th Battalion. The commanding officer of this unit wrote that he had been impressed by the Texans he had seen in North Carolina and that he wanted 180 Texans for his group. These recruits need not have the qualifications of mechanic or machinist.

The volunteers comprising the maintenance regiments now training at Camp Sutton, North Carolina, are making an enviable record and such units comprising Texas men are setting a pace in leadership. Included among the officer personnel of the 3rd Battalion are Major Edwin R. (Bubba) Nash, 1st Lt. F. D. Mitchell, and 1st Lt. Winthrop Seely, all from Waco.

As much in the present unhappy position of China—her home resources cut to the bone, and virtually isolated from the outside world. Even now Russia's main contact with her Allies is through the Arctic ports of Murmansk and Archangel and the Persian Gulf, and Persia would fall with the Middle East.

Nazi possession of the whole eastern Mediterranean and Middle East would, of course, bring the European Axis powers and Japan together. India would be open to invasion and the Axis front would be solid from the Pacific to the Atlantic. You can fill in the et ceteras for yourself.

To recapitulate, the Allied situation obviously is serious, but we haven't been deprived of our chance of holding Hitler's offensive, if he is solid from the Pacific to the Atlantic. And let's not try to cross the bridge of winning the war after the fuhrer has captured the Middle East.

Behind The News In Washington

By FREDERICK EDSON

The punch-drunk days and means committee of the house has practically finished its four months' fight over writing the new tax bill, and it's about time. For the last few weeks the committee has been arguing in circles, taking days to make decisions that usually take hours. The 20-dodd members of the committee are tired, and frankly confess that they have been getting on each others' nerves. They even write letters to each other, to argue, after hours, on debatable provisions.

The bill, of course, is one of the biggest ever drafted, and that makes it a sizeable undertaking. The committee hearings fill some 3,500 pages of solid type. If you were able to stay awake long enough to read 50 pages a night, it would still take you six weeks just to read the testimony of experts and witnesses who appeared in long processions. And this wordage does not cover the executive sessions of the committee. Two full weeks, for instance, were spent in arguing about the corporate income tax provisions.

As sent to the floor of the house for debate and passage early in June, it will be an election year. The indicated total revenue to be derived is far below treasury suggestions. That may be changed by senate action, but the house committee given in to demands to keep it low.

The principal political aspect of the house bill is the absence of a federal sales tax. Labor and a lot of other consumer pressure groups didn't want one and the treasury and the White House backed that stand. But some of the committee members predict a federal sales tax will be in the bill written next year, and no fooling. Agitation for a general manufacturers' federal sales tax has been brewing for so long that, once the election is out of the road, it stands the best chance it ever has had for passage next year, although it was licked in 1917, 1921 and 1932.

EXCISE TAXES

In place of the sales tax there will be new excise taxes, the good old familiar nuisance taxes that crop up in every war emergency. Things like taxes on checks and maybe taxes on soft drinks. These new taxes are hard and often costly to collect. They are a burden on freight and only the experience with social security deductions to tell how the fancy new salary withholding tax will function.

From the treasury point of view, however, these difficulties are as nothing when compared with the difficulties of putting out a general manufacturers' sales tax. This manufacturers' sales tax isn't to be confused with the retail sales tax now levied by over 30 states, giving them a principal source of income, easily collected and relatively painless to the taxpayer. The manufacturers' sales tax is something else again.

FISH, FRINSTANCE

First take the problem of determining who is a manufacturer. Is it the manufacturer of fishhooks, the man who catches the fish, the man who manufactures the tin cans in which the fish is packed, or the man who packs the fish in the tin cans and pastes on a four-color label? Or are they all manufacturers and do you tax them all, plus the manufacturer of the boat used by the fisherman and the man who made the wagon to haul the stuff to market?

If the manufacturers' tax is assessed at the first level, the tax is passed on to the second and third manufacturers and eventually to the wholesaler, the retailer and the consumer. It is usually pyramided to such a point that it eventually becomes a sizable increase in the cost of living, instead of just a 2 or 3 per cent tax.

Proponents of a manufacturers' sales tax point out that Canada has put over the manufacturers' sales tax without too much trouble, but U. S. tax experts say the problem of administering a manufacturers' sales tax in Canada, with its limited industries and a population of 11 million, can't be compared to the problem of the highly industrialized U. S. with its 130 millions.

WASHINGTON CHUTNEY

Shoe repair shops may now use up their frozen stocks of heavy leather for half soles. Eleven per cent of all drafted men have attended college and another 58 per cent have attended high school. Use of quinine and similar drugs is now restricted to treatment of malaria. Restaurants and boarding-houses may obtain increased sugar allowances in proportion to increased number of meals served. Plants co-operating in the war production drive now number over 100. Army clothing is being packed in boxes in new compression baled to save 35 per cent space. The army has 700 bands.

TEX'S TOPICS

By Tex DeWeese

SPEAKING of the war in Egypt, here's something interesting from an Associated Press dispatch:

"The Maoris—descendants of war-like Polynesians from down under—attacked with blood-curdling screams at the end of a full day of stiff fighting Sunday in seemingly impossible weather conditions."

"Their steel bayonets flashing in the moonlight were reported to have struck terror in the German and Italian ranks in wrestling a strong point from the enemy. A charge came after heavy artillery and tank duels in which the Axis had lost large numbers of men and machines."

