FDR Asks Baseball Be Kept Going

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—President Roosevelt, a baseball fan from way back, urged today that the national sports be kept going during the war.

This was his personal rather than official point of view, expressed in a letter today to Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball high commissioner, who had written on January 14 inquiring what the President had in mind regarding continuance of professional baseball in wartime.

Mr. Roosevelt pointed out that fewer people would be unemployed, that the people would be working harder and longer hours than ever before, and hence should have an opportunity for recreation taking their minds off their work.

He suggested, too, that there be more night games because they would give day workers a chance to see an occasional contest.

Mr. Roosevelt said that 300 teams, using 5,000 to 6,000 players, would be a definite recreational asset to at least 20,000,000 people and in his judgment this was thoroughly worthwhile.

100-mile line across the southern neck of the peninsula about 120 miles north of Singapore.

The Japanese, however, have claimed their vanguards had thrust beyond Malacca port, only 90 miles north of Singapore on the east coast, after capturing Gembus and Tampin.

Advices from Singapore said hopes were high that the Australian reinforcements—the same fighting breed of men who stormed into Axis-held Tobruk in north Africa last year singing "We are off to see the wizard... the wonderful Wizard of Oz!"—would launch an offensive against the Japanese rather than continue fighting rearguard actions.

Describing the departure of the Australians for the front, a correspondent wrote: "Hour after hour, truckloads of bronzed Aussies poured through Johore in the highest animal spirits. This was the moment they had waited for after 12 months of arduous jungle training."

for their first land attack on the Germans since the Armistice of Compiegne, supporting the British imperial and allied legions battering away at axis hold-out forces in Halfaya (Hellfire) Pass.

The French were said to be fully equipped with tanks and armored cars, as were the DeGaulle troops who fought against the Italians in Ethiopia and Eritrea to help wreck Premier Mussolini's Italian East Africa empire last year.

Heavy artillery duels were reported as the British attempted to wipe out the Halfaya garrison, a force of 7,000 Germans and Italians. Far to the west, mobile British columns were moving slowly forward along the Gulf of Sirte coast, battling stiff resistance by rearguards covering the retreat of Gen. Erwin Rommel's axis armies.

Premier Mussolini's high command said German and Italian planes inflicted heavy losses on the British at Halfaya Pass, along the Egyptian-Libyan frontier, asserting that British columns on the march and massed married units had been "bombed and machine-gunned and dispersed."

A barn on the Roy "Shorty" Hicks farm northwest of Pampa was partially destroyed by fire of unknown origin last night. Pampa firemen answered a call about 8 o'clock and arrived in time to save about one-third of the structure.

Neighbors had partially checked the blaze before firemen arrived and water from the truck booster tank was sufficient to extinguish the fire. A small quantity of hay and about 25 bushels of wheat in the barn was destroyed.

The barn was long and narrow and consisted of a granary, stalls and storage space. Amount of the loss has not been determined.

OPM Has Bad News For Young Brides

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (AP)—OPM is cooking up some bad news for brides—no more dinners out of cans.

If Mrs. Newlywed is smart, she will rustle up a cook book and start studying because there's an order in the works prohibiting the use of tin for packaging virtually everything that can be marketed satisfactorily in some other type of container or in no container at all.

Among the casualties, it was reported, will be such old reliables as pork and beans, spaghetti, canned meat, and beer—not to mention dog food. In recent years, the dog food output has averaged around 650,000,000 one-pound cans annually.

The theory of the pending order is further conservation of dwindling tin supplies.

14 Men Will Be Inducted Into Flight D Guard

Enlisted men of Flight D, Texas Defense Guard aviation branch, will be officially inducted into the organization in a ceremony to be held at 7 o'clock tonight at the high school.

Captain Foster Fletcher said the induction would be conducted by the headquarters staff. Accompanying them to Pampa from Amarillo will be Captain Jack Liston, commanding officer of A Flight.

Staff officers here for the induction will be Major Art Hawks, 11th squadron commander; Captain Glynn Morris, operations officer; Lieutenant Raymond Holbrook, intelligence; and Lieuts. Jim Lumpkin, Eugene McCart, and Phillip Scarborough.

