Nation's Coal Operators on Hot Seat as Senate Approves Boyd

What Lewis Will Do Next Question

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— The nation's coal operators were on the hot seat today wondering what John L. Lewis would do now.

City Awards Contract for '49 Cement

The City Commission received bids yesterday morning and awarded a contract for 6,000 barrels of cement for the 1949 summer street paving program.

Lewis would have the answer right up to Lewis last night by confirming Dr. James Boyd as director of the Federal Bureau of Mines in an overwhelming 50-11 vote.

The bid of the Monarch Cement Co. of Humboldt, Kan., agreeing to ship the cement according to any shipping schedule the city may require.

Five File For Board At Lefors

As the deadline for candidacy filing passed at midnight today, the number of school board candidates in Lefors jumped from two to five as the names of F. D. Ross, B. D. Vaughn and Marion Brown were filed with County Judge Bruce Parker late in the afternoon.

War Dead to Be Returned

The body of Pvt. Alford J. Aubert of Skellytown will arrive at 8:25 a. m. Saturday for final interment.

License Violation Charge Is Filed

Charges of driving without a Texas operator's license were filed yesterday in Justice Court against Clarence R. Bynum, Adams Hotel, following a sideswipe crash late Monday on Highway 60 a few miles west of Pampa.

DINNER POSTPONED

The First Methodist Church men's dinner, originally scheduled for tonight, has been postponed until Wednesday night, April 13.

THE WEATHER

WEST TEXAS: Mostly cloudy with warm southerly winds this afternoon. Scattered showers tonight and Thursday morning. Cooler Thursday.

GIMMICK IS BURIED DEEP IN TREATY

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of four stories on the Atlantic Pact giving its background and its purpose.)

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON —(AP)— There's a gimmick, and a sad one, buried deep in the Atlantic Pact.

The pact was put together for defense against Russia by this country and seven other Western European democracies.

FIRST PICTURE—Here is the first published picture of the test well, Sinclair-Lippis, Roberts County, a well that has created so much stir in recent weeks.

HST FORCES DEFEATED IN MAJOR 'HOME RULE' TEST

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senate administration forces, defeated in a major "home rule" test on the rent bill, faced up to fight a fresh barrage of amendments today.

Herrel Services 2 P.M. Thursday

Funeral services for Donna Sue Omega Herrel will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Calvary Baptist Church with the Rev. Collins Webb officiating.

LEGISLATORS MULL OVER IDEA OF ONE-YEAR APPROPRIATIONS

AUSTIN —(AP)— Legislators today mullied over the suggestion that only one-year appropriations be made this session, leaving tax talk and future spending to a special session next January.

Golden Wedding Day Celebrated

CANADIAN —(Special)— Mr. and Mrs. Joe W. Evans celebrated their golden wedding day Sunday.

COURT HOLDS PICKETING IS LAWFUL

AUSTIN —(AP)— A union plea that picketing is lawful under the free speech guarantee of the federal Constitution was upheld today by the Texas Supreme Court.

The ruling came in the appeal of the International Union of Operating Engineers Local 864 (AFOEL) from lower court judgments granting the Velaaco Laundry and Dry Cleaners an injunction to halt picketing by the union.

Four Seeking Two Posts on Local Board

The number of candidates in the Pampa School Board election dropped from five to four yesterday afternoon when Paul E. Chambers, 1002 Wilks, suddenly withdrew from the race.

Congresswoman Wrecked Her Marriage Says Blonde Bride

WASHINGTON —(AP)— An attractive blonde bride of less than a year charges that her husband's attachment for 67-year-old Rep. Edw. Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts wrecked her marriage.

Charges Filed In Yard Damage

Charges of reckless driving and destruction of private property were docketed yesterday in County Court against E. J. Lee, 325 Tuke, in connection with the damaging of the front yard and home of W. H. Spoonmore, 417 N. Gray.

Margaret Truman To Sing at Edinburg

EDINBURG —(AP)— Two of the performers next session of the Edinburg Junior College lecture and concert series will be Margaret Truman and Lauritz Melchior.

State Department Bars 11 Delegates

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The "world peace" conference opening Friday in New York is viewed by the State Department as one of a series of moves by Moscow to oppose the new North Atlantic Security Pact and further notice Soviet aims.

Officials said today this was why the American government is barring 11 delegates from Europe and South America.

However, 21 from Soviet Russia and Eastern Europe are permitted entry, and the State Department explained this apparent contradiction.

The 21 are official representatives of their governments, and are entitled to official visas. They are also eligible under immigration laws. The others, however, are not attending the conference as government officials and are excludable.

Boy Hit by Car, Injured

A 13-year-old boy was hospitalized at 10:14 last night after he was struck and injured by an automobile a few feet west of the Ballou and Brown intersection near the Charles Burton Service Station.

Miami Election Only Formality

MIAMI —(Special)— Miami's School Board election, April 2, will be just a formality with only three candidates in the field running unopposed.

NEW HIGH REACHED

This is the takeoff of the two-stage rocket which soared to 250 miles above the earth at White Sands, N. M., at a speed of 5,000 miles per hour.

A crew of city workers removing a large tree from the north end of the City Hall this morning. Guess the parking problem is about to be solved there. Notified Fire Chief Ernest Wimborne also was there supervising.

Heading for New Homes at Last

A total of 414,685 refugees or displaced persons have found new homes or have been returned to their countries through the efforts of the International Refugee Organization of the United Nations (IRO) during its first 18 months of operations. Here a group of displaced persons boards a train at one of IRO's centers in Europe.

Fledgling Lawmakers Want More Say-So in Congress

The world produces about 800,000,000 pounds of tea a year, of which Great Britain consumes about half.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Freshmen members of the House want a little more say-so in running Congress.

They are not particularly unhappy over the seniority system of advancement based on length of service, but they would like to get on the "inside" when it comes to determining policy.

That was the general feeling expressed by Democrats and Republicans alike in a spot poll of the 117 men and women now serving their first term in Congress.

The freshmen were asked what they think about Congress, what procedural changes they would like, what they think about the seniority system and the tradition of leaving newcomers off policy committees, and, in the case of Democrats, how they have been received by "the administration."