"Armed only with bayonets and hand grenades, these dark-skinned island troops have even begged their officers for the privilege of attacking and the bewildered shouts from entrenched Axis forces forward have justified their plea."

That was transmitted as a comparatively unimportant side-light in a story about the battle in Egypt. . . . But, to our way of thinking, that's the kind of fighting it's going to take to win this war. . . . Of all the major United Nations, Russia probably approaches nearest to that standard. . . . On the whole you might say that the others are too civilized. . . . Whether the Americans are going to get deadly tough remains to be seen. . . . Our enemies are brutal, barbarous, and murderous, but when they meet up with fighters of the same type they throw up their hands and scream. . . . These fighting Maoris prove that. . . . The Axis can dish it out but it can't take it.

AN anonymous contributor from Miami sends this worthwhile thought: "When the time comes and we decide which day we shall whip Japan before breakfast and Germany before dinner—won't it be a great day for us if we are prepared to see the starting of the world for supper?" That's right, it will! . . . Some of the laws with teeth in them actually develop an ache. . . . An Indiana barber was slightly injured when run over by his own car. He gives him some things new to talk about. We'll bet a grape has a better time fermenting than it does becoming grape juice. . . . It constitutes a pretty good vacation when you pay your bills and let your children have a rest. . . . A woman is a person who gets so mad at you she cries on your shoulder. . . .

Director of Censorship Byron Price has had to take a lot of kidding over the fact that someone wrote a song and dedicated it to him, entitled "They May Censor All My Letters, Dear, But Read Between the Lines."

VACATIONS that do not involve too heavy a load on the family tires are still encouraged despite the war. . . . Many homes in Pampa will be closed for week-ends or longer during the next few months. Which means that the vacation season is the best time for robbers. . . . "Burglars make hay while vacations play," especially if vacationers fail to take proper precautions. Here are some suggestions: . . . Stop delivery of milk, papers, and mail since their accumulation advertises a tenacious residence; lock all doors and windows; store valuables, put garden hose and other equipment in a safe place, and inform police and neighbors of your absence. . . . If you are away a long time of time house will be unoccupied. . . .

The more we love

The better we are. And the greater our friendships. The nearer we are to God. —Jeremy Taylor.

GETTING back to what we were talking about in paragraphs one and two, the Axis have a reason why the Axis forces are pushing us so hard must be apparent to any reader of the illuminating and colorful dispatches which are coming from dozens of capable correspondents and directed removal of the Germans and the Japs used to win because they had a preponderance of massed strength. Now, too often, they win because they plan audaciously and unorthodoxly, attack viciously, expend troops and equipment recklessly. They know that a war is fought to be won, that every life saved today through softness will cost a dozen lives in the long run, that military equipment is of value only when used. —BUY VICTORY BONDS—

Crash Of Training Plane Investigated

SIoux CITY, Ia., July 8 (AP)—A Sioux city committee was due here today to investigate the crash yesterday of an army training plane in which four men were killed.

Officials of the army air base here, who took charge of the wreckage and directed removal of the bodies, said all the victims were from Felt's field, Spokane, Wash. At their Felt's field base, second air force officers said a report to the field stated the plane was being towed to land at the Sioux City air base and the undercarriage caught on a power line.

Felt's field officials identified the victims as: Second Lieut. Parker E. Everett, pilot and deputy flight commander, of Elk City, Okla. His widow, a bride of two months, is living in Spokane. Staff Sgt. Robert W. Shores of Bentonville, Ark. Shores' widow, a bride of 10 days, lives in Spokane. Staff Sgt. Jack R. Jones of Tucson, Ariz. Cpl. Joseph H. Flew, Des Plaines, Ill.

Jaycees Defeat Knights Of Pythias; Jewelers Win

The Junior Chamber of Commerce softball team won its second game of the season yesterday by downing the tough Knights of Pythias outfit, 14 to 10, while the Diamond Shop swamped Ideal Food, 16 to 3.

The schedule for this evening, games called at 6:30 o'clock, follow: Cities Service vs. Jaycees, Magnolia park.

Mack and Paul vs. Phillips, at Phillips. The Knights gave the ball game away. Stansell of the Knights had a 6 to 3 lead when he was pulled for pinch hitter in the fourth.

Glickman started for the Jaycees with Crain relieving. Harrell was behind the plate. Besides Crain's homer, Jordan hit one for the Jaycees.

Helskell, Mangell and Tilley parked homers to lead the Diamond Shop assault on the grocers. Helskell hurled six-hit ball with Mangell behind the plate.

NEW YORK, July 8—Besides a dozen "major" football games, Bernie Bierman's Iowa Seahawks offer spectators at their home tilts a parade of cadets, two cheering sections and the big Seahawk band as extra attractions. Main complaint from all the pre-flight schools, however, is too many 180-pounders.

When a soldier from Boston drew a furlough in San Francisco, he wrote home: "Visited Joe DiMaggio's restaurant. The food was swell but the prices were as high as his batting average used to be." Joe admits it would be hard to eat there regularly on a private's pay.

Hear the Birdies Sing Wifly Cox, veteran Washington pro, has figured out a way for all his congressional Country Club golfers to become par-busters.

Only enlisted man on the Iowa pre-flight school baseball squad is George Hauck, who started out as Lieut. Col. Bernie Bierman's personal yeoman and a softball player.

Bill Conroy, drafted from Oakland, pulled Red Sox pitchers together.