There will be 14 men to be inducted. Non-commissioned officers appointments will probably be announced at the same time, Captain Fletcher said.

Tonight is also the regular time for the meeting of non-commissioned officers school voluntary extra drill for members of Company D, Texas Defense Guard. The school will start at 7 o'clock.

Wartime Censorship To Be Discussed

DALLAS, Jan. 16. (AP)—War-time censorship will be one of the main topics at the meeting of the Texas Associated Press Managing Editors association, to be held here Sunday and Monday.

Speakers will be: For the army, Lieut. Col. Royden Williamson, public relations officer, Eighth Corps area, Fort Sam Houston; for the navy, Lieut. Tyrrell Krum, public relations officer, Eighth Naval district; and for the air corps, Col. I. H. Edwards, commander of Randolph Field, San Antonio.

A statement on war censorship by Byron Price, executive editor of the Associated Press until he was recently appointed director of censorship, will be studied.

James R. Record of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram is president of the association, members of which from all parts of Texas will attend the meeting.

U. S. Senator Broadcasts To Nippon In Japanese--With Strong Accent On Defeat

CHINESE PICTOGRAPHS, which the Japs use in writing, hold no mystery for Senator Elbert D. Thomas, of Utah, who learned to speak and write the language during his six years as a Mormon missionary in Japan. He's pictured, above, in his Washington office.

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—If he keeps on, the Japs will probably tag Senator Elbert D. Thomas of Utah as Enemy Number Two, President Roosevelt already having been assigned to the top spot.

It's all because every so often—whenever he and the government think the occasion is ripe—Thomas broadcasts—in Japanese—by short wave via San Francisco some hot thoughts and hotter facts for the Nipponese to chew, digest, and ponder.

The facts mainly deal with America's enormous war program and the certainty that Japan, with its poor resources, cannot possibly hope to match arms with the United States in the long run.

The mild-mannered, soft-spoken, learned senator is one of the best advisers the government has about Japan. He not only knows its history, the personality of its leaders, and the everyday life of the people who have to make the arms and do the fighting, but also because he reads and speaks Japanese. For six years, from 1907, he was head of the mission of the Mormon church in the land of the rising sun.

HAS ACUTE INSIGHT INTO JAP NATURE

"Don't make too much of my knowledge of the Japanese tongue," he says modestly. "I managed to learn to write it, acquiring a knowledge of some 3,000 ideographs—the written picture-words the Japanese got from the Chinese.

"Being able to speak the vernacular, perhaps, gave me an insight into the feelings and thoughts of the people I could not have gotten had I been in contact with them only through interpreters. It is this knowledge that helps me determine the kind of thing it is best to say to them now that we are at war with them.

"I do not flatter myself that I am reaching tens of thousands of Japanese. My messages go by short wave and some considerable time ago the Japanese government forbade reception of short wave to keep them in ignorance of what the outside world is saying and doing, just as the Nazis and Fascists try to keep their people from this same information.

"Such a rule was particularly necessary for the Japanese masters, because of the widespread use of radio. It will surprise you to hear that per capita there are more radio reception outfits in Japan than here at home. One big reason for this is that the machines are very cheap and even poor families feel

Alien Law's Quirk Says 'No' To 20,000 Filipinos In U. S. Who Seek Military Service

All over the country, alien-born Filipinos are seeking a chance to fight beside their American comrades against the Japs. Typical is the scene above. Secretary Malhab and Treasurer Concepcion of the Caballeros de Dimas-Alang, a patriotic organization of American Filipinos, are shown interviewing one of the members seeking enlistment in the U. S. army or navy.

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—Twenty thousand Filipinos, not citizens, but residing in the United States, would like to fight for Uncle Sam, either in their own native islands or anywhere else—if the American government would only let them.

Their idea is to form one or two divisions, officered in part by Americans and in part by Filipinos, and to get active service after six months of intensive training. And they want particularly to fight Japs, and not be turned into labor battalions or anything of that sort.