The answers included: Rep. Benton (D-Tex): "The average congressman is sincere and I believe he does what he thinks is best for the country. We'd all like faster action on legislation but I don't know what changes would affect it. I see a lot of inequities in the seniority system but I have yet to see a more practical system."

New York State has 62 counties, several of which outrank some states in population.

Days of '49 Are Recalled In White Deer Festivities

WHITE DEER (Special)—The gold rush days of '49 were recalled Saturday evening when the Juniors entertained the Seniors of White Deer High School at the annual banquet in the High School Cafeteria, aptly labeled the "Gold Dust Inn of Tombstone Gulch."

Piles of ancient wagon wheels, tumbleweeds and bleached bones of cattle in the hall and reception room set the mood.

In the dining room, the walls were decorated with Western scenes. The tables were lighted by candles in bottles gay with vari-colored candlewax and surrounded by fronds of yucca. The centerpiece at the head table was a circle of tiny covered wagons drawn up around a campfire. Scenes formed the covers of the programs, and bags of "gold dust staked the claim" for each guest. Favors were miniature mugs and wine glasses.

After the invocation by Supt. Ray Vineyard, Tom Horn, president of the Junior Class, as master of ceremonies, welcomed the guests; and Ernie Bill Terry, president of the Senior Class, responded.

There was no formal program, but stunts such as "claim jumping," enacted by Douglas Smith and Teddy Harvey; "prospecting," by Wendell Jordan; a poem by the "desert rat," Dickie Ingram; and a realistic holiday by Jon Scott and R. D. Talley, all promptly subdued by "Sheriff" George Eller—all added humor to the occasion, while the music of the Amarillo High School Swing Band brought in a modern touch.

Concluding the festivities, Wendell Cain read "The Shooting of Dan McGrew"; and the group joined in singing "Along the Navajo Trail," "Tumbleweed," "Home on the Range," and "There's a Tavern in the Town," led by Dolores Kalka and accompanied by Sam Milligan.

Sophomore girls, dressed in black skirts and white blouses, served as waitresses; and the menu of baked ham, Pinto beans, potatoes, fresh green vegetables, lettuce salad, corn muffins and rolls, fried pies with ice cream, pretzels, iced tea served in tin cans, and coffee carried out the '49er theme.

Sponsors of the Junior Class, who assisted in the plan, are Miss Gertrude Golladay and Wendell Cain.

G. C. Heard Now At Pueblo, Colo.

G. C. Heard, who with his family moved to Pampa in 1926, left yesterday for Pueblo, Colo., after selling his farm home and equipment one mile south of Pampa on the Lefors highway.

Mr. and Mrs. Heard last November purchased the Parkview Motel Pueblo.

Mr. and Mrs. Heard reared their three children here. They are Walton, Louise and Lois. When the family came here, Mr. Heard became associated with the Pampa Ice Co., later with the Gray County Creamery. He later changed the name to Northeast Dairy, and finally called it the Heard Creamery. It is now known as Sunshine Dairy, and is operated by George (Pinkey) Vineyard.

Scouters Study 'Camping Out'

Equipped with knives, 24 local women early this morning began a day in which they plan to discover every conceivable use of knives.

At 9:30 a.m., the women met at the Girl Scout House to spend the rest of the day taking an out-door training course. Under the instruction of Mrs. K. E. Thornton, executive, the women will learn to make "nose bag" lunches, all about one-pot and non-stuffed meats, one-eyed Egyptians, corn pancakes, to build fires, buddy burners, trench stoves, to use and care for knives and hatchets and to lay and follow trails.

At noon the women cooked one-pot meals, which included camping stew, bread twists, stuffed celery and "somemores."

250 Visit New Canadian Home

CANADIAN (Special)—Malouf Abraham's showing of his new FHA home, "The Home with a Million Dollar View," was a big success. In spite of unfavorable weather, approximately 250 people Sunday attended Canadian's first "open house."

Abraham plans several additional FHA homes in this area in the near future, he said. Canadian is looking forward to this development with a great deal of interest as the shortage of homes is acute.

The home was shown completely furnished by cooperation of the Cook Electric and the Pampa Furniture Co.

Royall Asks for Long Term Planning

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Army Royall told senators that while war is not "imminent" it is "at least a possibility."

Royall testified before the Senate Armed Services Committee in support of a bill to fix the active strength of the Army at 837,000 officers and men, plus 750,000 in the National Guard.

Calling for an "adequate" Army, Royall told the committee that United States military plans ought to be made for a span of years "and not from crisis to crisis."

Fate of Two Dogs Rests With Lawyers

FORT WORTH (AP)—The fate of two dogs, branded killers in 17th District Court and defended as faithful pets by their owner, William Uihorn, a Tarrant County farmer, rested on involved legal negotiations between two lawyers.

Arthur Q. Longguth, whose farm is near Uihorn's property, said the dogs killed 65 turkeys, 108 ducks and two geese, and crippled a number of fowl in two raids last year. Uihorn agreed in court to pay $400 damages. What happens to the dogs was to be decided by the lawyers for both parties.

Airline May Move Houston Office
HOUSTON (AP)—Pioneer Airlines, Inc., officials said it may be necessary to move their home offices from Houston.

The airlines' sub-lease of Houston Municipal Airport property has been cancelled at the request of the Texas Air National Guard. The property is under a 99-year lease to the National Guard.

The U. S. Air Force is completing plans to start a radar navigation school at Ellington Field, about 15 miles from the Municipal Airport, thus forcing the 63rd Fighter Wing of the Texas Air National Guard to move.

The fighter wing wants to take over the properties occupied by Pioneer by June 1.

Robert J. Smith, president of Pioneer, said the airlines would make every effort to remain in Houston.

Come in and see "The Car Designed With YOU in Mind"

IT'S BRAND-NEW... so new that there aren't many on the streets yet. But already it's a tremendous success. And it's easy enough to see why.

Everybody wants a smart, good-looking modern car. But most of us don't want to pay a penalty for being modern. We want more room... more comfort... more visibility... not less.