Cronin Credits Conroy With Rise Of Red Sox

By HARRY GRAYSON NEA Service Sports Editor

BOSTON, July 8—Joe Cronin was asked to put his finger on the player most responsible for the rapid rise of the Red Sox.

"Bill Conroy," replied the fighting manager of the Boston. "He's the first rough Irishman the Red Sox have had since Bill Carrigan and the first big catcher since Carrigan and Forest Cady.

That's a fine compliment for a recruit—being compared with Carrigan, great catcher-manager of the Red Sox's matchless pre-World War I world champions.

A tousle-haired Mick standing an even six feet and weighing 190 pounds, Conroy is a slambang ball player after Cronin's own heart.

Conroy joined Connie Mack as a batting practice catcher in 1933, was farmed out. Slow to show progress, the Athletics let him go. Landing with the Oakland Coastiers in '38, he found himself there last term, with a total base mark of 121 and a .282 batting average in 89 engagements.

PITCHERS LIKE TO PITCH TO CONROY Beantowners moaned when little Frank Pytlak was lost to the service last spring. Johnny Peacock lacked polish behind the log and who was Conroy?

But Conroy has done everything well enough for the Red Sox except hit.

"And he hasn't been so bad in that department," said Strategist Cronin. "He gets a hit when you need it and can blast the big one. He has three home runs.

"The main thing is, however, that Conroy, a remarkable throwing catcher, pulled our pitchers together. They love to pitch to him.

"The result is that we have solid pitching for the first time since I came to Boston.

"We're strong where a club has to be strong when it is thinking about winning a pennant—straight through the middle. Conroy catching, a capable hand in the box at all times, Johnny Pesky and Bobby Doerr on either side of second base, and Dominic DiMaggio in center field.

STARS CAN STILL BE PICKED UP IN DRAFT "Ted Williams isn't hurting us any blasting the ball out of the park and hitting those runner home.

Someone of worth is always being passed up.

SPORTS IN WARTIME

Let's go fishing: W. R. Pounds of Tyler, using a red and white artificial minnow, caught two bass, each weighing about three pounds, on one throw of the rod and reel.

Bill Thompson of Galveston keeps a set of decrepit tackle for the benefit of borrowers. He let his daughter, Althea Wade, take the mildewed line, the wheezy reel, and the discouraged rod. She caught a six and three-quarter pound trout. Now if she'd only had good equipment.

The football situation: The shortage of coaches continues, the transport problem is no better, the armed forces continue to be players—and now some of the sports writers are wondering if whether there will be enough officials to go around.

He adds: "More than half of the men who tutored the Class A gridsters of the area have entered the service or will have done so before the new campaign dawn.

At Galveston, too, "transportation difficulties may hit the school-boy game hard, and right here at home grid powers at Ball high are figuring on waiting until the last minute to make any necessary changes, such as moving up night contests to day affairs," according to the Tribune, which has a "high school football, like the college variety, may have to look to FDR for an assist next fall; a helping hand like he gave baseball."

Zebbie Howell of Ennis has had a lot of sports experience. He shot a hole in one the other Sunday at the Ennis Country club and finished the round one under par.

Homer Riley of the Austin Statesman is concerned because the big leagues have cracked down on umpire-baiting. In the old days, Riley used to bait the umpire or derided a player from the field, he had to attend to it himself and eject the object of his wrath personally.

Yes, but—dear Mr. Riley—mightn't they get the handkerchief soiled on that filthy old diamond?

Best looking pitcher of the night was John Dungan Rigney, late of the Chicago White Sox, now a "gob" at the Great Lakes naval training station.

Bob Feller No Mystery To American Leaguers

By CHARLES DUNKLEY CLEVELAND, July 8 (AP)—The American league All-Stars have proved by all tests that they are, currently, the mightiest in baseball.

Sports Beat Missions 4-2 In 18 Innings

(By The Associated Press)

Fans at the Roosevelt night game between San Antonio and Shreveport last night saw an 18-inning contest, which the Sports won, 4 to 2.

Thirty-five hundred attended the tilt, which ended at 1 a. m. today.

Zeke Trent opened the 18th with a triple and scored on a squeeze play in which Baron participated.

On the throw to the plate Baron went to second, and he scored on Parker's single.

The Tulsa Oilers won from Oklahoma City, 4 to 3, scoring the winning run in the ninth.

With two down, Cy Block hit to Hartrigan, who tossed the ball into the Oklahoma City dugout. Block went to second. Guy Miller then hit to Hartrigan, who again threw wild as Block came in with the deciding tally.

Gordon Maltzberger held the Fort Worth Cats to five hits as Dallas won, 3 to 1. The Rebels made all of their runs in the first when Jess Landrum and Red Hayworth hit successive singles off Loren Bain with the bases full.

The Houston at Beaumont game was postponed.

Sammy Angotti Again Defeats Montgomery

PHILADELPHIA, July 8 (AP)—Lightweight Champion Sammy Angotti had to his credit today a third straight win over Philadelphia's Bob Montgomery, but his latest victory has started a controversy that may lead to a fourth meeting.

Angotti bulldozed and maulled his way to a split decision over Montgomery at Shibe park last night in a 12-round non-title scrap. The decision was hooded by many in the crowd of 16,000 that contributed to a gross gate of $32,850, but there seemed to be as many who declared the decision was just.

