Back the Good Old Days! Pile into the old sled and chase the moonlight down the back roads. Top it all with lots of that famous Mountain Grown coffee. If you live in a too progressive city and can't find a sled you can lways find Folger's. Fix up an extra supply ... and imagine the sleigh ride ... it's that good!

He Said it was Wonderful! This shows the joy husbands have been known to express when the lady of the house brings Folger's into the home. If you are contemplating the purchase of a spring hat or some longed-for finery, you'll find that the serving of Folger's will do wonders to put him in a push-over mood!

Nature's prize gift of coffee flavor is captured for you in Folger's!

I am always interested in finding out what line of business our former service men have taken up. Weil now has a little chain of shoe stores known as the Marc Shops, two of them in Newark, N. J. and one in Palisades Park. He still likes to play tournament bridge and he can always be tounted upon to find the correct play, as he did in today's hand. The king of hearts was opened, and when it held, North shifted to the small spade, declarer winning with the lack. A heart was ruffed in dummy, and now there was a problem

Declarer knew from the bidding that North did not have any dia-monds because South would not have bid three diamonds without a six-card suit. Therefore he had to come off the board with a club. Weil led the three of clubs. and when South played the deuce, he put on the ace from his own hand. North dropped the nine-spot. Weil then ruffed his last heart in dummy

He knew that if South got into the lead, a diamond would come back and it would be ruffed. He realized also from the bidding that North must have the king and queen of clubs, so at this Well led dummy's jack of clubs. North won the trick, and there was no play now that would defeat the contract.

If Weil had carelessly led the six of clubs from dummy, South would have played the seven and North would have put on the five-spot to let South hold the trick. Then a diamond lead would have beaton the hand.