That's where De Soto scores. It's got those long, low lines. But you don't have to wriggle into it. It has big wide doors. Plenty of headroom, too. The roof won't scrape your hat, no matter where you sit. It's roomier than ever.

It's no use having bigger windows and windshields unless you can see out of them. In the new De Soto you can... because you're sitting on chair-high seats. Even a short person can see over the steering wheel. Even a six-footer won't hit his knees on it.

You don't have to enlarge your garage to hold the new De Soto. You can still change a tire yourself. And a dent in the fender doesn't mean an expensive body repair job. Come in and see this wonderful car that lets you drive without shifting. Compare it with any other at any price. Then decide.

That and a lot of other questions must be answered if we are to navigate the present troubled waters successfully. It is a problem of education.

In recognition of this fact, America's educational leaders are planning changes in curricula to deal with the questions growing out of a continuing cold war. ## Dallas Judge Awards $2 Damages in Libel Suit

DALLAS — UP — Harry M. Hoxsey was awarded $2 damages Friday in his libel suit against the Hearst newspapers and The American Weekly, Hearst Sunday supplement. Hoxsey operates a cancer clinic here.

He had asked $1 million. Of special interest in libel law was the awarding of $1 of the $2 judgment on behalf of Hoxsey's late father, John C. Hoxsey, "for the linking of his dead father with the activities of the plaintiff."

Hoxsey's suit was based on a story in The American Weekly supplement to the San Antonio Light. It appeared under the bylines of Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the American Medical Association's publications, and William Engle, an AMA employee.

The award was made by Federal Judge William H. Atwell, who said the judge in ruling:

"I find as the facts the following: First, that the method pursued by Mr. Hoxsey consists of healing by neither radium, X-ray nor surgery, but by application of external or internal medicine prescribed through physicians employed by him.

"Second, that he has no license to practice medicine in Texas, but that he has performed an operation that resulted in the death of the woman on whom he operated.

"Third, that his father died of cancer, and that he was a veterinarian as stated, and that he practiced virgin healing.

"I find, as a fact that the statement in the published libel that the plaintiff has hoodwinked jurists is not true.

"I find that publication of this article has not damaged the plaintiff except nominally. I find that his original source of revenue is through publicity, by advertising and published articles.

"I find no substantial decrease in his actual or expected revenues.

"I find that such doctors as he hired were and are not especially learned men, but he had the right to hire and supervise them. He is a quick-brained, ingenious gentleman.

"I find no malice in this case, only a mistaken sense of public duty."

Just before he announced his finding, Judge Atwell said, "Here are 87 people who have taken this stand and said they had cancer. It must be admitted they are not learned diagnosticians.

"But they said they were healed and made well.

"You pay your money and take your choice. This is a free country and those who need a doctor may go to anyone."

"The United States has 1,400,000 miles of improved roads.

Less White Collar' Jobs Open Now

MINNEAPOLIS — There are many fewer "white collar" job openings than a year ago in most U. S. cities, but high grade personnel is still in demand. The volume of job seekers, particularly men, is up all the way from ten percent to as much as 300 percent, but a heavy majority of the applicants are below-standard material and there is little market for them.

This is the tenor of reports from 108 private employment agencies in 42 principal cities from coast to coast, surveyed by the family economics bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance Company.

The "weeding out" process is now on in full swing, agency executives report, as employers prune down working forces to eliminate the lazy, the inefficient, the chronic absentees, and the chronically tardy, "who don't realize that the wartime gravy-train has stopped, and the era of competition is back."

The biggest drop has occurred in jobs for untrained and junior office help, particularly male, the survey finds. But there is still a nationwide demand for salesmen and sales promotion personnel, and, in most cities, for accountants and other technically trained men. Competent women office help are still in demand in most localities, particularly secretaries, stenographers, typists, and bookkeepers. But more women are seeking jobs, and agencies report that more women are coming back into the employment market than at any time since the war years.

BETTER BOWLING

By BILLY SIXTY
ARM UP OR STRAIGHT: In order to play alley, a bowler must be able to use effectively two types of deliveries. In both deliveries, the thumb is in the same position but the arm action varies to produce different results.

Arnold Baker of St. Paul brings up the point of producing different size hook-turns while keeping the thumb in a constant position. He goes on to say that he holds the ball so that the thumb is pointed to the inside (toward the body) but the action of the ball varies in the amount of right-to-left break it takes when (1) the arm is brought upward as the ball is released and (2) the arm is straightened out over the foul line without any lift.

The hook-break on the ball is certainly larger when the arm is lifted in releasing the ball after it passes the left leg in the swing at the foul line as the first illustration shows. The lift produces an easy turn of the wrist from right to left and a spin is applied to the ball by the third and small fingers. When the arm is straightened out, this is the arm action to use. Start the ball eight to ten inches from the right-hand gutter and direct it at the No. 3 pin. You'll find the straight arm finish best to use in playing a slow or quick-breaking alley, as the second illustration shows. The No. 3 pin again is the target. The alley takes the ball into the...

Baseball Not So Cold-Blooded

HOUSTON —(AP)— Del Webb, co-owner of the New York Yankees, says you can't make a cold-blooded business proposition out of baseball.

Webb returned to his Arizona home today after attending the formal opening of oilman Glenn McCarthy's Shamrock Hotel here.

"I bought the Yankees purely as a cold-blooded business proposition, but after you once get back in the middle of baseball you can't stay cold-blooded very long," he said prior to stepping into his private plane.

Webb and Dan Topping each own half of the Yankee stock, with Topping as president and Webb as vice president. The purchase was made in 1947.

"At the time," Webb said, "it was merely a business proposition. I had been out of baseball 20 years. I had played professional baseball but I had been completely out of touch with the game for all that time."

"But once you get back into the game, you can't treat it impersonally," he added in explaining his active interest in the club although he does not get to see the Yankees play very often.

He isn't worried about Casey Stengel, the Yankees' new manager.

"While Casey is handing out all that malarkey of his, he is about two thoughts ahead of you all the time," Webb said. "He lives baseball 24 hours a day and will do a very fine job."

Webb said he doesn't see how the American League race this year can keep from being a three-team race again.