Charley Jones, manager of the Washington, Pa., champion, summed it up in a few words: "We won, didn't we. We've beaten him three times now, twice in Philadelphia. But we're willing to fight him again if the fans want it."

longer. He didn't get that name Iron Head for nothing.

Max Marshall is the 25th left-fighter in the Red Sox have employed since Bill McKechnie moved to the Rhineland in 1938.

The law of averages, if nothing else, should soon pay Cincinnati outfield dividends.

Salt Water, Gas And Vacuum Hit In Wildcat Test

HARRISVILLE, W. Va., July 8 (AP)—There are wildcat wells and wildcat wells but the oil drillers out on the Rinehart farm were ready to call their "panther" — or something worse.
First there was salt water, and that's no good.
Then there was some gas, but that is not what they were after.
Finally, they got a vacuum.
But they're still after oil.

The "wildcat" well on the Ritchie county farm of L. J. Rinehart is one of two being drilled in West Virginia by the Benetum-Trees interests of Pittsburgh in an effort to locate new sources of supply to alleviate the eastern oil shortage.
Ben Simpson of Parkersburg, in charge of the operation, today told this story of his tribulations:
The well was down 5,849 feet and water was discovered. That usually means no chance for oil and the well was closed.

The Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, opening a new plant on the Ohio river near New Martinsville, had a need for salt water and sent down men to examine the Benetum-Trees operation.
To the surprise of the drillers, the water was gone.
Drilling started again. Last Sunday gas began to flow. The well was blocked off to create pressure and get rid of the gas.
An examination yesterday showed, Simpson said, there wasn't any gas. Instead there was a terrific down-draft—or a vacuum—where the gas had been.
Witnesses said they had never seen anything like it in their oil drilling experience.

Orders went out to go down thru the Cretaceous sand (the well is now at 5,900 feet), and through the Newburger and Clinton sands to 6,300 feet if nothing developed.
There were a lot of bets something would develop—although maybe it wouldn't have anything to do with oil.

NAZI CLAIM SOVIET TROOPS SURROUNDED

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts) July 8 (AP)—The encirclement and capture of numerous Soviet troops northwest of Voronezh in enlarging a German salient in that general district, and the surrounding of strong Russian forces on the Rzhew front west of Moscow were reported today by the German high command.
Russian counter-attacks northwest of Voronezh failed, but the Russians continued to attack the northwestern in the Orel sector after being repulsed in fierce fighting that brought strong German aerial forces into use, a communique said.

The general picture as described by the Nazis thus portrays the Germans as broadening the spearhead they have thrust from Khar'kov and Kursk about 120 miles eastward to Voronezh and 300 miles south of Moscow, while the Russians are doggedly counter-attacking on the north and northwest front in an effort to advance German forces.

(Rzhew, where the Nazis claim to have encircled large Russian forces, is on the upper Volga river and a railway 130 miles west of Moscow, on a front where the Nazis have held a bulge during a comparatively quiet period.)

While these battles raged in the Ukraine, the Russians attempted several attacks on the far northern front, but none succeeded, the high command said.

Britain To Send No More High-Powered Propagandists To U. S.

LONDON, July 8 (AP)—The house of commons cheered today as Brendan Bracken, minister of information, declared that a "high-powered" publicity mission instructed to force Britain down the throats of the American people would do more harm than good, and that no more British lecturers would be sent to the United States because their efforts already had turned out that way.
Bracken spoke in reply to criticism of Britain's propaganda effort from both right and left.
Responding to complaints that he had sent "socialists" to propagandize in the United States, Bracken said he laid down an "absolute rule" that no more lecturers be sent.
"They did so much more harm than any possible good—that I thought they should stay home," he declared.

He added that a prominent American had estimated that the less than eight per cent of the American population was irreconcilably anti-British and "could only be cured by the undertaker."

With some critics charging inefficiency and others alleging leftist tendencies in British propaganda services, Parliamentary Secretary Ernest Thurtle disclosed that Britain would spend about $34,400,000 on propaganda at home and abroad during the current fiscal year, an increase of $9,740,000 over last year.

Bracken also reported that the RAF had dropped 145,000,000 propaganda leaflets on enemy and enemy-occupied territory during the first six months of 1942.

Miamian Assigned Duty At Fort Sill

Special To The NEWS
MIAMI, July 8—Lieut. Newton Craig left Monday for Fort Sill, Okla., to be inducted into the army.
He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Craig, Jr., of Miami, and attended Texas A. & M. college for four years, where he made an outstanding record in the agriculture department, and stock-judging events in fat stock shows.
Lieutenant Craig was reared in Miami and was an outstanding football player on the Warrior football team for several years. His father, county clerk of Roberts county, served overseas in World War I.

Agriculture Department Charged With Trying To Wreck Farm Prices

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—Chairman Cannon (D-Mo.), of the house appropriations committee, arguing for a ban on below-parity sales of government-held farm stocks, accused the agriculture department today of "trying to break down farm prices."
This, he told the house, comes "at a time when the farmers are receiving less than any one else."
He said that a recent letter from President Roosevelt to seven labor, religious and farm groups opposing the ban "bears all the earmarks of having been written in the Department of Agriculture." The proof, he said, was in the reference to what Cannon said was "power-hungry farmers."
President Roosevelt's letter covered two points, the need as he saw it for the government to be "free to use its feed resources to produce food for the wartime effort" and the matter of appropriations for the Farm Security administration.