Filipinos in the United States are in an anomalous position, unless they were born here. In that case, they are American citizens.

ALIEN FILIPINOS ARE "AMERICAN NATIONALS"

But Filipinos born in the Philippines have a dependency on the United States that is not American citizens, but are given the puzzling title of "American nationals." Whatever that may mean, the American census and the Department of Justice consider them as aliens.

Under the Aliens Registration act they have to register. Just as does a German, Italian or Jap.

The Department of Justice says 63,674 Filipinos were registered in the continental United States and possessions like Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands and Alaska. The census bureau has not yet revealed its figures. But it is estimated some 50,000 Filipinos live in Hawaii and over 32,000 in the United States.

California, Oregon and Washington have the biggest Filipino population. Those who are not students or business representatives, are mainly agricultural workers. In Washington they are mainly taxi drivers and house servants. Many used to be in the United States navy, serving in the officers' mess.

Filipinos in this country have never shown any great longing to go back home to live, although now they are ready to go back there to fight. As an aftermath of the depression, many Filipinos in America were very poor. In July, 1935, a house act provided means for Filipinos to return to the Philippines at the American government's expense. This provision ended Dec. 31, 1940. The authors of the bill estimated that between 30,000 and 35,000 would apply for repatriation.

Incidentally, Elizalde's office is issuing certificates of Filipino nationality for protection of his fellow countrymen, who might be mistaken for Japs. Many of them also wear a red button with a white band across it on which is printed in black the word "Filipino."

The stout fighting the Filipinos are doing in their homeland is largely due to the fact that the first act passed by the Filipino national assembly in 1935 was a plan for national defense.

It required compulsory service from all men between the ages of 20 to 50. Every year those reaching the age of 20 must register. The plan was for six months training for between 20,000 and 40,000 each half year. The first registration was in April, 1936, and the first group of 20,000 was in barracks by January, 1937, and the second group in July, 1937. This was repeated yearly.

Upon completion of training, the men were taken into the reserves. Had peace prevailed, it was foreseen that by 1966, there would have been 1,000,000 trained fighting men. How many Filipino trained soldiers are fighting alongside American troops in the Philippines today is not revealed, but it is probably considerably more than 100,000.

Retreat From Moscow - 1942

HITLER'S MILITARY JUGGERNAUT which rolled relentlessly forward during two years of war is now being taught by the Russians how to roll in another direction—backward.

Along the longest land battle-front of the war the Muscovite winter and Muscovite arms have sent Germans fleeing. AP Feature Service artist Hank Barrow visualizes this retreat from the Moscow front as Nazi men and machines reel before the adversary.

JAPANESE YOUTH HIS MAIN OBJECTIVE

"Despite their law, however, I am confident that my messages are heard by a number, especially among the young people. You know how boys in this country love to put together a radio set of their own and then go exploring the ether to see what they can pick up from far-away lands. The same is true of Japan. And when the Japanese hear American messages, they are apt to tell the contents to their friends. In this way the truth slowly but surely percolates.

"I do not feel that the mass of the Japanese people hate us or are keen about this war with us. They admire American gadgets, love American games like baseball, imitate many American ways of doing things. I believe this war comes from the top, but not from the Mikado or the old nobility. It comes from the little band of army and navy chiefs who have grabbed control, just as Hitler and Mussolini and his gang in Italy."

While in Japan as head of the Mormon mission, Thomas was honored by being asked to teach English literature in Shikangaka college, a sort of very superior war school. Chances are that some of the very lads he taught are now English-speaking officers in the Japanese armies fighting in the Phil-

You're Due To Discover That Your Feet, If One Is Placed Alternately Ahead Of The Other, Will Take You Places

Scoop! The answer to the question of what the United States will do if it can't get any more autos or tires:

It Will Learn To Get Along Without Them.

No more new cars after the end of January; rationing of what there are. No new tires except for those who can prove that they need them for war-worthy purposes.