"The Boston Red Sox and the (Cleveland) Indians haven't improved themselves too much," he said, "and Cleveland's pitching may not be as strong as many people think."

He wouldn't comment much about the Yankees but left no doubt he believes New York will be one of the three fighting it out for the championship.

WILDLIFE WEEK: This week, March 20-26, has been designated as National Wildlife Restoration Week. The proceeds from these sales go to finance wildlife organizations and aid in their fight for conservation.

Texas League Is Pitcher's Home
DALLAS —(AP)— Post-war accomplishments of Texas League players offer strong challenges for the youngsters coming up to the eight clubs this year. Those who reach or exceed them will be hailed among the brightest stars of the 1949 Minor League baseball campaign.

The Texas League has long been noted as a pitcher's loop. Records of 1946 and 1947 certainly illustrate the point.

In 1946 John Van Cuyk of Fort Worth turned in a 1.42 earned run average. William Ramsdell of Fort Worth had a 21-5 pitching record in 1947. Clarence Beers of Houston won 25 games in 1947 and Van Cuyk fanned 207 batters in 1946.

President J. Alvin Gardner heads the group of veteran baseball men who believe the Texas League will be at its peak this season as a double-A circuit. But the pitching will be truly glittered in the best TL traditions if any of the post-war pitching highs is replaced.

The power-laden Tulsa Oilers came through the 1948 campaign with the ERA leader in Bud Byerly with 2.21 won-lost percentage, Bud Lively, .789 on a 15-4 record, and victories, Harry Perkowski, 22. Houston's Cloyd Boyer was the strikeout king with 182. But none of these marks could gain a place with the statistical pitching highs since the TL reactivated in 1946.

Ramsdell's won-lost percentage of .808 is the best in the league since 1911 by a pitcher winning 20 games. However, it is short of the 1933-48 "modern" record of .42 set by Fort Worth's Jackie Reid in 1936 on a 16-3 mark.

Beers' 25 victories for the 1947 Dixie champion Buffaloes was the TL's best since Ash Hillin took 31 for Oklahoma City in 1937. Van Cuyk's 1.42 ERA compares favorably with those of the modern era. Although Houston's Howie Pollet has the individual low in this regard, a gaudy 1.16 in 1941. However, the Fort Worth southpaw — now with the parent Brooklyn Club — set a 1933-48 strikeout high in getting 207 for the 1948 Cal straightaway winners. It was the best since Dizzy Dean's amazing 303 for the 1931 Houston Buffs, and would see a real strikeout king crowned this year in the Texas League if it is exceeded.

Wildlife Stamp

The conservation of wildlife is big business. There are more than 20,000,000 people who hunt and fish. They contribute more than 50 million dollars to the state and federal agencies engaged in the management of wildlife. Many millions more are spent by private organizations in their effort to preserve and restore wildlife. Millions of people enjoy the national parks and other recreational areas. The total outdoor bill for sportsmen alone is well over 4 billion dollars a year. Add to this the vacation expenditures and the gross outlay of the American people in the pursuit of enjoyment and recreation mounts to a figure between 6 and 7 billion dollars. Song and insectivorous birds are estimated to save more than 300 million dollars worth of crops every year. They are worth protecting. Ducks, geese, pheasants, other upland game birds, deer, elk, antelope, and other four-footed animals, large and small, and fish all play an important part in our outdoor pleasure and all are worth protecting.

Soil conservation and the cleaning up of our waters should be "musts" on everyone's list. The wise management of these basic resources will, in themselves, do much to maintain our wildlife. Good farming practices encourage wildlife through plantings of fence rows and farm woods of plants to check erosion that are attractive to wildlife, the construction of farm ponds to aid in holding water.

Aquatic life of all kinds has disappeared from many rivers because of industrial and domestic waste disposal. Failure to have proper, hard-hitting laws protecting our wildlife has been a constant menace to conservation. Now, through the combined efforts of state sportsmen of the state, legislation is being enacted at Austin to give authority to the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission to close fishing and hunting seasons as they see fit for the conservation of game.

With the consistent support of sportsmen, the hunter and fisherman can be assured of having something to hunt and fish, though he may find his catch limited and his season shortened. But he will have something to hunt and fish for.

PIN-WORMS GO! New Treatment Gets Real Results

Don't let your child suffer a single needless minute of distress with Pin-Worms. And it can happen. Medical experts report that an amazing number of children (and adults too) are victims of these ugly pests that live and grow inside the human body.

You should and can do something about Pin-Worms. A new, scientific treatment—Jayne's Pin-Worms—offers real relief. It contains a special, medically-approved ingredient that destroys Pin-Worms in the intestine and removes them from the body.

So watch for the warning signs of Pin-Worms in your family... itching, nose picking and especially the nagging, irritating rectal itch. Then ask your druggist for P-W, the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by the famous Jayne Co., specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years. Destroy those Pin-Worms... relieve that itch. Just Remember: P-W for Pin-Worms!

WORTHWHILE HD CLUB HAS WORK MEETING: '42' PARTY

"A Work Habit I Have changed," was the roll call topic Friday when Worthwhile Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. N. B. Cude.

Mrs. Ray Robertson, president, had charge of the business meeting at which members decided to donate to the Red Cross. Mrs. Joe Looper talked on filing home demonstration club literature.

Mrs. D. L. Lunstford presented forms for opening and closing letters to congressmen.

Mrs. Ora Wagner gave a parliamentary drill. The chairman of each committee reported.

The members and their husbands celebrated St. Patrick's Day with a progressive forty-two party Thursday in the home of Mrs. Roy Tinsley.

Partners were found my matching Shamrocks. The group later decided to have another party to determine the two best players.

Pie and coffee were served to Messrs. and Mmes. Ray Robertson, Paul Chambers, B. M. Vaughn, Joe Looper, R. E. Engle, Ora Wagner, W. B. Turner, Ralph Depee, G. H. Anderson and A. C. Crawford.

Next regular meeting of the club will be held April 1 in the home of Mrs. R. E. Engle, Borger Highway.

Mrs. Locke Is Shower Honoree

The country home of Mrs. J. L. Stroppe was the scene of an afternoon reception and bridal shower, Sunday, honoring Mrs. Dare L. Locke of Canyon.