On the latter point he said the senate figure, "however inadequate, is infinitely better than the inadequate proposals that are being mistakenly urged on the congress by certain selfish and power hungry groups." He did not identify these groups.

The senate FSA figure was $222,800,000; the house approved a $127,070,000 appropriation. Mr. Roosevelt had asked $293,598,000 for the agency, which is designed to help needy farmers.

Cannon recalled that the house four times this year had voted to prohibit use of Commodity Credit corporation funds for below-parity sales and warned the house that "if you yield now you will yield for all time to come—this will be the first step."

Cannon spoke after administration leaders sought once more to obtain senate and house approval of legislation which would make funds available to the agriculture department for the first time since July 1—the start of the fiscal year. The fundless department has a payday coming up tomorrow.

Enlisted Men Of Roberts Honored At Church Service

Special To The NEWS
MIAMI, July 8—A special service was held at the Methodist church Sunday morning honoring the enlisted men from Roberts county, conducted by the Rev. E. Lee Stanford, pastor.
This is the first time a special service has been held here in memory of the boys now in active service and in training.
Eight young ladies presented small United States flags each bearing the name of a young man who had enlisted from this county, and the flags, when massed, formed a square of national colors. A number of special and patriotic songs were used in the service, and the pastor brought an impressive, patriotic sermon.
There were 57 names called and showed some in all branches of the armed services. The flag which headed the list was in memory of Flaky McCormick who was reported missing in action from the destroyer Sims, which was reported as having exploded after having been in combat with the enemy.

Radio Operator Unsung Hero Of Midway Battle

The unsung hero of the Battle of Midway was the unidentified radio operator in the United States patrol plane who first sighted the Japanese invasion fleet and flashed the alarm which brought army, navy and marine corps bombers to swarm around the Nipponese armada like angry hornets and score the greatest naval victory in modern history.
The story behind this hero and the thousands of operators being trained by Uncle Sam to man the radio instruments in the 185,000 planes ordered by President Roosevelt is told by Maj. J. R. Johnston, of the "Radio University of the Air" at Scott Field, Illinois.
"Marksmanship still is of primary importance in winning battles," writes Major Johnston, "but in modern warfare other factors loom equally in importance. One of the foremost of these is radio communications, particularly in the air arms.
"Comparatively unsung—yet as vital to success in aerial combat as the pilot—is the radio man. Upon him depends the maintenance of the line of communications, the receipt of orders, the dispatch of information concerning approaching enemy units, the gathering of 'gathering of the clans' above and around invasion horde.
"Without radio—so say military experts—modern warfare in its present tremendous scale would not be possible. A fighter pilot handles his own radio contacts, communicating with other pilots in his squadron, or with ground stations direct.
"But in a big bomber, where the multiplicity of duties would overwhelm one man, a trained radio operator is indispensable. Upon him the pilot and the rest of the bomber crew depend for accurate reports of weather conditions necessary to the success of their mission, for orders from base stations, and for a hundred other reports. In actual battle, he is often called upon to man a machine gun, if not he sits at his radio controls, unprotected by armor, coolly attending to his duties."
Major Johnston stresses that never before has the demand for trained men been so great, or so vital to the United States "and never has the answer been quite so spontaneous. From farms, from towns and cities, from mill and factory and office come youths determined to do their part to whip the Axis. Many of them are former amateurs, but the majority never before saw a radio transmitter.
Scott Field is like a rapidly expanding city. Major Johnston points out, but just how much it is expanding is a military secret. "But it will continue to grow," he says, "until the blood of the Japanese and their Axis partners are beaten back forever from our shores. Scott Field will continue to supply radio operators whose principal slogan is, 'Keep 'em sparking!'"

Take GOOD CARE of Your ELECTRIC APPLIANCES...

If you have fears that some of your old electric appliances will not last out the duration (and premonitions that you will not be able to replace them when they come to their last gasp)—don't grieve. Just be foresighted and have your electric dealer or electrician give them a thorough physical examination. Don't put it off. Do it right now. Maybe all they need is cleaning . . . a minor adjustment . . . at most a new part! Then your appliances will be good for years.

ABC'S OF APPLIANCE CARE

- Your electric appliances were built to give you years of efficient service if given proper care and use.
- Keep cords free from knots and kinks, which cause wear and eventual short circuits.
- Watch for loose connections and keep tightened.
- Keep clean. But never wash your toaster, waffle baker, sandwich grill, iron. Use a small paint brush to remove crumbs or dust. Use a damp, but never wet, cloth.
- Don't run vacuum cleaner over pins, nails, coins, glass, stones.
- Keep dust bag emptied and brushes free from hair and threads. Clean brushes and wipe attachments using. Follow manufacturers oiling instructions. Replace worn brushes and belts.
- Keep electric fans wrapped when put away. Keep lubricated as directed. At the first sign of rattle or not turning freely, have your electrician check it.
- Don't string outdoor radio aerials near electric service wires. Don't leave radio on when no one is listening.

"TAKE GOOD CARE OF THE THINGS YOU HAVE," Says Uncle Sam.

SERIAL STORY MURDER IN FERRY COMMAND

BY A. W. O'BRIEN

COPYRIGHT, 1942
NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER I
IN the bleak Newfoundland pre-dawn, swirling snow slashed and bit at the huddled group of official witnesses awaiting the execution of Lemoy Statler. It was the morning of December 6, 1941.

Over the rim of the high stone fence surrounding the penitentiary jail yard, the witnesses could see the outline of Quidiuidi Lake.