So what? The United States must get along for a while under the conditions under which much of the world has lived for years, that's all. It has been done. It can be done. There weren't any autos at all in 1900, and we haven't heard that the whole country just shut up shop and went home to bed.

Parlor Courting Again

Here are some of the things we may look forward to in the days to come:

Courting is going back to the parlor. Two generations of Americans have necked and pitched woo, respectively, on rubber tires. But from what we read, grandpa did all right on a horsehair settee, and even a horse and buggy is reliably reported to be not without courting conveniences. Or, if habit proves too hard to change, the old bus, its tires in shreds, can still be parked in the garage as well as down the Old Ox road.

People will be found actually walking down to the neighborhood movie in the evening, and women will be seen carrying home a spool of thread and a pair of new gloves from the department store instead of de-manding that a 10-ton truck deliver them.

The bicycle, which has been staging an insistent comeback for several years anyway, may come back with a rush—bicycle tires aren't yet affected by priorities.

Traffic To Dwindle

The downtown traffic problem, an increasing horror for years, may begin to solve itself, as men come to work on street cars and buses, with one set of tires carrying 20 men instead of one man sitting in lonely grandeur in a 3000-pound equipment sporting five tires. Income to local tax collectors from gas packing meters and sales taxes will fall, making other taxes necessary to take their place. There ought to be fewer traffic accidents as traffic itself declines, also fewer frayed temper.

The horse will make a partial comeback, necessitating more jobs for street-sweepers. The milkman will clatter up to the door as of yore, without sleep-protecting rubber shoes.

Auto salesmen and servicemen are already out of jobs, a situation that will be had temporarily, but will tend to adjust itself when five million men are inducted into the armed forces and labor shortages begin to appear. Traveling salesmen with nothing to sell won't need those cars anyway, and when they do they will be taking trains.

"Doubling" Up Economy Due

Even suburbanites who have no way to get to their jobs but the old family car will be doubling up and pooling what's left of their cars. If five men all go to town from one neighborhood, each man's car can be made to last five times as long if they take turns with an impromptu "bus service" for all. Some 12,000,000 Americans are believed to live in places which offer no other means of transport to their work than their cars. Making their present cars last three or four times as long by "clubbing up" seems their only "out."

Within a few years it is estimated that 35 per cent of existing cars will be driven off the road by rubber shortage. There are some 27,000,000 passenger automobiles now in use, and 650,000 new ones built and awaiting sale. The tires now on those cars are the greatest rubber stock pile in the world. It must be made to last until new sources of rubber, natural and synthetic, can be cultivated. Less driving is the only answer.

Horror! We May Have To Walk

Second-hand autos will probably be rationed, as well as new cars. It is a fact that the older the car the more essential it usually is to the person driving it. That person usually buys a used car, and means must be found to ration those cars as well as new ones if they are to be put to the best use.

When the Governor of Colorado is already going about his business on a bicycle built for two (the other one being a husky state policeman) the 'Nineties are breathing down our neck, without the gaitery.

We may even have to learn all over again to walk.

HOW TO LIVE For Less

WORK CLOTHES

Denim has become the uniform of millions in defense, and should be purchased with close attention to labels and details of workmanship. It is almost a waste to buy unshrunken goods. Under U. S. specifications, denim comes in four weights. The "22oz weight" (22oz yards, 28 inches wide weighs a pound or more) is strong enough for most factory, farm work. Heavier fabric there is stronger, more expensive. For a more tightly woven, dressier fabric there are twill, covert or drill. Look for weight of fabric, pre-shrunk label, well-lapped seams, double or triple-stitched, rust-proof buttons. Workshirts should have the same qualities! Double elbow sections are desirable.

The navy's women nurses are not allowed in combat zones but are replaced by male nurses trained by them.

When a navy doctor is commissioned he is given intensive training in tropical diseases, and problems of submarine and aviation activities.

Applicants for the regular Navy Medical Corps must be under 23 years old; for the naval reserve medical corps under 50.

Junior and senior medical students are eligible for appointment as Ensign in the Volunteer Probationary, Class H of the naval reserve.