Miss Donna Lee Stroppe, Mmes. W. D. Benton, Vernice Farrington, Ruth Spearman, Joe Lewis and Norman Walberg had charge of the receiving line. During the afternoon more than 40 guests registered, which included members from Entre Nous Club, Miami, Hoover and Pampa.

A pink and white color scheme was carried out in the refreshments and flowers. Corsages were presented to the honoree, her mother, Mrs. J. M. Daugherty, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. W. F. Locke.

Miss Mildred Cole of White Deer entered the guests' names in the Bride's Book, and Mrs. W. D. Allen and Mrs. C. W. Bowers presided at the punch bowl.

During the afternoon a program of music and appropriate readings were presented by Mrs. Clinton Caylor and Misses Pauline Allen of Miami, and La-Nelle Gumm of Amarillo. Miss Mary Lynn Allen of Canyon had charge of the program and the presentation of gifts.

Sewing Projects Continued by Club

The Blue Ribbon 4-H Club met Saturday morning in the county home demonstration agent's office to continue work with sewing projects.

Those girls who had not finished their aprons worked on them and others continued work on their dresses or skirts. Girls learned how to mark darts and basting was started.

The 4-H Club pledge, prayer and motto were given and the group learned a 4-H Club song.

One new member, Peggy O'Neal, and the following members were present: Johnnie Lee Smith, Sandra Gaye Petty, Betty Lou Fleming, Phyllis Phillips, Billie Mae Osborne, Martha Anne Duke, Mae Beth Spencer, Doylee Fletcher, Carolyn Anderwald, Mrs. Tom Anderwald, sponsor, and Mrs. Mary Anne Duke, home demonstration agent.

Meeting time was changed from 10 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. Next meeting will be held in the agent's office, April 2, 1949.

HANDLING BISCUITS

In making baking powder biscuits be sure to flour your hands after you have turned out the dough onto a lightly floured board or pastry cloth and are ready to knead and shape.

TEEN TALK

Students of Normandy High School were thrilled to hear and interview Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt recently. Joy Bridgett, interviewing her for their Courier, asking her if she believed "the United Nations without a strong power of enforcement could ensure world peace." Mrs. Roosevelt answered: "No, and as it is now, it can't have force."

Mrs. Roosevelt, says Joy, went on to explain: "One problem to face would be the kind of force. This is especially true of the atomic energy question."

Joy asked: "Well, trying in with that, do you believe in a world government such as the United World Federalists propose?"

Mrs. Roosevelt replied: "No, because it was hard enough to get the United Nations Charter. I do believe, however, that you should go on working for and thinking about world government."

Mrs. Jack Prather Is Party Honoree

Mrs. Jack Prather, south of Pampa, was honored Sunday with a birthday dinner given by her mother, Mrs. Annie Blankenburg, at her home in Borger.

Others present were Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Blankenburg and son, Fritch, Tex., Mr. and Mrs. Jim McPherson and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Clovis Morgan, Walter Blankenburg, all of Borger and Prather and son, Jackie.

QUICK DESSERT

To make a quick dessert, turn a can of applesauce into a baking dish. Top with graham cracker crumbs that have been mixed with brown sugar and melted butter or margarine. Bake in a moderate oven until heated through.

Flaked cooked fish may be teamed with green peas and white sauce or a Sunday night supper dish; add a little lemon juice and scraped onion to the sauce for extra-good flavor.

Sour cream, flavored with a little sugar, lemon juice, salt and freshly ground pepper, makes an easily prepared dressing for thinly sliced tomatoes. Serve on a bed of shredded lettuce.

POP Goes the QUEEN
By Bob Wade and Bill Miller

THE STORY John Henry and Sin Conover, vacationing at a swank resort, are deeply entranced by a gambling racket operating in a "Queen" which has been trapped at a gambling racket operated by Sin Conover. Then Barzelou reveals the identity of the "Queen," a Spanish treasure chest called "La Reina"—the Queen—which in 1744 sailed by mistake up the Colorado River at flood stage and was left high and dry as the waters receded. Barzelou is searching for the Queen and he believes that John and Sin know how to find it. "From here on in," he says, "you help."

XXVI
 "WHAT about Anglin?" John Henry insisted. "Who killed him?"
 Odell flipped away the matchstick. His red eyes, hooded by puffy lids, gleamed. He said, "Why, you did, Mr. Jones."
 "That doesn't matter," said Barzelou impatiently, ignoring the shocked faces across the table. "Anglin's a dead issue. He doesn't interest me any more."
 "Well, he interests me," said John Henry hotly, "particularly if it boils down to a mistake in our name."
 "Which is not Jones," Sin added. Barzelou laughed suddenly. There was no amusement to be shared in the sound. "I hired Anglin last year to find the Queen. I was to pay him so much over expenses. A week ago, Anglin said he was on the right track. The galleon was somewhere in the Badlands and he was figuring out a route I could follow through the canyons to reach her, beginning at a fixed starting point which we agreed on."
 "Oh!" Sin clapped her hands up over her mouth. The significance of the combination in the mechanical pencil had just come to her. John Henry nudged her under the table with a warning knee.
 BARSELOU'S chilly eyes watched the byplay. "Yesterday Odell found out that Anglin wasn't playing all his cards over the board."

 "He thought he'd play it smart," Odell muttered and his mouth contracted bleakly.
 "Anglin had wired to a Mr. and Mrs. Jones in San Diego telling them that he'd found the Queen. What exactly Anglin had in his mind I don't know—perhaps he intended to force my price up. Or maybe he intended to collect from two people instead of one." Barzelou's blunt nails punched into his palms. "However, Mr. and Mrs. Conover—or Jones—I will not play parlor games."
 Sin protested faintly. "But we're not—"
 "We tried to get to Anglin before he saw you. We couldn't. So we tried to bluff you out. That didn't work either. Then—" he looked at Odell—"Anglin got himself shot."
 John Henry said quickly and desperately, "You know we didn't kill him, Barzelou. You were right behind me. He was shot in the back and fell into my arms."
 "I can't remember, Conover."
 "If you think we killed Anglin, then turn us over to the police—"
 Barzelou bared his teeth in what was meant to be a grin. "You don't get the point, Conover. I don't care who you are or what you've done. All I want from you is the other half of the puzzle. Anglin had only one thing that was worth a damn—and that was the route I need to find the Queen."
 After a long silence, John Henry spoke. He said carefully, "I'm not saying we have the route, Barzelou. But if we have—and hand it over to you—what next? The last guy that had the Queen information for you got killed at your door."
 BARSELOU and Odell exchanged glances. The big man put a mask of friendliness over his granite features. "My lifelong policy in a rough business has been to avoid bloodshed. Give me the information, Conover, and your troubles are over. As soon as I've verified the dope, you're as free as birds."