The door into the jail yard opened.

Framed in the light was a uniformed man with a broom. He half ran to the portable scaffold erected close to the jail wall and hurriedly began sweeping the steps leading up to the trap door.

Sudden silence fell as a group of dark figures surrounding a coatless man with opened collar appeared in the doorway.

Quickly the procession was formed outside the door. The jail chaplain was praying in a low, flat monotone. Tall members of the Newfoundland Constabulary fell in on either side of the condemned man. Immediately behind him was a plumpish, red-faced man wearing a cap—a Canadian hangman imported for Newfoundland's first hanging in decades. Three officials completed the procession.

As they mounted the steps, two muffled figures stepped through the door and stood in the shadow of the scaffold. As one held up a match to the other's cigaret, their faces were revealed in the flare. One was a distinguished-looking, white-haired man in his sixties, the other a bronzed, handsome man in his middle thirties.

"Ghastly business, Dawson," the first one growled. "Wish the plane from England had been delayed. This would have been something I'd rather have missed. You chaps in the Intelligence Department get hardened, I suppose, but . . ."

"But never that hard, Sir Frederick," interrupted Clyde Dawson. "In fact, this business hurts me more than you can imagine. You see . . ." he paused for a second, "I actually grew very attached to Lemoy Statler and cursed the necessity of seeing him killed off."

HE halted abruptly and pointed to the scaffold. In the eerie light of a single electric floodlamp the hangman was strapping the condemned man's feet together. Quickly he followed with the hood and slipped the noose carefully into position—knot directly under the left ear.

In one fast motion the hangman's hand swept back to the lever and the trap door clanged open. Lemoy Statler's body hit the end of the rope with a jerking thud.

Clyde Dawson turned to the door. Sir Frederick Lemsborough, governor of Newfoundland, followed him. In the chief jailer's office they shook hands with an American colonel.

"The colonel worked on the investigation with the Newfoundland constabulary and myself," explained Dawson. "You see, one of the murdered men was an American soldier."

Sir Frederick nodded. "Yes, I knew that—most unfortunate."

"Well, sir," Dawson said, "the case was clear cut. Lemoy Statler was caught red-handed by a constable as he dashed out of a speakeasy early one morning last September. A woman's scream—she ran the speakeasy—prompted the constable to hold Statler. In his pocket was a still-smoking revolver, and a good supply of money in a wallet stamped with the name of Capt. Gilbert Cathcart."

"Cathcart was found upstairs, shot through the head. With him, also dead, was an American soldier. Investigation revealed they had both been killed by Statler's gun."

Two muffled figures stood in the shadow of the scaffold. As one held a match for the other's cigaret, their faces were revealed in the flare. One was a distinguished-looking, white-haired man in his sixties, the other a bronzed, handsome man in his middle thirties.

"We found that Statler had apparently gone to much trouble to cultivate Cathcart's friendship at the Newfoundland Hotel. Cathcart was drinking heavily as the autopsy revealed and, while Statler had also appeared badly intoxicated, a test made immediately at Police Headquarters showed he had been feigning drunkenness, obviously for the purpose of winning Cathcart's confidence.

"The woman speakeasy keeper testified she heard Cathcart yell: 'You dirty thief, I'll . . .', then came the gun shots. We don't know how the American soldier fitted in but have every reason to believe the poor chap just happened to be on the scene and stopped a bullet.

"Statler's passport was found to be a phony, as was his registration card. He had no police record but refused to give the minutest hint of his identity. In fact, he didn't even take the stand.

"And I must explain something else—would you mind leaving us for a moment, Chief?" Dawson smiled an apology to the chief jailer and waited for the door to close. "There is a story behind the story. What we have told you was suppressed for reasons which, we feel confident, you will approve."

Sir Frederick's eyebrows lifted. "In the wallet, besides the money . . ." Dawson's words fell slowly and methodically, "was a large quantity of data of the most secret technical nature pertaining to the Royal Air Force Ferry Command service . . ."

"What?" cut in the governor. "Yes, most vital data. Captain Cathcart was an important civilian technician of the Ferry Command."

"And Statler, you presume, an enemy agent?" Dawson and the colonel nodded.

"There would seem every indication that such was the case. His personal baggage, while telling us nothing of his identity, showed he was well off financially. And he was of the cultured type best described as 'cosmopolitan.'"

"If you ever meet this girl just say the other half of the reunion date couldn't make it—unexpectedly tied up, you know. But he really missed her—and plenty. P. S. to Dawson: Don't get excited, old man, she is NOT Hedy Lamarr."

Bankhead Urges Passage Of Full Parity Measure

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—Urging approval of a measure directing government loans at full parity for six major crops, Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.) told the senate today it was evident that President Roosevelt would not approve the $800,000,000 agriculture appropriations bill if it carried a provision prohibiting grain sales below parity for livestock feeding.

Bankhead demanded speedy action on the loan bill after the senate appropriations committee had approved unanimously a revised version of stop-gap legislation which would provide up to $93,900,000 for July operations of the agriculture department.

The department has been technically without funds since June 30, largely because the senate and house have not been able to agree on a senate provision in the money bill which would permit sales of government-held wheat at about 83 cents a bushel for livestock feed.

The house has insisted on full parity, or $1.34 a bushel, for such sales and included a proviso of this nature in a stop-gap measure it passed last week and which was revised today by the senate committee.

