Why Compulsory Supported Schools Cannot Teach Taxation Supported by Principles of Declaration of Independence

There is nothing more impor-tant in government than having of just system of taxation. If a tax ation system isn't based on moral principles, it eventually leads to more and more socialism and more and more communism. So it s of the utmost importance that more and more people come to know on what basis taxes should be levied in order to promote justice and develop character and in-dividual responsibility.

The essence of a just taxation system is that it is operated on the same basis that any contract is negotiated. Any hones business based on justice, attempts in so far as possible, to charge each person for the service it ren-ders to him in proportion to the cost of the service rendered. If a render and is operated on this basis, it is practically assured of

Burt Lancaster is planning division of the government that denies this principle advocate that each man should pay to support in proportion to the cost of the

I remember some 30 years ago talking with a professor at Oberlin College. I advocated that taxes should be paid in proportion to the service rendered. He objected to this method because he said: "Look at the schools! The man who has no children pays just the same as the man who has children. He receives no direct bene-The man who has large wealth and two children pays in finitely more than the man who has little or no wealth with the same number of children." So his conclusion was that taxes canservice rendered. And they cannot if one believes in compulsory supported schools and colleges.

Of course, the great objection to compulsory schools and col-leges is that they render a negative service instead of a positive service. They make it more difficult for the youth of the land to understand moral and ethical principles. They can only teach that might makes right and that the end justifies the means. So tax supported schools and colleges are an entire violation of the ound principles of taxation. Adolphe Thiers, the first presdent of the Third French Republic about 100 years ago in his Refutation of Communism and Socialism" or "A Defense of Private Property" said that taxing graduted or progressive was a form of robbery, while taxing in propor tion to the wealth protected was a fust form of taxation But no tax supported college anything but state sotaxation is concerned. They would not dare for a moment advocate that men should pay taxes in proportion to the benefits derived The men who don't want to attend college—the dishwasher and the ditch-digger — are compelled to pay taxes to support college training for doctors and dentists and lawyers and any other party who wants to attend college. Think of a tax-supported college that can not intelligently and honestly set down an impersonal rule of taxation. All they can advocate is progressive taxation that is based the theory that the majority has a right to coerce the minority they can advocate is a form of Unless more people understand port a government or a subdivi the government, we will continue to go more and more into state socialism and communism. And as Sir Ernest Benn said: "Socialism spells Starvation."

Most every nation goes to pieces

Practically every compulsory supported college meaning of the phrase that "taxes should be paid in proportion to the ability to pay." That means that the more property a person has to protect, the more ability he has to pay. But the taxes should be in proportion to the ability or asæts and not progressive graduated, as is the case today.

The graduated income bound to impoverish the people, takes as high as 81 per of the earnings of a man who has a $200,000 income dollar he earns. It is just a legalform of robbery because they are theory that the is no higher law than might makes right—to keep the bureau cratic miseducators on the payroll of the state or the subdivision of the state.

Of course, the columns are open to any believer in tax supported schools to refute the above and to lay down an impersonal rule of

Contrast this situation with the Government's social security system which displays the following glaring weaknesses:

1. It maintains no reserves, and hence fails to generate any capital to sid in industrial progress. The only protection for the insured lies in the moral obligation of future Congresses to levy taxes sufficient to pay what is promised.

2. Protection is not in proportion to premiums paid. The thrifty still bear much of the cost of car-still bear much of the cost of car-ing for the thriftless.

3. People are paid for retiring at 65, and not earning anything of moment thereafter. This condemns to misery most of those who re-tire, and deprives the nation of much valuable production. The aging of the population makes this loss ever more serious.

4. Dojes are given to all em-ployees who refuse to work for state of demand. Such idleness re duces production, and generates and prolongs depressions.

Our existing social security special security s tem typifies the injustice and wastefulness ever inherent in state-

ism. Now it is proposed to make matters even worse by lowering the retirement age to 60 for women, by turning over more money to the wasters and loafers, and by adding disability insurance. What grand bureaucratic invention for fleecing the thrifty for the bene-fit of the lazy and ne'er-do-wells! What an opportunity for add ment employees and exp the federal payroll.