 John Henry looked at his wife, tensely upright in her chair.
 "I know you won't go to the police," Barzelou went on smoothly, "because if you did I'd have to tell Lieutenant Lay that there's a handprint in blood by the door of Cottage 18, which you occupied last night. Gayer saw it this morning. We think it's Anglin's blood. The police would be glad to test it for us."
 Sin's eyes were big and hopeful and her dark-red tresses swayed back and forth across her shoulders slightly. "Okay," said John Henry.
 "Now you're talking sense Conover."
 "Let me talk to my wife alone for a minute or two and I'll give you the route."
 "You'll have to do your talking right here in this room," Barzelou demurred firmly. "You don't get out of my sight."
 John Henry rose and Sin followed him over to the check-out tables along the side of the room. Odell had his hand in his coat pocket again. Sin whispered, "Johnny, what are we going to do?"
 "Can you remember that combination, honey?"
 "I guess so. You want me to tell them?"
 John Henry shook his head fiercely. "Not on your life. Just do as I say." He rasped the top sheet off a long tally pad on the next table. Then he went back to Barzelou. "Pencil," Conover said. The other man silently produced one.
 John Henry took the equipment back to the corner where Sin was absent turning the wire dice cage. The tumbling cubes awoke minute rattling echoes in the still casino. "Okay," he muttered. "Start talking. Softly."

Reservation Teachers Leave Twentieth Century Behind

TEEO NOS POS, ARIZ. — (AP) — America still has its frontiers, the Weafer family from Texas has learned in 18 months at this isolated Navajo reservation outpost, without movies, ice cream or newspapers.
 But there is adventure — wild storms, a meteorite, uranium in their back yard.
 "All of the 20th Century is a memory," says Mrs. Weafer in describing the family's life. "There is no smoke, no dirt, no traffic and no crime wave."
 The six Weafers — Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Clyde Weafer and their four children; Clyde, six; Lynn, five; Sarah, three, and Trudy, two — no longer miss the bustle of their Dallas home. Even their battery radio is seldom turned on any more.
 There are 25 white people — officials, traders, missionaries — in the tiny settlement. The Weafers found the Navajos a kindly, intelligent people, plagued by poverty and lack of school. Mrs. Weafer, who formerly did social service work in several East

Workers Convert Haunted Lot Into Television Set

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — A hundred workers have descended on the old Vitagraph lot to start converting it to a television studio. They were advised to tread lightly, for many a ghost walks the place.
 In the minds of sentimentalists, the venerable lot contains phantoms of half-forgotten movie epics. The shades of faded film favorites walk its creaking boards. It seems ironical that these will-o'-the-wisp should be stirred by the new and foreign medium—television.
 Way back in the prehistoric film days of 1895, Albert E. Smith, J. Stuart Blackton and "Pop" Rock founded Vitagraph in New York. They started by making minute-long flickers, gradually worked up to one-reels, then three-reels.
 In the 1910's, the movie industry began its westward search for more sun. The film makers left New York and New Jersey for Southern California, where the tropical climate permitted better outdoor shooting.
 Vitagraph set up shop in Santa Monica in 1911, but the fog drove the studio inland. In 1912, the company bought 20 acres at the end of Hollywood Boulevard and the studio began its long career.
 The studio experienced a strange activity in 1929. Cotton padding was nailed to the walls of the stages and the actors talked into black boxes. The first all-talkie and all-color musical, "On With the Show," was made there.

Air Force Plan Aids Housing

The Strategic Air Command of the Air Force recently announced a plan for its bases whereby the housing situation would be eased. The plan has received the nod of the Air Force and will be put in operation this spring.
 Five thousand homes would be put up at stations of the command and will be financed by the officers and airmen of the stations. The amount of the necessary loan to get the plan started has already been subscribed at Walker Air Force Base, Roswell, N. M., and is being wholeheartedly supported at other stations of the command.
 Some large builder of fabricated homes, in mass production, will supply the one, two, and three bedroom homes which will be put up on the bases through volunteer labor. Rental will be $40 plus utilities for the two bedroom home.
 "The older Weafer children can identify ore they pick up in their own back yard," their mother says.
 The big snows this winter brought a winter of pneumonia, measles and frostbite struck in the Teeo, Nos Pos school. Relief came by Helicopter. Planes taking blankets, food and medicine to isolated Navajos roared overhead. One thing bothers Mrs. Weafer. "The children are starting to speak English with a Navajo accent."

Fair Enough... Westbrook Pegler

The CIO has begun a campaign of "organizing" workers in the Southern states. The first great "organizing campaign" of the CIO in 1937 developed into wild anarchy and unmanly to the financial interests of the Michigan and Ohio and many communities in these and other states. Lysing and vandalism prevailed, governments overruled in their chambers, and cops and sheriffs looked away.

The anti-lynching proposal which President Truman is pressing on a stubborn Congress of plain inference, invite the CIO to use similar methods in the South.

Lynchings done by unions would be privileged outrages. A Southern community which failed to protect a prisoner charged with rape and suffered him to be hanged by a mob could be made to pay a financial penalty to the victim's family, or if the victim were merely injured, he might get damages himself from the community.

But an innocent person, charged with no legal offense, beaten to death with an iron bar by an imported goon of the CIO, that would not be a "lynch" in the eyes of the courts. The murderer would be subject to the usual process in the local courts if the local authorities could catch him. But inasmuch as the goon enters secretly to places where riots are planned, and whisked away while the smoke of anarchy still hangs in the air, there would be little chance of his being caught. Certainly the Department of Justice would not exert itself to capture one of the boss's own goons and return him to a Southern state trial.