Bankhead disclosed that when the bill was passed last year authorizing government loans up to 85 per cent of parity, he and other senators wrote Mr. Roosevelt agreeing to support a change in policy which would take benefit payments into account when computing parity payment to farmers.

The senate wrote such a provision into the $800,000,000 bill but the house thus far has declined to accept it. Bankhead argued this and other disputes could be settled by 100 per cent parity loans, as proposed in the pending measure.

"There is now no appropriation for parity payments," he told his colleagues. "If the senate yields, there is a possibility and maybe a probability of a veto of the bill. If the senate yields and the President does not veto the bill, then there will be a considerable reduction in the amount received by farmers as parity payments to complete parity incomes."

Minority Leader McNary (R-Ore) opposed the full-parity bill, expressing belief it would hurt wheat and corn producers.

Bankhead said he was informed that if government sales of wheat for feeding were not permitted at prices below parity, an increase of $1,000,000,000 in the cost of food to consumers would result.

"It is evident," he declared, "that the legislation in the house bill against sales (of wheat) by the Commodity Credit Corporation below parity will not be passed and approved by the President."

Traffic Deaths In Bexar County Rise

SAN ANTONIO, July 8. (AP)—One man is dead and another was reported near death following traffic accidents on highways near here.

The death of Ramon Martinez, 44, of Spring Branch, sent the Bexar county traffic toll to 45 for the year, one ahead of this time last year.

Martinez, Deputy Sheriff Ace Querner said, was thrown from the rear of a pick-up truck which was overturned "two or three times" after a blowout on Highway No. 66, 16 miles north of the city Monday afternoon.

Manuel Manes, 48, Moore farmer, was critically hurt when struck by a car on the Laredo highway late Monday night, according to C. C. Mararwich, state highway patrolman. He is in a hospital here.

Filing Of Ceiling Prices Extended

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—The Office of Price Administration today imposed a ceiling at the manufacturer's level on rolled and wire glass, widely used in defense homes and industrial plants, with the maximum fixed at price levels prevailing last October. The schedule is effective next Saturday.

OPA also announced that the deadline for filing of statements showing ceiling prices on cost-of-living commodities offered for sale for the first time after July 1, has been extended from the 1st to the 10th of each month. The amendment will give retailers more time to prepare and file the required statements with local war price and rationing boards.

Another price ceiling revision provided maximum prices for special purpose used inner tubes at figures higher than those for ordinary used tubes. Special purpose tubes are those usually described as "puncture sealing," "self sealing," and "double walled." The newly prescribed maximum prices are about 50 per cent of the average list prices of such tubes new.

Counter-Attacks Slow Nazi Drive On South Front

MOSCOW, July 8 (AP)—The counter-attacking Red army was reported tonight to be wiping out German bridgeheads on the east bank of a bitterly contested river in the Voronezh sector (apparently the Don river) and to be repulsing successfully all further enemy attempts to cross the stream.

The German claim of the capture of Voronezh by reinforced Nazi troops which streamed across the Don river 10 miles west of the city went unconfirmed. The Soviet information bureau declared that the withering fire of massed Russian assaults upon a height in the chalky hills just west of Voronezh.

Red Star men gave ground in two areas of the Staryi Oskol sector and counterattacked in another to pile up a toll of 2,800 Germans killed and 35 tanks destroyed. It was announced. Both before Staryi Oskol and Voronezh, the Russians said, their guns flamed through the night, rounding out a two-month defense against regional German offensives.

Violent combat was reported in both the Voronezh and Staryi Oskol sectors of the Upper Don basin as the Russians battled twin drives to the East from the Kursk-Khar'kov zone dangerously threatening the Red army communications.

The invasion salient apparently widened slowly.

Heavy pressure before Staryi Oskol, a rail town of 22,000 on the Oskol river 65 miles southwest of Voronezh, forced the Russians to withdraw to new positions, but only after they had exacted a heavy toll. The Soviet information bureau announced.

"In one of the sectors the Germans hurled about 200 tanks and a large infantry force into the attack," it said. "The Hitlerites were firmly met by artillerymen, trench mortar guns, anti-tank riflemen and tankists."

"Eighty German trucks were disabled. Our men mowed down the Hitlerites by point-blank fire of machine-guns, automatic rifles and rifles. After killing several hundred enemy officers and men, our units retired to previously prepared defense lines."

A Soviet tank detachment holding a sector in the Don river basin west of Voronezh killed 700 Germans and demolished 14 of their tanks in a day's action, it was announced.

Outnumbered Red army men declared to have slain more than 1,000 during defense of a village for 48 hours, although the implication was that the invaders finally won it.

ing their application for benefits.

The allotment and allowance law applies to men in the army up to and including the rank of line sergeant, and in the navy to men up to and including third class petty officers. It provides aid to two groups of dependents, defined as Class A and Class B. In the former are wives and children and former wives entitled to alimony; in the latter are parents, brothers, sisters and grandchildren.

Pay deductions of a $22 a month are mandatory when a service man has Class A dependents. To this the government adds $28 for a wife, plus $12 for the first child and $10 for each additional child; $20 for a child but no wife, and $10 for each additional motherless child. Deductions for Class B dependents are optional. They amount to $22 if there are no Class A dependents and $5 if there are such dependents.