Government ought to do just the opposite. As in the case of automobile insurance, it ought is self defense to compel all incom recipients to carry, with approved private companies, minin surance against disability aris from sickness, accident, or old age. Payments should be based exclusively upon degree of disability.
The man of seventy who is capable of earning only 60 per cent

Later, Anglin appears where the Conovers have been dining and tella Johnny "You already got it," before he dies from a builtet wound. Returning to their cottage, the Conovers find it occupied by Faye Jordan and their luggage moved after being searched to Cottage I4, next door, Johnny speculates that Faye was to meet Anglin but through a mixup in numbers, there being no Cottage 13, he came to the wrong one, Johnny decides to "get chumpy" with Faye and get to the bottom of the mystery, but Sin is just a little jenious. laughing.

XII THE morning sun had already sent golden rays like softtipped arrows to invade the palmshaded grounds of the hotel upon the hill.

Vernon, the depressed bellhop, departed from Cottage 14 with the dirty dishes and few remnants of breakfast. Sin returned to the living room a moment later, her hair brushed into a smooth page-boy that glinted like a ruby.

"Johnny, what are you doing?" John Henry stopped peeking outdoors between slats of the Venetian blinds and spun hastily, his round face guilty. "Just-lo out," was the best he could think of.

"What at?" Sin went to the window herself. "Oh!" She raised one stern eyebrow at her husband. The occupant of Cottage 15 stone path toward the hotel. There was a great deal of pale skir er white knitted bathing suit didn't cover.

Rheumatism. Arthritis

In a 48 page bookiet, a committee of 12 of the nation's leading doctors have issued a complete report of their study of rheumatism and arthritis, covering a period of many months of medical research. From their findings a formula for the quick relief of rheumatic pain was developed by a well-known pharmacist.

This formula, called Ru-Tel was first tested by physicians, hospitals and clinics and has achieved remarkable results in relieving the pain of rheumatism, arthritis and nerritis. They found that Ru-Tel Toblets are pleasant to take, do not upset the stomach—in most cases give quick, soothing relief, sometimes overnight. Now, these Ru-Tel Tablets are available, without prescription through all drug stores. First bottle must help or your money refunded.

Murphy of Syracuse, N. Y., sat South and opened the bidding with one spade.
Miles (West) admitted that his double was somewhat light in high cards, but nevertheless he had 4-4-4-1 distribution. Murray Gross of Asheville, N. C., who held the North hand, had little nterest except a desire to be paid off by someone willing to bet a thousand to one against your holding a nine-high hand. After Mrs. Roncarelli's bid of two no trump, Miles bid three spades to show control of the spade suit. Mrs. Roncarelli now space suit. Mrs. Roncarell now suspected that they were being psyched out of something, so she bid four spades.

Miles bid four no trump, hoping to play the hand there; but Mrs. Roncarelli interpreted it as a Blackwood bid, and bid five diamonds to show one see The five Rule changes for the 1948 race eliminated transparent wind-shields after it had been found that some boys were making get advice from adults and that "submarines on wheels" by using transparent material along the entire cowling. Hand brakes were eliminated and foot brakes demanded as a safety measure. It has been noticed that when some boys applied the hand brakes their car swerved because of one-hand steering. The principal change in the rules for the 1949 race is the elimination of use of power tools in the construction or finish of a derby racing car. This change was made, as have been previous changes, to give all boys an equal-

"Power tools are fine things for those boys who have them," tinued French. "The committee feels that boys who can use them have made definite progress in manual training. But because only a relatively few boys have access to power tools, and every boy has hand tools, it is believed that the ban on power tools in derby construction will give every boy the same opportunity to build a winning car.

'Nor does the committee feel that the elimination of power tools will put an end to fine craftsmanship. Nearly all of the racing cars in early years were built with hand tools, and there have been some splendid examples of home workmanship among them. We expect this tradition of fine work to continue and to be given a boost by this new rule

Racing cars that were boy-built for the derby in previous years, under the rules governing previous races, may be used for competition in the 1949 race provided all alterations that made to conform to the 1949 rules are made with hand tools only.

Weight and height allowances were changed by the committee. Under the 1949 regulations the boy and car together must weigh no more than 250 pounds as before, but the limit of 150 pounds on the car itself was dropped. Thus, if a light boy wants to build a heavy car to meet his own specifications, he may do so. But the weight must be built into the car, and must be a real part of the car itself. It may not he added to the car after construction, just to increase the total weight.