Thousands of law-abiding citizens might be slugged, driven from their work and terrorized at night by methods certainly no better than the fabulous antics of the modern Ku Klux Klan. But still the law against "lynching" would not apply nor the law forbidding masked men to frequent the highways at night. The anonymity of strange goons called from Toledo to Columbus, Ga., or Jackson, Miss., would not count as "masking."

In the riots of last December at the Shakespeare Products Company's plant at Kalamazoo, Mich., about one-third of the goons were Negroes. In the Southern campaign, the methods would be the same.

George Allen, a Kalamazoo policeman, testified before a Congressional Committee of the House when he commented on the decision of the High Court that merit raises are a part of collective bargaining — in other words, that the union bosses have a voice in the setting of wages. He said that he had seen the men who were driving cars back and forth in front of the house. We saw a prowler outside one of the windows. My husband sat in the darkened room. Sunday, they would not let the men deliver his papers. My husband didn't go to work for fear of leaving us alone. He and my son stood watch at night. "Money we were under guard. The children were taken to school and brought home again. At dark three cars parked across from our house. A prowler came to the door. The adjoining garage as we watched from a darkened window. The police came.

Common Ground

By R. C. HOLES
A Stimulating Letter
From a Reader

In the last issue I quoted from a 17 page letter I received from a reader to whom I had loaned three books—"Author of Liberty," "Twentieth Century Revolution" and "The Rise of the Tramp" by Carl McInnis. I was quoting what she had to say about what the Federal Council of Churches of Christ of America were advocating and her impressions of what the results would be if their ideologies were adopted in this country. I quote:

"And if Labor in the Federal Council's 'Baby,' I surely don't see any angelic wings sprouting on labor—or any symptoms of universal Brotherhood Love. They don't care who starves. They die or are incontinent when their stage doesn't extend an iota beyond their own unadorned faces."

"And if the Federal Council is planning, by degrees, to put their theory over and vote it into the law of the land, they are not going to receive Brotherhood Love. Catholics don't want anything like that and I shouldn't think the Jews would. And the foreign elements in our make-up. Do you suppose the Chinese will want to forsake their ways that are peculiar and join us in our ring-around-the-rosy? And do you suppose they will let the Nations and their spokesmen in to share equally with us the proceeds of their gambling dens? We'll have them at our throats—and I wouldn't blame them! And in World affairs, we may gain Russia's friendship (such as it is) and avoid war, but we won't keep the peace. Russia is oppressing. And if the time should ever come, when those Nations should rise in righteous indignation against Russia they would not be too far from us. We would go down with Russia."

"And to think that the churches fell for anything like that. I feel the churches are the backbone of the nation. They are out-moded, but they insist that planes from the decks of small, fast aircraft carriers will be more essential than the Army's land-based machines in a prospective war with Russia."

news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Navy's typewriter gunners have begun to deliver a counter-barrage of publicity against the Army's Air Force's unprecedented and unrivaled campaign to high-pressure Congress into allotting to their arm the lion's share of the fifteen billion dollars that will be appropriated for national defense.

Although the admirals have not rushed into print or staged any "round-the-world flights in order to impress the White House and their spokesmen are a real fighting back angrily and effectively on and off Capitol Hill. They admit that the erstwhile backbone of the fleet — the "big battleships" — are out-moded, but they insist that planes from the decks of small, fast aircraft carriers will be more essential than the Army's land-based machines in a prospective war with Russia.

DISPUTE — They dispute the Symington claims that no existing fighter plane can maneuver at a sufficiently high altitude — that I consider them enemies of our country and of God. Of course, if it were just their faith, it would be none of my business being an outsider. But if they are working in politics, appearing before Congress to get bills passed that they would back Labor and meddling in World Affairs in general — they are everybody's business.

"I will speak of it to all the members of the congregations that I know, and I like people, but in small doses. If I am to do any good in this crisis I may find it necessary to increase the dose. I go sometimes to the musical programs of the churches and will let it be known that I don't know the Minister, but I don't think he did. I have hopes that the Episcopal church doesn't belong. I feel that I have left behind me the Episcopal church and rather think I like their form of worship best. I asked a regular church member if it belonged, and she said she didn't know, but she told her to ask the Minister, but haven't seen her since."

The Episcopal church does belong. I continue with her letter: "When I read 'The Twentieth Century Revolution' and feel that I have my arguments and proofs well in hand, I am going to introduce the Ministers at least the ones around me. Not that I expect to do any converting—they have studied it and made up their minds but just for fun. Their line of argument is, I intend to tell them to the plant and brought me here. We wanted the children to be safe, I don't know how many other people are going through what we did. I feel sure many are. I am very proud of my husband. He did what he thought was right for us despite the danger.

"In my opinion we are not dealing with the average citizen. Strong union men couldn't condone this kind of families. But it gets out of hand and I don't know how far it will spread."

The shuffle of Vishinsky and others in top Kremlin posts is indicative that Russia, dragging her unwilling satellites with her, is withdrawing from the frontier to that of the early Bolshevik period.

This retreat into relative obscurity may not be noticeable at first as Vishinsky and his companion Red diplomats maintain contact with the West. But Moscow is speeding up the process of organizing the Soviet sphere nations that they can function independent of the outside world.

By reinforcing the iron curtain, Stalin is making sure that the subject people will have little opportunity to know what is going on and to make comparisons between their condition and that of free men.

LIKE ANCIENT DAYS

Such a policy of national selfishness can have no effect on global affairs. The free world will be like ancient Egypt, Babylon, Greece and Rome, going its own way but with menacing barbarians on the frontier.

Safe from observation, Communist tyrants can mistreat their people as they like, with outsiders beyond the sound of the blow of the police club or the sob of its victims.