Before the family allowance bill was enacted many soldiers were making voluntary allotments from their pay to dependents. These were known as Class E allotments. Orders have gone out that if Class E and other allotments (such as insurance, laundry, etc.) are of such size that the prescribed deduction of $22 or $27 cannot be made and leave a soldier at least $10 a month for his personal use, exclusive of possible court marshal forfeitures, it will be necessary to discontinue or adjust the voluntary allotments.

However, to prevent hardship resulting from discontinuance of the voluntary sums and deferment of family allowance payments until Nov. 1, the war department has authorized its chief of finance to discontinue Class E deductions immediately and to continue monthly payments of a similar sum from date of discontinuance through Sept. 30, 1942. The sums thus paid dependents will then be deducted from the initial family allowance payment.

strangely quiet, unlike what rumor said it would be. I met a British officer and asked him what was going on. He pointed to a few barely distinguishable flames on the skyline and explained that these were "Jerry feelers."

"I don't think you can go much farther in your car, you know," the officer said.

It was late afternoon and I was wondering where to spend the night when I spotted a scattered group of field ambulances. A South African major in charge invited me to pass the night with his boys. He told me his company had retired to this position only a few hours previously.

We passed a fantastic evening in his mess. We discussed everything but war—Roosevelt, Lindbergh, John L. Lewis, music, Hollywood—and all the while RAF bombers droned overhead en route to repeated attacks against the German lines.

As the evening passed, one by one stories of bravery and hardships came out. At least two of the men had slipped away after being "in the bag." One was a 30-year-old captain who told how the Italians used water, allocated to prisoners, to wash in front of their captives who had had nothing to drink for 24 hours or more.

"It was bad business," the major said telling how a number of his officers were killed in an engagement in which he was wounded and an ambulance wrecked during what he called "that noisy night."

The next morning I drove forward to a dressing station where I found a wounded British tank gunner. His tank and a German tank had both been disabled in fighting. He leaped from the turret and ran toward the German tank, hurling a hand grenade. It bounced off and did not explode. He seized the grenade and held it against the side of the tank until it exploded. He was blown clear, but his right arm and suffered cuts and burns. The doctors said he would recover.

The doctors had no sooner finished operating on the gunner than a tired dust-stained captain arrived on foot. He had been captured by a lone German armored car. The Germans left one man to guard the captive. The captain chatted with the guard and asked him for a cigarette. As the guard reached for one, the captain grab-

ECL Supervisor To Make Weekly Visit

Schedule of the visits of a field supervisor of the emergency crop and feed loan section of the Farm Credit administration in Pampa was announced today by G. T. Hackney, county farm agent.

Harold Himmel, the supervisor, will be in Pampa from 1:30 p. m. to 5 p. m. each Tuesday and from 8 a. m. to 11 a. m. each Friday, at the county farm agent's office, located on the second floor of the court house.

Loans for the production of winter wheat and other small grains will be made, as in the past, only to farmers whose cash requirements are small and who cannot obtain a loan from any other source, including production credit associations, banks, or other private concerns or individuals.

As in former years, the money loaned will be limited to the applicant's necessary cash needs in preparing his land and seeding his 1942 grain crops.

Borrowers who obtain loans for the production of grain crops are required to give as security a first lien on the crop financed.

and that just across the river in Mexico this help is willing and ready to come over to work for the American farmers. But the bureaucrats in Washington are telling the farmers they can't run their own business and they can't have help from outside of the United States.

He dwelt at considerable length upon the actions of labor racketeers and how they have robbed the honest laboring men of Texas and America through charging exorbitant fees for permits to work on defense jobs and cited several instances where such charges had been made. He said the communistic labor leader racketeers have milked honest American laborers of more than a billion dollars and that this money is being used to defeat senators and representatives in congress who do not see eye to eye with them. He claimed that huge sums are being spent by this element to bring about his defeat and that the spending had only begun.

Hal Collins followed the senator. He arrived late from Amarillo where a double rally was held Tuesday night.

Collins charged that road houses and honky tonks along the highways of Texas are undermining the morale of the soldiers in training in Texas. He promised that if elected governor he will do everything possible, even to calling out the Rangers, to put these "cess pools of hell" out of business.

Immediately following the noon rally here the party left for meetings at Shamrock at 4 p. m.; Wellington, 5:30 p. m., and Childress tonight for a rally at 8 o'clock.

HEARTS and FLOWERS

TOM: Gosh, Ann, I'm glad I could get back in time for our wedding anniversary. Being on the road as much as I am, it seems like I'm never home. Here's something for you.

ANN: You darling! Flowers!

TOM: It could have been a new hat if that blamed car of mine hadn't had to have a new set of piston rings.

ANN: I know wives shouldn't interfere in their husband's business, Tom, but Mrs. Reardon was telling me how much money Jack saved on the maintenance of his car. He drives even more than you do.

TOM: What all did she tell you, Ann?

ANN: Well, Jack Reardon uses Conoco Nth motor oil. That's the oil that OXFATES the engine and saves a lot of wear and tear. And it contains a new synthetic that helps keep the oil from fouling up, too. Mrs. Reardon says Jack has to make his car last two or three years longer now and Conoco Nth motor oil will help him do it!

TOM: That settles it, Ann! I'm going to change right now to Conoco Nth!

ANN: Good boy! And maybe I can still get that new hat?

You'll agree that it's orchids to Conoco Nth motor oil, once you prove to yourself how it is so economical, clean-running and wear-saving. See Your Conoco Mileage Merchant today! Continental Oil Company