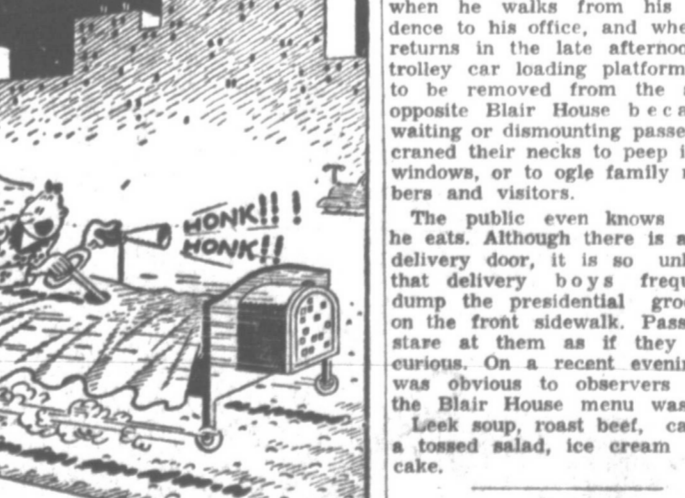

This vast hermit empire is a problem for statesmen. It also is the concern of everyone with a conscience. As we enjoy our liberty, let us not forget that millions of our fellow men are enduring the suffering and the anguish of slavery.

The Iron Curtain not only bars, it crushes human hearts. It is in the simple, personal tragedies that the horror of communism is most sharply revealed. For example, the other night I had dinner with a French official and an excited Polish minister. They discovered that both had been in the same Nazi concentration camp. ARRESTED BY RUSSIANS

The Pole described his terrible experience. Then the Frenchman rolled up his sleeves and showed the scars he had received from a beating by a guard.

"When American troops released you, you were free," said the Warsaw leader. "But I went back to Poland and again was arrested by the Russians. I escaped to Eng-

DALLAS — (AP) — A well-dressed woman stormed into the office of the area rent director here. She carried a rifle and demanded to see the director. Federal guards were called and they took the rifle from the irate visitor. They found the gun unloaded. The guards left the room, but the woman took a seat and said she would stay there until she saw the director. The woman told bystanders she wants to move into another apartment and wants the director to agree to an increase in the rent. She made it clear that she wasn't asking a decrease, but an increase. The director said he would see the woman later.

Interesting Story in Life Of Mrs. O. C. Elliott Told

By LORENE OSBORNE LOCKE
Miami Correspondent

There's quite an interesting story in the life of Mrs. O. C. Elliott, who died at 8 p.m. Monday at 220 S. Gillespie.

Mrs. Elliott, who would have been 90 on April 9, was buried at the Mobeetie Cemetery this afternoon following services there. Mrs. Elliott was just a year old when her parents brought her to Texas in a covered wagon. On the long trek from Missouri, her parents could not get milk to feed the baby, so her mother raised her on coffee. "Then," she said in an interview just a few days ago, "when I could eat other things I liked the coffee so well she didn't have the heart to take it from me, so I have had my coffee all my life."

MRS. O. C. ELLIOTT, who died here Monday, would have been 90 on April 9. She was to be buried at the Mobeetie Cemetery today. The picture, above, was taken just a few weeks ago.

Born Martha Mayfield, ("Father didn't like double names, so all eight of us children were given only one name") Mrs. Elliott was born in Sullivan County, Mo. While yet an infant, her parents with their six other children started on the hazardous trail to Texas. They settled near a small settlement called Illinois Bend.

When the father went away to fight for Texas in the War Between the States, Mrs. Mayfield moved to the fort, a few miles away, for protection from the Indians. It was called by the settlers, Head of Elm Creek Fort. It is now known as St. Jo, Texas. While her father was gone, her mother, with one son and one daughter old enough to help, made the crops and took care of the family. "The women had to manage the best way they could with their men gone," the white-haired pioneer recalled. "Mother could handle a team of oxen as good as a man. She and the two older children went back and forth during the day to plant and tend the crops."

Even this was dangerous. Mrs. Elliott's remembrance of those early days still carried a touch of fear when the word "Indian" was mentioned. Once, she recalled, a marauding band had started to Gainesville to pillage the town. As they passed through Illinois Bend, in full battle regalia, a white man took a shot at them. In retaliation, they sacked and burned the little settlement and left three dead.

During the four years Mr. Mayfield was away at war his family never heard a word from him; nor he, from them. Finally, his wife became discouraged, thinking he must be dead. A wagon-train was returning to Missouri. Mrs. Mayfield loaded her small store of worldly goods and her seven children into her wagon and started with her friends back to her native state.

One of those coincidences which convince us that truth is still stranger than fiction occurred to the little family in Little Rock, Ark. The father, returning from a bitter defeat, saw a group of wagons on the street. He investigated and found his own loved ones. "He just turned that wagon around, and headed it straight back to Texas," said his daughter. In 1877, Martha Mayfield was married to O. C. Elliott, who lived near what was called Spanish Fort, not far from her own home. The couple rode on horseback to the home of a Methodist preacher who performed the ceremony. Their wedding journey was back to the bridegroom's simple farm home. Here, they lived until 1900, when they moved in wagons to the Pampa, and settled near old Fort Elliott. She was not sure whether the fort was named for some of Mr. Elliott's relatives or not.

The year after a tornado which destroyed Mobeetie the Elliott family moved to Miami, which had just had the Santa Fe railroad built into it. At that time Miami was the end of the line, and there wasn't any Pampa.

The Elliotts lived in Miami until Mr. Elliott died in 1920, except for some years when they went back to the ranch after their son went to WW I. They had six children, four of whom are still living — Mrs. E. P. Seitz, of Miami, Mrs. Jeff Seitz, Mobeetie, Oliver Elliott of Clarendon, and Mrs. C. A. Scott, Pampa, with whom Mrs. Elliott had been living since 1941.

Mrs. Elliott was a small white-haired woman with delicate features. Her hearing was excellent, and her mind as clear and her memory as alert as if she were a girl. She had survived pneumonia several times.

When asked to what she attributed her longevity she replied that she sometimes wondered what the Lord let her live for, but that all her people were long-lived, and she supposed He still had a purpose for her. She was a life-long member of the Methodist Church, and also had a life membership in the Eastern Star, Miami Chapter.
